PRIVY COUNCIL HEARS APPEAL OF THE ELECTRICAL DEVELOPMENT COMPANY

VALIDITY OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC LEGISLATION IS BEING ARGUED BEFORE THE PRIVY COUNCIL

Appeal of Electrical Development Company of Ontario Is Being Heard—Lord Haldane Declares Real Point To Be Decided Is Whether or Not the Appellants Have a Right to Action.

London, March 20.—The Privy Council today heard the appeal of the Electrical Development Company of Ontario to determine whether certain acts of the Provincial Legislature were ultra vires.

Sir John Simon explained the business of the appellants in generating electrical energy by water at Niagara. The respondent, the hydro-electric commission, he argued, in effect, purchased electric power and distributed to various municipalities, becoming a department of the executive Government of Ontario. The power commission act provided that no action should be brought against the commission without the attorney-general's consent. When the Niagara development act was passed in 1916, which purported to authorize the hydro-electric commission to commence work for diverting water from the Niagara and Welland Rivers, the appellants were advised that certain provisions in the act were likely to affect their undertakings, and decided to test by legal action the validity of the powers given the respondents. They applied for the attorney-general's consent, which was refused. The appellants then took out a summons against the respondent, asking for a declaration on their rights, but this action was stayed.

The present appeal was lodged in order that the statutory validity of the acts might be determined.

Lord Haldane's Question.

Lord Haldane inquired if what appellants really were seeking was not a declaration that nothing should interfere with their license to take water.

Sir John Simon replied that the appellants' contention was that their rights could not be cut into by any subsequent grant made to the hydro-electric commission, and also contended that the question they desired to have decided could only properly be decided by trial in court.

The action should be allowed to proceed to trial when all matters affecting the propriety of condemning it could be determined. Counsel submitted that it was ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature to hinder resort to the courts where the jurisdiction of the province was questioned.

"The real point for us to decide is whether or not you have a right of action," said Lord Haldane. "We have nothing to do with the question of whether these provisions are ultra vires."

The arguments are proceeding.

HINDENBURG DECLARES EX-KAISER FLED NOT TO SAVE HIS OWN HIDE BUT TO HELP OUT FATHERLAND

Former German Emperor's Action Is Defended by the Field Marshal—Wilhelm Skipped Only After "a Severe Mental Struggle."

Berlin, March 20.—Aroused by recent criticisms of former Emperor William regarding his flight from Germany to Holland last fall, Field Marshal von Hindenburg has prepared and published here a defence of the ex-ruler's action. After depicting the situation as it existed in November, caused by the weakening of the army, the doubtful reliability of the forces in the field, and the breaking out of the revolution at home, the field marshal writes:

"The peaceful return home of the emperor then became impossible. It could only have been carried out through the forceful employment of loyal troops, and civil war would have been added to the hostilities with the enemy.

"The emperor could have gone himself to the fighting troops in order to meet death at their head in a last attack upon the enemy, but the armistice so keenly desired by the people would thereby have been postponed and the lives of many soldiers uselessly sacrificed. The emperor finally, in agreement with his advisers, and after a severe mental struggle, decided to leave the country, solely in the hope that he could thereby best serve the Fatherland, save Germany from further losses, distress and misery, and restore peace and order to her."

SIR GEORGE PERLEY TO RESIGN OVERSEAS POST, IS REPORT

High Commissioner Expected To Return To Canada Soon.

IN ENGLAND FOUR YEARS

Acted as Minister of Overseas Militia For One Year.

Ottawa, March 20.—Sir George H. Perley, according to a report in circulation here, will in the near future resign his present office and return to Canada to give his attention to his own private business affairs. Sir George went to England in June, 1914, when he was still a member of the Borden Government, and as acting high commissioner filled the position which had been left vacant by the death of Lord Strathcona. Sir George acted as minister of the overseas military forces from October, 1916, until October, 1917, when he was appointed high commissioner. He has thus served Canada in London during the whole period of the war.

STUDYING CONDITIONS FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHTS

Party of British Experts Reach St. Johns.

St. Johns, Nfld., March 20.—A party of airmen and meteorological experts from England have arrived here to conduct observations on air conditions in connection with plans for transatlantic flights. They expect to remain several months making a thorough study of wind currents and meteorological conditions generally throughout the spring and summer. Members of the party have been assigned to visit various parts of the island to fix upon the most suitable point from which to conduct observations.

SENTENCED TO DEATH

Montreal, March 20.—Julius Zazefsky was sentenced by Mr. Justice Desy in the court of king's bench to be hanged on July 11 next. Zazefsky was found guilty by the jury after fifteen minutes' deliberation, of having murdered a Polish compatriot, named Peter Dishkent, on the 16th of September, 1918. Dishkent's body was found in a pool of water in Verdun, near the waterworks.

"God knows that I did not kill him," was the comment of Zazefsky after the death sentence of his lordship had been translated to him by an interpreter.

BRITAIN TO BUILD ENORMOUS AIRSHIPS

London, March 20.—Following successful trials of the new British dirigibles of the rigid type of construction, the Government, according to the Mail, has ordered the building of two enormous airships.

Each will be 200 feet in length and will have a capacity of 3,000,000 cubic feet. They will be driven by six engines, which will generate a total of 18,000 horsepower, and, it is said, will have a lifting power of 80 tons, compared with 20 tons, the largest load carried by any known to be in existence.

TEXTILE MILLS AT LAWRENCE REOPEN

Houses of Operatives Who Refused To Quit Work Are Visited by Rioters.

Lawrence, Mass., March 20. — The textile mills were opened today under orderly conditions, after a night of terror in some of the mill workers' tenement districts. Raiding parties of men and women went from house to house stoning windows, tearing down blinds and rapping at doors with clubs. They were not identified or arrested.

All the houses were those of mill operatives who have continued at work. None of the occupants were injured, but women and children were frightened and spent the night sleeplessly dreading the return of the marauders.

The steamship Olympic, which left England on March 18, is carrying 9 officers and 323 other ranks for this district. When they arrive at Halifax they will be forwarded direct to this district.

UNIONISTS ARE IN MERRY ROW OVER TARIFF

Confusion Reigns in the Government Camp.

SOME WILL RESIGN?

Protectionist and Low Tariff Groups Hold a Heated Debate On Question.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, March 20.—The protectionist and low tariff champions of the Union Government went to the mat this morning on the fiscal question. At the conclusion of the bout, both sides were pretty groggy and highly confused. The finals of the bout will take place when Sir Thomas White has brought down his budget.

At present the situation in the Unionist camp is one of dire confusion. A visitor from Mars with a knowledge of constitutional government, should he suddenly arrive upon the scene and hearken to the contradictory views expressed from the Government's own side, would certainly exclaim, "What is this? Is it a government or a Bolshevik soviet??" Should he by some means have been enabled to listen to the caucus this morning, his confusion of mind would have been worse confounded.

If fact it is hard to see how it can go on and for how long. The extremists on both sides who spoke from the Government benches toward the close of the debate have precipitated things, and the issue is squarely joined. Col. John A. Currie has rallied the old Conservative protectionist group, which was in a fair way to disintegrate. J. A. Maharg has stiffened the back of the low tariff men, and the weary strings of telegrams still continues to come urging "no compromise."

End Must Come.

In fact, the end, one way or another, is near. If the government does not concede substantial reductions to the Western men there will be resignations and by-elections thereafter. If it does concede anything substantial, Col. John Currie, who now has a following of about fifteen, will have a much larger following than that.

CORP. ROBERT WATT FOUGHT HIS GUN IN SPITE OF WOUNDS

Refused To Quit When Shot Through Chest.

LONG IN HUN PRISONS

But Friends Say He Looks Well and Is Feeling Fit.

Among the London soldiers who returned to Canada on board the Celtic, and who are expected to reach the city at about 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, is Corp. Robert Watt, son of P. J. Watt, 49 Riverview avenue, who was a prisoner of war in Germany for nearly four years.

Corp. Watt went overseas with a Montreal battalion in the first contingent and was sent to rance as a machine-gunner with one of the first Canadian drafts to cross the English Channel in February, 1915.

Shot Through Chest.

At the battle of St. Julien he was shot through the chest and later captured by the Germans. His injury was a serious one, and for four months he was a patient in a school which had been transformed into an emergency hospital, but his wound soon healed and he was moved to first one and then another regular prison camps.

Looks Quite Well.

In spite of many hardships which he, in common with other prisoners of war, suffered in Germany, friends in England, who have written to his father, say that he is looking remarkably well. "He looks quite pre-war" is the expression used in one letter.

One of his old chums of the early days at the front, in describing to Corp. Watts' father the circumstances under which he became a prisoner, declares that but for the fact that all the officers who might have recommended him for decoration had been killed or wounded, his heroism would certainly have been recognized officially.

He Carried On.

This man says that fairly early in the battle of St. Julien, Corp. Watt was hit by a bullet, which pierced his chest. Notwithstanding the fact that he was obviously very seriously hurt, however, he fought his gun to the very end. He and his companions, although enormously outnumbered by the enemy, held on until practically every man had been either killed or wounded, and all the officers and most of the n. c. o.'s had become casualties. Even then, Corp. Watt refused to leave his gun, with which he continued to take terrible toll of the on-coming Hun hordes until he was actually surrounded and captured, took up their quarters at Patridge Inn, Augusta. A week later word reached Toronto that Mr. Hanna's health was improved, and the announcement of his death today came as a great surprise to his friends. It is believed that the death of his only son, Lieut. Neil Hanna, while flying in Italy last November hastened his end. Beside his widow, two daughters survive, Mrs. H. B. Spalding of Toronto, now in New York, and Miss Katherine Hanna, student at Bassar College, Poughkeepsie, New York. The body will be brought home to Sarnia for interment.

William John Hanna was born of Irish origin in Adelaide Township, Middlesex County, Ontario, in October, 1862. He was admitted to the bar in 1890, and became a King's counsel in 1908, and was early known as a very successful company or corporation lawyer. He unsuccessfully contested West Lambton, Ontario, for the House of Commons in 1900, but was elected to the Ontario Legislature, for the same constituency in 1902, and represented it in the local House till 1916, when he resigned his seat. He was provincial secretary from 1905 till 1916.

In 1916 Mr. Hanna was appointed food controller for the Dominion, which position he held for about a year.

ONE OUT OF EVERY 9 MARRIAGES IN U. S. ENDS IN DIVORCE COURTS

Washington, March 20.—Approximately one out of every nine marriages in the United States is terminated by divorce, according to figures compiled by the bureau of the census and made public today. Excluding South Carolina, where all laws permitting divorce were repealed in 1878, the three lowest divorce rates in 1918, which year returns are now complete, are shown for the district of Columbia, North Carolina and New York, where the rates were 13.31 and 32 per 100,000 respectively. The highest rates were returned for Nevada, Montana and Oregon, which show 607,323 and 225 respectively. In 31 per cent of the cases in 1916 divorce was granted to the husband, while the husband's rate in 1906 was 67 per cent.

Desertion is shown by figures to have been the cause for about 38 per cent of the divorces. Among other leading causes were cruelty, infidelity and failure to provide.

MILITIA DEPARTMENT PAYROLL IS TWELVE MILLIONS A MONTH

Ottawa, March 20.—The paymaster's branch of the militia department is now disbursing $12,000,000 a month and sending out 200,000 checks of every variety in the same period. In the meanwhile new accounts are being opened because of the epidemic of marriages which has struck the overseas camps. Canadian soldiers are still marrying at the rate of 300 a week, and in each case the gratuity is involved.

Altogether the department claims that there are many complications, and that certain complaints are inevitable.

NEUTRALS TO SUBMIT VIEWS ON PROPOSED PLANS FOR LEAGUE

Paris, March 20.—Neutral countries of Eurpoe, Asia and South America will be given opportunity today to express their views and propose amendments to the league of nations plan. Nearby neutrals, such as Holland and Switzerland, have sent delegates in response to the invitation of the supreme council, while more distant countries will be represented by ambassadors and ministers residing in Paris.

Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain will be chairman and Premier Venizelos of Greece, Dr. M. R. Vesnitch of Serbia, Paul Hymans of Belgium, Col. E. M. House of the United States, and Leon Bourgeois of France will sit as members of the sub-committee.

JAPAN WILL MOVE AMENDMENT TO THE LEAGUE COVENANT

Paris, March 20—A Japanese amendment to the covenant of the league of nations providing that the contracting parties shall agree to grant "equal and just treatment" to all aliens within their borders who are nationals of states members of the league will be submitted to the supreme council, it is learned by Reuter's from Japanese sources.

The standpoint of the Japanese is that all citizens of nations deemed sufficiently advanced to become members of the league should have equal rights when traveling or living in foreign countries, it is said.

REVISION OF LEAGUE COVENANT WILL BE STARTED SATURDAY

Paris, March 20.—A meeting of the league of nations commission will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning when all proposed amendments and changes will be considered and the plan put into definite form. This will be the first meeting of the commission since the covenant was adopted the day before President Wilson left for America, and it will consider proposals submitted at the hearing of neutrals today and also any other suggestions which have taken definite form.

Lord Robert Cecil and Thomas W. Gregory, former United States attorney-general, are now here and are among those who have sought to draft a proviso relative to the Monroe doctrine in such form that it will meet the approval of legal experts. The commission plans to hold numerous sessions until the work of revision is completed.

FRENCH OCCUPY GERMAN CITIES TO CHECK RIOTS

Spartacan Outbreaks Required Moving Forward of Troops.

ON WEST RHINE BANK

Mannheim and Karlsruhe Have Been Taken Over by Strong Forces.

Geneva, March 20.—French troops have occupied Mannheim and Karlsruhe, on the west bank of the Rhine, on account of Spartacan outbreaks there, the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin says. The newspaper adds that the French also occupied Rheinau, five miles south of Mannheim and Whinhafen.

A Berlin dispatch received Monday said that reports had been received there that the British and French had advanced their outposts from limits of their bridgeheads at Cologne and Mayence, respectively. The French were reported to have entered Frankfort.

Mannheim is south of the Mayence bridgehead area, but is directly on the east bank of the Rhine, where it is joined by the Neckar. Karlsruhe is about five miles east of the Rhine. There have been no reports of disorders in Mannheim and Karlsruhe recently.

There has been no statement from allied quarters either affirming or denying the report that British and French had enlarged their bridgehead limits.

NEXT OF KIN WILL BENEFIT AS RESULT OF APPEAL REFUSAL

Privy Council Will Not Permit Reopening of Famous Case.

London, March 20.—The privy council yesterday refused leave of appeal in the case of the attorney-general of Ontario and the Church of Christ (Christian Scientist) versus Cameron, etc.

This was the now-famous case over the will, in which Miss May Orr of Bobcaygeon, Ont., desired that the whole of her estate, to the value of over $200,000, should be used "for God only." She made bequests to several Christian Science churches. Her next of kin disputed the home bequests and the court ordered the attorney-general should be added as a party. The Ontario court decided in favor of two bequests, but the supreme court overruled this, and the legacy thereupon fell into the residue of the estate for the next of kin's benefit.

SMALLER NATIONS TO PARTICIPATE IN THE LEAGUE CONFERENCE

Central and South American Countries Signify Intentions.

Paris, March 20.—All central and South American neutral nations, with exception of Salvador and Paraguay, which have reserved their decision, will participate in the conference of neutral nations on the formation of a league of nations. Suggestions for amendments to the covenant will probably be made, the smaller countries following their larger sisters in asking for revision of articles of the covenant which affect them. Joachim Mendez of Guatemala has arrived here, and presented credentials as a delegate to the conference.

DOUKHOBORS OFFER ALL THEIR LANDS AND POSSESSIONS IN THE DOMINION TO THE SOLDIERS

Two Thousand Members of Organization Agree to Turn Over All in Appreciation of Having Been Saved From Despotic Rule of Russia, From Which They Fled Years Ago.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, March 20.—Doukhobors in Canada have maintained the reputation of their race for meekness and self-sacrifice by one of the most magnanimous actions ever recorded. Hearing that the Great War Veterans had passed a resolution demanding that their lands be given to the soldiers because they had not fought, the Doukhobor community, while mildly protesting that war is savagery, has voluntarily offered all it's lands and possessions to the soldiers. The community in its statement says:

The society's statement.

"The directors of the Christian Society of Universal Brotherhood considered it necessary to call a meeting at Brilliant of our society to discuss the resolution. At this meeting over two thousand of our society were present, and the women were in the majority and it was there resolved to announce that we solemnly offer all lands which are occupied by Doukhobors in Canada to soldiers who have suffered so much from the recent war which lasted over four years. The women especially were unanimous in expressing their wishes to give up the lands to soldiers. And they, with their children, can easily support themselves in Canada without having land, as Doukhobor women, even since 12 years of age girls are able to support themselves by their own toil, irrespective whether on the land or some other means of support, as all Doukhobor women are able to spin on their domestic spinning machines a yarn of every description of wool, flax, fibre, cotton staples and other grown fibres. They conclude by thanking the British nation for saving them from the despotism of Russia.

Nuns Impaled on Pickets, Boy Scouts Tied Together With Barbed Wire and Buried Alive

Wife of Premier Paderewski of Poland, Writing to Friend in Chicago, Tells of Horrible Atrocities Committed by the Bolsheviki On the Helpless People of Poland.

Chicago, March 20.—In a letter received today by John F. Smulski, president of the National Polish department, Mme. Paderewski, wife of the pianist and premier of Poland, described conditions in Poland as "pitiful," and said the Polish army was hungry and was without cloaks in zero weather, and lacked arms. The letter was dated January 28.

The city of Lemberg was without light, water, food, arms or munitions, but was constantly bombarded, Mme. Paderewski wrote:

"It is defended by women, children and boy scouts," she added, and declared, "our enemies commit the most horrible atrocities."

"Some of the women taken prisoner were impaled on pickets," she wrote. "So were six nuns who were then removed and hurled in a heap and left to die slowly. Ten scouts were taken and tied together (three or four at a time) with barbed wire, and then buried alive!"

Continuing, the premier's wife asserted, the Bolsheviks were burning, beheading or freezing Poles to death along the border. In Cieszyn, the Czechs were killing and hanging, and "the German army is advancing on Posen. We are in a trap."

"I must hold my heart with both hands for fear it will burst with pain," the letter concluded.

MITAU IS CAPTURED BY LETTISH TROOPS

Bolshevik Forces Are Reported Retiring Along Whole Front.

Copenhagen, March 20.—The important junction town of Mitau, southwest of Riga, has been captured by Lettish troops, a Lettish official statement issued on Wednesday announces. The Bolsheviki, the statement adds, are retiring along the whole front.

BOLSHEVIK FORCES EVACUATE PINSK

Copenhagen, March 20.—Bolshevik troops, under pressure of Polish forces, have been compelled to retire and evacuate Pinsk, 100 miles east of Brest-Litovsk, according to a dispatch from Warsaw.

UKRAINE VIRTUALLY IN BOLSHEVIK HANDS

London, March 20.—Virtually all of the Ukraine is now in the hands of the Bolsheviki, according to advices reaching London today. In heavy fighting at Nikolaiev, northeast of Odessa, the Bolshevik lost between 5,000 and 8,000 men, but forced the French garrison, after fierce fighting, to withdraw to Odessa by sea.

Further east, the advices add, the Bolshevik have reached the Isthmus of Perekop, leading to the Crimea.

SUPREME COUNCIL TO ISSUE "INJUNCTION" TO STOP FIGHTING

Warning Will Be Sent to the Ukrainians and Poles.

Paris, March 20.—Marshal Foch and other generals were called in during yesterday's prolonged session of the supreme council to give their advice as to action which should be taken in Galicia where Ukrainian forces are besieging Lemberg, which is threatened from three sides. It was decided that a sharp warning should be sent to both sides asking for a suspension of hostilities. The warning will take the form of an "injunction" to the two armies.

GREEKS DEFEATED BOLSHEVIK FORCES OFFICERED BY HUNS

Saloniki, March 20.—The Greek victory at Kherson, northwest of Odessa, was won over a Bolshevik force of four times the strength of the Greek division engaged, according to an official statement issued at Greek army headquarters here. The statement declares the Bolshevik armies have been reorganized, and are under the command of German officers, a large number of whom participated in the battle.

DECLARES CATHOLIC BISHOPS OF QUEBEC CHOOSE FOR PEOPLE

H. C. Hocken, M. P., of Toronto, Delivers Address at Orange Convention.

URGES NATIONAL PLAN

Would Enforce System of Education in All Provinces.

Cornwall, March 20.—In connection with the annual meeting of the Orange Grand Lodge of Eastern Ontario, a largely-attended public meeting took place at the Music Hall last night. Sir Sam Hughes, who was billed for an address, remained in Ottawa to attend the banquet given by the city to the Princess Pats.

Addresses were delivered by C. W. Landon of Lansdowne; H. C. Hocken, M.P., of Toronto; Dr. Edwards, M.P., Frontenac, and Rev. H. A. Fish, Toronto.

Messrs. Hocken and Edwards dwelt on the important part Orangemen had played in all disturbances that required quelling from the war of 1812 down to the recent European trouble. Figures were given to show that members of the order had performed their duty faithfully and well, and in this they had given the people of the country every warrant for their best consideration.

Hocken Refutes Charge.

Mr. Hocken refuted the charge sometimes laid at the door of Orangemen, that they were bigots, and said through their efforts the Roman Catholics of Ontario were given more privileges than in any other province. Orangemen fought for tolerance and did not interfere with rights; their motto was equal rights to all and special privileges to none. He advocated, as did Dr. Edwards, a national system of education, and said that in Quebec Province the people were not allowed to have compulsory education because the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church did not want it. Others opposed such interference, not with malice, but because it was not conducive to the well being of the country. French-Canadians left their own province, where there was ample room for them, and flocked to Ontario, their design being to get control of the province, and they would be slack in their duty if they did not endeavor to frustrate the attempt and keep Ontario as an English-speaking province.

ALLIED TRAVELERS GOING TO GERMANY MUST HAVE PERMITS

German Cabinet Decides on New Restrictions.

Berlin, March 20.—Because of the great number of military and civil Entente missions which have visited Germany since November 4, the German cabinet has decided, according to the Kreuz Zeitung that no person from an allied country will henceforth be permitted to travel in Germany without special permit from the armistice commission.

VETERANS ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THE MONTREAL AND TORONTO WELCOME

Score of Men From Carmania Arrive at Noon and Are Met by Escort, Band and Numbers of Personal Friends.

About twenty men who returned to Canada on the Carmania as members of the 9th Field Ambulance of Montreal and the 5th C. M. R. of Toronto reached London at 12:10 today over the Grand Trunk Railway. The men of both these units described the welcome given them in Montreal and Toronto respectively as being among the most enthusiastic they had ever seen tendered to troops anywhere.

Friends Were Waiting.

At the local station the band, an escort of the C. G. R., and a large crowd of citizens combined to bid the veterans a welcome. Most of them were met by friends and went direct to their homes in the city. A few went to western points on the same train that brought them to London, and a few others went to Tecumseh Barracks, intending to catch trains later in the day to points outside the city.

Had Not Discharges.

Although these men returned with units proceeding for dispersal to eastern points, they were not discharged before coming to London. The authorities at the port of disembarkation provided them with through transportation, and they came to London as one party. Most of them have not yet had their final medical board, and therefore will not be discharged through the local dispersal station, but will follow the old practice of returning for discharge after two weeks' leave.

Had Advance Word.

The fact that the military information bureau and the Soldiers' Aid Commission were notified two hours or more in advance of the party's arrival gave ample opportunity for preparations to be made for a reception, and the number of automobiles on hand was more than sufficient to accommodate all the men. In fact several cars were not needed at all, and left without being called for to take veterans to their homes or elsewhere.

A Londoner in the party was Stanley Mitchell, who went overseas with the 135th Battalion and went almost directly to France with the 49th Highlanders. He saw a great deal of the severe fighting during the last three years of the war, and escaped without a wound, although he suffered an attack of trench fever. Prior to enlisting, he was employed by the Ontario Furniture Company.

Only One by C. P. R.

Instead of three soldiers and a dependent arriving on the C. P. R. noon train today as expected, but one soldier made his appearance. Two reporters made up the reception committee that greeted Pte. D. A. McGuire, of 506 Ontario street, who went overseas with the 7th C. M. R. in June, 1915. McGuire crossed the ocean on the S. S. Carmania, and reported everything as being "jake." He was driven to his home in a taxicab.

Magistrate, Startled, Allows Him Out on Bail for Week.

Allen Durst, a young man from Josephburg, near Kitchener, surrendered to the police yesterday, admitting he was a deserter under the M. S. A.

"Why didn't you report when requested?" asked the Magistrate, A. H. M. Graydon, in police court this morning.

"I was afraid," was the startling and wholly unexpected reply.

"You were afraid? That's is a nice admission for a fine energetic man to make. I'm surprised," stated the court.

Durst was allowed bail for a week in the sum of $500. He will appear for sentence next Thursday.

"Well, where did you get your liquor?" inquired the magistrate of the one drunk who was holding down the cage.

"I met a friend that had just had his tonsils out, and he had got an order from his doctor," said the prisoner.

"I see, he put a little on your tonsils, too," came back the court. "It's too bad, but it will cost you $10 and costs."

SPRING MEDICINE

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is Needed Now as Never Before—

Because, although the war is over, its work, worry and excitement have undermined your reserve strength.

Because the coughs, colds, grip and maybe severer illness have broken down your power of resistance.

Because Winter's work and close confinement have worn-out your stomach, and exhausted your blood.

Can you afford the good long rest the doctor advises?

If not, take a course of the famous old medicine,—the one that mother used to take,—Hood's Sarsaparilla. It's the finest extract of Nature's purifying, vitalizing and strength-making roots, herbs, barks and berries, such as physicians prescribe, prepared by skillful pharmacists, in condensed and economical form.

If you want the best Spring medicine you'll surely get Hood's Sarsaparilla. Hood's Pills help the liver.

A Lesson from Medicine Hat

THE WEATHER.

Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay: Fair; not much change in temperature.

Medicine Hat struck natural gas. It said: "Let us have light, heat and energy regardless; for tomorrow—who cares?"

All Alberta began to "dig for gas." Calgary ended by piping it from 200 miles away. The Edmonton district became a graveyard of abandoned "wells."

So the people of Medicine Hat began to think. "After all," they said, "tomorrow IS important." Now Medicine Hat is economizing and wishing it had started earlier.

It has learned that natural gas is NOT limitless and NOT inexhaustible.

Although Natural Gas Is Cheap, Do Not Waste It—the Supply Is Not Everlasting.

FEELING TRIBUTE IS PAID BY BISHOP TO DEAN EVANS DAVIS

His Monument Is the Church Which He Served.

INTERRED AT WOODLAND

Body Borne to Last Resting Place by Six Brother Ministers.

"If thou seekest my monument, look around thee." This is a fitting quotation to use in reference to the beloved Rev. Dean Evans Davis, whose life has flitted away to its Master, and its great reward," were the words of Bishop David Williams at the funeral service of Rev. Dean Evans Davis in St. James' Church at 11 o'clock this morning.

The church was crowded, standing room hardly available, among the crowd being many whom he had christened, confirmed and married, and there were few dry eyes when the organ pealed forth "On the Resurrection Morning," sung by the choir and the Anglican clergy of the city.

Bishop's Tribute.

"For over 43 years he has been the shepherd of this flock gathered here, and it was to him the destiny of St. James' Church was intrusted, and during this span of years he has shared in your joys and sorrows," said the bishop. "He has left you a great legacy, the Church of St. James, one of the best churches in the diocese, a veritable monument that will ever be sacred to his memory. Up until the end, he never for one moment lacked interest in the affairs of the diocese and of his beloved church, St. James. Do not mourn for him; he is not dead, he has gone to his reward. For many years, the dean was prominent in the Dominion and Provincial Synod, and imparted much of his goodness to those who met him on these occasions. He was a loving and Godfearing pastor. No words could express the tribute that I would wish to pay him," concluded the bishop.

Rev. Leslie Armitage, present rector of St. James' Church, and Rev. Archdeacon J. B. Richardson, assisted the bishop in conducting the service.

Lay in State.

As he lay in state directly in front of the altar, the whole congregation passed the bier to view the mortal remains of the dean, clad in his cassock, surplice and stole, the robes in which his congregation will remember him best.

WINNER OF MILITARY MEDAL HERE FRIDAY

A. P. McDonald Displayed Conspicuous Gallantry in France.

Ex-Ald. J. C. McDonald, 302 Grosvenor street, has received a Military Medal awarded A. P. McDonald in France some time ago, and the following particulars from the adjutant-general, Canadian militia, regarding the conduct for which the medal was awarded:

"This medal was awarded to Pte. A. P. McDonald for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty from 26th February to 20th September, 1917, in France.

"He displayed marked courage on 21st August near Lens. During the action his gun (a trench mortar) was heavily shelled, and was buried three times by exploding shells. McDonald dug it out each time under heavy fire, and, getting it into action, continued serving his gun throughout the day. He also volunteered to take urgent messages to headquarters through shell-fire, no runner being available. Starting with three others, he was the only one to get through. He was still unwounded, serving his country behind his gun till about three weeks before the armistice was signed, when he was slightly gassed, and has been convalescing in England ever since."

Pte. McDonald enlisted with the 33th Battalion in February, 1915, when only 18 years of age, going overseas in a detachment the following August, and to France shortly after, where he took part in many of the big drives. His chum, Pte. John Brown, was killed at Vimy Ridge.

He is one of the party which reached Halifax on the Celtic on Tuesday, and is expected to reach here some time on Friday.

HOW'S THE STOMACH?

The blood is life, it is the immediate energy, deriving its power from food, air, exercise and rest. During the long winter months the blood becomes tainted, through lack of fresh air, exercise and other causes, impurities generate—then come boils, pimples, indigestion and stomach troubles. The skin loses its healthy color and you get "that tired feeling." HACKING'S HEART AND NERVE REMEDY will purify the blood, tone up the stomach, increase the appetite, and bring about an improvement in the general health. Mr. Wm. Fullarton of Listowel says: "I doctored for 8 years for Stomach Trouble and pains all through the body, and got no relief until I used Hacking's Heart and Nerve Remedy." FAVORS HAVING CENTRAL POINT FOR EXECUTIONS

Grand Jury Indorses Resolution as Passed by the Sheriffs.

VISITS PUBLIC BUILDINGS

Finds 16 Scarlet Fever and 7 Influenza Cases at Victoria.

"The attention of the grand jury has been brought by the deputy sheriff to a circular issued by the Sheriffs' Association at their last meeting in Toronto on February 27 last. The circular urges the desirability of having some central place in which all executions could be carried out, the reason for this being that there are so few cases of capital punishment that there would probably only be one during the term of a sheriff in any one county, and that a central place where all the necessary material which is used at such time could be kept, would save the trouble of shipping it all over the country from one county to another. We heartily agree with the sheriffs of the province of Ontario in making this recommendation, which we hope will reach the proper authorities."

This is a copy of the recommendation which was presented this morning to the Hon. Mr. Justice Rose, who is presiding at the spring assize court at the court house.

Much Scarlet Fever.

In the jail were 37 male prisoners and 5 female prisoners. In Victoria Hospital there were 213 patients, 16 of whom were suffering from scarlet fever, and 7 from Spanish influenza. It was recommended that the kitchen be enlarged. In the asylum there were 627 female patients and 365 males. Of these, 19 females and 5 males were on probation.

This morning, the jury case of Hudson and Hardy vs. Biddulpa Township was commenced, but as there are a great number of witnesses in this case it is not expected that the case will be concluded before evening.

Loss of Sheep.

Elsie Hudson and Frank Hardy are suing the Township of Biddulph for $2,805.60 for the alleged loss of 98 ram lambs which were killed by dogs in the township. Before the dogs made their attack there were 131 sheep. The remaining 33 sheep were alleged to have been injured and terrified. The plaintiffs also want the township to appoint a man to ascertain the value of the dead animals.

It is claimed by the defendants that the plaintiffs told the township council that 23 sheep had been killed. The township, it is alleged, should have put in their claims for the 98 sheep within a month of the accident. J. M. McEvoy for the plaintiffs; Meredith & Fisher for the defendant.

After this case there are two others, namely, Cox vs. Forsyth, a non-jury one, and Graham vs. the Universal Film Company, a jury one.

Reports in regard to these, with the names of the members should be made direct to the chamber of commerce.

EVASIVE ATTITUDE OF GERMAN GOVERNMENT PUTS A STOP TO THE NEGOTIATIONS AT POSEN

Agreement Was About To Be Reached When Interruption Came—German High Command Appear To Be in Open Conflict With Berlin Cabinet.

Paris, March 20.—Negotiations between the inter-allied commission and the German Government's representatives at Posen have again been interrupted at a time when a result seemed about to be reached. It is said that this was the result of the evasive attitude of the German Government. Dispatches state that the German high command appears to be in open conflict with the Berlin cabinet, and will not undertake to respect an armistice between the Germans and Poles. A decision in keeping with the situation is expected tomorrow.

"The LIBERATION OF BELGIUM does not solve the problem of the future of the war orphans.

HOW CAN YOU EXPECT SYRUP THIS WEATHER?

Vendors Indignant at Foolish Questions of Reporter.

Saturday isn't the only day in the week when a market is held in London. Tuesday and Thursday each have their own quota of business, and today business was not too slow in loads of hay, vegetables, apples, butter and eggs, with maple syrup and syrup tasting a little sideline of its own. True, the few who gathered with butter and eggs in the long basement of the market house did look somewhat lonesome and all forlorn, like a little bit of an island in a real big pond.

"Much syrup?"

The vendor shakes his head, and asks almost accusingly: "What can you expect with the trees beginning to bud out?"

And Easter a whole month from today!

UNIONISTS IN ROW

In any case it would appear that a crisis is near, and ministers are looking anxiously toward the Atlantic in the direction whence Sir Robert Borden does not come. It is obvious that the Government did not give any definite answer to the westerners. Easterners, on the other hand, are fairly well satisfied that no serious inroads will be tied upon the national policy.

Why? Because Borden is a protectionist, because Sir Thomas White is the representative of the interests, because Kemp, Foster, Mewburn, Rowell, Reid, Burrell, Doherty, Blondin, oLughed, Robertson, Ballantyne, Guthrie are protectionists, because Calder and Sifton are unknown quantities on the matter, as is also MacLean, and because Crerar, who expressed his honest convictions on the matter the other day, and Carvell, who seconded the Oliver Liberal tariff resolution in 1917 are in a hopeless minority.

The best guess at the present time is that a considerable number of the western members will resign their seats, that the government will continue to carry on with a much-reduced majority, and will curtail its sessional program, and that there will be an election some time in the fall, with the war times election act on the statute books, or, rather, with its counterpart, and with a big campaign fund available from the friends of protection.

MOTOR CYCLE COP CAPTURES BANDITS AND RECOVERS COIN

Four Armed Men Held Up First National Bank Employees.

FREEPORT, N.Y., March 19.—Four men, armed with revolvers, held up the employees of the First National Bank in the heart of the business section in Freeport today, and taking all the cash on the cashier's counter, escaped in an automobile. It was reported that the men obtained about $5,000. Two hours later a motorcycle policeman in Jamaica, a suburban district of Brooklyn, spotted the highwaymen's car and gave chase. He soon overtook it, and the four occupants jumped out and started to run. The policeman shot one in the back and captured another, but the other two escaped into a nearby woods. The condition of the wounded man is not serious. The stolen money was recovered.

MOTHERS' PENSIONS BILL MAY YET COME IN PRESENT SESSION

Provincial Commissioner's Report is Still Being Prepared.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, March 19.—While the report of Dr. W. A. Riddell on mothers' pensions has not yet reached the Government, it is understood that it will be completed in time for legislation to be introduced at this session.

One of the most difficult problems which has had to be faced in preparing this report is to secure definite information as to the numbers of mothers and widows with dependent children that ought to be provided for in any comprehensive scheme. The man-power census which the Dominion Government took last year contained much of this information, and at present a large staff of clerks is engaged in analyzing the question on the 900,000 cards turned in at that time. When this information is secured a number of cases will be chosen at random and investigators sent into the homes to ascertain just what assistance is needed. It is hoped that in this way the Government will have an idea of the approximate cost of the proposed scheme before legislation is brought down.

GOOD PRICES FOR HOLSTEIN-FRIESIANS PAID AT WOODSTOCK

Annual Sale Brought Buyers From Quebec—$510 the Record.

WOODSTOCK, March 19.—The annual consignment of Holstein-Friesian cattle by the Oxford Breeders' Association was held here today and proved an unqualified success. In all seventy animals were sold for a total of $15,815, an average of $210 each.

The highest price obtained was $510 which was paid for the cow, Colanthe Pienje Banks, bought by W. C. Houch, Chippewa. Several other animals sold for prices ranging from $350 to $450. Many buyers were present from all parts of Ontario, while several came from Quebec. Moore & Dean of Tillsonburg and Wm. Pullin of Woodstock did the selling.

A 44-Hour Week Is Granted Cleveland Garment Workers

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 19.—Nearly 1,200 of the 4,000 garment workers who went on strike this morning will return to work tomorrow morning on a 30 per cent wage increase and a forty-four hour week basis. Ten of the forty firms have agreed to the terms of their employees, it was stated.

SIBERIAN PRESS IS MAKING ATTACKS ON THE UNITED STATES

System Campaign Is Under Way To Create Ill-Feeling.

Vladivostok, March 17.—Never since the landing here of troops in August has there been such widespread criticism of the United States. The newspapers are full of tirades and ingenuous distortions of the facts, calculated to sow discord among Americans, Russians and the Allies. It is an unquestioned fact that there is a systematic campaign. Some newspapers of Siberia, it appears, have been subsidized and are distinctly hostile to the United States.

Elgin Defending Damage Action at the Spring Assizes

Autoists Injured Charge the County With Negligence.

ST. THOMAS, March 19.—The last case on the assize docket is brought by Aeron and Irene Morrick and their son, David Morrick, of Port Burwell against the corporation of the County of Elgin for damages alleged to have been caused in an auto accident last August, when the car of the plaintiffs toppled over into the ditch, a few miles north of Port Burwell. The plaintiffs allege that the road was not in a proper state of repair, and that through changes made by the County of Elgin it had been converted from a suitable traffic highway to a veritable trap. Bylaws enacted by the county council placing this highway in the county system under the good roads act were submitted this afternoon by Barrister T. R. Agar of Simcoe appearing for the plaintiffs. C. St. Clair Leitch is appearing for the defendant corporation with Barrister Elliott of Strathroy. The case will proceed Thursday.

OVER FOUR TONS OF FISH SPOILED BY FAULTY FREEZING

Chicago Firm Gets $6,300 Verdict at St. Thomas.

ST. THOMAS, March 19.—Mr. Justice Clute this afternoon gave judgment for the C. C. Robbins Company, Chicago, for $6,300, the value of 90,000 pounds of fish at 7c per pound, against the St. Thomas Packing Company. His lordship declared that the fish had spoiled through negligence on the part of the defendants.

C. St. Clair Leitch contended that the plaintiffs were not entitled to do business in Ontario without a special permit. He cited cases, in which Justice Riddell and other notables had decided against plaintiffs in such a case, but Justice Clute held that it would be creating a serious hardship if the plaintiffs were not allowed to obtain a decision through ignorance of the law. He would permit them to obtain such a license, and on this would depend his final decision as to costs. The amount claimed by the company was $6,635 and costs.

Barrister Lewis of Chatham and Gibbons & Harper of London appeared for the plaintiffs, and C. S. Clair Leitch of this city and Elliott of Strathroy for the defendants.

Turner, tax collector, is to get $1,850, an increase of $150, and D. C. Platt, special tax collector, was raised $100, making his yearly salary now $1,000. Market Clerk W. C. Maker and Weigh Scales Clerk James Dean will receive $1,100 this year, being increases of $150 and $100 respectively.

Passed Up Police Court.

No change was made in the salaries paid the police court officials. Increases varying from $50 to $100 were granted the clerks in the department of the city clerk, city engineer and city treasurer.

The question of the auditors' remuneration was brought up, and it was suggested that it be increased by $250 each per annum. Mayor C. R. Somerville thought that if they wished increases they should have applied for them. He did not like the system of "rushing up the salaries without any request being received."

Chairman L. S. Holmes called attention to the fact that some of the department heads had not asked for increases.

Nothing For Auditors.

Mayor Somerville thought that there could not be this comparison, as the auditors take the job by contract rather than being regular employees.

There was a general impression that the increase asked was too high when a suggestion was made that the city treasurer, city clerk and city engineer be granted a $1,000 increase.

Ald. S. R. Manness said this was too large an increase, and Ald. C. G. Moorhead and Ald. O. I. Cunningham agreed.

On motion of Mayor Somerville it was cut to $500.

The members of the committee were unanimously of the opinion that the three officials were worthy of the larger increase and the only reason it was not given is because of the financial conditions brought on by the war.

$25 Minimum.

Discussing the request of the temporary assessors for a salary of $100 a month (they now receive $85). Ald. G. B. Drake asserted that "No man could maintain a home on less than $25 a week."

Ald. Cunningham did not object to the increase, but he thought that a report should be received from the head of the department in all cases before the committee granted any increases.

It was suggested that the assessors held responsible positions, and they should receive suitable salaries.

Chairman L. S. Holmes questioned whether the situation was not a clerical one.

Mayor Somerville intimated that fixing the assessment of the property of the city was not clerical work.

Is It Fixed?

Ald. Cunningham asked whether the assessment was not fixed by the assessment commissioner in his office before the assessors started their rounds.

Thus the assessors had nothing to do with valuing the property for the assessment. There was some criticism of this method of assessing the city. The committee thought that if this were true there should be a change in the system of assessment.

Ald. Cunningham stated that he had it on good authority that this is the method that is followed.

There was also some discussion in reference to an increase in salary for Assessment Commissioner Stephen Grant. The suggestion was made that he be raised $200.

Calls Some "Deadwood."

Ald. Cunningham hesitated to approve this. "The city has to carry a certain amount of deadwood in the person of some city hall employees, and I suppose we will still have to follow the custom," said he. "But the time comes when the men by reason of age reach their maximum capacity and I question the wisdom of granting increase then." The increase was finally granted unanimously.

D. H. McDermid asked that the allowance to the Children's Aid Society be increased to 50 cents a day for each city child there with a maximum yearly allowance of $2,000. The present rate is 20 cents a day with a maximum of $1,000.

It was decided to put $2,000 in the estimates for this purpose. A communication was received from the separate school board stating that it would require $29,750 this year. Last year the amount was $25,757. It also intimated that the board agreed to accept the same tax rate as that which will be levied for the public school funds.

Grant for Dishes.

A request from Mrs. A. T. Edwards on behalf of the soldiers' reception committee composed of members of Red Cross, the soldiers' aid, and the Ministerial Alliance asked for a grant of $404 for the purpose of buying some dishes, and was granted. The amount was added to the estimates.

Requests for grants from the Ontario Safety League and the imperial war relief fund were not granted.

The question of the new fire hall situation was laid over for future consideration. It was decided that no hall would be erected this year.

An appropriation of $95,000 for Victoria Hospital was approved. Last year's appropriation was $92,534.40, and for the police department $80,545.67 was included in the estimates.

It was decided that the full half-mill appropriation should be given the parks board this year.

ONE OF LONDON'S EARLY VOLUNTEERS IS NOW ON HIS WAY HOME

Corp. and Mrs. A. J. Clark have just received word that their son, Cadet R. A. Clark, who left Canada for overseas in August, 1914, will be home in a few days.

This young Londoner went to France with the Engineers and served there continuously until he was selected to go into the Royal Air Force. He was training for his commission when the armistice was signed.

"Bob" is well known, especially in West London, and he will receive a hearty welcome on his return after more than four and a half years of service, most of which was spent in the fighting area.

EAST END UNION BIG SUCCESS, SAY T. AND L. DELEGATES

Trouble Being Experienced Getting Bread Peddlers Together.

Reports on the meeting held in the east end last week for the purpose of organizing the mechanics in McClary's and other factories were submitted by several delegates at the trades and labor council meeting last evening. The east end meeting was described as a huge success, and the statement was made by one delegate that he had secured the names of 102 men, and that since the meeting 40 or 50 more had applied to him with a view of joining the organization.

A delegate from the cigarmakers' union complained that members of the council were apparently not sufficiently upholding union labor by demanding union-made tobacco, manufactured by firms employing union labor, and they reported in many instances that they could not get rid of it. He urged the delegates to support the union by their patronage.

Help Montreal Strikers.

A grant of $10 was voted to the cigarmakers of Montreal to help them in their campaign against the manufacturers. A letter from the eastern organization stated that, in spite of many difficulties, very few men had deserted the union in its fight.

The United Textile Workers of Georgia and South Carolina wrote asking for a contribution to aid them in a fight for an eight-hour day. The council took no action, the opinion being expressed that, in view of the almost universal social unrest, such requests were likely to be made in very large numbers.

A communication from the trades and labor council of Brantford, asking the local body to support its petition for the abolition of the property qualification requirement for aldermanic candidates, was referred to No. 1 committee.

The Toronto Printing and Allied Trades Union wrote urging support for a movement to have the Church of England Hymnal printed in Canada instead of in Great Britain as at present. The council decided to send a resolution along the line suggested to the Bishop of Huron, who is the chairman of the hymnal committee.

The council took no action in the matter of a request from the National Women's Trade Union League that a woman delegate be sent to a convention to be held in Philadelphia.

Donate Fine to S. A.

John A. Flatt wrote from Hamilton stating that he would be in London toward the end of the present month for the purpose of organizing any trades which were still unorganized in the city.

A resolution was adopted deciding to donate to the Salvation Army the $33 subscribed by and through the council toward the fine imposed of $200 recently on a returned soldier convicted of having liquor in a place other than his private residence, the fine having been reduced to $20 since the collection was started.

A street railway delegate reported that Richard Simcoe, for many years a motorman on the Richmond route, who died recently, had been buried that afternoon. On a resolution by another delegate the council decided to send a letter of condolence to the widow of the deceased member, who was spoken of in the highest terms as a union man of many years' standing.

Some discussion occurred over the question of the bread drivers' union, which it was understood, was to be formed. Some of the delegates reported that not much headway had been made, as the drivers had apparently fallen out among themselves, and those of one firm in particular were accused of "knocking" those working for other firms and of trying to take their trade away by telling their customers that they were not union men. It was arranged for the organization committee to meet this evening for the purpose of taking up this question.

DAMAGE AWARD OF $4,500 AGAINST STREET RAILWAY

Jury Out Two Hours in the Waite Action.

In the case of Waite vs. the London Street Railway Company, the jury, which was out more than two hours last night, awarded the plaintiffs $4,500 damages.

Annie Waite and William S. Waite sued the street railway for $10,000 for damages which the former plaintiff received when a car in which she was riding collided with another car near Queen's Park. As she was confined to her bed during the trial an order was secured from Hon. Mr. Justice Rose, who is presiding at the court, to have her evidence taken at her home.

I. O. D. E. CONCERT IN SOLDIERS' CLUB

A delightful concert was staged last night in the Soldiers' Club under the auspices of the I. O. D. E. The program consisted of songs, club-swinging and dancing. Mrs. Oram, who has been caretaker of the club since its organization here nearly four years ago, was given a hearty vote of thanks for her kindness shown towards soldiers in the club rooms.

The program follows: Pte. Thompson, club-swinging; Mr. Clarke, F. Robinson, Pte. Edwards, Miss Anna Grant, Walter Slann, Pte. Hewitt, H. Stevenson, Charles Hughes, songs; Miss Violet Hunt and Master Cecil Hunt, Scotch dancing. W. Slann was chairman.

ROBBERS CUT AIR BAG AND STALLED FREIGHT

By cutting the air brake hose on a local westbound C. P. R. freight train near Komoka on Tuesday night, some persons who are unknown to the railroad police stopped the train in order that they might steal some goods from one of the cars.

When the hose was cut the train stopped suddenly, and the crew on making investigation found one of the doors of a freight car open and nine cases of shoes strewn about. Nothing was missing.

REORGANIZED LATTER DAY SAINTS' CHURCH AGAINST POLYGAMY

Elder William Grice Tells Audience Two Churches Are Confused.

Elder William Grice, speaking in the Latter Day Saints' Church Wednesday evening on "The Apostacy of the Latter Day Saints," explained the difference between the Mormon Church of Utah and the Mormon Church founded by Joseph Smith in April in 1830, with apostles' seventies, bishops, priests, teachers and deacons.

He said that the Latter Day Saints of Utah believed in polygamy, but that the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints stood on different ground regarding this question. The Reorganized Latter Day Saints, he said, had done more than any other church to suppress polygamy and sent missionaries to Salt Lake City to preach against it. Some of these had hardly escaped with their lives. He said the whole misunderstanding among many people today was due to the fact that the reorganized church was founded by Joseph Smith and the Brigham Young Latter Day Saints Church was founded by a Joseph Fielding Smith. Many thought that this was one and the same organization when they were entirely different with different views in each case.

"Our books are open for inspection and we are open to criticism, but not one sentence in the whole set of books connected with our teaching will sympathize with the polygamy idea," said Elder Grice. He then quoted several passages in a current book of the Latter Day Saints which referred to marriage and showed the church averse even to the act of divorce, and stated that no person should re-marry until death separated one of the life partners.

Elder Grice said that Brigham Young taught that Christ himself was a polygamist and that the first Adam was God.

"The Utah Church still believes in Adam, God, blood atonement and polygamy. We, the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints," said Elder William Grice, "are the legal successors to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints organized in 1830 by Joseph Smith, and have never taught polygamy or recognized it in any form."

PAINTERS TO PUSH DEMANDS APRIL 1

By April 1, it is expected, all the painters in the city will be in line to insist on their demands for more wages and better working conditions. General Organizer Joseph B. Hunter will be here next week, and will remain until some settlement is reached. This information was given out at the regular weekly meeting of the painters of the city held Tuesday evening. All the working committees reported that good progress was being made.

CURRIE'S ATTACK ON H. W. WOOD STIRS UP LIVE HORNETS' NEST

Is Branded as "Chore Boy" For Manufacturers.

WILL HAVE EYES OPENED

People at Ottawa Will Shortly Realize Things Are Being Changed.

CALGARY, March 19.—Both C. Rice Jones, vice-president and general manager of the United Grain Growers, and H. Higginbotham, secretary of the United Farmers of Alberta, were indignant today at the attack made upon H. W. Wood, the president of the latter organization, by Colonel J. A. Currie, in the House of Commons.

"The statement that the United Farmers of Alberta sent out a man to preach Bolshevism is an absolute falsehood," exclaimed Rice Jones, "and to say that Mr. Wood is an annexationist is equally ridiculous. Such statements are only to be expected from a man like Col. Currie, who appears to be the 'chore boy' for the manufacturers' association in the House of Commons. If the manufacturers think that they are going to hoodwink the public by attempting to appeal to patriotism, they will be badly mistaken."

"We don't have to pay people to go out to talk tariff reduction," said Mr. Higginbotham. "I suppose that is what Col. Currie calls Bolshevism, because it will upset the traditional national policy. A good many things are being changed in Canada and some people at Ottawa will shortly realize this, if they have not already done so."

ORCHARD BEACH AT PORT IS GRADUALLY BEING WASHED AWAY

Londoner's Summer Cottage Was Recently Undermined.

DAMAGE HEAVY OF LATE

Open Winter Has Offered No Protection Against Waves.

ST. THOMAS, March 19.—Owing to a scarcity of ice on Lake Erie the waters are again being driven against the shores of Orchard Beach and have wrought a veritable havoc to the cottages and residences along the cliff. This trouble has been experienced on several occasions before, but last year the ice prevented the March winds from blowing the waters against the soft banks and no damage was done. The lake has been open practically all through this winter and in consequence the storms of the past couple of days have caused no end of damage.

It is predicted by some of the older residents of the village that it will only be a few years before the cottages now standing there will have to be removed entirely, for there will be no Orchard Beach at all. Two years ago the cottages were removed in some instances twenty and thirty feet farther inland, and even then one cottage, owned by E. A. Smith, of this city, was found after a bery heavy storm, overhanging at the edge of the cliff. Several experiments have been made in an effort to prevent the onrush of the waters, but without avail. The heavy looser yesterday was F. W. Farncombe of London, whose cottage was undermined to a considerable depth by the waters.

The Government has been asked on several occasions to place some form of breakwater in this section of the lake, but no action has been taken as yet.

Helping Nature,—the Key to Good Health

Watch for these Symptoms

Kidney or Bladder affections don't develop seriously until Nature has given you plenty of warning that the trouble has commenced.

Constant headaches, dizziness, pains in the back or sides, swollen joints and ankles, brick dust deposits, or painful urination should make you realize positively and beyond doubt that your kidneys are out of order and need assistance.

Nature is wise and never sends out unnecessary or foolish warnings. Her call is for help, and you must do your part by bringing relief to those overburdened kidneys, or suffer the consequences.

Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Neuralgia, etc., are all caused by inflamed or congested kidneys and the consequent deranged kidney action. Don't suffer the agonies produced by these diseases. Help Nature to relieve the congestion—to heal those inflamed kidneys and to make them strong once more—by taking Gin Pills.

Gin Pills are the best remedy for Kidney and Bladder troubles on the market to-day. This is a fact proven by hundreds of testimonials. Try them and be sure of instant relief. For sale everywhere at 50c a box. A sample box free if you write to—

THIN PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

"Take plain bitro-phosphate" is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate, nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people flesh, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need

Miss Josephine Davis, reporting her own experience with BITRO PHOSPHATE, says: "It is remarkable what it did for me. After a few days I began to regain my strength, felt full of life, was able to sleep soundly and all my little troubles seemed to disappear. I gained twelve pounds in four weeks."

more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION: — Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE RECORD OF ONE FARM.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Seeing letters in your paper from time to time charging the farmer with being the cause of the high cost of living, and having been a farmer for some thirty years, and having to quit at that time on account of not being able to get satisfactory help, and being too old myself to take the heavy end of the work, we sold the farm and came to the city to live, thus adding to the cost of living, but we still keep in pretty close touch with the farmer. When in the country a few days ago, I asked one of my old neighbors if farming was paying any better than in pre-war times. For answer, he gave me the figures for his last year's operations, which I give you below. He is a hard-working man himself. His wife does the work in the house and helps outside when the rush of work is on. They have a boy 14 years old and a daughter 12 years. They attend school and help during the holidays, morning and evening, at chorning. They have a good garden and small fruits, no account of which is given, as the wife and children do the work, besides other work. This is a good 100-acer farm, valued at $8,000, and would sell for that figure. His stock and implements are good and kept in good condition, and are worth at present $1,800. The produce last year was as follows (all produce being credited to the farm except seed and what was fed. Nothing is taken for the house until the farm had been credited for it except the garden):

Credit.
Milk from 6 cows sold	$ 200 00
Six calves sold at $8	48 00
Ten hogs raised and sold	340 00
Fifteen acres wheat, 375 bushels	750 00
Twenty acres oats, 500 bushels	350 00
Twenty acres hay, 10 tons sold	180 00
Ten acres corn, all fed
Twenty acres pasture
Ten acres bush
Five acres yard and garden
Total	$1,868 00
Debit.
Taxes paid	$ 120 00
Repairs and twine	50 00
Wages paid	225 00
Building and repairs	50 00
Fencing	50 00
Machinery	50 00
Interest on investment	588 00
Gain for the year	735 00
Total	$1,868 00

This leaves the farmer $735 for labor and living for himself and family, and in this case the family are all workers, the 12-year-old girl milking two cows, the wife doing the housework and helping outside during the harvest, the wages paid being for a man for three months and men for threshing. Now, Mr. Editor, I am not wanting to discourage anyone from going on a farm; if there is not some family help, it is a hard proposition, and unless both man and wife know something about farming we would suggest they try working for some farmer until they learn something about the business. There are plenty of opportunities for getting the experience, and good pay while doing it. Farm lands are the cheapest thing we have in Canada. Good farms can be bought for what the improvements are worth at the present time. Yours,

RETIRED FARMER.

SETTLING ST. PATRICK'S STATUS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

As a son of old Erin, I am deeply interested in anything pertaining to the Emerald Isle. In your issue of March 17 I read with keenest interest the erudite dissertation of Rev. Dr. Pescott on the question, "Was St. Patrick a Roman Catholic or a Protestant?" Being of a "logical" turn of mind, I am interested to know what particular kind of a Protestant he was, for such he undoubtedly was, according to the mighty arguments of the reverend gentleman. Some of my friends, with whom I have discussed the matter, think that, as he was a man who always kept up to the minute, he must have been a member of the Scientific Church, of which the local pastor is Rev. Lady Jane Hooper. Another thinks he must have been a Seventh-Day Adventist, as he kindled his religious fire on Tara's Hill on a Saturday.

It is true, as the reverend preacher states, "he antedated Wesley by 1,300 years, yet probably matched Wesley in his zeal and evangelism." A very strong parallel argument against St. Patrick in these modern days of unrest is that he antedated the Bolsheviki by 1487 years. Moreover, he must have been a member of their sect, as the cut of his whiskers rivals Trotzky. Thanking you for allowing me to present these weighty arguments regarding the perplexing question of St. Patrick's denominational affiliation, I am, yours truly,

SINN FEINER.

WHO OWNS CANADA?

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Please tell us who owns Canada. The Free Press in this evening's issue says that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association "is prepared to fight radical revision of the Tariff to the bitter end and even to invite an election on the issue rather than surrender to the west." (page 1.) Some of us have long suspected that the C. M. A. was in control of affairs at Ottawa. Who can doubt it, when it lies within their power to say when an election shall come? Oh, well, there were people too blind to see long before this. Let the good work go on, gull the public as long as possible, but some day the tide turns. Wait till there is a federal by-election in any rural constituency in Canada and see what will happen to the C. M. A.

A CANADIAN DEMOCRAT.

"DEVASTATING" SPRINGBANK PARK.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have a few statements to make about Springbank Park that will be of interest to the citizens in general. If they will take a car to the park, get off at the pump house and climb the reservoir hill to one of the little rustic summer houses and look down on the park, they will think that they are in devastated France or Belgium.

Only last year the view from this summer house was described as the loveliest in Canada, but this winter the way they have been cutting down trees in the park is a shame and a crime. The man that has ordered the butchering of some of the finest cedar trees I ever saw, to make fence posts, should be fired from the employ of the city.

These trees, numbering 100 or more, were cut down to make fence posts, forsooth, and, being green, will not stand the wear and tear they will be subjected to.

The citizens ought to see the sight for themselves. What is the use of hiring a parks superintendent at $2,000 or $3,000 per year to undo the work accomplished years ago. There must be men looking after the park that are not very well acquainted with their jobs, or surely they would not stand for such foolish and nonsensical work.

If they want to turn the park into a farm, then it is a different matter. They have the farmers right there, too. They are shingling the pavilion at the present time. Surely citizens who pay taxes and returned soldiers who have risked their lives in France are entitled to this job of shingling. The soldiers want work and can't get it, but yet they take on farmers who don't pay anything into the city treasury. Is this justice to the ratepayers, Mr. Editor? I think not. Citizens have applied for work there and have been turned down. I ask the citizens to go to the park and see the result of the brainy work of the park's heads. Their actions are disgraceful. I am, A SUBSCRIBER.

REV. DR. TUCKER TO BISHOP FALLON.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Bishop Fallon may be a very great prelate; he certainly is a mighty poor logician, unless, indeed, as "Onlooker" says, he merely wishes to throw dust in people's eyes.

I quoted an accurate and serious author, Dr. Blakeney, who says in effect, "I hold in my hands a Roman Catholic Psalter, published in Rome in 1834, with the imprimatur of the papal authorities, with the name of the Virgin substituted for that of God." And I quoted as corroborative evidence Archbishop Trench, Dean Milman, Archdeacon Hardwicke and others.

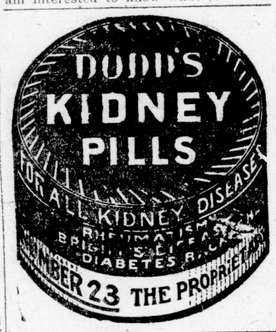

How does Bishop Fallon meet this? He says: "Let me submit a parallel case." He then proceeds to quote a facetious graduate of Cambridge, A. F. Marshall by name, who writes a satirical attack on the Church of England, entitled "The Comedy of Convocation," and concludes with the words: "It is undoubtedly open to every (Anglican) clergyman either to believe in or to deny the existence of God." By the same process of reasoning, this would be equally true of every Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist minister."

Let me point out to Bishop Fallon that this is by no means a parallel case. To make it a parallel case the bishop would have to quote not a satirical comedian, but John Henry Newman or some other serious Roman Catholic author, not as giving his own views, but as saying: "I hold in my hands a Church of England book, published by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, with the imprimatur of the Archbishop of Canterbury, which contains the following statement: 'It is undoubtedly open to every clergyman either to believe in or to deny the existence of God.'" And that he supported this with the corroboration of Cardinal Manning, Cardinal Wiseman and Cardinal Vaughan, there would be a strong presumption, not to say certainty, that such a book existed, and that it represented, in some measure, the teachings of the Church of England. In the other case, to be very frank, I think as little of the bishop's "controversial decency and honesty" as I do of his logic.

The bishop asks me if I really mean to accuse Roman Catholics of mariolatry; I have no desire to use the word if it be offensive. But let me again quote a serious writer, Robert E. Speer, one of the outstanding figures in the religious world today. Dr. Speer spent months in investigating conditions in South America, where he studied all classes and conditions of men and institutions. He calls South America a Roman Catholic continent, where Protestantism is practically non-existent, and where the Roman Catholic Church has held undisputed sway for three centuries. After describing the deplorable moral condition that widely prevails among priests and people alike, in a book entitled "South American Problems," he mentions one of the causes as follows: "The great mass of South American people have not been given Christianity. The very crucifixes of which South America is full misrepresent the Gospel. They show a dead man, not a living Saviour. And even the dead Christ is a subordinate figure. The central place is Mary's. Mary is the central religious figure. She, as Bishop Romero declared in the Argentine Congress, December 31, 1901, for all Catholics is the centre of piety and virtue in the family circle. Mary, not Christ, and mariolatry is the religion of the land, because the church has taught it as true Christianity. When on Good Friday morning, 1909, the two processions bearing the images of Mary and Jesus moved out of the Church of San Nicola, in Barranquilla, the multitude followed the figure of Mary, and the figure of the Saviour was deserted. The popular religion of South America accepts the view of Mary which is set forth in St. Alphonsus Signori's 'Glories of Mary': 'If Jesus is the king of the universe, Mary is also its queen, and as queen she possesses, by right, the whole kingdom of her son. Hence, as many creatures as there are who serve God, so many there are who serve Mary; for as angels and men and all things that are in heaven and on earth are subject to the empire of God, so are they also under the dominion of Mary.' In the great La Merced Church in Lima, over the chancel, is the motto 'Gloria a Maria,' and in the wall of the ancient Jesuit church as Cuzco, known as the Church of the Campania, are cut the words 'Come unto Mary all ye who are burdened and weary with your sins, and she will give you rest.'"

It would seem that mariolatry is not too strong a word to qualify such a state of things. I am, yours most truly, L. NORMAN TUCKER.

Youth Needs Vigor, Courage To Make Good in The East

Horace Greeley urged youth to go west. There he would find limitless scope for the exercise of courage, audacity, enterprise, energy and invention. Toward the setting sun the bold and energetic would be in his natural element. All of which was, and is, quite true. And yet where the easterner who at some time has not been peeved by the westerner's reiteration that his is a "man's country," a back-handed charge that the "effete east" is given over to crochet parties, teas dansant, timid males, ruts, fossils, parchesi and near-beer. But doesn't the east, by its very conservatism and age, demand from the youth who remain there the manly qualities of persistence, patience, doggedness, tenacity, in order to get along? It is not easy for him to strike out on new, novel lines like his brother beyond the lakes. He has to consider social and business precedents that do not impede the man out west. Convention and custom hamper his progress, acting as a drag on his originality and independence. Age strips a community of ginger. It is settled, solid and resents change. The conquest of this granite-like spirit requires courage, resourcefulness, and a general sticking to it distinctly masculine. Youth fighting his way up the ladder down east has obstacles to overcome, prejudices to combat, from which the west, with its spacy newness, is free. The young man who makes good in the "emasculated" east doesn't spend much time picking at a ukelele or consulting dream books.

Will Kaiser Escape Fate From Which He Ran Away?

When the former emperor of Germany folded his tents like an Arab and slipped over the border of Holland to seek safety, did he not acknowledge his guilt before the world as the inspiration of all Germany's horrible crimes and lustful conquests? And was it not from the punishment he knew he deserved that he fled? He showed himself, it is true, a coward as well as a tyrant when he deserted his people and his armies at the moment personal danger threatened him. A courageous ruler would have remained at his post and faced the inevitable, but not only was Wilhelm troubled by his guilty conscience, he was the poltroon as well.

He found a secure refuge in Holland. He has remained in that refuge untroubled for nearly five months, and there is no prospect that he is to be haled before the court of justice, nor any of his lesser scoundrels with him. The theory that the settlement of conditions which threaten world chaos must first be considered may have some supporters, yet every day that the former German ruler lives in security is a day of time's relief. A murderer's crimes are forgotten as the murderer is able to prevent his trial from coming into court. The Hohenzollern's crimes may never be mellowed by forgetfulness, yet their enormity will fade away in the consideration of new problems.

It is a strange thing that the men who occupy the seats of the mighty do not sense the world demand for justice to the man who beyond the faintest shadow of a doubt prepared for and plunged the world into the recent welter of blood. The world does not want the defeated kaiser as the central figure for an act of torture. But it will demand that he hear the sentence of civilization passed upon him. Less for such a monster than Napoleon? Think of any of the offenses of the German army and navy, remembering that even if the former kaiser did not plan these fiendish deeds by land and sea, he never spoke a word to lessen the suffering or to render less diabolical the deaths suffered by hundreds of thousands of the innocent. He stood upon his piles of skulls and watched the great sport with the glee of a cannibal at a feast. Shall he escape?

World Trusts The Leaders of The Paris Conference

There are several persistent "glooms" in the special correspondents' brigade at Paris. From the moment the conference opened they have been predicting disaster more profound than the one we have just weathered. The Versailles meeting, because of jealousies and cupidity, was leading the world headlong towards a super-catastrophe. Wilson was a dreamer, Clemenceau stubborn and selfish, Lloyd George intriguing. Incapacity and lactlessness were stamped on every step in the construction of peace pact or league covenant. The men dominating the meeting were stumbling along hopelessly unappreciative of the true situation in Europe.

The dean of this dejected band appears to be Dr. Dillon, who asserts the conference will fail because it lacks statesmen and is overloaded with politicians. Well, why not politicians for the task of framing a new charter for democracy, providing their motives and methods are honest and unselfish? None of them may measure up to a Beaconsfield as a statesman, but as practical leaders, men close to the people, alert and sympathetic to the desires of the masses, skillful in public affairs and government, where are to be found more capable men than the three who rule the peace table? As to their sincerity, few will be found who seriously question it. The records of Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Wilson clear them of any suspicion that they are impelled by motives other than insuring a fair and square deal all around. Considering their discernment and their power to execute, as shown in their political careers, the leaders at the Versailles conference may be expected to give the world a workable and progressive scheme even if it falls far short of perfection. They have the confidence of the world at large, and the world will accept whatever their efforts produce as the best that is to be had for the present. Humanity has been "fed up" on European "statesmanship," which too frequently bartered liberties of the people for the glory and gain of a few. It is much more favorable to the everyday, practical, businesslike, honest politician, who knows what the people want and how to go about getting it.

Great Britain Should Have Presidency of The League

The suggestion that a Britisher be made first president of the league of nations seems fair and reasonable, fair because of Great Britain's part in bringing about the new and happier prospect and because of her interests under the agreement so greatly exceeding that of all others; reasonable because she is best equipped by experience in world wide adminstration to lead and instruct those nations which must be put to school for a period. If Asia, Africa and the Near East are to step from the depths to the light it will be because of John Bull's guidance, protection and instruction. Geographically and politically it is Great Britain's task. The empire will be shouldering a new and stupendous white man's burden. It will be a just act as well as a graceful one if Great Britain is allowed the extra influence, physical and moral, that will go with the headship of the coming league.

Death of Very Rev. Dean Davis Removes a Beloved Citizen

The city of London loses one of its best men by the death of the Very Rev. Evans Davis, D.D., dean of Huron. He is first remembered at the old Union or Central School in this city in the sixties, in the days of the late J. B. Boyle and Nicholas Wilson, preparing to study for the ministry. He was living at that time with Rev. R. W. Johnston, M.A., who was assistant classical master to the late Rev. Benjamin Bayly. Dean Davis as a boy had more than average ability and had a kind disposition.

The qualities he possessed as a boy followed him through life. His cheerful greeting never left him, and whether it was to one of his own congregation or to others increased his influence for good in the community.

St. James' Episcopal Church in South London is his monument. He took hold of it in the days of small things, and its growth to a congregation of first importance testifies to his industry, energy and activity in every good work in the community. Dean Davis was an ideal clergyman and an eloquent, earnest preacher. He entered into the life of his congregation, and wherever he could he was a father to them. His life has been a continuous blessing to all with whom he came in contact, and an example of true manliness. It might well be said of him:

"Why shouldst thou fear the beautiful angel Death,"
Who waits thee at the portals of the skies,
Ready to kiss away the struggling breath,
Ready with gentle hand to close thine eyes?"
"O, what were life, if life were all? Thine eyes
Are blinded by their tears, or thou wouldst see
Thy treasures wait thee in the far-off skies,
And Death thy friend will give them all to thee."

AUNT EPPIE HOGG

—By FONTAINE FOX. (Copyright.)

Aunt Eppie Hogg, the fattest woman in three counties, caved in the board walk last week just where it crosses the brook.

The Advertiser's Daily Short Story

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

THE EXCEPTION.

By May Belleville Brown.

The black dog reared his bear-like bulk and barked deeply as a man came lagging up the slope toward the house—a lank man with mild blue eyes and a kind mouth.

"Aunt Marindy——"the man faltered. "For pity's sake, Tink White!" exclaimed Marindy Hart. "Whatever's the matter? Set down."

Her visitor occupied a chair by a gradual relaxation of his joints.

"Tavy's left me!" he announced briefly.

The woman looked at him. She was a sympathetic soul and neighborhood troubles gravitated to her as the weather-vane swings to the wind.

"Tavy's left you, eh? Where is she?"

"Over home." The man's voice was dead.

"No, she was going to town to look for a job," answered the man, "but I couldn't let her take Thad so far away, and it coming summer, so I told her to stay there, and if so be she wouldn't live with me I'd go away myself"

"I always thought, Tink Wilhite," she shook her finger impressively, "that you was throw'd away as a man. You'd orto been a woman. Think what a satisfyin' wife you'd make for an over-bearing man. Whose fault was it?"

"Tavy says it's mine. You see, I loaned Cousin Jeb, down at Halfway, $80 that time the river rose and he broke his leg trying to save his hogs. Tavy said I'd no right to help my kin; that I'd orto give the money to her if I didn't need it. Lord knows I needed it, but Jeb and me've been like brothers, and I just had to help him."

"Well, I ain't one to raise ructions in families, nor to set man against wife; but I do say that if you loaned Jeb Wilhite $50, you was doing a Christian act, and he'll pay it back, for he's straight. Besides, didn't you have to pay a fine to keep Tavy's worthless brother out of jail last winter? I guess she's never counted that. Well, what do you want me to do?"

"That's what I came for, Aunt Marindy," the man replied helplessly. "I 'lowed you'd tell me."

"Lord!" ejaculated the woman. "I don't want the job of handling Tavy Wilhite, especially when I'm backing such a poor bet as you are. A man that's cruel to his wife orto be shot. But it's every man's right—and sometimes his necessity—to stamp around, puff out his chest and talk about being master in his own house. He may eat out of her hand for twenty-nine days, but he'd better put up a big bluff on the thirtieth. But I might put the words in your mouth, and the minute Tavy'd get in eye-shot of you you'd get limp, drop your chin and put on that aggravatin humble look of yours, and then, of course, any woman'd tramp on you—let alone Tavy."

"I reckon you're right, Aunt Marindy," assented Tink with an air of despondency. "I'm a poor critter, compared to Tavy. But couldn't you reason with her a little?"

"Bosh, Tink Wilhite! Did you ever try to reason with a balky mule? I have, and a balky man or woman is about the same. Why, Tavy is putting in full working hours right now, thinking up arguments against the time she's going to be reasoned with. The best way for you to cure her tantrums would be to stamp your foot and roar that you are the boss, but you're too crumply for that, so you'd better stay here for a few days and let her get good and lonesome, so she'd take you back. The hired man needs help on the north eighty, anyway, so that'll make it all right with the neighbors."

Tink could sink no further in his chair, but he gave the impression of one whose skeleton no longer upheld his flesh.

"Tavy'll never do that!" he groaned.

"Well, I've advised a lot of folks," she began again, "but I heard once that a man and wife are like a pair of shears—cutting at each other all the time, and hitting everything that comes between. I believe it, and I believe, too, that the reason I have so many friends, is that I have kept out of married folks' rows. But I'll do this—If you stay here a couple of days, keeping close to the hired man's shack, so no one gets wind you're here, Tavy'll be ready, say about Thursday evening, for me to have a little talk with her."

The man's flesh seemed, suddenly, to possess a skeleton. One of the many veils of gloom which shrouded his features was lifted.

"Thank you, Aunt Marindy." His voice was humbly grateful. "I haven't much hope, but you can fetch her if any one can."

"Well, it's an exception to my rule, and I wouldn't make it except for you—me remembering how you helped me when you were only a boy, and I was a stranger here, with himself sick and dying. Now you go out to the shack and don't lie awake worrying. 'Twon't be a week 'till you're back home, riding Thad on your back and taking Tavy's tossing."

It was early dusk on Thursday when she stopped her buckboard at the corner of the Wilhite farm nearest the house and let Tink out.

"You stroll across lots," she directed. "It's getting so dark she won't see you, and you wait till I'm inside. Get where you can hear, and when she bursts out crying rush in and grab her. I'm calculating, by the color of her, that you won't have to wait long."

Aunt Marindy tied her horse, knocked and was admitted. Little Thad was asleep on the bed in the corner. Octavia Wilhite greeted her dully—a Boadicea of the plains, with milk-white skin over which the prairie had no power, slumberous brown eyes and a pile of red hair. She was heavy-lidded and pale, but hard-lipped.

"I declare, it's warm already," remarked Aunt Marindy genially, as she mopped her face. "I come to see if Tink has a posthole auger. Jim's fencing the north eighty."

"I don't know," answered Tavy "If he has—had—it will be out in the barn. We'll go out and look."

"Where is Tink?" asked Aunt Marindy, with polite interest."

Tavy's neck stiffened and her smoldering eyes blazed.

"I don't know where he is, but I know what he's done. He's left me alone with my child, here on this God-forsaken farm—deserted me!"

"You don't say!" marvelled Aunt Marindy.

"He has!" reiterated Tavy. "And I'll show him!"

"Well! Well! And I thought it was all gossip. You never can tell what devils these meek-looking men can be!"

Aunt Marindy gazed commiserately on the wife, whose chin wavered.

"I don't see how you stood it so long," she went on, with vast sympathy. "He's a scoundrel and orto be in the pen—treating you so just because he don't care for you any more!"

"Oh, oh, oh!" Tavy screamed hysterically, with upraised hands, while tears ran down her face.

"How dare you?" she shrilled. "How dare you say such things about the best man in the world? It was all my fault, and he's gone—he's gone!"

There was a rush of feet and Tink burst into the room, white and excited.

Tavy projected herself violently into his outstretched arms.

"Darling!" she sobbed, vehemently and dramatically. "She is telling lies on you! Oh, Tink, don't you love me any more"

"Harder and harder every minute, you angel! You sweet little child!"

"She—she said you'd orto be in the pen!" sobbed Tavy stormily. "And that you didn't care for me any more. Mean old backbiter!"

"There, there, little one," soothed Tink, "she didn't mean to hurt your feelings—she just didn't know how sensitive you are!"

Aunt Marindy sniffed. Then she rose and drawled.

"I guess it's time for me to be getting back."

"I know you meant it for the best, Aunt Marindy," there was both reproach and magnanimity in the husband's mien as he turned his head, "but you should have realized how delicate her nerves are."

"She traduced you'" hissed Tavy, without looking around. "I shall never forgive her!"

Aunt Marindy drove home, and in silence turned her horse over to Jim. Inside Josephus, the clerical-looking maltese cat, sat on the broad window-sill, regarding her with mild curiosity. She answered his inquiring look.

"Well, I made an exception, and I get just what was coming to me, Josephus. I've been in a pair of shears for the first time—and, listen! It is the last time, too, for Marindy Ellen Hart."

Then, in a voice of self-congratulation, "but I fetched her, anyway. Tink knows that I know she knows it. That's one satisfaction!"

"Newspapers Are the World's Mirror"

Comment, Cleverness and Mere Verbiage From "Educators of the Common People" in Canada and Other Lands.

A NEGLECTED POINT.

[Toronto Star.]

President Wilson is not what would be called a silent man, but he does not seem to have talked so much about what ought to be done with the ex-kaiser.

PAID WITH INTEREST.

[New York Post.]

If, as a headline says, Germany gave Bolshevism a start, the debt has been more than repaid, since Bolshevism has given Germany several starts.

BEYOND COMPREHENSION.

[Ottawa Journal.]

The public is still wondering why so many members want to speak on the debate on the address when there's no Hansard to send to their constituents.

A REFUGE FOR THE KAISER.

[New York Evening Sun.]

The ex-kaiser complains of the climate of Holland, and wants to move to Egypt. Why not give him a nice, hot, well-guarded oasis in the middle of the Sahara? But maybe he is preparing for an even warmer climate.

WOULD HELP THE HOME-OWNER.

[Toronto Star.]

The committee of the Ontario Legislature which is shortly to resume its consideration of changes in the assessment act will be out of accord with present-day thought if it fails to adopt, in some form or other, the principle of assessing buildings on a lower basis of valuation than land. The direct exemption of less costly homes to the extent of a fixed sum—say $700 or $1,000—would be a decided step in the right direction. If the former figure were adopted for houses worth $3,000 and under, it would mean that the land and other assessable entities of Toronto would have to pay an additional 2¾ mills of taxes in order to make up the revenue thus cancelled. Homes would also have to pay this rate on what assessment would remain to them, but it would, of course be much more than offset by the $700 exemption. The suggested system would save money for the man who needs it most, would encourage home-owning, and would discourage the holding of vacant land for speculative purposes.

INDUSTRIAL UNDERSTANDINGS

[Chicago Tribune.]

It is a good sign these days when large employers of labor exhibit an honest desire to sit across the table with those they employ and get together on matters that concern them both.

Lack of confidence has been the deterrent to complete industrial understanding. Tradition has made it impossible for the worker to take the employer into his trust. Tradition has made it impossible for the employer to speak frankly with his employees. Each always has been apprehensive of sharp dealing on the part of the other. Neither has felt sure of the other's good intentions. It is a false barrier.

Under a system of understandings such as that now promised by the Harvester Company, the workers will combine in groups, so that each individual may have expression for any idea that seems to him suitable for consideration as an industrial betterment. Chiefly important is that feature of the tentative agreement which provides the right of appeal to a board of arbitration. Whole justice would not appear if the final decision rested with the employer alone; but it is apparent if it is left to him and executive board of the arbitrators sitting as arbitrators.

Such a movement opens the way to completer unity of industrial factors. They are able to operate on a basis of the square deal between men. It is an appreciation of the standard interest that labor has in the world.

Labor unrest results when the suspicion of injustice seems in a fair way to be sustained. If all industrial factors combine to eliminate the suspicion, we will be pretty near to the clear understanding that marks justice and opens the era wherein men receive their worth.

SUCCESS SCORED BY ABERDEEN CLUB IN PRESENTING PLAYLET

Old-Time Tea Party Attracts Big House at the Auditorium.

"Ye Olde Tyme Tea Party" was presented at the Auditorium last evening by the Aberdeen Mothers' Club before a well-filled house. The stage setting was an old-fashioned parlor, in which Mrs. Rennet, in the person of Aunt Sarah, presided over the tea table, carrying the audience back into the era of white tidies and plush furniture. The costumes had been picked out with care, giving the desired color effects, and by their extremeness in some instances added greatly to the humor of the piece. The Aberdeen Mothers' Club should be congratulated on the staging of this production.

Mrs. Durdin made a lovely old grandma, while Miss Dorothy Durdin played the part of granddaughter. The roles of the two nieces and twins were respectively taken by Mrs. Swan, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Gillet. Other members of the cast were: Mrs. Trillet, Mrs. Smart, Mrs. Barro and Miss Velma Pink, soloists; Mrs. Copeland, Mrs. Rumble, Mrs. Herb Cook, Mrs. Langford, readers. An excellent quartet was rendered by the Mesdames Logan, Dickson, Smart and Thomas, all of these musical numbers being given at the instigation of Aunt Sarah and other members of the tea party.

Previous to the play an excellent musical program was given by outstanding local talent, including Roy Robinson, whistler; Miss Viola Pink, Miss Gladys Topping, Miss Gladys Burns, Messrs. Waugh and Chris. Pink, soloists; Miss Viola Less, reader, and the Desand twins, Scotch dancers, as well as several selections from the Henderson concert orchestra.

EMBARRASSMENT, THE RESULT OF COUGH

You've seen it often—just as the singer, preacher or great actor reaches the climax and the audience is keyed up to the highest pitch of anticipation, there comes that uncontrollable cough or sneeze from somewhere in the audience. How embarrassing for the victim who knows that the pleasure of many has been spoiled.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY. March 23, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION. By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

Israel Warned Against Compromise. Joshua 23:1—24:28. (May be used with temperance applications.)

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

10. Chapter 24:1:13. What is the substance of this address of Joshua, at this meeting of the leading men of Israel?

11. Who were the ancestors of these Israelites, and where did they live?

12. What was the purpose of this historical review given by Joshua?

13. Verses 14-18. Why did Joshua exhort them to serve God faithfully?

Golden Text—Evil companionships corrupt good morals. I. Cor. 15:33.

A CHRISTIAN SHOULD NOT BE A BUSINESS PARTNER WITH AN UNBELIEVER.

The thing of prime importance when a Christian man is contemplating a business partnership, is the character of the man whom he is about to join. If a Christian is anxious to preserve his integrity in business he should, so far as possible, associate himself with men of like disposition. The temptations to step aside from the path of strict honesty in business are many, and strong, and if you have to resist the influence of a partner who is not overscrupulous, as well as resist the temptation itself, you are liable to fall in the contest. I have known good men through the influence of crooked partners, themselves to become crooked. Of course a Christian ought not to be influenced for evil by business associated, but the danger is great.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

Sent To Reciters.

Dear Miss Grey.—There are so many requests for Irish readings now that I am sending in three short ones that have done good service, hoping they will help out some. I often wish I could help those who so anxiously demand readings, but nearly all of mine are "in my head" and I decline to part with that, and never get time to copy them out. Will try to send in a few from time to time. Now, I am going to ask a favor. Some time in February a writer whose name I forget sent in a recipe for "poor man's paint." I remember part of it was skim milk and yellow ochre. When I read it I said "There is the answer to the problem of that half acre of summer kitchen floor I have to clean every summer." And I put the paper aside. A few days after a neighbor, who was moving sent in for some old papers, and I being too sick to get them—quinsy this time—told the boy to help himself. And this paper must have gone with the rest. Now, if you still have it, may I ask for a repeat, and oblige, your friend, MRS. HOMEBIRD.

Ans. — The enclosures were most timely and welcome, and went their way last week in plenty of time for "reciters" to prepare for the 17th. "Barefoot Bess" paint recipe printed herewith: Boiled Paint.—One gallon soft water with one-quarter pound glue (good measure) dissolved in it; then add five pounds yellow ochre and let come to a boil. As soon as boiling apply to floor with whitewash brush, and when dry apply a good coat of boiled linseed oil. I heated that also in a pan of water, and applied while hot with a large paint brush.

Too Bad, Bluebell.

Dear Miss Grey,—I see by the Mail-Box where a great many readers are asking for crochet patterns. So I am inclosing some, if they can copy them off printed patterns. I wrote twice before and inclosed a stamped, addressed envelope each time for the stocking foot pattern, but never got it. But I will let that pass, as I know how busy you must be. I will sign myself the same as I did before, BLUEBELL.

Ans.—I can assure you, Bluebell, it was not pure neglect that caused the non-receipt of the pattern, for I faithfully tried to fill all "orders," e'en though they were at times delayed in being mailed. I'm sorry you did not give me your name again and I would certainly send you one. I cannot imagine what became of your other envelopes.

Wants the Words.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you or some of our readers please send me the words of "Whisper Softly, Mother's Dying" and "Dreaming of Home and Mother"? and oblige, MARGARET MAC.

Sister To Charlie?

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I am sixteen years old and would like to correspond with a respectable girl of the same age. I will write first if the party will leave her address with Miss Grey. Please answer the following questions:

1. Meanings of Doris, Mary, Garnet, Cecil, Rex?
2. What day did March 4, 1902, fall on?
3. Is there any harm in going for a drive with a boy you know?
4. Do you think there will be any farmerettes this summer?

CHARLOTTE CHAPLIN.

Ans.—1. Doris, gift of God; Mary, bitterness; Rex, a king.
2. Wednesday.
3. No, not if mother approves of the boy.

Re your postscript—I never make promises in the dark.

Ninety-Three Years Young.

Dear Miss Grey,—Am sending an envelope for patterns sent in for me by "English Ginger" and "Kate Dal." And I will try to do something for someone else and so pass it on and keep up the good work.

What days of the week did the 30th of November, 1871 and 1872 fall on?

I see "Innocent Snowdrop" says her grandfather's birthday was on Valentine's Day, and he was 83. Well, my father's birthday is not on Valentine's Day, but he will be 93 in July. How many can beat that?

It makes me feel rather warm sometimes at the slurs some of the writers throw at the Americans. I don't see why they should, as we are all of one race, language and religion, and as for boasting and bragging we Canadians can do a little of that, too, at times. Yours with a grin, TOPAZ.

Ans.—The designs are mailed you. (1) November 20, 1871, was on a Thursday, and in 1872 on a Saturday.

"Owl Head's" Thanks.

Dear Miss Grey.—I received "Long Boy" on Monday, March 3. It was just the one I wanted. A thousand thanks to whoever sent it. Was it you or someone else? And do I have to return it? If so, I will. I saw my letter some few days ago in print. I have not heard the least word about or from "Snow White." I remain the same old thing, OWL HEAD.

Ans.—I think "Sarnia Cook" was the lady who so kindly sent the music for you, and I forwarded it with pleasure. I do not think she wishes it returned. Call again?—why, of course.

A Lonely's Thanks.

Dear Miss Grey.—I see where "A Bean Pole" was asking for a teeny-weeny bit of silk for a quilt, so it's a "teeny-weeny" bit I am sending, as I've just finished one myself. I've used up all pretty clean, but every little bit helps. I wonder if "Bean Pole" will tell us what design she's using for her quilt? I made mine "crazy," so I should use up every bit without waste. Could someone send me a pattern for a print quilt that I could use both dark or light pieces in? Now could some of our expert knitters help me out of a little difficulty. I started a sweater for hubby a while back, pullover style, but I fear it's going to be on the small side, so I wondered if I could convert it into an open one with a "V" neck. If anyone has directions for sweater with a "V" neck would they kindly let me have it?

Now I wonder if any of the Pageites had the pleasant surprise we had a little while back. One of the lonelies we had been sending to called on us, on his way back. He was staying over in the city a little while, he said, and felt it his duty to look us up to thank us personally for the kindness he had received while overseas. Needless to say, we were all glad to see him return to Canada safe and sound after being away over three years. I am going to change my name this time to

A LOVER OF THE MAIL-BOX.

I certainly do enjoy it.

Ans.—How delightful to have your "lonely" call on you like that! His gratitude would, I'm sure, recompense you for any trouble you had gone to. Can readers supply this friend's wants?

Song for Rosewood.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wish to ask a favor of you or your Pageites. Would you please send me the song, "The Little Old Log Cabin in the Lane." I am sending Rosewood the old song, "Grandmother's Old Armchair."

TWILIGHT.

Ans.—Rosewood, will you please send me address and a stamp.

Sent One to "H. M."

Dear Miss Grey,—Inclosed please find two lace patterns in crochet for "Happy Mother." If anyone can work from a blocked pattern, I have a number of crocheted yoke patterns, but have not time to work in thread.

Have received so many helps from our page that I would like to help in some way. Yours sincerely,

NUFASHOND.

Made Mouth Water.

Dear Miss Grey,—I noticed where Just Neoma wanted a design of the monkey-face pattern. She can copy and return, as I only have the one. Say, that raisin pie filling February Robin sent in, makes one's mouth water. Will also inclose silk patch for Beanpole. I often wonder if Contented's newcomer arrived yet, and if she got all her things ready that were sent through the Mail-Box? Could you send me her address, please? I will also send you a few stocking patterns, as I always see a great demand for them. I wonder if some of the readers will supply me with a few crochet patterns; also knitted lace, and when I have copied them I will return all. Thanking you in advance, MORNING GLORY.

Ans.—Thank you for your inclosures. I could not give out Contented's address without her permission. If any lace patterns come to hand I shall mail them to you.

Think This Over.

Dear Miss Grey,—So A Yankee thinks that if the Americans had not been there things would have been different. Now that kind of a think will undoubtedly not make her path a primrosey one in Canada. Does A Yankee know that the Americans did very little fighting? That they had only one army corps on the fighting front until one week before the armistice? That they held a very small part of the line? That the Americans only had about 1,000 men in the wonderful Chateau Thiery fight, which is supposed to have saved Paris? Does she know that Canada has lost 6,000 men in one fight? Does she know that the British were in Belgium three days after they declared war, and does she know that the United States took ten months getting ready to go after they declared war, while the British navy and the Allies kept the Germans on the other side of the ocean? Does she know that Great Britain had 7,000,000 men on all fronts to Uncle Sam's 2,000,000? Does she know that Great Britain took over 60 per cent of the Americans overseas, and that she will bring a whole lot of them back? Does she know that the big thing the United States did for Allies was to make it safe to go ahead after the Hun just as fast and far as they liked, knowing that the big, untried American army was in reserve and could be called on if it were necessary? But, if not a single American had gone to France we might still be fighting, but you can depend on it, we'd be fighting! We stood four years of awful suffering and sacrifice, and we were prepared to stand much more. And the thing we cannot understand about Americans is that, because they won four or five of the many fights that the Allies won this summer, they say they won the war. It is a national fault which would have been entirely cured if the United States had been in the war from the day she declared war, and had had to fight as Britain did, without guns, without ammunition, without men enough, and as Canadians did at St. Julien, when all that stood between the Huns and Paris was their boyish bodies. The United States had all our experience passed on to her by our officers and men. They started where we left off, and they didn't start until they got ready or until the Allies supplied what they did not get ready. Think it over, dear girl, and perhaps you will be happier in your adopted country. ANOTHER YANKEE.

U. T. S. Outplayed Patricias n First Memorial Cup Game

niversity of Toronto Schools Run Up 11-Goal Lead on the Westerners in First Contest For O. H. A. Cup— Second Game To Be Played Saturday Night.

RENA GARDENS, TORONTO, Ont., rch 19.—The O. H. A. Memorial cup, blematic of the junior hockey champ- nship of the world, will likely stay Toronto for a year at least. Patri- s from Regina, and western champ- ns, played their first game against T. S. here tonight, and were badly ssed up. The final score was 14 to A lead of eleven goals for the To- to team it is thought cannot be ed down on Saturday. Like the kirke, the Patricias had no organized tem of attack, and were outclassed. ir defence was also weak. U. T. S. ve in two and three at a time all ht.

was the same old story, the west- ern team, with plenty of speed but without that team play that is necessary when in close on the nets. Patricias had size and speed, but they fell down badly in the first period before the U. T. S. Patricias rushed up and let fly from outside. Agget had the western defence dizzy with his tricky stick-handling, and Munro rushed right through the works time after time. The popular play was to give Jeffrey the puck for the shot. Dutkowski, a big, strong boy, was the chief rusher for the visitors. He tired and his checks roamed. Munro carried down, drew the defence away and gave the pass to let him score the first goal.

In the second period the U. T. S. ran down on the attack two or three times in a row, and it went well every time. The champions made a parade of it in the third round. U. T. S. went right to work and showed the fans just how easy it was to get goals. They ran in seven goals, and the Regina team had to be satisfied with one.

HUNDREDS TURN OUT TO HONOR WOODSTOCK PLAYERS LAST NIGHT

Players Presented With Wrist Watches by Executive.

WOODSTOCK, March 19.—Hundreds of citizens and hockey fans did honor to the local junior hockey team tonight. At 8 o'clock a procession was formed and paraded the main street. The British bulldog, the mascot of the club, proudly led the procession. Mayor Gahagan and James Saunders marshalled the parade, and were followed by the 22nd Battalion band, the members of the hockey team, the city council and last, but not the least, the "dyed in the wool" fans. At the city hall complimentary speeches were made by the mayor and others on the fine showing made by the team. Presentations of wrist watches was made to the players, after which more speeches and cheers for each of the players and Coach Billy Breen closed one of the most enthusiastic receptions and presentations ever made to any sporting club in the history of the city.

JO-JO KEENAN SIGNS UP ANOTHER PLAYER FOR LONDON'S TEAM

Jack Vermilly Will Play Short-stop or Third Base.

Manager "Jo-Jo" Keenan of the London Baseball Club has signed up Infielder Jack Vermily. This is the third player to accept the terms offered by the local leader.

Vermily, a lad of 20 years, was recommended by Arthur Devlin, the former New York Giant shortstop and now coach at the Fordham College.

Jack comes from the United States. He was drafted in the U. S. A. army in the spring of 1918 and had little chance to make a showing with the minors last year. He received some valuable baseball experience while in the army which should be of great use to him this coming season.

Keenan intends to place this lad on shortstop or third base. He is a right-hander and is light and quick on his feet.

London has now three players signed up. Henri of Buffalo will be given a place in the outfield and Bob Donnelly of Bronx, N. Y., will cover first sack.

The three players who have accepted the terms and signed up are all young men. This is the class of material that "Jo-Jo" is out to get, and with eleven other frisky lads London should be one of the strongest teams in the new Michigan-Ontario Baseball League.

O. H. A. RULES ADOPTED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF CANADIAN A. H. A.

Will Form Alliance With the American Teams.

Toronto, March 20.—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, at its annual meeting held here yesterday, it being the first time since 1915, the big amateur hockey body accomplished more in a few hours than has been done since the organization of the premier association.

The officials, without the least discussion, adopted a uniform set of rules for future Allan Cup contests, took over the supervision of the junior championship of Canada, decided to form an alliance withthe United States hockey body, elected officers for next year, and cleared up a hundred and one important matters that have been hanging fire for some time.

The visiting officers felt that the long experience of the O. H. A. in handling amateur hockey was enough to convince them that the Ontario rules were plenty good enough for any organization.

The meeting was the largest and the most enthusiastic since the association was formed, retiring President Sheriff Paxton and Secretary W. A. Hewitt conducting affairs in such a smooth manner that a lot of business was cleaned up in very short time.

The delegates were:

Ontario—Wm. Eason, Stratford, and R. M. Glover, Peterboro.

Quebec—W. R. Granger, Montreal.

Thunder Bay—G. F. Bawden, Fort William.

Saskatchewan—W. C. Bettschem.

Manitoba C. C. Robinson and R. W. Patterson.

A. A. U. of C.—Norton Crow, Toronto.

Allan Cup Trustees—Wm. Northey, Montreal.

The association decided to accept the invitation of the United States Amateur Hockey Association to form an alliance, and in the future Canadian teams wishing to play American teams must be members of the Canadian body and secure its sanction before beingallowed to perform against the Americans. Another strong rule that was added is that no commercial teams will be allowed to compete in the association.

The association will in future take care of the Canadian junior championship, the Abbott Cup of Regina, representing the West, while the O. H. A. Memorial Cup will carry with it the Canadian championship. The O. H. A. junior age limit was adopted. The annual meeting of the association will be held in the place and at the time where the Allan Cup finals take place in future. All branches must complete their schedules by February 20, and have a winner ready to play Allan Cup games not later than March 1.

Saskatchewan gets the honor of selecting the president for next year, and Fred E. Betts of Saskatoon was the popular choice. W. R. Granger of Montreal, who is out to clean up the amateur game in Quebec, was chosen vice-president, while the secretary will be selected by the president. Claude Robinson of Winnipeg will represent the association at the Canadian Amateur Association gathering.

STRANGLER LEWIS WINS MATCH AT MONTREAL

Montreal, March 20.—Strangler "Ed" Lewis, claimant for the heavyweight wrestling championship, defeated Dr. Roller in two straight falls at Sohmer Park last night, the first fall coming as the result of a cross-body hold, and the second from a scissor and body hold. The bout was almost a repetition of the previous meeting between these men in Montreal several months ago, except that Roller was downed under different circumstances.

The Nationals took two games out of three from the Brunswicks at the National alleys last evening and got a stronger grip on the title for the second series of the City Bowling League.

The first two games were easy marks for Crawford's pin-spillers. Every man on the winning team worked hard and made a good showing.

In the first game the Nationals ran up a score of 989, and came but 11 points from reaching the famous 1,000 mark. The Brunswicks scored 902 points.

The winners defeated Percy Hooper's crew by 39 points in the second contest. This second game was not as fast as the first one.

The Brunswicks came back strong in the last frame and rather disappointed the Nationals, who expected to make it three straight. The Brunswicks scored 946 and the Nationals 913.

SEATTLE WINS FROM CANADIENS IN FIRST STANLEY CUP MATCH

Montreal Defeated by Score of 7 to 0 by the Coast Team.

Seattle, March 20.—The Metropolitans, Pacific coast champions, are one game up in the race for the world championship honors. Pete Muldoon's fast stepping men outskated, outplayed and outguessed the Canadiens in the first game here last night and got away with a seven to nothing score, the big goose egg standing for the flying Frenchmen's efforts because "Happy" Holmes, Seattle's goal-keeper, was simply unbeatable on every kind of shot. Though the westerners had the edge on the visiting team all the way last night, it was the phenomenal work of Holmes between the nets which made the contest so one-sided, and Muldoon's men are not yet understating the hockey ability of the eastern champions, especially as they are a man down with Morris still out of the game. "Muzz" Murray sustained a badly bruised left hand when it came in contact with O. Cleghorn's stick, and he may be out of Saturday's game, it was said last night. This would put the Mets in a bad way as they would have but seven men available to put on the ice.

The second game scheduled for Saturday will be played under eastern rules, six men a side. Under these rules it is just possible that they will skate off the ice Saturday night with the series evened up, as they surely performed in a manner last night not indicated by the lopsided score. With even breaks Saturday night, they may easily win if Murray is still out of the game.

SARNIA, March 19.—Vic Fleming, who trained his horses at the local track the past few years, is preparing for another invasion of [illegible] circuit, which will open [illegible] at Dexter Park, Detroit on June 3, and continue till October 4, when the last meeting of the year will close at Mount Clemens, after making stops at Bay City, Port Huron, Saginaw, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids and Jackson, while dates have also been assigned to the two half-mile tracks at Cleveland and Toledo. Of the list at this stable probably Mussell Shell is the most prominent, and is one of the best and steadiest horses that ever pulled a sulky. Sarnia horsemen expect to see some of the Fleming stable at Bay View Park this season.

BULGARIANS ARE CREATING TROUBLE

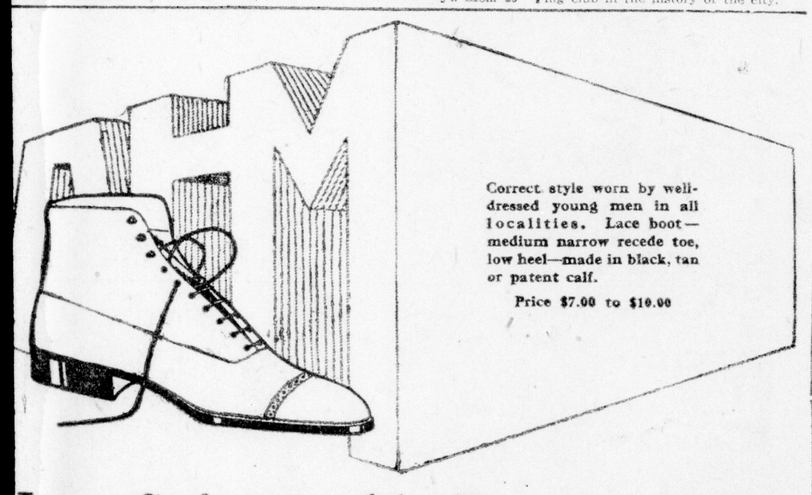

Strikes and Disorders Follow Their Campaigns.

Washington, March 19.—Great Britain, France and the United States, it was learned from official sources, are somewhat anxious over reports from the Balkans that groups of Bulgarian agitators, said to be acting apparently with official sanction, are stirring up industrial and agrarian trouble in territory adjacent to Bulgaria. Strikes and disorders are of frequent occurrence, and it was said that in nearly every instance the origin of the trouble has been found to be a group of Bulgarians. It is believed in official circles that these agitators are being sent to districts in Rumania and Serbia to create trouble with the hope that the peace conference will allot these sections to Bulgaria. The peace conference would be led to believe that the disaffection was the result of a desire on the part of the inhabitants to be under Bulgarian rule.

Your Safeguard in Buying Shoes

WHEN you buy shoes, you take somebody's word for value. It is CONFIDENCE which leads you, in the end, to lay down your hard-earned dollars for shoes. And you are right in buying where you feel the most confidence.

This confidence on the part of the buying public is the biggest asset which any dealer, or any manufacturer can have. The reputable, established dealer has YOUR interests in mind when he buys his stock; the manufacturer bears them in mind when he makes it.

Your safeguard in buying shoes is to see that your confidence is well placed. Go to a dealer whose judgment you can trust. And see that the manufacturer's trade mark is on the shoes you select. Thus you may buy with DOUBLE confidence.

Our booklet "How to Buy Shoes," will be sent, with our compliments, to any address in Canada upon request to our head office at Montreal.

CANADA FINDS ANOTHER RAILWAY ORPHAN LEFT UPON HER FRONT STEP

People Will Have Large Annual Deficits to Meet, and When Victory Bonds Have Been Paid Up There Will Be Chance to Stake Rest of Our Cash on National Railways.

BY H. F. GADSBY.

The finance minister's statement last week simply goes to show that you can't leave a railway on the clothes line over night without getting it swiped. There is reason to believe that the G. T. P. left itself out on the line on purpose and now cheerfully accepts the consequences.

H. F. Gadsby.

Cynics call attention to the difference in treatment accorded by Union Government to the C. N. R., which had friends on both sides of politics and the G. T. P., which was supposed to be as Liberal a railway as the C. P. R. was a Conservative one. The C. N. R. was handled with some tenderness. We foreclosed, as you will remember, for the four hundred million dollars the people of Canada had put into it, but we did not forget to pay another ten million dollars over to the unnamed and undiscovered shareholders who still had a lingering interest in the common stock. These shareholders, no doubt, were the same persons whose interests were conserved on former occasions when the C. N. R. was lent large sums of the public money to save it from bankruptcy.

The G. T. P. enjoys no such soft caresses. It is seized rudely from the doorstep where the poor foundling lies wailing, and bundled into the hands of a receiver, who will give it only a stepmother's love. The receiver is the minister of railways ,who is so well versed in his job that the finance minister considers it necessary to make the public statement of the transaction himself. Thus is the G. T. P. chivied about right from the start, and we may safely wager that it will get the lion's share of the spankings when public ownership is to be chastised.

Timid people may ask why we didn't let the C. P. R. take these cripples over, especially as we have had to increase the freight rates 15 per cent to keep them on their feet—thus making the C. P. R. 15 per cent richer than it really needs to be. But the time for asking such questions has gone by. We are now fully embarked on the experiment of public ownership, and we begin to experiment with three losers—the C. N. R., the G. T. P. and the National Transcontinental—and one winner, but very recently, the Intercolonial—on our hands. We would probably come out all right if we could nationalize all the railways, the profitable ones included, but so long as the C. P. R. and the G. T. R. stick out we are likely to get the short end of it.

We can't afford to pay two billion dollars for the C. P. R. and the G. T. R. has no desire to sell so long as it is making money. This means that these two great private railway systems will continue to prevent freight rates on the Government railways from becoming too altruistic for comfort, and to that extent will defeat the purpose of public ownership which is service rather than dividends. No doubt we shall have large annual deficits to meet for some years to come, and as soon as our Victory bonds are paid up the Government will be giving us a chance to stake the rest of our cash on the national railways.

The Grand Trunk Pacific enjoyed just enough ill-health to make its parent, the Grand Trunk, willing to get rid of it. The Grand Trunk Pacific was designed to connect with the Eastern Grand Trunk system by means of the National Transcontinental, thus forming a third trunk line from ocean to ocean. It was conceived by the late Charles M. Hays, who sought thus to tap the prairie trade for the Grand Trunk, and to offset the encroachments of the C. P. R. in Ontario, where the Grand Trunk had long enjoyed a monopoly. As Mr. Hays presented the scheme to Parliament—a line from the North Bay terminus of the G. T. R. into the west, and so on to the Pacific coast—it looked like a good bargain for the Grand Trunk, which would have diverted its share of the western traffic to its United States terminal at Portland, Maine. To give the Grand Trunk what it did not want—a line to the seaboard through Canadian territory—and to make the proposition acceptable to the Grand Trunk, the Government built the National Transcontinental from Moncton, N. B., right through to Winnipeg, instead of stopping at North Bay. This paralleled the Intercolonial, Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk for many miles in the east, while from Quebec westward it ran through a desert that will afford no traffic for years to come.

Having built this railway at a cost of $160,000,000, the Government leased it for 50 years at 3 per cent on the cost to the G. T. R., which repudiated its bargain and threw the railway back on the Government's hands at the first opportunity. And now we have the Grand Trunk Pacific, also paid for by the people, back at our apron strings.

Of course, the Grand Trunk Pacific, without its profitable Grand Trunk connections in Ontario and Quebec, is a tail without a dog, but that is the best the Grand Trunk is willing to do.

As a matter of fact, the G. T. R. had a sort of moral claim on our mercy. It is largely owned in England. It also makes the plea that it has only had $28,000,000 of the public money, which is true in a manner of speaking, although the dozen smaller railways of which it is the bloated survivor all got their $6,400 a mile and their land grant in the good old pork barrel days. Still as the G. T. R. hasn't cost us any money since, and as we are a sentimental people, with a lingering belief in the faith of contracts, even when they are outworn, we are inclined to listen to its despairing cry when it says, "Leave us alone."

The National Transcontinental, spite of its sad plight as a disguised, rotting railway, is not a horrible example of public ownership. It is rather an example of extending the old methods of party patronage—the pork barrel system—into the field of railway work. The railway was a hideous extravagance grafted, under the guise of patriotism, on a business scheme that was sound enough in its inception, by politicians who found their profit in squandering the public money. It and the Grand Trunk Pacific are simply the most recent signs and tokens of the tyranny long exercised by private railway interests over political parties, supine or worse.

The Intercolonial, which has been a Government railway ever since it was built in 1867—having been started under provincial ownership and continued under federal auspices as one of the terms of Confederation demanded by the Maritime Provinces—has long been cited as a warning against public ownership. As a matter of fact, it is a warning against the kind of politics which loads a railway up with party hacks and then lets it fend for itself. Now that the railway has been taken out of party politics and run as a railway should be, it showed last year a surplus of $2,363,000. As the pet goat of the private railway interests, working through Parliament, the Intercolonial has been loaded with every handicap that could make an argument against public ownership.

In the first place, it was a military railway, and as such it took the longest way round—they call it the tanbark route in New Brunswick—in order to be wholly in British territory. It was not allowed by the imperial authorities to take economical short cuts, as the C. P. R. does, through the United States. For years it stopped at Riviere du Loup on the St. Lawrence, and did not get a look in at the great Western Canada trade until Mr. Blair came along at the end of the nineteenth century and pushed it into Montreal.

However, Canada must do the best she can with three losers and one bud of hope. The immediate gain we may expect to derive from our experiment in public ownership in the lessening influence of private railway interests in federal politics. We hope to get rid of the railway ring—or at all events, to make it less of a wedding ring and more of an engagement ring which can be given back when love grows cold.

The method here suggested for the removal of superfluous hair is quick and certain, and unless the growth is extremely stubborn, a single application does the work. Make a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water; apply this to the hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub it off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To avoid disappointment, be sure your druggist sells you delatone.—Advt.

SCOLDING THE CHILDREN

Nervous mothers, worried from morning to night by the care of children and the duties of the household; nervous children, perhaps worn out by overstudy, unable to sit still or stand still, or keep their minds concentrated or anything, both need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood and strengthen the nerves.

Try a short treatment with these strengthening, tonic pills and watch the color return to pale cheeks and lips; see how the worn tired nerves recover their poise, note how much less irritating the children become, and how much less scolding they need. They lighten the cares of life because they give you new strength to meet them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be kept in every home, as a precaution against the many troubles due to watery blood and weak nerves. You can get the pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or 6 for $2.50 from The Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Ram's-horn—able assistant to the Hot Spot, which makes Chalmers a great car

THERE has been so much favorable comment on the Hot Spot device of the Chalmers that often the Ram's-horn of this great car is overlooked.

The Ram's-horn completes the magnificent work of the Hot Spot, the main purpose of which is to fletcherize or "crack up" and heat the gas coming from the carburetor.

Having done its work the Hot Spot passes the 100% conditioned gas on to the Ram's-horn. Now here is where an important job begins.

Gas is a peculiar thing. It "sticks in corners," "collects at any angle," goes back to its raw state unless it is handled quickly and scientifically.

So the Ram's-horn, as one might gather from the name, is without sharp corners, has easy bends and entices the gas smoothly into each cylinder. The inside of it is not a rough casting. It is as smooth as glass.

Note the drawing above. See that the distance from the Hot Spot to each cylinder is the same. That is the great secret of the Ram's-horn.

Most cars have a manifold that feeds gas into one cylinder, whatever is left over goes on into number two, the residue to number three and so on.

Cylinder number six is usually "starved" or gets "raw gas."

Thus you see why the Chalmers engine runs so smoothly, why it gets every last bit of power out of gas, why cold weather does not affect its starting, and why it runs cool on a warm day.

If you have not looked over a present day Chalmers you have an incomplete education on the modern motor car. For Chalmers now is considered one of the few great cars of the world.

GUM DECAY CAUSES TOOTH DECAY

Healthy teeth need healthy gums to hug them. Else they will loosen in Pyorrhea. Tiny openings will come in the gums to act as the gateways of disease germs, which infect the joints or tonsils, or cause other ailments.

Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No mere toothpaste does. Are your gums tender, gums? Are they bleeding gums? If so, you are certain to have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people who are over forty have it.

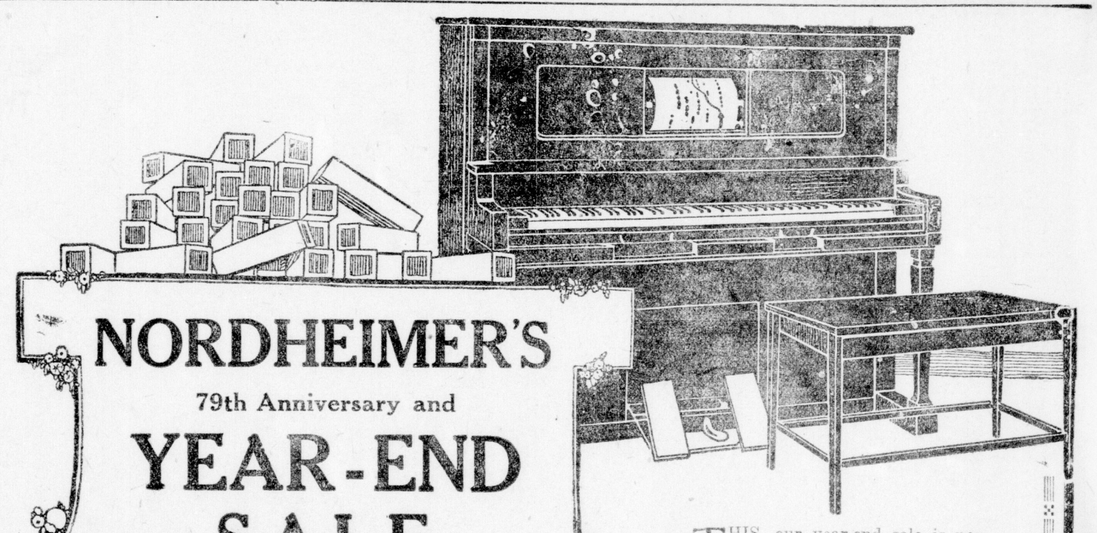

To you we earnestly recommend Forhan's. It preserves the gums which hold the teeth secure.

Brush your teeth with it. Forhan's cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

TORY MEMBERS TRY TO SEW UP RENT IN PARTY

DEWART SPEAKING TODAY

W. H. Fraser, Farmer Member For Huron, Ridicules Agricultural Dept.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, March 19.—Supporters of Sir William Hearst took steps today to check the recent agitation within the Conservative party, to oust the prime minister from office. A caucus was held of the Conservative members of the Legislature for the express purpose of voicing satisfaction with the administration of Sir William Hearst. The statement which was issued subsequently declared that the resolution, which was presented to the prime minister was "Carried unanimously and enthusiastically."

The insurgency in the Conservative party, which became marked in different quarters during the last three or four weeks, caused alarm in the pro-Hearst ranks. While the resolution passed today may serve to put a stop to the agitation in the outlying parts of the province, it will hardly have any effect on the rabid liquor elements within the party.

Will Put Him More at Ease.

On the other hand, it is remarked that the resolution pledging "unanimous support" does not necessarily imply a pledge for prolonged futurity. It will no doubt make Sir William feel more comfortable as he sits in the House.

The resolution adopted was: "That the Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature, in caucus upon the first occasion since the signing of the armistice, do extend sincere congratulations and hearty thanks to our leader, Sir William Hearst, for the eminently able, conscientious and worthy discharged of the onerious duties devolving upon him since his elevation to the office of prime minister, and particularly for his war policies and war work, which have redounded to the credit of this great province, and further, that with the knowledge of his tasks and the tremendous responsibilities resting upon him, we declare ourselves to be unitedly and loyally behind him in his leadership of the great Conservative party, and we do pledge him our unanimous support."

Dewart Speaks Today.

Tomorrow will see the budget debate concluded in the Legislature. The adjournment today was moved by Hartley Dewart, member for Southwest Toronto. He will be the first speaker tomorrow afternoon, and is expected to introduce an amendment. During the period of the truce the Liberals refrained from introducing amendments to both the speech from the throne and the budget. A change was made this year on the speech from the thone when a vote was necessary, and it is expected division bells will ring before adjournment Thursday night.

Six speakers were heard today, among whom was W. H. Fraser, the newly-elected Farmer-Liberal member from North Huron, who in his maiden address delivered a plea for the placing of practical farmers at the head of the department of agriculture.

Fraser Has 'Em Tagged.

"You might as well," contended Mr. Fraser, referring to the department of agriculture, "expect me to teach a department store how to sell goods, or Mr. Bowman (United Farmer member, Manitoulin), to lecture to lawyers on corporation law, as expect a lawyer to make good as minister of agriculture, a newspaper reporter as his deputy, or a lumberman as an agricultural expert."

Mr. Fraser urged that steps be taken by the Government to prevent further decrease in the rural population of the province.

S. Ducharme, Liberal member for North Essex, defended the farmers from charges of profiteering, and asked for Government investigation to fix the responsibility for existing high prices.

James Thompson, East Peterboro; W. C. Chambers, West Wellington; John Grieve, North Middlesex, and Joseph Edgar, Parry Sound, were the other speakers of the afternoon.

CHARLES RAY IN "THE GIRL-DODGER" AT THE MAJESTIC

Popular Actor Pleases Patrons With His Newest Offering —Showing Today Only.

Charles Ray's new photoplay, "The Girl Dodger," which was shown at the Majestic yesterday, is clean-cut fascitainment from start to finish. It has the ingredients of a thoroughly fascinating tale of school days—or college days. The adventures of Cuthbert Trotman, a dreamy student, who is compelled to take the place of a lively associate when a dinner in honor of a chorus lady and her friends planned by the other conflicts with a more serious affair, is the basis of a plot that involves the hero in some of the most amazing adventures. He finally extricates himself by his fistic prowess and despite his dreamy outlook and his studious tastes, wins the other fellow's girl. Needless to say, Charles Ray is the dreamy student. Doris Lee is the girl.

The pranks of students, the distracting experience of the student when he mistakes the fashionable affianced of his friend for the chorus girl, the ensuing contretemps and a series of the most amusing and exciting complications, provide material for what is the most rapid-fire film that has been produced in a long time.

"Perfectly Fiendish Flannigan," a James Montgomery Flagg comedy, is a veritable scream from start to finish.

A News Weekly, and an excellent vaudeville act completes a highly-commendable program that will be repeated today.

JULIA ARTHUR TO APPEAR PERSONALLY AT THE MAJESTIC

Well-Known Canadian Actress Coming to London Next Week.

Miss Julia Arthur, the celebrated Canadian actress, who is featured in "The Cavell Case," showing at the Majestic next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will appear at this popular theatre in person during the presentation of this photoplay.

"The Cavell Case" is the story of Edith Cavell, the British Red Cross nurse, who gave up love to devote her life to the caring for the sick and wounded. Edith Cavell loved Brooks, but refused to marry him because she felt she had another mission in life. When the war breaks out Nurse Cavell is stationed at the Brussels hospital. She helps Frank Brooks, her old sweetheart's son, to escape. She is discovered and imprisoned. "The shot which rang around the world and raised and army overnight" was the shot that killed Edith Cavell.

The largest increase is in public works, which will be largely in connection with harbor improvement. The sum to be expended will include $30,000,000 required for the construction of vessels in accord with the Government's shipping program.

Of the total proposed expenditure $85,895,581 will be chargeable to capital account and $351,785,490 to consolidated revenue account.

60 Millions on Railways.

Very large expenditures are again to be made in connection with railways. The amount to be appropriated is $60,896,681, which is an increase over $23,000,000 as compared with the current fiscal year. The remainder of the capital expenditure of $5,250,000 will be in connection with public works generally.

The estimates tabled today are exclusive of war expenditure which will be covered by a special vote.

The amount provided for pensions is slightly over $30,000,000, an increase of almost $14,000,000 over the current year.

Almost $1,500,000 is to be voted to immigration and colonization costs, an increase of $303,000. This does not include the expenditure in connection with land settlement for soldiers, for which the sum of over $25,000,000 is to be voted.

Soldiers' Re-establishment.

Another large proposed expenditure is $22,763,420 provided the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment which includes the amount to be devoted to vocational training of returned men.

The railway and canal votes chargeable to capital include over $11,600,000 for government railway and $25,000,000 for miscellaneous railway equipment. The application for the Hudson Bay Railway is only $100,000, but western members hope that this will be increased in the supplementary estimates to be brought down later. The $100,000 Hudson Bay vote is for Port Nelson terminals.

$3,500,000 on Welland Canal.

Provision is made for the spending of $3,500,000 on the Welland Canal.

Railways and canal votes chargeable to income total over $36,000,000. N. R. or any company included in the Canadian Northern system, and for construction and betterments, said loan to be secured by mortgaging it on the understanding of the Canadian Northern Railway system containing such terms and conditions as the governor-in-council may approve.

Harbor and river votes chargeable to capital include $300,000 for improvements at Port Arthur and Port William, $750,000 for improvements at St. John, and $500,000 for Toronto harbor improvements. There is a long list of harbor and river votes chargeable to income, divided pretty equally between the various provinces.

Miscellaneous public works votes include $25,000 for a monument to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

An additional $2,000,000 will be voted in connection with the construction of the new Parliament Buildings at Ottawa.

St. Lawrence Ship Canal.

Public works votes chargeable to capital include $475,000 for the River St. Lawrence ship canal and $163,000 to complete the dredging plant for the St. Lawrence River from Montreal to Father Point.

Owing to the enlargement and increased jurisdiction of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police force the appropriation has been increased from $1,174,000 to $2,249,505.

MUSICAL COMEDY REVUE IS HEADLINE FEATURE AT GRAND

Ethel Barrymore in "The Divorcee" Today, Friday and Saturday.

A splendid vaudeville program has been arranged for presentation at the Grand today, tomorrow and Saturday, daily at 2:15 and 7:30. The special feature of the bill will be a big musical comedy revue, with six pretty girls and a clever comedian as the entertainers. The offering is described as a world of fun: all the latest songs, snappy music, witty dialogue and smart clothes are included in the presentation of this classy offering.

Joe Cook, the humorist, billed as "The One-Man Vaudeville Show," is a big feature of this bill. He has a wide variety of entertainment, ranging from acrobats and juggling to singing and dancing.

Also on the same bill will be Frozini, a young Italian musical genius, and the acknowledged peer of all accordionists. Mr. Frozini has a very large repertoire, and will be glad to play selections, classic or popular, by request, sent by mail. He will render a different program every performance.

Keno, Keys and Melrose are a trio of exceptional gymnasts, splendid comedians and clever dancers. Their feats in hand-to-hand and head-to-head balancing are performed in a nonchalant manner, and are flavored with a spirit of fun that brings laughs coupled with real appreciation. It is an act that will most assuredly amuse and entertain highly, for this agile trio of comedians and gymnasts furnish an exhibition of original feats and laughable tricks that one would scarcely find in a world-wide search of the material that goes to make up vaudeville.

Harrington and Mills, comedians and dancers, will conclude this all-feature bill. This clever duo will win immediate favor with their eccentric dance steps and their pleasing songs.

Ethel Barrymore in "The Divorcee."

"The Divorcee," which will be the feature screen attraction at the Grand today, tomorrow and Saturday, was taken from the successful stage play, "Lady Frederick," by W. Somerset Maugham. It is a wonderful story of intense human emotions. In this dramatic Metro production Ethel Barrymore is seen in her artistic and emotional best. She plays the same role which she created on the stage, and in which she became internationally famed. The story is a powerful one—full of the passions which sway and dominate. Jealousy, intrigue, revenge and love all take their turn upon the stage of life, but, as always, love and good prevail, and the story ends with a beautiful romance. The action is swift and intense, and Miss Barrymore touches dramatic heights never before reached by an American actress. The Grand topical review of current events and the Grand orchestra in a special musical program will also be features at each performance.

Alice Joyce in "The Lion and the Mouse."

"The Lion and the Mouse," the Vitagraph super-production, produced under the personal supervision of Albert E. Smith, Vitagraph's president, presents Alice Joyce in what promises to be another history-making role. The picture is adapted from the famous stage success of the same name, written by the late Charles Klein, which created a sensation on Broadway several seasons ago, and which today is running strong in stock houses all over the country. It is a thoroughly worth-while story, and, as put out by Vitagraph, under the direction of Tom Terriss, easily ranks among the most impelling and artistic photo-dramas in many a day.

Miss Joyce, as might be expected, is beautiful, appealing, and at all times convincing as the clever little Mouse, who brings to his knees the financial Lion of the world, and saves her father from disgrace and her sweetheart to herself. She is naturalness personified in a play that is as human as it is powerfully dramatic, and her characterization of the role of Shirley Rossmore easily takes place among her highest screen triumphs. She is supported by a well-balanced cast of exceptional merit, including Conrad Nagel, Anders Randolf, Henry Hallam, T. W. Carlton, Mona Kingsley, Jane Jennings, W. H. Burton, Templer Saxe, and Mary Carr. "The Lion and the Mouse" will be seen in the Star Theatre for last time today.

MARGUERITE CLARK, known as "the sweetest girl in pictures," appearing at the Majestic Theatre on Friday and Saturday in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Miss Clark appears as Lovey Mary, that delightful creature whose pranks in the story won her so many juvenile admirers. The picture is claimed to be a remarkable one in many respects, its situations being dramatic and its heart-appeal to old and young alike, irresistible.

JAPANESE ACTOR IN "A HEART IN PAWN" AT THE PATRICIA

Sessue Hayakawa in His Latest Photoplay Today, Friday and Saturday.

Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese star, is appearing at the Patricia Theatre today, Friday and Saturday, in his latest screen success, "A Heart in Pawn." The picture is a screen version of "Shadows," the stage play in which the great Japanese actor made a sensation in this country just before Hayakawa left the speaking stage for film drama.

Toyama (Sessue Hayakawa) leaves his pretty wife Sada (Tsuru Aoki), whom he has secretly married in Japan, and comes to the United States to complete his education.

Unknown to Toyama, Sada had sold herself as a Geisha girl in order to obtain money for her husband's education. Shortly after Toyama's departure, Sada kills Koji, a rich banker, who had insulted and attacked her in the tea room, and is sentenced to death, but the sentence is commuted to life imprisonment when Toyama's child is born.

Toyama, in America, had received a letter saying Sada had paid the death penalty. A few years later he returned to Japan, bringing with him his half-caste wife, the daughter of his American patron, who had placed him on the road to fame.

Sada, escaping from prison by strangling the guard, makes her way to Toyama's house, and is heart-broken when she finds that he is married again. Realizing there can be no happiness for her, she sacrifices her life for her child's and Toyama's happiness.

The balance of the program will consist of a special two-part Big V comedy, a Mutt and Jeff cartoon comedy entitled "The Doughboys," and White and West in a classy singing and dancing act.

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advt.

NOT A PARTICLE OF DANDRUFF OR A FALLING HAIR

Save your hair! Double its beauty in just a few moments.

"Danderine" makes your hair thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs.

Mother's Pet Needs a Cascaret

Baby is mad! Doesn't want the favorite dolly, or the horn, or the picture books—but don't scold!

Look at the tongue! Then hurry! Give candy Cascarets to work the nasty bile, souring food and constipation poison from the little liver and bowels.

MOTHERS! Clean the clogged-up places. Do away with the bile, sour fermentations and constipation poison which is keeping your little one cross, feverish and sick. Children love Cascarets, because to them it is like eating candy. Cascarets act better than castor oil, calomel or pills on the tender stomach, liver and bowels. Cascarets never gripe, never injure, and do not disappoint the worried mother. Give harmless Cascarets to children one year old and upwards. Each ten cent box contains full directions.

Where Harwich Farmer Was Brutally Murdered by an Unknown Assailant

The home of Thomas Whalen, near Vosburg Station, five miles east of Chatham, in which he was found dead Friday, his head having been crushed in with some heavy instrument, according to the coroner's jury. The man on the extreme right is Sherman Whalen, his son, who found him. An axe bearing traces of blood was found close beside the body, and is believed to have been the instrument used. He was last seen on the Tuesday previous. The fact that a wallet, which he carried, is missing, and that footprints made by a small shoe, were discovered in the earth near the house, have added to the mystery clouding the affair, which has stirred the whole countryside.

The interior of the house, showing the chair in which Whelan was believed to have been sitting or dozing, when his assailant stole through the door and killed him. The cup on the table showed distinct blood stains, as also did the axe found leaning against the wall between the door and chair. His head was found resting near the saw-horse (on the right of the picture), in a pool of blood, which had even run into an adjoining room. The murdered man was fully dressed at the time, including his cap, and it was at first believed that he had fallen against the stove. The severity of his skull injuries later made this view untenable.

Sir Thomas White Says Newsprint Commission Helped Out War Loans.

OTTAWA, March 19.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, Hon. Mr. Crerar was asked a series of questions in regard to the Canada Food Board. He told Mr. Sinclair of Guysboro that up to December 31 last, 78,016 licenses were issued by the food board for the sale of foodstuffs. The sum of $336,261 was charged in fees for the licenses. Licenses still in force were millers and packers.

It was intended to continue the issue of the licenses beyond expiry of the present licenses.

Total expenditure of the board from June 1, 1917, to December 31, 1918, was $623,111.

Grain in Storage.

In reply to a question by Mr. Stevens, Hon. A. K. MacLean said that on February 14 last, grain in store in elevators or ships in Canadian ports east of Lake Superior was as follows:

Canadian grain, 18,347,147 bushels; American, 6,191,846 bushels.

During the 1918 season of navigation lake shipments of wheat, crop of 1918, from Fort William and Port Arthur totalled 50,565,345 bushels.

Sir Thomas White informed Mr. Kay that up to March 12, 1919, the newsprint commission had cost the country $75,945. The investigation, he said, had enabled the various newspapers to continue by regulating the supply and cost of paper, thus making it possible for the Government to give greater publicity to the various war loans and other necessary measures.

Hon. J. A. Calder told Mr. Proulx that the cost of the repatriation committee to March 11 was $60,720. There were 50 employed in the work of the committee at the present time. Salaries to date totalled $20,364.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, March 20.—Oats opened ⅝c up for May at 72½c.

Barley 1¼c up for May at 99c.

Inspections on Wednesday totaled 133 cars for all grains. The contract grades of wheat were 52 cars.

Chicago, March 20.—Opening: Corn—May, $1 42¾; July, $1 34⅜.

Oats—May, 64¼c; July, 63¼c.

Chicago, March 20.—Greatly increased shipments from Argentina, together with larged domestic offerings, had a decided bearish effect today on corn. Argentine exports of corn during the last week were estimated as five times heavier than for the previous week, or for a year ago. Commission houses here sold freely, and there was said to be much reselling of cash corn in the East. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1c lower, were followed by material setbacks all around, although transient rallies intervened.

Oats followed corn, but showed more resistance to pressure. After opening unchanged to ¼c off, the market underwent a moderate further sag.

LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, March 20.—The price of hogs reached $20 at the Union stockyards this morning. Numerous theories are advanced by dealers for the increase. In some quarters keen competition among firms anxious to obtain a large supply of hogs is regarded as the cause of the flurry. Many are confident that prices will drop suddenly in the near future. Cattle trade was active, with prices steady, while small meats were unchanged. Receipts, 448 cattle, 56 calves, 1,383 hogs and 69 sheep. Quotations:

BRITAIN SACRIFICES TRADE OPPORTUNITY FOR SAKE OF ALLIES

Retention of Blockade Is an Inter-Allied Policy.

HIS BUDGET CRITICIZED

Government Trying to Abolish Control of Exports as Quickly as Safe.

London, March 19.—Speaking in the House of Commons today on the second reading of the appropriation bill, George Lambert, former civil lord of the admiralty, said there were two budgets this year, aggregating £1,500,000,000, and that if this sum were to be raised by taxes it would mean fifteen shillings in the pound income tax and the doubling of the duties on tea and sugar. The chancellor of the exchequer, the member added, would have to resort to borrowing. He appealed to the Government to be resolute in restoring the export trade, unhindered and unchecked by any "absurd Government regulations."

Sir Frederick Banbury, privy councillor, warned the Government that a continuance of the present financial methods meant, eventually, national bankruptcy.

Other speakers complained that control of exports permitted America to step in and capture British trade abroad.

Mr. Chamberlain's Reply.

J. Austen Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, replying to the criticism, said that the Government was trying to abolish control as quickly as was safe. The export of cotton goods was free to every part of the world except the blockaded countries, he declared, and in this case restrictions were maintained for reasons of inter-allied policy. The House, he believed, would hardly assume responsibility for acting in opposition to Great Britain's allies.

Mr. Chamberlain said he was advised it was not a fact that Americans were sending goods where British goods were not admitted. What the Americans had done was to book orders and give long credits for goods to be delivered when the blockade was raised. It was open to British manufacturers to do the same.

The sooner the blockade could be raised, Mr. Chamberlain asserted, the better the Government would be pleased, and it would gratify the Government if Germany could draw some of her supplies through neutral countries.

What Science Says About Crossmating "Animal Man"

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D., (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

There is no human race or tribe so distinct that when one is crossed with another—that is to say, intermarried—sterility follows. Human kind is thus proved to be a single, solitary kind of species.

Intermarriage in the widest possible sense is comparable with the mating or crossing of the widest varieties of a species of wild animal or with the mating of the most distinct breeds of domestic animals.

The racehorse and the draft horse differ as much as a Chinaman and a Hottentot. Yet the offspring of intermarriages and matings do not lack in vigor, size or reproductive capacity. These, however, are not the only qualities which are most desirable either in horses or in citizens. It is a particular combination of qualities, as Professor W. E. Castle of Harvard puts it, which makes a racehorse run so fast or a draft horse capable of so much work. Matings between them, however, will not yield a good race horse or a powerful draft animal.

Pure races or breeds are, therefore, best, and crossing is inadvisable, unless a new type can be devolped thereby for some new purpose.

If a new type is looked for, it may take generations and generations of experimenting on such matings before even an approximate result is obtainable.

A Strange Case.

Mixed races, however, are not sickly or feeble, as some believe. If this occurs it is because the parents selected were sickly, not because of the "mixed breeds."

Marriages out of a race, like matings between widely diverted races, when mates within the race are available, are often evidence that the individual so mating may be a social outcast. Of course, it is then no more a surprise than the fact that a hothouse contains plants to find the progeny of such individuals may be feeble or "non est." Feeble parents are apt to bring into the world children of equal feebleness.

There is nothing to be gained for humanity by marriages between a superior and an inferior race, even if both parents are perfectly healthy.

There is a hybrid human race more than a century old. The facts read like a romance.

In the year 1788, John Bligh, an English sailing master, a former companion of Capt. Cook on his second voyage, was sent to Tahiti for breadfruit. His ship, the Bounty, had a crew which resented his cruelty and mutinied. Bligh and 18 men were set adrift in a launch and after months of hardship landed at Timor, 3,600 miles from where they started. Thence they returned to England, and the Government sent a warship to punish the mutineers.

What Time Proves.

Only their leader and nine other sailors escaped to Pitcairn Island in company with 12 native women and six male natives. Their place of refuge remained a secret for 20 years, when it was accidentally discovered by an American sealing ship in 1808.

Disorder and lawlessness prevailed on this coral island for 10 years or so. Eight or nine women and several children were all that survived except one Englishman. That was in 1808.

When the good ship Britain visited the island in 1815 there was peace and plenty there. Forty years later the number of inhabitants had increased to 200 from the 15 to 20 of 1808.

The island was now too small for them, so they requested to be moved and were taken to Norfolk Island, which now has over 1,000, mostly descendants of the Pitcairn islanders. These are a cross between English and Tahitans. Sociologically, biologically and socially these matings have proved to be successful and show as high a type of men and women as there is anywhere else on earth.

Obviously, man is born with the potential capacity of reason, as powerful in native, uncivilized Tahitans as in any other race of the human family.

Answers to Health Questions

C. G. R. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for albumin in urine.

A.—Albumin may be found in the kidney fluids under many circumstances. It may accompany infectious maladies and fatal maladies, and may also be present without serious organic trouble. You should have an examination made.

V. E. O. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for constipation.

A.—Take a glassful of water every hour, on the hour, two glassfuls before meals, charcoal tablets, milk of magnesia, eat prunes, raisins, apples, figs, dates, oranges and other fruits at night and between meals. Slightly warmed—not boiled—milk, wholewheat, bran biscuits, oatmeal and vigorous massage of the abdomen will help.

H. M. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for a catarrh.

A.—Never be satisfied with the word "catarrh"—it is no diagnosis. It is expressed in a great many cases to cover the lack of diligence in searching for the real cause of the trouble. Often examination of the nose and throat by a nose and throat surgeon will reveal deflected bones, tumorous growths, adenoids, infected tonsils and other things which a slight operation will correct.

MRS. B. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for falling hair.

A.—A little of the following may be tried on alternate nights. Rub in with a stiff-bristle brush:

Fluid extract pilocarpine..	1 dram
Tincture of cantharides..	½ dram
Tincture of capsicum	1 dram
Quinine sulphate	1 dram
Rosewater	1 ounce
Distilled water	3 ounces

C. B. T. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for the gout.

A.—If the individual really has gout he should live on milk and light fruits and vegetables. Avoid all heavy alkaline fluids, such as whites of eggs, fish, pepper and such things.

ADVERTISER READER. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for indigestion.

A.—Of the dozens of different stomach disorders, non-medical persons may call any one of them "indigestion." However, that does not make it so. The real disorder is to be sought for by an analysis of the digestive juices and by test meals.

D. L. M., DORCHESTER. Q.: Kindly advise me what to do for fever blisters?

A.—Fever blisters are cured by means of a little ammoniated mercury ointment or other antiseptic.

A. C., LONDON. A.—If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your query repeated, I shall be glad to give you the information you desire.

L. M. W., AYLMER. Q.: Kindly advise me what to do for cold hands?

A.—Cold hands may be due to over-exercise, or they may be a perfectly normal condition. You should have a complete examination made of the heart, lung and other structures.

A. A., Canada. Q.—Kindly advise me what to do to make my hair curly.

A.—Purchase some quince seed, and add a little rosewater to it. Apply this to the hair and place hair pins in it to keep the waves in place. Let it dry thoroughly and then brush the hair lightly.

Good Night Stories

LADY FLY'S WEATHER BUREAU.

Lady Fly tied her little bonnet under her funny little brown chin and flew down to Old Black Ant's door.

"Where to now?" asked Old Black Ant. "Not very far, I hope."

"Oh, yes, indeed!" buzzed Lady Fly. "I'm going out to see the world. If any-one calls, tell them I won't be home much before night."

She was about to fly away when Mr. Black Ant stopped her.

"Wait a second!" he cried. He disappeared in his house, soon returning with an umbrella under his arm. "You'd better take this with you."

"Oh, dear, no!" laughed Lady Fly. "I'm not afraid of a little sunshine. In fact, that's why I decided to go out—it's such a beautiful day."

"Beautiful now," replied Old Black Ant, "but by the time you're ready to start home you'll find it raining."

"Just like you old folks," buzzed Lady Fly, "always foretelling the weather by the way you feel."

"I may be an old ant, Lady Fly, but I've nothing the matter with me," cried Mr. Black Ant softly. "Whenever I see the sorrel or the clover plants drooping their leaves I know it's going to rain before the day's over."

Lady Fly laughed and flew away, leaving Old Black Ant wagging his head sorrowfully as he went back into his house.

Lady Fly went buzzing merrily, chatting with everyone she met on her way. She stopped to visit all the meadow folks, and had a jolly day of it; but just as she turned to start back she found the wind had changed and the beautiful sunny sky was shrouded in dark clouds. The wind was so strong Lady Ant had to give up trying to fly. She dropped to the ground and crawled under a clover leaf to wait until the storm was over.

Here she found Miss Lady Bug and told her all her troubles.

"Old Black Ant warned me and even offered me his umbrella, but I thought it was just one of his whims and made fun of him," she told Lady Bug.

"Well, he was right when he said you could tell whether it was going to rain or not by the clover and sorrel plants," sighed Lady Bug. "I never venture far from home without first consulting them to find out what kind of weather it's going to be, and never yet have they told me an untruth."

"And they really do turn up their leaves before a storm?" asked Lady Fly.

Lady Fly waited until the storm had passed, then she hurried home, first stopping at Old Black Ant's door to say she was sorry she hadn't heeded his warning.

From that time on the woodland folks call the clovers and sorrels Lady Fly's weather bureau.

MY SOLDIER HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S CONTINUATION OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Weeks of tantalizing uncertainty as to the prospect of Dicky's speedy homecoming followed the receipt of his letter. We had other letters from him, but in none did he refer in anything but the vaguest manner to the prospect of getting out of the service. Nor was there any further news of Harry Underwood available.

The house cleaning was long since accomplished, and my father's prediction had been fulfilled. The rest of us were tired out physically, frayed around the edges of our tempers, for Mother Graham had put many duties upon me outside of school hours, and had inveigled my father into numberless "chores," as she dubbed them.

Katie was perceptibly thinner and paler when the old general of the house-cleaning campaign finally pronounced herself, if not satisfied, at least willing to declare an armistice for awhile. But my mother-in-law herself was as chipper as the birds, who, because of the unusual mildness of the winter were much in evidence in the trees surrounding our home.

"I wish if Richard's coming he'd make up his mind when!" she said testily one day, surveying the rooms, which did indeed look wonderfully fresh and pretty with their renovated draperies and rearranged furniture. "This will all have to be done over again if he doesn't hurry up."

I gave an apprehensive little shiver, which, fortunately I was able to conceal from her sharp eyes. In another moment her mind had leaped to another subject.

"Have you noticed that Katie's looking pretty peaked lately?" she asked, and there was real solicitude in her voice.

The Unwise Words.

"She's been working unusually hard," The words escaped my lips involuntarily.

I would have given a good deal to have had them back again when I saw my mother-in-law's figure begin to stiffen, sure sign that she was offended. I am always irresistibly reminded of the arching back of a ruffled cat when I see this indication of Mother Graham's displeasure, but I am always careful to keep my face impassive. The least betrayal of amusement would be fatal to the family peace of mind.

"You can be more kinds of an idiot when you try, Margaret, than any other woman I know! Working unusually hard! She's simply had enough work to keep her out of mischief, and keep her mind off what's worrying her. She's moping about that husband of hers. When did she hear from him last?"

I was thankful that I had escaped so easily. Mother Graham usually dissects a fancied offence offered to herself to the last molecule. But I saw that underneath her brusque manner lay a genuine interest in Katie's happiness, and I hastened to answer her.

"About three months ago," I replied soberly, for I, also, had been troubled by Jim's long silence. The October drive with its terrible aftermath was always in my mind when I thought of Jim. I had persistently kept the frequent postal delays before Katie's eyes as a reason for Jim's silence, but secretly I had feared a more sinister reason.

"Well, there's one of two things certain!" my mother-in-law replied with the didactic brusqueness so characteristic of her. "He's either dead or else he's found somebody else over there in France and forgotten all about Katie. The poor thing! What's that?"

"You Foolish Child!"

She had heard what I had, a choking, gasping sound outside the door. I knew in an instant what had happened. Katie's most reprehensible fault is that of listening to conversations not intended for her. I have tried in vain to break her of it. This time her punishment had come quickly, relentlessly.

"Please, mother," I said firmly as she rose and started toward the door. "Let me attend to this."

For a wonder she obeyed me, and I passed quickly out of the door, closed it after me and took into my arms the frenzied, hysterical girl, who was catching at her throat and sobbing horribly.

"I tear her old eyes out," she gasped —she couldn't scream — something for which I was profoundly grateful. I didn't wish to add Mother Graham's anger to the present problem. "My Jeem he have no oder vomans. Maybe he dead, but he have no oder vomans. Ah—"

The scream tore from her throat then but I had already managed to get her down the hall, and before she gave way altogether to the hysteria which was within her I had her safely in her own room with the door shut.

There I tried vainly to quiet her, but the girl had kept her anxiety for her husband too long to herself. She raved and wept, until at last despairing of any other method, I dashed cold water into her face and brought her dripping and angry, but tractable, back to herself.

"You foolish child!" I said when she was in a fit state to listen to me. "You'll be ashamed of this when the doorbell rings some day soon and you find Jim standing there."

I made the prophecy with a heavy heart, simply to pacify the girl. And no one was more surprised than I when a few days later Katie went to the door in answer to a ring, to hear her wild cry of:

"Jeem! Jeem!"

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, MARCH 21.

While the mutual aspect between the Sun and Uranus augurs well for an important and sudden change or journey, the predominant planetary figures by Lunar transit are rather discouraging and unpromising. There is likelihood of unlooked for delays, disappointments and obstacles, with a disposition to precipitate trouble and annoyance, if not litigation, through irritability, rashness and intemperate speech or quarrelling. The financial outlook is not encouraging, and the health and domestic affairs are also likely to give some concern.

Those whose birthday it is may expect some sudden change or journey, which should bring good fortune if matters are handled with patience and coolness. They should avoid disputes and litigation, and protect the health and domestic circle. A child born on this day will be adventurous and original but should be taught thrift and self-control.

Sammy Muskrat worked very hard and fast digging the clams; and his mouth watered, and he smacked his lips very often, as he dug up a fat and delicious clam and laid it on the grassy bank.

Sammy was very set in his ways, as I said, and he wouldn't eat a single clam while he was at work clam-digging. You see, he was very particular indeed about his table manners. He wouldn't eat a Shore Dinner when his hands were dirty. And he said to himself, while digging clams: "It makes me sick to see Dick Otter dig clams, and gulp them down, like a pig, with his hands all dripping with mud! I'm glad that I wasn't brought up that way by my mother."

And when Sammy had twelve big fat clams on the bank, lying on the moss, he grinned from ear to ear, and chuckled to himself: "My, won't I have a feast, all by myself, when I get my table set, and arrange to have music, and sit down here in the twilight, and see the shadows creep over the trees, and over Murmuring Brook, and eat these fresh-water clams!"

Sammy Muskrat had set his table on a flat stone, beside Murmuring Brook, near a little waterfall, where he could hear the music of the water turning into white foam, while he ate his dinner. He worked very fast and very hard, carrying his clams one by one to his table—which looked very pretty indeed, among the fresh, green ferns.

He was happy in thinking about sitting down alone to his splendid shore dinner.

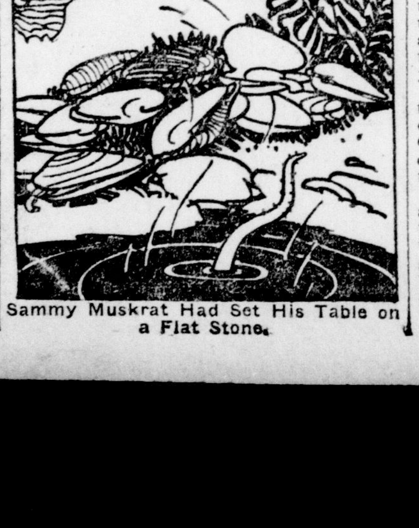

But Dick Otter was secretly planning a big surprise for Sammy Muskrat's lonesome Dinner Party. At last Sammy Muskrat was so greedy that he left the big pile of fat clams, and went far up Murmuring Brook to find some more.

After he was out of sight, Dick whispered to his Brother Billy, "Come on, Brother Billy, I invite you to have a big shore dinner at my expense. It is all ready and the table is set, and the Dinner is waiting!"

And those two little scamps ran as fast as they could, and sat down to that feast, and helped themselves to Sammy Muskrat's Shore Dinner. And as they smacked their lips over those big and delicious clams, Dick Otter said to Billy, "Now I hope that Sammy Muskrat will learn that when people are selfish and would rather eat good things alone than share them with a friend, they deserve to have their friends play jokes on them!"

And both chuckled as they swallowed their clams. You ask me if they ate up everything on Sammy Muskrat's table? Oh, my, no. They only ate the meats of all the clams, but they kindly left all the shells for Sammy Muskrat!

But when Sammy Muskrat returned and found his two friends, he forgave them for eating his clams; for he knew that he had been selfish in refusing to go clamming with Dick Otter, and he was sorry for it. So the three friends all went to look for other clams.

Sammy Muskrat Had Set His Table on a Flat Stone.

A Recomendation
Was it Emerson who, when describing a certain man as to his high efficiency, said: "He is put together like a Waltham watch." Emerson probably relied on a Waltham for his time. Although at that time there were very few Walthams had been made, since then hundreds of thousands have been made and are now in use.
The Waltham is truly keeping up to its motto as "The World's Watch Over Time."

TAXI DRIVERS HAVE NEW SCHEDULE NOW

"How much do you charge?" This may be answered with a polite bow and a little booklet by the gallant taxi driver in future. The tariff for cabs, taxicabs and livery was revised by the city council on the 14th of February last, and copies have been issued to all taxi drivers, who will show customers a copy of the new rates on demand. The booklet was issued by the police commission and provides that no livery man may charge any more than the prescribed rate. This is the way the most important clauses read:

First Mile 50 Cents.

Between the hours of 6 a.m. and 11 p.m. for conveying two persons within the city limit or to a point not more than three miles outside the limits, the cab fare for the first mile shall be 50c. For each fraction of a mile thereafter 25c, and for each additional person 25c. For waiting at the request of the passenger while under engagement, after the first 10 minutes, 25c for each 10 minutes is chargeable.

Distances shall be measured by the most direct route and in all cases where the hiring is not specified to be by the day or hour, charges shall be deemed made by the mile.

When engaged by the hour for carrying four passengers or less, the charge for the first hour is $3, and for each additional passenger 50 cents per hour. For each subsequent hour or part thereof, the same or a proportionate rate for fractional hours may be charged.

Youngsters Free.

One trunk and articles that may be carried inside the cab are to be carried free, but for every article in addition to one trunk carried outside the cab, a charge of 5 cents may be made.

No fare may be charged for children eight years and under in charge of an adult. Full fare may be charged for children over eight years.

The same rules apply to taxi fares, except in the case of hire by the hour, when subsequent hours are chargeable at the rate of $2 per hour.

No higher fares shall be charged by any livery stable keeper or driver employed by him for the use of cabs, landaus, coupes or other carriage accompanied by a driver kept by him for hire than those allowed in the tariff prescribed by the said bylaw.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE
It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.
Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.
But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.
Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.
You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow, and, moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.

DIARY TELLS EVERY IMPORTANT EVENT DURING 46 YEARS

Mrs. Perry Has Kept Record Without Omission.

Someone said that a woman was not capable of keeping a diary for a very long period of time, but this statement is disproven emphatically by the following.

Mrs. D. Mark Perry of Woodstock, who is visiting her niece, Mrs. C. W. Nichols, St. George's Apartments, this city, has kept a personal diary for the past 46 years and has never missed entering an account of one day.

Each year she begins her diary with a picture of the mayor elected and a biography of the aldermen. Sometimes she does not enter anything for several days, but her memory is very keen and she has no trouble in remembering anything of importance that occurred.

If any of the members of the family wish to know of any family affairs which happened during the past 46 years, they have only to go to Mrs. Perry and she soon will have the necessary information at hand.

Although she had only one or two of the diaries with her, she had the others, which are accompanied by many newspaper clippings, packed carefully away in a tin box at her home.

Mrs. Perry is 67 years of age, is hale and hearty, and she expects to keep many more.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have been a reader as well as a subscriber to your paper for quite a number of years; in fact, about 21 years, and feel that as a rule we can always depend on its news.

But about a week ago, there was a short item in, copied from the Los Angeles Times, which referred to keeping a diary, and spoke very slightingly of such a thing as keeping a diary of every day in the year; in fact, as though such a thing were an impossibility. There is a lady at the present time residing in London, and this lady has a beautifully written diary for the last 46 years. Every daily occurrence has been neatly written with pen and ink in this diary, and the practice is still kept up.

It is really quite an interesting story to read, so that this proves that diaries are still in vogue, and not a lot of nonsense. Hoping you will allow me to come again. MRS. SMELTZER.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM AND THE RETURNING SOLDIERS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

This problem is serious. There is a shortage of houses in this city to accommodate the present population, and many married soldiers are returning every week. In some cases the wives and children have been living with other families, and must now take houses for themselves. Some soldiers' wives went overseas, and are now returning, and many soldiers have married in England and are bringing their wives to Canada. Many single men also are about to carry out their long cherished intentions of marriage. The shortage of houses thus gets worse every week, and by July will be acute.

These people, if they cannot live here, will go elsewhere, perhaps to the States, and will be lost to our city. We don't want to lose these returned soldiers, the best citizen material we have.

And what are the city authorities doing about it? Nothing. The Dominion Government offers to lend money at 5 per cent to build houses if the local municipal authorities will appoint a commission or otherwise prepare to work it out. A number of towns and cities have, I understand, taken advantage of this offer. London has not. If our city fathers neglect this any longer what will they deserve? Also what is the chamber of commerce doing to urge the matter? G. N. WEEKES.

CHARLIE NOT TO BLAME FOR MUD ON NUMBERS

Finds Good Friend In Policeman and Goes Scot Free.

Charles Bell, who was recently fined $300 in police court for having liquor for sale at his home on Grey street, bobbed up again in court this morning. It seems that Charles paid his $300 fine last Friday and on Saturday was tooting round the neighborhood in his Ford, when he was arrested for his numbers failing to register.

Mr. Bell could not find words to express the condition of the roads around the south end of the city. He admitted that the numbers on his car were obliterated by the mud, but he thought there was some excuse for him.

"Ah tell yo', yo' honah, dem roads was awful bad," stated Charles to the court with much wagging of head and rolling of eyes. "Why de mud on dem aih streets mus' be pretty nigh three feet froo."

Special Reasons.

"Well, you know Bell, there are special reasons why your car should be showing numbers fore and aft," stated the magistrate.

"Maybe yo' right Mistah Graydon, but den yo' know anyone dat sees me would know me," opined Bell.

Inspector Birrell then thrust himself into the conversation. He stated that Bell was right. The mud was very bad in the regions of South street, and that possibly Bell was not to blame.

"Changed days for you, Bell. You've got the police taking your part now," said the magistrate, with a smile.

No Quarrel At All.

Charlie beamed back, showing a wide expanse of pearly white teeth. "Sergt. Birrell nevah imposed on me. He always treated me like a gentleman," he replied.

"How about Inspector Keenleyside?" queried the court.

"Wal, ah guess he was a doin' his duty," said Bell.

"The last time I saw you, you were out of all harm's way, and you should have stayed there. However, you seem to have a friend in court this morning, and I'm going to let you go," were the last words of Mr. Graydon. Charlie grabbed his hat, bowed to right and left and hurried from the court room.

"DREGS OF A NATION'S MANHOOD" SAVED THE DAY AT ST. JULIEN

(General Sam's First 30,000, by the "Company Runner.")

"For though the first contingent were bums and rotters and snides, the dregs of a nation's manhood, and a whole lot else besides; though they've ruined your reputation and blackened your name, but then they held the line for the Empire at that fight at St. Julien."

—Extract from the Dead Horse Corner Gazette, one time a trench newspaper of immense fame and popularity, Poperinghe, Belgium, 1915.

I.

You'll easily recall that first invitation to the colors. You answered. With all the descriptive language at their command, the literary highbrows and official eyewitnesses wrote and rewrote concerning that great rush to get behind the band.

You know how the bank clerk closed his ledger for the last time. The "pompadour" kid at the collar counter told his boss to get someone else. The "boomer" switchman once more "pulled the pin," and reported at the yard office for his time, while even the occasional burglar (afterwards mentioned in dispatches) pawned his "kit" and joined Sam Hughes' army. In fact, the ranks were swelled by many, whom it was whispered, the community was better rid of, while figures long familiar in neighboring bars and poolrooms were said to be missing for months to come. They were participating in a better game over yonder.

General's Wants.

It recalled the words of a great general, long since "gone west," who, when an occasion demanded instant reinforcements of no uncertain brand, was said to have wired headquarters for a draft of "guardroom" soldiers.

But, although from a military viewpoint, that early stampede, with its final roundups at Valcartier is ancient history, memories of 1914 linger yet. Someone was destined to march back with the band, if only to tell the tale, and those who drew the lucky cards cannot easily forget the other chap, who, a companion in many a break with an orderly-room termination, and absent off many a dismal parade, was again among the missing, when the survivors responded to their names and answered for their comrades, after that memorable event when the bunch pulled back from St. Julien.

II.

At Valcartier.

The first burst of excitement simmered down. Indifference and criticism followed. Sam Hughes and his armed followers became the target for adverse and lively comment. The latter, employed mainly in washing the mud from their shoes, on Salisbury, allowed not these ill-timed remarks to keep them awake at night.

The typewriters unfortunately rattled and banged incessantly, and you read with increasing disfavor extraordinary accounts of the closing scenes at Valcartier camp. Moving picture shows were burnt to the ground. Canteens were upset and pillaged. Desertions increased with alarming rapidity—daily, even hourly. Surely General Sam and his obviously incompetent staff had displayed little discrimination in gathering around his standard the choicest collection of "roughnecks" east of the Mississippi River—hooligans from the towns, the riff-raff of the border cities—in short, the dregs of a nation's manhood. Canada would undoubtedly be disgraced overseas.

Forebodings.

Startling rumors trickled back from Salisbury. The wise ones sadly shook their illustrious domes. Truly Canada's hitherto unblemished name abroad would be forever blackened. The Canadians—Sam Hughes' Canadians—were converting Salisbury Plain into a veritable wild and woolly west. Drowning themselves at night with oceans of cheap whiskey, they staggered back to camp, and playfully murdered one another. Men assaulted their officers. Officers assaulted their men. The troops assaulted one another. Life was one glorious rampage, and the "two-gun" man was in his element. Dozens went "over the hill" to London—Ireland, New York even; in fact, anywhere and everywhere except where the military authorities demanded them, while dishonorable, discharged men, it was stated, were coming back in boatloads.

The Truth.

Strange as it may appear, and contrary to rumor, the entire force did not desert, go to jail or die (although rows and rows of graves in Bulford Cemetery remain to mark the struggle with spinal-meningitis at Sling Plantation).

Time slipped along, even as it will do at Kinmel Park, Rhyl and Wandsworth Military Prison, and certain ones breathed copious sighs of relief when in February the battalions splashed out through the Larkhill muddrifts, on their last hike: "en route" for Armentieres. The Canadian mob, at last to the unmistakable relief of everyone concerned or otherwise, was "on its way" up the line with the best of luck and Lord Roberts' last message to the troops.

III.

That Long Road.

Some wiseacre has been credited with the assertion that "It's a long road that has no turn." Likewise a certain statesman discovered a bunch of abuse headed in his direction when, in a moment of uncertainty, he suggested to his countrymen to "wait and see."

And the following April General Sam was afforded his first real opportunity, to throw back his answer to the critics at home, who, established in comfortable billets, with regular and ample rations (not four on a loaf and a spoonful of jam), were so eager to believe and even exaggerate the worst but obviously reluctant to sit in the game themselves.

The battle of St. Julien remains a memory. Hundreds of Sam Hughes' mob who participated will return no more, but the misdeeds of Valcartier and Salisbury, if such ever existed, were wiped from the slate with a single stroke. It had fallen, however, upon General Sam to uphold and preach the unwavering faith which he himself held in his 1st Division. As an old veteran of Bustard camp remarked recently: "Old Sam always had a good word for his boys, and was never slow to censure an officer of whatever rank or civil standing, who attempted to exceed his new authority."

Old Sam had faith, while you—well:

"You thought them as black as painted,
But you'll change your opinions when
You meet the souls of the Germans
Who died at St. Julien."

POPE APPEALS FOR CLOSER UNITY WITH ORIENTAL CHURCHES

Rome, Wednesday, March 19.—Pope Benedict received deputations of members of the clergy belonging to the eastern church today. Replying to an address by Mgr. Papadotulos, head of the eastern congregation, he briefly summed up what he had been able to do to alleviate suffering caused by the war in the east.

"The Roman pontiff has always been a friend of the Oriental church, and has reposed great hopes in it," he said. "He has not only been a friend, but has turned with deep affection to the Orient, which has been all the more intense because of the uncertainty of the fate of the distant sons of the church. I wish these words could reach the far shores of the Orient, but as my voice cannot reach so far, I transmit by thought to those present and trust that all wish that Oriental Christendom should be united by close friendship and filial love to the apostolic see."

The pope then bestowed the apostolic blessing on all present.
