PLUMER AT CROCODILE POOLS. London, March 6 .- A dispatch to the Times from Buluwayo says: Col. Plumer yesterday occupied the position at Crocodile Pools, which the Boers evac-uated on Feb. 25. It is not known whether the enemy has taken another position or been ordered to retreat owing to events in the south.

STORMBERG EVACUATED. A Stormberg dispatch says Stormberg was found to have been evacuated by the Boers Saturday night.

MARTIAL LAW. Cape Town, March 6. - Sir Alfred Milner has issued the following proclamation: 'Whereas the enemy's forces have invaded the districts of Prieska, Ken-hardt, Britstown and Barkly West. whereas many British subjects have taken up arms, and whereas it is necessary to repel invasion and suppress rebellion; now, therefore, martial law is hereby proclaimed in these districts.'

Ladysmith.

HEAVY COST OF ITS RELIEF.

London, Tuesday, March 6. - Winston Churchill, describing the relief of Ladysmith, says: "It was effected at a cost of upwards of 5,000 officers and men in an army only 25,000 strong." He goes on to pay a high tribute to Sir Redvers Buller, emphasizing the confidence his men had in him, "without which the enterprise could hardly have succeeded." Of Gen. Buller's attack on Feb. 27. Mr. Churchill says: "Considered in itself, it was a musterpiece, soundly conceived, gloriously won, and skill-fully executed. He adds that much also was due to the greatly improved intelligence department. Mr. Churchill points out that the Boers now Van Reenen's Pass, but that a majority of the Free Staters have accompanied the Transvalers northward.

SUPERHUMAN TASK,

Times publishes the following from Ladysmith, dated March 2: "Un-til I had crossed the Tugela I did not realize the nature of the ground, and the extent of the Boer rifle entrenchments. How these final positions were ever forced by 15,000 men seems mar-velous. It convinces me that the British infantry is unequaled, and that the relief column accomplished an almost supernuman task."

Gen. Buller's revised list of casual-ties from Feb. 14 to Feb. 27 shows 93 killed, 684 wounded and 25 missing. THE GARRISON. Pietermaritzburg, March 6. - A dispatch from Ladysmith says it is unnecessary to send telegraph instru-ments to that place, as the Boers left enough to stock the whole colony. Residents of Ladysmith are already the Mooi River district, which is one of the healthiest in the colony.

A dispatch from Gen. Roberts has been received by Gen. White, saying: "Thank God that the prayers of the nation have been answered."

> IN A GOOD PLACE. A dispatch to the Standard from Osfontein, dated Sunday, March 4, says: Lord Roberts' army now occupies a most advantageous position. Tucker, is in the center. immediately south of the river, and Gen. Colville, with the ninth division. is on the north bank. The cavalry brigade, under Gen. French, is posted on the left front, and the mounted infantry, under Col. Ridiey-Martyr, on the right bank. The country around consists of wide, grassy plains, broken only by ridges and isolated kopjes. THE ENEMY.

A body of the enemy has taken up a position on one of the kopjes, a flattopped hill to the north of the river, five miles beyond Gen. French, who today took out his artillery and shelled them. Another force, 4,000 strong, holds and isolated group of kopjes south of the Modder, and in front of the British mounted infantry. Their position is surrounded on all sides by level plains, over which the Boers must make their way in order to reach the river. As a consequence, their situation appears precarious in the extreme. The veldt is now in beautiful condition. Water is plentiful, supplies being obtainable not only from the river, but also from numerous clear springs. The health and spirits of the troops are excellent. The British cavalry and mounted infantry have been reconnoitering the enemy's position. There has been little fighting. A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Osfontein, dated Sunday, says: The Boer front covers eighteen miles of the south of the Modder River. BOER TREKKING CHECKED.

Osfontein, Saturday, March 3 .- Gen. French yesterday evening noticed a body of Boers trekking northwest, and sent a squadron last night to keep in touch with them. The troopers were followed by about 150 Boers, who advanced around a hill, but who retired precipitately when the British shelled them. The Boers then opened a heavy fire with Maxims, and also began fir-ing from a kopje in the center of the nosition with a long-range 15-pounder. The Boer trekking, in consequence of Gen. French's movement, was tempor-

London, March 6.-Boer raiders are uncommonly active in the northwest-ern section of Cape Colony, where they are stirring up the Dutch. Martial law has consequently been declared.

Mr. Chamberlain's request for 2.500 additional Australian bushmen is understood to be explained by the fact that the war office requires this force for the pursuit of irreconcilable Boers, who, according to the intelligence department, have been quietly collecting great quantities of ammunition and training training the collection of the

Stormberg - Enemy's Position in Front of Gen. Roberts

Fairly Located. Dordrecht, March 5 .- Following yesterday's success Gen. Brabant again engaged the Boers today with advantage, holding the position captured yesterday. There was some smart fighting this morning, the British losing five or six men and capturing the Boer fort,

IMPROVING THEIR POSITION. The Boers fought tenaciously, contesting every inch of the ground, but ultimately they retreated suddenly, carrying off their guns and wagons. A mounted force pursued them, but the result is not yet known. The British casualties during the two days were 12 or 13 killed. The Boers' losses are unknown. Throughout the arduous fighting and severe fatigue, the colonials have behaved splendidly. BEHIND PEPWORTH HILL. Ladysmith, Saturday, March 3.-Three regiments of cavalry reconnoitering northwards today saw a body of Boers behind Pepworth Hill. Two long trains, which were ready to leave promptly, moved before the troops reached them, and the Boers blew up a culvert behind them as they went. The British passed a large body of Boers in the vicinity of Pepworth. The Boers opened a heavy rifle fire, British field guns replying. The British did not press the attack and the Boer fire ceased on the British retiring. The Boer camps showed many evidences of the presence of women. AUCTION OF BOER LOOT. An auction was held of things brought from the Boer camp. A bunch of grapes sold for 25 shillings; a plate of tomatoes brought 18 shillings; 2 dozen matches brought 13 shillings; a package of cigarettes 25 shillings: 50 cigars brought £10, and a quarter of a pound of plug tobacco 45 shillings.

Who find life a burden, can have health and strength again by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

The present generation of women and irls have more than their share of pain ad misery. With some it's heart palpitausness and sleeplessness, with others anaemia, dyspepsia and constipation.

There are headaches and sideaches, weak spells and dizziness, hysteria and melan-cholia, and a dozen other ailments that unfit women for work or pleasu. e.

Let those women who suffer from any derangement of their heart or nerves, or whose blood is thin and watery, try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They will do as much for them as they did for Mrs. W. Barnes, West Gravenhurst, Ont., who wrote the following account of her case:

"Some time ago I was very ill and did not know what to do for myself. I was weak and tired all the time and frequently."

weak and tired all the time and frequently had a sensation of smothering, when everything would turn black before me and I would nearly lose consciousness.

I got so bad at last that life was a burden

One day I received a book telling about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and thought I would try a box.

By the time that box of pills was finished I was like a new woman. I had regained my strength, my heart beat naturally and regularly and from that day, which is over a year ago, to this I have had splendid health.

DISEASES OF

The following petition is being presented to the Legislature from the Toronto and Ontario Dental Societies, which will be followed by similar petitions from public school teachers, public school boards, trades councils, and leading citizens from all parts of

To the Legislature of Ontario in ses-country diseases of the teeth, and especially at the first dentition, are becoming alarmingly prevalent.

2. That the result of such diseased teeth, when not properly and promptly treated, is to very seriously hinder the present health of the child, and by interference with proper digestion and assimilation at a very important period in life, perceptibly and permanently lower the vitality and physical powers, when adult age is

3. That no sufficient effort has hitherto been made to remedy this increasing evil. 4. That in the opinion of your petitioners no portion of the important field of "preventive medicine" offers so great an opportunity of conferring permanent benefits on the next generation of adults as the devising, and successful working out, of an efficient remedy for this wide spread evil.

5. That your petitioners, as the result of extended observation, are persuaded that the ignorance of parents regarding the seriousness of the evil referred to, is so great, that no merely voluntary effort will be sufficient to meet the case.

6. That your petitioners regard as the most efficient, as well as the most practicable procedure, the compulsory inspection, not filling, of the teeth of young children attending the public schools, by a competent inspector, appointed by the public health depart-ment, or by the public school board, and, as in the case of vaccination, the compliance by parents with the requirements of the inspector.

Wherefore your petitioners pray, that, in the interests of the public health, such legislation may be initiated, as, in the judgment of your honorable council, may be sufficient to meet and remedy the evil set forth in this petition, and your petitioners as in duty bound, will ever pray. Signed by direction of and in behalf of the Toronto Dental Society, W. Cocil Trotter, D.D.S., president; Guy C. Hume, D.D.S., secretary.

British War Estimate Creates a Deficit of $88,550,000-A Loan of $175,-000,000 To Be Raised.

London, March 6.-The House of Commons was crowded yesterday, and all the public galleries were thronged in anticipation of the budget statement. The statement of the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, introducing the budget, shows that an expenditure of £154,082,000 has to be provided for in the budget of 1900-1901. The same statement shows that the exchequer account of 1899-1900 would have given a surplus of upwards of £5,000,000; but that the supplementary war estimates of £23,000,000 make the expenditure exceed the revenue by £17,7,0,000.

The chancellor of the exchequer, after laying the figures before the house, pointed out that the country had to face a total estimated expenditure in consequence of the war, no less than six times as much as had been estimated in October last. He explained various reasons which led to the early introduction of the budget, including a constitution of the budget, including a "desire to afford both our adversaries and foreign critics proof of our earnestness in the work in which we are engaged." He next explained the present financial situation, dwelling with satisfaction on the increase in the actual over the estimated revenue due to the steady and substantial increase of business and reliming out that as of business, and pointing out that as the increase in the value and volume of foreign exports had been quite exceptional, it had not been at the expense of Home industries.

Reviewing the principal items of re-venue, the chancellor of the exchequer said tobacco had been disappointing, and that the increase in wines had not been as large as expected, perhaps due to the absence of the ordinary winter festivities. With the estimated expenditure, £154,082,000 for the coming year, the chancellor of the exchequer estimated the revenue, on the existing basis of taxation, at £116,900,000, or a deficit of £37.000,000.

Dealing with the war expenditures, he said the government had made the best calculations as to the amount it had ought to ask from parliament, with the view of a successful prosecution of the war, but it was impossible to be certain when the war would be con-cluded, and the expenditures might be THE TEETH cluded, and the expenditures might be larger. On the other hand, however, a happy change had recently taken place in the military situation, and the That They Are Becoming Alarmingly Prevalent—Petition to the Legislature—Action to Remedy the They are supported by the miningly prevalent—Petition to the Legislature—Action to Remedy the miningly prevalent—Petition to the considered. He estimated the total expenditure, including the deficit of £17,-770,000, at £60,000,000.

The chancellor of the exchequer characterized the suggested methods of fresh taxation as in no way impracticable, saying the government felt justified in raising a portion of the war funds by a loan; but, he added, it was also justified in calling upon the tax-The petition of the Toronto and On-tario Dental Societies humbly show-tial sacrifice. In this connection he th:

He asked the taxpayers to subscribe to the cost of the war by an inclease of the income tax to one shilling in the pound, which would produce an additional £6,500,000. He also proposed that the stamp duties on stock exchange contract notes be extended to sales on the produce ex-change; that beer duties would be increased a shilling a barrel of 36 gal-lons, and that there would be an increase in the duty on spirits of six-pence per gallon; tobacco, fourpence per pound; foreign cigars, sixpence per pound, and tea twopence per pound. He anticipated that the above changes would increase the revenue £12,317,000, and he proposed to save £5,640,000 by suspending the sinking fund in rela-tion to certain terminable annuities.

WILL BORROW £35,000,000. He proposed to borrow the rest the necessary funds. A total of £43,-000.000 had to be raised, of which £8,-000,000 was now in the treasury, and £35,000,000 would have to be raised by bond or stock, repayable in a term not exceeding ten years.

During the course of his remarks the chancellor of the exchequer, referring to his previously expressed opinion re-garding the capacity of the Transvaal to bear a responsible share of the expenditure of the war, said he still adhered to that opinion, but he was bound to say that the events of the last five months, and the claims that would undoubtedly be made by the loyal colonists of Natal for compensa-tion for losses sustained at the hands of the Boers, and the enormous increase in expenditures since he last spoke, had made him feel that the capacity of the Transvaal to bear the cost of the war was a less important factor, though it was still an important factor, than he estimated in October last. From the abounding revenue of the year, £5,500,000 surplus was available towards the war expenditure, bearing remarkable testimony to the bearing remarkable testimony to the extraordinary industrial activity and commercial prosperity of 1899, which was, he hoped, one of a long series of prosperous years. The improvement was due to the stendy and substantial progress of business, and not to the war, which had, in some respects, militated against trade. The increase in foreign trade, both in imports and exports, was greater than the previous year. There had been a remarkable year. There had been a remarkable increase in the receipts from the death duties, totaling £17.471.000, of which £2.271,000 was from the estates of millionaires, including £300,000 from the estate of one man, a foreigner, who lived on 15 shillings a day in a west end London club. That one person, he continued, however unwillingly, had contributed to the exchequer more than the cost of an ironclad.

He thought it would be better that part of the £35,000,000 be reserved, an amount not exceeding £5,000,-000, for a further issue of treasury bills. The rest he proposed to raise by bonds or stocks. He had reason to believe it was possible to take such an issue on very reasonable terms, and he hoped to do so in a way not to insure profit for a few great and wealthy persons, but to bring the whole public into the war loan, and enable them to come to the assistance of the country. The chancellor desired a resolution passed enabling him to borrow in the described, without fettering him as to the precise terms of the issue. He did not propose at present to make any special provision to pay off this loan. It would be premature to do so before they knew the total liabilities, especially before they knew how much could properly be exacted from the Transvaal. He added: "We have ample means to meet what might fall on ourselves. Our soldiers in the field have shown that they are equal to their forefathers, and great colonies have eagerly taxed themselves with men and money for the empire. Should those who are sitting at home show themselves to be financial cowards We leave the matter in the hands of the house, being assured that they will begrudge no effort and shrink from no sacrifice which the honor of the country and duty to the empire demand."

HAS LIBERAL SUPPORT. The opposition leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, said the opposition would give every facility for the passage of the necessary resolutions. He complimented Sir Michael Hicks-Beach on the "straightforward, statesmanlike and discreet" measures pro-posed to deal with the financial difficulties, and said he thought the government would be met in no grudging spirit in prosecuting its financial propositions. Very properly, he added, a considerable proportion of the burden would fall upon the shoulders of the income taxpayer.

Mr. Timothy Healy (Irish Nationalist) followed Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. He protested against Ireland having to pay anything towards the war expenses, asserting that not a penny had been expended in Ireland. Germany, the United States and Brazil every point.

THIS IS BILLIOUSNESS. all had a share except Ireland. The tax on whisky, he further asserted, was an attempt to bleed Ireland. "Let was an attempt to bleed Ireland. "Let the diamond stock brokers," continued Mr. Healy, "those who are making money out of the war, pay the cost. Let the colonies share the burden—Canada and Australia—who are so keen for war."

Sir William Vernon Harcourt (Liberal) complimented the chancellor of the exchequer on the soundness of his financial principles, but said the coun-try would like to know how the government intended to insure that the Transvaal would ultimately pay a large part of the cost of the war. He added: "It is said we are fighting for liberty and freedom; so that there is a prospect of millionaires like Mr. Beit and Mr. Rhodes having the taxation of the Transvaal at their own a prospect of millionaires like Mr.

Belt and Mr. Rhodes having the taxation of the Transvaal at their own disposal. Of course the government would not think of oppressing by a result of the war. How are the men to be made to pay? If it is going to be free and independent taxation, I do not believe the imperial government will get it. Before all the burdens are imposed on the British people they should take some security by getting control of the funds in South Africa." John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, said the Irish members were bound to protest against the proposals of the government. This was especially their duty, he continued, because an increase of taxation always fell more heavily upon the poorer classes in Ireland than in England.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, in closing the debate, thanked the house for the reception given to the proposals, and said the government hoped for an early conclusion of the war.

The House of Commons adopted the government's budget proposals.

Galbraith Wins the City Championship Skating Race-Hefferman Was Outclassed Other Sports.

SKATING.

The three-mile city championship race, held at the Princess Rink last night, was won by A. J. W. Galbraith, in a walk-over. His opponent, J. J. Hefferman, was never in the race. The event was skated in three heats, with 13 laps to the mile. The first heat was painfully slow, both skaters loafing after the second lap. Galbraith spurted in the fourth lap, and drew away from Hefferman, and kept the lead up for the remaining nine laps, winning by about 25 yards. In the second heat Hefferman took the lead in the third lap and kept it to the end. Galbraith kept right close to. but making no attempt to pass him. The time for the first heat was 4:28 and the second In the last heat both men started in at a pretty fast clip, having been warned by George Black, who officiated, that unless better time was made the race would be declared off. Hefferman fell in the second half while turning a corner, and Galbraith voluntarily stopped and agreed to start the mile again. In the second start Hefferman narrowly escaped a bad fall in the first lap, and Galbraith pulled out, and at the end of the eighth round had a lap to his credit. Hefferman again fell in the tenth lap, and decided to quit. The time was 3:32. Hefferman, it was easily seen, was in too fast company. He was unable to take the corners without losing ground, while this was one of Galbraith's strong points. Galbraith will on Saturday night in the first heat of Heaman Forward Russell Collingwood. SCROFULA FROM BIRTH.

Dr. Radwsy,—Dear Sir: It is with pleasure I take my pen in hand to inform you of the great cure effected by your medicine called Sarsaparillian Resolvent. I have a girl 3 years old last September, who has suffered from scrofula ever since she was 2 years cld. In fact, the doctor fold us she was born with it. We had our best local doctors with her, and it seemed like all hope was gone, for they told us if the disease settled on her lungs she could not be cured. This frightful disease seated or seized upon her lungs severely. I began to think that our little girl could not live very long, our physician's medicines doing no good. In the meantime I received a copy of your medical publication, called "False and True," which you sent me. After seeing the accounts of so many ourse effected by your treatments. I at once resorted to them, and by the time she had used one bottle she was most well. The ulcers that were making their appearance on her body are entirely gene, her lungs almost healed, or, at least, she has quit coughing. She has begun on the second bottle, and I believe that by the time she uses all of it she will be well. She had a very bad cough. I am yours, with respect. SAMUEL S. BARKER,

LIFE A BURDEN. SCROFULA FROM BIRTH.

LIFE A BURDEN.

Dr. Radway,—Dear Sir: For a long time past I have been suffering in the most distressing manner from a long train of symptoms which have baffled the skill of all the medical men down here, and which, I feared, if not arrested in their progress, would terminate in the total prostration of my strength. Loss of appetite and desire of stimulating and artificial means of sustenance at irregular times, want of healthy sleep and consequent depression on arising in the morning rendered life quite a burden to me, until a friend induced me to try your medicine. So I got a bottle of Radway's Sarsaparillian and a boxof Radway's Pills and took them according to directions. I soon found relief. I got three boxes and three bottles more, and I am better in health than ever before. I remain your humble servant, ARTHUR D. WRIGHT, Unionville, Mich.

The Most Economical the Best. One bottle contains more of the active prin-ciple of medicine than any other preparation. Taken in teaspoonful doses, while others re-cuire five or six times as much. Sold by drug-Send to Dr. Radway & Company, Montreal for book of advice.

Determination.

Last week was a great week for the British Empire. The capture of Cronje and the relief of Ladysmith, following hard upon the relief of Kimberley, have sent a thrill of joy to the hearts of Britishers and helped them, if but for the moment, to forget the great price that has had to be paid for these gains. Whatever may be the future course of events one thing has been clearly proved before the eyes of the world; that is the determination of the British people and the bravery of British soldiers. Neither the people nor the soldiers have lost any of that strong fibre which enabled their forefathers to wrestle with so many difficult problems and pull through so many dark days. This manifestation of the real character of the people will have a wholesome effect upon the life of the world, and it is of special interest to us as our sons have stood side by side with imperial and colonial troops, which have just achieved such real, if dear bought, success.

In these columns we have always regretted the outbreak of this war, and disclaimed any sympathy with a light-hearted jingoism, and we believe still that if the Boers has assumed a less war-like tone and kept out of British territory, that diplomacy would have found a way out of the complications. We cannot believe that any responsible British statesman looked without serious concern to the possibility of such a war. But when once the Boers gave way to their fatal madness and flung at the British Government an insulting ultimatum which was practically a notice to quit South Africa, there could be but one result. Britain's stake in Africa was seen to be bound up with the honor of the Empire all round the world. Many political leaders might be weak-kneed and half-hearted, but the heart of the people was sound, and they refused to listen now to controversies which the new issue had thrown into the shade. On the 9th of October the Boers sent the ultimatum. They chose their own time, and their troops were all ready to take the field. At that time the Boers were by far the stronger power in Africa, as the British soldiers were seven or eight thousand miles away. Though the small bodies of troops there present fought nobly, it was possible for the Boers to overrun large tracts of British erritory and besiege a number of places. They had the advantage at first in numbers and choice of positions, and it has required three months' hard work on the part of the British forces, and three months' patient waiting on the part of the people to change the situation. The people wanted victories before Christmas and they could not have them; they must be content with reverses and disasters. The Boer method of warfare shown so far is certainly clever, but it does not awaken our highest admiration. To shoot from behind shelter, and then to run as soon as you are in danger is cunning, and no doubt proper under the circumstances; but it is not the noblest kind of fighting.

Up to this point the Boers have been able to adopt this method, and many of our men have been killed by an unseen foe, but it is likely that in the future they will not find it so easy to do that kind of thing. However, it is not that or any other matter of mere method which we wish to emphasize just now, but the determination, which, after three months toil and trial, succeeded in carrying relief to the weary garrison of Ladysmith. Through long, weary weeks the fate of that town hung heavily upon the heart of the British people until its relief became a national need, it was felt that both pity and honor demanded that the thing be done. There was one reverse after another and always a long sad list of losses. Buller and his officers were criticised by fire-side experts, and told how to do this hard thing. Perhaps mistakes were made by men who had never attempted anything so difficult but this we know that both officers and men were determined to accomplish the stiff bit of work that was given them to do.

Gen. White's gallant stand has accomplished its purpose of hindering the Boers from overrunning Natal, and Gen. Buller has carried his relief column successfully through in spite of the fiercest resistance. It was feared that in future histories of Britain the name of Ladysmith would mean dark disaster, but it will now be one of the most glorious names in the military records of the Empire. The thing that has accomplished this is British determination, the power to hang on in spite of continued reverses and wear out the enemy. It may be as Dr. Leyds says that the war is only beginning. What we do know is that the British campaign is just beginning, So far the hand of British generals has been forced. They have had to do the work marked out for them by the enemy. Now they will be more at liberty to make their own plans. The Boer campaign has utterly collapsed. They may not be completely beaten, but they will be foolish if they prolong a hopeless struggle.

The Kingston News says it may be that Gen. (now Colonel) Hutton "had a rather undue sense of his own importance." That is putting it mildly, Gen. Hutton thought he was the whole

Experiments in Farming. Dr. Saunders, Director of Canadian

Experimental Farms, has issued for distribution an interesting booklet, containing the results obtained from trial plots of grain, fodder, corn, field roots and potatoes, at all the experimental farms. The contents are well worthy of study by our farming community, and they should either write to Dr. Saunders or to their parliamentary representative for a copy. Wide variations are shown in the weight of the crops grown, indicating the importance of the exercise of care in the choice of varieties of seed for sowing. The director hopes that the facts submitted will induce farmers everywhere to follow the example and teaching of the experimental farms. It is timely to advise farmers to pay increased attention to the choosing of the most promising sorts of seeds for sowing; to the selection of the very best quality of seed, remembering the great law in nature that "like produces

To these precautions, counsels the director of experimental farms, add a judicious rotation of crops, with periodical manuring and the ploughing under of green clover, a careful preparation of the soil and early sowing. With these duties faithfully discharged, the farmer may confidently anticipate good crops, provided the season is reasonably favorable. Were such practice to become general an era of unprecedented prosperity in agriculture might confidently be predicted.

Nobody can say of the Japs that they are a nation of "no great shakes." They have an earthquake every two and a half years.

Lord Roberts, by his tactful telegrams and personal handling of opponents, shows himself not less e statesman than a soldier.

The Belleville Sun is rushing the spring. It has a new dress of type, and in its advertising, as well as its news columns, looks as fresh every issue as a charming maid of seventeen.

In a recent issue of the Dominion Presbyterian an account of the missionary work in South Africa is given, in which is mentioned the celebrated missionary, Dr. Moffat. Moffat and his wife were almost idolized by the natives, and their affection was reciprocated in full; but the old missionary was often heard to say that the saddest day of his life was when the news came that Britain had reinstated the 122c and 15c Wrapper-Boers in the Transvaal.

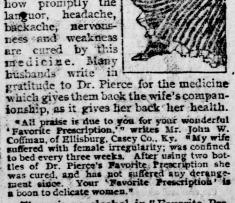

Joaquin Miller, the United States poet, seems to be an Anglophobe, for the other day, after some temporary reverses to the British in South Africa, he asked, "Who cares for the poor old toothless lion now?" The dion has shown that she has lost none 7c Flannelette, 1,200 of her old-time capacity to hold her own in a struggle for justice, and for the promotion of equal rights, and she has demonstrated that when It comes to conflict not only she, but her healthy whelps in all parts of the world have to be reckoned with.

Talking of flag-raising, the question of whether or not a flag had been displayed on a certain public building, when news of the victories for imperial arms had been received in Canada, was discussed in Parliament the other day. Hon. Mr. Tarte was able to say, amid the cheering of his friends, that he had given orders that on every public building throughout Canada the flag of the Empire should be floated in honor of the achievement in which Canada has taken so honored a part. If there had been some little omission in days lately gone by, the Minister of Public Works added, the shortcoming was not to be traced to disinclination to rejoice over the good news, but because never before in the history of tine country, when victories had been achieved for British arms, had the order been sent out that flag-hoisting should be general.

After Marriage

They are going to be together just as much as before; going to ride the wheel, take little pleasure jaunts, etc., enjoying everything together. Isn't that what many a young couple promise each other? And yet, how very soon the wife begins to say

"No, I don't think care to go. You o alone, dear." Young women don't reckon on the great physical changes which follow marriage. How can they when they are allowed to grow up in entire ignorance of vital physiological facts? They feel languid, weak and nervous. Sometimes there is headache and backache. The pulse no more leaps in answer to the thought of a spin on the wheel. Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, know how promptly the languor, headache, backache, nervousness and weakness are cured by this

to the Conservative Club.

Yesterday afternoon an agreement was reached between Manager A. E. Roote, acting for C. J. Whitney, and Alex. Harvey, proprietor of the New Grand Opera House, Dundas street, whereby the latter property comes for a time under the control of Mr. Whitney. The new Opera House will be opened on Friday night, with Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," followed on Monday by Herbert Kelley and Effile Shannon, in "The Moth and the Flame," and later by "The Telephone Girl," DeWolf Hopper, and other at-

The cause of the delay in getting the building opened has been due en-tirely to the action of the Conservative Club. The club had a lease of part of the building, and refused to let Mr. Harvey construct entrances wide enough to conform to the city regulations, unless certain demands made by them were complied with. A satisfactory arrangement has now been entered into whereby the club secure a separate entrance, and the carpenters are now at work enlarging the front entrance and stairway to twelve feet. It is unlikely that all the alterations can be made in time for the opening on Friday, but they will be completed as soon as possible there-

Is What Fred. G. Swales Appears To Be.

He Gave Himself Up to the London Police - But Belongs to Detroit-Where He Has Been Taken for Trial.

Yesterday morning a middle-aged man walked into the police station, and surrendered himself to the officer in charge. He said he was Fred G. Swales, of Detroit and that he was wanted in that city for fraud. A telegram to the Detroit authorities brought Detective Lombard to the city this morning. One charge on which Swales is wanted is that of running a bill of $105 with Hugh Carr, of the Detroit Hotel, and tendering a bogus check for $90 in part payment. It was also discovered by the Detroit police that Swales had recently married a Mrs. Carrier, of Detroit, while he already had another wife, now living in Omaha, Nebraska, wno was formerly Miss Kate Anglin, of Ingersoll, Ont. From wife No. 2 he obtained money at various times, first for a marriage license and wedding expenses and afterwards for incidental outlays. Both women will appear against him on a charge of bigamy. Swales was at one time well-to do, and, with his mother, kept the British-American Cured of Nervous Prostration and General Weakness by the Use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Nervous prostration, more than any other disease, is rendering invalid many of the fairest and best women of the land. Dozens of remedies have been suggested and offered as a cure for this disease, but none has proved of such positive value as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. The proofs of the efficacy of this remedy for nervous disorders are abundant. Here is the statement of Mrs. R. J. Arnold,

Woodstock, N. B.: "I have been troubled for some time with nervous prostration and general weakness, feeling irritable, debilitated, and sleepless nearly all the time. "My entire system became run down from the effects of this nerve and physical weakness.

"As soon as I began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I realized that they had a calming, soothing influence upon the nerves. Every dose seemed to help the cure. They restored my sleep, strengthened my nerves and gave tone to my entire system. I think them a wonderful remedy and cheerfully recommend them to every one requiring a heart or nerve tonic."

Now, if every nervous, weak, runworn-out woman would take down, Mrs. Arnold's advice and use Mil-burn's Heart and Nerve Pills, what a change there would be in the homes

Effective Reply to Remarks by Mr. McNeill in Connection With the Students' Disturb. ances at Montreal.

Ottawa, March 6.—In the house yes-terday Mr. McNeill introduced the subnect of the student disturbances in Montreal. In reply to his remarks Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he would wish that Mr. McNeill, when he chose to bring this matter before the house, for which he could not blame him, had continued his remarks in the temper in waich he opened them. Mr. McNeill had called attention to a serious and phorable incident in Montreal, and he would have welcomed a discussion on it if it would have brought to a close the disputes that had occurred for some time past in this country; and of which the incidents of last week were the culmination. But he believed when Mr. McNeill tomorrow read his speech in cold type he would have little reason to be proud of himself-(hear, hear)-when he insinuated what he did not dare to assert, that the funds of Kruger were perhaps at the bottom of this affair. (Hear, hear.) If he were to follow Mr. McNeill, he would say that he believed, if there were any secret funds in this unfortunate series of incidents which had taken place in of incidents which had taken place in Montreal, that they came, not from Kruger, but from a much nearer source. He believed, too, that one of the most unfortunate features of the incident was that the feeling might be created abroad that there was in Montreal and Canada a divided people when in reality there was no divided people when in reality there was no division. (Hear, hear.) He was not disposed to attach too much importance to what took place in Montreal, regrettable as it was. He agreed that we should not all be punished for boyish pranks. The incident was commenced by students of incident was commenced by students of McGill. He had himself been a student of McGill, and he was attached to of McGill, and he was attached to the college, but regretted that Mc-Gill boys should have commenced it. But boys would be boys the world over. It was always dangerous to play with fire. Nothing would have been heard of the matter if the press of Montreal, and notably the Star had of Montreal, and notably the Star, had not, in giving an account of the oc-currences, instead of treating them as they should be treated, rather said that the English students had given extra good bag, $55 to $60; good to choice, $40 to $45; springers, good to extra, $48 to $50; common and poor cows, $15 to $25; cows and springers, common to good, $20 to $27; calves, choice to extra, $8 to $8 25; good to choice, $7 50 to $7 75; heavy fat calves, $4 to $4 25. NEW YORK, March 5.—Butter firm—had been should be treated, father said that the English students had given their French compatriots a good resson in loyalty. We could always forgive the boys for things of that kind, but when men, who should be respectable, instead of putting down these proceedings, rather commended them, certainly there was cause then to be anaimed. Such newspapers as the Star rather encouraged such proceedings than putting them down, and this was all the more regretable when the Laval students and Dr. Peterson and the McGill men did the very thing expected of them under the circumstances. The McGill men gave apologies the following day. When they saw their own action, and saw they went too far, the McGill men went to the archbishop, the president of Laval, and the result was they agreed the whole thing was a mistake and should be reader. A voice—Who did what? Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not know who did it, but certainly he appealed to all men in this country, whatever their creed or religion, to all Can-adians, to remember that at this moment if such an insult had been offered to the British flag there were Can-adians of French blood carrying the flag in South Africa, who were not behind their fellow-countrymen or British origin when the last assault had to be given which brought the surrender of Cronje. For his part he should not regret, regretable as they were, these incidents, if we had an end of these deplorable incentives to race hatred which had characterized the press of our country the last three months. Mr. McNeil had referred to an article provoked by the in-cidents, but Sir Wilfrid asked him to read the article in this morning's Citizen and tell what should be the penalty for such an article. Sir Wilfrid then read the following article, which evoked occasiona cries of "Shame!" from the Liberals:

"WHO IS TO BLAME?" "When, some years ago, an attempt was made to blow up the monument which certain of the loyal inhabitants of Montreal had caused to be erected to the memory of the hero of Trafalgar the atrocious act was sought to be excused because it had been done by juveniles. A son of an ex-premier of the Province of Quepec was one of those principally concerned in the outrage, and it will be remembered that the father of the youth (the late Hon. Mr. Mercier) went into court with tears in his eyes to plead for his erring son and to enter into bonds for his future good behavior. With the recollection of this unpleasant circumstance still before us (for such events are not soon effaced from the mem-ory), we have now to deplore, in connection with all good subjects of the Queen, an act of even greater enor-mity—committed in the same city and at the same hands, again, of French-Canadians. That the national ensign—that glorious Union Jack which stands before all the world for all that is great, noble and free, and under whose folds French-Canadians, especially, enjoy a degree of freedom and lib-erty which would not otherwise be theirs—should have been deliberately torn from its place at the masthead and trampled under foot of a small and trampled under foot of a small army of cheering spectators, constitutes a deed as wanton as it is significant. It is an act aimed at the honor and dignity of the nation, and which will be felt and deeply resented by every one of the Queen's loyal subjects throughout her vast empire. Again the plea is put forth that this crowning offense was committed by Again the piea is put forth that this crowning offense was committed by young people; also, that there was provocation. As to the first plea, we have the testimony of eye-witnesses that there were several thousand men present, in addition to the university students, and that these aided and abetted the latter. The other is a paltry excuse at best, and will not hold water for one minute, for no provocation, however great, would warrant so the demand for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, if such there are who read this paper, we shall simply say that the best evidence of the merit of this great remedy for throat and iung troubles is to be found in the fact of the steady increase in its sales year by year.

Though the market is flooded with all sorts of cough remedies and coid cures, the demand for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is larger this seeson than ever before. The sales are time of emergency. On similar occasions the policy has been to put up with every indignity and say nothing, lest someone's tender feelings should be hurt; but if we may judge public feeling by what it is in Ottawa at the present moment, little consideration of this sort will be shown hereafter. The Citizen will speak its mind on this as on other national issues, without fear, favor or affection."

FORGIVE AND FORGET. Sir Wilfrid asked how we could build a nation on this continent if such sentiments were uttered. How could we build a nation if the folly of one day should be remembered for ever? How could we build a nation of we could not learn, at all events, to forget, if we could not all forgive? He would not speak for himself, but why should the name of Mercier, who had been in his grave for five years, why should his name be brought up? What had we

Of Interest to Every Mother.

Now You Can Buy Three Time as Much of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for 60 Cents as You Could for 25 Cents Before the Family Size Was Introduced.

So universal has become the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a family remedy for croup, bronchitis, asthma, sore throat and all coughs and colds, that it has been found advisable to put it up in large family size bottles, to sell at 60 cents. The regular 25-cent size will still be sold, but in nearly every home in Can-ada and the United States. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is al-ways kept in the house as a safeguard against consumption, pneumonia and other fatal lung troubles, and to the scores of thousands who use it in large quantities this new style of package will prove more convenient as well as more economical. To those who are not yet acquainted with Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and water for one minute, for no provocation, however great, would warrant so grave and so base an act. It is very evident that the feeling of disaffection to England, which politicians of the Mercier, Laurier and Tarte types have served to engender in the Province of Quebec, is bearing fruit with a vengeance. It is perhaps as well that the rest of the population should know where these people stand, and what reliance can be placed upon them in a linear this season than ever before. He would helped to gain the first important bat regret the occurrences of last week British victory in the campaign against the Boers.

On Oct. 26 he died. Gen. Joubert sent the news to Gen. White in a character istic letter, expressing his sympathy declaring his hope that the great God would speedily bring to a close the un-fortunate war "brought about by unscrupulous speculators and capitalists, in which so many valuable lives have been and are being sacrificed, as in-stance Gen. Symons and others," and concluding with a message of sympathy to Lady Symons in the loss of her husband.

As Gen. Symons was a Catholic, the pope said a requiem mass for him in the Sistine Chapel, and likewise forwarded a message of sympathy and condelence with the bereaved widow. Mrs. Symons had for some years been separated from her husband. But on the occasion of his death she was made the recipient of special favors from the Queen. A message of sympathy had been dispatched to her when her ma-jesty received the cabled news of the general's death. She responded with a message that thrilled all England. Not content with mere sympathy, Queen Victoria secured for her a special royal warrant and an extra pension, and offered her a home in Hampton Court.

It was, therefore, with great amazement that the monarch learned the news of the widow's marriage six weeks later to a subaltern half her own age. The wedding was kept secret as long as possible, and thus the couple were rope, where they are now honeymooning. enabled to escape to the south of Eu-

PLUCKY BRANTFORD BOY. Alfred Sherritt, of Brantford, bicycie rider, well-known in London, is with the first Canadian contingent at Bel-mont, South Africa. In a recent let-ter to his mother he wrote: "Do you remember Reg. Howell, the Brantford boy who started to ride around the world last summer? He came out with us on the Sardinian. He joined the South African Light Horse, and has distinguished himself greatly. He, in company with six others, swam the Tugela River, under fire, and captured the only boat the Boers had. This helped the British to cross. Well done for Brantford, and all success to Stratford Train Stuck in a Snow Drift All Night.

Trains on the Huron & Bruce and London & Port Stanley Lines Blocked-Storm King Rules.

The recent storms have smashed all railway timetables. On the Huron and Bruce the way freight that was due last night was stopped near Exeter, and could go no further. The engine attempted to go on with a car of stock, but it was impossible to do The train was canceled. The passenger train on the same line, due here at 6:20 o'clock, arrived here at

The Stratford passenger, due in London at 10:45 o'clock last night, had a hard time to get here at all. About four miles south of St. Marys it ran into a drift in a long cut, and although there were two engines attached they were unable to force a passage. The crew tried to cut their way through, but could not, and the train had to stay there all night, passengers, crew, and all. This morning two engines were sent out from St. Marys, and the train was pulled back to that place. Then a plow went out and cleared the way, and the train came in about 11:30 o'clock thes morning.

The M. C. R. are not able to run any trains out of the city today. One that went out last night was stopped about four miles out and came back this morning. An L. E. and D. R. R. train was blocked near Westminster, and an engine had to be sent from this city to pull it out. The Toronto trains, which are due about 11 o'clock, were not expected until nearly 3 o'clock.

City Hall Notes.

The efficials in the city engineer's department are still after the street railway company for not living up to their street cleaning agreement. This morning a second letter was sent to the company in order to hasten their operations, if possible. Assistant City Engineer Ironside was over the ground again this morning. In only one ward was the company cleaning the streets, and only a few men were working "It's not because men are lacking," he said. There are lots of men who would be glad to have the work. They are simply waiting to let the weather do what they should do. The weather did the work for them all right after the last snowstorm, this time the company has apparently waited for a repetition of the occurrence too long to suit the engineer.

The full staff of corporation laborers was at work this morning, endeavoring to open the drains. At was a difficult task. Mr. Ironside said that the streets were in the worst condition today that he had ever seen them.

Some of the aldermen this year fight shy of matters of public interest, but continually "scrapping" about are continually matters of interest only to themselves.

Last night it took the city council just four hours to decide upon spending $150 on a breakwater, pass a patriotic resolution, and vote a small sum of money to three London sol-

Gen. White's garrison has begun to leave Ladysmith, and is arriving at the Mooi River Camp, where the troops will remain several days, after which they will go further south. They are emaclated and exhausted, and say the road to Colenso presents scenes that exceed in horror those depicted in Dante's "Inferno." Dead men and animals are lying mutilated and putrified in the trenches formerly occupied by the Boers, and fill the air with a sickening stench. In cases where hurried burial had been attempted, the rains have washed the earth away, and out of the earth stick ghastly legs and arms of dead burghers.

A dispatch from Osfontein says that according to the Boer prisoners another important British success will cause President Steyn to flee to Pretoria, leaving a provisional government at Bloemfontein, which is likely to make peace overtures, those Free Staters not wishing for peace trekking into the Transvaal and there helping to make a stand, which most of the British military critics now point out will constitute the most difficult and deciding feature of the war.

The recent rains have afforded Lord Roberts good grass, copious supplies have reached him, and news of his advance is eagerly awaited.

Troubles of a Norwich Farmer Who Was Relieved by Dodd's Kidney Pilis.

Norwich, March 5.—For 20 years Mr. Wilbert Woodward, of Willow Dell, has suffered with backache. He grew so bad that he was confined to his bed two days out of a week. His farm suffered for the lack of the eye of its master, and Mr. Woodward made every effort to find a cure for his trouble.

He says: "I bought everything I ever heard of, but no cure.

Last fall I heard about Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I bought three boxes of each from Mr. Bannon, of Norwich, and I am happy to say they have done me more good than all the other medicines put together, that I got from the doctor. THE TRIUMPH OF TRUE LOVE

CHAPTER VIII.

They talk about it now in the pretty, picturesque town of Woodeaves—that wonderful wedding, the like of which was never seen there before or since. The wedding of the young earl with Lawyer Temple's daughter. They tell you of the bright morning; the blue sky that had no cloud; the golden sun, that seemed to rain down blessings; of the western wind, that might have blown traight from the spice islands, it was fragrant; of the birds that sung as though the wedding had been in the garden of Paradise; of flowers that bloomed so fresh and fair, as though in honor of the golden-haired bride herself, the fairest flower of all.

Dim eyes are reading my page noweyes that look back through the long wista of years eyes dimmed and dulled with heavy tears and they look back through weary years of trouble, of toll, and of wrong upon the wedding day. The day that they believed was to be the last of sorrow, the first opening into a golden life of hope and promise. They remember the love that surrounded them—the father's face, the pealing of bells, the unusual happiness, and they best know how it has all ended. Bright eyes bend over it, too, where no shadow has yet lain; eyes "where love sits playing." Heaven send they may never grow dim, as they recall the wedding-day.

They will tell you at Woodeaves that such a gorgeous spectacle was never seen, although the young bride had shrunk from display, and almost prayed that she might be married in peace.

There were grand friends of the young earl, officers in glittering uniforms, lords whose names filled the simple country people with awe. The bridegroom's mother was not there; she, it was rumored, was busily engaged in superintending the wedding fetes given at the castle. There was a whole string of bridesmaids, the prettiest girls in the county who were ding one proud of the honor of who was soon to be Lad

Little children flung flowers under the feet of the bride, flowers whose thorns pricked her sorely in the sad after-days; and then, as she stood in the center of that magnificent group, while the words of the marriage service were read over her, every one saw from the eastern window a golden sun-beam streaming in and forming a halo round her fair young head. Some smiled as they saw it, but it brought tears into other eyes. People looked at each other and said:

"Happy the bride the sun shines on." While, as they went into the vestry to sign the books, Vivian whispered to

"Even the sunbeams kissed you, my darling, and no wonder. Horace Temple was like a man in a dream; he had been in a dream ever the night Lord Vivian Selwyn asked him for his daughter, and he could not recover from it, and now the grand climax had arrived; his little Violante, his fair-faced, sunny-haired child, whose laugh and song were both wild as a bird, was married; married to a rich and handsome young nobleman, who many lady in the land might have been proud to have called her

So Horace Temple, on this his daughter's wedding day, sat at the head of his own table—a table laden with delicacles, with ripe fruits from every clime under the sun, with rare wines, the names of which had never penetraited Woodeaves—a table whereon cilver shone, and richly cut glass spar-kled, and he said to himself it must

How long was it since she ran to him and buried her face in a passion of tears on his breast because her pet canary was dead? And now the great ones of the world had gathered around him, and someone was making a grand speech all about his beautiful child.

"And she herself? In the depths of her own heart Violante did not think she had done wisely. Even to her the fream seemed as unreal as to her father, but the golden glamor of love was upon her. No one who saw Violante Lady Selwyn on her wedding-day ever forgot her. Her dress was superb, white brocade, richly trimmed with Honiton lace. Twenty three years ago I chanced to hear of the Shiloh Consumption Cure, and being more thoughtful than most young men, probably owing to the family curse, as we termed our hereditary consumption, I thought I would get a bottle and find out what it purported to do and, if it seemed reasonable, give it a fair trial. I carried out this plan and am, I implicitly believe, as a consequence, here to write this testimony. The golden hair looked as though it held the sunbeams captive, the dark eyes were bright with love and happiness, the delicate, flowerlike tace was fiushed and charming to behold in its modest grace and tenderness. There could be no fairer picture than this young bride on her wedding day.

When she remembered it in after years, it was to Viounte a dream of sunshine, and song, and fragrance; of love, that she thought almost divine in its tenderness; a dream whereon brilliant figures and strange faces were all confused; only her father's face, strining out from the group with the wondering, anxious expression she remembered so well, and the handsome face of her husband's shining down on

The speeches were ended. The sun was full in the sky when the traveling carriage that was to take the bride and bridegroom away drove up to the door. Most of the guests were going by train a few minutes afterward. London Times on the Trouble in Montreal.

Some Frenchmen Locking for a Fight With Britain.

London, March 6.-The London Times, commenting on the Montreal riots, says the incident may be reduced to its proper dimensions by reflecting that a company of Canadians at the assault on the Boer trenches on the Modder River, was wholly composed of men of French blood, who could not even speak English. The St. James' Gazette says the incident furnishes a serious rebuke to the foolish rioters.

The papers also comment on the fact reported by the war correspondent of the Times that a Canadian company in the Paardeberg fight was wholly French Canadian, and unable to speak

The Daily News says: "Perhaps the wide circulation of this interesting piece of news will bring some sense and shame to those responsible for the disgraceful disturbances in Montreal. The rioters are only students, but the mischief that may be done by students when they take to quarreling on racial lines justifies public anxiety and indignation. The example of frater-nity in the field should be followed in the academic groves. We hope soon to hear of peace and brotherly love again between the English French-Canadian students."

J. W. Doyle.—
DEAR SIR—In reply to yours of the 23rd inst.,
I am as well as I was at nineteen years of age.
Have not had any symptoms of Rheumatism since I have been using your Liniment. Further—While wheeling to Port Stanley I came into colision with another wheelman and injured my knee so that it swelled to twice its natural size. The doctor said it would have to be tapped. I said I thought not—that I had Doyle's Liniment. He wantel to know what the d—I that was. I told him to call in a couple of days and I would show him. He called, and I showed him my knee, from which the swelling had all disappeared. He said:
"Keep right on with what you are doing." I cannot speak too highly of it.

Caution in Buying a Piano.

There is a wide difference in pianos. Some are mere commercial commodities, made up by the gross, as it were, just to sell. Others are the outcome of years of study and a real conception of the tastes and needs and instincts of the musician. This is the difference between the ordinary plano and those bearing the name of the old firm of Heintzman & Co., who have been making planos for the last 50 years, and improving as the years round. A Little Business Done-Motions Incidental to Individual Grievances or Schemes - Several Recommendations Referred Back.

The aldermen met last evening and spent the usual time-about four hours indulging in petty personalities, with occasional outburst of unrestrained anger and a fair share of ludicrous posing. The business transacted was infinitesimal, though in a measure incidental. Ald Plant and Ald. Garratt were absent, the former being still con-fined to his house, and the latter having just arrived home from England.

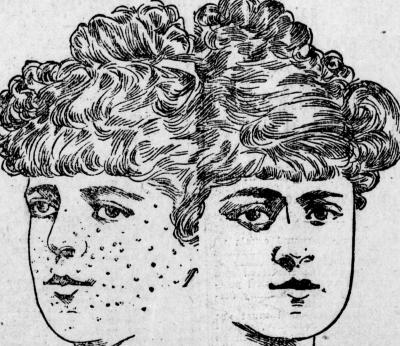

The communications were unimportant, and were sent to committees. Several clauses of the committee reports were referred back. The increases in firemen's salaries suggested by No. 3 committee were referred to No. 1 committee. grian Woman Arrested on the Charge of Infanticide-A Fugitive Since March 15, 1899.

County Detective Ward effected a clever capture last week by locating and arresting Mannie Abo Lamra, a Syrian woman, 26 years of age, who is charged with the murder of her infant child. The alleged crime occurred on March 15, of last year, in Biddulph township. A man and a woman, both foreigners, the latter carrying a child a few days old, were tramping along a road, and going from house to house trying to sell goods. The woman was seen to enter a piece of woods with the child, and return alone a few minutes later. The child's body was found, and a post-mortem established the fact that it had been mur-dered. The man and woman were tracked to London, but nothing further could be learned of them. in Berlin on private business last week, Detective Ward came into possession of a clue to her whereabouts, and followed it through Georgetown, Beeton and Collingwood, where he effected the arrest. He brought the woman to the city last night, and she is now lodged in the county jail. The man is said to have returned to Syria.

There's nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. There's nothing so good for a cough as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

The 25 cent size is just right for an ordinary, everyday cold. The 50 cent size is better for the cough of bronchitis, croup, grip, and hoarseness. The dollar size is the best for chronic coughs, as in consumption, chronic bronchitis, asthma, etc.
