Carpet Factory Suspends

The Perth Carpet Co., closes down the end of this week for an indefinite time. The carpet industry is quiet during the summer months and the Perth factory has no orders on hand. The majority of the carpet factories have been hindered in their manufacturing by the lack of dyes, which were formerly obtainable from Germany. The quality of the dyes obtainable elsewhere have not been found up to the standard by the local factory. The Carpet Co. has lately been employing some seventy-five people, and two of the prominent employees, Messrs Ferguson and Henderson, are leaving this week for their former homes in Scotland.—Courier.

Miss L. Davis Dead

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mr and Mrs Henry Davis of North Augusta at the great loss they have sustained by the death of their daughter, Miss Lillie, which occurred on Saturday, July 10th, at the age of 29 years. Though deceased had been in failing health for some months, the end came very suddenly and was a severe shock to her many friends and relatives. Besides her parents she is survived by four sisters, Mrs Johnston McRoberts, Garretton; Mrs John F. Straight, Bishop's Mills; Mrs Robert K. Hough, North Augusta, and Mrs Stephen Bishop, Almont, Minn. Also one brother, Joseph Davis, North Augusta.

First Hydro-Radial in Province Opened

London, Ont., July 22—The first Hydro-radial railway of the province of Ontario was formally opened to traffic to-day, when upwards of six hundred municipal representatives from the cities, towns and townships visited London and participated in the celebration of the event in the Masonic Temple. At the banquet Hon I. B. Lucas said: "The Hydro-radial is the child of the Hydro-electric, and, knowing the parentage, we have great hopes of the child." That, indeed, seemed the spirit of the gathering, for everybody was interested in the Niagara power movement and satisfied that Hydro-radials would prove a boon to Ontario.

The London & Port Stanley Railway, which for forty years had been operated by steam railway companies, passed back into the hands of the city on the first of the month, and for some time prior to that the work of electrification had been going on, with the result that, almost from the inauguration of the electric service, the road has been smoothly operated. The several difficulties that faced the Commission during the first few weeks have disappeared, and to-day trains were moved with promptness and with comfort to the passengers. In spite of the large crowd there was ample provision, the Commission having rented passenger coaches from the G.T.R. and C.P.R. The equipment of the city's road was a surprise to many, for it is certain that there are few, if any, roads in America that excel the London & Port Stanley.

New Commission was Repealed

Ottawa, July 23—The preliminary skirmish between the Ottawa separate school board and the separate school commission occurred this afternoon. The commissioners, Messrs Murphy, McGee and Charbonneau, had gone to the board room for the purpose of holding a meeting to arrange for the taking over of the school board's affairs. They were there promptly at 3 o'clock but Mr S. Genest, chairman of the separate school board, accompanied by Trustee Dr A. A. Frelund, was already awaiting their arrival. When all had arrived Mr Genest ordered Secretary J. E. Doyle to refuse access to the books and the financial statement of the board and to allow the commission to meet in the board room until the board had been officially notified of the status of the commission.

The order-in-council and the legal advice to the commissioners was produced and read, but Mr Genest said he wanted the board itself to be officially notified. This was promised in the morning, but Mr Genest said he was not sure that he would allow the board's property to be handed over. Mr Murphy, chairman of the commission, promised the official notice and after a few exchanges, chiefly between the chairman of the board and Commissioner Charbonneau, the commission departed.

Wanted Money to Visit His Girl

Ogdensburg News
A letter from his fiancée after he had hastily departed from Maple Ridge, near Massena, N. Y., with $35 and a watch belonging to Albert Fregoe, a farmer who employed him, led to the arrest yesterday of John O'Torrance at Oxford Station, back of Prescott, by probation officer John M. Nichols. The officer had little difficulty in having O'Torrance deported from Canada and late yesterday afternoon he walked into police headquarters leading the prisoner with "bracelets." O'Torrance will be taken to Canton this morning.

At the last term of county court he was placed on probation after answering a charge of criminally receiving stolen property. He went to work for Fregoe at the latter's farm. One day this week he saw a pocketbook hanging on the wall at the Fregoe home and decided to go and see his girl, Miss Ina Emery, of Oxford Station, who was to be his bride, he says, in several weeks. He took the money and a watch and crossed the St. Lawrence at Cornwall.

Probation Officer Nichol, after finding a letter written by the girl, went to Prescott and hired an automobile in which he drove to Oxford. O'Torrance immediately submitted to arrest. He claims he owns a farm at Oxford and rents it. It was his intention, he says, to obtain money from his tenant and restore the amount taken from Fregoe.

O'Torrance, who is 24 years old, says a sentence of two years and seven months hangs over him, a charge of jail breaking at Canton being also chalked against him.

The Henry K. Wampole Co., of Perth, are adding another storey to the Sherbrook street end of their building. The company is enjoying excellent business. Some departments are busier now than at any time since they went to Perth ten years ago.

A GIFT OF A SOUL

The silence of death succeeded these strange words. All the guests felt an icy chill creep over them. One would have thought that the ghost of the man whom they had once known and loved was about to appear before them.

genius and his fame. I betrayed for her those dearest to me. I plundered my mother and neglected my sister. He was base and I have been baser.

"No, I am not intoxicated," said the young man, whose face assumed a terrible expression. "I said that Laurier was mad. Does any one here doubt it? Among the last few months of his life, and who witnessed the anguish he endured, is there one who denies the truth of what I say? All you are silent. Clemence herself does not speak. It is because she knows well that Laurier was mad, and why he was mad."

"He is dead," said Berneville in a trembling voice. "Let some one call for help!" "Do not stir," said Davidoff; "he is not dead, and we need no help."

"You make us regret him. It is a pity he is not in your place, and you in his!" "Patience. I shall soon be there," said Jacques with a terrible smile.

"What do you want to do?" she asked Davidoff. "To take M. de Vignes away," returned the Russian.

timid smile, and approaching closer to him, said "Is it prudent to take him away now? Come with me; I will show you to a room where he can be cared for, and where he will not be disturbed."

"Why?" asked Clemence. "Are we then enemies?" Laurier pointed to Jacques, gasping for breath in the arms of Davidoff, and without anger, but with unalterable firmness, answered: "I have forgiven you the injury you have done me. I will never forgive you the injury you have done him. Adieu."

Clemence remained silent for a moment, her head sunk thoughtfully on her breast. Then looking around at her guests with a sardonic glance,—"You may say what you choose of Pierre Laurier," she said, abruptly, "but among you all there is not one who is his equal—And now it is near two o'clock. Let us go to the race-course to see Selim's horse come in a bad last."

Pierre and Juliette had been married for three months. The young wife had recovered the bloom of health. Laurier, overwhelmed with cares, worked all day, and he and Juliette spent the evenings with Mme. de Vignes and Jacques. Slowly but surely Jacques was sinking to the tomb.

Emaciated and hollow-eyed, his hair almost white, there remained not a trace of the beauty that had turned so many heads. He looked like an old man. He now scarcely ever rose from his easy-chair. A pained throw over his knees, his thin hands stretched out before him, he would sit for hours by the window, sunk in a reverie, or gazing idly at the passers-by as they hastened along the street.

"I must have a little vanity, and not show myself looking so weak and miserable to those who remember me young and vigorous. Go you, my dear mother, and when you come back you will tell me about what you have seen; thus I shall enjoy the pleasure of the drive without its fatigue."

"Do you remember, Juliette, the terrace at Antilly, and the conversation we had there together?" The young girl shuddered with horror at this recollection. She wished to interrupt her brother, to prevent him from recalling these sad days. But he insisted with an obstinacy unusual with him.

"The remorse I endure is so bitter," he said, "that at all costs I want to be delivered from it. At night, during my sleepless hours, it tortures me. It comes back every moment of my life. I have been very guilty toward you, who are so sweet and innocent. Ah, so long as you do not forgive me I cannot be at rest!"

"No, our sorrow was not the same," said Jacques in a low voice. "My sorrow was assumed. I believed that I lived with the life of Pierre, and I did not regret his death. Oh, what I tell you is terrible, but the truth must be said. I had the certainty that you would die of your grief, yet I felt regret at the conviction only because your death would seem like a reproach to my joy. Yes, I was such a monster that I accepted the thought that Pierre was dead and that you also were going to die. But what were all those deaths to me compared to the certainty of my living? I dared to allow this thought to enter my mind. Man is indeed a cowardly and miserable brute!"

sister, for a time mad. In order to cure me Davidoff tried a dangerous experiment. He wished to prove the power of the moral nature over the physical, of the spirit over the body. He desired to learn if faith could produce material results. The experiment, most unfortunately, was tried on a very weak nature, an impressionable imagination. It proved itself only too powerful a result. Like the miracle workers of old who played upon the credulity of the ignorant, he said to me: 'You are cured; you have received within you another life; live then.'

"Tell me that you forgive me, and that when I am no longer among you, you will sometimes think of me with pity and affection." "Ah, yes! I forgive you," returned Juliette, "since you insist on my saying those unnecessary words, and there is no merit in my doing so, for I love you."

"Decidedly," he said, "women are better than we are." "But Jacques, you will live," cried Juliette. "To what purpose?" Then his expression changed, and with a pathetic attempt at gaiety, he said: "Besides, that would not be possible for now it is you who possess the soul of Pierre."

Six weeks later, as the autumn was drawing to its close, and the last leaves were falling from the trees, they all set out for the south. They saw again with mingled pleasure and sadness the Villa of Beauville, the pine wood thynus and the fir-trees, and the little bay, encircled by its red rocks, where the waves died murmuring away on the beach. Jacques seemed for a time to revive under the influence of the southern sun; then he grew weaker and more sombre than before, and one evening, surrounded by those who loved him, he gently exhaled his latest breath.

Camphor will remove fresh peach stains from linen. A solution of ammonia, applied 3 or 4 times to a cold sore, will remove it, if done when first felt. To sharpen a knife, fold a piece of emery paper in the centre, and draw the knife rapidly back and forth several times.

A useful idea in porch furniture is to have a shelf inside the porch rail, about one foot wide and one foot from the porch. The men will find an excellent foot rest; the women a shelf for workbooks or books, and just what the children want to sit on. Cold coffee is used in mixing stove blacking, the stove will keep bright much longer.

Two drams of salicylic acid in an ounce of German essence is said to cure freckles. The solution should be added to a pint of soft water before using. Apply three times daily, with a sponge. To a mother a child is everything, but to a child a parent is only a link in the chain of her existence.—Lark Beacon-field.

CROOKED WORK ON GALLIPOLI

How German Guile is Hampering the Australians, But it Usually Brings Its Own Penalty.

The London Morning Post on June 15th published a letter from an Australian trooper in the Eastern Mediterranean, showing to what an extent the allied troops in Gallipoli are confronted by German method and system. This letter shows that many features of warfare are now being practised in the Mediterranean which the Germans gave prominence to in the Western Theatre, in reverting to the gases used in Gallipoli, the writer of the letter states:

The shades of night naturally lend themselves to the ghoulish scenes, and it is under this protection that ruses are usually essayed. A usual knowledge of English and, strange to say, a painstaking study of those things seem to be part of the mental equipment of the German officers. No lightning confusion was caused at first owing to these men, whose knowledge of our units and their commanders was astonishing, and no doubt the result of secret service at Cairo, penetrating our lines and assuming the role of colonial officers. It must be understood that this did not signify the guilelessness on our part, or confusion in our ranks. We must not lose sight in a hot fight owing to the desperate nature of the conflict, the great mortality among our commanders and the rapid transference of intermingled troops from one point to another, the various units were welded into one fighting whole. Nothing was easier than for a daring man to pass orders along the line, having previously clothed himself in the garments of one of our dead officers, and learned his marching order from the identity disc worn around the corpse's neck. I will enumerate, for instance, various ruses that I passed along, perfectly satisfied at the time of their good faith.

They got a Maxim into position and advanced on our left and English on our right, only fire in centre. From mouth to mouth we passed it along. In five minutes heavy counter-attacking parties got right up to our trenches, before the position was realized, and the bayonet had to be resorted to. Steps were taken as soon as possible to prevent these daring Germans fooling us again like this. No order was given to be passed along, save in writing. This served as a safeguard against another danger as well. It became evident that head-on charges would creep up in the scrub and listen to orders being passed along, and gain much that was of use to their side. If "Ammunition running short" was called too loudly it was more than an even chance; if an attack was on the way towards our line then, the trench short would bear the brunt of it. Of course when at the earliest possible moment the units were reorganized, much of the danger mentioned above was eliminated. An authentic story is told of a German, who, one moonlight night, succeeded in worming his way through the scrub unobserved (that was before our engineers had put down the fire entanglements) and sauntered along in front of our lines, exhorting our fellows to "keep your peckles up." A voice queried from the trench, "Where from, rascal?" "Broken Hill," was the reply. "Who runs the big show here?" "No answer. Bang! Yes; the lads get shoulder every day, and they were not Simple Simons when they arrived."

Why Soldiers Need Teeth. That recruit who on being rejected on account of his teeth said he may not know he had to brush the enamel, had evidently not realized the possibilities of an array biscuit. Its ingredients are soda, salt and water, kneaded by machinery into a thick paste and baked hard, but though it requires "some" teeth to tackle it, yet it has its uses. It is highly nutritious; a portion of bread is equal to but three-quarters of biscuit. It does not easily turn hard or get stale, and it can be packed into the knapsack, mixing on equal terms with the heterogeneous collection of articles that it always contains, and it carries triumphantly as a biscuit and not a heap of crumbs.—London Mail.

Reminders. Mrs.—He said I reminded him of a Greek goddess. Mr.—Huh! Mrs.—What do I remind you of? Mr.—Of every darned thing I overlook that you ask me to do.—Cleveland Leader.

A Great Gift. "They say she is splendid in amateur theatricals." "Most painful tragedy a source of genuine amusement."—Life.

Angry Professor.—You young rascal, were you responsible for the girl coming in contact with my head? The small boy—No, I weren't. Talk to the brudder; he was the power behind the throwin.—Chaparral.

In the matter of wines, too, the Prussian tried his hand, but with in different success. We had a good sprinkling of old soldiers among us, who "fought shy" of comfortably constructed crossings and newly turned earth. We have been told that both the trench and the larger one further back were mined in various places. The disturbance of the troops' rest at night is another phase of Germany's influence on Turkish ideas of war. All right long an extravagant expenditure of ammunition goes on, serving no other purpose than to keep those manning the trenches alert. The general character of the night attacks is reminiscent of what we read of the doings on other fronts. The enemy advances frequently in close formation, making all manner of weird noises on their march, and with their lungs. Our men, when they hear the shouting call out "Taala mena" ("Come here" in Egyptian Arabic). An incident, which caused the entrenched line to meet one attack in nightfall spirit was when "Come to the cook house" was blown frankly by the approaching foe, apparently in mistake for the "R-tire" (German bugler made a nerve racking slaughter of our calls, and all to no purpose. The old Prussian Guard scheme of advancing in two or more lines in close formation, with machine guns carried in the rear, was nearly, but not quite, successful. On the occasion when the Turks tried their luck with it the front line lay flat just as one of our battalions was preparing to leave the trenches, our men were ordered back, and our machine guns played havoc with that party before it could do any damage.

Offensively Odious. "You always go home exceedingly early, old man." "Yes. Our neighbors are the cause of that." "How so?" "If I stay downtown a minute late they come right over and condemn my wife."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Editor Athens Reporter

Dear Sir—I was pleased to receive your paper last evening and read with much interest about your town in which I learned to make cheese. That was in 1906 and since then I have no doubt there have been several changes since I came to England with the 60th Rifles of Moose Jaw. I think perhaps you and your readers might like to hear some of the fun we are having with our friends, the Germans.

I have had very many narrow escapes, a few of which I will endeavor to relate. On April 22, which is fresh in the minds of all Canadians, we were comfortably billeted on a farm in Belgium when the now familiar song noise was heard in the air. Of course, you know what that means. The Germans had started to shell us. The command was given for us to be ready to move at a moment's notice, and when we got the command, it was carried out with the usual British calmness.

The next thing we saw was choking, half blinded French soldiers. They were terrible spectacles to behold, faces black and blue, fainting and gasping for breath. We moved up closer to where the shells were coming from. We were told we might rest but to be in readiness to go anywhere.

The next morning we heard the French were being heavily attacked, whereupon we were rushed up immediately to their assistance. But we found on reaching there that we were really not needed, but might be at any time. We took up our abode by the side of a road in the rear of many guns. It was not very long before the Germans started to shell these guns and incidentally the road on which we were. How I escaped, still remains a miracle. We lost a few of our number right there. Shortly after, an order for an N.C.O., myself and a few others to take up a position closer to the line. Believe me, it was fierce travelling between two fires, the French and the German. We arrived at our destination, our position proving very unhealthy. In fact I was standing outside what had once been a farm house and watched various other houses on adjoining farms being blown to pieces, and was wondering when they were going to shell our position. Luckily a relief came for us before this happened, but on going home two of our boys were struck with shrapnel bullets. We sayed with the French troops until we were called on to aid our own division which was plugging away near Hill 60. We sure got a reception not the kind a married couple get with rice, but we got a hail storm of lead and steel. The shells were from eight hundred pounds to Jack Johnstons which weigh nearly one ton. It is wonderful how I escaped on that day. Men were falling in scores, only to be replaced by reinforcements. I shall never forget how we made those Germans go. It was a case of us going over dead bodies. After doing such good work on the 22nd of April and this time our boys returned for a rest. A friend of mine, Corporal Fernie, late of Brockville, was blown completely off his cycle. Everybody was in such a hurry to get away from this horrible place that I feared my section commander would be left, so I offered him a cycle I had. His face was bleeding badly but he would not accept but thanked me, saying we would both walk. Luckily I came to a first aid man who dressed his wound. This terrible journey I shall never forget and I am continually wondering how I escaped injury.

Our next trip proved very exciting also. A small party of us was sent to hold a bridge on a canal which during this war has seen some men go under and which is stained with blood. Everything went smoothly for a few hours when our friends the Germans (not much) must have thought we were short of souvenirs so they sent over about 200 of all sizes and descriptions, which landed on and around my hole in the ground (dug out). We stayed here about three days, in which time we lost two men, killed by shrapnel. We moved then to trenches once owned by the Germans but now owned by the British. Here we stayed for eighteen days and in that time my shoes and equipment were never once taken off. I did not have much sleep but we all fared alike, always ready with fixed bayonets to charge. One evening I saw shells drop right among a company of French Red Cross men. I can not say to the number killed but the groans were sad. In a few days we were told that there was a rest coming. After five days rest we were taken back again. We got back there without accident but it was not long before the enemy began sniping at us.

The stench of the numerous dead buried but a few feet under ground was awful. We did not make any particular attack that night but we were all ready for the command, "Come on Britons, show them what you are."

I could write enough to fill your paper every day for a week but the admirable descriptions of many writers telling of the glorious deeds of our boys keep you busy. I will now close, hoping to receive your paper regularly and with kindest regards to all friends in Athens and district, I remain,

Yours faithfully,
 G. W. Brayman, Pte.

LIGHTNING RODS

Prof. Day, of O. A. C., Sends Out a Warning.

Prof. Wm. H. Day, of the department of physics, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, has sent out another warning against inferior lightning rods. He says:

One of the same companies that buncoed the farmers with iron-centred rods last year is reported to be selling the same rod again this year. Watch out for them.

There is no difficulty in spotting these rods. The outside covering is a thin sheet of copper. Inside of the copper is a strip of galvanized steel or iron one-half inch wide and two galvanized steel or iron wires about No. 10. The copper sheath is twisted round the strip and wires, giving the rod a corrugated appearance. The steel or iron will rust out in from five to ten years. For photograph of what happened to a rod of this kind in less than eight years see figure 34, bulletin 220, which may be had by writing the Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

An Illinois firm is circulating the trade and others, advocating the "Mast" lightning rod system. They declare that twisted cables are positively dangerous, claiming that they act like "choke-coils," that tubes only should be used, that insulators must be used, etc. For concentrated essence of error these circulars surpass anything else I have seen.

Beware of the man with the iron-centred rod and the man who claims that twisted cables are dangerous. This department will be glad to be informed regarding the operations of either.

COSTS OF A FUNERAL SOAR UP.

The following is quoted from an unusual article by Lewis Edwin Theiss, entitled "The High Cost of Dying Problem" in Pictorial Review for August, 1915.

Ever, burial costs have kept pace with other costs in these days of soaring prices. From the books of an undertaker who has been many years in business I have copied three funeral bills for the years 1858, 1881 and 1909 respectively, for eighty-four dollars, one hundred and sixteen dollars and two hundred and eight dollars and fifty cents. In the first period of twenty-eight years, the cost rose forty per cent., while the increase from one hundred and sixteen dollars to two hundred and eight dollars and fifty cents shows a jump into the second twenty-eight year period of eighty per cent.

In addition to a necessary increase in funeral prices which, by the way, is consequent upon the greater cost of supplies, the fashion of elaborate funerals—fashion governs even our funerals—adds tremendously to the final cost. Very elaborate crepes at the door, mourning costumes, that have previously been hired by dozens of other people who wanted to make a show of "respectability," and other items of a similar nature are rented by undertakers at so much apiece—if the deceased is friendless, the undertaker will gladly supply pall-bearers—at so much per pall-bearer. In fact the undertaker will supply his customer with anything whatsoever needed to make a funeral "respectable."

Demand cheaper funerals and you will get them. Throw off the shackles of a foolish custom. Refuse to burden the living uselessly for the dead. Practice among the fashion of ostentation—leads to most of the unnecessary expenditure in time of death. Help to pave the way for simplicity by practicing simplicity yourself. If you do that, you will help to straighten many bent backs and to smooth many care-worn brows.

The fortune of war is always doubtful. Seneca.

THE FLY DANGER

Canadian Department of Agriculture's Circular On the Pest.

House flies are now recognized as most serious carriers of the germs of certain diseases, such as typhoid fever, tuberculosis, infantile diarrhoea, etc.

They infect themselves in filth and decaying substances, and by carrying the germs on their legs and bodies and in their intestines they pollute food, especially milk, with the germs of the above and other diseases and of decay.

Every fly carries germs. A single fly may carry as many as 500 million germs upon its legs and body.

The best method is to prevent their breeding. House flies breed in decaying or decomposing vegetable and animal matter and in excrement. They breed chiefly in stable refuse, in cities this should be stored in dark fly-proof chambers or receptacles, and it should be regularly removed within six days in summer. Farm-yard manure should be regularly removed within the same time and either spread on the fields or stored at a distance of not less than a quarter of a mile, the further the better, from a house or dwelling.

Manure piles may be treated with borax, using six-tenths of a pound to every eight bushels or ten cubic feet of manure. Scatter the dry borax principally around the sides and edges of the pile and wash in with water.

House flies breed in such decaying and fermenting matter as kitchen refuse and garbage. Garbage receptacles should be kept tightly covered.

All such refuse should be burnt or buried within a few days, but at once if possible. No refuse should be left exposed. If it cannot be disposed of at once, it should be sprinkled with borax, as above, or with chloride of lime.

Flies in Houses.—Windows and doors should be properly screened, especially those of the dining-room and kitchen. Milk and other food should be screened in the summer by covering it with muslin; fruit should be covered also.

Where they are used, especially in public places, as hotels, etc., spittoons should be kept clean, as there is very grave danger of flies carrying the germs of consumption from unclean spittoons.

Flies should not be allowed to have access to the sick room, especially in the case of infectious diseases.

The faces of babies should be carefully screened with muslin.

To Kill Flies in Houses.—Mix two tablespoonfuls (one ounce) of 40 per cent. formalin (a solution which may be obtained from any drug store at about 40 cents per pound) with one pint (sixteen ounces) of equal parts of milk and water. This mixture should be exposed in shallow plates, and a piece of bread placed in the middle of each plate will enable the flies to alight and feed. All dead flies should be swept up and burnt.

The burning of pyrethrum in a room, preferably at night, is sometimes effective; the flies should be swept up and burnt, as many are only stupefied by this substance.

House flies indicate the presence of filth in the neighborhood or insanitary conditions.

Then the Rain Stopped.

Australia is the land of contrasts. A drought once lasted for seven years. But what is there in moisture to compare with the persistency of stopping rain when it does see fit to fall? For eleven months, without stopping the dry places of Sydney moisten the dry places of Sydney some years ago, washing out most cruelly the best, bright season of winter, when the Australia looks for living instead of existence and peace instead of pressure. And what rain it shed from the clouds like arrows, and the whole world was a battlefield during that July. As the arrows darted into the earth, the earth rose and dashed into the air, and rain and mud met and grappled with each other, day after day, night after night, week after week. And the battle was neither to the rain nor to the mud. A strange and horrid situation arrived. Sydney ran clean out of galoshes. For two weeks not a galosh was to be had in the rain drenched city for love or money. Then a fresh shipload arrived from somewhere or other. And then—the rain stopped!—London Mail.

ROBBING THE PUBLIC.

(Detroit Free Press)

As years go by and timber becomes increasingly valuable owing to demand and scarcity, the carelessness which results in fires takes on more sinister significance. Whoever carelessly causes a fire which burns valuable timber is an actual robber of the general public and deserves the severest of punishment.

Poverty is no respecter of persons. When it comes in at the door it never stops to wipe its feet.

Why Teeth Chatter.

Although the muscles which affect the action of the jaws are especially under the control of the brain, the chattering of the teeth is really a spasm caused by chill or fear, and all spasms act independent of the will. The muscles which operate the jaw act in a series of involuntary little contractions which pull the jaw up and permit it to fall of its own weight. This action is quick, and the chattering occurs in frequent repetition. The cold has a similar effect upon the jaw muscles to that which some poisons have in causing spasmodic action in other parts of the body.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc.

About Children's Teeth.

If a child's second set of teeth remain abnormally short and doll-like it is wise to consult a doctor, as it may be because of a lack of bone forming constituents in his food. One should change the diet in such a case and give something containing plenty of lime such as haricots, lentils and milk; also they should have plenty of hard, well-baked bread crusts.

Little beads of crusts are often left on a child's plate. A child should never be allowed to leave them, for too much soft food is often the cause of the early decay of second teeth, as well as of their undeveloped and irregular formation.

Man's teeth were given to him for grinding and chewing, and if they are never used for hard food they soon decay.

Ridged or ribbed teeth are a sure sign of a system overcharged with uric acid. Rheumatism is latent; these ridges are warning signals.

Do you know what these are? They are teeth that appear as though they had a "bleed" edging or little sawlike edge on them, and they nearly always mean that the owner is below par. The serrated edge is really the commencement of a decay that will in time cause serious damage to the child's health.

"STATE SALARY."

(London Advertiser)

A large percentage of advertisements for help appearing in the newspapers contain the words "state salary expected." The natural inference is that the lower-price man is likely to secure the appointment, at least if it is an invitation to value his services, and if he is successful, to value his situation according to his remuneration.

Is it not time this country abandoned the idea that the cheap labor is the best? In every line of industry today the demand is for efficiency. Employers claim they can get help, but not of the right kind. Are they themselves not to blame for encouraging the "state salary" applicants, and thus putting a premium on inefficiency?

Every employer who values his business wants the affairs conducted according to a high standard. If he has a proper business system he knows exactly what it is worth to him to have every task in his establishment performed accurately. Would it not increase the value of his product, whatever it may be, to pay the maximum price for labor, and demand the maximum in efficiency of such? Rules were general it undoubtedly raised the standard of the workmanship.

Height of Waves.

Among the most trustworthy scientific measurements of ocean waves are those of Lieutenant Paris, of the French navy. The highest waves measured by him were in the Indian Ocean between the Cape of Good Hope and the Island of St. Paul. Thirty waves measured during a northwest gale there averaged twenty-nine and one-half feet in height, and six of them, following one another with beautiful regularity, were thirty-seven and one-half feet in height. Some still higher waves were seen, but not measured. In a moderate breeze the length of a wave was found to be about twenty-five times its height, but in a gale only eighteen times.—London Globe.

A Mother's Secret of Success.

The well known proverb "Example is better than precept" is only another form of expressing the preeminent power of sympathy, for example can have little influence except in so far as a sympathetic feeling in the observer leads him to imitate it. So that "example is better than precept" means only that sympathy has more influence in the human heart than reasoning.

This principle, so powerful at every period of life is at its maximum in childhood. The child's thoughts and feelings are spontaneously drawn into harmony with the thoughts and feelings of those around him whom he loves, and this leads naturally to imitation, or reproduction, of their actions.

The great secret of success for a mother in the formation of the character of her children is to make them respect and love her and then simply to be herself what she wishes them to be. Abbott says that to make them respect and love her is to control them by a firm government where control is required and to indulge them almost without limit where indulgence will do no harm. This is true, but we often forget the latter half and wonder at our failures.

MEN FOR THE FRONT

There are many men in Canada who are anxious to go and play their part in the great war, who are willing to go as officers, but from want of adequate military training, or for other reasons, are unable to obtain commissions. There are other men who would prefer to join the ranks simply because they realize the enormous responsibility of the wastage of life which results from the bad leadership of an improperly-trained officer.

Some of these men hesitate to go in the ranks, merely because they are uncertain of finding the congenial companionship of men of similar training and tastes.

Now there is an organization in Canada exactly suited to the requirements of such men, and its existence should be brought clearly to the notice of every young man in Canada.

The Universities of Canada are working loyally together to raise company after company, and to send them overseas to reinforce as units that famous regiment, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

These companies are composed of men from the Universities of Canada, the friends of such men, and broadly speaking, from men of that type.

It must be clearly understood that they are not all university men, for there are bank clerks, lawyers, architects, engineers, ranchers and others, and it has been found that such men pull together and enjoy military life to the full. If the existence of such a force was known throughout the length and breadth of Canada, there would be no difficulty in recruiting a full company within a week.

The First University Company, under the command of an excellent leader, Captain Gregor Barclay, has been for some time in England. An eminent military authority has declared this to be the finest company which has ever sailed from Canada.

The Second University Company was composed of men of splendid type, and was embarked recently at Montreal.

The Third Universities Company (and note that the plural is deliberate) is recruiting with fair rapidity, and there is every hope that it will reach the high mark of success attained by the first two companies.

There is certainly no difficulty in obtaining officers, but it is harder to find picked men for sergeant-major, company quartermaster-sergeant, platoon sergeants and section leaders, on whom largely rests the success of the company. Indeed, Canada needs chiefly a training school for non-commissioned officers.

The general principle is followed of giving commissions to well-qualified men from the university or from the district which furnishes recruits.

The west has certainly been a great recruiting ground for the universities companies, and the men who have proved themselves good soldiers, well disciplined and efficient, with fine physique. It is hoped that the Maritime Provinces will rival the west in furnishing recruits. Indeed, in the second company men, doubtless Canadians, come to join from Oklahoma, Arizona and Missouri.

A recruit can be examined medically and attested in his own district, and transportation will be provided to Montreal.

All information can be obtained from Captain A. S. Eve, 352 Sherbrooke street west, Montreal, the headquarters of the successive companies.

The newspapers and publicity agents, by their voluntary aid, freely given, have shown themselves to be the most efficient means of furnishing recruits, but we ask every reader to help the men to join the company who are looking for, and the company to find the men required.

UNDOLLARED DIGNITIES.

(New York World)

To those dollar devotees of our country whose sole criterion of success is opulence, whose sole standards of happiness are luxuries, whose sole measure of distinction is splurge, we submit for consideration as earnest as they are congenitally capable of giving, the following estimate to his wife at his death by Rear Admiral T. Mahan.

It is doubtful if any book in this generation has exerted a profounder world-wide influence on international thought and policy than "Influence of Sea Power upon History."

Here was a man enjoying the honor of having risen to the top of his profession, enjoying the creative delights of brilliant literary work, enjoying the exercise of tremendous power through the influence of the work a man usually, intellectually, influentially without a superior in the United States, living in a most comfortable contentment in a $30,000 cottage at Quogue, Power without the aid of money, pleasure without the aid of money! Could any career be more ideal?

And yet we suppose that the first instinct of thousands of our worshippers of the showy life will be to sigh at the irony of a fate which made it possible for a man of such distinction to be so fundamentally incompetent as to die leaving an estate of only $15,000!

There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they are absolutely safe. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Paid the Fine.

A policeman in a country village where "cases" were rare one day came across the landlord in an impossible state. The chance was too good to be missed, so the landlord was summoned and fined to the amount of 14s-6d.

The fine was paid, but the policeman's feelings can be better imagined than described when, on returning home, he found his rent had been raised sixpence per week and so it continued for twenty-nine weeks, when the landlord coolly informed him that he had paid the fine and could have his house at the former rent.—London Answers.

A SAD TRIP

Canadian Girl Racing to See Dying Soldier Lover.

New York Report.—The Cunarder Orduña, laden almost to capacity, or close to 11,000 tons, chiefly of war material for England, sailed to-day for Liverpool with 15 cabin, 75 second cabin, and 105 steerage passengers, including 22 Americans in all classes.

A few minutes before the Orduña sailed, at 10 a.m., two young women came sprinting down the pier, too much out of breath to be interviewed, and rushed up the gangplank. They were the Misses Grace Jeffrey and Ruth Buchanan, of Ottawa, bound for the William Astor Hospital at Cliveden, where the fiancée of Miss Jeffrey and the brother of Miss Buchanan, Lieut. Cassels Buchanan, is lying beyond hope of recovery.

The lieutenant was wounded by shrapnel in France, and because of the development of a form of cancer his left leg was amputated. The surgeon in charge said that he had not more than ten days to live, and his fiancée and sister were so informed by cable on Wednesday afternoon and caught a train that got them to this city after 9 o'clock this morning. A swift taxi took them to the pier.

BORDEN VISITS NEWLY WOUNDED

Sir Robert Borden in Hospitals Near Battle Lines.

Next to Inspect Canadians Right at the Front.

London Cable.—Sir Robert Borden, accompanied by Sir Max Aitken, Mr. R. B. Bennett, M. P., and two Imperial staff officers, reached France in safety on board a British destroyer. Upon arrival the party was met by Lieut.-Col. Shillington, commanding No. 2 Canadian Stationary Hospital at Le Touquet. The first day was occupied with visiting the Canadian hospitals at the base, including those at Etaples, Camiers, Winereux and the McGill University Hospital.

The whole journey was covered by motor and the party returned to the base in the early evening.

Sir Robert seemed visibly impressed with the sadder aspect of the war as brought home to him during his tour. He spoke to every officer and man amongst the wounded Canadians, and each one received a hearty handshake from the Prime Minister, many of them, both officers and men, being among Sir Robert's personal acquaintances.

A large number of French-Canadians were amongst the wounded, and to these the Premier spoke in their own tongue.

In not a few instances Sir Robert accepted personal messages to convey to relatives at home.

The Canadian nursing sisters doing duty at these hospitals were generally introduced to Sir Robert. One little incident is worth recording.

"Sir Robert," said one, "I represent Mr. — of — constituency here."

Member in question is on the Opposition side in the House of Commons at Ottawa.

"Indeed," replied the Premier, "then as I can say is that the constituency is better represented here than it is at home."

Sir Robert by this time will be right in the firing line, and in the course of the next couple of days will see practically the whole Canadian contingent, and spend considerable time at Canadian headquarters.

HYPHENATED WOE

They Cannot Get Paris Costumes for America.

New York Report.—A cable to the Tribune from London says:

Paris will sell its gowns only to born Americans. None of the hyphenated variety will be allowed in the mart.

An American girl arrived in London Monday. Her mission was in France, where she intended to buy Paris' latest feminine creations for a large New York firm. She had an American passport, and went to the French consulate for a French one.

The Consulate officials questioned her closely, and learned that although she was a naturalized American she had been born in Austria. The passport was refused. The girl is engaged now in daily appeals to the Consulate and to the American Embassy. Neither can offer her any assistance.

This action is the result of France's decision a few weeks ago not to issue passports to any Americans of enemy origin. The reason given was that a great many fraudulent passports had been issued by Germany, who got spies into the republic in that way.

The rule, the buyer was told, was inflexible. Even if it meant that American women were deprived of French gowns, it must stand. War, the consulate told her, could not alter its rigid course for the choicest of models.

TO GIVE BATTLE TO HUN HORDES

Russian Grand Duke Plans to Stop Warsaw Drive

In Terrific Contest Upon Ground of His Choosing.

(By Hamilton Fyfe.)

Petrograd Cable.—The Russians are to make a supreme attempt to stay the German advance upon Warsaw. They are to venture a battle, the decision of which will change the character of the campaign in the east. Officers of the general staff in Petrograd say that the battle which is now beginning, after the preliminaries of the last few weeks, is to be on a scale vaster than those on the Dniester and the San.

The situation must be reckoned from all points of view as the most serious since the beginning of the war. A semi-official statement issued to the newspapers last night declared that the outcome of the engagements now in progress upon ground chosen by the Grand Duke Nicholas, for a decisive trial of strength, will mark a change in the whole character of the eastern campaign.

Needless to say, the ground has been chosen with a view to taking the enemy at disadvantage. The Russian armies are in a region which has been carefully fortified and provided with communications.

This region is the famous three fortress triangle which has figured prominently in the works of military writers for a generation past. The apex of the triangle is Brest Litovsk, the base extends from Ivanogrod to Nowo Georgiewsk. Already both these Vistula fortresses have been in action. Very large forces have been brought up by both sides.

It is not anticipated that the struggle will be long drawn out. Russia awaits the issue calmly, and fervently murmurs "amons" to the Grand Duke's message to the people in the order of the day.

DOUBLE QUOTA

Canadians to Have Machine Guns to Equal Hun Equipment.

Ottawa Report.—Canadian troops who in future go into action will be as well provided with machine guns as the Germans. The Government has doubled its complement of four guns to each battalion, that is every battalion will have eight supplied by the militia department. In addition private contributions aggregating an amount sufficient to purchase fully a thousand more guns have been received or promised. Three thousand will be distributed amongst the various regiments, so that every battalion will be finally as well equipped with these deadly modern weapons as the forces of the Kaiser.

The announcement that the complement supplied by the Government was to be doubled was made by Senator Loughheed, acting Minister of Militia this morning. The British troops are only supplied with four machine guns each battalion. The Germans, it is believed, have twelve. The militia department's extra guns will be supplied from the war appropriation fund.

The private subscriptions will be used to supply guns over and above those given by the Government. The great difficulty will be to secure all the men, and to secure trained operators to man them.

The Lewis Company, of Birmingham, England, are working night and day on British orders.

While many private subscriptions have been for particular regiments, military necessity may compel some change in this method.

Italy Growing Angry Over the Course of Turkey.

Rome, via Paris, Cable.—Diplomatic relations between Italy and Turkey are being strained, and becoming more tense, because of the reported refusal of the Turkish authorities to permit Italian subjects to leave the Ottoman Empire. It is believed here that a deterioration of the Italian press. Rome also has heard that a large number of Italian reservists have been detained at Smyrna on the pretence that passenger traffic has been stopped because of the port being closed, while other Italians are similarly detained at various points in Asia Minor, Syria and Arabia.

Although Italy has no declaration of hostility against either Germany or Turkey, the allies of Italy's antagonist. It has been the belief in diplomatic circles that such a declaration is being waited for by the other to take the initiative, and thus assume the responsibility for extending the scope of the conflict.

WINDSOR N. N. LINE TERMINUS.

Windsor, Ont., Report.—The southern terminus of the Northern Navigation Company is to be changed from Sarnia to Windsor, according to an announcement made here tonight by General Manager Gildersleeve. The change goes into effect on Saturday next. The rapidly-increasing importance of Windsor as a lake port is assigned as the reason for the move. The new Government dock here will probably be used by the navigation company.

HOT DEFENCE

By German Admiral of Their Submarine Warfare.

London Cable.—The Hague correspondent of the Evening News says:

"The Tagelisch Runbecher publishes a violent tirade by Admiral Kirchoff, denouncing the English official verdict on the Lusitania case, and declaring that submarine attacks on unarmed merchantmen will be continued, regardless of the fate of neutrals.

"Admiral Kirchoff says: 'Members of the German Government and the Admiralty and the crews of the submarines will sleep peacefully in the face of such accusations. They will continue just as before to commit such acts, no matter how loudly the proud and sanctimonious Britons may shriek about murder. The watchword for us is: Down with the ships that cross the bows of our valiant U boats; and with those carrying munitions under the protection of humanity. Our note has clearly declared that the presence of American passengers on board will make no difference in this respect.'

HEROIC CHARGE OF FRENCHMEN

Exploits of Expedition On Gallipoli in Recent Days.

Bayonet Attacks Carried Past the Objective Fixed.

Paris Cable.—Exploits of the French expeditionary force on the Gallipoli Peninsula, June 21 and 20, in the region of Kereves Dere, are recounted in an official statement issued to-night regarding the operations in the Dardanelles.

Four trenches, forming steps on a slope between the sea and a ravine opening from the village, were chosen as the objective for an attack on the 21st. A weak wind covered the field of battle with clouds of dust, swept up by the artillery preparations.

Suddenly about 11 o'clock, metallic flashes streaked the shroud of yellow dust, and the clash of bayonets was heard as the infantry leaped to the assault. One after another the trenches fell before the impetuous charge of the French troops, which carried them almost to the heights of Kithia, beyond the farthest point at which the assault was aimed. An entire Turkish company, surprised in the first trench, surrendered without resistance.

"Counter-attacks the following night," says the official report, "failed to budge the victorious forces. The French left completed on June 20 the advantage gained on the 21st by capturing a group of communicating trenches called the quadrilateral; at the head of the Kereves Dere ravine. Seven lines were taken by assault, certain colonial troops, carried away by their enthusiasm, pursuing the enemy beyond the objective fixed. These colonials were almost surrounded, but were able to regain the quadrilateral. We remained in undisputed possession of these trenches, after the enemy had made one unsuccessful and disastrous counter-attack. It was here that General Gouraud was wounded.

"On the night of July 4th and 5th the Turks, heavily reinforced, aided by aeroplanes and five cruisers of the Barbarossa type, undertook a general attack. They seemed to have lost their spirit, however. Their hesitating advance was met by the allies with a murderous fire, which was held until the last possible moment, and which killed terrible losses, without a foot of gain for the enemy.

"Seventeen allied aviators attacked the enemy aerodrome at Chanak, on the afternoon of the fourth. Explosive bombs were dropped on the principal hangar, which was set on fire."

SAY IT'S TREASON

Kaiser to Punish Germans Making Shells for Allies.

Berlin (by wireless via Sayville), Cable.—An official declaration is published here, calling attention to the fact that "Germans working in factories in neutral countries, particularly in the United States, producing war supplies for the enemy render themselves liable to prosecution for treason, under paragraph 89 of the penal code, penalizing such assistance to an enemy with a maximum of ten years' imprisonment."

Another paragraph of the penal code authorizes prosecution in the case of such offences, even when committed abroad, and it is understood that the German courts will proceed against offenders.

TOTAL WRECK

Lost Cable Schooner's Crew is Being Searched For.

Honolulu, Cable.—The British cable schooner Strathcona, en route from Auckland, New Zealand, to the Panama Islands and Honolulu, is a total loss in the South Pacific near the Fiji Islands, according to information brought here to-day by the Union Liner Niagara. Officers of the Niagara said that a wireless message had been received at Suva on July 1 from the cable layer Iria that she was searching for the survivors.

One boat load of the Strathcona's crew was picked up by the Iria, but a second boat, which was thought to be making its way to Tonga, or one of the outlying Fijis, was still unaccounted for. It was believed at Suva that the Strathcona had run up on Niwera reef and foundered.

COTTON KEPT THE WAR GOING

Would Have Ended in April Last, Says Scientist.

If Britain Had Declared It Contraband.

London Cable.—If cotton had been declared contraband at the outset, says Sir William Ramsay, in an article in the Evening News, the war would have been over by last April. A similar statement is made by Hilaire Belloc, in Land and Water.

Paul Coudrier, London correspondent of the Paris Figaro, asserts that early in the war the French Government requested the British Government to put cotton on the list of contraband, and that Great Britain refused to do so, for two reasons: First, because the cotton dealers of England were opposed to such a step because German cruisers were then chasing British ships, and might sink all the cargoes of cotton sent to this country; and, second, because the allies took every precaution not to offend neutral opinion.

It is pointed out that neither of these reasons now has any force. In regard to the first, there are no German raiders; and with regard to the second, Mr. Coudrier says:

"We are standing for public rights, when to be more than fair to the rest of the world is danger to ourselves in this struggle for life and death."

According to Sir William Ramsay, assurances have been given to the French Government that the import of cotton by Germany has been stopped, although Mr. Asquith admitted, on Tuesday that the situation in this respect has not been wholly satisfactory.

FRENCH DEMAND ACTION

Paris Cable.—The press here is beginning to realize the importance of the cotton question. The Echo de Paris prints a strong editorial, concluding as follows:

"Public opinion in France, as in England, must demand the placing of cotton on the list of contraband."

The Echo dismisses the American note to England on cotton somewhat cavalierly, with the comment: "Its purpose evidently is the establishment of a claim for damages later. Furthermore, Great Britain cannot settle this matter until the American-German dispute, from which it arises, the blockade being Great Britain's reprisal against submarine warfare, is settled."

The Echo says the French Government was favorable to the project of making cotton contraband, but was defeated by Lord Haldane, who said Germany could do without it. Events show the contrary, says The Echo, hence it is the allies' duty to arrest the traffic at all costs.

The Temps comments on the American note in similar terms:

"German submarines drown Americans as punishment for selling arms to the allies, which they have a right to do. British and French cruisers arrest ships carrying merchandise to and from Germany, but indemnify shippers. The cases are not parallel, but characteristic of the methods of the different belligerents. America will take that into consideration."

A NEW DISEASE

New York Has Cases of Peculiar Trouble to the Foot.

New York, Report.—A new foot disease, known as endarteritis obliterans, has made its appearance in New York, and twenty-eight cases of it are under treatment in the hospital for deformities and joint diseases. The disease, physicians said to-day, is frequently mistaken for rheumatism or gout. It is believed to have come here from Russia, Poland and parts of Austria, virtually the only countries where it has been common.

The disease is characterized by the cutting off of the blood supply by a fibrous exudate in the veins. Physicians of the hospital are seeking to discover the cause of the trouble. Injections of salt solution have been found to give relief, but it is not yet known whether this treatment is a cure.

REGISTRATION

Of Voters for Next Election in Britain is Under Way.

London Cable.—Registration of voters for the next general election in Great Britain—whenever that may occur—closes this month. Britons who are at home may consult the registry lists, which are posted on doors of chapels, churches and public buildings throughout the country, and may petition their town clerk for the correction of any omission or mistake.

But the thousands of men who are fighting abroad, or in training at home, and who therefore cannot safeguard their interests, are protected by a special war time act of Parliament, which provides that no man may lose these civic privileges through serving his country as a volunteer. Any other person may appeal in his behalf for the correction of errors on the lists, and no soldier may be disqualified during his absence, on the ground that his wife or family has received assistance from the local poor relief fund.

BRITISH REGRET

For Violation of Norwegian Neutrality is Offered.

Christiania Cable, via London.—The British Government, through Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, has expressed regret to the Norwegian Government at the violation by British warships of Norwegian territorial waters, especially by the seizure by an auxiliary cruiser of a German steamer inside the three-mile limit. The note, couched in cordial terms, was in reply to a formal protest lodged by Norway. It announces that the British Admiralty has been requested to respect in future the Norwegian territorial line.

The press expresses satisfaction with the terms of the note, although pointing out that it was considerably delayed. The papers call upon the Government to demand satisfaction from Germany for the torpedoing of Norwegian ships with the loss of several sailors' lives.

STEADY GAINS ON GALLIOLI

British Force Advance and Consolidate Ground Gained.

Small Redoubt Captured, and Communication Trench.

London Cable.—The latest report received from Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, Commander-in-Chief of the British expeditionary force at the Dardanelles, recounting the operations up to yesterday, was given out to-night by the Official Press Bureau. It follows:

"Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton reports that in the northern section of operations a raiding party rushed a trench on the front of our line during the night of July 18. All the enemy fled, except one, who was killed.

"On July 19 an anti-aircraft gun was located and hit with the second round from one of our guns. The fifth round blew it into the air.

"In the southern area the Turks on July 18th made an attack on some newly captured trenches in the French section, but were repulsed with ease.

"In the British section there has been steady progress daily, consolidating and in some cases extending the trenches won on the 12th and 13th.

"Yesterday, the 21st, a small redoubt was captured with insignificant loss, and a successful attack was made on part of a communication trench held by the enemy. A Turkish machine gun opposite our left was knocked out by the French artillery.

"In both sections the enemy's artillery has been active."

THE GERMAN VERSION

The following statement from Berlin has been given out:

"The operations of last week in the Asi Burnu region have been confined on the part of the allies to several offensive movements of no great strength against the Turkish trenches.

Attempts by the allies' artillery to support their infantry resulted on July 7 in the shelling of one of their own trenches.

"The Turkish artillery continue to be active. New batteries have been brought up on the Asiatic shore and in the rear of Seddul-Bahr, and since July 6 have caused heavy losses in men and material to the allies, whose camps and bases are now constantly under fire. Seven ammunition depots of the allies were exploded during the period from July 6 to July 10. This was due principally to the fire of Turkish batteries on the Asiatic shore. Against these batteries the artillery of the allies is powerless, and an attack on them from sea is prevented by German submarines.

"According to wounded German soldiers who have been interviewed, it is now a favorite device of the Turks to abandon part of a trench to the invading allies, and then cut them down by a deadly enfilading fire."

STRANGE DEATH

Canadian Prisoner's Fate in Germany Needs Investigation.

Ottawa Report.—Mystery enshrouds the circumstances of the death of Private Alfred Wright, of the 10th battalion, who figures in to-night's casualty lists. His name was received by the Militia Department as one who died while a prisoner of war in Germany, after being "struck on back of head with iron." The cable announcing the casualty gave no particulars as to what sort of iron it was and under what circumstances it caused the prisoner's death, but further particulars are expected. On its face it looks like a case of possible ill-treatment of a prisoner, but it is scarcely thought if such were actually the case the suspicious wording of the notification of death would have been allowed to go through.

LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE

New York, Report.—The ranks of the striking longshoremen on the piers of the Clyde and Mallory Lines were increased to-day by about 50 men, making about 140 men idle on the North River waterfront. The strike began yesterday as a protest against the wages the men were receiving, and their leaders said to-day that efforts would be made to call out longshoremen employed by other lines. In that event there might be a serious delay in the shipment from this port of foodstuffs and war supplies to Europe.

They Cannot Get Paris Costumes for America.

New York Report.—A cable to the Tribune from London says:

Paris will sell its gowns only to born Americans. None of the hyphenated variety will be allowed in the mart.

An American girl arrived in London Monday. Her mission was in France, where she intended to buy Paris' latest feminine creations for a large New York firm. She had an American passport, and went to the French consulate for a French one.

The consulate officials questioned her closely, and learned that although she was a naturalized American she had been born in Austria. The passport was refused. The girl is engaged now in daily appeals to the consulate and to the American Embassy. Neither can offer her any assistance.

This action is the result of France's decision a few weeks ago not to issue passports to any Americans of enemy origin. The reason given was that a great many fraudulent passports had been issued by Germany, who got spies into the republic in that way.

The rule, the buyer was told, was inflexible. Even if it meant that American women were deprived of French gowns, it must stand. War, the consulate told her, could not alter its rigid course for the choicest of models.

TO GIVE BATTLE TO HUN HORDES

Russian Grand Duke Plans to Stop Warsaw Drive

In Terrific Contest Upon Ground of His Choosing.

(By Hamilton Fyfe.)

Petrograd Cable.—The Russians are to make a supreme attempt to stay the German advance upon Warsaw. They are to venture a battle, the decision of which will change the character of the campaign in the east. Officers of the general staff in Petrograd say that the battle which is now beginning, after the preliminaries of the last few weeks, is to be on a scale vaster than those on the Dniester and the San.

The situation must be reckoned from all points of view as the most serious since the beginning of the war. A semi-official statement issued to the newspapers last night declared that the outcome of the engagements now in progress upon ground chosen by the Grand Duke Nicholas, for a decisive trial of strength, will mark a change in the whole character of the eastern campaign.

Needless to say, the ground has been chosen with a view to taking the enemy at a disadvantage. The Russian armies are in a region which has been carefully fortified and provided with communications.

This region is the famous three fortress triangle which has figured prominently in the works of military writers for a generation past. The apex of the triangle in Brest Litovsk, the base extends from Ivangorod to Nowo Georgiewsk. Already both these Vistula fortresses have been in action.

Very large forces have been brought up by high sides.

It is not anticipated that the struggle will be long drawn out. Russia awaits the issue calmly, and fervently murmurs "amens" to the Grand Duke's message to the people in the order of the day.

DOUBLE QUOTA

Canadians to Have Machine Guns to Equal Hun Equipment.

Ottawa Report.—Canadian troops who in future go into action will be as well provided with machine guns as the Germans. The Government has doubled its complement of four guns to each battalion, that is every battalion will have eight supplied by the militia department. In addition private contributions aggregating an amount sufficient to purchase fully a thousand more guns have been received or promised.

Three thousand guns are now supplied with four machine guns each battalion. The Germans, it is believed, have twelve the militia department's extra guns will be supplied from the war appropriation fund.

The private subscriptions will be used to supply guns over and above those given by the Government. The great difficulty will be to secure all the guns ordered in time to be of value and to secure trained operators to man them.

The Lewis Company, of Birmingham, England, are working night and day on British orders.

While many private subscriptions have been for particular regiments, military necessity may compel some change in this method.

Italy Growing Angry Over the Course of Turkey.

Rome, via Paris, Cable.—Diplomatic relations between Italy and Turkey, already strained, are becoming more tense, because of the reports in Istanbul of Turkish authorities to permit Italian refugees to leave the Ottoman Empire. HOT DEFENCE

By German Admiral of Their Submarine Warfare.

London Cable.—The Hague correspondent of the Evening News says:

"The Taeglich Rundschau publishes a violent tirade by Admiral Kirchoff, denouncing the English official verdict on the Lusitania case, and declaring that submarine attacks on unarmed merchant ships are to be continued, regardless of the fate of neutrals."

"Admiral Kirchoff says: 'Members of the German Government and the Admiralty and the crews of the submarines will sleep peacefully in the face of such accusations. They will continue just as before to commit such acts, no matter how loudly the proud and sanctimonious Britons may shriek about murder. The watchword for us is: Down with the ships that cross the bows of our valiant U boats; and with those carrying munitions under the protection of humanity. Our note has clearly declared that the presence of American passengers on board will make no difference in this respect.'"

HEROIC CHARGE OF FRENCHMEN

Exploits of Expedition On Gallipoli in Recent Days.

Bayonet Attacks Carried Past the Objective Fixed.

Paris Cable.—Exploits of the French expeditionary force on the Gallipoli Peninsula, June 21 and 30, in the region of Kereves Dere, are recounted in an official statement issued to-night regarding the operations in the Dardanelles.

Four trenches, forming steps on a slope between the sea and a ravine opening from the village, were chosen as the objective for an attack on the 21st. A west wind covered the field of battle with clouds of dust, swept up by the artillery preparations.

Suddenly, about 11 o'clock, metallic flashes streaked the shroud of yellow dust, and the clash of bayonets was heard as the infantry leaped to the assault. One after another the trenches fell before the impetuous charge of the French troops, which carried them almost to the heights of Kithia, beyond the farthest point at which the assault was aimed. An entire Turkish company, surrendered without resistance.

"Counter-attacks the following night," says the official report, "failed to budge the victorious forces. The French left completed on June 30 the advantage gained on the 21st by capturing a group of communicating trenches called the quadrilateral. We remained in undisputed possession of these trenches, after the enemy had made one unsuccessful and disastrous counter-attack. It was here that General Gouraud was wounded."

"On the night of July 4th and 5th the Turks, heavily reinforced, aided by aeroplanes and five cruisers of the Barbarossa type, undertook a general attack. They seemed to have lost their spirit, however. Their hesitating advance was met by the allies with a murderous fire, which was held until the last possible moment, and which inflicted terrible losses, without a foot of gain for the enemy."

"Seventeen allied aviators attacked the enemy aerodrome at Chanak, on the afternoon of the fourth. Explosive bombs were dropped on the principal hangar, which was set on fire."

SAY IT'S TREASON

Kaiser to Punish Germans Making Shells for Allies.

Berlin (by wireless via Sayville), Cable.—An official declaration is published here, calling attention to the fact that "Germans working in factories in neutral countries, particularly in the United States, producing war supplies for the enemy render themselves liable to prosecution for treason, under paragraph 89 of the penal code, penalizing such assistance to an enemy with a maximum of ten years' imprisonment."

Another paragraph of the penal code authorizes prosecution in the case of such offences, even when committed abroad, and it is understood that the German courts will proceed against offenders.

TOTAL WRECK

Lost Cable Schooner's Crew is Being Searched For.

Honolulu, Cable.—The British cable schooner Strathcona, on route from Auckland, New Zealand, to the Fanning Islands and Honolulu, is a total loss in the South Pacific, near the Fiji Islands, according to information brought here to-day by the Union Line Niagara. Officers of the Niagara said that a wireless message had been received at Suva on July 13 from the cable layer Iris, that she was searching for the survivors.

One boat load of the Strathcona's crew was picked up by the Iris, but a second boat, which was thought to be making its way to Tokatavatu or one of the outlying Fijis, was still unaccounted for. It was believed at Suva that the Strathcona piled up on Niwera reef and foundered.

COTTON KEPT THE WAR GOING

Would Have Ended in April Last, Says Scientist.

If Britain Had Declared It Contraband.

London Cable.—If cotton had been declared contraband at the outset, says Sir William Ramsay, in an article in the Evening News, the war would have been over by last April. A similar statement is made by Hilaire Belloc, in Land and Water.

Paul Coudrier, London correspondent of the Paris Figaro, asserts that early in the war the French Government requested the British Government to put cotton on the list of contraband, and that Great Britain refused to do so, for two reasons: First, because the cotton dealers of England were opposed to such a step because German cruisers were then chasing British ships, and might sink all the cargoes of cotton sent to this country; and, second, because the allies took every precaution not to offend neutral opinion.

It is pointed out that neither of these reasons now has any force. In regard to the first, there are no German raiders; and with regard to the second, Mr. Coudrier says:

"We are standing for public rights, when to be more than fair to the rest of the world is danger to ourselves in this struggle for life and death."

According to Sir William Ramsay, assurances have been given to the French Government that the import of cotton by Germany has been stopped, although Mr. Asquith admitted, on Tuesday that the situation in this respect has not been wholly satisfactory.

FRENCH DEMAND ACTION.

Paris Cable.—The press here is beginning to realize the importance of the cotton question. The Echo de Paris prints a strong editorial, concluding as follows:

"Public opinion in France, as in England, must demand the placing of cotton on the list of contraband."

The Echo dismisses the American note to England on cotton somewhat cavalierly, with the comment:

"Its purpose evidently is the establishment of a claim for damages later. Furthermore, Great Britain cannot settle this matter until the American-German dispute, from which it arises, the blockade being Great Britain's reprisal against submarine warfare, is settled."

The Echo says the French Government was favorable to the project of making cotton contraband, but was defeated by Lord Haldane, who said Germany could do without it. Events show the contrary, says the Echo, hence it is the allies' duty to arrest the traffic at all costs.

The Temps comments on the American note in similar terms:

"German submarines down American ships as punishment for selling arms to us, which they have a right to do. British and French cruisers arrest ships carrying merchandise to and from Germany, but indemnify shippers. The cases are not parallel, but characteristic of the methods of the different belligerents. America will take that into consideration."

A NEW DISEASE

New York Has Cases of Peculiar Trouble to the Foot.

New York, Report.—A new foot disease, known as endarteritis obliterans, has made its appearance in New York, and twenty-eight cases of it are under treatment in the hospital for deformities and joint diseases. The disease, physicians said to-day, is frequently mistaken for rheumatism or gout. It is believed to have come here from Russia, Poland and parts of Austria, virtually the only countries where it has been common.

The disease is characterized by the cutting off of the blood supply by a fibrous exudate in the veins. Physicians of the hospital are seeking to discover the cause of the trouble. Injections of salt solution have been found to give relief, but it is not yet known whether this treatment is a cure.

REGISTRATION

Of Voters for Next Election in Britain is Under Way.

London Cable.—Registration of voters for the next general election in Great Britain—whenever that may occur—closes this month. Britons who are at home may consult the registry lists, which are posted on doors of chapels, churches and public buildings throughout the country, and may petition their town clerk for the correction of any omission or mistake.

But the thousands of men who are fighting abroad, or in training at home, and who therefore cannot safeguard their interests, are protected by a special war time act of Parliament, which provides that no man may lose his civic privileges through serving his country as a volunteer. Any other person may appeal in his behalf for the correction of errors on the lists, and no soldier may be disqualified during his absence, on the ground that his wife or family has received assistance from the local poor relief fund.

BRITISH REGRET

For Violation of Norwegian Neutrality is Offered.

Christiania Cable, via London.—The British Government, through Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, has expressed regret to the Norwegian Government at the violation by British warships of Norwegian territorial waters, especially by the seizure by an auxiliary cruiser of a German steamer inside the three-mile limit. The note, couched in cordial terms, was in reply to a formal protest lodged by Norway. It announces that the British Admiralty has been requested to respect in future the Norwegian territorial line.

The press expresses satisfaction with the terms of the note, although pointing out that it was considerably delayed. The papers call upon the Government to demand satisfaction from Germany for the torpedoing of Norwegian ships with the loss of several sailors' lives.

STEADY GAINS ON GALLIOLI

British Force Advance and Consolidate Ground Gained.

Small Redoubt Captured, and Communication Trench.

London Cable.—The latest report received from Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, Commander-in-Chief of the British expeditionary force at the Dardanelles, recounting the operations up to yesterday, was given out to-night by the Official Press Bureau. It follows:

"Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton reports that in the northern section of operations a raiding party rushed a trench on the front of our line during the night of July 18. All the enemy died, except one, who was killed."

"On July 19 an anti-aircraft gun was located and hit with the second round from one of our guns. The fifth round blew it into the air."

"In the southern area the Turks on July 18th made an attack on some newly captured trenches in the French section, but were repulsed with ease."

"In the British section there has been steady progress daily, consolidating and in some cases extending the trenches won on the 12th and 13th."

"Yesterday, the 21st, a small redoubt was captured with insignificant loss, and a successful attack was made on part of a communication trench held by the enemy. A Turkish machine gun opposite our left was knocked out by the French artillery."

"In both sections the enemy's artillery has been active."

THE GERMAN VERSION.

The following statement from Berlin has been given out:

"The operations of last week in the Asi Buria region have been confined on the part of the allies to several offensive movements of no great strength against the Turkish trenches. Attempts by the allies' artillery to support their infantry resulted on July 7 in the shelling of one of their own trenches."

"The Turkish artillery continue to be active. New batteries have been brought up on the Asiatic shore and in the rear of Seddul-Bahr, and since July 6 have caused heavy losses in men and material to the allies, whose camps and bases are now constantly under fire. Seven ammunition depots of the allies were exploded during the period from July 6 to July 10. This was principally to the fire of Turkish batteries on the Asiatic shore. Against these batteries the artillery of the allies is powerless, and an attack on them from sea is prevented by German submarines."

"According to wounded German soldiers who have been interviewed, it is now a favorite device of the Turks to abandon part of a trench to the intruding allies, and then cut them down by a deadly enfilading fire."

STRANGE DEATH

Canadian Prisoner's Fate in Germany Needs Investigation.

Ottawa Report.—Mystery enshrouds the circumstances of the death of Private Alfred Wright, of the 10th battalion, who figures in to-night's casualty lists. His name was received by the Militia Department as one who died while a prisoner of war in Germany, after being struck on back of head with iron. The cable announcing the casualty gave no particulars as to what sort of iron it was and under what circumstances it caused the prisoner's death, but further particulars are expected. On its face it looks like a case of possible ill-treatment of a prisoner, but it is scarcely thought if such were actually the case the suspicious wording of the notification of death would have been allowed to go through.

The Passing of David Thompson

The death of an old resident of this district, in the person of David Thompson, occurred at his residence in Athens, Ont., at 4.30 p. m. yesterday afternoon, Tuesday, July 27th, 1915, at the advanced age of 79 years.

The deceased was a son of the late John Thompson, and was born in Aloghill, County of Antrim, Ireland. When quite young he married Mary Hewitt and about sixty years ago they left Londonderry in a sailing vessel for New York, taking eight weeks to make the trip. From New York they came to Hamilton, Ont., and from there to Brockville. They were making their way to some relatives or friends who lived a few miles from Toledo and to get there was to walk and the young couple started. On the journey they were overtaken by a rig and Mrs Thompson procured a ride to Toledo, but Mr Thompson was less fortunate and had to walk all the way. They remained in Toledo that night, and the next morning continued their journey.

To this union were born thirteen children, eleven of whom are still living.

Everybody speaks of Mr Thompson as a good man and his whole life has proved it out. In religion he was a Presbyterian and has been an elder of the church nearly all the time of his residence here, and he has continued to reside in this district since coming to this country. In politics he was a Conservative. He had always enjoyed good health up till last January when he was taken ill and since that time he has been confined to his bed, but he was a patient sufferer and was never heard to murmur. He passed away peacefully, sleeping to the end.

There are left to mourn his death a widow, aged 74 years, six sons and five daughters, being John of Carthage, N. Y.; Thos. D. of Winnipeg; William of Hughton, Sask.; Gordon of London, Ont.; James (M.P.P.) of Havelock, Ont.; Joseph of Athens, Ont., and Mrs Mooney of Toronto, Mrs Irwin of Soperton, Ont.; Mrs Rowsome of Lyn, Ont.; Mrs Morrison and Mrs Latimer of Brockville, Ont.

Also the following brothers and sisters: John Thompson of Belfast, Ireland, who visited here about three years ago; James Thompson, on the homestead in Ireland, and Joseph Thompson of Winnipeg; Mrs Wylie of Belfast, Ireland; Mrs McWhirter of Aloghill, Ireland, and Mrs Fell, Larn, Ireland.

The funeral service will be held at the family residence on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.
