TALK WITH THE PLUCKY EXPERT

Explains the Difficulties To Be Overcome-His Mask to Protect His Eyes.

Cape Grisnez, France, Aug. 27 .-Montagu Holbein, the English swimmer, started at 3:30 p.m. today on his third attempt to swim the English Channel. A light west wind was blowing and the sea was dead calm.

In an interview after his recent failure to swim the channel, Mr. Holbein explained his method of training and some of the difficulties to be overcome. He said: "The greatest obstacle which has to be contended with is cold. Remaining in the water for many hours is a terrific trial to the circulation of most people, and quite bars any training known to athletes as 'fine.' One must, therefore, so train as to leave the body well covered with flesh, in addition to having the muscular system in good condition. "I make only a very slight change in my diet, eating a little less vegetable food than under ordinary circumstances. Once or twice a week I take a long walking exercise, and indulge in a six or seven hours' swim every two or three days. In addition to feeding well up to the day of the attempt, I believe in constant nourishment during the effort. In fact, I try to get something about every half hour. I hold that a swimmer should not wait to feel the need of food, but continue to take small quantities at short intervals. I strongly recommend raw eggs, hot milk, hot tea and bovril as refreshing and staying foods. "The steering question is one of great difficulty and anxiety for those who direct me. In my former attempt to swim the channel this was especially difficult. The sea became so rough that I was blinded by the action of the salt water upon my eyes, and had to be shouted at every moment. Once, after a tussie with a wave which pitched me about pretty violently, my pilots lost sight of me completely for some time. They eventually discovastern, and saw to their consternation that I had turned about and was making full speed back towards the French coast. "My eyes must be naturally weak, for they are the only part of my anatomy that seems any the worse for the long stay in the briny. After some hours' swimming the salt renders me quite blind and causes considerable agony. This blindness does not make matters easier for my pilots. I have, therefore, been experimenting this year with a small mask which tightly fits on to the upper part of my face and is fitted with two watch glasses to see through. I need hardly say that the airtight mask becomes rather depressing after a while, and I would much sooner be without one. "Those who have known me as a 34 hours' road cyclist were surprised at my turning to swimming. I met with serious accident while cycling, which resulted in a fractured leg. The in jured limb was very stiff on recovery, and my doctor recommended swimming to benefit the limb. In carrying out his directions I grew so proficient that soon became ambitious to hold some swimming records. "As the crow files the distance across the channel is about 21 miles, but the currents cause one to take a course resembling a capital 'W,' which lengthens the journey to about 35 or 0 miles. For the first five miles the tide is helpful, but after that it takes one right out of the way. Even with suitable tides, the winds may be contrary. A south-southeast wind is most favorable, while a north-northwester is dead against one and causes the sait water to break over one's face. "The stroke I find most useful is one of my own invention. Lying on my back, I bring the hands from the thighs close to my body up the chest. With a turn of the wrist at the elbow I extend the arms beyond the head until the hands meet. I then bring them with an outward and downward sweep, with as much power as possible. to the thighs. In this way the hands never leave the water, and so the minimum resistance is offered to a contrary wind. This stroke also keeps me high in the water. About 22 to the minute is the rate of striking I find most profitable. My friend, Mr. Gray, who frequently times me, tells me that I rarely vary the rate by so much as one stroke a minute from start to finish.

"For a change I turn on to my side or breast for fifteen or twenty minutes, but the back stroke is the best. 21 of which are equal to about 24 or 25 of the other strokes. Needless to say, the difference of energy expended is far from being a negligible quantity in long distances.'

HOLBEIN FAILED.

Dover, Eng., Aug. 28, 7 a.m.—A boat from Calais, France, which has arrived here reports Montagu Holbein. the English swimmer, who started from Cape Grisnez, France, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, on his third attempt to swim the English Channel, within nine miles of the Kentish coast.

Dover, Eng., Aug. 28.—Holbein failed in his attempt. He was taken out of the water when a mile from Dover. Helbein had to be helped out of the water, being too exhausted to struggle any longer against the westward tide. He stayed in the water 22 hours and 21 minutes. Dover, Aug. 28.-Frank Holmes, of

Birmingham, who started from Dover at 5 o'clock this morning in an effort to swim the English Channel, was seized with sickness and abandoned the attempt when six miles out. A CANADIAN SUGAR COMPANY

Holbein Sets Out From France Claus A. Spreckles About to The Boer Conference Doesn't Start One Here-Capital, $6,000,000.

> Montreal, Aug. 28.-Mr. Claus A. Spreckels, of New York, president of the Federal Sugar Refining Company, accompanied by his counsel, Mr. W. W. Cook, of New York, arrived here yesterday. It is understood they contemplate the organization of a Canadian company, with a capital of $6,-000,000, to exploit the new process of sugar refining, invented by Mr.

Spreckels, now in successful operation n the United States. Messrs. Spreckels and Cook were in consultation with their Canadian lawyers during the day, but beyond the fact that the papers for the incorporation of a Canadian company were signed and forwarded to Ottawa, no further details could be learned.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 28 .- Five employes of the Battle Creek Sanitarium, nurses, probationers and stenographers, were drowned at Lake Goguac last night as the result of a collision between the steamer Welcome and a rowboat containing a party of young people. Five girls had been out for a row about the lake with a young man, and were returning to the sanitarium villa. The Welcome was starting out for her last trip. Much for Him.

He Had To Be Led From the Platform | The Major Succumbed to Heart Dis--No Excuse to Make.

Brattleboro, Vt., Aug. 28. - Whisky taken on an empty stomach was what caused the collapse of Rev. Sam Small (the Georgian evangelist and temperance lecturer), at the big rally held here last Monday night in the interest of Percival W. Clement, local option candidate for governor.

At Montpelier several days ago Mr Small publicly said that the prohibitory law was "a damnable farce." On Monday evening, when he was introduced as the chief speaker, Mr. Small made a few incoherent remarks, and had to be led from the platform, collapsing as he reached the floor of the hall. The rally was abruptly ended. Small, when interviewed, after admitting that whisky caused his collapse, added that he had no explanation to offer and no excuse to make. He spoke at Putney, Vt., in the afternoon, being driven there from Brattleboro. The driver of the carriage says that Mr. Small had a quart of whisky, and that he took three drinks from the bottle going up to Putney and two when coming back. Only about one-third of the whisky was gone from the bottle when some of the local option people examined it at the Brooks House after the fiasco. While Mr. Small declined to give any explanation to newspaper men, it is known that his explanation to his friends is as follows:

That he has been under a nervous strain, making sometimes two and three speeches a day; that he has used more or less liquor, and brought a quart with him to town yesterday afternoon; that he was met at the station and driven at once to Putney; that he had no opportunity to eat dinner; that he delivered an address at Putney and then started for Brattlebore without supper; that he had no opportunity to eat before going on the platform at the auditorium; that he was rober when he went into the hall, but that with the heat and no food in stomach the drink of which he took just before entering overcame him.

Mr. Small was greatly mortified. He stumped the state five years ago for

NEITHER DO SPRIGG'S EXPLOITS

The Secretary's Desertion of Cape Loyalists Explained Apology by Mr. Markham.

London, Aug. 28 .- There is no evidence at the Colonial Office or elsewhere that the ministry is deeply concerned over the results of the Boer conferences in Holland or Sir John Sprigg's exploits as a political trimmer at Cape Town. South Africa has been left to stew in its own juice, and Mr. Chamberlain does not meddle with the kettle even with a long spoon. There is an optimistic feeling among officials here that General Botha, after separating himself from irreconcilabate Boers, such as Mr. Kruger, Dr. Leyds and Mr. Reitz, will return to South Africa with Messrs. Fischer, Wessels, Dewet and Delarey, and become the leader of a rational peace party.

CHAMBERLAIN AND THE CAPE. Mr. Chamberlain's desertion of the loyalists of Cape Colony and moral support of Sir John Sprigg's alliance with the Bond are explained in the same quarter as the natural effect of his own faith in the efficacy of representative institutions, and the charac teristic British prejudice against suspending the constitution when it would be difficult to return to the principles of self-government after abandoning

MR. MARKHAM APOLOGIZES. Mr. A. B. Markham, M.P., has come badly out of his campaign against the great capitalists of the Rand. Some eighteen months ago he genially informed the House of Commons that he was ready to prove that Wernher, Beit & Co. were "thieves and swindlers," and that so overwhelming was the evidence of their turpitude that he intended to repeat his characterization of them outside the privileged walls of Parliament and face the consequences. He carried out his threat, but he now withdraws unreservedly, and Wernher, Beit & Co. have decided not to proceed with their libel suit.

ease at McLeod, N. W. T.

Macleod, N. W. T., Aug. 24.-Major Joseph Howe, superintendent commanding the Northwest Mounted Police, Macleod district, died very suddenly at his residence in the N. W. M. P. barracks here, on Sunday evening, Aug. 17, of heart failure. Major Howe was a native of St. John, N. B., where he was born in 1858, son of the late John Howe, postmaster-general of New Brunswick, under the Imperial Government, and late postmaster of St. John City; also a nephew of the late Hon. Joseph Brown, Hallfax. N. S.

Major Howe joined the N. W. M. P. in 1879 as a constable, and rose steadily in the service to one of the most important positions in the time-honored force that the military authorities could grant. He served in the Northwest rebellion of 1885, and had command of the gun detachment at the battle of Duck Lake, where he received a severe wound. In 1900 he volunteered for service in South Africa, and went out as second in command of the Canadian Mounted Rifles. For over twelve months he served his Queen and country with distinction, and on his return to Canada was given the important command of this district. Major Howe leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss, and his death will be very severely regretted throughout the Territories and in other parts of the Dominion where he was

Creameries are numerous, and one in Mr. Paisley's municipality produces $0,000 pounds of butter a month, for all of which there is a keen market. TENEMENT HOUSE MURDER

Debauch Ends in Double Tragedy-Two Dead, One Dying.

New York, Aug. 28. - Lizzie Hall, 26 years old, and Joseph Campbell are dead, and an unknown man is dying in Bellevue Hospital, as the result, the police say, of a quarrel in the woman's apartments in East Twenty-fifth street yesterday. According to the police the two men entered the apartments and the quarrel ensued, during which four shots were fired.

The Hall woman lived in three small rooms in the rear of the first floor of the house, which is a large tenement. Her almost nude body was found on the floor of the bedroom with a bullet hole through her heart. Campbell's body, fully dressed, and also shot through the heart, was lying beside that of the woman. The unknown man lay dying in the same room, a bullet having entered the base of the brain and shattered the spinal column.

Y., on Tuesday, have been received. He was asphyxiated with illuminating gas. Two gas jets were found open in his bedroom when his body was discovered. A New York dispatch says the police believe he comnitted suicide, but the deceased's relatives and some of his most intimate friends do not believe he took his own life. They know of no reason why he should commit such an act, as he was well off pecuniarily, and had no serious ailments. Mr. Sheehan was formerly employed as a cutter in McPherson shoe factory. On Sunday night he left for Brooklyn, on a visit to Mr. Nicholas Bucke, formerly drygoods merchant here. He said that if he got a position at his trade there he would remain. Tuesday his sister received a letter from him written on Monday afternoon. In it he stated that he thought he would return in a few days. A few hours after she received the letter she was shown a telegram by Mr. J. J. Bucke, who received word of his sudden death. Deceased was a brother of Messrs. In primitive days the world was overrun with reptilian creatures, and these no doubt preyed on fowl, just as snakes nowadays have a fondness for birds. Feathered bipeds naturally came to recognize in the hiss the presence of their mortal enemy and took fright when it was heard. Primitive man would, of course, notice and appreciate the effect of the sibilant utterance. It's a cinch that our remote forefathers would put the hiss into use when the progenitors of our modern chickens came straying where they were not wanted, and there, you see, we get 'shoo.' A chicken runs when you say 'shoo' because of an instinct that has come down in the breed from the days when fowl recognized their foe by the hiss."-Philadel phia Record.

BIG EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE GIRL PUT NOTE INTO A PEACH

Young Man Who Ate the Fruit Called to See Her

LADY WOULD AVOID VISITOR

But Farmer Hunt Summoned His Daughter and Then There Was a Happy Meeting.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 28.-When pretty Caroline Hunt, a farmer's daughter, living at Little Rocky Hill, deftly slipped a note into a peach that was about to be shipped to market, she little dreamed that an answer would be received so soon in the shape of a big, good-natured, good-looking hero of the Princeton football field.

Yet this is exactly what happened, for W. J. Montgomery, the young man who ate the peach and found Miss Hunt's note in the pit, went to Rocky Hill at once and called on her.

Miss Hunt is the daughter of Job Hunt, a well-to-do farmer living on a picturesque and secluded farm near Little Rocky Hill. A long lane, leading through a cedar grove, flanked by heavy growth of scrub oak, shuts off the Hunt farm, and apart from the companionship of her immediate family and her farm pets, Miss Hunt has little in common with the outer world. She balls to pass him, and then was struck has just passed her twentieth birthday and it is not surprising that she should Princeton grocery store. Having written her note Miss Hunt began a search for a peach in which she could put it. She tried a number and finally found one with a split stone. Rolling the note into a tiny ball, she pried open the pit with a small bit of tin, and with a piece of wire shoved the note in the opening. Some clever skin grafting, where the incision had been made, completed the work, and the note was ready to be started on its journey.

The loaded peach was packed in a basket containing some of the finest products of the Hunt farm, and soon found its way to Princeton where it fell into the hands of Mr. Montgomery, of Pittsburg, who is a graduate of the class of 1902, and who played on the varsity football team, until incapaci-

In 1893 the Conservative Government of Canada concluded a treaty with France by which it was provided that the Canadian duties on certain French products should be reduced: that France and the French colonies should rank with any third power in tariff advantages granted by Canada, and that Canadian canned meats, condensed milk, fresh-water fish and lobsters, apples and pears, preserved fruit, building timber, wood pulp, common paper, boots and shoes the present year with that of the corand other specified articles should be responding period of 1901, the figures subject to the minimum duty in France show an aggregate value of $1,254.685. and her colonies. The commerce is still small and there is a field for a large and profitable exchange between the two countries, which would be promoted by more favorable tariff arrangements. It is purely a business matter, and to try to drag race issues into it is preposterous as well as mischievous. The Liberals in the House down as fools.

The mineral production of Ontario continues to show a healthy growth in the aggregate, though there has been a falling off in some varieties. The annual report of the Ontario Bureau of Mines for the calendar year 1901 has been issued, and gives the values of products during the past four years. Those of metallic minerals in 1898 and 1901 were:

The output of common brick leaped from $914,000 to $1,530,460 in the same period. There was also a notable increase in the output of cement. The director of mines, Mr. T. W. Gibson, notes that the cement industry is expanding with more than ordinary rapidity, although there is still much foreign cement coming in which could be manufactured at home. He suggests that it would be well to have a careful examination of the marl beds of the Province, and all useful information brought together as to processes of manufacture, uses for product, etc. He comments on the extraordinary richness of the Province in limestone and clay, but regrets the lack of systematic or classified information. The resources of the bureau in men and money have been too limfted for such work.

The report says that the results so far attained in mining for gold in Ontario have not been commensurate with the expectations of some years ago. The conclusion has been reached that the gold ores of North and West Ontario are in the main low grade, and cannot be expected to yield large profits unless economically worked on a the capital of investors had been lavproven. However, Ontario is more than compensated for the poor showing of the gold mines by the phenomenal development in copper, nickel and iron production. Much of the increased value of the nickel-copper production is due to the fact that a greater proportion of the refining processes was carried on within the Province last year, the additional labor and expense

The Visitors From Michigan.

The good people of Port Huron have come and gone, and it is hoped they enjoyed their sojourn as much as London did. If their visit had coincided with a public holiday here they might have been given a more demonstrative reception, and perhaps something in the way of a spectacle or an organized attraction provided for them. two countries.

A number of shoppers, including two women, were detected the other day smuggling provisions across the St. Lawrence River from Prescott, Ont., to Ogdensburg, N. Y. It was a practical illustration that Canada is a cheaper country to live in. The American tariff rates on the different articles which were found in their baskets were: Beef 5c lb., butter 6c lb., currants 2c lb., sugar 1 95-100c lb., eggs 5c doz., rice 2c lb., olives 25c gallon. The ported by both countries, is much lower than the American. Eggs, beef and butter are dearer in the United States largely because the provision trade is in the hands of a trust. If the housekeepers of the United States had votes, Dingleyism would get short shrift.

Free timber and lumber are a boon to the settlers of Manitoba, and the Northwest, who cannot afford to pay for the long freight haul on Canadian timber. Even the Conservative Government admitted that. Indian corn is wanted by the farmers to feed stock, and they would protest in a body against any attempt to restore the duty. > A writer in the Atlantic Monthly says there are only five countries, Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and the United States that can hope to be naval powers. The methodical German programme set by the act of 1898 gives a measure that every competing nation must meet or be left hull down It provides for an annual expenditure for new construction from 1901 to 1916 of $24,500,000. No nation unless willing to spend that can hold the sea on equal terms. The writer holds that this is beyond the fiscal strength of Italy and Japan, although the Japanese fleet, being new, is a powerful one and stronger than any one Asiatic squadron under a European flag. Brassey, 1902, gives the total tonnage of the United States navy as close as may be at the opening of the year, built and building, at 476,789 tons. The Italian 288,885 tons, and the Japanese the Italian navy is over sixteen years old, nearly one-third the English and French, one-fifth the Russian, and one-sixth the German against a seventeenth of the American.

BEATS RAILROADING

An Auto Makes a Speed of 84 Miles an Hour.

Trouville, France, Aug. 28.-Amazing speeds were reached in the motorcar races at Deauville on Tuesday in the presence of a great crowd of fashion-able people. The chief event was the race for the kilometer championship of the world which was won by Gabriel, on a Mors car. He made the distance in 26% seconds, which is at the rate of 84 miles an hour. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jun., made the distance in 29% seconds a short time ago, but his record was subsequently lowered by

C. Jarrott to 28% seconds.

The course lay from the hotels and villas on one side to the sand dunes. It was 1,900 metres long. The contestants were allowed 600 meters in which to get up speed before the kilo meter test began and 300 meters for slowing up after the finishing post had been passed. Troops lined the course throughout, and the finishing points, where the grand stands were located, were railed in.

The race for motor cycles weighing 500 pounds was won by Rigal, on a Buchet tricycle. He made the kilometer in 28% seconds, which is at the rate of 78 miles on hour. The tricycle had an eight-horse power engine. Serpollet, who was the favorite for the race that Gabriel won, failed a Bilious Dyspepsia.

A DREADFUL COMPLAINT. ACCOMPANIED BY HEAD-ACHE, SICKNESS OF THE STOMACH. VOMITING THAT AND QUICKLY CURED.

Some persons have attacks of Bilious Dyspepsia very frequently, and feel as if they were about to die. The whole system seems to collapse. The tongue becomes coated, the face a sallow pallor, and a bitter taste is always noticeable in the mouth. At times the bowels are very constipated, but occasionally acute diarrhea is caused by the accumulation of bile in the system.

It is highly dangerous to allow such a condition to imperil your life. It speaking in reply to the statements must be cured, and the simplest and surest remedy is Ferrozone. It digests the large influx of American settlers every particle of food eaten, and prevents the waste products from clogging up the system.

makes the kidneys eliminate all poisons from the blood, and supplies the necessary elements to build up and strengthen the entire body. Mr. Louis Meehan, one of Peterboro's most enterprising and well-known

A Warm Campaign Under Way-Would Render Settlement More Rapid-No Menace.

Minneapolis, Aug. 27.-The excellent rops harvested in Manitoba and the Canadian Northwest during the past two years, and the promise of large returns this year, have directed the attention of the mercantile and industrial interests of this portion of the country to those rich and promising territories. Last fall the reported yields were brought to the notice of farmers seeking new fields. As a result, many exploited Canadian lands, and have settled in the Dominion. A reason for the transference, apart from the natural attractions of the country, is the circumstance that the Canadian lands are cheaper than those of the neighboring States. Now that Dakota and Minnesota are so well settled, it is impossible to buy there at less than from $15 to $20 an acre. The purchaser of a quarter section has therefore to find $2,400 or $3,000 as the case may be, or to go into debt for a proportion of that sum, before he can commence operations. On top of that there is the cost of building and of ment by persons of small means wellnight impossible. In Canada, on the other hand, prices range at from $2 to $5 an acre. When he soil has been broken there is a chance of selling it at an advance, and in that case, even though the settler may not remain, he has made a profit which would be out of the question in the American West.

Men with money, here, and even in Iowa, have united to secure control of blocks that promise well in the future. The situation has awakened the interest of the industrial and commercial bodies. Deputations from this city have recently passed through the Canadian territories, and have re-turned with rosy reports regarding their prospects from the business point

One result is a decided call for reci-procity with Canada. At a convention just held it was pointed out that under a reciprocal treaty admitting wheat free, and securing freedom for manufacturers in the Canadian market, Minneapolis would become a second manufacture the Manitoba flour, which they cannot do now, owing to the duty, and the industries of the Western States would prosper by reason of the Canadian demand for their pro-

It is maintained West, in that it would render the settlement of the country by people from the United States more rapid than it otherwise will be. The Minneapolis Journal, which leads in the advocacy of this schene, represents that the Canadian West cannot prosper in English and Canadian hands, and that what it wants is the energy and capital of Americans, who, under favor-CAN BE PERMANENTLY able conditions, are ready to push it.

As a proof that the Americans are in earnest, this paper says that Marshall Field & Co., of Chicago, have already decided to open a department store in Winnipeg. With a different trade policy the large establishments in Minneapolis would manufacture for the Canadian market in the west, and open salesrooms at various points.

MANY KILLED.

A cablegram from Gen. Chaffee reports a series of earthquakes in the Lake Lanao country (Philippine Islands), in the Moro section of Mindanao, near Camp Vicais, the present headquarters of the American forces there. The rivers and mountains were considerably disturbed and 50 or 60 natives were killed, but no Americans perished. The military situation in that section remains unchanged.

FINED FOR SEDITION. Frederick Dorr, the proprietor, and Edward O'Brien, the editor of Freedmon, at Manila, recently convicted of sedition, have been fined $1,000 without imprisonment. A. R. Dorr, manager of the paper, was fined $25. Dorr and O'Brien were each sentenced on Aug. 25 to six months in Bilibid prison, and were fined $1,000 for libeling Benito Legardo, a native member of the Philippine civil commission.

RUSSIAN SHIPS IN BLACK SEA. A Vienna correspondent reports that the Politische Correspondez says the recent visit of the Russian squadron to the Turkish Black Sea created uneasiness in Con-stantinople. The Russians formerly were not in the habit of calling there. This change of action is attributed to the Grand Duke Alexander Mikhaelovitch, who has induced the Czar to allow these visits in future. The Grand Duke, after investigating the Turkish ports last year, boasted that he knew more about the Turkish coasts on the Black Sea than all the Ottoman naval officers put together.

Liberal Picnic at Bowmanville.

Bowmanville, Aug. 28. - The Liberals of West Durham, Hon. J. I. Taite and Hon, J. R. Stratton, held a picnic in Pollard's grove in the Township of Clarke yesterday. It was not an ordinary picnic, it was a good old-fashioned political picnic, held in a beautiful maple grove, with clothes-baskets full of applie ple and cocoanut cake, three vigorous brass bands and a baseball game to vary the monotony of the pol-itics. Mr. Tarte unfortunately missed connections at Toronto, and did not reach the grounds until 5 o'clock, but he accepted his misfortures with the best of good humor, and spoke for nearly an hour with great spirit. Beaver Gearhardt, of Company F, Twelfth Regiment, is suffering from a wound in the shoulder made by a stone thrown by a striker.

This morning a report gained currency that strikers were gathering in force to march on No. 4 colliery, where the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company is mining and cleaning coal. The colliery is at the west end of the Panther Creek Valley, and the governor's troop was ordered to that point. Companies F and K of the Twelfth Regiment were placed on trolley cars, which were run through the valley.

London has plenty of good material to form two teams this year, and expects to put a junior, intermediate and perhaps a senior team on the field that will make the best of them guess. The men will have a month to get in shape before the season opens in the O. R. F. U., and prospects are a little brighter with London this year than they have been before, as far as that august body is concerned, and we can depend on it that no championships will be handed around to the loudest squealers, regardless of the ability to play the game. All last year's players have been seen, and they express themselves as eager to get in the game again, and, if Tuesday's meeting comes up to expectations, there is nothing to hinder the men from starting practice at once.

Roberts, who was elected to represent this State in Congress in the election of 1898, and who was not per-mitted to take his seat because he was a polygamist, has just given birth to a second set of twins. The first pair, girls, were born just prior to the campaign when he was a candidate, and were christened Georgiana and Johanna. The Republicans made them a campaign issue, and the children's names and pictures were carried on Republican banners in all the Gentile cities of the State.

The last pair are boys, healthy and hearty, weighed 9 pounds each at birth and look just like their father. Roberts is very happy over this addition to his three families.

Mrs. Roberts, the mother, lives at Kaysville, about 25 miles north of this city. She is a sister of Mrs. Roberts No. 1. Mrs. Roberts No. 3 is Dr. Maggie Shipp, who lives in Salt Lake City. Roberts spends most of his time here now. He is busy receiving the congratulations of his friends upon his added responsibilities.

CHAPTER I.

The twilight of a midsummer day was settling over a quiet, beautiful town not far from the metropolis of New York. The sun had long since rolled majestically down behind the distant mountains, leaving a crimson glow, like a rosy curtain; then the evening shadows folded themselves gently about all things, and the day was done.

A little away from the town there was an elegant residence—the pride of the whole country around—and this, with its finely-kept grounds, which had some-thing of the air of an English park, seemed almost like a paradise, where only beauty and happiness could reign

Beauty there was, wherever the eye might rove; but, happiness—alas! it had been an outcast from the place for more than six long years. A rich, deep-toned bell upon a distant church tower tolled eight musical notes, and as the last stroke echoed on the evening air, a slender, graceful figure, clad in somber black, arose from a rusting tide seat near a marble fountain, not far from the mansion of which we have been writing, and walked lightly across the greensward to the smoothly-graveled walk which led to the house.

This walk was bordered with magnificent trees—maples and elms—and their heavy foliage meeting above it seems.

heavy foliage meeting above it seemed to enwrap Audrey Waldemar in sudden gloom as she came into it. All at once she stopped and raised her head—a regal head it was, too—and the pose of the whole figure at that moment proclaimed the lady of noble breeding and high culture.

And such, in truth, was the only daughter of the late Hon. Dudley Waldermar, a wealthy gentleman, a retired politician, and a man of the noblest stamp.

"What was that noise? What did I clear and musicet.

She stood listening for a moment, and a low, sobbing sound came distinctly to ears.

It seemed to proceed from behind a huge tree near by, and Miss Waldemar walked directly to the spot to investigate the matter.

She found there, at the foot of the tree, a little figure, lying prone upon the ground and weeping bitterly.

Audrey Waldemar stooped and gently laid her hand upon the child's head.

With a frightened cry, he instantly With a frightened cry, he instantly prang to his feet and stood trembling before her.

He was a little boy, perhaps five years of age.

He would have fied, but she caught him by the hand and held him fast.

"What is it, little one? What makes you cry so?" she asked, and the sweet voice would have bound him now, without the detaining hand; but great sobs still heaved his little chest and made it difficult for him to answer her question.

"How came you here, little boy, and what has grieved you like this?" she asked again.

"She slapped me—she called me a beggar, and told me to clear out!" and with this excited rehearsal of his wrongs and the accompanying sense of indignity, the child burst into renewed sobbing.

"Who slapped you? Who called you a beggar?" demanded Andrey quietly.

Be out in the grounds alone at this hour?"

"I will tell you about it some other time," Miss Waldemar responded, passing to her seat at the table, while she directed the servant to arrange a has-sock and lift the boy upon it.

Rich allowed himself to be disposed of as she thought best, but his wonderwide eyes went roving all about the elegant room, noting the gleaming silver, the glittering glass, and dainty viands upon the richly-spread table.

Audrey kindly attended to his wanto at once, for the hungry look in his great eyes went to her heart.

He was a remarkably interesting child, in spite of his coarse clothing and neglected appearance, and Miss Waldemar found herself watching him with increasing the accompanying sense of indignity, the child burst into renewed sobbing.

"Who slapped you? Who called you a beggar?" demanded Andrey quietly.

Yow tender and pitiful the sweet voice How tender and pitiful the sweet voice sounded!
"Oh, yes—so hungry!" he answered, plaintively.
"Come with me," Miss Waldemar commanded, in a low voice.
"Where?" the child asked, in a frightened tone.

"Back to the house from which you have just come. Do not fear," she added reassuringly, while she clasped his little hand in hers, "for I am mistress here, and you shall have all you wish to eat."

He instantly ceased his crying and went

Miss Waldemar did not speak again until she had reached the broad granite steps leading up to the house.

Then she stopped beneath the great lanterns which hung over them, and which had just been lighted, and turning the child to the light, she asked:

"Who are you? What is your name?"
The boy lifted his head at the question, evenling a pale pinched face, a pair of revealing a pale, pinched face, a pair of great lustrous black eyes, sharp, but beautifully regular features, and a sweet, childish mouth

A cry of wonder and delight burst from him as he entered the lofty, beautiful hall, with its inlaid floor and rich rugs scattered here and there; its great chandlelier all ablaze with light, and the rare pictures and carvings which met his view.

CRICKET.

LADIES VS. GENTLEMEN. On Saturday afternoon, on the asylum grounds, the ladies' cricket team will cross bats with a picked team of gentlemen from the city. The ladies have been practicing hard for the last few weeks, and expect to show their gentlemen friends how to play the noble game of cricket. The game will commence at 3 p.m., and a large crowd of friends are expected to be

He plunges about, arches his back. jumps wickedly with swift arching back into the air and comes down stiff-legged. That is bucking. The rider hangs on by the grip of his legs, the hold of his reins, and the hold of his spurs in the horse's side. Sometimes the boots pull off, and then the rider is unhorsed. The horse is simply trying to shake off the man as he would try to shake off a wild beast. After a time if he is a desperate fighter he tries another game; he rears and falls backward and tries to crush his rider. If he is caught beneath the animal he rides no more brenous. When the horse is tired and sees the futility of bucking he starts to run. That is what the rider wants. His trouble is now over. After he is brought un-willingly and sulkily back to the cor-ral and unsaddled, his rider, if the horse has been a bad and persistent fighter, is nearly exhausted. He lies down for a time and recovers. Three such rides mades a "broken horse" on some ranches. And that is why some

The Great Golden Spurs.

The King appointed the Earl of Loudoun and Lord Grey de Ruthyn to be bearers of the great golden spurs at the solemnity of the coronation. The office is hereditary. It was held originally by the Earls of Pem-broke, from which it descended to the Greys of Ruthyn.

There have, however, been other bearers of the spurs. They were carried at the coronation of the last Edward by the Earl of Rutland, and by the Earl of Essex at the coronation of Henry VII. In 1649 the spurs appear in the inventory of the regalia taken by order of the parliament. They were of silver gilt, the buckles set with "12 slight stones," and the straps were of crimson silk. They weighed 6% ounces, and with silver at 5s 4d per ounce, were valued at £1 13s 4d The coronation spurs made by William Foster for Henry VII., "all gilt," cost only 13s 4d.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Emperor His Model.

The Emperor and Empress of Germany visited the little town of Mores recently, and a crowd gathered to welcome them. Noticing a young woman with an infant in her arms, the Emperor asked her how many children she had.

"Six, your majesty," was the reply.

"Oh, that is too many," said the Kalser, gravely.

The woman's husband, however, then stepped forward and said bluntly: "Buyou set us the example, your majesty."

For a moment the Kaiser seemed nonplussed, but then he answered, with a smile: "That's quite true, but then I am the father of my people, and I must perform my duty toward them."

DOCTOR ENSOR,

SUPT. SOUTH CAROLINA STATE INSTITUTION,

Indorses the Catarrhal Tonic, Pe-ru-na--A Congressman's Letter.

Dr. J. F. Ensor, Postmaster of Columbia, S. C., late Superintendent and Physician in charge of State Insane Asylum at Columbia, S. C., writes:

"After using your Peruna myself for a short period, and my family having used and are now using the same with good results, and upon the information of others who have been benefited by it as a cure for catarrh and an invigorating tonic, I can cheerfully recom-mend it to all persons requiring so effective a remedy."—Dr. J. F. Ensor.

Hon. C. W. Butts, ex-Member of Congress from North Dakota, in a letter from Washington, D. C., says:

"That Peruna is not only a vigorous, as well as an effective tonic, but also a cure of catarrh is beyond controversy. It is already established by its use by the thousands who have been benefited by it. I cannot too highly express my appreciation of its excel-lence."—C. W. Butts.

Only the weak need a tonic. People are never weak except from some good cause. One of the obscure causes of weakness and the one oftenest overlooked is catarrh.

Catarrh inflames the mucous membrane and causes the blood plasma to escape through the mucous membrane in the form of mucus. This discharge of mucus is the same as the loss blood. It produces weakness. Peruna stops the catarrh and prevents the discharge of mucus. This is why Peruna is called a tonic. Peruna does not give strength by stimulating the nervous system a little.

It gives strength by preserving the mucous membranes against leakage.

ROBBER USED PEPPER

Station Agent Says He Had a Package of $2,170 Taken From Him.

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 27 .- An express package, containing $2,170, consigned to the Devonshire Mills at Goff's Falls, was secured by a masked robber today, who overcame the youthful station agent at the Goff's Falls station, four miles south of this city, showering him with red pepper. The money was sent on the early train from Boston by the National Bank of the Republic and was intended to meet the pay roll of the 160 employes at the Devonshire Mill. The package containing the money arrived by American express on the train which among the Thousand Islands, on the reached Goff's at 8:15 a.m. It was Great Lakes, at Niagara Falls, in the given to the station agent, who also is

FACTS FOR

F. R. Smith, manager of Oak Hall, Hamilton, has the following in an in-terview recently, in the Hamilton Spectator:

"You know my unlimited faith in the newspapers. Talk as you like about fake schemes and programme advertising, I find all I have to do is to tell the public a straight story through any good paper, and the response comes as certain as taxes, and the cost is not more than half that of the numerous other schemes so commonly used, but in which Oak Hall has not spent one dollar during the past year, and the cash results prove my argument to be true.

Congregational Flock Becomes Presbyterian.

San Francisco, Aug. 27 .- The Plymouth Congregational Church of Oak-land, decided on Sunday by a majority vote to accept the Presbyterian faith, to move to another edifice and to en-gage a new pastor. This change wasn't due to any sudden impulse, but has been discussed for several months. The members in favor of a change declared that the new Congregational Church dedicated on Sunday would be sure to draw most of their members, as they have been without a regular pastor for several months.

IT IS THE FARMER'S FRIEND.—The farmer will find in Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil a potent remedy for wounds or pains in the body or for affections of the respiratory organs, and for household use generally. He will also find it a convenient friend in treating injured horses, cattle, etc., or relieving them when attacked by colds, coughs or any kindred ailments to which they are subject. It's an easy matter to get into the habit of meeting trouble half-way.

It gives strength by converting the blood fluids and preventing their draining away in mucous discharges. Constant spitting and blowing the nose will finally produce extreme weakness from the loss of mucus.

RELATIONS OF A GREAT RAIL-ROAD TO WORK AND RECREATION.

The New York Central touches American life at every point. It is a vital power in building up the country's commerce.

It is also a recuperative agency of the most wholesome sort in quicken-ing the fagged energies of the people. Not only are New York and Boston bound by it to Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis, but these strenuous centers of industry are, in turn, linked by it to unfailing fountains of recreation; in the Adirondack Mountains, Great Lakes, at Niagara Falls, in the Catskills, at Saratoga Springs, in the Berkshire Hills, on the lakes and rivers
