The hostility of the Montreal Herald

towards the present management of the Mail has been explained. Mr. Livingstone of the Herald, a New Brunswick hard shell tory, did his utmost to supplant Mr. Griffin and secure the editorship of the chief tory organ. He failed, and now seeks satisfaction by disparaging the Mail and endeavoring to discredit the present editor of that paper in the eyes of the conservative party.

The second reading of the Tupper emnity bill was moved this afternoon by Sir John Macdonald, who said the bill was ntended to remove the doubts as to the egality of Sir Charles Tupper's positoin. Mr. Cameron (Huron) denounced the oill as an outrage. The seat for Cumberland was vacant and it was proposed to make the minister of railways a member of parliament by an act of parliament. Mr. Girouard advanced the extraordinary octrine that the commission appointing the high commissioner was invalid, and that, therefore, Sir Charles had never been high commissioner, and was still a member of the house. The government had no power to override the statute and appoint a high commissioner without salary. Mr. Lister argued that the whole pr eeding was merely a scheme to give Sir Charles $5000 of allowances in addition to his salary and expenses as minister railways. Messrs. Mills, Cameron (Victoria), Mac enzie, Beaty, Davies, Chapleau, O'Brien Weldon and Brecken continued the debat until nearly 1 o'clock, when the bill was carried by 105 to 56, a great many conser vatives shirking the vote.

The bill was then referred to the com mittee on privileges and election. Sir Charles Tupper then moved a res Nova Scotia railway. The house soon after adjourned.

This will make the city territory continuous from the shore at Dufferin street to the shore at High Park, and will leave the village of Parkdale surrounded on three sides by the city. Under these circumstances it s impossible for the village to grow in any direction, and a very short time will serve to show that it is equally impossible for it to continue as it is. Had Parkdale made a union with Brockon they might together have formed a populous suburb and remained independent or years. Brockton has wisely deter mined otherwise, and Parkdale had better follow the example. There is time still for action if it is only prompt. Let an emergency neeting of the people of the village b called, and if public opinion is unmistakably in favor of annexation the legislature can do the rest by another amendment to the bill now before the house.

Amongst other matters that could in this way be disposed of forever is the subway question, which now hangs like a nillstone round the neck of the village cororation, and which will not be adjusted for a long time to come if the city and vilage remain separate.

Be it resolved that this lodge of the Canadian order of oddfellows, in connection with the Manchester Unity, at its first meeting, places on record its deep regret that any minister of the yospel should have gone out of his way to assail an order which is founded on biblical teachings, and which in addition to its benevolent works is an order that inculcates in its members the absolute necessity of living christian lives and following in the

SATURDAY MORNING. MARCH 15, 1884. The Street Lighting Contract,

The fire and gas committee seems to have gone about the street lighting contract in a slow way. If they expect the electric light companies to put in tenders they should have advertised for them long ago. The contract with the gas company runs out on May 1; tenders must be in by March 26; the next meeting of the council will be on March 31; and supposing that the contract is awarded at the first meeting there would only be one month in which an electric light company could erect its plant, get up its wires, etc. It would be impossible to do this in that time. Nevertheless, we understand that the electric light companies intend putting in tenders.

There is another unsatisfactory thing in this affair, namely, that the gas company say they will not make a contract unless they get all the city to light.

The Propaganda Imperilled.

The vital organ of the papacy is the Propaganda congregation at Rome, an institution whose chief function is evangelizing, teaching and extending the catholic faith. By the laws of 1866-7 the Italian government was empowered to convert certain property of the church into government bonds. Four years ago the government began suit to "convert" the immense estates of the Propaganda and the other day the supreme court of Italy gave final decision in favor of the government. The whole catholic world is accordingly excited over what they deem an act of spoliation, and a blow at their faith in its most vital point. The text of the courts decision, the justificatory letter of the Italian premier to his ambassadors abroad, the protest of the pope, and the corroborative complaint of the propaganda to the bishops throughout the world, torm the data of the case, and these have now been all published. As we have said, the catholic world is aroused.

International complication is likely to arise out of this affair. For it is contended that the international status of the papacy itself is not more demonstrable than is that the complicity of causes which lead to unof the propaganda. Besides being an inseparable organ of the Roman church, and beyond demonstration. therefore entitled to share its guarantees, the congregation in question can draw impressive arguments for inviolability from the history of its endowments. Its resources have been created, not by Italian donors for national objects, but by cosmopolitan contributors for ecumenical ends. The government allowed ten years to pass after the laws carried before they attempted to make the conversion, and even Victor Emmanuel, so it is said, never contemplated such confiscation.

The New York Sun goes the length of saying that the United States government ought to protest because part of the property converted belongs to American cit-

The essentially cosmopolitan origin of the property which the Italian tribunal has declared itself competent to partially confiscate under the guise of conversion, may be exemplified by the grievous predicament in which the American college at Rome, like all other adjuncts and outgrowths of the propagands, is now placed. The building occupied by this seminary, which at present gives instruction to some lifty students, and by which some of the most eminent catholic ecclesiastics in the United States were educated, was purchased by the propaganda thirty years ago, and the use of it granted in perpetuity to the American bishops. The latter, on their part, contributed some $50,000 for alterations and equipment, and of course these improvements will be disposed of with the building, which is ordered to be sold.

One way out of the difficulty is for the likely that a government which has taken so pronounced a stand against the church will consent to such a bill unless indeed strong pressure from other governments is brought to bear on Signor Mancini, minister of Humbert.

Franchise Extension in Britain.

The object of Mr. Gladstone's measure is to unity the franchise between town praved class. and country, to unify the franchise between the three kingdoms, to abolish the voting power of non-residents, now exercised under color of "incorporeal omy which bless their future life. The practical result of the bill in increasing the way of our children's happiness when special interest in it to outsiders and this result, as estimated by Mr. Gladstone, will be the admission of 1,400,000 new voters in England, of 200,000 in Scotland, and of 400,000 in Ireland, or 2,000,000 practice it. in all in addition to the present That number is three millions, so that the total vote, if Mr. Gladstone's bill passes, will be five millions in a population some what under thirty-five millions. This is one vote in seven, whereas in the United States, where there are no restrictions upon suffrage, the voting population is one in five. Assuredly this bill brings Great Britain so near to universal suffrage that columns of subtle disquisition and differentiation which Mr. Gladstone devotes to the subject. But a bill avowedly providing for universal suffrage would probably not have secured twenty votes in the house of commons, which is expected cheerfully to pass a bill for universal suffrage, provided only that it be not so called.

Cobourg is excited over the prospective removal of Victoria college from that town. If the institution is moved it will not be through any intentional slight on Cobourg, but merely in the interest of methodist education; and if it can be shown that Victoria will benefit Cobourg ought to acquiesce. What the Cobourgers ought to do is to insist on the new insane asylum that must be built in the near future being located in their town.

There is no doubt that the Globe's corrupt bid did a great deal to force Sir John Macdonald into compliance with the denands of the French Canadian members.

The Globe of yesterday wants the election laws made still more stringent. What is more urgently called for is a means of preventing corruption of members and officials, not so much of voters. As long as members and officials travel on railway passes, act as solicitors for companies interested, and promote bills, there is sure to be corruption.

The London Free Press and its namesake of Ottawa are booming the name of W. D. LeSueur of the postoffice department, for the librarianship at Ottawa:

Mr. LeSueur, besides being a meritorious departmental officer of long standing, is a distinguished graduate of Toronto university, a medallist in classics, and one of the foremost writers and thinkers in Canada to-day. His literary reputation is not confined to his native country, but by his contributions to leading serials in England and America, is well established in the mother country and adjoining states. It would be a fitting and graceful recognition not only of his faithful discharge of duty in the civil service, but of his well-balanced and accurate scholarship, should the government see fit to assign to him a position for which he is every way so eminently fitted. His knowledge of the French language and very intimate acquaintance with French literature are additional qualifications which merit and will no doubt receive due consideration. ment, for the librarianship at Ottawa:

To the Editor of The World. SIR: In reference to the Landis lecture in your columns this week, I wish to enter a demurrer against the general truth of his views, more particularly in their application to the condition of Canadian society. It is generally acknowledged that desirable conditions of society are almost

The lecturer strongly condemned artificiality in women and depravity in men, and sidered these to be the direct causes of the celibacy now so common. It is principally around cheap hotels and boarding places that one meets with compounds of "pepper" and "grease." > Orange Incorporation. From the Sentinel.

Many journals hostile to the orange asso ciation, and whose political allies have voted against and will vote against the act of incorporation now being applied for to the dominion parliament, have permitted their columns to be used for the publication of statements to the effect that the bill will not be pressed to a second reading this will not be pressed to a second reading this session. It is almost needless to say that the statements published are devoid of truth. The bill will come up for a second reading in a few days. In the meantime it is unjust to the association and unfair to those having charge of the bill to give pub-licity to such unblushing falsehoods.

The Growing Use of Opining During the ten months ending with las October nearly 450,000 pounds of opium were imported into the United States, against an importation of less than 200,000 pounds for the corresponding period of the year preceding, and even smaller amounts for previous years. No developments in the medical properties and uses of the drug anticipated. during the year are at all sufficient to ex-plain an increase of 125 per cent in its implain an increase of 122 per cent in its importation. The use of opium as a stimulant, too, has not become suddenly so popular as to draw thus heavily upon China for its gratification. There can be little question, then, that the supply has increased to meet the demand for it in the manufacture of cigarettes, and that the figures of opium importation in a rough way give some idea of the rapidity with which cigarette smoking is establishing itself as a custom among us."

Recoining Trade Bollars. Advices received yesterday from Bang kok, Siam, bearing date Jan. 18, are: The king is buying American trade dollars at about ninety cents on the dollar, and coining new Siamese ticals. The new coin is very handsome, and much sought after by the native traders. It bears the impress o the king's head on one side and the royal seat on the other. These ticals pass cur-rent for 60 cents within the kingdom, but at Singapore, Senang and Calcutta they are accepted at a discount of 20 per cent, so that their actual value is not more than 48 cents. It is said at the British consulate that one trade dollar produces two ticals, so it will be seen that the Siameze government is doing a profitable business by de basing the coin.

The Wilv Fox. Early in the morning of the 23d ult. writes a correspondent of the Portland Argus, a valuable hound owned by Samuel Wardwell of Oxford, struck the hot trail of a fox. Mr. Wardwell recently refused to take $100 for this hound. Toward noon, after a long, hard chase, the fox and hound were seen running along the railway track near Mt. Rocky church. The rumble of a coming train was heard. As soon as the coming train was heard. As soon as the locomotive swung round the curve, the fox seemed to give out: "The poor fox," said the engineer, "could hardly drag one leg after the other. It staggered along a few yards, and then fell ali in a heap, quivering as if in agonies of death. Roused to one last despairing effort by the neuring cries of the hound, it rose to its feet staggered wildly and fell in a heap right in front of the engine. The dog was about to grab it, when suddenly the fox gave a treendous jump, passing over one corner o wary hound was caught and ground to pieces beneath the wheels of the on rushing train." "That darned fox," added the "actually looked round and grinned as the train passed him." Then the fox trotted calmly away evidently seeking for another $100 hound to decoy

Municipal Expenses. The ease with which taxes are imposed upon the people, commencing with the school board and running through the various channels of township, village, town, city and county councils, is a fatal incentive to extravagance. For this reason we consider it unfair to blame municipal officers for doing what the law not only empowers but compels them to do. What is wanted a change in the law. What that change may be could very easily be outlined by a committee of intelligent reeves, to be called together by government in Toronto during the recess, and their long experience and suggestions submitted to the perience and suggestions submitted to the government, which could in a condensed form, be laid before the legislature next year, for it is too late this session to make any radical changes in our municipal law.

* WHAT * IS * CATARRH? *

[From the Toronto (Canada) "Mail."]

Catarrh is a muco-purulent discharge caused by the presence and development of the vege-table parasite amoeba in the internal lining membrane of the nose. This parasite is only developed under favorable circumstances, and these are: Morbid state of the clood, as the blighted corpuscle of tubercle, the germ poison of syphilis, mercury, toxcema, from the retention of the effeted matter of the skin, suppressed perspiration, badly ventilated sleeping artments, and other poisons that are germinated in the blood. These poisons keep the internal lining membrane of the nose in a constant state of irritation, ever ready for the deposit of the seeds of these germs, which spread up the nostrils and down the fauces, or back of the throat, causing ulceration of the throat; up the Eusta hian tubes, causing deafness; burrowing in the vocal cords, causing hoarseness; usurping the proper structure of the bronchial tubes, ending in pulmonary consumption and death,

Many attempts have been made to discover a cure for this distressing disease by the use of inhalents and other ingenious devices, but none of these treatments can do a particle of good until the parasites are either destroyed or removed from the mucus tissue.

Some time since a well-known physician of forty years' standing, after much experimenting, succeeded in discovering the necessary combination of ingredients which never fails in absolutely and permanently eradicating this horrible disease, whether standing for one year or forty years. Those who may be suffering from the above disease should, without delay, communicate with the business managers, Messrs. A. H. DIXON & SON. 305 King Street West, Toronto, and get full particulars and treatise free by enclosing stamp.

What the Rev. E. B. Stevenson, B. A., a Clergyman of the London Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada, has to say in regard to A. H. Dixon & Son's

New Treatment for Catarrh. MESSRS. A. II. DIXON & SON:

**Dear Sirs,—Yours of the 13th inst. to hand. It seems almost too good to be true that I am cured of Catarrh, but I know that I am. I have had no return of the disease and never felt better in my life. I have tried so many things for catarrh, suffered so much and for so many years, that it is hard for me to realize that I am really better.

I consider that mine areas a second and the second and so many years, that it is hard for me to the second and s realize that I am really better.

I consider that mine was a very bad case. It was aggravated and chronic, involving the throat as well as the nasal passages, and I thought I would require the three treatments, but feel fully cured by the two sent me, and I am thankful that I was ever induced to send to you.

You are at liberty to use this letter, stating that I have been cured at two treatments, and I shall gladly recommend your remedy to some of my friends who are sufferers.

Yours, with many thanks,

ollege Correspo ndence Markham Economi In person Dr. Young is of medium hight ad of a somewhat stout figure. His most oticeable features are his small, deep-set nd penetrating blue eyes, and his broad, all, open forehead. The expression of his ace is pleasant, but earnest and sincere. le is somewhat bald, but the heavy fringe of silky white hair which adorns his head and his fine flowing beard give him a strikigly venerable appearance.

In his professional habits Dr. Young is musually regular. He is the first professor to reach the college in the morning, and e never keeps a class waiting a minute for im. He closes his lectures with the same promptness. When the college bell rings he stops short on the moment, even if he be in the middle of a sentence. He usually has his spectacle case or a bunch of keys in his hand when lecturing, and whenever he is explaining a question of unusual difhe is explaining a question of unusual un-diculty he seizes the spectacle case with a irrner grasp and closes his eyes; the degree of tightness to which they are closed indi-cating approximately the degree of diffi-culty the venerable doctor experiences in elucidating the question under considera-

Dr. Young is a man of strongly-marked character. In general he is very quiet and retiring in his disposition, but when occa-sion requires it he gives forth his views sion requires it he gives forth his views with no uncertain sound. As an instance, I refer to the fact that in strong and unmeasured language he opposed President Wilson's recent unjust attempt to exclude young women from University college; and there is no doubt that Dr. Young's quoted opinion had very much weight in the parliamentary discussion last the parliamentary discussion last in the parliamentary discussion last week on this subject. He is in favor of liberality, advancement and free-dom of thought in the fullest sense. He often tells his students that he does not wish them to accept anything on his authority) or on that of any other person. Says he: "I have failed in my purpose if I have not taught you that in your search for truth, reason and not authority must always be your guide if you wish to make any real progress."

Dr. Young is a scholar of more than ordinary ability. Not only is he probably the best metaphysician in America, but he has also a profound knowledge of the higher mathematics. He is a good Greek and lating abolders and is quite at home in Latin scholar, and is quite at home in Hebrew and German. In short, in general scholarship he is without an equal in

But it is the abilities he displays as professor that have given Dr. Young the widest distinction. Here we must call attention to a fact too generally ignored, viz., that mere scholarship is not sufficient evidence of fitness for the position of teacher or professor. The essential characteristics viz., that mere scholarship is not sufficient evidence of fitness for the position of teacher or professor. The essential characteristics of the true teacher are the ability to awaken the interest of the learner in his subgreated, and the tact to assist him at every point where assistance would be of advantage to him. In the main it is not so much instruction as education that the ablege student requires of his that the college student requires of his professor. There is an important differ-Instruction consists in imparting facts; education in drawing out and developing faculties. Now the student can get his facts from his text-books or the colege library, but for the development of his lege library, but for the development of his faculties he requires a living professor. Professor Young is the most enthusiastic, the most successful, and the most popular teacher in the college. Although his subject is naturally the driest and most abstruse in the whole list of studies, yet such is the interest with which the professor invests it that the which the professor invests it that the number of students who make mental and number of students who make henca and moral science a special study here is equal to those in all the other special departments together, namely, classics, mathematics, physics, modern languages and natural science. No coercion is necessary to secure attendance at Dr. Young's lectures. His lecture room is always crowded. No one goes to sleep in his class, or leaves the room with the very unclass, or leaves the room with the very unsatisfactory feeling of precious time wasted. All the graduates in this department are conscious of a life-long debt to Dr. Young, and his retirement will be a matter of profound regret to all who know matter of profound regret to all who know is the confee, chocolate, or anything else, instead of this tea. But who dare oppose fashion!"

What We Want in Toronto.

From the Montreal Star.

The postmaster-general has done a sensible thing in ordering that the Montreal postoffice be kept open until 10 o'clock at night. We understand that letters will be sorted as they arrive, at least up to that hour. To complete the improvement arrangements should be made if indeed they have not already been made to sort all letters as fast as they arrive. There should be no such thing as stowing a mail away to be sorted the next morning. In fact we see no roason why the postoffice should not be kept working all night. The telegraph offices are open until 4 o'clock in the morning and largests.

A Jockey's Rapid Rise.

From Turf. Field and Farm.

The noted jockey James McLaughlin, who has been identified with the stable of the Dwyer Bros. for a half dozen years, bought last week on Eighth avenue, Brooklyn, a magnificent residence costing $25,000, into which he will soon be domicided with his wife and their little laughing young ones. Less than ten years ago McLaughlin came to the stable and began work sweeping the litter along the walk and in front of the stabls. He was then too small for any work that would pay for what he could eat, but he pegged away, doing the light chores about the place, and in a short while he could hold on to the back of a gentle horse walking in the circle of the stable yard, and gradually he went up until he could be trusted to gallop and finally to ride a race for prize money. The boy took to the business from the beginning. He was never arun-a-round as most boys are who have a chance, but showed a greater familiarity with and love of the song, "Root, little pig, or die," than he did of the habits of juvenile idlers. The Scott Act in Halton. Halton News, Milton: It is our humble pinion that though it may be "a great farce" the people here have evidently become enamored of it, and will do all they come enamored of it, and will do all they can to have it stay.

Free Press, Acton: The fact that Halton hotel-keepers are going out of the business and removing from the country is evidence of a very clear and satisfactory nature that the Scott act is rapidly accomplishing the end desired by its promoters, i.e., of killing the whisky business, and making those hotels which are necessary for the accommodation of the public, comfortable homes for travellers without the damning influence of the whisky traffic, so long connected with them.

Many good stories are told of the unirersity career of C. S. Calverley, the English poet, who died recently. While at Oxford the master of his college summoned him one day, and said, "I don't know, Mr. Calverley, how it happens, but whenever I look out of window I see you jumping over that wall." "Well, master, replied he, "it certainly has often struck me as odd that whenever I jump over that wall I see you looking out of window.

Operatic Specimens in Court. Recently in a suit in the queen's bench in London, brought by the tenor of his Rip Van Winkle troupe against Manager Henderson for dismissal without cause, it was shown that his singing was occasionally out shown that his singing was occasionally out of tune, and that there was one particular high note which, like that of some of Col. Mapleson's tenors, "sometimes came off and sometimes didn't." The judge gave the plaintiff tenor damages, however, because it was proved by experts that the very greatest artists sing often out of tune, and the question was entirely one of degree. During the trial it was suggested that, after the precedent of the Belt case, the tenor should give the court a specimen of his powers.
