The Well Known Lumberman Passed Away Last Evening.

one of the Most Generous and Pop

MONCTON, May 31.—Edward Sincialr, the well known Miramichi lumberman, whose serious illness during the past ten weeks had caused his friends to despair of his recovery, passed away about eight o'clock last evening at his home, Bridgetown, Northumberland. county. Mr. Sinclair paid a visit to Moncton on the eve of Good Friday, about ten weeks ago. At that time he complained of slight pain in his head. He was taken ill shortly after returning home, and has been gradually falling ever since. He was taken to Montreal by his son-in-law. Dr. Ferguson of this city, some weeks ago, and a consultation held by the most eminent medical authority there in regard to his condition, but no improvement resulted. Members of the family were summoned and have been home for the past few weeks.

Mr. Sinclair was one of the best known men in New Brunswick and very popular with all classes. He was one of the largest lumber merchants on the north shore. His home was at Bridgetown, three miles above Newcastle, where he spent the greater part of his life. He was borne in Douglastown, and spent some years in Newfoundland. He was in the 60th year of his age. Mrs. Sinclair, three sons are William, engaged in lumbering in California, but who has been at home since last fall; Edward Hubert, who served with the Royal Canadian Artillery in South Africa, now also at home; and Dr. Oliver William Sinclair of Eureks, California, who arrived home two weeks ago. The daughters are Mrs. Ginclair, and the rather sudden collapse was a painful shock to his friends. Death was due to brain truble, and he had been unconscious for the last two days.

LONDON, May 31.—On the anniversary of Lord Roberts' entry into Johannesburg comes the news of zevere fighting and heavy losses within forty miles of the gold reer city. The battle at Vaidfontein on the Durban-Johannesburg railroad, reported by Lord Kitchener ioday, is the Logst surjous engagement since General Clements' reverse at Magallesburg. The garrison of Viadfontein, epparently largely composed of yeomany, had 174 men put out of action. That their assailants came to close quarters and suffered heavily is shown by the number of dead left on the field.

Kruger a Uitlander.

In all the troubles of these times Paul Kruger is found pushing to the front. But he was a "Uitlander" in the Transvaal, for his family was not of the earliest batch of arrivals, and those who had come before were like their present-day descendants—unwilling to share the joys and sorrows of authority with later arrivals. The result was two—at one time practically three—republican establishments, which claiminated in armed expeditions one-against the other, and in which Kruger, as usual, played a prominent part. The Transvaal, from soon after Kruger's thirtieth year to about his fortieth, was an administrative chaos, with revolts, arrests, rescues, faction rampant, and recurrent civil war, and Kruger emerged in the end as commandant-general.

After the fall of the republic under Burgers, Kruger became a voluble and enthusiastic annexationist, and when the country was turned over to the British commissioner he yielded to a temptation which Joubert was proof egainst, and accepted office under the British administration and ultimately resigned because he was refused an increase of salary.

Mr. Kruger became president of the restored republic in 1882. His great source of wealth is traced to the concession system, in which centres half the corruption of the Transvaal and of which he has been the main pillar, "Paul Kruger," continues Mr. Garrett, "is a visionary. What is his vision? It is of a sort of oligarchic theocracy, with Paul Kruger, continues Mr. Garrett, "is a visionary. What is his vision? It is of a sort of oligarchic theocracy, with Paul Kruger, as its Melchisedek, priest and king in one. He sees the faithful sitting each under his own gum-tree, on his own steep, and as far as the eye ranges that is his own farm, and his catile are on a score of hills. . . And to each farm there is a made road and a dam, and the stranger in the land pays for the same."

CANNON IN AGRICULTURE.

A report from the United States consul at Lyons, France, states that an internanional congress will be held there in November to discuss the usefulness of cannon in agricultural work. It is stated that success has attended the experiment of firing cannon at approaching hall storms to prevent their ravages upon French vineyards, and there is a theory that the firing of cannon may be useful in preventing damage by frost. It is said that cannon fired horizontally over vineyards in one place at sunrise saved that particular strip of vineyard from injuy, because the smoke from the cannon spread over an area five hundred feet A report from the United States con sun's rays, following a night of frost The vineyards on either side of this particular strip were damaged. The article quoted in today's Star from a Boer paper published in Pretoria is quite remarkable in the collection of denunciatory adjectives and phrases applied to the people of Canada. Evidently the writer is a friend of Mr. Bourassa. It is a great pity he did not sign his name. There would be a very general desire to see the man who would write such a letter to such a paper. Ald. Baxter said that from these reports the conclusion was fair that the company's offer was a good one. This would be the best opportunity to commence the system of commercial lighting. Ald. Seaton said that he had a largely signed petition from Carleton askins that the city take over the plant.
Ald. McMulkin said that the valuation to his mind, on parts of the machinery is too high. He cited several quotations of a New York firm, Rossiter & McGown, on dynamos which were considerably less than the valuation reported. He also believed that the sides the amount mentioned in the pertition, by advice of Mr. Carleton, K. C., (who appeared for the corporation of the Bishop of St. John and the executors), the contention being that this money belonged to the corporation of the Bishop of St. John and not to Bishop Sweeny personally.

Bishop Casey was stood aside until the bank book would be examined and evidence given of the way in which the money was deposited. The other witnesses of the will, viz., Rev. Father McMurray and Patrick Gleeson, were examined and testified to the due execution of the will. The hearing occupied yesterday afternoon and will be continued on Saturday morning.

From the cross-examination it developed that the contention which the counsel for Mrs. Travers intends to make, is that, by the will, the bishop devised only property which he held in trust for the church and that there is an intestacy as to the bulk of his individual property, which consists of a brick building on Union street and certain monies and other personal property. Dr. Pugsley said he would contend that it the effect of the will was to pass the bishop's individual property, it was inoperative in this respect because, by the statute creating the corporation, its power to hold real estate is limited to property yielding $4.000 per annum, and it would be state is limited to property plenting $4.000 per annum, and it would be the acceptant to prove that the property direct the content of the Bishop of the Bi

HAMPTON PATRIOTIC CONCERT.

Mrs. Travers' Counsel Seeks to Prove the Late Prelate Had Private Means. Yesterday, before Jucge Trueman, in the probate court, the will of the late Bishop Sweeny was being proved in solemn form. Bishop Casey, who was the first witness, testified to the execution of the will. He said that he was called to Bishop Sweeny's room by him, and in the presence of Father McMurray and P. Gleeson, Bishop Sweeny said to witness that the document was called to Bishop Sweeny's room by him, and in the presence of Father McMurray and P. Gleeson, Bishop Sweeny said to witness that the document was his last will and testament and he leaves everything to his successor. At that time the present bishop was priest at the cathedral.

Bishop Casey was cross-examined by Dr. Pugsley, counsel for Mrs. Boyle Travers, sister and next of kin to the deceased, with regard to the property left by the late bishop.

He stated that he understood there were a humber of houses belonging to the corporation, some of which may have stood in his personal name, but he was unable to state definitely as to this. His lordship also stated that, besides the amount mentioned in the petition, by advice of Mr. Carleton, K. C., (who appeared for the corporation of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. John and the execution of the Bishop of St. Jo

The dad published a letter written by Captain Barker of "C" Co." First Canadians.

Goatingent, now in South Africa, from which the following is an extract. "We had a pleasant little fight on New Year's Day about 88 miles from here, which distance we covered between 2 p. m. on Sunday, Dec. 21st, and 34m. lat, at 11 a. m., and though we killed fourteen Boers (of which one went to my credit, through the neck), and wounded as many more, my little foels in them, and when 'Fix bayoneta!' hought out seven or eight white flass in them, and when 'Fix bayoneta!' hought out seven or eight white flass, of the Queensianders, stopped us."

The shameless brutality of this should bring a blush to the brow of every honeat, right-thinking Canadian. But it is well that it was written. We cannot too seon realize the brutalizing check of the Military imperialism which would have let the beggars have the political leaders, whether the clipt of the control of the baselest of the military imperialism which would have let the beggars have the political leaders, whether the clipt of the control of the baselest of the military imperialism which was the bead of the servile imperialism. A NEW SECT OF AGNOSTICS.

ers in Cincinnati. CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 22.—A new sect of agnostics, based on Robert G. Ingersoll's teachings, is to be founded, with its central headquarters in Cincinnati, Attorney Charles Sparks has prepared the ritual for agnostic marriage ceremonies and is at work on rituals for the dedication of infants to agnosticism and the confirmation of children in the belief in the non-existence of God.

The marriage pledges administered to agnostic brides and grooms are novel, especially in their provisions on divorce matters. Sparks declares it is the daty of mismated couples to get divorced. In part the pledge is as follows:

"I desire to make said contract, and do hereby solemnly promise that I will do all in my power to make my wife happy, and that when I find that she is irritated from any cause I will not cross or quarrel with her, but will endeavor by tender and loving methods and kind words to soothe and restore her peace of mind; that I will abstain from drunkenness; that within three months, if possible, I will have my life insured, making my wife the beneficiary; and that should our marriage prove to be happy and we are blessed with children, I hereby blind myself to ever treat them with the utmost kindness and consideration and pledge myself to send them to the agnostic Sunday school and to give them all the educational advantages within my power."

the educational advantages within my power."

The wife's piedge leaves out all provisiors of the husband's which do not properly apply to the wife. It contains the further provision:

"Should I discover that we are uncongenial or mismated, I hereby piedge my sacred word of honor that I will not bring children into the world not born of affection, and I hereby further promise that should I find, after I have exhausted every effort to make it otherwise, that we are uncongenial or mismated, I will no? Insist upon our living together." Should I discover that we are unagenial or mismated, I hereby pledges, wife

They Gave an Amasing Show at the Institute Last Night.

The large and fashionable audience (of gentlemen) which went to the Mechanics' Institute last evening to see Rose Sydell's London Belles, received the shock of a great surprise. Usually such companies exhaust the suggestiveness of their programme on the posters about the streets, and reward the eager seekers after sensation with a tame show. But the London Belles reserved the sensations for stage production. They were announced to present some Parisian pantomime—and they'did. It was of the sort to be seen in the red light district of Paris. The people who were advertised to appear, such as Campbell and the Nelson sisters and some others, were not in the company. Nothere was Rose Sydell. There were about eight women and three or four men, and they had a good time. Their assurance that the dialogue would be peppery was fully borne out. It was hot. The action was to be "rapid." It certainly was fast. Every necessary adjunct was to be supplied. There is reason to believe that nothing was lacking. The efferwescent concoction of hilarious merriment was not absent. Such interesting characters as Miss Hotstuff, Miss Fireno, Hellion, Burnetto, Miss Pepperio, Miss Cuss, Miss Take, Captain Inferno and others did not permit the play to languish. Nothing like it was ever seen in St. John—in public.

The audience took its medicine cheerfully. One or two who went out were made so conspicuous that, if others cared to go they thought better of it and sat still. The instructive burletts. Stan's Wedding Night, closed the performance. The only thing the audience refused to hear was The Holy City, and the man who started to sing it was obliged by the uproar to change his tune. The singing, dancing and general comedy work of the company was good, but it was wholly subordinate to the general lidea of the performance, which smacked so strongly of the tenderloin district that one was kept continually wondering what would hap-
