SHOE MACHINERY CO. AN ILLEGAL COMBINE

Tribunal, Appointed Under United Combines Act Decide Corporation's Business in Canada Is in Restraint of Trade

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Oct. 21. — The charge that the United Shoe Machinery Company is a combine in restraint of trade has been decided by the tribunal appointed under the combines act of Canada. The decision comes after a long struggle by the United Shoe Machinery Company to prevent the case going on. This is the first case under the combines act passed some years ago by the Laurier administration. It arose through a group of Quebec shoe manufacturers going before a local judge and declaring that the Shoe Machinery Company of Boston was a combine in restraint of trade. Holds All Patents. This company holds the patents upon the modern machinery necessary to make boots and shoes. It manufactures the machines which are used in all the factories of Canada and the United States. The company will not sell the machines, but only leases them and in that way retains control. When the Quebec judge declared that a prima facie case of combine had been made out, and ordered an investigation, the United Machinery Company appointed W. J. White, K. C., of Montreal, as its representative on the tribunal. The Quebec shoe maker who made the complaint named Mr. J. C. Walsh, of Montreal, as their member. These two selected Judge Laurendeau, of Montreal, as the third arbitrator. Last Appeal. The Boston company then endeavored to prevent the trial going on, and carried the case to the Privy Council, alleging lack of jurisdiction. They lost their appeal and the case went on. The Boston company, it now appears, is as much disappointed with the final finding, as their representative declared to sign with Judge Laurendeau and Mr. Walsh put in a minority report on behalf of the company. There is no appeal from a decision of the tribunal. The penalties are severe. The patents of the company may be cancelled in Canada, so anyone can make their machines. In addition, unless the company ceases restraining operations within ten days it is subject to a fine of $1,000 a day and to indictment. The precise terms of neither the minority nor majority reports have yet been made public.

ACCUSED WRONG LADY OF CHEATING AT BRIDGE PARTY

Anonymous Letter Writer Says Businessman's Wife Carries Her Own Punch.

BUT SHE HAS NOT PLAYED FOR YEARS Warning That Other Players Were "Onto Her" Evidently Intended for Someone Else.

The ramifications of bridge whist in London have caused the green-eyed monster to haunt many a heart in the drawing-room while the sweetest of smiles was playing over the features of the player. This season the first incident worthy of notice is the operation of an anonymous letter writer. This morning a well-known London business man, residing on Wellington street, brought to The Advertiser an unsigned letter which had been received by his wife. In the missive she was accused of having played bridge unfairly, it being alleged that she frequently left the room during the course of a game and punched points on her tally-card. The truth of the matter is that this lady has not attended a card party in several years, and has never won a prize.

The Unsigned Letter. The letter states in effect: "When you go out of the room, leave your tally-card behind, and your punch at hand, for your dishonesty is a well-known fact amongst the ladies of London. Everyone is talking and watching you, so you better leave off winning prizes for a bit. "A smile goes around when you leave the drawing-room. We say: 'There she goes with her punch.' "Some time ago there was an epidemic of this sort of thing. Some other ladies who are said to give some cause for suspicion received letters in this instance it is a case of mistaken identity, or the letter was sent to the wrong address. Bridge For Money. "It is true that much playing of bridge for money and prizes is prevalent in London," said a society lady today. "There are ladies who never miss a day without a few games, to keep in practice, if not to win prizes. Very bitter feelings have been stirred up, and in several instances some persons have been forbidden certain homes. It's a pity, because most of the ladies are merely seeking a little harmless recreation and are not out of the hall for gain. But a few are notorious in earnest, and have scores of bridge prizes adorning their parlor mantels. I think criticism is curing this 'evil,' however, as you will find that most women are insistent for fair play."

DEATH OF AUTHORESS Miss Geraldine Anthony Succumbs to a Long Illness. [Canadian Press.] New York, Oct. 21.—Miss Geraldine W. MAYOR CONVINCED THAT CITY PAYS TOO MUCH FOR LIGHT

Very Evident That Commissioners Are Not Making Money Out of Power and Domestic Lighting as They Are Out of Street Lighting.

ALD. RICHTER AGAIN ASSERTS CITY PAYS $100 A HORSEPOWER

"The report of the water commission on the electrical department shows that too much has been charged for street lighting. It is very evident that the commissioners are not making the money out of power and domestic lighting that they are out of street lighting." The above statement was made by Mayor Graham at noon today in discussing the report of General Manager Glaubitiz. He would make no further comment, but it was very evident that he was fully persuaded that Ald. Richter, in his criticism of the charge made for street lighting, was well within the mark. No word has been received as yet from the hydro-electric commission as to whether or not they will reopen the question and hear Ald. Richter's explanation of Engineer Gabey's report. His Mind Not Changed. "I have not changed my mind in the least on this question," Ald. Richter stated to The Advertiser. "I am convinced that I am right from a close scrutiny of Mr. Gabey's report, and if I wanted any further proof, the financial statement furnished by General Manager Glaubitiz certainly gives it. It is an easy matter to figure that the commissioners will make more money out of power they sell for $100 a horsepower as they do to us, than they would get out of power for which they set less than half. I think we have much the better of the argument."

EX-FIREMAN HELD AFTER A CARNIVAL OF FALSE ALARMS

Brigade Sent to the Four Winds on a Wild Goose Chase Saturday.

CHIEF AIKEN PURSUES AND CAPTURES MAN Spotted a Fireman's Cap in Carriage and Soon Had Culprit Behind Bars.

William Barry, who was on the staff of the central fire station until Saturday evening, when he was dismissed by Fire Chief Aitken for having made use of liquor while on duty, was arrested at midnight Saturday, and lodged in the Carling street police station on a technical charge of drunkenness, but in reality in connection with the sounding of four false alarms. Barry appeared before Police Magistrate Judd this morning, but was not arraigned. He was bailed to appear on Tuesday, Oct. 29, and will then answer a "mischief" charge. Barry's personal recognizance in the sum of $50 was satisfactory to the court. Crown Attorney McKillop will in the meantime consult with City Solicitor T. G. Meredith, as to whether the case should be prosecuted under the criminal code or as an offence against a city by-law. The culprit, for it is apparent that the same person was responsible in each instance, carefully selected the longest runs in pulling the fire alarm telegraph stations, and as a result of his actions the horses in the fire department are in very bad shape, and

NO MENTION MADE OF NAVY POLICY IN CALL TO HOUSE

The Official Proclamation Was Issued at the Capital This Morning.

MONK'S RESIGNATION SOME TIME TUESDAY

His Successor in the Cabinet Not Likely To Be Announced For Some Days.

[Canadian Press.] Ottawa, Oct. 21.—"For the dispatch of business, to treat, do, act and conclude upon the things which in our Parliament of Canada by common council of the said Dominion of Canada may be favor of God be ordained."

In the above terms a special issue of the Canada Gazette today specifies the reasons for calling Parliament on Nov. 21. The proclamation contains no mention of a naval act or an imperial emergency. It is couched in ordinary terms. Parliament this year will meet four days later than an autumn session was ever before started in the past.

DESIRE TO MEET GIRL UNDOING OF RINK PROMOTER

Louis Berlin Made London People Think He Was Going to Erect Arena.

MANY OF HIS CHECKS ALLEGED WORTHLESS.

Trapped By London Police After Operating Successfully in Toronto.

Louis Berlin, who attracted some attention here recently as the promoter of a scheme for the establishment of a new winter arena in London, at a cost of $35,000 or $40,000, was taken into custody on Saturday night by Detective-Sergeant Nickle and Detective Egelton, charged with having obtained money by fraud from various persons.

It is alleged that Berlin passed a large number of worthless checks in this city, and that he also pled his name in Toronto and other places. In this connection it is expected that information will be laid against him in the Queen City after his case is disposed of by Police Magistrate Judd here. Berlin appeared in the Carling street court this morning, but as the crown prosecutor was not ready to proceed, the matter was enlarged till Tuesday. The prisoner asked to be allowed bail, but his request was refused.

Nine Firms Took Checks. Some of the firms which are alleged to have taken Berlin's worthless paper are: W. H. Bishop, optician; Dicks & Sons, florists; Oak Hall, gentlemen's furnisiers; Norman W. Emerson, druggist; George H. O'Neil, proprietor of the Tecumseh House; Mrs. Walker, of the Welcher House; B. A. Mitchell & Co., druggists; A. H. Brewer, recently of the City Hotel, and Masor & Risch, pianos.

The amounts are said to range from $5 to $10, excepting in the case of the piano house, where a check for $100 was presented. Berlin did not succeed in getting the money in all cases. Each of the checks was drawn against an account which he opened in the Home Bank after coming to London. The account was soon overdrawn, but various merchants continued to present checks, which were rejected. No blame, of course, attaches to the bank. Operate in Toronto. According to information furnished to Crown Attorney McKillop and the detectives by a gentleman from Toronto this morning, Berlin appeared in that city after leaving London, and immediately commenced big business there.

The information furnished the police was from a prominent wholesale dry-goods merchant, from whom Berlin ordered silks worth about $1,500. He also negotiated for $900 worth of dry-goods from John McDonald & Co., there, and $500 or $600 worth from another firm. In addition it is said that he passed a check for $12.25 cents of which he had when arrested here.

It is apparent that Berlin's object in ordering the goods from the Toronto wholesalers was to obtain the invoices. While he gained nothing by his dealings, excepting in cashing the check for $15, the possession of the invoices from the big firms would give him prestige in carrying on negotiations with others.

EMINENT IN THEIR PROFESSION

DR. LLEWELLYN F. BARKER, head of the medical department of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Dr. Barker was born in Canada.

Dr. Llewellyn F. Barker, professor of medicine in Johns Hopkins University, and Dr. William Mayo, one of the celebrated Mayo Bros., surgeons, of Rochester, Minn., are guests today of the alumnae of the medical department of the Western University, and this afternoon are giving clinics at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. Dr. Barker arrived on Sunday, and was the guest of Dr. H. A. McCallum. Dr. Mayo arrived at noon today, and was met by Dr. Hadley Williams, Dr. Macgregor, Dr. John Wishart, Dr. J. P. Kennedy, of Wingiam, president of the alumnae, and others. He was taken at once to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he inspected the building. Dr. Barker in the meantime was driven about the city, to Byron, where he viewed the sanatorium.

Guests at Luncheon. At 1 o'clock the two distinguished visitors were the guests of Dr. McCallum and others at lunch at the London Club. A number of prominent medical men from the district, including Dr. Kennedy, Dr. Weir (Goderich), Dr. J. B. Martyn (Alvinston), Dr. Steed (London Hospital for the Insane), and many others, including the members of the staff of the university, were in attendance.

This is the first time either of the two visitors ever spent any length of time in London. Dr. Barker was delighted with the city, particularly its beautiful surroundings. City Pleases Dr. Barker. "This is the first time I had the opportunity of spending a few hours in London," said Dr. Barker. "I am delighted with the city. It is simply beautiful, I had a drive to the sanatorium, and I must say it is located in an excellent position. I was pleased with everything I saw." Dr. Barker has a good word for Dr. L. E. Rowntree, the brilliant young Londoner, who is doing research work at Johns Hopkins. He predicts a great future for him, and expects that some day he will make some discoveries of immense importance to the medical profession. Associated with Dr. Barker are several other Canadians. Dr. Cullen, among them, all doing excellent work in the university. Dr. William Mayo is a keen, clean-cut medical man, with an international reputation as a surgeon. His specialty is abdominal surgery, and he has achieved wonderful results in this department of medicine. Several Londoners attribute their present good health to his skill. Eminent Profession. "We are fortunate in securing men of the calibre of Dr. Barker and Dr. Mayo," declared a physician. "They are outstanding men in the profession on the continent, and the sessions this afternoon are certain to be profitable and pleasant." This evening a smoker will be held in Hyman Hall, at which the visiting medical men will be the guests of the local physicians.

At Last They Have Sent a Harry Lauder Imitator to Jail

William Downey, who has constituted himself entertainer to the people of London, and whose Harry Lauder imitations have attracted some attention to him about the streets of the city recently, came to the Carling street police station to observe the usual Monday morning festivities, and was promptly lodged in the cells, charged with being intoxicated.

Thus it happened that one of those who came to gape remained to pay. Downey was sent down to the cells, and enlivened matters for all within earshot by his solo work.

WINNIPEG MAGISTRATE ATTACKS TWO LAWYERS

A Scandalous Scene in Court Over the Macdonald By-Election Case—Counsel Jailed By Enraged Magistrate and One of Them Roughly Handled.

Winnipeg, Oct. 20.—The Macdonald by-election continues to live up to its reputation as champion trouble-producer. In Magistrate McMicken's provincial police court on Saturday it was responsible for another scandalous outbreak by the magistrate, which wound up in a fight between the magistrate and Mr. W. H. Trueman, and the arrest of Trueman and Mr. E. J. McMurray, another Liberal lawyer, on charges of assault and attempted stealing of a court document. When the magistrate cooled off later the two lawyers then in detention were liberated on their own recognizances to appear in the city police court on Friday, but it is already apparent that every possible influence will be brought to bear to smooth the whole matter over and keep it out of court. The scene in the provincial police court was so scandalously disgraceful and humiliating as to cause a veritable sensation in the city, and leading Conservatives are now foremost in insisting that something should be done to put an end to the possibility of any repetition.

Disgraceful Scene.
Not the least exciting incident of the session came when the magistrate attempted to clear the room single-handed, after constables present had practically refused to obey his orders to eject everyone in sight. After storming about for several minutes, the magistrate approached Mr. Hugh Mackenzie, the lawyer, who is a leading figure in the proceedings against McMicken himself in connection with the illegal trial of contested election, and ordered him to leave. After several times ordering Mackenzie from the room, Mackenzie standing his ground, as he had been asked by Mr. Trueman to act for him in the matter of his arrest, the magistrate grasped a chair, and lifting it in the air, said: "You get out of here; if you don't I will hit you on the head with this chair." There was a rush of constables and the magistrate was hauled away into his private office. He emerged a moment later and started the ejectment proceedings again, winding up by pushing a newspaper reporter through the door and locking it.

How It Started.
It all arose over the case of Mr. J. J. Sullivan, of Melville, Sask., who was arrested in Carman during the election campaign. His case was set for adjourned hearing on Saturday morning, and when the name of W. H. Trueman, representing Sullivan, was asked for a formal discharge after the magistrate had stated that there was no case before him, it having been withdrawn. The magistrate refused to give any discharge on to consider the case in any way, and claimed that it was on the docket only through an error of the court clerk. In strange contradiction of this statement, he had all the papers of the Sullivan case on the desk before him, and when the information was demanded he immediately produced it and handed it over to Mr. Trueman.

When Mr. Trueman began to ask some embarrassing questions McMicken refused to give any answers because the case had been disposed of, and angrily demanded the information back. Mr. Trueman said he wanted a copy of it, and the magistrate, in a huff, left the bench, saying that he would retire to his room and that court was over. Apparently changing his mind after leaving his chair, he charged across the room at Mr. Trueman, attempting to snatch the document from his hand. Trueman evaded him, and the enraged magistrate used such terms as "dirty thief," "low-down blackguard," "you the-lived beasts." These remarks were directed both at Messrs. Trueman and McMurray, who was watching the case for Trueman, who made a move to interfere when Trueman was threatened with actual bodily injury.

The magistrate's call for help from attending constables was without response, although the regular provincial constables were present, David Bowen, a C. P. R. constable present on another case, and an automobile inspector, McNamee, who is a special constable, now, quickly came to the aid of the magistrate, and they gave Mr. Trueman some rough handling before they succeeded in making him give the document back. The scene continued for nearly an hour, and caused tremendous excitement in the building.

During the excitement Magistrate McMicken called on the constables to take both Mr. Trueman and McMurray to jail. "Take them to jail for ten days, I'll show them where they ought to be," he cried, but no constable moved.

No disposition was made of the Sullivan case, and Mr. Sullivan is still without the formal certificate of discharge, which his counsel demanded. As it now is, no one knows how the case stands. The magistrate posthumously refused to give any official notice on his books of the withdrawal of the case. Mr. Sullivan, who left again for his Saskatchewan home on Saturday night, intimated that he proposes to fight the case until he gets his formal discharge. The case against Captain William B. Sifton, of Minotons, arrested at St. Laurent, is in the same condition, and Captain Sifton is now awaiting a formal disposition and discharge.

PANAMA CANAL NOT A DANGEROUS ISSUE

Ambassador Bryce Starts Diplomatic Discussions on Matter at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Ambassador Bryce, who has just returned to Washington after an absence of several months, called at the state department yesterday in connection with the controversy between the United States and Great Britain regarding Panama Canal tolls. His call at the department yesterday practically inaugurated a series of diplomatic discussions which will continue between the two governments until the matter is settled.

Officials here who are fully cognizant of all that has passed between the United States and Great Britain on the subject are of the opinion that the Panama Canal controversy is no longer a dangerous issue between the two nations. While no hint is obtainable as to the manner in which settlement is to be brought about, together with confidence is expressed that an amicable adjustment will be reached.

It is understood that there will not be any formal communication from the British Government other than what has already been received. Discussions between Ambassador Bryce and the state department will form the basis of the negotiations to be carried on. It is not believed here that there is any danger of Great Britain pressing the matter to arbitration despite the fact that she has already hinted that such will be her course in case of a continued disagreement on the question of the Panama tolls.

It is believed the ultimate solution of the problem will be an indirect one. There are other important matters pending between the United States and Great Britain, and it has been suggested that all taken together will afford a better basis for negotiation than would be the case in an endeavor to settle the canal question by itself.

Don't Be Fussy About Eating

Your Stomach Will Digest Any Kind of Food When Given the Proper Assistance.
We are prone to fall into the error of singling out some article of food and soundly berating the fend who first invented the dish. The habit grows with some people till almost all food is put on the blacklist. This is all wrong. What is required is a little assistance with those agencies upon which scientific students for many years have set their seal of approval because they have become reliable, dependable and worthy of confidence, just as the president of a big bank puts his O. K. on a depositor's check. And so you can eat what you want, whatever you like, knowing well that should indigestion, sour risings, gas formations, fermentations or any other stomach distress arise, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in a few moments will put you in a quiet, contented, breath, heartburn, belchings, flatulence, bloating—all the symptoms of indigestion, disappear. But they have brought relief to more sufferers from digestive diseases than all the patent medicines and doctor's prescriptions put together.

London wholesale markets are actively engaged in sorting trade, especially in groceries and drygoods.

Prominent Irishmen Would Decide Home Rule by referendum.

They have issued a circular expressing the view that the present home rule bill cannot effect a permanent settlement of the question, and pointing out their reasons for this view, including some points which they think will impede the progress of Ireland.

EAST MIDDLESEX AND THE TEMPERANCE ISSUE.

The East Middlesex elector who wants to strike a blow at the barroom, need have no hesitation in making a choice at the polls on Monday next.

The election of Mr. Neely would rejoice the interests that profit by the barroom.

The election of Mr. Sutherland would give the barroom notice to quit.

The Provincial Government, by means of the three-fifths clause, three years ago, saved all the barrooms now open in the riding. The license commissioners of the riding, the officials of the Whitney Government, only this year renewed at least two licenses which every reputable citizen, whatever his views on the temperance question, wished to see cut off.

The election of Mr. Neely would be an expression of approval of the three-fifths clause and of the conduct of the license commissioners of the riding. It would stiffen the Government's resolve to stand by the present license system, and would strengthen the alliance between the Government and "the trade."

Mr. Neely will have the entire support of the liquor interests. Mr. Sutherland will have their enmity. Mr. Neely, if elected, will go to the Legislature pledged to vote against a resolution to banish the bar from every municipality in the province. Mr. Sutherland, if elected, will go to the Legislature pledged to support such a resolution. The issue could not be clearer.

THE SCHOOLS AND THE SOIL.

The satisfaction reflected in Mr. McCready's letter defending the rural education policy of the Ontario Government is one of the very things that Dr. Pym's critics complain of. And if his officers thus report that all is well, it is not likely that he will be stimulated to improvement or to take advice from non-political critics.

Readers of the Farmers' Advocate know that reforms urged in its columns have received no attention. The horticulturalists appointed a committee to advise the department about the time the new readers were being planned, but there is no evidence that the committee was ever consulted or if consulted that any attention was paid to it. The one thing conspicuously absent from Mr. McCready's letter, amidst the statements of his personal beliefs and official trumpetings of progress being made, is any specific example of this progress. Certainly nothing was done to adapt the reading lessons to the needs of rural schools. Though the Farmers' Advocate and others have urged for such a reform, Mr. McCready, who is director of elementary agricultural education, raises a considerable cry for "help" from "everybody." But when competent specialists offer the help of their suggestions, they are met with contemptuous inattention by the Pym-Seath bureau. As but such respect is paid to the advocates of any special interest as is accorded to the "advisory council," which is supposed to represent to the department the views of the teaching profession.

It was hoped that in the new school readers there would be many lessons calling up the "catland, horticultural, stocking, industrial and commercial interests of the Dominion and of Ontario in particular. Instead of such lessons, the readers seem to have been compiled, from frontispiece to finish, to please the Denissons and Hughes than to suit the people of rural Ontario.

The simple explanation is that the Government at Toronto is undemocratic. The idea of democracy is against that of aristocracy in that all sorts of men shall be given a voice in government. It may be that Mr. Seath is more expert generally in education than a delegation of intelligent farmers, but he does not know their needs in detail as well as they do. On the aristocratic or bureaucratic theory, however, he refuses to listen to them. Because he knows something about high schools, he contemns the voice of public school teachers about their own work. Because he has studied up in administrative theory, he sets at naught the practical counsels of the advisory council. He and one or two others at Toronto profess to know all and are above taking advice from the spokesmen of the many special interests. And Dr. Pym is their registrar.

They are striving hard, says Mr. McCready. Their striving sometimes looks like that of a captive squirrel on its exercising tread-mill. Mr. McCready is a little afraid of being thought to express "stupid optimism." Through him speaks the Government, with much self-praise, with Whitney-esque flourish, without thought of any real benefit. It is a Government that will not take expert advice and yet affects to ask for help!

is pleasing to see Mr. McCready's zeal, but all his undoubted talents are turned into a machine that is out of date.

DR. COLERIDGE'S MISREPRESENTATION.

Dr. Coleridge, of Ingersoll, who is drumming for Mr. Neely, is ill-informed, or he is not careful in his statement of facts. His assertion that Mr. Rowell favors a single tax measure is grotesquely misleading. Mr. Rowell's bill merely asks that the ratepayers of any municipality, rural or urban, be permitted to say whether they shall wholly or partly exempt buildings from taxation.

The single tax theory implies the abolition of the private ownership of land, and the raising of all public revenue—federal, provincial and municipal—by a single tax on land values. To say that this sweeping change, which would revolutionize the present economic system, is identical with the partial or complete exemption of houses and barns from municipal taxes, is to insult any man with an ounce of brains. Dr. Coleridge puts a low estimate on the intelligence of East Middlesex farmers.

In Manitoba the farmers prefer to have all municipal taxes assessed on their land instead of the land and buildings combined. Many of the municipalities of Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia—Edmonton and Vancouver among them—have adopted this plan. In Ontario no one proposes to force it on any community. Mr. Rowell's bill merely asked that each municipality be empowered to do as it pleases. The parent of the proposal in the Legislature was Mr. Frupp, a Conservative, now member for Ottawa in the House of Commons. Its leading newspaper advocate is a Conservative, Mr. Wilson Southam, of the Ottawa Citizen. It is not a party proposal, except that Sir James Whitney, almost alone on his own side, obstinately stands in the way.

Mr. Duff, the statesman, gave an improving address to a respectful gathering at Dorchester the other day. In his solid presence, Liberalism became an hypothesis, a myth.

There was the sense of governmental fixity in his bearing, as he tempered his mind to the stalwarts. Security to the verge of lethargy seemed his. With Whitney and the rest he sits at ease, serene, walled up on Olympus. This puny Rowell, with his scaling ladder of Temperance, is "not fit to be premier," he said.

A sample of wisdom! I ask you in all sincerity, if you recall any public man who achieved greatness playing the role of Independent? Shades of Chatham and Peel! They must, after all, have been partisans through thick and thin, like Mr. Duff, and the world has done them some wrong. Mr. Duff helps us to read our history anew. There is no danger of his ever being anything but a faithful dependent himself, that much is certain. You can always be sure of Duff. Some men plow a lonely furrow. Not he! He follows the camp with that strong loyalty which is the better part of wisdom as well as the safest self-interest. And thinking, capacity, effort, service, are nothing to wisdom, anybody knows.

It was splendid of Mr. Duff to come and see and speak to a few of his people. They were able to perceive his full size and weight.

Manitoba politics is badly in need of chloride of lime.

Messrs. Nantel and Pelletier have still both feet in the trough.

Magistrate McMicken is merely an understudy of Premier Roblin.

Is there any doubt as to which side the barroom is fighting for in East Middlesex?

The Ottawa Government will launch its naval policy as soon as it can get the German peril aboard.

The farmers of East Middlesex have a chance to see in Hon. James Duff the prize pumpkin of provincial politics.

The license commissioners could not have renewed those two licenses in London Township if Mr. Neely had objected.

The Turkish prime minister appeals to Britain for aid, but John Bull is not likely to put his money on that horse again.

The Toronto Telegram calls it the Laurier-Monk-Bourassa alliance. We haven't heard that Monk and Bourassa had declared for the Laurier policy, but perhaps the Telegram hasn't heard, either.

Kipling has taken the political platform—and for Sir Max Aitken of all men! If Rudyard's political oratory is no higher plane than his political poetry, the readers of "The Jungle Book" and "Soldiers Three" may well weep.

Our local contemporary abuses Ald. Richter, one of the most useful and competent men that ever sat in the City Council. Ald. Richter's offence is the exposure of the hydro-electric commission's juggling of figures. That is the unpardonable sin, in the eyes of Mr. Beck and his henchmen.

apt others down. Our rustics are more judicious, more irresponsible, less thrifty, less soberly, less patriotic than if they had been born possessing of Slavaria or Bulgaria. And the only other thing to be said about it is that we need not talk of destroying the true square; because, for some inconceivable reason, he has destroyed himself. The worst possible thing that happened to the square was some, but the squariness remains; and it is maintained, has the seat of the harvest, by a much more offensive animal.

IT HELPED HIM. [Chicago Tribune.] Having the consolation of a bull moose is a great help.

THE GREAT ISSUE. [Toronto Globe.] The greatest issue in Ontario politics is the car or the dog. Whom shall we save?

IN DARKEST MANITOBA. [Winnipeg Tribune.] The freeman's blood is something for which the red blood of braves flowed during centuries, and yet right here in Manitoba the very charter of British liberty was assaulted and trampled in the dust. Just what the outcome will be it is difficult to determine. Whether the sons of Britain who have witnessed the unhalloved desecration of the ark of British liberty fight in their midst will supernally permit the conduct of the violators, led by Sir Rodmond himself, to pass without proper punishment, is a problem which the near future must solve. For an opposition to win against such methods as were practiced would be a miracle, and the age of miracles is past. Reports from the county indicate an omen, the like of which has rarely been witnessed in any free country. The forces of privilege went forth with the slogan that they just had to win, and nothing was too daring, nothing too unscrupulous, nothing too contemptible to do.

FOLLOWED INSTRUCTIONS. [Housekeeper.] "You're a nice one," said the street car conductor to the man from the country; "if you saw that fellow pick that gentleman's pocket why didn't you interfere and not let him get away?"

"Waah," said Reuben, "I pick what I sight up there, 'Beware of Pickpockets,' and 'Gosh I didn't do it.'"

PLACES TO VISIT. [Louisville Courier-Journal.] "Tell me about Venice." "Good postcards there." "Constantinople, I've never been to." "No postcards there." "And Paris?" "Elegant postcards there."

WHY NOT. [Louisville Courier-Journal.] "I'm feeling well today, my mind is at ease and my business is good." "Why are you going around telling people that?" "Well, we always put up a holler when things go wrong. Why shouldn't we occasionally admit that things are going right?"

THE COMEBACK. [Dublin Express.] An Irishman, passing a shop where a notice was displayed saying that everything was sold by the yard, thought he would play a joke on the shopman, so he entered the shop and asked for a yard of milk.

The shopman, not in the least taken aback, dipped his fingers in a bowl and drew a line a yard long on the counter. Pat, not wishing to be caught in his own trap, said the price, "sixpence," said the shopman.

"All right, sorr," said Pat. "Roll it up; I'd take it."

UNGRATEFUL QUEST. [Judge.] Brown—"So you went Sunday with the Subbys, eh? How far is their house from the station?" Towne—"About two miles, as the dust flies!"

WHY SHE BROKE WINDOWS. [London Daily News-Leader.] Charged at Marybone yesterday with breaking two plate-glass windows at the Hercules public-house in Ashmill street, Kate Beckett, a young girl of 17, indignantly declared that the prosecutor encouraged her husband there every day so play dominoes for beer.

Mr. Plowden—"But what do you say to breaking his windows?" "I ought to have all the lot broken for encouraging a married man with a wife and four children to go there, and taking all his money, which ought to come to me."

Mr. Plowden ordered the woman to pay a fine of 5s and the amount of the damage (£2), but added that he was not surprised that she broke windows.

HIS POSITION. [Chicago Tribune.] "Mrs. Jips, I think I have heard you say you have a cousin in the regular army. He is an officer, I presume?" "Yes; he holds some responsible position, but he isn't exactly long the name of it. When he wrote to me last he said he was in the guardhouse—whatever that is."

VARIEGATED. [Plebeian Blatter.] Post's Wife—"All these red books contain poems by my husband." Maid—"How lovely! And does he write in other colors as well?"

EASY. [Judge's Library.] Tommy's Mama—"Why aren't you a good little boy like Willie Bijones?" Tommy—"Hub! It's easy enough for him to be good. He's sick most of the time."

CHRISTMAS HUNGER! [London Daily News-Leader.] Miss Mary Gawthorpe intends, if during the forthcoming season, "the women's suffrage cause is betrayed," to initiate a women's great hunger strike throughout Great Britain.

It would commence at midnight on Dec. 25. To women who agree with her she makes an immediate appeal.

"Letters," she writes, "will not be welcomed, nor long messages of any description. The ideal postcard will bear the pledge 'I promise' at the head, followed by the volunteer's full name and address, and the distinguishing initials of the women's organization, if any, to which the volunteer belongs. The postcard should be addressed to me at Penn P. O., Bucks. In the event of a hunger strike of genuine national dimensions being promised, I undertake to forward the pledges, which will be classified on arrival to the central offices of the respective societies; and I should be both willing and glad to fall into line as one of many if the women's organizations take up the idea."

TOOK GOOD ADVICE. [Ottawa Free Press.] The fact that the bullet first hit the manuscript of Col. Roosevelt's speech probably saved his life. We newspapermen always did advise public men to write out their speeches beforehand.

Winter's Terrors In the Old Days

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The other day we were reminded of the approach of winter by the visit of a marauding party of steam-fitters to the house next door. There are some hockey enthusiasts in Canada who rejoice at the decrease of summer and long for ice and snow. But I imagine that the majority of people in northern latitudes heave a sigh of regret when even such a dismal summer as that of 1912 doth hasten into the dark abyss of time. But if we grow sad at the thought of coal bills, fur coats and assiduous attentions to eccentric furnaces, let us comfort ourselves with the thought that we moderns are a hundred times better prepared to hibernate than were our ancestors. When we search mediæval literature, we discover that our forbears ardently hated winter, night, forests, and mountains.

In Chaucer's day, for instance, men looked forward to winter with positive dread. For few were the comforts of home in the middle ages. There were few stone houses; most of them were made of timber and plaster. Only the better sort of house had two chambers, and the walls were so full of chinks that special legislation had to be devised against "the listeners at the eaves." The heating system was very primitive. In most houses the smoke went up through a hole in the roof and even where a chimney did exist, it was only a funnel-shaped affair of bath and plaster. Draughts swept incessantly through the house, hence the use of high-backed chairs and furs. Furs have indeed an important place in mediæval literature, for they were more in demand for inside than for outside use. The king, himself, amid the splendors of the palace, was glad enough to wrap his ermine robe closer around him on frosty days.

Living under such conditions, in smoky, draughty houses, no wonder the men of the middle ages hated winter. Scribbled on the leaf of a Psalm-book in the Bodleian is a fragment of a song written probably about 1225. It expresses the mediæval dread of winter in lines full of pathos:

Mirre it is while sumer last With fughles song; (birds) Oc nu necheth windes blast (But now neareth)

And wedder strong, (storm) El, el, what this night is long! And ich with wel miche wrong, (Sorrow and murre and fast, (Sorrow.)

But we can best estimate the mediæval hatred of winter by the enthusiastic welcome to spring, which is perhaps the dominant note in the middle English lyric.

One of the very earliest English lyrics with music is the beautiful song:

Sumer is I'cumen in, Lhude sing cucu; (loud) Groweth sed and bloweth med, And springeth the wide nu. (wood now.)

Chaucer's famous opening line of the Prologue is almost equaled by his rondo beginning—

Now welcome sumer, with thy sonne soft, Thou hast this wintres weders overshake, And driven away the lounge nightes blake!

The long, black nights of winter filled the mediæval mind with terror. In fact, night in any season of the year was unwelcome. Today we grow poetic as we gaze upon a sunset, but there was no fun made over the glory in the western sky in earlier times.

"Wherefore is the sun red at evening?" is a question in the Master of Oxford's Catechism, a work of the fifteenth century. And the answer is almost startling to the modern aesthete—"The sun is red, for he goeth toward hell." The sunset meant the coming of night, and night was hell. How far we have come along the path of comfort in this hydro-electric age is better realized when we remember that a tallow candle in the 14th century cost four times its weight in beefsteak; wax was so costly that it was reserved for the service of the saints. Common folk had to go to bed early and were tortured all night by the vermin which flourished even in king's houses. No wonder, then, that all the mediæval poets praised their gladdest strains in praise of the sunrise. During the last few centuries the sunrise and sunset have changed places in poetry. Few moderns ever see, or ever want to see, the sunrise, but the sunset is extremely popular. Let us be thankful that night and winter have been robbed of their terrors by the electrician and the plumber!

CLASSED AS MIEDIOCRE. [Washington, Oct. 21.]—Books such as those by Oliver Optic and Alger, which parents of a quarter century ago advocated to their children as suitable reading have been placed in the "horrible example" class by the district public library commission. The tales and romances that delighted children of two decades ago and more, have been classed as "undesirable," along with five-cent novels of the "penny dreadful" type. The commission bases its condemnation of the old-time children's classics on the ground of mediocrity, and not by reason of any viciousness.

SERB REGIMENT WAS WIPED OUT BY A TURK MINE

Force of the Allied Armies Reported as Virtually Annihilated.

SULTAN'S WARSHIPS BOMBARD VARNA

Shelling of Bulgarian Black Sea Port Said To Be Breach of Mediterranean Law.

[Canadian Press.] London, Oct. 21.—The Seventh Regiment of Serbian Infantry is reported to have been virtually exterminated by the explosion of Turkish land mines after crossing the frontier into the district of Novipazar, according to a news agency dispatch from Belgrade.

Left Their Colors. Belgrade, Oct. 21.—A Serbian column captured the Turkish entrenchments at the village of Podujevo, near Mitroviza, on the road to Prishtina. During the night the Serbians were commanded by General Jankovitch.

The Turks, with their Arnaut auxiliaries, retired toward the south, leaving their colors, several cases of ammunition, eight oxen and a large quantity of forage.

Turkish prisoners, taken by the Serbians, declare that there were no regular Turkish troops engaged. The Ottoman force at Podujevo consisting of two provisional regiments of reserves and six companies of Arnaut brigades, besides three batteries of artillery.

No details are given as to the casualties.

Harmless Shelling. London, Oct. 21.—The Turkish warship, captured by the Serbians, was without effect, says a Sofia dispatch to the Times. Two Bulgarian torpedo boats then issued from the harbor and engaged the Turkish squadron, one ship of which withdrew.

It is believed that she was struck by a torpedo, but not seriously damaged. Eventually the Turks proceeded to Batkitch, 25 miles to the north, where they indulged in another harmless bombardment. They then returned to Varna, but kept at a respectable distance, apparently fearing mine.

At nightfall the Bulgarian torpedo boats came out again, but no engagement was reported during the night. The Turkish squadron was still at Varna on Sunday, but did not open fire.

Looks to England. Another dispatch to the Times says that a Bulgarian column from Koesel captured Dzhambalia, Mahomina and Bankso, in the Razlog district, without resistance. Several villages were burned by the retreating Turks.

The Constantinople correspondent of the Times says the highest authority has reached the Porte concerning the sincerity of the powers.

"This," adds the correspondent, "intensifies the anxiety caused by King Ferdinand's appeal to religious sentimentality. Amid the shadows of a European intervention, Turkey puts her faith in England alone to save her from treacherous manoeuvres."

Expect Intervention. Sofia, Oct. 21.—Owing to the proximity of the Turkish set the Government has ordered that the light of the Varna lighthouse be extinguished.

The newspapers declare that the Turkish bombardment of Varna was contrary to international law, and the Hague convention, because the Black Sea is neutral water. They declare also that the Bulgarian Government expects the powers to intervene.

The semi-official Mr. asserts that the powers are negotiating with a view to establishing the neutrality of the Black Sea. There is an unconfirmed report that the Turks have evacuated the outer lines of fortifications around Adrianople.

London, Oct. 21.—Three, and perhaps four, big battles will probably be begun within a few hours on the territory of European Turkey. The armies of the Balkan allies have advanced toward the frontiers on all sides while the Turks, as their opponents advance, are giving up their frontier posts and abandoning small and unimportant towns, falling back slowly until their strongly entrenched positions around which will be fought the principal struggles of the war.

Bulgars to Strike. The Bulgarian army will, it is thought, probably be the first to strike, for at their objective point, the fortress of Adrianople, the main Turkish army is rapidly growing in strength, and with time will outgrow that of the invaders.

Rumors have been current today that two of the outer forts of Adrianople have fallen into the Bulgarians' hands, but these must be taken with reserve in the same way as the report of the capture of the town of Kirk-Killsse, of which there is no confirmation.

The Serbian armies have made some progress in their advance toward Prishtina and Uskup. They have taken a few more small villages but little opposition. The Serbian army operating in the district of Novipazar also reports some progress.

On the other side of Novipazar, near the Montenegrin frontier, both the Turks and the Montenegrins claim successes in slight skirmishes. The Montenegrins, however, have advanced no farther toward Skutari.

The Greek army is resting after its capture of the Turkish town of Elason and preparing for the more strenuous task of tackling the Turkish army of 40,000 men concentrated at the town of Servia, a little to the north.

The grimest fighting of the war is likely to occur out of sight of the main armies, as some 4,000 Albanians are arming, and Greek and Bulgarian hands have taken to the hills, where they will engage in guerrilla warfare.

The navies of Greece and Turkey appear thus far to have contented themselves with blockading operations.

"TEMPERANCE" HOUSE RAIDED AT KOMOKA

A. D. Graham Fined $100. After Visit of Provincial Officer.

Allan D. Graham, proprietor of a supposed temperance house at Komoka, which village is in the local option township of Lobo, was fined $100 and costs by Police Magistrate Joseph C. Judd and County Magistrate Henry Macklin, when he pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of keeping liquor for sale without a license.

Graham's hotel was raided on Saturday night by Provincial Inspector Morrison, of Toronto, who was assisted by County Constable Sadler, Local Inspector R. A. Galpin co-operated also.

The provincial officer visited Komoka on Saturday evening and found seven or eight men lined up in a bar room drinking alcoholic beverages in the "temperance" hotel. The charge was accordingly laid before Squire Macklin and Mr. Judd, who is also a justice of the peace for Middlesex County. Graham appeared at the Carling street court this morning at the conclusion of the regular police session and pleaded guilty.

As this is his first conviction the minimum fine of $100 was imposed.

YOUTHFUL CRIMINALS ALARM FRENCH

Thirty-Six Per Cent of All Accused in Courts Are Minors.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Juvenile crime is increasing in an alarming way in France, according to the recently published statistics of the courts of justice for 1910.

Some 36 per cent of all persons accused of crime are minors. A similar tendency has been observed in England and Germany, and the question is recalled the serious thought of criminologists.

A second revelation of the tables is the remarkable preponderance of half-educated persons among the criminals, and among the uneducated ones. The well or fairly well educated contribute about half as many culprits as do the totally uneducated.

One almost educated that all but a trifling number of wrongdoers spring.

At present not far from half a million cases are brought before the lower police courts in a year. It appears that criminality of a serious character has shown practically no change for the past ten years.

Crimes against property have decreased notably in number, the result, it is said, of the exceptional severity with which such matters are treated, not only by judges, but by juries.

The same can scarcely be said for crimes of violence against persons, French juries in particular being still very ready to award sentences of death in the case of passion temptation and so on, invariably put forward by accused persons.

VENEZUELAN STARVING

Correspondent of New York Paper Writes of Terrible Conditions.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Oct. 21.—Conditions of extreme poverty and privation in Venezuela are described in a letter written from Caracas by a correspondent of the Tribune. In the state of Trujillo, more than six persons have died of starvation during the past season, it is said.

"The bodies of an entire family were found in one house—starved to death," the letter continues. "An almost incredible consequence of the pangs of hunger was the killing of a baby by his two older brothers when they roasted the body and ate it."

Which the correspondent claims is placed upon political conditions, which have led to neglect of agriculture.

The report of the social reform committee of the Baptist Church of Ontario and Quebec was the principal feature of the Saturday morning session of the convention. Progress was noted, and it is likely that an appointment of an official with Dominion-wide duties will be made to fight the white slave traffic. The proposal was favored by several delegates who took part in the discussion. The convention concludes on Tuesday.

CHAMPION DRY FARMER IS MORMAN FROM UTAH

Alberta Wheat Grower Carries Off Sweepstakes at Lethbridge.

Lethbridge, Alta., Oct. 21.—Western Canadian farmers have made a good showing at the Dry Farming Congress. The first half of the prize list has been published. H. Holmes, of Raymond, Alta., has captured the $25,000 prize open to the world for the best bushel of hard wheat, and out of 46, who either won prizes or were "favorably mentioned" for their wheat, barely one out of 40 were Canadian farmers.

Speaking of his success, Mr. Holmes said that it was a noticeable feature of his experience, that the wheat with which he won the highest prize was to some kind that which Searge Wheeler, whose name he had treated as his own, had won the world's championship. Incidentally it was Wheeler's success at New York which caused him (Holmes) to choose Marquis wheat for his attempt at cultivation for the prize. Some of the seed came from Magrath, some from MacLeod, some from the Provincial seed show at Calgary, some from Winnipeg, and some from himself.

"It was all sown in the same field," said Holmes, "and sown deeply. This deep sowing, I believe, was the cause of its success. The first bush brought in thirty-three bushels to the acre."

The champion dry farmer is a Mormon who joined the trek from Utah to Southern Alberta in 1890.

MAGISTRATE JUDD HIS OWN WITNESS

Agnes Ivey's Story of Cruelty Didn't Move Him a Little Bit.

Agnes Ivey, a lady who is on the Indian list, prepared a nice explanation for her arrest at the corner of King and Richmond at acts on Saturday afternoon, and related a story that would have excited the sympathy of the magistrato under other circumstances. She alleged that the officer who arrested her treated her cruelly. It so happened, however, that the magistrate had been on the street at the time and had witnessed the whole affair. As Agnes insisted on an adjournment before she learned that the magistrate knew something of the occurrence the court also insisted on giving her what she wanted. Her case will accordingly be dealt with tomorrow morning.

Frank Budd, a colored gentleman, whose name is also on the Indian list, should have answered a summons, but failed to come through, when a warrant was called. A warrant for his arrest was therefore issued.

A large number of drunks were before the court. A couple had shown various kinds of disorderliness, and were taxed above the usual schedule.

Cornering the Pumpkin Pie Crop

WITH OR WITHOUT EGGS—THREE WAYS TO MAKE PUMPKIN PIE.

Here are three special PUMPKIN PIE recipes. The first calls for ONE egg a pie; the second for THREE eggs a pie; and the third, NONE. The variety is given so that a choice may be made to suit individual cases and occasions.

One-Egg Pie.

For three pies. One quart of milk, three cups of oil and strained pumpkin, one and one-half cups of sugar, one-half cup of molasses, the yolks and whites of three eggs, beaten separately, a little salt, one tablespoonful each of ginger and cinnamon. Beat altogether and bake with an undercrust.

Three-Eggs Pie.

One quart of stewed pumpkin, pressed through a sieve; 9 eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately; 2 scant cups of milk; 1 teaspoonful of mace; 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon and the same of nutmeg; 11-2 cups of white sugar, or very light brown. Beat all well together and take in crust without cover. This will make three pies.

Pumpkin Pie Without Eggs.

One quart of properly stewed pumpkin, pressed through a colander; brown sugar, a tablespoonful of molasses, or to moisten it enough to fill two good-sized earthen pie plates, a teaspoonful of salt, half a cupful of molasses, or brown sugar, a tablespoonful of ginger, 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon, or nutmeg. Bake in a moderately slow oven three-quarters of an hour.

Girls Who Read "Cynthia Grey" Tell What Manner of Man They Admire Most

Mustn't Be Too Stuck-Up or "Soft"—One Maid Requires a Man With a "Soul."

"Blue Bill" wrote Miss Grey a very touching letter the other day, complaining that although he always tried to treat the girls nicely, he wasn't popular. In answer to his query, "What kind of a fellow do most girls like?" the feminine readers of this page were asked to write and tell "Blue Bill" just what they most preferred in a man. Following are six of the missives received in reply:

Wants a Man With Soul.

Dear Miss Grey,—In answer to "Blue Bill," I would like a man with a soul, if his eyes were green and hair blue that would not signify. Yours truly, HELLEN OF TROY.

Treat Girls Like Men Friends.

Dear Miss Grey,—So "Blue Bill" wants to know why he isn't popular with the girls? Perhaps he is "mussy" and talks "soft" to the girl he is with. What a girl wants is plain commonsense talk. Let a fellow treat his girl as he does his men friends. Let him be honorable and sensible. Above all, let him keep his word. Girls don't marry for love now. The average girl will throw over a man she loves for one whom she can respect and trust. Let "Blue Bill" buck up, take some nice young girl who isn't afraid of work, and let him treat her as he does his men friends—not, however, forgetting those little courtesies which mean so much to a woman—and he will never again have reason to complain of not being popular. Yours, HAPPY-GO-LUCKY.

Desires Cleanliness, Industry and Modesty.

In answer to "Blue Bill," I will only speak for myself. In the first place, I like a young man who is sincere, one who appears what he really is. Another thing of prime importance is cleanliness, both of heart and person.

I think the young man of clean heart and speech is a long way on the road to making an agreeable companion for any nice girl, provided this is coupled with cleanliness of person, as there is no excuse in our day for the opposite condition. A young man to be liked does not need to be dressed in the latest fashion or spend much time studying books on etiquette, as what is more necessary is a kind heart. For my part, I like a young man who has an occupation and attends to it, and even though it be a little grimy, a half hour with soap and water and a tooth brush will make a great transformation.

In closing, I would say another virtue in a young man is modesty, or not to have too exalted an opinion of himself, as so many nowadays look as though they thought every girl who was friendly was ready to fall at their feet, which is certainly not the case.

"ONE OF THE GIRLS."

Mustn't Be Stuck-Up or "Jumpy."

Dear Miss Grey,—Having seen your request in Wednesday night's Advertiser,

I thought I would be one of the sillies who reply.

"What kind of a fellow do most girls like?"—such a question. Here is my ideal:

- 1. He must be gentlemanly, but not too stuck on himself.
2. He must not be jealous.
3. He should not always want his own way, nor should he be quick tempered.
4. He should not be too loud in his praises, and should be able to keep still and quiet; not on the jumps all the time.
5. I think this is all. If "Blue Bill" tries to live up to every girl's ideals he won't be able to do anything else.
Wishing "Blue Bill" success in future. I am, A SILLY GIRL.

Likes Wit, But Not "Slush."

Dear Miss Grey,—In answer to "Blue Bill's" question, "What kind of a fellow do most girls like?" Here's our preference: Well, Bill, you have not just the appearance we admire. We think a nice-looking, tall, dark-complexioned fellow, with brown eyes and curly hair takes much better than your description of us. And, Bill, we like plenty of wit, but no slush. We hope this will be of benefit to you, and some day expect you will thank us for helping you win a girl, lady.

Don't Gringe, and Don't Boss.

Dear Miss Grey,—If "Blue Bill" cares to see what one girl thinks of boys, and how they affect girls, let him read the following:

No two girls have the same ideal in a man. The same qualities appeal differently to the respective girls. The same girl may like twenty different types of man. It just depends on what she feels like. Girls are curious, and every girl will as changeable as any man.

Be clean mentally, morally and physically all the time. Never make a slip that may offend. Be yourself, and make people take you at your own worth, not above, nor below. Don't gringe to a girl, but don't boss. Let her air her opinions. Don't be fickle, for every heart that's broken doesn't show. Find what the girl you want, and then stick. If you discover you're mistaken, tell her so. On no account do not ever, ever be "sneaky." Of course, when you get "the" girl, you won't call it that. Get a decent job, and show your grit by keeping it till you are sure you can get a better one. BACHELOR MAID.

Miss Sarabji of Calcutta is a barrister with a well-paid position under the government. Another woman in Madras edits a woman's paper. Problems of the Fair Sex Solved by Cynthia Grey

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to answer letters within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.]

Treat Him Nicely.

Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly answer the following in The Advertiser as soon as possible: 1. A young man whom I have not seen for eleven years, desires to visit me shortly. Am I justified in answering his letter, and if so, what should I take with regard to his approaching visit? 2. My hair is very fluffy. Do you think brushing will make it any smoother? Sincerely, J. M.

Naughty Girl!

Dear Miss Grey: I'll you kindly answer the following in your column: 1. I am very deeply in love with a girl two years' my junior, but she claims with other young men, and sometimes she tells falsehoods about me, which I do not like. Please give me advice on what to do. 2. What will make the hands smooth, as my hands are a little rough. ANXIOUS F.

ANXIOUS F.

A.—If you are not engaged to the young lady there is no reason on earth why she shouldn't chum with other young men. Have you ever told her about this deep love of yours? You had better, since you are so jealous of the attention of other young men, but keep on loving her real hard, and perhaps she will cease. 2. If you get your druggist to mix for you an ounce of rosewater, one of glycerine, ten drops of carbolic acid, and then squeeze the juice of half a lemon into the bottle, you will have a fine healing lotion to rub on the hands at night before retiring. It will have a still better effect if you wash the hands in warm water first.

Pretty Big Boy!

Dear Miss Grey: I am a constant reader of your interesting column, and am now going to bother you with a few questions. I am a boy of 18. 1. How can one clean the white part on a blue sweater coat, having white cuffs and hand down the front? 2. Is cream or powder the best thing to use for shaving? 3. Do you think I am too young to go with a girl? 4. What can I use to make my hair softer? 5. 152 pounds a good weight for a boy of 18 years? V. H.

Young Housekeeper's Troubles.

"Jesse," "Mrs. M. T. H." and "A Young Housekeeper" all send their request for a formula for tomato mince-meat, but as this has already appeared in our column, it is not necessary to repeat it. "Young Housekeeper" also asks: 1. Would you be kind enough to again give the formula for crackling for floors? 2. What will take an ink stain out of a white vest? The stain has been in it for some time. A.—1. Is this the formula you refer to? Make a paste of flour and two tablespoons of alum. Boil and mix thoroughly, and then soak newspapers in the paste until it is about the consistency of putty. Force it into the cracks with a blunt knife. It will harden nicely and be neat and permanent. 2. Have you tried applications of salts of lemon? If not, moisten the cloth with the salts, and expose to the sun for 15 minutes, then wash the garment and hang in the air. As the spot has remained so long, it may be stubborn, but a second treatment should prove successful.

Keep Cellar Sweet

By a Physician. It is as necessary to keep the cellar sweet and sanitary as it is to take proper care of the living room or the bedroom.

Because it is down under the ground and comparatively dark, it is likely not to get the careful attention the other part of the house receives.

Yet, fruits and foods are often kept in the cellar, to be cool in the summer and warm in the winter.

Quinine, borax, charcoal, dry copra and plaster are the necessities in keeping a cellar sweet and fresh.

To clean the cellar, move out all the movable things, sweep out all the closets and bins and set doors and windows wide open.

In each inclosed place set an earthenware dish or bowl, with several lumps of quicklime in it.

Strew grains of copperas all over the lime, then slack it, but do not wet it. However, be sure the slackening is thorough. Steam from the lime, rising up and out, will take away all bad air and ill-odors.

Leave the cellar open or empty for a couple of hours. Then scatter dry, powdered borax all around, in corners and along the walls. And wherever there is a place where it will not be in the way, hang a piece of net, such as fish net, with some lumps of fresh charcoal in it. Leave the borax until next cleaning time.

Every few weeks take out the charcoal bags, empty them, heat the charcoal very hot. Return to the bags and replace them.

Charcoal has marvellous power to absorb all sorts of ill-odors. And its power is in proportion to its freshness, which the heating restores.

NOVELTIES IN FALL FABRICS

Woolen Goods Are Thick and Thin. With Several Strange Weaves to Give Wide Latitude of Choice.

Often when fall comes along the woman who has revelled in pretty materials of a hundred different weaves during the summer months feels heavier clothes, and is hampered for lack of variety in the fabrics.

This year, though, she has no cause for complaint. Broadcloth she may have if she likes, and serge she is pretty sure to take for some purpose or other, but outside of those two she will find all kinds of Dressy suits and some of them brand new in texture and appearance.

The shagiest of woolly things will be worn, and the softest and smoothest of velvets. Plain solid colors will appear, and stripes will be used a great deal and patterns, such as a check line in a heavy wool or a self-toned floral weave in a silk finish fabric, will bob up among the novelties.

Corduroys specially made in thin, silky weaves, as supple as satin, will be worn side by side with wools that have a thick, color pile, making the fabric almost a quarter of an inch through. Dressy suits and frocks will be made up in inexpensive velveteens and in rich velours.

Thick as Rugs. There will be suits in woolen goods as rough and thick as floor rugs, and there will be other suits with all the appearance of splendid bengalines or ottoman silk, but interwoven with wool to give winter warmth. Corded effects and lumpy wool rattines and hain fringes will share honors with the fine cloths and velvets. Is it any wonder that it is said any woman may suit her individual taste in every line of wearing apparel this year?

Now for the names of some of these new fabrics that the woman who sets out on her quest may know them when she meets them. "Broche de laine is perhaps the newest of any, if one thing may be called newest among a score of novelties. The name describes the fabric, and it is wool goods of thick weave, and it is heavily brocaded all over—in wool. The pattern is raised as in the irregular floral effects or the usual twists and scrolls of brocades. The material is to be used for suits as well as coats, as in spite of its thickness it is very soft and pliable. Indeed, all suppleness and the bulk will not make a suit appear clumsy.

Like Sheep's Pelt. Peau de mouton has almost the effect of sheepskin. It is so thick and woolly, except that its heavy pile is in regular rows—strips three-eighths of an inch wide—separated by depressed stripes, very narrow and almost concealed by the thick rows, which show the ground work of the fabric in wool grounds—color, for instance, white with a dark tone underneath; gray with white; gray with red. The last is a really beautiful combination and would make up into stunning suits.

A wool corduroy of effective weave is called cote de cheval. Even less costly is velours de laine, which, as its name shows, is a velours finished wool, which promises to be very fashionable.

A shadowy stripe is a novelty in the rattines. The two-tone striped velours are handsome fabrics, and all the varieties of silk and wool goods—colored and fancy weaves; bengaline colored, with heavy cording, and so forth—will make up effectively, especially in the Directorate modes.

Now for the names of some of these new fabrics that the woman who sets out on her quest may know them when she meets them.

Then eat carrots. An eminent practitioner of medicine declares that carrots eaten in their various forms will cure severe cases of "nerves," if taken persistently. Eaten raw, they are excellent. Cut them small with a silver knife, and pile them on a lettuce leaf. Eat as a salad.

Cooked, they are among the most nutritious of the vegetable kingdom foods. They are easily digested, give an impetus to the blood, and quiet the nerves.

FOR THE RIGHT EARS.

Two little boys in a Kansas village, whose parents got out a good deal in the evening, are left in care of a grandmother who looks after them. A few nights before Christmas the boys were getting ready to go to bed and were saying their prayers. Little Jimmy was petitioning the heavenly throne for a certain line of Christmas presents and he was doing it in a voice that could be heard all over the house. The noise annoyed his older brother, who interrupted Jimmy to ask: "What you prayin' for? The Lord ain't deaf."

"I know it," answered Jimmy, "but grandma is!"—Kansas City Journal.

PETERBORO DOES NOT WANT CHARLEY NICHOLS NEXT YEAR

Famous Brant and Nichols Combination Will Be Broken Up When Season of 1913 Appears—Lift Lock City Club Fails to Reserve the Former London Player.

[BY JINX.]

If the latest tidings from Peterboro are to be believed, that famous duo entitled "Brant and Nichols" will be parted from the Lift Lock City program next season, and in its place will be substituted just plain "Brant." Despite the fact that this much-advertised pair, who gayly cavorted around the infield at Tecumseh Park not so very long ago, and many a time and of worked a double play on the unsuspecting enemy, were about the only real ball players Peterboro fans scribbled in the uniform of the White Caps this past season, the combination is going to be broken. The sad tidings were contained in the statement made by President Benham, of the Peterboro club, a short time ago, that Charley Nichols will not be reserved by the club for next season. That means he is practically a free agent at the present time, and will have all time to come as far as the Peterboro club is interested.

Mon. It listened like the real thing for a time, and many a London fan spoke sadly to himself and expressed regret that such a prominent pair of persons, ages had departed from our midst. And just about that time, the Indians were making hard fight to keep St. Thomas from crowding them out of the first division.

Nichols' Chief Fault. But now, it seems, the Peterboro management is going to place a real team in the Canadian League next spring, and the name of Charley Nichols will not appear among the list. "Nick" will have to seek pastures new, and it would be the most surprising thing in the world that next spring found him signed up with one of the other teams in the league. Nichols' chief fault seems to lie in his inconsistency. When he is putting up a good game in the field he is away off in his work with the stick, and when he is leading the pill around the 300 mark, his efforts with the mitt are making his batting percentages look like the batting average of a blind man. If Charley could field and bat all the time like he does now, he would be a corker. As it is, Harry Brant will find his famous side-partner missing from the Peterboro lineup when the curtain goes up on the 1913 Canadian League season.

How They Became Famous. Both Brant and Nichols were released by the local Canadian League managers in the middle of the summer, and both went to Peterboro. Then the news agent got busy and every day Brant and Nichols were credited with pulling off some marvellous play which won for them the prize of Edward's acreage.

FAMOUS BALL PLAYERS HEAD NEW ORGANIZATION

Ty Cobb, Christy Mathewson and Others Elected to Board of Baseball Players' Fraternity.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 21.—Directors of the Baseball Players' Fraternity elected David L. Pultz, the former big league star, president of the organization at a meeting here on Sunday. Other officers were chosen and the plans on which the organization is to be conducted outlined.

Every club in the National and American Leagues were represented except the two Boston clubs and the Cleveland club. The other officers elected were: Vice-presidents, Christy Mathewson, Ty Cobb, Michael Doolan and Edward Sweeney; secretary, Jacob Harbert. No treasurer was elected.

It was announced that the fraternity will not apply for representation on the National Commission. Resolutions were passed requesting the National Commission to invest umpires with authority to eject from ball grounds any spectator who abuses a player during a game, and which all acts of rowdism on or off the field, when the umpire is aware, where ever committed, that may have a tendency to impair a player's ability.

The list of players who have been reserved by the different clubs in the Canadian League has been announced. London has reserved every man with the exception of Henry Spear and Johnny Coash. He will report to the Colts in the spring, with nothing better turns up in the meantime. The reserved list is as follows: London—Louis Berbauer, Jack Francis, J. Fox, Sam Smith, E. S. Neale, Win. J. KID ZOCANNO WILL ENTER RING AGAIN

Lightweight, Who Has Been Spending Summer Here, Is Going Into Trainings.

Tony (Kid) Zocanno, the clever little lightweight, who has been in London for the past few months, is arranging to return to the ring. Tony has just returned from a trip to Fort Huron, where he has many friends. The fans in that city were anxious to see him in action, but as there is nothing in Fort Huron that is in a class with him, they were disappointed. However, it is likely that a match will be arranged for the next week in Deseronto, it being the intention to hold a tournament in the Michigan city about that time. Zocanno is not in shape at present, but as he is going into training he will be ready by then. He will likely arrange for a bout in Syracuse, N. Y., his hometown, about Christmas time also. Tony received a card from Smiling Tom Ford last week. Ford is in Milwaukee at present.

BECKER TO TAKE CHANCE AND GO ON THE STAND

Hopes to Convince Jury He Is Innocent of Rosenthal's Slaying.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 21.—The announcement that Police Lieutenant Becker would himself take the witness-stand with the hope of convincing the jury that he is innocent of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, overshadowed everything else when his trial was resumed today. Unforeseen circumstances may arise which may prevent his testifying, but, according to the present plans of his chief counsel, John F. McIntyre, the defendant will take the witness-chair some time between tomorrow morning and Thursday. At the rate the case is being handled, it should be in the jury's hands by Saturday at the latest.

It is understood that District Attorney Whitman, should Becker take the stand, will again endeavor to get into the record something relating to Becker's bank accounts, a line of testimony heretofore blocked by Justice Goff. Mr. McIntyre will fight as he has in the past to exclude anything of this nature.

Joseph S. Shepard, a police lieutenant who was a member of Becker's "strong arm squad," was to be cross-examined by the prosecution this morning. He gave direct testimony on Saturday, purporting to show that a raid on Rosenthal's gambling establishment, conducted by Becker, was a legitimate affair, and not a "frame-up" as the prosecution has contended. The list of witnesses subsequently to be called by the defence has been kept secret.

NOT LIKE NEGRI. Mikado's Doctor Declines to Commit Hari-Keri. Paris, Oct. 21.—The doctor who attended the Emperor of Japan in his last illness is finding himself in difficulties because he will not satisfy the demands of that circle in Tokio which still clings to the old ideas. According to the special correspondent of the Journal, these people who have been much impressed by General Negri's suicide, demand that the doctor shall also commit hari-keri, but he declines to do so. It has been explained to him that he will be held in dishonor if he does not follow the example of General Negi. All the persuasions and indignation have been unavailing. It was not his fault, he says, if the emperor died. He declared, in several journals that he was unable to do the deed, and he would not have done it, owing to a certain ailment, and added that if the emperor had followed his advice and abstained from alcoholic drinks, he would still be alive.

The doctor, who is an uncommonly able man, is at the moment one of the most respected men in Japan.

GREAT SCIENTIST STRIKES T. R. POSER. Views on Sterilization in Colonel's Case Interrupted. Baltimore, Oct. 21.—Sir William Ramsey, the eminent British chemist, and accounted the greatest living scientist, who is lecturing at the Johns Hopkins University, was asked today whether the heat of the bullet which struck former President Roosevelt would act as a sterilizer. Sir William smiled. "Well, I can answer that, perhaps, by telling you that before going into action the Japanese soldiers are ordered to change their underclothes." "Then," cut in one of the group about the chemist, "if Roosevelt's speech was clean when the bullet passed through it?" The rest of the query was drowned in a roar of laughter, led by Sir William. "Don't quote me as saying that," he said, "when he could find his breath, and then was led away from the lecture room by his host, Dr. Renssen.

THE NEWCOMERS. Immigrants for Six Months Totalled Nearly 300,000. Ottawa, Oct. 21.—During the six months, April 1 to Oct. 1, of the current fiscal year, 275,649 immigrants arrived in Canada. Of this number 182,990 arrived at ocean ports, and 89,659 from the United States. These figures show an increase of 15 per cent, as compared with the number of arrivals for the corresponding months of last fiscal year, which were 158,514 at ocean ports and 82,317 from the United States, making a total for the six months, April 1 to Oct. 1, 1911, of 240,831 persons.

During the month of September this year there were 21,110 arrivals, 20,290 of them having been at ocean ports and 820 from the States, as against 20,277 in September last year. 17,292 of whom were at ocean ports and 3,085 from the States.

The immigration to Canada for the past half-year is considerably greater than for the same period of 1911, the country which a few days ago declared war against Turkey, Ontario, has, according to the census of 1911, a population of 23,406,217. It will be seen that the immigration during the last six months is more than equivalent to the population of nine such districts.

Supposing that all the immigrants who arrived during the last six months were in line of march one pace apart, Indian file, the procession would reach from Toronto to Kingston, more than one hundred and fifty miles.

BROKE HIS JAW. St. Thomas, Oct. 20.—Thos. Chalmers, M. C. He was brought to the St. Thomas Hospital.

LIFEBOAT MADE OF RUBBER

Disaster on land or sea usually causes thousands of people to lay awake nights working out schemes to prevent repetition of the calamity. The inventions that have already been inspired by the sinking of the steamship Titanic are so numerous that the patent offices in the United States and Europe are kept busy filing away drawings and descriptions of life-saving appliances, the most of which are utterly impracticable.

Out of the mass there will come a few of great benefit, and experts throughout the world are debating among themselves as to whether or not a non-sinkable lifeboat made of India rubber is one of these.

Such a boat has been invented by a resident of Asbury Park, N. J., and his claim for it, which seems to be justified by tests that have been had with models, are that it will not only be un-sinkable, but that it will withstand more hard usage than a boat of wood and will be less liable to breakage or puncture than steel or iron boats. It is also claimed that the boat will be lighter than boats of any other material.

The plan is to make the framework of hard rubber and cover it with sheets of tough rubber cloth. The frame is made thick, and as the covering is placed both inside and out, the spaces between the frames form air compartments, which can be inflated and thus give greater buoyancy. The idea of the inventor is to build the boats large enough to equip them with motors.

The inflated sides will not only act as air compartments, but will serve as buffers in case of collision and thus reduce the danger of a number of the boats being launched in a rough sea, and ramming one another. The seats are placed along the sides and the capacity is limited only by the size.

This type of boat is being given serious consideration, and has received much favorable criticism.

If you have dandruff, get rid of it by killing the germs! If your hair is falling out, stop it.

"CHANGE COAL INTO GAS DOWN IN THE BOWELS OF EARTH." SUGGESTS FAMOUS SCIENTIST, "AND SAVE MONEY AND LIVES."

When you think about how the price of your winter's coal is going up wouldn't you like to know something about the most wonderful plan ever thought of to cut the cost of fuel, light and power?

Sir William Ramsey, the most famous British scientist, is the man back of it, and here is what he thinks he can do.

Banish all smoke, except on water. Cut the price of power for mills and factories to less than a fifth of what it costs now. Cut the price of electric lighting to a tenth of the present cost. Make it possible for housewives to cook and bake with electricity instead of gas, coal or wood.

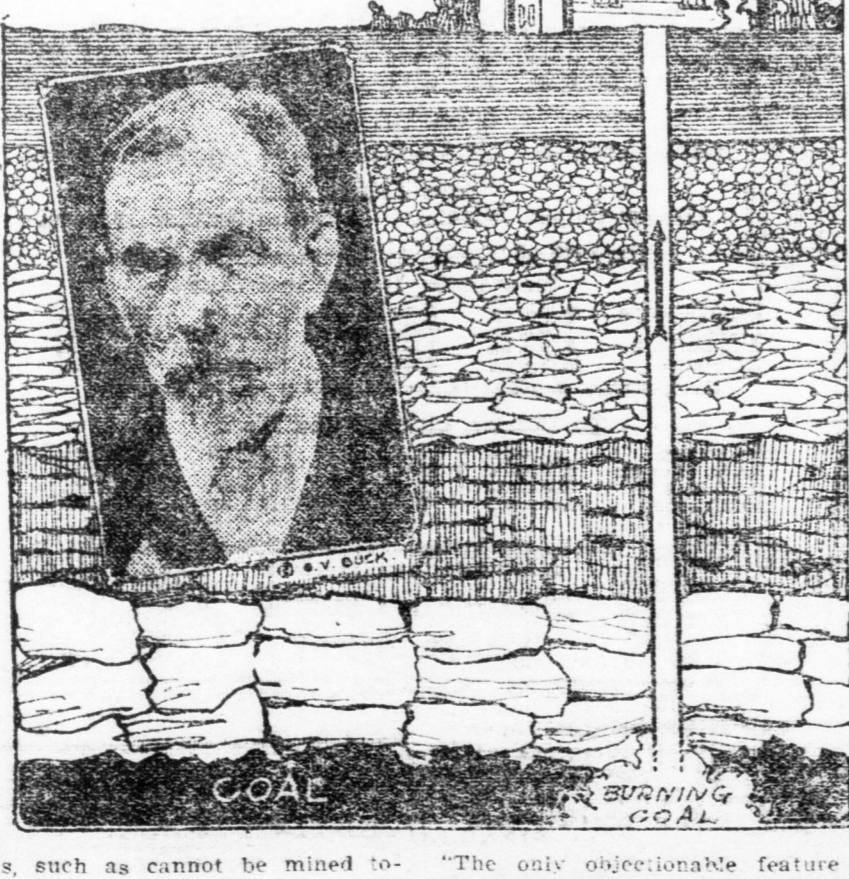

Do away with the dirtiest, most dangerous occupation man has fallen heir to—coal mining. He means to prove that gas retorts may be underground wherever there is a vein of coal and that the gas can be piped up and when not used in that form transformed into electricity by gas engines.

First a hole would be bored down. When it reached the coal vein two pipes would be put down, one inside the other, one to carry up the water and the other to pass down air, steam or small quantities of water, but with the coal. The coal could be ignited by putting down an electric wire which would then be withdrawn, leaving the coal to burn and turn itself into gas, which would come up through another and larger pipe.

"It would mean," explains Ramsey, "that mine disasters would be ended. The great expense of mining coal, hoisting it to the surface and delivering it to the consumer would be a thing of the past. As there would be no coal brought to the surface, there would be no coal smoke to disfigure our cities and injure the health of the citizens.

"Also it would make the world's coal depend upon electricity, which can be other farther away could and would supply last much longer, for then it would be possible to use coal in thin engines than steam engines.

THIS SHOWS HOW SIR WILLIAM RAMSEY, WHOSE PICTURE IS INSERTED, WOULD USE COAL BEDS TO SUPPLY THE WORLD WITH HEAT, LIGHT AND POWER.

The only objectionable feature is that, with the burning up of the coal, the surface will settle, but, I think, it will be so gradual that we will not notice it.

The only coal users would then be steamships; all railroads would be closed.

MR. McVOY ANSWERS CONSERVATIVE ORATORS

Not Within 500 Miles of Mr. Sutherland When Declaration Was Made.

The Advertiser spoke to Mr. J. M. McVoy about the statements made at Worcester by the Conservative orators declaring that he had induced Mr. Sutherland to sign a declaration as to his attitude on the abolitionist's bar issue.

"They do me too great honor," said Mr. McVoy. "I should be glad to assist in winning this election for Mr. Sutherland, but it so happens that I was not within 500 miles of Mr. Sutherland when the question of making a written declaration on that subject was first touched, nor was I nearer until after the whole matter was an accomplished fact. I knew nothing of it until I saw the reports in the press. I have no doubt the Tories would like to misrepresent the facts and make out there are two factions in the Liberal party, the temperance element of the Liberal party, who have the control of this election, and upon whom the responsibility for this election rests, but Mr. Sutherland has become tired of such misrepresentation, and is desirous of having Mr. Finch prove his statements.

Further, Mr. Finch is said to have stated that when he met Mr. Sutherland a few days after, Mr. Sutherland was the worse for liquor. These statements were made in the open meeting and were so reported in the Conservative press.

KIPLING AS A POLITICIAN

Makes First Platform Speech on Behalf of Young Canadian M. P.

London, Oct. 21.—Rurdard Kipling came out as a political platform orator for Sir Max Aitken in Ashton last week.

His main point was an indictment of the Government for having betrayed the confidence of the country in regard to the reform of the House of Lords. His speech was able enough, but the only sentence which seemed to have something of the familiar Kipling ring came at the end, when he said:

"We are within measurable distance of civil war under the very shadow of Armageddon, for which by sea and by land in our distracted souls we are quite unprepared. On our fate hangs the destiny of one-fifth of the human race."

At the Sunday evening service, Miss Gladys Shaw, a pupil of Miss Brown, of the London Conservatory of Music, sang "Close to Thee" (Briggs), in a very pleasing manner. The choir also rendered a composition of Mr. Willgoose, "O Lord Be Gracious," very acceptably.

EX-FIREMAN HELD

The four false alarms were received, the station responding to a call from box No. 41 at the corner of Egerton and Campbell streets, adjacent to the Grand Trunk carshops. A policeman on a beat there had seen a fireman drive away from the box in a buggy a short time before.

Second Alarm Came.

The second alarm came to the station after the long haul, but a few minutes later a second alarm was sounded from No. 48, at the corner of Dundas and Eva streets, a car equally distant from the station.

The firemen then evidently proceeded from East London to the north, for box No. 328, at the corner of Victoria and Richmond streets, a killing distance from the station, was sounded. It was again rumored that a fireman had been seen near the place.

Passing from the north into West London they broke box No. 95 at the corner of Wharncliffe road and Oxford street and this resulted directly in the apprehension of William Barry, the Grand Trunk driver, at the West London by way of Dundas street bridge and the Wharncliffe road, and while galloping northward passed a buggy proceeding at a rapid rate in the opposite direction.

Spot Fireman's Cap.

He then remembered that one of the occupants of the rig wore a fireman's cap, and wheeling about followed them. The men started back into the city and were apparently about to go into South London by way of Victoria bridge but were blocked by a freight train at the Ridout street crossing of the Grand Trunk. The chief was notified when he halted near them to await the passing of the train, and a change in route was taken. The men proceeded back to get into South London by way of King street bridge, and were again intercepted by Chief Aitken. Turning from this they proceeded back to return to West London, but were overtaken at the corner of Dundas and Ridout streets. The chief's driver jumped from the buggy and caught the lively horse by the head. One of the men alighted and declared that he would go home.

A Tussle in the Buggy.

As he had no connection with the fire department he was permitted to do so, but Chief Aitken took charge of the lively outfit, and drove with Barry to Carling street station. On the way a tussle took place in the rig, the chief finally being compelled to jump. Although Barry whipped the horse, Chief Aitken secured a hold on the bridle, and refused to relinquish his grasp until the police station was

ALLIANCE SPEAKER ON SUNDAY CARS

John A. Patterson, K. C., Says It's Selfish to Ask Men to Work.

Taking his text in the verse, "If Ye Love Me Keep My Commandments," Mr. John A. Patterson, K.C., of Toronto, in the interests of the Lord's Day Alliance, spoke to large congregations in the First Presbyterian Church and the New Westminster Presbyterian Church on Sunday.

Mr. Patterson did not give a direct answer to whether this city should be favored with the Sunday system of electric transportation, but rather preferred to leave the matter in the form of a question. Whether it was not selfish for citizens to ask the street carmen to work on the Sabbath Day when by inconveniencing themselves a trifle, they could reach their destination by walking, he admitted that Sunday electric transportation was not a selfish desire, but a selfish desire.

The speaker then related the difference in the methods in observation of the Sabbath, practiced by the forefathers and the present-day method. In the olden days, Sunday had been a day of complete rest, and the forefathers had observed it to the letter. The speaker then related the difference in the methods in observation of the Sabbath, practiced by the forefathers and the present-day method. LONDON'S INDIFFERENCE TO ENGLISH PLAYERS

Manager Asks Where Is the Vantaged "Intellectual Class?"

Despite the most favorable reviews from the newspapers and approval of every one who had seen the performance, Mr. Cosmo Hamilton's play, "The Blindness of Virtue," was witnessed by small audiences at two performances Saturday.

In conversation with The Advertiser, Mr. Milton E. Hoffman, manager for Mr. Hamilton, stated that the two weeks' engagement had been a most severe disappointment to the company.

"Your Canadian press has spoken in the most favorable terms of the production, and the audience have been eager to take the hearts out of the players," said Mr. Hoffman. "Canada is supposed to be intensely loyal to the mother country, but there is no evidence of this in the treatment of our English productions. You boast of an intellectual class. Where is it? Canada is notoriously slighting of dramatic attractions, and it falls far below the cheapest class of musical comedy."

"I have no desire to speak slightly of your citizens, but surely they play with the serious purpose should appeal to the thinking public. I very much appreciated the compliments paid me by those who saw the performance, and we are anxious to see the success of the season with this production in America."

Demagogue Want Him To Address Big Rally in Madison Square.

[Canadian Press.] New York, Oct. 21.—Governor Wilson's determination to make no more political speeches unless Col. Roosevelt again takes the stump, is not accepted as final by Democratic national managers. The fact that Madison Square garden has been rented for a night on Oct. 21st is being urged upon the governor as a reason why he should yield to the demands of his managers and speak in New York on that date.

Chairman McCoombs, of the national committee, still hopes, but surely a play with the serious purpose should appeal to the thinking public. I very much appreciated the compliments paid me by those who saw the performance, and we are anxious to see the success of the season with this production in America."
