

FIRST STEPS TOWARD BRINGING 'SID' MURRELL TO LONDON

Duncan Graham Killed In Local C.N.R. Yard Today

CROWN ATTORNEY SENDS CASE AGAINST MURRELL TO ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Documents Necessary to Extradition of Sidney Murrell Have Already Been Prepared For Despatch to California—Escort To Be Sent Soon To Bring Prisoner to London.

BRITISH CONSUL-GENERAL WILL ACT

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, May 28.—The attorney-general's department has requested Crown Attorney J. C. Elliott of London to prepare the evidence for the extradition of Sidney Murrell, who has been arrested in California. The documents will be sent to the attorney-general's department, authenticated, and extradition papers forwarded to the British consul-general at San Francisco. As soon as the extradition is legally completed, an escort will be sent to bring Murrell to London to stand trial for the murder of Ronald Campbell at Melbourne, Ontario.

All the way from Toronto to the colorful Pacific coast the wires are humming, singing and in the great storming trains burn up thousands of miles of steel highway. Unrelenting children of the camera in their little white envelopes are broadcasted, and hundreds of mail carriers take them to their destinations. Thus, the many-shaped and far-gathered proofs follow their victim, and on the full tide of every modern scientific invention, and backed by the determination of every man in the long chain of watchers and guardians of human life and property, incloses him with a net from whose meshes there is no escape.

DRURY IS KEPT BUSY ADDRESSING MEETINGS

Leaves Toronto Tonight For Extended Tour of Many Ridings.

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, May 28.—Premier Drury leaves Toronto tonight on the Ottawa train, and will speak at Perth at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at Carleton Place at 3 o'clock, and in the evening at Arnprior. On Wednesday he delivers an address at Espanville in the afternoon, and speaks at Pembroke in the evening. Thursday, the premier will address a meeting at Mallorytown, in Leeds County, and will spend Friday in Toronto. Saturday afternoon he goes to Brampton, and in the evening speaks at Barrie at a South Simcoe meeting.

CELEBRITIES TO ATTEND CANADIAN BAR GATHERING

Canadian Press Despatch. Ottawa, May 28.—Hon. Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state for the United States, and the Right Hon. Earl of Birkenhead, who from 1918 to 1922 was lord chancellor of England, are to be in attendance at the eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association, which will be held at Montreal September 4 to 6, it is announced today.

STRIKE-BREAKERS USED ON SCHENECTADY TROLLEYS

Special to The Advertiser. Schenectady, N. Y., May 28.—President H. B. Weatherwax of the Schenectady Railway Company, whose lines have been tied up for twelve days by a strike of the union employees, notified the mayor and safety commissioner that trolleys will be operating with strikebreakers here beginning at 10 o'clock this morning.

W. H. T. MOONEY RESIGNS AS HEAD OF COLLEGIATE

Resignation Tendered at Noon to A. E. Silverwood of School Board.

WILL BE ACCEPTED

Mr. Mooney Will Take a Long Rest Before Re-entering the Teaching Profession.

W. H. T. Mooney, principal of the Central Collegiate Institute, has resigned.

His resignation was tendered to A. E. Silverwood, chairman of No. 3 committee of the board of education, at noon today. Mr. Silverwood informed The Advertiser that it would be accepted.

Mr. Mooney stated that he desired to take a rest from the strenuous duties which have been his lot since he took over the principalship of the school five years ago. He has no plans for his immediate future, but believes that eventually he will again take up teaching.

For 22 years he has been on the staff of the Central Collegiate. He began first as a teacher in the commercial department, but later secured a transfer to the general school. For almost fifty years he taught Latin to young Londoners, and gained for himself a reputation which is the envy of every professor in classics throughout the province. His famous speech tests are well remembered by every graduate of the old Collegiate.

He succeeded George F. Rogers, inspector of secondary schools in Ontario, as principal of the Collegiate. The five years during which Mr. Mooney served were the most strenuous in the history of the school. In 1920 the Collegiate was entirely destroyed by fire, and since then Mr. Mooney has been forced to conduct a make-shift school that at its best was very trying. At the present time, with a new school erected, classes are being conducted in three different buildings.

A special meeting of No. 3 committee will be called in the course of a few days, when steps will be taken to secure a successor to Mr. Mooney.

AMERICA WILL ACCEDE TO LIQUOR PROTESTS

Government to Yield to Foreign Powers in Ship Stores Controversy.

Special to The Advertiser. Washington, May 28.—The United States will avoid trouble with foreign powers over the transportation of liquor as ship stores within the three-mile limit, a high government official said today.

This government, it was predicted, will yield gracefully to the protests from Britain, France, Italy, Spain and Holland, and will thus avoid a prolonged controversy threatening reprisals against American commerce by the foreign nations. The regulations on such ship stores intended for the use of the crew, and which under the laws of the protesting countries must be carried aboard all ships.

FRENCH SEND TELEGRAMS IN WRITING OF SENDER

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, May 28.—French ingenuity has furnished patrons of the telegraph office a new device. It is a system of sending an autograph telegram.

The sender of a telegraph message writes the telegram on a revolving cylinder, and through a series of novel mechanical principles it is received by the addressee in the original writing of the sender.

The transmitting machine, which is the invention of M. Edlin, is being installed in all the French telegraph and postoffices.

Fall From High Window Fails To Injure Terrier

Lands on Hard Pavement From Second Story and Is Rescued by Humane Society.

Falling out of a two-story window, landing on the stone pavement, and escaping with nothing worse than a shaking up, was the experience of a salubrious black and white terrier Saturday afternoon.

Citizens strolling along Richmond street were startled when they noticed a small body shoot past them and hit the sidewalk with a thud. They looked and discovered it was a small dog, lying inert on the pavement. Immediately called, and arrived about 5:05, a few minutes after the accident. He picked the dog up and took it to the society's kennels, where it was examined. No bones were found to be broken, and Mr. Tustin gave

London Liberals Pleased With Outlook In the City, For Possible Candidates

Many Men Available Who as Londoners Would Represent This City in London's Best Interests—Criticism and Condemnation of Attitude Taken by Sir Adam Beck.

London Liberals are on the war-path. An informal meeting of representative Liberals in Hyman Hall on Saturday night brought out nearly three hundred members of the party, and by the time discussion was under way the affair had almost assumed the proportions of a convention.

W. H. Kippen, popular young soldier-Liberal, acted as chairman of the evening, and asked for frank expression of all points of view. A long list of speakers followed, and finally a committee of fifteen under the chairmanship of U. A. Buchner and including Mrs. Edward Grange, Mrs. Jared Vining and Miss Isabel Armstrong, was appointed to consider the dozen or so outstanding men who seem possible as candidates.

The committee met on the adjournment of the meeting and planned a course of action. Certain recommendations will be submitted to the party at another meeting this week. There is a wealth of material from which to choose a candidate who would properly represent London as a Londoner in London's interests.

Among the many names mentioned on Saturday night were James Gray, Edward Grange, Edward Hayden, Bev. Hay, W. H. Kippen, A. T. Little, Frank McLaughlin, Dr. Clifford Reason, Dr. W. J. Stevenson, and Jared Vining.

Apart from the discussions of Liberalism and of Liberal action, the most pronounced sentiment of the evening was disapproval of Sir Adam Beck's consideration of making Ontario's hydro projects a matter of party politics. There is a general and sincere conviction that the success of liquor, like the success of the national railways, must depend upon its separation from political manoeuvres and that Sir Adam Beck in lending himself to Tory exploitation and control is traitorous to the trust imposed in him by the citizens of Ontario and unethical as a paid servant of a government in which he now seeks membership.

POISONOUS LIQUORS MENACE, SAYS AGENT

The American People Should Worry More About Home-Made Booze, Haynes Declares.

Special to The Advertiser. Washington, May 28.—The American people need to worry less over the activities of the rum fleet and more about the distribution of poisonous decoctions made at home by bootleggers and sold at fabulous prices as imported goods. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes said today.

Haynes put out a long list of figures on export of liquors from Great Britain and Canada to show that it would be impossible for the rum smugglers to bring into this country "any appreciable amount of genuine liquor."

TRAGIC ACCIDENT CAUSES DEATH OF DUNCAN GRAHAM

Popular C. N. R. Yardman Is Killed in London Yards Early Today.

FELL UNDER CARS

Accident Occurred at 1:20 a.m. and Victim Succumbed to Injuries Seven Hours Later.

A horrible accident occurred at 1:20 this morning, when Duncan Graham, yardman of the C. N. R., fell beneath the wheels of a car which he was in the act of uncoupling. He was working with the shunting gang under Yard Foreman Matthews, and it is understood that he tripped on a tie as he ran beside the moving car, which was drawn by engine No. 137, in charge of Engineer Archer. The wheels passed over him, severing his left leg at the knee, and his right arm above the elbow. The train crew summoned help, and the unfortunate man was rushed to Victoria Hospital, where Dr. F. R. Clegg did all in his power to save the life of the unfortunate victim. In spite of the fact that some hope was held out for his recovery, Graham passed away at 8:10 this morning.

His young wife, Gladys Graham, heart-broken and sobbing hysterically from the terrible shock, was at his bedside from his arrival in hospital until his death. Today she looks to the future with her 2-year-old daughter Ellen.

Both Yard Foreman Matthews and Engineer Archer say that Graham's fall was purely an accident, and can only be classed as a tragic mishap. The deceased, who was 26 years of age, was born in Scotland, and came to Canada shortly before the war, and when war broke out he enlisted with the 18th Battalion, and went overseas in 1915. He returned to London after the armistice, and commenced his duties with the C. N. R. in 1920. Neither the deceased nor his young widow have relatives in Canada.

This terrible accident has cut off one of the most popular returns men in London, and one whose work held promise for his future with the Canadian National. His fellow-workers on the railway speak in the highest terms not only of his work, but of the cheerful disposition in which he attended to his duties. The funeral will be taken charge of by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, assisted by the members of Union Lodge, No. 350, A. F. & A. M., of which the deceased was a member. Dr. Stevenson has many friends at the funeral, and the body will be viewed at Victoria Hospital this evening. The coroner's jury will then enquire into the circumstances, when their verdict will be given.

NEW FAIR BUILDING IS RUSHING AHEAD

Large Force of Workmen Are Literally "Walking" New Structure Up

Secretary Hunt of the Western Fair Board, says that the new industrial building at Queen's Park is taking shape with remarkable speed. Not only are the concrete footings completed, but the brick work itself is progressing rapidly. Men experienced in this work say the progress made so far in the erection of the building is little short of marvelous.

The fair board says that nothing short of an accident can now prevent the opening of the building for this year's fair. The structural steel required for the roof trusses has started to come in, and will be on hand and ready for erection when the walls are completed. The contractors have a large staff of bricklayers and mechanics at work, and are taking every possible precaution against holdup or hitch in the work.

CITY HALL COMMITTEE MEETS. As a preliminary step, the members of the special city hall committee met tonight with Mayor Wenige. "A hall started in 1923," is their slogan, although they are strongly opposed by Ald. Leonard Douglas, Ald. William Wilson, and one or two other members of the council, who, the mayor asserts, "want the new city hall in their own backyard."

BECK'S LEAP IN FIELD CAUSES MUCH WAILING AMONG CONSERVATIVES

DUNCAN GRAHAM, C. N. R. yardman, who succumbed to terrible injuries received early today in local railway yards.

Supporters of Other Possibilities Declare Sir Adam Didn't Play Game.

HYDRO IN POLITICS Opinion That Beck's Hydro Job Will Fade From View When Candidacy Announced.

Certain of the local politicians within the Tory party appear to be a trifle wary of Mayor Wenige's contemplated entry into the provincial ring. It would seem that they do not relish any move on his part that would tend to "crab their act."

His worship announced at the city hall this morning that he "had been requested not to participate in the coming fight"—at least not as a competitor.

"But I have been also asked repeatedly within the past 48 hours to do an above the board job in the field," Mayor Wenige hastened to explain. "Well, what are you going to do about it?" The Advertiser asked. "I have decided," replied his worship, explaining that he would be guided chiefly by "developments of the next few days or hours, as the case may be."

It is generally conceded, and the mayor practically acknowledges it, that his decision is withheld pending the result of Sir Adam Beck's mediation of the local hydro project in progress this afternoon, as he advised The Advertiser that while he had not arrived at any definite decision he would announce himself in due course. In the meanwhile he craves the silence of the public press (particularly The Advertiser, it was inferred).

So that's that. The Conservatives fume and stamp, waiting Sir Adam's pleasure, and Mayor Wenige awaits a public pronouncement from the latter.

Pay List a Factor. His worship admitted, however, even should Sir Adam accept the Conservative standard, his probable entrance into the political arena would be prompted by the outcome of the London & Port Stanley payroll squabble—still awaiting a verdict.

Claiming to be a staunch exponent of public ownership, Mayor Wenige submits strenuously that the withholding of any information—or any act that would tend to create a suspicion in the minds of the electorate—is a black eye for public ownership. In this he differs from Sir Adam, who claims, as an instance, that the publication of the pay lists would be "playing into the hands" of the private corporations; the most bitter opponents of public ownership.

His worship questions what Sir Adam's attitude would be in the event that this, as now seems inevitable, turns to Page 2, Columns 2 and 3.

Not Alarmed. Frankly admitting that there is a "little talk around" his supporters assert, however, that they are in no manner alarmed by the faint rumble and discontented murmurs of the distance. You can't please everybody, they declare, firm in their belief that no other prospect can be submitted with even sufficient prestige to win the convention.

But the "insurgents" will not be quietened with a mere wave of the hand. They want and even demand a change at this moment, but whether they will have the courage of their convictions to appear boldly in the Labor Temple Thursday night and air their views, remains to be seen.

ALL NOT SERENE IN LABOR CAMP; FEAR OUTBREAK

Nomination Meeting of Local Party Expected To Cause Stir.

OPPOSE MEMBER Number Expected To Try To Oust Dr. Hugh Stevenson.

The Conservatives are not the only ones beset with party differences and difficulties. It's not all milk and honey in Labor circles if one may place any credence in the reports filtering through from recognized Labor sub-division of ward 2.

The political mathematical calculators foresee a lively tussle for premier honors at the convention next convention Thursday night next, and a possible Waterloo for Dr. Stevenson, the sitting member for London, who, as a Labor standard bearer, defeated Sir Adam Beck at the last provincial contest.

Dr. Stevenson has many friends at court. Likewise he has many opponents—both in and out of court and some of them threaten to make things hum at the convention rally.

Not Only Entry. And there will be others although there is no positive assurance that any of them will allow their names to go to a ballot with Dr. Stevenson.

While Ald. Colbert declines absolutely to discuss the coming event, it is already an established fact that many of the rank-and-file will, if they have not already, urge him to try conclusions with the sitting member.

In many ways the Labor situation closely resembles chaotic Conservative conditions. And Thursday's session might produce the unexpected.

SECURE PROBATIONER FOR JUVENILE COURT

Rev. Quintin Warner Announces the Appointment of Major A. G. N. Bradshaw.

Rev. Quintin Warner has selected Major A. G. N. Bradshaw, a probationer of the juvenile court, to be opened in London on June 1st. Major Bradshaw is at present in the insurance business and is mentioned by Judge Warner as the most suitable man for this position.

Major Bradshaw was born in Halifax, N. S., and came to London, England. There he received his education. He entered the army, was with the Royal Army Service Corps, and served in the South African War for 12 years, continuing his military connection, and is, according to Mr. Warner, "a most satisfactory selection for the position."

BOTTLE EXCHANGE BRINGS PRISONER JAIL "REST CURE"

Charlie Bell Gets Three Months When Unable To Pay Fine.

STATES JUST "PER" Evidence, However, Fails To Meet With Approval of Court.

Charlie Bell, who has appeared in the police court previously in connection with various phases of breaches of the O. T. A. has gone once too often to the well, and the pitcher is, so to speak, broken.

A week ago he was charged with a breach of section 41 of the act (with having liquor in a place other than a dwelling house) and was remanded pending further inquiries to be made by the chief. Today the chief stated that one Van Dusen, a material witness, and another man had "walked off," and he thought it would be impossible to induce them to return to London at the present time.

Handed Over Bottle. B. C. Leach, in giving evidence, stated that he had seen Bell on the evening of May 23 meet a man, presumably Van Dusen, to whom he had given some money. In return the man had handed Bell a bottle, which was produced in court. The officer had arrested him and brought him to the station, together with the evidence.

Charlie had his own version of the transaction. "It was just a 'per,'" he said. "Van Dusen was feeling ill and got the 'per,' so he asked me to get it cashed. I went down town to do this, when I met a man called Prior. My face was bandaged at this time, and I thought it would be better for him to get it cashed, so I gave it to him.

"None of you were very well at this time, were you?" suggested the court.

"Well, when Prior came back with the bottle," continued the accused, "he gave it to me, and I was just standing there holding it when the officer came along and pinched me."

Not in Habit. Bell repudiated the idea that he had been in the habit of drinking lately.

"Why I've only had lemon extract for the last five or six weeks, and I've never touched whiskey lately." He admitted, however, that on one occasion he had had five shots of lemon extract in one day.

"Well, it seems that all these other men left you holding the baby," was the summing up of the court, and Charlie concurred. "Sure, that's what always happens to me."

The usual sentence, $200 or three months, was imposed, and after a few seconds consideration, the prisoner was able to gasp "Thank you, your worship," and retired to a lonely life, unrelieved by lemon extract or any other liquid vision of joy.

Cecil Roberts, found guilty of reckless driving on Talbot street and with the destruction of the "silent cop" on the corner, was fined $5 and costs, together with the price of repairing the wounded "official."

London's Prize Winners Sing In Concert Tonight

Press Club Entertainment in Masonic Hall To Be One of the Season's Outstanding Treats.

While the advance seat sale for the medalists' concert to be held at the Masonic Temple tonight under the auspices of the London Press Club, indicates that the public keenly appreciates what was done by the several young artists to bring glory to this city, a number of seats are still available for those who have not had an opportunity to purchase tickets.

Members of the Press Club distributed tickets as far as opportunity permitted, but naturally there remains hundreds of others who should see the show and who have not been approached. For their benefit tickets will be on sale at the door. As the number of seats available will be limited, those who wish to purchase are advised to come early.

Without doubt the festival will be the musical event of the season, as a glance at the program or the names of the artists who will appear bear out the most extravagant claims which have been made on its behalf. Miss Margaret Laing, winner of the gold medal at Toronto as the best soprano in all Ontario, will sing George Lethbridge will be at the piano.

BECK'S LEAP IN FIELD CAUSES MUCH WAILING

CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE. able, became one of the "burning issues" of the campaign. He believes that if no pay lists are forthcoming before the campaign begins in earnest, it would be an ideal time to test the feeling of the people upon this matter.

The mayor reasons if the people returned Sir Adam in spite of his determined attitude that this information should not be published, then they do not care.

Mayor Was Surprised. "From the majority I received at the last municipal election, however," stated the mayor, "I would infer that this data alone, but all information in connection with their utilities. When elected I undertook certain obligations. One of them was to secure any or all information that they desired in this connection. From the vote tendered me I believe that they want this."

As a matter of fact, Mayor Wenige actually expects the Port Stanley pay list at any moment. "I'll be surprised if it is not in the mail this morning," he said.

He was surprised. It was not in his mail. The boys are in high humor over at Tory headquarters—like a number of strange manifestations for the one and only soup-bone.

If Sir Adam would only eliminate himself by passage to Toronto, or St. Thomas, or one of those twelve ridings where he says they want him worse than they do in London, the situation would be clarified.

Not much, however, they argue that the delegates at the convention last Friday night arose at the "psychological" moment and presented it just as they did. "Jolly Good Fellow," it develops that this outburst was largely for effect. There was company present, and the children had their Sunday bibs and best behavior on.

Over at the party "stronghold" on Richmond street, it's quite a different version.

Where Grief Reigns. Here when two or three are gathered together—the Judites and the Dennises and the Wilsonites—they don't pass the evening with song and dance. There's weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth. And there's "on the outside looking in" at nomination honors—the Judites and the Dennises and the Wilsonites—are recounting their experiences of Friday night, and the psycho-analysis of the situation leaves them in no amiable frame of mind.

"It was a Beck convention through and through," they grumble, adding the charge that as the Beck "idolators" were in charge of the evening's entertainment, they were unusually careful as to whom they distributed tickets of admission.

"The convention was packed," one man said, "quite openly this morning. Added to that while such prospects as 'Ernie' Dennis and 'Ab' Judd were offered up as sacrifices to bridge the widening gap, Sir Adam did not play the game as scheduled.

Sir Adam failed miserably to live up to specifications, and the stalwarts at their heads dutifully as they remember that it may be yet imperative to use Cameron as a compromise candidate.

"Viewing the situation 'by and large,' they are going to have a merry little time over at Conservative headquarters before they choose a candidate who can please all the Conservatives all the time.

Some observe sagely that this is an impossibility.

DR. "CAP" STEPHENS, POPULAR DETROIT PHYSICIAN, IS DEAD

Former Resident of London Secured Education at the Western University.

NOTED IN PROFESSION Won Distinction in Sporting Field During His Student Days.

Dr. Harry "Cap" Stephens, a graduate of Western University, and whose athletic achievements during his student days won for him distinction in Ontario sporting circles, died suddenly in Detroit on Sunday. No details have been received yet as to his death, the only information reaching the city being telegrams to friends and relatives stating that he had died.

For the past four or five years Dr. Stephens has practised in Detroit as a lung specialist and his rapid rise to success in the western metropolis brought honor to himself as well as to his alma mater.

Born near Grand Bend about 40 years ago, Dr. Stephens received his early training in Canada at the Western University College of Medicine upon finishing his collegiate course.

Popular Student. During his college career he was one of the most popular students in the faculty of medicine, his engaging and strong personality and his indomitable cheerfulness winning him friends wherever he went.

Early in life Dr. Stephens showed a strong liking for the great outdoors, aquatic sports attracting him perhaps stronger than anything else in his younger days. He is described by his friends as a well-built and good looking youth and one who was ever ready to throw his lot with a Western "U" team.

He was in charge of the Western rugby squad the year it was one of the strongest aggregations in the province, and Dr. Stephens displayed his hockey ability as well when he captained the university team the season it won the Northern League championship.

Self-Made Man. "Harry was a self-made man and his determination to win and make a success of the medical profession was wonderful. Even after he graduated and received his degree, he was far from satisfied and was always looking for new courses that might interest him," was the tribute one of his classmates paid him this morning.

The attraction of water and the great Lakes in particular followed Dr. Stephens into college, and he spent his summer vacations sailing on inland waters. In this work he was extremely successful, rising from the position of ordinary seaman to that of captain. In 1911 he captained the Forest City, the steamer running between Port Stanley and Cleveland in that year. It was his nautical career that gave him the nickname of "Cap."

Went Overseas. Dr. Stephens went overseas with the 7th Battalion, serving as medical officer, and he distinguished himself attending the wounded on the fields of France and in the hospitals in the war zone. On coming back, he resided in London for a while, and moved to Detroit, where he soon worked up a large and exclusive practice.

"Dr. Stephens was one of the best liked students in our class," Dr. A. S. Duncan stated this morning to The Advertiser. "The news of his death is certainly a shock to me because I held him in the highest esteem. He was so strong and fine that I can hardly imagine him passing away."

He married Miss Isabel Dudley, daughter of Joseph Dudley of Grand avenue, and besides his wife leaves a son, Dudley, aged 11 years, and a daughter, a baby of one year.

CITY CYCLISTS TO HOLD BIG MEET WEDNESDAY

Entries for all races, which are free, will be received by the club secretary, W. A. Godfree, at 402 Clarence street, or at the Bicycle and Motor Sales Company. All entries must be in by Tuesday evening.

FERGUSON NOMINATED GRENVILLE CANDIDATE

Meighen Is Present and Delivers Short Address at Spencerville.

Canadian Press Despatch. Spencerville, May 28.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson received a unanimous nomination here today as candidate for the Ontario provincial election. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservatives, and who represents Greenville County in the Dominion house, delivered a short address.

Nomination of Hon. Mr. Ferguson was made by A. Langstaff of Kemptonville, who recounted the candidate's political achievements, and forecasted a future premiership for Mr. Ferguson.

Announcing GILLET'S PURE FLAKE LYE

an old friend in a new form, better than ever!

It has always been our endeavor to make our products as near perfection as is humanly possible. And, as there was no need of improving the quality of Gillett's Lye, we decided to improve its form. We now make it in CRYSTAL FLAKES instead of powder. There is no dust from it. The flakes go exactly where you want them to go—and nowhere else. This big improvement will, we believe, be appreciated by the tens of thousands of Canadian households in which Gillett's Lye has long been the standard product for making everything clean and sanitary. Use Gillett's 100% Pure Flake Lye for:—cleaning out sinks and drains; making closet bowls stainless and odorless; softening water for the laundry; making your own laundry soap; cleaning greasy pots and pans; cleaning wood and tiled floors, etc., etc. Always keep a can of Gillett's Flake Lye in the house. It will save you much time and labor. Avoid costly and dangerous substitutes. Your grocer sells the genuine Gillett's Flake Lye at a moderate price. Made in Canada.

Passing of Tests Not Half So Important as Possession of Sound Knowledge and Ability.

By ALGIVIN. In two weeks more the annual departmental examinations will be upon the pupils of our schools. They will then give an accounting of their year's work. If successful, they will receive certificates that they have measured up to a certain intellectual standard and that they have completed a stage in their mental development.

It is necessary at this point to sound a note of warning. The "passing" of the examination is not one thing as important as the "possession" of the knowledge and ability which makes the passing possible. The power behind the certificate is of more value than the certificate itself.

Hence we need to be on our guard against the danger of considering the mere passing of examinations the mark of a successful year's work. To do so is to lose sight of the whole purpose of education.

The object of our educational system should be to impart knowledge and develop power—to bring out the full capacities of the pupil. The examination is only a tool—a mental yardstick—by which in a more or less mechanical way we measure the progress of the pupil from time to time.

To mistake the tool for the work to be done has serious consequences. It has occasionally led to a policy of "cramping" preparation for passing examinations instead of honest study. It has, at times, degraded education

EXPLAINS PROPER CURE FOR POISONING BY IVY

William Saunders Gives Short Talk to Rotary Club Members.

Since Ernest William Phillips, Birmingham, England, manager of the Wesleyan and General Insurance Company, who was to have been the speaker of the day, was unavoidably absent at today's regular meeting, the Rotary Club filled in the session by congratulating itself in general, and the committee in particular, on the success of the Boys' Hobby Fair, held last week in the Armories.

In expressing thanks to those members of the committee who were present, Dean Sherwood Fox, Rotary president, said the fair was the most successful thing on record for boys' work.

"It was the farthest removed from pauperizing the boys, and the nearest to stimulating them to a constructive effort to anything I have seen."

These Rotarians who are not immune to ivy poisoning benefited by the short address of William Saunders, in which he related a sure cure for this summer-time nuisance.

That it is necessary is hot water—plenty of it. The ivy poisoning is first apparent about the wrists, and in spite of itching, put the wrist in hot water, and keep heating to the limit of endurance. The itching will recur within eighteen or twenty hours, when it is necessary to repeat the process. Three or four such treatments will do away with the itching.

CLARA PHILLIPS SAYS SHE IS NOT MURDERER REPORTS NO CHANGE IN YOUTH'S CONDITION

Declares Opportunity Coming For Her To Prove Innocence. Hopes Held For Recovery of Boy Hit by Auto.

Associated Press Despatch. Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 28.—A message has been received by the Associated Press correspondent here from Clara Phillips, convicted of murder in California, now on her way back to the United States in charge of United States officers, which reads as follows: "Please say I intend to give the world the truth about the Alberta Meadows case—that I am innocent of that awful crime of which I was unjustly convicted, and that the opportunity will soon come for me to prove it."

The lad is suffering from internal injuries, and it was at first thought that he would not survive the accident, but he was resting quietly this morning and hopes are now being held for his recovery. Dr. Cameron Wilson is in attendance.

Then—Folk Began to Talk

A few weeks after the death of a prominent citizen the newspapers printed this announcement:

"C—D— died leaving no Will."

Then—folk began to say, "What a pity so successful a business man should have neglected to leave instructions for the disposition of his estate."

Have you arranged for a properly-drawn Will making therein a wise selection of your Executor?

This Company is authorized by Special Act of Parliament to act as Executor and Trustee. Our officers will gladly assist you in planning your Will.

MONDAY, MAY 28, 1923.

It Was a Great Contest.

Conservative political gatherings seem to call forth peculiar statements and outward evidences of impossible hopes within. Some of the speakers are almost sure to fall over in a mad desire to say something that will give for a couple of minutes in the mind of the audience.

Ex-Mayor Cameron Wilson was chairman of the London Conservative meeting, and he can always be counted on to step up to the anvil and turn out a phrase or two that will beckon to the others to come along and make a bigger one.

So the ex-mayor, in introducing the boy ventriloquist, Mr. Haney from Sarnia, looked at the audience in the eye, winked one horny-handed fist against the other, and exclaimed, "There is no question but the Conservative party is going to be returned to power next month, and the hides are going to be nailed to the fence. Hon. Howard Ferguson will be premier and the Conservative party come back into its own once more."

Well, that was one of the best little bed-time stories the doctor ever told. It was something like the one he tried to tell the school teachers of London when he wanted them to take 10 per cent off their wages and never notice the difference. Painless surgery.

Yes, sir, they liked what the chairman said, so he brought out the boy orator from Sarnia, Mr. Haney. Now, get that right, Haney—not Rania. Well, the way he went after Mr. Drury was almost verging on the point of cruelty. Things were certainly black as far as finances were concerned. In fact, the lad made 'em so black that it took Sir Adam Beck some time in his address to tell the people they had a good chance to realize on some of the money involved in the hydro enterprises.

But when Mr. Haney got the thing all blackened, and had the lightning flashing, the thunder rolling and the province going to smash, he lifted one corner of a very dark, black cloud to bring forth the Joshua who was going to carry on the work of getting into the promised land:

"When such facts are placed before the thinking public, whether their inclinations may have been with Labor or Liberals, they say, 'We are looking for somebody to lead us out of the mess we have been in, and, thank God, we have got the Conservative party.'"

Such brazen blasphemy! And they bought a railroad ticket to and from Sarnia to be sprayed with impudence of that sort.

Perhaps the young man felt that when he was away from home he had to talk big, had to say something like a general might say on the eve of a great battle. Or it may have been that he considered the brand of oratory of London Conservatives too mediocre considering the enormity of the task on hand. At any rate, he qualified the first time out as a good little tub-thumper.

And then the chairman, Dr. Wilson, not to be distanced by any imported talent, unfurled another great phrase when he introduced Sir Adam. He placed one fist on the other, then finally shook one of them at the audience. Yes, sir, he did. Then out came this:

"The man who was crucified on the cross of political expediency."

Brer. Haney gulped when he heard that one, for in all his vocabulary he had not hatched out anything to equal it. Thus, at one fell stroke, the local man regained the ground that looked in danger of passing out to Sarnia.

These preliminary bouts give the boys a great chance to dust off some of their choicest and most destructive phrases, and bring them out for a little air.

Those Tell-Tale Finger Prints.

The Bertillon system of identifying criminals by finger prints is so sure that it seldom makes an error. It is even more certain than the photograph of a man's face, in which a decided change may be made in a few years' time. Finger prints do not change. Even though the outer skin be removed by a burn or from any other cause, it will grow in the same again.

This little device has brought them to justice from all corners of the world. Just now London is particularly interested because it is believed that Sidney Murrell will be brought back here after being a fugitive from justice for almost two years.

When he was imprisoned here those tell-tale finger prints were taken and filed away in the records. A means of identification, based on the same plan that is used all over the continent, was established.

According to reports, Murrell got into the hands of the law in a remote corner of California. Here, again, the same system was used, and the finger prints sent on to Ottawa, thence to London. Comparison showed that they were the hands of the same individual, and the little town in California was informed that the man was wanted thousands of miles away in London to face trial on the most serious charge known.

If the man held at Susanville, Cal., is Sidney Murrell it is another bit of outstanding evidence for the methods used in tracing criminals.

Get After the Speed Fiends.

The average motorist using the country roads is a normal, reasonable sort of individual. He drives carefully, gives others all the room he can, and enjoys the air and scenery as he goes along.

The exception is the fool driver, and in the interests of the overwhelming majority of careful drivers this fool individual should be dealt with.

Sunday evening a car with three young men came down the Sarnia road, past Hyde Park. There was nothing but a cloud of dust, and the car was making 50 miles an hour if it were making one. There was no chance to get the number, and a speed cop would be the only person who could deal with such a case.

This same brand of jackass looms up on other roads. He dodges out from behind another car, swings away over to the wrong side of the road, thinking that his own asinine personality is the only one to be considered.

he is elected, if a certain number of the U. F. O. political party sign a requisition asking for his retirement.

Thus a member going into public life becomes primarily the representative of just that section that put him there. It is supposed to make erring ones walk straight and vote straight. It implies that the constituency has not full confidence in the man himself, and in that case they should never tender him the nomination.

The recall is used in some sections of United States. British parliamentary usage does not sanction it, and Britain is fairly well abreast of the times in regard to parliaments.

There is something in the procedure that the average candidate, if he is a red-blooded, honorable individual, will not readily subscribe to. It may be that he will take the hurdle rather than be turned down by the convention, but at the same time he must feel that he is hampered in entering public life, and making the sacrifices he does make—for a seat in the Ontario Legislature is not a profitable investment.

Perhaps the U. F. O. feel that the recall is a first-class method for promoting group government, but in the larger sense of responsible government we do not like the idea, and hope its adoption will be on a very limited scale.

Here's the Whole Story.

A heading on the front page of the London Conservative organ tells the whole reason why it is desirable from the standpoint of Conservative politics, to have Sir Adam Beck a candidate in this election.

That heading says: "Sir Adam's Hydro Policies Are Big Factor in Connection With Election."

Surely. Just a selfish political desire to bring in hydro so that Conservative candidates may make a convenient horse of it to ride through the election contest.

It would be a disappointment to hydro supporters to think that Sir Adam Beck would lend himself to any such transparent political propaganda.

Will Try Negotiation First.

The Baldwin ministry in Britain has made a start by declaring that it believes it possible to settle the differences between Russia and Britain by negotiation rather than by force of arms.

The chief point at issue is that Britain requires Russia to keep her political agents at home and cease preaching soviet ideas in British possessions.

Russia has enough problems at home to take up her full time.

Britain has enough financial burdens now without having to stage another war, or even a serious show of arms.

If Britain can negotiate honorably with Russia, the Baldwin government will have set the pace for saner European habits.

The people of Europe have successfully demonstrated that it is not possible to make progress with a gun in one hand and a spade in the other.

European currency, broken and poor, requires both hands on the spade.

It Interests Every Home.

The Brussels Post states the case very clearly in a few words:

"Don't lose sight of the prohibition question in all the bustle of the election. It will still concern every home in the land no matter who win."

People favorable to the O. T. A. can well take heed of that little warning.

The London Conservative paper assures its readers that the "O. T. A. Is Not An Issue."

The O. T. A. is an issue as much as anything else. There are organizations, such as the Moderation League, sending out stacks of literature assuring the people that "we are within striking distance" of getting a blow at that measure.

The Moderation League, if it had a chance, would break the spine of the O. T. A.

There are candidates who, in their addresses, are very wobbly in regard to their stand.

The Brussels paper is talking sense when it advises its readers to keep an eye on this issue.

Note and Comment.

There is a movement on foot in London to use hydro current to heat the Tory political wires.

Yes, there is some progress being made. We just heard of a girl named Elzbie who went to college. Now she's graduated and they call her Elizabeth.

Kingston has just made a locomotive that can go 73 miles an hour. It is very bad policy to give this information out just when the automobile season is at its height.

Mr. J. W. Curry is not going to run again for a provincial seat. He has been appointed to an $8,000 a year registration in Toronto. Most politicians in a similar position would not hesitate long in making the same decision.

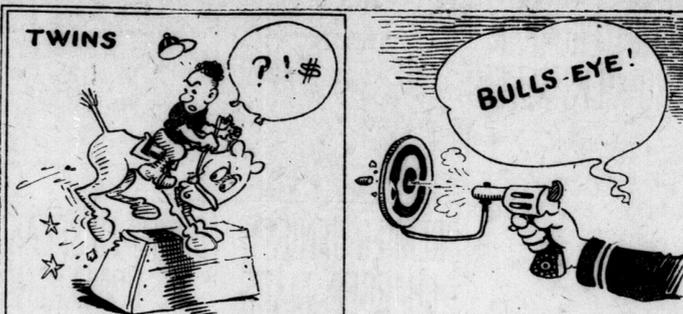

Two men at Camden, N. J., got into a fight and landed in the hospital over a remark that one of them bought his clothes at a fire sale. Joking with a man with no sense of humor is like striking a light to see, if there's any gas in the tank.

ADOPTING PRUSSIAN METHODS.

(From the Westminster Gazette.) It is not too much to say that the Krupp sentences have shocked by their severity almost every section of political opinion in this country. They are obviously too drastic to be defended by the most notorious anti-German and pro-French journals, and it is not surprising even to learn that the French journalists in court were themselves staggered by what must have recalled to them the Prussian spirit which dealt so harshly with Burgomaster Max, of Brussels. It is suggested by the nimblest of the apologists that the sentences will be revised when the French have completed their operations in the Ruhr, but that is a flimsy excuse. They are likely to give a sullen stiffening to Germans of all classes, and thus to drive the passive resistance movement, against which the French may demonstrate in vain, deeper down, or on the other hand, to create a serious revolt among the more turbulent minded of the population. They are alike wrong in principle and in tactics, and the French militarists have put themselves into the awkward position of having to whittle them away in some form or other to the loss of their own prestige, or to risk the hardening of the temper of the German people as a whole. It is not customary for the French government to consult British wishes in these Ruhr matters, and our government may not have the courage to make any public representation about the sentences, but the French people may take warning from our newspapers that they have jarred the feeling of justice which exists in the mind of the average British citizen.

The Recall Being Used in Ontario.

It is reported that a number of U. F. O. candidates are being asked to sign the recall before they are permitted to have the indorsement of a nominating convention. This recall places in the hands of the U. F. O. the right to call for the resignation of the member, in case

THE GUIDE POST

A FRIEND IN YOUTH AND OLD AGE. Cast me not off in the time of old age; forsake me not when my strength fails.—Psalm 71:9. The young need God for counsel and restraint; the old for consolation and encouragement. It is not easy to grow old gracefully, or even cheerfully. Much is taken when youth departs; and the increase of experience is mocked by the failure of power to make use of it. One is to carry on bravely through the remaining years, there must be a Divine Companion to cheer the way and lighten the burden. This companionship will be infinitely sweeter and more helpful if it has been begun early. An old friend is better than a new acquaintance. That is why the Bible says: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, before the evil days come." (Copyright, 1923, by The Republic Syndicate.)

Your Health

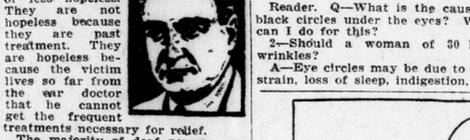

HOW TO CLEAN YOUR EARS, KEEPING THEM FREE FROM WAX. By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City. Nothing is more disagreeable than to be bothered by neglected "snuffles" and adenoids in childhood. Certainly, it is unreasonable to hope for speedy cure of a disability of such long standing. You must patiently persist in your treatments, confident that the deafness will be checked, even if it isn't materially benefited. There are deaf persons in every town who could be restored to normal hearing by one visit to an ear specialist. This sounds like an extravagant statement. But I have known so many persons to carry about a load of wax and to suffer from needless deafness that I want to be just as sensational as may be necessary to start similar patients on the road to immediate cure. One of the most common of all the causes for hearing is impaction of the ear wax. To remove the wax, prepare a solution of good soap in hot water. Use a syringe with very fine force, and, if it is a fountain syringe, do not raise it much above the level of your ear. Tip the top of your head toward the ear being worked on, so that the water runs from below up into the ear, and out again by gravity. If no force is used you can run into one of the ear an enormous quantity of water, a gallon if need be, without doing any harm. If the wax has become very hard, drop in five or six drops of mineral or sweet oil and let it remain a couple of days before using the water. This will soften the mass and permit its removal with the syringe. Remember, it is harmful to use force or cold water. Either will cause pain, perhaps fainting and sometimes inflammation. If you go to an ear specialist he will use instruments skillfully and more quickly get the mass out, but the water will accomplish your purpose if enough is used. T. M. F. Q.—Will you please tell

Baking Day

By ANNE CAMPBELL. There are a lot of happy hours. When one can run and play. I like the skies and trees and flow. But not on baking day. The kitchen has a spicy smell. My fingers in the dough. And I can almost always tell. When it is time to stir. I stand beside the table tall. And I can see the cake. And though I am a trifle small, I'm learning how to bake. The oven's getting hot enough. I stir the cake a bit. And 'cause I'm scared it might. I stop to sample it. One day my mother saw me stir. My fingers in the dough. I really couldn't wait to lick. The dish. I liked it so. Though mother's scolding was a little. I heard my daddy say. "Why, that's what makes the cake so sweet. You mix on baking day." (Copyright, North American Newspaper Alliance, 1923.)

CITY MERCHANTS STATE BUSINESS IS SHOWING STEADY IMPROVEMENT

Look For Brighter Future in Dominion Trade—Believe Much Is Dependent on Western Crop—Volume of Business in Many Instances Surpasses That of Last Year—Expect It Will Be Quiet During Summer.

RECENT FINE WEATHER PROVES GREAT BOON

Business conditions in and around London, while not breaking any records, are nevertheless good, according to several prominent local wholesalers and bankers, interviewed by The Advertiser this morning.

In the opinion of all, the situation today is much better than a year ago, and the bottom has been reached and passed safely. Although they state that there will not be a return to the old boom days, they are sure that business will gradually improve.

F. C. Field, manager of the Bank of Toronto, declared that business has shown some improvement in the last month, although collections, particularly in Western Canada, are slow.

"We don't expect business to be very good," declared William Turnbull, manager of the Adams wholesale grocery company.

Quiet But Steady.

"Business has been rather quiet, but steady. The trade of next fall, however, will depend on the size and quality of the farm crops and the price they bring.

"With reference to the increase in prices of several commodities during the past few weeks, I might say that this advance has not benefited Canada or Canadians in the least, as all the articles and products which increased were grown in the United States, and to them went the benefit.

Optimistic Future.

Samuel J. Diaper, vice-president of Smallman & Ingram, Limited, is very optimistic as to the future. Business has been steady and well up to the average in all lines in April.

"There was no need for pessimism, as conditions were of a nature to warrant only optimistic expressions of the future," she declared.

G. T. R. STOCKHOLDERS REGISTER PROTESTS

Attack Discontinuing Publication of Separate Grand Trunk Traffic Figures.

London, May 28.—The Times says a number of correspondents have written to it with regard to the increase in the gross revenues of the Canadian National Railways since the beginning of the year, particularly Grand Trunk Pacific Railway four per cent debenture holders, protesting against the discontinuance since the end of April of the publication of separate Grand Trunk Railway traffic figures.

The Times says this certainly is a point which deserves consideration. A correspondent of the Times says he has received a letter from Premier MacKenzie King's private secretary saying that a statement which will embody the decision of the Canadian government on the whole question of the acquisition by the government of the Grand Trunk Railway is in process of preparation.

MINISTERS DENOUNCE "ARTICLES OF FAITH"

Presbyterian Assembly's Action Declared Impertinent and Arrogant.

New York, May 28.—That the five "articles of faith" declared essential by the Presbyterian general assembly at Indianapolis last week constituted "a yoke upon our necks which I, for one, will never wear," was the declaration yesterday of Rev. William P. Merrill in the Brick Presbyterian Church.

The assembly's action was similarly assailed in two other churches. At the First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn Heights, Rev. Dr. L. Mason Clark denied the right of the convention "to interfere with religious liberty." He accused the assembly of "approaching perilously near to blaspheming the spirit of God," described its action as "an impertinent and arrogant warning that there is no room in the Presbyterian Church for progressive minds."

POLICE PROTECTION GIVEN KING ALFONSO

Measures Taken as Result of Arrest of Two Plotting Syndicalists.

London, May 28.—Extraordinary precautions were taken in Madrid yesterday, when King Alfonso presented a standard of colors to a regiment in Retiro Park, says a despatch to The Times from the Spanish capital. The king rode across the city in the center of a strong cavalry escort. The police regulations were most stringent, and the public was excluded from the park.

BEARS CARRIED OPERATIONS TO EXCESS

Stocks Are Now In Strong Hands and Market Is Buoyant.

WARNING IS HEEDED

Reaction Develops, Output Slackens, and Prices Are Reduced.

By STUART P. WEST Special Correspondent of The Principal Copyright.

New York, May 28.—The principal conclusion to be drawn from the past week's Wall Street movement is that the stock market has been in a state of a week or two weeks ago absolutely misrepresented that judgment regarding the business situation outside.

Under these circumstances prices were bound to go down with the great majority of the stocks were really worth. The usual sequel has followed, and the market has been thrown over a great many stocks in a downward movement, knowing full well that they were selling.

There was, as Chairman Gary of the Federal Reserve Board said in his Friday address, a well-defined impression that a serious downward movement in business was in the offing.

The truth was that expansion was going ahead all along, and the danger of a runaway price movement, and there was widespread production costs becoming everywhere as extravagant as they have in the building industry.

The signs now indicate that the downward revision program which has been pretty well completed in the building construction industry is being carried out.

Immense Outpour of New Securities. A factor in the recent Wall Street decline was the huge issue of new securities placed on the market.

Want Ad Subscribers $5 Article Selling for $4.98

WANT AD TIPS

The Appeal of Odd Cents and Odd Dollars

An authenticated case exists of an advertiser who reduced his price three cents, from $2 to $1.97, and doubled his orders. "Even" prices in hundreds of newspaper advertisements and mail order catalogs are almost as rare as purple cows. And automobile manufacturers recognize the hidden principle here, too—they don't quote even hundreds. Look up the latest Ford price.

Advertisers have found that in selling goods to people interested in price (not, that is, to a clientele thinking mainly of quality), an odd price seems much smaller to the public than an even-dollar price. Four dollars and ninety-five cents is only five cents less than $5, but to the public it seems much smaller than $5. Ninety-nine dollars seems much lower than $100. This condition applies so universally that hundreds of display advertisers have a rule in advertising against even prices. They know that the odd-dollars or odd-cents price will sell more goods out of all proportion to the small difference.

There is an interesting psychological illusion involved. When the average person views a figure the first digit makes the greatest impression on him because it has the greatest significance. In the number, $4.98, the 4 has to do with hundreds, whereas the 9 has to do with tens and the 8 with ones. The digit 4, consequently, naturally makes by far the greatest impression.

In cold business, one should react to the difference between $5 and $4.98, which is only 2 cents. What happens, however, is that we react mostly to the difference in the first digit, which is a matter of $1 and of considerable moment. Odd-dollars and odd-cents prices carry also the suggestion of the price cut, which pleases many people.

Prices are not always quoted in Want Ads, but it is often desirable to quote them. And if they are not quoted in the ad, the advertiser must quote them to the inquirer. The foregoing "number magic" headed by so many display advertisers, is valuable, too, for the Want Ad user.

"Up From the Death Cell" The Story of a Man Who Won a Fight Against Big Odds

BY JOHN W. KANE.

After a Year of Failure, Curly Kane Sells Three Stories for $190 In All

SYNOPSIS. In this life-story, Curly Kane, a wild lad, kills two street car men in a western state, in 1904. A second trial changes the death sentence to life imprisonment. He decides to redeem his life, wins advancement, studies law, and is chosen for an office job. A chapel sermon leads him to decide to become a writer. An editor gives him advice: Kane decides to buy a typewriter, giving up his comforts to raise the money.

CHAPTER XXX. By 4:30 that afternoon I had raised $7.55 in good transfers. In explanation, all the money of prisoners was kept in the safe outside, and there was a system of making transfers something on the order of the check system of banking. If two prisoners made a trade and one wished to pay the other, he would merely write out something like this:

"Mr. McCall, Chief Clerk:
 "Please transfer to John Smith, No. 1456, the sum of five ($5.00) dollars, and charge to my account."
 "THOMAS JONES, No. 1672."

Thomas Jones would have to get the O. K. of either the warden or deputy warden before the clerk's office would make the transfer, but as soon as such O. K. was secured and the transfer sent out to the front office, John Smith could draw upon that money for the purchase of anything that was allowed.

I had two transfers, one for $5, and the other for $2.65, and the men were able to get them O. K'd that afternoon; therefore, the morning of the following day showed a total of $7.89 to my credit. Had I thought about the 34 cents already on the books, I should have managed to get one cent more in order to make it even $8; but as it was, I knew that there was sufficient for the books, and some two months' rent of a typewriter, and even though I had never up to that time had my hand on such a machine, I was anxious for an interview with the warden looking to the matter of securing one if possible.

That interview came two days later, when both warden and deputy were inside the prison together.

"Good morning, Kane," the warden, who was always in front when the two walked together, spoke to me before I knew they were in the building. "How's everything with you?"

"About as usual, Warden, thank you," I answered. "This weather isn't exactly to my—"

"And then, as was usual with him, he interrupted before I had said what I thought of the weather.

"I saw Judge Frewin yesterday, and he was asking about you."

"That so?" said I, by way of reply. "I hope the judge is well."

About Not on the Roster.
 "I told him how well you're getting along"—he ignored my remark about the judge's health—"and he said that he'd be up some of these days."

"I'd be glad to see him," said I quickly, determined that the old gentleman with the seemingly enlarged ego should not interrupt any lengthy speech of mine again. "He's a fine man."

"Anyone in this house want to see me?" he inquired, looking toward where I kept the list of those desiring an audience with him.

"There are several, warden," I told him, taking down the list, "and, like Abou Ben Adhem, my name leads all the rest."

"I don't know anything about him," the head official admitted his ignorance for once. "But if that means you're on the list—what is it you want, Kane?"

I turned half around and rested my index finger on the little table, while the two stood looking down at it.

"I'd like to rent a typewriter from down town," said I, "and set it right here."

"A what?"
 "A typewriter."
 "What do you want with it, Kane?"

"I want to write about reports to your office for the guards, relieve the front office of quite a bit of work in connection with notices to be posted, fill out prisoners' applications for appearance before the board, so they'll be easier read, and then sometimes do a little writing for myself."

He Gives Permission.
 The old gentleman surveyed me for a moment; then:
 "Kane, you ought to be in the diplomatic service. Don't you think so, Anson?" He turned to the deputy. "Can you operate a typewriter, Kane?"

"No; but I can learn—quickly."
 "Not without someone to teach you," he suggested.

"I could learn it alone," I assured him.
 "Anson"—and one might have thought from the deputy's decision there was no appeal—"is there any reason why Kane shouldn't have the typewriter, if he pays for it?"

"Not that I know of," agreed the deputy, who knew—if he really knew hand I told you so, that next caused something of a mild sense. And then when I got busy through my greatest and most hearted effort up to that time, ceeded in doing a story that brought a check for an even one hundred dollars, there was simply a suppressed riot-scream all the place.

You Can't Keep a Good Man in Chapter XXXI. Tuesday.

LET'S SWAP
 When Mrs. Ellis moved, her rug was all too large or small. She sat down in despair and they just wouldn't do at all. Next day she read a SWAP page and clapped her hands with delight. "I'll swap my rug with some else."

"The question's solved," said she.

"Well, here's something I've been waiting for," I remarked to Officer Briggs, the day man under whom I worked, when I took from the mail basket that letter.

"What is it?" he inquired gapefully as was his habit.

My First Check.
 "That check for a story of mine, I suppose," I told him. "I haven't opened it yet."

"Oh, the check's not yet in sight, eh?" he returned with a kind of something-whisper to me that I wouldn't be in sight any way soon."

I would have given ten dollars right then if that had insured my pulling a check from the envelope, but such a gift was not necessary. I tore off an end of the envelope, jerked out the letter, and there, smiling up at me, was a purplish-tinted check for forty and no—100 dollars.

"Here it is," I remarked, holding the thing out toward him. "Do you see it?"

He brought his feet down from the table and reached for the check; then after a glance at it, he looked toward me.

"Wouldn't that beat you though?" And his face was wreathed with smiles. "You've broken the ice now, and I'll just bet that you surprise everybody from now on."

"Oh, that's worth having all right," I returned, thinking of the many implied half-slurish mild rebukes that he had sent my way before any monetary recompense had come. "I appreciate it, but I'm not so certain of smooth sailing from now on."

He rose and handed back the check. "You've just simply got it in you, Jack—that's all," was his way of helping to prove that just a puny beginning of success is worth having. "Incase this, and I'll take it right back out for you to be cashed. And then dig right in on another one."

I did dig right in, as he expressed it, and put the finishing touches upon another story that I was intending to submit to a brisk little magazine that was put out in connection with the literature of a large correspondence school in the east. And at the end of the twelfth day thereafter I received a check for fifty dollars for it, and the editor inquired whether or not I could do a story on the order of one that was in print in a marked copy of his magazine, being sent to me under separate cover.

If my first check for creative work had caused a little ripple of glad-

Convenient, Economical and Pure

If you have never known the convenience of milk that is always at hand and ready to use, that takes up so little room and keeps sweet so long, you will be delighted with Carnation Milk. Creamy and rich, it adds a new flavor and richness at less cost than cream. Economical for ordinary milk uses because you add a little more than an equal part of water to replace that which we have removed, and because it is never wasted, as it keeps for several days after the can is opened, when kept cool.

Carnation Milk is pure—because it is simply fresh, whole milk with about 60% of the water removed, sealed in air-tight tins and sterilized. Your grocer has this finer milk—order several tall cans or a case of 48 cans.

Try this recipe and write for the free Carnation Cook Book.

RICE PUDDING
 2 1/2 cups water, 1 1/2 cups Carnation Milk, 1/3 cup rice, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 2 tablespoonfuls sugar. Wash rice, mix ingredients, and pour into buttered baking dish. Bake two and a half hours in a very slow oven, stirring every twenty minutes the first hour of baking to prevent rice from settling.

Callaghan Tells the Gang Slim Jim Carey Is Back In England To Destroy the Firm

A little anteroom, tactfully left by an official of the court, stood waiting when Philip entered, still in wig and gown. In a moment he had caught her in his arms and strained her to him. "My love!" he said hoarsely, "my love! At last!" "Free!" said Joan, her arms tight about him as she looked up into his eyes. "I never doubted, Philip. I think I doubted. I knew that you would save me. My husband, he kissed her wildly. For a moment neither of them could speak in footsteps approached, there was a tap at the door. An usher appeared, apologizing. "There's a crowd, and they're cheering like all down the street. I've got a car for you at the side entrance, the lady and you would hardly away."

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

A FAVOR FOR PETER. By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD. "I'll tell you, Pat, how it is," and Peter Driscoll thoughtfully tapped the ash from his partly smoked cigar. "Jim Cooper is gold, solid gold clear through. Only—he's girl shy. It would do him a world of good to have a woman friend. Some one like yourself, for example. He's a moment. Then, 'You say he won't even meet a girl if he can avoid it?' she asked. "Runs like a deer from the encounter if warned in time," declared Patricia. "Funerary part is that he's such a darned good natured cuss into the bargain. Ready to do anything for anybody."

Hooked Mat Patterns. Here's another offer, Boxites: Late Spring will exchange double rose roots for hooked mat patterns. I have the address. "Slow," But "Sure." I think we were all proud to read about the Memorial Hospital and to think we were helping in the work. Slow Aunt Kate. The Boxites will be still proper when they see the picture of the Cynthia Grey not itself in the paper, don't you think? Never mind being "slow" this time, Aunt Kate, as the next lot of badges will be ready, and yours will be off as soon as they arrive. Bright and Cheerful. Dear Cynthia and All the Boxites:-- Here I come again, fusing around the world in the pamperly seeds O.K. Oh, Cynthia Grey, I wish you could spend a week down here climbing hills and picking wild flowers. You'd be back in and get a Madeira vine bulb? Will our cookbook be in its way soon to all the brothers and sisters, for I think there must be a lot of them in the crowd and you'd like to help things along? I wish my mite was dollars instead of cents. TIGER LILLY. If I began to visit the country and visit all the Boxites in the country and go out picking flowers, I am afraid Cynthia Grey would be a very unhappy person. But never mind. I think it was splendid of you, I and Co. and the others to donate the bulbs and seeds, and I am sure by the way the Boxites have been asking for them for it must have helped the S.C.H. fund a great deal. Isn't it surprising how the mites count up? I was sorry you hadn't the cloth slipper pattern, but perhaps Joan W. or some of the other Boxites will send it in later. Will close with best wishes to Miss Grey and the Boxites. HEPSY BURKE. New Crochet Patterns. Dear Boxites,--Can't we find some new crochet patterns? I have had requests waiting for weeks. How's that? I'll be glad to write, and I should like some nice up-to-date ones for her. And, of course, she will exchange others with the Boxites. CYNTHIA GREY. Can We Find Them? I have looked through my list and I haven't the recitations you want. Reader, Perhaps some of the Boxites might have them, so am printing the titles--"His Mother's Song" and "John Davidson and Trilby. His Wife." Can we find them, Boxites? Correspondents. Tip has written for correspondents of 14, 15 or 16 years old. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I will forward you any addresses which are sent in. Hardly a Mite. Your letter with the generous hospital mite (I can hardly call it a mite) was a pleasantly interesting surprise for me. Twofus, I will send the badge as soon as the next lot arrives. The cookbook, of course, isn't here yet. The apron pattern was just returned a day or two ago and I have sent it right off to you. You would see by yesterday's paper that Cynthia Grey was one of those who were disappointed in not getting to see the opening of the memorial hospital. In the Personals. I am very glad to send you the seeds, Cambria, Hero's Mother, and to thank you for the hospital mite. Regarding your other query, however, I can only advise you to insert a notice in the "personals" column of the Advertiser. This might avail you something.

THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

with you. But Slim Jim knows! He will make short work of Drummond, and that gilded romance is over. "Right!" nodded Vaillie. "Our Drummond will tear himself," said Mr. Callaghan, "from all those endearing young charms, all that increment and emolument of a prospective £50,000 a year, pertaining to Viscountess Talbois, nor De Cassin. For if he does not, within a week the tearing will be done by Slim Jim--a very painful process--and all Drummond will get out of it is a long term at Parkhurst prison. For Slim Jim knows too much about Drummond, just as Drummond knows too much about us. My friends, it is a painful thing to say, but Drummond is the one member of the firm I cannot trust when he is forced into a corner, and I did not care for him here, but I do care for him at the time when we are getting out. So, willy-nilly, Drummond joins the refugees. It is a thousand pities we cannot install him for our own benefit as master of Knyath, but the hope of that is past and dead. "Here was a chance to get even, still Boxer hesitated. Where was Mother Bear? Not even the satisfaction of getting even would be worth being caught by Mother Bear, Boxer stood up and looked in every direction. He couldn't see far because of many young trees growing all about there. He listened with all his might. He heard nothing of Mother Bear. With his nose lifted, he carefully tested each Merry Little Breeze, but none brought the faintest scent of Mother Bear. Boxer looked up at the triplets again. It wouldn't take him long to climb up to where they were. Once up there, he would--well, never mind what Boxer meant to do. Still, he hesitated. Supposing Mother Bear should come while he was up in that tree. There would be no escape then. "Better leave them alone until you can catch them on the ground. You would be in a bad fix if you were caught up in that tree," whispered Common Sense. "You may never get another chance like this to get even. It won't take you but a few minutes," whispered Jealous Anger. "Probably Mother Bear isn't far away. She wouldn't leave such little babies for long," cautioned Common Sense. "Remember that it was because of them that Mother Bear drove you out into the Great World," whispered Jealous Anger. "A wise Bear will keep out of trouble," warned Common Sense. "There won't be any trouble if you act quickly," said Jealous Anger. All the time Boxer was looking, listening and smelling. Swiftly but silently, taking care not to rustle a single dry leaf or step on a single dry twig, Boxer moved in a wide circle around that tree. He found the tracks left by Mother Bear when she had gone away, after sending those three little cubs up that tree. But

They were so little that they thought of nothing but play and having a good time. Boxer, their nearly grown brother, who had been sent out into the Great World to make his own way and who actually didn't know that he was their brother, watched them with growing anger. It was jealous anger. It was to face disaster just at the time when we are getting out. So, willy-nilly, Drummond joins the refugees. It is a thousand pities we cannot install him for our own benefit as master of Knyath, but the hope of that is past and dead. "Here was a chance to get even, still Boxer hesitated. New Stories By O. HENRY

A GUARDED SECRET. It is time to call a halt upon those persistent legends that a woman cannot keep a secret. No baser ingratitude has been shown by man toward the fair sex than the promulgation of this false report. Whenever a would-be humorous man makes use of this antiquated chestnut, which his fellow men feel in duty bound to applaud, the face of the woman takes on a strange, inscrutable, pitying smile that few men ever read.

The truth is that it is only women who can keep a secret. Only a divine intelligence can understand the marvellous power with which 99 married women out of a hundred successfully hide from the rest of the world the secret that they have bound themselves to something unworthy of the pure and sacrificing love they have given them. She may whisper to her neighbor that Mrs. Jones has turned her old silk dress twice, but if she has in her breast anything affecting those she loves, the gods themselves could not drag it from her.

Weak man looks into the wine cup and behold, he bubbles his innermost thoughts to any gaping bystander; woman can babble of the weather, and gaze with infantine eyes into the orbs of the wildest diplomat while holding easily in her breast the heaviest secrets of state.

Adam was the original blab; the first tell-tale, and we are not proud of him. With the dreamy, appealing eyes of Eve upon him—the who was created for his comfort and pleasure—even as she stood by his side, loving, and fresh and fair as a spring moon, the wretched cad said: "The woman gave me, and I did eat." This reprehensible act in our distinguished forefather cannot be excused by any gentleman who knows what is due to a lady.

Adam's conduct would have caused his name to be stricken from the list of every decent club in the country. And since that day, woman has stood by man, faithful, true, and ready to give up all for his sake. She hides his puny peccadilloes from the world; she glosses over his wretched misdemeanors, and she keeps silent when a word would pierce his inflated greatness, and leave him a shriveled and shrunken rag.

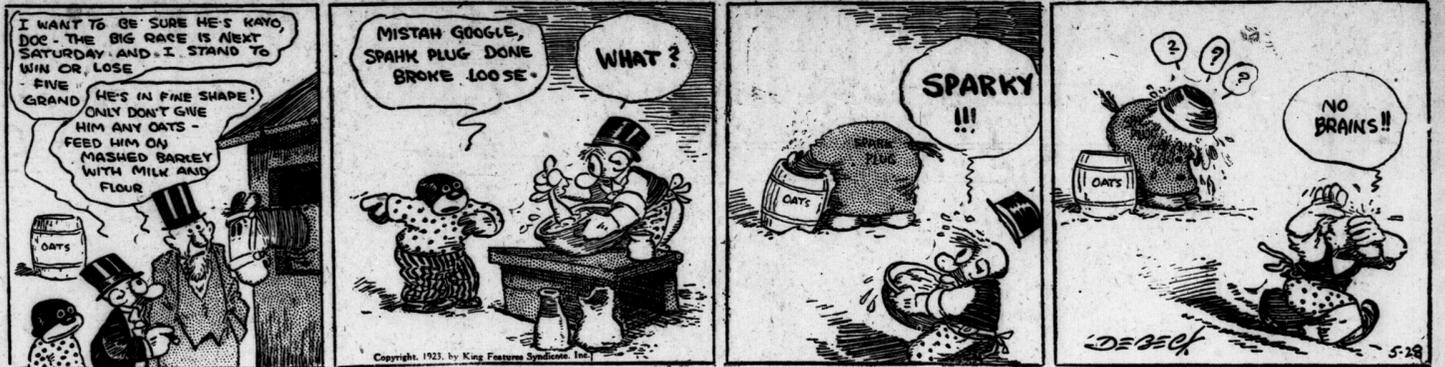

And man says that woman cannot keep a secret! Let him be thankful that she can or his littleness would be proclaimed from the house-tops.

London Girl Guides Parade To St. Paul's Cathedral

Dean Tucker Preaches Sermon On Woman's Place In The World.

The morning service at St. Paul's Cathedral was yesterday given over to the Girl Guides who attended as a unit. The Guides turned out to the number of hundreds and marched to the cathedral in troops or companies, each unit with its standard-bearer, carrying a Union Jack. The first parade was a splendid one as they entered the church, each in her regulation blue hat and blue and white middie.

In honor of the occasion, Dean Norman Tucker gave a splendid address, basing his remarks on the Biblical text, "God created man in his own image, male and female created He them." In expounding his text he stressed the latter half of the quotation in explaining the equality of man and woman.

He pointed out that today perfect equality is recognized between men and women in practically every walk of life. The male and female employees were the newest of the movement, which had tended to make this equality tangible.

In honor of the Girl Guides of today," he said, "will become the leading women of tomorrow, and the training that they receive as Girl Guides will help them to the heights of the most splendid equality of women, that has become more apparent of late." He declared that the Guide movement afforded a splendid ground for the essentials which are necessary for the uplifting of the national life.

As through the world, he stated, the women were becoming more educated, and in every profession and every walk of life they were holding their own, and in some cases had monopolized certain positions.

He pointed to Lady Astor and Miss Agnes McPhail as examples of the heights to which women could attain, and said that there was not a position today that was not open to women.

"The day has passed," he said,

Arkona, W. I. To Unveil Stone

Brig-General King Will Be Present On June 4.

The Arkona Women's Institute has decided on Monday, June 4, as an appropriate day on which to unveil and dedicate the beautiful soldiers' memorial which has recently been erected in Arkona Cemetery by the people of Arkona and district. The war veterans of the district and the pupils of the public school, headed by the Arkona brass band, will march to the cemetery. A suitable program has been arranged, consisting of address by Gen. W. B. M. King, Col. C. S. Woodrow of Sarnia, and the resident ministers. Musical numbers by the pupils of Arkona school will also be a feature. All Arkona people residing in London are being invited to attend the unveiling, which will take place at 3 p.m.

CONGREGATIONAL BOARD MEETS IN STRATFORD

Many London Women Attend Annual Missionary Sessions.

Many donors will attend annual meetings of the Canadian Congregational Women's Board of Strathford, which is being held in Stratford on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Among the speakers who have secured for the sessions, Mrs. W. F. Hiers of Granby, Quebec, formerly of Marsh, Quebec, who will give a talk on Thursday evening on "Contrasts Between Christian and Mohammedan Faiths." Miss D. Bell of Angoua, West Central Africa, will also be a speaker that evening. Rev. W. T. Gunn, D.D., general secretary of the Congregational Church of Canada, will be the speaker.

The evening session Tuesday given over to the young people, the principal speaker being Sybil Hosking, a nurse, who is going as a missionary to Angoua, Central Africa. Mrs. Robert W. Martin of Toronto, superintendent of the Missionary Circles, is speaking "Modern Crusaders."

Among the Londoners who will attend are Mrs. Thomas H. Hill, president of the board, Miss Edith Scott, president of the London branch, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. A. Arundson, delegates from the Missionary Circles, Mrs. H. and Mrs. Angeles, delegates from Southern Congregational Church, Mrs. F. A. Steven.

MUSICAL ART CHOIR ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Lieut.-Col. E. G. Shannon Is President For Coming Year—Hold Box Social.

Lieut.-Col. E. G. Shannon was elected president of the Musical Art Society Choir at their annual meeting held Saturday night at the Institute. The meeting took the form of a box social, Sam O'Meara making a very clever and amusing auctioneer.

The president's address, the chief feature of the meeting, referred to the successful history of the choir since its organization on April 24 last year. Regret was also expressed at the illness of A. D. Jordan, the choir leader, who was unable to officiate in that capacity throughout the whole season. The membership at the close of the season was 96. One very successful concert was given at the Patricia Theatre.

Other officers elected are, vice-president, R. I. Byrmer; treasurer, Russell H. Loney; secretary, E. B. Cottle; executive committee, Mrs. Major McKenzie, G. F. Copeland, Agnes H. Hunter, T. U. Yull, J. H. Ryan, Helen W. Gibson, Rev. G. Quintin Warner.

During the evening recitations were given by T. H. Yull, Mrs. A. H. Hensall, Helen W. Gibson, Rev. G. Quintin Warner.

WEDDINGS

GORDON-COPPERSMITH.

A quiet wedding took place Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in Grey street, when Lillian Coppersmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Coppersmith, was married to Mr. Gordon of Detroit. The ceremony, which took place at 6 o'clock, was performed by Rabbi Phillips. The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother and father, looked charming in a white gown and a wedding veil. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was held. Owing to a recent death in the family only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. D. Coppersmith and daughter Annie of New York; Mrs. Shanfield and Misses Sissie and Leah of Chicago; Mrs. Caplan of Canton, Ohio; and small daughter, Zeldia, and Miss Florence Coppersmith of Chicago. Other relatives were present from Detroit, Windsor and Rodney. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will leave today on a honeymoon to New York and upon their return will reside in Detroit. The bride will travel in a navy blue cape with a platinum fox collar and a black crepe dress, and a smart black hat.

LONDON'S COMMISSIONER.

Mrs. C. H. Hill, who was present at St. Paul's Cathedral yesterday, in the official capacity of local commissioner of Girl Guides.

"When marriage was the only career open to women," she said, "the fact remains that women will always be filling their most useful and glorious position as wives and mothers. The biggest factor in the life of any nation is not the individual, it is not the successful man of creation, but the family. And in this same connection the wife and mother is the most important unit in the family, and the pivotal center around which the family revolves."

She declared that the fact that divorce was becoming far too common and said, "at such activities as the Girl Guides are bound to become an educational factor in stamping out this evil."

The Rulers within You—

WE all know what a Tyrant the Stomach can be. With dietatorial cruelty, it reduces our appetite, lashes us with headaches, taking the joy out of life and unfitting us for the day's battles.

Where King Brain rules (which is only Common Sense whispering a word of advice) precautions are taken to guard against the tyranny of the "out-of-sorts" stomach.

If the stomach rebels—if indigestion, pain after eating, headaches, bilious attacks, constipation trouble you, ABBEY'S will give prompt relief.

The use of ABBEY'S is the rule of reason in the realm of King Brain. It changes a demented tyrant into a loyal, faithful subject. Just try it.

FLEET FOOT is the most comfortable, economical and best wearing summer footwear for children and grown-ups.

A Fleet Foot shoe without the name would wear just as long and be just as comfortable.

But when you buy it you'd have to take somebody's word that it is a Fleet Foot.

It is not Fleet Foot unless the name Fleet Foot is on the shoe.

Paris, May 26.—Cream marocain in a material much in favor for both summer frocks and suits. Light in color and weight, it is admirably searable and also a splendid background for the bizarre and vivid Assyrian jewelry so well liked at the moment.

A Victorian Bonnet.

Paris, May 26.—A veritable Victorian bonnet of pale green silk is one of the sorts of hats young girls are wearing today. It is of the poke bonnet type but much smaller and fits each flower very large. Usually the trimming is of flowers and fruit combined.

Black Velvet is Chic.

London, May 26.—The black velvet gown is chic in spite of warm weather. Those worn today are sometimes decorated with flower motifs cut out of silk in various shades, each flower very large, and several varieties being represented.

Sunshine Yellow.

New York, May 26.—The sunshine vogue has reached this town via Paris and London. One of the smart shops on Fifth avenue today has two windows filled with gowns, lingerie, and dress accessories in varying shades of sunshine yellow. Particularly striking are the handbags in yellow corduroy velvet and suede.

Persian Silk Slippers.

New York, May 26.—Among the most beautiful shoes yet turned out this season are those pumps—with one or two straps—made from silk in Persian patterns. There is a certain shimmer to the silk sometimes which makes the pattern look like flowers under water.

Oriental Stripes Again.

New York, May 26.—A most remarkable cloak seen on the Avenue today was the epitome of the Oriental stripe note in style. It was of black crepe de chine and enveloped the wearer to the heels. Around the wide cuffs and around the hem were three wide stripes of white crepe and one very wide stripe of bright blue.

NAME MIS-SPELLED.

In The Advertiser of Friday, May 25, a story appeared stating that Mrs. Duffin of Hensall was injured by an automobile in that village. The name should have been Mrs. W. A. Duffin.

COMPANY COMING.

Some people get very much excited at the thought of "company coming." The whole house must be turned upside down and inside out and back again in honor of the expected guest. Everything has to be dusted and polished—even the children. The result is not likely to please the visitor of the visited.

Company was expected in the First Grade room, and Miss Mary started to clean house. Mary Ellen, aged 8 years and 6 months, was her right hand. While the class was re-reading the story of the "Three Little Pigs" to make sure of it, Mary Ellen, who could read it backward as well as forward as you preferred, was allowed to dust. Having wiped down the blackboards she blew off the dust on the ceiling, so she beat them off forward to coughing violently.

"Why, Mary Ellen, you know nobody ever blows chalk dust? What ever possessed you?" said Mary Ellen. "I was so hungry," said Mary Ellen. "I was afraid they would come."

Miss Mary washed her into silence and she ran downstairs to clean the crasers. The brushes for scrubbing them were nailed to the back fence. But Mary Ellen was in a nervous hurry, so she beat them against the smooth sandstone wall that was the pride of old Michael's heart.

"Mother, o me, what are you after doing? Marking up the table with a minute. And the trustees coming, too," and he stumped off for palls and brushes.

My child never works for me. She works with me. I am very careful to say to her: "Come on, Marjorie, let's get dinner for dad. Suppose you set the table while I peel the potatoes." If I leave out the partnership feeling, and merely say: "Set the table, Marjorie," her attitude is entirely different.

HAMS LOSE LAST TILT TO WOLVES

Edgren Was Wild and Was Relieved in the Eighth.

Special to The Advertiser.
Hamilton, May 26.—Bay City took the last game of the series from Hamilton today, scoring four runs in the eighth to win by a count of 5 to 2. Edgren was having trouble locating the plate all through the game, but in the eighth he became real wild and issued two passes, which along with Tomer's double and singles by Frysock and Hunter, M. F., up to 235 and left his scorecard and the bases full when Wehrli was called upon to relieve. Good, the Bay City pitcher, was the first man to face Wehrli, and his single brought in two more runs. He was the hero of the visitors, allowing the Hams but three hits and making that many himself in four times up.

Top Rung of Southern Loop To Be Decided Wednesday

Londoners Dig Into Workouts in Preparation For Game With St. Thomas—McPhee Will Likely Pitch.

Manager Ed. Stein's seniors had a good stiff workout over at Tecumseh Park after the pro game Saturday, and will have another tonight in preparation for their tilt with St. Thomas Wednesday, which will decide the league leadership for a few days anyway.

With Stratford's defeat of Woodstock Saturday, the league is sharply divided into two abbreviated divisions, and London and St. Thomas are the first division clubs on form. Wednesday's game should show the top pretty well, though the games so far played may be away off the dope which may develop later, because all the games have shown lack of practice.

The Londoners Saturday went through a thorough drill, and the Stratford on Saturday were tackled by Manager Stein.

The batters looked particularly good Saturday against left-handed pitching, which they probably faced Wednesday, hurled by Danny McPhee, the Saints' southpaw ace.

Diamond Glints

The Hams and Mackey's Braves open a week's engagement to decide definitely on the cellar title. The Hams almost got sun blindness last week when they feasted on three straight from the Wolves.

This is where the Brantford Red Sox are going to be missed, as they could always beat the Hams when things were too close between the Tigers and Cockneys.

Sam Dodge will be here with the Hams as he reported Saturday. Dodge wasn't needed by Grand Rapids apparently. He was with Flint for two seasons and was sold to the Boston Red Sox.

Joseph Briger, George Stutz, Rabbit Oakes and Bob Kuhn are all back with the Hams, and there is always Hump Pierce to add to the life of the party.

SOCCER NOTES

A meeting of the London City Soccer League will be held Tuesday, May 29, at 7.30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce building. As very important matters will be going on, a meeting of a full representation of the league and executive members is being requested to attend.

An executive meeting of the London District Football Association will be held on Thursday, May 30, in the chamber of commerce building at 7.30 p.m. when important business will be transacted. The London and District Football Association meets weekly on Wednesdays at 7.30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce building.

John A. Nash (My Jeweler), the hero of the cup, has kindly consented to the ball rolling and a good crowd of interested fans is expected to attend the juniors a good boost in attendance.

President William J. Friend, L. and F. A. will also be in attendance to give a few words of encouragement to the juniors, and the same local sportsmen to be asked by the London District Football Association to start their Ontario series, which takes place on June 4, when C. R. Juniors meet Thistles in all ability at Springfield Park.

SUZANNE LENGLEN WARNED TO AVOID STRENUOUS PLAY

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, May 28.—Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, who collapsed yesterday at St. Cloud during the finals of the hard court tennis championships, was examined today by heart and lung specialists. They found the collapse was due to over-exertion and excitement, and told the French woman champion that she must avoid over-strenuous play at tennis in future.

It had been feared that Mile. Lenglen might not enter the English competition at Wimbledon at all in consequence of her breakdown yesterday. But it was thought today that she would compete at Wimbledon, but in the singles only, not taking any part in the doubles play.

MILTON GETS POLE

Associated Press Despatch.
Indianapolis, May 27.—Driving at a speed of more than 108 miles an hour, Tommy Milton yesterday won the pole position for the annual 500-mile automobile race to take place here Wednesday. Six other drivers qualified their cars for the event by negotiating 100 miles at a speed of 80 miles an hour or more.

RICKARD WORRIED OVER OUTDOOR SCRAPS

Madison Square Garden Is No Longer In Demand.

By FAIR PLAY.
Copyright.
New York, May 28.—Before outdoor betting became the fashion, Tex Rickard, with his Madison Square Garden lease, sat pretty. Today rumors are going about the white light regions that in a short time the fans will see Rickard in a position of defence. With two ball parks capable of containing from 7,000 to 8,000 spectators each, and with outdoor stadiums that might readily be converted into the time the snow flies, it is not likely to be the dictator he has been to date.

In brief, politicians are after him. Every time opposition starts against Rickard, the Ontario and Billy Gibson figure in the gossip. The Ontario son figure in the gossip. The Ontario son figure in the gossip. The Ontario son figure in the gossip.

May the first game of more cracks such as was involved in the Mitchell fight and which other factors each, it may indicate that the time the snow flies, it is not likely to be the dictator he has been to date.

Up until the seventh inning neither team scored, but in Woodstock's half the home team scored two runs on consecutive singles. Woodstock's game went scoreless and found Woodstock on the short end of a 10 to 3 verdict.
