

Sir Sam Hughes Back to His Work in Ottawa Will Make Statement in the House To-morrow Brantford Will Not Obtain Military Camp

SOLDIER'S CAMP WILL NOT BE ESTABLISHED AT BRANTFORD

Definite Word Received to That Effect This Morning From Ottawa—Committee of City Council Did Much Work to Get Men Placed Here For This Summer.

Ald. J. S. Dowling received the following letter this morning from Ottawa: Sir—With further reference to your telegram of the 6th inst., regarding the establishment of a camp at Brantford, I have the honor to inform you that the very generous offer of the city of Brantford to give free light and water to camp ground at Brantford, it noted, but as the general policy regarding summer camps in Military District No. 2 has already been formulated and does not include a camp at this point, it is regretted

Michael O'Leary, V.C., the sergeant of Canadian Mounted Police, who so gallantly won his V.C. early in the war and is now a lieutenant, was home on leave for a few days recently, and was the star attraction at South Shields, where the picture shows him being welcomed by the Lord Mayor with all his official retinue. The man between them is O'Leary's father, who is, naturally enough, proud of his big boy. O'Leary said he could not make a speech—the more he tried the worse he got.—(Exclusive Copyrighted Service, in conjunction with the London Daily Mirror.)

SIR SAM ARRIVES IN OTTAWA; BIG CROWD MADE HIM WELCOME

Hon. Robert Rogers and Several Conservative Members Met the Minister at the Station—Immediately Proceeded to Premier Borden's House and Had Long Conference.

Ottawa, April 17.—His return necessitated by the charges, which have been leveled against the Canadian shell committee and the resultant judicial inquiry that is to be made into the fuse contracts, Gen. Sir Sam Hughes is back in Ottawa from England. The general arrived yesterday afternoon and was accorded a kindly and sympathetic welcome by a crowd of upwards of a thousand people, among whom were many officers and men of regiments now recruiting in Ottawa. To enliven the scene the band of the Governor-General Foot Guards were on hand and as the Minister of Militia alighted from his car it struck up the strains of "Home, Sweet Home."

Meeting of Cabinet in Old Country May Have Far-Reaching Results on War

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, April 17.—(Continued from Page 1.)—The meeting of the cabinet may have momentous consequences. A decision on the question of general compulsion was deferred Friday in order that a sub-committee of the army council, for this purpose the sub-committee met at 10 Downing street on Saturday and conferred with Kitchener, Sir William Robertson, Sir E. Hamley and other military representatives. "To-day's cabinet council will have before it, all of the data necessary to arrive at a decision. The military demands must, of course, be harmonized with the requirements of the navy, the mercantile marine and our productive industries. The case against conscribing untested married men is that doing so would precipitate an angry controversy and antagonize labor and that the requisition of 300,000 additional men would be dearly purchased at such a price. On the other side, it is argued that all round compulsion is more just as well as more logical and efficient than the capricious methods of voluntarism. "Mr. Lloyd-George is known to be an uncompromising advocate of general compulsion. He reached this conviction at an early stage in the war, has never wavered from it, and would have preferred a measure of all-round compulsion at an earlier date to what he doubtless regarded as a tardy and limited military service act. "But the majority of the cabinet are understood to be averse to general compulsion, saying that there is no real necessity for it and under these circumstances it would be a grave blunder to embark on a policy which might destroy national unity. NO CONFIRMATION OF NEWS OF THE DEATH OF VILLA

War Office Anxiously Waiting to See if Report is True. WOULD CALL OFF THE CHASE American Consul at Chihuahua May See the Body.

By Special Wire to the Courier. WASHINGTON, April 17.—War department officials announced that none of the overnight despatches or early telegrams brought any confirmation of the finding of the body of Francisco Villa.

Definite information regarding the fate of Francisco Villa was eagerly awaited by administration officials today. If the bandit chief is dead as reported in unofficial advices from the border, the American troops will be recalled from Mexico, according to official announcement. Latest reports say that the bandit's body had been dug up from a two weeks' old grave by a nephew of General Carranza and was being taken to Chihuahua City, focused attention on American Consul Letcher at that place. Officials looked to him to throw light on the authenticity of the many reports regarding Villa's death.

YOUNG MAN BADLY HURT IN COLLISION

Gordon Standen, on Motor Cycle, Ran Into Street Car, and May Die. YOUNGER BROTHER ALSO HURT

A collision between a motorcycle and a street car shortly after noon today, was the cause of an accident in which Gordon Standen, 296 Darling street, was very seriously injured, his condition at present being most critical.

Shortly before one o'clock Standen on his motorcycle, was going east along Dalhousie street at fairly good speed. With him in the side car was his younger brother, Alfred. A street car came down Alfred street. Standen had not time to stop his machine after catching sight of it. He endeavored to steer clear of it. It struck the rear end of the car with considerable force. The younger Standen was flung to the boulevard and escaped with nothing more serious than a sprained arm and a shaking up, but Gordon was seriously injured in the collision, his face being badly cut and he sustaining other hurts. Medical assistance was at once summoned to the scene and the injured young man was conveyed as soon as possible to the hospital, where he is now under the charge of Dr. Phillip. The

Austrian Drive on Albania Stopped by Allies' Attacks

Russians and Italians Attacked Austrian Lines at the Same Time Which Upset Enemy's Plans.

By Special Wire to the Courier. New York, April 17.—A news agency despatch from Rome to-day says: Plans for an Austrian offensive against the Albanian port of Avlona have been abandoned because of activities along the Italian and Russian fronts. It was learned here to-day, the Austrians were moving troops southward through Albania when the Russians and Italians simultaneously attacked Austrian lines. The troop movements were stopped and part of the Austrian forces were sent back to the Isonzo, where they have been seen in action.

TROUBLE AT PORT WELLER

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., April 17.—A detachment of the 98th battalion has just left for Port Weller, where a body of Bulgarian laborers on the ship canal, demanding 25 cents per hour instead of 20, this morning quit work and then chased Russians. Italians and men of other nationalities off the work by pelting them with stones. The police and militia were hurriedly telephoned for. Serious trouble is not anticipated, as the strikers are apparently unarmed. There are several hundred men concerned.

The Situation.

The Russians take the centre of the stage in connection with recently-recorded achievements. On Saturday they commenced a vigorous attack on the German lines in the Dvinsk region and captured two hills of strategic importance. Indications are for a large general battle at this point. In the Caucasus operations the troops of the Czar have also given an excellent account of themselves. After fighting for many days against a Turkish division recently arrived in Armenia from Constantinople, they defeated them near Bitlis, taking machine guns and 13 officers and 350 men prisoners. At last accounts they were in pursuit of the fleeing foe, and are now but seven miles from Trebizond, an important seaport city on the Black Sea coast.

The British force for the relief of the besieged soldiers at Kut-el-Amarah continues to make satisfactory progress along the Tigris.

British aeroplanes bombarded a large powder factory in Constantinople and aeroplane hangars, and returned in safety after a trip of three hundred miles.

The French report a slight advance by taking sections of German trenches south of Douaumont. They now seem to be prepared to take the offensive in the Verdun region, and it is said that April 9th is regarded as the day on which the tide definitely turned against the Huns in these operations. In this respect General Petain has issued a message to his troops in which he places the tide named as marking the high-water point of the German offensive, and there is no doubt as to the outcome. He gives them the exhortation: "Have courage. We will defeat them."

The Bilingual Matter.

The Ontario Government is, very rightly, insisting that English shall be the language of instruction in the public schools of the Province. The French minority object and there has been trouble, especially at Ottawa. Meanwhile the Quebec Provincial Government have taken a hand with regard to something which is most emphatically none of their business, and have sanctioned financial aid for the bilingual school agitation. La-vergne, and others of that traitor ilk, have claimed that the oppression of the French in Ontario is infinitely worse than any Hun oppression, and are urging the people of Quebec to boycott Ontario goods. On top of all this we have Hon. Mr. Graham, Laurier's right-hand man, going to the sister Province and making a speech in which he said that it was a Tory government at Toronto, backed by a Tory Government at Ottawa, which was doing this thing, and that:

In his judgment, the passing of a statute, or even the final interpretation, by the Privy Council, of the British North America Act, would not bring harmony out of the discord that had unfortunately arisen. The appeal must be made not to men's minds, but to their hearts."

To this the Hamilton Herald (Independent) makes comment:

That is as much as to say that if the Privy Council decides that the Quebec special privileges which they demand in Ontario, those special privileges should be granted just because the order that friction may be removed. It is a plea inspired by a weak opportunism. If Ontario yielded to the Quebec demands the same demands would be made in all the Western Provinces, and Ontario's example would be cited as a precedent. And the concessions made to French aggression would be used as a means of extorting fresh concessions. There would follow demands for the use of French in the Legislature, the printing of all Government reports in French as well as English, the teaching of French in all the public and separate schools of Ontario on an equality with English.

Up to date Laurier has stood aside without protest. He ought to take a manly stand, regardless of the consequences, just as he should rebuke his friend and appointee, Senator Choquette, for his disloyal utterances in the Senate and his reading of a letter from a blackguard who spoke of me volunteering in Toronto as the offspring of British soldiers and women of the street.

Why is it that the ex-Premier remains silent?

A Call to Save Waste Paper and Rags.

This war should be teaching economy in more than one direction, and in this regard the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa has sent out the following:

Shortage of Paper Material—Save Your Waste Paper and Rags—The attention of the Department of Trade and Commerce has been called to the fact that there is a serious shortage in Canada of raw material for the manufacture of paper, including rags and old papers.

A very large quantity of different kinds of paper and paper-stuffs, manufactured every day in Canada, and a large proportion of this, after it has served its purpose, could be used over again in making some class of paper. Much of it, however, is either burned or otherwise wasted, and has to be replaced by new raw material.

It is of great importance now that this waste should be stopped, and that the saved material should be used to reproduce fresh supplies. In this way new raw material could be conserved, and substantial sums realized from otherwise wasted material.

The Department of Trade and Commerce is glad to bring this matter to the careful attention of the public. A little attention to the saving of rags and old papers will mean genuine relief to our paper industry and a diminishing drain upon our sources of supply for new materials.

The rags and paper thus saved can be readily disposed of through the usual channels of collectors and dealers in these articles, and through the industrial department of the Salvation Army in the principal cities.—George E. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The Courier believes that much of what is now collected in Brantford under the garbage system, and is classified as waste, could, under a proper and systematic supervision, be made a source of revenue to the municipality. At any rate, the civic authorities might very well look into the matter.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Don't leave 'em off yet.

The brave French are still seeing to it that the spelling isn't Verdun.

The initial rumor that Villa had lost a leg has now developed into a story that he is dead. Quite possibly he started the yarn himself.

The men who control the destiny of Roumania are clearly in favor of the Central powers. They evidently want to transform the title of the country into Ruenania.

The Grit papers which were so quick to have Sir Sam Hughes guilty without a hearing, are keeping pretty mum now that he has so promptly returned.

Hazleton, the individual who wrote that slanderous letter to Senator Choquette, which the latter was ass enough to use in connection with his wild charges in the Upper House, has been roughly handled by a mob. It is a crying shame that a man like Choquette should be able to use the word "Honorable" before his name.

NEUTRAL AND BRITISH SHIP SUNK TO-DAY

American Wounded When Ship He Was On Was Fired Upon.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, April 17.—The sinking of a neutral ship and a British steamship was reported by Lloyds to-day. The Norwegian ship Glendown was sunk by gun fire. The lost British steamship was the Harrovia, which was unarmored.

The Glendown, which was sailing from Iquique, Chile, for Calais, was built in 1904 and owned in Christiana. Her gross tonnage was 1,918.

The Harrovia sailed from New York on April 2 for Havre. She was a comparatively new vessel, having been built in 1914 for a London company. She was 385 feet long, of 4,300 tons gross.

MATERIAL FOR ANOTHER NOTE.

Washington, April 17.—One of two Americans aboard the Russian steamer Imperator, from Gullport, Mississippi, was wounded when the vessel was fired upon without warning by an Austrian submarine off the Culumbre Islands, according to official advices to the state department to-day.

NEW PASTOR PREACHED AT PARK BAPTIST

Rev. Mr. Wrighton Took Up His Duties in Brantford Yesterday.

GAVE TWO VERY GOOD SERMONS

Made a Most Excellent Impression on His First Sunday.

Yesterday before large audiences both morning and evening, the Rev. Mr. W. H. Wrighton, the new pastor of Park Baptist church, preached his first sermons in opening his ministry here. Rev. Mr. Wrighton made a most agreeable evening the theatre was packed to the doors. A very interesting war drama was depicted on the screen, which put the audience very pleasantly to the audience until the speaking commenced.

The band of the 84th Battalion rendered several selections during the evening. Mrs. Frank Leeming sang two songs, "On his Majesty's Service" and "The Little Gray Mother," and seldom has she been heard to be so enthusiastically applauded. Mr. J. G. Liddell also sang very acceptably a solo, "My Country Call."

Just before the conclusion of the meeting Lt. Col. Cutcliffe stepped upon the stage, and after thanking the ladies for their efforts in carrying out the invitation of the recruiting committee to give them these cheers which was done with a will.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. W. C. Livingston.

On the platform were: Mrs. Huestis, Mrs. Geo. Watt, Mrs. Harry Cockshutt, Mrs. W. C. Livingston, Mrs. M. E. Buxton, Mrs. G. M. Smith, Mrs. Alf. Jones, Mrs. Frank Leeming.

MRS. W. C. LIVINGSTON.

Mrs. Livingston explained that the meeting was conducted solely by the women of the recruiting committee. At the beginning of the war, the women had enlisted for service as well as the men. They have taken all Red Cross supplies. In recruiting also, Brantford and Brant County have done nobly, and the men who had returned had been received loyally.

MRS. HUESTIS.

Mrs. Huestis set out to show how Germany had started the war. In the island of Madeira in April, 1914, she met a German officer who told her that he had been recalled for active service and would meet her in London that Christmas. "Britain and London," was Mrs. Huestis' report.

and also to promptly identify the body if possible.

President Wilson and Secretary of War Baker had before them to-day the first direct official information of the attack on American soldiers at Parrel. It was a report from Brigadier-General Pershing, and while it relieved fears that the American cavalry force had been wiped out, it indicated that the incident was far more serious than was at first supposed.

Building Burned.

St. Pierre, Mich., April 17.—The building containing the office of the American consul was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin yesterday. All of the consul's official documents were saved.

RECRUITING MEETING CONDUCTED BY LADIES PROVED VERY FINE SUCCESS

Mrs. A. M. Huestis, of Toronto, Made Splendid Address and Quite Took the Audience by Storm—Mrs. Leeming's Singing a Fine Feature.

Last night's recruiting meeting at the Brant Theatre was unique in that it was conducted solely by women. The speaker of the evening was Mrs. A. M. Huestis of Toronto, who showed herself to be an orator of better advantage than men, and who has an easy style of talking, and there was just enough sarcasm in the tone of her voice to add an edge to her scoring of German ideas and German propaganda. Her references to the need of men to fill the ranks were loudly applauded. She also briefly sketched the work of the women's emergency corps which, she claimed with emphasis was formed upon invitation of the men.

In spite of a warm, wet and altogether disagreeable evening the theatre was packed to the doors. A very interesting war drama was depicted on the screen, which put the audience very pleasantly to the audience until the speaking commenced.

Sir Sam Arrives

mons, but it is not expected to go much further than to court the fullest investigation of the charges which have been made against the shell committee and inferentially himself as a party to the whole question.

Sir Sam has little or nothing to add to what he gave out in New York. He denies any improper connection with the fuse contracts, and, courting a probe into them, expresses confidence that everything will come out satisfactory and that nothing derogatory will be said to himself or the committee to fight it out to the end and is sanguine as to the issue. Nor has the general gone back on the much-discussed Col. Allison. He has the same confidence in Allison that he ever had and will continue to retain it till they show that his reliance is misplaced. He believes that Allison will come to Ottawa even at the peril of his health which is said to be bad.

ARRANGING PROBE

The royal commission of investigation will confer here probably on Wednesday, when arrangements will be made for a commencement of the inquiry. It is not likely to get under way until the Wednesday after Easter. The time is required by both sides to prepare the case and make other arrangements. E. F. B. Johnston, K. C., counsel in support of the charges, spent Saturday in Ottawa and went to the case with those who more particularly have it in hand.

GREECE IN THROES OF CRISIS; MORE TROUBLE WITH THE ALLIES

Britain and France Must Use Greek Railway to Transport Serbian Troops From Corfu to Saloniki, and Insist Upon Using it Despite Greek Protests.

VENIZELOS ISSUES STATEMENT.

Athens, April 16, via Paris 17.—Elpheros Venizelos, the former premier, in a third article published in this morning's Herald, takes up more directly the actual position of the sovereign in democratic Greece. He says the existing government and present difficulties of the country are due to efforts of royalists working with self-interested politicians to nullify the results of the revolution of 1909, and to deprive the people of Greece back again into the way of a constitutionalism wherein lies the only salvation of popular government in Greece.

Under firm pressure from both sets of belligerents the government finds itself in a remarkable dilemma, the sequel to which will be followed with interest.

RIOTING.

London, April 17.—Reuter's Athens correspondent says that several shots were fired in the riot which resulted from the campaign meeting of the Venizelos party yesterday and that many followers of the former premier were arrested.

The City Treasurer's report, now on file in the city clerk's department, shows the total expenditure for the month of March to have been $69,364.60. The receipts for the same period were $54,136.02.

CLAIM DAMAGES.

W. A. Hollinrake on behalf of J. A. Both these accidents it is claimed were due to the condition of the streets.

'TIS A LONG LANE THAT HAS NO TURNING SAYS MARKET ST. WOMAN

The above philosophy is usually correct, and is applicable in other instances than the following: "Stomach trouble and nervous headaches are a thorn of the past with me," states Mrs. Kate Smith, of Market St., and further states, "I had almost concluded that there was no relief from ill health when I was persuaded to try the medicine Plantan. It has worked like magic. Besides relieving me of the frightful nervous headaches and stomach trouble, I no longer have that tired, depressed feeling."

The above is typical of thousands of statements that are being made regarding the great curative powers of Plantan. Plantan, the new tonic, invigorant and vitaliser, has proven to be nature's greatest assistant in restoring to normal health, sickly, rundown people.

In instances of stomach, liver, kidney and intestinal troubles and catarrh of the mucous membranes, Plantan is most effective. The noted Plantan expert, Mr. T. S. Jackson is now at Brantford's most popular drug store, Boles', each day, courteously explaining Plantan to large and constantly increasing crowds.

VENIZELOS ISSUES STATE-MENT.
Athens, April 16, via Paris 17.—Elipheos Venizelos, the former premier, in a third article published in this morning's Herald, takes up more directly the actual position of the sovereign in democratic Greece. He says the existing government and present difficulties of the country are due to efforts of royalists working with self-interested politicians to nullify the results of the revolution of 1909, and to deprive the people of effective self-government at whatever price to Greece. He adds: "The reason for the present attitude of Greece towards the warring groups lies in the belief of the monarchists that victory by Germany will forward their cause, while a victory of the Entente powers would force Greece back again into the way of constitutionalism wherein lies the only salvation of popular government in Greece."
Under firm pressure from both sets of belligerents the government finds itself in a remarkable dilemma, the sequel to which will be followed with interest.

RIOTING.
London, April 17.—Reuter's Athens correspondent says that several shots were fired in the riot which resulted from the campaign meeting of the Venizelos party yesterday and that many followers of the former premier were arrested.

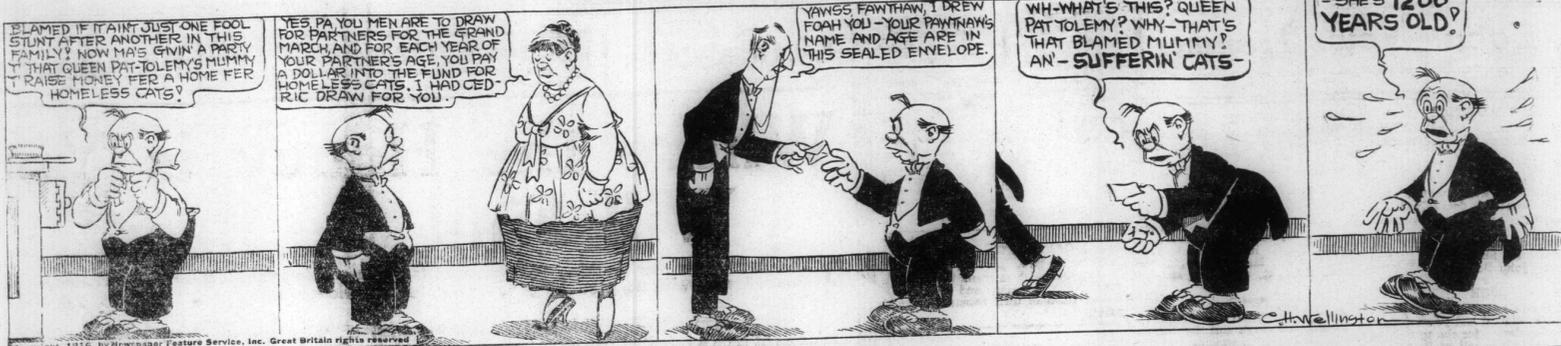

TREASURER'S REPORT.
The City Treasurer's report, now on file in the city clerk's department, shows the total expenditure for the month of March to have been $69,364.60. The receipts for the same period were $54,136.02.

CLAIM DAMAGES.
W. A. Hollinrake on behalf of J. A. Mathewson writes to the city clerk asking that his client be recompensed for damages done his mail wagon on Drummond street some time ago and also injuries to his horse and wagon recently sustained on Grand street. Both these accidents it is claimed were due to the condition of the streets.

FRENCH FROM
Paris, April 17.—Raids by two French aerial squadrons stationed on the Saloniki front are reported in a Havas despatch from Athens. One squadron dropped bombs yesterday morning on Bulgarian forces assembled at Strumitza station. The other attack was made on German positions at Bogdantze. Both squadrons returned undamaged.

Graney's Triple Beat the Tigers

Cleveland, O., April 17.—Coming from behind on three different occasions, the Cleveland Indians finally nipped out the Tigers in a ten inning game Saturday by 4 to 3. The Detroiters copped a two run lead in the early frames, and as Dauss was going well he looked like an Indian defeat, but Cleveland tied things up in the fourth, Bagby, a recruit, started for the locals, but was yanked in the fourth, and Coumbe finished the game. The Tigers forged to the front in the ninth, but the Indians promptly tied it up, and then won out when Graney tripled to left center, scoring O'Neill with what singled.

Fielder Jones Breaks the Jinx at Chicago

Chicago, April 17.—The St. Louis Browns won Saturday their first game in Chicago since October 3, 1914. They defeated the local Americans 6 to 5, in a ragged, wild and erratic game. It was the appearance of Fielder Jones as head of an American League club here since 1908.

Sporting Gossip

Pittsburg critics are up in arms over the fact that "Babe" Adams was not given credit for a no-hit game at St. Louis on Thursday. They point out that the hit credited to Snyder was knocked down by Second Baseman Joe Schultz, who allowed the pitcher to trickle by him. According to many scores, Schultz should have been given an error.

Commenting on pitching feats, perhaps one of the greatest was by Elie Leais at the island in Toronto. In a game against Buffalo, Natress, the first batter, hit the first ball just out of reach of the shortstop for a single. That was the only hit the Bisons got in fourteen innings, as Moffatt for the rest of the afternoon had the Buffalo batters breaking their backs swinging at his slow ones. "Rube" Kissinger was the opposing twirler.

Owner Garry Herrmann and Manager Herzog, of Cincinnati, have been panned for securing Hal Chase from the Federals, but after yesterday Hal will pretty nearly own Red Town. He broke into the game in the third inning, when Mollwitz was ordered to the clubhouse by the ump. At bat he had a single and a double out of two times up, while he pulled a dazzling play on a hard grounder by Carey in the ninth inning. Mollwitz will likely remain a bench warmer.

Tris Speaker showed some of his true form for the Indians on Sunday, when he secured three hits, one a double, out of four times up, scored a run and pilfered a sack. In the field he had five putouts and an assist. Veach of the Tigers had four hits in five attempts, and three of them were doubles. The Indians, by the way, had to come from behind on three different occasions before they beat Detroit in ten innings.

In discussing Irvine's death the Montreal Star states that it was noticed in the world's series with Canadiens that whenever Irvine made a rush up the ice he would skate back with his hand pressed to the pit of his stomach. Major Donald McTaggart, M. D., who is connected with the Coroner's court at Montreal, is of the opinion that there must be an error regarding the cause of Irvine's death from chlorine gas. "In the first place," says the doctor, "I do not know where the chlorine gas would come from, since I understand ammonia is about the only chemical compound used in the manufacture of artificial ice, and in the second place, it seems rather strange that Irvine alone and none of the other players should die as the result."

Perhaps, however, goalkeeper Tommy Murray of Winnipeg and Portland, gives the true conditions. He states that Irvine and the rest of the players went to Brooklyn to attend a ball game, and that Del caught cold as the result.

Crowd Mobs Hazelton For Choquette Letter

One Thousand People Take Him From House, Beat Him, and Later Throw Him Into Muddy Pool—Rescued by Police—Family Repudiates Sentiments of Letter.

Toronto, April 17.—Robert Hazelton, Senator Choquette's correspondent in Todford, was mobbed by his neighbors on Saturday night. He was brutally battered, put into a box, re-embled a coffin and thrown into a pool of muddy water. The windows of his house were also smashed, and the family being afraid to remain there over night, a military police force was called on the scene by General Logie, who was hastily summoned. Though a sprinkling of soldiers were observed in the mob there is no doubt to show that they attacked Hazelton and later on they assisted the city police in protecting him.

The outbreak was the sequel to the reading of Hazelton's letter in the Senate, in which he alleged that a large percentage of the men volunteering for the army in Toronto were sons of English sailors and London's undesirable women. About one thousand men, women and children took part in the attack on the Hazelton home, which is located in Bee street about one mile north of Danforth avenue.

DEMANDING AN ACCOUNTING.

Earlier in the afternoon a party of twenty or thirty civilians, led, according to Mrs. Hazelton, by Amos Allpress, a shoemaker on Bee street, called on Hazelton. "The discussion," Mrs. Hazelton said later in describing the incident, "was about the letter. My husband would not go out. I was standing at the door all the time. This crowd would have mishandled my husband if he had gone out. The crowd stayed about fifteen minutes. I said: 'You just leave this place, as it belongs to me.' Allpress said: 'All right, if the place belongs to you, but we will come back to-night.' They kept their word. When they gathered in the evening they were all shouting, according to Mrs. Hazelton, SMASHED INTO THE HOUSE.

"The whole crowd poured round the house and a soldier came and he asked for my husband. I told him that he had gone down to Pape avenue station to get the police. This was not true, but I told him that so that the crowd would go away. My husband was upstairs. I shut the door and the soldier told the crowd that my husband was not in. The soldier then smashed the kitchen window and the next window, and the kitchen door was smashed the rest. The crowd then was then broken in. I could not say who did this. IN THE HANDS OF THE MOB

"My husband then came downstairs. The crowd was in the kitchen by this time. This crowd was composed of civilians and soldiers. They grabbed my husband and took him outside. I saw this. They handled him roughly. This was about 7.30 p. m. They brought a coffin-shaped box on their shoulders. They put the box on the ground and put my husband in it. There was such a mob that I could not see what happened. My son, the caretaker of the Body Guards, peeped out of the window and saw my husband standing against the south wall. I heard my husband talking to the crowd. I did not hear what he said. The constable came just after this and got my husband away as he said."

CONSTABLE TO THE RESCUE

It was County Constable Thomas McCann who arrived at this opportune moment in response to the appeal of neighboring ladies. When he got to the house he found Hazelton standing against the south wall talking to a crowd of civilians and soldiers. "The place was black with people," the constable afterwards said in his statement to General Logie. "The crowd was talking to Hazelton. I did not see him struck. He was not struck after I came. I pushed my way through the crowd and said: "Give him to me, boys." "The crowd said: 'No, we will take him,' but finally they said: 'Take him, then.' "I said to Hazelton: 'You come with me.' "He said: 'Yes, I'll go.' He was allowed to go peacefully. The crowd kept hitting at him from the back, but did not strike him. This was done by civilians. While I was there no soldiers struck at him or did anything out of the way. They may have shouted, but I could not say who shouted."

During the altercation at the house Constable McCann drew his revolver to enforce his demand for the release of Hazelton, this having the desired effect. "THROWN INTO WATER HOLE.

"At the waterhole on Don Mills road, corner of Fulton avenue, the crowd rushed in and tried to get him, but I did not see any soldier do this. I could not say who did. I kept hold of Hazelton and kept the crowd away, who kept jeering and telling me to hug him."

tection in rear of the police, and the soldiers kept the crowd back until we reached Danforth and Broadview, where we called for the wagon, when I again appealed to some soldiers, about thirty to form a guard around him, which they did. General Logie arrived at 8.10 p. m.

TAKEN TO POLICE STATION

Finally Hazelton was taken to a motor patrol wagon and removed to safety. MILITARY GUARD FOR HOUSE

Meanwhile General Logie and Lt. Co. Windeyer had insisted from headquarters to the Hazelton home, chief witnesses of the affair and placed a military guard over the battered house. Hazelton was kept in the police station over night, though he returned to his home on Sunday morning. He was not accessible to interested and suffering from blackened eyes. Though a healthy vigorous man and a veteran of the rebellion of 1885, he is sixty-two years old, and the shock and beating was serious.

FAMILY REPUDIATES LETTER

That he acted most unwisely in writing the recent letter to Senator Choquette is the view of his wife and his son. Mrs. Hazelton said this in her statement to General Logie. "My sons and myself think that it was a dreadful thing to write such a letter. I thought my husband should not have said what he did. I thought it was wrong of him to say such things, which were not true. I know that the things he said in that letter were not true, but my husband said he did not mean the people here, but only the people all over Canada, whom the Salvation Army brought in to inspect their cities."

SON ASHAMED OF IT ALL

Fred M. Hazelton, one of the sons, made this statement. "I am very sorry my father wrote the letter he did. It certainly did not represent the views of the family, and none of us think that the neighbors believe that it does. The neighbors, in my opinion, slanderous. My father, admitted to me that the wording of the letter was incorrect, and mis-stated the facts. I felt ashamed to go on with my work to-day. The family feel the effects of it, and we had no connection in the matter at all."

Toney is Liberal, But Tight in the Pinches

Cincinnati, O., April 17.—Although Toney gave eight bases on balls he tightened in the pinches and, holding the Pirates to four hits, allowed the Reds to take the first of a three game series yesterday 6 to 1.

Callahan used three pitchers. Chase broke in as a Redleg when Mollwitz was ordered out of the game in the third inning. He got two hits, one a double, out of twice up, stole two bases and pulled a dazzling play in the ninth when Carey drove a hard bouncer to him. Score— R. H. E. LT.-COL. M'CLAREN'S MEN They Are Now Resting in Billets, According to Cablegram Received.

Hamilton, April 17.—Mrs. McLaren wife of Lieut. Col. John I. McLaren, whose battalion is made up largely of Toronto and Hamilton soldiers, received a cablegram from him Saturday announcing that the men are now in their rest billets back of the lines. It is taken from this that they participated in the recent heavy fighting. The colonel was to have gone to London on leave this week, but has cancelled the arrangement.

BRITISH MADE AIR RAID ON CONSTANTINOPLE

London, April 17.—The statement by the British Admiralty on the air raid on Constantinople reads as follows:— "On Friday evening three of our naval aeroplanes carried out a raid on Constantinople. Bombs were dropped on the Zeitunlik powder factory and aeroplane hangars. Another naval aeroplane visited Adrianople and dropped bombs on the railway station. All returned safely. Elaine the Fair
A Serial Story of Absorbing Interest.

CHAPTER XXII.
The excitement caused by the disappearance of the Englishman had subsided in the French village. The police had persevered in their inquiries long after every one else had ceased to talk of the affair, and Macdonald had been secretly shadowed on his return journey and for weeks afterwards. But time went on, and things gradually resumed their ordinary course. Every one was certain that the unfortunate man had cast himself into the river and had been swept out to sea, and by degrees he faded from people's thoughts.

Mrs. Marshall, mother of the young daughter, was a chronic invalid, and was waited on with the utmost devotion by her son, who had sold his English practice in order that he might make a home for her in a warmer climate. The simple French villagers regarded with admiration his ingenious inventions for her comfort, and were surprised at nothing originated by him on his mother's account. As the weather became colder and the days shorter he was observed rigging up a little forerunner on the flat roof of their abode, where Mrs. Marshall sat for hours, sometimes visible from below, knitting or reading, and sometimes with a passing remark to a new-comer was the only notice taken of the young Doctor's new invention.

When the mornings were fine he took his mother to drive in a motor-car hired from a neighboring town. The car sometimes came at night in order that she might have the use of it early in the morning while the sun was warm. Occasionally Doctor Marshall would take advantage of its being there to respond to midnight callers and men coming home late at night heard its "rattle" as it glided past them with the two figures inside. On these occasions he has been frequently hailed by the police, still on their search of Sir Everard, and his car had been subjected to a thorough search. He only laughed at such incidents and said, "Why should I help a madman to escape?" he asked good-humoredly, shrugging his shoulders. "I do not even know his name, or where he lives, or who his friends are. I have nowhere to take him to and no money to pay for him. You found his clothes by the river, and you know that you, I am quite willing."

Doctor Marshall's household consisted of his mother and a respectable Englishwoman, Phoebe, by name, who waited on her and did the cooking for the family; a young French girl as housemaid, and a gardener for the outside work. The house had an old one, with quaint turrets and winding stairs, one of the latter leading to the flat roof on which Mrs. Marshall frequently sat. Her meals were carried to her there, and her son frequently sat with her.

It was an evening late in the year, damp and gloomy, of autumn pervaded the air. Doctor Marshall walked home slowly and in meditation. As he glanced upwards he saw the house he observed a small red flag fluttered from the top. He himself in at the front door, and himself up stairs to his mother's room, and tapped at the door.

The key within was turned and Phoebe admitted Mrs. Marshall, who shall was sitting near the stove, reading.
"Is he outside, mother?"
"Yes, such an evening for an invalid to be out. Damp, raw cold! But nothing would keep him in, so Phoebe turned the shelter, and I have been sitting there waiting for you, my dear, for at least my mother and I believe it is safe to get him off. I have been thinking of to-morrow. I shall have an urgent call and send for the motor."
"They can do nothing to you, Philip, even if they find him!"
"Oh, dear, no! But whoever knocked him over the head is keeping a name, but otherwise we told no story. The great thing is to get him back to England, secretly, so that the plan fails, he can't work out the thing as he wants, so let us hope it won't be discovered at the end."
Phoebe had disappeared at the entrance of her master, but now she tapped at the door and he unlocked it. She was carrying a tray with coffee for two.

"I hope there is good provision for an invalid who is marvellously recovering her appetite," Mrs. Marshall said laughing.
"I was afraid to bring too much, Ma'am," Phoebe answered. "That French hussy has a way of watching and inquiring that I don't like."
Doctor Marshall shot a glance at his mother, but he made no remark. Phoebe carried the tray to a flight of three steps leading to the flat roof on which the shelter stood. She pushed it aside the screen and laying the tray on the inner table, retired. Doctor Marshall followed her. He cast a glance round in all directions and then carefully secured the curtain.

"She shall have to make a dash for it to-morrow or the next day," he said.
"The sooner the better! But is there special danger? Anything new?"
Sir Everard Denham, his forehead still strapped with plaster and his arm in a sling, glanced up eagerly.
"It is getting shelter much longer, so your time out of doors must come to an end, my friend. Then the yacht is waiting for you whenever you arrive. Further, Phoebe thinks the up with your infernal nonsense any more, you will find yourself mistaken," he cried. "Am I to let a patient die while I wait for you to rummage my car?"

The men had placed themselves across the road, and he was obliged to slacken his speed. But his hand was on the wheel and his keen eye was watching for an opportunity.
"Take notice!" he shouted again. "I am driving myself, and I will ride anybody down who tries to stop me! I have put up with this kind of thing too long."
He saw his opportunity, and by a swift movement ran the car to the side and passed them. Their shouts and cries were soon lost in the distance.

"That was a close one!" said the Doctor, laughing. "I shall have to rouse the real chauffeur as soon as I return and get him out, dead or alive, for they will be making all sorts of inquiries. He will be too muddled to be able to tell the hours. And I must go to the police and bluff their eyes were now accustomed nearly ruined by the delay, which will be the truth."
"Do you think you will get into trouble about it?"
"I don't care if I do, though I don't deny I shall be glad to get you off my hands."
Sir Everard had been straining his eyes towards a dark clump before him. Doctor Marshall had chosen a moonless night for the escape, but the stars were feebly glimmering, and their eyes were now accustomed to the darkness. As they shot up to the object before them they heard a low whistle, and Doctor Marshall came to a stop.

Lord Brixton's voice was heard. "Quick! There is no time to be lost! There are watchers everywhere!"
Sir Everard flung off the fur coat and climbed into the second motor. There was no time for thanks or farewells. In a moment the change had been made. Doctor Marshall whizzed off by a different road from that by which he had come, succeeded in his design of reaching the house unperceived, roused the chauffeur and dragged him out, half dazed, to return to the spot where he had parted with Sir Everard, and proceeded thence by the usual route home. As he was alighting from the car a police agent came up and accosted him.

"Pardon, monsieur, but we wish to know why you drove yourself tonight when your chauffeur was in the car?"
"Look at him and you will see. Anything else? I shall write to headquarters to-morrow and have a stop put to this persecution. You may be sure of that."
The men peered into the face of the chauffeur and perceived his condition. They attempted to make explanations, but Doctor Marshall refused to listen to them. His wrath was loudly expressed, and his words that things should be made hot for them were so emphatic that they withdrew, nor did they trouble the young English Doctor again.

Meanwhile Lord Brixton's motor was speeding towards the coast. During the journey he was put in possession of all the incidents of Sir Everard's illness, and in his turn related to an eager listener the part he and Lisabel Beresford had played in finding and helping Lucy Carden.
It was agreed that the next step should be for Sir Everard to go to Wales, and between him and Lisabel to induce Lucy to disclose all that had occurred on the night of Mr. Verinder's death. They believed their course would then be clear. They had had to deal with daring and unscrupulous enemies who believed they had destroyed every proof of their guilt, but unseen forces had been silently working, and at the very zenith of their triumph a strength mightier than theirs was waiting to dash the fabric of falsehood to the ground.

POPULAR RULE RESTORED AGAIN IN NICARAGUA

For Twenty Years Autocracy and Revolution has Hindered Free Rule.

PRESIDENT STANDS ONLY ONE TERM

Right of Free Speech is Granted and Meetings Are in Order.

Managua, Nicaragua, April 14.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The people of Nicaragua are to be given the right to elect their own president and to have the selection of a president that will be a remarkable state of affairs for Nicaragua where, for twenty years dictatorship and revolt on have interlarded and made such a condition impossible. As the Secretary of State expressed it in an official letter when he dismissed the Nicaraguan Minister from the United States in 1909: "It is equally notorious that under the regime of President Zelaya, republican institutions have ceased to exist in Nicaragua except in name, that public opinion and the press have been strangled and that prisons have been the price of every demonstration of patriotism."

President Diaz has just issued an announcement through the press, and says he will make it official by a proclamation in the Official Gazette, that "it has been the basis of my program of government to restore in Nicaragua all the republican practices." To that end, he continues, the most important is the succession of one-term presidents in the Executive Power, selected by popular will.

As the presidential election in Nicaragua occurs October 1, next, and as politics are warming and the parties are gathering themselves together, this announcement is most significant. The present generation, except the older people who were active before 1898, know nothing of a popular discussion of candidates for the presidency, of a free registration of votes, or of any expression of the popular will. Such things were not permitted under President Zelaya from 1888 to 1910.

The Provisional Government which gained force that year adopted a new constitution for a republican form of government, providing that the presidential term should be four years and an incumbent could not practice himself, thus restoring the practice in Nicaragua for the quarter century preceding Zelaya.

The President now declares that the one-term provision will be carried out, which means that he will retire, and states further that the free expression of the popular will in the future will be guaranteed by the Government "with the same care that I have taken, that the other guarantees which the constitution gives to the citizens shall be respected."

He says that there is further guarantee of the free exercise of public meetings provided that it be done with decorum and in lawful manner. He calls attention to the fact that the Jefe Politico (Governors) of the Departments last month that all citizens who desired to register will be given further opportunity on two days in May.

The Liberals, which is the party in opposition, are already taking advantage of the President's declaration that free discussion will be permitted, by organizing clubs and calling meetings. The Conservatives are doing the same. So there is good prospect of a six months' lively campaign. Some of the Liberals seem a little stunned by the announcement that free speech will be permitted, so that most of the present high officials of the Government, who are Conservatives, spent more or less time in prison or in exile for indulging in free speech in the regime of Zelaya the significance of President Diaz's announcement can be appreciated. It marks a new epoch for Nicaragua.
