Deal Off or Account of Reciprocity

MONTREAL, Feb. 18 .- Canadian financiers have repeatedly asserted that if the reciprocity compact is made it were a serious blow at Canada's close financial affiliations with England.

The first blow has come. One of the gest investment corporations in Montreal, which has been very successful in placing large an. s of Canadian issues in England, had a deal on with a big Glasgow house for the sale of stocks to the value of $250,000.

The deal was practically closed some weeks ago; in fact, the local concern had every reason to believe that the Glasgow house intended to take the stocks.

Yesterday, however, the managing direct or of the local firm received this cable: "DEAL OFF ON ACCOUNT OF RECIPROCITY.

Resistance to Absorption the Watchword

He says that he acted solely upon his own motion, a nd that no one but himself had to do with the removal of Travers. Sheriff Mowat is a delicate man, almost an invalid at times, but, despite this fact, Deputy Sheriffs John Brown and Severs, who conveyed Travers from the city, are reported as saying that they were roused by Sheriff Mowat at 4.30 in the morning, and told to remove their man. Would Amend the Bill.

Ever since the reciprocity bill was introduced into congress progressive Republicans have been endeavoring to to get the aid of Democrats in a plan for amending the bill. The effort was made in the house, but was defeated by the action of the Democrats in standing solidly together for reciprocity on the president's basis. by American goods. Especially he emphasized the effects a reciprocity treaty would have upon capital, and upon Canada's relations with the mother country, pointing out the advantages at present enjoyed by Canadians in the British market, and in the possession and use of Canadian autonomy. 'For my part,' he declared, 'I do not want to see any act of the Canadian people subject to interpretation at Wash-ter, when in an aside, he dryly remarked that in the event of any difference with the United tSates authorities in regard to intrpretation, perhaps the only redress possible would be to call out the Canadian navy. The conclusions at which Sir George arrived were that Canada does not stand in any great need of a reciprocity treaty with the United States, and that the only safe course, affording publicity in the first instance and admitting of perfect freedom of action thereafter, would be an adjustment of the trade relations between the two countries by the independent legislation of both rather than by treaty. "At the close of the address the audience rose to its feet and

IN MEMORIAM. RIDOUT-In loving memory of my dear brother, who departed this life Feb. 19th,

Just two years ago to-day
Since my dear brother passed away.
God called him home; it was His will;
But in my heart he liveth still;
His memory is as dear to-day
As in the hour he passed away.
Sleep on, dear Harry, and take thy rest;
God calls home first whom He loves best.

eing made to come to an understand-It is plain that the amendment of the agreement will subject the plan to re-doubled danger because after it leaves doubled danger because after it leaves the senate, it will still have to be readopted by the house in order to gain the consent of the latter body to the senate's innovations, this might be a rather difficult undertaking. The house Democrats would undoubtedly vote for them if they were of the kind already indicated, and many of the progressive Republicans would do the same. Remembering the fact that there are a few Democrats who always vote with the conservative Republicans, it would still be doubtful whether the measure could be passed.

The amending of the agreement would also subject it to grave danger at a special session, should such a session have to be called after all. It the treaty had been altered considerably and then hung up just before the end of the session, the chances would be that at a special session it would be altered a good deal more.

Letter from Hugh Blain, di-rector of The Globe, and Liberal candidate recently in Toronto read at board of trade meeting:
"There will unquestionably be a great upsetting of business, and while there may be little doubt that there will be some who will benefit there will be still less doubt that many, and especially the unfortunate, will suffer by the change. The present time appears to be most inopportune, when conditions had adjusted themselves to the needs of every class, when prosperity had been distributed with reasonable fairness among all our people, for a leap like this in the dark.

"It is impossible to speak definitely of the future. It is, however, reasonable to believe that under present conditions, our own Canadian cities would continue to direct Canadian trade over Canadian channels, while under such a sweeping measure of reciprocity, I believe the dom-inating influences may be New York and Chicago, with all the adverse consequences which will necessarily follow to our, at present, sturdy, growing nation-

Our troubles now are few and far between, and in my opinion, 'we should rather bear the ills we have than fly to others that we know not of."

Dreads the Agreement First Step to Disunion

W. K. George, one of Toronto's leading Liberals: We have been growing in the belief that on this northern half of the continent we were developing a great, strong, self-reliant, clean nation men of the north, unconquered and men of the north, unconquered and unconquerable, destined to become one of the foremost nations of the earth, with the prospect of becoming the dominant partner in the grandest empire the world has known.

I dread this agreement as the first step away from those ideals. We have a great gulf to bridge in mid-Canada. We have, unlike our southern neighbor, a distinct east and west with diverse interests. To achieve her noblest destiny, east and west must be unified in purpose, in interdefence of action, and our great problem is to know how to make their aims and objects and ambitions one. The most practical factor we have for bringing that about is the interchange of trade and commerce.

In the Legislature.

Three party leaders, representing three distinct policies, made typical or ations in the Ontario Legislature dur actions in the Ontario Legislature during the past week. Quite appropriate it was that the trio should wind up the budget debate. Each presented an exemplary case from his respective political standpoint. But the perspective was sharply changed as the Labor champion was followed by the Reform advocate, and turned right about face when the Conservative leader loosened the final bolt.

Allan Studholme, leader of the Labor party of one, led off in the finale of the discussion. The Hamilton moulder of iron, and in the legislature moulder of public thought, unbuttoned his coat, revealing an absence of vest, and a democratic blue shirt waist. Drawing up first his left sleeve and them his right, preparatory to beginning work, his actions were watched interestedly by Sir James and every member of the house. No mud slinging was attempted, but a plea, vibrating with deep earnestness, was made to the legislators for full consideration of the case of the wage-earners, new-comers brought to Canada under a misconception of their suitability being apparation of their suitability being apparently the element chiefly in need of Confreres and opponents of Hon. A. G. MacKay alike conceded that the leader of the little group, insignificant numerically at the left of the speaker, made one of the ablest speeches heard in the chamber since his party was shown the door by the Ontario electorate, six years ago. At the outset he adjusted the stiletto for dagger cuts at Mathesonian book-keeping, but the Sir Edmund Walker, life-long Liberal, at Board of Trade meeting:

It is impossible to discuss the merits of the agreement item by item. From beginning to end it is so obviously wrong that one wouldn't know where to begin. * * In the papers of the United States we find the view expressed of a larger market for the Canadian alived thru the tariff unsettlement of byfarmer, and cheaper food. It appears sone vears, but there were plenty of ist to enter the fray. ist to enter the fray.

Sir James Whitney arose, ready and smiling, with a preliminary shrug and shake of his shoulders, and for a final adjustment of his armor. Confident adjustment of his armor. Confident in the strength of his own honesty of purpose, and an unsullied personal record, with five-fifths of the house his devoted followers, he occupied an enviable vantage position, and frankly expressed his sense of satisfaction. He welcomed the opportunity to wield his favorite weapon—the sledge hammer—and when it was all over his followers were absolutely convinced that lowers were absolutely convinced that any case conjured up against the gov-ernment had been smashed to infinit-esmial atoms.

Doffing their hats to the Reform, Labor and Conservative parties, members in the legislature are each entitled to bow gratefully to their leaders in ac-knowledgement of their manifest fit-ness and ability.

What trade can possibly compare

We have scant history of our own

That little land—our father's land—

Throws out its royal folds again.

That teems with names of warrior bold,

Poet and author, priest and sage. Shall we one moment strain the string

That binds us to that mother's side?

Forget ourselves; forget our pride?

And Ireland's peaceful valleys green.

Gaze, smiling, on each well-known scene? Land of our fathers and their sires;

Land for which glory still awaits;

Merely a vassal of the States?

Perish the thought! We'll still retain Our hold upon our native store;

For you to spend in Baltimore.

Who leave the country of their birth

To build the glory of our land; Until, in perfect manhood's strength,

We risk no foolish chance to lose

We grip our British bull-dog jaws

To guard the heritage that's ours

Here is a destiny so grand,
Its very thought finds sacred place,

As leaders of the British race;

On sea-girt isle and mountain crag,

In courteous terms your pact refuse:

But we have far too much to lose.

We hail you cousins, rich and poor,

One single right within our door.

-Irving Claxton.

One link around our meteor flag.

To clasp our hands with brothers far,

On desert sand and burning plain:-

So, Mr. President, we must

In friendly rivalry and skill

Of course, it is all right for you,

But understand, you cannot claim

That sordid crown of varying types.

And change their flag to Stars and Stripes.

In the great world's forefront we stand.

That manhood by our sires foretold:

And what we have we'll surely hold.

Forget where Scotland's mountains stand,

Where Wales and England, side by side,

The isle that fought a world alone;

The land that deeper than them all

Forget her in her hour of need;

Shall we forsake it all-to be

Nor mint our gold in Ottawa

False sons of Canada to join

This is the century we claim

The gain is all upon one side;

Oppose our generous store of foods, Only to find our smaller marts

Buy from the foreigner to eat;

To lose the glory of our land, To feed your mouths with western wheat;

O'erwhelmed with cheaper Yankee goods:-

What chance between the small and great?

Twixt ninety million folks and eight?

It does not give one much to choose.

Of "Heads you win and tails we lose."

Unblent with Britain's smiles and tears;

That crushed the might of France and Spain; While still her blood-red battle-flag

Has carvey her mark on history's page,

Grown dearer with the passing years.

Too Lax Immigration Makes Us Look Cheap

C. A. Magrath, M. P., Would Tax Newcomer Instead of Paying Bonus to Shipping Agent.

All those who want to see Canada grow into a great country should be interested in reading "Canada's Growth interested in reading "Canada's Growth and Some Problems Affecting It," a little book written by C. A. Magrath, M. P., which shows what an important bearing immigration has on Canada's future. What Canada will be twenty years from now depends on her people and care should be taken that only those who will come up to the average of the Canadian in intelligence, physique and morals should be invited to come to Canada.

"A country which annually produces over 500,000,000 bushels of grain and rapidly increasing," says Mr. Magrath, "should be known to the intelligent people of the globe in this age of journalism and it is the intelligent that we are inviting to Canada. The fraternal society which would attempt to push people into its ranks would meet with much less success than the one opening its doors to none except selected classes. In other, words we can make ourselves too cheap."

And going on to speak of the bonus system he says, "I must say I am not particular to share citizenship with the individual who can be deflected by the suavity of the ticket agent who has probably never been in Canada, does not know it, and, if anything, has less interest in it." So far from bonusing ticket agents for shipping emigrants here, he is rather in favor of taxing the immigrant.

I certainly think that the privileges should "I certainly think that the privileges of citizenship in this country should be worth the expense of maintaining a well equipped protective immigration service, and when we consider that we are taxing our people about one hundred million dollars annually for immigration purposes, the question to my mind is are we not in our methods immigration mad?" This might be business like, but would it appeal to our British brethren, more particularly the

Everyone will agree with Mr. Magrath that our naturalization law is not half strict enough. Practically no attempt is made to inquire into the fit-ness of an applicant for citizenship. Three years residence in the country, providing the applicant is not an in-fant, lunatic, idiot, or married woman and without any investigation as to previous history, is all that is required of one to become a Canadian citizen. Other chapters in the book are de-Other chapters in the book are devoted to education, the Englishmen in Canada, deportation of allens and the American invasion and at the end of the books some suggestions are made for improving the immigration service, among which Mr. Magrath advocates putting the service in the hands of a

Trend of Affairs at Wash ington and Pressure from Constituents to Vote Against Reciprocity - Spectre of Denationalization Looms More Clearly,

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.-A few more speeches like those of Champ Clark and W. S. Bennett will put an end to the reciprocity pact. Every day the situation becomes more acute here, and as the spectre of denationalization looms more clearly, both Liberals and Conservatives canvass the question, "After all, is reciprocity worth while?"

"Territorial aggrandizement is an art peculiar to Americans," is what is said here, and most members regard the recent expressions at Washington as gratuitous, on the one hand, and a bold attempt to rouse an annexation sentiment in Canada on the other.

While a section of the United States press favors the reciprocity pact, annexation talk is discouraged on the ground that no movement towards poittical union could be effected without the consent of Canada. Continental union, however, is a dream of American statesmen. It is an attractive theory that from economic as well as sen-timentl considerations, is sure to curry

It is quite apparent that the trend of affairs at Washington has alarmed Ontario Liberals. There is every outward evidence of harmony, but a num-ber of government supporters have received strong representations from their constituents that they are not in favor of the proposals, and others have been positively instructed to oppose the agreement. Despite denials to the contrary, it is persistently stated that an appeal has been made to Sir Wilfrid Laurier to withdraw the resolutions. It is argued that the concessions to the western funers will not sustain the government.

Some newspapers of rare character have been "invented" lately. One of them, published in Madrid, is printed with phosphorus ink and can be read in the dark. Another exists in Paris. It is printed on dough, the ink used being similar to the coloring used in making candy. The advantage of this newspaper is that it can be eaten as well as read.

Archer. Ont., Feb. 1, '09. Dear Mrs. Currah:—I received your kind letter some time ago, but was feeling so well, and not needing medicine, that I than in any other thing I have ever used. Before I knew or found out anything about this medicine, I doctored away hundreds of dollars, and when I thought I was dying with inflammation of the womb, a box of ORANGE LILY was sent me through the mail from a friend. The first suppository I used I was greatly relieved, and in a few months completely cured. That was nine years ago this winter, so you can imagine with what esteem I hold the ORANGE LILY. I am thankful there is such a relief for poor, suffering women, for I have been one of them and can sympathize with others.

Mrs. F. E. Currah. Windsor. Ont.—

Dear Friend.—I feel it my duty to write you a testimonial as to what Orange Lilly has done for me. Last winter I was feeling very miscrable indeed. I could scarcely do my housework during my menstrual period, and for two months or more I was never free from pain in the womb and ovaries. The pain would run down the groin, so I would frequently nearly double up. Then the pain began going up the back of my neck to my brain until I hardly knew what I was doing at times. Life was a burden indeed. I finally could endure it no longer, so went to our leading town doctor and had an examination. He pronounced it (I forget the word) a rigid condition of the generative organs, produced by repeated attacks of inflammation. He said I would have to take a course of treatment, and if that failed to overcome the rigid condition I might, in time, be compelled to have—the ovaries removed. I objected to that, so filled out Dr. Coonley's symptom blank and forwarded it to him, and he diagnosed the disease the same as my local doctor, so I decided to take Pr. Coonley's Treatment. I have used two jars of Cerate Massage, two packages of Herbal Womb Tonic and six boxes of Orange Lily. It is eight months since I began the treatment, but I feel like a new woman. I work right through everything now. Hardly know a pain, even during menstruation now. I often say, "I would not take $100 and be in the state that I was last March." I feel that Dr. Coonley's Home Treatment is a Godsend to suffering womankind, and shall-continue to sound its praises whenever I have an opportunity.

The age of martyrs is not passed. There are thousands of women all over the country enduring physical torture and montal anguish almost beyond description. They are not victims of persecution, like the martyrs of old; they are not called on to face the scaffold or the stake, but their surferings—borne in silence and hidden from the world at large—are scarcely less intense.

These ladles, as a rule, are women and girls of refined and sensitive temperaments. Knowing that their sufferings are due to a disordered condition of the female functiona, their native modesty deters them from seeking relief in the earlier stages; and when they do consult a physician, they usually get some drug mixture to take internally, which is not more effective for troubles of this kind than it would be for a toethache, a bruise, or any other strictly local aliment.

The seat of the trouble being in some one of the female organs, the remedy, to be effective, must act on this portion of the anatomy.

This is the secret of the success which always follows the use of ORANGE LILY in derangements of this kind. It is a strictly local treatment. It is absorbed directly into the parts that are inflamed and congested and its beneficent, soothing influence is noticeable from the start. The irritation of the delicate membrane is relieved, the congestion is overcome by the discharge of the watery master while served, to oppress Arthur and Gordon Armstrong. Friday's Teas. Semi-Finals During Coming Week in All Three O.H. A. Series-Ottawa and Galt Lead Their Leagues.

The past week has worked the O. H. A. Junior and intermediate series practically down to the semi-finals. The senior game last Wednesday night was a great contest, and decidedly the better team won. Another good game should result on Wednesday night of this week, when Parkdale and Argonauts meet in the first game of the semi-final for the senior championship. From present indications, Preston and Midland should meet for the intermediate championship, and the winner will be hard to pick. Preston have yet to lose a game, while Midland are considered by many who have seen them as one of the best intermediate teams in years. There are yet several games to be played in the junior series, but it looks as the Orillia and Kingston Frontenacs will face off in the final games. A lot may happen before the juniors are decided, but the above-mentioned two look to have the best chance. Results in the third round during the week were as follows. The past week has worked the O. Does it on Quiet at Grand Rapids - Honeymoon Trip to New Efficiency Takes the First and Tom York Where He Fights Brown

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb.18.—Adolph (Ad) Wolgast, champion lightweight nuglist, was quietly married here to-day to Miss Wildred Ensign, aged 19 years. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Strickland at his home. There were no witnesses. The bride was a childhood schoolmate of Wolgast.

The honeymoon will be a trip to New York, where the champion fights "Knock-Out" Brown on March 3.

What promises to be one of the fastest games of the season will be the deciding game in Section A of the senior series of the Toronto Hockey League, to be played in Mutual street on Tuesday, at 8.15 p.m. between the fast team from Canadian Kodak and the Weston Club. Both teams have only lost one game, and the deciding game should prove one of the fastest seen outside of the Senior O.H.A. The tickets are 25c to all parts of the house, and from the many supporters of both teams who have bought tickets there is sure to be a record crowd. The winners of Tuesday's game will play off the final with Carlton-street Methodist, the undefeated winners of Section B, on Friday night. Feb. 22.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 18.-"Nat" champion short-distance sprinter, sent word to this city to-day from his home at Capitol Hill, N.C., that he was ready to run Lawson Robertson of the Irish-American Athletic Club a race for the American professional champoinship. He says he will race Robertson for $1000, any distance from 130 yards to 500 yards, on any fair cinder track.

Cartmell's offer was brought out by statements in English publications attributed to Robertson that Cartmell was unwilling to run any distance under 220 yards.

In league rolling, at the Toronto Bowl ing Club, the past week, the second divi-sion teams not only performed creditably, but in many cases handed it out to some of the supposed-to-be strong teams. This is the redeeming feature of the tenpin game, and which goes to make it the great is the redeeming feature of the tenpingame, and which goes to make it the great and popular indoor sport it is. In the Business Men's League, Eatonias still retain the lead, their defeating National Cash Register in two out of three games leaving the latter and Laugmuir Paint tied for second place, while the rest of the field are closely bunched to the ninth team. In the Morning Section of the Printers' League, the Daily World kept Jp their winning streak by taking all three games from the Mail, while their shopmates, the Sundays, worsted the Globe in two out of three. In the Evening Section, Toronto Typesetting are still in the lead, with MacLean Publishing and Dunlop & Rose right on their heels. In the Eaton League, Printers lead in No. 1 Section, with a tight race down to the fifth team. As this section have practically just started their second series, it will be a week or two before a line can be got on the probable contenders. In No. 3 Section, the feature so far has been the dogged rolling of Winnipeg office, who almost occupied the cellar position in the first series, but who up to the present in the second have been handing it out to all-comers, and easily lead with eight wins and one loss, with the next two teams only three games down, and with a chance for the following three a great race should be the result to the end of the season. In the Apple League, another big fight is on, with Russets again in the lead, with a game each way, and with the next four teams in a bunch, it would be like looking for a needle in a haystack to now pick out the winner.

A provincial bowling tournament under the auspices of the Athenaeum

Association.

A more representative or influential list of officers could hardly have been secured, and their very presence is a surety of success. The first 16 teams in the doubles and singles will receive prizes ranging from gold watches down to bowling shoes, goods to the value of $500 being hung up.

The winner of the total aggregate will get a new upright plano, valued at $225. Entries for each event are $1.50. and in the competition for the plano a bowler may roll as often as he likes by paying an additional entry. All six games must be rolled in succession.

The prize list is as follows:

—Doubles—
Two gold watches, value $30; two quarter-cut desks, $25; two Morris chairs, $22; two silver cream sets, $16; two suit cases, $14; two silver beary bowls, $13.50; two mahogany tables, $12.76; two cutglass bowls, $12; two shaving sets, $10; two umbrellas, $8; two silver egg sets, $6; two pairs of shoes, $7; two boxes of cigars, $4; two umbrellas, $4; 25 lbs. Red Rose Tea, $4; two pipe racks, $3. Total, $208.25.

Red Rose Tea, $4; two pipe racks, $5. Total, $208.25.

Hyslop bicycle, value $30; bowling ball, $10; gold watch, $15; Morris chair, $12; quarter-cut oak desk, $12; silver cream set, $9; mahogany table, $8.75; silver urn, $8; suit case, $6; shaving set, $5; cut-glass bowl, $5; umbrella, $4.75; club bag, $4; three pounds smoking tobacco, $3.75; silver set, $5; bowling shoes, $3.50. Total, $139.75.

The Royals are showing their class in the City League and now have a clear lead in the race. Tuesday night they wen all three games from the Rowing Club, winners of the first section, while the B. B. C. Co. dropped two to the Gladstones, and the latter are now tie for the second position.

Paynes also moved up when they

Paynes also moved up when they whitewashed the Brunswicks, and are now up after the leaders.

The entries have closed for the Buffalo Tournament, and it promsies to be the bisgest ever. Canadians will be well represented on March 4, when the following five-men Toronto teams will spill the pins; B. B. C. Co., Athenaeums, College, Royal Canadians, Sun Life, Spoilers, Red Rose Tea, Windsor, Brunswicks, Paynes, Toronto Rowing Club, Centrals, Ryan's Colts, Extenians and Grenadier Sergeants. The doubles have an entry of 14 and the singles of 27.

The members of the Central League have only one week to get their scores on the board at the Brunswick Alleys to decide who will roll off for the Buffalo trip, and some hard work is expected this week from the members of this league. The competition closes Saturday, Feb. 25, and the roll off will take place on Monday. Fcb. 27.

His Honor Mayor Louis P. Fuhrmann

His Honor Mayor Louis P. Fuhrmann will open the Buffalo Tournament with an addres sof welcome to the bowlers on the night of Feb. 25, and with other city and county officials will roll the first balls down the new alleys, work on which will be started Monday morning by Peter J. Riddell and his force of experienced men, and which will be ready in ample time for the opening day.

White Man's Hope No. 711 Discovered In Florida Wilds

feet are on the ground the top of his head is said to disturb the atmospheric strata at a height of six feet nine inches. White Hope seems to be going up with the cost of living.

The new aspirant for Jack Johnson's title is said to weigh 260 pounds. When his father is obliged to purchase new clothes for this promising son, he must be thankful he ten't twins. As the boy is only twenty years old he probably has not passed the growing age and in time may develop into quite a sizable man.

Of course, it will take a long time to put a young man in good fighting condition; but Hibbard's boy has gone fifteen rounds with the heavyweight champion of Georgia, and in the last round the boy was still fast and fighting." was still fast and fighting."

Hibbard's Hercules will probably be known as the Florida Royal Palm. He is taking big chances. Six feet nine inches is some distance to fall.

EXODUS FROM OAKLAND IS ON

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 18 .-The exodus of turfmen from Oakland began in real earnest to-day, when several carloads of horses were shipped to Juarez. Andy Blakeley and W. J.

james McManus will rest his string here. O. A. Blanchi is planning to ship to Louisville.

Moore Johnson will take Raleign P. D. and J. H. Barr to Jamestown.

J. O. Keene leaves to-day for Kentucky to confer with J. N. Camden. There are twenty-eight horses owned by them at Cakkland and most of the string will likely be raced on the inter-mountain circuit.

Many owners remain undecided as to their plans, but the majority will wait here in the hope that there will be an extended summer circuit, including the tracks at Salt Lake City. Denver and Butte.

Most of the riders will go to Juarez, according to present plans. Selden and E. Martin are among those planning to ride there. As Shilling is in good standing he may decide to ride at the Mexican track.

It is understood that a number of breeders and horsemen will go to Sacramento within a few days at the re-this series and the captains are requested to get their teams together and roll these off. The averages:

BEHIND THE TIMES

There are tribes in South America who still make implements out of STONE—they have not got around to iron and steel yet.

There is also THE "STONE AGE" SMOKER who still pays ridiculous prices for "imported" cigars. He has not yet realized that DAVIS' "NOBLEMEN" cigars (2-for-a-quarter) would save him 50 per cent. Why not move with the times? WHY PAY TWICE THE PRICE for "imported" cigars, when "NOBLE-MEN" is an exact replica?

Both are made from choice Havana tobacco by Cuban workmen. YET "NOBLEMEN" COSTS HALF THE PRICE.

It is the team that can hit that counts, and this fact brings the New York Giants to the front as possible pennant winners. The Giants finished in second place last year, but captured first honors in the batting average. Manager McGraw has signed up all his old men, and has besides a good squad of youngsters, from which he hopes to pick a team of winners. His chances look good. From present indi-cations his pitching staff is not equalled by any other in the league. In the American League, the Athletics look the best. They not only captured the pennant and world's championship last year, but also walked off with both batting and fielding honors. But the Philadelphia team by no means has the pennant stored away. Manager Hugh Jennings is putting his Tigers thru a course of sprouts, and emphatically declares that his team will "come back." Hal Chase, the new manger of the Yankees, is also very optimistic. The Yankees made a great

Toronto and Montreal will have them, as will presumably the other members of the Canadian Racing Associations, to wit. Hamilton, Windsor and Fort Erie. Winnipeg, Calgary and Victoria also propose to adopt the system. This should be happy news to every real lover of racing, as it promises in large part to abolish the bookmaker, at present the prevailing bane of the turf. There is also, it is said, some idea of the province lies the regulation of race tracks, establishing a licensing fee. This might and should have been done long ago. Then there would have been loss room for scandal and far less reason for the Miller bill. Now that radical changes have been made and are yet in prospect, all looking for the betterment of affairs, taxation is proposed. I am aware that certain gentlement more or less familiarly connected with the bigs tracks of Canada are opposed to what they call governmental interference, but that interference would give the sport a standing by cutting out the detrimentals. How Galopin, Like Hermit, Came Very Nearly Losing the Most Celebrated Race That a Horse Can Win.

By Bertram Ellarn. With King George V. establishing his racing stud at Newmarket, under the same system as his late father, the same system as his late father, continued encouragement is given to the breeder of the thorobred. By those connected with the turf, King Edward VII.'s death was felt with peculiar severity, for it was to him that they looked as the chief patron of the sport and defender of the people's liberties. ple's libertles.

The recent sale of the Warren stud, Epsom Downs, England, brings to memory historical facts regarding some of the famous horses that have been bred and stabled there. The Warren was once the hunting and hawking box of King Charles II.

Tormentor, winner of the Oaks in 1866, produced some good foals here, and other high class horses at this stud were: Ethus, sire of Marshall Scott; Valour, winner of the Manchester Cup; Colorado, winner of the great Metropolitan Handicap at Epsom, and sire of Fighting Furley, Winnipes and Switch Cap. Galtee More was stabled here the day before he won the Derby in 1897, as West also the was stabled here the day before he won the Derby in 1897, as was also the famous Galopin, winner of the Blue Riband for Prince Bathyany in 1875.

It may not be generally known that by an accident which, however, turned out lucky, the late Prince Bathyany's colt might never have been enrolled as a winner of the Blue Riband. The man in charge of the horse by mistake man in charge of the horse by mistake is 'maintain the barricade and if the gave him some water of icy coldness United States want us very badly they drawn from a well situated in the will do as Great Britain has done and with the greatest success.

It would take too much space to detail the many great thorobred stud farms in England. Altho used for breeding race horses, many of them are institutions of considerable commercial value. One of the best known stud farms of this description is the Welbeck, with such classical horses as William the Third, Carbine, Robert le Diable and others, it is estimated that the blood stock on this stud alone is worth half a million dellars.

Another famous stud is the Ment-

Another famous stud is the Ment-more, the property of Lord Rosebery, who three times won the Blue Riband of the turf, with Ladas, Sir Visto and Cleero, whose sire Cyllene was top of the winning sires of England for 1910, with a total of 38,000 guineas to his credit.

The Westerham Hill stud is another palaitlal establishment devoted to the rearing of blood stock, and it was here that Melton stood from the time of rearing of blood stock, and it was here that Melton stood from the time of his repurchase from the Italian Government until his death a few months ago. Melton was by Master Klidare out of Violet Melrose, and ridden by Fred Archer won a sensational Derfoy by a short head from Paradox, ridden by Webb, in 1885. He was sold to the Italian Government for 10000 swiness by Webb, in 1880. He was 10,000 guiness and repurchased for England by J. and repurchased for England by J. Musker in 1896 for 11,000 guineas. Melton was the sire of Best Man, Avington, Henry the First, Sysonby, Toddington and Princess Melton. The last two named sold for £10,000 sterling each. Since Melton's return from Italy his stock in England have won over 60,000 guineas. Well may Mohammed have said that a good horse was the gift of Allah. gift of Allah.

RECIPROCITY IN LIVE STOCK.

Prices of Cattle Here and in Chicago. The most excellent Globe says editorially that if the reciprocity treaty goes thru Canadian farmers will get ten dollars more a head for their cattle. Of course that would mean increased cost to the consumer. Apart, however, from that phase of the matter, how The Globe figures out its stafement when a prime heifer sold on Wednesday at Montreal for $7.50 per hundred lbs. and the highest quotation at Chicago was $6.80, indicating that when the goods are here the money is here, is one of those things it is difficult to understand. Taking this as an exceptional case, what do we find accepting The Globe's commercial columns for the facts? Why, that the highest quotations at Chicago were $5 to $6,80, giving a mean of $5.90, and at forento $5.75 to $6.35, affording a mean of $6.05. Where there is room here for an average rise of ten dollars per head, especially when the cost of transportation is taken into account. is again one of those things which the puzzles a fellow to make out. There s more likelihood of prices dropping over there, if any drop is possible, which does not appear, than Canadian prices bounding upward. At these times when editorial writers undertake o give commercial advice they would well advised, if the truth is desired, to keep their eyes on the compercial columns.

Sir Edward Elgar and His Work

Sir Edward Elgar, the great English field Choir in this city on April 4, and field Choir in this city on April 4, and himself conduct the choir's rendering of his masterpiece. "The Dream of Gerontius," which is universally recognised to be one of the greatest achievements in the whole realm of modern music. Sir Edward is a typical Englishman, with all the Englishman's love of sport and outdoor life. He lives, not in cosmopolitan Lendon, but in a cottage in the woods among the Malvern Hills, and while he works hard at his desk every morning, no weather will keep him from his beloved golf in the aftermoon. Like Dr. Henry Coward, the conductor of the Sheffield Choir, he is a self-taught man.

Sheffield Choir, he is a self-taught man.

Except for five lessons on the violin, the money for which he saved up himself, he has never had a musical lesson. One of the proudest recollections of his youth is the fact that he organized a band in a lunatic asylum, and got some very creditable productions from his little organization of lunatics. He himself arranged a set of quadrilles for this band to perform, and in this early work undoubtedly gained the insight into the tone-color of the various instruments which has stamped such peculiar character on his compositions. The text of "The Dream of Geronthus" was written by Cardinal Newman. Its keenly imaginative and mystic nature is admirably expressed in the setting which Elgar has given it. The composition is devotional in the way that "Parsifal" is, and its preeminence as a work of ant is that music alone, and not scenic accessories of the help of action, brings before the mind of the listener the effect desired.

A point that has been much dis-before the mind of the listener the effect desired.

A point that has been much discussed in connection with the work is the proper pronunciation of "Gerontius," should be used, or the soft lis," tius." Opinions are divided as to whether the "g" as in "girl" should be used, or the soft "s," as in gem." Properly speaking, the hard "g" should be used in Greek names that have, as in this instance, become Latinised, but this refers only to a complete Latin phrase, not to a creation, the fall of our first parents and the promise of the Redeemer. The Toronto Festival Chorus and Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Torington, are at present earnestly at work on this great masterplece of Gouned and will present it on April 25 at Massey Hall.

An Old Maine Cemetery.

A little country cemetery on the line between Readfield and Mount Vernon offers rare curiosities. Headstones date back to 176, and are of black slate, hand-chiseled and hand-chased. These record, sometimes in crude and unusual manner, the reverence with which these early settlers marked the last resting place of their dead. Figures and faces cut by such tools as the age offered decorate the slabs artistically. One of them bears this warnary ing, cut in old-fashioned lettering, with

When these juices are weakened or too powerful they cannot get the good things out of the nourishment we eat, and hence they turn into the blood that which makes fat. It is very simthings out of the hourisment we ead, and hence they turn into the blood that which makes fat. It is very simple to correct these juices in a fat person. This secret has been demonstrated in the famous Marmola Tablets, which now have such a tremendous sale. They reduce fat at the rate of frem 12 to 15 ounces a day. They correct the faulty juices and give to the body the very nutrition it needs. They remove fat in a very natural mannier, but they do it so quickly as to be almost beyond belief. Yo do not have to diet or exercise and you may eat what you will. These little tablets are the result of a demand on the part of the public for a The annual dinner of the Dufferin person. Titus and Andronicus A Plot Sketch by A. O'M.

The Goths and the vandals were the eternal enemies of Rome. In numbers they were legion; in daring and endurance they were as is the wont of the barbarian, equal to lion or the wolf. Nature and circumstances created or fostered these traits. Their exploits against Rome and its civilization was as much the spirit of adtion was as much the spirit of adventure and conquest as jealousy toward the empire that coralled and controlled the tribes of the earth. They hung on her confines like the locusts over Egypt, menacing disintegration or destruction; and all the vigilance and valor of Rome's greatest generals and cohorts could scarcely dyke out this threatening angry horde. In the sixth century, like a voicano's hot tide, they came down and blotted out the arts and the arms, the civilization and culture, that had ruled and enlightened the world for centuries.

Andronious goes forth as did many another, and soon victory perched another and soon victory perched peacefully on his gallant banners.

The world always loves the hero. Athelels and arms by a queer per-versity takes precedence in the popular mind almost always over the laureates of peace; whether it be in literature, in art or science. Andronicus is hailed by the majority of his countrymen as their next emperor. The cauldron of controversy is boiling at the time. The two sons of the Emperor Bassianus and Saturninus are equal in claims of blood. but in age Saturninus is senior and as such has some title to precedence. The magnanimity of Andronicus is as great as his valor and his victory and he refuses to abuse popularity and usurp the crown. He favors Saturninus as Buckingham did Richard and enables him to ascend the throne with not a whit more gratitude in return As a compliment to Titus and with some policy of diplomacy, he asks the hand of Lavinia, which of course he gains. Bassianus, the "defeated" claimant, has cause: he nurses defeat: besides, he is bethrothed to the fair Lavinia; and so motives are not want-ing to thwart the designs of Saturfor too enraged is he at the frustration of his plans and his approval of the nuptials of Lavinia and Saturninus, that he murders, like Jephthe, his own son, who, unfortunately, favored the faith and fortune of both Bassianus and Lavinia. Saturninus the while, is aware of Titus' power and popularity, and his first move was secretly to undermine his prestige; but as it failed, unfaithful not alone to favor and fidelity, but even to humanity, grasps the murder as a pretext slight the fond but foolish general.

straightway marries Tamoria, the captive Gothic queen, brought home to Rome by the victorious Titus as the grandest trophy of the war. The they flatter Titus with false amitles. Entirely duped like Othello, is this candid, ingenuous darling of the tented field, and so he will amuse his royal chase. St. Batholomew has hardly greater horrors. The savage queen no slave to Saturninus. She loves the Moor, Aaron, who is as matchless in murder and malice as any Richard or lago and takes the opportunity afforded by the hunt to meet her secret sweetheart. The barbaric blood of Tamora's sons, incited or abetted by the mather makes easy clay to work the mother, makes easy clay to work in. The queen, no lover of Saturninus.

The healthy man or woman digests all in. The queen, no lover of Saturninus, that is good in food and throws off in hates Lavinia because her husband arranged to marry her. Aaron incites the concluding session of the convention for the ensuing year the convention for th is what digestive juices are made for. these wolfish creatures to violate When these juices are weakened or too Lavinia; tear out her tongue; cut off

Fate or design now also plays a part: it favors the unspeakably wronged gentility or generosity of Titus. His His son, Lucius, long since banished behood and the poison of persecution, coupled with inherited talents rankling or developing in his breast, en-able and impel him to avenge his wrongs and right the insults heaped upon his heroic father. With his phalanxed forces he stands at the gate of the city, like a wall of water, ready to inundate and overpower it. Tamora, relying on her blood, meets him at his father's house, hoping by any means to satisfy the honor and the anger of the injured soldiers. Titus now repeats and multiplies the atrocities of Aaron; he keeps the sons of Tamora, who have come thither disquised to arrange amilies; kills them; cooks them; and serves them up as ple to Saturninus and Tamora when they meet Lucius to parley of terms of peace. It is the signal for slaughter. and ere the banquet is over Lavinia, Tamora, Titus and Saturninus all lie Lucius reveals the persecution and is proclaimed emperor. The board of control decided to leave the matter of what was done to keep up the supply in the hands of the city engineer, and the health department. Phey refused to take any responsibility for the turning in of the lagoon water and let it be known in no uncertain terms that it was not done with sanction. If the city engineer and the medical health department considered it a safe course, however, they did not see that they should interfere.

It was an open secret that many of the aldermen, dissatisfied with the way the waterworks department is handled, were prepared to-move for a call for resignations by the whole-

Ald. McCarthy sees in the trouble with the intake during the week a blessing in disguise. He is on the opinfor that if no harm came to the citizens thru the impurities introduced to the mains, it will prove one of the best things that ever happened for the city. It has demonstrated that the question of the city's water supply is one requiring careful consideration. He is also of the opinion that it proves that those who opposed the recommendation have been justified by the week's sion of another intake, even the in a different direction, would mean the same trouble with sand as it would also be laid on a point that in 20 years would be part of the island.

While not prepared to outline any b'llties of securing the city's water at no strated that the water had not been polluted in the last 100 years, and where the bed of the lake was shale rock without any sedimentary deposit, was well worth consideration. It had been said that the water was so shallow at this point that there would be difficulty in protecting an intake pipe from storms. It reply to this argument, he suggested that it might be found that the formation was such that the rock could be tunneled.

Every Cobalt property which has been legitimately worked has make good returns to investors. The camp is better than ever and for many years to come high dividends will be paid. We believe that BEAVER will be one of the big producers and dividend payers and investors cannot fail to make money. Porcupine, from the information we receive, will be as spectacular in gold production as Cobalt has been in silver. Two companies give exceedingly great promise of large returns, HOLLINGER and PRESTON EAST DOME. We say, with confidence, to buy these now. Nipissing will sell-higher.

Mail orders have, however, been good and prospects for spring business continue excellent. Values generally hold firm in tone. An excellent business is opening up in hardware and it is evident that building activities will be most pronounced in all parts of Canada during the coming summer. A fair demand is noted for staple groceries and in drygoods large spring shipments are pre-paring to go forward. Local factories

Upward Movement in New Long Account in Market of Buoyancy in Toronto Ex-York Market Meet Sudden Check This Week.

Saturday Evening, Feb. 18. After ten weeks of advancing prices. the New York market suffered the week. For several days the market had the appearance of jockeying, there being the evident desire on the part of the market leaders to dispose of as of the market leaders to dispose of as much stock as possible. It is note-worthy that at the beginning of the year few advices favored the buying side of securities, and that recently the reverse has been in evid nce. When the market first commenced its upward movement there was no doubt, a large short list in existance, and it is equally certain that this has been eliminated. The lowering of the Bank of England rate had been anticipated, and it was rate had been anticipated, and it was known to banking interests sometime known to banking interests sometime since that money rates were on the decline. The English bank rate is now 3½ per cent. two reductions having been made of ½ of 1 per cent. each this year. There is an impression abroad that the English money market may see a stringency about April 1, but it is difficult to see how this can be of any permanent character. Wall-street is supplied with all the funds it needs, and the present decline in prices is not warranted, otherwise than market movement for speculative purposes.

EXPORTS INCREASE RAPIDLY Increase Shown in January Figures for United States.

A general increase in exportation of breadstuffs, meats, cotton and min-eral oil is a marked characteristic of the monthly statement issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the Depart-ment of Commerce and Labor of the United States. It shows the number of bushels of corn exported in Jan-uary, 1911, as 9,750,000 bushels, against 6,000,000 in January last year; or wheat 2,750,000 bushels, against less than 1,500,000 a year ago; of corton, over 1,000,000 bales against less than Chicago Gossip.

J. P. Bickell & Co. say at the close: Wheat—Continued dulness in cash wheat circles, and general rains in winter wheat belt were signals for heavy liquidation, and short commitments the past week. Values recording new records for recent decline and tendency apparently still downward. Immediate fluctuations difficult to forcess as situation depending on language. January, 1910, and for the seven months ended Jan.31, $630,000,000 against forecast, as situation depending on factors that are unusual, the proposed tariff treaty being one, and, if ratified, $545,000,000 in the corresponding period means radical adjustment of values.

No Mandate, Says Dewart We Can Afford to Wait

From letter of H. H. Dewart, K.C., former Liberal candidate, to The Globe:—
The origin of the recent reciprocity movement in Canada is worth considering. It comes from the middle west, where the people have sacrificed less and benefitted more than in any other part of Canada. It is not solely due to the very considerable influx of valued settlers from the western States, but their influence is not a negligible quantity. It comes at a time when the whole of Canada has made an enormous contribution to insure the development of the new provinces, and to esin one house, will justify us in doing so. THE CANADIAN LEAGUE

I desire to be enrolled as a member of "THE CANADIAN LEAGUE." and I agree to advocate and support the objects as laid down.

Sign and mail to the Honorary Secretary of "THE CANA-DIAN LEAGUE," 12-14 Wellington East, Toronto

The reverse side has the following:
THE CANADIAN LEAGUE.

The Canadian League is intended to unite all patriotic Canadians in one organization which will be helpful to the nation as a whole and helpful to each individual.

The central oraginzation is to be supported by the voluntary contributions from its "patrons." No member is to pay an initiation fee or a yearly subscription. Local leagues may be formed wherever there are twenty or more members of the league, and these leagues may make their own regulations as to meetings, fees and constitution.

Canada is receiving each year many new citizens, more in proportion to her population than any other country in the world. There must be an organized effort to explain to these the nature of our government and the traditions of our past, and to inspire in them a feeling of intelligent loyalty to the country and its institutions. Hence the prime necessity for a league of this nature.

A league badge is being prepared and will be supplied at cost price to all members. A certificate of membership will be sent to every person joining the league, for which there will be no charge. Charters also will be supplied local leagues free of charge.

league, for which there will be no charge. Charters also will be supplied local leagues free of charge.

Objects of the Canadian League.

1. To explain to the foreigners who are pouring into Canada the nature of our government and our traditions, and to inspire in them an intelligent devotion to the country and its institutions.

2. To bring the people of Eastern and Western Canada into a closer understanding of each other and to temper the sentiments of both east and west so that, respecting each other's rights and requirements, they may unite in a common Canadianism.

3. To unite all citizens in support of things Canadian, and to discourage partisan criticism of accepted national undertakings, such as the Canadian Naval Service.

4. To encourage and further dignify agriculture as of prime importance and to support Canadian industries as necessary in the upbuilding of the country.

5. To maintain Canada as a self-governing nation within the empire.

Cut the Cost

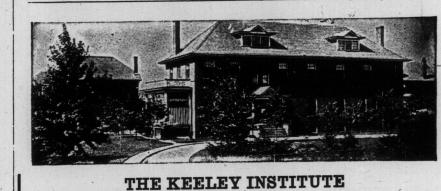

Of your Automobile Maintenance by keeping your car at home. Of interest to all automobile owners and parties who are building, that have not a garage, also contractors and farmers: The McMartin Portable Automobile Garages are made of best open-hearth steel galvanized. They are Rust-Proof, Lightning-Proof, Weather-Proof, Strong, Lasting and Attractive in Appearance; made in sections and shipped knocked down; put together with bolts; easily taken apart or set up; can be moved wherever you move; Especially adapted as Automobile Garages, Outing Cottages, Boat and Bath Houses. Hunting Lodges, Storehouses, Contractors' Storage and Tool Houses.

For cottages it may be sub-divided into two or more rooms, with metal lath and plastered partitions. When walls are lathed and plastered, you have a building as warm as any brick or wood-walled building.

Maintenance cost either makes the automobile practical or extravagant. The garage charge is the big item in up-keep cost, and is a perpetual expense. Keeping your car at home, in your own garage, does away with all storage charges. The saving in one season by having your own garage will generally amount to more than the garage charges. The home garage also tends to reduce repair expenses. The man who keeps his own car at home soon becomes accustomed to doing more or less fixing of his own machine that would otherwise be done at the garage. Particulars as to cost, etc., by

THE LAND OF PROMISE: EMIGRANTS CATCHING THEIR FIRST GLI MPSE OF CANADA.

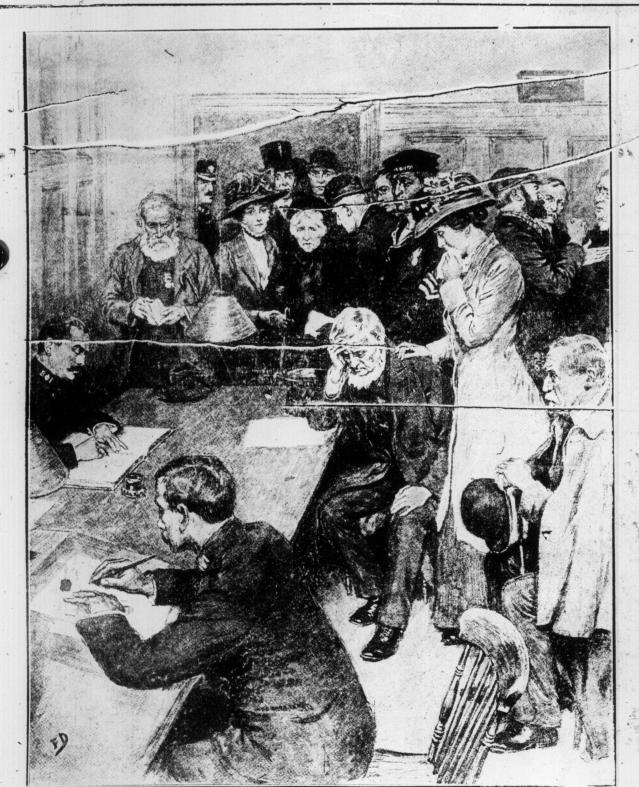

Mr. Frank Craig has here depicted the soul-stirring moment in the life of the immigrant to the land of the twentieth century when he catches the first glimpse of his future home. In the immigrants' quarters all crowd to the side to see the low hills of the new country showing up on the horizon as the vessel enters the St. Lawrence River. Last year the total number of immigrants to Canada was 350,000. Of these 150,000 came from the United States, and nearly all the countries of Europe contributed their quota to the remaining 200,000, of whom the great majority entered the country by the St. Lawrence route, "Canada's Gateway," which is open to navigation from May to November.—The Graphic.

Edited by Architectural Suggestions FRANKLIN E. BELFRY Artistic and Practical

In the residence of Mr. H. S. Harwood, on Admiral-road, we are presenting another example of the adaptability of the old colonial work to our present-day requirements.

The colonial is a stately, dignified style of simple lines and considerable refinement in its detail, sometimes inclined to slight appearance of stiffness, if it is not treated with a certain amount of modern freedom.

In this case, instead of using the symmetrical lines, coresponding at each side of the centre according to tradition, the designer has allowed the windows to suit the rooms in which they are arranged. The scheme shows that it has been laid out to suit the ordinary, everyday requirements of its owner, and in that way may be regarded as a plain. sensible type, void of all frills and pretentious experiments.

The color scheme is well selected and adopted, using contrasting colors in every group of detail.

The layout on plan shows a very pretty approach into the main hall, because of the wide openings and also the alcove at the end, which not only adds to the decoration, but forms an ante-space upon the approach to the kitchen.

Nt only are the rooms of good size and shape but the minor spaces, such as pantries, cupboards, closets, etc., have been well studied and applied with greatest convenience. Particular mention may be made of the vergence from and superiority to all other animals in his subjugation and adaption to his own needs of fire. Yet, despite the progress of humamity, fire is just as tyrannical a master when opportunity offers—and how often that is!—as in the olden days. Altho science has wrought wonders in the development of fire-preventing and fire-fighting devices, the conflagration hazard still exists, even where science has done most to aid the courage of man for the

The science of fighting fire is peculiarly American, just as that of preventing fire is peculiarly European. Building construction makes American cities an easy prey to conflagrations. That's why high water-pressure systems, cumbrous aerial trucks, massive fire engines, water towers and the numerous ingenious devices for fighting flames have been evolved. As far back as 1836, the first steam fire engine was built, and in 1849 the first chemical engine, which utilized carbonate of soda and sulphuric acid in the speedy extinction of incipient blazes. And yet, as in primitive times, without water they are all

As fire departments have, from decade to decade, been improved in their apparatus, so, too, have they been bettered in organization. To-day the average fire department in America is the most competent thing of its kind on earth. How literally our everyday security—of which we think, if we think at all, as a mere matter of course—is built upon the supreme sacrifice of these deed men, we realize at intervals. From the moment the fireman leaves his quarters, behind plunging horses, until he has returned, he takes a risk that may at any moment place him face to face with death in its most cruel form. The recent tragedies in Philadelphia and Chicago sent a thrill of horror, mixed with admiration, thruout the country. And the dangers that the fireman in the great cities of the continent face are ever present here. Who in Toronto does not recall the sorrow of that July morning a few years since when five of our own fire fighters were suddenly crushed beneath tumbling walls?

Many an act of conspicuous daring which the world would applaud is regarded by the fireman as a matter of simple duty, that had to be done that way because there was no other way. Nor is it always, or even usually, the way because there was no hardest duty as he sees it.

What makes a fireman? Croker of New York asks for muscle and goo'd lungs-and obedience. He would like stevedores and truck-drivers. But, whoever he gets, it isn't the lure of an easy job that attracts. There is everything in the life to appeal to the imagination of the finer grained: There is the spectacular side to fire-fighting, to which even danger adds, that takes many a man into the job. Then, day and night, he leads a kind of hair-trigger life, that feeds naturally upon excitement, even as relief from the irksome restraint of the station. That's the wearing part of it. With the clang of the gong dull care is gone. There comes the wild dash thru the streets. Then the crowd see helmeted, rubber-coated men crawl up a ladder, or pernaps down into cellarways, and lug a line of hose thru a window from which dense smake is pouring. Could they follow, they would see the firemen down on hands and knees,, crawling with face close to the floor, seeking the fire that is somewhere hidden but that may at any moment break forth in its full glory. It is there in the smoke, which he has been trained to "eat," away from the crowd, taking his "pumishment" without a grouch, with nothing to give him the thrill of excitement, that the fireman's hardest work is done. How often he just avoids being caught like a rat in a trap only he himself knows; it's something the public never hears of.

There's one thing to remember. It isn't how well a department can handle a big fire that should alone go to their credit. It's how successful they are in preventing it. Last year, the Toronto fire department turned out on 1267 alarms, and kept the loss down to $257,000. In 19 9 there were 1103 alarms and the loss was $740,931. These are facts the city council ought to remember when it comes to dealing pretty soon with the men's application for an increase in pay. Toronto is getting to be a big place, and the responsibilities upon the fire department are increasing daily—with every new building that is completed, with every new family that comes here to live. Care must be taken that the personnel of the department is not allowed to deterioriate. You can't expect to get the proper kind of man to face the risks of a fireman's life, coupled with its inconveniences of long hours of duty and the almost utter lack of home life, at a rate of pay that hardly compares with that of the street la-

The Toronto fire department has a right to demand a first-class man for the job. Away back in 1.826, when the first fire companies were organized in "Muddy York," they included "some, of the most respectable merchants and tradesmen." In 1855, when the volunteer companies were first brought under city control, there were six manual engines, with from 25 to 35 men to each, a ladder company of 25 men and a hose company of 40 men, with ten hose reels and 2 ladded trucks. The city then had 40,000 population. In 1876, just after the organization of the first paid department, there was a chief engineer, a superintendent of fire alarms and an assistant, 57 men and drivers, 4 steam fire engines, 11 hose reels, 2 trucks and a salvage wagon. To-day there are 300 men, with a score of modern hose wagons, 7 ladder trucks, 8 steam engines, 2 aerial trucks, a water tower, 2 high-pressure hose wagons, 2 chemical engines and a salvage wagon, with a modern high-pressure water

Chief Thompson and those of the "old guard" who can count their service back to the days of '76, have seen wondrous changes; what will the next 25 years do for the department, when Toronto will have her million or more of population?

Hitherto, Canadians have pursued with undeviating loyalty the noble ambition of nationhood. They have kept clearly before their minds the idea of building themselves into a strong, independent and self-re-liant people. They have set themselves assiduously to the task of creating on this continent a parliamentary democracy imbued with the best British traditions and following forth a system which without friction permits the will of the people to receive full force and effect. To attain that end they have maintained their freedom of action, have refused continental entanglements and lected proposals which, however fair in promise, have appeared to conflict with the purpose dominating their conscious determination achieve their goal. Now there has been suddenly sprung upon them a departure so extensive and vital as to demand the utmost caution before accepting responsibility for its au-

If anything more than another were calculated to give Canadians pause it is the manner of its reception in the United States. By President Taft himself and by many leading public men and influential newspapers the identification, even tho partial, of the Canadian market with their own is welcomed as the first step towards the unification of the North American continent. They have become alive to the fact that Canada may yet be tempted to pre-fer continentalism to closer union within the British Empire, or at any rate, may be lured into a course which will inevitably compel her to make that choice. Reciprocity men in Canada scout the possibility, but scepticism, real or feigned, does not alter the risk of close commercial union diminishing the strength of the imperial sentiment. Reciprocity has come too soon to be an unmixed advantage, supposing it to have any present advantage. Whatever that may be it is not worth the price which is being paid. If it has none the abandonment of the National Policy is all the more inexcusable.

Uncle Has His, Too

Editor Sunday World: Why should there be a great outcry about the reciprocity treaty, and the possibility of the annexation of this country to the United States? I have always been for Canada and agin' the United States, but I have begun to despair of my country and I am almost at the point of hoping for the merger that you and so many good Canadians fear so much. Why? First of all. If Canada had been a part of the American Union would the Roman Catholic Church have been strong enough to force congress to fasten the incubus of separate schools upon the two new provinces (states) recently created in the west?

Next. Would the United States Government have condoned the action of the speaker of our parliament, in his robes of office of the judges of the courts, in their official robes, and of a regiment of soldiers, carrying arms, in turning out to welcome the representative of the Roman Catholic Church, thus giving official cognizance to a gathering the chief object of which was the Romanizing of the northern half of this contin-

Casual Comment

In last Sunday's World it was asserted that everything points to the likelihood of a parliamentary election in Canada probably in September. This prophesy seems to be either inspired or confirmed by a price list of "Cheap Eggs" term Chicago muhiliphed on the Eggs" Chicago published on the same page. The prices of the however seem almost to gest that unless the that unless the is hurried on they will velop into arguments too strong for any candidate to get "ova."

An answer to an enquirer, given by contemporary, reads: "An odd cos-tume is to let the hair hang over the face, put a false face behind, and put the coat on backwards. You then have the puzzling appearance of skating backwards." I do not see how "letting the hair hang over the face" can be called either odd, or a costume. That is where it usually hangs, isn't it? And the face is to be put behind what? The only garment, apparent-ly, is a coat—doubtless an ulster, but, when you have gotten yourself up as suggested, why you should "have the appearance of skating backward," I cannot understand. To me it seems that a person made up as per prescrip-tion would have the appearance of a

Two things strike me in connection with the Reciprocity tangle. One is that the American newspapers seem to be so calmly assured that it is a "sure thing" that they can afford to adorn their illustrated papers with cartoons, the point of which, in all cases, is that Uncle Sam is a remarkably smart man, while John Bull is a slumbering old fool. The other thing is that practically all the aversion, and that seems to be considerable, to the proposed agreement, comes from Canada. I do not pretend to be sufficiently "in the movement" to be able to decide, even for myself, exactly how far the scheme might advantage or disadvantage Canada, but, if I had to do so, in a-matter of the sort, and under conditions which at this moment obtain in the Reciprocity deal, I would think that the scarcely veiled satisfaction of my protagonist would pre-scribe extreme caution for myself— that is to say that the scarcely veiled satisfaction in the U.S. A. and the very apparent disapproval in Canada, might-indeed asks to-be taken as prima facie evidence that a very much better bargain than that now outlined could be obtained for Canada. I hope I may be forgiven for, so to speak, butting in with my opinion. I can only excuse it by pleading that "lookers-on" sometimes have opportunities of seeing things differently to the play-

Many criminals become so familiar with the prison routine as to lose all horror of it. In fact, life is so wretched for certain classes of undesirables in London that they would commit petty crimes as a means of gaining entrance to a prison, not for the wholesome fear of floggings. The cat-'o-nine-tails used for floggings has been deprived of its knots and is not laid on as strenuously as in the old days, while with young offenders the birch rod is brought into play. Told in the Twilight

The P.A.Y.E. system in its working was not devoid of its humorous side I know a maiden of Toronto, who, by sheer merit and integrity, has risen to the managership of an office. She is the soul of business, and private, honor, a resolute church-goer and, I would say; an absolutely consistent Christian. But she is very small in stature and enconsed in a seat be-tween a base-ball magnate with his legs agape (you know the type), and dowager in a coon-coat, she is simply lost. Hence comes the temptation we all dread:

"Bother the pay-as-you-enter sys-tem!" she said to me. "It is a nuis-

"But why?" I asked. "You always buy tickets. You have only to get one ready and drop it in the box as you enter the car." "Yes;" she replied without a blush, "but in the old days I have travelled for a week at a time without the confuctor asking for my fare.

Personally I do not greatly blame her. A thousand times have I paid five cents for a seat to my destination and tired out as I was, have had to hang on to a strap. That is a distinct breach of contract; directly, on the part of the company-indirectly, on that of the city which draws a peral anyway. Of course everyone blames R. J. F. It might be more to the point to go further back. When Fleming was mayor noone fought the Street Railway Company so fiercely as he. You cannot fight a foe without learning both his strength and his weakness.
That knowledge is very valuable.

Here is a story to illustrate my point. Some thirty years ago the world was startled by the advent of a certain big speculator known as Baron Albert Grant. His real name was Oppenheim, a German of Jewish descent; but he dealt in millions where other men handled thousands and he was accepted. He traded largely in Great Britain and the United States and his name was on everyone's tongue. He built a gigantic palace in the West-end of London, but; 'Time brought in its revenges, and he never occupied it. However, that's another

On one occasion he got into litigation with a certain London bank. Grant had, as he thought, a clear case, but the young lawyer, representing the other side, fought so hard that the celebrated baron only gained a bare verdict, each side to pay its own costs and those costs were appalling.

The next day the young lawyer re-ceived a communication saying that Baron Grant would like to see him at his convenience. In some trepida-tion he called at the money-king's of-

"You represented the bank?"
"Yes, baron, as junior counsel."
"You nearly licked me. What salary do you get?"

"Two thousand pounds a year, sir. "Well, if ten will appeal to you, call on me again in two days. Good morn-

That young man for many years ruled over the Grant destinies and, when the baron went under as he was bound Bought wit is best," says the old English proverb.

I am glad to hear that the authoritles are going to look more closely into the conditions of cheap lodging-houses, and, particularly, into the characters of the inmates. Many a crook or undesirable harbors in those unsavory resorts. There are one or two points that should be insisted on. Every house should be compelled to have indoor toilet and bathroom; linen should-be changed once a week and drunken men should not be allowed in the rooms in daytime to sleep off their debauches. Of course, if a man is sober and has paid for his bed, he ought to be allowed in at any time, but save us from the drunkard.

However, before Toronto is thoroly cleansed, there are other things to be done. She must be cleaned morally as well as physically. What have the suing childish and ridiculous laws concerning theatre-posters and indecent literature: which laws have made us a laughing-stock to other cities? Of course, one could hardly expect the gentlemen in control to be able to un-derstand that high-art can be pure and decent, or, that an excess of modesty tainly chased a few unfortunate women up and down Adelaide-street; while half a dozen burly constables and as many detectives have, with great valor, raided houses on York-street, where a few boys in their beens were "shooting craps," for nickels.

"Toronto the Good" was applied to us, in sarcasm, by outside communi-ties and I was sorry to find it a byword in cities of the states; where one man said, "Toronto has more churches to the square yard than any town on this continent and more hidden vice," and he was of a sporting clique that knows. This is a stain that must be washed away. Let me make a suggestion to the morality department, although fear they will not dare to tackle it. 'Leave off hounding the poor for a time and turn your attention to the rich Search into conditions on St. George and Jarvis and kindred streets and especially, into one or two of the fash-ionable hotels. If you have sufficient energy left, gentlemen, to stand a shock, summon it to your aid; for a shock you will get. That is, presuming that you do not know facts already. Anyway, our summer visitors know and so do I. We cannot have one law for the rich and another for the poor. That is not what built the strength of the little island of Britain. The rich must not be allowed to dictate to the poor on matters of sobriety, gambling or morality until they can show a clean slate themselves. The policeman on night-beats, on the streets I mentioned, and near the hotels, know perfectly well what I mean; or else they are absolute fools." I leave these remarks to the gentlement of the morality department. The City tiful and has teo great a future befere her, to be stigmatized as unclean. Let us start; our spring-cleaning at

> The assumption is that the reverse gear would give a lower speed than the low gear. The difference might be quite a little. It is comparatively seldom that an automobile is required to back up at high speed.

In comparison with the geometrical plan as above outlined there is the arithmetical ratio which might read

This idea, while it sounds good, does not seem to accord with the main considerations, and, while there may be cases in which it might seem desirable to provide for the narrowing of the gap below that which charity and the gap below that which obtains when a geometrical ratio is used, the fact remains that, when a motor is overloaded, it is generally on a patch of bad roadway, or when the motor is out of order, so that it is a very low gear that will be needed.

Funny Man Will Appear as Divorce Court Judge at Princess This Week.

Frank Daniels will come to the Princess Theatre for half of a week, beginning Thursday, Feb. 23, in the funniest role of his entire career, when he appears as the judge of the divorce court in Charles Dillingham's hig new musical comedy production, "The Girl in the Train." This operetta, by Leo Fall, has been the rage of all Europe for the past year, and has been playing in every big city of Europe with unvarying success. Charles Dillingham bought the American rights last spring, and engaged Harry B. Smith to make the American adaptation from the original German of Vi tor Leon, who, by the way, first attained fame as the author of "The Merry Widow." The story of "The Girl in the Train" relates to an adventure on a sleeping car, when a young husband gives up his sleeping compartment to an actress traveling alone. This incident leads to the first act, a divorce court scene in Holland, where the young man's ess Theatre for half of a week, bemusical comedy written in collaboration by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luderers will be played at the Royal Alexandra Theatre for one week beginning and Princess Hildegarde of Danubia. Objections Answered.

Well, now for some objections. We are told that in the second chapter of the Acts of the Apostles that 2000 people were baptized at one time, and that there was not water enough in all that part of the country to immerse them and that there was not time enough for the apostles to immerse them in/that one day. Is is true that they did not have time to immerse them? Let figures answer. Two thousand two hundred and twenty-six people were immersed in one day by six administrators, only two baptizing at a time. They took six hours to do it. The above was published in Calcutta Jan. 1883. This baptism took place at Ononqole, India. Baptizing at that rate twelve administrators could have baptized 4441 is knours, one-third of them baptizing at a time, or if all of them worked for six hours, one-third of them baptizing at a time, or if all of them worked for six hours at that rate would have baptized 13,322. For the twelve apostles to baptize and the pronounced impropriety of the deping altogether and sustain the denial by the absence of fact and precept, and the pronounced impropriety of the age, as to the dipping of females into water, publicly by men, it will not do to say that those who practiced the dipping of females by men in the water see no impropriety in it. There are two chapels in the Mercer, a Protestant one and a Catholic one. The proportion of these two sects are about one-third Catholic and twothirds Protestant, showing that one religion is about as good as another for keeping women within the law. Religion undoubtedly has a restraining influence but to many the creeds and dogmas are ununderstandable, but human kindness and sympathy is a universal language that all may understand. I saw negro women, Irish and English and Canadians, but I saw no Jewesses. Is something lacking in Christianity or is it only that something is lacking in its followers?

The "Brotherhood of Man" should be all right but evidently the Jews practise this fundamental doctrine, get-where there is no economic stress, no lack of education, no lack of apparent ideals and yet these are the hard, cruel facts this woman has to face. The one thing that may save her is her determination to keep the thing private. If her pride is greater than her love she may survive the shock, but as I saw her helplessly staring into space, with nerves shattered, ambition gone, a shrinking, crushed thing, I began to feel that there were problems beside the economic one, or the child labor problem or the medical inspection of schools. Yes, when all these social questions are settled there will still be that vast one of the human heart to be settled. I wonder if Carpenter's advice would do any good. I am afraid that in order to take wise advice one must be wise and so few of us seem to be that. But it may help some and so I give it:

I have always had one chief, absorbing interest in life, my work. Everything else was secondary to it. But, and this is most important, having found my work I regarded it not as a penalty, but a pleasure.

I have had other interests, "petit" (little) interests, of life. They have kept me from becoming one sided. In other words, I have played a little, as well as worked a great deal. The little interests have kept me from becoming one sided, work

Massage the scalp every night until it begins to seem tender. Rub into the roots this preparation:

Crude oil, 1 oz. Bay rum, 1 pint. This is another corrective for falling hair:

Cocoanut oil, 1 oz. Cologne, 2 ozs. Tincture Nux Vomica, 2 drams. Tincture of cantharides, 1 dram. Tincture of capsicum, 1/2 dram. If the hair is dry this tonic is apted to it: Alcohol, 3 ozs.

Cocoanut oil. 1 oz. Tincture of nux vomica, 2 drams Tincture of cantharides, 1 dram.

Tincture of capsicum, 1/2 dram. For thin eyebrows massage is as helpful as for thin hair. But the massage should be lighter so that the surrounding skin shall not be drawn. In fact, I prefer patting to stroking the brows, for a strong stroke may pull the delicate hair from its roots.

I have known thin cycbrows to grow thick and beautiful through massaging them lightly every night with a little olive oil.

Another tonic that has been used with success is:

Vaseline, 1/2 oz.

Tincture of cantharides, 1/4 dram. Oll of rosemary, 6 drops.

This tonic has been applied with a camel's hair brush to the rims of the eyelids to promote the growth of the hair:
Vaseline, 10 grams.
Boric acid, 20 centigrams.

Care must be taken to avoid the mixture getting into the eyes. A steady hand only should apply it.

As the scalp must be kept clean by massage, brushing and shampoo ing, so must the eyelids be kept free from encrustations and the brows from dust by brushing.

Man Perfects Himself By Working ANIMAL ORGANS AND TISSUES GROWN APART FROM BODY

Tissue Live and Grow Severed From Body-Cultures of Cancer and Tumor in Plasmic Solution of Tissue-New Era of Surgical Methods.

The adult—that is, the full grown-organs and tissues of the higher animals, that presumably reach their full development only in the body, can be made to continue to grow outside of the body, entirely removed from any connection with its general vitality Hence, as Doctor Albert R. Ledoux ex-plains in a recent number of The Outook, it is apparent that man is on the eve of a totally new development in his notions of the operation of the mysterious thing called life. The in-ference of Doctor Ledoux is amply con-firmed in the announcement of two experimenters at the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research thru The Journal of the American Medical Association (Chicago). The facts were disputed when the original report was made a few weeks ago, but the evidence is now so clear and so overwhelthat all skepticism has vanished While some of us may shrink, to cite the words of Doctor Ledoux, from facing such a change in our conception as these things imply, it must be remem-bered that to the biologist nothing is mpossible, however improbable at first it may seem.
Growing Animal Tissues.

Comprehension of the recent devel opment will be facilitated by what Doctor Ledoux says on the subject of plasma. The plasma is the viscous fluid in animal tissues, such as the blood and lymph, exclusive of their iron, sodium, and other mineral salts. The experimenters at the Rockefeller Institute found that small fragments of organs severed from mammals and placed in a plasma medium drawn from an animal could be made to grow under their gaze, between hollow glass covers

Surprising Results of Biological Mized vaseline, at certain temperatures, ready to be grafted on to and united with the blood vessels of the body. These arteries and veins will unite with them and replace those los ally injured or diseased. Neither these glands nor tissues nor blood vessels, however, would grow or multiply in any known medium or thru any known process outside of a living body. Perhaps some day, conjectures Doctor Ledoux, the surgeon may secure from his ice-box or culture tubes the nuc-leus of some gland or of the liver, esleus of some gland or of the liver, especially grown and kept alive for an emergency.

Cultivating Tumors.

But the Rockefeller experimenters have shown that not only will these things grow outside, but to these artifficially progagated extra-corporeal organs and tissues can be imparted certain diseases to which the natural organ or tissue is subject. For example, cancer of a fowl was introduced and grew by cell multiplication in a plasmic solution just as it does when injected into a living bird. Moreover, they have grown tumors under glass. To quote the words of their report:

"We have succeeded in cultivating a very malignant sarcoma (tumor) outside of the body. The purpose of the experiment was to develop a general method which would permit a study of the tumor tissue under known conditions. tions and to observe living cancer cells at every instant of their growth.

Yet these experimenter have proved that kidneys and glands, the marrow, bones and cartilage and even the skin will thus live and grow under certain conditions, as if still en dowed with some of the life principle of their living owner, the severd from him. Cultures of the thyroid gland grew rapidily. After twenty-four hours It was noted that a few cells had wandered away from the original substance into a new position. Thirty-six hours later one of these cells was fusiform or spindle-shaped and its activity was so great that the experi-menters could follow, under the mic-roscope, the motion of its more solid

This discovery, to revert to Doctor Ledoux's estimate of its importance, is possibly the first step in the direction of making artifially new tissues or even the nuclei of organs to be grafted upon or eased in the human system-Current Literature.

Sashionis Spring Novelties.

ADY DUFF-GORDON, the famous "Lucile" of London, and foremost creator of fashions in the world, writes each week the fashion article for this newspaper, illustrating it with sketches and photographs of her own original models.

NOWING the American liking or embroidery in the same color as for novelties, I will talk to the cloth, below the waist. The straight plain flounces are of equal length, and with a hand of stitching of the devices for novelty this " or embroidery attached to the belt, Spring, being formed of three form the entire walking skirt, All are made upon a drop skirt of taffeta or messaline

With this is worn a candidly short jacket. There is no quarter-length compromise with the longer coat. It is a short jacket cut away into points at the front and sloping upward in the back from these points. The short jacket graduated to a greater length in front is a keynote of the new Spring costumes.

The rings are of different sorts, the lower one being of solid gold with one small diamond surmounting each of the triple parts. The upper one is a double band of pearls joined by lengthwise rows of pearls. The gold ring and pearl ring are united by gold chains. New gauzelike metallic tissues > will be very much used for the making of toques and "snuffer caps," and will appear in many millinery touches in the Spring hats. Many of the newest cabochon ornaments which are destined to figure on hats and toques have a basis of silver. Some of these are in pincushion form, the likeness being increased by a covering of Valenciennes lace. There will usually be added a bor-der of beads, gold or silver, or turquoise, or coral tinted, the last variety being very specially favored. Ornaments entirely covered carried out in coral beads of several sizes are a feature of the coming season, in trimming of both gowns and hats. There are a multitude of modelled in the same metallic tissue, generally silver, and broidered with lines of tiny coral beads.

The star fish is chosen for still another millinery adornment, the starfish form being entirely covered with closely colored beads in a great variety of shades. Beads put in an appearance on almost every material and garment.

Another notable novelty is soon to be introduced, whose name, "Sicil-broadcloth costume reproduced on hat, as does the plume of a Knight this page is the pair of huge revers, of white cloth thrown into relief by the wider, supporting revers beneath, of black and white striped silk. The jacket hangs in a straight line in front and is half-fitting in the back. One row of buttons on either side a row of loose meshed braid, like that to which the upper flounce of the three-decker skirt is attached, finish the front. In the same picture appears a fourth novelty, showing that the young woman here pictured is wearing the latest mode. It is a tall coal scuttle hat, so called because it is of the shape of an inverted coal scuttle. As though by an afterthought, the gray straw of which the hat is made is plaited over on the right side in a large fold. A flat velvet bow of the new purplish shade of red ornaments the right side. A high willow plume of the new popular shade of red tops the of Pythias in parade.

The Spring instead of banishing the metallic effects of the Winter costume will strike a deeper note in that material. The odd, cuirass-like gown on this page is one of the Spring models for a dinner or theatre gown. It is made entirely of gold beads. It is cut in a modified Empire style, the waistline being indicated by a slight curving inward of the line of the gown. The sleeves, reaching to just above the elbow, open to reveal the whiteness of the wearer's arm, the space being covered only in part by narrow beaded cords. The gown is made over a black slip. A handsome embroidered panel of white beads in conventional design, edged with an inch-wide band of black velvet, extends from the shoulders at the back to nearly the hem of the tunic, and is finished by black bead fringe. The band is extended on the right to the under arm seam. The skirt and short sleeves are finished by a band of black velvet corresponding to that which completes the panel. Tufted fringe of gold beads finishes the half decolletage. The effect has an Oriental magnificence.

Let me digress here while treating of the beauty of these metallic effects to tell of some curious rings I have seen worn by Russian women who borrow their ideas of personal decoration from their barbaric ancestors, but have softened and subdued it by their own exquisitely individual taste. One of these curiosities is the double ring. There are two sorts of double rings. One sort is worn on two fingers, a delicate hoop of gold connecting the two

There is another ribbon which will delight the heart and ease the task of the amateur milliner, while its assistance will be by no means despised, even by the expert artist. For, interwoven in its either edge, is the finest of gilt wires, a mere thread, in fact, but strong enough withal to keep bows and ends and loops permanently and prettily erect without depriving them of any of that suppleness of effect which is so desirable, and which it has hitherto been somewhat difficult to secure when upstanding loops of wire had to be attached. .

Found—the First Picture Ever Painted by Rembrandt!

The New "Snuffer Cap"-Masses of Fabric Lavishly Ornamented.

REAT interest has been aroused among art connoisseurs in Europe by the discovery of what is said to be the earliest picture by Rembrandt. perhaps the greatest painter that ever lived.

The newly discovered picture is in the collection of Sir J. C. Rob-Inson, a famous English art collector, who is especially an authority on Rembrandt.

This picture is a study of still representing books grouped ground armor and a skull crowned with laurels. It is dated 1621, or six years earlier than the earliest his hitherto known works. These are "The Money Changer," now in the Kaiser Friedrich Museum in Berlin, and "St. Paul in Prison," now in the Royal Gallery In Stuttgart. These are dated 1627. Both have been identified in recent years, the first by Sir J. C. Robin-

The newly discovered painting is' of large dimensions and painted on an oak-panel made up of four lon-gitudinal planks of unequal width clamped together. Evidence that Rembrandt painted such a picture is to be found in the inventory of his effects, drawn up at the urging of his creditors on July 25 and 26, 1656, in which appears the following

(still life) van Rembrant geretukeert (retouched)." "No. 27. Een vanitas van Rembrant geretukeert." "No. 28. Een dito van den selven met een scepter geretukeert."

"No. 120. Een vanitas van Rembrant geretukeert."

The expression "van Rembrant geretukeert" indicates that these were early works by Rembrandt himself, which he had retouched. Had they been the work of pupils or other painters, the placing of the words would have been "geretukeert van Rembrant"; and most likely the artists' names would have been given, as in so many other instances in the catalogue. The description of No. 28 with the words "van den selven" (by the same) is even more conclusive on this point. Whether the picture in the possession of Sir J. C. Robinson is to be identified with the "Still Life" (No. 25) of the inventory, or either of the "Vanitas' subjectsthe laurel-crowned skull would justify this description-is uncer-It cannot be the picture numbered 28, since no sceptre is included among the subjects depicted. The one thing which is certain is that the still life does bear signs of retouching, though these retouchings are not extensive, the chief alteration being the lettering underneath it.

Sir J. C. Robinson's picture is separated from the earliest known Rembrandt by a space of six years of rapid development. It cannot be proved on internal evidence to be by the master, because it was painted before he had acquired a personal style. But there are these points to consider. It is evidently the work of a very young and naive painter, whose head is filled with such ideas as would result from early university schooling. It shows remarkable talent, a strong feeling for light and shade, and a certain knowledge of reflected lights, and is free from the Italian influence of which Rembrandt showed traces for a time, after he had become a pupil of Lastman, at Amsterdam.

Passages, like the pile of books on the table, occur in his earliest known works. The signature is unusual, but shows nothing to justify the suspicion that it was added at a later time. The production of Rembrandt in the six years before 1627 has yet to be accounted for. Perhaps Sir J. C. Robinson's "Still Life" will serve as a touchstone for the hitherto unidentified pictures, and the publication of it may bring to the light the other "Vanitas" pictures of the inventory-or even other works painted before 1627.

The same policy could be followed by towns, cities and villages to their tremendous benefit. Fancy how Toronto could thrive with its vast pieces of made or redeemed land. In fact I would advocate this policy. Instead of land together the policy in the same plre's interests. When American with Canadian interests subscribe to Canadian election funds, when American manners and methods are generally adopted and rocate this policy. Polo and Hunting.

Polo is one of those games that shares with hunting the credit of making plucky and daring leaders of men. fessional boxers as a class, to consider It is a game that merits every encouragement and as a spectacle is un-surpassed. It is surprising that in a city where anything appertaining to the horse finds much favor it is more popular. Perhaps like cricket in this country it is not a pastime favored of the multitude because played by the multitude, but from its expense and surroundings is somewhat exclusive. I should like to see a free gate tried with, of course, grand stands and bleachers to be paid for. By this means popularity might be with ultimate financial results that yould lead to a widespread of interest. A novel idea has also struck me, namely, that it might be possible to play acrosse on horseback. The ball could be scooped up and thrown between the goals. It appears to me that a game of this sort would be tremendously ineresting and might even prove dangerous to man and horse while possessing all the dash and go of polo, which after all is a species of eques-trian hockey. But it is splendid to see the enthusiasm with which the Toronto Hunt Polo Clufe is going into the game, the recently elected officers of which are: President, Mr. A. O. Beardmore: eaptain, Mr. D. L. Hockey at the Capital. Ottawa's is very cock-a-whoop over its prowess at hockey. It has a right to be, for from all accounts at this moment it possesses the most expert players the world knows. Like all good men must finally do the Wanderers of Montreal have gone back, but with four Stanley Cup victories to their credit in the last five years they have established a name that will live in hockey annals for a long time to come. But Ottawa, too, won three years in succession and also in 1909. So that in number of wins in the last eight years the clubs are even. This, nowever, is clearly Ottawa's year, and they may well be proud of their achievement when 32,000 people have gathered to see them in five games. of some heart that was more contentious would sit by and comfortably toast his shins by the fire

The beauties of peace and rest are beyond question, but they are seldom obtainable without a fight. Most human beings progress by contention, by intelligent meddling with matters the world has long regarded as settled, and by the resultant warfare with the "conservatives," who want to let well enough

You will discover that when a person of intelligence advances the argument that well enough ought to be let alone he is getting rather more than his share. A fat hog, with his feet in a trough, grunting savagely to frighten away the queue of little, pathetic pigs that stand lined up near by, is one of the most confirmed of conservatives.

But presently there appears a lean and hungry razor-back-a porcine Cassius, who is not quite so sure about the utility of letting things alone. There are a few preliminary grunts, a little active crowding, and presently the old order has been overturned. Well enough is not let alone. Beside the thinner razor-back at the trough is room for some of the little pigs. The displaced hog stands gloomily in the near neighborhod lamenting that things are not as they were, and wondering darkly what is to become of hogdom in the future when his divine right has been so wantonly called into question.

Perhaps it is wise, from his point of view, for the man who has the best of everything to preach the doctrine of letting well enough alone. But when you hear it preached by the failure, the ne'er do well, the man who, despite his heat efforts, can never cet money enough to serve beyond the needs of the day, it is time to offer an argument on the other side.

Things were well enough no doubt, from the general point of view when the American continent was occupied by savage natives, whose only occupation was in growing a little corn in haphazard fashion, and whose chief diversion was in taking each other's scalps. The people of the old world looked out at the Western sea and shuddered to think what would become of the foolish mariner whose ship should venture forth upon it so far that at last it must slip over the edge of the world and into space.

Now and then a venturesome mariner announced his intention of sailing west merely to "see what was there." Instantly his friends bade him to let well enough alone and not to risk his own life nor that of an ignorant crew in doing something that had never been done

But the thirst for gold, always a moving factor in progress, at last grew so strong that it even defled superstition.

A Genoese sailor, convinced that the world was round and that by going west he would eventually come to the golden East, made up his mind that he was not going to let well

His argument that he would be able to bring back untold treasure to enrich the Spanish throne at last resulted in his getting the money needed for the outfitting of a pitiful little

The result of the journey west that followed was the discovery of the American continent. Columbus did not let well enough alone, and because he did not he became one of the very greatest figures in the history of the world.

Now and then in a community that has been governed for years in the interests of a handful of greedy monopolists arises a man who asks to know why such a thing should be.

He sees not only vice and crime but legitimate business paying tribute to a corruptionist boss, who in turn is employed by bigger corruptionists, who wear thick cloaks of re-

When he suggests that it would be a good idea to overturn these conditions and begin

Next Meal Is Coming From again on a basis of honesty he is told that the wise man lets well enough alone. The lawyers and the agents of the corruptionists and their supporters sometimes even in pulpits point out that the city has been enjoying an era of prosperity.

"Why disturb it?" they demand. "Why interfere with solid prosperity and turn to something that is untried and unknown?"

Occasionally one of the inquirers has intelligence and, what is more important in that kind of a cause, high courage.

He refuses to let well enough alone. He goes to work quietly and earnestly to let the people know the actual facts. He refuses to be "taken into camp" by the men who want to stop his activities. And in the end he wins. cleans up the city and gets the people some few of their rights. Unfortunately, there is that in human nature which prompts even the beneficiary of a municipal housecleaning to get indifferent by and by. Soon the bosses get back into power, and until the same man starts a new movement or passes his work along to another man, the people continue to smile placidly while their pockets are picked.

When men pause in their fight to keep their heads out of water to ask themselves what they are really fighting for they usually an-

"For contentment."

Each man hopes to end his days in peace and tranquillity—to retire, perhaps to a farm, perhaps to a city; there, as Goldsmith says:

"To husband out life's candle to its close And keep the flame from wasting by repose."

But it is human, and particularly American. to be in a hurry about everything, and there are many who forget that contentment and youth are not meant to keep company.

For the old man to let well enough alone is well. If he has earned his days of rest he has no need to struggle longer; if he has not earned them there is no help. He is past the time for fighting. Under sixty, however, letwell enough alone is criminal folly.

Edison, born with an astonishing amount of restless energy, might have let well enough alone and continued to be an excellent telegraph operator. He knew that well enough was not well enough as far as electrical achievement was concerned.

He disregarded the advice of his associates not to meddle with what he did not understand, and meddled actively with electricity for many years. Neither he nor any other mortal as yet really understands electricity, but they have come to understand many things that it can do, and the world has vastly prof-

Cromwell had the temerity even to meddle with that ancient superstition - the divine right of kings. He did not succeed in curing his fellow countrymen of it permanently, but he did put the fear of their subjects into all British monarchs forever, and sowed the seeds that grew vigorously afterward in American

The world is possibly merciful and sympathetic for the weak, but it has neither mercy nor sympathy for the strong.

There will come a day when the aged will be cared for, when the heroism of a mother in bearing children will be rewarded as well as the lesser heroism of the man who goes out to get shot at by the enemies of his country.

But there never will come a time when strength will not be expected to take care of itself, where peace and contentment will be given to any man who is not willing to fight

What has been accomplished in liberty, in mechanical progress, in art, in literature, has been accomplished because of contentment and not because of letting well enough alone. Even the genius must fight with his desire to shirk his duty before he can give the world the benefit of his genius.

Had Keats let well enough alone he would have ended his young life as an apothecary's clerk. Washington would have won no higher distinction than that of a surveyor.

Contentment is the natural reward of toil but, like everything else worth while, it is only to be gained by contention.

was Thomas Moore, or some other apostle of contentment, who wrote:

"I knew by the smoke that so gracefully curled

Above the green elms that a cottage was near, And I thought that if peace could be found in the world A heart that was humble might look for it here."

If the poet had journeyed beyond the green elms to the cottage he might possibly have found peace—the peace of utter stupidity. More likely he would have discovered fully as much bickering and wrangling as on any street in a London slum.

Without knowledge of the particular cottage he has thus immortalized, it is difficult to say whether or not it would appeal to a "heart that was humble." Yet it may be imagined that before the fire was built that sent the smoke curling about the green elms there was a dispute as to who should build it; another dispute about who should bring up the wood to keep it going, and a third dispute about who should clear away the ashes after it was out. And we can well believe that the proprietor of the heart that was humble would In the end do all these things, while the owner
