TORONTO AGAIN ANSWERS CALL OF PATRIOTISM

Red Triangle Campaign's Objective is Easily Passed.

A GREAT FINISH Enthusiasm is Unbounded When Capt. MacNeill Expresses Thanks.

Once again Toronto has measured up to its responsibilities. Once again it has heard the call from the far away shores of France where its sons are fighting. Once again these men are assured that come what will their needs will be met, that whatever happens at home they come first.

The teams and their totals for the campaign were given as follows: S. Henderson $79,408.08, J. W. Mitchell $9,978.52, C. Marriott $4,219.41, T. H. Littlefield $7,347.79, Mrs. A. D. Fisher $6,948.00, John G. Kent $2,440.00, Headquarters $100,000.00.

Boys Helped Greatly. To these figures was added a further amount of $500 announced after the first total, making the grand total $509,631.72. The figures for the "Earn and Give" division under Mr. Kent were not complete, and was reported that the objective of 1,000 boys pledged to earn and give $10 each this summer will be reached.

It was announced that Dr. Bruce had called $50 from London, England; that the Heinz Electric Company had sent $500, and that $50,000 from the boys through the Dominion is assured. A splendid report was given by A. E. Ames, chairman of the financial campaign committee.

It is Worth While. Capt. John MacNeill was given an ovation when he spoke on behalf of the men in khaki. He said he was thinking of the men overseas who would say "God bless the folks at home—and the good old 'Y'" when they heard the good news.

set of the length of the line held by the French army. The French losses had been enormous and they had sustained the great strain of the fighting for three years.

France's Big Effort. "There was a larger proportion of French manpower put into the line than in any other belligerent country. They held a front of 325 miles; we held 120 miles. But the Germans were massed much more densely against our line, and our lines were much more vulnerable. The French were pressing us to extend our line in order that they might withdraw men from the army for purposes of agriculture. Their agricultural output had fallen enormously, and they found it essential that they should withdraw part of their men for the purpose of cultivating their soil.

Principles Laid Down. The principles accepted by General Robertson and accepted by the cabinet were: (1) They accepted in principle that there must be an extension of the British line; (2) the time and extent must be left to the two commanders-in-chief to settle together; (3) that no extension was possible until the offensive was over; (4) that the line must be over-maintained until the military policy for 1918 and upon the role assigned those armies.

Everyone, said the premier, would admit that those were sound proposals. The cabinet accepted them without demur. They had never departed from these principles, one during the negotiations. There was a meeting at Boulogne between Premier Lloyd George, General Robertson, M. Painleve and Gen. Foch, but it had been summoned to discuss an important question concerning the foreign office. M. Painleve raised the question of an extension of the front.

Lloyd George was not in the least prepared for that and he told General Robertson that it was a matter he must discuss with the cabinet. The matter was dealt with by General Robertson. In consequence of this subject having been raised and discussed at the cabinet, the following memorandum was prepared:

"It was his duty to go first of all to the cabinet or to the minister impugned and point out the mistake and ask him to correct it. Never a syllable was there until I saw his letter in the newspapers. I say I have been treated with respect and I am glad that you thought it was his business to approach his own chief of staff first."

The memorandum continued: "The reply given was that, while in principle, we, of course, were ready to do whatever could be done, the matter was that could not be discussed in the absence of the field marshal or during the continuance of the present operation, and that due regard must also be had to the plan of operations for next year.

"It was suggested as best for the field marshal to come to an arrangement with General Petain, when this could be done with and the approval further formal discussion had taken place, and the matter therefore (and not regarded as decided. Further, I feel sure that the war cabinet would not think of deciding such an important question without obtaining Field Marshal Haig's view, and I am replying to him in the above sense."

"I will point out that in the last two or three years, since I have thrown myself into the vigorous prosecution of the war, I have been droned with cooing sops."

On October 24 this question was first formally discussed with the war cabinet. There was a breach of discipline from the French Government, and General Robertson gave his views concerning the line the British ought to take.

"After hearing the chief of staff the following conclusions were recorded: The war cabinet approved the suggestion of the chief of staff that he should reply to Field Marshal Haig in the following sense: 'The war cabinet is of the opinion that in deciding to what extent the British troops can be extended over the lines from the French, regard must be given to the necessity for giving them a reasonable opportunity for leave for rest and training during the winter months and for plan of operations for next year, and further, that while the present operations continue it will not be possible to commence taking over more. The general military policy for next year is now under consideration and will be the subject of a conference with the allied governments. In these circumstances the war cabinet feels that until this policy is decided it will be premature to decide finally whether the British front can be extended by four divisions to a greater or a less extent than this. That was communicated to Field Marshal Haig and never departed from.'

Afterwards came the Cambrai incident and the Italian disaster, which necessitated our sending troops to France. That made it difficult for the field marshal to carry out the promise he had made to General Petain for a certain extension, which was as large as the one which subsequently took place. It was then that the present French premier came in, and he is not an easy friend to refuse. (Laughter and cheers. He was very insistent that the British army should take the line over. We stood by the position that that was for the chief of the commander-in-chief. We never swerved from that position.

"At last Premier Clemenceau suggested that the question should be examined by the military representatives at Versailles, and that the Versailles council should decide, if there were any difference of opinion. The military representatives at Versailles examined the question, and the only interference, if it was interference, of the war cabinet was that they communicated with the chief of staff, who we thought was in France at the time, and Field Marshal Haig, to urge upon them the importance of the question. The military representatives at Versailles suggested a compromise be-twice the British and French view, coupling it with the recommendation that steps ought to be taken by the French army to assist the British, if attacked.

Extension to Versailles. "That recommendation was to come up for discussion at the meeting of the Versailles council on February 1. Before that meeting Field Marshal Haig and General Petain met and entered into an agreement for an extension of the front to Verdun, and Field Marshal Haig reported that to the Versailles council. No further extension of the line occurred. "That is the whole story, and I want to make it perfectly plain that Field Marshal Haig's action in taking over the extension had the full approval of the British cabinet, having regard for the pressure from the French authorities. Field Marshal Haig had no option but to make the extension. He was, in our judgment, absolutely right in the course he naturally would have preferred not to have done it.

"What has been the result? There have been pernicious rumors of a mutiny, full of harm so far as the British army is concerned, that we, in spite of the remonstrances of Haig and Foch, they ought never to have taken. Does anyone suppose that Field Marshal Haig would for a moment have accepted such responsibility?"

UNITY OF COMMAND. "I am not sorry that this opportunity has been given to dispose, once for all, of these rumors. But the real lesson of this discussion about the extension of the line was the importance of the unity of command, and it would never have arisen but for that. Instead of separate army commands we have now one unitary army and one commander responsible for the whole and every part of it. I am glad of that. "But it was not so much a question of length of line. It was a question of the reserves massed behind them. There are two general considerations to which I must refer. I would like to say something about the effect of such action as General Maurice's on the discipline of the army. It was a flagrant breach of discipline, which I regret. Mr. Asquith failed to deprecate this. Continuing with reference to General Maurice's charges, the premier said:

"It was his duty to go first of all to the cabinet or to the minister impugned and point out the mistake and ask him to correct it. Never a syllable was there until I saw his letter in the newspapers. I say I have been treated with respect and I am glad that you thought it was his business to approach his own chief of staff first."

RECALLS INDEMNITY PAID FOR SLAVES

Justice Riddell Speaks on Workings of International Law. During a lecture last night in Castle Memorial Hall of the McMaster University, Justice Riddell told of the evolution of law in the days of Moses, and its growth through history to the present time. His lecture was based on Leviticus 24, verses 10-23, and he translated it direct from the Septuagint. In order to truly understand, it was advisable to go direct to the Greek or Hebrew in order to get away from the peculiar phraseology of the authorized or revised versions of the Bible, he declared.

Justice Riddell told of the many instances of international law being respected, and of disputes being arranged by arbitration, between the United Kingdom and the United States, and between Germany and the United States rather than return the blacks as slaves, who had found refuge on British territory or on British ships, and stated he was proud of the concept of law and of the great nation to which he belonged.

He asked his hearers to compare this action to the acts of the nation in Europe which had set itself outside the law, and to the nation which renounced the "mark of the beast." "Thank God," he declared, "that the two great English-speaking peoples have not yet separated, and we must not forget all petty differences and unite for the freedom of the world from the curse of the law of force. The Kaiser builded better than he knew."

In the sector between the Somme and Albert, the Australian for several days have been fighting a series of sharp local actions and making considerable gains. They at present have been seeking local objectives at Morlancourt. Their manifest design is evidently to drive the enemy from a road which runs due south from Albert and thence to secure a starting-off place for a more ambitious advance. Before them lie the old Somme battlefield and the Bapaume Ridge, and in their rear runs the Albert Ridge, and they are seemingly getting in position for a renewal of the former Somme operations.

Lloyd George is responsible for the statement that the Germans are, under their seeming quietness, preparing for their strongest attack. The allied generals are proceeding on this theory and are constantly strengthening their defenses to meet the coming shock. The peril, therefore, is not yet over, but by taking the situation with the proper seriousness, the defensive ought to prevail over the offensive. It is said that the big surprise of this war is the strength of the defense as contrasted with the strength of the offense. Fewer men can hold back a powerful enemy in this war than they ever before could do.

It would serve the Germans right if, after their defeat, they had to fight another battle of the Somme. The knowledge that all the benefits derived from the collapse of Russia would be a repetition of the 1916 campaign, when the enemy nearly collapsed, would furnish increased cause for depression in Germany. It would also cause more trouble for the German army medical board, closed suddenly this afternoon in police court, when Dr. Legault pleaded guilty to the charge as soon as it was read to him, and was fined $500 and sentenced to one day in jail by Magistrate Ask-

NORTHWESTERN LAND VALUES DISCUSSED AT C.N.R. HEARING

Prices Have Gone Up and Legal Authorities Are Optimistic.

GOOD TIMES AFTER WAR Lands Formerly Marked Un-suitable Are Now Market-able, Says Counsel.

Land values in the Northwestern territory occupied the attention of the C.N.R. arbitration proceedings yesterday afternoon, when McGregor Young, K.C., counsel for Mackenzie and Mann, outlined the situation regarding the market in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Optimistic About West. "If you can insure your going up like steel you will make your fortune," said Sir William Meredith.

Continuing, Mr. Young emphasized that the lands in question were an important element of value, but Sir William Meredith cut him short.

There are two staffs at work, one in daytime and the other from 5 p.m. until midnight, in addition to the regular staff. On every mail hundreds of applications are received.

There must also be changes in the future of a physical nature regarding these lands, stated Mr. Young, and he said that the company had refused an offer of $17 an acre for 10,000 acres.

LARGEST FRESH WATER AQUATIC CLUB HOUSE IS BURNED TO-GROUND

Premises of Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto Centre Island, Razed.

ALL BOATS ARE SAVED Employees Occupying Buildings Have Difficulty in Getting Out.

The largest fresh water aquatic club house, the Royal Canadian Yacht Club building, was burned to the ground early yesterday morning.

The six are: A. R. Baiden, steward of the club; Mrs. Baiden; Charles Pimont, chef; James Duff, waiter; John Hewitt, waiter, and Joseph Linnett, waiter.

The loss of the club is estimated at over $100,000. The much-prized trophies of the club are safe in the vault of the city office in the McKinnon building, Melville street.

As over 450 of the club's members are present, it is unlikely that the club will rebuild until after the war. Pressure Too Low.

The cause of the fire is not definitely known. Police investigation brought out the fact that there was a fire in the part of the building where the flames were thought to have originated.

Some Club History. The Royal Canadian Yacht Club obtained its incorporation in March of 1868 thru an act passed by the Ontario Legislature.

The following are the officers of the club: Commodore, George H. Gooderham, M.L.A.; vice-commodore, Asmild Marlett; honorary treasurer, C. G. Williams.

DELAY OF FIVE DAYS

Men Obtain Machine Guns From Quartermaster of British Unit.

Ottawa, May 9.—The following article by Roland Hill has been received here:

"In the defence of Marcelcave and the Neste-Amiens Railway line, one battalion of Canadian Railway troops, from York County, Ontario, went into the battle line like veterans, and helped stave off the German advance for five days."

"From March 27 in spite of the fact that they had long marches and hard work in saving their construction equipment from the Huns in the neighborhood of Ham, this battalion fought with the gallant sixty-first division. Altho they had many men who were trained in machine gun work they were not of course equipped with this armament when they started for the support line. The colonel, foraged in Villers-Bretonneux and discovered a sympathetic Canadian who was quartermaster for an Imperial unit. Sixteen machine guns and two lorries filled with ammunition were obtained from him. Then the Canadians swung down the main road and into position, sniping lustily, cheering up the tired British troops whom they joined."

"Keen to stop advance. The spirit of the best told in one of their major's own words: 'All thru our retirement the feeling of the men was keen to do something better than the cinder path, and he was also charged with assaulting Frank Roblock. Four dollars and sixty-five cents against George Holloway for having killed the fourth man who continued a pig at large. A charge against Jane and John, using abusive language was dismissed."

Robert Hutchison, an inmate of the jail farm, was taken for a small fine was found in his sock when searched. A dog belonging to the prisoner was charged with assaulting the police. Two lads were charged with carrying a pig at large. A charge against Jane and John, using abusive language was dismissed."

Eglinton EGLINTON METHODIST S. S. ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Eglinton Methodist Church Sunday school was held in the church parlors last night with a large attendance of the pupils and friends of the school. Out of 27 officers of the school 25 were present.

The total membership is 447, inclusive of the cradle roll of the home department, all of whom are non-attendant. The average for the year under the circumstances is considered exceptionally high.

The officers elected were: Superintendent, R. J. Douglas; assistant superintendent, Robert Shaw; secretary, C. J. Manning; treasurer, W. H. Cruikshank; superintendent of the primary department, H. Shaw; superintendent of the boys' department, Miss Winnifred Day. The teachers were all re-elected by acclamation. The most of the classes were reorganized for the year.

The only ray to the greater expansion of the church and school for the year is the capacity of the church and class rooms.

A Miracle

When a person gets something for nothing that is a miracle.

In these days of gradually advancing prices, it is impossible to find such a thing.

The wise man knows that it is infinitely better to stick with the tried and true merchandise than to waste valuable time in looking for what is supposed to be, but is not.

The claims we make in favor of HICKEY CLOTHES are always "founded on facts."

Be one of the wise ones who purchase here daily their every need in clothes or haberdashery.

MARITIME SOLDIERS IN SUCCESSFUL RAID

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Men at Neuville-St. Vitasse.

RELUCTANT TO FIGHT

Germans Beat Hasty Retreat Before Oncoming Canadians.

Canadian Army Headquarters, May 9.—Early yesterday morning strong raiding parties of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick troops, entering the enemy outpost line at Neuville-St. Vitasse Village, inflicted many casualties on the Boche, and in addition, captured some prisoners and two machine guns. They retired after a successful operation with very slight losses.

While the forces to the right and left of the raiders provided artillery demonstrations, which increased the confusion of the enemy and distracted some of his fire, our men, under cover of an intense shrapnel barrage from our field artillery, supported by our heavies and Stokes and machine guns, advanced against the enemy outpost line in seven parties.

The raid, which was carried out at 3 o'clock, with only a trace to break the intense blackness, and with the ground deep in mud from the heavy rains, was disappointing in only one feature—the reluctance of the enemy to fight. Save in only a few instances, the Boche left his outpost line and made a hasty retreat for the rear.

Over Muddy Ground. Our men struggled over the muddy ground. Progress was slow but sure. The first party, after advancing one hundred and fifty yards, was held up by wire which it was unable to cut completely, when our signal to retire sounded. Another party gained the support line, but the enemy had made a hurried retreat. A third party found two dead Boches, but no live ones. The next group had better success, encountering a hostile machine gun post with a garrison of three men they rushed it. All the Germans in it were killed by the same Canadian, who had one of the two shot the third. The machine gun was brought back to our lines. This party continued to advance further into the village, where it met a strong enemy party in a well-wired position.

A hot fight followed, in which bombs were freely exchanged. In a short time no fewer than twelve Boches were killed. The remainder were registered against the enemy. The officer in charge of one of the parties went some distance into the village, but all he saw was one Boche running furiously.

Near the Beauvais-Neuville-St. Vitasse road two enemy garrisons offered a stout resistance until all were killed and we had captured two machine guns. All the other posts ran on the approach of our other raiding parties. Two prisoners taken were found hiding in shell holes. Eight minutes after they had moved to attack our men withdrew, having accomplished the end desired, which was to secure identifications.

ROWELL MAKES DENIAL OF STEVENS CHARGES

Ottawa, May 9.—Hon. N. W. Rowell, at the meeting this morning of the house committee on pensions, emphatically denied that a letter from H. H. Stevens, member for Vancouver Centre, protesting against the pension awarded Col. R. H. Labatt, a member of the board of pension commissioners, had been placed on the record of the committee without first being read to the members. He also denied that he had made the letter public, and stated that the secretary of the committee, in whose charge the letter had been since it was placed on file, had not given out any of the details contained in it. Mr. Stevens' letter also made reference to the relationship of Col. Labatt to Major-General Mewburn and Hon. J. D. Reid, minister of railways and canals, and in reply Mr. Rowell stated that he was not consulted at all and had nothing whatever to do with the officer's appointment to the pension. In regard to Major-General Mewburn, Mr. Rowell pointed out that his appointment as minister of militia did not take place until some time after Col. Labatt's appointment.

They were sentenced to penal servitude for terms varying from eighteen months to eight years.

COUNTER-ATTACK EJECTS GERMANS

Germans Gain Footing at Considerable Width at First.

British Headquarters in France, May 9.—Thruout yesterday the enemy pushed his attack in the direction of the northeastern slopes of Scherpenberg with great determination. At first he made several successive stages of progress, opening with an infantry attack launched at 9.30 o'clock under cover of an intense bombardment. It was directed against the right flank of our northern army and overlapping our junction with the French. An hour later, after throwing several waves of assault troops, the Germans gained a footing in our front line of considerable width. Enemy parties penetrated to Klein Vierstraat and later the French helped to restore our complete possession of this place. Before sunset the Germans fought themselves to a standstill, having suffered very heavily, but had gained ground of some tactical importance in the Ridge Wood, being a distant step towards the coveted point, Dappin Scherpenberg. Just before dusk we counter-attacked under cover of a terrific bombardment, and the enemy was forced to yield the ground he had occupied at such cost. By night we had restored the original line practically everywhere, leaving only one or two little pockets of Germans to be mopped up farther south. The Australians around Morlan-court further improved the line gained by their advances north of the Somme Canal.

BIBLE STUDENTS ARRESTED

New York, May 9.—Clayton J. Woolworth and George H. Fisher, members of the International Bible Students' Association, who were arrested in Soranton, Pa., several days ago, for alleged conspiracy to foment insubordination among United States soldiers, were arraigned in Brooklyn today and placed under $25000 bail each, pending trial on May 15.

Dunlop Means "Original" When you hear a bicycle owner say his tires are the original, not the imitation, he means that all other wired-on bicycle tires took Dunlop Tires for their model, because Dunlop was first in the field. The Pneumatic Tire Industry rests on the name "Dunlop." And next in importance to your realizing that fact is the necessity for realizing this one: Dunlop Tires from the first—1894—were made by a patented process. We found the way to make them right—a way that would impart to them such road mastery, such superiority of toughness and resiliency that they would sell eight times faster than any other make of bicycle tires. Eighty per cent. of all bicycle tires sold in Canada are Dunlop.
