James Terrell, K.C., and Capt. James Adams Hurler to Death by Express.

CLOSED AUTO HIT ON LEVEL CROSSING

Two Were Returning to Halifax After Dinner at Commander Atwood's.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 2.—James Terrell, K.C., well known Halifax lawyer, and Captain James Adams, commander of the cable ship Lord Kelvin, were killed instantly on Saturday evening when the auto in which they were driving collided with the inward Maritime Express running about three hours late, at the crossing about 300 feet south of the Bedford railway station.

The two men left Halifax about 4 o'clock in Mr. Terrell's closed sedan. They went out Bedford Road and the first thing friends in Halifax heard about them was that they had been killed.

Mr. Terrell and Captain Adams had been guests at Commander Atwood's at Bedford for dinner. After leaving the home, they drove down under the Bedford bridge and came along the level road. In crossing the railway tracks below the residence of J. E. Atwood, the car was struck by the express.

Train Going Fast

The train was late and travelling at a clip. The car was driven against automatic signal at the crossing. One of the cushions in the car were blown nearly to the main Bedford road.

Captain Adams' body was hurled about 30 yards from the scene of the accident. The body of Mr. Terrell was found in the demolished car. Both bodies were badly cut. A coroner's inquest was held at the scene. The coroner heard the crash and was the first on the scene.

Pictou, N. S., Jan. 2.—The latest development in the Daniel Barry murder case is the issuing of a warrant by Stipendiary Magistrate Tanner, at the instance of Chief of Police McAlroy for the arrest of James or George Louder, a Prince Edward Islander. Several years ago he worked at Loran's tannery here, and the police have been informed that he was in town last week, and made some inquiries regarding the Barry home.

'PRES' DE VALERA IN IRELAND BUT WIFE IS SILENT

Dublin Castle Has No Knowledge of the Whereabouts of Official.

LOST STANDING BY VISIT TO AMERICA

Peace Negotiations Have Improved Considerably During the Last Week.

Dublin, Jan. 2.—Mrs. De Valera refused to say whether her husband, Eamon De Valera, was in Ireland. She said she knows nothing of his whereabouts in Ireland. Questioned by the Associated Press today she merely smiled and shook her head. "I agreed when I left New York to say nothing to newspaper men," she said.

Asked if President De Valera sent her a post card, announcing his arrival, she replied: "I would rather not answer that question."

Castle is ignorant. Dublin Castle today continued to deny all knowledge of De Valera. The view of the officials seems to be that if he is really here he had come for the purpose of surveilling Ireland's trouble not to aid the campaign of Sinn Fein militants. It is admitted that though he may have lost some prestige in consequence of his long stay in the United States, he still wields power over the Irish people, and it is thought there will be no objection to the meeting of the Daily Eireann to consider the question of peace until attended by men ungenerally wanted by the authorities.

The positions of the peace negotiations has considerably improved during the last week.

Mrs. MacSwiney Sails. New York, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Mariel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, sailed for home yesterday on the steamer Panhandle State. She came to the United States several weeks ago to testify before the committee of one hundred investigating affairs in Ireland.

Husband and His "Soul Mate" Fail to Act So Promptly.

NOW OTHER TWO DISLIKE THE PLAN

Girl and Man Admit the Plan But Are Not Held by Police.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Florence Heintz killed herself last evening in an alleged suicide pact with her husband and a girl who had won his love, but the other two did not follow her example.

The wife had repeatedly rebuked her husband, Albert A. Heintz, for attentions to the girl, Christiana Viox, 30 years old. The girl had talked the matter over with the wife and insisted, as she insisted to the police after the tragedy last night, that she loved the man and cannot help it. Heintz likewise demanded of the police "what could I do. They both loved me dearly."

Wife Aeted First. Last evening Mrs. Heintz who was playing cards with her husband and friend when the Viox girl came to the door, with a note for husband, went to the door with her husband and talked with the girl for some time. The wife left the other two, went back into the house, got an old revolver from a trunk and shot herself dead.

Neither Heintz nor Miss Viox was arrested, but both made statements to the police in which they admitted the discussion of a suicide pact.

16,000 AIRPLANES IN GREAT BOOTY

Over 163,000 Machine-Guns and 41,000 Cannon Have Been Surrendered.

Paris, Jan. 2.—Marshal Foch's report on Germany's disarmament, according to the Temps says that the Germans have surrendered 41,000 cannon, 25,000 unmounted cannon barrels, 153,000 machine guns and barrels, 2,000,000 rifles, 16,000 airplanes and 20,000 airplane motors.

The German contingents in excess of the disarmament clauses of the treaty and the big armament are said to be principally the maintenance of civil guards in Bavaria and Eastern Prussia, the organization of security police and failure to destroy the required amount of artillery in the Western and Southern frontier fortresses.

The report recites the details of the German request that they be allowed to retain $41 cannon in the fortresses, but the Allies have approved the retention of only 30 guns at Koeningberg, 25 at Pillau and 23 at Swinemunde.

FATAL SHOOTING AT TORONTO MAY BE AN ACCIDENT

Italian Who Fired the Shot Did His Best to Help Victim.

FLED IN PANIC WHEN DEATH CAME

Tragic Ending of Party Listening to Ringing of New Year Bells.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Investigations made by the police in connection with the fatal shooting of Fred Bonniwell by Samuel Leon, an Italian, just outside the residence of William Morrison on Niagara Street, New Year's Eve, have led them to believe that the shooting may have been accidental and not with intent. Leon, who with two children, lived at the Morrison residence disappeared shortly after the shooting.

Inquiries by the police have resulted in the following information being obtained: William Morrison whose daughter was engaged to Fred Bonniwell and Leon had been attending a New Year's Eve celebration on Clarendon street and returned to the Morrison residence as Bonniwell and some friends were standing on the sidewalk in front of it listening to the bells and whistles proclaiming the arrival of the New Year.

Fell Dead in Parlor. As Morrison approached his home Bonniwell darted towards him with outstretched hand in greeting. Just then Leon lifted his arm and fired a revolver which he had been carrying.

Bonniwell staggered into the Morrison home and fell dead in three parlor. Leon, apparently greatly distressed, followed closely and attempted to staunch the flow of blood, while Bonniwell was breathing his last on the parlor floor. Realizing that Bonniwell was dead, Leon entered the dining room, dropped on a couch and with his face in his hands cried: "My God, what have I done?"

According to the testimony of witnesses, Leon remained in the house for a considerable time after the tragedy. Then he became panicky and fled, leaving his revolver concealed behind the couch, where it was found by the police.

The first of the series of Pythian Re-Unions was held on Friday night at the new Castle, Upton street, and proved a very successful affair. Over three hundred were present. Informally was the note struck, and several unique features made the evening a memorable one. The re-introduction of the English lancers, polkas, g-votes, militaires and Rye waltzes was a very popular idea, the lancers being especially welcomed back. Fifteen sets were formed. A programme of nineteen dances was given by Jones orchestra. Card games were played downstairs.

At a few moments to twelve all lights were turned off, except a foot light, and, joining in two large circles, all present sang "Auld Syne". At one minute to midnight the figure of Old Father Time appeared on the stage and spoke a few words of admonition and farewell. As the clock struck the hour, a little ballet dancer burst through the dist of a large clock, bringing good wishes for 1921 and dancing a pretty dance. All present then united heartily in singing "God Save the King," after which dancing was resumed.

Committees for the evening were: N. L. Brennan, convener for the men's committee; K. D. Spears, secretary. Ladies' committee: Mrs. William Clark, Mrs. Bert Porter, Mrs. N. L. Brennan, Mrs. Noel Sturston, Mrs. Harrison Kinnear, Mrs. W. H. Gooding.

Comb Sage Tea In Hair To Darken It

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray streaked and faded hair is gradually being supplanted by a modern mother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Experts Report On Fare Schedule

Street Railway Directors Meet Today to Decide on Rate to be Charged.

The St. John Street Railway Company has received from its experts and statisticians, brought here from Boston, their report on a fare schedule that, in their opinion, could be profitably employed by the company in the transportation of passengers.

Zone System

A zone system has been suggested by the experts, but it is not regarded as practical for this city. By this system a certain number of miles from Glen Falls to Haymarket square for illustration, would be a zone requiring one fare and from Haymarket to city proper a zone necessitating another fare and so on.

The directors of the Street Railway Company will meet this afternoon to consider the suggestion of the experts which have been set forth in writing.

Ten Cent Fare

It is believed by those best informed on company matters that a schedule calling for 10 cents single fare, 15 cents for 3 for 25 cents and 15 for a dollar will be adopted. According to President L. R. Ross the schedule appears to be the most feasible one, and the probable one to be adopted to go into effect Tuesday morning. The experts have also reported a schedule that could probably be adopted on a car operated by one man, but is not to be seriously considered by the directors.

FALSE ALARMS.

Two false alarms were sent in New Year's Eve and the fire department had needless calls to boxes 4 and 412.

HEADACHES Make Life Miserable.

Headaches are one of the most aggravating troubles one can have, and it is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headaches seem to be habitual with many people; some are seldom, if ever, free from them, suffering continually from the dull throbbings, the intense pains; sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then, again, over the whole head. There is only one way to get relief from these persistent headaches, and that is by going direct to the seat of the trouble, for unless the cause is removed, the headaches will still continue to exist.

The fact that Burdock Blood Bitters keep the stomach, liver and bowels toned up is proof enough to show that it will eliminate the cause of the headaches.

Mr. Harold Lanain, Owen Sound, Ont., writes:—"My system was run down and my blood out of order, I suffered a great deal from severe pains in my head, which made me feel very miserable. After having tried other remedies I purchased a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and was very glad to notice a decided improvement in my health, so I took another and am glad to say that it has done me an enormous amount of good. I have recommended it to my friends, who were in a similar condition, and they all say it is a wonderful remedy." B. B. B. is put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ST. JOHN, N. B. MONDAY, JANUARY 3, 1922.

CANADA'S NAVY.

It is no secret that the great war was fought to end war, the world was to be made peaceful, for at the very moment when the great peace instrument, the League of Nations, is getting fully into operation, preparation for war are everywhere prominent. Not only is there no sign of disarmament—for that we might be asked to wait patiently—but the principal nations are preparing new instruments of war. France is in her most warlike mood. There is much excuse for France, for she is next door neighbor to a nation which she believes will seize the first opportunity to attack again. Great Britain is making large appropriations for her naval service, yet not large enough to suit some influential sections of her people, who clamor for the construction of what are called "capital ships," even while her Admiralty question the value of such expensive vessels. Japan is spending much on the expansion of her navy. The United States has a large naval programme. When it is suggested that Great Britain and the United States should take a naval holiday the American Secretary of the Navy answers that such a policy would be all right if the whole world would adopt it, well knowing, as he does, that in the present state of affairs there is nothing upon which the whole world can be brought to agree. Canada, too, has in some degree caught the naval fever. A small fleet of warships donated by the British Government—a couple of cruisers, a couple of destroyers and a couple of submarines—has arrived at Halifax and has been received with considerable ceremony.

The navy in all countries is usually a popular service. The blue jacket of the sailor seems to appeal to imagination even more than the khaki of the soldier. We are all proud of the history and of the recent achievements of the British Navy. Canada is a maritime country, facing the ocean on both East and West sides, and consequently there are large sections of our people who are sure to feel a keen interest in naval affairs. Even in the inland districts our Navy League have been laboring, not without success, for the creation of a naval spirit. The British Government's offer of these six ships as a free gift proved a temptation that our Government could not resist. A number of the officers of the ships are young Canadians, graduates of our naval colleges. All these circumstances seem to make the arrival of the fleet at Halifax an occasion for the manifestation of much interest in our Canadian Navy. And all these things are very gratifying—if Canada can afford them. The ships, as stated, cost us nothing. But their upkeep will be quite costly, and there will be more than a few people to ask whether this is not one of the luxury taxes of the time that might well have been postponed.

The Journal of Commerce calls attention to one striking feature of the situation. It is now an accepted principle that whatever Canada is to do in naval affairs must be done along the lines of the policy laid down a few years ago by the former Government. The essence of that policy was that Canada should begin the creation of a small fleet, to be organized in co-operation with the British Admiralty, to be owned by Canada, to be controlled by the Canadian Government in peace time, and in war-time merged into the Imperial Navy. When that policy was devised it was bitterly attacked and in one province the attacks played a considerable part in bringing about the defeat of the Government which had proposed the policy. When the Niobe and Rainbow were bought as training ships, and steps were taken to build several cruisers in Canada, these were contemptuously described as a "tinpot navy" by writers and speakers who are today glibly over the adoption of the same policy, which is being carried out under the very law that was then so broadly condemned.

Just how far Canada needs a navy now will be a question for debate, but there will be agreement that whatever is to be done must of necessity follow the lines of the much abused policy of 1910.

We have this little fleet as a free gift of the British Government and we are in honor bound to keep it up. But many thoughtful Canadians who appreciate the financial situation of the Dominion will feel that this line of outlay is one on which a close watch should be kept. The tendency of such operations is to expand; the tendency of such expenditure is to increase. Just now, in a period of business depression that gives much ground for anxiety, when revenues are falling and taxes are increased, when many works of urgency are denied the grants that they need, there will be an increasingly critical examination of

WHY TETOTALLERS LIKE SWEETS

(Medical Man in 'The Overseas Mail')
 Professor Hartman, the president of the British Association, while proclaiming himself a supporter of Temperance, pointed out that total abstinence from alcohol cannot really be attained even if the drink trade could be absolutely suppressed because alcohol is made in the human body.

Physiologists do not question the fact that alcohol is one of the products of chemical processes which go on not only in the digestive tube, but in the living cells which compose the body.

Alcohol is the product of the living processes of the yeast organism, and what is carried to an extraordinary extent in the case of yeast occurs to a slighter extent in other living organisms.

People who become total abstainers take to eating more sweets and sweet cakes, and to drinking sweet soft drinks, and sugar taken in excess may do them just as much harm as excess of alcohol.

There is a normal minute percentage of sugar in the blood, an amount which is found to be constant, from day to day, within very narrow limits in healthy, normal people. An excess of sugar in the blood acts as a poison.

The disease diabetes is characterized by an excess of sugar in the blood and by the excretion of sugar by the organs whose duty it is to keep the composition of the blood constant by excreting any excess of waste matter which the living tissues put into the blood.

Physicians in the U.S.A. have noted an increase of diabetes among the population following the acceptance of the "bone dry" policy, and the increased consumption of sugar consequent thereon.

As pointed out before in these columns, sugar only exists in traces in natural foods. Starch is the natural carbohydrate food which is slowly digested and absorbed as sugar, sugar is an appetizer, and should not be taken in such amounts that the blood is flooded with it.

When the membrane of the stomach is deranged by the eating of too much sugar, yeasts appear in the stomach and actively digest sugar into alcohol.

Thus children who are allowed to eat excess of sweets by indulgent parents, who are total abstainers, absorb alcohol produced from the sweets within their little stomach by the action of the yeasts.

It has been found, indeed, that by eating sugar and yeast together enough alcohol may be produced in the stomach to cause drunkenness. Thus a man may use his own stomach as a still, and the excess officer cannot prevent this, or tax him for the alcohol he produces therein and absorbs.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

High Railway Rates.
 (Toronto Saturday Night.)
 Existing can be laid at the door of labor without any fear of doing an injustice to anybody. Eighty-five cents or even more of every dollar taken in by our railways goes to operating expenses, a higher percentage than ever before known in the history of railroading.

Manners Taught At Home.
 (London Daily Telegraph.)
 If at home vulgarity rules, no school can be trusted to make its children anything but vulgar. The American teaching of the American parents' way of praising as "cute" and "clever" ugly tricks of conduct. Even so at home, masters and mistresses have been heard to lament that the wholesome influence of school and schoolfellows is often destroyed by the extravagance of home life. When we are so busy in overhauling our educational system and demanding more and more of the schools and teachers, it is worth while to remember that the home and the parents also have work to do.

American Modesty.
 (Vancouver Province.)
 Read the following passage from one of the leading journals of the United States Pacific coast:
 "It is the world's frank acknowledgment of America's power of leadership. Our country made possible the victory of democracy over autocracy in the war. . . . We stated the objects of the war. We gave to Britain and France the shibboleth with which they won. We called together the temporary League of Nations as embodied in the Supreme War Council. We became the directing force, the guide and leader in diplomacy. We changed the military operations of the Allies from chaos into organization and order. What we did was what we can do in peace. We are the distinguished nation, the respected nation, the nation in which all the people have full confidence, and the nation whose lead and guidance all the Governments are willing to accept. It is a trusteeship paramount. It is the will of the world committed to American keeping, for better or for worse. One can not read the daily proceedings at Geneva without realizing that the assembled statesmen there look to America to become the guiding inspiration of the League, to be the big brother to the nations and to be the deliverer of mankind from the agonizing burden of the war."

 Boston, Jan. 3.—An appropriation of $70,000 for Massachusetts militia men's expenses in attending the inauguration ceremony in Washington next March will be asked of the Legislature by Adjutant-Gen. The Glasses Age
 The proper time for a person to begin wearing glasses is just as soon as using them will be beneficial to the eyes. It may be in childhood, in youth, in middle life. Only an examination of the eyes by a competent optometrist can determine that time. Whatever it is, wearing glasses as soon as needed insures good sight.

When you come to Sharpe's for the examination we do not prescribe glasses unless you should have them for your own best interests.

If you don't need them, we are as pleased over the fact as you are.

MAJOR HOOPER IS GIVEN CLUB BAG BY SANTA CLAUS

Military Hospital at Fredericton Honors Him at Christmas Tree Held by Soldiers.

Special to The Standard.
Fredericton, Jan. 2.—Major Hooper, captain of the Military Hospital, was presented with a fine leather club bag at the Christmas tree held in the hospital on Saturday night and attended by the soldiers and the children of the veterans.

After Santa Claus had presented the gifts from the well laden tree a little girl asked the northern guest if he would take to Major Hooper the bag they wished to present to that gentleman. As Santa Claus talked and acted very much like Major Hooper, he expressed his appreciation of the gift on behalf of the honored one. He very cheerfully and promised to see that the goods were delivered safely to the proper person.

but her death was entirely unexpected and came as a great shock to her relatives and friends.

Mrs. Boyd had led a quiet but busy life, and was highly respected in the community, while her loss will be felt not only by her family circle, but by many friends and relatives.

Mrs. Boyd, who was 68 years of age, was a daughter of the late Chas. McAllister, and is survived by one daughter, Luella, at home; one sister, Mrs. Wm. Weston, of Gagetown, and five brothers, James McAllister, who has been residing with Mrs. Boyd since her husband's death; William McAllister, proprietor of the Brunswick Hotel, Parraroyne, N. B.; Chas. McAllister, of Cranbrook, B. C.; John McAllister of Panther Creek, B. C., and T. A. McAllister, Gagetown.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from her late residence, St. John's Church, the services being conducted by the Rev. H. T. Buckland. The choir sang Peace, Perfect Peace, Now the Laborer's Psalm is O'er, and On the Resurrection Morn'ing and the Rev. gave a very thoughtful address on the coming of death at the Christmas season. The pallbearers were G. A. McKeague, Jas. Hamilton and Mrs. Boyd's nephews, Chas. H. Weston, Harry McAllister, Hiram S. McAllister and Frank McAllister. Interment was made in St. John's Churchyard.

Mrs. Barbara Burgoyne.
Fredericton, Jan. 2.—The death occurred today at Upper Kingsclear, of Mrs. Barbara Burgoyne, wife of Frank Burgoyne, after a lingering illness. The deceased was 64 years of age, and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. William Kiley and Mrs. Sophia Marston, Upper Kingsclear, and one brother, Fred, of the west.

William Harding
In the passing of William Harding, on December 14, the community of Coast Creek, in Queens county, lost a well known citizen. Mr. Harding was a native of Prince Edward Island where, in the western part of that province, his early life was spent and the foundation laid for a life as master millwright. About twenty years of age he came to New Brunswick, where his remaining days were spent. One half-brother resides at Reston, the others having passed away.

To mourn his loss, Mrs. Harding and two sons remain. Although Mr. Harding had been in delicate health for some months, hope was entertained that he might recover health and resume his duties at his mill. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Sutherland of Chapman Presbyterian congregation, with which Mr. Harding had for many years been associated. Interment took place at Reston bank.

VETERANS WRITE PREMIER FOSTER AND THE MAYOR

Urge Establishment of Unemployment Bureau in the City of St. John.

PROVINCE OUTLINES ITS OWN POSITION

Mayor Declares He Has Brought Matter Before Council Twice Already.

Unemployment in the city of St. John has been brought to the attention of the civic authorities and the premier of the province in two letters written recently by W. J. Brown, the acting secretary-treasurer of the G. W. V. A. The letter to the Hon. W. E. Foster, the premier of New Brunswick, was as follows:

At a general meeting of the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, I was instructed to write you and ask if your government would establish an employment bureau in the city of St. John as this province is the only one with the exception of Prince Edward Island which has no government employment bureau. Returned soldiers out of employment in this province have not the same advantage of securing work as those who are living in one of the other provinces, and while the employment situation in New Brunswick is not perhaps as acute as in some of the other provinces, yet for those who are out of employment the situation is very bad and we believe that the establishment of an employment bureau in this sector in co-operation with the employment bureaus in the other provinces would greatly relieve the present situation.

The answer of the prime minister was sent on Dec. 23 last, one day after the receipt of the letter and was as follows:

I beg to inform you that some time ago the government of this province passed an order-in-council authorizing the expenditure of money for the purpose you mention. The order-in-council authorized the expenditure on the basis of one-quarter the cost of the establishment of any employment bureau in any city or incorporated town being paid by the city or town desiring to establish such a bureau. It was felt by the government that any city or town desiring the establishment of a labor bureau should contribute some portion of the cost from a monetary point of view but in order that greater interest would be taken in the success of labor bureaus that appears to have existed when they were conducted solely by federal and provincial governments, as was the case a year or so ago.

If there is anything further I can do to bring about the establishment of a labor bureau in the city of St. John on the terms above mentioned, I will be pleased to lend all possible aid.

Appeal To The Mayor.
The G. W. V. A. also wrote Mayor Schofield on Dec. 22 last in the following words:

At the regular meeting of the Great War Veterans' Association, St. John branch, I was instructed to write you and ask that the city council of St. John co-operate with the provincial and Dominion governments in establishing an employment bureau in the city of St. John.

It is felt that although the unemployment situation in the city of St. John is not as bad as it is in some of the other cities of the Dominion, yet to those out of employment the matter is very serious and as every other province with the exception of Prince Edward Island have established an employment bureau we feel that the returned soldiers of St. John at present out of employment are not receiving the same consideration as those in other provinces.

Will you kindly bring this matter before the commissioners at an early date. We trust that it will receive favorable consideration.

The City Position.
The reply of the mayor declared the situation was as follows:
"I have yours of the 2nd referring to the city council co-operating with the provincial and Dominion government in establishing an employment bureau in the city. This matter is receiving our attention and I would like also to bring to the attention of the association wherein you refer to every other province with the exception of Prince Edward Island having established an employment bureau, and which is quite true, but perhaps you are not aware of the fact that asking any municipality to pay any part of the cost, in every other province, the provincial government is paying fifty per cent. and the federal government fifty per cent. In this province, the provincial government is asking the municipality to pay twenty-five per cent. and they themselves will be willing to pay twenty-five per cent. and the federal government fifty per cent. It is our opinion however that it certainly should be provincial in character so that men can go from one section of the province to the other wherever more work shows. Conditions are getting apparently no better in this section, and I think it will be the endeavor of the council to provide an office even though they have to help the provincial government out in doing so.

Personally, I have brought this matter before the council twice already in the earlier part of the season and it has been rejected. However, as I said before, conditions are getting so extreme, I think it would be advisable for those who voted against it to reconsider the matter again now.

The confidence man is always pleased to meet wise guys who know it all.

Old Year Out

New Year In

Many Gatherings in City Friday Night—Church Services, Band Concerts and Socials.

There were many gatherings in St. John Friday night to watch the old year out, and to receive 1921 with all the honors due a new arrival from whom much is expected. The churches as in their yearly custom, joined in conducting a service holding the occasion and many were present and participated in the service of prayer and song.

Social Gatherings
At many of the homes there were social gatherings at which interesting and in some cases, novel programmes of entertainment were carried out. In the reception extended to the advent of the new year and in the good byes to 1920.

Auld Lang Syne
The streets, despite the cold weather, were paraded by happy throngs, the cafes were crowded with merry makers and, as the clocks pealed the hour of midnight, "Auld Lang Syne" was sung on street corners, in hotel corridors and at cafe tables. The whistles of ocean liners, harbor tugs, mills and factories sent forth their musical notes in a welcome to 1921. This was kept up for ten minutes arousing from their slumber those who had retired and acquainting them with the arrival of the new year.

Band Concerts
Not the least of the interesting events were the programmes provided by the Martello and St. Mary's bands. The Martello band gathered at Tilly Square where they played an entertaining concert, starting a little before midnight, the strains of Auld Lang Syne, sweetly falling upon the midnight air as the clock struck the hour. A large crowd gathered at the market square and were entertained to a programme of band numbers by the St. Mary's Band, who turned out 35 strong. Continuous music was furnished from 11:45 to 12:15, when the bandmen had instructions from up.

The bandmen have made this event an annual affair for a number of years, and each year are indebted to James Clayton for kindness in furnishing music. Immediately after playing the bandmen went to their room, and had a social reunion of the members and one of the guests of the evening was a former member, Mr. Frederick J. Ellison, who resides in Boston, Mass., and was very recently married to Miss Margaret Stewart of this city. The boys took advantage of his presence and presented to Mr. Ellison a handsome double set of carvers in case Mr. Ellison made a suitable reply. A letter from the band's former president, Ven. Archdeacon Raymond was read, extending all best wishes to the boys for the new year.

Kid McCoy Caught Tattar in Ruhlin

Akron Giant Upset Plans for a Comedy Boxing Contest at His Expense.

Nimrod Shelby, who as Kid McCoy became one of the greatest boxers in the history of the ring, was by no means lacking in courage, as was attested by his battles with heavy hitters like Sharkey and Maher. Yet the nimble Kid dearly loved to get an unscientific fighter into the ring and play with him like a cat plays with a mouse. His spectacular defeat of Herr Placke, Beach Rube and other non-descript performers afforded McCoy more genuine amusement than any other events in the time he lived. Tommy Ryan, in untraded condition, to a bout at Massport and striped Thomas of his heavyweight honors.

In anticipation, McCoy had two round bouts at Syracuse with Gus Ruhlin, May 20, 1918. Ruhlin had developed such great powers in boxing trunks and other baggage about the depot at Akron, Ohio, that the late Billy Madden decided the Akron giant was designed to be the next heavyweight champion. So Madden induced Ruhlin to abandon the baggage-smashing industry and take a course of training preparatory to wrestling the heavyweight title from its possessor.

Ruhlin had defeated Saevé O'Donnell twice and boxed Jim Jeffries, then in his novice stage, a twenty round draw. Madden, who had not trusted Ruhlin in his fight against Paddy Ryan, felt that the fates were inclined to be kind. Therefore, when a Syracuse promoter offered to match Ruhlin against Kid McCoy Madden thought Ruhlin's bulk and strength would overwhelm the anaemic looking Kid, eagerly accepted the proposal.

McCoy was Merry.

When McCoy signed the articles the crowd snarl that was meant by him for a merry smile passed over his features, and he pictured to himself the rare sport he would have in decorating the countenance of Ruhlin in colors employed by the old and new masters of the roped square.

In order to thoroughly enjoy in advance the expected pleasure, McCoy went to a secluded spot and devoted himself diligently to fishing, swinging in a hammock and other congenial pursuits. He was in the utmost good humor, and regarded the approaching bout as merely a pleasing interruption to his outing.

Madden, who had been like a blacksmith in training quarters, ran for miles on a bicycle, and when called to the ring was in superb physical condition. Ruhlin stood 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighed 192 pounds in good condition and was a fine looking athlete, about a bit over the top in movement both muscularly and mentally. McCoy's weight was 165 pounds.

The contest was scheduled for twenty rounds, and McCoy was prepared to instruct the giant Westerner in the intricacies of hitting, stopping and getting away without a return.

The Kid was so confident over the undertaking that he decided to go about the task leisurely, like a round man sitting down to a twenty course dinner.

In the first two or three rounds McCoy did little but feint, sidestep, duck and block, laughing loudly at the awkward movements of his big opponent.

In the fourth round McCoy decided to see how Ruhlin would stand up under stiff punching and he shot several hard ones to the Akron man's face. The blows left red spots where they landed and McCoy fairly grinned as he saw that Ruhlin was surprised.

The Akron giant had not previously met a boxer who could stab him so successfully and then escape the heavy lunge of the Akronite.

McCoy's Plans Go Awry.

It was the purpose of McCoy to give Ruhlin an artistic boxing, and then send over a message that would put him to sleep. The Kid planned to give the baggage smasher his final smash about the seventh or eighth round, as he had a fishing engagement for early the next morning, and he did not wish to be detained.

McCoy continued to shoot raptorial left-handers to Ruhlin's face, punctuating them with an occasional right squinch to the jaw in order to test the strength of that part of the Akron man's anatomy.

The giant's head flew back from the punches, but he came forward with great perseverance if not with good judgment. Soon Ruhlin's face took on the appearance of a sunset.

There were lumps under each eye, his lips were cut, his nose twisted and he resembled the survivor of a railroad accident. To the astonishment of McCoy the big chap declined to sag under the punishment, but continued to lunge forward after the hardest shots the Kid could send over.

After the twelfth round had passed the look on McCoy's face was one of weariness and anxiety. He was not trained for a long battle, and the Akron person had upset the programme by insisting on remaining erect when he should have folded up and been counted out. In the rounds from the twelfth to the twentieth McCoy put all his power into his punches. He would feint and get an opening for a straight right hand shot for the jaw. Still the baggage smasher refused to be snatched into submission.

McCoy began to show weariness in the eighteenth round, and Madden looked on with a grin as he saw the

R. Beebe Wins Bowlers' Turkey

Frederick, Jan. 2.—The Arctic Rink attracted crowds which ranked with the largest in the history of the institution. The second round of the annual Coleman cup match was played by the members of the Frederick Curling Club and President Nelli holds the trophy for the year by a margin of 11 points.

The bowlers also had a big day. R. Beebe won the roll off for a turkey at the alleys on New Year's morning.

RACING AT FREDERICTON.

Frederick, Jan. 2.—New Year's Day was cold and bleak, but the weather moderated by noon and became ideal for a winter holiday. All the sporting events which had been planned were therefore carried out. The horsemen had some interesting matinee races in which P. S. (2:1-1:2) and Little Moments (2:10-1:4) showed well.

UNITED SERVICE SATURDAY MORNING

On Saturday morning a united service was held at Coburg street and the Douglas Avenue Christian churches at the latter church. Rev. F. J. Appleman presided. The topic was "The Bible" and addresses were delivered by Rev. E. P. Wright and Rev. J. C. B. Appel. An offering for the Bible Society was taken. The singing was led by a male choir and several selections were given by the McEachern quartette.

THE POLICE COURT

In the police court Friday, Donald Campbell and John Holden were charged with stealing three bottles of whiskey from the S. S. Pretorian. They were remanded till today.

Albert Middleton was charged with breaking and entering the store of James Macaulay, 186 Wentworth street, and stealing cigars, cigarettes and groceries to the value of $25. Mr. Macaulay gave evidence concerning the articles taken, and accused was remanded.

One drunk pleaded guilty and was remanded.

Ruhlin, still strong, rushed awkwardly at McCoy, who was feinting and dancing to keep the big fellow away. The skronch swung and reached McCoy in the body, his weak point. The Kid backed away and Ruhlin chased him for the remainder of the round.

Under the onslaught of Madden Ruhlin was the aggressor in the two final rounds and landed a few more body blows. McCoy was holding in the twentieth, and managed to last only for that reason.

As soon as McCoy reached the dressing room he stretched himself on his back and lay there for half an hour recovering from the exhaustion and weakness due to Ruhlin's body punches. It was a narrow squeak for McCoy. The Kid did not go fishing the next morning.

Prospects For Hockey In St. John

Old Senior Team Reorganized—Offered Dates at Sussex, Moncton and Bathurst.

The prospects for hockey in St. John look bright this winter. Messrs. James McNulty and Bernard Mooney have re-organized the old Senior team and have been offered dates with Sussex, Moncton, and Bathurst.

Boston has also indicated their readiness to play a team from the Loyalist City provided one of the required standard could get together.

The Bean Eaters have put what might almost be called an insult over on St. John. The idea of an American city calmly advising a Canadian one that if it could get enough players to gether with a sufficient knowledge of their own national game, they, the Americans, might play them, is pretty hard to swallow. St. John, however, has laid herself open to just such an insult. There is no rink here and the general opinion is that the St. John boys can play the game strong enough for Boston.

This idea is going to get a big shaking up this winter as a real good team is planned from a bunch of likely material.

The first workout of the season was held on the East End rink New Year's. Amongst those from whom the team will probably be selected are: Barney Mooney, Pete Mooney, Boudreau, Frank McShane, John and Lyle MacGowan, Roley Smith, Eddie Mooney, Jim Gilbert, Frank Doherty, Harley Goff, of Halifax, Fitzgerald and Gibbs of Moncton, Fitzgibbon, a former member of the Maryville team, William McEwan of Miramichi, N. S. Jack Calahan, the well known baseball player, Harold Drummie, McKinnon of Sydney and James Murphy of Fredericton.

The two Mooneys, Boudreau, McShane, the two McGowans and Roley Smith played together in the last senior game played in this city some five or six years ago.

Conference On Bridge Matter

G. S. Cushing Presented His Subway Proposition Before Meeting in Mayor's Office.

The first thing to be determined in the matter of raising the new railway bridge at the reversing falls to the level of the present highway bridge is whether the piers now in position would carry the additional strain imposed by placing on them seven feet more of concrete, was the consensus expressed at the conference held Friday afternoon in the mayor's office, at which the minister of customs, Hon. R. W. Wigmore, the members of the city council, a solicitor, representatives of the shipping men, a number of engineers and G. S. Cushing, who has brought forward the subway proposition.

Impede Navigation

He then asked Mr. Gray if the department had before approving of the bridge considered the shipping men or considered it in relation to the height of the highway bridge? Mr. Gray said they had not, as the bridge was high above the water level and the piers did not impede navigation.

J. Willard Smith claimed the present bridge had always impeded navigation, and the shipping men should have been consulted before plans for a new one had been approved.

Mr. Cushing contended the bridge could be raised by placing seven feet of concrete on top of the present piers without making any changes in the plans. G. C. Kirby said the whole question settled down to whether it was good engineering practice to place the seven feet of concrete on top of the present piers, and in order to get this information the advice of the best bridge engineers in the country should be secured.

Mayor Schofield asked Mr. Cushing how he arrived at his estimate of $65,000 for the work, but he claimed it was not his place to give any figures, this was duty of the city, but it was simply a matter of figuring out the fill and the cost of the iron bridge across Douglas stream, and he would be glad to make a presentation of the case before the Board of Railway Commissioners on Wednesday, he must have more information than he now had, and requested all the shipping men present to be in court on that day prepared to go on the stand and tell why they were asking for the bridge to be raised.

Hon. Mr. Wigmore, after listening to the debate, advised the submission of the claims to the Railway Board, who would refer it to their own experts.

Those present were: Hon. R. W. Wigmore, minister of customs, and in his honor; the mayor and commissioners and city solicitor, C. C. Kirby, A. Gray, G. G. Murdoch, J. A. Grant, C. O. Poes, G. G. Hare and H. H. Cushing, engineers; R. C. Kirby, J. W. Smith, A. A. McIntyre, F. C. Beattie and G. S. Cushing, for the shipping men.

Shooting At The Traps Saturday

Keen Competition at Glen Falls for Turkey, Goose and Chickens.

Several other shooters took part in the shoot but did not finish the full programme.

The Class System

The class system made the shooting very interesting except for Class A when it was a foregone conclusion that O. J. Killam would take home the turkey.

The B class for the goose was keenly contested. H. Berry was sure he won the bird but when he had to shoot with C. Carnell the event was more than interesting. Several coaches were on both sides and Mr. Carnell won out after shooting off two ties.

C. Class for the chickens was won by Mr. Cochran, a new visitor to the club.

Major Ronald McAvity was shooting very well with new gun which promises to give a good account of itself in the major's hands. The weather was exceptionally good for shooting but on account of the snow making a difficult foreground proved very deceiving and the shooting was not up to the average summer meet.

Dalhousie Beats Glace Bay Team

By Score of 8-2, 1921 Hockey Season Was Opened in Fast Game.

Glace Bay, N. S., Jan. 2.—The 1921 hockey season was opened here on Saturday night when the Glace Bay miners went down to defeat before the star Dalhousie team by a score of 8 to 2. The game for the first two periods was an event fought battle, but in the final period the Glace Bay team, due to lack of condition, wilted and the collegians played rings around them and only for the sensational work of Pate in the minutes are the score would have been much larger.

Good Programme Held At Y.M.C.A.

A very attractive programme was carried out at the Y. M. C. A. New Year's Day, and despite the counter attractions of dancing and skating parties, a large number of boys and girls were present.

In the morning the dormitory men celebrated their annual New Year breakfast, followed by a volley ball game on the "grey" floor. The fourth floor did in pyjamas were unable to cope with the coy advances of the third floor, daintily attired in bathing suits.

At 2:30 in the afternoon an exhibition of group games was followed by clever "gym" work by the Juniors, and a volley ball game, the Rotary Club and the Y. M. C. A.

In the evening the High School Boys with one arm, led by the Young Ladies' League, playing by a score of 10 to 0. The evening was concluded by a basketball game in which local college boys played the Senators.

Milk Reduction Expected Tomorrow

Dairymen's Assn. Ask Producers for Reduction So City Price be 15 Cts. Quart.

Milk will be reduced to fifteen cents a quart beginning today for the balance of the winter, if the Kings County Milk Producers' Association are of the same mind as the local milk dealers, who submitted the following statement to The Standard last evening:

The Statement

"Believing present conditions in the city do not warrant the high price of milk which has prevailed for the last three months and relying upon the promise of the Kings County Milk Producers' Association when the present price was asked, that when the price of feed came down they would reduce the price to us, we the members of the St. John Dairymen's Association do hereby announce that beginning January 3 the retail price of milk in St. John will be fifteen cents a quart, and one dollar per eight quart can, wholesale."

Signed on behalf of the association, J. N. HILLEY, President.

J. F. HUMPHREY, Secretary.

Most Opportune

The dairymen's step is regarded by many in the city as most opportune, and will be hailed with delight by the poor of the city who are looking forward to the winter months with dread which only those who have lived in times of unemployment and depression really know.

Feed Has Dropped

The belief has been expressed that both the producers and dealers will find it to their own profit to sell their milk at the lower price. Feed has dropped from fifteen to twenty dollars a ton and even less, and although the price of hay is still high, it is more than offset by the drop in feed.

Labor on the farm is much cheaper this year than it has been for some years, and a man can be had for but little more than his board. The plentiful supply being largely due to limited operations in the lumber woods when the cut has been reduced to thirty-five per cent. of normal, and also to the great amount of unemployment in the towns which has tended to keep the men on the farm.

THE STANDARD'S FINANCIAL SECTION

LOWER PRICES LESS WORK IN UNITED STATES Fall for December is About Eight and One-Half Per Cent.

FARM PRODUCTS SHOW LARGEST LOSS Contract Prices, However, Are Alleged to be Sticking at Old Figures.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Further decline in prices coupled with increased unemployment continued progress in business re-adjustment in the United States during December, according to the monthly review of general business and financial conditions issued tonight by the federal reserve board.

The price decline during the month was placed at 3.12 per cent. by the board, which added the observation that the decrease in prices was mainly confined to commodities which had shown a decline previously rather than an extension of price cutting to other industries.

Most Marked Decline The decline was reported as most marked in agricultural products, textiles, hides, leather and iron and steel products, with coal, petroleum, gasoline, paper, brick and cement remaining largely unaffected.

Some reductions were reported in the open market in the latter group of commodities, the board said, but contract prices appeared to be at the same level as in earlier months.

Reduced business activity, the report states, cuts operations in many lines from 40 to 75 per cent of normal and brought accompanying unemployment. The shrinkage of demand, the board reported, also was responsible for wage cuts running as high as 25 per cent in some lines.

Banking power on the other hand was well maintained, the board asserted, normal credit accommodations extended to legitimate business, the reserve ratio growing stronger and interest-bearing borrowing in part liquidated. With liquidation of loans at the member banks beginning the board forecast better conditions.

OTHER NATIONS WORRIED OVER MESOPOTAMIA

Reported That British Are Using it as Secret Base.

By CAWL W. ACKERMAN. (Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger.) London, Jan. 2.—The activities of the British in Mesopotamia are today giving rise to serious reports in diplomatic circles in both London and Paris. It is stated as a fact, although it cannot be substantiated or denied, that the British war office is using Mesopotamia as a secret base for intensive experiments with airplanes, aerial torpedoes and poison gas bombs in preparation for the next great war.

INDIA VOTES BOYCOTT OF DUKE OF CONNAUGHT'S VISIT TO THAT EMPIRE

Eastport, Jan. 2.—William Nicholas, aged about 35 years, married, and a member of the frontier tribe of Passamaquoddy Indians, was instantly killed a few days ago, when struck by the cowcatcher on front of a Maine Central train passing out of Eastport. Nicholas had been at the Canadian town of St. Andrews, N. B., for some time past and reached Eastport during the afternoon with a companion, but after arriving here was about the city alone and started to walk to the reservation along the track. He had made the dangerous walk across two of the bridges and evidently had been overcome and lay down in the snow on the railroad track within half a mile of his Indian home and fell asleep.

Special to The Standard.

Parrsboro, N. S., Jan. 2.—The shipments of deals and scantling from Parrsboro to the United Kingdom this year totalled a little over fourteen and a half million superficial feet. In addition to this one cargo of a little more than three million feet was shipped to France. This was part of a purchase made by the French Government before the close of the war. The shipments to the United Kingdom have not been the drop in prices in the British markets. The cut last winter was unusually large, and a large quantity of stock had been carried over from last year.

The Great West Life

Has Again Made A NEW RECORD

By writing a larger business during the Year 1920 than in any previous year.

Business in force OVER TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIVE MILLIONS

Started in Summer. The mystery of Mesopotamia first engaged the attention of the diplomatic world during the summer when the Rolls-Royce Automobile Co. announced that it would be unable to deliver a car as ordered. The explanation given a few days later was that the British war department had commandeered all of the output of that company for the use of the British army in Mesopotamia. The assumption of the public was that the automobiles were being sent to "Mesopotamia" as Mesopotamia is called by the public. But now developed the fact of cars being sent there, airplanes were shipped. A further assumption was that all the war material sent to Mesopotamia was for the use of the Arabs. Still the public, and particularly the British press, could not understand why it was costing the British government nearly $200,000,000 (normally about $60,000,000) annually to pacify Mesopotamia. Although there were frequent debates in both houses of Parliament, the war department never explained the way the Mesopotamia expedition was so costly.

When the American state department questioned the secret agreement between France and England made at San Remo, there were other reasons which actuated the government and it is not unlikely that the British military experiments were as much in the mind of Secretary Colby as the oil agreement.

Although no reference was made publicly to war preparations there, charges which have arisen and which the British have not denied, are that the war office has been concentrating a large number of staff officers, air experts and experts in chemical warfare in Mesopotamia and that these officers, with a vast amount of equipment, have been experimenting on a large scale with gas bombs and gas-ejecting aeroplanes. For such experiments, Mesopotamia is an excellent location because it is one spot in the world where such experiments could be conducted with absolute secrecy so long as the government prohibited foreigners from visiting that country during British occupation.

That there have been military activities with airplanes and poison gas is substantiated by the fact that until very recently the British war office has been sending only officers experienced in these forms of warfare to Mesopotamia. Last week was the first week in which the war office is known to have cancelled orders already made to certain officers in London to proceed to that country. The latest actor of the war office has given rise to a further report that the military experiments in Mesopotamia are about ended and that at a future date Mesopotamia may again be opened to the outside world. But meanwhile Mesopotamia is blockaded.

By his careful examination household accounts the Queen also, a year after King George's accession to effect a saving in the cost of supplies that amounted to about five millions per week for a member of the royal family and his household. The weekly savings effected by Queen Mary in the amount of the household bills, of course, now far exceed what they were in previous days, but they have been kept well below a limit as possible.

It may be mentioned that their "jostles" income has remained stationary since the outbreak of war, whilst the expenses of the keep of the royal establishments more than doubled.

In their personal expenditure King and Queen are exercising the most rigid economy. I have the authority for stating that the Queen not ordered more than two gowns since the armistice, the King has not ordered one new suit. At the outbreak of war the King had a fairly well-stocked wardrobe, and as he wore khaki closely throughout the war, he had to order only a few more suits to the wearing of civilian apparel.

Queen Detests Gossip. Next to her domesticity, her love of home and children, one of Queen's most notable characteristics has always been her detestation of gossip. Of this kind of thing, Queen has always kept her estate most free.

In a great royal household, there is not an easy thing to do, but Queen Mary, both as Princess of Wales as the Queen, has done it. Her Majesty has done it some more by refining the talents of certain gossips, and by conversational tact and encouragement, for no one ever at dinner with the present King

Queen Mary's superiority to a common is frequently demonstrated long after her Majesty's marriage. A small dinner party was given at House, the then London resident Duke and Duchess of York. They were to sit down to dinner, the morning of the winter season. Matter took one of the guests, a diplomatist in London to sudden illness prevented an arrival. Queen Mary, in the winter season, "Can we sit down to dinner?" then the problem that presented to the royal Duke and Duchess. George left the matter in the hands of Queen Mary, who was perfectly sure that the dinner should consist of 13 people.

"I have no superstitious belief in any kind," said the Queen to the ladies in waiting, but in view of the fact that some of her guests were to be invited to the dinner, it was decided at the last moment to make the number up to 13.

When the Queen pours tea, the King and Queen like, as it is possible for them to do, to keep their afternoons free of public engagements. Once a week, the beautiful rooms in the palace are lined with crimson silk and the curtains and other draperies of the same color. In the room are set out the various royal regalia, which form part of the Queen's collection of old English furniture. Occasionally a few intimate friends of her Majesty are invited to afternoon teas, which are the formal of all royal entertainments. Servants are in attendance. Queen and the Princess Mary pose and the cakes, etc., are handed to the guests by one or two of the waiting.

Princess Mary, by the way, in her disposition, is very like her mother. Her royal highness is a domestic. The late King once said Queen Mary that she was the "Princess Mary" in England. If there were no other reason, it is because she has the same might be seen in Princess Mary. Since she was a young girl she has been trained carefully and thoroughly in the household management by her mother.

Inspects the Kitchens. Queen Mary, since her marriage, made it a regular practice of her personal visits to her kitchen for regular intervals, and seeing for herself that everything in them was as it should be, and that the royal waste, it is a saying of her Majesty that all good household management begins in the kitchen and if anything there was not in the management of the household could be based on the best foundation.

As Queen, her Majesty conducts the practice of regularly visiting the kitchen of the various royal palaces, and it is safe to say that there are no kitchens in any household or conducted that they are in royal establishments.

When the Princess Mary reached the age of 16, she began to accompany her mother in these tours of inspection of the kitchens, and the war, whilst the expenses of the management of a large kitchen that success does not thoroughly understand.

It may be mentioned that their "jostles" income has remained stationary since the outbreak of war, whilst the expenses of the keep of the royal establishments more than doubled.

In their personal expenditure King and Queen are exercising the most rigid economy. I have the authority for stating that the Queen not ordered more than two gowns since the armistice, the King has not ordered one new suit. At the outbreak of war the King had a fairly well-stocked wardrobe, and as he wore khaki closely throughout the war, he had to order only a few more suits to the wearing of civilian apparel.

Queen Detests Gossip. Next to her domesticity, her love of home and children, one of Queen's most notable characteristics has always been her detestation of gossip. Of this kind of thing, Queen has always kept her estate most free.

In a great royal household, there is not an easy thing to do, but Queen Mary, both as Princess of Wales as the Queen, has done it. Her Majesty has done it some more by refining the talents of certain gossips, and by conversational tact and encouragement, for no one ever at dinner with the present King

Queen Mary's superiority to a common is frequently demonstrated long after her Majesty's marriage. A small dinner party was given at House, the then London resident Duke and Duchess of York. They were to sit down to dinner, the morning of the winter season. Matter took one of the guests, a diplomatist in London to sudden illness prevented an arrival. Queen Mary, in the winter season, "Can we sit down to dinner?" then the problem that presented to the royal Duke and Duchess. George left the matter in the hands of Queen Mary, who was perfectly sure that the dinner should consist of 13 people.

"I have no superstitious belief in any kind," said the Queen to the ladies in waiting, but in view of the fact that some of her guests were to be invited to the dinner, it was decided at the last moment to make the number up to 13.

When the Queen pours tea, the King and Queen like, as it is possible for them to do, to keep their afternoons free of public engagements. Once a week, the beautiful rooms in the palace are lined with crimson silk and the curtains and other draperies of the same color. In the room are set out the various royal regalia, which form part of the Queen's collection of old English furniture. Occasionally a few intimate friends of her Majesty are invited to afternoon teas, which are the formal of all royal entertainments. Servants are in attendance. Queen and the Princess Mary pose and the cakes, etc., are handed to the guests by one or two of the waiting.

Princess Mary, by the way, in her disposition, is very like her mother. Her royal highness is a domestic. The late King once said Queen Mary that she was the "Princess Mary" in England. If there were no other reason, it is because she has the same might be seen in Princess Mary. Since she was a young girl she has been trained carefully and thoroughly in the household management by her mother.

Inspects the Kitchens. Queen Mary, since her marriage, made it a regular practice of her personal visits to her kitchen for regular intervals, and seeing for herself that everything in them was as it should be, and that the royal waste, it is a saying of her Majesty that all good household management begins in the kitchen and if anything there was not in the management of the household could be based on the best foundation.

As Queen, her Majesty conducts the practice of regularly visiting the kitchen of the various royal palaces, and it is safe to say that there are no kitchens in any household or conducted that they are in royal establishments.

When the Princess Mary reached the age of 16, she began to accompany her mother in these tours of inspection of the kitchens, and the war, whilst the expenses of the management of a large kitchen that success does not thoroughly understand.

Exercise Rigid Economy. By her careful examination household accounts the Queen also, a year after King George's accession to effect a saving in the cost of supplies that amounted to about five millions per week for a member of the royal family and his household. The weekly savings effected by Queen Mary in the amount of the household bills, of course, now far exceed what they were in previous days, but they have been kept well below a limit as possible.

It may be mentioned that their "jostles" income has remained stationary since the outbreak of war, whilst the expenses of the keep of the royal establishments more than doubled.

W. T. MARSDEN. (Copyright 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.) Queen Mary's superiority to superstition is frequently demonstrated. Not long after her Majesty's marriage, a small dinner party was given at York House, the then London residence of the Duke and Duchess of York.

COX WANTS PUBLIC TO KNOW THE FACTS

Relates Experience With Tanlac for the Benefit of Others.

"I want to give a little history of my case just to let the public know what a fine thing Tanlac has been for me," said Arthur Cox, of 165 Oxford street, Halifax, formerly proprietor of the firm known as Arthur Cox & Co., bootmakers and ship workers.

"This fall I was threatened with typhoid fever, and while I managed to ward off the actual disease, still I got in a badly rundown condition. For three weeks I wasn't able to eat a bit of solid food, and just had to live on milk. I had no appetite at all, was weak and worn out, and simply felt miserable.

"For years I have been subject to spells with my liver; would have awful pains in my side, and would have to eat dry bread until they left me. However, I haven't felt a sign of them since I started on Tanlac, and it looks as if they are gone for good. Yes, Tanlac is certainly a great medicine, and I don't hesitate to give it my highest endorsement.

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co. and F. W. Munro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

INHABITANTS OF SHANTUNG BITTER AGAINST JAPANESE

Boycott Rigidly Enforced and Some Even Refuse to Sell Food to the Japs.

(Copyright 1920, by Public Ledger.) Peking, Jan. 2.—If people in other provinces of China are open to the charge that their patriotism is only of five minutes' duration, the Shantung people are at least free from it, for they are still carrying on the boycott against the Japanese goods as earnestly as ever, if not more so.

In all the market towns of the Chiao-tung peninsula, speakers may be seen daily on the principal streets, haranguing big crowds and urging them to keep up the boycott.

Some days ago the steamer Lung operated by the Chinese and Japanese jointly, and hoisting the colors of the two countries, made two voyages from Tsingtau to Chefoo without taking on a single Chinese passenger or pound of cargo.

From West Indies. The R. M. S. P. Chaudriere is due today from Bermuda and West Indies with passengers, mails and general cargo.

Two young men entered the King Cafe on Prince William street about 1:30 o'clock and ordered a lunch. At the time of their visit there were three men occupying one of the stalls, but there were no others in the dining-room.

The Hold-Up

The man, who had looked out to see if anyone was approaching, returned and asked how much he owed. On being informed it was one dollar, he put his hand in his coat pocket and, pulling an automatic revolver, ordered the Chinaman in charge up to the cigar case, and gave the bills of $5 and $10 denomination from the cash register, which was open.

Gave the Alarm

When the young clerk in charge saw the revolver, he let out a cry of "Robber," which called the Chinese help from the kitchen. This frightened off the hold-up men, who made a hasty getaway before they had secured all the money in the register. The police were notified and given a description of the men, but have not been able to locate them.

Has Criminal Record

There is a feeling among the officials that the man who attacked the little girls is the same one who committed sodomy on the little boy at Rockwood Park a few weeks ago. Drew has a criminal record and has served time in Dorchester penitentiary, having been connected with the famous wool stealing case a few years ago.
