Count Tolstoy WAS PASSED BEYOND

Death Came Peacefully Early Sunday Morning to the Greatest Russian Writer of Modern Times—The Countess Was With Him When
the End Came.

"Every man ought to do enough
work each day to pay for the food
he eats and the clothes he wears.
Unless he does that, he is sponging
and living on the labor of other people, and thus doing an injustice to his fellow men. Some days
I mow, on others I pick berries or dig in the garden, pick berries or apples, or like Gladstone, fell a tree. I live simply. I make my own clothes. I do not have to work for my money. I do not have to study and write. My only conscience is that I may prove too short to enable me to finish all I wish to do."
—TOLSTOI.

ASTAPOVA, Russia, Nov. 20.—Count
Leo Tolstoy died peacefully this morning. Countess Tolstoy was at his side when the end came. It was recognized long before that his case was hopeless, and at 5 o'clock in the morning, after the countess had been summoned and the other members of the family had gathered in an adjoining room, the physicians issued a bulletin, announcing that the activity of the heart had almost ceased, and that Tolstoy's condition was extremely dangerous. Several of the physicians were greatly overcome by the approaching death of Russia's greatest writer.

His heart beat its last apparently without a clear moment to enable him to say farewell, or cast a forgiving
look upon his wife and children.
The countess all day long was unceasing in her piteous imploring of doctors after another to gain entrance to where Tolstoy lay.
The first cardiac attack, Dr.
Tchurovsky promised that he would announce her presence to Tolstoy at a favorable opportunity.
The second attack came just after a two hours' sleep. The members of the family were hurriedly summoned. The condition of the patient, however, was so grave that he required sleep again
by injections of morphine, as the only means of deferring the end. The family were then admitted for a few moments to the bedside.

The Family With Him at End.
Another attack occurred about three o'clock, and the family gathered again.
The countess was with difficulty prevailed upon to retire. Later, when the end came, in addition to the countess, four sons and three daughters were present.

Tolstoy, accompanied only by Dr.
Makovetsky, left his home at the Polyana, for the purpose of ending his days in the solitude to which he more and more inclined during his latter years.
His pilgrimage led him to the monastery at Shamardine, in the province of Kaluga, where his sister Marie, who is a nun in the cloister.

Learning that his retreat had been discovered, he insisted upon proceeding on his journey to the Caucasus, where he hoped to spend his last days, close to the Black Sea. But during the long road journey he was afflicted with road fever and the cold, and Dr. Makovetsky was compelled to have him transferred to the flag station at Astapova, where he was made as comfortable as possible in the rude wooden buildings.

For five days he had lain there, suffering first from bronchitis, and later from inflammation of the lungs. Specialists were called from Moscow and other places, but notwithstanding their utmost efforts, the heart of the great Russian responded but feebly to the restoratives and stimulants administered.

Failed to Recognize Countess.
Countess Tolstoy was admitted to the sick room for the first time last night,
but her husband morning hours awak-
ed her. She had hastened to the bedside, when she learned several days ago that his illness was serious, but the physicians had deemed it advisable that she be kept away from the countess, fearing that her presence might cause the patient emotion. Other members of the family were from time to time admitted to the presence of their father, and his daughter Alexandra has been in constant attendance.

Premier Briand ATTACKED BY A ROYALIST

His Assailant Was Kicked and Beaten by the Crowd, and Might Have Been Killed, if He Had Not Been Rescued
by Republican Guards—The Premier Not Seriously Hurt.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Imposing national ceremonies in the Tuilleries Garden today, in connection with the dedication of a statue erected to the memory of Jules Ferry, the French statesman, were marred by an assault upon Premier Briand, who, while walking with President Fallieres, was struck twice in the face by a Royalist.

The incident occurred at the end of the exercises, which were attended by thousands. President Fallieres, B. Briand and other ministers were walking toward the gateway, when a man broke through the Republican guards that lined the road, leaped to M. Briand's side, and, raising his clenched fists
high in the air, brought them with full
force upon the premier's face. M. Bri-
and reeled, but did not fall. As friends
rushed up to assist him, he cried: "I am all right; we must protect my assailant."

The very audacity of the assault rendered the crowd momentarily speechless, but a shout of "anov" and cries of "Kill him," arose quickly from all sides, as men fought their way to lay hands upon the assailant. He was kicked and beaten and badly injured
before the Republican Guards, urged on by the premier, succeeded in rescuing him.

The man was taken before a magistrate. He gave the name of Lacour, and said he was a member of the executive committee of the Camelots du Roi, an organization of young Royalists,
and that he wished to strike M. Briand, the republic in the person of B. Briand, and, raising his clenched fists
high in the air, brought them with full
force upon the premier's face. M. Bri-
and reeled, but did not fall. As friends
rushed up to assist him, he cried: "I

sailant."

BOURASSA TO RUN AGAINST SIR WILFRID

Nationalist Leader Will, if Plans Work Out, Beard the Premier in His Own Constituency of Quebec East—
Talk of New Liberal Paper
for the Ancient Capital.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—
The Nationalists, at the coming federal election, will carry the war into Africa, and, if the plans now entertained by the friends of Henri Bourassa come to a fruition, the leader in person will oppose Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Quebec East, which, up to the present year of great happenings, has vied with Drummond and Arthabaska as being the most pronounced Liberal stronghold in the Province of Quebec.

This then is the present program.
Mr. Bourassa will run in two constituencies, as he would never burn his bridges by accepting nomination in one county, with so formidable an adversary as the prime minister, and it is also quite likely that the leader of the administration will also run for two constituencies. The latter supposition has, however, been denied in certain quarters, where the assertion made that Laurier will contest all in his old constituency, and should Quebec East, which has never elected anything else
but a Liberal since confederation, withdraw its confidence from the present idol of his race, the leader of the Nationalists will bid adieu to public life.

Not in a Hurry.
Altho Bourassa is by no means in a hurry to get back to Ottawa, the candidacy would be too great,
and no doubt he would have to enter the federal arena almost immediately.
Supporting, for instance, the shuffe at Ottawa, and H. Gervais should be called to the cabinet, the pressure would be tremendous to have
Mr. Bourassa run against the new minister in St. James, but, altho believed by some, it is an unlooked-for alternative.

Awaiting Bourassa's return to the house of commons, it is expected that an attempt will be made by the Quebec members to force another vote upon the Liberal members from this province, who are already badly scared over the state of public opinion in their constituencies. To place them deeper than ever in the mud, all votes for the new navy bill will be opposed, except the money necessary for a submarine and Halifax, and for the Nobe and Rainbow, and while the French rouges are either voting or shirking the votes in the house, Bourassa and his friends will keep up the agitation in the country.

Bourassa will leave at once for a two months' rest in Great Britain and the continent, while Mr. Monk will hold the fort at Ottawa, and the fact alone
leads to the impression that the Nationalist chieftain does not expect to see any counties opened in this district
before the end of the present session.
The discontent, however, in the ancient capital is very great, and already a good deal of work is accomplished in the way of selecting candidates. The corresponding of Le Pays says: "We have no ministers here, and, altho you may say that we have Laurier, he has no time to look after local matters of interest to the party,
and all will admit that Bourassa is a little too far away for us to carry our grievances to Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux. As for our newspapers, Le Soleil and La Vie, they represent the ministers, rather than the party here, and as a whole, consequently, there is a question of starting a new paper, which will represent Liberalism, rather than the personal interests of this one or that. It will be the defeat in Drummond and Arthabaska open the ministers' eyes? If not I hope there will be men with sufficient courage at the opening of parliament to remind the ministers that there is a party here,
and also to remind them of their fine
promises to Quebec."

Casgrain for Quebec Centre.
There is a strong movement in Quebec to have Thomas Casgrain run for Quebec Centre, as that gentleman has not lost any of his old popularity in Quebec on account of being a resident of Montreal. Rumor has it that George Parent, M.P. for Montmorency, will be opposed by Mr.
Gobeil, formerly of the public works department, who made such a splendid run in 1908 against the two governments, and who will again be a candidate.

The Nationalists believe that they will have a walk over in the Montreal district, altho there is heavier work in store for them in Quebec and the surrounding counties.

WARSHIPS AT NICARAGUA.
SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua,
Nov. 20.—It is reported here that a British and German warship have arrived at Corinto. Their presence in Nicaragua waters, it is said, is due to the refusal of the provisional government to recognize the concessions granted by Zelaya to Englishmen and Germans.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS

EVANGELISTS FOUR HOT SHOT AT MAYOR McLAREN

HAMILTON Described as Reeling in Drunkenness—The Man Who Coughed in Church.

HAMILTON, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—McCombe Brothers, the Toronto evangelists, who have been in the limelight here all week on account of the controversy with Mayor McLaren and Ald. Fort, over the statements made by them, took another round out of the former to-day, in remarks made in Zion Tabernacle and Association Hall.

Rev. John McCombe preached in the church in the morning and said that Hamilton was reeling in drunkenness last night, and among other things, he said that most ministers liked to go to heaven by way of Toronto. He went thru a take-off on Mayor McLaren, who, he intimated, thought he was "the whole business." Then he pictured the mayor as saying that he had not a dollar when he came to the city, but who now, pointing to this and that, indicated them as possessions of his.

Would Vote for Whiskey Men. He said if he had to choose between a man who told him that he favored his principles, and then went and hopped with the liquor crowd, and a whiskey man, he would vote for the whiskey man, as he would not deceive him. He said there was one man in Hamilton who had his hand in the temperance people's pockets, and who, at the same time, worked with the whiskey gang's rackets, but he did not think that that man would succeed in fooling the voters. The mayor had accused the speaker of being a preacher for the money he could make out of it, but he said the mayor knew much easier than he could make out of it, but he still stood by his former statement, that Hamilton was one of the most drunken cities between Halifax and Vancouver.

He said the people here would have to travel some to find a mayor who would lower himself as Mayor McLaren had within the last few days. Coughed at Wrong Time. One of the most interesting incidents that he has ever had to deal with will come before Magistrate Jett on Monday morning, at 10 o'clock. George E. Dunn, 92 North Elm-street, will be charged with creating a disturbance in Victoria-avenue Baptist Church. The alleged offence consists of coughing in church during the service, and it is alleged that Dunn has done that for three years. The charge was made by John Gillard, a member of the board of management.

Somebody Spent Money. C. S. Lewis stated that he had been an active Conservative worker. At the election he was discharged from the party and was appointed to arrange for a series of addresses during the coming campaign, and also to put posters throughout the city. Jim Doolittle, the most seriously wounded of the boys after the riot, were shot on Princess-street on Friday night, was reported to be in a critical condition to-day. He was not yet recovered on yesterday, and some of the pellets were removed.

Stabbed by Her Husband. Italian Woman at the Soo Probably Fatally Wounded. SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Mary Nipolotano, a married Italian woman, living in the Italian colony, is a patient at the general hospital, suffering from stab wounds, said to be fatal, inflicted by her husband, Peter Nipolotano, who in a fit of jealousy attempted to kill her. The husband returned from a trip out of town, and, finding a number of men in the house, attacked the woman with a knife, she proceeded to the river front, and was in the act of throwing herself into the water, when frustrated by passers-by.

COUNCIL MEETING TO-DAY

Several Items of General Interest to Be Debated.

The city council will meet this afternoon, when the submission of the viaduct bylaws, proposed purchase of horses on the street cleaning department, controllers' rejection of harbor and civil improvement commission's plans, and a petition for the Belmont-avenue fire station site will be discussed.

City Engineer Rust returned yesterday from a visit to Baltimore, Md., and Harrisburg, Pa., and Lockport, N.Y. The object was to gain information as to the operation of district steam heating systems there, in view of the application of a company for a franchise in Rosedale. Mr. Rust said he found the systems worked satisfactorily, and that he was impressed with the company's works at Lockport. He is not yet ready to place a value on the franchise.

City Treasurer Coady has issued a massive volume of many hundreds of pages, giving a statement in detail of the city's finances up to Dec. 31, 1909. It shows the city's net debt at that time to be $26,648,397.69.

JEW'S BOUND TO HAVE THEIR OWN CANDIDATES

majority as one of the candidates got in Winnipeg," was an utterance much applauded. Max Herzlich, the secretary, said the league was not limited to Hebrews, but any Conservative or slobber over the members supported a Liberal or Conservative, they would help his election, but otherwise would put up a candidate of their own.

The Way It's Done. "If outside influences would leave the Jew alone, he would do the square thing on election day," declared A. P. Lewis. "Who is the most to be censured, the man who receives the bribe, and who may be starving, or the man who gives it? It has been told me that $1000 more would have put Robinson in that the greatest slander I ever heard of. I heard one man say 90 per cent. of the Jews were bought, and I tell you that is a lie. H. H. Dewart said he wasn't going to slobber over the Jews. Did Robinson do so? Yes, he did. The other men did, too, but they don't deny it. They went from show to show, from wedding to wedding, from club to club, danced with our mothers and wives and kissed our babies."

Louis Gurofsky wanted to know where Mr. Robinson had been for the past two years. Mr. Bristol had been around several times, but that was because he was a member. Three weeks ago Dr. John Shyne had gone over to the Conservatives, and the irony of it was that next night, at a Conservative meeting, Jews were treated even worse than by the Liberals.

Jew for Finance Minister. The speaker had forcibly impressed upon the minister of justice and the minister of the interior his views on the unjust way Jewish immigrants were treated. "Watch out for the Poles, Jews and Italians, was the government's watchword."

"I am as good as any Englishman living, and there are Jews in this country who would make better finance ministers than either Mr. Plaiding or Mr. Foster," he announced. "If I couldn't beat Tom Whiteside in parliament I would quit business."

Mr. Gurofsky said he would vote for any Jew who was nominated, and his prophecy of a "Yiddish member in the next election" was enthusiastically greeted.

STABBED BY HER HUSBAND

Italian Woman at the Soo Probably Fatally Wounded.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Mary Nipolotano, a married Italian woman, living in the Italian colony, is a patient at the general hospital, suffering from stab wounds, said to be fatal, inflicted by her husband, Peter Nipolotano, who in a fit of jealousy attempted to kill her. The husband returned from a trip out of town, and, finding a number of men in the house, attacked the woman with a knife, she proceeded to the river front, and was in the act of throwing herself into the water, when frustrated by passers-by.

PRESENTATION TO MISS DURAND

Seventy members of the Pharos Circle Association waited upon Miss Leaur B. Durand at her residence, 227 Huron-st., on Saturday afternoon and presented her with tokens of their gratitude and affection for her work in their behalf during the sixteen years' service on the Globe staff. Representatives were present from London, Chatham, Goderich, Berlin, Schomberg, Hamilton, Midland, Woodbridge, Barrie, Hanover, Stratford, Orillia, Brantford, Richmond Hill and many other outside places. The gifts were a very handsome brass tea and coffee service complete with tray, a brass candle-labrum and a cut glass rose jar filled with roses.

ALLEGED SHOPLIFTER

Archibald McNiven, 198 Markham-street, a bricklayer, was arrested by P. C. Bolton (23) Saturday night, charged with theft from the S. H. Yonge-street, corner of Queen and Yonge-streets. He had a large assortment of hammers, files, pinners, brushes and talcum powder in his pockets when he was pointed out by store officials to the policeman.

JOE CHATBERGAIN SENDS GOOD WISHES TO BALFOUR

Longs to Stand on Platform With Him For Great National and Imperial Reforms.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable). LONDON, Nov. 20.—(Cable.)—Joseph Chatbergain has written to Mr. Balfour, warmly approving the latter's Nottingham speech. "I wish my health permitted me to take my stand on the platform with you, to promote the great national and imperial reforms, which you described. That I cannot do, but my best wishes go with you in your fight for freedom, union and progress."

Lord Roberts has postponed his resolution on imperial defence in the house of lords, so Lord Crewe to-morrow moves the second reading of the Asquith Redmond bill. It is expected that Lord Lansdowne will take the opportunity of meeting Asquith's challenge that the Unionist proposal for reform of the house of lords is a concession to the Liberal party. "The good American dollars" are playing an increasing part in the Unionist campaign. Everywhere the government is accused of rushing the election of the Liberal party. It is seriously suggested that a carried, covered with dollar signs, should be carried in derision in every constituency, kicked thru the streets and burnt. The Unionist press are also giving loud expression to the grumbling of the tradespeople at a Christmaseday election. Party politicians on both sides are continuing to the fight with a fierceness which is not to be meted out to the Liberal party. The influence of the labor party would be seriously diminished if a reversal of the Osborne judgment. He said that the labor vote would decide the fate of from 75 to 80 constituencies. Asquith has promised to declare the government's decision Tuesday or Wednesday.

AERONAUTS THROW OUT

Big Sky Ship Buffeted About Like Toy Balloon by 65 Mile Gale.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Nov. 20.—In a 65-mile gale, which buffeted their big ship about like a toy balloon, Pilot Leo Stange and his crew, of the Williams College students, who ascended in the balloon Cleveland, from North Adams Saturday morning, landed 3 hours and 20 minutes after the start of a lake just outside this city.

All five men were thrown out when the fine landing was made. One, H. P. Scherman of London, England, was rendered unconscious. He suffered injuries to his head, but was otherwise unharmed. It was a fine feat, and the feat might prove of a serious nature, but his condition appeared to be improved later in the night.

LESS COURT BURNED

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Less Court, at Faversham, Kent, home of the Earl of Sondes, with its priceless contents, was burned this morning. The damage is estimated at $500,000, but no intrinsic value could be placed on many of the treasures with which the house was filled.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effective Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general feeling of languor and debility. There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested, thereby enabling the ferment to irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion of the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Distasse, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Godden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety. The tablets are made of vegetable and through digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

BIG NORTH TORONTO MEETING TALKS SEWAGE

By Sweeping Majority Favors General Over Local Improvement Tax—County Doings.

NORTH TORONTO, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The opening gun in the big campaign for better sewer and sanitation conditions in the Town of North Toronto was opened in the town hall on Saturday night, when about 75 of the ratepayers, by their presence and interest, showed their desire for the early installation of the great work-erly sewerage system. The meeting was a remarkably quiet and harmonious one. The point at issue was not really as to whether or not the sewerage system should be built, but as to the methods to be adopted for paying for the sewerage system. A general rate was the crucial point, and following the discussion by Mr. W. G. Ellis, the local improvement tax was voted for by a sweeping majority of 45 to 30.

Saturday night's meeting, a public one, was called by his worship the Mayor, who presided with infinite satisfaction to nearly everybody, and in the course of a comprehensive and thoroughly interesting address, he referred to the report, together with City Engineer Rust's endorsement. "The sewerage proposition, whichever way it is decided to pay for it, has my hearty endorsement," said Mayor Brown, "and I will bring to bear whatever influence I may have in furthering it."

Following the close of his worship's address, he invited W. G. Ellis to speak, when Councillor D. D. Reid suggested that the members of the council first be called upon. "This is a meeting of the ratepayers to express their views," said his worship, "but if Mr. Ellis is willing to speak, I have no objection to Councillor speaking first," which he did. The mayor seems to think he is the whole thing, and, besides, I have to thank him for several courtesies as chairman of the sewerage committee during the year. Said Mr. Reid, "I am very sorry, indeed, said his worship, that the sewerage system is so very unpleasant one during the evening."

Bring up the little ones to chew "the beneficial confection."

They all want to chew this delicious gum. Let them chew all they want. It's fine for young teeth and fine for older teeth. It prevents trouble in well stomachs and drives away trouble in unwell stomachs. It's a very dainty tidbit at a very little price. The more of it you chew, the better it is for you.

'TIS 65TH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

Bishop of Toronto Tells of the History of Second Oldest Anglican Church in the City.

Bishop Sweeney conducted the morning services at the Church of St. George the Martyr, on John-street, yesterday, commemorating the 65th anniversary of the founding of the parish. Special music was provided by the choir of 80 male voices, under the direction of Prof. Phillips. His lordship took his text from Exodus xxv., being parts of the 8th and 22d verses. "And let him make me a sanctuary that I may dwell among them, and there I will meet with them, and I will commune with them from above the mercy seat." God had made man after his own image and still, according to the first article of the church, God is a being without body, parts and passions. But God had given man a spirit after His own likeness, and it was thru this spirit of man that God communed. According to this commandment it was the will of God that churches should be built where men could meet for worship and communion with their Master. His lordship took his hearers back to 1845, in the days of Muddy York, when a small frame church was built where St. James' Cathedral now stands. This church rendered service to the entire Anglican population of the city for 40 years. St. George's was built in 1844, as an offshoot of St. James', and was then the only Anglican church in the western half of Toronto. The grounds were the donation of Mr. and Mrs. D'Arcy Boulton of the Grange. It was formally opened Nov. 9, 1845, at a cost of $25,000, which was all paid by Nov. 20, 1853, when the building was consecrated. These 65 years had witnessed many changes in the church proper. Many beautiful memorial tablets and windows had been placed there. The schoolhouse was erected in 1857, and the rectory in 1867, and in 1899 the congregation had amalgamated with St. Margaret's. Many able men and good had preached there, but the church had only known four rectors—Charles Rutland, for four years; Stephen Litt, for four years; T. Brock Fuller, 13 years, and J. D. Cayley, the present rector, who was now celebrating his 35th year with the church. His lordship paid a feeling tribute to the worth and ability of the rector, who was now at home grief-stricken over the news of the death of his son in India. For 25 years he has woven the fibre of his life with the fibres of your lives—at all times an influence for good. This is a record eternally shall not

FOUR DROWNED FROM A SMALL BOAT AT THE SOO

Overloaded Craft Tried to Cross the River During Prohibited Hours.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 20. (Special.)—In one of the saddest drowning accidents which ever occurred on the St. Mary's River, four young men lost their lives last night, and three others of the party were saved. The drowned are: Fred Barker, 24, son of J. Parker, Wemis-street; Cecil Brown, 17, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Grace-street; Reginald Levi, 18, son of Mrs. Mary Levi, Abbott-street, and John Sherwood, 45, a night ferryman, known as "The Leg," who resided at Clifford Dikes, 16; Norman Traganza, 18; Alex. Biron, 30. The accident took place while the party of seven were returning in a row-boat from the Michigan side at 9 o'clock this morning. Sherwood was known as one of the most fearless men on the river, and altho he had been warned by customs and immigration to discontinue the practice, persisted in bringing parties across the river during prohibited hours. He was warned by a Soo resident last night, after depositing his load on the Canadian side, to refrain, but immediately left for Michigan, and while waiting for his boatload, he said to have imbibed somewhat. The party was made up at 2 this morning, and left the slip just above the ferry-dock in a small boat, which was overloaded. A strong current swept around the pier on the Michigan side, throwing the swift waters towards the Canadian shore. With a moderate east wind and the strong swell thus made, immediately dangerous waters were entered. Biron, who was an experienced riverman, became alarmed, when he heard of waves being shipped, and suggested that the boat be bailed, and a can was procured. The members of the party were engaged in bailing when two heavy swells struck the craft and the boat immediately filled and sank. Parker, Brown and Levi dropped in their heavy clothes and immediately disappeared, and Sherwood, who had but one leg, grasped the bars and his crutch, and made for the Canadian side. He was seen for some distance when he rescued, but eventually disappeared. Biron, Traganza and Dikes clung to the boat, and their shouts were heard on the Michigan side. The Superior Steel Trust supply boat and the tug Sabina proceeded to the scene of the accident and rescued the men, who were all exhausted and could not have lasted much longer, as the strong current spun the boat around like a top. It is said that the barge Mar-

The new lighting system on King street, between Yonge and Bay, and Charles street, from Church to Yonge, was given the very satisfactory test Saturday night, both the illumination and general appearance evoking great praise. According to the city's electrical department the city is supplying East Toronto with light at rates 80 per cent. cheaper than those of the T.E.C. Co. Peter Kostoff, aged 22, Macedonian, was caught in the machinery of the sand tower at the Barber Asphalt Co. plant, East-end avenue, Saturday afternoon and crushed to death. University Sermon

Rev. Canon O'Meara of Wycliffe College, preached the university sermon at convocation hall yesterday morning, in place of President Rush of Rochester University, who was unable to be present, owing to illness. The discourse was based upon the text, "Be not afraid. It is I, I am not afraid." St. John, xiv., 23. Some people appeared to think that religion was something apart from secular life, and exclusively for Sundays. It should be recognized as of constant application from Sunday morning until Saturday night. In these busy days people were in peril of thinking they could never afford the time for prayer, but the Lord Jesus Christ set a different example upon this privilege. It was thru the inspiration of communication with the Lord that Christians were enabled to accomplish their life's work. When the disciples were alarmed in their storm-beset boat it was not like now, when the disciples were enabled to be present at the convocation. The present age of steam and motor boats. The fishermen had to rely upon their oars. When their sail was rent and their oars became broken they abandoned hope. It was the difficulty of life which tested character. God knew the distress of the disciples and was testing their faith. The great benefit of such trials was that if they were met courageously they gave increased strength for the future. Difficulties were the stepping stones to a higher and nobler life. When the disciples were about to give up hope the Lord came in time of need to help them. Just as Christians now are on the verge of giving up hope of being able to withstand temptation from evil, it is then the Master comes to render aid and guidance. When the disciples first saw Jesus approaching they failed to recognize Him, and thought He was an apparition of evil approaching. It is the same to-day, when God comes with the discipline of trials and difficulties. His visitation is regarded as an evil because He does not always come with sunshine. The message, "Be not afraid," conquer your difficulties, should give courage sufficient for any difficulty. As it was in the case of the impulsive but faint hearted Peter, the Lord was ready to respond to the appeal of all who call upon Him for help in the hour of need and difficulty.

POSTMASTER FIFTY YEARS

Death of D. A. Jones of Beeton—A Pioneer Merchant.

D. A. Jones, for fifty years postmaster at Beeton, succumbed there yesterday to a prolonged illness from asthma. He had been in failing health for some months, and critically ill for the last three weeks. The deceased was a native of Markham, and was in his 73rd year. His brother, Hon. Lyman Jones, is the nearest surviving relative, his wife having died some years ago. The late postmaster of Beeton was an active figure in the early mercantile life of the town, and was widely known thruout the surrounding district.

HARBOR GOVERNMENT AND DEVELOPMENT.

Whatever the motive of the board of control in slighting Controller Spence's proposals for a harbor commission, we trust that the city council will not be influenced by the board's action.

The advantages of Controller Spence's plan are evident, and some of the features are essential. To begin with, the proposed commission will be entirely administrative in its character.

It is not to be expected that the government will advance any considerable sum without having some say in its expenditure. The spending and controlling body should undoubtedly be a permanent one to ensure the necessary experience and continuity of management.

All that is asked of the city council is to submit a bylaw to the ratepayers asking them if they are in favor of the control and development of Ashbridge's bay and the waterfront thru this commission.

ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY SHAREHOLDERS.

The World has been considered Utopian for suggesting that Sir Henry Pellatt and his fellow directors of the Toronto Electric Light Company consider the sale of their company from the point of view of the purchaser.

The attempt to hold up the city for a long price on T. E. L. stock is largely a stock-gambling movement. The general shareholders would have been glad to sell out to the city two years ago, and would be glad to sell now.

$2,500,000 as the very outside figure the city could offer the company. And at this amount the city would be loading up the citizens with capital charges on their power and light which would considerably increase the rates.

VIADUCT ALTERNATIVES.

The Evening Star has a silly article about the Bloor-street viaduct in which it declares that the most expensive route is being chosen. The Star has "four alternative" routes to propose instead of the one route the engineers have recommended and the people want.

No improvement proposed at present will benefit such an immense area of city territory as the Bloor-st. viaduct. The whole of the east end across the Don will respond to the improvement as Parkdale has done since the construction of the subways.

PREVENTIBLE DISEASE.

Toronto, like other cities in Ontario, is deeply interested in the movement for the restraint of tuberculosis. The legislature has made several attempts to deal with the question, but has been blocked by some unaccountable objection of Sir James Whitney's.

One person dies every day in Toronto of consumption. Ten people die every day in Ontario of consumption. Three thousand people a year. Every day ten families are desolate.

TOLSTOI

Writing in The London (Eng.) News on Tolstois last birthday, Robert Lynd says: "It may be that a future age will venerate the man of letters, the great novelist, the writer of 'Peace and War' and 'Anna Karenina,' and forget Tolstois the teacher; but to us he is above all the idealist, the apostle of peace, love and simplicity, who has made his voice heard above the din of the modern world."

The extraordinary popularity enjoyed by him in Russia was demonstrated a few months ago, when he passed thru Moscow. At the railway station and in the streets enormous crowds gathered and cheered him. I have seen the clear drive thru his capital. A few when uncovered as he passed, but nobody cheered, and there was no sign of enthusiasm; that which was denied the autocrat of all the Russias was given to the old man in peasant's blouse.

I have sometimes asked myself what is the reason for the veneration in which Russians hold Tolstois. The question is a pertinent one because there are few who attempt to mold their lives on his teaching. The answer to the question is, I think, partly to be found in the fact that the autocracy and orthodoxy, the two pillars of the Russian state, have found their worst enemy in Tolstois. The Tolstois who preaches the simple life may be regarded as a dreamer—"let us crown ourselves with roses before they be withered" is a more popular doctrine in contemporary Russia—but when the old man denounced the whole of the Russian empire, by which Tolstois has established the new triumph of autocracy, he was listened to, as were the words of the peasant-tyrant and the avenger. His appeal for mercy and the stanching of the stream of blood which the premier was drenching Russia made him the spokesman of his fellow-countrymen. They saw in him a defender and a champion, whom the government could not touch.

His fame has gone out into all lands, and the glory he has brought to his country has been another factor contributing to the defeat in which he held by Russia. It is, thanks to foreign opinion, that Tolstois has been allowed to remain at peace. The government has not dared to stir up the indignation of the whole world by sending him into prison or by hounding him out of the country. It has confined itself to annoying and harassing him. He has been driven from the palace of the Emperor's church, when he comes to die his children will not be allowed to bury his bones in holy ground. His follower, Prince Hilkoft, has been persecuted, and by Tolstois has been deprived of his order to hurt the teacher. He has been cut to the quick when he has heard of bookellers fined or imprisoned for selling certain of his books. The persecution has been a constant one, but nevertheless, difficult to bear. Yet, because the world recognized the nobility of his teaching the autocrat has been unable to cast him down, and this is the great triumph of his life.

Many years ago Count Tolstois was asked to progress of the defence in the case of a soldier named Shilov, who was court-martialed for having assaulted his superior officer. Tolstois defended the soldier, by the time he was convicted and executed. In a recent letter to M. Biryukov, Tolstois's biographer, the count described the incident and the effect it had upon his entire life. He said that he had done scientific works of two kinds, in works on what is called jurisprudence, with its criminal laws, and in works which are called purely scientific, the justness of which is proved by more scientific works, and in works which are called purely scientific, the justness of which is proved by more scientific works, and in works which are called purely scientific, the justness of which is proved by more scientific works.

These falsehoods of the church and of openly have brought us now to the position in which we find ourselves. It is no longer months but years that pass in which there is not a day without executions and murders, and some people are glad when government murders; while others are glad when more general estate owners, merchants and policemen are killed. On the one hand, rewards of 10 to 25 rubles are distributed for the murders; on the other hand, the revolutionists are being praised as heroes and their names are being written in the history books.

"I said the constable was acting within the rights of his employer. I think the law is perfectly plain, that where a ticket for theatre is sold in the usual course, and it is discovered that the patron has been shown to wrong seat, he must assist in making things right."

THEATRE OWNER'S RIGHT DEFINED BY A JUDGE

If a Patron is Accidentally Shown to Wrong Seat, He Must Assist in Making Things Right.

The recent decision in the assize court of Justice Tietzel, dismissing the $3000 damage suit brought by two young men, Hyde and Lashman, against the Toronto Theatre Co., owners of the Gayety Theatre, is of such importance in defining the respective rights of the theatre proprietors and patrons that the full text of the judgment is here-with given.

At the conclusion of the argument of the Establishment, Justice Tietzel pronounced judgment as follows: "I think, upon the evidence in this case, the two young men, the plaintiffs, acted in an ill-advised way. After damage suit brought by two young men, Hyde and Lashman, against the Toronto Theatre Co., owners of the Gayety Theatre, is of such importance in defining the respective rights of the theatre proprietors and patrons that the full text of the judgment is here-with given."

Upon the evidence, I do not think the plaintiff Lashman was injured to any appreciable extent by the blow he received in the theatre. Women and children would be frightened by seeing these two men fighting, and there was no telling what consequences it might lead to. It might be regretted that at this period of civilization young men should conduct themselves in such a manner in the presence of an audience.

DOCTOR GETS TWENTY YEARS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—Twenty years imprisonment was the sentence imposed yesterday on Dr. Robert Thompson, alias James Grant, for causing the death of Miss Eva Swan by a criminal operation. His offence was aggravated by the fact that he mutilated the girl's body so as to jam it into a trunk and then buried it in quicklime under a cottage in the suburb, which he rented for a month.

COUNT TOLSTOY HAS PASSED BEYOND

the foggy raw November night. Virtually the whole population of Astapor was there. Then a voice from the hut came quivering: "Leo Nikolovitch is dead!"

There was a moment of silence. Then every head was bowed and the crowd was rent with sobs.

Unbounded Love for Humanity. One recalled the peasant in the district flocked here. None was excluded from the death chamber, through which there was a constant stream of visitors, including many school children. The chamber was decorated with pine branches. The body has been embalmed and will be transferred to Yasnya Polyana. All visitors have been given permission to photograph the body if they wish. Mr. Ginzberg, the sculptor, will take a death mask.

It is stated that Tolstoy expressed a wish to be buried on the hill at Yasnya Polyana, where he played as a child, but that the peasants in the district would not consent to a simple one, without ceremonial or flowers. The family, however, has agreed not to interfere with any honors that the public may desire to bestow on a representative of the writer who started a movement for the acquisition of the house where he died, as a national memorial.

Grand Duke Nicholas Michaelovitch has sent a message to Countess Tolstoy, saying: "My whole soul is with you and your family at this sad moment." Numerous other telegrams of sympathy have come from organizations and individuals.

Actors Refused to Play. MOSCOW, Nov. 20.—The police today forbade the theatres to suspend their performances because of the death of Count Tolstoy. Nevertheless, the playhouses were closed, as the actors refused to appear.

At the Moscow Russian Church a public requiem was permitted.

TOLSTOY'S CAREER

Remarkable Experiences and Mode of Life of the Greatest of Russians.

Few Russians have ever more fully incarnated the contradictions as well as the qualities of the race than Count Tolstoy, who was both aristocrat and plebeian. Fewer have had his astonishing experience, or shown his extraordinary versatility.

Student and man of the world; soldier sharing in the perils of national defence; hero in the struggle against famine and the despotic Russian autocrat; Tolstoy turned away from a distinguished career and a life of ease to a life of poverty and struggle.

It was his genius in the intellectual field that made his power omnipotent, and this was only one of his many gifts. He was a scholar, a linguist, a once half-barbarous language which Peter the Great had to edit—his speech on any important question was waited for and listened to with the greatest attention.

Tolstoy was especially a power to be reckoned with in his own country. Born shortly after the suppressed insurrection of the Decembrists against Nicholas I, he lived to see czarism maintained by a representative assembly, from which, as many believe, the full constitutional freedom of 150,000,000 people is sooner or later to emerge.

He was a scholar, a linguist, a once half-barbarous language which Peter the Great had to edit—his speech on any important question was waited for and listened to with the greatest attention.

Tolstoy was especially a power to be reckoned with in his own country. Born shortly after the suppressed insurrection of the Decembrists against Nicholas I, he lived to see czarism maintained by a representative assembly, from which, as many believe, the full constitutional freedom of 150,000,000 people is sooner or later to emerge.

It was his genius in the intellectual field that made his power omnipotent, and this was only one of his many gifts. He was a scholar, a linguist, a once half-barbarous language which Peter the Great had to edit—his speech on any important question was waited for and listened to with the greatest attention.

Farthest North

It is a recognized fact among distillers that the finest Scotch Whisky is produced in the Highlands of Scotland.

In the North, the art of distilling has been handed down from father to son for generations.

The Stromness Distillery—established at Orkney over a century ago—is the farthest north of any distillery in the world.

The inference is plain. The entire production of this distillery is devoted to "Old Orkney" Whisky and every drop is bottled by us.

In the court halls. The material was excellent for descriptive purposes, and he reproduced it to the life in "War and Peace."

But this quaffing of social pleasures ended in disgust. At the end of his three years' social journey in the capital Tolstoy turned away disillusioned. With new views taking shape in his mind, he went abroad, traveled thru western Europe, studied popular education, visited establishments and gained both theory and practice from which to extract.

Got a Good Wife. The steady influence came with his marriage in September, 1862, to Sophia Andreevna Bers, the daughter of a distinguished Moscow physician. Notwithstanding the disparity of age—he was 22, she was 18—the union was an ideal one.

It was on Aug. 28, 1823, at Yasnya Polyana, about 150 miles south of Moscow, that Tolstoy was born, the youngest of four sons. Both parents figure in the famous novel, "War and Peace," the sons as Nicholas, and the daughter as Marie Volkonsky. The mother died soon after the lad's birth, the father seven years later.

At the age of 16 Tolstoy entered the university at Kazan, but met with only indifferent success in his studies. Lack of attention was his chief failing; in Russian and general history he was written down by the examiner as "very lazy."

The boy's mind was meanwhile turning to sociological questions. Seized with the idea of devoting himself to the interests of the peasants, he suddenly gave up his college work, returned to Yasnya Polyana, and spent some time buying himself with outdoor country life. The year 1851 found him reveling with the scenery of the Caucasus, whether he had traveled on a visit to his elder brother. It was here that he entered the army by joining a military brigade. For three years, and until the outbreak of the war with Turkey, he was stationed on the River Terek.

By 1853 his literary career already had begun with the writing of his life as a child and with the collection of material afterwards used in "The Cossacks" and other stories. But he had as yet no thought of devoting himself wholly to literature.

Career as a Soldier. When the eastern war began Tolstoy was assigned, at his own request, to the staff of Prince Gortchakoff, commanding the Russian army in the mean war. Taking part in the moving of the Caucasus, he fought at Sebastopol. As commander of a mountain battery and one of the defenders of the Malakof, the young officer did brilliant service. These thrilling experiences found real-life expression in "Sebastopol Sketches"—a book after the publication of which Tolstoy found himself in demand as a writer. The campaign over, Tolstoy went to St. Petersburg. For three years he was gay with the gayest. He dissipated at wine parties, went on sleighing expeditions, looked in at the high teas of aristocracy, and revelled

in the court halls. The material was excellent for descriptive purposes, and he reproduced it to the life in "War and Peace."

LOCAL OPTION AT ORILLIA

Changes That Have Resulted From No-License Law. What local option has done for Orillia was the theme of an address by John C. Miller, manufacturer, of that town, before the Canadian Temperance League at Massey Hall Sunday afternoon. Mr. Miller is just back from a fortnight's temperance campaigning in Saskatchewan.

He declared that local option in Orillia, in force over two years, has been a success, the law having been enforced by a sympathetic police force, magistrate and town council. As a result, population has increased, and so have property values, while every manufacturer has signed a document that business conditions have been better because of legitimate trade in the town had a bank overdraft of $11,000 because of unpaid taxes; eight months after, this had been reduced to $1100. The ladies and societies of the churches used to collect funds each year for distribution among the poor. Last Xmas they reported there was nobody that required assistance.

MUST TAKE A REST

Commissioner Coombs of the Salvation Army Breaks Down. Commissioner Coombs of the Salvation Army has declined upon taking a two months' complete rest. The task of conducting the vast operations of the organization in Canada in the strenuous manner of the commissioner has shattered his nervous system, and he finds insomnia becoming chronic.

Speaking to The World last night Commissioner Coombs said: "I cannot sleep, and must take a complete rest. It is my first serious breakdown in 25 years, so I ought to feel grateful. I am going to Ottawa and Montreal to wind up some business there, and on my return in a few days have decided to take a rest up for a couple of months."

ASQUITH GIVES KEYNOTE OF COMING CAMPAIGN

Premier Says Conservatives Govern In and Out of Office Thru Help of the Lords.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Tribune's London correspondent cables: The prime minister's manifesto has not come from Albert Hall, where he gave a famous platitude a year ago. The suffragettes might have made themselves troublesome in that place, whereas he was safe from interruption at the National Liberal Club, where he made a speech after luncheon Saturday. It was there, moreover, that he condemned the ironical attitude of the house of lords toward the close of 1908 in rejecting the licensing bill, and intimated that the ministers might accomplish their purpose with the aid of financial legislation. That was the signal for Lloyd George's budget, which has led to the veto bill and the crisis in the relations of the two houses.

The main issue of the impending Liberal canvass was described as the removal of the grievance of long standing—that the Conservatives, with the help of the house of lords, governed the country when in opposition as well as when in power. Liberal measures, Mr. Asquith said, must no longer be frustrated or rejected by a hostile upper chamber. Liberal bills must be carried when the ministers have the country behind them.

The prime minister will be followed the coming week by Lloyd George in the east end and Winston Churchill in the north, and the Liberal policies will be broadened and popularized. Possibly there will be a revision to line-barring. Certainly there will be attractive forecasts of social reform, accelerated by returns from land taxes and fortunes.

The ministry has been kept together by loyalty to free trade and by the constitutional issue, foolishly raised by the house of lords in holding up the budget. With the leaders in hearty accord the party exchequer will be supplied by rich subscribers, eager to obtain pecuniary rewards for party service, the rank and file are full of fighting power. The times are good, the coalition between Liberalism and Labor is close and the government, unless outmaneuvered during the next ten days, is likely to emerge from the general election with an increased majority.

A Delayed Confession. Mr. Balfour's sound, if belated, constructive program, with tariff reform as the main issue, and scientific reconstruction of the upper house and the orderly processes of constitutional reform as its leading features, is rallying the deflected and disheartened Unionists. Fractional feeling has disappeared and rapid preparations are making for a more strenuous canvass than the last one, in which over a hundred seats were recaptured by the Bonar Law stands for a Manchester seat it will be a bold stroke.

There is a chance for a fine play over the veto bill, which may be referred to a committee after passing the second reading; yet the main body of the peers are not vitally interested in Lord Lansdowne's clever manoeuvres. Now that they have themselves condemned the hereditary principle as obsolete and Mr. Balfour had conceded the necessity for sweeping reductions and drastic reforms, the veto bill appears to many of the less disaffected the least of their own weapons. Too late comes the confession that the failure of the conference was a catastrophe for the privileged classes. The lords are going into battle after striking their own colors.

Calls it an Outrage. In a London cable to The Times, Harry Lawson, M.P., declares that the coming election is an outrage on parliamentary government, and further emphasizes the point made by many writers on constitutional doctrine, that authority which dictates to the country without any chance of consideration or amendment because all its supporters in the caucus are bound hand and foot, and the government has been dealt with the leaders of the various groups in order to treat the house of lords, which in theory is co-ordinate, in summary fashion, cutting short its debates after the manner of Cromwell. This is a gross breach of decorum, which would be unthinkable in the last century.

The house of lords, with rare self-sacrifice have agreed to the abandonment of their hereditary privileges in order to secure a strong second chamber, and the cabinet, which desires to keep the house of lords weak because of their derivation, insists that they sacrifice all their real political power. The cabinet seeks to prescribe the peers and class them with inferior rank as the only people with no power for deciding either the administration or the legislation of their country. The peers are to be ruled outside the constitution.

Thousands Disfranchised. "So far as the constituencies are concerned, the appeal to be made to the country will be on the old register, which shows 20 per cent of removals in the big towns. The citizens, to have a vote, must have been in his present residence since July 14, 1905. Consequently the government is deliberately disfranchising a very large proportion of qualified electors.

The new register comes into operation on Jan. 1 next, except in Scotland, but the government think that the importance of a snatch election is so great that they are committing a crime against the spirit of the constitution. "Socialism has undoubtedly been fostered by big public bribes in this country. However, it is not a question of how many Socialists will be returned to Parliament, but how far the program will be socialistic."

THE WONDERFUL CAREER OF THE "DRUINE SARAH"

Something About the Life and Achievements of Bernhard, Who Comes Here This Week.

Sarah Bernhard was born on Oct. 23, 1845, her name being Rose, and her parents Dutch and Jewish. Soon after her birth her father died, and she was placed in a convent. At the age of 12 she made an impression by her performance of a prominent part in a Biblical play given at a convent in honor of a visit from the Archbishop of Paris.

When she was 14 she was taken to the Theatre Francaise and was so moved by a performance of "Britannicus" that an illness resulting in brain fever followed. Upon recovery she vowed she would become an actress, and at the age of 15 completed for admission to the conservatory. At the public trials she recited a simple fable by La Fontaine.

The jury, who had at first been inclined to laugh at her selection, became the famous teacher of Rachel, became an instructor in the art of acting, and won second prizes in both tragedy and comedy.

It is interesting to note that the jury and critics considered an "impediment" in her speech worsted the great tragedienne a year later she won second prizes in both tragedy and comedy.

Then followed years of hard work in an effort to win entire independence, she lived for a time in the streets in other companies until her triumphal re-entry to the National Theatre in 1872.

In 1874, however, she slumped a fellow sociétaire of the Comedie Francaise, the Comedie Francaise, and the time she was forced to quit the company.

In 1875 she was again taken back with the spectacular acclaim she has always loved. With the success of the year she and public and critics were agreed that she had succeeded Rachel and Adrienne Lecouvreur in the glorious traditions of the French stage.

Next came her balloon ascension, the one thousand franc fine imposed by her managers, her refusal to pay, and her entry once more into the cold, cold world, where for a moment she was left until Paris again stretched forth its arms to receive her as a heroine.

In 1879 she went to London and took the English by storm. In 1880 she was fined 100,000 francs for alleged infringement of the patent of the "Draine Sarah," and she was forced to leave the country.

Always Returns to Paris. But she has always returned to her Paris where she has been manager and producer of the theatre. She has been in the duels, and many of the kings and emperors who have recognized in her the queen of tragedy. She became, indeed, a national institution.

She should be white and slender, Paris that bears her name, which had become one of the pivots upon which art and tradition swing. The initial phase of her productions is often carried out in a grand and dramatic manner—something like $60—is taken each night from her receipts, theoretically, to cancel this debt.

She has lived with Oriental splendor like a sultan's favorite. But at Belle Isle, her country estate, she has lived in sweet simplicity, enjoying almost day after day the society of her family. It was once again the megar of glory upon which she has always lived.

Why, then, has she come again to America? Is it simply for money? Surely she who has made millions has not come solely for our lucre? To be sure, she has spent or given away all she has ever had. It is not money that she craves.

She knows that France would keep her in luxury through the remainder of her life. It is for this she comes to this country, to this continent. She has been to Prussia, Denmark, Germany and Italy, as well as to Brazil and Argentina.

The hands play, the people shout, special trains are ordered, the stations are crowded, mobs gather beneath her windows, audiences are spellbound in her presence, women gasp and men hold their breaths. It is for this she comes; this which keeps her young and perfect. Without this adulation she would shrink and die.

Conviction Quashed. Judge Morson has quashed the police court conviction of C.P.R. Conductor Rafferty, who was charged with blocking the Esplanade crossing more than five minutes allowed by law.

The judge holds that for such an offence to be proved, it must be shown that the blocking was wilful, and that in this case it was not wilful, because the semaphore was against Rafferty's train, which was running into the Union Station.

NOT AFRAID TO DIE

Dr. Crippen in Signed Statement Re-asserts His Innocence. LONDON, Nov. 20.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, whose execution is fixed for Nov. 23, in a three-column signed statement in a Sunday paper, says that he is not afraid to die, and appeals to the world to remember that he was condemned on inconclusive evidence, and asserts that the real truth will be revealed.

He knew nothing, he says, of the remains discovered in the Hill Drop Crescent house until Solicitor Newton told him the day after his arrival at Bow-street. He was confident that if he could have commanded unlimited funds, like the crown, and have brought more medical witnesses, the result would have been different.

The failure of his appeal, which he was convinced would reverse the judgment of the court, crushed and overwhelmed him, and broke his heart, because he had dreamt of building up a home with the woman, without whom his life was worthless.
