ROSE LEBLANC; or, THE TRIUMPH OF SINCERITY.

CHAPTER XVII.-Continued. 'Madame Vidal tells every body that she can get to listen to her, that her sons are now gentlemen, and M. He walked round the be a real nne lady, Mdlle. Rose, a lionne, perhaps, as the newspapers say, and there will be no getting near you?

' Hold your tongue, Jules, you provoke me,' exclaimed Rose, stamping her foot.

Ab, I am so glad to hear you tell me to hold my tongue; it shows that you are not changed yet, Mdlle. Rose ; but then, also, you are not married yet. If I go to Paris, as I hope to do, for my aunt has promised to get me placed with one of my cousins in a lineadraper's shop, I shall never dare to present myself before M. de Vidal.'

. Then it is you that will be changed, not I, my dear Jules; for who ever knew you to lack courage to push yourself any where ?

Well, you are quite wrong, Mdlle. Rose. For instance, I was quite unable to overcome my natural timidity, and call at the Chateau of La Roche Vidal all the time that you were staying there, though I was once in the neighborhood upon some business of my aunt's. I was dying to go and see you, but never succeeded in summoning up sufficient courage. I should have been so glad, besides, to renew my acquaintance . with that charming young lady whom I saw and spoke to at Pau, and who sent me such a beautiful rosary from Betharam. She made an impression upon me that time can never efface.'

Jules said this with such a sentimental air, that Rose burst out laughing; but the next moment she said, with a sigh, 'Mulle. de Morlaix is an angel. Jules can you tell me at what time the diligence from Brittany comes in?'

CHAPTER XVIII.

One morning, when Mdlle. de Tournefort and Alice were sitting at breakfast in the little sitting room in the turret, where Andre had so often the year before watched Mdlle. de Vidal at her studies or her work, two letters were brought in by an old grey-headed servant, and handed to his young mistress, who, as she took them from him little foresaw the influence they were to have on the whole of her future life. Coming from different places, arriving at the same moment, little had the writers of those letters guessed the effect they were destined to produce. One was from Rose Leblanc. It had been penned on the day when she insisted on taking from Henri the one he had received from M. de Vidal, and was the result of the idea which had so suddenly occurred to her mind. She had been at great pains to write it, and had spent nearly a whole day in its composition. Henri had been banished from the parlour, Medor repulsed, and Jules Bertrand, who had called to offer his congratulations on her approaching marriage, warned off the premises. Once achieved, she looked upon this specimen of epistolary style with no slight amount of complacency. It seemed to her a successful effort, which could never be equalled, and nad, therefore, better not be repeated. She lived on her own consciousness of its merits, and vowed she would never write another if she could possibly help it. This chef d'œuvre was as follows :---

'My Sweet Angel,-When one is very happy, it is natural to wish every body else to be happy also, and more especially those one loves. Well I am so very happy, so very joyful, that I would give the world to make others as happy as myself. And, in the first place, 1 must tell you, my sweet angel, the good news; and that is, that I am going to be married, and not to M. Andre at all, but to Henri, who has loved me dearly all along, and whom it turns out that I have been fond of also all the time I thought I hated him. And the best of it is, that M. Andre does not care for me, and does not wish to marry me .--And this is all so very pleasant, that I can hardly believe it has really come to pass. And now I must tell you all about it. But first, I hope you will not think me a deceitful girl, and that I was pretending to like M. Andre when I did not .--You see, when once I had promised to be his wife, I telt it was my daty to love him, and I tried hard to do so. But still, if you had said to me when I was with you at La Roche Vidal. nossible to be happy with one who suffers, and ' Come, Rose, with your hand upon yoor heart, do you really care for Andre?' I am sure 1 hardly say, but indeed I think I did. I am sure 1 must have been fond of him when he was going to draw for the conscription, and Henri scolded me for talking to him. But then, no sooner were we engaged than it seemed as if. I had left off caring for him. And when he went away, and Henri had saved my life and taken care of me when 1 was so ill, I soon found out who it was 1 really loved. I tell you all this that you may understand how it all happened, and that 1 was not deceiving any body on purpose, when I pretended to like him. It was true, you see, at one time : and then, afterwards, it left off being true ; pretty landscapes on the window, when it freezes acted on the impulse of the moment. and underin the winter : early in the morning they are gone ; and about noon nothing of them remains. village, who had assured her it would be a work You who are so clever, and understand about everything, can explain it all, I dare say. It is not his fault, cour man, if he likes somebody else better than cae; and, as it bappens, it is a great blessing. It would have been very tiresome if it had been the other way, you know. As Henri says, "We have been very near being miserable for lde, just for want of understanding each other."-How I wish everb body would understand every body, and every body would be happy. I am sure a king and a queen could not be so happy as Henri and I. There is only one thing I care for now, and that is that you, my sweet angel, should be happy also. Every day is any prayers I will beg of Almighty God to make you so.

' Your grateful little friend and serv't, ' Rose Leblanc."

The other letter was from Colonel de la Eleronniere. He gave in it a very bad account of Andre's health. A young man who had been travelling with him in Italy, and had because much attached to him, wrote to Rome to communicate to his friend's relatives the apprecieusions he entertained with regard to his health, and the deep depression of spirits which was either the origin or the result of his illness.---Obliged himself to return to Paris, he could act forbear from urging on Colonel de la Feronsine the necessity that some triend or relative should supply his place, and relieve the solitude of Amdre's existence. M. de la Feronniere expressed his regrets that he did not see what arrangement. to suggest on this point. M. Baptiste Vidal; who had just assumed the management of a centmercial enterprise in Boulogne, and his zged mother, much too infim to travel, could not be we pected to leave home. And even had they been able and willing to do so,' added the Colonet .----'I greatly doubt if, after the first moment of pleasure which he would have in seeing them, our dear invalid would have found much enjoyment in their society. You, my dear Alice, who, tagether with a feeling heart, possess that peculing intelligence which understands and hits upon the best remedy for every kind of suffering, will perhaps be able to advise me on this subject. If a was not for the duties of my position, which claum me to my post, I would at once set out for Rome ; but this is, alas ! out of the question." ' Dear aunt,' Alice said, ' read these two letters ;' and whilst Mdlle de Tournefort was locking for her spectacles, and then slowly parusian first Rose's elaborate though artless compositions and then the Colonel's hurried note, she Back down by ber side, leaning her forehead against the back of her chair. A tear trickled down the old lady's withered cheeks, as she folded up the letters and took off her spectacles. come by 11? 'Yes, Henri.'

Ah, M. Lacaze. He is grown quite gentle since last summer ; every body says he is hardly like the same person. It is ever since you went how benign he is grown to everybody.'

'Do they say that ?' cried Rose, looking at Andre's letter, which was lying on the table.

'Yes; but they also say that he looks ill, and that he has grown very thin ; and it is not to be wondered at, for it must be very unwholesome to keep in one's anger as he does. I know by myself; when I don't speak, it always makes me feel quite ill."

'Jules, go away,' cried Rose, in great agitation, for she had just heard Henri's voice in the kitchen, and her heart beat so violently as almost to choke her. She took up the letter, for she wanted to give it to him herself. Oh! if I only knew what he says,' she murmured, clasping her hands over it. Jules went away, and soon Henri came in.

Well, Bose ! how are you ?' said he, taking both her hands.

· Very well, thank you,' she replied, trying to avoid his eyes.

But I say just the contrary. You are ill. Rose. What is the matter with her ?' said he, turning to Aunt Babet, who just then entered the room.

'You had better ask herself,' answered her aunt, who was a little nettled by Rose's unusually faciturn demeanour. 'She does not open her mouth twice in an hour. I suppose she does not care about talking to us now that she is gong to marry a gentleman.

Oh, Aunt Babet! how can you say such things, when you know how glad I was to see you, and how often I asked to be allowed to come - back ?' and the poor girl went into the garden without seeing that it was raining.

What is the matter with her ?' demanded Henri a second time, in a voice like thunder.

I tell you I know nothing about it ; the whims and follies of the young people now-a-days are quite unbearable. In my day they either married or they did not, and you knew what to be at ; but as for Rose ..... Here she comes back ; she looks quite upset. I shall leave her to you ;perhaps you may be able to make her speak.

Rose came in, and going up to the table put follows : Andre's letter upon it. ' Will you read this let-

 After losing sight of them, he rose and slowly went towards the entrance door. As he was difting up, with an effort almost too great for his strength, the massive curtain which hung before it he saw close by his side the two women he. had been watching a moment before, and he drew. back to make way for them: Alice turned round to thank the courteous stranger, and their, eyes met. She saw him stagger, and beld out ber arm to support him. 'Lean upon me, Andre,' she quietly said. "Come with us,' Mdlle. de Tournefort added. "The carriage is close at hand.' And hurrying forward down the steps, she made a sign to the coachman to advance.

Andre passed his hand over his eyes and brow, and murmured in broken accents, If this is a dream, for mercy's sake do not awaken me.'

'It is no dream,' Alice whispered, and then with great simplicity said, 'It is for you we are come.

They slowly descended together the long flight of steps in front of the church. The glories of the sunset sky were fading into twilight's grey, and the cold chill of evening pervaded the air .--Mdlle de Tournefort was waiting for them in the carriage. When her companions had joined her, she bade the coachman drive to their hotel; and Andre leant back exhausted with emotion and scarcely able to speak. As they drove by the obelisks in the Piazza of St. Peter, Alice's eyes fixed themselves on one of the sentences, written in letters of gold on the Egyptian marble :--" Vincit Leo de Tribu;" the Lion of the tribe of Judah has conquered. She repeated these words | ence which belongs to the scenery and clunate to the abyss of immorality in which Scotland is now in a low voice, as it speaking to herself; and of Rome. A keen perception of the the feverish excitement which succeeded the langour she had at first observed in his manner .---Wearied by the emotion he had gone through, the look of his eyes and the tone of his voice seem to arise out of every object which the eye betrayed the restless uneasiness of disease. It was evident that he was taking pains to disguise his weakness, and to deceive himself as well as of the past and the thoughts of the future to them as to the state of his health. In taking leave of his companions that evening, he begged | lic tradition holds its unbroken course through | stance, Sir E. Head, one of the most anti-Catholic to be allowed to call upon them early the following day, in order to escort them in the first visit basilicas, from the tombs of the martys to the to the Vatican.

During the night the weather became rainy and cold. One of those sudden changes in the atmosphere took place, from which even the climate of Italy is not exempt. This, however, did not keep Alice at home on the following morning. At an early hour she was on her way to mass, at the church of the Trinita del Monte. The sky, so bright and so serene the evening bemore, was now obscured with clouds, and a cold sharp wind blew from the mountains partially with loud clamorous vociferations. She felt oppressed with a grief which resembled remorse, and kept asking herself if it had been right to come to Rome, and awaken in Andre the hope of earthly happiness, at a time when his earthly career was tending to a close, and his thoughts ought rather to be directed to the happiness of beaven, than to the joys of this life. 'And yet,' she mentally ejaculated, ' is it not possible, if disappointment and sorrow have had their share they passed, shaking their tin bexes at the same ic causing this illness, that it may not be too late time. 'We will pray for you, signora, and for "Or happiness and peace of mind to save him?-Ought I to have abandened him to loneliness and bealth.' depression, in order to detach him from existence ? and is it wrong to run the risk of riveting the links which bind him to earth by cheering bis remaining days with the light of love and .happiness ? This trying question, so important in its practical results, so difficult to solve by the dictates of human prudence, was in her mind all the tune galleries and the studies more than the churches, she was in church, and fervent were her prayers for light and guidance. 'I am so glad,' said Alice, turning her head awav.

Mdlle. de Tournefort held out her hand to her. Both were deeply moved, and there was no need of words to express their feelings.

From that moment Alice and Andre began to lead a life which partook of the soothing influtheir hearts and the tone of their minds. To those who enter into the spirit which pervades the world in which it has yet succeeded. Not a Christian Rome, prayer becomes almost as habitual as thought. Sensible objects are continually calling into play, without fatiguing or overburthening them, the intellectual powers and the beauties of nature and of art mingles itself with religious emotions, and lends a charm to the various and daily recurring practices of piety, which rests upon in this strange city, where memory and faith are continually bring the reminiscences bear on the present; where Christian and Cathothe lapse of centuries, from the catacombs to the galleries of the Vatican. .

The betrothed lovers were often seen in the churches where the devotions of the Stations and of the Forty Hours attract a numerous and fervent crowd, kneeling amongst the beggars on the the rough uneven pavement strewn with leaves and flowers, and offering up prayers at the privileged altars.

'How young they are! How pretty she is ! How ill he looks,' whispered the old women, who paused a moment, with their beads in their hands, to gaze on the youthful strangers.

Indeed I have been thinking so ever since Perhaps so. But meanwhile the morality of that fine agricuitural population' (tested by the fact of illegitimacy) is lower than that of any other part of Eu-rope, with one single exception. This fact was pub-lished years ago by Mr. Laing. Alas! if that eating cancer of immorality could only be cured, Norway guise the feelings of sensibility which she did not might justly be placed among the bigbest of Eurowish to give way to; but as we have been pean populations. But what boots that a land is guilty of the folly of coming to Rome, I cannot able to 'defy the world' if it be the slave of the flesh and the Devil?

And what of the Specialor's remedy-education ? Of its good effects it speaks confidently, yet is obliged to insert the condition 'ultimately.' A fortunate qualification: "For one country in Christendom there is which, we believe, ranks in respect of purity even below Norway, and that is exactly the one in which education (in the sense in which the word is used by "Ob, my dear aunt, you will suggest it to him, the Spectator), is most universal, and it must be admitted, most successful. For no men get on in the world better than the Scotch peasantry. In Scotland, we presume, the 'ultimate' effects of education have not had time to develope themselves. That is certainly unlucky, because in it the experiment has notoriously been tried longer than in any other country of Europe. Hitherto the morality of Scotland has gone on declining more and more in each generation since the system of national education was instituted. The Spectator assures us that ultimately' it must produce a contrary effect. It is much to be hoped. But one would be glad to know when the 'ultimate' effect is to begin to show itself. And meanwhile it is an unpleasant prospect for other countries if they have only 'education' to trust to, because it would appear that they will have to sink seen. At least one thing is certain, that however confident the Speciator and the modern theorists whom it represents may be in the sucress of their plan, it is impossible to mention any one country in pleasant consideration for a generation which boasts of bringing everything to the test of experiment. Specially because all the world knows that there are countries where another experiment has been tried with perfect success. The purity of the Irish peasantry is the marvel of the world. It is far more beyond the average of European population than that of Scotland is below it. Now to what cause will any one attribute this? I will give the answer of Sin Charles Forbes, late Physician to Her Majesty's household. He was a Scotchman and a Protestant, without the least leaning towards Oatholicism, and he published, some years ago, a tour in Ireland. He speaks throughout as every other traveller has spoken of the marvellous purity of the Irish peasantry. Upon that he is no stronger than others-for inwriters we know. But Dr. Forbes, not content with facts, gave reasons. He tells us, that before he went to Ireland he had heard much of the mocality of the peasantry ; that in Dublin he saw some statistical returns of the proportion of illegitimate births, and was disappointed, he, tells us, to find it so large. But when he knew more of the country he understood that. In Ireland, he says, there are a few Protestant districts, many Catholic districts and some where the two religions are mixed. Then he says that he ascertained that where the whole population is Protestant there the illegitimate births are as numerous in proportion, as in England. Wherever it is wholly Catholic, there are none at all. In mixed districts the proportion of illegitimate births varies exactly with the proportion of Protestants to Catholics. This, he says, is the state of facts for which we have to account. He examines several theories proposed for the purpose-the theory of race -of early marriages-of education, &c.,-and after the confessional. If he had ause is the effect of missionaries, if they should "attempt to disturb the fervent and undoubting Lutheranism of the free in-dependent inhabitants of the interior of that country. But then, to be sure, he seems for the moment, at least, to have been thinking of 'religion' only as it affects worldly interests, and enables a country to 'defy the world.' For that purpose it should seem a religion which is able to control the morals and rule the heart and life is not necessary-the fervent and undoubting Lutherauism of that free country seems to be somewhat akin to 'muscular Christian ity' as we know it nearer home. - Weekly Register.

CONSECRATION OF THE COADJUTOR BISHOP OF KIL-LALOR.-On Sunday, June 22, the imposing cere-mony of the consecration of Most Rev. Dr. Power as Coadjutor Bishop for the Diocese of Killaloe, took place in the Catholic Church, Nenagh. In order to convenience those who might wish to witness the proceedings, special trains were started from some of the surrounding towns to Nenagh, of which a good many persons availed. Long before the hour appointed for the commencement of the ceremony, the sacred edifice was crowded almost to excess.-The attendance of clergymen was exgeedingly large, nearly two hundred being present. There were also ten bishops assisting at the ceremony, namely: Most Rev. Dr. Leaby, Lord Archbishop of Cashel; Most Rev. Dr. Derry, Lord Bishop of Clonfert; Most Rev. Dr. Moriarty, Lord Bishop of Kerry; Most Rev. Dr. Butler, Lord Bishop of Limerick ; Most Rev Dr. O'-Brien, Lord Bishop of Waterford; Most Rev. Dr. Delaney, Lord Bisbop of Cork ; Most Rev. Dr. Kenne, Lord Bishop of Cloyne; Most Rev. Dr. M'Evilly, Lord Bishop of Galway; and Most Rev. Dr. O'Hea, Lord Bishop of Ross. The Very Rev. Monsignor Woodlock, Rector of the Catholic University, was also present. Almost all the parish priests and Catholic clergymen from the neighboring parishes, and for several miles around were present. The Most Rev. Dr. Leahy, Archbishop of Ceshel, officiated.-The ceremony was not entirely concluded till about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Immediately after the first gospel of the High Mass, Most Rev. Dr. Moriarty, Lord Bishop of Kerry, ascended the altar and delivered a most impressive sermon, in which he traced the history of the episcopacy from the time of the first Apostles down to the present moment, and in which he eulogised the coadjutor bishop elect with his usual eloquencce. At 4 o'clock P. M. all the clergy present were entertained at a splendid dejeuner by the Most Rev. Dr. Power, the new Coadjutor Bishop of Killaloe.

By an official return just issued, it appears that there are now confined in Irish prisons under sentence of penal servitude, 1423 males and 476 females; total, 1,699. Of these thirty-eight are for life : twenty seven of the prisoners so sentenced having committed crimes less than murder or manslaughter.

EVICTIONS .- The Trales Chronicle of Yesterday has the following :- " On yesterday, being the Feast of SS. Peter and Paul, the town presented an unusually crowded appearance. At about 11 o'clock, all the available police in the district were marched, cap a pie, through the streets. For awhile their destination was a secret, and the current gossip was that the Fenians landed in Dingle. Later in the day it was discovered they went to Dingle, where a steamer waited to convey them to one of the Blasquet Islands, for the purpose of assisting in the ejectment of about 60 families. The Island is situated about 11 miles from Dingle, and on the demise of the late Miss Clarissa Hussey, became the property of Samuel M. Hussey, Esq."

The number of civil bill cases entered for hearing at the late Tralee Quarter Sessions was 256, of which 140 were defended. There were ten ejectments, four insolvent petitions, and was twelve criminal cases.

DEATH OF THE RIGHT HON. JOHN WYNNE, OF HAZLEWOOD-Tuam, Tuesday, June 10 .- At ten o'clock, last night, the above-named gentleman departed this life at the Palace, Tuam, the residence of Lord Plunket. He arrived there in the afternoon of Friday last, from Boyle, accompanied by his two daughters, and appeared to be in the enjoyment of excellent health, but on Saturday morning he was found in bed quite insensible and completely prostrate from a sudden and severe attack of apoplexy, which had seized him during the night, and from the effects of which he never railied.

It is with much regret we record the demise of Mr. John James Cassidy, of Carrickmacross which took place on Saturday last, after a week's illness. Mr. Cassidy was well known in this part of Ireland as a sporting character, and was so much the life and soul of those social meetings of which he formed a part, that it is quite unnecessary to point out the blank which his death has caused, and which will not be filled up for a long time by any one possessing such a fund of genuine wit and He was so much a portion of the every day humor. life of Carrickmacross, that people never thought that death had anything to do with one like him, and they can hardly yet credit the fact, that he passed to 'that bourne from which no traveller returns.' But gay and generous, and amusiog though he was, death has visited him, and claimed him as his victim. Mr. Cassidy had been aiding Mr. Kenney's movement to collect a monster meeting at Mullacrew on last Saturday, and had travelled over a good deal of the country in forwarding the good cause. He espected to be at Mullacrew, stating that he had been on the hill on that day 39 years, when his friend Alexander Dawson had first appealed to the men of Louth to assist him in breaking pired on the very day on which the meeting assembled. He had been just a week ill, and he received every attention from Dr. Fleming, and the consolations of religion were administered to him by the Rev. Mr. Hughes. He was exceedingly penitent, and when he found his end approaching he bowed in humble submission to the will of heaven, and died a most edifying death. #### "EDUCATION" D. FAITH.

The Speclulor says, 'The fiction which attributes superior chastity to the country districts is rapidly dying out. Mr. J. Percival, in a long letter which has been published, states that out of every 100 children born in Cumberland and Westmoreland, 11 are illegitimate, and that 'modesty dies out among the female. These suggestions, except that of abolition of annual hirings, seem exceedingly feeble. * The true remedy is the education of the people, which will ultimately produce that terrible dread of of chastity in the middle and upper classes. As for the men, religious feeling is, we believe, the only restriction which has the slightest effect.'

The Speciator is always worth reading because what it says really means something. We may, and duce its results? very frequently, indeed, do differ from it, toto calo, Let us not b or rather let us say as fat as Heaven is from hell. But one at least sees what it means and that it means something. And that is a great thing. Of all are to be controlled only by 'religious feeling, women may be controlled by shame, and shame will said of the Catholic Religion instead of one most important part of it he would no doubt have said true.

And the same is borne out elsewhere. There is a general notion that purity is a Northern virtue. That it was so (comparatively) in the time of Tacitus seems certain. But in our day Catholic Italy ranks in this matter with Catholic Ireland. Here we can speak personally. We have made somewhat particular enquiries in several districts in the north of Italy from persons of different classes,, and the state of facts which we ascertained was just the same as exists in Ireland. We are well aware how general the contrary opinion is in England. But with all possible respect for our country we cannot admit that the general opinion of English people upon a subject of which they know nothing is to weigh more than the testimony of every one (whatever may be his own politics or religion) who has any means of knowing the facts. We obtained the testimony, among others, of Protestant Olergymen of high character, but without the least tendency to the Catholic Church, and they spoke of the morals of Italian peasants exactly as Sir Charles Forbes speaks of the Irish.

Against this there is only one fact to be set. There is no doubt a class of Italian nobility who seek the acquaintance of English travellers ; because they have lost cas e among their own countrymen, and who have as little morals as they have religion. If this were any proof against the morals of Italy it would be easy to apply the argument to Ireland it-self, as indeed Sir Charles Forbes shows. It is not the Irish but the Irish Catholics whose standard of morality is so high.

The facts then stand thus. Purity as a virtue which the world highly prizes as the cement of society. It has been obtained upon earth, and obtained not by a few exceptional individuals, but by great communities, nay by whole nations, and maintained for many centuries together. But, as far as experience goes, it has been obtained only by one means, i.e., by the Catholic religion. Where that has prevailed the people have been pure. Where it has been swept away the national purity has gradually declined and corrupted, as Oatholic traditions and Catholic discipline surviving Catholic Faith have gradually died out.

The Speciator trusts to shame produced by education in women, and 'religious feeling' in men. Alas ! both have been tried in Scotland, and both have failed-' religious feeling' as signally as ' education.' Perhaps there is no country where there has been more 'religious feeling.' Witness the superstition about the Sabbath ; as well as mere education: Is it only 'ultimately' that ' religious feeling' is to pro-

Let us not be misunderstood. 'That terrible dread of dishonor,' to which the Specialor trusts, has great influence. But it is a mere worldly feeling ; and if in the higher classes the world is often strongwhelming anguish; to learn from the saints how things deliver us from having to fight about a wet er than the flesh both for evil and for good, there is to live, and from the martyrs how to die. To blanket or fire into a mud back. The theory is, men no doubt that among the poor, the flesh is much stronger than the world. This truth might be illustrated by numerous other examples.

Neither do we attribute to 'education' the steady decline in the morality of Scotland, exempt so far as it has helped to root out whatever remained of Catholic tradition. On the whole, probably, the morals of the Scotch peasantry would have corrupted sooner.

The progress of the woolen manufacture in Ireland has latterly attracted much attention, and become an object of great public interest. We are, therefore gratified that the entire process is illustrated in the Exhibition, whence it forms one of the greatpublic this year. -On Saturday, 17th ult., about seven o'clock in the evening, the peaceable inhabitants of Bessbrook, who are all employed in Mr. Richardson's large concern were thrown into a state of terror and alarm by the appearance of a band of Orangemen, who came in from the surrounding districts with drums, files and firearms, playing all kinds of party tunes and striving to provoke the well-dispo-sed Oatholics, who are two thirds of the population. Only for the advice of a few, respected and respectable men there would have been one of the most disgracetul riots, attended perhaps with loss of life, that ever disgraced that part, of Ulster. Mr. Richardson has since published in the Ulster Observer a letter deprecating such conduct, and promising his effotrs to prevent its renewal.

We have received several complaints of the annoyance caused every night by bodies of Orangemen who congregate at St. Mary's market, between Townsend street and Brown street, and amuse themselves by assailing the passers-by with the usual party expressions. Such conduct, if tolerated, is sure to lead to a breach of the peace. - Ulster Observer.

On the night of June 23 the country for miles round Camlough village, County Armagh, was the theatre of much excitement, owing to the attitude of an armed multitude, which, agreeably to what looked like pre-arrangement, gathered from all parts under appointed leaders, and marched in obedience te the word of command in procession, with sloped arms to the place of rendezvous.

On Thursday night, June 29, a fire of a most alarming nature broke out in a wood, the property of George Birch, Esq., of Monaincha, within about two and a half miles of Roscrea, Mr. John Jackson, of the Main street, and Mr. John Gray, of the Postoffice, who were, fortunately, walking that way, on discovering the fire, ran to the Stewart's house, and apprised him of the approaching danger. SALE OF THE O'DONOGHUE'S PROPERTY .- It has been well known to many persons for a long time in Dublin and elswhere, that the pecuniary affairs of The O'Donoghue were in a very embarrassed condition, vet, of course, no one alluded to the fact in public. though the circumstance would often have saved him from being misunderstood by political friends who could not account for his inaction is public affairs and who thought it showed some weakness in his character as a nationalist. The facts are now, however, made notorious by the sale of almost the entire of his property on yesterday in the Incumbered Estates Court. It is to be hoped that the property has not passed finally from his hands, and that he may be able ere long to recover from the pecuniary depression which this affair has brought upon him, and which is almost entirely owing to generous and kindly babits which are so far developed in him, as to become faults. Some of the accounts given of his conduct in this respect, by men who have had opportunities of knowing it, would make one stare; often the incidents are amusing; but on the whole the impression they leave with one is that he has got the heart of one of the old chieftains, and that it is a pity he did not get a principality with it.

KENILWORTH. - On June 25, the Right Rev. Dr. Ullathorne, Bishop of Birmingham, held his visitation, according to Pontifical rite, and administered the Sacrament of Confirmation in the beautiful little church of St. Austin, situated about a quarter of a mile from the village. As early as half-past nine, aby, timid, Protestant sight-seers began to arrive, and stayed some time, before entering the church, to admire a little welcome to the bishop written in flowers on a rising ground in the cometery. For a a full hour before his Lordship entered the church, every available place was occupied by devout Catholics or wondering strangers. Those to be confirmed, who had been previously instructed by the chap'ain of the mission, the Rev. H. M. Walkes, knelt near the chancel-the men and boys on one side, the women and girls on the other. The latter were dressed in white. The Right Rev. Prelate's address was listened to with remarkable attention by the Protestunts present as well as the Catholics. About fifty had the happiness of receiving Confirmation from his hands. In the afternoon his Lord-ship examined the children in the catechism, and seemed well pleased with the readiness wilh which they answered his every question. After distributing rosaries and pictures among the children, the bishop addressed the congregation. He spoke of the mission twenty years ago - what it was then, and what through the mercy of God, it is now. Divine Providence had given them many graces, many blessinge, and many favors. Alludicg to the good and virtuous family (still resident at Kenilworth) who are the founders of the mission, the bishop said that they were, under God, the cause of the blessings the congregation enjoyed. The mission was in a very satisfactory condition, and he prayed that it so might continue. They had a pious and learned priest, whom they were to consult in all their doubts and difficulties. He concluded by begging the Almighty to continue to bless the congregation of St. Austin's. - London Universal News.

THE ' LONDON REVIEW' CHURCH COMMISSION .- No. IX.-Roman Cathelics and Dissenters in London,-There are few questions upon which there exists a greater variety of opinion, and with regard to which such contradictory statements are published, as upon the increase of Roman Catholicism in the metropolis, There are those on one hand who believe that it has made no progress at all, and that the rumours of conversions,' and even those Roman Oatholic buildings which have of late years sprung up in such abundance around us, are not to be taken as proofs of such an increase in the numbers of Roman Catholics as the latter at least seem to indicate. Others believe without doubting that the Roman Church is eilently and energetically spreading its ramifications over the metropolis, and that there is hardly a household of any respectability in which its agents, in some form or other, have not contrived to get a footing; while there are persons who go so far as to assert that many of the Protestant clergy themselves are the direct emissaries of Rome, doing her work, and doing it consciously-nay, doing it under compact - while receiving the pay of the national anvil appeared to be as hard and unimpassionable as | Church. We believe that the truth will be found to lie between these extreme views. Not only has the his sledge. Lovely and lora, the fair but forsaken Church of Rome gained ground in London, but it girl informed her brother of her desolation, when he, is steadily progressing, even at the present time, with true fraternal affection, proffered the inconstant though by no means at such a rate, except in certain narishes, as to occasion the slightest danger to the Protestant cause, if only a moderate amount of energy and good will is shown by the Reformed denominations in securing their flocks within their own folds. We have already stated our belief that the fact of a clergyman holding High or Low Church views is not in any manner whatever necessarily connected with the increase of Romanism among his congregation, but that such increase is owing rather to the lack of a sufficient staff of the Protestant clergy to repel its advances, or to the apathy or inefficiency of the incumbent, or, as may be especially shown in some wealthy districts, to that mysterious want of power in the clergy of the Church of Englazd over the minds of the rich and influential of their parishioners. And that this view is not without some basis in fact, will be seen when we have described the present relative positions of the Roman and Anglican Churches in the wealthy, aristocratic, and populous parish of Kensington, comprising as it does the three wards of Notting-hill, Kensington, and Brompton. Formerly, for the accommodation of the whole of the Roman Catholics of this parish, there was but one small chapel near the High street, which appeared amply sufficient for the members of that But ten or twelve years ago a Roman Cacreed. tholic builder purchased, at an enormous price, a plot of ground about three acres in extent beside the church of the Holy Trinity, Brompton. For a time considerable mystery prevailed as to the use it was to be applied to; but, shortly after the buildings were commenced, they were discovered to be for the future residence and church of the Oratorian Fathers, then established in the King William-street, Strand. As soon as a portion of the building was finished the Fathers removed to it from their former dwelling; and the chapel, a small and commodious erection, was opened for divine service. At first the congregation was of the scantiest description ; even on Sundays at high mass, small as the chapel was, it was frequently only half filled, while, on week days, at many of the services it was no uncommon circumstance to find the attendance scarcely more numerous than the number of priests serving at the altar. By degrees the congregation increased, till the chapel was found too small for their accommodation, and extensive additions were made to it ; but these again were soon filled to overflowing, and turther alterations had to be made, till at last the building was capable of holding without difficulty from 2,000 to 2,500 persons. It is now frequently so crowded at high mass that it is difficult for an individual entering it after the commencement of the service to find even standing room. In the meantime the monastery itself, if that is the proper term, was completed -a splendid appearance it presentsand we believe is now fully occupied. The Roman Catholic population in the parish, or mission, under the spiritual direction of the Fathers of the Oratory, now comprises between 7,000 and 8,000 souls. The average attendance at Mass on Sundays is about 5,000 and the average number of communions for the last two years has been about 45,000 annually. But in addition to this church, Kensington has three others, St. Mary's, Upper Holland-street, St Simon Steck, belonging to Carmellie Friars, and the Oburch of St Francis of Assisi, in Notting bill. Of schools, the Roman-Oatholics possess in the parish of Rensington, the Orphanage in the Falham-road, the Industrial School of St., Vincent de Paul, as well as the large Industrial School for Girls in the Southern ward. -All these schools are very numerously attended, the gross number of pupils amounting to 1,200, those of the Oratory alone being 1,000. The kindness and consideration shown by the Roman Catholic teachers to the children of the poor 'is above all praise, not only in Kensington, bat in all localities where they are under their charge, and the love they receive from their pupils in return forms one of their most powerful engines in their system of proselytising .-Unfortunately in Kensington, we are sorry to say, a considerable number of of the pupils in the Roman Catholic schools are children of Protestants, and they seem rather to increase than to decrease.

It might be imagined from this account of the Roman Catholic institutions in; Kensington, that a general rush had been made upon that parish, and that the surrounding districts were comparatively free from Roman Catholics. Such, however, is very far from being the case. In the union of Fulham and Hammersmith we have the Roman Catholic it is very various and uneven. Turnips grow 24,836 barrels, Australia and New Zealand 128,551, Church of St. Thomas of Canterbury, the Church of slowly, and are much troubled with the fly. This is and India maintained its position in the list of custhe Holy Trinity, Brook green, and the Church of always the case, as now, when we have hot days tomers by taking 139,672. Our Lady of Grace, Turnham-green. Of monasteries there are the St. Mary's Training College and the Brothers of Mercy, and for ladies there is the left. On Saturday was a dry favourable day, and Order of the Good Sherherd. Of charities and during this weak a large breadth of hay has been schools they have the Holy Trinity Almshouses on Brook-green, a Home for Aged Females, a Refuge for Female Penitents, most admirably managed and producing a most beneficial effect, an excellent Reformatory for Criminal Boys, the large Industrial Schools of St. Vincent de Paul, and a Home, Saint Joseph's, for Destitute Boys. ' In Bayswater there is the Church of St. Mary's of the Augels (of which the celebrated Dr. Manning is the superior), and the Convent of Notre Dame de Sion. In Chelsea there is the Oburch of St. Mary's, Cadogan-terrace, a convent for the Sisters of Mercy, another for the Third Order of Servites, as well as two well conducted and numerously attended schools.

Such being the increase of the Roman Catholics n Kensington, let us now inquire how it has arisen. No doubt a vast number of families holding a respectable position in society have immigrated into the parish, for the purpose of being near the particular churches or clergy they wish to attend, and this will of course, account to a great extent for the increase in their congregations. But although there has been indisputably an immigration of Roman Catholic families of respectability into the neighborhood, there has been none whatever, for many years past, of the working classes, for the simple reason that no dwellings could be found for them. In Kensington, as in many other districts, every excuse for the destruction of the homes of the poor is eagerly seized, and different localities in it are now as densely crowded as the worst parts of the Borough or Holborn. Now, if the enarmous number of children under the instruction of Roman Catholic teachers be compared with those in their schools ten years since, to what shall we attribute this vast augmentation of pupils? . We have shown it has not been caused by immigration, and therefore there is but one conclusion to be arrived at, and that is, that it has been occasioned by successful proselytism. If that is the case, on whom shall we cast the blame? It will naturally be said, and with a good patronymic, upon succeeding to the estates of his deal of justice, that the clergy of the Church of England are a zealous, bard-working body of men, and that the number of Roman Catholic teachers and lay assistants is not only greatly superior in proportion to the number of their congregations, but that they are positively far more numerous than all the Protestant clergy put together, and that their energy is in proportion. This we will admit, and yet there remains something unaccounted for .---These Roman Catholic churches, schools, and conventa, cannot be carried on without money, and from what sources can they receive it if not from the wealthier members of their creed ? If then the Roman Catholic priests are thus able to impress upon their wealthier co-religionists the necessity of maintaining their religion in a manner corresponding with the magnificence of their ceremonies, how is it that the clergy of the Ohurch of Eugland have not a similar hold on the liberality of their congregations?

HARVEST PROSPECTS .- At present prospects are far from being favourable, and I don't know how to account for the bad appearance of the crops, for there has been no lack of moisture, and we had very fice weather in the month of April. There have been doubtless many cold frosty nights during May, and sentenced to death. then came the heavy rain, which flooded the soil, and much needed. No great supply of stock is secured in the finest possible order, but the yield is greatly disappointing the farmers, and those who are writing of an abundant crop will have to alter their opinions and reports. Clover is very partial, generally short, and on the whole will turn out a very deficient crop. - Mark Lane Express.

DEATH OF SIR WM. LAWSON, DART. - It is our painful duty to appounce the demise of one of our few remaining old English Catholics, Sir William Lawson, Bart., of Brough Hall, Catterick, Yorkshire, who departed this life at his ancestral residence on Thursday, June 22. Sir William had loog been in a state of impaired health, but not so ill as to cause serious alarm to his family. The English Catholic great shock ; and, on learning the cause, discovered public and society sustain a severe loss in his ceath. And yet no country gentleman could be more be loved by his neighbors without distinction of creed. Sir William Lawson was a Catholic of the old Catholic school. Nothing that was Catholic was indifferent to him. He identified his religion with himself and himself with his religion. His works survive him. He was a munificent supporter of almost every Catholic charitable work in his own neighborhood or in London, and the church and schools which he erected at Brough will perpetuate his memory. He was the second son of the late John Wright, Esq., of Kelvedon, Essex, by the daughter and co-heir of Sir John Lawson, Bart., of Brough Hall. He was born in 1796, at Middleton Lodge, Middleton Tyas, Yorkshire, and married, 1825, Glarinda, only daughter and heiress of John Lawson, Esq., M.D., of York, (who had he survived Sic Henry Lawson, the last Baronet of the line, would have inherited the title and family estates.) In May, 1834, Mr. William Wright assumed in favor of the present Parliament, as compared with by royal licence the name of Lawson in lieu of his pointed a Deputy-Lieutenant of Yorkshire in 1844. and in the same year received the Order of Christ from Pope Gregory XVI. Requiescut in puce .-Amen. The deceased baronet is succeeded by his eldest son, new Sir John Lawson, Bart., of Brough Hall, who was born in 1829, and married in 1856 the eldest daughter of Frederick Gerard, Esq., of Aspull House, Lancashire. - Weekly Register.

The death of Dr. Ferguson is announced to have taken place on Sunday last, at his residence, Ascot Lodge, Wingfield, near Windsor. The deceased gentleman was physician accoucheur to Her Majesty.

Two very distressing death by drowning happened on the 22nd ult. in Morecambe Bay, near Lancaster. Three gentlemen from Tyldesly, named Daniel, Jas., and Heary Charleston, brothers, were on a visit to similar hold on the liberality of their congregations? In no parish in England, in proportion to its popu-lation, can wealthier members of the Zstablished Church be found than in this. Its rental has for years past increased at an everage of 650 000 about two miles from Morecambe, with the intention of welking along the shore to the latter place. Unfortunately they wandered on to the sands, and by the time they got opposite Bare they found themselves being gradually surrounded by the flowing tide. They called loudly for belp, and their cries were heard by a farmer riding along the shore, who desired them to remain where they were until he came to their assistance. They appear however to have misunderstood him, and at once made for the land, but Daniel and Henry had not proceeded far ere they had got out of their depth and they immeliately sank. James proceeded up the bay, where of the other brothers, but a considerable time elapsed before their bodies were found. Mr. Daniel Charleslon was a B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, and had only taken his degree about a week since. We have to-day to record one of those sudden and fatal incidents which, when they occur, excite one feeling of sympathy throughout the whole community. Intelligence has been received in London of the death of Mrs. Arbuthnot by a most appalling accident. The poung lady, who was only recently married, and was on her wedding tour, was struck by lightning yesterday near Interlachen, during a thunderstorm, and instantly killed. The circumstances, as far as they are known, are these. Mr. and Mrs Arbuthnot had arrived, on their excursion, at Interlachen. Yesterday morning they set out on horseback, and accompanied by a guide, to ascend the Shelthorn, one of the Bernese Alps. When they left the village the weather was as fine as could be desired for such a trip. They had reached about halfway up the mountain, when they alighted and walked some distance further. The sky then became overclouded, but there was nothing in the appearance of the atmosphere which gave any alarm to the guide, well accustomed to such sudden changer. Mrs, Arbuthnot, feeling a little tired, sat down to rest, and Mr. Arbuthnot and the guide proceeded some dist ance farther up the ascent, but never went out of sight or hearing of their companion. In a few minutes a furious thunderstorm burst over them, and they returned as rapidly as they could to the spot where they had left Mrs. Arbuthnot. They found her dead. She had been struck by lightning, and killed instantanously. Mrs. Arbuthnot was the fourth daughter of Lord Rivers and niece of Earl Granville. Her untimely death will be mourned by a wide circle of relatives but the awful manner in which a beautiful young bride was cut off, in the midst of bright hopes and happiness, cannot but make a deep iffipression in every rank of society .- Tumes. Antiquarian readers will be sorry to learn the fall) of the ruins of the Priory of St. Agustine, situate in the quiet village of Blythburgh, Suffolk, which ocourred a short time since. The inhabitants were much alarmed by a long rumbling noise, followed by 'a that the ruins of the walls of the old priory had been levelled to the ground. It had long resisted the tempestnous winds by which it had been so frequently assailed, and at last, on a calm summer's day, it fell beneath the weight of age. Blythburgh has been a place of considerable note, in connetion with its ecclosiastical antiquities, and is still often visited by antiquaries.

On Monday, June 26th, one of the the Drogheda quay porters, feeling drowsy, bethought himself of taking a siesta. After searching for a convenient place on which to stretch himself, he pitched upon the broad quay wall for the purpose. Laying bis carcass at full length on this hard and level couch, he soon forgot the world in a sweet and refreshing sleep. Dreams, however, soon began to disturb his repose, and clutching at some airy phantom of the brain he shifted his position, rolled over, and was awakened to reality by a copious plunge bath, having gone head foremost into the river .-After kicking and struggling some time, without being able to get schore, he was rescued, in a very exhausted condition, by two boys in a bost, - Droghedu Argus.

A Clonmel paper has the following :- Two boys were fighting in Irishtown on Wednesday, and there were hard knocks given and received on both sides. A young sub-constable pounced down upon the belligerents and captured one; the other managed to escape. He led his prisoner down towards the police office, but, before reaching the West-gate, he told his captor he would go no further with him, and, suiting the action to the word, he gave the officer of the law the slip, and dorted on to Joyce's lane, followed by the Sub in hot pursuit. Several joined in the chase, which was now at full cry. How the young fellow made the gravel, tan, and dust fly, as he rattled down the narrow laneway! At length he turned round, smiled at the well-dressed and handsome Sub, politely asked him to follow him across, and jumped into the river :--

"Come back ! come back !' the polis cried As Lord Ullin to his daughter. 'You'll bide a wee,' the lad replied, 'If you dinna take the water.'

He didn't. The boy swam to the other side, and made for the hill, after again waving his hand in token of a long and affectionate farewell. The constable placed his baton under his arm, and in a few minutes was walking along the shady side of the street as if nothing unusual had occurred.

Speaking of the crops and the general appearance of the country in that district, the Carlow Post says : Hay making has been going on in these districts for some time, and the meadows, in most instances, are yielding well, the weather latterly being all that could be desired for cutting and saving the crop. Potatoes everywhere look highly promising, and the only crop about which complaints had been very generally made was turnips, which appear to have suffered in many places from the great heat and the ravages of the fir. In general there is, however, every prospect of an abundant barvest.

The Limerick Southern Reporter, of a late date says : - 'The turnip crop has been particularly benetited by the late showers. -- Wheat, oats, barley, po. tatoes, and flax look very forward, and strongly indicate the early approach, of an abundant har- Carmelites, in Vicarage-place. years past increased at an average of £50,000 a year, and is likely to go on augmenting at a still larger ratio, from the immense number of magnificent mansions now in course of erection It is almost impossible to find a newly-built house in Kensington at a less rental than £250 a year, and some reach to double and treble that amount. With this enormous wealth in the hands of members of the Church of England-for very few Roman Catholic families inhabit larger houses-there should not be any difficulty in raising money sufficient to put the working machinery of the Church of England in that parish on as efficient a footing as that of the Roman Catholics. To do so would require scarcely a larger subscription than would be equivalent to a half-penny in the pound on the rating of the parish. And here we may observe that the danger to the Established Church in Kensington, great as it may be from the advance of Romanism, is nothing when compared with that to be feared from the energy of the Dissenters. We found, on application at the different British and Dissenting schools in the parish that no fewer than 2,000 Protestant children are now being educated in principles adverse to the Church establishment. The following are the numbers of the whole of the children of the working population of Kensington receiving their education in different schools :

In the Church of England National

	Schools, &c	2,400
By	Protestant Dissenters	2,000
By	Roman Catholics	1,200
	Total	5,600

By this it will appear that the large parish of Kensington, with its 75,000 inhabitants, out of the gross number, 5,600, of the childreu of the laboring classes at present under instruction in the schools, by far the greater portion are being brought np as Dissenters and Roman Catholics.

The Lord Chancellor personally announced his reignation in the House of Lords on the 5th in the following address :

The Lord Chancellor then rose and announced that he had resigned his office, and that his resignation had been accepted by Her Majesty. -- Had he foll-owed his own judgment he should have taken this step some months ago, but he had refrained in deference of the opinion of members of the Cabinet. He wished to meet any charges made against him in the character of a private person, but Lord Palmerston would not admit that this should be a principle of political conduct, as the consequences would be that any one, by bringing an accusation, could drive a Lord Chancellor from office. We find nothing of interest in our American exchanges. The Provincial news is without impostance, and we presume will continue so until the opening of Parliament. There is considerable discussion going on between the Ministeria) and Opposition journals, with reference to the

"The reverend gentleman next proceeded to refer. to the great, change that had taken place in Italy. within the past few, years, where not less than fifty thousand copies of the bible had already been distributed."-[Dr., Fuller's speech before the Orangemen of Toronto, as reported in the Leader, July 23

Some people have, a happy knack of making the most of everything. Be it a Bible report or a mutton pie - they improve the occasion.-Whether as a class, such people existed in "ye goode old days," we are not antiquarian enough to determine ; certain it is, that until very modern times, though they may have had "a local habitation," they had not "a name." It is not until the latter half of the nineteenth century, that they became classified under the generic term of "gushers." Now your "gushers" are a happy kind of people-making much mirth out of small cause. Like the French cooks, give them a bone and they will make you a " bouilli." The incumbent of St. George's eviread of 50,000 copies of the Bible being distributed in Popish Italy, and forthwith in his gushing mind uprise visions choice and cheery of fat benefices and lazy livings in sunny Italy for for gotten English clergymen :-- nay, far off perhaps in the background of this pleasing picture, he descries a faint delineation of his "alter of Toronto, kissing his toe. We are sorry to have to disturb the pleasing delusion, but we will do so as gently as possible.

It may perhaps be a great achievement (we know that it is an expensive one withal) to distribute in Papal Italy, 50,000 copies (in bad Itahan) of a spurious and emasculated Bible .---We feel sure that the good Catholics of Italy, when they beheld the Word of God in so degraded a form, as is this Anglo-Italian Bible, would recoil from the horrid monster with affright, and beg God to defend His holy Word from so foul a blasphemy. What cause of congratulation the worthy Dr. and his Orange proteges find in this distribution, we must leave to their gushing natures to determine. Of the number of converts made, (which we should have supposed was after all the main thing,) the Orangemen forgot to inquire, and the Dr. to relate. This relicence Mr. F. Peol. The notorious Dr. Pritchard is the more to be lamented, as amongst the curious, it has over been a favorite, but an abstruse calculation withal, to determine how many Bibles go to a Papist convert. Turee glasses of Canadian whiskey would set him " tipsy" we feel sure. Perhaps, were the bibles distributed divided by the converts made, we should find the worthy Doctor's Bibles far below " proof." Be that, however, as it may; as by the worthy Doctor's silence, we are left without any very valuable data to work upon, we must endeavor to supply the want by studying the effects of "Bible distribution" in other countries. The immense pecuniary effects made by the Protestant Bible Societies is certainly worthy of a bet-the wants of a century, was only the work of a few months. Sixteen years earlier, Mr. Gutzlaff alone, in less than twelve months, had distributed 23 boxes full of Chinese books among the people. About the same time, Mr. Medburst, by his own account, was in the babit of divorce? giving away, at the cost of the people of England 500 volumes a day ! Mr. Towin, also, an Anglican clergyman like Dr. Fuller, and companion of Gutz'aff, writes thus to his employers : We are taking to Siam twenty-two good sized chests well filled with the bread of life ;" and one of his ordinary expressions, after discharging his cargoes, 1s " another sowing"-(of the bread of life?)-" season is just ended." As late as 1851, we find a Protestant missionary reporting to his employers, "I distribute about one thousand copies a year." In 1839, the Protestant missionaries, we are told, had printed 30,000 dently belongs to "the gushers." He has separate books of Scripture, and upwards of half a million of tracts in the Chinese language. At the same date they had issued 150,009 tracts in the languages of the Malayan Archipelago, comprising 20,000,000 of printed pages. At Canton and Malacca alone, they had printed, thirty years ago, more than 450,000 volumes. And WITH WHAT FRUITS, good dear Dr. Fuller? ego" sitting complaisantly on a protestanto-papal for there's the rub. If we are to believe a Prothrone, a triple crown upon his noble brow, and testant writer, and a doctor withal, "we have Mayor Metcalf, at the head of the Orangemen no proofs that the thousands of books thrown amongst this people, have excited ONE mind to inquire concerning them, have induced one soul to find a teacher amongst the foreigners m

> China, or have been the means of converting ONE individual." Goodness gracious ! Dr. Fuller ! not one convert for so many books ! " So much bread to such an unconscienable little sack."-Nor is it Dr. Brown alone, one of their own agents, that thus bears witness against the successes in China. Malcolm, in his Travels, &c., frankly tells us of Malacca that "No Malay Christian is to be found in this place." It is true that Mr. Tomlin does give his employers some cheering news of success, but then it is in the medical line! "The abundant blessing of the Lord rested upon our humble labors in the medical department ! !??

With Dr. Fuller's kind permission, we will continue in a future issue our unpleasant retrospect.

LANCASTRENUS.

DOES THE FAMILY-TIE EXIST ANY LONGER IN THE UNITED STATES-OR, AT LEAST, IS IT NOT WEAKENING EVERY DAY? Before answering this question, we must define in what consists the family-tie. It consists in the mutual respect, confidence, and tenderness of husband and wife; in parental love, filial piety; in the union of those harmonious feelings with which all the members of a true family are animated, and which constitutes the happiness of domestic life.

To our question the admirers of Yankee society answer :- In what country, more than in the United States, is woman more respected, or does she exercise more iufluence ?

tails known to all those for whom we write; we will simply ask if. in the short sketch we have drawn of pagan society, there is the least vestige of respect for woman ? if there can be any conceivable conciliation between that respect and awakening public attention to another branch of

And so is it, to a certain degree, in the greater part of the United States ; there also the pernicious and pagan doctrine of divorce is prevalent and mining the very foundation of their unhappy society.

We say, to a certain degree; for the evi has not reached the same degree, and is not so widely spread, as amongst the pagans of olden tunes, and for this we must be thankful, not to the principles of Protestantism, which are productive of the very same calamitous consequences, but to the inconsistency of Protestants. For, as it has been often remarked, there is a difference between Protestants and Protestantism; and we would be sorry to attribute to the former the evil of the latter. Protestants are, in general, better than their religion, because they do not carry the religious principles which they profess to their ultimate consequences. Society is so much imbued with Catholic principles which have prevailed in it, and governed it for so many centuries, and which have struck so deep root in the human conscience that, even until now, Protestants are more or less subject to the influence of those principles. The reason is that the teachings of the Catholic Church are always conformable to the dictates of conscience. Thus, the principle of divorce, though sanctioned in many Protestant communities, is rejected with honor by a great number of men who nevertheless profess to be Protestants. But if a Protestant community should ever happen to be so depraved as that every one of its members should carry out, to their ultimate consequences, the principles of their religious system, then from that very moment the last traces of Christian civilisation would disappear from the midst of that unfortunate society.

In order that we may not be accused of exaggeration in drawing the picture of the state of Yankee society, we will quote an article, headed "Divorce Made Easy," from the New York celibacy. As soon as a young man arrived at Observer. It runs as follows :-

"One hundred and sixty cases of divorce were disposed of by the Supreme Court at New Haven, Ct., during its session of twenty six days. This is bad for New England.

"A Boston paper says there are now one hundred and sixty-six suits for divorce upon the dockets of the Supreme Court in that city. Some of these are old cases, and probably never will be tried. Others have been recently ontered.

"The above brief paragraphs and others of similar nature, which have been going the rounds of the papers, are a melancholy evidence that, in some parts of the country, exceedingly lax principles prevail in regard to the great conserving institution of human society, the marriage relation. Without believing that a higher tone of moral sentiment in general prevails in the State of New York, we are devoutly thankful that this floodgate of immorality has not been opened upon us by an easy dissolution of the marriage tie. We are solemnly convinced that those states which have enacted laws in direct opposition to the divine law, the law of the Bible. on this subject, have committed a grievous wrong which will be visited upon the people in evil consequences. The evil is not confided to New Magland. In many other States it has been made easy for persons who wished to repudiate the marriage vows, to obtain release by one party simply changing the place of residence. For instance, if a resident of Ohio wished to obtain a divorce he had only to forsake his wife, go into the State of Indiana, for a few days, and he could become entitled to a discharge from the marriage bond. We are glad to observe that in this latter State the laws are becoming more strict." Now we put the question to every candid and thinking reader :- Does it not strike them that the tendency of pagan society, and that of the society of the United States, are the same ? Is it not patent that the latter is retrograding towards the former? Divorce, which is now so prevalent in the United States, is not an institution of Christianity, it is an inheritance of Paganism. For more than ten centuries it had been unspoken of, but as a sad remembrance of pagan aves : for more than ten centuries marriage was constituted on the natural law of indissolubility; it was looked upon as a sacred and divine institution; it had rehabilitated woman in her former rights and dignity, and offered protection to the child, when in an evil hour Protestantism laid a sacrilegious hand upon it, and thereby shook the very basis of the family, and therefore, of society. The principle of the dissolubility of the marriage tie once admitted, its pernicious effects ever. must be felt, more or less, on the community; for a principle can never be asserted without the people drawing the conclusions. This truth is illustrated by the admission of the New York Observer, that-although divorce, this floodgate of immorality, has not been opened upon the State of New York by an easy dissolution of the marriage tie, he does not believe that a higher tone of moral sentiment prevails in that State compared with the others. And why does not a higher tone of moral sentiment prevail in the State of New York ? if not that the whole community suffers more or less from the effects of the relaxation, in many States, of principles with regard to the great " Conserving Institution" of companion; that she was incessantly exposed to human society, the marriage relation. It is no wonder then that, to the eyes of a faithful observer, the family tie, in the United States, is child was considered as a burden, and that its growing weaker every day. The following convery existence depended on the good will of its siderations will throw a still greater light upon zine. The World has a most respectable and this fact, but these we postpone to another week. prosperous appearance. The publisher knows we trust, have the effect, among other things, of the French race in America, who are, we fears fast dying out,-we allude to the Acadians of the Lower Provinces. Of this primitive and virtuous people, very little is known beyond the limits of the Colonies in which they have lived for the last two hundred and fifty years, and, with the exception of Haliburton's "History of Nova Scotia." it may safely be said that Longfellow's " Evangeline" has contributed more to make this neople known to the rest of the American Continent, than anything which has been done since they became subjects of the British Empire. And yet this should not be so. The Acadians of the Maritime Provinces would, if the truth were but known, compare favorably with many of those proud communities which boast of their abundant wealth and superior intelligence. Contented and happy, with only few desires and those few easily gratified, the simple-minded Acadians have been perfectly satisfied with their lot, and notwithstanding the severe ordeal through which they had to pass while Great Britain and France contended for the possession of these Provinces,-an ordeal which, through a very mistaken policy, was continued for some time even after the restoration of peace, they have remained true to their faith and firm in their allegiance to the British Crown. Before these bloody wars had devastated their possessions " real misery" says Haliburton, " was wholly unknown, and benevolence anticipated the demands of poverty. Every misfortune was relieved as it were before it could be felt, without ostentation on the one hand, and without meanness on the other. give, and to receive, what he thought the common right of mankind. So perfect a harmony naturally prevented all those connexions of gallantry which are so often fatal to the peace of families. This evil was prevented by early marriages, for no one passed his youth in a state of the proper age, the community built him a house, broke up the lands about it, and supplied him with all the necessaries of life for a twelvemonth. There he received the partner whom he had chosen and who brought him her portion in flocks. This new family grew and prospered like the others. In 1755, all together, made a population. of eighteen thousand souls. Such is the picture of these people, as drawn by the Abbe Raynal. By many it is thought to represent a state of social happiness, totally inconsistent with the frailties and passions of human nature ; and that it is worthy the poet rather than the historian. In describing a scene of rural felicity like this, it is not improbable that his narrative has partaken of the warmth of feeling for which he was remarkable :: but it comes much nearer the truth than is

A FINAL NOTICE TO DELINQUENTS.

As we are now about to close the lifteenth mature of our paper, we may be permitted once more to say a few words to those who are indebted to us for their yearly subscription. For a considerable number of years past, we have, sesante the difficulties that surrounded us, managed in sustain ourselves and to surmount these obsinches. But when we cast a retrospective glance at the great sacrifices we have been obliged to make, we necessarily ask ourselves: Shall we ogain undertake the task ? Shall we once more assume the heavy responsibilities, unless we meet was a more generous and hearty co-operation from same who pretend to be our patrons. We That that we can boldly say in the face of the mablic, that we are not in the habit of soliciting to stors; in fact, we can point with pride to our marker, and say that from no political quarter have we ever asked or received any. All we mannt, all we ask, all we could be induced to acand, is that which is our honest legitimate due. Bf the public are willing to encourage us by subseribing to our paper, we thank them heartily, and all we want is, that the subscription be puncmaily paid. No doubt, we have many true mersons who discharge their duties honorably med bonestly ; but we can say, without hesitation, aboa we have never yet had so large a number of delinquent subscricers as at this moment .--River of them are well able to pay, but never where of discharging their lawful indebtedness. It want be patent to every one that a paper. conintered on the plan of the TRUE WITNESS, waheet Government patronage in any shape, and perfectly independent in politics, cannot subsist. anders the subscriptions are punctually paid .---Bor patrons ought to understand this, and we can may say that, while we profit on this occasion to these who have honorably paid their dues. we will not again warn the delinquents, but hand shows over to the tender mercies of our legal 30158F.

ter cause, and more cheering results. In 1860, the Times newspaper estimated the working capital of the English Societies (not to mention the American and Swiss Societies, &c.,) at not less, year by year, than £2,000,000. It is true that the whole of this must not be put down to the "converts' account," since before a single convert is reached, the home expenditure in paying "the large staff of well paid officers whose existencedepends upon the success of this system, is 25 per cent." Still making this rather expecsive deduction, we have one and a half million of English nounds paid annually by the English Societies alone' in making, or rather trying to make, converts. Of the numerical value of this "Bible distributiou" we may form some slight idea from the fact, that writers familiar with the labors of these Societies, ten years ago estimated this " distribution" at one hundred million copies; nor has this proved sufficient, for Rev. Dr. Plumer most emphatically cries for more. "We want 130,000,000 bibles," exclaims this bibliomaniac, in true Dr. Fuller style. On what he bases the calculation of this want, we are indeed at a loss to discover.

Come we now to the main point, the moral value (estimated by the number of converts made) of this Bible distribution. And let us bear in mind, in order that we may keep our ideas clear on the subject, that the proposition is, from known data in other countries to form an approximate value of 50,000 bibles distributed in Italy. As so many bibles distributed in China are to the number of converts made, so are 50,000 bibles distributed in Italy, to the answer required. We know, of course, that in this calculation we ought to make some allowance for the fact that " Papists are worse than heathens," but, as our margin will be great, we can afford to give Dr. Fuller the advantage of the deduction.

Taking then such places as China for our unit of comparison - and we take them the more readily, as we have said, because we are anxious, if possible, to find a people that can compare with Papists for perversity,-we find that in the latter half of the single year 1841, the Protestant tracts cattered amongst the natives, filled more than dens. on Wednesday, 23rd August. Particulars 1,100,000 pages, or nearly 4,000 volumes of 300 father. pages each, and this, which might have satisfied ! It is needless to insist any longer on these de-

That woman is respected in the United States we positively deny, and will prove that she is not. That she exercises influence, and great influence, we readily admit. And so it was of old with the Grecian and Roman pagans. There also the fair sex exercised an immense influence. The goddess Venus, the type of feminine beauty, had her altars before which the crowd sacrilegiously knelt, and offered incense. Poets dedicated to her charms the most brilliant productions of their genus and of their cultivated minds .---Subject to this same influence, artists have wrought out from the cold block of marble the most gracious forms of the human body ; have produced real master-pieces which will never be surpassed, if ever they are equalled. Every where, amongst those enlightened pagans, this worship of woman is recorded, every where its character is the same ; witness, for instance, the immoral paintings which are still to be seen on the walls of private rooms in the dwelling houses of Pompeli, this unfortunate city which, sometime before the Christian era, was buried under the ashes of Mount Vesuvius.

But was woman respected in this pagan society where her charms and beauty exercised such influence ? What rank did she occupy in domestic life ? What protection did her natural weakness receive from the law? These are questions which every young student, who has read the very first pages of ancient history, can answer. Yes, history teaches that the wife was no longer, in the eyes of her husband, that noble and beloved companion whom God has given to man to share with him the troubles and joys of life; a weak being placed under his protection and to whom he must be ever faithful ; that the child was no longer considerd, by its father and mother, as a blessing, a precious gift from heaven, the object of their mutual affection; but that, in that depraved society, the infamous law of repudiation, of divorce, existed ; that the wife was rather the slave of her husband than his be turned away from her home, torn from her family, and left without protection; that the generally imagined. Tradition is fresh and positive in various parts of the United States, where they were located, respecting their guileless, peaceable, and scrupulous character ; and the descendants of those whose long cherished and endearing local attachment induced them to return to the land of their nativity, still deserve the name of a mild, frugal, and pious people."

We have alluded to the efforts made by the English to pervert this virtuous people from the faith of their fathers. Such ferocious fanaticism as was evoked to attain this wicked end, although it caused their dwellings to be plundered and their Churches to be set on fire, was completely lost on a people of such deep-abiding faith as the Acadians, and it is not surprising, therefore, that we find them prefer exile, and even death, to anostacy. If the faith of the French had been a purely national one, it would probably have shared the fate of their fallen power. But it is the peculiar privilege of the Catholic religion to flourish where any other would have been crushed out of existence for ever. The Church of Christ, unlike human institutions, appears with all the greater brilliancy the more she is beset by dangers and difficulties, and when her enemies imagine that they have compassed her ruiz, she clings to the hearts of the people with more tenacity than

CONVENT OF VILLA ANNA, LACHINE .- On the 11th instant a seance was held at this institution for the annual distribution of prizes. It opened with the performance of a brilliant piece of music, in which were displayed the talents of the pupils and the pains of the teachers. Next an overture on the plano, sixteen hands, with harp accompaniments, by Mdlle. Boucher, and by M. Labelle, Professor of Music at the Convents, on the violin, elicited the applause of the audience. Other pieces of music, rocal and instrumental, followed to the delight of all present and were rewarded with loud symptoms of approbation. The names of the following young ladies, Mademoiselles Boucher, Prudhomme, Crane, K. Kinton, E. Gareau, E. Labelle, Villemaire, E. Meloche, Mary Lefebvre, deserve honorable mention, for their musical proficiency on the piano, and on the harp.

An English dialogue by the pupils of the little pensionnat was so well delivered, particularly as respects pronunciation, that many of those present thought the speakers to be English by birth, whilst with one exception they were all French Canadians. The moving drama of Marze, or A la Grace de Dieu, was so well played, as to bring tears to the eyes of several; then another English dialogue " The Miracles of Roscs," elicited remarks of the same nature as those above alluded to with respect to good pronunciation, and called forth the flattering comments of Dr. Hingston, of Montreal, who delivered a short address at the close of the seance.

The most touching scene of all was, however, reserved for the close. Two pupils who had carried off the prize for Sagesse and the greater number of the prizes in the superior course, made their farewell not only to their fellowpupils, but alec to their relations, by the announcement of their intention to enter the Novitiate ; the names of those young ladies are E. Prudhomme, daughter of the Hon. M. Prudhomme of the Legislative Council, and A. Boucher. In vain should I attempt to describe the emotion of the auditory. The Rev. M. Billaudel, who had been invited to preside, and Dr. Hingston, expressed, in choice terms, their satisfaction with all they had seen and heard .---Amongst other remarks made by the latter, he observed that one striking proof of the prosperity of the establishment, and of the good education therein given, and of the solid studies therein and boarders. The former house was so small, of the fruit of their struggles for years past .that it was not suited for the purposes of a great educational establishment, and so it might be said that the present was the first year of the existence of the actual Convent; and nevertheless nearly eighty pupil boarders, had entered this year, and this mangurated this splendid institution, which has scarce anything to envy in the first educational houses of the country. The English language is most carefully taught, by several teachers, themselves English; a good musical education is also given, and the piano, the harp, and the guitar are made familiar to the pupils. The Course, French and English, embraces six years of study, and the Superior Course is completed in one or two years. . -Com.

The programme consisted of plays, and music both vocal and instrumental, after which followed the solemn distribution of prizes.

The first play entitled, " The Pilgrim in Search of a Home" was a complete success; the young ladies, while performing their respective parts, having elicited applause of which the most talented might justly feel proud.

The second play was entitled " Rain and Sunshine," and in this also the young ladies won laurels for themseives and their teachers-their ease, gracefulness of manner and clearness of expression frequently elicited the hearty applause of the large audience.

We were also favored with several pieces of music selected from the most difficult authors, in which theperformers exhibited no secondarytalent, and clearly showed that the convent was still adding to the wide spread reputation which it has for years enjoyed.

The closing though certainly not the least interesting ceremony was the distribution of pizes : the first mentioned was Miss Cote, of Quebec, to whom was awarded the prize of Excellence, and the marked satisfaction with which the announcement was received, spoke eloquently of the young lady's undoubted ability and merit. Crowns of honor were awarded to Misses Cummings, Devis, and McNeil, all of Kingston ; to Miss Hart, of Montreal, and Miss Chapdelain, of St. Ours, C.E.

After some happy remarks from His Lordship, expressing his entire satisfaction and delight with the whole proceedings, also complimenting the young ladies in the success which was evidently the reward of their labors the assembly dispersed, each one feeling that he had enjoyed a rare treat.

Surely it must be consoling to the ladies of the convent, although laboring for a far higher end, thus to witness the success of their labors, and also it must be a subject of pride to the citizens of Kingston to see an institution at their very door in which their children can obtain without inconvenience all the advantages and blessings of a sound education.

NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH BLOWN DOWN. The readers of the TRUE WITNESS are earnestly solicited to lend a helping hand to the ladies of the Catholic congregation of Cornwall, who intend holding a Biziar, on the 26th Dec. next, and three following days, in aid of the funds for the reconstruction of their beautiful new church, which was leveled with the ground during that fearful hurricane which swept over the country on Wednesday in Holy Week-12th April last. Thus, in less than thirty minutes, that dreadful tornado, which did so much damage throughout the length and breadth of Canada. deprived the Catholics of Cornwall-(the mapursued, was to be found in the number of pupils jority of whom are in slender circumstances)leekly bowing to the dispensation of Divin Providence, those good ladies have put their heads together and resolved upon getting up a Bazaar to aid in putting their church once more in the condition it was in before that memorable wind storm. Surely they deserve assistance under the circomstances! and so surely, please God, will many a generous heart, after reading these lines, resolve upon sending them a contribution, either in material or money, and immediately thereafter reduce this resolve to practice. ROBBSEY BY SOLDIERS. - On Saturday, a man named Napoleon St. Onge, was robbed by three soldiers at Cote St. Luc; and the sum of two dollars taken from him. The facts are as follow: St. Ongo was going along the road, when three soldiers accosted him and offered to sell some milk-pans which they had obtained by some means, fair or foul. Mr. St. Onge cousented to buy them, and pulled out his purse to pay the price demanded. At this moment, however, the soldiers seized hold of him, wrested the purse from him and took to their heels. As there was no chance of catching them, he went to the Water Police Station and made complaint. Sergeant Donoboe. with three men of that Force, took a carriage and instantly gave chase, but they failed to fall in with the robbers. On Sunday evening, a picket of the Military Police, accompanied by Constable Burns, went in pursuit of them, but with what result is not yet known. The soldiers were supposed to belong to the 30th Regiment, and to be the same men who tried, on Friday night, but without success to persuade a boatmau to lend them a boat in order to pass to the other side of the river. - Transcript.

FATAL ACCIDENT .-- Between one and two o'clock Sunday afternoon, a boy about ten years of age, but whose name we did not learn, fell over a precipice near the top of the mountain, and thereby fractured his skull so as to cause instant death. The deceased was along with his parents and others on an excursion, and resided in St. Lawrence street, between Mignonne and St. Catherine.

Casselman, a Scotchman, has been swindling to a large extent in Upper Canada; He pretended to keep a general agency in Toronto, and wrote to several d discovered thee w certain legacies by the death of friends To get the cash, however, certain fees had to be paid in advance. and Mr. McNab's dupes readily forwarded the money. This was the last they heard of the discovered legacy. He has been arrested. On Friday last, says the Prescott Messenger about one o'clock, a man named James Horan, from Matilda township, set down on the side walk on Edward street between Main and Water, and was afterwards discovered to be dead. The Quebec Chronicle of the 14th records a number of midnight robberies, which go to shew the existence of a numerous and exceedingly well-organized body of scoundrels. The offences against property committed within thirty-six hours show that at least the parties by whom they were projected and under whose immediate supervision they must have been carried out, were no mere tyros in the art of appropriating their neighbors' goods.

DEATH OF A CENTENABIAN. - An old Indian named Joseph Marie, died at Three Rivers. last week, at the age of 110 years.

ARREST OF A SNEAK THIEF .- This afterboon, Con stable Ford very cleverly effected the arrest of a sneak thief who seems to have been operating extensively through the city, by entering front halls and abstracting overcoats and all articles conveniently at hand. He had been heard of at several places during the day, and when the Constable laid hands on him he had in his possession three fine black coats, one overcoat, one vest, and one linen coat. The offender was a well dressed, respectable looking person, and effected rather a clerical air. From pa pers found upon his person, it appeared that he an swered either to the name of Munroe or McKenzie, and it was evident that he had also engaged exten sively in confidence operations in all sections of the Provinces. His papers embraced a variety of certificates and testimouials designed to work upon the sensibilities of the charitable, and from the signature attached to a note it appears that a well known clegyman of this city has been victimized by the imposter. -Hamilton Times.

RAVAGES OF THE MIDGE .- This destructive foe of the wheat crop has made its appearance in various localities in this region, and commenced its depredations with an energy that threatens total annihilation of the crop in whole sections. A gentleman who has made the tour of the townships of Ubingcacousy. Esquesing, and Nassagaweya reports that the crop in these places will prove almost an utter failure ; the standing grain presents a healthy and beautiful appearance, but on close examination it is discovered that the heads are only empty shocks, the kernels having been consumed by the destroying insect .- Whole fields are found in this condition, and it would be impossible to discover a single head that had escaped unbarmed. The midge-proof wheat, which has been sown in small parcels by farmers in the townships montioned, rather in the way of experiment, has stood the test well, and after the experience of the present season it is probable that farmers generally will forego the consideration of a little extra expense in procuring this seed. Through the county of Wentworth the damage inflicted by the midge has not been as general. as we are led to believe by the reports received from various sections .--On ow lands principally the presence of the insect is noticed, and fields of ordinary wheat are frequently met with that are likely to escape any serious damage. Specimens of the Mediteranean from Barton promise remarkably well, and fine fields in that township exhibit no indications of the insect what-

HIGHWAY ROBBERS .- On Saturday last, two men who have lately been robbing passengers between Pointe aux Trembles and Boat de l'Isle, stopped the servant of a Mr. Griffia, on the road leading to Pointe aux Trembles, and asked him when he would return with his master. He told them at ten o'clock, this being the wrong hour, when they requested him to come along with the gentleman, conceal the fact of their watching for him, promising to give the man $50 if they should succeed in robbing his master. One of the men has since been arrested by a lookout party of soldiers near Pointe aux Trembles. He, and his companion, who managed to escape, are said to have stopped the soldiers to rob them, and when they resisted, fired on them with a revolver. These footpads are supposed to be discharged soldiers of the Federal army.

On Tuesday morning, at an early hour a fire broke out in the Commercial Hotel, Paris, C.W., which destroyed that building, together with the railway stations of the Great Western and Grand Truck. Three young women, named Mary Ann Preneval, Susan Wickham, and Jane Warrington, wore burned to death.

GOLD MINES AT PORTNEUF .- The Courrier du Canada of last evening says : - We have been shown by Mons. L'abbs Provencher, this morning, some specimens of the auriferous deposit found in the third concession of Portneuf, about a league and a half from the river. These specimens represent the value of one dollar, and are the washings of two pails full of earth taken at hazard from the side of a small stream. This fact confirms the opinion entertained for the last year or two, that there exists at Portneuf a gold mine richer than any yet discovered in Beauce.

WANTED

DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES AT THE CONGRE-GATIONAL CONVENT OF KINGSTON, C.W.

To the Editor of the True Witness.

SIR,-On Thursday the 15th instant, I had the good fortune of being present at one of those rare literary entertainments given by the Ladies of the Congregational Convent on the termination of the scholastic year; and I would feel that I would be wanting in my appreciation of undoubted talent, together with perfect training, did I not hasten to lay before your numerous readers a short account of the evening's proceedings .---One cannot help being forcibly struck with the great perfection in the art of educating which exists in this institution, and the good ladies who have charge of it must feel gratified to witness the splendid success that is continually attending their labors. Since their advent amongst us, year after year, we have witnessed their labors --- sending forth young ladies whose rare accomplishments and christian virtues are the admiration of all.

In numerous occasions have the public had an opportunity of assisting at their annual exhibitions, but, 1 may solely venture to say, never have they beheld anything to surpass what took place on this occasion.

At an early hour in the evening the large hall attached to the Convent was filled to repletion, each seeming to prophesy a joyous evening.-His Lordship Bishop Horan, ever solicitous She's gone, and the virtues count a friend here the for the prosperity of our educational establishments since his advent amongst us, presided, and

IN MEMORIAM.

LINES ON THE DEATH OF ANNIE ...... The' sorrow nor weeping can waken the dead, Nor bless their cold ashes with feelings again, Yet sweet are the tears, and consoling, we shed, For lov'd ones departed, tho' falling in vain.

Then who can reproach us, if, Nature's sway owning, We indulge our sad feelings by shedding a tear, When we think of the dear one whose loss we're be meaning,

And look on our homestead so lonely and drear

Pure, guileless and youthful, fond, free from all art, In love's holy ties and affection she bound us-A creature endearing, she reigned in each heart, And played like a sunbeam of innocence round us.

But she's gone, and forever-no more shall she bless Our souls, like a vision of light as before ! Jess.

Burglars are still at work in Toronto. During Thursday night the office of Mathew's soap factory was entered and the safe opened by gunpowder. Some $40 only was the reward of the burglars.

From every direction are cheering reports of the crops throughout the County of Renfrew. The fall wheat has not been equalled for many past seasons, and it promises a splendid return. The cause is atributed to the steady covering of snow during the last days of winter-invulnerable to frost-and the succeeding excellence of the spring months diversi fied with showers almost every day. The oats and peas are also heavy and the potatoe crop promises an immense yield. In fact, every kind of crop looks well in Renfrew, shadowing out brighter prospects

The London Free Press says that accounts from all parcs of that county represent the appearance of the crops as being most favorable, in fact the best that the country has ever been blessed with. The fall wheat is really magnificent, and it is allowed that the yield will exceed thirty bushels per acre.-With the favourable influence of the late rains, spring crops have made great beadway. Peas are unusually good; oarley will more than average; hay is a full crop; in fact, on all sides there is evidence of abundance, and the husbandmen seems at last about to be rewarded for his toil. The same may be said of Kent.

The evidences of an abundant harvest are constantly increasing Farmers in the locality of Cobourg will have at least, twice the quantity they had in former years. We have heard no complaints, so far, of weavil, midge, or grasshopper, and the season has been most favorable for producing a heavy crop of hay.

The Presse says the pamphlet contains sixty-eight pages. M. de Girardin's journal regrets that an attempt should be made to deny it that publicity which it is sure to have, and particularly that copies should not have been given to the members of the Corps Legislatif, who will have to discuss the new law concerning Algeria. It would be better at once to announce the pamphlet on sale at the office of the publisher of 'Julius Gæsar,' than to leave it comp out sureptitionaly in foreign journals, which it is sure to do in the course of a few days. I rather think the Presse is mistaken in saying that the Corps Le. about to be introduced in the constitution of Algiers. The only pending legislation that I know of is the senatus consultum, on which M. Delangle has made a report. That hard Latin phrase may be sometimes more important than a law, or it may be only (as in the late Galignani's case) the cumbrous sanction of in the matter.' As to Algeria, it is for the Senate assured of your good feeling and of that of all colleg-alone to sanction the decree which makes all Alge- es, prelates, and of all good Oatholics, but unfortunrians . An extraordinary fatal accident from lightning is reported from Brittany. The Courrier de Bretagne says that on Wednesday last, at a place called Oo-ray, in the department of Finisterre, five people were killed and ten others seriously injured in one field.

PARIS, Wednesday, Joly 5 .- The Patrie says a despatch received from Havans, dated 6th ult, an-nounces that Guatemala has recognised the Mexican Empire. It is asserted that other Southern American Republics, particularl; Nicarague, will take a similar step.

Gossip FROM PARIS .- The Emperor bas written to inform the Queen of Spain that he will pay her a visit when he makes his autumn tour through the Basque provinces. - The announcement that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales does not purpose visiting Plymouth while the French ffeeet will be in that harbour is commented on with deep regret. The French papers asseert that they have never disputed the superiority of the English navy yet that, considering its recent creation, they are justly proud of their own, and a visit from the heirapparent of Great Britain would have been consider-ed as an act at once gracious and courteous. Notwithstanding the semi-official character of the announcement, it is to be hoped his Royal Highaess will so far gratify this country as to rescind his determination .- Cor. of Daily News.

The telegraph from Calcutta has transmitted; in four and twenty hours, to Rome the sad news of the death of Mgr. Agustus Van Huele, Archbishop of 'Amydas, and Vicar Apostolic of Western Bengal, which took place at Oalcutta on Saturday last, the 10th of June. Mgr. Van Huele, who belonged to Belgian province of the Society of Jesus, was present in Rome a few months ago at the Beatification of Father Peter Canisirs, S.J., and had only reached his district in January last. Among the many new foundations he had alreaby made in Calcutta, may be noted that of a new weekly Catholic journal, under the editorship of Father Carbonelle, S.J., entitled the Indo-European Correspondence. The POFE AND THE SACRED COLLEGE. — The following is the reply made by the Pope on Saturday, the gislatif will have anything to do with the changes 17th instant, to the address presented him by Cardinal Mattei, in the name of the Sacred College :-- " The sentiments which Monsiguore Cardinal Mattei bas expressed in the name of the Sacred College are always dear to me, and the more so at this moment, as the times are difficult, both for those who govern and ment prefers to call it, cholerina, was added to the those who are governed. #### SPAIN.

MADRID, July 5 -The Correspondencia of this evening, and other Madrid journals, assert that the recog-nition of the Ki gdom of Italy will very shortly take place, without prejudicing the interests of Oatholiciam.

A telegram received here from St. Idlefonso states that the Queen has not relinquished her projected visit to the Basque Provinces.

The Epoca asserts that Benor Isluri'z will replace Senor Mon as Ambassador at Paris.

PABES, July 5 -The Patrie of this evening says the Queen of Spain has received an autograph letter from the Pope respecting the recognition of Italy. The letter contains nothing unfavorable to the project of rec gaition. His Holiness trusts that Spain will continue to protect the exalted and permanent interests of Catholicism.

MADELD, June 23 .- To-day, in the Congress, Marshal O'Donnell delivered a speech, defining the policy of his administration. The Government, he said, had decided upon recognizing the Kingdom of Italy, and on preserving amicable relations with foreign Powers. With regard to home policy, Marshal O'Donnel an-nounced a general amnesty for offences against the Press law and stated that the Ministry would shortly bring forward an electoral law diminishing the qua. lification for the suffrage, and establishing elections ing increase in the price of their produce, whice has by provinces according to the law of 1857, and also were septenced on the 17th to perpetual banishment to Siberia, with the loss of all civil and political rights. Even this is a commutation of their original sentence, under which they were condemned to hard labor for the first twelve years of their exile. A British subject, named, Veni, or. Beni, is also implicated in this affair. His offence is that he knew. Kelsieff was in Russia and did not denonnee him to the police. He is to be imprisoned three months, and then be sent out of Russia, where he has long resided and distinguished himself as a journalist.

An official telegram from Alexandria, dated to-day (26th), estimates the number of deaths hitherto 1,034 the great majority of which belong to the native population. On the 25th 184 persons died out of a total population of 169,000. Large numbers of inhabitants were leaving the town. Arrangements have been made here that persons coming from Alexandria are to be subjected to a week's quarantine, reckoned from the day of arrival. Ships are to be, ventilated and fumigated ; clothes, furniture, and bedding thoroughly cleaned: and goods and letters exposed to the treatment costomary in Italian ports.

THE SCOURGE AT MECCA .- The Mussulman festivals of the Kurban-Bairam took place during the first twenty days of Lay, when 600,000 pilgrims annually assembled in Mecca and upon Mount Ararat to celebrate their pitgrimage with the usual religious cerenies. The mode of life, utterly opposed to all rules of dietetic prudence, pursued by these crowded masses for ten to fifteen days at the holy places, yearly entails a number of diseases, to which many are sacrificed. This year the cholera, or, as the govern customary pests, and is said to have carried off vate accounts place the loss of pilgrim life at one hundred thousand-an estimate obviously exaggerated, and these do not include the deaths by cholera. We in Alexandria have no more exact details as to this terrible drams, which made no extraordinary impression upon the pilgrim themselves, who, in their religious fanaticism, believe every one certain of Paradise who dies during the pilgrimage. The country being at all times inaccessible to European medical men, the meagre reports we have are derived from a few Egyptian military surgeons, ordered by the government to accompany the pilgrims from Egypt.

THE CHOLERA. - Two Hundred and Fourteen Cases iu one day at Alexandria.-Trieste, June 30.-Trieste papers publish advices from Alexandris, stating that there were two hundred and fourteen cases of cholera the day before yesterday, and at Oairo seventy cases. The epidemic was considered to be assuming a less alarming character. The Austrian Lloyd's steamer arriving at Smyrna was subjected to a quarantine of five days on account of one of the passengers suffering from cholera.

A HORRIBLE STORY OF THE SANITARY CONDITION OF ALEXANDRIA. - Seven Hundred Curcasses of Calile in the Nile Canal.-The Italian steamer Princips Tommaso and the Austrian steamer Marco Polo are now in the Theresa Lezatte. Their passengers (152 in number) are lodged in the Lezarette quarters as well as circumstances permit. All are perfectly healthy, and notwithstanding the great overcrowding in both vessels-the Italian steamer having brought one hundred and seventy-three passengers to Ancons, while the Marco Polo was crammed with one hundred and five-not a single case of serious illness occurred during the voyage. All contrary reports are stupid or malicious inventions. Several travellers, however concur in admitting that cholera prevails at Alexandria to a great degree, and that the majority of the cases have a fatal issue ; but the causes of this are purely local, and mainly attributbis to the wretched sanitary condition of the town. Above seven hundred carcases of cattle are said to belying in the Nile canal alone, and the water from this source supplies the inhabitabts. A letter from Alexandria on the 19th instant says: "The measures taken by the government have proved entirely useless to meet the extent of the evil, the first case of which was observed here on the 10th or 11th ult. The disease prevailed first in the north-west suburbs, near the railway station, which are inhabited by that the epidemic has hitherto only attacked the Port of Alexandria, while hot and populous Gairo, together with the internal portion of the country, has remained entirely free. During the first few days 4-5 to 8 persons died daily, then the deaths rose to 30.39, and on the 17th sixty one fatal cases were reported, erected the previous day. The coremonies here commenced, the Most Rev. Archbishop officiating, assisted by Very Rev.H.B. Coskery, D. D. =V.G., as ubdeacon. After the blessing of the holy water and the recitation of certain prayers, they returned in the same order to the platform, where his Grace addressed the assembled multitude, which at this moment could not have numbeoed less than thirty-five thousand souls.-Baltimore Mirror.

OPENING OF A NEW COLLEGE .- A new college will open in Meadville, Pa., on the first Monday of Setem-ber next, under the anspices of "the Right "Rev. Dr. Young, Bishop of Erie. The object of this new in-stitution is twofold, viz. : To educate youths for secular pursuits, or for the ecclesiastical state. Institutions of this kind are never too many, especially in a great Republic like this whose security, no doubt, can only stand on the enlightened mind of the people. 'For,'as a learned writer has remarked true and solid knowledge never was, and never can be, hurtful to the peace of society. It is ignorance, or what is far worse than ignorance, false knowledge, that is terrible to the States. They are the ill-targht, the blind and misguided, that are prone to be seized with groundless fears and approvoked resentments; to be razed by incendiaries, and to rush desperately on to sedition and acts of rage." Again, it is not civil society only that receives advantages, but religion also goins lustre, esteem, splendor, and popularity by the well-cultivated mind of the people. "Yes, the Catholic religion," says a venerable prelate, Leighbour of ours," will never make a rapid progress in America, unless we have among us a well-educated people." "For," as the Dublin Review wisely observs," every educted non-Catholic looks upon the Oatholic religion with no small degree of supercilious contempt. - Cincinnuli Telegraph.

CATHOLIC #. PROTESTANT EDUCATION. - The New York Express, commenting on the commencement of St John's College, Fordham, says :

"While the Congregationalists, and Presbyterians, and Methodists, and Baptists, are spending their energies upon Politics,-the Roman Catholics are ex. clusively devoting theirs to their Religion, and hence are making astonishing progress, as they now have nearly a free field, and little competition, in religion. Many Protestant Ministers deem it of far mere importance to win a negro Suffrage Republican than to make a Christian, -but the Roman Ca-tholics reason otherwise, and set down their Religion as of more importance than politics. We are seeing the result of two systems now, in all parts of the United States.

The Express last week, briefly recorded what was done at St. John's College, Fordham - an insutution which has sprung up within ten years to be a 'Yale,' a 'Uambridge' or 'a Dartmouth,' the creation of a century or over. Few Protestants know what St. John's is, or where Fordham is,-while Cambridge, and Yale, and Dartmouth, are known everywhere, by everybody,-but St. John's nevertheless, is now exercising a far greater influence over society than either.

The Express appends the address of the Archbishop to the Graduating Class-to show how the Oatholica confine their addresses to their classes - whereas if the President of Yale, or Oambridge, or Dartmouth, had been speaking, in all probability, we should have an address to the graduating students upon ' Copper heads,' ' Negro Suffrage,'-dc omnibus rebus, quibusdam aluis.

THE POLITICAL TRAGEDY OF THE 7TH JULY .-Words were wasted that would attempt to express what millions of American hearts feel in regard to the political execution that took place in Washington or Friday the 7th inst. In the very heyday of triumph for the Federal Union-when the last hostile sword is sheathed, the last musket thrown down, the last soldier honestly yielded, or fled the country -' the Government' makes political issue of life or death against three hair-brained boys and a poor woman that kept a boarding house for indifferent guests in Wasnington. We call it a political issue. A military issue it cannot be called, for the war, and all its vulgar parade is over-except the tardy paying off and mustering out of troops, and ovations to all Generals. All the usurped, or assumed, or debated 'war-powers' had fallen with the close of the war. Pile Holt on Hunter, and on Holt pile Bingham with Burnett, and it changes not the fact. A melt powder at all-can't change it l The over! All the powers that were claimed as 'warpowers' fell, or by the most extravagant extension of unconstitutional interpretations, ought to have fallen. with the war. With others, we were resting in an assured conviction that Mr. President Johnson intended to set aside the action of the Military Commission of which Gen. Hunter was President, and Joe Holt manager, on the ground that it was wholly unwarranted by law. We had information-delusive it seems-that President Johnson had intimated such a purpose.

of peace the habeas corpus suspended !" The habeas, corpus suspended by the Executive, and not by Congress, which slone has the constitutional pewer ? And, not suspended generally, within a certain dis-trict, and for a specific time, but 'this writ;' specially and apart from the general operation of the law, is. suspended -no l declared to be suspended, by An. drew Johnson. Were the people of our day of the sturdy sort of freemen of their ancestors, there would be an inquest in regard to the conduct of the official functionaries in this matter-ending, on judicial trial, perhaps, in the suspension of something moresolid than the habeas corpus proves to be in these States. But, we are less than those that were before us, and those that are to come will be still less than we!

We are informed that Mrs. Surratt, who seems to have been a kind-bearted and imprudent hostess, died protesting: 'God knows I am innocent !' By yielding to the corrupt and brutal dictation of the ruffianly Joe Holt, who managed the job, Andrew Johnson has stained his name with the political murder of a poor helpless woman, whom, on a careful reading of the whole testimony, we believe to have been ignorant of the entire plot of the madcap Booth, and his foolish dupes. One million of voters, who, last Thursday, thought kindly of Andrew Johnson, now loathe the mention of his name. Mr. Johnson has much to do, and that quickly, not to lose all hold on the regards of the honest masses .--N. Y. Freeman.

It is stated that Mrs. Suratt, before Booth was captured, and while she was at the Capitol prison, was offered a free and unconditional pardon for herself and son, if she would accompany an officer in a buggy and point out the road which Booth had probably taken. She protested that she had no idea which road he took and had no know ledge of his intention to assassingte the President when he visited the houseand positively refused to accompany the officer, as she could not be of any service.

The Beloit Journal recommends pulverized marble for destroying the cucumber bugs. The elements composing marble, chalk, gypsum, plaster of Paris and lime, are much the same, all containing the metal calcium, and whichever can be most conveniently obtained may be used with effect.

The work of confiscating the property of wealthy rebels was insugurated in Richmond on July 10, much to the consternation of the people of that city, by the seizure of the famous Tredegar Iron Works by government agents. Descriptions of a large amount of other property liable to be confiscated have been notified to pay no more rent to the rebel proprietors.

A land-slide on the Redwood River has brought to light a coal bed which is three feet thick, 350 feet wide, and nobody knows how long. It makes quite an excitement in that region, but will probably prove to be drift coal. This coal mine is about 110 miles west of St. Paul, and within a mile of the Minnesota River.

The Western newspapers are in ecstacies about a young lady on Rock Prairie, seventeen years old, who drives her father's reaping team, and frequently takes a load of grain to market, (fifteen miles,) and sells it. She plays the piano, sings charmingly, does the honors of the drawing-room with dignity, can make a loaf of bread, or play 'Bridget' in ma's kitchen, with equal readiness. She is valued at her weight in gold to a sensible young man.

The grape crop in Western Illinois is very heavy this season, especially in Hancock County, where the the estimated yield of wine will be nearly one million gallons, against about two hundred and fifty thousand last year, when the crop was almost an entire failure. Almost every farmer in that county has a vineyard.

An immense grain elevator is going up at St. Louisto cost $350,000. It will contain on hundred bins, with a capacity of 10,000 bushels each-and accommodate 40,000 barrels of rolling freight.

The wheat harvest in Southern Illinois and Indiana has commenc.d. Exchanges from that section speak of the yield as enormous, and the quality as unsurpassed by the crops of any previous year. To add to the satisfaction of the farmers the weather has been as favorable as they could desire, and the new crop has been Larvested in the very best condition. From hundred pairs of epaulettes on carcases that, during all parts of the country we have the same glowing the war, ran away from the front of Lee, Johnston, accounts of the Western crap. Corn and outs will be near the railway station, which are inhabited by Beauregard, &c., and got themselves put in charge more than an average return, and fruit has never pro-all belonging to the lowest class. It is remarkable amelt nowder at all can't change it. The were is a more prolific yield. This, therefore, is likely war is to be a year of plenty, its cornacopia overflowing with abundance.

withstanding the advanced season, printed calicoes find a ready sale at fair prices.

ITALY.

Rome, June 21.-The Pope has stipulated for the following conditions before signing a Convention with King Victor Emmanuel-that the Royal exequatur and the oath of allegiance be abolished in the case of the new Bishops (not belonging to the former provinces of Sardinis): that no reduction or diminu. tion shall take place in the existing dioceses ; lastly that the Bishops be allowed full liberty in the management of their seminaries to the exclusion of all Government authority. Signor Vegezzi has despatched this ultimatum to Florence. Should the Italian Government reject it, it is said that the negotiations, which have at present only been interrupted, will then be entirely broken off. - Reuter.

June 25 .- Signor Vegezzi has presented to Antonelli the reply of the Italian Ministry, which rejects the conditions proposed by the Pope for the settlement of the que_tion of the Bishops. On Friday last Signor Vegezzi had a private audience of the Pope in order to take leave, and his mission is considered to be at an end. The interruption of the negotiations has been revived with great satisfaction by the Olerical party at Rome. During the negotiations Count de Sartiges, by order of his Government, maintained a passive attitude. He will return to France on leave of absence.- Reuler.

June 26.—Vegezzi leaves for Florence to day. A railway accident has occurred at Corese. Two trains, filled with workmen, ran into one another, killing two and wounding 11 of the passengers. Five waggons and a locomotive were entirely destroyed .--Reuter.

FLORENCE, June 30 .- The Opinione of to-day, in an article upon the result of the negociations between the Pope and Italy, says :- ' The Pope has rejected the demand that the Bishops should be required to take the oath of allegiance to the King of Italy, but he has consented to order them to yield to the laws and to the State. The Pope has demanded a modification in the heading of the Exequator. The Pope and the Italian Government have come to an under standing in reference to the return to their Sees cf those Bishops whose presence would not conpromise public tranquillity. The return of the Bishops, therefore, would be the real result of the negotiations; but although the latter have been broken off, this does not preclude their being resumed as soon as circum-stances and the policy of the two parties may render it expedient. The Florence papers assert as a posi-tive fact that, MM. Bach and Hubner have both actively interfered to prevent an understanding between Italy and the Pope, and add that the Austrian Charge d'Affaires at Berlin has addressed to the Berlin Osbinet some strong remonstrances against the project of a Commercial Treaty between Italy and Zollverein. -Reuter.

FLORENCE, June 30 .- The Nazione of this evening declares the views of the Opinions respecting the negotistions with Rome to be inexact, and says : 'It is true that the Pope rejected the proposal for the Bishops to take the oath of allegiance, but it is not correct that His Holiness consented to order the Bishops to promise obedience to the laws and the State. Rome has made no counter proposals. It is equally incorrect that the Pope requested a modification in the heading of the Exequatur. #### AUSTRIA.

VIENEA, July 5 - The Abendpost contradicts the statement of some journals that a modification of the charter of the National Bank of Austria is intended. The same journal also denies that Barons Hubner and Bach have made efforts at Rome to prevent an understanding between the Papal and Italian Courts. and says Austria has too great a regard for the high prerogative and autonomy of the Church, even to endeavour to influence her resolutions upon leligious matters.

The expected imperial message relative to the Ministerial crusis was not delivered to-day in the Upper House of the Reichsrath, which was numerously attended.

In to-day's sitting of the finance committee of the Upper House, all the reductions in the war and naval budgets passed by the Lower House were approved.

RUSSIA.

A CONSPIRACY FRUSTRATED.-The St. Petersburgh correspondent of the ' Independence Belge' gives an interesting account of the causes that led to the coneempation and banishment to Siberia of three Russian gentlemen lately. The prisoners were named Serno Soloveivitch, Vetochnikoff and Wladimroff, and were all connected, in various subordinate positions, with the government. Their offence was complicity in the revolutionary attempts of Russian political refugees in London. It seems that a certain M. Kelseilf, who had quited Russia, not in consequence of any political trouble, but because he was discontented with the existing order of things, went to London, and took an active part in the revolutionary propaganda of M. Hertzen. He started a paper there lbid. addressed specially to Russians disaffected toward both the government and the ecclesiastical authorities of the empire. With a view of organizing the spread of his doctrines, M. Kelsiefl visited Russia under an assumed name, and with a Turkish passport. While there, it seems, M. Solovievitch and his fellow prisoners gave him shelter and protection. On his return to London he endeavoured to organize a plan for obtaining the concurrence of the religious dissenters among the revolutionary party in Austria. With this view a certain young man named Nitchi-porenko, was sent as the envoy of the dissentient secretaries to Bielaia-Krinitza, where the Metropoli-tan of the Austrian dissenters resided. An act of imprudence on his part ruined all the plans of his employers. Tobacco, it seems, is abhorred by the Austrian secretaries, and they call it ' the devil's herb.' Yet Nitchiperenko was foolish enough to smoke in the presence of the Metropolitan himself. This so offended the Austrian secretaries that, instead of uniting with their ' Russian brethern,' they handed over the impudent smoker to the government

onish, arrived in town on the afternoon of June 29. His Lordship, during a period of four weeks' ab-sence, visited nearly the whole of the Island of Cape Breton. Satisfactory arrangements have been made during that time for the commencement of new churches and the appointment of pastors to several important missions. The Bishop, we learn, is highly satisfied with the religious progress being made in that portion of his diocese; while we are equally glad to find him in the enjoyment of excellent health, and hope that a life so apostolic may be long pre-Berved us.-Antigonish Casket.

His Lordship, accompanied by the Rev. Neil M. Leod, Rev. Dr. M'Gregor, Messrs. Malcolm M'Neil and Alexander M'Kinnon, students, left Antigonish to-day for Arichat, to attend, on the 17th instant, at the literary exercises which usually take place at the close of the achoiastic year, in the male and female Academies of Arichat. We understand that His Lordship intends, afterwards, to pass over to the County of Guysboro', to visit the important missions of said county, and to instal, early in August, in the church of St. Ann's, Guysboro', the Rev. Michael Tompkins, who has lately arrived home from the Grand Seminary, Quebec. We are informed that several clerical changes are soon to take place in our Diocese. The venerable and kind-hearted Rev. William B. M'Lead is to leave D'Escousse and return to the old Highland parish of St. Margaret's, Arisaig, Gulf Shore ; and the Rev. K. J. M'Donald, leav-ing St. Margaret's, is to take charge of the extensive and important missions of Port Hood and Mabou, now vacant by the demise of our late lamented Vicar General, Very Rev. Alexander M'Donald .--

UNITED STATES.

Sunday, the 9th of July, will ever be a memorable day for the Oatbolics of Baltimore. The demonstration was one of the most imposing ever made within the limits of the city. As had been previously announced, that day was selected for the laying of the corner stane of St. Martin's Oburch, corner of Fayette and Fulton streets. At an early hour in the afternoon the Cathhlic societies attached to the various parish churches of the city assembled at their usual places of meeting. At half-past two o'clock the societies of St. Michael's (German) congregation preceded by the Ohief Marshal, Uaptain Christian Bit-ter, took up the line of march for for St. Peter's Church, Popleton street. On the way they were joined by the societies of the several intermediate parishes. Arriving at the ground, the societies were ranged around the large platform erected for the reverend clergy, each society depositing its banner near the stand. Immediately after vesting, the clergy preceded by the arcihepiscopal cross, went in pro-

The contrary result is shocking beyond measure. The only explanation of it is that the laws of the land, by which alone these unhappy people ought to have been tried, would not have executed the bloody vengeance of death upon them.

To call these political murders, and to prove them such, it is not necessary to enter into the question of the degree of guilt, or exemptness from guilt, of any of those that were hanged. We rest the charge on the fact that the Military Commission that pretended to try them was an unlawful and utterly incompetent body. At the mines of Colorado, and other wild and unsettled regions, what are called Vigilance Committees, are a necessity sometimes. Society is not regularly organised, and men must protect themselves. The rude justice that they execute we are prepared sometimes to defend, sometimes to excuse. But, there has been no palliation for Military Commissions to sit on the trial of any one for life or liberty in Washington. If military persons or campfollowers, are to be tried for military offences, then not a Military Commission-of home guard officers in slip-shod undress-but a Court Martial, of officers girt with their swords, should try them by the Articles of War-and not otherwise. Military Commissions, in places where the ordinary Civil and Crimical Courts are sitting undisturbed, are but conspiracies of lawless men, and hangings done at their bidding are murders of persons, who if accused of crime, have a right to be tried by the law of the land - a jury of twelve impactial men, before a court known to the laws.

Congress had no right to erect these Commissions to sit on cases of life and liberty where the courts known to the laws are in operation. But even the feeble and unconstitutional sanction of Congress for such Military Commissions, was wanting in this Washington case. Those Commissions Congress enacted only during the war. The war is all over.

On the morning of this political execution a writ of habeas corpus was served upon General Hancock. After delay the monstrous return was made to it, that General Hancock was acting under the following order :

Executive Office, July 7, 1865. To Major Gen. W. S. Hancock, Commanding, etc. :

I. Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby declare that the writ of Habeas Corpus has been heretofore suspended this writ and direct given upon the judgment of the Military Commission ; and you will give this order in return to this writ.

They kill pigs by steam in Chicago. A great iron claw, with five fingers, book out the pigs which are quarrelling in the pen below, and lifts the porkers to gibbet near by, and then plunges them into scalding water. By the machine fifty porcines are killed, scalded, scraped, cleaned, split and hung in rows ready for salting, all within an hour.

Gen. Magruder has gone to France, and is expected to join his famiy, now in Switzerland. He will probably endeavor to obtain a position in the French army in Mexico.

There were more than one hundred persons prostrated by sunstroke in Cincinnati and vicinity on the Fourth of July. Several cases proved fatal .-The mercury marked one hundred degrees in the shade.

A despatch states that the town of Menton, Md., was nearly destroyed by fire on the night of the 4th. Not a store, shop, or hotel was left standing, and many fmilies were rendered destitute. The day had been enthusiastically celebrated, and the fire occurred from the explosion of a rocket in the upper story of a store.

FAMILY SOENE. -At a farm-house in the county of Wayne, a precocious and inquisitive juvenile who had been to the Post Office, rushed into the house with a Lyons Republican in his hand; when the following lialogue ensued :---

Juvenile-Pa, what do these figures and letters mean, stuck on the edge of the Republican with a little strip of yellow paper ?

Pa-Why that's the name by which it is directed to me.

Junvenile-Yes, I know about the name, but here it says 8Jun57, What does that mean? Pa. a little fidgety-Why that, my son, is some mark the printers have-they understand it.

Juvenile-Don't you know what it means ? Pa-Never mind, don't you be too inquisitive.

Well, any how, Old Toby, who was in the Post Office, said it meant you hadn't paid for your paper in almost five years, and you had better sock up, and was as able as any man in the township, and printers couldn't live without money any better than any other men.

Mother-There, John, I've told you a hundled times it was a shame that you didn't pay for your paper. I declare, I blush for shame everytime I take up that paper and think how faithfully it comes and supplies us with news, and how you keep the printers out of their dues, I hope now that drunken old Toby and your own children talk about it, you'll be ashamed of yourself and pay up. You that you proceed to execute the order herelofore | ought to make the Editor a present of a turkey to pay interest.

John slipped out of the house and was gone an hour. When he returned he looked ten years younger as he informed his wife he had asked the Postmaster to frank a letter and had enclosed eight dollars-This is worse than Andrew Johnson's inaugural paying up old scores and something in advance. MURRAY & LARMAN'S FLORIDA WATER Is repidly gending to oblivion a host of toilet waters which have long been a disgrace to the dressing room, and a misance to persons of refined taste. Less expensive than the European Extracts, it is as pure, deli-· cate and lasting a floral essence, while it possesses superior cosmetic properties. Gentlemen, whose skins resent the manipulation of the razor, can immediately mollify the irritation of the surface, by moistening the 'chin new reaped' with this balsamic cooling and fragrant essence of tropical flowers. See that the names of 'Murray & Lanman' are upon every wrapper, label, and botile ; without

The relaxing heat of summer leave behind them a long train of evils. The most universal of these are general debility, and its sure attendant, lowness of spirits. For these we can recommend a speedy and nnfailing cure in the shape of Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, Philadel-phia. It is, in our opinion, a medicine sui generisalone,-unapproachable. It seems to reach the fountain head of the difficulty in the digestive organization, and thus to relieve the secretions and blood of the maceries morbi, or cause of disease. Its tonic properties gives vigor to the membranes of the stomach, and promote the secretion of the gastric juice, which dissolves the food, while its cordial, soothing, and alterative influence, imparts general regularity and strength to the action of the secretive organs, and seems to fortify the constitution. Such is our own experience of its effects, and we believe it is confirmed by the evidence of all who have tried it, or had an opportunity of witnessing its operation. FIFTEEN PER CENT.

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to his Friends L and Uustomers for the liberal patronage extended to him during the last 15 years, wishes to inform them of the extension of his SHOW ROOMS and STOCK during the past winter, in order to supply the increasing demands of his business, and especially since his removal to the new buildings, notwithstanding the reports that some of his rivals in trade have endeavored to circulate of his having been sold out and left the place. These statements have been made to many of my customers with the hope that they would take no further trouble in finding out my new place of business. These and similar contemptible statements, which I consider too low to take further notice of, have induced me to make a few remarks. First, I would say shat I am not sold out, neither have I left the city, but can be found any time during business hours at my new wererooms, Nos. 7, 9, and 11 ST. JOSEPH STREET, second door from M GILL STREET. I call on any party in Cadada or the United States, from whom have purchased goods since my commencement in business, to say if I owe them one dollar after due or ever had an extenual or renewal during that time.---If those parties would only devote their time and attention to business as I have done, they would not have to resort to such contemptible means of getting trade. Seeing the desire that exists with a portion of the trade to run me off the track, I am now aroused to a new emergency, and determined to reduce the prices of my goods at least FIFTEEN PER CENT., which the advantage of the largest and best adapted premises, together with getting up my stock entirely for cash during the past dull winter, will justify me in doing, having given up importing Chairs and Furniture from the States for the last two years, and engaged largely in the manufacture of Cane and Wood Seat Chairs and Furniture of every description, and made the Chair business a very important branch of my trade, having now on hand over 11,000 Cane and Wood Seat Chairs, of 32 different patterns, many of which are entirely new terent patterns, many of which are eathery new styles. My prices will be reduced on and after Monday, the 17th instant, as follows: --Wood Seat Chairs formerly 35 cents, will be sold at 30 cents, and every other kind of Wood Seat Chairs will be reduced from 5 to 10 cents, large Rockers, with arms, S1,15, formerly $1,30, and every style of Caue Seat Obair will be reduced from 10 to 25 cents. The nsual line o discount will be allowed to the trade and all wholesale customers. To enumerate my stock would be useless, but I will give an outline of my new buildings and a few leading articles of stock. My present SHOW ROOMS were built by myself in 1863, with every facility for carrying on the most extensive wholesale and retail furniture business in Montreal, and is 60 feet front by 97 feet deep. The first floor is used for book and Library Cases, from S25 to S100; Wardrobes, S20 to S90; Dining Tables $10 to$50; Bureaus, $10 to 30; and various kinds of weighty and bulky goods. The second floor for the display of fine Parlour, Dining and Chamber Suites, from $60 to $250; Fancy Chairs, What-nots, and such other light goods. Also, Solid Mahogany, Walnut, Oak, Ash and Chesnut, with walnut carving, and marble and wood tops. Painted and Grained Suites, in all the differnt imitations of wood and ornamental colours, with wood and marble tops, varying in price from $16 to $75; Hair Mattrasses, from 20 to 50 cents per lb; Geese and Poultry Feathers, from 25 to 75 cents do. ; Moss, Husk, Sea Grøss and other common Mattrasses, from $2,50 to $6 each 30 hour and eight day Olocks, from $2 to $15 each ; Gilt Rosewood, Mahogany and Walnut Toilet Glasses, from $1 to $25 each, -with every article in the Furniture line a equally low prices. A large supply of solid Mahogany and Vineers of all sizes and other Gabinet Lumber kept constantly on hand; with Curled Hair, Webbing Springs, Glue, and every article in the trade, which will be sold at the lowest prices for cash, or in exchange for firstclass furniture in order to avoid the necessity of having to sell surplus stock at auction. I have always adopted the motto of quick sales and light profits, which has se-cured for me a steady trade at the dullest season of the year. To those in want of furniture I would say don't take my word, but call and examine the stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere. If not for my late removal, and the statements above alluded to, I would consider the present notice

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

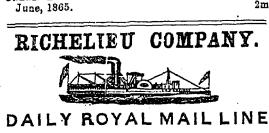

ARE the most perfect purgative which we are able to produce or which we think has ever yet been made by anyjbody. Their effects have abundantly shown to the community how much they excel the ordinary medicines

They are safe and pleasant to take, in use. but powerful to cure. Their penetrating pro-perties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural astion, and impart a healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every day com-plaints of everybody, but also formidable and dan-gerous diseases. While they produce powerful ef-fects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses. the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take ; and, being purely vegetable, and free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief, where they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character, as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of our remedies, while others have sent us the assurance of their conviction that, our Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of our afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The New York Tribune says, 'the reason why Drake's Plantation Bitters are so universally used and have such an immense sale, is that they are always made up to the original standard, of highly invigorating material and of pure quality, although the prices have so largely advanced," &c.

The Tribune just hits the nail on the head. The Plantation Bitters are not only made of pure material, but the people are told what it is. The Recipe is published around each Bottle, and the bottles are not reduced in size. At least twenty imitations and counterfeits have sprung up. They impose upon the people once and that's the last of them.

The Plantation Bitters are now used in all the Government Hospitals, are recommended by the best physicians, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. Facts are stubborn things. "... I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

"THE LAMP,"

New and Improved Series, in Weekly Numbers, price ld. In Mouthly parts, price 6d. The Lamp in 1865.

It is little more than two years ago since the New Series of the Lamp commenced. The great increase in its circulation has been the most convincing proof that satisfaction has been given by the improvements the Ocean Steamers at Quebec may depend to be in effected in the periodical. It has been the happiness of the Oonductor of this Magazine to receive the benediction of the Holy Father on the undertaking. A distinguished Preiate wrote from Rome as follows to the Proprietor of the Lamp: 'I have presented the Lamp to the Holy Father. He was much pleased, and directed me to send you his blessing, that you and all your works may prosper.' We have also had the assurance of the satisfaction of his Eminence the late Cardinal Wiseman, in whose archdiocese the Lamp is published, and whose kind assistance to the undertaking has been evinced several times by the contributions from his pen which are to be found in our columns. We are authorized to say that "His Eminence has been much pleased with the progress of the Lamp, and the position it has taken.

Encouraged, therefore, by the blessing of the Vicar of Christ, which is never unfruitful, and the approval of his Eminence, the Conductor of the Lamp looks confidently for increased support from the Catholic public. Much has been done to improve the Lamp; much remains to be done; and it rests chiefly with Catholics themselves to effect the improvement. Our adversaries, and even we ourselves, often point to the well-got up Protestant publications, and ask why Catholics cannot have something as good in point of material, ability, illustrations, &c. Nothing is more easy. If every Catholic who feels this, and who desires to to see a Catholic Magazine equal to a Protestant one, will take in the former for a year, there is at least a good chance of his wishes being realised. If every priest would speak of the undertaking in his parish once a year, and encourage his people to buy the Lamp instead of the various cheap publications too rapidly making their way among our youth, and our poor-pulications which can hardly be called Protestant, because they have no religion, and often openly teach immorality-the success of the Catholic Magazine would be assured.

It is their immense circulation, and the support they obtain from their respepective political or religious parties, which enables these journals to hold their ground; and unless Catholics will give their hearty and cordial support to their own periocals in a similar manner, it is impossible for them to attain superiority.

The LANP has now the largest Oirculation of any Oatholic Periodical in the English language. It contains this week a New Story of great interest, and other articles of sterling merit, with illustrations by the first Artists of the day. Price 1d., in Monthly parts, 6d. Agents for Canada-Messes D. & J. Sadlier & Co., Booksellers, Oorner of Notre Dame and St. Francis Xavier Streets, Montreal, O.E.

New BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 24, 1863. Dear Sir :- I have been afflicted many years with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. Physicians and medicine failed to relieve me. Some friends in New York, who were using Plantation Bitters, prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glassful after dinner. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters.—Respectfully, JUDITH RUSSEL."

If the ladies but knew what thousands of them are constantly relating to us, we candidly believe one half of the weakness, prostration and distress experienced by them would vanish. James Marsh, Esq, of 159 West 14th Street, N.Y. says, the has three children, the first two are weak and puny, his wife having been unable to nurse or attend them, but that she has taken Plantation Bitters for the last two years, azd has a child now eighteen months old which she has nursed and reared herself, and both are hearty, saucy and well. The article is invaluable to mothers," &c.

Such evidence might be continued for a volume. The best evidence is to try them. They speak for themselves. Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, diabetes, &c., will find speedy relief through these Bitters.

Every bottle for exportation and sale out of the United States has a metal cap and green label around the neck.

Beware of refilled bottles. See that the cap has not been mutilated. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters in bulk or by the gallon is an impostor. We sell it only in bottles. Sold by principal dealers throughout the habitable globe.

In one instance, a case of dyspepsia of thirteen years' standing, and which had become very distressing, the use of one battle gave decided relief, the seconding effecting a cure, and the third, it seems, has confirmed the cure, for there has been no symptoms of its retarn for the last six years. In my individual use of it, I find it to be an unequalled tonic, and sincerely recommend its use to the sufferers.—Truly yours, JACOB BROOM, 1707 Sprace Street. *F-Seware of Counterfiets; see that the Signature 'C.
