FIRE CHIEF BLAKE EXPIRES SUDDENLY

COLLAPSES AS HE ENDS 'PHONE TALK WITH SON

City Shocked By News Of Passing of Veteran Fireman

50 YEARS SERVICE

Prominent in Masonic Circles—Tributes Are Paid At City Hall

George Blake, veteran chief of the city fire department died suddenly at his residence, 31 Spring street, a few minutes after 9 o'clock this morning.

Although the late chief had been in failing health recently the end came unexpectedly and as a shock to his many friends here.

The last big fire that Chief Blake fought was the one in Princess street a few weeks ago and despite the zero weather and the magnitude of the task of fighting this blaze, he stuck to his post at a heavy cost to himself.

During several weeks last summer he had been very ill with pneumonia but a rugged constitution helped him through the time of stress.

At the time of his death, he was 73 years old, yet his advanced age seemed no bar to prevent him from taking an active part in the affairs of his department.

Chief Blake joined the local fire department when a young man 23 years old and his death today brings to a close for him a half century of fighting the flames.

He was a member of the Knight Templars, one time being Eminent Commander of the St. John Encampment.

He was also a member of the Masonic lodge No. 1, F. & A. M. in business life he was a member of the firm of G. & E. Blake, plumbers, 88 Germain street.

Before calling the committee of the Common Council to order this morning at City Hall, Mayor Potts referred in feeling terms to the loss which the city had sustained in the death of Chief Blake.

Chief Blake had been connected with the fire department for the greater part of his life and had given good service. The sympathy of the entire community would be extended to the family in their bereavement.

Commissioner Harding expressed his regret at the passing of Chief Blake. He had been in the commissioner's office on last Saturday morning.

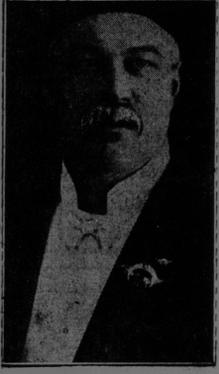

At that time he had advised the chief to take things a little easier. Mr. Harding said that for the present Charles H. Jackson would be in charge of the department.

Flags were at half staff at the fire stations today in tribute to the departed chief.

DOMINION RIGHT DISCUSSED BY LONDON TIMES

Writer Says Real Danger in International Issues

SECESSION TALK

World War Won Dominions Right to Help Shape Foreign Policy

LONDON, Feb. 2.—"A menacing position" is the heading in the first of a series of articles which "The Times" is running, dealing with the problem of a common Empire policy.

The writer, while dismissing the bulk of ordinary diplomatic procedure as offering comparatively little difficulty, declares that the real danger lies in the international issues which are continually cropping up, involving the danger of war, because, although the Dominions have secured the right to abstain from any war in which other parts of the Empire are involved, the only practical way of escaping belligerency is secession from the Empire.

Turkish Letter Received. The Times, commenting on this matter in an editorial, recalls the historic letter sent out by the British Government to the dominions at the time when war with Turkey seemed inevitable, intimating that, if war ensued, the dominions would be looked to for assistance.

When the South African war started, the Times continues, small Australian and Canadian contingents, which went to the aid of the motherland, were financed mainly by the British Government, which then bore the burden of the war and carried on the negotiations single-handed. But this method no longer serves, since the dominions throw their whole strength into the world war and won the right to a share in the shaping of British foreign policy.

No Formal Recognition. "While the modern position of the dominions is entirely conceded," the Times says, "it has never been fully recognized by the Imperial Government in practice. On the contrary, in the Dominions there is still a tendency to hammer at the door which long has been open and talk of national status instead of the dominions taking the obvious steps to make it real."

Canadian Opinion. "The first and most obvious step is to become acquainted with the problems, without a knowledge of which there is not likely to be that assumption of defence, postulated in a letter from Victor Mitchell, K. C., of Montreal."

The Times concludes by declaring that Australia, where there is less talk of national status than in Canada and South Africa, lately has traveled farthest in the direction of effective nationhood by creating a foreign department in Melbourne, to which an Australian-born expert was lent by the British Foreign Office.

The letter from Victor Mitchell opens by saying that the action of (Continued on page 2, fourth column)

FEAR HIGH COSTS

Brief Says Embargo Would Cripple Pulpwood Industry in United States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The National Publishers' Association announces it has filed a brief with Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee protesting against what it claimed was a threatened embargo on pulpwood by Canadian paper manufacturers.

Such an embargo as that proposed by the Canadians, the brief says, "will have the effect not only of crippling the pulpwood industry in the U. S., but also of giving Canadian manufacturers control of our paper market, thereby increasing the cost to every user of the printed word in the United States."

Canadian manufacturers are trying to force American operators to move their mills into Canada, where the wood would be transformed into pulp for the paper mills here. SAND MATTER IS AGAIN SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Mayor Brings it up and Commissioner Frink States Position.

NO ACTION TAKEN BY COMMISSIONERS

Meeting Decides For Power to City Electrician to Remove Dead Wires.

Sand on the streets and amendments to the electrical by-law were subjects discussed by the members of the city council this morning. It was decided to amend the electrical by-law to order the city electrician power to order removed dead wires or unused poles from the city streets.

Sand on Streets.

Mayor Potts said he had a few words to say on the matter of sanding the streets. It had been reported to him that in a recent issue of one of the city newspapers Commissioner Frink had been credited with saying that sanding the city streets had cost $15,000 a year. The Mayor said that he thought the report of the Mayor. His report, His objection to sanding the streets was based on a cost of $15,000 to $15,000 a year on only about $2,000 a year he had not considered the matter serious. He also contended that his remarks had reference to sand for next winter, not for the present.

Commissioner Frink.

Commissioner Frink said he had never given the information that sanding the streets cost $15,000 but since the meeting at which the matter was discussed had ascertained that last year the cost of sanding was $4,600. The Mayor had said that he thought it would be better to cut out the sanding and when told that if the public works appropriation was cut the service must suffer had replied to "give them as little as possible."

Commissioner Bullock, he added, had also said to cut out the sand and Commissioner Wigmore had said the same. Commissioner Harding was the only member of the council to support the appropriation as presented. In view of the fact that a majority of the council had expressed themselves against sanding the street, he was disposed to meet with their desires, even if a formal motion had not been passed. Commissioner Harding said the public were blaming him because the action was taken.

Amend By-Law.

Commissioner Harding introduced an amendment to the electrical by-law giving the city electrician power to order the removal of dead wires and unused poles from the streets. He said that the owners of such dead wires or unused poles and in the event of their not removing them in that time to move them himself, violations of the by-law to be punishable by a fine of not more than $40. This was recommended to the council.

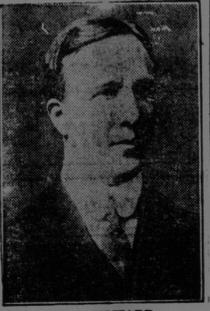

Mayor Potts reported that he had received a letter from Chicago requesting the history of the Fred Young monument.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths, 50 cents.

DOES GOOD WORK IN THAWING PIPES

Commissioner Says New Electric Apparatus Soon Pays Cost to City.

Commissioner Wigmore said this morning that the new electric thawing apparatus secured by the department had already paid for itself though it was only about two weeks. With this the men were able to thaw out a frozen service pipe in a very few minutes and save the expense and delay of digging. On Saturday they had thawed out three service pipes in about 10 minutes. Under old conditions they would have taken two or three days and a cost of at least $150.

The commissioner said the apparatus consisted of a transformer piece of aluminum rod, and electric cable. The cable was fixed to the transformer and to the water tap and then connected with the electric light wires leading into a home, making a continuous circuit of current warming the pipe and melting the ice. It was claimed for this device that as a circuit was created there was no danger of electrolysis.

Eight Tubfuls

Your clothes go through eight changes of water at the New System Wet Wash. And every family bundle is done separate. Beyond that the woollens in one container, the whites in another and the colored fabrics in a third.

Eight changes—think of it. Continuous churning—a steady rinse and sudsing instead of rubbing.

They are saved even from the strain of wringing. The water is whirled out through a sieve.

That's the kind of treatment your clothes get at the New System Wet Wash—the one that's cleaner and cheaper.

EAGER TO HEAR LOCAL CLAIMS

vince man tour the west and at present the Association of Canadian Clubs is endeavoring to bring about a series of tours in which speakers from one section would address clubs in the others, so that a general comprehension of the problems of all sections might be brought about.

General Dissatisfaction.
The first Regina man I talked with on western provinces asserted that far too large a percentage of the production in the West went as tribute to the Central Provinces, and he was disposed to believe the talk of secession would gain rather than lose force unless conditions were radically changed. There is undoubtedly a general dissatisfaction.

Looking for Business.
I find that business depression still affects western cities, but there is a more hopeful feeling. Winnipeg is promoting an industrial survey preparatory to a drive for more industries for the city, and Brandon is talking of a motor truck service to bring communities within a wide radius on all sides in close touch with the city.

Against Export.
There is a generally expressed feeling that Canada should not export her raw materials. That the United States, before many years have passed, will be a food-importing country, and that, therefore, Canada will be able to get better terms from that country is the view of several thoughtful men who look confidently to the future to remove many existing difficulties.

Doubts About Vancouver.
Discussing the relation of the variety of tonnage available at a seaport to the routing of grain, I have several times heard doubts expressed whether Vancouver will fare so well in that respect this year as last.
One grain man said the falling off in Japanese demand for tonnage last year left more of it available for grain at Vancouver, and he doubted if conditions would be so favorable this year at that port.
A railway official expressed the same views. The experience of Vancouver this year will, therefore, be a matter of great interest.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS
Take a Little Salt if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder is Troubling You
No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys, and get overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.
The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular in passage or attended by a sensation of stinging, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.
This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active, and to prevent, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Interest In Mission To "Sell Maritimes To West" Growing

their shipments by Canadian ports, and sincerely trust that Messrs. J. D. McKenna and A. M. Belding may succeed in arousing such a strong sentiment in favor of their mission that the Maritime Provinces may at last receive at least a portion of the benefits promised at Confederation.
BUSINESS MEN KEENLY INTERESTED
THEN, too, men in all walks of business are discussing the Maritimes as never before, as witness the following fragments of conversation overheard and reported by a St. John man at the meeting in Montreal of the Engineering Institute of Canada and Canadian Association of Building and Construction Industries:
"The Telegraph-Journal and Times-Star, are deserving of great credit for their enterprise in sending Belding and McKenna on present mission, and they are meeting with very favorable reception. Will be of great benefit to Maritimes. Advertising Maritime Provinces is badly needed in the West."
"The Maritimes are doing a great work in presenting their problems to the rest of Canada, and are getting sympathetic hearing. The work should really be followed up to reap the full benefits of present mission. Don't let this just be a flash in the pan,—but follow it up consistently."
"It has always been my private opinion that the Maritime Province ports would get that Western Canada grain traffic when they went after the business."
"I am heartily in accord with the principle of Canadian business through Canadian ports."

FOR BETTER TIMES AND GREATER CANADA
EDITORIALLY the Ontario press has dealt with the problems of the Maritimes and the Maritime mission most liberally and in a most cordial and co-operative spirit. The London Free Press, long a staunch supporter of the Maritime Provinces, has this to say:
"The Maritime Provinces entered Confederation in doubtful mood as to the value from a business and economic standpoint. The chief inducement held out for joining upper and Lower Canada was the building of the Intercolonial Railway, the expansion of the Eastern ports as the outlet for trade of the West and the development of inter-provincial trade. From time to time these promises, in one form or another, have been repeated.
"However, today, despite all the rosy hopes, the Maritime Provinces see their ports neglected for American harbors and American ports, built up at the expense of their own cities; they see their industries languishing, trade diminishing and their young men trekking to the States. Is it any wonder that the people of the Maritime Provinces feel that they are neglected and isolated or that they are seriously asking the question what has Confederation done for us?"
"The requests of the Maritime Provinces, as placed before Western Ontario, are equitable and reasonable, namely, that Canadian ports should be used for handling Canadian trade and that more attention should be paid to the Maritime Provinces by the rest of Canada as regards, for instance, tourist traffic and immigration. There can only be a prosperous and united Dominion if all portions of it are contented and prosperous. It is as much to the advantage of this part of Canada as to the Maritime Provinces to see the grievances of the East righted. Western Ontario will do its share in backing the Maritime Provinces in any reasonable proposals that will make for better times for fellow citizens by the sea and for a greater Canada."

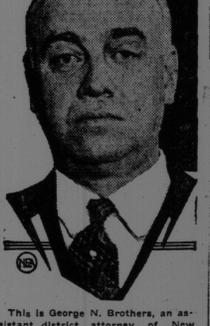

ONTARIO WOULD DEMAND SAME AS MARITIMES
QUITE truly the London, Ont., Advertiser says the Maritimes do not want to leave Canada. "But," it goes on to say, "they want to be considered a part of the all-Canadian development about which our politicians like to talk around election moments. They want Canadian shipping to use Canadian ports; they want Canadian railroads to ship in these ports, and they want the British Preference to be applied to goods that come in at Canadian ports, and to none other."
"If Ontario were to trade places with the Maritimes we imagine we would be asking for the very same things perhaps for even more. Nor is there anything particularly radical in the claims of the Maritimes, because these things have been promised in the development of a national transportation scheme. The trouble is we get so engrossed in our own plans for this section of the country that we pay little heed to what the other portions of Canada want. At times we are so parochial in our views that we can neither think or act nationally. Yet, when the Maritimes send a commissioner here to give us their viewpoint, we have to admit that it is a reasonable thing that is being asked. If we are going to develop nationally we must be prepared to consider the reasonable ambitions of other sections of the Dominion. So when we find the Maritimes making suggestions that have a real Canadian flavor we should be the more anxious to see that their counsel is given full place. The one sure way to keep Canada together is to see that our course of development is interesting and profitable to all sections."

ZERO WEATHER 13 DAYS IN JANUARY
Mean Temperature For Month Here Was Six Below Normal.
January, 1925, made no record for snowfall or for cold, but it did succeed in having a mean temperature of 13 degrees, which was six degrees below the normal. That low mark might have been a record if January, 1920, had not been an even more wintry winter. In January, 1920, the mean temperature was nine degrees or ten degrees below the normal. D. L. Hutchinson's weather statistics at the meteorological observatory showed that during January, 1925, the low mark of temperature was 19 degrees below zero on the 19th and the high mark was 42 degrees above zero on Jan. 18 and during the month there were 13 days of zero weather. The month's total in snowfall was 35 inches and in rainfall was 20 of an inch, which gave a total precipitation of 4.70 inches, which was just about a normal precipitation.

Mr. Hutchinson said that January had been a fairly windy month and the prevailing wind had been northwest. The snowfall on Saturday night amounted to only seven-tenths of an inch but there was a high wind and considerable drifting. Temperatures on Saturday varied from 22 degrees to 16 degrees while on Sunday there was a far greater range and temperature and the mercury slid downwards steadily. At 9 o'clock in the morning the thermometer registered 84 degrees and at 9 o'clock at night the reading was 10 degrees. In 12 hours the mercury had fallen 24 degrees and those 12 hours were in the daytime and not at night.

NEW MILL AT GRAND FALLS IS DESTROYED
Loss is $8,000—Snow on Roofs Saves Buildings in Vicinity.
GRAND FALLS, N. B., Feb. 1.—The newly erected sawmill of Alexander LeClair was completely destroyed by fire early this morning. It was only the snow on the roofs of surrounding buildings that prevented the flames from spreading into the town. There was no insurance on the property which was valued at $8,000.
The mill had been recently constructed on the site of another mill belonging to Mr. LeClair. This mill had been destroyed on July 2, of last year.

SAVING OF FORESTS CONVENTION TOPIC
Three Fredericton Men Attended Meetings in Ottawa and Montreal.
FREDERICTON, Feb. 1.—George L. Miller, of the Provincial Forestry Service, has returned from Ottawa and Montreal, where he attended the annual meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association. The Canadian Society of Forest Engineers and the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. Assistant Chief Forester L. S. Webb and Prof. H. P. Webb, of the University of New Brunswick, also attended the meetings.
Mr. Miller says that sustained yield of forest products, fire protection and protection of young growth were the outstanding features at the meetings. Many excellent papers were read but none was by a Maritime member.
Tree-planting, according to methods followed by the province of Ontario, was dealt with in detail, and in that connection the work in the same line by the Dominion Forestry Service in New Brunswick was referred to.
The pomponus leaf worm, which has been a frequent subject of discussion in recent years, was not mentioned, this terrible pest evidently having dropped out of sight in all sections.
Reported By T. C. M.
A pompous-looking woman tried to enter the station through the wicket gate. "Not there, madam, no sign," called an official.
"The pomponus lady looked up at her. "Exit." Then she said in a loud voice, "Oh, I thought it was the Inuit."

You can get all five degrees in the Classic Duofold Pens
And All Points Guaranteed for 25 Years' Wear
FOR what kind of writing do you use a pen? How do you hold it? And what style of writing is entirely natural to your hand?
Close figure work or fine memoranda, for example, call for a fine or extra-fine point. But the medium point, the broad, or the stub—these give one's penmanship a personality and character that make mighty valuable impressions in a letter or a signature.
These are reasons why, in the classic Duofold Pens, Geo. S. Parker gives the world the whole five degrees of points that the five degrees of writing require.
Points you can lend without a tremor, for no style of writing can distort them. Points that are tipped with super-smooth Iridium, for which we pay a premium of 200%. Points that we guarantee, if not mis-treated, for 25 years' WEAR.
And every point set in a shapely, hand-balanced barrel that feels so inspiring you dislike to lay it down.
Any good pen owner will sell you this beauty on 30 days' approval. Flashing black or black-tipped lacquer-red, the color that's hand-somely more than gold and makes this a hard pen to mislay.

ST. JOHN, N. B., FEBRUARY 2, 1925

"IF WINTER COMES—"

This is Candlemas Day, or, as it is often called, Ground Hog Day. So far as St. John is concerned Candlemas day is not bright and clear, and if we give heed to the old legend, we should not be in danger of having two winters in one year.

There is the further complication that if the ground hog cannot see his shadow in this part of the province, he may be able to see it in many other parts of the territory surrounding us where the skies may be clear.

With the coming of March, though it is often bolstered with us, we are disposed to think less of rough weather because we know winter's reign is drawing to an end, and that presently the migrant snipe will be whistling overhead at night, the wild geese will go north, and that soon after there will come warmer south winds, presaging ice-free streams and the advent of the fishing season.

It has been said frequently that critics of the churches—and there still are some—often forget that while they themselves stand aside and do little or nothing for the cause of religion, or even to assist unfortunate fellow-citizens in times of distress, the churches, although they have human weaknesses, do consistently and steadily carry on their good work.

War is an old disease, and it is not reasonable to suppose that humanity can be cured of it in a day, or a year, or for many years. But obviously if the majority of the people were content with the mere counsel of despair, and should abandon united effort to spread throughout the world the gospel of good-will, then, indeed, the outlook would be black and hopeless.

A Westerner who writes to the Edmonton Journal concerning the League, describes it as a "snare and delusion," and the Journal reminds him that in taking this gloomy view of the outlook for world peace he is overlooking considerable recent history.

It is a fact that the most leaders of British public opinion regard the League as the world's chief hope to-day of preventing another race in armaments and another great war, which should it come, would shake, and perhaps destroy, the whole fabric of civilization. The Journal suggests that while the world cannot at present trust entirely to the League, and that until it can a policy of reasonable preparedness is necessary, men of good will in civilized countries cannot withhold their support from the League without sinning against the light.

The Toronto Financial Post the other day declared that "only the Borden-Foster-Rowell idealists and the Toronto Star communists have any use for the league in Canada." The statement is an absurd one. Those mentioned by the Post all played an important part in Canada's war effort and they and others of their type would insist as strongly on this country's doing its duty in the same way again should the occasion arise. But they wish to avoid that necessity if it is at all possible. In this they are at one with the great mass of the Canadian people and it is the scoundrels of the league who constitute a very small minority. The League of Nations association for Canada includes the leaders of all Canadian parties and citizens of the greatest influence in every walk of life. A similar condition prevails in the old country. Nine-tenths of the members of the British House of Commons are pledged to the support of the league and successive governments have adopted the same attitude towards it. The other day the foreign secretary, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, repeated the words of Lord Balfour that, if the league did not exist, it would be necessary to create it. In seeking to strengthen it in every way, his policy is exactly the same as that of his predecessor, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald.

It is of no little significance that nine-tenths of the members of the British House of Commons are solemnly pledged to uphold the League, and those who oppose it, or even those who have little faith in it, will find it difficult to answer Balfour's contention that if there were no League to-day the world would be compelled to create one.

FORWARD, CANADA.

A few words at the close of the address delivered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario at the "Bon Entente" luncheon in Quebec, on January 29, are worthy of close reading in every part of Canada. He said on that occasion—

"In Canada we can best solve our problems by an avoidance of national asperities, by a wise union of our forces brought to bear on the undeveloped wealth with which nature has endowed us, and a dedication of that wealth to the general welfare of our beloved country."

The sustained movement to bring about a closer understanding and a greater spirit of friendship and appreciation between Ontario and Quebec, or, generally speaking, between the English and French-speaking peoples of the Dominion, who are all good Canadians, is undoubtedly meeting with a large measure of success, and the results are most creditable to the pioneers of these enterprises in good citizenship and to those who are following so earnestly and so frankly their good leadership.

While there still are from time to time minor evidences of prejudice against the two great provinces, it is not to be overlooked that the relations between the peoples of the two races are excellent and constantly growing better, and that by comparison with conditions fifteen or twenty years ago, not to go farther into the past, they show a wonderful improvement. In show a wonderful improvement. In those days there was far too much bigotry in both provinces, and Canadians who properly set a very high value upon national unity must halt with keen satisfaction the fashion in which time and a closer acquaintance have softened the old asperities.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario spoke truly and happily when he said that social and business contact in an increasing degree between the two great provinces has brought most favorably to the fore the day-in-day results, and that day-in-day Canada, and elsewhere throughout the civilized world, people are turning to cardinal principles for guidance and relief in seeking a solution of their many difficult problems.

The death of Mr. George Blake, a sterling citizen who for so many years served this city as its devoted and efficient chief, comes as a shock to thousands of citizens, although Mr. Blake's ill health of late had in a measure prepared many friends for the inevitable. Mr. Blake was one of our best known citizens, and among the older generation particularly he held a very wide circle of friendship. During his later years the departmental apparatus has been converted into a motor form, and he had much to do with modernizing the equipment—a work not yet complete. He will be widely mourned.

In condemning very strongly all who inject the annexationist cry into national campaigns, the Toronto Globe says:—"Our protest is not due in the slightest degree to any fear that it will defeat itself. But we do view with some misgiving the prospect of the embitterment of the relations between Canada and the United States. There is no reason why men and women should not divide along party lines as Liberals, Conservatives and Progressives. But this division is, or ought to be, compatible with belief in the honesty and patriotism of an opponent. The political contest ought to be carried on such a way that after it is over the combatants can shake hands. Men and women must be allowed to choose their policies and their party affiliations without being branded as enemies of their country."

We live in a queer age. Mr. George Ade, speaking of "Unbelievable Prophecies," has this to say:—"If some intrepid Mother Shipton had prophesied in 1900 that before 1925 the Kaiser would be sawing wood in Holland, that a glass of beer would cost three million marks, that an army officer could travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific between dawn and dusk without touching the ground, and that a Nebraska tenant farmer, by hanging a wire out of a window, could listen to a concert on top of a department store in Newark, New Jersey, the foremost horoscoper would have been taken away to a padded cell."

Odds and Ends FINDS UNEASINESS IN EUROPE TODAY

"You never know what you'll find among the odds and ends."—From "Notes by a Wayfarer."

Not So Strange as True There is much agitation in New York literary circles, writes J. H. S. in the Boston Transcript. Before we proceed, join us in attention to the curious fact that convention always requires these "circles," perhaps because literary people go round and round. Certainly we are assured that art is long. This is only surmise, but it is inadmissible that one never hears of literary parallelograms. There is, then, this furry in New York literary circles, because it is whispered that a well known American writer is the real author of a boisterous farce novel entitled "Flaming Youth," the intimation being that it is a rum start for a "staid and veteran author" thus to take a holiday, as though the poor man had never been kicking over the traces.

"Should this rumor prove to be correct," we shall be pleased and more than delighted, for nothing is so cheering and invigorating as once in a while doing that which the world and the sewing-circle know you will never do, because you never, never, never have, and you never ought. And then some brave, impatient, suffering soul shakes off the muzzle and a good time is had by all, including the other half of the circle, for one the world spends its time wondering why the other half doesn't say what both halves think. After a while the noise settles down and everyone goes back to her or his task—we cannot make holiday all the time and too much ebullition spalls the broth, as Mr. Edward Bok has said in his "Famouses."

All authors, whether they would or not, should have a writing sabbatical year, just as serious-minded men like to go to the Follies. It isn't for what for the going. It is the whoop of the cribbed, cabined and confined, a swim in the pool of unconstrained, a pathetic, exuberant declaration of breezy independence. It will therefore not surprise us to hear that the veteran stole off one moonlight night and with the west wind sipping in his ears and prehensile flappers wafting to and fro before his fascinated eyes wrote a flapper story. It was his sabbatical confession, the flapper, a gentleman of France, because he knew that when dawn came and all the frisky magic slipped away he would go back to writing that which should keep readers on an even keel.

Take, for example, the case of a gentleman whose fine task it is to write encyclopedias and dictionaries and durable works on political economy and hydro-dynamics, for such there really are. It is spring, the skies are crisply soft, the hours are long, and he thinks that tell of the country and open spaces and pagan cheerfulness. Our writer has written that month, says the second volume of his work on Ptolemaic Constitutional Law, he flags, he is a-weary. He personally feels a great aversion to the Ptolemaic and all idea of constitutional law makes him distinctly tired. He needs expansion—he would like to throw a chair through the window. Next one says more? You have guessed he is getting ready for his sabbatical. But what to do?

We ought to have made it plain that he is a very serious, solid man, a member of the historical societies, reader of the Congressional Record and is of a lucid correctitude. No jazz for him in his capacity of thoughtful writer, he never heard of a lipstick, he has no use for the jangle of inept pleasures. Kind to women and children, studious to a degree, he has yet become so fed up with always being right that he has a gauge trembling at a dangerous figure. Legalistic to the finger-tips, conservative in his taste for neckties, he is nevertheless most freeasy. When he writes before to do that moment, he glances out the window of his study and sees pass upon the wind-swept sidewalk a flapper. This marked and mature difference. There are flappers in the Indian territory and there are flappers in the 8th Arrondissement of Paris France. He bounds from his desk, he almost bows a kiss to that flapper chewing gum in maiden meditation fancy free. Eureka, Topeka and a la bonne heure! His inspiration has come. He will write a noisy little story that rolls its own, a story that will make his great-grandmother sit up and think, a story that is all the good.

Our writer goes to the telephone and rings up a young friend. Does he know any flappers? Sure, he does. How do they act? Recently, he writes clear and ringing, our writer then and there makes an appointment with his young friend that he may exhaustively study the subject. He sees so. He makes notes from the living model. He is delighted, makes more notes and begins his first chapter, which is a marked and mature work from his previous work. He sings at his task, he crows, he laughs, he wisely cracks and the story flows from his freeman's pen. The change him is noted by his housekeeper. Alcibiades, his trusted cat, tells a friend in the next street that the old man's much more cheerful; his little nephew is no longer asked how many States there are in the Union—our writer is enjoying his sabbatical, he is not writing for anybody but himself.

When the novel is put on sale after having been fought for by broad-minded publishers, its fame reverberates from north till dewy eve. Critics, while deploring that the writer has preferred certain nuances, have to confess that here is one of our young novelists with a revealing style that wears psychological and works in an unfinishing medium. Royalties pour in, ladies write for his autograph, other writers imitate him. He buys a new pair of books and Fortune from his plump jade, laces them for him. But once constructive, always constructive. When the shoutings of the editors have fallen away, when he feels that he has expanded his chest, he gets out the manuscript of the monumental work on Ptolemaic Constitutional Law. He will now continue to play safe, but he will always give thanks for a first-class holiday.

ARGUE AGAINST PULPWOOD BAN FROM DOMINION

Speakers at Pulpwood Association Meet in Opposition to Embargo. McLEAN ARGUES PROJECT IS UNJUST

Private Landowner Would Be at Disadvantage Says Bathurst Man.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—Opposition to the proposal that an embargo be placed on pulpwood for export was the keynote of the addresses and discussion that featured the first anniversary luncheon of the Canadian Pulpwood Association here on Saturday. Angus McLean, of Bathurst, N. B., was in the chair, while the principal speaker was Ralph Bell, Halifax, secretary-treasurer of the association.

Among those present were Senator J. P. B. Casgrain, of the Montreal Herald; Arthur Fenwick, of the Quebec Chronicle; J. D. McKenna, M. L. A., of the St. John Telegraph-Journal, and L. J. Tarte, of the Montreal La Patrie.

Natural Causes. In the course of his address Mr. Bell pointed out that 90 per cent of Canadian forest resources was already under embargo as being Crown lands, while the remaining 10 per cent was subject to open competition in buying.

Says Owner Would Suffer. Mr. Bell detailed the various arguments for and against. It would, he contended, be just as logical to place an embargo on the export of wheat or fruit. Any such action as proposed would impair the market for the holder of woodlands, while benefiting only one pulp mill, and the private owner would be at a greater disadvantage if deprived of the United States market.

Angus McLean pointed to the increasing tendency of manufacturers in Canada as a natural development of the current policy and cited that while ten years ago four-fifths of pulp was exported to be made into pulp, now that same proportion is being so manufactured in this country. An embargo would work injustice to the Maritime Provinces, where there was only one pulp mill, and the private owner would be at a greater disadvantage if deprived of the United States market.

THE PRICE OF BREAD. To the Editor of The Times-Star:—Sir:—I see by last evening's issue of your valuable paper that, four having reached the price of $13.20 a barrel, wholesale bread will be dearer in a few days' time. Under the conditions, that is to be expected, of course. In the same issue there is an announcement to the effect that, commencing tomorrow, bread will be advanced in Great Britain to eleven pence a loaf of four pounds. Many people in St. John do not understand English money, and it might be explained that eleven pence is twenty-two cents in Canadian currency. In this city we are paying 22½ cents for the same amount of bread at the present time, with the assurance that we will pay more in a few days.

It might be stated, also, that there is great indignation in England over what is considered an extortionate price, and protection is being seriously considered. Now, will the powers that be explain how it is possible that Canadian flour can be shipped into England and bread made and sold there so much cheaper than it is in Canada, not only at the present time but long before the war? It is high time explanations were asked for. The people of St. John are wonderfully patient, long suffering, and only complain amongst themselves, but low wages, high taxation, and higher prices for foodstuffs are all having their effect. It will be impossible to hood-wink them much longer. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, Yours very truly, E. WILSON. St. John, January 31, 1925.

IF I should die to-day my family would have plenty," you say.

If you die to-day, yes; but what about years hence? There are many men who were very well-to-do two or three years ago who are in straitened circumstances to-day. If one of these men were to die the only ready money his family would have would be the proceeds of his life insurance.

GIVES SERMON ON ANGLICANS AND RE-UNION

Rev. A. L. Fleming Repeating Special Series of Discourses.

PLACES CHURCH IN 2 MAIN DIVISIONS

Unity of Spirit First, He Says Episcopal and Apostolic Succession.

Rev. A. L. Fleming, rector of St. John's (Stone) church, yesterday morning preached on the Anglican Church and the Christian Reunion. It was the first of a series of three sermons on the position of the Church of England. This series was given last summer and is being repeated by request because, on account of members of the church living out of the city during the summer, not all had opportunity to hear the discourses. Yesterday's discourse was as follows:

Sermon No. 1.

Eph. V. 32 "I speak concerning Christ and the Church." Some time ago a number of bishops in England urged upon the younger clergy the advisability of speaking to the people on current topics. It was felt that good work could be done by bringing before the congregations great subjects which were agitating the minds of those who worshipped in the House of God.

There is much to be said for that suggestion so long as it is restricted to religious topics, and certainly that which comes up for consideration today is such a subject. In 1920 the famous Lambeth "Appeal to all Christian Peoples" was drawn up, and in the years that have passed since that time we have seen how great a diversity of opinion there is regarding it and its meaning. Into that whole matter we need enter at this time. All who have the truly Christian vision (which is the only Catholic vision worthy of the name) long to see closer co-operation between the various sections of the Christian church.

It will not be denied that the things which separate many of the units are of quite minor importance and it is only the power of sentiment which weighs most heavily with some of the staunch and loyal supporters, keeping them back from a forward movement. Human nature finds it exceedingly difficult to dis-associate itself from past forms, customs, and names, and is inclined to be suspicious (and rightly so) of changes. It is seldom possible to put old wine into new bottles without spilling some of the old.

Re-union of Christendom.

Regarding the great question of Christian re-union from the wider standpoint I do not feel that I need enter on this occasion, as that subject was dealt with by my illustrious predecessor, Dr. de Soyres, in his Hulsean lectures of 1886 he investigated the progress and results of the various endeavors made during the 16th and 17th centuries by great leaders of Christian thought, like Bucer, Melancthon, Durand and others. It is interesting to find that in 1886 Dr. de Soyres could say that "the re-union of Christendom is no mere literary or academic topic, but a practical question of the hour, calling for laborers, if not yet ripe for settlement." "On every side there is a consciousness that the hour is near when all who profess and call themselves Christians must remember their life and their cause, and that they are descendants, however far removed, of those who were of one heart and of one soul."

Are not these words the very words that fall from our lips today? Do they not express the very thoughts of our hearts as we look out upon the Church of God in the world at this time? Some there are, no doubt, who decline to read the signs of the times, but to the earnest, thoughtful Christian the matter is "write large" upon the pages of history today.

Two Main Divisions.

You will readily agree that the Christian church is separated into two main divisions, even while there must be an overlapping of these divisions in places. For convenience we may describe the one as Reformed, (or Protestant) and the other as un-Reformed, (including the Western or Latin church and the Eastern or Greek church.) I would purposely avoid the term Catholic since it would inevitably lead to a confusion of thought.

F. W. DANIEL & CO. HEAD KING ST.

London House commission from the hands of a bishop. Take outstanding leaders of the Free Churches, like Dr. Carnegie Simpson, Dr. Selbie and a host of others. Does any sane Christian man doubt that they have been ordained to the ministry of God's Word and sacraments? If we are to have a united church must these men, and such as these, come to a bishop as laymen to be re-ordained? You see the folly of it.

Even Bishop Gore acknowledges the abundant evidences of the action of the Holy Spirit in the Free Churches. Dr. Goudge, Canon of Ely, wisely remarks in his book entitled "The Catholic Party and the Non-Conformists" that if the Free Churches were not divine they could not bring forth fruit so abundantly; while Dr. Headlam states: "Their sacraments are imperfect, their orders are made the cause of the broken unity of Christ's Church; but so also are ours and so also are those of the Greek and Roman churches."

Apostolic Succession. It does not come as a surprise to us to find the learned Bishop of Gloucester going on to state that the "theory of apostolic succession is untrue to history. It is not the theory held by St. Augustine in the early Church. The early Church quite definitely held that the bishops were the successors of the Apostles, but there is no evidence to show that it considers they have held that position because they received grace by transmission from the Apostles. They were the successors of the Apostles because they had been appointed by the Church to perform those functions which the Apostles had performed."

It is therefore in complete harmony with the findings of modern scholarship that the Lambeth Joint Report

Sloan's Liniment - kills pain!

Free Churchmen in England look with suspicion upon any attempt to enforce uniformity. History has taught them the cruel dangers involved in that line of procedure. Yes! Even if it could be obtained by general consent.

We have had a very clear demonstration of the difficulties involved in such a case in the efforts now being made in Canada, where there seems to be no serious problem regarding doctrine.

It is well that we should recognize these practical difficulties, that we may approach with sympathy a problem which is of vital importance to the future of the Church of God upon earth. It should warn us against rushing towards short cuts, and should enable our vision to be wide enough to appreciate the point that indirect effort may be the surest way of obtaining that for which all Christian hearts pray.

The Episcopate. In the Lambeth joint report on church unity a number of important matters pertaining to reunion have been dealt with between the Anglican Church and the Free Churches. The committee's chairman was the Archbishop of York. Some difficult questions have been faced by that committee, and we have great cause to be thankful for the splendid work done, yet they have not cleared the ground as regards the episcopate, for example.

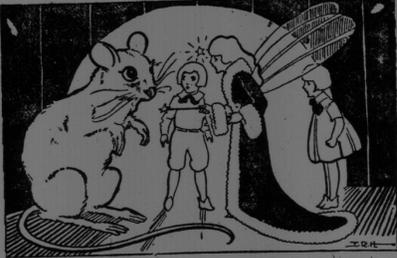

Free Churchmen readily agree that if "ought to be accepted as a means of authority for the United Church of the future." They do not seek to deny the historic episcopate, but when we pass on to the matter of episcopal ordination they rightly demand that the meaning should be made clear. There are many Anglicans today who insist that there is no ordination apart from the laying on of hands by a bishop. The Free Churchmen rightly differentiate between "a commission through episcopal ordination" and "a

Vigor of Mind-

THE system poisoned; a raging headache. You know the feeling—darting pains in the head, one eye feels as if it was detached and turning round—and why?

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin Compound. It is equally safe for the child or the adult. It is the old formula originated and used by Dr. Caldwell in his private practice for over forty years.

Fairy Queen. "Take us as near as you can." That was the nearest he could come, for already he was a cat.

So they all hopped on—or rather the Fairy Queen got on and the Twins hopped on the butterfly's back and they hunted up the place where the little mouse lived.

Crept right in under the step and through a crack into a dark cellar and waited.

Soon—sneak, sneak, sneak! Along came the little mouse—his whiskers covered with cream.

"My, my," he panted. "That was a close squeeze. But it was tempting to lick up the three drops the cat left in his saucer. I never dreamed he was around. Oh, dear! I wish I was a cat!"

"There!" whispered Nancy. "Didn't I tell you?"

"Who's that? Who's saying, 'There, Didn't I tell you?' My ears are very sharp. Who is it, I say?"

"Me," said Nancy. "And me," said Nick.

"And me," smiled the Fairy Queen stepping out.

"My eye!" said the little mouse looking anxiously to see if he had room to run. "What's it all about?"

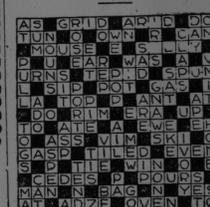

"We're going to grant your wish!" said the Fairy Queen. "We're making you into a cat. I hope you'll be very, very happy."

The little mouse started to say, "Oh, dear!" But it turned out to be Mi-a-ow.

CANADA'S PLACE IN EMPIRE IS SERMON THEME

Bishop Richardson Looks on "Nationhood" as an Omnipotent Word.

I. O. D. E. MEMBERS AT ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

Speaker Touches on Domestic Aspects of Dominion's Imperial Relations.

FREDERICTON, Feb. 1.—His Lordship Bishop Richardson was the preacher at Christ Church Cathedral this afternoon at the anniversary of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Empire.

Very Rev. Dean Neales and Rev. Mr. Sherlock, the curate, took part. His Lordship said that the name, "Daughters of the Empire" had an implication, deep and broad.

Domestic Considerations. Was Canada failing? He believed there were signs that it was not quite well. An ominous word had been heard in Canada in recent years, "nationhood."

Lawlessness was another problem. It seemed characteristic of the western world. "Prohibition" need not be whispered when he said that.

Some of the boys and girls who did particularly good work in 1924 are: Evelyn and Prudence, Kingston; John Crabbe, Point de Bute; Wm. Teed, Sackville; LeRoy Smith and Earl Smith, Elgin; Riversdale, Marysville, Bartibous, Prince William, Nappogan and many other schools sent in very interesting accounts of their project work. In addition to the standard garden work Arthur Keirstead, Hector Lanferty and others carried out experimental work. The former grew and donated to this department a considerable quantity of Chinese cabbage seed which will be distributed to schools making application."

Eclipse Street Peddlers

Exmouth Street Church Celebrating Anniversary

Special Sermons Mark 68th Milestone—This Week's Events

Services of great inspiration marked the opening of the observance of the sixty-eighth anniversary of the Exmouth street Methodist church yesterday. Large congregations were present and addresses of great eloquence were delivered by the special preachers and the choir of 80 male voices gave splendid renderings of appropriate music. Male members from several of the city churches assisted in the music. Rev. E. E. Styles, pastor, conducted the services and E. E. Thomas, choir leader, directed the singing. "Arthur Hopkins, Associate of the Canadian College of Organists, who is organist of the St. John's Methodist church in Montreal, who was brought up as a boy in Exmouth street church, was the organist for yesterday's special services. He is now a small measure to the appeal of the fine music.

AFRICAN CURIOS GIVEN TO MUSEUM

Colonel Murray MacLaren Brings Specimens For The Natural History Society. The Natural History Society collections have been much enriched by mementoes brought back by Colonel Murray MacLaren, C. M. G., M. P., from his recent tour in South Africa and his visit to New Zealand. As curios brought from South Africa Dr. MacLaren has presented some very fine specimens of copper and gold ore, two specimens of the fruit which yields vegetable ivory and another strange native fruit. Excceedingly fine specimens of kauri gum comprise the collection from New Zealand.

Copper Ore. The copper ore specimens include a very handsome piece of peacock copper which well deserves its descriptive name of peacock ore because of its coloring. Other specimens of copper ore are the argentine variety which looks like a book of silver and the copper pyrites variety which glitters like gold. Three copper ores came from the Messina mine. The gold ore is seen as very tiny specks of yellow dust in very hard greenish rock. The specimen which Dr. MacLaren has presented came from the Krugersdorp mine near Johannesburg and the gold ore is especially interesting in the museum collections as South Africa produces about one-half of the world's supply of gold. To get the gold from the hard rock strong crushers are used and Dr. MacLaren has presented with the ore in native state a curious freak of the crushers, a piece of rock which the crusher has pounded into the conglomerate mass which now resembles a smooth round pebble with flattened sides.

Vegetable Ivory. The two samples of the vegetable ivory fruit resemble apples in size and shape and look like apples that are rotten through and through. After that the similarity ceases for the crisp hard rind of the vegetable ivory can be scraped off and beneath there is found the hard white ivory-like substance from which the fruit gets its name.

The other native fruit is a long pod or gourd, from the bush, an African bombacaceous tree the trunk of which often grows to a diameter of 80 feet. The gourd-like fruit is known as monkey bread and contains a pleasantly acid pulp which is eaten and affords a beverage. The leaves and bark of the tree are used medicinally and the bark is also made into cloth and ropes by the natives.

The Ideal Dance Floor

Supper Dance Floor, Fort Garry Hotel, Winnipeg, Man., covered with Dominion Battleship Linoleum.

Dominion Battleship LINOLEUM

One could not wish for a better dance floor than Dominion Battleship Linoleum offers. The dancers' feet glide over its firm, unblemished surface in perfect ease and comfort and what is even more to the point — they cannot wear it out. Waxing, the only upkeep needed, renews its smooth inviting surface again and again.

Dominion Battleship Linoleum is the modern public floor. Its advantages are manifold. It assures economy, because of its remarkable durability and ease of cleaning; comfort, because of its soft, springy resilience that takes the wear and tear out of walking; sanitation, because it is seamless and non-absorbent.

Dominion Battleship Linoleum is also germicidal, an important feature for hospitals and schools. And it fits perfectly into the most dignified surroundings.

Install Dominion Battleship Linoleum on your floors — you will then soon realize what floor economy and comfort really mean.

Made in four standard shades — brown, green, amber color and one is dull and opaque and iron grey in color.

Dealer and received its worth in money or in trade commodities.

Today it is necessary to go to greater depths for the rich deposits of gum and sometimes entire tracts of land must first be drained before digging can proceed.

The specimens of gum which Dr. MacLaren has given to the museum are of most exceptional quality, color and size. There is one fine big specimen measuring three and a half inches in diameter and a clear creamy color throughout. One is so translucent that it resembles a shiny acid drop and is nearly colorless. One is a rich glowing amber color and one is dull and opaque and iron grey in color.

ST. JOHN BOY'S QUICK THINKING BRINGS NATIONAL TITLE TO CITY

WILLIE LOGAN CAUGHT CHICAGO BOY OFF GUARD

Gorman Finishes Second; Other Local Boys Do Well

By a piece of quick thinking that does credit to the training received from his father, an ex-international skating champion, Willie Logan of St. John brought the Canadian national junior championship to St. John for this year when he defeated Henry Nelson, the flashy youngster from Chicago in a special race of 800 yards to break the deadlock existing between the two boys for first place. In the 400 yards race, Logan was forced to watch Nelson over the line, but in the mile event, Willie reversed the decision and when the points were tallied up it was found that they were tied. A skate-off was then agreed to and the big crowd present were treated to the most thrilling battle of the entire meet. A championship was being decided by a single race. It was Canada against the United States and the international favor injected into the contest aroused the fans to a fever pitch.

A Great Race

The boys skated slowly to the line and got set. At the crack of the pistol, they leaped forward and then it settled down into a steady grind. For two laps, Logan set the pace, but with the third lap, he increased his speed until he had about a yard on the relentless youth from Chicago, who only the day previous had conquered the cream of the skating world in a gruelling mile race in the remarkably fast time of 2:48 and 1-5. This was the class the young St. John boy was facing and in the pinch, he thought quickly. He figured Nelson as a powerful young fellow who fairly lapped up distances and believed that his own sprinting speed would win the day for St. John and Canada.

Starts Sudden Sprint

Glancing over his shoulder he noted his lead was a scant yard. Half-way round the third lap, he gathered himself for a tremendous spurt, widening the distance between them as though Nelson were standing still. Amid the uproar of the crowd, Logan dug in for all he was worth, while the surprised Nelson galvanized into life, started after the retreating figure in front. Round they flashed, Nelson striving vainly to cut down that gap. Striving on up on the St. John boy who was making a valiant effort to maintain that lead. The spectators thought that Logan had given too much, but with the final line in view he spurred again, and amid the thundering applause of the large crowd present, the St. John boy sped over the blue line in a scant few feet ahead of Nelson. The junior championship had come to St. John!

Gorman Second

Had Charlie Gorman not ran into tough luck in the final results might have been different for the local ice was only 20 points behind Francis Allen, Chicago, in the final reckoning. Allen scored a total of 90 points on 12 rounds, while Gorman, who finished second to C. H. Smythe, Moncton, in the boys' 16 event, in the 440 and 880 events. All told it was a great day for the young skaters of St. John and they thoroughly justified the wisdom of sending them to the big meet.

Fowler Wins

In addition to the good work of Willie Logan, Frankie, his brother, won the championship event for boys under 12, while George Fowler, Dunn avenue, won the 220 and 440 events for boys under 14. Tommy who finished second to C. H. Smythe, Moncton, in the boys' 16 event, in the 440 and 880 events. All told it was a great day for the young skaters of St. John and they thoroughly justified the wisdom of sending them to the big meet.

Famous All Blacks Eager To Participate in Canadian Winter Sports

Along the Sport Trail

By RAY HANSEN

THE MONCTON TRANSCRIPT has the following regarding the recent trouble in the circles of the officials of the Maritime Branch of the A. A. U. of C. President A. C. Millie, of the M. P. B. A. A. U. of C. might have averted a crisis in Maritime amateur sport when he cancelled the cards of George Lowther and Bliss Lowerison, but local amateurs say he is now called upon to cancel the card he recently issued to Roy Ford, of New Glasgow. Ford is a professional from A to Z, they point out, and affidavits to substantiate that statement are in the hands of Mr. Charles Gillespie, Vice-President of the New Brunswick Registration Committee.

"Mr. Gillespie says that he had nothing whatever to do with the reinstatement of Lowther and Lowerison, with the exception of issuing the cards, and this was done after a vote of the N. B. committee favored their reinstatement.

"Ford, it is declared, is in the same class as Lowther and Lowerison and if he is entitled to a card why draw any distinction? It is asked. "Local men say cards were issued to Lowther and Lowerison to force a 'showdown' and not to create a crisis in Maritime sport as a St. John despatch would lead one to believe. The resignations of Messrs. Frank White and W. Ernest Stirling would not provoke that crisis."

From this it will be seen that Mr. Gillespie is trying to pass the buck. He is practically accusing Messrs. Coover, White and Stirling, three of the leading members of the New Brunswick Registration Committee, with favoring the reinstatement of Lowther and Lowerison. The facts of the case, according to the two cases and file their decision with the Maritime executive and then if the members of the Board saw fit they could pass on a recommendation to the executive of the A. A. U. of C. to be dealt with next September. They had not even investigated the cases, and in addition were well aware of the fact that they had no jurisdiction to reinstate any class A or B professional.

The article says that the cards were issued to force a "showdown" and not to create a crisis. This is rather a high handed way to right a wrong. If Ford should not have been granted a card the proper channels were open to bring the Nova Scotia officials to task. As regards the closing statement that "the resignation of Messrs. White and Stirling would not provoke a crisis," it is sufficient to say that they sure did get action.

It is quite evident from the latest developments that the Moncton fans are out after President Millie's scalp. Whether or not he can prove their assertions are false remains to be seen. There is one thing certain all kinds of trouble is brewing in Maritime amateur circles.

GEORGE GOULDING, former Olympic champion, and one of the greatest walkers ever developed in Canada will never race again, according to a late report given out by physicians in a Sanitarium in New York where the veteran is now under treatment. Goulding's heart was seriously affected by his attempt to come back after being out of the game so many years. His breakdown in the race against Ugo Frigerio of Italy and Willie Plant of his home in Vancouver and reports received from there said he had recovered the speed that won for him the title of world's champion some 12 years ago. It is simply a question of how long to "father time." After an athlete gives up strenuous exercise a reaction takes place and it is generally a severe strain on both the heart and lungs to attempt a comeback, especially if the sport is of a strenuous nature.

"STRANGLER" LEWIS, former heavyweight champion wrestler of the world is hot on the trail of his conqueror Wayne Munn. He is so eager to get a chance to regain his lost crown that he expresses a willingness to donate his share of the purse to charity. It is doubtful if Munn will play any heed to the clamoring of the "skull crushing" exponent, who plies his trade under the name of wrestling. Munn is a big husky athlete, but he is not well enough versed in the game to meet any of the top notches. It is doubtful if he would have won the title had he not picked Lewis up and then hurled him out of the ring knocking all the fight out of him. If he ever meets Lewis again he had better wear a steel helmet.

HAMILTON RETAINS POSITION AT TOP

St. Pats Beat Ottawa While Canadiens Hand Montrealers in a 5-0 Trimming.

Hamilton, Canadiens and St. Pats were victors in the National Hockey League matches, Saturday. Hamilton easily downed the Boston Bruins, 8 to 3, at Hamilton, while St. Pats were taking a last-minute decision from the Senators at Ottawa by a 2 to 1. Before 6,000 fans, the rejuvenated Canadiens bumped the Montreal team, 5 to 0.

Odie Cleghorn managed the world's champion in Saturday night's match, as Leo Dandurand was ill, and the veteran made a fine job of it, scoring two goals himself. Benedict's fine work in the net for the Montreal team was outstanding.

The Bruins were at Hamilton minus the sterling services of Dr. Charles Stewart, and Lockhart took his place. A weak outer defence accounted for the size of the score. In addition, the Boston players had traveled 27 hours almost continuously, due to snowstorms, to keep their engagement.

In the Western Canada League, the Calgary Tigers defeated the Saskatoon Sheiks on Saturday in a whirlwind game, 3 to 2. The win puts the Tigers in second place.

America Versus England in Bermuda

Five of America's leading girl swimmers are in Bermuda for a special swimming meet. Their training consists mainly of playful indulgence in the sport in which they excel. Here is a fine action picture of a game of water polo between the Americans and a picked team of Bermuda stars. The Americans are all to the right of the ball, for Miss Gertrude Ederle and a Bermuda player are striving. Immediately back of Miss Ederle is Virginia Whitehead and back of her is Helen Meaney. To the right in the foreground is Aileen Rigen and behind her is Helen Walworth.

GREAT FOOTBALL TEAM ARRIVED IN CITY TODAY

Won 30 Games During Their Tour—Had a Wonderful Time

The famous All Blacks football team of New Zealand, one of the greatest rugby organizations in the world, caught their first glimpse of Canada this morning when they landed from the Canadian Pacific steamship Motilaurier at Sand Point and a few hours later entrained for Toronto. All expressed eagerness to see Canada and particularly to indulge in some of the great winter pastimes, which have been promised them on their arrival in Banff.

English Good Sports

The players were unanimous in a statement that they have had a wonderful time since leaving their homes over six months ago. They say they thoroughly enjoyed their matches there. They were royally treated in every city they visited and members of the rugby clubs, officials and others did everything to indulge in some of the great winter pastimes, which have been promised them on their arrival in Banff.

Champion in Party

There are 29 players on the team, all splendid specimens of humanity, big husky men showing marked development and fairly radiating with health. Some of the players are former university stars and others are young farmers. 18 of their number are from the North Island and the others from South Island. Included in their number is H. V. McCleary, who was amateur heavyweight boxing champion of Australia in 1920, 1921. The heaviest man on their team tips the scale at 214 pounds, while their average is 170 pounds up.

Speaking about the game in New Zealand they said there are 40,000 rugby players out of a population of 1,200,000 people. In that number are approximately 20,000 school boys. The amateur rules are very strict and every care is taken to properly develop the youths so they will be fitted to take their place in the senior teams when older members drop out. In addition to rugby they also indulge in various other forms of sport.

Going to Toronto

After leaving here the members of the team are going direct to Toronto. They did not know definitely whether or not they would be able to see the famous Niagara Falls. From Toronto they will continue west and are eager to try their skill at snow-shoeing, skiing and skating. They said they have practically no opportunity in their own country of enjoying winter sports as they would have to travel to the top of one of the mountains to find any quantity of snow and ice.

FRESH TROUBLE
BREAKS OUT IN AMATEUR RANKS

Will Force President
Millie To Resign
From Office

An injunction to restrain A. C. Millie, president of the M.P.B.A.A.U. of C., from continuing as directing head of amateur sport in the Maritimes, will be sought in the courts of New Brunswick, by prominent amateur sport leaders in the province.

An announcement to this effect was made late last night by W. W. Covey, former president of the M. P. B. and now honorary president of the organization, following the receipt of a telephone message from Charles Gillespie, junior vice-president of the amateur sport governing body in the Maritimes.

Gillespie informed Mr. Covey last night that Moncton sport leaders for the last ten days have been investigating Millie's connection with professional hockey affairs in Cape Breton, between 1918 and 1920, and will, in view of his activities with the Glouce Bay Miners Hockey Club, ask the courts to restrain the president of the M.P.B.A.A.U. of C. from continuing in his present position.

Refuses to Cancel Card

The decision to take the fight against Millie to the courts, follows the refusal of the president to cancel an amateur card he issued ten days ago to Roy Ford, a New Glasgow hockey player. Gillespie has threatened to resign as junior vice-president of the M. P. B. unless Millie cancels the card, and the latter has held that will allow Ford to continue to play with the New Glasgow team, and will not even call a meeting of the Maritime registration committee to further investigate the tending of Ford.

Acted Without Authority

The New Glasgow athlete was refused a card by the Maritime registration committee at a special meeting in Truro several weeks ago. In his affidavit, accompanying his application, he admitted playing in the Independent Hockey League during the seasons of 1920-21 and further stated that he has been recognized for time past. The Maritime committee then decided that Ford's case should go to the C.A.A.U. or final decision, but now Millie, acting without any official authority, so Covey and Gillespie charge, has issued a card in direct violation of the amateur regulations.

SNOW-SHOEING IS DUE FOR REVIVAL

Great Stamina Possessed by Nurmi Said to be Due to
This Sport

The fact that the great stamina possessed by Paavo Nurmi, star Finnish runner, is believed to have been enhanced considerably by his known fondness for snow-shoeing is causing athletic officials in Canada to conduct an energetic campaign to arouse interest in the sport among Canadian track stars. Especially is this true in the vicinity of Montreal, where a number of prominent Canadian athletes reside, and a number already have taken part in the weekly competitions.

Due to the efforts of the officials of the Old Tique Blue, an affiliated club of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, snow-shoeing is undergoing a real revival in that city. It is the intention of the officials to fulfill the wishes of a former prominent member, the late W. L. Malby, an old-time snow-shoer and enthusiast in all sports, who endowed the club with a sum of money to be spent yearly in promoting the promotion of snow-shoeing meets.

A number of special meets have been arranged. It also is the intention of the club to file an application with the Canadian A. A. U. for permission to age the provincial championships this year on the M. A. A. grounds.

Prominent among the track stars who have shown a keen interest in the sport is Mirth McKechney, who as Montreal's leading representative at the Canadian Olympic team that went to Paris last summer. McKechney is engaging in workouts and is displaying remarkable proficiency. He so believes the sport will help him in preparing himself for the next outdoor track campaign.

Al Diplock, who, according to Captain Grenell, well known Canadian track promoter, to develop into one of Dominion's leading long haul snow-shoers, is working out regularly with McKechney. Gordon Greer is another track star who is taking an active part in the popular winter sport.

And Dave Shade, spectacular coast welterweight, comes to Boston tomorrow night to show Hub fans that he is the rightful possessor of the welterweight crown and the only reason Walker refuses to meet him is because he fears that he will be stripped of his crown. Shade clashes with Bob Lowery, the hard-hitting welterweight. In the other bouts next Tuesday night, Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, in line for the lightweight title, will appear in a return match with Jimmy Fruzzetti of Brooklyn in a 10-rounder which is considered a main bout in itself. SOUTH AFRICA BIDS CANADA EXPORT THERE

Business Man on Montclair Says Opportunity Is at Hand.

Y. M. C. A. OFFICIAL IS ALSO PASSENGER

Here on Immigration Matters—Steamship Lands 340 People.

Landing from the Canadian Pacific steamship Montclair at Sand Point today, William H. Smith, managing director of J. H. Smith & Company, Ltd. of Cape Town, South Africa, who came to Canada on business, emphasized what Colonel Murray McLaren, M. P., said on his return from that country recently—that Canada has a good market there to exploit.

Mr. Smith is a large buyer of Canadian newspaper and handles the product of several large Dominion firms. The Canadian paper trade in South Africa, he said, is very satisfactory at the present time and is steadily increasing. The slump in prices had passed and conditions in general had greatly improved. He said that South Africa presented an excellent field for Canadian manufacturers, providing efficient agents were secured who knew conditions and the market.

Among the passengers was Leonard A. Wide of London, British representative of the Y. M. C. A. Immigration Department. He expects to spend about six months in Canada developing their scheme for immigration. He explained that they have the Protestant churches throughout Canada interested and any members of the different congregations desiring help can secure men of their own religion through the agencies of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Wide said the scheme had worked out well in Australia and they had nine representatives there. He expects in Canada to come a strong movement in Canada due to the various churches endorsing the matter.

Time for Filing Income Statements Nears End—Tax Rate Unknown Till May.

Mr. Olive was asked what the next step would be in making up the rate for this year, now that the city and municipal councils had passed their appropriations for the year. He said nothing could be done in regard to the rate until the statements filed relative to income and personal property valuations had been checked up and the totals arrived at.

When the total valuation on real estate, personal property, income and special assessments was known it then would be divided into the amount required and the rate struck. It was impossible as yet to make any guess as to what the rate would be for this year and it would probably be May before this would be known.

LAST REPORT OF FIRE CHIEF BLAKE

Calls During Year Were 264—Asks For More Hose and One Horse.

The last report of George Blake, Chief of the Fire Department, was released for publication today by Commissioner Harding, head of the safety department. In this report the chief recommends the usual repairs and the purchase of hose and one horse.

Following is the report to Commissioner Harding:—
Dear Sir,—I have the honor to submit to you my report of the Fire Department for the year ending December 31, 1924.
During the year the department responded to 264 alarms. Of these, 162 were on the East Side, and 24 on the West Side; also 82 still alarms, 72 on the East Side and 10 on the West Side; also six false alarms, one on the East Side and five on the West Side. The department was also called upon for assistance at different times and rendered the required service.

The approximate loss for the year was $225,000.
To handle the many fires during the year required the use of 35,000 feet of 2½-inch hose, 2,000 feet of chemical hose, 1,750 feet of ladders and 3,000 gallons of chemical.
The department will require the usual repairs to the different stations, not very extensive. We will require 1,500 feet of 2½-inch hose, and one horse to replace an aged one.

Two Members Died.
I regret that during the year we lost two of our valued members, namely, J. W. Pike, call man on the West Side, and George Parks, of No. 5 engine. Mr. Pike was an old and respected call man on the West Side. Mr. Parks was a valued member of his company, and his death will be deeply regretted by his family as well as the members of the fire department. His Worship the Mayor and members of the City Council attended his funeral in a body, as well as the members of the fire department and two companies of the Salvage Corps, also a large body of citizens. The deepest sorrow was shown by all classes.

I desire to thank the captains and members of the Salva Corps for their valuable assistance. The Chief of Police, officers and men I also thank for their assistance; and the officers and men of the fire department for their faithful manner in which they performed their duties.

Yours truly,
GEORGE BLAKE,
Chief of the Fire Department.

Ontario Keenly Interested, Says J. D. McKenna, on Return to City.

J. D. McKenna, M. L. A., returned to the city today after speaking in Ontario cities in connection with the Telegraph-Journal and Times-Star Maritime trade mission which he and A. M. Belding have been carrying on so successfully.
Mr. McKenna said that people in the Maritimes would have gleaned from the reports published as the speakers were heard in the various centres that times was given, but one had to be on the spot to realize fully how great a degree of interest was being aroused and business organizations were responding to the presentation of the case of the Maritimes.
The interest shown all along the itinerary of the mission, he said, was far greater than had been expected and throughout all Ontario were heard promises of moral and practical support for the claims of the Maritime Provinces.

Hiram on Tour

FORT WILLIAM, Jan. 26.—Well, sir, a fellow poked his head in the smokin' room on the train yesterday and hollers out "Nipagin". He was lookin' in' at me an' I says: "No, sir—I don't tetch it." "Don't tetch it," says he. "I don't drink," says I. "Why," says he, "Nipagin is the name of a fellow. Well, sir, they hed a great laugh at me fer thinkin' he was askin' me to take a nip." But mebbe I wasn't too fer astray at that—fer a bit—while afterwards I seen two fellers in a corner by the car door with a big medicine bottle an' a glass. Say, Mister—I haint been as cold on the trip as I was afore I left the Settlement. Some folks told me I'd freeze to death—but winter up this way aint too bad at all. You might guess Hanner that I was within five miles of a timber wolf las' night. I phone that's close enough fer now—yes, sir."
