CONSERVATIVES WIN BYE-ELECTIONS

Now Control P. E. I. and Have Made Gains in Nova Scotia

Charlottetown, P. E. I. Nov. 15—The result of the provincial by-elections in the third and fourth districts of Queens to-day was a big landslide for the Conservative opposition. The Liberal government, in power since 1894, has been defeated. The new house will consist of fourteen Liberals, fifteen straight Conservatives and one independent Conservative.

Halifax, Nov. 15—The Conservatives captured the two seats where by-elections were held in Nova Scotia today for the provincial legislature—Digby and Lunenburg.

In Digby, H. H. Marshall (Con) is elected by a majority of about 500 over A. E. Wall (Lib).

In Lunenburg C. G. Zwicker (Con) has a majority of nearly 200 over William Duff (Lib). The opposition in the Nova Scotia legislature will now number thirteen, the strength of the Liberal Government being twenty-five.

THE STAIRCASE TEST

If You Cannot pass It Your Health is Failing.

When you suffer acute palpitation of the heart, dizziness or faintness every time you go up stairs; when exertion of any kind leaves you breathless and trembling it is a warning that your blood is defective—that you are anemic. If these warnings are neglected worse disorders will follow—perhaps decline and deadly consumption. If you are in this condition you need the new, good blood that has been given to thousands of sufferers by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills banish all the ailments arising from poor blood, tone up the system and make weak men and women well and strong. Miss Elizabeth Campbell, Almonte, Ont., says: "I was living in Pennsylvania at the time my health failed me. I kept growing weaker every day until I at last grew so weak I could not walk up stairs without help, and I could not go down street without sitting down and resting. My mother got quite anxious about me and took me to a doctor who said he was quite sure he could restore my health. He gave me a bottle of medicine, and I continued its use until I had taken four bottles, but instead of growing stronger I was growing weaker all the time, and was only a mere shadow of my former self. My parents believed I was in decline and could not get better. My mother had heard so much about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that she decided I ought to try them. I did not notice much change until I had taken five or six boxes, when a decided improvement set in, and from that on I grew stronger and stronger each day, until through a continued use of the pills I was back to my old-time health and strength. I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best remedy on earth for sick people, and cannot too strongly urge other weak girls to give them a trial."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TO POPULARIZE MILITARY TRAINING

Ottawa, Nov. 18—At the Advisory Military conference Lieut. Col. Loggie of Hamilton, proposed a resolution for training along the line of the Australian system, where service in cadet corps, commencing at 12 years and lasting until 21, is essential.

It was proposed to make minimum pay for infantry $1. per day with more liberal extras; cavalrymen, that military service and attendance at instruction schools should count in the West for homestead duties, that the pay be increased to 75 cents per day, with certain increases based on service, etc., to $1.25; that each regiment should have two Maxim guns, and an extra wagon; that the allowance for horses be increased to $1.50 per day, and that the sale of malt liquors in camp be authorized. As to canteens Col. Weston said if they were allowed, it would be distinctly contrary to the law in the Maritime Provinces.

A committee consisting of the following clergymen and laymen was appointed to prepare a letter to the public explaining the ethical value of physical drill and military training—Rev. Dr. Carman representing the Methodists; Rev. Canon Dauth, the Roman Catholics; Rev. J. W. McMillan, the Presbyterians; Rev. Canon Cody, the Anglicans; Major John A. Cooper, Major W. Brown and Chief Inspector Hughes.

BREEZY MEETING TOWN COUNCIL

James Falconer Addresses Council and Starts a Lively Discussion on Scott Act.—Sewerage Extension Postponed.

Newcastle Town Council met in regular session on the 16th inst. His Worship Mayor Pedolin in the chair. Aldermen present: T. W. Butler, John Clark, J. G. Kethro, C. Sargeant, Geo. Stables and H. H. Stuart.

The request of Neil O'Brien for terms of license for proposed new moving picture show was read. After discussion in which $50, $75 and $100 a year were all mentioned as license fees, it was moved by Ald. Kethro and seconded by Ald. Stuart, that the annual license for moving picture shows be $60.00, as in Fredericton.

Ald. Clark objected to the imposition of any license upon residents. The income tax was sufficient.

Ald. Kethro asked why, then, were auctioneers compelled to pay a special license.

Ald. Sargeant asked why livey stables should be specially taxed, if moving pictures were not.

Ald. Stables said that, while he paid the ordinary taxes, he was also taxed $20 as an auctioneer. The Dime was a paying business.

The motion carried, 5 to 1, Ald. Clark voting nay.

The petition of George Watt of Chatham, a trustee of the estate of Miss Blanch Mitchell, was read. It set forth that the petitioner was paying taxes upon three parcels of land, as follows: One, between McCullum street and the I. R. C. building, and for which he had never been offered more than $700 and for which $1200 would have been acceptable; another piece, not more than 10 acres, lying between Jase street extension and Willard lane, bringing annual rental of $75; and a third piece, consisting of a piece of wilderness land of about 40 acres, lying behind the I. R. C. Roundhouse and being of some description of land as sells for $1.00 an acre. In 1909 and 1910 he had paid $133 taxes yearly on a valuation of $4,400. This year the taxes were $124.20. That the estate had so far derived very little income from the said lands. That he believed the land was overvalued, and that the real value did not exceed $2,200. He therefore prayed that the taxation should be reduced.

The following bills were passed:

Ald. Butler of the W. L. and sewerage committee, reported that the committee had decided not to accept the tender for sewerage extension and to recommend that the matter be allowed to stand over till next spring. The report was adopted.

Scott Act Inspector Dickson reported six informations and six convictions for first offence during month.

PARK & FIRE

Park and Fire accounts were submitted as follows:
J. R. Lawlor, rent of ground on which firebell stands	$8.00
D. P. Doyle, first horse at three fires	15.00
	$23.00

Ald. Stables thought that the bell should be put up on town land.

Ald. Butler explained that arrangements had been made with Mr. Lawlor, last year, to look after the bell in exchange for the amount of his water tax—$8.00.

Ex-Ald. J. G. Layton was then heard. He had been instrumental in placing the bell there. That it had not been used was due to the good fortune of that portion of the town not having had any fires since the bell was placed.

Ald. Stuart, chairman of the By-Laws and Petitions committee, asked for an extension of time to report repetition of the Reverend Mother Superior for lease of portion of adjoining street, as the other two members of the committee were not present.

On motion of Ald. Clark and Sargeant extension was granted.

Ald. Butler introduced his amendments, according to previous notice, as follows:

I.—To amend By-Law No. 26, sec. 1, so as to increase tax on male dogs from $1 to $5 per year and on bitches from $5 to $25 per year.

II.—To amend Sewerage By-Law No. 21, sec. 22, so as to raise sewerage tax from $1 to $3 and to provide that, Any person or persons having cellar drain connection with any sewer or sub-drain in connection therewith shall pay an additional tax of $3.00 per year.

These motions were received and referred to committee of the whole.

JAMES FALCONER

On motion James Falconer of the local Sons of Temperance and G. W. Associate of the Grand Division of N. B., was heard before the council on temperance matters.

Mr. Falconer said that he had come to speak in the interests of Law and Order. He wanted to know who is responsible for the non-enforcement of the Canada Temperance Act in Newcastle. Some were saying that the Mayor was responsible; some blamed the council; some the Police committee; others, the police man. He did not wish to be too hard on Inspector Dickson. More liquor was sold at night when Inspector Hill was in charge than by day. Perhaps, the citizens were to blame. But the non-enforcement of the C. T. A. was a disgrace to the town.

What is done, asked Mr. Falconer, with the funds collected from the C. T. A. fines? If they are put into the general fund, he would take out an injunction and enter suit to have all funds so appropriated restored to where they belong.

The Mayor said the whole

WEDDING BELLS

WARDELLE—WOOD

A very pretty wedding in which many N. B. friends will be interested took place on November 6th in Portsmouth, R. I., when Miss Bell Bina Wood formerly of Nelson N. B., was wedded to Mr. Everett G. Wardelle. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Rooney. Mr. and Mrs. Wardelle will reside in Providence.

MILLER—ARCHIBALD

On the 14th inst. Mr. William Nathan Miller, one of Millerton's popular young men, was united in marriage to Miss Allison Calvira Archibald, daughter Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Archibald. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. J. MacArthur, pastor of St. James Presbyterian church, Newcastle. The bride was becomingly gowned in a dress of white lace over Ivory silk and was unattended. After the ceremony the happy couple went to Millerton where a delightful wedding supper was awaiting them at the home of the bride's parents.

STILKEY—RUSSELL

A pretty wedding took place on Tuesday morning at the residence of Miss Agnes Russell, when her niece Miss Agnes Russell was united in marriage to Mr. Willard Stilkey of Augusta, Me. The ceremony was performed at 9.30 by Rev. S. J. McArthur in the presence of a number of relatives and friends of the young couple. The bride who was given away by her uncle, W. A. Russell, of Shediac, was attired in a dress of white satin with all over lace and pearl trimmings and carried a bridal bouquet of carnations and maiden hair ferns. After a sumptuous wedding breakfast the happy couple left on the accommodation for Shediac where they will visit the bride's uncle, W. A. Russell. The bride's travelling dress was navy blue with white hat trimmed with flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Stilkey will make their future home in Augusta, Maine.

HERBERT ABANDONS FAMOUS CASE

Montreal, Nov. 18—Lack of funds to finance his side of the proceedings is given by Eugene Hebert's attorney as the reason which forced him to withdraw yesterday his opposition to the action of his former wife in seeking to have the judgment annulling the marriage set aside. The parties are now in the position as they were prior to the judgment by which their marriage was declared null in the eyes of the civil law. Hebert renounces the rights conferred upon him by that judgment though seeking to maintain his right to take recourse, if at any future time he desires to do so. It is likely when the case comes up on Monday, judgment will be rendered in default and the civil status of the marriage contracted before Rev. Mr. Timberlake re-established. As a result, though in the eyes of the civil law the woman will be regarded as the legal wife of Mr. Hebert and their child legitimate, in the eyes of the Catholic Church and of her co-religionists she will be held as unmarried.

BWARE OF BLOOD-POISON

Zam-Buk Is A Sure Cure

Mr. Jas. Davey, of 786 Ellice Avenue, Winnipeg, says:—"A few months since I was cured of a poisoned finger through the timely use of Zam-Buk."

"I cut a deep gash across the knuckle on the first finger of my right hand in opening a lobster can. I suffered at the time with the soreness and pain, but had no idea it would become a serious wound. However, in about two days I was greatly alarmed, as my whole hand and arm to the elbow became suddenly inflamed, and the finger was much discolored, showing signs of blood poisoning. The pain was dreadful and I was forced to leave off my work and go home."

"The wound on the knuckle had been poisoned by dust and dirt getting into it. I then decided to start the Zam-Buk treatment, and having first bathed the cut, I applied the healing balm. It soothed the pain almost instantly, and by next day there was a great improvement."

"In a week's time, through perseverance with this wonderful preparation, a complete cure was brought about."

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, scalp sores, abscesses, piles, ringworm, boils, varicose ulcers, running sores, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. It draws all poisonous poisons from a wound or sore and then heals. Use it, too, for cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries. Zam-Buk Soap should be used in conjunction to the balm for washing wounds and sore places. Excellent too for baby's bath.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c box and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet. Post free upon receipt of price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

RESULT OF COURT MARTIAL

One of Niobe's Officers Dismissed From Ship But Not From Service—Captain Exonerated.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 18—"Not proven and honorably acquitted." Such was the decision this afternoon of the court martial which tried Commander W. B. MacDonald of the Niobe, who was charged with negligently, or by default, stranding or causing to be stranded the cruiser Niobe off the Cape Sable ledges in July last.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 17—Navigating Lieut. White was found guilty of suffering the Niobe to be stranded through negligence. The sentence is that he be severely reprimanded and dismissed from the Niobe. In view of his former good character he is not to be dismissed from the service or reduced in rank.

THE POWER OF SYMPATHY.

Mothers Too Often Form a Habit of Constant Reproof.

Although conscious of the power of sympathy, many loving but over-zealous mothers not only forget to show affection but form a habit of constant reproof.

When Johnny comes pushing into the house full of enthusiasm over some new play or new idea, and attempts to tell his plans, such a mother exclaims, "How many times have I told you to wipe your feet before you enter the door?"

A RAVENOUS INDUSTRY.

How the Paper Makers Are Destroying the Forests of the United States.

The forests of the United States now cover 550,000,000 acres, or about one-fourth of the area of the country.

The original forests of the United States contained timber in quantity and variety far beyond that upon any other area of similar size in the world.

The present rate of cutting is three times the annual growth of the forests of the United States.

The heavy demands for timber have been rapidly pushing the great centres of lumber industry towards the South and West.

The annual cut from the forests, including waste in logging and in manufacture, is 20,000,000,000 cubic feet of wood.

There is used in a normal year 90,000,000 cords of fire wood, 40,000,000 board feet of lumber, 118,000,000 hewn ties, 1,500,000,000 staves, over 123,000,000 sets of heading, nearly 600,000,000 barrel hoops, 3,000,000 cords of native pulp wood, 155,000,000 cubic feet of round mine timbers and 1,253,000 cords of wood for distillation.

In 1909 4,002,000 cords of wood were used in the manufacture of paper, of which 794,000 cords were imported from Canada.

A larger drain upon forest resources is made by the demand for railroad ties, of which 123,754,000, equivalent to three and three-quarters billion feet, were used in 1908.

Timber in the amount of two and one-half billions feet was used in 1907 for mine timbers.

YOUR SUN AND MY SUN

An East Indian Story for Canadian Children.

By Sul Sin Far.

The sun moved hither and thither in the clear pool. Vally, leaning over, watched delightedly its tremulous motion.

"Oh," cried she to Benji, lying in the long grass under a spreading tree, the sun is dancing so merrily!"

Benji lifted his head and gazed up at the sky.

"Tis not dancing, 'tis standing still," said he.

Vally glanced upwards, then down again into the pool.

"There are two suns," said she. "Your sun and my sun!"

"Your sun and my sun," echoed a water oar near by.

"Your sun and my sun," mocked the green pigeons in the bamboo.

"That is so," said Benji, coming over to her side and leaning up, her shoulder to look into the water.

"Your sun and mine stands still!" "Your sun and my sun!" repeated Vally.

A Little Lesson on "Rabbits"

When is a rabbit not a rabbit? No doubt there are some boys and girls who will think of the right answer, but we dare say that most of them won't, so for those who give it up, we'll put down the answer right here:

"A rabbit is not a rabbit when it's a Canadian rabbit."

This is the right answer, because there is no such thing as a real "rabbit" native in America.

The only real rabbits you see are tame white rabbits, and the so-called Belgium hares, while the wild animals we call hares, while the wild animals we call "rabbits" ARE hares.

There are many varieties of these so-called rabbits, but all of them, from Molly Cottontail to the big Jack-Rabbit of the plains, are classed as hares by naturalists.

They are all bigger than the real rabbit, which lives in Europe, and in Australia and New Zealand, where it has been introduced within the past 60 years, and where it has become a terrible pest.

Supper Table Art will Surprise Pa

Say, kids, can you draw a picture of pa?

Sure you can, and ma, too, and all the rest of the family.

It's easy when you know how, and if you'll practice a little, you will be able to go to the supper table tonight and astonish the family with your pictures. Here's how:

The first rule drawings of primitive men were little more than "skeleton pictures." One line stood for half a dozen lines. Just the same a lot of expression could be put into them.

It doesn't take much of an artist to make a "skeleton picture"—anyone can do it.

Here is a sample. You can draw some just as good.

Did You Ever See a Horse Like This

Some of you girls and boys may think that this is a funny looking horse. So it is. You never see any like it today.

But hundreds of thousands of years ago this little animal lived. He was then about the size of a collie dog of today, with feet something like a rabbit's. He was not very strong and the other animals preyed upon him. He soon learned that to run away from the large animals was his only way of living long.

This running finally developed his legs and feet, making the legs long and turning the four toes into hoofs.

As centuries went by he gradually became stronger and larger, until at last he appeared as the horse is today.

Rural Spellings.

For this game, collect a number of long straws and stand them up to meet at the top and spread out like a haystack at the bottom.

Now get two good little sticks, and make a hook at the end of each with a big crooked pin. Each player takes a hook in turn, and tries to remove a straw without shaking or throwing down any of the other ones.

The one who cleverly succeeds in moving a straw under these conditions scores one; and he or she who gets most straws wins the game.

SAFETY ON INDIAN RAILWAYS.

Immunity From Accidents Compare Favourably With English Railways.

Immunity from accidents is the first thing that strikes the reader of the annual statistics of Indian railways just published. They give the number of passengers killed from causes beyond their own control as 0.01 per million of passengers travelling, or an average of 1 in 4,478,233 millions of miles travelled, reassuring figures enough for even the most timid.

A Grand Score. A Georgia woman who moved to Philadelphia found she could not be contented without the colored mammy who had been her servant for many years.

A Revival. William A. Sunday, quondam professional revivalist, closed the evangelistic season of 1910-11 the other day with $70,507.77 to the good as a result of his year's work "winning souls to Christ."

The Side He Would Choose. The wit of the Duc de Morny, who was believed to be half-brother to Napoleon III, and his chief assistant in the coup d'etat of 1851, was only equalled by his political sagacity.

The Eternal Female. "A woman never feels good unless she loves someone."

ROCKEFELLER AND THE GOAT. No butting for John D. if he could help it.

Walking beside the cart was a young woman who had taken the little girl out for the ride, and it was with the young woman that Mr. Rockefeller talked.

"I used to drive a goat myself," he volunteered, in explanation of his interest in this one. "Where did you get it?"

He was told that the goat and cart had been hired. By this time the rich man had taken his stand in front of the goat and was leaning reflectively on his cane.

"Does he kick?" was the next question.

"Oh, no, sir," cut in the little girl. "He doesn't kick, but he butts something awful."

That was enough for in that moment Mr. Rockefeller destroyed the popular idea that he is infirm and feeble. He displayed all the agility of a youth of eighteen by making one leap that took him from in front of the butting goat to the gully beside the road. And there he stayed until the little girl drove on.

No Flour Made From One Wheat Only Is Good For BOTH Pastry And Bread.

Western Wheat makes a strong bread flour which, however, lacks flavor.

Ontario wheat makes the best full flavored pastry flour. This is because of the peculiarities of the wheat itself. Ontario wheat is rich in nutriment and flavor but lacks strength or strong baking qualities.

"Beaver" Flour is a scientific blend of both, giving you all the flavor and nutriment and pastry making qualities of Ontario wheat with the added strength of the Western Spring Wheat.

Which is Your Choice?

Sloppy, leaky wooden troughs, or clean, durable Concrete?

Wooden drinking troughs are about as reliable as the weather.

They are short-lived and require replacing every few years—not to mention continual patching to keep them in repair.

The best of wood cannot withstand, for long, constant dampness and soaking. Its tendency to rapid decay soon shows itself in leaks and stagnant pools of water around trough.

Contrast with this the durability, cleanliness and well-ordered appearance of Concrete.

THE STANDING ALIEN OF H. STANLEIGH STORME

some up here? "I know you did," replied Burke. "an' he came back an' he's in the pouverneur over there, an' don't you forget it." The other glanced at him, doubtfully. "Oh, that's it, is it?" he returned. "I didn't know. I only know I saw him—that's all—an' I wondered at the time where you was." Burke and the two men vanished into thin air. Once more the street became deserted. Dusk had come on—it was growing darker very moment. At a quarter to eight a man clad in a dress suit and a light overcoat emerged from the apartment house and sauntered down the street. In front of a house with an English basement stood an electric street lamp. He passed this, and the light shone full on his face. When he reached the corner he glanced up and down and behind him for an instant, and then, breaking into a fast walk, made for the west end of town. He had no sooner done so than a man emerged from the basement, another from an alleyway across the street, and a third from a recess around the corner. Without the slightest recognition of each other, they turned in and followed the man in the light coat, each man in his own way. Down at headquarters late that afternoon the sergeant called to a special officer. The officer hurried in. "Say, Flynn," he remarked, "look here. There's the man the banks want us to keep tab on. See him! The fellow with the slouch hat? Yes, that's the chap." "Now, look here, Burke is after him, but there ain't o signs of Burke around. He's slipped a cog somehow. S'pose you turn in and follow the fellow. The banks are standing behind us, and they're paying good money to keep track of this man, and it ain't our business to lose him. S'pose you reckon him up a bit." The officer nodded and started off. He kept his man in sight. It was difficult work, not only because his man was a rapid walker and swerved in and out of different thoroughfares with rapidity, but also because he kept constantly looking around behind him. Storme—for it was he—knew that he was being followed, and though he was the shadowed, he also was the shadower, for he kept his eye on his pursuer quite as faithfully as did the officer keep track of him. The afternoon passed and evening came, but still on and on walked Storme. They reached a residential portion of the town. Suddenly Storme turned swiftly down a dark, narrow street, and when his pursuer reached the corner, Storme had disappeared. Search as he would, there was no trace of the man. The special devoted some ten minutes to a fruitless search, and then retraced his steps to the corner whence Storme had disappeared. As he stood there, nonplussed, a man suddenly touched him on the back of the hand. The special knew the touch. He said nothing, but followed the man to a dark recess. "Well, Burke," he remarked, "what're you doin' here? I've been followin' your man all the evening, an' by George, I just lost him!" "At man?" demanded Burke. "Aw," returned the other, "you know, that fellow Storme." "Gee!" returned Burke, "have they put you on, too? Well, by George, with the crowd we've got, there ain't anything he can do without our seein' it. It's a blame good thing we got him in tow, too. Only we got considerable of a wait before us before he comes out." "Comes out where?" exclaimed the other man. "Why," replied Burke, "he's making a visit in that brownstone down there, No. 219, the one with the grounds at the side. Thou' you know that." "Knew that!" said the other. "Why, I jus' had him in tow ten minutes ago, an' lost him. So that's where he is, is it? I didn't know what became of him." "Sure," replied Burke, "he's been there an' hour already. It's about time he cut it and left, I'm thinkin'." The other man started. "An hour?" he repeated. "What you givin' us? I saw him on this here street not fifteen minutes gone. You're nutty, Burke, or else, you went on with a smile, 'or else you lost him, too. Come on, own up. You're givin' me a bit of a stiff, I guess." "Bit of a stiff, nothin'," retorted Burke. "I tell you, he's in there, all right, all right. I got a couple of men there watchin' the place. When he comes out they'll give me a flash of light. He's in there, all right." "Look here, Burke," went on the other, "I bet you he ain't. I tell you I saw him go around the corner. I know what I'm talking about." Burke looked at the special long and earnestly. "It might be," he admitted "that he gave us the slip again. I'll tell you we might as well be sure. You're a new man here. S'pose you do the leery act and go there an' find out. We'd better know, you know." Three minutes later the bell rang at the Dumont house. The maid answered it. A tough looking character with his coat collar turned up stood at the door. "Say, miss," he remarked confidentially, with a slight lurch in his direction, "want to see Mist' Dumont—old Mist' Dumont, y' know." He hiccupped slightly as he said it. The maid started back and called into the library. A man's voice was heard inside. "Wait a minute," it said, "I'll attend to the fellow." The owner of the voice stepped into the hall. The man who rang the bell stayed outside. "What do you want?" inquired the former. "Want to see Mist' Dumont (hic)—old Mist' Dumont." The man inside shook his head. "Mr. Dumont," he returned, "is no longer alive. He died about five years ago. So you can't see him. What is it you want?" He stepped back and turned up the light to its full strength. Both men could see each other perfectly. "Well," returned the other, sadly, as he shook his head, "want to see Mist' Dumont, that's all. 'Fo's dead, don't want see nobody." He turned and made his way unsteadily down the steps. "Goo' nigh," he called out. He looked back once or twice uncertainly and the man within held the door open until the other had made his way to the street. And as he held the door open, he stood so that light from the hall fell full upon his face. And the face was that of H. Stanleigh Storme—the man whom the other sought. An hour later, the door opened again, and Storme again appeared. He lightly descended the steps to the street, looked carelessly about him, and then started leisurely towards the center of the town. As he did so, four men emerged from their hiding places and followed him. And this time they never left his heels until he disappeared once more into the front door of the Gouverneur apartments. And when he had done so, Burke and one other sat down and camped upon his trail. And on that night the safe in the hardware concern of Canda & Willett was cracked, and something over seven thousand dollars stolen. CHAPTER VIII The Note that Came from Storme Helena Dumont was a peculiar young woman. She was rich, and yet she was happy. Her parents, both of them members of the most exclusive set in town, were long since deceased. She was mistress of her own house, and kept with her as a companion an aged aunt. Miss Dumont was a general favorite. Perhaps it was because she enjoyed life; because, unlike the crowd around her, she exhausted all that was good in existence, and rejected the bad. She entertained—not lavishly, but well. On her reception nights her house was crowded. It was the one place where one might go and feel at ease. Storme had never attended any of the functions except one large reception. He had pleaded some excuse. But she prevailed upon him to attend the last little dinner of the season. He did so. There were two or three people there he knew, but most of them he did not know. The dinner was about half over. People had begun to talk volubly, as they always do, once the ice is broken and their appetite has somewhat abated. Storme said but little; he listened. "It's absurd," one man was saying.

The police department say they can't stop it. Stop it? Of course they can stop it. They don't half try. "Here's Canda & Willett's the fifteenth on the list. And who knows how many never come to light? And it's the same fellow, by George, and he works in the safe some way every time. And they say they can't find him. Fehaw! Don't tell me." "Well," volunteered another, "the banks say they've got several parties under surveillance, and they claim they've narrowed it down to one man—and then again, they say that that's all tommyrot, that they haven't found him, after all." "I don't know what to make of it," remarked a woman, "and I wouldn't care so much if they'd confine their depredations to the banks; but they don't. Did any of you hear about Mrs. Bradley-Coates? Did you, Mr. Storme?" Storme shook his head. "I rarely read the papers," he replied with some embarrassment, "and I—I really have heard but little about anything of interest in the city. My time is so taken up that I have but little to give the newspapers." He said this in an awkward, stilted sort of manner, and as though he were trying to give an explanation he felt was needed. "Oh, it wasn't in the paper," interposed the woman. "They kept it out. But one night just a week or so ago, as Mr. and Mrs. Bradley-Coates were eating dinner in their own house—in their own house, mind you"—this, as though it would have been quite a matter of course had they been in somebody else's house—"while they were eating dinner they heard some sort of a noise outside, and she looked over her husband's shoulder, and there was a man's face staring into the room. "She couldn't see the face well, because his coat collar was turned up and the lower part was entirely concealed. He disappeared at once. They called the servants and raised an alarm, but they couldn't find the man. "And later they found the ivy vine on the side of the house all torn and broken, and the marks of feet around the window, but they never found the man." "Wasn't anything taken?" asked somebody. The woman smiled. She had been waiting for that inquiry. "Nothing much," she replied, "only every bit of jewelry that Mrs. Bradley-Coates had in the house—and you know what that means. You know how much she wore. Nobody knows how much they were worth—certainly a fortune in themselves." She stopped suddenly. "Why—why—Ethel, what's the matter?" They all turned and looked at a pretty girl who sat with wide open mouth and staring eyes, her gaze fixed upon the window. "Oh!" exclaimed the girl, shivering, her face growing paler every second. "I'm so scared. Just as you were talking I looked at the window, and there outside—there—there—there—" She pointed wildly with her hand and then reeled against her neighbor and fainted dead away. Storme sprang to the window, threw it open, and looked out. There was nothing to be seen. Every thing was quiet. Storme and two other men stepped outside and investigated. They found nothing at least suspicious. In the meantime the servants had ransacked the house from top to bottom, and found no one. Miss Dumont's jewels were intact. The dinner was resumed. The girl who had fainted concluded, with the rest, that she had been scared and that the whole thing was the result of her imagination. Order was restored, and the subject of the burglaries dropped. Only one man had the right of the affair, and his conversation on the corner of the street explained it. "By George!" exclaimed Mr. Burke, for it was he. "But I had a narrow escape. Somebody saw me lookin' in the window, and they pretty near nabbed me. That would be 'a' been a good thing." He waited a few minutes to determine whether there was any effort at pursuit, and then went on: "But he's there, all right, all right. He's there, and he won't get away without Jimmy Burke's stern. You can place your bottom dollar on that, Strumpy, to any tune you please." There was a second interruption at the Dumont place. "A note for Mr. Storme," announced the butler. Storme took and read it hastily. Then he looked at his watch. "I—I am called away," he exclaimed. "It's half-past eleven, and I must go. I'm sorry to—"

Then she read it. It was as follows: My Dear Storme: Be at the Iroquois Club at 12 o'clock if possible. Some friends of yours will be there between twelve and half past two. Sorry to trouble you, imperative. The note was unsigned. "What does it mean?" she inquired. "I don't know, little girl. It's part of the general scheme of duties I must perform for a while yet, until—until I throw them up altogether." "I am sorry you—you must go," she went on, in a puzzled tone. "So am I, Helen," returned Storme, "and I have to leave you unprotected. These robberies that they talked about tonight are serious, it seems. You must be careful to keep the house locked up. If anything should happen—"

He turned pale as he spoke. "If—if anything should happen to you, I don't know what I'd do." She looked up into his eyes with a reassuring smile. "You need not fear for me," she returned. "We are safe here. The coachman can be summoned in an instant, and William, our old butler, sleeps down stairs. One of the maids is on the same floor with me and within calling distance. "My aunt sleeps in the front room, and I sleep in one of the back ones—the one at the corner," she indicated it with a gesture—"and the street lights shine upon it all night long. Our house is well exposed, and we've never had any trouble, and we never expect to, either. Nothing will happen—nothing at all." Storme bowed. "I sincerely trust not," he said gravely. "You will come tomorrow?" she asked as he prepared to leave. "I will come tomorrow," he replied. And then he went. After he had left she discovered that she had unwillingly retained possession of the note. She threw open the door and called after him, but to no purpose—he had gone. She closed the door and stood uncertainly beneath the light and read the note again. A troubled expression settled upon her face. She remained in an attitude of hesitation for an instant, and then, instead of returning to her guests, she ran lightly up the stairs to her room. It was a singular thing that as long as she had known Storme, Helen Dumont had received from him but two letters. Both had come within the past few weeks. She opened a drawer and took the letters out. She opened them and compared them carefully with the note which had come for Storme that night. Suddenly she gave a little cry—"What does it all mean—what does it mean?" she exclaimed. For she found that the note of tonight was written in the same hand as were the other two—in the handwriting of H. Stanleigh Storme. "What does it mean?" she cried again. And then she went down stairs. CHAPTER IX The Man among the Trees Storme plunged hastily down the front steps, turned to the right and disappeared in the darkness. To three men, however, he did not disappear—they followed him and kept him well in sight. This time he pursued no devious course, but headed straight for the Iroquois Club, which he reached and entered with alacrity. "The three men waited for him outside. They stood where they could see without being seen. Once more they camped upon his trail. Up in the Dumont house the guests were leaving. The fainting spell at the table had cast an air of gloom upon the crowd, and Storme's departure had acted as a sort of signal for the premature termination of the modest festivities. One by one the guests departed and left Miss Dumont alone. Half an hour later the lights on the ground floor were extinguished. Half an hour after that the lights upstairs went out. The whole house was dark. It was a cloudy night, and a sultry one. Helen Dumont did not retire—she took a seat by an open window and

NEWCASTLE, N. B., NOVEMBER 22, 1911

The Canadian Parliament opened with grand ceremony on the 16th instant. Dr. Sproule has been selected speaker with Dr. Blondin deputy speaker.
 The speech from the throne expressed the Duke of Connaught's satisfaction at being called upon to administer the Government of Canada; his pleasure at the prosperity of the country, its expanding trade and bountiful harvests, substantial increase of population, and buoyant revenues. Negotiations had been opened for better trade relations between Canada and the British West Indies and Guiana, and a wider interchange of products was desired with all British States. Better highways would be provided. Agriculture would receive increased attention, and government inspection of grain and control and operation of the terminal elevators on the lakes established through a commission. A permanent tariff commission would be established. The Hudson Bay railway route would soon be announced. And other matters were mentioned.
 A busy session is foreshadowed.

THE SITUATION IN CHINA

The five south-eastern provinces of China—Quang-Tung, Fo-Kien, Che-Kiang, Kiang-Se and Hoo-Nan—are completely in the hands of Republican revolutionaries. Each province has declared its independence, yet there is some acknowledgement of a central government, the apparent aim being to establish a United States of China on a constitution modelled somewhat on that of the United States of America. In the three provinces on the lower Yangtze—Kiang-Su, Ngan-Hoe and Hoo-Pe—the struggle is now being fought out between the Manchu imperialists, helped by many Chinese, and the fiery Republicans of the South. The storm centres are the old capital, Nanking, and the great city of Hankow further up the river, both held by the Emperor's troops. A decisive battle is expected soon at either of these cities.
 Even if the Republicans should be forced to submit they will have largely gained their demands for a freer government, as the Emperor's advisors have already granted a constitution on the British model which, if manhood suffrage is introduced—but that is the question not yet decided—will be as liberal as that of any great western monarchy.

council was responsible for the enforcement of the Act. As regards the C. T. A. funds, the town employs two inspectors, and three-quarters of their salaries comes from the C. T. A. funds.

Ald. Butler said there were also incidental expenses to come out of the funds.

Ald. Kethro asked if the C. T. A. was ever intended to be enforced. He did not think so.

The Mayor—Yes; it was intended to be enforced.

Ald. Butler said that he had been acquainted with the C. T. A. for 17 years. He agreed with Ald. Kethro that the Act was a gold brick, never intended by its authors to be enforced. The whole Act from beginning to end was false faced. The honest temperance people demanded genuine temperance legislation and the government of the day had given them legislation never intended to be workable. Under the C. T. A. liquor may be brought into a Scott Act for private use. It is impossible to prevent the importation of liquor. As long as the Government takes excise and customs duties on liquor it will never pass workable legislation to suppress the traffic. He had talked over needed amendments to the Act with Mr. H. H. Stuart, now Alderman Stuart, on the eve of a recent District Division meeting of the Sons of Temperance in Kent. But these amendments, which would have made the working of the Act much easier, had been disregarded by both Government and Opposition at Ottawa.

There were, continued Ald. Butler, some half-dozen dens in Newcastle selling liquor to those who will not give evidence. Some hotels were selling to people who will not perjure themselves. It was easy to find such places as the latter. Prohibition might help, but nothing short of such a measure could lessen the sale of liquor. Last summer Newcastle was reported far and wide, by certain clergymen and others, as a bad town. But it was as clean as any town.

Mr. Falconer—What is meant by first, second and third offenses?

Ald. Kethro—A second offense is now before the courts. A third cannot be charged against that party until second is disposed of.

Ald. Butler—There are some houses that cannot be fined—their customers will swear their clear.

Ald. Clark said he had had much experience with the Scott Act. It was hard to enforce. It can be enforced as soon as the people are behind the enforcement. As soon as a majority of the people favor enforcement and stop drinking the Act that can be carried out.

Ald. Sarge nt said he had no use for the Scott Act.

The Mayor said the Act was difficult to do anything with, but the most should be made of all we had.

Ald. Kethro said it was hard to have the council pounded for what can't be helped.

Ald. Stuart thought that, while the C. T. A. cannot, because of the defects Ald. Butler pointed out, be made thoroughly effective, a great deal of the present illegal sale of liquor can be stopped.

The Mayor said that young men were getting liquor. He had even been called to see a child nine years of age and had found him drunk. He had been told the boy had been forced to drink in a certain place.

Ald. Stables condemned the loopholes of the C. T. A.

Ald. Clark said that women were carrying liquor round and selling it.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

Rev. Dr. Cousins gave a fine lecture Wednesday evening on Joshua as a type of Christ, leading God's people to sure victory and success. The address was copiously illustrated by the Mirroscope, ably operated by Mason Betts. Among the views were—Joshua, Passing of the Israelites, over Jordan; Falling of the walls of Jericho; Wall under Jerusalem; The Jaffa gate; Joshua, commanding the sun to stand still; The five Kings, hidden in a cave, submit to Joshua; and a Congo Mission school showing how the religion of Jesus Christ is conquering heathenism. The views were very distinct and beautiful. The cards used were copies of the great painters. Rev. Dr. Cousins is intending going through the Old and New Testament with similar views during the winter months. Later Dr. Cousins will give for the benefit of the young people lectures on his travels over the world illustrated by the microscope.

THE WORLD LOOKS DARK

To the Dyspeptic. How to Make it Bright.

Father Morrissy, the learned physician, realized that many of the difficulties and troubles of this world are due to indigestion. He believed that to get a proper mental and spiritual attitude, a normal digestive apparatus is very helpful. The good Father therefore gave much study to the important question of the stomach.

His famous prescription, "No. 11," for dyspepsia and indigestion, consists of simple tablets cleverly compounded from the materials in Nature's laboratory. Each tablet will perfectly digest a full meal of 1 1/4 pounds of food.

Father Morrissy's "No. 11" has brought ease and continued health to thousands of sufferers who had previously tried other remedies in vain. It instantly relieves and in due time restores the stomach to full vigor.

If you suffer at times or regularly from a sick, sour, dyspeptic stomach, try No. 11, and see how quickly you can again enjoy hearty meals, and how bright the world looks once more.

In convenient flat boxes at 50c. each. Get a box from your dealer, or from Father Morrissy Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, P. Q.

MEANING OF THE CROSS

This cross (in red) has been adopted in Canada and all over America as the emblem under which the Crusade against Consumption is carried on.

Every reader knows of the ravages of this disease; how, too often, the bread-winner of the family falls a victim, or the young man or young woman, with a promise of a happy and useful life, is stricken down.

This modern Crusade, like the one of old, is a winning fight. The death rate from Consumption in this province shows a decrease of over 25% in the past few years.

Nearly 6000 of these poor sufferers have been cared for in our Consumptive Homes in Muskoka and near Weston. To-day we have 300 patients under treatment—patients who, if they had the money, could not through fear of contagion gain admittance into other hospitals.

In the Muskoka Free Hospital alone we are now caring for 156 patients. 128 of these cannot pay a single cent for the cost of their maintenance, 15 pay 70c. per day, 1 pays 57c. per day, 12 pay 50c. or less per day.

Our Trustees, having faith in the generous-hearted people of Canada, have continued to carry on this work during the past year.

Money to pay doctors, food, nursing and caring of these sick ones, is urgently needed. Will your readers help and have the joy of sharing in a work that has the promise of the Master's reward?

THE ROSARY SPLENDID PLAY

Words of Appreciation Only From Large Audience Saturday Evening.

When the curtain went up at the Opera House last Saturday evening on the opening scene of "The Rosary," it was before an audience refined, expectant, and possibly, rather disposed to be critical; for so high were the expectations aroused over this semi-religious play, that only by a first class company of artists could those anticipations be realized. When the curtain fell upon the closing scene "Oh, memories that bless and burn; Oh, barren gain and bitter loss; I kiss each bead and strive at least to learn To kiss the cross."

There was but one expression of opinion, and that was that seldom was there presented in this city so excellent and so satisfying a theatrical production. It is a serious play with a serious motive, yet there runs through it a charming little love story and delightful strain of comedy that delights everybody. It is a play with a purpose, an educational production with a motive, and pleases all, without offending the susceptibilities of any.

As Rev. Father Kelly, Mr. John Meehan is the bright particular star, and his interpretation of the beautiful character of the conscientious, deeply religious priest leaves nothing to be desired. Never for a moment does Mr. Meehan forget that he is presenting a strong, serious, earnest character, and every person who witnesses this character as portrayed by Mr. Meehan comes away with a deeper respect and stronger love for the holy office. Miss Richardson in the double role of the twin sisters acts a difficult part that could be satisfactorily presented only by such an artist as she is. Every member of the cast is peculiarly suited to the character which he or she essays, and there is not a mediocre member in the entire cast.

All were much pleased with the splendid reception, and frequent appreciative applause which they received in their initial performance last evening and will do their utmost to deserve continued appreciation at both performances today. No lover of a clean, wholesome elevating play should miss attending today's presentation of "The Rosary."—Moncton Times.

Stanfields Buy Out Hewsons

Halifax, Nov. 8.—It is learned that Stanfields Limited, of which John Stanfield, M. P., is president, whose works are at Truro, has absorbed the Hewson Woolen Company, of Amherst, the terms of the merger being that the Hewson shareholders shall receive par for their stock together with the current half yearly dividend. It is proposed to push the knitting department at Amherst, where labor for this purpose is more easily obtained. H. I. Hewson, manager of the Hewson mills, will remain at Amherst as local manager there.

Very convenient.

An enterprising builder was one day in conversation with several friends, when he was accused of using inferior materials in the construction of houses which he had recently built, of which a gentleman arrived who had a hot argument ensued in the midst of which one of the jerry-built cottages, and the matter was referred to him. "Well, sir," said he, "I can assure you they are the most convenient houses I ever shod in." "But," said one of the listeners, "why convenient does he say?" "Oh, haud yer wheest till I explain. When first I cam' to bide in Mr. Jerry's house, I had to rise in the middle of the night an' open the door to let out the cat; but the cat gang got out, come in, an' there the cracks, an' I'm saved a big' bother."

Every Other Treatment Failed But "Fruit-a-tives" Cures

GRANDE LIGNE, QUE., Jan. 2nd, 1910. "My wife was greatly distressed for three years with chronic Eczema on the hands, and the disease was so severe that it almost prevented her from using her hands. The doctor gave her several ointments to use, but none of them did any good. He also advised her to wear rubber gloves and she wore out three pairs without getting any benefit. As a last resort, I persuaded her to try "Fruit-a-tives," and the effect was marvellous. Not only did "Fruit-a-tives" entirely cure the Eczema, but the Asthma, which she suffered from, was also completely cured. We both attribute our present good health to "Fruit-a-tives". N. JOUBERT.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Eczema or Salt Rheum because "Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood, corrects the Indigestion and Constipation, and tones up the Nervous System. OBITUARY

MISS ETHEL DUFF

Death has again visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Duff, Tide Head and taken their youngest daughter Ethel. It is one year and nine months ago that their only son Charles was killed in the C. P. R. wreck at Spanish River near Webbwood, Ont. and Ethel after the death of her twin brother seemed to gradually decline. Although never robust she was in her usual health until within a few hours of her death, naturally such a sudden death comes as a great shock to her family who have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Ethel although of a quiet and retiring disposition had many friends who will daily miss her old accustomed place. She has been a member of Tide Head church choir for the past nine years and was an ardent and conscientious worker. The funeral took place Saturday afternoon at 2.30. Service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. A. Hardy.

The pall bearers were:—George Mann, Blair Adams, Claude McDougall, Sherman LeTurgey, Daniel McDougall, Robert Blair.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss a father, mother and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Thompson of Mt. Hebron, California, and May at home.

SMALL FIRE IN CAMPBELLTON

Early on Wednesday morning fire was discovered in the basement of the building on Gerrard Street opposite the I. C. R. station occupied by the Exchange House and F. J. LeBlanc.

The brigade with a couple of streams soon extinguished the blaze which was confined to the basement, the stock in the store above being damaged only by smoke. The loss will be trifling. The fire is thought to have started from an over heated flue pipe.

No Resemblance.

"Now, Nora," said the departing physician to the Irish girl, who was nursing a bad case of fever, "if the patient soon wakes again, give him a dose of my medicine. I shall be in at six."

The hour for his return arrived. The physician once more visited the sick patient, and found him raving. He had been so, said the nurse, for hours. "And did you give him the medicine?" inquired the puzzled doctor. "No, Nora," she said, "I gave it to him if he saw snakes again?" demanded the physician. "But he didn't say he saw snakes this toime, dochter," replied the nurse, confidently. "He said he saw red-white-and-blue turkeys wid straw hats on!"

Utilizing Waste as Fuel.

The greatest work which has been carried on by the British in Egypt, since their occupation of that country has been the construction of dams along the Nile for the purpose of providing water for irrigating the Nile Valley. As a result of this work vast areas, previously waste, have been brought under cultivation and the output of the country vastly increased. Another enterprise, of little less importance, is now under way. This is for the purpose of utilizing sudd, a thick tangle of water plants in the Nile bed. This growth has for generations seriously interfered with the navigation of the Nile. It has recently been discovered that it can be utilized as a fuel. The new fuel is known as suddite.

The New Boarder Again.

"For ten years," said the new boarder at a Montreal boarding-house, "my habits were as regular as clockwork. I rose on the stroke of six; half an hour later I sat down to breakfast; at seven I was at work, dined at twelve, ate supper at six, and was in bed at nine-thirty; ate only hearty food, and hadn't a sick day in all that time."

"Dear me!" said the edacious in sympathetic tones, "and what were you in for?" An awful silence ensued.

Australia has Tallest Tree.

Australia claims to have the tallest tree in the world. It has long been thought that to California belongs this distinction, but while California trees are of gigantic dimensions, they do not come up to Australia's eucalyptus trees. The Californians are noted not so much for their height as for their girth and diameter. The tallest tree in California yet discovered was found by aerial measurement to be 340ft high. Australia's record gum tree can beat this by 140ft.

Ben's Logic. "Ben," said his friend, waking up from a reverie in which he had been gazing abstractedly at the shiny expanse of Ben's skating-rink-for-utes, "is there nothing you could do for your baldness?"

Ben, by the way, is only forty. "No, lad!" he replied, with decision. "Fifteen years ago I was courting strong, and I tried lots o' things. But about that time 'Prince of Wales—Edward, you know—came to open t' new hospital, and I said to myself as soon as ever I saw him liftin' his hat to t' crowd, 'Ben, my lad, the can give it up as a bad job, and save thy brass. If ther was owt 'at 'ud cure a bald head they'd 'a' cured his.'"

CAMPBELLTON COUNCIL

On the fourteenth meeting of the Town Council was held under the chairmanship of his Worship Mayor McDonald. There were present at the opening of business Councillors Lunan, White, Mowat, McKenzie and Alexander. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Councillors Pinault and Moores then entered the meeting. The regular order of business was then suspended and a delegation consisting of Messrs. Sullivan, Comeau, Graham and Ferguson were received by the Council. Mr. Sullivan stated that the matter they wished to bring before the council was that of the crossing at Victoria Street. Looking to the fact of there being a great depreciation of property around this district if Victoria Street is closed entirely when the new subway goes through, it was felt by the property owners there, that some sort of crossing should be left for the convenience of the public. The delegation desired the council to take steps to approach the I. C. R. to have a foot crossing or side walk six or eight feet wide made, for the convenience of foot passengers only.

Councillor Pinault said that he would not care to ask the I. C. R. to have a regular wagon crossing but would be in favor of asking the I. C. R. to leave a foot crossing there. He thought a committee should see the I. C. R. and try to arrange this matter. Councillor Mowat concurred, and Councillor White said he thought the request of the delegation a reasonable one and suggested that the committee who have the dredging matter under review should take this matter up also. The best thing he thought would be an over-head bridge, and he moved that the engineer prepare a plan of this kind and allow the committee to make the best arrangement they could with the railway company. This was seconded by Councillor McKenzie and carried. Mr. D. F. Graham were thanked the council for their reception and the delegation withdrew.

Mr. F. M. Gray was then heard before the council regarding the dredging matters already brought up, and he stated that a memorial had been prepared for presentation to the Minister of Public Works, and he had information that this dredging was recommended last year by Mr. Reiv. After discussion it was arranged that the Mayor go to Ottawa with Messrs. W. S. Montgomery and Mr. F. M. Murray to present this memorial.

The regular order of business was then resumed. Communication was read from Mr. Thos. Stevenson asking that the 5 per cent. held over against his Stanley Street contract be paid over to him. On motion the request was not granted.

Communication read from His Worship the Mayor asking permission to burn rubbish and brush.—Granted.

Communication from R. Boss of the Telephone Company stating that it was inconvenient to remove telephone poles and guy ropes at this time and asking that the matter be held over till next spring.

After discussion it was agreed that the company be asked to remove the objectionable poles and guy ropes the others to remain until the spring.

Communication from F. M. Murray stating that the claim of Morris Furlong had been settled by the Insurance Company.

Petition of John Morrissey for license to conduct a restaurant on O'Leary Street was referred to Police and License Committee.

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach from an unprepared condition, women of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial. It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

Councillor Moores submitted report of Public Charities Committee recommending payment of accounts amounting to $53.00 and Councillor Alexander from the Water and Sewerage Committee accounts to the sum of $391.99. Both reports were received and adopted.

In a further report Councillor Alexander stated that the dam at Smith's Lake was in a serious condition the piles having sprung and great leakage caused thereby. The present dam is in a very dangerous state and it is absolutely necessary to build a concrete dam.

After discussion it was agreed that the Town Engineer prepare a survey of the ground and give estimates for the construction of a concrete dam.

Regarding the extension of Sewerage to the Pichette property on Sugarloaf Street it was agreed to leave this over till the spring.

Councillor Lunan submitted report from the Police and License Committee recommending payment of accounts amounting to $52.00. Report received and adopted.

Under new business Councillor Pinault brought up the question of Father Wallace property, a plan of Central Street being shown. On motion plan was referred back to Committee for further date.

His Worship brought up the matter of shacks on Water Street which was discussed at great length, and ultimately Councillor Alexander moved and Councillor Mowat seconded that notice be given to such owners and tenants that said shacks must be removed according to the by-laws.

At Messrs. J. S. Benson and M. A. Kelly had not been sworn in as School Auditors as provided by the by-laws they were again appointed.

Councillors McKenzie, Mowat and Lunan brought to the notice of the council the matters of guy ropes, unprotected basements and unlighted openings in streets, and the clerk was instructed to write all such offenders.

Councillor Pinault brought to the notice of the chairman of the Electric Light committee the fact that many householders were yet without light in their houses, in standing the case of Mr. C. S. O. Crockett. Councillor Mowat in reply stated that definite instructions had been given not to give electric light to any person or persons who were in arrears for electric light supplied.

The Police and License committee were instructed to prepare and arrange tariff for cabs and truckmen in the town.

Councillor Lunan asked the Town Clerk if he had notified Mr. H. A. Wallace regarding a shack which had yet no brick chimney. The clerk in reply stated that as far as he was aware this had been done. S. Lunan pointed out this was incorrect.

Council then adjourned.

A Dollar in Value for A Dollar in Cash

THIS is the Fit-Reform creed and policy in nine words. Honesty in materials—worth, as shown by the Fit-Reform label with price of the garment in the pocket of every Fit-Reform Suit and Overcoat—and the free offer of money back if satisfaction be not given.

Fit-Reform has grown in size and importance because it has given, and is giving to-day, a square deal to every man who buys clothes.

We have put more dollar-for-dollar value in the Spring Overcoats shown above, than you could reasonably expect to get for the price—$18, $20, $22, $25, according to material.

KING'S COLLEGE WINDSOR NOTES

On Nov. 3rd a very interesting game of Rugby was played between the College fifteen and U. N. B. The field was in fairly good condition, but too muddy to allow much fast or open play. At the end of the first half neither team had scored, but in the second U. N. B. rushed the game and scored two tries in quick succession in the middle of the half. Neither of these was converted. Though King's defence was excellent, her men were unable to get away and do anything in the line of scoring. The tackling of our halves held the score down considerably, but the game ended 6 to 0 in favor of the visiting team. In the evening the visitors were entertained by the students and their friends at an At Home given in the gymnasium. The Students' Missionary Society has decided to send at least two delegates to the Mens' Missionary Convention to be held in Halifax on the 22nd, 23rd, and 24th of this month. During the coming year the Society hopes to secure some of the men prominent in Missionary activity to deliver addresses for the benefit of the students and the people of Windsor generally. The College has been visited recently by the Rev. R. A. Hiltz, M. A., travelling Secy of the S. S. Commission of the church of England in Canada, and Dr. McElfresh, President of the S. S. Commission of the U. S. A., both of these delivered to the students very helpful and inspiring addresses on S. S. work, which were much appreciated. Windsor has done well in the Extension Campaign of the college having raised about $6000. It is to be hoped that larger towns with greater resources will do at least as well. Many graduates and friends of the University spent Thanksgiving
