VOL XXVII., NO. 118.

MR. KNOWLTON'S OPINION. Mr. Marvin Knowlton, of William Conn., the well-known temperance lecturer, returned to London from a short visit to oronto on Friday night, and will soon eave or his home. Mr. Knowlton is much impressed with the temperance legislation of the Ontario Government as embraced in Provincial Secretary Gibson's amendments the License Act. The strong point i the measure, Mr. Knowlton says, lies in the fact that the responsibility for getting the public sanction for a license is thrown on those want a license. Hitherto the world has been done by those opposed to the granting of a license. In future, the peti tion has to come from those asking for liquors to be sold; in the past, the opponents of a license had to go to the trouble of getting the petition. Knowlton considers this a very just pro

Touching Incidents of the Lake Shore Wreck.

Sad Pate of the Bride of a Week-Run Off on the Ontario and Western.

Buyralo, March 8.—When accident occurred on the Lake Shore Railway Thursday night there were about 90 people on the train, and among them a young couple just started out in married life—married just a week, in fact. The story of their fate is indeed a sad one. They were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Baucus, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and they were returning home from their honeymoon trip. The couple occupied a seat in the coach and the bride was pinned down when the crash came. She was frightfully injured, being bruised in many places, while her skull was terribly crushed. The husband was also injured about the body and legs, but his physical suffering was nothing to the mental agony he suffered. The bride was rolled in blankets and lay stretched across two seats while Dr. Thompson, of Angola, had done what was possible to save her. Other physicians were also there and looked after the young couple, but Mrs. Bancus was doomed from the first. Her husband acted in a

A Slick Sneak-Thief Carries Off a Cash-

This forenoon about 12 o'clock a sneakthief of good professional ability got in his work at Mr. S. H. Craig's lumber yard, on the corner of Bathurst and Richmond streets. At that hour Mr. Craig was engaged with a customer and stepped out of the office to look at some shingles about the office to look at some shingles about ten yards from the door, leaving no one in charge. The thief took in the situation and slipped into the back room, picked up the cash box, rapped it in a piece of paper and started out. At the door he met one of Mr. Craig's workmen, and in passing he saluted him with "Good morning, sir, pleasant morning," after which he vanished. The workman thought that his employer was in the inner room and went to sneak to

The workman thought that his employer was in the inner room and went to speak to him. When he found he was not there his suspicions of the courteous stranger were aroused, and he missed the cash box after a hasty inventory, and notified Mr. Craig, who immediately sent word to the police.

Inquiry showed that a young man of light complexion, about 18 years old, had been seen loitering around the premises during the forenoon, and his description satisfied the workman that the man he met at the door was the same. Fortunately for Mr. Craig the missing box contained only business papers and an amount of silver. ness papers and an amount of silver.
Mr. Craig says he was not out of the office 30 seconds before the theft was committed, and that four men were within ten yards of the office at the same time.

INDEPENDENT ORDER FORESTER Friday evening at the regular meeting of Court Orient, No. 416, L. O. F., 21 applications were received for admission into the court, representing in all about $40,000 of insurance. This speaks well for the prosperity of the east end court.—[Hamilton Spectator.]

was conducted by the brethren of the Independent Order of Foresters, over 50 et whom were present.

On Sunday last the funeral took place at Sarnia of Bro. Henry Blacker, an esteemed member of Court Sarnia, I. O. F., No. 55. Rev. T. R. Davis, M.A., rector of St. George's Church, of which deceased has been a consistent member, onducted the services at the church and at the grave. The cortege was headed by the 37th Battalion Band and followed by the members of Court Sarnia, I. O. F., and a large contingent of Foresters from Port Huron, Point Edward and Fort Gratiot. A large number of friends followed the remains to Lakeview Cemetery, where they were buried.

A convention of Foresters was held in Rochester on Friday pursuant to a call from the supreme chief ranger of the order. Dr. Oronhyatekha, of Toronto, Ont. The High Court was formed by the following-named officers of the Supreme Court of the order: S. C. K., Dr. Oronhyatekha, of Toronto; S. V. C. R., William Griffiths; S. M., M. F. Patterson, and S. J. S., David Miller, Officers of the High Court were elected and duly installed. The High Court is the Grund Lodge of the order for the State of New York and will hold its next session at Waterrown at such time as shall be hereafter designated by the executive Alord the representatives of the banch of the order. Conclave No. 25, K. 8. F., held its regular meeting Thursday evening, nearly every member being present. Sir Knight Sam. Manness were read and contirmed. Several communications and accounts were disposed of.

The committee appointed to secure a more suitable hali for lodge purposes reported progress. The notice of motion put in at the last regular meeting respecting the advisability of continuing the conclave any longer was them made a motion and discussed. After a long discussion a division was taken and the motion to wind up the conclave was lost. The very best feeling prevailed throughout the discussion. Quite a number of the "bone and sinew" purpose resigning and going over to the Knights of Pythias in a body, and will then at once proceed to organize a uniformed division.

The joint committee appointed some time recently by the various courts of the A. O. F. for the purpose of organizing a sanctuary of the Ancient Order of Shepherds have just about completed the object for which they were appointed. Everything is in readiness to organize a sanctuary of the Ancient Order of Shepherds on Friday next. Everything has worked to the utmost satisfaction of the committee, they having that their that neither time nor trouble are being spared to make this the best sanctuary in Canada. Mr. A. Rose, district pastor, will act as instituting officer.

At the last regular meeting of Conclave No. 25, K. S. F., the following resolution of conditioners.

Mizpah Lodge, at its last regular meeting, conferred the knights' rank. Quite anumber of the members of Conclave No. 25, Knights of Sherwood Forest, purpose severing their connection with the uniformed degree of the A.O.F. and forming a division of Knights of Pythias. A goodly number of Pythian Knights have already signified their intention of jolning, and there is every pospect of a very fine division being formed here. It is understood as soon as the division is formed drill will be commenced at once, and in all probability they will take part in the grand Pythian demonstration to be held at Milwaukee early in the summer.

Secretary Brown rose to a point of order and the business was brought on with the reading of the accounts, all of which were passed, with the exception of the one from Mr. Spence for repairing furnaces, $25.45. In relation to the account, Mr. Spence stated that the work had been performed according to contract, and as it had been stated that the work had been performed according to contract, and as it had been passed by the contractor it was taken off his hands. The unanimous opinion of the meeting was that Mr. Spence was putting in the repairs to redeem the guarantee he made to the Board that the furnaces would work satisfactorily. AN EPOCH OF CRIME.

It will be remembered that during the administration of Mr. Mackenzie a number of crimes were committed in the country which greatly aroused the ire of the Tory The number of murders during one or two years was unusually large, though not larger in proportion to the population of the country than had happened at intervals in former periods. It was the fact also, as was shown by the official records, that the number upon whom capital punishment was inflicted was quite as large in proportion to the number of sentences as at any former period. But this did not prevent Tory politicians and Tory journals from openly arging the Government with responsibility for the epoch of crime, nor yet from brutally accusing the Minister of Justice with favoritism or worse ably Asiatic boatmen who were driven by because he saw fit in a few storms far out to sea and finally landed in cases to commute the capital sentence to imprisonment for life. No one is likely to bring the latter accusation against the present Minister of Justice, for if he errs at all it is on the other side. But if the Tories of fifteen years ago were right in holding that the frequent murders of that time were a consequence of Liberal ad-ministration, what have they to say of the carnival of crime through which the country has passed during the last ten years? Beginning with the Biddulph tragedy down to the present day, murder has followed murder in terrible succession, and perhaps in no former period of our country's history have so large a num. ber of murderers escaped arrest and punish-ment. Is this because of Tory administration? Perhaps the Free Press can tell. It was one of the brutally frank journals when Mr. Blake was Minister of Justica

Rent has increased from 100 to 150 per cent. for Europeans and 100 per cent. for Chinese, servants' wages 10 to 15 per cent., and cost of medical attendance 100 per cent., while imported articles have risen in proportion to the fall in exchange. This decreasing purchasing power of the dollar is severely felt especially by those who have families to maintain or educate at home. It is therefore proposed by the commission that official salaries generally should be raised to an amount in current dollars equal to their original sterling value, taking the dollar at 4s 2d, and that non-European officials should receive an advance of 20 per cent. Wide awake men and women are looking for them. She who refuses the aid of PEARLINE is behind the times—far behind. She might as well reject the comfort and aid of the steam car-sewing machine-telegraph-electric light, etc., because she does not believe in them. Millions appreciate Pearline, and have for years. Millions more will appreciate it-you will-why not begin at once to use it. Its prodigious popularity proves its merit-you have everything to gain, nothing to lose, therefore try it.

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—they are not, and besides are dangerous. PEARLINE is never peddled, but sold by all good grocers.

THE INTERNATIONAL OUTLOOK.

Manager Fessenden has returned from Buffalo, where he has been looking around with a view of locating an International club. He has been offered the option of club. He has been offered the option of the Buffalo grounds from the proprietor, who is very favorable to coming to terms. Buffalo seems strongly in favor of an International club, and it is probable that that city will be in the league this season. The International outlook, in spite of the unreliable conduct of betroit, is improving.

unreliable conduct of Detroit, is improving.

OPINIONS DIFFER.

The Buflalo Courier and Express don't agree as to the chances of Buflalo being in the International this year. The Courier says: It leaked out yesterday that several of the leading lights in the International Association were looking over the grounds of the Buffalo Baseball League preparatory to engaging the same, should it be decided to establish an International team in Buffalo. The International people are much pleased to establish an International team in Buffalo. The International people are much pleased with the grounds, and from their talk it is to be concluded that Buffalo will have a minor league team this season. The Buffalo League's grounds will be engaged in case this is done. This will not interfere, however, with the regular games of the Buffalo League, as their games are played on Sundays.

Mr. Fisher supported his amendment in a speech showing a keen, sympathetic, practical knowledge of the position of the farmers of Causda. Mr. Fisher showed that the farmers were one-half of the population, more than twice as numerous as the industrial class, six times the commercial class, and more than thirteen times the professional class. He showed that the agricultural exports were nearly one-half of the total exports were nearly one-half of the total exports of the country, that the farmers made the home market and were the great body of consumers. He showed that while the total exports of agricultural products amounted to $37,000,000, the exports of animals and their products were $23,000,000. Last year we exported to England 60,000 head of fat cattle at $90 a head and exported to the United States 37,000 head of store cattle at only $13 a head. If the product had been finished at home a much higher figure would have been realized, and cheap corn was an essential to the fattening of cattle for export. He gave many other striking views of the question to prove that there was large advantage to the farmers of Canada in the feeding of fat cattle, that all taxes on the industry should be removed and the cost of production reduced to the lowest possible figure.

Mr. Pope for the Government claimed that the farmers of Canada were as prosperous as their brethren of the United States, and therefore that protection has done no more for the farmers of the republic than it has done for the farmers of the Dominion.

Several days ago her husband was fined by the Mayor's contr. At 10 o'clock yesterday she called at that office and gave him a terrible tongue-lashing. He ordered Policenan Robertson to arrest her and she knocked the policeman flat with a blow on the nose. City Attorney Hall entered and attempted to restrain the woman, but she also floored him. The Mayor then took a hand in the game, and she also knocked him down. Then she waded in and actually thrashed all three of them and drove them from the court room. In her rage she nearly stripped herself of clothing. The men are badly disfigured about the face. The "Twelve Temptations."

This show will be here Monday and Tuesday evenings. The company numbers 70 persons, and there are several well-known names in the cast. The scenery comprises sixteen sets, and a moving panorama 400 feet long, the work of Chas. S. Getz, Harley Merry and H. L. Reid, artists whose brushes have been identified with notable scenic productions. The European ballet troupe of 24 dancers, and led by the renowned Bonfanti, and assisted by Mile. Eloise and Victor Chado, are said to compose several novelties. The Policeman and the Flirts, a pretty conceit danced by eighteen coryphess; the Ballet of the Nations, each girl representing a mation, and the Ballet of the Cockatoos, in which some twenty live birds are introduced, is claimed to be the most refreshing innovation witnessed in years. Crowded houses are looked for.

The Hyers Comedy Company.

The Hyers Comedy Company.

One of the most enjoyable entertainments presented this season was that given last night by the Hyers Celored Musical Comedy Company. The troupe gives a capital programme of songs and dances, with bright bits of comedy thrown in. May C. Hyers is the gem of the troupe, and has a rich contralto voice, with that peculiarly sweet timbre so characteristic of the South. All the members of the company are of a high order, and the entire combination is above the average. The performance is a fine mixture of music and merriment, and every point in the programme was loudly applauded. This afternoon and evening will again see the company at the Grand, and they deserve a crowded house on both occasions. The programme of last night was as under, and will be changed at each performance:

"Dear Paul,—I have to tell you in the next few lines what I fear, you may, perhaps, consider bad news, but as your letters have not been very ardent of late I don't think you will take it very seriously to heart. It occurred nearly two months ago, but I kept it back from you, because I was afraid that, perhaps, it might interfere with the success of your picture. From the contents of your last letter, however, I believe that it will have been finished sometime before this reaches you, and I sincerely hope that, in the success it will bring you will be able to forget this disappointment."

Notwithstanding the combined efforts of jealous rivals to put as under, we are out on top as usual. Look at the record for 1889. Policies issued for nearly $3.503,000. Not had for a young company, you will say. True, it took some of the old fogies 10 years to write up the same amount. Why, we declined more applications last year than some of the other companies wrote up altogether. How do we account for it, you say. Well, we have plans to suit everybody. Our premium rates are as low as any other company. Our policy is the most liberal, being nearly unconditional; almost a simple promise to pay at death or maturity, as the case may be. The policy-holders are entirely free from all liability; but are, never the less, allowed to participate in the control of the Company's affairs and to monopolize nine-tenths (9-10) of the profits of the business. Each policy-holder has one vote for every $1,000 of insurance held by him in this Company. These privileges are secured by the act of incorporation. All competent judges of a good cigar are unanimous in pronouncing the "Norma" one of the finest 10-cent cigars made in Canada. This cigar has all the delicate flavor of an imported cigar, without any of its attendant sculis. The cigar is the product of H. McKay & Co., of this city, who invariably use the best tobacco leaf, most carefully prepared. The result of this strict attention to quality of raw material is that the "Norma" stands to the front of all 10-cent cigars, and although there is a prevailing idea that a cigar manufactured at home cannot be equal to an imported article, this prejudice is being rapidly overcome by the growing popularity of the "Norma." NATURE'S GIFTS. We fail to praise the noiseless ministry of the great inanimate world around us only because its kindness is unobtrusive, says Henry Drummond. Nature is always noisewill don't know yet—ah—is that a goat or a cactus off there in the field?"

HEADING OFF THE SERVANT GIRL.
—Sumway—Here's an interesting article on shot-proof steel plates. Shall I read it to you, dear?

Secure its kindness is unobtrusive, says Henry Drummond. Nature is always noiseless. All her greatest gifts are given in secret. And we forget how truly every good and perfect gift comes from without, and from above, because no pause in her changeless beneficence teaches us the sad lessons of deprivation.

IN GOD'S KEEPING. It is easier to read history than it is to prophesy. We can see, as we look back, that what we thought was a sad thing for us at the time it happened was really an occurrence for which we have now reason to be exceedingly thankful. But we cannot forsee, as we look forward, how this new trial of ours is going to be looked back upon by us as another cause of thankfulness. The future is in God's keeping. So was the CHRIST THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD. Christ is to the material world what the Christ is to the material world what the sun is to the natural; and wherever the Gospel has been published, and received as a communication from God, the darkness has fled as night flies before the day; and we know that wherever the revelation made through Christ has been dispersed, wherever it has vouchsafed its cheering rays, the clouds of ignorance, and superstition, and irreligion have vanished, and holiness, purity and morality have illuminated the horizon. It has done more: it has hung THE MODERN NIGHTCAP.

How seldom do we look upon a duty as an unpaid debt! Duty is something that we ought to do. Primarily the word "ought" is nothing else than the past tense of "owe." So, if our words mean anything, the mean that what we ought, we owe. Many a one lightly admits that he ought do a thing, when he would be disturbed to find himself a debtor complacently viewing his unpaid creditors. We think too often of duty as something affecting only ourselves. The praise of its doing, the blame of its not doing, are ours, and there we rest it as our business. But, viewed in the light of a debt—of that which we ought (or owe)—its neglect is the defrauding of any other, or others, of a just claim. And no one is so likely to be defrauded as God, because to him we owe all things. Is not he who refuses to do what he admits that he ought, condemned, by his own words, as a moral defaulter?

Surely, among all the prayers that go up to God, none are dearer and more prevailing than the intercessions of parents for their children.—They are the hallowed breathings of the purest, tenderest love. 1. P to Q 4. 2. K Kt to B 3:

THE GREAT PHYSICIAN.

LESSON X, FIRST QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 9.

Text of the Lesson, Luke iv, 33, 44-Con mit Verses 38, 39-Golden Text, Matt. viii, 16-Commentary by the Rev. D. M.

[Compiled from Lesson Helper Quarterly by permission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadelphia.]
33. "And in the swan mission of H. S. Hoffman, publisher, Philadelphia.]

33. "And in the synagogue there was a man, which had a spirit of an unclean devil, and cried out with a loud voice," After being rejected by His own townsmen of Nazareth, He came to Capernaum and taught in the synagogue on the Sabbath days. The first part of our lesson is the record of an incident that occurred while He was thus teaching one day. Then, as now, all kinds of people went to church, some with one object, some another, and then, as now, Satan went also among them. As far as we can learn from the Skriptures there is but one devil properly so called, the leader of all wicked spirits, whose other names are Satan, the old serpent, the dragon, the god of this world, the prince of the power of the air, the father of lies, etc. (Rev. xx, 2; II Cor. iv, 4; Eph. of lies, etc. (Rev. xx, 2; II Cor. iv, 4; Eph. ii, 2; John vin, 44); but he seems to have asof less etc. (1887). The seems to have as sociated with him innumerable other wicked spirits, properly called demons, and so translated in the R. V. margin; and the great business of the devil and his demons is to enter into and possess and control people for their destruction. A man possessed by one of these demons was in the synagogue on this particular Sabbath day while Jesus was teaching

34. "Let us alone; what have we to do with Thee, Thou Jesus of Nazareth! Art Thou come to destroy us?" Thus the demon in the man cried out as Jesus was teaching.
"I know Thee who Thou art; the Holy One of God." On one occasion when certain men who knew not Jesus tried to cast out demons, the demons cried out: "Jesus I

And the man with the demons leaped on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded (Acts xix, 15, 16).
The devil and his angels do not know Jesus for their good in any way, but they know Him as the Son of God, the Holy One, the (Nries and they feer Him and they know and

Him as the Son of God, the Holy One, the Christ, and they fear Him, and they know and fear those who are truly His, as Paul was.

35. "And Jesus rebuised him, saying: Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And * * * he came out of him, and hurt him not." He addressed the domon in the man, and His word compelled the evil spirit to leave the man, and he was healed. "He cast out the spirits with His word! (Matt. viii. 16). out the spirits with His word" (Matt. viii, 16). There is no doubt that the devil and his angels possess people today, and through them say and do the fearful things of which we hear and read and which we see with our own eyes.

86. "What a word is this! for with au-30. "What a word is this! for with authority and power He commanded the unclean spirits, and they come out." The last verse of the last lesson (vs. 32) says that "His word was with power;" the source of the power is given us in Acts x, 33, where we are told that "God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power; who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil, for God was with Him." We have His word, we have His spirit, God is with us. And if we were only willing to be filled with the Holy Spirit, wo would not only be ourselves delivered from all unclean spirits, but we would be blessed in leading others to the Great Deliverer.

37. "And the fame of Him went out into every place of the country round about."

every place of the country round about."
His name is as ointment poured forth.
SS. "And He arose out of the synagogue, and entered into Simon's house.

39. "He stood over her, and rebuked the fever, and it left her; and immediately she arose and ministered unto them." A little before He had rebuked the unclean spirit, and now he rebukes the burning in this woman's body, and as quickly as the spirit fled from the man, so this great fever flees before the same Almighty Word, and the woman is instantly well; so well that she is able to minister unto them, and she does it at once.

40. "And He laid His hands on every one of them and healed them." Tidings from the synagogue and from Simon's home soon stread through the city, and people sick with now he rebukes the burning in this woman's spread through the city, and people sick with spread through the city, and people sick with all kinds of diseases are brought unto Him, every one of whom is sent away healed.

41. "And devils came out of many, and He, rebuking them, suffered them not to speak, for they knew that He was Christ." How many happy homes there were in well who had long been sick and had suffered weil who had long been sick and had subtreed much; people now about on the streets and at their work who had not been seen there for many a day; people now meek and gentle to whom you could not speak before with-out being insulted; and all because Jesus had come. His word and His hand did it all, and He still lives and is accessible to all, who come. His word and His hand did it all, and He still lives, and is accessible to all who truly seek Him.

42. "And when it was day, He departed, and went into a desert place." Mark says that He rose a great while before day and went away to pray (Mark i, 35). How unlike a so-called minister's Monday. What hungering for communion with His Father, what abstraction from the things of earth! But this is the secret of power. A hold upon God, a clinging to God, a waiting upon Him alone, a whole hearted reliance upon Him, a living in His sight, a witnessing unto Him that He may be glorified, a studying to show ourselves approved unto Him, seeing no one but Jesus only. This is for us the way of power.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Of the new Board of Aldermen of New York ten are liquor-sellers.

There is not a ship in the British navy without a temperance society.

The annual drink bill of London, Eng., is estimated at about £20,000,000. Milwaukee issues 1,317 saloon licenses and receives therefore the sum of $252, 050 30. The City Council of Frankfort, Ky., has passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of cigarettes. Mr. Matthew Burnett, who is now in Britain for a year's rest, has given 261 years to temperance work in Australia, during which period he has been instrumental in leading 177,500 to take the pledge and 150,000 to don the blue ribbon.

In many places in the United States is was the custom to have postoffices in saloons. Since the new postmaster-general the Hon. John Wanamaker, took office al this has been changed. He says there shall be no more saloon-keepers in postoflices, and no more postoflices in saloons.

The Glasgow Reformer says: "At a recent meeting of the Altrincham Board of Guardians, it was reported that in consequence of the doctor prescribing cod liver oil instead of intoxicants, the deaths had been so much reduced that the undertaker refused to make coffins at the current contract rate.

It was not Solomon, nor Benjamin Rush nor Charles Jewett, but Shakespeare, who said: "O, that men should put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains!" Nor Lyman Beecher, nor Theodore L. Cuyler, nor Neal Dow in the excitement of public speech, but Shakespeare, pen. in hand, who wrote: "Oh, thou invisible spirit of wine, if thou hast no name to be known by, let us call thee DEVIL!"

Rev. W. F. Burgess says it is a sad fact that the four Protestant nations most interested in missions—viz., Germany, Holland, Great Britain and the United States of America—are also most closely identified by the liquor traffic with those same countries they are trying to evangelize. Christian America has been sending liquor to other countries at the rate of 6,000,000 gallons per year, including 807,000 gallons to Africa. For every missionary sent to Africa, America is sending 100,000 gallons of Boston rum. For every 100 souls converted to God by American missionaries, 1,000 is ruined by American rum. interested in missions-viz., Germany, Mr. Joseph Thomas, the African explorer, has once more expressed with char acteristic fearlessness his views upon the results of European intercourse with the African race, which he unhesitatingly declares, instead of being a blessing, has been little better than an unmitigated curse. At a meeting recently held at Edinburgh, he said: "To the slave and gin trades, and that in gunroweder and guns must be ascribed said: "To the slave and gin trades, and that in gun-powder and guns, must be ascribed the frightful evils they had brought upon the negro race, besides which the good they had tried to achieve was hardly discernible." The "legitimate commerce" that was to benefit the negro consisted to an enormous extent of vile spirits and weapons of destruction, and the gin traffic had received only a more powerful impetus from the stoppage of the slave trade. Referring to the German occupation of certain territories, he said it was almost certain that as soon as they had pacified the natives by means of copious bloodletting, they would continue their work of civilization by the introduction of the gin civilization by the introduction of the gin traffic, which the late Mohammedan ruler prohibited. Mr. Thompson spoke in sympathetic terms of the labors of the African missionaries, but pointedly asked: "What was a missionary here and there compared with the thousand agents of compared with the thousand agents of compared with which uniting and unscriptules."

most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Aver's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure."—Mrs. L. L. Brown, Demmark, Miss.

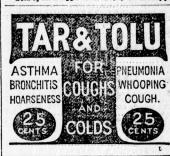

"A few years ago I took a severe cold."

-Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my langs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

THE HANDY HANDBAG. On the anniversary of your natal day some one gives you a handbag. You never have carried one, and you always thought that you never would. It is a weak, feminine failing, this being always tied to a bag. Still, since this one has been given to you, you think you will try it; it will hold your hand-terabled only rocked does got out of the think you will try it; it will hold your hand-kerchief—one's pocket does get out of the way sometimes; and it is a good thing to have one's handkerchief promptly available. Then the bag becomes handy for car fare. It is embarrassing to poke and pry and struggle and exclaim over trying to get at one's purse, usually stranded, like McGinty, in the bottom of the hole your dressmaker calls a pocket, Besides, change is a bother in a pocketbook. It is easier just to make a practice of dropping small money loose in the handbag, so that you will have it handy and can generally be sure of finding a stray five cent piece or a penny there.

Presently the advantages of the bag for holding an extra handkerchief and "another

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer exerciciting agony after partaking of a hearry dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the atomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonder ful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

The few yards of ruching they you can really take without inconvenience to yourself by just dropping it into the bag; likewise the little book you would not have bought except that your bag is "so handy for small things" and really holds so much without getting full. Do you know that women with very small hands have the advantage in the glove market? There is always an overplus and they are sold cheap. A woman who can wear this number and can tell a good glove when she sees it—not a difficult thing to do if you have an eye for it—can always be well gloved almost for nothing. One is the Allyn homestead, at Allyn's Point, on the Thames river, and the other the Rodman Niles mansion, which is situated far back from the banks of the river in the heart of the town. Both houses figure in the history of the Union, and are in a good state of preservation. A correspondent at New London writes of the Allyn homestead that its exact age is not known. It is said to have been built by Robert Allyn or by one of his sons. A Girl's Presence of Mind.

A whole village was thrown into excitement not long ago by an ignorant, uncontrolled young mother, who ran screaming into the street, "Jack is bleeding to death!

His father was try-ing to plaster up the wound in his arm, when a young girl of sixteen, from the high school, came rushing in. She snatched a pil-low case off the bed, cut it into strips and bound them tightly above and below the wound

The doctor came soon, and simply said "My dear, you have saved the boy's life.
Your knowledge of physiology was as good as mine, in this case!"—Home Magazine.

"Help! help!" the girl cried, showing for the first time any fright.

It was no pale and poetic young man who responded, but a burly park policeman, who said as he seized the now squatted horse by the rein: "Get off, miss. Why don't you get off?"

She seemed strongly fixed in the saddle, and even when she and the horse both lay flat she was inseparable from her seat.

"Are you glued fast?" the officer asked, as he tugged at her arms.

"No—not glued," she gasped, "only buttoned on."

And intered to the girl cried, showing for the may be girls in our stores who are impatient of home discipline and anxious to see the world for themselves, but the bulk of the daughters of clergymen, doctors, professional men, etc., who seek to find some means of livelihood in the world's hard highway, do it simply because they are compelled.

A Paradise for Women.

A woman with an aim can do anything she pleases in Boston, if the aim sufficiently dominates her life. She may enter any occupation she chooses, work in any lines she likes, and be certain, not only of the approbation of individuals, but of that of the community in which she lives. Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to be prefetly harmless to the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no optum in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. For Croup and Whooping Cough it is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 25-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Priced COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.

Oh, how they try to cover the wrinkles and hide the ravages of time! When Time, with iron shod feet, steps on a face the hoof marks remain and you cannot hide them. It is silly to try to hide them. I think the most repulsive fool in all the world is an old fool!

I never could understand why a woman No one will deny that the education of women has increased and grown enormously during the last few years. A different standard of perfection has been raised, and, above all, strange and new requirements have been added to the old code. Woman is still to retain her charms; all that art can do in dress, grace and refinement, and seduction of manner are as keenly appreciated as ever. But, besides these light and airy graces of the old school, it is now felt that the more grave and serious parts of education must not be found wanting in a woman.

think the most repulsive fool in all the world is an old fool!

I never could understand why a woman should be ashamed about getting old. It is a sign, it is prime facie evidence, that you have behaved tolerably well, or you would not have lived to this time. The grandest thing, I think, is eternity, and that is made up of countless years. When the Book of Books would set forth the attractiveness of Jesus Christ, it says: "His hair was as white as snow." But when the color goes from the check, and the huster from the eye, and the spring from the step, and the gracefulness from the gait, alas! for those who have built their time and eternity upon good looks. But all the passage of years cannot take out of one's face benignity and kindness, and compassion, and faith. Culture your heart and you culture your face.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage in Ladies' Home Journal.

The body should be balanced exactly in the middle of the saddle and far enough back to grasp the second pommel with the right knee comfortably while the left one is just spanned by the third pommel or leaning horn.

when she took the captain's heart by storm some thirty years ago by singing a few popular airs of the day); and as to her water colors, they must be better than her aunt's roses entwined with auriculas, which were considered such works of art at that time. It she is to exercise artistic faculties, it is only powers of the first order that her acquaintance will greet with favor. The old world indulgence with which elderly people of a former generation hailed the very medicore attempts of their young friends to amuse them after dinner by a solo or duet, partly in but often mostly out of tune, that kindly feeling of acceptance is as much an emotion of the past as the pyramids or armor of the middle ages are relics of past civilizations. In old days people laid to heart the old saying, "You must not look a gift horse in the mouth," and there was a general feeling prevalent that what you did not pay for The rider is now sitting upon that part of the animal which is the center of motion; the animal which is the center of motion; the head erect, turning easily without involving the body; eyes looking over the horse's head in the direction he is going; shoulders well thrown back so as to expand the chest, taking care to keep them in line and not to raise one higher than the other; the small of the back slightly bent forward, upper part of the arms hanging straight down from the shoulders and held loosely, but close to the sides; the forearm straight out from the elbows; wrists rounded inward and on a level with the elbows, each hand holding a rein, fingers closed, knuckles to the front, thumbs extended on the ends of the reins and pointed across the body, hands held five or six inches apart, according to the width of the horse's you had no right to criticise.

Beyond all this it is now found indispensable that every woman should take a part in charitable and even in political organizations. To obtain proficiency in these objects it is requisite that she should acquire business like habits, and be able to write, and even to speak, in public, if not brilliantly, at least with fluency and to the point. Added to these new tests of educaton, a woman is still expected to be a good linguist. It is thought absolutely necessary that she should be able to read and to express herself with ease in peveral languages. across the body, hands held five or six inches apart, according to the width of the horse's neck in front of the body.

From the knee to the foot the right leg must be held close to the fore flap of the saddle, the heel raised and inclined backward a little. The right side of the upper part of the right leg, from the knee to the left joint, should be turned to its outer side and held close to the saddle, and the inside of the upper part of the left leg should be in contact with the saddle. The left knee should be placed just below the third pommel, and the low part of the leg should hang straight down from the knee and close to the side of the flap of the saddle, the upper part of the legs only to leave the saddle at the rising trot.

It does not excite astonishment that a man public school, and then at one of the universities, nominally learning Latin and Greek, and at the end of what he is pleased to call sis education be guiltless of being able to translate a stanza of Horace or a line of Homer intelligibly. On the other hand, it would be considered extraordinary that a woman in society, who had traveled in France, or who had had the advantage of a French governess as a child, should not be able to express herself in French, with ease, talk if necessary to a French attache at a London dinner party, or write correctly to her modiste in Paris. Added to all this the athletic developments of a woman's education must not be forgotten to be mentioned here. The same critical aculty is brought to bear upon her ability as a lawn remis and a cricket player; and it she does not shoot, at least she a little lower and pointed toward the shoul-ders of the horse. The body should be pliant and accompany the movement of the horse.— W. A. McGibbon in New York Herald.

When Your Photograph Is Taken. Don't wear a silk frock. Nothing comes out so badly as the gloss of satin or glimmer man, when shwalks over miles of heather, or through fields of turnips.

To all thes graces, accomplishments and physical exertises are added her old duties of a wife, mother, housekeeper and hostess. A larger capacit and a broader understanding are demanded an all sides for women. Even the type of a woman's woman is changing. A figurehead of inane incapacity, of very mediocre menal attainments, veneered by refinement of namer, and clothed in French millinery, is milonger an ideal to women; while men are 10 more contented to find in out so badly as the gloss of satin or glimmer of silk. Instead, choose wool or velvet. If you are young, wear a white gown. Remember that gray takes white, and yellow or tan becomes black, so that with your white gown you must have white gloves. Lace always comes out very well and furs are artistic. Do not fix your hair in an elaborate way, and remember that you are posing as a lady and not as an actress. Wards That Try Men's Souls.

The Perfect Home.

That woman who, as wife and mother, thinks her life narrow compared to that of some friend who has chosen as her field of work the lecture platform or one of the pro-fessions, may see grand possibilities in the following sketch of a perfect home by the late Helen Hunt Jackson:

The most perfect home I ever saw was a little house into the sweet incense of whose fires went no costly things. A thousand collars served as a verify living for father

"No, I won't."

"And you'll look after Dicky and cover his cage cold nights?"

"Oh, yes; of course. There's the train. Good-by, dear-remember about locking the basement door at night. Don't trust it to Bridget."

"No—good-by, dear; write every day and—oh, don't forget to turn off the water at night if the should turn real cold."

"No, no; I'll not forget. Good-by."

"Can a woman shoot as well as a man?" said Mr. F. P. Conlin, a New York expert.
"I've taught a good many women to shoot, and, first and last, they shoot quite as well as the average of men who do no more practicing than they. Of course they don't begin to count the faury targets of the creek shoots. equal the fancy targets of the crack shooters. But there are few men who can do that. It takes long and constant practice to become able, for instance, to split cards, hit the bull's eye with six successive shots, or knock out, one after another, the spots on a playing card."

They will come to disappointment and to a great fret. There are so many different opinions about what are personal charms, and then along the same among men ever attempt."—Chicago Times.

What a Lady Does Not Do.

There are several things always absent in a true lady which girls will do well to notice and remember.

Complain of her family or discuss personal affairs with strangers.

Always believe the worst rather than the best side of a story.

A lady does not do any other than make the best of everything—the world, the weather and herself. She believes in the golden rule and endeavors as far as possible to live up to it; and that's what you and I ought to promise every morning that we will try and do during the day.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Her Caller Knew What to Expect.

It is the fashlon of some women to keep visitors waiting an unconscionable time for absolutely no reason at all but to satisfy a caprice or fad of theirs. Heaven knows where they got the idea, but some of the dear creatures imagine that it is a canon of high bred etiquette to let a caller cool his or her heels in the parlor for half an hour or so after the servant brings up the card. This impertinence is most often offered by women to women.

to women.

A superb young woman, who had high birth and plenty of money, saucily told a girl in her set recently that she always kept callers waiting twenty minutes before she appeared. The girl who received this valuable piece of news called upon the golden calf a few days afterward. She sent up her card and the footman returned with the message that Miss.— would be down in a few minutes. and the footman returned with the message that Miss — would be down in a few minutes. The caller took out her watch, and when seven minutes had expired wrote upon one of her cards: "I have been gone just thirteen minutes."

Leaving this card on the table, the young lady took her departure.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Miss Juch's Hobby.

Emma Juch's hobby is crystal. Every successful tour of her opera company adds to the treasures of her dining room. This dining room is furnished to make the crystal more beautiful. Its yellow floor and blue and terra cotta rugs and walls, its polished oak furniture do but bring out the brilliancy and the sparkle of the cabinet which is its chief ornament. This crystal cabinet is like a cave of diamonds, with its shelves of a cave of diamonds, with its shelves of a cave or diamonds, with its shelves of quaintly fashioned jugs and bottles and cups and bowls and pieces of every use, with those which are clearly decorative. There are old French candlesticks and cut glass trays and French vases with handles in brass, and old barrel bottles and lamps and wine glasses with armorial tablets in gilt, and German classes of the Seventeenth century and Vaglasses of the Seventeenth century, and Venetian glasses and Dutch glasses and old Mexican glasses and butten glasses and old Mex-ican glasses and glass plaques with figures and shields in color, and curious things and rare things almost without end. Miss Juch never travels that she has not an eye to the bric-a-brac stores for something odd or pre-cious in crystal.—Exchange.

A business woman, whose face is about as well known as any in town, but who always seeks to avoid public recognition, was snugly ensconced behind her evening paper and quietly perusing it. The idea that women's watches on a brace-let of leather is something new, as stated by a New York paper the other day, struck me as being funny. We have had them for two years. I confess that I think it is a good idea. Any idea which will make a woman werr a weigh where she will pay it swomen attention is watch where she will pay it some attention is watch where she will pay it some attention is a good one. The majority of women do not know how to treat a watch. They put it in their dresses so the chains will show, and they seem to think that will regulate their time-pieces. They forget half the time to wind their watches, and then wonder why they don't keep the correct time. A fortune awaits the milling who will make a place in a wothe milliner who will make a place in a wo-man's dress where a watch can be carried so that when it is taken out the idea will occur to the wearer to give it proper attention.— Chicago Tribune.

London Ladies in the Pantomime.

The five society ladies who do the pretty dance atween scenes in "Cinderella," in London, are swells of the first water. "The five swagger ladies," they are called here. Consumed with vanity, the prepossessing paranoiacs paid £100 each for the privilege of participating in the pantomime. The muslins, the laces and the diamonds they wear are marvels of beauty. Of course they are highly popular with the rest of the company, for the reason that they disburse their wealth lavishly. While the piece was in rehearsal these silly women provided elegant luncheons for their associates every day, and there was champagne by the case after each night's performance. One of these curious paranoias has an annuity of £30,000!—Chicago News. London Ladies in the Pantomime.

Young women are often led to depend for he-glies upon personal charms. Do not be beguiled into such a belief. Beauty is such a subtle thing, it does not seem to depend upon facial proportions, or upon the sparkle of the sys. or upon the sparkle of the sys. or upon the sparkle of the check. You

Caste and Starvation in India.

The collector of Ganjam, the famine stricken district in India, in a recent report, summarized by The London Times, states that the caste difficulty has been constantly recurring in regard to the relief kitchens. At Surada Panos children were found starving, the parents refusing to take them to the kitchen, while Bouris, who were formerly brought there, deserted when they got the opportunity. He thinks the legislature must step in and make it a punishable offense for parents to allow their children to starve when food is to be had with every regard to caste prejudices at the government kitchens. As and remember.

A lady, for example, will never ignore little kindnesses.

Conclude the acrowd that she has a right to push her way through.

Consume the time of people who can ill the kindnesses.

Consume the time of people who can ill the kitchens, and this is not always successions.

Consume the time of people who can ill spare it.

Wear on the street a dress only fitted to the house or carriage.

Talk loudly in public places.

Wear a torn glove when a needle and thread and a few stitches would make it all right.

Fail in answering letters or returning visits, unless she is ill or in trouble.

Fret about the heat or the cold, the sun or the rain, the air or the lack of it.

Make an engagement and then not be on time.

Complain of her family or discuss personal affairs with strangers.

Always believe the worst rather than the best side of a story.

A lady does not do any other than make over. When some inhuman parent has suf-fered the extreme penalty of the law for killing his child by starvation, in lieu of taking him to the kitchen, we shall hear no more of the so termed caste objections on the part of the Bouris, Panos, Dandasis, and so on."—New York Times.

Pocket Lamps for Traveling.

Pocket Lamps for Traveling.

While riding in a railroad car trying to read a newspaper by the uncertain light of the lamp which was suspended at a tantalizing distance from my eyes, says Taverner in The Boston Post, a friend who sat next to me said: "Taverner, old fellow, don't spoil those critical optics of yours by using that wretched apology for a lamp, but suit yourself with this." He whipped a little tabe out of his pocket which he fastened to my buttonhole, and before I could see what he was driving at, a bright light illuminated the newspaper which had been blurred by the devious rays from the railroad lamp. "That's electricity," added my friend, with seemingnewspaper which had been blurred by the devious rays from the railroad lamp. "That's electricity," added my friend, with seemingly superfluous frankness, and he then went on to show how the apparatus worked. It had a storage battery for the motive power and a reflector to concentrate the light, and the entire weight of the lamp was only one and a half pounds. I found the electric light somewhat glaring at first, the reflection from the newspaper dazzling my eyes, and the shadows cast giving a sort of dark lantern gloom to outlying objects. But this effect son wore off, and by adjusting the paper to the light it was easy for me to read without experiencing any inconvenience. experiencing any inconvenience.

Use of Chloroforn

A commission of experts of the highest stand-ing, employed by the nizam of Hyderabad to investigate the use of chloroform as an annesthetic, has just made a report, in which it declares that the danger from the chloroform is not to the heart, as is generally supposed, but to the lungs. It says: "However concentrated the chloroform may be, it never causes sudden death from stoppage of the heart. Chloroform has no power of increasing the tendency to either shock or syncope during operations. The truth about the fatty heart seems to be that chloroform per sei no way endangers such a heart, but, on the contrary, by lowering the blood pressure, lessens the work that the heart has to perform, which is a positive advantage." The practical conclusions of the commission are that the safe administration of chloroform depends on careinvestigate the use of chloroform as an anæs sions of the commission are that the safe administration of chloroform depends on careful attention to the respiration. Care must be taken that it is not interfered with, and if by any accident it stops artificial respiration must be instantly begun. Color for Preserved Peas.

Color for Preserved Peas.

At the Liverpool police court lately, Mr. Kirkland Mole, fruiterer, 2! Tithebran street, was summoned for selling a bottle of green peas in which there were three grains of sulphate of copper. Dr. Hope, medical officer of health, stated that this was a very large amount of copper, and might prove injurious to the persons eating the peas. The defendant said he had received a guarantee from the wholesale dealer that the peas were good. There was a law in France some time ago which prevented a manufacturer of preserved peas putting more than a certain "Not so stout as you used to be, Mrs. A—"

A Head in a Case.

In the Holy Trinity church, in the Minorles, is preserved in a glass case beneath the pulpit a human head. The vicar, the Rev. Samuel Kinns, has recently issued a book containing details about this caput mortuum. It is supposed to be that of the Duke of Suffolk, father of Lady Jane Grey, who was beheaded in 1554, shortly after the execution of his daughter. There is a tradition that the executioner did not, as was usual in such cases, hold up the head of the duke to the people, but simply let it drop into the basket, the supposition being that he was bribed to bring it secretly to the church and place it in the vault where it was found by the Earl of Dartmouth. This story is doubted by a former vicar, who writes to say that it is more probable that "the head belongs to some unknown person of later times."—New York Sun.

Complexion Spoilers.

Did you ever realize what four four-fifths of Americans put into their mouths in shape of butter, and how much it has to do with of butter, and how much it has to do with spoiling the complexion? I never did till I went to England and sat at the best country house tables. I tell you there must be a difference between the complexion of one who is sent to school and fed on the pastry and biscuits and boiled rice and cheese, which are the staples of boarding school fare from Fifth evenue to the Hudson river seminaries, and an English nursery table, where every morsel is choice, the rolls and mutton and fruit of the best, and the butter sweet, creamy and delicate.—New York Letter.

MRS. HARRISON'S DAILY LIFE.

Mrs. Harrison and the ladies retire to the "living room" of the house, which is not a room at all. It is the north end of the main hall, on the second floor, separated from the office or public portion of the floor by a rather severe, not to say forbidding black walnut partition, half the height of the walls. Mrs. Harrison finds here her mail, which is attended to with promptness and regularity. So far as the work of answering letters can be delegated, it is given over to Mrs. Sanger, the stenographer. But a large portion of her mail Mrs. Harrison answers herself. Many of the letters can be answered by means of a form that has been composed for the purpose.

OLD DAN'S HUGE STORY.

HE EVIDENTLY BELIEVED IN TELL. ING A GOOD ONE WHILE AT IT.

His Experience in a Blinding Snow Storm. Abandoning a Dead Comrade, Horses and Wealth, and Never Returning Even for the Dust Left Behind.

"Old Dan" was an eccentric character. No one knew his true name. He would not divulge it to even his most intimate friends. His signature to whatever it chanced to be—note, bond, deed or letter—was invariably "Old Dan." Under that name he served one year as mining recorder of Red Cedar Mining district, and there are today filed within the archives of the secretary of the interior at Washington city abstracts and certificates bearing the signature "Old Dan." He was once a candidate for justice of the peace, but a young and rising lawyer defeated him on the ground that "Old Dan" was not his true name and therefore all his judicial acts would be void.

I first met him early in the seventies in Utah, at a lonely spring widely separated by miles of desert from any other habitation, where he was engaged in herding a few head of gentle cows. He indignantly repelled the appellation of "cowboy," and claimed, like Gurth, to be only a common "cowherd," not to Cedric, the Saxon, but to a Mormon bishop. I was in the mountains prospecting, my outfit consisting of two mules, one packed with grub, blankets and tools, and the other I rode. One hot afternoon in June I approached the spring where I found "Old Dan" reclining in the shade of his cabin. I asked of him the privilege of watering my "carivan" from the spring and resting a while in the shade before crossing to the opposite range. This was readily granted, and when I presented him with a long plug of soft smoking tobacco our friendship was cemented and "Old Dan" became very communicative.

In the course of our conversation I asked him if he had ever engaged in mining. "Yes," he replied, "once, in Coutani. Myself and partner, Joe, went into that camp when it was first discovered. less than five weeks we dug out 340 pounds of good, clean gold dust; but it did us no good. We could have taken out a great deal more, but winter was approaching, and as there was no grub in the camp we had to get out. So we put our gold dust into good, strong twenty pound sacks, and loading it on three cayuse horses, and having one each to ride, we struck out for Wallula.

"The second day out a fearful snow storm struck us. The wind blew at the rate of 1,000 miles a minute, and the snowflakes were as big as a bed spread. Soon all trace of the trail was obliterated, and we realized that we were lost and wandered aimlessly in the blinding storm. Joe's feet and limbs began to freeze, the horse on which we had the heaviest load of gold dust stepped between two fallen logs and broke a leg, and we made camp, shot the horse to relieve him of his suffering, and attempted to build a fire. But it was no use. It was impossible to start a fire in that whirling, twisting, driving snow, for nothing would burn. All that afternoon and night we huddled around the dead horse in the vain endeavor to keep warm with the scanty blankets we had. The next morning the storm broke away to some extent, but Joe's feet and legs were frozen as stiff and solid as icicles. I would have given half of our gold dust to have been in a place of safety. However, as there was no use to lament, we had to make the best of it and try and get out if we could. I got the horses together and packed them the best I could. I tied poor frozen Joe on to his saddle horse by means of strips or bands torn from our blankets. One hundred pounds of gold dust we had to leave, as our horses could not pack it through the deep snow. All day long we struggled and toiled in the blinding storm and drifting snow. As night approached the storm became more furious and violent than ever. I was in advance of the train; Joe was bringing up the rear.

"I called a halt in order to consult Joe what was best to do, and what do you think I discovered? Why. Joe was dead! As dead,

"I called a halt in order to consult Joe what was best to do, and what do you think I discovered! Why, Joe was dead! As dead, cold and stiff as a crowbar. A mass of solid frozen flesh and bones, frozen so hard and stiff that he still maintained the upright position on his horse in which I had placed and tied him in the morning. I lost no time in cutting Joe loose from his saddle, and laid his icy form by the roots of a tree. The snow by this time was coming down thicker and faster then gare. Our horses bunched themselves all this time was coming down thicker and faster than ever. Our horses bunched themselves all up together, and in less than an hour were completely buried in the snow, and I would have shared the same fate had I not tramped completely buried in the snow, and I would have shared the same fate had I not tramped the snow down and kept on top. All night long I kept up this constant tramp, tramp. I tell you, it was worse than tramping through Georgia. The next morning it cleared up, but the snow was forty feet deep. I realized that it would be impossible to get my horses out of that sea of snow, and I would be in big luck if I got myself out. So I dug down to where the horses were buried and succeeded in cutting open one of the sacks of gold dust and took out a few handfuls and put it in my shot pouch. I also got a small piece of bacon and some crackers. With these I started to find my way out. After two weeks of incessant toil and struggles I reached a small settlement more dead than alive. The people were good to me, and I soon recovered strength sufficient to travel, and I mades my way down to the seacoast, where I took a sailing vessel for 'Frisco, and from there came to Utah, where you now see me."

for 'Frisco, and from there came to Utah, where you now see me."

"Old Dan," having refilled his pipe, began to puff away. In answer to a question of mine he replied:

"No; I Lever went back to find our gold dust, or to see whether poor Joe had thawed out or not. I suppose it is all there yet, and some one will find it one of these days. No, I have not mined any since I left Coutan."

"Have you ever prospected any for silver ore in these mountains?" I again asked.

"Yes; once. Two years ago I went down into Death Valley to find the Breyfogle mine."

"Did you find it?"

"Yes, I found it, and a big thing it is. Why, sir, it crops out as high as this house into a bar of sort sead.

"Did you locate it?" I mildly inquired.
"No, sir; I did not locate it. I was not hunting for silver mines just at that time; it was water I wanted. I had been without water for eight days, and my tongue was prowater for eight days, and my foliatewas pro-truding from my mouth two feet or more. No, young man, gold will not bring warmth and food in a snow storm, nor will silver bring water in a desert. No more mining or prospecting for me."—San Francisco Call.
