

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JULY 15, 1904

The Parraboro Steamer.

So far the agitation to secure the calling of the Parraboro steamer at this port has been without success. The information that has been obtained from the management of the steamer is to the effect that the contract entered into with the government requires the calling of the boat...

An extended discussion took place in which all the members of the Council took part, the general impression being that means should be taken in the near future to increase the water supply and also secure an increased storage capacity.

The outcome of the discussion was the passing of a resolution to the effect that operations be begun at once to bore a well at or near the present reservoir.

By resolution the Council indicated that it favored the boring being undertaken by day's work rather than by contract, and the matter of arranging detail was left with the Water Committee, with instruction to proceed at once and have the work done.

The Clerk was instructed to sell certain lots in town for frontage tax, in accordance with and as the law directs.

Resolved that the Council consider the discount already allowed Miss Louise Bishop re sewer connection (50 feet of frontage) quite sufficient, and the town will be under no obligation in reference to cleaning cesspool on her premises.

Resolved that the Clerk be instructed to collect all overdue cesspool accounts as per resolution passed May 25, 1904.

Result of Examination of Grade VII for Entrance to High School.

Sixteen candidates presented themselves for this examination. The questions were those of the regular provincial high school entrance papers and identical with those used by the county academies of Nova Scotia. They are sent out by the education office.

Of the sixteen candidates, the following twelve were successful:

A Change to Hear the Famous Black Watch Band.

The famous Black Watch Regiment Band consisting of 45 members and 15 pipers will give an afternoon concert in Windsor early in October. As the band is under heavy expense, concert will not be given unless an amount is raised sufficient for a guarantee. To that end subscription lists are now open, and must be closed by Wednesday, 20th inst. Everyone should make an effort to hear this band. Arrangements will be made with the D. A. R. for one first-class fare. Subscribers have first choice of seats. List now open at Parker's Pharmacy.

The Old Wolfville Hotel Burned.

The old 'Wolfville Hotel,' one of the very oldest buildings in town, was totally destroyed by fire at an early hour last Friday morning. At about 2.30 o'clock, while Thomas Rogers was on his way to summon a doctor, he discovered the building to be on fire and at once rang in an alarm. The firemen were promptly on the spot, but at that time the fire had made such headway that it was impossible to save the building, which was then full of fire with the flames were breaking through the roof. Fortunately there was no wind, and the firemen were able to confine the fire to the building, which was burned to the ground. The property belonged to the estate of the late Major Cassack, and was insured in the Royal for $5000.

THE ACADIAN has not been able to ascertain the name of the first owner of this building or the date of its erection. It was probably built by one of the early DeWolfs, and was undoubtedly one of the first houses constructed in Wolfville. For a great many years it was used as a hotel, and was one of the stopping-places of the old stage coach. About sixty years ago the building was enlarged by an addition on the east end. This was done in the time of Capt. Thomas Hancock who first occupied the building as a hotel. He was succeeded by William Thompson, Joseph Lyons, Henry Farrell and Charles Eastwood. For several years it has served as a tenement for a number of families, the last of whom moved out the day before the fire. It was the intention of the proprietor to make a number of changes and improvements in the near future. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought to have been set by a tramp. In one of the outbuildings was stored a quantity of lime and other material, and this, as well as the other buildings and the Tabernacle, all of which are quite new, were saved in an unimpaired condition.

Every child in the country needs, at some time or other, a medicine to correct the ill incident to childhood. If Baby's Own Tablets are kept in the house and occasionally given to the little ones they will prevent illness and make the little ones plump, strong and cheerful. Mothers should insist on having this medicine because it contains no opiate or harmful drug, and children take the Tablets as readily as they take candy. If you have a neighbor who has used the Tablets ask her and she will tell you what splendid satisfaction they give. Here is what one mother, Mrs. Wm. Sinclair, Helton, N. B., says: 'I have used Baby's Own Tablets with so much satisfaction that I do not feel safe when I have not got a box in the house. I am sure that other mothers will be quite as well pleased with them. You can get the Tablets through your druggist or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.'

A special meeting of the Council was held at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, with Mayor DeWitt in the chair and all the Board present, with the Recorder.

The first matter of business discussed was the need of increasing the water supply.

The meeting was called in connection with a visit to the reservoir by members of the Council on Monday, when the project of sinking an artesian well to increase the supply was suggested.

Oddfellows' Excursion.

The members of 'Orpheus' Lodge have arranged to have an excursion to Parisboro by the Steamer 'Brunswick' on Thursday of next week. The boat will leave Wolfville on the arrival of the morning train from Kentville, and will return in time for those who attend from Kentville and ports west to catch the evening train home. Both in going and returning the boat will call at Kingsport. Refreshments will be served on board, good order will be strictly maintained and everything possible done to ensure a pleasant day's outing to all who participate. This opportunity to inspect the beauties of Blomidon, Partridge Island and various points on Minas Basin will no doubt be taken advantage of by many, and a delightful and successful time is assured. For particulars as to tickets, etc., see posters.

Sudden Death on Sunday.

The death of Dr. A. C. Cogswell, of Halifax, occurred on Sunday afternoon at 'Elmley Cottage,' this town. Dr. Cogswell had been in poor health for three or four years past, but was able to continue his dental practice more or less fully until last autumn. A week ago he came to Wolfville, hoping that the change would prove beneficial to his health.

The deceased was a native of Cornwallis, where he was born 70 years ago. He went to the United States and graduated in dentistry, after which he practiced that profession there. In 1859 he went to Halifax and opened an office in Hollis Street, where he began work and where he continued ever since, of late years his son, Dr. A. W. Cogswell, having been the most active partner in the firm. Dr. Cogswell was a director of the Nova Scotia Telephone Company, and was president of the Dartmouth Electric Company. St. Matthew's church had in him a regular attendant and warm friend, and for years he was one of the elders in its session. A widow and two children survive.

A. E. and Dr. A. W. Cogswell.

The remains were taken to Halifax on Monday's 'Bluenose,' where the funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon.

Cricket.

Last April a cricket eleven was organized from among the commercial men who travel in the province, which promised to cut quite a figure in sporting circles. The migratory habits of the players of course, has made anything like practice matches very few and far between, and the team has hardly come together for practice since it was organized. Notwithstanding this drawback, however, the cricketers who have come up against the Commercial have found them the toughest sort of a proposition.

On June 18th the full team managed to get together in Annapolis, where they met the town cricketers, and won a game from them with a score of 61 to 76. They next played Bridgetown on July 8th and put their opponents to sleep with a score of 48 to 126. The team will play Westmouth on the 28th, and Yarmouth and Windsor later in the season.

The doughty eleven is made up as follows:

- D. W. Puddington, rep'g W. H. Hathaway & Co.
Walter Chase rep'g Hall & Fairweather.
George Harle rep'g Canadian Rubber Co.
B. D. Lingley rep'g Canadian Drug Co.
H. E. Standley rep'g Ogilvie's Flour.
Wm. Mishinick rep'g Fabbatt & Crowe Flour.
J. H. Crosby Insurance.
H. Pike rep'g Chester Brewer & Co.
G. B. Trites rep'g T. B. Barker & Co.

A third alarm of fire within a week was sounded on Tuesday morning. This time the fire was in the roof of Munro's Door and Sash Factory, and was caused by a spark from the chimney falling upon the roof. The fire company was promptly upon the spot and succeeded in extinguishing the fire with little damage to the building.

The old delapidated plank bridge for driveways, etc., ought to have become a thing of the past. Now is the time to have them replaced by a terra cotta bridge. C. M. Gormley, of this town, has on hand a supply of hand-glazed crock pipe, guaranteed against frost, which is especially adapted for the purpose and cheaper in the end.

The Baptist Convention of the Maritimes, in an article on the prominent part taken by the Canadians at the Baptist Young People's Union Convention in that city, says: "The Canadian speaks this year maintained the high record made by their predecessors through the thirteen year's history of the Union." Dr. Trotter's address on "Christian Education" Thursday evening, and the consecration sermon preached on the day by Rev. John McNeill, pastor of the First Church, Winnipeg, are generally admitted to be the finest production of the convention.

The Annual Exhibition at Winnipeg is rapidly coming to the front as one of the most attractive Fairs throughout the Dominion. Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest are making wonderful progress in every way. The tremendous rush of settlers to the Western Prairies from the United States as well as from Great Britain and the Continent is rapidly filling up the territory around Winnipeg, and last year saw an increase of something like fifteen thousand in population of this thriving Western town, and this year they anticipate an increase of at least twenty thousand, which should give them a population of something over eighty thousand.

The coming of the famous English musical comedy, "The Silver Slipper," with one hundred people, its special orchestra and magnificent cast and production—the largest indoor amusement attraction in America, should prove as great a revelation of amusement history in Eastern Canada as the coming of the Great Barnum and Bailey show. Every city, town and hamlet in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward's Island, Cape Breton, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario, will be thoroughly advertised for the various engagements in the Dominion. This will be the first time that a truly big and gigantic American attraction has ever been seen in the Maritime Provinces.

The automobile has evidently taken a permanent place among vehicles for man's use. Even in Wolfville they have become a very usual sight on our streets. The objection to them that they frighten horses and thus interfere with traffic gradually passes away as the animals become accustomed to the sight of the strange "horseless carriage." Those who have had the privilege of driving in them readily account for their popularity. Through the courtesy of Mr. D. K. Munro, who is the promoter here of this carriage, we had a drive of some miles in his machine one day recently. The sensation is a most delightful one, and the rate of speed attained without the slightest discomfort is wonderful. The steepest hills, even when the road was rough and sandy, were taken with perfect ease, the driver at all times having the carriage under complete control. Mr. Munro has already driven his machine nearly a thousand miles and has never so far found it necessary to dismount to make any repair or change while on the road.

Canadian Story-Writers. Beach Echoes.

There are thousands of people who should appreciate Canadian stories because they are Canadian, yet are quite unfamiliar with the names of Canadian story-writers. The July "Canadian Magazine" contains at least three stories of leaders in this class of literature. There is a racing story by W. A. Fraser, who is the author of several books, and a resident of Georgetown, a small town just west of Toronto. There is a humorous tale by A. R. Carman, a staff writer on the Montreal Star, the author of two novels, and a descriptive writer of considerable experience. The western story, "Star-Blanket," is by Duncan Campbell Scott, an officer in the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa, and the author of some volumes of verse of more than ordinary merit. It is pleasant to know that it is possible for a magazine editor to secure stories by native writers fully equal to those produced elsewhere in the Anglo-Saxon world. This number contains also some articles of exceptional interest, including "The Ladies' Empire Club of London," by Lily Bernard; "An Outing on the Bay of Fundy's Shore," by E. C. Sears; a character sketch of Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, by T. A. Gregg; and "How Our Grandfathers Lived," by Frank Veigh. All these contributions are appropriately illustrated. Special attention is also given to summer books. The colored frontispiece is an attractive bit of Canadian scenery.

Roosevelt or Parker.

The two great political parties in the United States have now elected their candidates for the Presidency and Vice-presidency. President Roosevelt and Senator Fairbanks of Indiana represent the choice of the Republican party, and Judge Alton B. Parker of New York State, and Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, that of the Democrats. The national convention of the Democrats, held in St. Louis last week, showed much less unanimity in the choice of a candidate than did the Republican convention two weeks earlier in Chicago. Eight candidates in all were nominated. In spite of an anti-Parker speech from W. J. Bryan, which is described as electrifying, it was found on the first ballot that Judge Parker had nearly enough votes to secure his nomination, and as several other States came quickly to his support his nomination was placed beyond doubt. A motion to make the nomination unanimous was then moved and carried. Judge Parker is a Democrat of the Cleveland type and as such stands for the best traditions of his party. His character and record appear to be such as to justify the belief that if elected he would make a very respectable President. The probability of his being elected however is small. President Roosevelt is popular with the nation, and though there are some of the party leaders who would have preferred another candidate, he will doubtless command the strength and enthusiasm of his party as a whole, whereas it seemed certain that all Judge Parker can hope for from a considerable section of his party is a lukewarm support. The Prohibitionists have also nominated three candidates—Silas C. Swallow, of Pennsylvania, as President and George W. Carroll, of Texas, Vice-President. In addition to its declaration in favor of Prohibition, the Prohibitionist platform declares in favor of international arbitration, uniform laws for the country and its dependencies, popular election of Senators, the initiative and referendum and a number of other reforms.

This Weather Breeds Fever and Pneumonia.

Thousands of Sick People Seeking Admittance to Overcrowded Hospitals. Take Warning and Keep up Your Strength.

A fair of the hospitals in the large Canadian cities shows a surprising number suffering from different complaints brought on by the present unhealthy weather.

The winds are full of searching dampness and loaded with myriads of germs just waiting for a favorable opportunity to fly down your throat. If your vitality is low these germs are sure to break out in some malignant disease.

To avoid sickness you must keep up your strength. Increase your appetite. Get as much nourishment into the blood as possible. Store up a reserve of vigor.

How can it be done? Very easily with Ferrerozine which revitalizes all the functions of the body, stimulates the formation of pure, rich blood, invigorates digestion and renews the endurance of the whole system.

You can ward off sickness and fight disease with Ferrerozine because it is a food tonic that supplies building material for exhausted tissues. This assures firm, hard flesh, strong sinew and muscle—in a word, strong health.

At school little Charley, being one of the geography class, was deeply interested in learning the points of the compass. Said his teacher, "You have in front of you the north; on your right, the east; on your left, the west. What have you behind you?" After a moment's reflection, Charley exclaimed, "A patch on my pants." And to make the information more oinding, Charley continued in a shamefaced manner, "I knew you'd see it. I told mamma you would."

"I am deeply interested in discovering the Lost Tribes of Israel," said Mr. Murky, as he came in and sat down by the busy editor for an hour's discussion of the subject. "So?" replied the man of resources. "Why don't you advertise for them? The business office is on the first floor. Here, Dan, show the gentleman to the advertising department."

The Things He Lost.

The following speech, which is quoted in Weapons for Temperance Warfare, was made by a reformed drunkard at a temperance meeting:

"I have been thinking since I came into the meeting tonight about the losses I have met with since I signed the temperance pledge. I tell you there is not a man in the society who has lost more by stopping drink than I have. Wait a bit till I tell you what I mean. There was a nice job of work to be done in the shop to-day, and the boss called for me. 'Give it to Law,' says he; 'he's the best hand in the shop.'"

"Well, I told my wife at supper time and she says, 'Why, Lawrie, he used to call you his worst!' You've lost your bad name haven't you?"

"That's a fact, wife," says I, "and it ain't all I've lost in six months; either. I had poverty and wretchedness, and I've lost them. I had an old ragged coat and a shoddy hat and some waterproof boots that let the water out at the tops as fast as they took it in at the heels. I've lost them. I had a red face and trembling hand, and a pair of shaky legs that gave me an awful tumble now and then. I had a habit of cursing and swearing and I've got rid of that. I had an aching head and a heavy heart and worse than all the rest, a guilty conscience. I thank God I've lost them all!"

"Then I told my wife what she had lost. 'You had an old ragged gown, Mary,' says I, 'and you had trouble and sorrow and a poor wretched home and plenty of heartaches, for you had a miserable drunkard for a husband. Mary! Mary! thank the Lord for all that you and I have lost since I signed the Good Samaritan Pledge!'"

How Little Once Suffer.

This suffering item is from a reformed drunkard of the "Old Dominion."

Oh, the woes of childhood on account of the drink habit! Who can estimate them? They mount higher than the heavens and sink deeper than hell. Little nine-year-old Frank Larissey, of Chicago, could not endure it that his mother was a drunkard, and that she spent all of her money for beer and let him go ragged and hungry to meet the jibes and jeers of his playmates, and that she beat him in spite of his cry for mercy. The little fellow fled to his grand-mother for consolation and then attempted to hang himself.

The boy's straightforward story and six feet of tightly twisted rope out of which he had fashioned the noose, made a pathetic scene in the juvenile court. He will be put to school and not returned to his mother until the court is satisfied that she has permanently reformed. Why are such heart-breaking occurrences made possible in a civilized country and a Christian community?

A Tennessee Experiment.

Martin is a town of Tennessee that some time ago sustained fourteen barrooms. The local opinion movement that swept the state took in the county in which Martin is situated, and today the town is free from the license evil. In the Nashville American some of the results of the change are described by a Martin correspondent who clip the following:

"Instead trade has increased, the number of arrests has decreased and the man who usually bought on credit now buys for cash."

"Many a time men with families have come to town, ragged and unkempt, putting in the day at the saloon spending their hard earned money for whiskey and probably going home without a morsel to eat or clothing for their wives and children."

"Since the saloons went out of business some of the same men come into town in a wagon, buggy or hack, with their wives and children and 'load up' their wagon with food and clothing for all, and a peaceful, happy and contented smile in their faces."

"No blind tiger has thrived here, and the officers have been and are on the watch all the time."

"Very little bootlegging is carried on, and it is only now and then that a drunken man is seen on the streets."

"There is not a business man nor other citizen of Martin, no matter what his occupation, who now wastes the saloon back."

"There are no vacant residences, and there is a demand on all sides from parties wanting to move here for houses to rent."

"There is not a happier or better contented people anywhere than in Martin, and the banishment of the saloons is one of the prime causes."

What a Small Vice Costs.

The Things He Lost.

The following speech, which is quoted in Weapons for Temperance Warfare, was made by a reformed drunkard at a temperance meeting:

"I have been thinking since I came into the meeting tonight about the losses I have met with since I signed the temperance pledge. I tell you there is not a man in the society who has lost more by stopping drink than I have. Wait a bit till I tell you what I mean. There was a nice job of work to be done in the shop to-day, and the boss called for me. 'Give it to Law,' says he; 'he's the best hand in the shop.'"

"Well, I told my wife at supper time and she says, 'Why, Lawrie, he used to call you his worst!' You've lost your bad name haven't you?"

"That's a fact, wife," says I, "and it ain't all I've lost in six months; either. I had poverty and wretchedness, and I've lost them. I had an old ragged coat and a shoddy hat and some waterproof boots that let the water out at the tops as fast as they took it in at the heels. I've lost them. I had a red face and trembling hand, and a pair of shaky legs that gave me an awful tumble now and then. I had a habit of cursing and swearing and I've got rid of that. I had an aching head and a heavy heart and worse than all the rest, a guilty conscience. I thank God I've lost them all!"

"Then I told my wife what she had lost. 'You had an old ragged gown, Mary,' says I, 'and you had trouble and sorrow and a poor wretched home and plenty of heartaches, for you had a miserable drunkard for a husband. Mary! Mary! thank the Lord for all that you and I have lost since I signed the Good Samaritan Pledge!'"

How Little Once Suffer.

This suffering item is from a reformed drunkard of the "Old Dominion."

Oh, the woes of childhood on account of the drink habit! Who can estimate them? They mount higher than the heavens and sink deeper than hell. Little nine-year-old Frank Larissey, of Chicago, could not endure it that his mother was a drunkard, and that she spent all of her money for beer and let him go ragged and hungry to meet the jibes and jeers of his playmates, and that she beat him in spite of his cry for mercy. The little fellow fled to his grand-mother for consolation and then attempted to hang himself.

The boy's straightforward story and six feet of tightly twisted rope out of which he had fashioned the noose, made a pathetic scene in the juvenile court. He will be put to school and not returned to his mother until the court is satisfied that she has permanently reformed. Why are such heart-breaking occurrences made possible in a civilized country and a Christian community?

A Tennessee Experiment.

Martin is a town of Tennessee that some time ago sustained fourteen barrooms. The local opinion movement that swept the state took in the county in which Martin is situated, and today the town is free from the license evil. In the Nashville American some of the results of the change are described by a Martin correspondent who clip the following:

"Instead trade has increased, the number of arrests has decreased and the man who usually bought on credit now buys for cash."

"Many a time men with families have come to town, ragged and unkempt, putting in the day at the saloon spending their hard earned money for whiskey and probably going home without a morsel to eat or clothing for their wives and children."

"Since the saloons went out of business some of the same men come into town in a wagon, buggy or hack, with their wives and children and 'load up' their wagon with food and clothing for all, and a peaceful, happy and contented smile in their faces."

"No blind tiger has thrived here, and the officers have been and are on the watch all the time."

"Very little bootlegging is carried on, and it is only now and then that a drunken man is seen on the streets."

"There is not a business man nor other citizen of Martin, no matter what his occupation, who now wastes the saloon back."

"There are no vacant residences, and there is a demand on all sides from parties wanting to move here for houses to rent."

"There is not a happier or better contented people anywhere than in Martin, and the banishment of the saloons is one of the prime causes."

What a Small Vice Costs.

"How can you afford all these
