GOOD NEWS FROM CHITRAL. CALCUTTA, April 21.-Gen. Sir Robert Low telegraphed this morning from his camp at Batai Pass that Mr. Robertson, the British agent, and the rest of the garrison of the Chitral fort had been relieved. No details were given. SIR ROBERT HAMILTON DEAD.

LONDON, April 21.—Sir Robert Ham-11ton, K.C.B., died at 2:45 o'clock this morning, aged 59. In May, 1882, he was appointed Under Secretary of the Admiralty, and soon after Secretary for In 1886 he was made Governor of Tasmania.

PILGRIMS DYING OF CHOLERA. CAIRO, April 21.-The cholera is spreading rapidly in the quarantine lazaretto at Kameran on the Red Sea. There have been 60 deaths among the Mecca pilgrims landed by the steamers Mohammed I. and Jubado. The water in the lazaretto is regarded as the main cause of the outbreak.

RATIFIED BY THE MIKADO. LONDON, April 21.—A dispatch from Hiroshima ... the Central News says that the Mikado ratified the Chinese-Japanese treaty yesterday afternoon. A dispatch from Tien-Tsin to the Central News says the new ports to be opened by China are Huchow, Shao King, Chentu, Fekin and Kai Fong.

ELECTION IN OXFORD. LONDON, April 21.—A Parliamentary held in Oxford city y terday to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Sir George Chesney, Conservative. Viscount Valentia, the Unionist candidate, was chosen by a vote of 3,745 to 3,143 for Dr. Fletcher, Liberal In the last general election the Conservative majority was 126.

DISCOUNT RATES. LONDON, April 21.-The rates of discount last week were 3-4 for three months and 1-2 for 30 days. Gold flowed in from abroad, and much was withdrawn for the provinces, an indication of the revival of trade. Silver was firm. Business on the Stock Exchange was animated. Consuls rose 1-4. American railroad securities showed a marked improvement.

A PLEA FOR WILDE. LONDON, April 21.-Lord Alfred Douglas, son of the Marquis of Queensberry, and friend of Oscar Wilde, has written a letter to the Star appealing for a suspension of public judgment against Wilde, who, he says, is now delivered up to the fury of a cowardly and brutal mob. Mr. Robert Buchanan, ten a letter in a similar strain.

MUZZLING THE PRESSS. LONDON, April 21.-A St. Petersburg dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette says the Czar has rejected the petition recently presented praying for a relaxation of the rigor of existing press laws. The action of the Emperor was taken up on the recommendation of the Minister of the Interior and the chief of the Holy Synod, who constituted a commission to consider the petition. HUXLEY BETTER.

LONDON, April 21.-A private telegram from Eastbourne, where Prof. Huxley lives, gives a better account of him than the alarming reports of yesterday's papers. He had been very ill, but his condition has improved during the last two days. In his, as in so many other cases, influenza was fol-lowed by other maladies, from which he is but slowly recovering.

RUSSIA KICKS. ST. PETERSBURG, April 21.-A semi-official note has been issued to the newspapers here to the effect that the Russian Government is in nowise satisfied with the Chino-Japanese treaty, especially the clause providing for the cession of Liao Tong. Russia, the note says, will act in concert with the other powers in protecting the interests of Europe, even supposing one of the great powers does not share in such

THE BEAR AND THE LION MAY

HUG. LONDON, April 21.-The entente between England and Russia has led to elaborate preparations for an interchange of naval demonstrations. According to the programme, a Russian squadron will pay an official visit to Portsmouth in the fall, and a British equadron will visit Cronstadt or the Black Sea. The mevements of the Czar are yet unsettled. It is thought likely, though, the ships will go to

A HELPLESS LOT.

World's London correspondent says: Recent attacks on Mr. Chamberlain by the Standard and other influential Tory newspapers are a part of a concentrated plan to compel the Liberal-Unionists to become Tories in name as well as in fact. With the exception of a few divisions in Scotland, there is really no substantial Liberal-Unionist vote outside of Birmingham, where Mr. Chamberlain's personal influence is paramount. The Liberal-Unionists now have 50 seats, but if the Tories should refuse to vote for their candidates they would not carry ten.

PRESIDENT FAURE TO VISIT WINDSOR.

LONDON, April 21.-It is reported, and the rumor is credited in official circles, that communications are passing with the object of aranging for M. Felix Faure, President of the French Republie, to pay a visit to Windsor. It is understood that M. Faure, who for some time sojourned in London, is willing to accept the invitation, which is likely to be sent immediately after the Queen returns. A similar reception to the late President Carnot was under consideration at the time of his death. GREAT CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL

FOR LONDON. LONDON, April 21.-At last official announcement is made today that work on the proposed great Catholic Cathedral not far from Westminster Abbey is to be begun immediately. Mr. Bentley, the architect selected, has just returned from a long special study of European Cathedrals. His model will be the Constantine Church of St. Peter's at Rome. The edifice will cost $1,250,000. The cardinal has in hand $400,000 tow-

A CRISIS COMING. BERLIN, April 21.-The fate of the Anti-Socialist Bill is the question of the hour in party politics. Two weeks ago a Clerical and Conservative alliance was expected to pass it with all the objectionable amendments made in committee. The revolt of the National Liberals has changed the prospect, for it has demoralized the Conservative support of the measure. Now the National Liberal leaders have effected an understanding with the bulk of the Conservative party, and the result will be that neither they nor the Conservatives will vote for the bill in its present shape. When the Reichstag reassembles next Tuesday, therefore, the Government will find itself face to face with a seri-

A SOLEMN FARCE. LONDON, April 21.—The recent duel has created such an impression among all parties that the Government has been asked to come out boldly and stop the code of honor. As soon as Kotze recovers, he and his seconds will be charged formally with violating the law against duels, will be sentenced by court martial to fortress confinement, by the Emperor. The next step in this solemn farce will be taken by a court of honor, which, after due consideration of the circumstances, will declare that everybody's honor has been vindicated, and there is no need of more duels. Finally Kotze will resume his functions as court chamberlain. There s no truth in the rumor that Kotze will prosecute for slander Freiher Von Schrader. The court martial, has planned his arrest, and thus try to get at the origin of the charges. The Emperor and Kotze know who the culprits are. A public trial would be impossible.

THE OPPOSITION SPLIT.

Failure of the Attempts to Harmonize the Unionists and Conservatives.

The public assurances of Right Hon. George J. Goschen that the reports of the disruption of the compact between the Conservatives and the Unionists are unfounded, and the asseverations of Sir Willhart Dyke that leaders of both sections are on the friendliest terms with one another have failed of the author and playwright, has writ- their object of dissipating the belief that discord exists tending to the ultimate rupture of the close political re-lations of the two parties. There is no doubt the Conservative leaders will strain every point to sustain the cohesion of the parties, but the rank and file are not to be ruled by the tactical considerations, and refuse to admit the necessity of observing of the Tory compact with Mr. Chamberlain and his folowers. The reports emanating from the Carleton Club agree that there is bitter discontent with Mr. Balfour's course in submitting to the leadership of Mr. Chamberlain. This feeling has gone to such extreme that the older Conservatives openly declare that Mr. Balfour ought not to hold the confidence of the party any longer. Associated with the Unionist dissensions from the Conservatives is an internal movement in the Liberal party toward placating the Unionists. Although Mr. Chamberlain remains an object of detestation on the part of the Radicals, the genuine Home Rulers and moderate Liberals who are Home Pulers from motives of expediency continue to regard him as not only a possible leader, but a desirable one, if the Gladstone form of home rule is abandoned so that the tentative and temporary Home Rulers can privately and through the medium of the press proceed toward a reconciliation.

Mr. Chamberlain, today's Graphic says, will not be lured into the Glad-stonian fold; but once let the Liberals drop Mr. Gladstone's hateful legacy and then it will be time for him to join and lead the reconstructed Liberal party.

The Evening News, the only Gladstonian organ left 'n Edinburgh, de-clares that the Scotch Liberals will be glad of a decent excuse for abandoning home rule. Mr. Gladstone's bill is recognized as an impossible measure, and continues to be an incubus to the party. The present political alliance with the anti-Parnellites is demoralizing, and it would be better dissolved, and Mr. Chamberlain invited back to the Liberal fold upon a basis of modified home

The opinion of the Evening News is no doubt the feeling of the Liberals constituting Mr. Gladstone's Midlothian constituency, and it has not escaped the attention of Irish members, among whom the conviction is growing that home rule as promised by the Liberals will prove to be a mirage.

ADVANCED RADICALISM.

Independent Labor Party Resolutions that Stagger the Politicians.

LONDON, April 21 .- The proceedings of 84 delegates of the Independent Labor party, in session in Newcastle, have derived especial importance as Ministerial papers found it necessary to repudiate them. The delegates passed a resolution pledging themselves to compel all their adherents to vote at the next election as dictated by the governing committee of the Independent Labor party. Thy also approved bills to compel local authorities to provide work for every adult, the hours to be eight per day, and the minimum wages 30 shillings per week; providing for state pensions for everybody after reaching the age of 50 years: a weekly special provision for widows and orphans; free education, including access to the universities; free schools for children of the poor, with food and clothing; that land shall be treated as public property; that railways and waterways shall be nationalized; that the liquor traffic shall be controlled by municipal governments, and finally a at this point. A quuntity of rubbish resolution condemning anarchy was

The Spectator contends that such a programme, if it be the result to which Radicalism tends, will alarm the whole community and cause a strong reaction towards Conservatism.

ADVANCED WOMEN.

A Bold Step Taken by the London Sisterhood.

The New York Sun's London correspondent cables: "The London Sisterhood of Advanced Women has decided to take a bold step toward the emancipation of the sex. It has long groaned under certain implications of servitude contained in a few passages of Scripture and has determined to abolish these disabilities by publishing a Women's Bible. New readings of the old passages would be given, and the volume will contain susgestions to show that the verses about women's inferiority really mean the opposite of the or-dinary acceptation. The Book of Genesis is now ready. Regarding Eve's taking the forbidden fruit, it is pointed out that Satan did not tempt her with an array of silks, satins and other things which some people think most seductive to her descendants, but with an offer of knowledge. Man being of such a lethargic, grovelling nature, a similar lofty ambition never entered his mind. Besides, if the fruit was not to be taken, Eve should have been informed of the fact at the first hand, and not through an agent. The commentaria is furnished by 'The Committee of English and American Wo-

To Know What the Chinese-Jap Treaty Really Contains.

LONDON, April 21.-Europe waits with the keenest interest authentic news of the treaty of peace between Japan and China. garded by all the great powers as of the gravest importance of any diplomatic event since the Berlin Treaty was signed. Now that the war has ended in a manner such as no European had foretold, there are not wanting expressions of regret in all the great capitals that Lord Rosebery's advice to the powers to interfere at the outset was not acted upon. The diplomatic apprehension which is almost everywhere expressed tends, however, to much exaggerate the danger from Japan's menacing grewth from a child to a giant among the nations. Few fears are felt of any immediate effect upon European interests, but all the foreign offices profess to see the gravest dangers in the suggestion of Chin-ese-Japanese alliance with an avowed Asia-for-the Asiatics policy. It is generally understood that the forthcoming treaty will contain no clause to this effect, but the impression prevails that there will be several secret agreements which are not included in the official NICARAGUA PROCRASTINATING. NEW YORK, April 22.—The Herald's from Managua, Nicaragua, says: At a Cabinet meeting Saturday night it was proposed to cede to Great Britain Corn Island, in the Atlantic, as an equivalent of her claim for indemnity. This met with strong opposition from President Zelaga, and another proposition was made to pay the indemnity by means of a forced loan. No definite action was taken.

Ald. Wm. Heaman, Ald. John Nutkins and Engineer Graydon returned home on Saturday night after a visit to three American cities—one in Michigan and two in Ohio-in search of information relative to permanent pavements. When they left on Wednesday last the Free Press gave a glowing account of the magnitude of the trip, saying: "The trip will be a very pleasant one for the 'deputators.' When they left the city they had pasteboards for Toledo, indorsed good for a layover at Detroit. From Toledo they will go to Zanesville, Columbus, Hamilton, Cincinnati and other Ohio towns. Then they will strike down to Wheeling, in West Virginia, and on the way home will take in the sights of Washington and New York. They will come from the latter place over the New York Central, via Rochester and Buffalo. They will travel over 2,000 miles in all."

In reality they visited Detroit, Toledo and Columbus, and did not go o West Virginia, Washington or New York, and had no intentions of doing so. The information they secured is timely and practical, and will be empodied in a report, which will be prepared by Ald. Heaman and submitted to No. 2 committee on Thursday night.

The groom, in Prince Albert coat and gray trousers, advanced a few paces too meet the bride, and led her to the chancel, where the betrothal service was read by Bishop Talbot, after which, entering the chancel, they stood before the altar to receive the final benediction.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Leiter mansion in Dupont Circle, at which the guests were limited to about 150 relatives and nearest friends. The bride received 1,000 elegant presents, some of which were not even unpacked, as they will be shipped at once to her new home in England. Mrs. Cleveland's present was an antique silver loving cup of beautiful workmanship and great value. The other presents were not shown to anyone outside of the two families.

our general behavior, must be, to say the least, more polite than they once were. Compare this quotation from a modern manual of good form with one from an obsolete volume on etiquette. From the former: "It is not the correct thing to put a spoon into the mouth point foremost;" and from the latter, published in 1480, among a list of "Don'ts," are: "Don't keep the hand too long feeling about in the dish; don't take too

Our manners at table, and, in fact,

For the benefit of the unenlightened let me explain that the latter are simple and explicit rules as to how to grab bits of meat from the common dish with elegant and distingue manners. The custom of everybody putting their hands into the same dish, and seizing upon bits of meat, does not seem to have been regarded as offensive at all; though of course, it was expected that persons would not explore the mass too large a piece; don't wipe the fingers

on the coat."

thoroughly. Speaking of manners at table leads one to think of the English spoken at table, and also gives me a golden opportunity, for which I have waited long. to enter a protest through the columns of the press against the reckless use to which that useful little word "don't" is put by a great variety of people who ought to know better. Everyone, I suppose, has a special perfume he or she cannot abide; and some color which produces inward discord only to gaze upon it for a moment; and almost everybody makes nice little distinctions, and has certain little refinements, about which they are sensitive-albeit they may have other habits much more worthy of condemnation. My friends having observed (and with much kindness pointed out to me) a certain weakness I have of referring to things as "those sort," now seem to think, of course, that it is not possible that I have any sensitiveness about me as regards the use our noble English language should be put to. There aren't many of them, but "don't" is one of them, and I squirm like Lindley Murray to hear people saying that "it don't matter"; and I would sooner have a person apologize to me for their house, and their food, and their everything, than tell me that "he don't care."

It was only yesterday morning, being somewhat excited and pressed for time, I was heard exclaiming, "Yes; it's me." Deep was my error, I humbly acknowledge, but I felt that my punishment was greater than my offense, when my mooted question of when a woman should wear her bonnet and when she should not, settled by a New York journal of fashion, at present the criterion of style and good form. This is what it says: "As to wearing a bonnet at dinner, it is now becoming very customary for women not to wear bonnets. At such hotels as the Waldorf, the Savoy or the Holland, women are seen in the general restaurant without bonnets more frequently than with them. A woman is always in better style without a bonnet than with one. Still, it is so ordinary for women to wear bonnets in hotels, that if you were to wear one you would not be remarked as peculiar, that is to say, in this country. In England women never wear bonnets at dinner. They regard dinner as an extremely formal occasion and never wear bonnets. That is so noticeable on Atlantic steamships that it is very easy to distinguish the English and American women by those who do and those who do not wear bonnets. Therefore, if you should not wear a bonnet, it would be in better form than if you wore one. Of course, no woman wears a hat at dinner in her own house. Your OIL CITY, Pa., April 21.—Oil opened question refers entirely to the custom of wearing them in a hotel, and Vogue hopes that women will cease to wear them there. It is a beneficial habit to be scrupulously, carefully dressed at least once daily, and there is no reason why a hotel dinner should be less punctilious in regard to neatness and appearance than a dinner at home. The hotels are certainly doing their part in supplying perfect service, beautiful rooms and good menus, and the hotel patrons should do theirs." For a flabby skin the following treatment is recommended: Never use hard water upon it; either preserve rainwater for the purpose, or, if that is impossible, buy distilled water of a reliable druggist. Eat bread that is one day old and choose that which is made from whole meal. A little gluten made into a mush and eaten with rich milk is also said to help in rounding out the

The Fifth Incendiary Fire in Three Weeks.

Prompt Action of the Brigade Saves the Place-A Bonfire Run-Meant Well But His Eyesight Was Bad.

Incendiary fires in unoccupied cottages continue to occur with somewhat startling frequency. The latest of these happened at 12:30 Sunday morning, and that the place was not completely destroyed was doubtless due to the alertness of the watchman of the Grand Trunk car shops, the close proximity of No. 2 fire station, and the promptness of the firemen in answering the call. The incendiary had evidently chosen the site with a good deal of care. It was the very last house within the eastern bounds of the city, and the nearet hydrant was at the corner of Egerton street and the G. T. R. track-1,100 feet away. And when the distance was covered there was only 50 feet of hose to spare in the wagon of No. 2 company. To reach the scene and lay the large quantity of hose occupied considerable time, and the fire was burning through the roof when the water was turned on. It was got under control in a very short time, but not before damage to the extent of $150 was done.

The cottage was situated on the corner of Mabel and Ethel streets, and was owned by Mr. Edward Flood. Mr. Flood moved out about a week ago, going to live with relatives. There was no fire or light about the premises, and the blaze cannot be accounted for other than by arson. The place is said to be insured.

The brigade had another run on Saturday evening, and took part in extinguishing a bon-fire on Ridout street. Just as the men at No. 2 station were beginning to woo hard-earned sleep and sweet dreams, about 11:45 on Saturday night they were awakened by no uncertain sound proclaiming: "Fire! Fire! I say, wake up. Whoa, whoa --- Fire! Fire!" As soon as possible the men tumbled out and ran to their stations. Two went out to the street, and the acute observer of fire said that he had seen the glare in the direction of the asylum. But no reflection could any of the firemen see, and the good-intentioned man drove on, referring to his eyes in a non-complimentary manner. thremen went to bed again, only to be relled at 12:30 by a genuine alarm.

Annual Church Parade of St. George's Society.

Sons of England and the Seventh Band Take Part,

Resignation of the Paster of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church-Notes.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH PARADE. In England and the British colonies all the world over the 28th annual church service of St. George's Society was held yesterday. In this city the Sons of England turned out as a mat-Only 25c Each ter of courtesy, and St. George's Society will return the compliment when England's sons attend church in a body on May 26. At St. Paul's Cathedral Dean Innes, D.D., preached a very patriotic sermon. The parade began at 3:30 from the rooms of the society in Albion block. The procession was headed by the newly-organized Seventh Band, under the leadership of Bandmaster Tresham. Following the band came representatives of the seven city Sons of England lodges, and after them the members of St. George's Society, the officers bringing up the rear. A short march was taken on Dundas street and return via Queen's avenue, the dust and wind making the outing anything but pleasant.

The dean took his text from the Acts of the Apostles, xxvi., part of verse 12— "Mine Own Nation." He commenced by speaking of the devotion of the Hebrew to his country, and of the patriotism of almost every man, no matter of what nationality. That sentiment was implanted in the human heart by nature and had always been peculiarly strong in the hearts of Englishmen. God had given them a country of which they might well be proud. Freedom had been handed down from their forefathers, and Englishmen were not likely to dishonor it by becoming serfs to any nation. An Englishman, he said, elt national humiliation far more than any personal suffering, and the chief thought of the truly loyal Briton should be the preservation of English integrity and upholding England's honor. She was loved not for her greatness so much as for her goodness, and it was their part to endeavor to inculcate in others all that is noblest and best in English; character. They should train their children in paths is too prominent in the education of the present day. They should be taught manliness, and self-reliance, and gentleness, combined with bravery. obedience to parents, and a willingness to deny themselves for the good of others and for the salvation of their race. Those were the virtues which made men true and noble. "Once it was merry England," said the dean, "but now it appears to have changed. Where once was life now heart-breaking; where once there was confidence how distrust. The tie that I united the rich and the poor in sympathy has been snapped asunder. Political dissensions rent the air with their partisan cries. Vice too horrible to mention pollutes the higher regions of aristocracy; crime of every kind below. Yet, thank God, the salt of the land has not altogether lost its savor. Though the ungodly battles for the supremacy, the church still stands as a bulwark against advancing time. We need not fear for England when the Lord is on her side." A liberal collection was taken up, the proceeds of which go to the Protestant Orphans' Home. After the service the procession reformed and returned to the lodge-

The congregation at the Opera House yesterday morning at the regular service of the Queen's Avenue Methodists was large, and listened to a general address from Mrs. J. K. Barney, of Providence, Rhode Island, the great prison worker, and good music by the choir. The anthem was "God in Love," and its rendition by the choir under Mr. Fetherston, and accompanied by the orchestra, was faultless. The Misses Edith and Minnie Hartson sang "O, Come to the Saviour" with much sweetness, Miss Evelyn Allen playing the violin obligato and Mr. Fetherston accompanying on the piano. Mrs. Barney, on rising to give her address, took a general glance over the congregation. She had not, she said, during the Sunday mornings of the last 30 years been accustomed to addressing such audiences. She had been used to speaking to people behind prison walls—persons who were put there for the safety of the public. "When I have a morning like this," Mrs. Barney said, "it seems a very precious time to me." The ad-"When I have a morning dress was based along the line of the second chapter of St. Mark, with no particular words for a text. The book of Mark was a wonderful book. A great deal had been said of the splendid service of man for man, but there in Mark was given the most wonderful plan of successful service. There were several words in the chapter which deserved special attention. One was the word "straightway," which had been emphasized in the reading of the passage. In her work, Mrs. Barney was brought into contact with persons who had been brought up in sin, and it convinced her that the reason of so many wrecked lives was that God's people did not understand the meaning of the divine word "straightway." They lose their opportunities to touch lives. Boys and girls brought up in Christian homes drift away into the world, and are afterwards met in prison. And when questioned as to their sinfulness they led into a better way before they reached such a state. Mrs. Barney gave several instances where she had met with such replies. All over this Christian land God's people were facing just such things. They have missed their chance to bring people to Christ, the rest of the service was forgotten. REV. MR. MIHELL RESIGNS. There was a general interchange of pulpits among the Baptist churches sterday morning, and the pulpit of Adelaide Street Church was occupied by Rev. Thomas W. Charlesworth, pastor of the Grosvenor Street Church. At the usual place in the service Mr. Charlesworth said that communion would be held at the close of the regular service, and invited all church members to remain, intimating that the deacons had a very important announcement to make. To those who waited, Deacon

It was unexpected to a majority, at least, and they were at a loss to acccunt for the resignation. It was appointed that a special meeting of the congregation should be held on Tuesday night, when the matter will be are foreign firms.

placed before them. The pastor gave no reason for his action in the letter of resignation, and he is not known to have received or accepted a call else-

Mr. Mihell came here from North To ronto, and assumed charge of the Adelaide Street Church in December, 1892, when the previous pastor, Rev. H. C. Speller, left for Florida. He was well liked by his congregation, and made a capital pastor. He is a man of firmness and decision, and a scholarly preacher, whose sermons give evidence of careful study and intense practicality.

Mr. Mihell occupied his own pulpit at the evening service, but the only reference he made to his resignation was when announcing the text. He said that it was an appropriate one, as, no doubt, all were aware that his resignation was in the hands of the deacons. The text was taken from II. Chronicles, XX., part of verse 15: "Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not yours, but God's." An effort wil probably be made to retain Mr. Mihell.

NOTES. The Baptist ministers of the city exchanged pulpits yesterday morning. The pulpit at Adelaide Street was occupied by Rev. T. W. Charlesworth, of he Grosvenor Street Church.

Every evening this week Mrs. Barney will speak in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and every afternoon at 3 o'clock she will give Bible readings in Somerset Hall

Tonight the annual meeting of the Western Ontario Bible Society will be held in Cronyn Hall, with the Bishop of Huron in the chair, Rev. Robt. Johnston, of St. Andrew's, and Rev. J. V. Smith, of Hamilton (formerly of the Dundas Street Methodist Church), will deliver addresses.

Rev. Canon Richardson, of this city, preached in Trinity Church, Hamilton, esterday, and Rev. Canon Hill, of Hamilton, occupied the pulpit of the Memorial Church.

DIET, DRESS AND VENTILATION. The New York Charity Organization Society takes a far-reaching interest in the welfare of the masses in the metropolitan city of America. What is termed a "Health and Happiness" chart has just been issued by the society for distribution among the families coming under its care. This chart is a piece of cardboard about nineteen inches long by a foot wide, and is brim full of information and advice regarding health, and, as a corollary, happiness. On the front of the card the first thing that catches the eye is a brightcolored center-piece illustrating in different hues the relative value of staple foods. Their result in heat and energy is represented by red, their proportion of water by white, and their fiesh and bone forming capacities by blue. In columns at the side are given the time occupied in digesting the various foods listed and their price per pound. The foods in the list are lentils, split peas, beans, macaroni, oatmeal, meat, wheat meal, Indian corn, pearl barley, graham bread, rice, potatoes and sago. From this list one would gather that oatmeal is about the best food, all things considered, since it requires but one and a half hours to digest, costs only three cents a pound, and stands next to the head in heat and energy production, while its proportion of water is very small, and its flesh and bone forming capacity is very fair. Meat is largely water, giving very little heat and energy, and potatoes are still more so, both being surpassed in flesh and bone possibilities by lentils and split peas, which are tied for first place on the blue. Peas, however, afford a trifle more water and less heat and energy than lentils. Macaroni and beans maintain a good average, beans having the call in the matter of price, since they cost but half as much as macaroni. This centerpiece is flanked by bits of advice. On one side information as to boiling chops and steaks is given, and on the other advice as to eating, with a cheap, substantial day's diet laid out. This is as follows: "Breakfast: Coffee, cocoa, or boiled milk; bread and butter; porridge; boiled eggs. "Lunch: Rice and lentil stew; graham bread, Indian meal or bananas, figs or dates. "Dinner: Breast of mutton, potatoes in skins; sago and apple pudding; tea. A central column of the chart gives "Hints for Health." Here are some bits of wisdom from this column:

"Pure water, pure air, sunshine and wholesome food are the chief requisites for health.

"Cultivate cleanly habits and make frequent use of baths. "Impure air is poison; if you take enough it will kill you, and if you take any it is injurious for you. Keep your windows open all night at the top. Anything rather than the close, unwholesome poisonous atmosphere of shut-up bedooms, which will kill you by inches. "Don't spare soap and water. If there is any difficulty about your drains, water supply or the clearing away of rubbish apply at once to the Health Department.

Under the heading of "Accidents and Emergencies," information is given regarding the treatment of wounds and cuts, bruises and sprains, and burns and Another column is headed, "Always Remember!" and is an acrostic formed of apothegms. These are some of them:

"Unpleasant odor for 24 hours may mean a fever for 24 days. "To sit with wet feet gives a cold in the head. "It is essential to have eight hours sleen. "Diseases are caused by tight belts, stays and bands.

"Digestion is assisted by cheerfulness. "To cook indifferently fills the hospital with sick children and the saloon with ill-fed men."

The acrostc formed reads: "Trust in God and do the right." On the reverse of the card are recipes for cheap, nutritious dishes, such as Irish stew, breast of mutton, bean stew, Indian could always ask why they were not cornmeal, and sweet bread pudding.

CLOSE OF THE HORSE SHOW. TORONTO, April 21.—The Canadian horse show closed yesterday with a large attendance. The show has been a success in every respect, and there is every probability that it will become an annual event. Yesterday most interest centered in the driving of the ladies, who all did nobly and proved clever horsewomen. Miss Libby McDonald, of New York, got first honors.

EDITORIAL POINTS.

Our contemporary the Free Press does not seem to favor any restriction whatever of the traffic in intoxicating liquors. Why, for example, asks our contemporary, should the hours of sale be restricted at all? "If it is wrong," says our contemporary, "to take a glass of beer or wine at ten, it is equally so at nine." Let us see. There are two directions in which opinion as to this traffic can go-towards restriction, or towards free trade in liquor. By almost common consent, the latter view is repudiated. For the protection of youth and weakness, governing bodies everywhere limit the number of those who may sell intoxicants, limit the hours of sale, and place various other restrictions around the traffic. By nearly universal consent, therefore, the principle of at least limited restriction (and restriction of any kind is, after all, simply prohibition by so much) is admitted to be right and necessary.

"That London stands foremost among the cities of the world in the purity of the water supplied to its inhabitants is a fact conceded by students of sanitary science," says the Philadelphia Record. The Record probably means London, England, but the remark would apply even more truthfully to London, Ont.

The Detroit Free Press says the free log provisions of the Wilson Bill have proved the salvation of the Saginaw Valley lumber interests. Michigan's timber supply is giving out, and the mills there are buying vast quantities of Canadian logs.

Toronto is getting quite cosmopolitan. THE CANADIAN COPYRIGHT ACT. That there are two sides to most questions is the moral of the following letter addressed by Mr. Goldwin Smith to "The Week," Toronto. That "the question has been too much in the hands of our publishers and printers and too little in those of our literary men," may be the fact; but if the sentence were made to read, "Our Toronto publishers and printers," it would not be an inaccurate distinction, Says Mr. Goldwin Smith:

Sir,—Have the promoters of the Canadian Copyright Act fully considered the probable consequences of their legislation to Canadian literature? Would it not have the same bad effect on Canadian literature which American denial of copyright to English authors had upon the literature of the United had upon the literature of the United States. The American publisher naturally preferred reprinting English works without payment to paying for native production. The consequence of this was the depression of American literature, which continued till, by the adoption of reciprocal copyright, the American writer was placed, commercially, on a fair level with his English rival. I am inclined to attribute the anti-British acrimony, unhappily characteristic of American literature, partly to the illfeeling engendered by unfair competition. Should we not, under the proposed Copyright Act, have similar results in Canada? Would not the hopes, whatever they may be, of Canadian literature be killed by the exposure of the Canadian writer to competition with unpaid authors? Ostensibly the author would, under the act, have a right to a royalty of 10 per cent. But what chance would the unfortunate writer have of collecting this royalty from a piratical publisher? How would he enforce true returns of the sale? It must be remembered that not only Canadians, but American interlopers might take advantage of the liberty which the act would afford. Practically the act would amount to a general license of piracy, which, apart from the injustice to the individual, would not be very honorable to us as a community. I do not mean to say or insinuate that the framers of the act mean to deny commercial justice to authors, but I do not see how, under their law, commercial justice could be secured. The Government, it is understood, declines to have anything to do with the collection of the royalty. The author would, at all events, be deprived of control over his work, which might be dealt with in any way that the piratical publisher chose. This might be a source of serious annoyance even to writers, to whom, as from the nature of their subjects, they did not, like novelists, look for large profits; the merely commercial question would be a secondary consideration. The question, as it seems to me, has been too much in the hands of our publishers and printers, and too little in those of our literary men. Before it is decided, the attention of our literary men should be given to the subject.

Yours faithfully, GOLDWIN SMITH. Toronto, April 15, 1895.

A FOOLISH PREDICTION SOON EXPOSED.

When the McKinley Bill was assailed

in the United States Congress, and the high taxes reduced by Congress, an attempt was made to make the dullness in trade arising from this over-taxation and from the bursting of the speculative booms in South America and elsewhere responsible for the financial difficulties over the border. Workingmen were asked to witness how the reduction of taxation had injured them, and they were informed that the great staple industries of the country were ruined. These cries are always raised by the privileged ones when they find that they cannot profit at the expense of their neighbors. Despite these contentions, however, wages have within the last week been increased in many United States industries, which it was predicted were to be completely destroyed and also of an association to promote by the tariff reductions made by the good roads. He has been impressing on | Wilson bill. Among the increases are these: Globe Iron Works, Cleveland, need of better roads, and it is said that 10 per cent; Thomas Dolan & Co., carpet he has in view a plan by which pedals | manufacturers, Philadelphia, 15 per can be attached to cheese, and in this cent to weavers; Moses T. Stevens & way ridden to market by bicyclists. Sons, woolen manufacturers at three This would certainly create a great points in New Hampshire, 15 per cent; Washington Woolen Mills, Lawrence, Mass., 10 per cent; the two principal Pennsylvania coke companies, 15 per cent. A general increase in the woolen and cotton mills is expected. High taxation injures rather than helps legitimate industries, as manufacturers in this city know to their cost.

> LIGHT ON A GRAVE PROBLEM. An imaginative contemporary makes the astounding statement that at the last Privy Council the Queen spoke of a certain matter of Colonial Office administration "in strong terms." More arrant rubbish has never been printed. Is it supposed that a "Privy Council" is the scene of debate and discussions? The proceedings at these functions are always of the most purely formal character, and, as Mr. Charles Greville merely "to repeat like a parrot whatever is put into her mouth."—London Times.

TAX ON BIRTHS. The first act of Parliament inflicting a tax on the birth of humanity was the 6 and 7 William and Mary, Ch. 6, (1694,) and was entitled:, "An act for granting to his Majesty certains rates and duties upon mar-riages, births and burials, and upon bachelors and widowers, for the term of five years, for carrying on the war against France with vigor."

Upon the birth of every child, ∈xcept children of those who receive alms, 2 shillings; of the eldest son of a duke, £30; of a marquis, etc., in proportion. The 24th section enacts that all persons in holy orders shall keep a register of persons married, buried, christened or born in their parish, under a penalty of £100 in default. The taxes on births, marriages and burials were continued indefinitely by 7 and 8 William and Mary, Ch. 35, and imposed a penalty of 40 shillings upon the parents who neglected to give notice to the vicar, etc., of the parish of the date of birth of any child.—Notes and Queries.

room held by his Excellency and Lady Aberdeen on Saturday evening was brilliant, though the attendance was slim. Of the 317 persons who made their bows before their Excellencies who sat on the so-called throne in the Senate Chamber almost 300 were Senators, M. P.s and their lady friends. The remaining few were the general public. One cause of the falling off in attendance is alleged to be the friction over the recent carnival; another explanation is that times are hard, and the civil servants and those who supply their wants

-who make up a great portion of Ottawa society-are not in a mood to go to the expenditure for dresses, etc., necessary to keep up with the vice-regal procession. The Governor's party embraced their Excellencies, Lady Tweedmouth, Miss Mysie Browne and other aides. Lady Aberdeen looked charming in her elegant costume, with a train several yards long, borne by Hon. Archie Gordon and Master Gordon. Lord Aberdeen wore his Windsor uniform. As an escort their Excellencies had the Governor-General's Foot Guards, and while the presentations were in progress the band played in the Senate lobby. There were many striking and expensive costumes, and low-necked gowns were plentiful. The only Londoners presented were Hon. David Mills and Mr. J. D. Clarke. Among the M. P.s in attendance were Mr. Allan (South York), and Mr. Grieve (North Perth).

Attorney-General Sifton, of Manitoba, while here told a friend that he had been misrepresented on the Manitoba school question. The Dominion Government, he said, has ordered that we establish separate schools in Manitoba as they were prior to 1890. I have said that Manitoba's attitude is that this demand from Ottawa cannot be carried out, as the schools were inefficient in every respect. Further than that, I have not gone. By the way, the Privy Council decision asserts that it is not necessary to re-establish the schools as in 1890. In this respect it differs from the dictatorial order of the Ottawa Government. I hear that the three Toronto members deem it wise to oppose the Ottawa Government on this point, and Mr. McLean (East York) is expected to follow suit.

The estimates are expected tomorrow, and it is possible that the budget speech may be delivered on Thursday.

A telegram was received here today announcing the death of Robert Mc-Lean, of Brockville, father of Mrs. Smith, wife of Rev. Mr. Smith, of Mor-

Stalwart Duncan Fraser, the Nova Scotia M. P., who, a couple of years ago, paid a visit to London and the west, will, with Mr. Laurier, introduce Hon. Mr. McIsaac, the hero of Antigonish, when he comes up next week. The capturer of Sir John Thompson's seat is a very able man. He is of Highland Scottish blood, a tried statesman in politics and only 39 years of age.

I was told today that Hon. Clarke Wallace will be permitted to "break" with the Government when it is no longer possible to maintain a doublefaced attitude.

I hear that there are prospects of a lively discussion of the Hudson Bay Railway bonus deal. The proposition, I am told, is to grant the speculators who are promoting a railway from Winnipeg to as yet nowhere in particular, and misnamed the Hudson Bay Railway, a straight bonus of $2,500,000 instead of the subsidy of $80,000 a year for twenty years voted at last session. How the deal is to be carried out I have not learned, but it is reported here that the dying Government hopes to accomplish the change, so earnestly sought after by the speculators, without consulting the representatives of the people in Parliament, on the recommendation of Mr. Haggart, Minister of Railways, who is alleged to have taken legal advice from a prominent counsel in Toronto as to whether this can be done without the embarrassment of coming to Parliament for its approval It would doubtless be a good thing for the speculators if they could get the immediate control of two and a half millions of dollars of public money to do as they please with while the line is yet practically in the clouds. They could then sell out their interest to others, and betake themselves to a fresh field of speculation, to the decided detriment of the public interest. If a change so radical is contemplated, it certainly should not be made by a moribund Administration, or even by a Parliament in its dying hours. Indeed there are well-defined rumors that if a two million and a half grant is made those to whom it is voted will be pledged to grant a rebate of 10 per cent—or $250,000—to help along the trade restrictionist politicians in their struggle to retain place and power. This would be no new experience in Canada, I heard Mr. Caron, the Postmaster-General, confess in Parliament that he had accepted huge subscriptions for election purposes from men to whom railway subsidies had been granted. The sums so accepted were so large that no man in his senses would have handed them over to a politician except as a quid pro quo for favors received at the expense of the taxpayers. Indeed, one speculator who received a subsidy, and handed back a good many thousands of dollars, confessed that he did so, though he really had no interest in the elections, to influence which the money was put up. He was, in fact, an alien, and had no other aim except to make himself solid with the men in power. Under those circumstances, any attempt of the same Administration to change the terms already made with the Hudson Bay Railway speculators will be viewed with the gravest suspi-cion, and it is to be hoped that means will be adopted to expose the alleged compact, and, if it exists, to prevent its being carried out. The country will countenance no improper expenditure of public money; of that there has been already far too much. The public debt has been added to by millions

BUCHANAN'S TIME IS BRIEF.

Governor Morton Refuses to Give Him a Respite.

He Must Take His Place in the Death Chair Some Day This Week.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 21.-Governor Morton has refused the application of Dr. Buchanan for a respite, Buchanan is to be electrocuted at Sing Sing Prison during this week for the murder of his wife by poisoning.

Dr. Buchanan obtained a divorce from his first wife in Nova Scotia, and came to this city, where he met and married Anna B. Sutherland, a woman who had accumulated a fortune by keeping disorderly houses in Newark, N. J. They lived at 26 West Eleventh Street. Mrs. Buchanan died in April, 1892, and soon after death the doctor remarried his first wife. This aroused suspicion, and the body of the second Mrs. Buchanan was exhumed, and traces of morphine and atrophine were found in the re mains. It was charged that Dr. Buchanan had murdered his wife by administering morphine, and had also given her atrophine to neutralize some of the effects of the former poison. He was tried and convicted before Recorder Smyth on Aug. 14, 1893. The trial attracted widespread attention and continued for six weeks. On the appeal to the Upper Court counsel for Buchanan pleaded that the testimony showing that Buchanan's wife had come to her death by morphine poison should be stricken out, because there had been an attempt made to show that other kinds of poison had been used. Buchanan had frequently told friends that his wife had been a morphine eater, and that if she died from an overdose of morphine and they dug her up, the case coming so soon after the Harris trial would make it bad for him. He therefore thought it best to sell out and move away. Counsel further argued that while the prosecution had tried to show that atropine had been used it had not proved such to be the case. On the trial Juror Paradise, an epileptic, had several fits. Counsel held that he was incompetent to deliver a just verdict, and this was the principal point on which the case was carried to the Court of Appeals. The conviction was affirmed Feb. 26 last, and the Supreme Court refused to Interfere. Prisoner's counsel then appealed to the British Minister at Washington on the ground that Buchanan was a British subect, and had not received justice in the United States courts, but this plea proved

SING SING, April 21.—Dr. Buchanan still clings to the hope that the Governor may yet do something in his case. Warden Sage called at Buchanan's cell this morning shortly after the condemned man had finished breakfast and informed him of the Governor's action. He seemed disappointed but not entirely discouraged. His wife called at the prison today and had a long interview with him. He gave her instructions in regard to the new matter which is to be presented to the Governor tomorrow in a further effort to secure executive Warden Sage does not think there is any chance for the condemned man. The invitations to the execution will probably be sent out tomorrow, and the execution will take place Thursday or Friday.

Evangelist Moody's Prayers for Rain Answered.

Caused the Roof of His Church to Fall In.

His Congregation of 10,000 Persons Panic-Stricken—Large Number of People Injured, but Only One Fatally.

FORT WORTH, April 22.-All of Texas has needed rain, so the great evangelist, Dwight Moody, called upon his congregation of 8,200 Christians to pray fervently that the floodgates might be opened. This was at 3 p.m. crowded with 10,000 people from Fort Worth and surrounding cities, Man Moody announced that word had come from several points that rain had fallen. A few minutes later the storm burst on Fort Worth and torrents of rain fell. Then Mr. Moody gave thanks to God and called upon the congregation to join in singing "Coronation" and "All hail the power of Jesu's name, let angels prostrate fall." The song had surged forth from 10,-000 voices when a cracking noise was heard, and then the roof sank and the rafters gave way, and the heavy timbers and boards covered with tar and gravel came down on a portion of the congregation. There was a panic. Scores upon scores of women fainted; some men lost their heads and piled pell-mell over those near them. Mr. Moody grasped the situation, and, moving over to the middle of the platform, lifted both hands to heaven, moving his arms slowly to and fro. His attitude and coolness stopped the panic and men began to rescue those in danger. A drenching rain was falling, but they worked hard and the wounded were soon taken out and carried to their homes or to the houses near by. The casualties:

It is needless to say that Lord Rosebery has been really ill, and that his health even now is so shattered by prolonged insomnia and continued mental worry that his retirement from the Premiership may be announced at any moment. When he goes, the Duke of Devonshire will take his rightful place at the head of the Liberal party, from which he was excluded by political cabal to which a historian will only be able to do justice a generation or so hence.

Since he began his career, he said, determination of the much larger issue there had been a great change in the whether every time one of the South or had been treated in recent years with

TO CONVERT ALL ENGLAND. Private advices from the inner circles of the Vatican declare that the Pope pursues his scheme for the conversion debtors have suffered serious losses of England with insistent persistency. these last 50 years in consequence of the | Cardinal Vaughan, knowing the abunwillingness or the inability of the solute fatuity of such efforts, endeavored to wean the Pontiff from further attempts, which would only changes of Administration have fur nished an apology or an excuse for putting off settlements, and securities seri- and in Catholic circles here it is said that the Cardinal left Rome entirely

Though the Pope's intellect is maryelously clear for his advanced age, his long seclusion in the Vatican has placed him out of touch with practical affairs, and developed a tendency to nourish chimeras, such as the conbecome intolerable. Earl Kimberley, version of England, which undoubtedly causes great anxiety to his advisers. His physical feebleness is increasing, and grave doubts are entertained by his entourage whether he can survive the exhausting heats of the Roman summer. His encyclical letter to the English people made no impression.

WILL LET JAPAN ALONE. Lord Rosebery has been in London but twice during the last fortnight, both times to attend Cabinet councils called to consider the eastern question. So far as can be judged by the tone of the official newspapers, the British Government does not mean to interfere with the Japanese demands. The Opposition, ordinarily ready to attack the Government on every point, is no less pacific in tone. From expressions in the leading journals of the continent of use.

outside of Russia, it is evident that Germany, Austria and France recognize the fatuity of an attempt to deprive Japan of what she demands. Russia alone continues to protest against Jap-an's occupation of Port Arthur. The hopelessness of concerted action by the European powers is acknowledged, even in the French press, and there is a general agreement that no single pow er could prevail against Japan.

CHILD LABOR REFORM. A loud cry comes for reform in the law relating to child labor in the textile trades; but it is for more stringent legislation, and it will probably be successful, despite the opposition of the trades unionists and employers. present a child may start in a factory as a half-time worker at the age of 11 and the proposal now is to raise the limit to 12. The Lancashire and the Yorkshire operatives, though stanch trades unionists and sound democrats in other respects, are bitterly opposed to any interference with child labor. They would, if they could, reduce the limit to 10 years, at which it once stood. Naturally enough, the manufacturers are at one with the men in maintaining the present system which keeps down the wages, although the men seem incapable of appreciating the fact. THE NEW AMERICAN SOCIETY.

It is regarded as doubtful that the new American Society will be a success. About 200 members have already joined, but the organization is in th hands of men who are suspected of seeking self-advertising, and who have mismanaged the affair. Many American gentlemen of long residence in England are indignant at being asked by youngsters to mention two Americans of good standing who will youch for their good character. There was a rather rough crowd at Saturday night's dinner, and, excepting the officials, the better element absented themselves, including a number of prominent gentlemen whose names were on the list. Everybody was surprised at Ambassador Eustis' speech, which was loudly and constantly applauded. He had the man ner of a man away from his accredited place, who was glad of the opportunity of saying what he had on his mind. Mr Bayard was apparently on pins and needles, and many present were delighted at the contrast between Mr Eustis' remarks and Mr. Bayard's inevitable compliments to the English.

Chicago, April 20.—There has been a continuation of shorts covering and the market has been almost as nervous at times as yesierday. It will doubtless even up before long and prices subside with the excitement. The wildest kind of talk is indulged in. Last week we were told that wheat could not go up on account of the visible. The same parties are now saying that there is no wheat to be had except at Chicago, and this will soon disappear. The facts are that the wheat is still here, and unless there is a better demand than for the past three days most of it will stay here.

The situation warrants higher prices eventually, but an advance of 5e a week with outside speculation so light and foreigners refusing to buy at the advance is hardly legitimate. It is due to a raid on the shorts, and when they are in a considerable reaction is almost certain to follow. July wheat is 2½c under Chicago at St. Louis, and if one is buying wheat on its merits, there is the place to buy it. It is said receipts of spring wheat will increase as soon as farmers are through with their spring work.

A BYRON LAD DROWNED

While Driving Logs in the Parry Sound District.

The Body Shipped Home-Worked His Mother's Farm in Summer and Spent the Winter Lumbering.

The following dispatch from Sundridge, Parry Sound district, gives meager details of an accident whereby a Byron young man lost his life:

"While driving logs on Brennan's drive on the Magnetawan River yesterday (Sunday), Mr. Zach Jarvis was drowned. The deceased was about 18 years of age. His parents live at Byron, near London. The corpse was sent to London this morning."

Deceased was a much respected young farmer living about a mile southwest of the Waterworks. Friends state that his age must be nearer 25 than 18. Like plenty of other Western Ontario boys, he preferred to work in the lumber woods rather than spend the winter in partial idleness on the farm, and went to Parry Sound district last fall with his brother. He was the son of the late George Jarvis, who died about three years ago, and in the summer time he assisted his brother in operating the farm. A sister of deceased died last spring. A small brother lives with the mother at home. The body is expected this evening.

CRICKET.

The American Cricket Annual for 1891 has just been issued by Jerome Flannery, the cricket editor of the New York Sun. It makes the sixth yearly issue of this useful handbook, which has become necessary in the outfit of any cricketer who desires to keep himself posted on the doings of the fraternity throughout the United States and Canada. The bulk of the work is taken up by club statistics and averages, but it also contains many useful and interesting articles on the game by prominent cricketers in many quarters. The list of centuries compiled during 1894 and feats of the season gives credit to all who excelled with bat or ball, while the "Tour of Lord Hawke's Team," "The Season in England," and many other subjects are treated in godo style. The book is published at 10 cents, and can be obtained from Jerome Flannery, P. O. box 1,211, New York.

BASEBALL. Manager Maddock writes as follows of the Toronto's game with Cornell: "The boys fielded finely, considering that they were sore and stiff from yesterday's practice. In the first inning Sippi's two errors put men on bases, but fine fielding by Smith and Demont prevented a scare. After the first inning not a Cornell man reached third. Sippi put up a great game after the first inning."

Speaker-elect Gully took the chair, but almost immediately after the usher of the Black Rod appeared in the House and summoned him before the House of Lords. The Speaker, accompanied by the sergeant-at-arms and the majority of the members, proceeded to the bar of the House of Lords. Lord Herschell, Lord High Chancellor, and Lords Kimberley, Spender, Carringbefore Judge Edward Elliott this ton and Kensington, constituting a royal commission, occupied seats in front of the throne, which was uncovered. Lord Herschell, bowing to the new Speaker said: "Her Majesty has most fully approved and confirmed your appointment."

Speaker Gully replied: "I submit myself to her Majesty's most gracious will and pleasure." Then followed an exchange of salutations between the Speaker and his party, bowing to the royal commission and lords assembled, who dignifiedly returned the salute. The Speaker and members of the House then withdrew. Upon his return to the House the Speaker rtired to his private rooms, where he donned his robes and wig. Reappearing in the House Mr. Gully took the Speaker's chair, and in a brief speech said that as her Majesty had signified her approval of himself to fill the office of Speaker, he took the opportunity to repeat his acknowledgments to the House for the honor done him.

borhood of this harassing wolf-plague.-

A Johannesburg correspondent sends a ghastly message concerning a series of fatalities at Waterton, whereby a resident lost his whole family in the space of an hour. Three children left the house to go to their father, a farmer, who was in a field near the house. The three put their hands in a crevice of the rocks to obtain birds' eggs. In this crevice was a deadly snake, which bit all the three. Two of them died before the third could get home to tell the mother what had happened. The mother, frantic with grief, tried to lift the third child on a horse to gallep for help. She pushed him too far; he fell over on the other side, fractured his skull and died instantly. The mother re-entered the house and found a fourth child had fallen into the bath and been drowned. The whole family died within one hour. -London Standard.

Ireland's Thrift. Ireland, if poor, is provident. "Oh, my dearie, don't you fash yourself," said Aunt Jacky, kissing her, and then wiping her own eyes. "She's just full of tantrums, and she'll get over them by and by. You come up to your own room, my bonnie lassie, and lay by your bonnet. Your good man's on the road, I'll warrant, and he'll soon set things to rights." Aunt Jacky had an immense admiration for Alan Mon-

She asked no questions, for she saw that Stella was near weeping, and affections gave her an unusual amount of tact. She went upstairs with her, and helped her to take off her walking things. 'Dinner is to be served at eight, and it is more than half-past seven now," she said. "Are you going to dress, my

"I suppose I had better. I don't know what I ought to do," said Stella. "Yes, I will wear my silver-grey dress, Aunt Jacky. I think that perpaps I ought—though I feel very anxious—and very—"

She did not conclude the sentence, and Aunt Jacky asked no questions.

"Wont you wear white, my dear? Surely you should look like a bride when your husband finds you in his home?"

"Oh, not to-night-not to-night," said Stella, hurriedly. There was nothing of oridal joyousness in her heart just then. As she was dressing, she heard the sound of wheels in the road outside, but the vehicle stopped at a side gate. From the footsteps that she afterwards distinguished upon the gravel, she guessed that her husband and companions entered the house by the door in the Tower. She waited for a little while but Mr. Moncrieff did not appear. Then she went to the drawing-room, and sat almost in silence with Aunt Jacky and Molly, until, at half-past eight, Alan came in and made a grave formal apology for his lateness. Ralph followed him, but Bertie did not appear. Molly began a questoin, but was stopped by a warning look from her uncle, It was plain that Bertie's existence was for the present to be ignored.

Stella's first dinner in her own home as a entire silence, except when his office forced him to speak. He looked white, old, and they always found it difficult to keep the peace. Molly spoke only in monosyllables. Stella felt obliged to throw herself into the breach, and try to make conversation, but she was not very successful in her efforts. Nobody seemed better able to eat than to speak; and every one was glad when the

Alan and his brother-in-law remained the dining-room for some time longer, while Stella talked a little to Miss Jacky, and tried to interest Molly in an account of her travels. But Molly refused to be interested. She sat stiffly in an upright chair, and looked at a book of photographs white Stella talked. But in spite of her stiffness and her sulkines Stella could not but notice how much she was improving in dress, manner. and appearance. Her visit to the Lawsons had done her good. She only wore a simple white frock, and a silver ornament or two, but there was a neatness and daintiness about her way of wearing them which differed from her habits of former days. Her hair no longer hung about her shoulders, but was gathered into loose, picturesque coils about her shapely head. Her complexion was more dazzling than ever, and her eyes seemed to have gained fire and softness. In short, Molly was on the highroad to becoming a beauty, if she was not one already. And as she sat in a high-backed chair, with the soft lamplight gleaming on her ruddy bronze hair and the white and roseate tints of her clear skin, Stella scarcely wondered to see her father stop short for a moment when he came into the room, as though her appearance had positively startled him. Indeed, she learned afterwards that Molly was growing wonderfully like her dead mother, and that the likeness had never struck him so much as it did just then.

Miss Jacky rose at the stroke of ten, and declared that she must go home. The carriage was soon at the door to convey the good old lady to the pretty cottage, which, in spite of all loneliness, she had declined to leave. Mr. Moncrieff had suggested that she should make Torresmuir her home, but he had refused to give up her independence. And she knew, besides, that Stella would take her proper place as mistress of the house more easily if she were not encumbered with an elderly maiden aunt. In everything Miss Jacky never failed to show her good sense.

When she was gone, Molly, with unlooked for temerity, faced her father defiantly in the drawing-room.

"I want to know, papa," she said, undis-mayed by Mr. Moncrieff's frown, "what is wrong with Bertie? I have been to his 500m, and he won't let me in. Is he ill?"

"I do not suppose that he is ill so much as suffering from the consequences of his own folly," said her father. His face was pale and set, his eyes looked hard as flint, from which, nevertheless fire was being struck. "You will leave him alone for the present, Molly. I do not wish you to go

"Why should I not go near him if he is il!" said Molly, holding her head high. It done once it will do again.

was wonderful to see how much courage she had gained since her father's second marriage and her visit to the Lawsons. Stella gave her an entreating look, but Molly would not heed. "Why not?"-Alan Moncrieff spoke with exceeding bitterness. "Because he has disgraced himself and us—publicly disgraced us, as I never thought a son of mine would do. Because he has chosen—not for the first time, I hear—to drink, and quarrel, and bet at a public bar, and to appear interior and in the public streets. That is intoxicated in the public streets. That is why you may not go to him; for until he has at least shown some signs of repentance and amendment, I desire that he be left to himself, and I forbid any one to go to his room save at my request."

Molly's color faded, and her lips began to tremble, but her eyes flashed.

"And so you want me to desert him!" she cried, in angry, faltering voice. "I don't care what he has done; he is my brother, and I love him. If you loved him, too, you would forgive him. But you don't care for us now; you only care for her"—pointing to the dismayed Stella—"and the sooner we leave you and get out of the way, the better you will be pleased."

And then Molly fairly burst into tears and rushed out of the room, which was perhaps the best thing that she could do, for her father's face was white with anger, and the frown on his brow would at any other time have carried consternation to Molly's heart. He would have followed her to the door, had Stella's hands not fallen pleadingly on

"Oh, Alan, don't mind! Her heart is very sore, poor child, and she does not know what she is saying. She will be sorry tomorrow; indeed she will."

Mr. Kingscot had left the room, and Stella, finding herself alone with her husband, was impelled to put her arm half round his neck, and to lay her head caress-ingly upon his breast. Alan could not have torn himself away from that gentle bondage without a struggle. After the first involuntary movement he did not try. He drew her closer to him, and pressed her Happke and Przeggoda, were indicted last December for having attacked with intent to kill or to grievously harm Alex. forehead with his lips. "You are the only comfort that I have left," he said. "It has been a sad homecoming for you, Stella. I pray God that life may yet brighten a little—for us both."

CHAPTER XVII.

But Alan Moncrieff's anger, hotly as it burned against the son who had disgraced, and the daughter who had defied him, died away into sadness and disappointment, which was much more lasting, and much more hard for those who loved him to endure. He was extremely shocked and did not drive up to the front door. It distressed to find that Bertie had taken many steps in a downward course which he had never dreamed that the lad was likely to tread at all. A few careful and confi dential inquiries in the town elicited the fact that Bertie was by no means as quiet and home-loving as his father had always credited him with being; that he was well known in various very questionable resorts, and that he had a great love for cards. Whether the gambling passion had yet been excited within him, Mr. Moncrieff found it acknowledged that he played for money, but only, he said, for small stakes. He had no debts; he did not care for betting; he married woman was one that she could When pressed to state what other fellows?" long, so dreary, so unspeakably uncomfort- able. When asked who first introduced him frequent, he at first refused to answer, and then said that nobody had introduced him; dejected. Miss Jacky and Ralph Kingscot he had sought these people of his own free had so great an aversion to each other that will. Mr. Moncrieff had scarcely any alternative but to believe him. And yet he was suspicious-of what, of whom, he could not exactly tell.

Stella's suspicions were much more definite. She firmly believed that Ralph Kingscot was at the bottom of Bertie's disgrace. But when she hinted this view of the case to her husband, she was met with an expression of cold displeasure which silenced her at once. Stella felt vaguely that Alan was mentally accusing her of jealousy, and of a mean desire to get his first wife's relative out of the house and she forebore to speak another word. But she was not convinced of Ralph's honor and

A Lady in Illinois Recovers Her Health in a Remarkable Manner.

ANNA, Ill., April 22.-There is no question at all as to the truth of Miss M. T. Loomis' recovery from a very serious state of bodily health through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Many of her friends have testified. since the publication of the dispatches re-lating to her case, to the absolute accuracy of the statements made. The various complaints from which she was said to be suffering at different times are found to have originated in a diseased condition of the kidneys, a distinct proof of which is the rapid manner in which they yielded to the influence of the pills. The remedy is becoming very generally and favorably known throughout this State.

SOME LICENSES CRANTED

By the Commissioners, for East Middlesex.

Action on the Pottersburg Applications Deferred for a Week-Successful Applicants.

The commissioners for the east riding of Middlesex have granted some of the tavern and beer and wine licenses for the season of 1895-96, which begins on May 1. The board met at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and took into their consideration the numerous applications which had been handed in.

Action for a week was deferred in the eases of James McKee, who wants a shop icense in London West; Messrs. Barnes, Cootes and McDonald, who ask for licenses in Pottersburg, and Mr. Byers, who wants a hotel license at Nilestown. All these were opposed at the commissioners' meeting in the morning. The following were granted:

WESTMINSTER. Charles N. Harris, Pipe Line road. John Charles, Belmont. Jane Mapson, Belmont. Henry Clay. Alonza Hall, Lambeth.

John Turnbull, Glanworth (beer and Odell, Glanworth (beer and wine).
