MAGGIE-JEAN READY SOON

GIRLS MAY MOVE IN NEXT WEEK

Maggie Jean is bulging at the seams! But not for long, for the work on the new addition has been stepped up considerably. It is hoped that in a very short time at least part of it will be ready for occupancy.

The co-ed population of U.N.B. has increased rapidly in the past few years. At present there are sixty-seven co-eds at the Residence, about half the total number attending the University. Of these sixty-seven, twelve have been temporarily boarding out, either with relatives or at places found for them by a committee of Alumni ladies, headed by Dr. Warren.

The need for an extension was felt greatly last year when eleven of the freshmen stayed at the Annex, across the street from the Maggie Jean. Plans for an extension were drawn up then, and work began on it shortly after the close of the University last spring.

This addition to the Maggie Jean Chestnut House, has been built to join the main section of the Residence to the Barn. This will mean that all of the Residents will be under one roof for the first time since that time when there were so few co-eds that even the Barn was unoccupied.

This extension is a modern two-story structure with a kitchen, diningroom, office and a few bed-rooms, on the first floor, while the second floor has been given entirely to bed-rooms. The workmen have been concentrating on the second floor, and the progress made since the opening of University indicates that in about a week's time, most of those girls who have been staying out will be back in Residence.

At present the Maggie Jeaners are, for the most part, living out of suit cases, but the promise of a lovely new wing seems to be sufficient to keep up the spirits.

It will be a while before the dining room and kitchen are ready for use. Until that time the residence girls will be a part of the Dinner Parade at the Student Centre. Eating at the Centre, despite its seeming disadvantages, has definite advantages which cannot be over-looked. The long trudge to and from there at noon hour has for the time being been abolished. Also, there are some excellent chances to strike up new acquaintances while waiting in the long line for meals.

Newmanites Congregate

The Newman Club Alumni of Fredericton were host to the Newman Club of U.N.B. at a reception which was held in St. Dunstons Hall on Sunday 30th of September. Guest speakers included Monsignor C. Boyd, Pastor of St. Dunstons Parish, newly appointed chaplain of the Newman Club and Mr. B. Henneffer, Regional Vice-President of the Canadian Federation of Newman Clubs. The reception which was held to welcome all Catholic students to Fredericton was very successful.

This, believe it or not is the Dining Room of the Maggie-Jean Residence for the Co-eds. It is one of the rooms which has been taken over for temporary accommodation.

Dolls! Where Have You Gone?

With the start of the Football season and the coming of Hockey it is imperative that the University has a full complement of cheerleaders.

This year eighteen girls are needed during the Football season due to the fact that during Girls Basketball and swimming only the good work for the rest of the year.

At present the turn-out of cheerleaders has not been at all promising and it has been decided that the choosing of the final cheerleading team will be put forward to a later date.

Practices are held at the Gym every night, except Saturday and Sunday at 7:00 p.m.

Any Co-ed who has had previous experience in cheer-leading and those who are interested in cheer-leading for the first time will be made welcome.

NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS

A Post Office is located in the Basement of the Arts Building for the convenience of the University faculty, staff and students. Students' mail arriving at the Post Office (excepting Residence mail will be placed in the Pigeonholes, on the first floor of the Arts Building. Any mail returned to the University without a return address will be placed in a 'dead letter' Box in the Post Office.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

In succeeding issues of the Brunswickan, this column will present a calendar of coming events as reported to the Campus Co-ordinator. The Campus Co-ordinator is appointed each year by the SRC to advise any campus group of the most opportune time to hold a meeting or social function in order that time conflicts may be avoided.

It is hoped that Campus Calendars may serve not only to co-ordinate campus activities but also to stimulate student interest in them. It will contain the name, date, time, and location of the event taking place, and, in the case of meetings, will present the important part of the agenda when possible. The Calendar will also report the major coming sports events.

As it has been impossible to contact the executives of the thirty-odd organizations on the campus before this issue, the Campus Co-ordinator, Mike Caughey, asks these organizations to get in touch with him when planning an activity by phoning 9004 or dropping in at Room 310 of the Lady Beaverbrook Residence. For insertion in Tuesday's Brunswickan, material should reach Mike by 5:30 p.m. of the preceding Wednesday.

VARSITY HAS PROBLEMS TOO

The University of New Brunswick does not seem to be the only university with an overcrowding problem. At the University of Toronto "The engineering faculty is fighting to accommodate a sixteen per cent increase in the freshman enrolment this fall." Classrooms are overcrowded and professors are overworked.

U.N.B. has a similar problem. In Dr. Toole's Freshman Chemistry class, over three hundred and fifty students come together for lectures. For labs the class is broken into sections with lab space being utilized to the limit. This is only an example of the complete situation. The Engineering Department has a comperable predicament.

MANAGERS STILL NEEDED

The Amateur Athletic Association held its first meeting of the new university year Tuesday. The president, Eric McAlary, was in the chair and all members were present.

P. C. (Pete) Kelly, athletic director at U.N.B., spoke to the team managers about their duties, especially the handling of finances.

The cheerleaders, five-pin bowling and proposed constitution changes were other items discussed.

The AAA still has need for managers. Needed are a manager for badminton and assistant managers for men's basketball and track and field.

JOB

The Student Centre cafeteria requires four people for part time work in the kitchen. No experience is necessary. The hours are from 5 P.M. until about 9 P.M. on weekdays, and a free supper will be provided.

PRE-GAME PARADE AT MONCTON, SATURDAY

It was learned on Wednesday that as a curtain opener to Saturday's Football game at Moncton there will be a parade. It will take place in the morning at 11 o'clock.

The participants will ride down the Main Street in cars, though the Red Bombers will, unfortunately, be unavailable for the parade. There is a good chance that the U.N.B. cheerleaders will be present, so the Moncton folk will see a part of the University 'delegation'. We feel sure that they will not be disappointed. Also in the parade will be the Moncton Cubs team, and the Navy Band. So there is promise of a fine send off to the U.N.B. squad's first game of the season.

It is hoped that there will be a strong group of supporters to cheer on our team in the all-important first game.

Drama Group Meets

The first meeting of the Drama Society was held on Wednesday, in the Art Centre. There were about 35 members of the Society present, including 15 Freshmen, who it is hoped, will play a leading role in the affairs of the society in years to come.

The meeting began with a short address by the President of the Society, Stephen Fay, who stressed the importance of the Freshmen in the group this year. For they will immediately play an important role in the workings of the Society. It is hoped that the fall production will be staged by a large percentage of the Freshmen class, and a nucleus of the experienced members of the Society. The Festival production for the second term is already cast but much of the work

ACCOMODATION

The University's Accommodation Registry, situated in Room 211 of the Forestry and Geology Building, still has a list of good accommodations available. Students having any difficulties with their accommodations are urged to get in touch with the Registry as soon as possible.

Some murmurs were heard during Freshman Week that this year's class was slightly lacking in spirit. Surely this picture of the Downtown Parade disproves any of these theories.

LET'S DO IT NOW!

Each year the cry is raised "We have no school spirit. Let's do something about it." Nothing has ever been done. Every year during the football season this complaint is voiced and as time goes on it will take on the characteristics of a sort of echoing plea from our dead past.

The time to do something about it is NOW and not in two or three months. Pep rallies should be held, song sheets distributed, yells learned — in short, everything should be done to make the student appreciate the university he is attending. As everyone knows, the place where college spirit or the lack of it, is most evident, is at sporting events. The importance of student support at these functions cannot be underlined too strongly. The success of our teams and in a way, the future of sport at UNB is dependent on our support. It is our DUTY to see that this is done.

The football season is about to start. Tomorrow will mark the opening day. We know we speak for the hundreds of UNB students when we say "GOOD LUCK RED BOMBERS!"

GLORIOUS TRADITION

The University of New Brunswick is the oldest college in Canada. In fact, it has been said, that UNB is the oldest university in North America, second only to Harvard. It is clear, therefore that we have a glorious heritage to keep up.

The fact that UNB is old in itself is something to be proud of. We can be doubly proud when we realize that our academic record is next to none. Ever since the university first received its charter as Kings College, there has been a tradition of fine scholarship; a series of uncommonly fine instructors; and finally a continued high standard.

It might interest a few students to learn a little about life at UNB in the last century. To begin with, and this is a most lamentable fact, there were no co-eds. The concept of higher education in those days made no accommodation for women, whose place, to quote a hackneyed phrase, "was in the home." Students were drawn mainly from the wealthy, with a few less fortunate students included. As years passed however, the percentage of the latter type increased, and it was not uncommon for these two groups to be in a state of continuing hostility.

A paragraph from the regulations of one of the first men's residences concerned services to the students. It said, in part "that all students will be provided with enough beer and bread . . ." The residence, incidentally was moved around quite a lot, as enrolment increased. It was located in the city at first. Enrolment for the first classes was about five.

The last thirty years of the 19th. century are a bright chapter in our history. At that time, Bliss Carmen, Charles G. D. Roberts and William Sherman were all students. Evidence of their literary work while at university can be seen in copies of the Literary Monthly of those years. In the eighteen eighties, the first co-ed was admitted at UNB. This climaxed years of agitation on the part of the women, and the first of their number to enter was greeted with an enthusiastic, but mixed reception.

CONGESTION

Most students will appreciate the hard time that the management of the Students Centre is undergoing at the present time. The only queues comparable to those in evidence at the dining room at noon, are in front of a certain unnamed "institution down town" on a Saturday morning. In order not to congest the cafeteria excessively, students should try to eat dinner and supper as early as possible. Only in so co-operating with the management, can the staff be facilitated. It appears that one evening, the dishwashers were seen leaving after 10 p.m. and the manager, Mr. Cooke, did not leave until well after midnight. It is extremely good of the staff to work so hard. Many a less efficient and competent staff would have bowed to defeat before this. The ranks of the "eaters" are swelled now by numbers of co-eds. Most of the co-eds would ordinarily eat in the Maggie Jean, however as most students know, the residence is currently undergoing renovation and facilities are cramped. In this respect, Dr. Millum is to be congratulated for the way she is handling the sleeping accommodation at the Maggie Jean.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR SCHOOL SPIRIT

The Editor,
 The Brunswickan,
 University of New Brunswick,
 Fredericton, N.B.
 Dear Sir,

May I congratulate you on the editorial "STOP AND THINK" which I read in your last issue of the BRUNSWICKAN.

The illustration of racial prejudice which you disclose therein most certainly meets with the deepest regrets of both the writer and the entire organization with which he is affiliated, that being the World University Service of Canada.

W.U.S.C. is a world wide university organization of students and faculty dedicated to the ideal of a university community transcending all barriers of race, nationality, and creed. It has always been with a feeling of admiration for the students of U.N.B. that I have watched how foreign students have been welcomed to this campus with such sincere warmth. This hospitality has made our promotion of international understanding on the campus an easier task, and you may be assured that if these ideals are attacked by any individual or group of individuals in the city at large that W.U.S.C. is prepared to act immediately in support of the ever-increasing number of foreign students on our campus.

Congratulations to you for your editorial regarding a very timely issue.

With best wishes,

I remain,

Yours very truly,
 G. R. Pearsall.
 (Corres. Sect. N.U.S.C.)

October 3, 1956

The Editor,
 The Brunswickan.

Dear Sir,

On October 27, U.N.B. plays football at Mount A. It has been traditional in English Rugby Days for a train to go to Mt. A.

We, the undersigned, would like to go to Mt. A. on a special train and we would like to know how many other students are of the same opinion. If other students are of the same opinion, they should approach their SRC representative and ask them to bring it up at the Next SCR Meeting.

Yours truly,

Student Government

The first fall meeting of the Students Representative Council is scheduled for next Wednesday evening. With the large increase in enrolment this year, the work of this governing body will be doubled. There have been several rumours of impending problems for these administrators to consider. Faith in the deliberations of the SRC is faith in the student body of UNB. We voted them in; they should do the job. It is our opinion that this council, like many of its predecessors, will do all in its power to carry out its administration successfully. The only way that we, as students can witness this important work; the only way we can assure ourselves of efficient government is to attend the meetings and offer suggestions when they seem pertinent. Students should be solidly behind their SRC. We know you're behind them. Let's show the council our support by attending as many meetings as possible.

Gold Coast Girl Is WUS Winner

A Gold Coast girl was awarded Toronto's World University Service scholarship this summer.

Beatrice Amarteifio will take graduate work in education with her $1000 grant from student donations to the SHARE campaign. She comes from Accre, capital of the Gold Coast, half-way up the west coast of Africa, and took her B.A. at University College of the Gold Coast.

She arrived in Toronto last week, and is living at Whitney Hall.

ARCHITECT OF MODERN THOUGHT

Albert Einstein Part II

Einstein was born in 1879 of German-Jewish parents. He abominated drill and discipline at school. In fact he had an aversion for the arbitrary laws of man throughout his life just as deep as the devotion he felt to the laws of nature. At the age of sixteen when his family moved to Italy he already had thought deeply enough about life under the strict German regime to renounce his German citizenship. At the age of eighteen he failed his entrance examinations to a world famous Swiss engineering school, the Zurich Polytechnic, because in his enthusiasm for mathematics and physics he neglected while at high school to study modern languages and botany. He succeeded in entering a year later. His talents were praised at the Polytechnic, but on graduation he was not asked to stay on for further post-graduate work. In the meantime he had become a Swiss citizen and took a minor job as a patent examiner in the Swiss patent office. While there, and at the age of only twenty-six, he published his special theory of relativity and his work on quantum theory which later won him the Nobel prize. These two revolutionary papers did not bring him acclaim immediately. Although some famous physicists of the day hailed him as a new Copernicus, he remained obscurely unknown for severally more years. But gradually recognition came, and he held university posts in Zurich, Prague and Berlin. His general relativity theory was published in Germany in 1916 during the First World War. After the war in 1919 an English astronomical expedition verified one of the predictions of his theory: the bending of light rays by the gravitational pull of the sun. Then suddenly fame burst upon him.

In his youth he left the Jewish religious community because he was a free thinker, though at a later date, reaction against anti-semitism led him to rejoin it.

In 1921 he made his first trip to the United States on behalf of the Zionist movement together with Weizmann, the Jewish scientist who was a prominent Zionist leader. Einstein was received by the American public with wide acclaim. He also visited many other countries and was entertained by royalty and by other leading figures of the day.

When Hitler came to power in Germany, Einstein left the country with the words: "As long as I have any choice I will only stay in a country where political liberty, toleration and equality of all citizens before the law are the rule." He settled in the United States where he worked at the Institute for Advanced Studies at Princeton until his death last year.

People who have known him intimately emphasize these personal characteristics: simplicity, friendliness, kindness, modesty, sense of humour, an air of personal detachment. He never sought personal recognition, fame nor material rewards. He did not try to conform in dress or social customs to the habits of those around him.

Public esteem of Einstein's scientific achievements made anything he said on any topic whatsoever, newsworthy. Although he never sought publicity for himself, he did not shrink from using his ability to command public attention to make his views widely known on issues close to his heart.

He was strongly against war, narrow nationalism, militarism and coercion in any form. The fact that he sometimes made use of his scientific renown to focus public attention on statements of his political convictions meant conversely that his scientific theories were publicly attacked on various occasions with great violence largely for political reasons. Such political attacks came from quite opposite quarters. In Hitler's Germany his theories were attacked as Jewish-Bolshevist physics. In Soviet Russia he was attacked for his alleged idealist, anti-materialist tendencies. He did not fight back against such manifestly non-scientific attacks, but regarded them with detached tolerance.

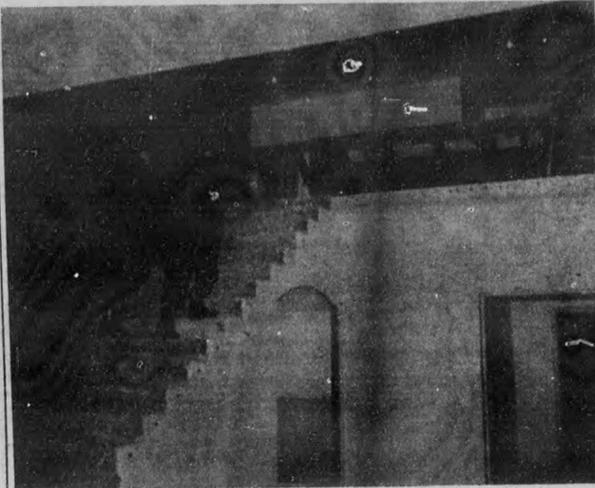

Leopold Infeld who for several years worked closely together with Einstein, attempted to explain Einstein's hold on the public imagination by the conjecture that in him the public saw a simple and sincere man unostentatiously and naturally living up to universally cherished ideals of the good life whom they could set up as a symbol of their own unrealized aspirations. Who will fail to respond emotionally to quotations such as the following from Einstein's own writings?

"The ideals which have always shone before me and filled me with the joy of living are goodness, beauty and truth. To make a goal of comfort or happiness has never appealed to me; a system of ethics built on this basis would be sufficient only for a herd of cattle." And another quotation:

"The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. It is the source of all true art and science. He to whom this emotion is a stranger, who can no longer pause to wonder and stand rapt in awe, is as good as dead: his eyes are closed.

COLLEGE SNAPS

IN STAGES OF CONSTRUCTION

These stairs might almost be a modern artists conception of the way to the stars, but, no, the steps are those upon which many of us walk every day. The discerning eye will quickly notice the entrance to the Cafeteria in the centre of the shot.

These hardly look like the hallowed halls some people consider them to be today. They are, of course the offices of the S.R.C. Even the Brunswickan office looks quite plain, a fact which is hardly true today.

Recognize this place? You probably come here for coffee every day. It's the cafeteria in the Students Centre, not quite so finely furnished as it is now. The students cafeteria has established itself as a favourite meeting place on the campus. It provides a pleasant break to the academic day and has been a welcome and much-needed addition to the university.

FILM SOCIETY ANNOUNCES '56-'57 SCHEDULE

Memberships are now available at the bookstore and library for the U.N.B. film society. The first film is to be shown on October 14 and final arrangements for this season's films are being completed.

At presstime the following program has been planned. The title of the October 14 film will be announced as soon as it has been confirmed.

October 28: "Wages of Fear" a French thriller built around trucking nitroglycerin over mountainous South American hinterland. This film was recently reviewed in Life.

November 18: "Hue and Cry", a British comedy starring Alastair Sim and a gang of Cockney youths.

December 2: "Ox Bow Incident", a controversial film starring Henry Fonda and Dana Andrews relating the impact of a lynching on a small western community.

January 20: "Jour de Fete", a brilliant French comedy starring the great Jacques Tati, the star of "Mr. Hulot's Holiday".

February 3: "Rembrandt", directed by Alexander Korda and starring Charles Laughton in one of his best acting roles, this is a biographical film of the great Flemish master.

February 24: "The Childhood of Maxim Gorki", an excellent pre-war Russian film based on the early life of the famous Russian writer.

March 10: "Umberto D", directed by Vittorio de Sica, a chillingly realistic film of life in post war Italy.

Short Subjects will be shown with all of these features. A ninth film will be shown if membership is sufficiently large. Single membership fees are three dollars; double membership fees are five dollars. Membership is open to all, both students and townspeople, who are interested in seeing good films.

UNB At Hub Tomorrow

University of New Brunswick Red Bombers tomorrow open their campaign to retain the New Brunswick Canadian Rugby Football Union championship with a tilt against Moncton Hubs in Moncton. The Bombers, shown above in action during a past season, have been warming up for their opener for about a week now and the team's new coach, Don Nelson, forecasts a strong performance by the Red and Black charges. Following tomorrow's contest, the Bombers will play Mount Allison University here Oct. 13 in their first home game. It is expected that many U.N.B. students will be going to Moncton for tomorrow's game. An independent survey conducted on the campus just before press time indicated that the number would be about 200. For those making the trip, we remind you that the game will be played at the athletic field of the Moncton High School on lower Church Street.

To Unveil Split-T

When University of New Brunswick Red Bombers tackle Moncton Hubs in Moncton tomorrow afternoon, they'll be introducing the split-T formation into provincial football circles.

In making their first start under their new coach, Don Nelson, the Bombers will be forsaking the straight-T style of ball which has won them the New Brunswick Canadian Rugby Football Union crown the past two seasons under Coach Gerard (Moose) Fleming.

In this formation, the quarterback operates along the line of scrimmage. Unlike the conventional T, this formation is not primarily a deceptive attack. It is rather a running offense which emphasizes quick-hitting plays into the line.

The contest itself should prove to be a close one. The UNB charges, who have been working out for only slightly over a week, will be facing a Moncton team which has already played three games, all against Saint John Wanderers. The Moncton team won its first two starts, but was edged by the Loyalist City dozen in its third try.

Coach Nelson states the UNB team is "up for the game", a strong team having been molded around last year's veterans.

Carolyn's Comments

By CAROLYN SOMERVILLE

The Red Bomber football squad will, without a doubt, be the main topic of campus conversation for the next few weeks. In the past few years our Bombers have come out on top of the list. We are all hoping the championship will come to UNB again this year but we cannot be sure until the last game is played.

It is said on the campus that the girls are not at all interested in this sport. This was proved untrue by the tremendous exhibition given by the co-eds last fall.

The Bombers have started practice now and workouts will continue until the end of the season. Tomorrow we go to Moncton to play our first game and the following week we tackle Mount A. It is extremely important to all of us that we win.

Watching from the sidelines of the football field we soon see that our team has not yet reached perfection. Co-ordination is still far from the best, passing seems to be a great difficulty, and the converts we hope, will be improved upon by Saturday.

Phil's Back

The well-known backfielder, Phil Bird, is again back with us. We all regret that he was unable to play last season but we are sure that he will play a great part in bringing victory to UNB this year. Other veterans back for another season are Tex Doiron, Hugh Osier, Mike O'Connor, John Courtice, Dave Irving, Derek Mackesy, Mike Gordon, Ralph Clark, Stan Williams, Mike Schofield, Mike Opper and Bill Vaughn. It is rumored that one of the football heroes of the year may be Ian Matheson of Ridley College.

On the other side of the picture we find that Mount A. has some hidden ammunition for the fight here at College Field. Walter (Bubbles) Peters, halfback, and Johnnie Roberts, quarterback, are supposedly ready to meet the Red and Black. Other players of interest are "Chink" McLaughlin, Bruce Smith and Sterling McLean.

With Coach Nelson and the players' incentive to win we are sure that many wins are in store for us. However, the students' support at all the games is a very important issue. Please turn out and give your support to the Bombers. Best of luck, Red Bombers!

Intramurals Begin

The intramural sporting season is getting under way at UNB with Coach Kelly reminding us that, in order for everything to be completed on time, all prospective competitors must register immediately. Coach Kelly asks the "co-operation of all students to ensure all competitions getting started promptly."

The outlook for intramural sports is as follows (all entries are to be made at Athletics Office):

Soccer—Opening game Wednesday evening, Oct. 10, at College Field. Deadline for entries is Tuesday Oct. 9, at 1:45 p.m.

Bowling—Entries from all teams, Candle Pins, Duck Pins, and Five Pins, should be made by Oct. 12.

Softball

For the benefit of anyone wishing to play softball, the names of the teams and team captains are listed. Anyone wishing to play can join a team by contacting the captain.

Senior Engineers: Charles Ball 4515

Intermediate Engineers: Jim Robinson 5391

Junior Engineers: Don Campbell 3621

Freshman Engineers: Pete Kelly Jr. 8370

Junior Foresters: Ian Campbell 2100

Sophomore Foresters: Elvin Cumly 5096

Third Year Science: Bob Wightman 8148

Third Year Business Administration: D. Fisher 3017

Geologists: Marvin Meloche 8679

The standings including results of games played to date follow:

	W	L	Pts.

Sr. Eng.	0	1	0
Jr. Eng.	0	1	0

NET PLAY UNDER WAY

The university tennis tournament yesterday went into the quarter-final round. The semi-final round will be played today, and the finals will be played immediately after the holiday weekend.

With three of last year's intercollegiate team entered in this year's university tournament, the competition should be keen. However, because of other commitments, some of them will be unable to travel to King's College where on Oct. 13 the Maritime Provinces intercollegiate tournament will be held.

TRACK TEAM JILTED

With the MIAU track and field championships only three weeks off (Oct. 26th), UNB's hope for making a good showing is fading.

Many students who indicated interest during registration have not turned out for practices. The team is not only weak in numbers, it is lacking entries in the following events: high-jump, shot-put, discus, hammer, pole vault, hurdles and the 440 dash.

Unless immediate additional interest is shown, UNB will field only a token team on its own field Friday, Oct. 26.

Practices for track and field are held each day, Monday to Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. Cross country running practices are being held Monday to Friday 4:30 to 5:30.

Report to Coach Legere at College Field.

OFFICIALS NEEDED

Officials are urgently needed for intramural officiating. Any persons wishing to help in this way are asked to contact the Athletic Office.
