WHEN LOVE Came Too Late.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

Conclusion.
"Ah, no, never again!" he answered in the low accents of passion—passion that had been suppressed for ten months and longer. "Never again unless you tell me that you do not love me; then I will go forever! What do you say, Olivia? Ah, I won't shame your sweet trustfulness by asking, Kiss me, my darling! Give me the kiss that I have been thirsting for so long—so long."

She raised her head, and looked at him, and her soul seemed to melt and fly on the wings of a dove to his. Then, with the little shudder of joy's excess, she put up her hands, slid them, warm and soft, round his neck, and, drawing his face down, let her lips cling to his.

"Oh, my love, my love! oh, my darling!" she breathed. "If you knew! If you knew! But you will never know, you never can! Must I tell you?"

He answered her with a passionate kiss. Her face burned, and she hid against his breast, drawing the sable lining of his coat round her to hide her as she made her confession:

"I thought—I thought to-night that you were never coming, and that I must see you or—die!"

Nearly a year passed before Lord Clydesfold brought his bride back to the old home, which he had made a House Beautiful for her; and not only the whole population of Hawkwood and Wainford, but, as it seemed, almost the whole of the county, congregated to give them welcome.

All that was done that day in the way of triumphal arches, feasting, and speech-making, is it not written in the columns of the Wainford Gazette? There is no need to reprint it here. But mention must be made of one feature of the festivities.

Massed near the new gates that opened to the new drive were two or three hundred little children, neatly clad, and wearing happy faces, as rosy as the flowers they held in their hands ready to throw in the path of the lovely young countess.

They were the children of the Convalescent Home, which had effaced The Maples, and in their midst stood a pale, but serene, and, indeed, happy-faced matron. She was known at the Home and to the world as Sister Elizabeth, and had grown so used to hear herself so called in accents of childish love that she would scarcely have responded if some one had chanced to remember her and called her—Liz Lee.

Seth had disappeared in the confusion and excitement of Lord Clydesfold's release on the day of the trial, and, with true gypsy cunning, had succeeded in concealing his whereabouts from all excepting the man who, with generous hand, sent him periodically enough to live on.

Of Ezekiel Mowle there are no tidings; but we have a shrewd suspicion that he is doing well somewhere, and that he will continue to do so, until, having reached the height of the proverbially flourishing bay-tree, he will in a moment of imprudence lose his caution, grow reckless, and be cut down.

Bessie, what of true-hearted, devoted Bessie? You will find her at the Grange, and never far from her bed.

Pains Quit! Back-Soreness Goes, Torturous Lumbago Cured by "Nerviline."

This Wonderful Curative Linctament Has Almost Magical Powers.

You can compare a congestive pain to a little fire. When congestion smoulders, pain comes and goes. Congestion grows into inflammation, but pain, now intense, grows excruciating and stays, too. There is an absolute antidote of pain—it is Nerviline. New, to you, perhaps is Nerviline, but known well in many lands as the most penetrating and pain-subduing remedy ever discovered. Not only of ill-smelling, but pleasant—its rubs on. Not temporary action, but permanent in its control of pain.

BAD DREAMS ARE SYMPTOMS

Ill Health the Cause—Many Alarming Symptoms of Women's Ailments—How Cured.

Paterson, N.J.—"I thank you for the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies as they have made me feel happy and healthy. Some time ago I felt so run down, had pains in my back and side, was very irregular, tired, nervous, had such bad dreams, did not feel like eating and had short breath. I read your advertisement in the newspapers and decided to try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It worked from the first bottle, so I took a second and a third, also a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and now I am just as well as any other woman. I advise every woman, single or married, who is troubled with any of the aforesaid ailments, to try your wonderful Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier and I am sure they will help her to get rid of her troubles."—Mrs. ELISIE J. VANDER SANDE, 7 Godwin Street, Paterson, N. J.

Women suffering with any form of female ill, or any symptoms that they do not understand, are invited to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. (confidential), and receive advice wholly free of cost.

loved mistress' side. You must ask for her still as Miss Alford, for Bessie is still unmarried. She has had offers, many and excellent, but she has refused them, and will still refuse them. She gives no reason, but simply says, "I thank you, no!" and it has grown into a tradition that at some time they say just about the period in which she had the pony accident—she lost her heart, and has never been able to find who stole it.

At any rate, be that as it may, she is as happy as—as Olivia, Countess of Clydesfold; and it would be difficult to find a higher state of felicity.

As the squire says, as he looks at his "son and daughter," from his old armchair by the great dining-room fire:

"How can a woman be anything but happy when she is married to a man who has proved that he is willing to lay down his life for her sake?"

THE END.

CHAPTER I.

The Dread Messenger.

"Dear me," he said, aloud. Then he muttered, "Confound it, how shall I tell her with those eyes of hers fixed on me like—like gimlets?"—which they certainly were not. "Dear me, that is so strange, because, you see, my dear Miss Frere, the earl knows you so well."

"Knows me?" said Norah, her eyes opening still larger, to Mr. Petherick's increased embarrassment. "I think you must be mistaken. I am sure that I have never seen him, nor heard of him till now."

"Not, I should have said that the earl knew of you—of you. There is a difference, is there not? And—and to put it abruptly, which I have been trying not to do all this time, it is by his request, I should say command, that I am here to-day."

It's Such a Funny Sensation. By Dorgan

"By the command of the Earl of Arrowdale," said Norah.

"Yes; his lordship takes a very great interest in you. In fact—ahem; you have no other name than Norah—Norah Frere, I believe?"

A vague suspicion began to assail Norah, that her strange visitor was slightly demented.

She shook her head.

"Did you ever hear your mother speak of your father, Miss Frere?" he asked.

"No," said Norah, in a low voice; "I think he is dead."

Mr. Petherick pursed his lips and frowned.

"Now we are coming to it," he muttered. "My dear young lady, your father is not dead; in fact—ahem—he is very much alive. I thought it likely that you may have learned that he and your mother were separated—from no fault of your mother's," he added, as the beautiful face grew suddenly pale, and the dark eyes became moist; "no fault of hers whatever. Er—incompatibility of temper. Yes, I may say, with all due respect to my noble client, that any woman would have found it difficult to live with him. Your father, the earl—"

Norah rose, pale and agitated.

"What did you say?" she breathed.

"My father, the earl—"

"Well, I've let it out now, thank Heaven!" exclaimed Mr. Petherick. "Yes, my dear young lady, your father is the Earl of Arrowdale. Come, come, it has surprised and upset you, I know, and—and I might have broken it better; though, 'pon my word, I did my best. Will you sit down? Pray, sit down."

Norah sank into the chair and put her hand before her eyes. Her brain was in a whirl, and she almost doubted the evidence of her senses.

She, the daughter of an earl! Surely there must be some mistake.

Mr. Petherick coughed and fidgeted for a minute or two, then he took up his parole.

"You see, Lady Norah—"

Lady Norah! Norah! Let her hand fall from her eyes and looked at him. She was still pale, but she had mastered her emotion, or, at least, any signs of it, and the dark eyes turned upon the old lawyer were full of sweet dignity and patience.

"You see, the secret has been kept so well—I really don't think any one knew of your existence or identity, excepting the earl and your mother, and the nurse, Mrs.—"

"Catherine Hayes," surmised Norah.

"Thank you, yes; and myself, of course—that it is only natural you should be surprised. But I beg you will not distress yourself or feel any alarm. The earl has nothing but the—ahem—kindest intentions, and, indeed, is—er—eager to see you. Heaven forgive me," he added, inaudibly.

"To see me?" said Norah; "he has never seen me."

Mr. Petherick coughed awkwardly.

"No, no; he has not. You were born a few months after the separation, and—and circumstances—in fact, as you say, the earl has not seen you."

"Why does he wish to see me now?" asked Norah, in a low voice, her lip quivering.

"Well, his lordship having become aware, by the letter of your nurse, Mrs. Hayes, of your lonely condition, has decided that you should go and live with him."

Norah flushed.

"Go and live with him," she said, slowly.

"Yes. He is your father, my dear Lady Norah," said Mr. Petherick, "and—and though I have no doubt you would be quite content to remain here with this extremely amiable old lady, Mrs. Jordan, still—er—really, I think the arrangement the earl proposes is only the natural and proper one, and I—er—trust you will find it a happy one." But though Mr. Petherick smiled and nodded, his cough and a certain compression of the lips were scarcely encouraging.

"My father wishes it?" said Norah, her brows drawn in a straight line.

"You may be sure of that, Lady Norah. I can assure you that the earl never did anything he didn't wish to—"

He stopped awkwardly. "Oh, yes, certainly."

"Where does he live?" asked Norah.

"At present, indeed for a greater part of the year, at Santeleigh Court, a most beautiful place, oh, beautiful! and—er—"

he took out of his old-fashioned watch, "I think, if it is not hurrying you too much, we must think of starting, say, in an hour."

"In an hour!" exclaimed Norah.

Mr. Petherick smiled and nodded encouragingly.

"Yes. My instructions were to return as quickly as possible. His lordship's commands were explicit, and—ahem—one is accustomed to obey them. No need to trouble about packing, Lady Norah; that is, more than you want for the journey. The other things can follow you."

Norah rose, her hand resting on the table, her face pale, her eyes fixed on the nervously-blinking ones of the old lawyer.

"I have never heard of my father till now; my mother never spoke of him—he could have been nothing to her; suppose I were to refuse to—to go to him?"

Mr. Petherick fell back and stared at her.

"God bless my soul!" he exclaimed, in an almost awe-struck whisper.

"Refuse! Oh, my dear young lady, such a thing is not to be thought of. You—it is evident that you do not know, have not heard of your father. Oh, please, for my sake, go and get ready, Lady Norah," and he mopped his face with his handkerchief.

She stood as if thinking deeply for a moment, then she raised her head.

"I will go," she said; and Mr. Petherick drew a long breath of relief as she left the room, and he muttered:

"Bless my soul! There'll be trouble between those two. Oh, Lord, I'm sorry for her. Yes, there'll be trouble!"

DECORATED WITH CROSS.

PARIS, Oct. 17.
Monsieur Emile Lobbedey, Bishop of Arras, has been decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor for his heroism and devotion with which he remained at his post of duty under fire.

COURT MARTIAL AT BRUSSELS.

LONDON, Oct. 17.
A court martial will assemble at Brussels to-day for the trial of four teen persons accused of conspiracy. The prisoners include Dr. Bull, wealthy Englishman, charged with having provided Edith Cavell with funds to assist in the escape of Belgians.

WORKMEN ARRESTED.

LONDON, Oct. 17.
The Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co. wires the following: Three hundred workmen in a Ghent factory, who refused to work in German munition factories in Belgium, have been arrested and sent to Germany. Twelve who resisted were shot. The Germans everywhere are forcing the Belgians to work for them, particularly on the railways.

ON THE MACEDONIAN FRONT.

PARIS, Oct. 17.
Violent artillery fighting is in progress on the Macedonian front in the region of the Cerna River. The war office reports that the Serbians were checked by a Bulgarian counter-attack.

RETIREMENT OF ROMANIANS.

LONDON, Oct. 17.
The Times' correspondent with the Romanian forces telegraphs: Romanian troops west of the Iasso, began an orderly retirement from their position on the evening of October 17, passing Brasce, burning by night. To-day they are taking up positions in the foothold defending the entrance of the Predell Pass. This movement presents a redistribution in order to shorten the line, and was not in the slightest degree forced by any local necessity. With the long western front which the Romanians had defended in face of the increasing numbers of Teutons, it was deemed wise not to expose advanced positions to any sudden manoeuvres during the retirement. The Germans were not even in touch with the Romanian troops, and the movement has been made quietly and entirely without panic of the smallest demoralization among the Romanians.

THE POPE'S APPEAL.

ROME, Oct. 17.
The Pope has made an appeal to the children of happy and prosperous America to aid the million and a half of happy children of Belgium.

FIFTH GERMAN WAR LOAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.
A cablegram from Berlin shows that in the fifth German war loan the number of small subscribers, whose loans less than 200 marks, fell off in number by 612,034.

BITTER FIGHTING IN THE TRANSYLVANIA PASSES.

LONDON, Oct. 17.
Latest despatches from Buchares show that fighting of an extremely bitter character is still going on in all the Transylvania Passes. According to a news despatch from Roumania, the retreat from Transylvania was chiefly due to the heavy guns of the Austro-Germans, which outranged the Roumanian artillery. Military experts direct attention chiefly to Predell and Buxon Passes, the former leading directly to valuable oil fields, while the latter is on the road to the railway Junction of Buxon connecting Bucharest with Northern Roumania and Russia. In neither of these Passes have the invaders made any serious headway.

FRENCH CAPTURE.

PARIS, Oct. 17.
Another group of houses in the village of Sully-Sallisse on the Somme front, was captured last night by the French, the war office says. A strong German counter-attack was repulsed.

Incandescent Gas Lighting.

Possibly, the feature of incandescent gas lighting most frequently noted by casual observers is the great ease with which tasks, ordinarily arduous under artificial light may be performed under the Welsbach gas mantle. The light has a peculiarly "soft" quality, difficult to describe, but which is readily recognized by those who have had experience with the gas mantle lamp.

In its general effect upon bodily health and comfort, the use of incandescent gas lighting is decidedly favorable. The currents of air set up by the burning gas improves ventilation, tending to expel the air vitiated by respiration and draw in fresh air to replace it. Harmful or dangerous disease germs are instantly destroyed in the flame. The extent to which this effect takes place may be verified by placing a gas lamp close to a ceiling without any provision for interfering with the up-rushing air currents. The charred particles which collect immediately above the lamp are the remains of dust particles which before passing through the flames were laden with germs and microbes. Actual experiments have shown that the burning of gas lamps in rooms previously containing bacteria, resulted in absolute sterilization of the air.

Contrary to the popular notion the temperature of rooms lighted by incandescent gas lamps is seldom markedly greater than under incandescent electric light, even under unfavorable conditions of ventilation, while in rooms provided with the ventilating facilities required by the demands of hygiene, the temperature in gas-lighted rooms is frequently lower.

Belgian King Ageing.

King Albert of Belgium has aged under the heavy cares and sorrows of the present time, and his hair is beginning to turn gray, according to the latest news from the Belgian front. His Majesty never leaves the small strip of territory over which the Belgian flag still flies, refraining from visits to places in France or to St. Adresse, where his Government has its seat. If the King of England or President Poincare want to meet the Belgian sovereign, they have to go to this corner by the Year.

Seaplane Sinks U-Boat.

Anthony Janus, an aviator and representative of an American aircraft builder, tells of an interesting engagement between a submarine and seaplane which he witnessed while on board a Russian ship during the aerial bombardment and destruction of the Turkish Black Sea ports of San Godac, says an exchange. He states a Turkish submarine had crept unobserved on a Russian seaplane which was resting on the surface and launched a torpedo. The missile grazed one of the planes, but did not explode. Before the submarine could dive, however, the seaplane arose and with accurately aimed bombs destroyed the submarine.

Fire in Ayre and Sons' Building.

FIREMEN HAMPERED BY TEAMS, TREES AND CHILDREN.

In the height of a heavy downpour yesterday evening, an outbreak of fire, which threatened to assume the proportions of a big conflagration, occurred in the storeroom of Messrs. Ayre and Sons Ltd. At its twenty thousand dollars, we hear, would not make good the destruction done and insurance was effected for only half of that amount. The store room where the fire first showed itself was used as a shipping department and a hardware and furniture store house and is the brick building on the western side of Ayre & Sons Cove directly at the rear of the Royal Bank of Canada and close to the waterfront.

At 4.45 p.m. volumes of smoke were seen issuing through a front window of the building by an employee of the concern and immediately an alarm of fire was sent in from box 23 and the Central and Eastern Companies responded. Right at the outset the firemen were impeded in their efforts. All the approaches leading to the scene of the fire were filled with children and to say the least, it was marvellous how some of them escaped without serious injury, due to the skilful and careful driving of those in charge of the fire wagons. When they reached the scene of the outbreak the firemen were again hampered by a long procession of freight laden teams and the incident elicited the strongest denunciation from the hundreds of eye-witnesses who were assembled there.

There was an unnecessary delay of several minutes in getting out the hose owing to the blockade caused by some teamsters and it was only through the efforts of the police that this blockade was raised at all. By this time the fire was getting well under way and another alarm was rung in calling out the West End Fire Company. The smoke was fearfully thick, caused by burning mattresses and other such material, but the firemen, though working under difficulties, assisted by a gang of employees of Ayre & Sons, soon had four streams of water playing on the burning building and inside of an hour the fire was got under control. A fortunate circumstance was that the blaze was prevented from spreading, otherwise the results might be more serious. A large quantity of goods, which were not burned, were destroyed by smoke and water.

Players Get Biggest Amount Ever

The Two Baseball Clubs Will Divide $162,927 Between Them—Some Comparative Figures.

New York, Oct. 12.—Baseball statisticians figured out to-day that $162,927 the players' share of the receipts from the present world's series, is the largest sum ever divided among the members of two clubs in any world's series. Sixty per cent of it goes to the winners and forty per cent to the losers. If Boston wins the series each of the twenty-six members of that club will receive $3,232.94, and each of the Brooklyn, $2,715.41. If Brooklyn should win, each of the twenty-four players of that club will pocket $4,073.10, which would set a new record for the amount won by individual players in any world's series. Should Boston lose the players of that club would receive $2,596.53 each.

When a Man Gets to be 50

The man of 50 has to allow up a little. He begins to realize that he has a stomach and liver. He can't eat and work and hustle with the same disregard of health as he did 20 years ago, so he turns to Abbey's Effervescent Salt. Abbey's Effervescent Salt helps nature—its best part of God's beneficent work—constipation, biliousness, indigestion, uric acid poisoning—regulates the elimination organs—keeps the whole system in a normal healthy condition. Abbey's Effervescent Salt is a tumbler of warm water first thing every morning will keep you fit and full of energy throughout the day. Made in the Abbey Effervescent Salt Company's own laboratories in Montreal.

Lightning and Thunder Storm.

The Bishop at Codner.

Re-opening of Extended School.

An interesting ceremony was held last night at Codner, Kelligrews, when the school founded by the Colonial and Continental Church Society and recently enlarged was formally opened. The Rev. Canon Bolt, Chairman of the Society, presided, and his Lordship, the Bishop, was the chief guest. On the platform were also the Rev. E. Caldwell, who had come from Brigus to be present, Mr. J. W. Winter, Mr. H. A. Winter, Mr. Colley (the schoolmaster) and several other gentlemen. Despite the very inclement weather, a large number of the residents of Codner and nearby places assembled, and displayed deep interest in the proceedings. The schoolroom, which has been greatly enlarged and improved, is a fine structure, comparable with any in the island and a credit to Mr. Colley, who devoted the whole of his summer vacation to superintending its construction.

Canon Bolt in his opening address, explained the purposes of the Society and reviewed the work it had done at Codner. He congratulated the settlement and Mr. Colley on the fine state of learning they had acquired and saw in it a healthy and hopeful augury of educational progress. He concluded by exhorting all present to endeavor to realize the great value of education and to put no obstruction in the way of their children enjoying every advantage offered.

The Bishop expressed the great pleasure it had been to him to come, despite the weather, and to find so many witnesses who were so interested and anticipated success to the new school and said it would be a pleasure to him to watch its fortunes in future years. He regretted, incidentally, that the good old name of Middle Bight, that he knew so well, had been discarded in favour of Codner.

Mr. Withers and Mr. Winter also spoke briefly, pointing out the great and too little appreciated benefits of education and congratulating the people of Codner on having such a splendid access to them as was now afforded. A vote of thanks to the visitors was put by Mr. Colley and seconded by Mr. Hynes; it was carried by acclamation. Between the speeches songs were sung, and an interesting and enjoyable evening was concluded by a supper. His Lordship and party returned to town by motor at a late hour.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 18, 1916.

Greece Again.

If the message is correct and the situation at Athens indeed serious, the Allies should be able to continue to do so. They are by no means unanimous on the subject of Greece and the value of entering her well, and they seem now to be content to welcome such of the Greeks as will join Venizelos and to render the rest incapable of mischief. The conduct of the Royalist mob at Athens reminds us strongly of the importance of the Lilliputians. Yet the weeping Constantine is an affecting sight, and who can condescend to move a picture of the loyal tars coming to him with bleeding hearts and streaming eyes? We could almost shed our tears in sympathy, if we did not know that when the war has followed its course far enough to put the issue beyond all doubt, even to the pig-headed Constantine, these same patriots will be the first to turn upon him and denounce him. By which time, however, it is safe to assume that they will have only his life-sized portrait on which to wreak their vengeance.

The position of Greece grows more peculiar every day and her ultimate fate more difficult to conjecture. It is a little unfortunate that the recent set-backs of Roumania have given the appearance of truth and provision to Constantine's warnings. But Roumania is not yet finished, and there are signs that the tables may soon be turned. If they are, it will be interesting to watch Athens once more. The difficulty one is under in passing judgment on Greece is in the clear division that has separated her into two camps, and the contempt that might naturally be felt for the King and his followers is more than bal-

Naples Overjoyed at Peace Miracle.

Naples, Italy, Sept. 19.—All the bells in the city rang out joyfully to-day, sirens blew and flags flew from shipping in harbor and bay, cannons fired a salute and Naples went mad with delight over an omen which is construed as forestalling an early ending of the war and the returning home of her victorious sons.

This is the day of St. Januarius (Gennaro), the patron saint of Naples. Every year at this time the people look for a miracle—the bibling and liquifying of the saint's blood preserved in two glass vials. This morning the great cathedral was packed. Many of the faithful had spent the night on the bare stone floors in order to be near the altar when the vials are exposed.

At 10 o'clock the ceremony began. Descendants of the saint, simple fisher folk, had the post of honor near the altar. When the vials were brought forth from the chapel and the reliquary containing the saint's head was exhibited, all the worshippers prostrated themselves, beat their heads upon the floor and rent the air with cries and invocations, the descendants chanting their special litany.

Fifty-five minutes later, amid indescribable excitement, the blood, it is asserted began to bubble and finally liquified, becoming ruby red, indicating speedy victory and peace, instead of (as in the two previous years) becoming blacking, meaning war and death.

British Liners Sail from New York.

The Adriatic Has Large Passenger List and 18,000 Tons of Munitions.

New York, October 12.—With all lights extinguished the steamship Adriatic, of the White Star Line, carrying 353 passengers and 18,000 tons of war munitions was believed to-night to be speeding south from this port within the three-mile zone of safety off the coast. Her announced destination was Liverpool and her course to that city would lead past Sandy Hook. She apparently followed in the wake of the freight laden Pannonia and Minnehaha. The Danish vessel Hellig Olav, more venturesome than the British steamers, took the easterly course after clearing the bar. They were the first vessels to leave New York for European ports since the submarine raid of Sunday.

The Adriatic left her dock this afternoon, but after reaching Sandy Hook dropped anchor outside the bar. Her captain evidently intended to get away under cover of darkness. As night fell no lights flashed aboard the big liner and Sandy Hook observers were unable to watch her movements. It was believed, however, that she headed south soon after seven o'clock. No British or French cruisers which might act as convoys were sighted, although it was believed they might pick up the liner after she was forced to leave the three mile limit. It was thought the almost simultaneous departure of the Adriatic and the two British freighters might be significant.

There were four Americans among the 38 passengers in the Adriatic's first cabin. Two other American citizens, Filipinos, also were aboard. There was no cheery farewells at the pier as the steamer cut off and most of those on board wore serious looks. All the lifeboats of the upper tier were uncovared and their ropes were carefully coiled so the boats could be lowered almost instantly.

FATAL FIRE AT QUEENSBOROUGH.

NEW YORK, To-day. Seven persons, all officers and office employees of an oak and dry manufacturing company, were burned to death; two others are missing and it is feared have lost their lives in a fire which destroyed two factories in the manufacturing section of Queensborough to-day with a loss of $250,000.

BRITAIN WAITING FOR U. S. TO SPEAK.

LONDON, To-day. The British Government will not make any official representation to the States concerning the German submarine U-53, pending the announcement of its attitude by the American Government, said Viscount Grey in the House of Lords to-day. In reply to a question concerning the attitude of the States toward British patriots, Viscount Grey said the States admitted that British ships were not exceeding their legal rights under international law, but that the American Government complained of their presence on the ground of the irritation which the continued presence of belligerent warships off the U. S. coast naturally caused a neutral country. He declared that the States requested Britain very emphatically not to patrol off its coast and said instructions were sent to the British ships there to avoid causing any unnecessary irritation and to comply as far as possible with the American request. With regard to the U-53 the Foreign Secretary continued, "We do not know whether it is true that American warships protested on the subject of the submarine."

GERMAN ADMISSION.

BERLIN, To-day. Rumanian troops in Transylvania are making a stand on the frontier passes against the Teutonic armies, and said instructions were sent to the situation is reported in the statement.

EARLY CLOSING.

LONDON, To-day. Herbert M. Samuel, Home Secretary, announced to-day that with a view to restrictions of lighting on account of the raids and in order to economize coal, the Government proposes ordering all shops to close at seven o'clock in the evening in winter, except on Saturdays, when they will close at eight o'clock. The order goes into effect on Oct. 30th, but does not apply to the sale of intoxicants.

ANOTHER NORWEGIAN SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. Lloyds announces the Norwegian steamer Heng Aih is reported sunk on Saturday. The steamer was 801 tons gross and owned in Kristiania.

TROUBLE IN ATHENS.

ATHENS, To-day. Marines from the ships of the Entente Powers occupied the railway station at Piræus and several buildings in Athens. Immediately this became known the streets of Athens were swarmed with Greeks frantically cheering Constantine and chanting the Greek National Anthem. Great crowds marched through the streets, thousands gathering in the neighborhood of the post office square. War Minister Dracos ordered out the Greek troops and machines to guard every approach to the square in order to prevent any clash between the Greek civilians and French, who occupied that section, establishing a complete cord about the French and taking all

THE SITUATION SERIOUS IN ATHENS.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch to Reuters' Tel. Co. from Athens says the situation appears dangerous. There have been demonstrations in the street. Admiral Dufrenoy, Commander of the Entente fleet in the Mediterranean, was hissed and jeered by the Greeks and sailors were driven back by hostile crowds. A procession of some 4,000 men, headed by the Greek and American flags stopped the American legation and protested against the landing of foreign marines, and demanded the protection of the American Minister, who was absent. The demonstration then paraded the streets, singing the Greek National Anthem.

MERELY A PRECAUTION.

ATHENS, To-day. The British legation explained the landing of marines in Athens and Piræus merely to prevent demonstrations like these this morning, Monday.

AN EXTRAORDINARY ORDER.

GENEVA, To-day. The Swiss Government in consequence of recent economic arrangements with Germany, has prohibited Swiss factories from exporting ammunition to the Entente Allies if they are using German coal or steel. This order will render idle over 50,000 men again. There is much discontent. The proprietors of the factories met to-day and protested against the order, arguing that Switzerland had received Belgian and not German coal, and that the Allies supply the raw material for their ammunition.

ROMANIAN SUCCESS.

BUCHAREST, To-day. Official. In the Ural Valley the enemy has been driven back beyond the frontier. Our artillery caught under the fire an enemy battalion advancing in massed formation. Among the killed in this battalion has been found

Dr. Chase's Ointment. Streples form, run waters matter which turns to crust, itching becomes painfully intense, and the disease spreads over the body. There are cures, but all are cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Relief from itching is obtained at once, and gradually and naturally the sores are healed. You can see with your own eyes just what being accomplished from the use of this wonderful healing, soothing ointment, and this will convince you that keep up the treatment until a cure is complete.

the body of the Commander. We captured 53 machine guns.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. The British steamer "Albatross" Frisco, 4,334 tons gross, and owned at Newcastle, has been sunk.

NO CONSCRIPTION YET.

LONDON, To-day. An indication that the Government does not intend to have recourse immediately to conscription in Ireland was given in the Lords to-day by Earl Derby, Under-Secretary for War, in reply for voluntary recruiting in Ireland, to which he hoped there would be a worthy response.

SNOWSTORM IN QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, To-day. Quebec since eleven o'clock last night has been in the grip of a regular Xmas snowstorm. It started with a forty mile gale and reports from various places down the Gulf and River and up as far as Three Rivers indicate that a severe snowstorm is raging. An inch of snow has fallen in this city.

STEPHANO'S CREW HOMEWARD BOUND.

HALIFAX, To-day. Twenty-two of the crew of the Stephano, which was sunk by the German submarine U-53, arrived to-night from New York. They came on a steamer which left New York on Saturday, and which followed along the shore within the three mile limit till darkness fell. A straight course was then made for the open Atlantic, but the usual track of steamers avoided. Those who arrived here all belong to the homes being in St. John's, for which port they are now bound. Expecting to leave tomorrow via the Canada route. The captain of the Stephano remained at New York.

WAR REVIEW.

LONDON, To-day. Volhynia, Galicia and Transylvania are still the points where the severest fighting is taking place. Along the Somme front in France bombardments alone have prevailed, except in Bely-en-Santerre, where the Germans threw two attacks against the British, only to be repulsed. In Macedonia hostilities have been confined mainly to patrol engagements and artillery duels. Bad weather has prevailed throughout the Austro-Italian theatre; with snow in the mountains and rain in the valleys little fighting of moment has taken place. In Transylvania the Russians fighting near the border passes continue tenaciously to hold back the German and Austro-Italian everywhere. In the Ural Valley they have driven the invaders back across the Rumanian border.

TINO AS RHETORICIAN.

ATHENS, To-day. The King issued the following order of the day to the officers and sailors: "In these hours of our struggle with hearts bleeding each new moment from new wounds deep in our souls, which we short of our own blood in a united and victorious Greece, my Government has been besieged to order you to leave the ships upon which you brought the news of the freeing of our liberated brothers. You came with tortured hearts and eyes wet with tears, every man faithful to his duty. The glorification of King and Chief of the Fleet but as the representative of the Fatherland you love so much and which you will not leave until you are ready to suffer all. May our hopes soon be realised, and may the hour come when you will return to your ships. The Holy Ikens that have protected you in the past will protect you in the future. The glorious day once caught by the winds of the Greek seas will bring hope and consolation wherever Greek hearts beat for their Nation and King."

Here and There.

THE SUSA.—The s.s. Susa left Cathala early this morning, going north.

GOOD WATER SUPPLY.—There was much favorable comment around town about the excellent supply of water in evidence at yesterday evening's fire, which contained in no small measure towards the subduing of the fire so promptly and effectually.

BAR'S NEW PURCHASE.—Mr. G. B. Barr's newly purchased schooner Benevolence, Capt. Eugene M. Burden, reached port yesterday after a run of three days from Lunenburg. She will shortly load fish for the European markets, being well fitted for crossing the Atlantic.

FLORIZEL LEAVES.—The s.s. Florizel leaves port at 4 o'clock this afternoon taking a full freight and these saloon passengers: H. Lorin, E. F. Howell, Mrs. Barry, A. Moulton, A. H. Howard, E. M. Chandler, Mr. Brown, Mrs. L. Parsons, Miss White, J. P. Powell, R. Bradshaw, R. B. Jarvis, W. B. McDonald, A. F. Perkins and 60 second class.

POLICE COURT (Before Mr. Morris, K.C.)—A 35-year-old fisherman, of Ferryland, arrested last night by Detective Byrne for the laxness of $150, was remanded for 8 days. A case in which a man was summoned by his wife for assault, was withdrawn for want of prosecution, as was also another case preferred against a "hubby" by his better half for desertion. A boy summoned for assault had to give bonds for his future good behaviour.

THE STRIKE.—The Union stokers are still out on strike, and judging from present indications there is no hope of a settlement with shipowners. The Union men on the s.s. Prospero quit work yesterday. Others have been engaged in their places and the ship will get away this evening for the northward. When the Reid steamer Megie and Glenora reached Port aux Basques yesterday the Union stokers on both ships left. This morning enough men were got to man the stockholds and the ships sailed on their regular routes.

Albania

The tense interest of the Macedonian and Rumanian situation is preventing the Italian occupation of Albania from attracting the attention that it deserves. The Italian troops at Argyrocastro (a spot made fairly famous by Byron's notes as "Childe Harold") are distinctly on Greek ground, and they menace Janina itself. At the same time they are reaching northeastward toward Monastir. Their occupation of this Albanian region may not be regarded as permanent, but they are certainly on the eastern shore of the Adriatic to stay, and they will probably make the destiny of Albania which has now proved that it can never have a future of its own) Italian, rather than Hellenic. Wang's delicate diplomacy must now be in progress somewhere among the Entente Allies regarding this Adriatic region. How far shall Italy come, and how far Serbia? And where must Hellas stay? We may assume that the Allies are postponing diplomatic questions until the military ones are answered, but we may be quite sure that the future is being deeply considered at Rome, at the little fugitive court of the old king of Serbia, at Athens and at Paris and London. The Allies will wait for some time to determine all these questions, big with the fate of the Mediterranean peoples, but some regard will have to be paid, after all, to the fact that the solid ground of the Adriatic Italy will consist of considerably more than the port of Valona when the final "clean up" comes. And it will be quite natural for the Albanian streak in the Italian blood to stir the kindling of the Stjepanets intimate.—Boston Transcript.

Don't Neglect Your Cough.

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that it will go away. But it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insect grows if left alone, to the mighty giant oak, that cough if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness. When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known, where serious complications and fatal illness have had their start from a neglected cough or cold. "Don't neglect your cough." Stafford's Phorotone Cough and Cold Cure is what you should take. For sale at Stafford's Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and Stafford's Pharmacy, Duckworth Street. Price 25c, Postage 5c extra. No trouble to take this cough remedy. Prepared only by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. Manufacturers of 3 Specialties: STAFFORD'S LINIMENT. STAFFORD'S PRESCRIPTION A. STAFFORD'S PHOROTONE.

Your Boys and Girls.

The very biggest and sunniest room in the house should be chosen for the nursery. If the children are to sleep there care should be taken that it is thoroughly aired at every opportunity; during meals and when the children are out for their airing. The furniture should be white enameled. Iron white enameled beds or cribs should be used and all furniture should be painted with white enamel. This is not only from an artistic point of view but because of sanitation, as white enamel is easy to keep clean. Hangings and bed coverings should be of the lightest material, procurable and washable. Cretonnes with figures are good for upholstery, and window curtains can be made of any light airy wash goods that can be purchased for a few cents a yard.

For Just Two Minutes.

By RUTH CAMERON.

How difficult it is to get even intelligent people to act together! We had a little illustration of it that greatly interested me one day last summer. A group of about twenty of us were having a camp-fire supper. We had supped, and had romped with the children, and finally we had gathered in a semi-circle about the fire.

"Start a song," said someone. Of course Everybody Hung Back. Nobody responded. Everyone waited for someone else. Then someone made a good suggestion. "Let's go around the circle and each start some song he likes." "Fine!" said everyone, and after the usual discussion as to which end the singing should start, we got under way. It was an excellent arrangement. It gave each person a chance to have his favorite song sung, it gave everyone an opportunity to contribute his share, it made it possible for each one to plan ahead what he should do when his turn came. It should have worked perfectly, and it did for almost five minutes. Someone Was Seized With An Inspiration Out of Turn. Then someone on the opposite side of the circle was seized with an inspiration at just the moment when it was someone else's turn to sing. Next someone else who had already had a turn had another idea, and then someone whose turn it was couldn't think of a song and did think of one two minutes later, when it wasn't his turn. Just as the last person in the circle, a small girl who had been waiting intensely for her turn, was about to announce her choice, a grown-up cried, "Now, let's finish up with, 'Good-night, Ladies.'" Now, of course, except for the one disappointment, it didn't really matter whether we stood by our arrangement of not, but it did show how hard it is for people to act together.

The Ability To Co-operate Is Not A Common Virtue. The ability to co-operate intelligently is not a common virtue. We wonder that our governments are not more efficient. Is it not largely because this virtue is so rare? Government is one of the most complex forms of co-operation. If we are incapable of the simplest, what wonder we are incapable of that? Are you a good co-operator? Can you make an agreement that requires acting together and keep it, exercising self-control, respecting the rights of others, and keeping your eye firmly fixed on the common welfare?

Supports the Union.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—To put it in plain language and to say the very least, it is hard lines when a deserving body of men, banded together for mutual benefit, are turned down with apparent contempt, for asking for the wherewithal in return for the hardest kind of labor to keep their families in a fairly decent manner. It's time to wish good-bye to this country when an appeal for justice and fair play is treated in such a manner. It may be that a small number of certain occasions which causes loss and inconvenience to shipowners, but the Union as a body should not be blamed for this, and I have reason to believe that their actions are frowned on by a majority of the firemen of this city. Being a member of a sister Union who at all times received the utmost courtesy and consideration from the hands of those gentlemen comprising our steamship owners, it is unaccountable to me that the same consideration was not extended to the firemen. Their request for an increase seems quite reasonable, owing to the giddy heights which cost of living has flown to and as time goes on things will be going from bad to worse and those men embark on a perilous venture in their avocation. They stand but the slimmest chance of their lives in the event of a disaster, and it's a well known fact to our engineers that Nfld. firemen got no equals, because the pluck and spirit of their forefathers is deeply imbedded in them, and the rivalry existing between the different watches in producing the most steam is lacking altogether amongst Dagoes and Foreigners. It's a strange and lamentable fact, but it is a fact and don't speak well for this corner of the British Empire, that men are found to fill the places of those who are but seeking for that which the Almighty intended every human being should have, viz. a sufficiency to sustain life, to a standard becoming to a Christian and a Christian family. If an appeal to the sense of justice and fair play hasn't the desired effect, give it up for when force by striking is resorted to it's like pulling it out with a pin. Mr. Editor, if this war continues another few years, the dealers in this country will have money enough. I know some of them who started less than two years ago with an 8 x 10 pane of glass who now have plate glass windows, and more of that to them, but not on the deprivation of the families of the workmen. For we, the workers and producers are under the deep-seated conviction that we are being led a sickly white. Thanking you for opps, I am, Sir, Yours, etc., OBSERVER. Oct. 15, 1916.

FOOL DRIVERS.

The man who drives a motor car where crowds of human beings are, should have his wits as bright and keen as is the sparkling gasoline. A motor car is a deadly thing, that's sure to stay a n d wound and wing, unless the driver's safe and sane, possessed of clear and active brain. How sinful, then, the sudden skate, who says, "Before I pull my freight, along the crowded streets to fly, I'll drink four fingers of old rye." With tanglefoot beneath his belt, he goes as fast as he can pet; his eyes distorted by old booze, the course of safety he won't choose. In haste to get to other bars, he knocks the wheels from passing cars, and makes the dodging waiter swear, and kills a lawyer here and there. He is a messenger of death; and any man whose dark blue breath suggests long sessions at the bar, should never run a motor car. If "Safety First" is what you mean, you can't mix gin and gasoline.

The Race for Constantinople Between British and Russians in the Balkans.

Former in the Dobruja. Latter On the Struma, Making Drive—Co-operation On Both Bulgarian Fronts—Roumanians Apparently Held Up, But the Allies in Macedonia Making Very Good Progress.

London, Oct. 7.—Constantinople is likely to be the first of the capitals under Prussian domination to fall to the Allies' arms. It is a race between the Russians in the Dobruja and the British on the Struma to get there first. Of course, the public here would like to see the British armies win, but they will not begrudge Grand Duke Nicholas the honor if the Russians are first to erect the cross above the crescent on the Mosque of St. Sophia.

The Russians are 240 miles away and the British 280, but the latter have the easier route. Both would follow the coast lines, the Russians coming down along the shore of the Black Sea and the British pushing along the Aegean by the railroad that runs from Salonica to Lake Dolina, crosses the Struma at Demirhisar and then by way of Seres and Drama to Devedgatch, crosses the Maritza river at Osmotika and continues east to Constantinople. The further the British get along this line the easier will be their task. Once the Greek-Macedonian frontier is passed the way lies across the lowlands at the foot of the Rhodope mountains, and in Turkey level plains stretch all the way to Chatalja and Constantinople.

The British are already well across the Struma river, heading for Seres and Demirhisar. The village of Yenikent was captured on Wednesday and Nevelyon on Thursday. Their line now makes a loop east of the river along the Seres road. With Demirhisar and Seres in their possession they will be able to make more rapid progress to the eastward by means of a railroad.

On the Western Macedonian front the Allies apparently are doing very well. The Serbians, aided by the French, are gradually reconquering their country. Descending from the high Balkan ridges they have crossed the Corca river and are pushing on toward Monastir. The French are clearing the enemy from the Serbians' left flank and have taken the railway station of Berbeni and the town of Buv, near the frontier, and only twelve miles south of Monastir, which is now menaced both on the east and south. Berlin admits that the high plateau of Nidje Planina, which overlooks the Corca valley east of Monastir, is held by the Serbians. Italian cavalry are moving up from Southern Albania along the Dryas valley, clearing the country of Bulgarians, who had advanced southwest of Lake Presba in the original drive through Serbia and have been terrorizing the inhabitants ever since. The general direction of the watershed here is toward the northwest, the Voyusa river, which empties into the Strait of Otranto, north of Avlona, being the main drainage line. The region is full of mountains, with narrow valleys, through which flow small streams, rendering progress slow and difficult. The whole Macedonian frontier is protected by similar natural mountain barriers, which are a far greater obstacle to the Allies' progress than the guns of the Prussians and their friends, the Austrians, Bulgars and Turks.

The operations on the Macedonian front are directly connected with those on the eastern frontier of Roumania, where a very interesting development occurred this week. The Roumanians, 24,000 strong, by crossing the Danube between Ruscuk and Tutrakan and advancing from the southwest against the Prussians and Bulgarians fighting in the Dobruja, endeavored to trap the latter between two fires. Field Marshal Mackensen, who had been sent to command in this region soon after Roumania declared war, had advanced his forces in the Dobruja almost to the railway from Constantza, which crosses the province from east to west. Here the Russians and Roumanians, who had been steadily retreating before them, made a stand, and within a few days drove them back near the old frontier. Part of the Prussian forces on this line were detached against the Roumanians who had crossed the Danube, and the latter withdrew again to the Roumanian side—with heavy losses, Berlin insists.

Some military observers here think that the preliminary retreat of the Roumanians and Russians in the Dobruja was premeditated in order to lure the enemy into a trap. A great battle was fought by the northern army in which, Bucharest reports, the Prussians and Bulgars were driven back on their center and right flank. This Berlin denies. But the despatches from the whole of this region, are so conflicting that all the public here knows is that the contending armies are still stretched across the Dobruja from the Black Sea to the Danube, where heavy fighting is progressing. It is believed, without any decided advantage yet to either side. But the Roumanians are being constantly reinforced by troops which are being brought across the Black Sea from Odessa and Trebizond, and the issue cannot long remain in doubt.

While these operations have been going on along their eastern frontier the Roumanians have been overrunning Eastern Transylvania, pouring through the passes and moving down the valleys. They are following the course of the Aluta toward Fogaras, north of which town Prussian and Austrian troops, Berlin said early in the week, were obliged to retire "before superior forces." Yesterday Bucharest used almost the same expression, saying that the enemy had attacked "with superior forces" in the region of Fogaras, and the Roumanian troops had been withdrawn somewhat in consequence.

The Aluta, which runs in a south-westerly direction from Fogaras, makes a sudden bend to the south before Hermannstadt is reached and breaks thru the mountains into Roumania by way of the Rothernthurm Pass. This was the scene of the Roumanian defeat last week which Berlin heralded as a great victory. The Prussians got the pass but the advance is being pushed in the direction of Zloczow, thirty miles east of Lemberg, and from the region of Brezany, on the southeast. The Russians also are making great progress in Armenia west of Trebizond.

On the western front the week has passed in comparative calm, both British and French being engaged in consolidating the positions they have won.

A Child Gets Cross, Sick and Feverish When Constipated

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated clean little liver and bowels.

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a pleasant "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow.

Your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for growing-up youngsters. Beware of cheap counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

A Timely Word, Preserve the Caribou!

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I see by the papers that "Caribou are very plentiful along the line."

If the indiscriminate slaughter of caribou is not very soon stopped, this stock item of news will have to be distributed among the cases.

Caribou have decreased by thousands the last few years. Certain pot-hunters up West who think that the caribou were made for their personal gains, have been abusing all laws, and have done their best to exterminate this noble animal.

While all the civilized nations of the earth are conserving the remnants of the wild things of the forest, Newfoundland is apparently bent on extermination.

Years ago penguins were numerous on the islands up north; they were exterminated by the "poor settlers."

Pot-hunters should be taught that the caribou herds do not exist for their sole benefit.

Greed and ignorance have already done evil enough. It is time that we should cry halt, and cease catering to that element of the community who are always clamoring for license to kill everything in sight.

If those mighty hunters who want shooting so badly, cannot get caribou, perhaps they may turn their energy and ammunition on the Huns and go to the front.

Now is the time to preserve our caribou from extermination, and pot-hunters and vote-buyers should be taught that we owe a duty, as far as the protection of our wild life is concerned, to future generations, as well as to those who, prompted by greed and ignorance, want increased opportunity to slaughter the noble animal that is our pride and glory and that has become our sign on many a bloody battle-field from Gallipoli to Flanders.

Yours truly,
CONSERVATION.

VITAGRAPH STARS IN BIG PICTURE.

The feature film at the Nickel Theatre to-day is an exceptionally good one by the Vitagraph artists, entitled "The Turn of the Road," which is in five reels, produced under the direction of Ted Johnson. Joseph Kilgour and Virginia Pearson are in the leading characters. The story tells of a man, Jim King, who persists in doing wrong in spite of conscience and everything else. He abandons his wife and child and in doing so meets with a serious accident, as the result of which his life hangs on a thread for several days. Other misfortunes follow, but righteousness finally, by a trick of fate overcomes wrongdoing. His house catches fire and he must save his wife and child or the other women. The pictures tell the story vividly, and all lovers of the movie should make a point to attend. It is one of the greatest successes of the Vitagraph company and is now being shown to crowded audiences in New York and other large cities.

CAPE RACE, To-day. Wind N.W. blowing a gale, weather fine preceded by fog and rain last night; no vessel sighted. Bar. 29.25; Ther. 54.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.—On Monday night two thoughtless boys placed a rope across the north sidewalk of Forest Road and standing on the opposite side of the street waited for a victim. Shortly after several ladies put in an appearance but fortunately discovered the rope before any damage was done. The perpetrators are known to one of the ladies and should they attempt the same again their names will be given to the police. There will be no mercy shown to persons caught performing such low-down tricks, as the police are determined to punish such offenders to the extent of the full letter of the law.

Here and There.

WEATHER REPORT.—The weather across country is northwest wind and fine; temperature 30 to 50 above.

ARRIVED WITH PRISONER.—Constable Stapleton, of St. Mary's, having in charge a young man sentenced to three months' imprisonment for assault, arrived by train yesterday.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mrs. Jessie Noseworthy wishes to thank the Doctors and Nurses of Crowdy Ward for their kindness to her son Edward, during his stay at the Hospital.—adv.

SLEIGH BELLS.—FOR DARK NIGHTS.—Last night several of our city cabmen had attached to their horses regular sleigh bells, which were useful in warning pedestrians of the approaching vehicles.

Enjoy your meals by taking a teaspoonful of Stafford's Prescription "A" before eating. Price 25c. and 50c. Postage 5 and 10c. extra.—jly22,16

STORM DAMAGES PROPERTY.—We learn from passengers who arrived by the Trepassay train this morning that last night's storm was felt to be more severe at Portugal Cove, Trepassay and other neighbouring places than the big storm of September 24th. The sea was the heaviest experienced in twenty years and resulted in considerable damage to fishing property.

YOUNG WOMEN LEAVE.—A batch of girls and young women, numbering 32, are taking passage by the Florizel this afternoon. They were engaged to work abroad by a Mrs. Francis, an agent here. The women belong to St. John's and parts of Conception Bay and this is the third batch to leave within the past few months, making a total of 112.

NO ENGLISH MAIL ON STEPHANO.—On Monday the Telegram made reference to the parcel post mail lost on the ill-fated Stephano; we since learn that the senders of such parcels have been notified that their parcels are safe. Apparently a number of people are under the impression that the Stephano had on board an English parcel mail; this is not so. Only once has a parcel mail from here to England passed through the United States. That happened about three months ago and was only permitted through the kindness of the Postmaster at New York.

We bought twenty Rebuilt Underwood Typewriters in order to secure a low price. We have only five unsold. Save $15.00 by ordering now at our price. Model 5, $80.00. Model 4, $70.00. All machines equipped with Back Spacer and Two Color Ribbon. ROYAL STATIONERY CO., 180 Water St. oct17,16

P. S.—We also have a smart selection of Men's Semi-Ready Suits and Overcoats.

CORSETS!

That new gown will never have the appearance you so much desire if you risk putting it on over an ill-fitting corset.

Good Corsets are constantly being designed to conform to the latest demands of Fashion. They are the foundation for all new Styles in Dress, and will supply the poise demanded, only when you wear the proper model suited to your own individual figure. This is where most people fail to acquire the proper carriage so much sought after by all well-dressed women.

The following celebrated makes now in stock
D. & A., LaDIVA and P. C.
Prices: 75c. to $4.00 per pair.
All sizes and models suited to all figures.
Brassiers, American and D. & A.
Prices: 45c. to $1.85.

Sizes 34 to 44, very dainty patterns of lace and embroidery.

Published by Authority.

Under the provisions of "The War Measures Act, 1914," His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to order that the following Regulations shall come into effect as and from the 12th day of October instant.

JOHN R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary,
Dept. of the Colonial Secretary,
October 17th, 1916.

1. The Port and Harbor of St. John's is closed entirely to the entry of shipping at night, from nightfall on the 12th October, until further orders.
2. Lights will remain extinguished, until further notice, at Cape St. Francis, Cape Spear, Bull Head, Ferrisland and Fermeuse, also the lights at Fort Amherst and the leading lights of St. John's.
3. No street or other outdoor lights shall be shown in the City of St. John's, or in or near any of the settlements in the Districts of St. John's East and West.
4. No lights shall be lit in any public building, shop or private residence in the Districts of St. John's East or West, except the windows in such public building, shop or residence are covered by suitable blinds or shades, or such lights are otherwise suitably obscured.
5. No lights shall be lit on board any vessel or boat in the Harbor of St. John's, unless suitably obscured.
6. No head lights shall be used on any motor car or motor cycle in or near the City of St. John's, or in or near any settlement in the District of St. John's East and West, or on any roads approaching St. John's or any of the said settlements, upon which lights may be visible at sea. Side lights on motor cars, motor cycles or vehicles of any description must be obscured, and shall not be of greater strength than five candle power.
7. It shall be the duty of the members of the Constabulary to see that these Regulations are strictly enforced, and all orders issued by them for their better observance shall be forthwith carried out.
8. It shall be the duty of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to see that these Regulations are observed on all shipping in the Harbor of St. John's, and all orders issued by him for their better observance shall be forthwith carried out.
9. Every person convicted of a violation of these Rules and Regulations before a Stipendiary Magistrate or a Justice of the Peace shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars, or in default of payment to imprisonment not exceeding three months.
