PERILOUS JOURNEY IN A BOAT

A trip of 200 miles in a frail boat, floating along the mighty Yukon in the pack ice is a trip few would care to take.

The intense monotony of the thing, the voyageurs to use the oars and thus keep their blood from congealing, and the cold, to say nothing of the danger of becoming entangled in a jam and see the boat which holds the lives of its occupants smashed and ground into kindling wood beneath the irresistible force of the ice floes, such is the experience one may anticipate who attempts the voyage to Dawson at this time of the year.

Never before in the history of the Yukon as far back as the memory of the oldest sourdough runs, has there been an arrival of a boat from Whitehorse as late as that which tied up in front of the city at 5 o'clock last night.

BIFURCATED JOURNALISM.

It is amusing to watch the exchange of hostilities intermittently taking place between the evening and morning editions of the News. No one is interested in your family quarrels, neighbors, and if you are merely endeavoring to conceal the real status of affairs by a show of ill feeling, well, it is entirely unnecessary because everyone understands how matters really are.

Now, while all this looks very lovely from the standpoint of the promoters of this system of bifurcated journalism, from the point of view of the public generally the effect is entirely different.

The same principles which govern the actions of individuals hold good also when applied to the policies of newspapers.

It is just as impossible for two newspapers of diametrically opposed opinions to be published under one management as it is for a man to serve two masters and give satisfaction to both.

THE STRAW INDICATES THE WIND. First avenue presents a much better appearance since the White Pass Company began moving the unsightly array of boilers and other machinery which has been in process of accumulation for the past four months.

Under ordinary circumstances abuses of such a kind may continue indefinitely, simply for the reason that no one takes sufficient interest to see that they are corrected.

As long as no objections were raised, the railroad monopoly continued to fill the street with its machinery and it was not until public attention was forcibly directed to the matter that a remedy for the abuse was found.

The case merely served to illustrate the manner in which public wrongs may be prevented or righted if the proper means are used.

MADE TRIP IN FOUR DAYS

Mail Carrier From Eagle Covered Distance in That Time.

Mr. Eli Vereau, the man who arrived from Eagle City with mail on Monday, called at the Nugget office today and stated seven days, the entire trip from Eagle to West Dawson, where he arrived after dark Sunday evening, was covered in four days.

Such has been the case with the White Pass railroad and the Nugget. The Nugget has called attention to the various wrongs which this community has suffered at the hands of the big corporation, and public opinion will accomplish the balance.

The matter of storing boilers in the street is a comparatively insignificant affair, but it is a straw which points the direction of the wind.

There will be general satisfaction felt over the fact that Judge Schelbrede, U. S. Commissioner at Skagway, has been completely exonerated by the United States grand jury.

Another boat has struck an iceberg. It will not be long until the boats on the Skagway run which have not been battered by ice or rocks will be among the very few exceptions.

Struggle With a Shark.

Nanaimo, B. C., Oct. 11.—George Curtis, a Nanaimo fisherman, had an exciting struggle with a shark out on the waters of the gulf, on Wednesday last.

The huge monster, 10 feet in length, became entangled in his tackle and darted about furiously, dragging the boat with it.

CARRIED AWAY IN THE ICE

Three Trail Makers Go Down the River Yesterday Evening.

Three men in a small boat were carried down the river by the ice yesterday evening about 4 o'clock.

The men were members of the trail making party that reached West Dawson from Glacier and Miller creeks night before last and were attempting to reach this side of the river when their boat became imprisoned in the ice and was carried away with it down the river.

DEPRAVED FAMILY

Law Interfers and Takes Children From Seattle Parents.

Seattle, Oct. 12.—By their own acts Patrick and Mary Quinn are about to lose their three children.

By virtue of the laws of this state King county will give these children the care which their parents failed to bestow.

Patrick Quinn is a drunkard. Mary Quinn is serving a sixty-day sentence in the city jail for disorderly conduct. The names of both husband and wife have often been entered on the police blotter.

By virtue of an order from Judge Tallman, of the superior court, Municipal Guardian Sewell now has charge of the Quinn children, Leo, Paul and May, aged 8, 10 and 5 years respectively.

SAWMILL BURNED

Loss of $40,000 Sustained by Washington Lumbermen.

Whatcom, Oct. 16.—The plant of the Morrison Mill Company, at Fernside, was destroyed by fire last night, involving a loss of about $40,000, with only $9,000 of insurance.

The mill included a shingle mill, sawmill, planing mill and box factory, and gave employment to about sixty-five men.

A large amount of seasoned lumber was on hand, which they had just begun to manufacture into boxes, for which they had a contract for 150,000 with one firm alone.

Morrison Bros. own and operate a large saw and shingle mill in this city, which is entirely new.

Engineer This-deau Returns.

Engineer This-deau and a party of trail makers arrived at West Dawson Tuesday and crossed the river in a small boat yesterday.

They had a good winter trail clear back to Glacier and Miller creeks. Had Mr. This-deau not carried his friends would have recognized him, owing to the hirsute growth on his face as he walked up First avenue.

THE LAW AND EVIDENCE

Governed Court in Deciding Recent Case for Wages.

An irresponsible evening sheet Tuesday cast a reflection on Judge C. D. Macaulay's court by intimating that his honor is vacillating in his decisions, the cases cited being that of two different butchers who at different times and under wholly different circumstances sued for wages.

The latter case, that of Ferdinand Rear vs. Chris Baetsch, on trial yesterday, was wholly different, Baetsch being able to prove an agreement by which Rear was to receive $5 per day and no matter what rate of wages had been established by evidence in the previous case, the latter agreement took precedence and would have done so had it stipulated only $1 per day, as the price to be paid by Baetsch to Rear. The decision was based on law and the evidence before the court, and the reflection cast upon his honor by an evening sheet was wholly without fact or foundation.

FATAL FIGHT AT CHURCH

Tennesseans Settle Old Scores on Holy Ground.

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 7.—In a bloody fight at the Union Baptist church at Big Springs, ten miles from Tazewell, Tenn., yesterday, four men were killed, two mortally wounded and three wounded.

The killed are Tip and John F. Chadwell, Bush and Henry Morgan. John Morgan and Asa Chadwell are mortally wounded, and two men named Jones and Noble and Sheriff Brook were slightly wounded.

There was preaching at the church and about 600 people gathered there. Just before the 11 o'clock services began Tip Chadwell went to the spring 50 yards from the church.

Eighteen months ago they met near the Hancock line. Fighting followed and one was killed. Both the Chadwells and Morgans are prosperous and influential and have large families and all their members are fearless.

Travelled 20,000 Miles.

Walla Walla, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Margaret Kimball, residing 213 North Second street, has as a guest at her home a daughter who will have traveled 20,000 miles to make the visit.

Mrs. W. W. Conroy was formerly a school teacher in this city. A few years ago she went to San Jose, Costa Rica, where her home now is. The visit to her mother was contemplated in connection with a trip to New York, and the lady is now en route. She came by way of San Francisco and will go direct to New York, sailing from that city to her home. The trip covers a distance of over 20,000 miles.

HIGH MINDED MAN FINED

Ernest Zandri Prefer Skylights to Common Doors.

In police court this morning Ernest Zandri was before Magistrate Macaulay on the charge of having yesterday morning been drunk and disorderly, in which condition he made remarks about "doing up" Constable Stewart.

It was when the warring theatrical factions were holding forth at the Orpheum theatre, when doors were nailed up and windows were barred that Ernest, like a thunderbolt from heaven appeared upon the scene, having dropped 20 feet from the skylight.

As he was allied with neither faction he was not wanted there and was consequently put out. A few minutes later he entered in the same manner, dropping down at the third aerial descent that Constable Stewart took him in charge.

Ernest declined to walk to the barracks and an express was called to accommodate him. He was too drunk to be brought before the court yesterday morning but had wholly recovered the normal taste today. He appeared without coat, vest or hat. He was fined $5 for being drunk, $2 for livery hire and the costs of the court. The money was paid by a friend.

The civil case of Yarger vs. Armstrong and Porter, was continued.

Engineer This-deau and a party of trail makers arrived at West Dawson Tuesday and crossed the river in a small boat yesterday.

THE DIVORCE QUESTION

Comes Prominently Before Assembly of Episcopal Bishops in San Francisco—Provokes an Animated Discussion—Ecclesiastical Men of Great Prominence Take Part.

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—The question of marriage and divorce was before the bishops of the Episcopal church of America today. The bishops passed canon 37, which provides for the discipline of persons marrying after being divorced. The change made by the substitute provided that each person receiving the sacrament on the consent of a bishop...

The bishops of New York and Maryland, and the coadjutor bishop of Southern Ohio, were appointed to act with three presbyters and three laymen on a committee to consider the question of translation of dioceses. DEPUTIES DISCUSS DIVORCE. San Francisco, Oct. 11.—In the assembly of the house of deputies today an attempt to take up matters on the calendar in advance of their order was promptly tabled, showing a disposition to proceed with the regular order, which gives first consideration to the canon on marriage and divorce and other prominent subjects.

At 10:30 the house went into committee of the whole on the new marriage and divorce canon. An attempt to strike out a requirement of section 3, that in recording a marriage the clergyman shall state the ages of the parties, was defeated. A requirement that when practicable the parish register should be signed by the married parties and the witnesses was after considerable objection retained.

Section 3 was then adopted as a whole. This brought the controversy down to the famous article 4, already adopted by the bishops, which forbids the marriage of persons divorced for cause not existing before their former marriage—a practical bar to the remarriage of divorced persons by the Episcopal church.

Mr. Lewis of Pennsylvania, arose to correct a misapprehension of the purport of this canon. He explained that it does not propose to prevent anyone at all from being married. It only proposes to forbid ministers of the Episcopal church to marry any divorced persons whatever whose former husband or wife is still alive.

Dr. Huntington said he saw the point raised by Mr. Elder, and accepted the amendment offered by him. Edward G. Bradford, of Delaware, advocated the passage of the section just as it came from the house of bishops. He said the conditions of society and common decency required just such stringent legislation as is proposed.

spoke with a very solemn sense of responsibility. He had deep sympathy with the motive beneath the canon as it came from the bishops, but he did not believe it would accomplish the end intended. It was revolutionary legislation in the church. He differed with those who, with the church of Rome, held marriage to be absolutely indissoluble. The canon was unscriptural, he said. He cited Bishop King, of Litchfield, England, as unable to regard marriage as indissoluble. This view was supported by Bishops Lightfoot, Woodworth and Trench. He thought it a proposition to nullify the teaching of Christ.

De Bachus, of Long Island, claimed that the proposed measure did not have the warrant of holy scriptures as found at least in St. Matthew. Nor did it command the warrant of common sense and moral judgment. Rev. F. A. DeRoset, of Springfield, urged that the prayer-book service already contemplated just what the canon would require.

Rev. Dr. Ashton, of Western New York, also claimed that the law of the church was already defined in the prayer-book as making marriage indissoluble. The Rev. Dr. Foley, of Central Pennsylvania, acknowledged himself a convert since coming to San Francisco to the stricter view of the case, largely because the laity seemed to him to demand it. A firm stand, he said, is now required to influence a public opinion on this subject in the direction of domestic and civic righteousness.

He said the public sentiment of the American people could never be brought into line with the vigorous restrictions here contemplated. This section was an impingement of the American idea of personal liberty, which was in accordance in this matter with the rule of Christ. Mr. William H. Adams, of Western New York, denounced the laxity of the laws of divorce in most of the states. The church certainly had the right to legislate on stricter lines than those of the civil law, but he regarded the proposed restriction as an unwarranted interference with the rights of the people.

John P. Thomas, Jr., of South Carolina, where no divorces are allowed by the state law, said the law of the church should correspond with the high standard adopted by his state, and always recognized there except during a few years of the reconstruction period. Ex-United States Attorney General George H. Williams, of Oregon, opposed all restrictions upon the subject by the church. He would leave all such restrictions to the civil law.

GREAT PRINCIPLES INVOLVED. E. D. Bassett, of Rhode Island said there were two great principles involved. What can we do for the purity of our homes? And what did our Lord say upon the subject under discussion? "We find," he said, "that the sanctity of the home has been grossly violated in very many cases. In such cases the guilty should, indeed, be punished, but the innocent should be allowed to go free."

Rev. M. M. Benton, of Kentucky did not think pity for innocent women should influence the house in this matter. Rev. Dr. Huntington, of New York, asked leave to withdraw his acceptance of certain amendments to this amendment, and to speak upon that amendment as originally proposed by him. He said: "In our zeal for sanctity let us not forget justice. There are innocent parties in some of these cases under discussion, to whom consideration ought to be shown."

Rev. Dr. Davenport, of Missouri, agreed with Dr. Huntington, and called attention to the common fallacy regarding the expression in the marriage sentence "Let no man put asunder." He said the true meaning of the Lord was that the then common use of the Jews that any man might, on his own volition, put his wife away, should not be allowed. There was then no other way of divorce. That selfish, arbitrary procedure was disallowed by Christ, and yet he favored the most rigorous requirement.

Rev. Dr. Nevins, of Rome thought the proposed canon a very poor remedy for the evil complained of. His observation in a country where no divorce is allowed taught him that the evil was greater than where divorces were allowed. "Adultery is a greater evil than divorce," said he. Rev. Dr. Also did not favor making the law more rigorous than strict righteousness and the following of the Lord demands. He cited the instances of the falling of extreme Sabbatarianism and prohibition, and celibacy under the Roman custom, to accomplish what they sought after, as an argument against too great rigor in this matter.

MODERN FABLES IN SLANG. George Ade Tells of Fastidious Famine. Also of Wesley Fink the Grocery Bill Clerk, and of Geneve the Counter Girl.

Fastidious Famine was the name of a girl who had her pencil out and marked down an error the minute it was made. She knew the rules and regulations by heart. She slept with the hand-book of etiquette under her pillow and worked the eagle eye whenever she was in company, looking for misplays. Famine was so grammatical that she made nearly every one tired, and she was so touchy that those who took long chances and started in to chat with her, had to weigh every word.

At least a dozen young men came floating around at different times, attracted by her cold beauty and the fact that she was the only child of a national bank. Fan put the blue tag on them one by one. The first was six hours late in making his party call, and when he came around he found the gate nailed up. The second wore his dinner jacket and a black tie one evening when he should have worn his long Henry Miller, so Fan wrote to him that he was 90 per cent. Pinky doodle and belonged in a lunatic camp.

Another was careless enough to strike a match and light his student's lamp one evening when he was seeing her home. She screamed and called for a cab, for she held that no true gentleman would smoke a cigarette while walking with a lady. A fourth aspirant wrote to her on the wrong kind of paper and put the date at the top instead of the bottom and the answer that he longed for never came. A fifth got the wrong clutch on her, while they were waiting, and after that she couldn't see him, not even with a spy glass.

Thus she threw them into the discard as fast as they lobbed up. One parted his hair on the wrong side and another kept his hands in his pockets, and another walked on the off side of her, when they went up the street. At last she had checked up the whole push and not one would do. And they were so scared of her that when they came near her corner they did a little foot-walk to the other side of the street.

For eight years she sat with the lace curtains parted, keeping a keen lookout for old perfection. She knew that there were some real gentlemen in the world, because she had read about them in Laura Jean Libby. At last she began to lean against the chilly fact that the tide had gone out and left her tangled in side seaweed. So she went out and put up a sign in the front yard "Man wanted. White one preferred."

Moral: Marry him first and remove the kinks afterward. A bill clerk in a grocery house once took part in a production by home talent. Every one who bought a ticket had a friend in the cast. The bill clerk was a glister, but most of the people were wedged in and had to stick. His acting was very barnyard. When they gave him a call, he did not know that they were kidding him. After the show they came around and pounded him on the back and told him he was great. The paper gave him a notice better than Couquelin ever got.

He had himself photographed in costume and began to grow a Margaret in the middle of his forehead and keep one hand inside his coat. The mantle of Edwin Booth had fallen on him, but it did not reach to the small of his back. All he wanted was a chance, and he would make Otis Skinner look like a side order of something. He read the dramatic papers and unless he was choked off he arose at evening parties and recited. Then all the girls told him he had wonderful talent, and after he went away they said he was the jakesiest piece of punk they ever saw.

The bill clerk began to write letters of congratulation to himself and use powder on his face. He forsook the low-down grocery trade and decided to go on the stage. He changed his name from Wesley Fink to Ormonde Dupont and had "Theatre" painted on his trunk. After that all he needed, in order to be an actor, was an engagement. He packed up and headed for the Rialto, with all the photographs of himself and the notice from the home paper. The managers and agents turned him down and waved him away and kept him sitting in waiting rooms for hours at a time, but they could not drive Ormonde back to the canned fruit business. He was going to act, whether or no.
