CHAPTER XXXII. THE ABDUCTION.

As Olive turned to re-enter the drawing-room, she saw Topsy cross the hall, with a duster in her hand. It seemed a peculiar time to begin dusting operations, and Olive stopped a moment.

"What are you going to do, Topsy?" she asked kindly. "Surely it's late for dusting!"

"Yes, Miss Olive," said Topsy cheerfully, "but it's the old oak. I set my heart on giving it a rub up, and I haven't had a minute to spare till now—so if you don't mind—"

"Why, of course not," said his mistress; and passed on her way.

It was wonderful what trouble Topsy took with that hall furniture; it seemed as if her very life depended on getting the polish on the chairs and tables. Presently there came a sharp knock at the door, and Topsy, with an amiability quite unusual to her, ran to the head of the stairs and called down to the footman:

"I'll go, James, if you like," then, without waiting, she ran to the door and opened it.

A man, seemingly in livery, stood outside. "Is Miss Seymour still up?" he asked.

"Yes," said Topsy; "do you want her?"

"Will you be good enough to give her a message from the Grange? Sir Edwin is taken ill. I was told to say that it was not serious, but Mr. Verner thought that Miss Seymour might like to come to him. Sir Edwin said particularly that he didn't want a fuss made."

Topsy looked aghast at the news. "Oh, dear!" she cried. "My poor master. Are you one of the new servants at the Grange?"

"Yes," said the man; "I only came yesterday. I've got a carriage waiting, so will you tell her to be as quick as she can."

"Yes, yes, of course," said Topsy. "I'll go and break the news to her at once. Oh, poor Miss Olive; if only she had gone with him! Will you come in and wait, while I tell her?"

"No," said the man, "I'll go back to the carriage. The horses are a bit fresh."

"Very well," said Topsy, in suppressed excitement, "and Miss Olive shall come to you just as soon as I can get her ready. Poor Sir Edwin—it is bad news!"

Then the warm-hearted girl saw him out, and closed the door carefully.

As the man had said, the horses were fresh; but they were not kept waiting long, for in a few minutes a dark figure slipped down the steps, and, as the man opened the carriage door for her, he heard a muffled sob.

Away went the horses at a sharp trot, and, on reaching the end of the park road, dashed across the heath.

At the crossroads, however, the carriage stopped for a moment, and two men, who had been standing there, advanced. One leaped on the box, beside the coachman, while the other opened the door and jumped in crying: "Drive like the wind!"

It was Morgan Verner's voice, and the figure in the corner started with a cry: "You—Morgan!"

"Yes, it is I," said Morgan, with a blustering air. "Don't cry out, Olive. It's no use—and, if you do, you are in my power."

The girl gave a low moan, and shuddered, and then faltered in a trembling voice: "What does it mean—I don't understand—"

Morgan laughed insolently, delighted at the success of old Griley's scheme—he had not thought to get off so easily. "I'm too clever to be taken in by your little tricks," he answered. "You meant to throw me over at the end—but I'm not to be done so easily. I meant to have you, and I've got you, my beauty—and, if you're a good girl, I'll marry you—if not—"

He paused significantly. A cry of indignation escaped his victim, and she shrank back into the corner, sobbing pitifully.

"Come, don't be afraid, Olive," said Morgan, more gently—like most cowards, reassured by signs of yielding. "I don't mean any harm, I swear. I've made all the arrangements. I've got a parson waiting for us, and everything will be done square and above board, if you only behave like a sensible girl."

Morgan put out his hand to the shrinking girl; but she rose with a cry of terror, and clung to the window strap.

"Oh, all right!" said Morgan hastily. "I won't come near you till you've seen the parson, if you don't want me."

The girl relapsed into her seat, and began to cry again.

"Oh, don't be cut up so! I won't even speak to you," said Morgan; and, with an attempt at surly dignity, he threw himself back in the opposite corner and closed his eyes; while the horses, fresh and strong, tore along the road, leaving Bingleigh Hall and the Grange far behind.

Half an hour had barely elapsed since the departure of Morgan Verner and his victim, when a man in another carriage drove up to Bingleigh Hall. He descended quickly and asked the footman, who had once more returned to his duties at the door, to take a note to Miss Seymour.

The visitor was heavily muffled, with his hat drawn down over his eyes, and James was naturally suspicious; nevertheless, he took the note into the drawing-room.

"The man is waiting outside, Miss Olive. He asked to see you."

"Surely he wants to see Sir Edwin—there must be some mistake," said Olive, as she opened the envelope.

In an instant, her face flushed and her hand closed over a small scrap of faded ribbon, which was all it contained.

"I will see him myself—show the gentleman in at once," she said. There was a ring in his mistress's voice which made James tremble, and he bade the visitor enter in the most respectful tones.

"When the door had closed on the servant, Olive ran forward with outstretched hands.

"Reuben!" she cried gladly, "you have come back to England at last! My father is away; but he, too, will be overjoyed to see you. Come, won't you sit down?"

Her voice had fallen just a little, for Reuben had scarcely advanced beyond the door; though, as the poor fellow gazed at her stercorally—as Olive thought—it was as much as he could do not to take her in his arms. Con-

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Ready and cheaply made.

The prompt and positive action of this simple, inexpensive home-made remedy in quickly loosening the inflamed or swollen membranes of the throat, chest or bronchial tubes and breaking up tight coughs, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy. Under its soothing, soothing influence, chest evensness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in the throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual chest and chest-colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 3/4 ounce of Pinex (50 cents worth) into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated-sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. You then have 16 ounces of a family supply of a much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love to get the work over for its promptness, ease and certainty in overcoming stubborn coughs and chest colds.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

trolling himself, however, with an effort, he answered gravely: "Miss Seymour, I must apologize for troubling you, but I have a difficult task to perform. If you will trust me just once more—"

She regarded him steadily, and he met the clear, gray eyes with unflinching gaze.

"Yes," she said quietly. "I trust you—always."

"Thank you," he said, with suppressed emotion. "Believe me I would not come to you like this, were it not a matter of importance—it might have been life and death. I cannot do without your aid, completely; and yet I must beg you to act as I ask unquestioningly. Will you?"

"Need you ask?" she said, with almost the shudder of a reproach in her tones. "After what you have already done for me, there is nothing I would not do to show my trust in you."

"Thank you," he said again. "I will show you that your trust in me has not been misplaced. But now there is no time to lose. I have a carriage waiting outside; will you put on warm wraps and come with me?"

Without hesitation, Olive said, "Yes, Reuben," as though he had asked her to do the most ordinary thing in the world; but, as she passed him on her way to the door, Reuben could have knelt at her feet and kissed the ground she walked upon for that very faith of hers in him.

He bowed respectfully, as he opened the door for her, saying in a low tone: "Can you dress in ten minutes?"

"Five," she said promptly, and left Reuben to count the precious moments which stood between him and the execution of his plan for her preservation.

The five minutes had barely elapsed when she re-entered, dressed in a long, rough travelling coat and cap. She was pale, but resolute; and though her heart beat madly and she longed to ask a thousand questions, she remained calm and speechless as they passed through the hall to the carriage.

Reuben assisted her in with tender solicitude; and then, with a few words to the driver, who was none other than old Wynter himself, he sprang on the box and the horses dashed forward.

It is difficult to describe Olive's state of mind, as she sat alone in the carriage, which was bearing her away from him and all that she held dear; whither she knew not, nor when she would return. Trust, sublime faith in the man she termed her hero, unquestioning faith in him battled and conquered doubt and curiosity. She had promised to obey without a question, and she had kept her word.

Halfway to the Grange there was the sound of another carriage approaching from the opposite direction; it was that of Sir Edwin, returning to the Hall. Olive felt her conveyance pulled up sharply, and in another minute Reuben opened the door.

"Miss Seymour," he said gently, "I expect this is Sir Edwin returning from the Grange." He smiled slightly at her look of surprise at such knowledge on his part. "I am going to stop the carriage; I want you to persuade your father to accompany you on your journey. I assure you it is not far, but I don't want him to be alarmed. Can you do this?"

"I think so," said Olive. "Do you still trust me?" he asked.

more for the sake of hearing her sweet voice than because he doubted her.

"You know I do," she said, then rose to descend from the carriage, just as the other one came up alongside.

To say that Sir Edwin was surprised at this sudden apparition of his daughter, whom he had believed to be safe in her own room, was to put it mildly; but it was overcome in his delight at recognizing Reuben. Like Olive herself, the old man accepted his statement and desire to help them without a question, and, accordingly, the Bingleigh carriage was sent on its way empty, with a message to the household, while Sir Edwin, having seated himself beside his daughter, was borne off into the darkness.

On and on went the carriage, till at length it drew up just beyond a wood. Reuben came to the door with a basket, from which he produced wine and sandwiches. With gentle courtesy, he insisted upon Olive and her father taking refreshment, though he refused to join them, but climbed to the box again, and the carriage whirled on at an even faster pace than heretofore.

Sir Edwin sipped the wine gratefully, then leaned back in his seat, and dozed. To Olive it seemed as if the past few months had slipped away, and they were once more in the Australian bush, with Reuben riding at their side.

On, on again they sped, through the solitary night, till, as the crimson morning dyed the east, she looked out through the humid windowpane, and saw what they were near a house on the outskirts of a town; in another moment the horses paused in their long course.

Reuben, who had jumped down from the box, gave a keen look at the house, then came toward Olive.

"We have been running a race—and we have won!" he said.

The house was an old-fashioned one; and on its front door was a brass plate inscribed, Reverend James Davis. The door was opened by that gentleman himself, who seemed to stand in great awe of Reuben.

"Come in," he said, in low tones. "You are in time."

Reuben turned to Sir Edwin and Olive, bidding them enter. The Reverend James Davis, with a bow, led the way down a narrow passage and opened a door.

"This is the room," he said, in a whisper, "and—and you will protect me, sir—will you not?"

"You are safe while you play me fair," was Reuben's reply.

With another bow, Mr. Davis left the room, and Reuben placed a chair for Olive near the couch, to which he silently motioned Sir Edwin.

Fuzzled, but silent, the father and daughter seated themselves; and Olive looked round her.

The room was a back parlor, divided from the front by folding doors. Reuben had at once gone over and tried, to see whether they were locked or not. Apparently he was waiting for some one; for he stood by them, alert and listening. In a few moments the sound of carriage wheels was heard outside the front door, and Reuben, with a sigh of satisfaction, tiptoed over to the other two, and whispered earnestly:

"Listen, but whatever you hear, don't utter a sound."

In another minute footsteps were heard coming down the passage and advancing into the front room. With his finger on his lip, Reuben glided into the passage, returning just a minute later, as a voice was heard in the next room.

"Well, Jim—here we are at last. Everything ready, I suppose? We've got the bird. Master Morgan, won't you introduce the bride?"

It was old Griley speaking, and both Sir Edwin and Olive listened eagerly.

EARLY M

REVOLUTION IN FINLAND.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 28. The long-threatened revolution in Finland has begun in the Eastern provinces, according to sparse reports reaching Haparanda. The Red Guard is reported to have occupied the railway station at Helsingfors, and foreign Consuls have left the capital, and sharp Vihborg. The Red Guard is holding Rikimaki and other important junctions. Russian forces are aiding the Reds, and reinforcements are coming from Petrograd. The Finnish Minister to Petrograd, elected to the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates against Russian interference in Finnish affairs. He received the reply that Russia's Government, true to its principles, is in no way bound to support the proletariat in Finland in its battle against Finland Bourgeois.

The Bolsheviks further declared hell should be sent them. The forces of law and order helping the forces are powerless because the city is commanded by the guns of the Russian warships which are in the hands of the Bolshevik sailors. The commandant of the city summoned the city authorities, including President Savinofund, and socialist leaders to his ship, and demanded that the Government Red Guard be immediately dismissed. He refused to level the city to the ground if the order was disobeyed. Vihborg replied that the order should be complied with. The Helmsfors Bolshevik organ Investia admits that the Red Guard has got out of hands of its creators. It reports that troops at various places are being controlled, and that they've been guilty of murdering and plundering.

A newspaper adds that anarchistic conditions are prevailing. The Finnish Government has sent all the officers that have acknowledged Finland's independence a protest against Russian interference in Finnish affairs. Telegraph communications with Petrograd are broken.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—A Reuter despatch from Stockholm says, since 10 o'clock Sunday morning telegraphic communication between Stockholm and Petrograd has been interrupted, and that the station at Nydalen reported that Red Guards have cut the wires. Finland thus is isolated, says the correspondent. Complete anarchy prevails throughout the island. The misery of the population has been increased by the destruction of the Bolshevik government by reason of its principles to support the Finnish revolutionaries in their struggle against the Bourgeois.

Petrograd, Jan. 28.—Six hundred Red Guards with machine guns have been here for Vihborg. They will reinforce the Finnish Red Guard in fighting which is going on there.

AMERICAN ARMY FOR FRANCE. WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. We will have in France 600,000 cavalry this year, Secretary Baker to-day announced in the Senate Military Committee.

CALLS ON GERMAN PEOPLE TO REVOLT. LONDON, Jan. 28. A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Amsterdam, says the Deutsche Tages Zeitung openly calls on the German people to revolt against the present regime. "We must," says this paper, "have a Julius and Ethel to-day. He appears in a coat and the mantle of Germany's saviour. Who will save Germany from these traitors by the German people? It is now for the Germans to help yourself and God will help us." Although the Emperor is mentioned in the article, the expression "German hangman" is meant for the Kaiser, says the correspondent.

U. S. AIR FLEET. WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. Senator Tillman, Chairman of the Senate Naval Committee, to-day introduced a bill to increase the number of aircraft.

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

The cost of a small jar of ordinary cream one can prepare a full pint of the most wonderful skin softener and complexion maker by squeezing the juice of three lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchiard white. This should be taken to strain the juice into a fine cloth so no lemon seeds in. This lotion will keep for months. Every woman should have this lotion. It is used to clean and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is a perfect skin softener, smoother and whiter.

Get three ounces of orchiard white at any pharmacy and quarter pint of the grocer and make in a quart jar. This is the best arrangement. It should naturally help to clean, freshen and bring out the best of any skin. It is very marvelous to smoothen rough, red, chapped skin.

Germany and Her Allies.

From the many extraordinary... situation which the fourth war winter presents - anarchy unbridled in Russia and now extending to Finland, failure of the peace negotiations, which no one that knows Germany expected to end in any other way, world-wide hunger, political unrest, the cessation of fighting and feverish preparation for a tremendous resumption - from these and many other things there stand out conspicuous indications at last of the beginning of a cleavage between Germany and Austria which will certainly not grow less as time passes. Perhaps the central figure of the war just at present is Count Czernin. His reply to President Wilson, though betraying signs of Austria's weakening, was non-committal enough; but it has been followed by reports to the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Austrian Reichstag in which the different aspirations of Germany and Austria and the reasons for the difference are set out with startling frankness. It says in effect to Germany, "It is all well for you to go on defining your rights and to get back your colonies and achieve a little of your vainglorious ambitions in the Balkans. We on the other hand have lost practically nothing of our territory but greatly enlarged it. We would be glad to give up the gain to come out of the war with what we had on entering it." This, however, is mild compared with the statement, if he did in fact make it, that the text of his war aims speech had been previously communicated to President Wilson. There can be no doubt as to the direction in which Austria is drifting.

The tendency is not likely to be arrested by the state of things in Germany, which is in more apparent than real contrast with it. The pan-Germans are in the saddle again and ready to swallow the earth, but their very bluster is a sign of weakness. Their fury increases with each successive manifestation of the irresistible advance of the socialism that will in the end overwhelm them. Things have gone far when the Crown Prince is placed upon the contrary distinction from the Emperor as the last hope of the junkers. Arguing as it was, Hertling's speech was not enough for them. Von Roedern, overwhelmed with abuse because he has told the Kaiser the plain truth that Germany is bankrupt, Czernin is beyond the pale. "Austria must be abandoned." All this together with the increasing signs of Bulgaria's and Turkey's disintegration and the fight, there is much comfort in it all for us. If America is not coming along quite as quickly as might be expected and things are here and there bad for us, they are everywhere worse for the enemy. Germany's allies have been the latent weakness in her position from the first. The weakness is now showing itself. Who will deny the majestic justice of it if they desert her before the end and leave the Allies with the arch criminal alone to deal with?

Fogota Sails.

The S.S. Fogota which is making the trip north, instead of the Prospero, sails this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The teams are kept busy this morning hauling freight to the premises of the N.S.D. Produce Co., where the Fogota sails from. An indication of the amount of freight being handled is seen by the line up of teams which were strung along Water Street from the N.S.D. Produce Co. down to Bowling's Cove, waiting their turn to unload.

The Menace to the Country.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir—I have written of the peril to the credit of the country, arising out of the systematic attempt of the Coakerite elements in our community to set labour against capital. I have said that when the "official organ" of the Fishermen's Union, the Advocate, proclaimed that the Union Trading Company had been "established out of the savings of four thousand fishermen for the purpose of breaking the shackles of the Water Street," it was the announcement to the outside world, as well as to those within our gates, that a bitter, relentless war, a class struggle, had been inaugurated which, if continued, will certainly not only jeopardize the interests of fishermen and merchants alike, but will also bring to ruin the whole financial structure upon which the independence of this Country, and the comfort and happiness of its people depends. I have also referred to the iconoclastic instincts, and the "anarchist methods and principles" that have been exhibited by Mr. Coaker, the Manager of the Union Trading Company, in connection with our Savings Bank, with the conduct of a private business establishment in this city, and with the constituted government of the State. It is all well for you to go on defining your rights and to get back your colonies and achieve a little of your vainglorious ambitions in the Balkans. We on the other hand have lost practically nothing of our territory but greatly enlarged it. We would be glad to give up the gain to come out of the war with what we had on entering it. This, however, is mild compared with the statement, if he did in fact make it, that the text of his war aims speech had been previously communicated to President Wilson. There can be no doubt as to the direction in which Austria is drifting.

Citizenship.

At St. Andrew's Men's Guild on Sunday night, the Rev. Geo. Bond, D.D., delivered an inspiring address on "Citizenship." He pointed out some of the duties of citizenship that need righting. He wanted to know if the men present thought it right to allow a large number of houses scattered throughout the city to remain without sanitary conveniences, this being a continual source of danger to the rest of the community. He stated that St. John's, owing to its situation should be one of the cleanest and healthiest cities of North America, but the facts were that it is one of the dirtiest. He said that the young man in the trenches in France was safer than a baby born in St. John's City. This is a pretty strong statement but we fear it is only too true. The Dr. also wanted to know if every citizen was being taken to see that all films shown in our moving picture halls were such as would have no bad effect on the young who so largely patronize these places. The Board of Censors pass every film shown; do they encourage the showing of better films. The speaker also deplored the laxness of parents in allowing their daughters of tender years out in the streets at night. The whole address was followed with the closest attention by the audience and was much appreciated. Messrs. D. MacIntosh and Carl Trappell each sang a solo.

The President, Mr. B. L. Mitchell, who was in the Chair, thanked Dr. Bond for his kindness in coming and speaking to the Guild and on this important subject. A social meeting of the Guild will be held on Wednesday, February 13th, when a large gathering of men is expected.

I.O.O.F. Entertainment.

A number of candidates were received and the third degree conferred on several others by Past Grand Bro. Geo. P. Grimes, at last night's meeting of Atlantic Lodge, No. 1. The members and friends of the Lodge were entertained by a very fine program which was the first of a series to be held during the coming months. The N. G. Bro. Gordon Bradley acted as Chairman and a very fine program was gone through consisting of recitations by the orchestra all of which were splendidly rendered. During evening refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the signing of the National Anthem.

Why It Pays to Eat Macaroni.

Did you know that Macaroni has a higher food value—contains more solid building nourishment than fresh eggs, spring chicken, or home made bread? "Impossible" you say. Well, it is a fact, as scientific analysis proves. The Canadian Department of Agriculture sets forth the relative food value as follows: Macaroni... 134 Fresh Eggs... 131 Spring Chicken... 126 Bread... 42 Then take good sirloin steak. A pound of Catelli's Milk Macaroni gives you nearly twice as much food value as a pound of sirloin, at less than half the cost. CATELLI'S MILK MACARONI is truly an economical food. Every one should use it—a small package will give a good full meal for a family of six—and this is the sort of food that the Food Saving Committees are urging you to use. Your Grocer has Catelli's Milk Macaroni, get a package to-day you will find it the most nourishing and yet the most economical food at half the price. A recipe book giving 100 different ways of cooking Catelli's Milk Macaroni will be mailed free on request to BERT HAYWARD, Bank of Montreal Bldg. Distributor. C. M. B. C.

Hockey Notes.

Murray, who was one of the Windsor bunch that cleaned up our local arena about five years ago, will line up with the Terra Novas this season. Williams who has a reputation of being a real first-class player, comes to chasing the "disc" has promised to help out the Victorias this season. The ice at the Prince's is in excellent condition and should be a most interesting one. The senior League the brand of hockey should be stronger than usual this season. The Quinine That Does Not Affect Head. There is only one "Bromo Quinine" because of its tonic and laxative effect. Laxative Bromo Quinine is kept alive by anyone without causing nervousness or rigidity in the head. E. F. GROVE'S signature is on box, 30c.

Country to-day. They encouraged it, they worked for it, they hoped, as I know, that under and by virtue of it, they might move along in the even tenor of their way. I warned some of those embryo politicians of their impolitic enthusiasm, of the probable result of their new found zeal. But to no purpose. They did harm to themselves, they did greater harm to the Country. They might now with advantage to themselves repeat daily Augustine's remarkable prayer—"Libera me ab homine malo, a mepheo" which, being interpreted means—deliver me from the evil man, from my self.

Yours truly, VIGILANCE.

The Regiment.

Editor Evening Telegram. Sir—As a Newfoundland and one of the members of the British Empire come out on top in this struggle, I would like to ask what attempt is now being made by those in authority to secure recruits for our Regiment. We were repeatedly promised last fall that if the recruiting campaign failed to get the number of men necessary to man the Regiment, that steps would promptly be taken at the beginning of the year to bring this number up to the strength of nearly 500 and nothing has been done yet. It looks as if the "slackers" and "cowards" are in the Government ranks and a very fine program was gone through consisting of recitations by the orchestra all of which were splendidly rendered. During evening refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the signing of the National Anthem.

What is it Worth.

To know that you can buy Biscuits and Candiess made in a factory which is known as a WHITE PALACE, with its white tiled and enamelled walls in the interior, and white terra cotta on the exterior, and the employees dressed in spotless white. It is worth much to feel that the Chocolates you are eating are made in a factory of absolute cleanliness—a factory that is the largest of its kind on the continent of America—a snow white, sunshine Biscuit and Candy plant, costing $1,000,000.

M. C. CORMICK'S the PALACE OF SWEETS. New Purchase.

The Gwendolyn Warren, recently owned by F. K. Warren, of Halifax, has been purchased by Bowring Bros., and will shortly arrive here with a cargo of the finest and most delicious Weymouth, N. S., who formerly commanded the three-master Annie L. Warren, will be in charge. The new two-mast schooner Win-the-War, built by the Southern Slooping Company for their own account, was purchased by local men, and is at present loading for this port.

PRESENTATION TO CPL. CURRAN.

At the St. Andrew's Club Rooms last evening a very pleasing presentation was made to Corporal Charles Curran, who is leaving with the next draft of the Royal Regiment for overseas service. The presentation was made by Mr. Donald Nicolson, in a neat speech, and on behalf of his club mates. Several members who were present made short speeches, and the singing of "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "God Bless Britannia" and the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close. Corporal Curran is a son of Mr. Thos. Curran, this city, and has a brother at the front in the blue puttees who has distinguished himself at Gallipoli and on the Western front, earning the Military Medal at Monchy.

"Fritzzy."

Fritzzy, I've come a long road to greeting you, Heed the blood-reeking soil of old France. Not in this way had I thought to be meeting you, Flagger your steps in this world devil's dance. Prussian-made puppet, I've come to heap shame on you, Shame for the foul, bitter deeds you have done. How you groan with the burden of shame on you, Fritzzy, you Hun!

Fritzzy, I've joined you in play and in labor too, In my own country across the wide world, There I have found you a pretty good neighbor too, Building your home in the land of the Red William's progeny, how you have fooled us all, Hiding your hate while you loaded your gun; But 'twas a pipe dream you had that still would you dream, Fritzzy, you Hun!

Fritzzy, I'm here to take desperate toll of you, GILDA RANDALL PEARCE. Adding my own to my war brothers' claim. Since you made plain all the treacherous soul of you I had no choice but to get in the game. Spawny the Kaiser, you want to keep track of me, What though I fall with my work anxious to the British Empire, MILLIONS more like me are standing right back of me, Fritzzy, you Hun!

Go to the Casino to-morrow night and see the W. S. Harkins Players in "The Man Who Stayed at Home." See how he got "Fritzzy."

Lord's Day Alliance.

Tribute to Late Honorary President. The annual meeting of the Lord's Day Alliance held in the Methodist College Hall on Sunday evening last, was attended by a very large gathering. The President, Rev. Dr. Curtis, occupied the chair, and with him on the platform were Rev. Dr. Bond, Rev. C. H. Barton, Rev. Gordon Dickie and Secretary W. King. The Chairman in opening spoke at length of the objects of the Alliance, the preservation of the sanctity of the Lord's Day and the need of increased efforts towards that end. He also paid a warm tribute to the work of the late Rt. Rev. Llewellyn Jones, Bishop of Newfoundland and Hon. President of the Alliance. He declared that since the day when the Alliance was organized till his death the late Bishop had been a most loyal supporter of the Alliance in every way. Continuing, Dr. Curtis said, we can best honor the memory of the late Honorary President by giving heed to his words of counsel and warning, and by doing all we can to conserve the Christian Sabbath as a day of rest and worship. Rev. C. H. Barton followed and spoke of the very strict manner in which the Sabbath was at one time observed, particularly in the case of the Lord's Day had become sadly neglected, and measures for improvement were essential. The next speaker was Rev. Gordon Dickie who dwelt upon the changing conditions brought about in the keeping of the Sabbath, and said we must be prepared to grapple with them. The Rev. gentleman then proposed the following resolution: "WHEREAS, at present there is no general Lord's Day Act upon the Statute Books of Newfoundland; AND WHEREAS, as a result, workmen and others who suffer injustice in connection with Sunday work have no means of redress in our Courts of Justice; AND WHEREAS, in Canada a Lord's Day Act for ten years has been in operation so satisfactory that no one has even suggested amending it; AND WHEREAS, the Lord's Day Alliance of Newfoundland has appealed to the Government of Newfoundland to place on our Statute Book an Act based on the Lord's Day Alliance of Newfoundland and earnestly requested the Legislature to place upon the Statute Book of Newfoundland at the next session an effective Lord's Day Act.

Rev. Dr. Bond, in seconding the motion, said he was in receipt of a letter from a friend asking if it were possible to have the train cease running on Sundays between Clarendville and Trinity. The speaker said he had been destroyed by the train. He mentioned this as an instance of the great need of assuring working men a day of rest. Dr. Curtis felt the introduction of the resolutions had been placed in good hands as they knew of the benefits of the Canadian Act, and he had no doubt that the Government would be prepared to give consideration to the matter. The audience then endorsed the resolution by a standing vote. By the pronouncing of the Benediction by the Rev. C. H. Barton the meeting closed, after which a short session was held by the members of the Alliance. During the evening hymns were sung, Mr. F. J. King presiding at the organ.

District Attorney and it was intimated that prosecutions would be commenced to-night that incomplete reports from different parts of the State indicated that coalless Monday had been generally observed.

WAR REVIEW.

One million and a half Americans are available for service in France this year, according to an announcement by Secretary of War Baker before the House of Representatives in Washington in reply to a charge made as to the inefficiency in the War Department. Of these men, 1,000,000 in France early this year. Others, he declared, would be available during the present winter months. The various fronts continue at low ebb, the political pot still boils furiously in Austria-Hungary and Germany, in both of which countries there have been new outbreaks among the populace because of economic conditions resulting from the war. In addition, the eastern provinces of Finland are witnessing a revolution, according to official dispatches. The Bolshevik Government at Petrograd is reported to have sent reinforcements to the Red Guard; 600 of them have departed for Viborg, taking with them machine guns. Despatches from Switzerland are to the effect that there has been a serious proceeding in Bohemia owing to shortage of the flour ration. Strong measures by the police are being required to disperse the mobs that are smashing windows and plundered stores. Like-wise severe outbreaks are reported in the industrial regions in Rhenish Prussia, where troops were smashed out to deal with the dissatisfied people attacked by the pan-Germans against all persons who are opposing the war aims unshaken in Germany. A remarkable utterance is that made by the pan-Germanutsche Tageszeitung, "The present revolt against the present regime in Germany. Announcement is made that Count von Hertling, Imperial Chancellor, shortly will make a statement regarding the Bolshevism question, offering positive suggestions and proposals. Nowhere on any front have operations risen above local encounters and trench raiding encounters. Artillery duels between British and German troops in the French and Italian trenches are severe on the Italian front the big guns of the belligerents are engaged in a successful raids have been carried out by the French troops against the British in the Champagne and St. Mihiel sectors of the front. The British in the French and Italian trenches the Allied and enemy aviators are engaged in intense air warfare in the air. There has also been considerable bombing by Allied aircraft of German positions behind the front lines and also of German and American aviators, aided by a French flying squadron, in daylight raids over Germany; all fliers returned safely to their base.

The various fronts continue at low ebb, the political pot still boils furiously in Austria-Hungary and Germany, in both of which countries there have been new outbreaks among the populace because of economic conditions resulting from the war. In addition, the eastern provinces of Finland are witnessing a revolution, according to official dispatches. The Bolshevik Government at Petrograd is reported to have sent reinforcements to the Red Guard; 600 of them have departed for Viborg, taking with them machine guns. Despatches from Switzerland are to the effect that there has been a serious proceeding in Bohemia owing to shortage of the flour ration. Strong measures by the police are being required to disperse the mobs that are smashing windows and plundered stores. Like-wise severe outbreaks are reported in the industrial regions in Rhenish Prussia, where troops were smashed out to deal with the dissatisfied people attacked by the pan-Germans against all persons who are opposing the war aims unshaken in Germany. A remarkable utterance is that made by the pan-Germanutsche Tageszeitung, "The present revolt against the present regime in Germany. Announcement is made that Count von Hertling, Imperial Chancellor, shortly will make a statement regarding the Bolshevism question, offering positive suggestions and proposals. Nowhere on any front have operations risen above local encounters and trench raiding encounters. Artillery duels between British and German troops in the French and Italian trenches are severe on the Italian front the big guns of the belligerents are engaged in a successful raids have been carried out by the French troops against the British in the Champagne and St. Mihiel sectors of the front. The British in the French and Italian trenches the Allied and enemy aviators are engaged in intense air warfare in the air. There has also been considerable bombing by Allied aircraft of German positions behind the front lines and also of German and American aviators, aided by a French flying squadron, in daylight raids over Germany; all fliers returned safely to their base.

Here and There.

COASTAL SERVICE.—The Portia which has been chartered by the Government to take fish abroad, is being replaced on the Western route by the Prospero. The Prospero, we understand, will go on the northern route.

GOSARD CORSETS.—Just received a shipment of Gosard Corsets, price $2.75 to $8.50. G. KNOWLING, Ltd.—Jan 22, 41, eod

CURLING.—There was a fair attendance at the Curling Rink yesterday afternoon and night when several interesting scratch matches were played. This evening play will commence in earnest when the Reds and Greens under Capt. J. S. Munn and W. Rennie will be the contesting teams.

St. Margaret's Guild Grand Concert, Canon Wood Hall, Sherbro Tuesday, Feb. 12th, at 8.15 p.m. Tickets for sale at Gray & Goodland's, 50c. and 30c.—Jan 18, 24, 29, feb 5

CUTTING ICE.—The ice at George's Point, Signal Hill Road, has formed to a thickness of nine inches and is being removed by ice cutters. Owing to the large number of ships which visited this port last summer and took large quantities of our local supply many stores had to do without it. In anticipation of a similar demand for frozen water this coming summer, ice cutters will lay in larger stocks than usual.

DISABLED SHIP AT LOUISBURG.—The 7000 ton oil tanker reported on Friday night as being 100 miles east of Halifax with her steering gear out of order reached Louisburg, N.S. on Sunday morning. The Prospero, Capt. A. Keen, which left here Saturday morning to assist the big ship in the ice, returned to port yesterday having found no trace of the steamer. The big ship is supposed to have made port unassisted.

DIED.—This morning, of paralysis, Elizabeth Pynn, wife of the late John H. Ebbary, aged 77 years, funeral on Thursday, at 2:30 p.m., from No. 6 South Side; friends and acquaintances please attend without further notice.

On the 26th inst., after a long illness, Elizabeth, relict of the late Philip McCourt, and daughter of the late Captain Way, Dartmouth, England, leaving one son and five daughters to mourn their sad loss; funeral to-day, Tuesday, at 2:30 p.m., from her late residence, 190 Duckworth Street; friends please accept this, the only, intimation.

HEATLESS MONDAY.

NEW YORK, To-Day. The coal receipts were less than expected. There was little holiday spirit in New York on the second day of the gloomiest days in a gloomy winter. Theatres, present and past, were held packed at the after-noon and night performances. Reservations were generally observed. Exceptions were reported to the U. S. District Attorney and it was intimated that prosecutions would be commenced to-night that incomplete reports from different parts of the State indicated that coalless Monday had been generally observed.

WAR REVIEW.

One million and a half Americans are available for service in France this year, according to an announcement by Secretary of War Baker before the House of Representatives in Washington in reply to a charge made as to the inefficiency in the War Department. Of these men, 1,000,000 in France early this year. Others, he declared, would be available during the present winter months. Parcels for Newfoundland Forces Overseas!

- (1) Parcels must not exceed 10 lb in weight.
- (2) Parcels addressed to members of the Newfoundland Forces Overseas should bear the name and address of a second addressee to whom the parcels may be delivered or forwarded if it should prove impossible to deliver the first. The original address should be written on the post-stamps and Customs declaration affirmed, and the second or alternate address should be written on the BACK of the parcel. If not deliverable to first addressee, send to: (2nd addressee).
- (3) If a second address is not furnished at the time of posting and delivery cannot be effected, the contents of the parcel, unless of sentimental value or of a personal nature, will be turned over to the Military Authorities for distribution.
- (4) Parcels containing articles of personal nature or of special value will be returned if a request for their return in case of non-delivery is made by the sender, such request to be written on the parcel at the time of posting.
- (5) This plan is being adopted on the suggestion of the British Post Office, which states that the present procedure of holding undelivered parcels at the Dead Letter Office is a large quantity of perishable articles, which form the contents of 90 per cent. of parcels addressed to soldiers.

OIL CONTROL.
WASHINGTON, To-Day. Early measures looking to Government control of production and distribution of oil were forecasted to-day after a visit to the White House by Fuel Administrator Garfield. Committee plans for instituting the license system, it was said, were presented by the Fuel Administrator.

HEATLESS MONDAY.
NEW YORK, To-Day. The coal receipts were less than they have been for several days and the business left of the city was suffering. There was little holiday spirit in New York on the second day of the gloomiest days in a gloomy year. Theatres where comedies were held were packed at the theatre. ter, after the committee had completed its hearing of the first medical corps, the aviation section and other branches of the service. With many things disclosed impressed the committee, it was frankly amazed when told that the men of thirty-two national guards and the national army divisional camps are ready to go to-day if needed. When members wanted to know why such things hadn't been given publicity before, Secretary Baker spoke of the reluctance of military men to reveal their war plans and quoted German words about America's advance in her preparations at the outset. Baker described at length the difficulties confronting the United States in arriving at a decision as to just what method of leading aid to the Allies would prove most effective. It was a problem, he said, of studying the then existing situation and bringing financial, industrial and military strength of the United States into operation with that of Britain and France in the most immediate and effective way. That problem couldn't be decided here, our Allies realize that, and so Britain sent over Mr. Balfour and General Bridges and staff experts. They came over, and you saw Mr. Balfour in Congress and the White House and in public meetings at one place and another, but groups of experts whom they brought over with them you didn't see much of, yet they distributed themselves through the War Department. Their ordinance experts sat with General Crozier, their supply experts with General Sharpe and his assistants, their strategists sat with the army war college. All over this city there were those confidential groups exchanging information and telling how things were over there, what we could do, what they had in developing this, that and the other implement or supply, how certain plans, which one might naturally have evolved out of past experience of the world, had been tried there and found not to work at all. They were exchanging information, giving us all that they thought was helpful, and then came the inspiration to see the hero of the Marne, but with him came his unobserved staff of 15 or 20 or 25 young men, the most brilliant men in the French army, strategists and mechanical experts, experts in arms, experts in supplies, experts in industry and manufacture. They told us not merely formal and military problems but they brought over with them men who were in the war from the beginning in their re-organization of their industries, in their mobilization of their industrial plants, and we sat down with them in little groups until finally we collated and collected and extracted all the information which they could give us from their respective countries. Every country which has been brought into the war has brought with it a basis of that sort of a staff of experts, and it has been necessary to compare notes and with this as a basis to do over there. But that was not enough. They could describe to us all Struck Oil by Accident at Bell Island.

What may be a new and profitable industry to its finders and to the country at large was discovered at Bell Island a few days ago, when a number of men engaged digging a well to obtain water for drinking purposes, accidentally tapped an oil seam from which flowed an abundant supply of crude oil. A barrel of the precious fluid has been taken for sample and on being tested was found to contain a good percentage of the pure material. We understand a claim is being made for the right to operate the new find and that Manager McDougall of the D. I. S. Co. and Magistrate Power, of Bell Island, are interesting themselves in the matter. Some of the crude material was tried in combustion oil lamps and was found to be satisfactory. If the new find should prove successful, possibilities undreamed of will mark the future of the Iron Island.

Obituary.
There passed away on the 26th inst. after a long illness, Elizabeth, relict of the late Philip McCourt, relict of Capt. Way, Dartmouth, Eng. She is survived by one son and five daughters. The funeral takes place this afternoon from her late residence, 190 Duckworth Street. To the sorrowing relatives the Telegram expresses their deep sympathy.

MR. JAMES CANTWELL.
Shortly before midnight on Friday, there passed to his reward, after a short illness, Mr. James Cantwell, lightkeeper at Cape Spear. He had been in charge at the Cape since his father's resignation some ten years ago. He was esteemed for his many excellent qualities and was held in the highest regard by shipowners and mariners for the most capable manner in which he carried out his duties. He is survived by his father, a brother, a widow, three daughters and two sons to whom we extend our sincere sympathy. The funeral took place yesterday, interment being at Blackhead Cemetery.

PERSONAL.—Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Orr left by Sunday's express for the United States.

A. N. D. S.'S NEW INDUSTRY.—Mr. H. A. Morrissey, representing the By-products department of the Anglo-Nfld. Development Co., Grand Falls, is now in the city showing the samples to the trade. The new enterprise has been the means of employing quite a number of boys and girls and will no doubt prove a great boon to the already flourishing inland town.

SHIP ON FIRE.—A slight fire broke out on board the s.s. Petrol at 7.30 p.m. Sunday, but was extinguished by the application of a few buckets of water. In the meantime the West End and Central Fire Companies were not required. The fire was caused by some sparks from a bogey igniting the wood on the forecabin floor; very little damage was done.

STORM DELAYS TRAIN.—Yesterday one of the worst storms for many years, with a temperature of ten below zero swept the west coast, making it impossible for train traffic to operate. As a result Sunday's west bound express did not get clear of St. George's till 11 a.m. to-day, and the incoming express which left Port aux Basques at 8.30 a.m. on Sunday left the former station at 10.30 o'clock this morning and is not due till to-morrow at noon.

BRITISH CASUALTIES.
LONDON, Jan. 28. British casualties reported during the week ending to-day, were 3,638, divided as follows: Killed or died of wounds, officers, 25, men, 1,714; wounded or missing, officers, 128, men, 6,721. These figures represent the virtual cutting in half of British casualties as compared with the previous week when 17,843 were reported. Two weeks ago the high total of 24,979 was reached.

HARDEN'S FRANKNESS.
LONDON, Jan. 28. Maximilian Harden devotes 13 closely printed pages, in the latest issue of the Die Zukunft to reproducing the real texts of the recent speeches of President Wilson and Lloyd George. He says that thoughtful and conscientious men should read the speeches quietly and without prejudice; and criticize in an astoundingly outspoken fashion Germany's attitude toward Austria in the conduct of Russian negotiations. Herr Harden virtually accuses Germany of forcing Austria-Hungary into the war, and says that peace might have been obtained the first week at Brest-Litovsk if the Germans had not posed as conquerors and had not demanded territory.

AIR FIGHTING.
LONDON, Jan. 27. The Admiralty announced that naval aircraft bombed a German air-drome at Varsenare on Friday, making direct hits. All machines returned. In patrol fighting on Wednesday, the Admiralty announcement says further, two enemy aircraft were destroyed and two were shot down out of control. One British machine is missing.

CURZON SPEAKS.
LONDON, Jan. 27. Earl Curzon, member of the War Council and Government leader in the Lords, speaking at Cardiff last night admitted, broadly speaking, that the war aims of the Labor Party agreed with those of the Government. He said that the British forces on the west front were preparing for the greatest attack yet delivered by the enemy.

A Terrible Temptation.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

We fell to talking one day about the pieces of advice that had made the most difference in our lives.
In the group was a successful and well-poised man of about forty-five. "I was pretty sore the day I got the piece of advice that meant the most to me," he said, "when the rest of us had finished. 'I was just starting out on my first big job--selling on the road. There was an older man that I looked up to a lot and I asked him for advice. And he gave it to me.'"

He stopped for a quiet, amused laugh.
"He said, 'Youngster you'll go a long way if you can resist one temptation.'"

He thought it was something dramatic.

"What is it?" I said, all eagerness. I thought it was something big and dramatic.

"The temptation of talking about yourself, youngster," he said.
"Of course I felt flat. But, by George, reading a hundred books on how to succeed couldn't have done me any more good than the shock of that. The way he stung it at me made an impression. It didn't go in one ear and out the other--it kept coming back--and when I needed it, I can well believe that man when he says that single piece of advice made its impress on his character."

A Man Who Makes People Talk About Themselves.

That speech was one of the longest I ever heard him make. For he is a man of few words, one of those marvelous, sympathetic listeners (more common among women than men) who make people talk about themselves. He listens, smiles (not the exasperating superior smile) draws you on, and occasionally contributes a pungent and worthwhile word.

When "P" Felt The Air.

But when the talk takes the highly personal turn that it occasionally does even among well bred people, when "I's" fill the air, and big sounding names are lugged in to give lustre to those who speak them, and when anecdotes in which "I" always comes in whenever other folks are doing the wrong thing and sets them right, are handed back and forth and people interrupt each other in the excitement, he never once loses his head and joins the orery.

"You'll go a long way if you can resist the temptation to talk about yourself."

I guess there are about ninety per cent. of us who could borrow that advice. Don't you? And I'm sure he will be willing to lend it.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Sirs--I have used your MINARD'S LINIMENT for the past 25 years and whilst I have occasionally used other liniments I can safely say that I have never used any equal to yours.

If rubbed between the hands and inhaled frequently, it will never fail to cure cold in the head in 24 hours. It is also the Best for bruises, sprains, etc.

Yours truly,

ZERO WEATHER.

Zero weather is a chilly and unpleasant effort on the part of nature to retire the microbe from circulation. Some of these efforts are more durable than others, and hang on until dispelled by the Fourth of July celebration. None of them, however, quit early enough to satisfy the cruel and rapacious greed of the hard coal industry.

Science teaches us that this sort of weather is a first rate thing for the human race, as it slays the long-nosed hay fever germ and banishes the mournful high-pitched sneeze of its victim. The hay fever sufferer who has been traverling night and day for three months by the moist and light-stepping sneeze peculiar to that malady will welcome the climatic change or sudden death with equal ardor. Zero weather also does away with the prickly heat and makes it difficult to die a natural death by sunstroke.

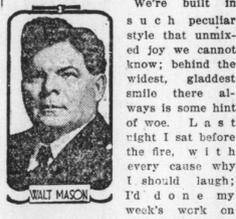

It is caused by the sun backing away from the earth in a due northerly direction and withholding heat from some of the best and most richly fertilized states in the Union. This is done solely for the benefit of the hearing houses of California and Florida, which are crowded every season by restless tourists laden with bright green currency and the acrid grip bacillus, parting with both of them at a very satisfactory rate of speed. One reason why Joshua couldn't stand the sun to stand still, we are told, was to prevent so many people from going south in the winter and scattering influenza germs and unpaid board bills all over that fair land.

The most deadly form of zero weather known in this country is found in the New England states, where it gets cold enough to "freeze the eyebrows off of a teddy bear," as the poet Whittier so aptly says.

Those who have tried the New England brand for any length of time recommend it highly for cold storage purposes. Every winter entire communities are put in cold storage for several weeks and obliged to live off of canned smelts and the succulent snowball. The only people who really enjoy this weather are the ice man and the doctor, why ply their nefarious trades clad in coon skin coats and a placid look. The best thing about it is that it is followed by spring, which sometimes springs from it so suddenly that a man is caught with his heavy fannels on.

HUMAN NATURE.

WALT MASON

We're built in such peculiar style that unmix-ed for we cannot know; behind the widest, gladdest smile there always is some hint of woe. Last night I sat before the fire, with every cause why I should laugh; I'd done my week's work on my lyre, and earned eight dollars and a half ($8.50). My health was good, my bills were paid, no man could say I owed him coin, and in my larder there was laid an ample stock of tenderloin. I'd stove-wed piled in state-ly ricks, and coal was in the basement bins; then why, you ask, O gentle Hicks, was there a sadness in my grin? A bitter wind swept o'er the moor, I heard it howl, the long night through, and heard the wailing of the poor in every freezing blast that blew. So I felt guilty as I sat in comfort in my Inglenook, and fed tobacco to the cat, or turned the pages of a book. My conscience prods me all the time, whenever I'd enjoy repose, accuses me of sin and crime, and pulls my hair and twists my nose. I crank my car to take a jaunt, and conscience says I'm doing wrong, and talks of fellow men in want who wearily must trudge along. Pure happiness was not decreed, I am convinced, for mortal man; but, as we to the grave proceed, let's be as happy as we can.

The King's Medal for Boy and Girl.

The King has awarded the Albert Medal to Doreen Ashburnham, aged 11, and Anthony Farrer, aged 8, of Cowichan Lake, Vancouver Island, in recognition of their great bravery.

On September 23, 1916, the children left their homes at Cowichan Lake for the purpose of catching their ponies, and, when about half a mile from home, they were stacked by a cougar (the American puma, often spoken of as the American lion, but resembling more a leopard.) They were almost upon the animal before they saw it crouching in a path at a corner. The little girl was first attacked. The cougar sprang upon her and she was knocked down with her face to the ground, the animal being on her back.

The boy at once attacked the cougar with his fists and riding bridle and drove the animal off the girl. It then attacked him, but the girl getting to her feet came to his rescue, fighting with her clenched hands and bridle, and even putting her arm into the cougar's mouth to try to prevent it from biting Anthony.

She succeeded in getting it off the boy, and it stood on its hindquarters and fought with her, but evidently it was disturbed by some sound, for presently it slunk away and ran under a log, where it was afterwards killed. The children, though both badly injured, were able to make their way home.

F. H. STEER, Treasurer.

Workers to See the War.

Sir Edward Carson has made arrangements for bringing the working classes throughout the country into the closest touch with their fighting comrades. Parties of working men from different districts are to visit the British front in France and Flanders and see for themselves the operations of the great fighting machine for which they have been supplying men and munitions. They will be taken to look at the devastation which a cruel foe has wrought on industrial France and Belgium and from which they have been saved.

An organizing committee has been formed to expedite the journeys and arrange details. Parties will start daily, and the first leaves on Thursday, January 10. A week will be devoted to each trip, and it is reckoned that four full days can be spent at the battlefields. The scenes will be described and the military movements explained by a competent authority.

On their return to England the parties will be invited to tell all they have seen to their fellow-workers, and arrangements are to be made for lectures and conferences. In this way the masses of the people will become more fully conversant with the facts of the effort Great Britain has made, and still has to make, to achieve victory.--Daily Mail.

"Jerry" at the Casino.

The Harkins Company Present Another Successful Comedy to a Large Audience Last Night.

It certainly "does pay to advertise" if we are to judge from the attendance which greeted the Harkins Players at their first performance of "Jerry" last evening. "Jerry" is one of the funniest comedies containing some laughable situations as well as startling philosophy, and it was presented with a brightness that could not be excelled. Each of the three acts was full of regular roars, which proclaimed the appreciation of the crowded house. This comedy has made Billy Burke famous. Miss Marjorie Davis, the clever actress, who took the title role last night, certainly performed her part in a most pleasing manner. She gave a most artistic interpretation of the part and received a certainly well merited applause. Miss Eugene Du Bois, who gave such an excellent portrayal of "Countess de Beauvoir" in "It Pays to Advertise", scored a triumph in her role of "Harriet Townsend." Miss Lois Perkins as "Jean Doubleday" did most commendable work. Joseph Selman and the other members of the cast did their parts very effectively. Erville Anderson gave a clever presentation of "Peter Flagg", an Englishman. Miss Chesmond certainly won the admiration of the house. Her dances were performed with a grace and art that was simply charming. To-night "Jerry" will be repeated and it is quite needless to say that they will be greeted by another crowded house. They deserve it.

Note of Thanks.

Volunteers Inspected.

His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Lieut. Col. Knox-Nevin and Capt. Campbell, A.D.C., visited the C. L. B. Armoury yesterday morning and inspected the Volunteers and Foresters now in training. The Premier, Dr. Lloyd, and Mr. J. R. Bennett, Acting Minister of Militia, accompanied by Major Rendell and Lieut. Byrne, M.C., were also present. His Excellency, after inspecting the parade, in a forceful address pointed out to the men the reasons they were called to arms and the aims, liberty, honour and justice for which they were training to fight. He paid a tribute to the men who had gone from Newfoundland already and who had by their valor earned the title of "Royal" for the Regiment. In closing His Excellency told the men to maintain the glorious record already established by that Regiment, to which they had the great honour to belong. The inspection closed with three rousing cheers for His Excellency.

ARE YOU BECOMING THAN FLAT LENSES.

The edges of Toric Lenses do not show as prominently as those of flat lenses. They fit in close to your eyes. You will find Toric much more becoming and useful. They give you a wider, clearer field of vision. You should know about Toric Lenses. Let us explain them.
