GERMAN TRADE GROWS.

Berlin, Nov. 2.- The imperial statis-

the German trade for the first. nine months of the present year, which show a total increase in exports of 58,659,000 marks, as compared with 1897. This is largely accounted for by the increase in exports to the United States during the third quarter of the year, when the exports totaled 83,100,000 marks, as com-

The French Government to Recall Marchand.

Fashoda To Be Evacuated Without Conditions or Compensation.

News of France's Complete Back. down Comes From Several Sources.

Russia Afraid to Interfere on Account of Her Interests in China-The Victory at Omdurman Completely Changed the Situation-Cost of a joint European War Estimated at $20,-975,000 Per Day.

London, Nov. 2 .- The Daily Graphic says this morning: We learn from an official source in France that Capt. Baritier bears instructions to Major Marchand to return to Fashoda, and then to withdraw his expedition in the direction of the Upper Ubanghi River, evacuating Fashoda and the five points established east of the frontier indicated in the Anglo-German agreement. The Egyptian Government will be invited to send troops to accompany Major Marchand as he retires from the Bahr-el-Ghazal territory, and to reoccupy the posts as they are evacuated difficulty concerning Major Marchand's revictualment.

When Major Marchand's retirement is fully accomplished, negotiations based on proposale submitted by Baron de Courcel to Great Britain will be opened. France is disposed to recognize frankly that the reconquest of Om-COMPLETELY CHANGES THE SIT-

The French Government will even state William's Ardent Hope Expressed that, had Major Marchand been aware of the Khedival advance, he would not have pushed his mission so far east. These intentions have not yet been officially imparted to Great Britain, they probably will be before Major Marchand's evacuation commences. WITHOUT CONDITIONS OR COM-PENSATION. The Paris correspondent of the Daily count on European Intervention in | Mail says: "France will retire from Fashoda unconditionally, and without asking compensation. Baron de Courcel, whose term as French ambassador in London expired long ago, but who has held on to conduct negotiations referring to Egypt, will now be recalled, and no haste will be shown to appoint his successor, with a view to marking French resentment at British action, for England has almost taken the place of Germany as the object of French tion became great and glorious, and

MR. FISHER'S STATEMENT terial whip, last evening said he had decided to recall the Marchand mission from Fashoda. In the course of an interview after the delivery of his speech, Mr. Fisher explained that he did not say he had read the dispatches, remarking that he had been misrepreented. There is little doubt, however, that either purposely or carelessly, Mr. Fisher allowed the news of the actual fact to leak out.

Without going so far as the Daily Graphic, all the special dispatches from Paris to the morning papers indicate that the solution predicted by the Daily Graphic will be the one finally reached, and that even should France sulk diplomatically, no further serous consequences are anticipated. It is not believed, however, that France will pursue the useless course of leaving her embassy in London vacant.

RUSSIA NOT IN IT. The Berlin correspondent of the Standard says: "Russia has declined to support France in the Fashoda affair, fearing that a reopening of the Egyptian question would interfere with her tremendous task in China."

The Paris correspondent of the Times says: "Baron de Courcel gathered from a enversatin held after the last British cabinet council that Lord Sal-From Teheran, about 60 miles south of the Caspian Sea, to Hamadan, 150 isbury's attitude had undergone a change, the British premier insisting miles southwest of Teheran, a German that it was impossible to disregard public opinion in England, and that nothing could be done until Fashoda was evacuated. So far as French pubment for the building of a road parallel lic opinion is concerned, there is the slightest idea of going to war for Hamadan southeast to Bushire, on the Persian Gulf. If these negotiations are Fashoda, and any government coing so would be regarded as a set of imsuccessful, the granting of Bushire as a Russian coaling station will also be included. The cost of a future European war in which the five great continental powers should be engaged would be £4,195,600 daily. ed British propriety by kicking off the other words, the annual cost of this European war, exclusive of indirect losses, would be £1,747,120,000.

SPAIN MUST GIVE IN.

London, Nov. 2.-The Paris correspondent of the Times notices with pleasure the fact that important French newspapers advise Spain not to count upon European intervention, and that it is expedient for her to yield so as not to be exposed to the terrible consequences of the bombardment of the Spanish coast.

The Daily Chronicle says, editorally: "A war in which the justly vanquished nation receives a solatium of £6,000,000 would be a novelty so great that it must be seen to be believed. In any case it would be mad for Spain to attempt to resume hostilities."

THE TURKISH WAY.

Constantinople, Nov. 2.—A recent decision of the Turkish authorities to transfer the seat of government from Auzounli, in the Province of Yozgad, to Boghazlayan, caused great indignation among the inhabitants of the former place, who protested energet-ically. Their protests were misunder stood by the governor, who reported a rebellion, whereupon the village was surrounded by troops, who fired upon the residents, killing twelve Armeni-ans and ten Turks, men and women, and wounding 40.

THE NEW FRENCH CABINET. Paris, Nov. 2.-President Faure has signed the decree constituting the cabinet formed by M. Dupuy. M. Dupuy. had a long conference with his col-leagues. The ministers reported a complete accord regarding the past attitude of M. Deleasse, the foreign minister, toward the Fashala question, and as to the policy he proposed for the future. They approved also the taxation reform proposal of M. Pey-tral, minister of finance. It was agreed that the ministerial statement of policy promise the introduction of progressive reforms, such as old age pensions, and similar bills. As regards the Dreyfus question, the cabinet bows to the decision of the court of cassation.

The dispatch was worded as follows: A Russian regiment occupied the town of Niu Chwang, province of Leao Tung, and the forts at the mouth of the River Liaou, on Oct. 15, thus securing complete possession of Niu Chwang. The Great Shipping Rings Oripple Manchester's Trade.

Liverpool, Nov. 2.-The returns of the Manchester Ship Canal for the past nine months show an increase in The first-class battleship Victorious revenue of nearly $100,000 over the corresponding period of 1897. The opinion is expressed, however, that the increase is not large enough. It is said that the canal has to look almost entirely to Canada and the United States for any material increase in traffic, and that it to the meaning of these warlike pre-parations, but there is no doubt that sive markets of Australia, India, China, important instructions are expected at Africa and South America owing to ny moment.

What Four Londoners Discovered in Ingersoll.

Montrealers Who Left Here Cared for in That Town-The Party Finally Bring Up at St. Thomas.

The long conference yesterday resuited in leaving the matter practically as it was before the parties began to discuss it. The questions upon which the company and the strikers are at variance are the recognition of the union and the rate of wages. As a matter of fact, the only thing which the company have consented to do is to go back to the old condition of affairs, and restore the scale of wages, which existed prior to March, 1897. The company absolutely refuse to recognize the union.

Had Manager Carr consented to the restoration of the old rates when the difficulty first began to brew, all the trouble would have been averted, and there would have been no union to fight. But, as the adage puts it. "What is to be, will be," and so the world goes on.

THE COMPANY'S PROPOSAL. The original petition of the employes to the company, as already published in The Advertiser, was what the con-ference thoroughly discussed an day the committee, but it contained all the points that the company was willing to concede, and this proposition was what the committee carried to Labor Hall, where it was submitted to the union. The proposal was as follows:

WHAT THE STRIKERS WILL AC-CEPT.

The company's proposal was given the most serious consideration, and the following proposition drawn up, to be presented to the company for their approval:

1. The wages for motormen and conductors now employed by your company shall be 16% cents per hour. All men entering the employ of the com-pany after this date shall receive 13 cents per hour for the first six months, for all regular men, with a leeway as near 21/2 hours as the time will allow. Relief men to receive remaining hours, which must not be les than eight hours. All men that are called upon to work over-time to receive 20 cents per hour

3. All conductors or motormen in the employ of the company to be marked up on the blackboard, in accordance with the time they were hired. The spare men to get all spare work, which, as far as practicable, shall be equally divided among them.

All conductors and motormen shall report at the car barns fifteen minutes before their run goes out, and anyone falling to do so, his place shall be filled by the first man on the spare list, and any motorman or conductor failing to report or send word within four hours after his run goes out, shall lose the next day also, unless his services are required.

Clause 2, calling for recognition of the union, is one of great importance to the men, as they feel that their future as employes of the company depends upon the life of the union. Without its support and protection they say they would be at the mercy of the company, and be gradually dismissed and supplanted by others.

The company refuse absolutely to recognize this clause.

In clause II the men demand that Richard Westby, Wm. Crawford, Wm. Kerr, James Fitzgerald, Michael Delisie and Jordan Pickell be reinstated in their positions.

The company is willing to reinstate the men who were discharged for leaving their cars on the Thursday when the endeavor was made to submit the original petition to the company's manager. NOT SO RISKY

Only One in Every 2,250,000 Railway Passengers Killed.

Accidents Occur Mostly on Crossings and in Stations

Baltimore, Nov. 2.—The following statements, based upon the latest official reports and brought down to Sept. 1, 1898, by means of ratios and by computations very carefully made by Duane Doty, of Pullman's Palace est to all men engaged in transportation. From 22 miles of railroad in 1830, our railroads have reached their present magnitude. A good laborer able to earn $2 a day, working as a carrier of freight does in Africa, could trans-port one ton, say of lead, one mile, by working hard for four days. In other words $8 would be a fair price for the work that would have to be done. Our railroads now carry one ton of freight one mile for eight-tenths of a cent. or for one one-thousandth of the cost of doing that amount of work by muscular effort alone. The present milage is: Length of roads now owned by 2,000 corporations, 186,500 miles; extra tracks, sidings and turnouts, 58,000 miles; total of all tracks in the United States today, 244,-500 miles.

The average value of ourrailroads is usually placed at $60,000 a mile, though it is a little more than that; at this rate 186,500 miles of road is worth $11 .-191,000,000. The investments in these roads, including capital stock, funded, unfunded and current debts, can safely be placed at $11,500,000,000.One-seventh of our wealth is in railroads or $160 for every member of our population.

EMPLOY 85,000 PERSONS. The railroads of the United States now employ 850,000 persons, and the average pay of each is $565. officials receive large salaries, but the 80,000 station men and truck repairers, and the 70,000 switchmen, flagmen and watchmen all get small wages though their pay is sure and their employment is, as a rule, uninterrupted. There are now 450 employes to every 100 miles of road, or 41/2 to every mile. Exclusive of sleeping cars our rail-roade now have 1,325,000 cars of all kinds, or 37 cars to every locomotive, or seven cars to every mile of road. Inclusive of sleeping cars there are now 38,000 passenger, mail and express cars in use. Considering the life of a freight car twelve years, and its earnings after that length of service will barely keep it in repair, it is clear that about 100,000 of these cars now annually go into scrap. In other words 100,000 new freight cars are needed every year to replace those which are worn out, to say nothing of the additional cars required for new roads and for the natural increase of freight

For the five years ending 1897, we built on the average only 41,000 freight cars a year. There are indications that the year 1898 will show much greater activity in this line. The railroads of the country could use to advantage 200,000 more freight cars than they now have.

CARRIED 760,000,000 TONS.

There are 36,000 locomotives in use. 10.000 of them being in passenger service. Each passenger engine handled upon an average over 50,000 passengers during the year, and ran nearly a million and a quarter of miles. Each freight locomotive, on an average, drew 30,000 tons of freight.

Our freight trains, for the year ending Sept. 1, carried 760,000,000 tons of freight, and every ton was carried on an average 125 miles, making in all 95,000,000,000 tons of freight carried one mile. While the average cost of carrying a ton of freight one mile was eight-tenths of a cent it was only sixtenths of a cent in some of the states, The cost of carrying freight has steadily fallen from two cents a mile per ton in 1867 to its present low rate. Our railroads last year had to carry a ton of freight 1,530 miles to make one dollar, and the freight work done was equivalent to carrying one ton 1,300 miles for every man, woman and child are just the medicine to take if trou-of the population. Over three-fourths bled with indigestion miles for every man, woman and child of the receipts of our railroads are for Our railroads, with their 10,000 passenger engines and 38,000 cars for pasenger trains, carried 550,000,000 passengers during the year ending Sept. 1, and received for this service $275,000,-000. The roads had to carry a passenger 500 miles in order to make one dollar. One passenger was killed for every 2,250,000 carried. Twice as many people are killed annually by falling from windows of their dwellings as 1000 their lives while traveling as passen-Twogers on our passenger trains. thirds of those accidentally killed lose their lives at stations, highway crossings, and while trespassing upon tracks. The theory of probabilities required a passenger to travel 75,000,000 miles to be tolerably sure of getting killed. This is equivalent to riding continuously on an express train for over 400 years. One pasenger only was injured in every 4,500,000 miles of tra-

TWO READABLE BOOKS

"Dreams of the First and Twentieth Century" is the title of a neatly printed book, published by the Hunter, Rose Company, Limited. The author is Annie Wigmore, of this city, who frankly confesses her belief in spiritualism, and credits her work to spiritualistic or mediumistic impulse. The writer, however, is not dogmatic, but maintains her moral and religious tenets with breadth and tolerance of view and with a spiritual fervency which convinces one of her deep sin-cerity and conviction. The literary workmanship is good and evinces a wide range of reading.
Dr. S. Weir Mitchell has greatly added to his reputation by his latest and undoubtedly his best work, "The Adventures of Francois." Although the whole narrative depends upon the course of the revolution, its great historic scenes so familiar to all are treated as such and used merely as dates by which to fix passing events, and to note the fluctuation of the national temper. And in the same way the author does not impose upon us his private estimate of the characters of the great leaders of this movement, on which there has been such endless speculation; but instead we follow the career of one who cared nothing for the principles of either party, but only wished to be left alone to pursue his peaceful calling. It is during Francois' imprisonment among the unfortunate but unhumiliated nobility that Dr. Mitchell shows the greatest delicacy of touch, in the skill with which he reveals to us the awfulness of that reign of terror, without using the cruder means of scenes of slaughter and bloodshed. But the real, the absorbing, interest centers around Francois. He is a unique creation.

HEART DISEASE

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Troubles.

Do Not Be Alarmed, but Look for the Cause.

Heart troubles, at least among Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business lift, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion. Real, organic heart disease is curable; but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic. The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by branches of the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric. In another way, also, the heart is affected by that form of poor ligestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food; there is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath

Poor digestion also poisons the blood makes it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart. The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food. This can best be done by the regular use after meals, of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless, di-gestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form. It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble, except cancer

ANCIENT RACE OF GREAT MEN

Britain Annexed One on the Pacific.

Interesting People Found on Solomon . Islands-Never Make War and Are Very Sentimental.

Vancouver, Nov. 2.-When Captain Freeman, of the British man-of-war Mohawk, returned from a six months' trip among the Solomon Islands on the occasion of annexing 14 of those islands to Great Britain, he told of his strange experience at one of the new patches of territory that he took from the natives in the name of Queen Victoria. It was the Island of Tocupa, 500 files from the next nearest island of the Solomon group. It is a land without a history, and Capt. Freeman says that he thought of Darwin's theory of the submerged continent and believed that theory when he looked upon the 800 tribesmen of the mountainous island of Tocupa. When the company of 20 bluejackets landed on the shore and Capt. Freeman began to read Queen's proclamation, the islanders began to come down from the hills in hundreds, expecting an attack. So the Gatling gun was wheeled into line, but the ceremony went on just the same. Soon the Union Jack was unfurled, the proclamation buried in the sand, and a salute of 21 guns fired, but at the first noise of the guns the na-tives again fied to the hills, and it was only with great persuasion that they could be induced to appear again. INDUCED TO TALK.

Bye and bye they became less shy, and were induced to talk by signs, and submit to being measured, examined and felt. Who were these people? Who but the interesting remnant of a glorious ancient race, probably in prime superior to the races that at present dominate the world. The men were not the least like any of the tribes inhabiting the Solomons, or any of the South Sea groups. They were all giants. The average among a company of 400 being measured, he moved the stick placed on a level with his head against an upright tree six feet ten, and was massive in proportion, measuring 43 inches around his bare chest. His muscles, however, were soft and as round as a woman's. But this giant was as handsome as an Adonis and wore his flaxen hair in long curls over his copper-colored shoulders, like all the rest of the men in his tribe. Strange to say, the women wore their hair short, close to their heads. The soft muscles of the men was explained by the fact that these 800 men, women and children are not a fighting race, have never been to war, and do not possess a single fighting implement. They live by snaring wild animals in their mountain home, in fishing and cultivating delicious fruit by grafting and domesticating the wild products of the island. An interpreter was found on the Mohawk. A man who had before seen the tribe made some headway with one of the strange race, who been taught a Solomon Island trade jargon by his father, who had visited one of the islands 25 years be-

A POETICAL RACE.

He learned that the Tocupians were a sentimental, poetical race, conforming strictly to the rules of their religion, strangely resembling Christianity. They practiced monogamy rigidly, because they argued that when a husband or wife died he or she went to the spirit land and waited for the partner left behind on the island, which meant to them all the earth. If the surviving mate lived 100 years, the other was still waiting to be united again in the spirit land, and if a second wife was taken home or a second husband, the better half gone before would make it hot for the other partner when they were united in the great beyond. This was their hell.

The women were 5 feet 10 inches and 6 feet tall, appeared in public as their sister Eve in the Garden of Eden at her first home, and were formed like Venuses. Of all the British colonists in the world, the newly-made British subject, the Tocupians, are the most interesting.

Acting on this advice, I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

[ESTABLISHED BY JOHN CAMERON IN 1863.] Managing Director John Cameron

London, Wednesday, Nov. 2, 1898.

The Victory in South Ontario. The election of Hon. John Dryden yesterday places the Hardy Government firmly in the saddle. Surrounded by his trusty lieutenants, the Premier has now a clear course, and the Province again enjoys the full and unimpaired power and vigor of adminestration which have advanced its interests in the past. The speedy return of Mr. Gibson and Mr. Dryden shows that the trend of public favor is too strong in the Government's direction to leave any hope for Mr. Whitney in the ensuing bye-elections. When the House meets again he will find that the Opposition has again shrunk to its normal proportions, and that its once chirrupy spirits have been sadly dash-

There is no doubt that considerable discontent existed in South Ontario. Mr. Dryden made some serious tactical mistakes in the distribution of patronage-always a tender spot-but the general feeling seems to be that he has peen sufficiently punished. He is now fully restored to the favor of his constituents, and the whole Province is glad to see him confirmed in his official post. There never has been a more useful Minister of Agriculture, either in Ontario or in Canada. He is an ideal representative of the farming community. A practical and successful farmer, an able speaker, a reader and a thinker, and above all a man of unblemished integrity, John Dryden is really one of the best agricultural exhibits the Province affords.

Uncle Sam Will Expand. If the dispatches from Paris are near the truth, the United States has taken the plunge into imperialism, by asserting American sovereignty over the whole group of the Philippines. The imperialists call it destiny; the antiimperialists call it disaster. Whatever the wisdom of the experiment-and time may soon decide the question-it is distinctly the republic's own busimess. It is hard to see how the United States could do otherwise. To hand the islands back to Spain would be the signal for a bloody conflict between the Spanish and the natives. Besides, the United States is under an implied pledge to free the natives from Spanish | there in London? If not any, why not? misrule. It would be no kindness to give the Filipinos political independence. They are not fit for self-government. It would be a calamity for themselves and for the large European interests on the islands. To transfer all or any of the group to a power other than Spain would inflame the jealousies of all Europe, and raise a storm at home. A joint protectorate of all the great powers might be practicable, as British and American influence would preponderate. But as the people of the United States have manifestly become enamored of the imperial idea, nay, and no other Government will. Fortunately the action of the United States is in line with British desire. Possession of the Philippines gives the republic a more vital interest, a larger stake, a greater influence, in the eastern question. The Americans, having no territorial designs on China, naturally want the open door. They are thus thrown in with Great Britain. With a naval base at China's door, they will be powerful allies should it ever become necessary to batter down that door. American rule will also improve the commercial conditions and possibilities of the islands, if they are spared the infliction of the American tariff.

and want the Star-Spangled Banner to wave alone over the Philippines, their own Government dare not say them

The government of the Philippines may prove a formidable task. The natives may not prove tractable. They may revolt even against American rule. That rule may have to be maintained by military occupation. But the United States, having decided for expansion, must bear the responsibility.

A Campaign of Slander.

Premier Laurier has emphatically given the lie to the assertion that Hon. Clifford Sifton would resign or be retired from the Cabinet. As the Premier put it, there was not the shadow of truth in this statement. Those who concocted it knew that it was false. It was part and parcel of the campaign of slander against the brilliant young minister-slander arising from political envy and malice inspired by Mr. Sifton's administrative success, which reweals by comparison the ineptitude of his predecessors in office. Mr. Sifton brought to the Department of the Interior qualities which it had long lacked-brains and energy. He addressed himself to the immigration problem in earnest. He swept out the fossils, devised more enterprising methols, and put wigor and intelligence into the various agencies at home and abroad. The results have been conspicuously successful. The active propaganda directed by Mr. Sifton has greatly stimulated migration to Canada from Great Britain and the United States especially. We are now getting more immigrants from the British Isles than Australia and South Africa together. We are getting increasing numbers of United States farmers of a highly desirable class. The Galician settlements planted in the Northwest by the late administration have been augmented, and several thousands of Doukhoborstis, effective objection can be raised, are on their way here. But the aliens are only a drop in the bucket.

The fruits of Mr. Sifton's immigration policy were sufficient to put his opponents in an ugly humor, which, seeking vent, found it in slandering the minister over the Yukon administration. The sudden necessity of organizing that remote region was a trying emergency, but Mr. Sifton met it with supreme foresight and energy. From the very birth of Dawson City British law and order have been as sovereign there as here. All that Mr. Sifton could do to insure honest, efficient government was done. We do not know whether there have been individual cases of corruption among the officials. Neither do those who have been villifying Mr. Sifton and the whole Yukon staff. But we do know that Mr. Sifton invited evidence of wrong-doing and adopted measures to punish it wherever proven. Even if there was misconduct on the part of subordinates, it would be malicious and unjust to lay the blame on a minister thousands of miles away, almost cut off from communication. Mr. Sifton has to rely on his chief deputies who are on the spot, and no one has substantiated a single charge against any of these men. Not one reproach can truthfully be leveled at Mr. Sifton in conection with anything that has transpired in the Yukon. He has invited full inquiry; not tried to stifle it, as the Conservative ministers always did. The venom poured on Mr. Sifton is the natural penalty of his splendid achievements. The Conservative party, with its fatuity of leadership and its bankruptcy of talent, may well envy the Liberal party its possession of so young and promising a statesman; but that is no reason why It should hate and revile him. The country is not going to be deprived of his services by the snarling pack at his heels. As Sir Wilfrid Launier well

The Strike a Lesson.

[Hamilton Herald.]

This strike is one more illustration of the folly of granting municipal franchises to private companies without safeguarding the interests of workmen well as those of the municipality with every restriction that prudence can suggest. It is always unsafe to bank on the magnanimity and generesity, or even the justice, of private companies which are in business to make money.

Sympathy for the Strikers.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.] The London Advertiser seems to reflect the better sentiment of that city when it sympathizes with the street car employes as against the city. At this distance the points of the dispute may not be so intelligible as on the ground. But it would be interesting to know how the men were to get their grievances redressed except through concerted action. They are surely within their right and displaying common sense when they prefer to "hang together than hang separately." As long as they observe the law and continue to act with moderation, they will receive and deserve public sympathy and support. Incidentally, the dispute shows the danger of corporations giving away valuable franchises involving public rights. If civic corporations had sense enough to run their own street car systems, street lighting, waterworks, and such like, they would in most cases find these fruitful sources of revenue. This has been shown in the case of Glasgow, as well as elsewhere.

Grand Trunk Changes-Award of the Board of Arbitration.

G. T. R. Trainmaster Whittenberger, of Stratford, was on Tuesday appointed successor to Trainmaster Cunningham, who resigned his position some time ago. Mr. Cunningham has been trasferred to a similar position on the G. T. R. at Island Pond, Vermont. W. E. Davis, general passenger agent of the Grand Trunk, and D. McNicholl, passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, are back from Chicago, where they have been attending a meeting of passenger men on business connected with the immigration traffic. Their deliberations will be resumed in Buffalo on the 9th or 10th of this month. The award of the board of arbitration of the Joint Traffic Association in the matter of differential appeal on the part of the C. P. R. against the decision of the board of managers of the Joint Traffic Association, which upheld the differential rate of the G. from Toronto to New York, has been announced. In brief it puts the C. P. R. on the same basis as the G. T. R. The G. T. R. runs from Buffalo to New York over the Lehigh Valley road, which had a differential of $1 25, and as the C. P. R. runs over the New York Central, which is not a differential road, it had to charge $1 25 higher than the G. T. R. Both roads can now quote the same rate out of Toronto. Mr. J. J. McCarthy, formerly of this city, and who for the past eight years has held the position of passenger agent for the West Shore and New York road in Toronto, has been appointed general western passenger agent of the West Shore at Chicago. The appointment will be a popular one, both among railway men and with the traveling public, among whom Mr. Mc-Carthy is widely known. The position to which he has been promoted was much sought after, there being 150 applicants, many of whom used every influence at their command to secure it for themselves. Mr. McCarthy never even applied for it, and the offer was made him in consideration of his long and faithful services to the company. He is a native of London, and has several sisters living in the east end.

A Nervous Toronto Woman Walked the Floor During the Night for Hours at a Time-She Makes a Statement. TORONTO; ONT.-"I was troubled with nervousness. It was impossible for me to keep still and if the spells came ever me during the night I had to get up and walk the floor for hours at a time. My blood was very poor and I was subject to billous attacks. My feet would swell and I was not able to do my own housework. I treated with two of the best physicians here but only received relief for a time. I became discouraged. One day a friend called and advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I laughed at the advice but I was prevailed upon and procured one bottle. Before I used it all I began to feel better. I took several bottles and also several boxes of Hood's Pills. Now I can eat and drink heartily and sleep soundly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has entirely cured me and also strengthened me so that I now do all my own work. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all sufferers from nervousness, weakness or general debility." Mrs. H. F. PARM, Degrassi Street.

WEEKLY.

Receipts of grain have been better this week, but they were still what would be called light, and in the case of peas, barley, etc., very light. Almost no rye, buckwheat, corn or beans came in, wheat and oats being the only lines that made a showing of any consequence. The general demand was quite steady, and prices have been steady. Notwithstanding the decline in the larger markets, millers say they are paying too much for the wheat here, but that owing to the light supply they cannot do otherwise. At to-day's session $1 20 was the ruling

Oats have fluctuated between 80c and 82c, as an average price, and close at 81c. Sales during the week were made as high as 85c, but for private con-

A LONG CROOKED ROAD.

Love has a long way to go to reach the heart of the modern up-to-date young man. When he looks for a wife, he expects a good deal. Probably he expects more than he deserves.

by continual sickness.

A woman whose nerves are constantly racked and dragged by debilitating drains and inflammation, cannot be a genial companion or happy wife; and she is totally unfitted to be a mother These troubles prevail almost universneed of them. Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription is a positive specific for the weaknesses and diseases of the feminine organism. It cures them radically and completely. It heals, strengthens and purifies. It is the only scientific remedy devised for this special purpose by an educated, skilled physician. It is the only medicine that makes motherhood easy and absolutely safe. Its sale, through dealers in medicines exceeds the combined sale of all other medicines for women. It acts directly and only on the child-bearing organism. It allays inflammation, soothes pain, heals ulceration and gives the tortured nerves a rest. It does away with the discomforts of the expectant period and makes baby's coming easy and comparatively painless. Thousands of women have testified to its wonderful virtues. All good druggists sell it and honest dealers will not offer inferior substitutes for the sake of a little extra profit. Dr. Pierce has been for thirty years chief consulting physician of the famous Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. His reputation as a skilled specialist in woman's ailments is world-wide. Miss Lauretta McNees, of Reno (P. O. Box 723), Washoe Co., Nev., writes: "I have discontinued taking the 'Prescription' and will not take any more (at present). Last month I had no pain at all and worked every day without any inconven-ience whatever. It was the first time I never had pain during that period. I cannot say too much for your medicines especially the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I know of a lady who took one bottle of your 'Favorite Prescription' and she says she was not sick like she was with her first baby. This was her second baby. She thinks it a grand medicine. So do I."

'I had suffered untold misery for a number of years, with ovarian trouble, an ex-hausting drain, constipation, painful pe-riods and other annoying troubles," writes Mrs. Annie James, of No. 27 Seventh St., Memphis, Shelby Co., Tenn. "Thank God, my health has been fully restored and I can gladly say I am a well woman to-day. I used six or seven bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription,' and also used the lotion which you advised in the 'Common Sense

Medical Adviser.'"
"For years I had been failing in health and kept getting worse and more nervous all the time," writes Mrs. Annie Dulan, of East Stroudsburg, Monroe Co., Pa. "I doctored with two different doctors and they told me that my system was run down and my nerves were weak. I had ulcers of the uterus which were so painful at times that I was afraid that they must be cancers Indeed I felt discouraged with the treatment, and did not get any better until my nurse advised me to write to you and I

'In May I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' and followed your advice as closely as I could. I took twelve bottles in all, six of each. Thanks to God and the right kind of medicine I feel myself cured and a well woman. I have no bad feeling whatever and can do the work for a family of eight, and feel better than I have for Detroit, Nov. 2.-Suburbanites from the south had not the easiest time getting to the city, for Hallowe'en lokers had greased the rails of the track between Wyandotte and Trenton, and it was a good job. There was not sand enough in the immediate vicinity of the track to counteract the effect of the grease, and it became necessary to haul some wagon loads. The cars went merrily into the greased section at some 20 miles an hour, and then remained stationary, with the wheels buzzing and motor humming. It was as impossible to back as to go forward. could get it off. Sand, sand, more sand. Then a little headway, and still more sand. It was tough. Some hours of hard work made matters better, but it took nearly two hours to get from Wyandotte to Detroit, and the grease was near Trenton. There was once an old woman who ived on the line of a railroad in New-England. A train killed her cow, and the company refused to pay for it on the ground that the cow was guilty of contributory negligence, or something equally heinous. The old woman greased the rails, and held up every train that passed her house until the company gave in and paid for the cow and the grease. The management of the Riverside suburban road deny the killing of any cows, but say that there may death or two in the vicinity of Trenton if certain discoveries are made. TROLLEY IN JAPAN.

His Excellency's Frank Speech Touches on Incidents of His Official Career-Optimistic Views.

Ottawa, Nov. 2.-A farewell banquet was given by the citizens of Ottawa to the governor-general at the Russell House last evening. The chair was occupied by Mr. Justice Taschereau, senior judge of the supreme court. About 150 gentlemen sat down. The company was a most representative one, including men prominent in church and state, in professional circles and in the mercantile world. The decorations of the banqueting hall were elaborate in their character, the Gordon tartan and the arms of his excellency being conspicuous on shields affixed to the walls. The banquet it-self was everything that could be desired, and a credit to host St. Jacques. After the usual loyal toasts, Judge quantity of dynamite. Chambers were the best of the Ontario bowlers. Gillespie bowled round the wicket with a low delivery, and was rather hard to score from.

The fielding of the Ontario team was quite good, McMurtry especially being prominent, while nothing could have been better than the wicketkeeping of D. W. Saunders, the Canadian captain. Next to Scattergood, of Philadelphia, he is easily the best

'stumper' we saw. "Some level scoring was done on the part of the Ontario eleven, six of the side getting into double figures, the best form being displayed by Lyon, Chambers and Marshall. Chambers in particular played Winter's lobs as well as anyone we subsequently met. The total of the first inning was 133, Ainsworth's analysis being 7 wickets for 39. Following on in a big minority, Goldingham 48, and Marshall 37, made a capital start, 67 runs being scored be-fore Bray stumped Marshall off one of Winter's lobs. His was a well-played inning, his best stroke being a hard hit on the on-side off one of Ainsworth's deliveries."

WILL THE CARS RUN?

In case an agreement is not reached between the company and the strikers, the former will proceed to run their cars, and have applied to the chief of police for protection. It is proposed to afford the company all possible protection. The cars will be manned by whom the company choose to run them, and these will be protected by the police two of whom will be stationed on each car, and more if two are not sufficient to protect the company's property. In case of a disturbance such as oc-

There will also likely be a procession of union men to the opera house, which Manager Roote has kindy consented to let them use free of charge.

THE QUEEN OF THE SEASON

The only effect this speech had was to make her start away, and pace the room as wildly as before; but in a little while she grew calmer, and came back to where the Englishman sat with a gleam of hope irradiating her countenance.
"I will be patient," she said. "My

He did not answer, for his head was giddy with weakness; and, seeing that he could not support himself any longer, Vivien put her own cares aside, and went to his assistance. With her aid he contrived to reach the bed, where he soon sank into a feverish doze, and she was left to indulge her reflections undisturbed.

She drew a chair close to the door, and leaned her head against a crack, that she might catch the passionately longed-for sounds of the woman's returning steps. How frightfully quiet the house was! Could these vile people have fled with their ill-gotten gains, leaving their captives to starve? On such a thought as this she dare not dwell, though it persisted in returning again and again. She had not the slightest idea where she was; she knew that the bouquetiere had confessedly led her into one of the worst parts of the city, and that this house, standing alone at the bottom of a narrow alley, must be well situated to hide all such deeds as its owners appeared capable of committing. A gleam of light began to appear through the dirty, smoky skylight, and she watched it with all her angry distress reviving. Alas! It was morning. Already the Sister of Charity must have discovered her loss; but some hours would elapse before anyone would presume to enter the sleepchamber of the ceuntess' stepdaughter, or connect her with the disappearance of the nun's garments-hours that Vivien must spend here, unless her jailers relented, or, for the sake of further reward, agreed to let her depart.

But they came not. In vain she listened. All was still as death; and even the busy hum of the city did not penetrate to this secluded dwelling. Only the boom of the German reverberated artillery through tantly, leaving it more silent than

She slid down on her knees by the side of the bed, and a burst of hysterical tears relieved and eventually calmed her. As she became more tranquil she perceived that her countryman's condition was a more critical one than her own; for she was strong, and capable of enduring a lengthy imprisonment, while he was sinking from inanition, and a new terror seized her. What should she he expired before her eyes, and she found herself immured in this cham-

She started up and bathed his face, and moistened his lips with the few drops of water remaining in the pitcher; she chafed his cold hands, heaped upon him the scanty coverings of the bed, and fetched the warm, woolen robe of the sister to wrap around his feet. He was a stranger; was her countryman; and while he lived she did not feel utterly alone and forsaken. The delicate, listless aristocrat, whose white fingers had never been usefully employed till now, excited herself bravely, to keep warmth in the feebly-fluttering pulses of her dying companion; for his life had become almost as precious to her as her

"Yes," she answered, almost articulately. "I have envied you, for you have been able to sleep, to forget; while I—"

She averted her face and could say no more. By slow degrees the hopes with which she had buoyed up her sinking spirits had vanished. She could no longer doubt that the heartess couple into whose power she had fallen, had carried off the money wrested from her, and left their prisoners to their fate. If they did return it would be at the dead of night, to take by force her remaining ornaments, perhaps to silence forever her struggles for freedom.

again, When we rang the bell at the next house on our visiting list, the door was opened by Mrs. M—— herself, with whom we had no acquaintance, having been requested by a mutual friend to call upon her. She wore a dark morning dress and a large, plain, white apron, and my friend and I glanced at each other, fully expecting another deluge of apologies. But nothing of the sort. Greeting us cordially, Mrs. M-led us into the parlor, and sitting down talked to us without the slightest embarrassment, and from the beginning to the end of our stay no reference whatever was made to either the aprox or the fact that she had herself opened the door. We could but contrast her favorably with poor Mrs. D-, who had annoyed and embarrassed us so much. I chanced to spend the following day with my friend, Mrs. R—, and in the afternoon she received a call from a lady whose acquaintance she had made the previous summer in the mountains, and who was now visiting a married sister in the city, who accompanied

"A small house is taken care of so much more easily than a large one," said Mrs. R—. I find this a great responsibility, but our family is so large we can't get along with less room.' "Well, I must say I like a large house," was the rejoinder. "I told sis-ter when we came in that I'd be almost ashamed to have you come to see me, her house will look so cramped to you after living in this." Mrs. R— was perceptibly embar-rassed. She could not think what reply to make to this remark, and a very awkward silence ensued, which was broken by Mrs. L—, who said that "allowances must be made, for her brother-in-law has just started in business for himself, and had to look at his money before he spent it."

It was a relief to Mrs. R—— when the visitors departed, but she was forced to listen to a repetition of the apologies for the small house when she returned the call a few days later.

Poultry Feathers Now Largely

Used for Women's Hats. Fashion's latest freak is the employment of poultry feathers on women's hats and bonnets, and plumes of domestic fowls are displayed in large numbers in the newest feminine headgear for autumn. This is a result of the Gather the scraps together, put into a spread of the movement for the protection of the wild birds from destruction for milliners' purposes, in which cru-sade the sympathies of thousands of persons of the feminine sex have seen form into a jelly roll again. Place in the ice box for a half-hour or so, after enlisted. Farmers are now finding a new source of profit in the sale of the feathers produced in their barnyards, which they furnish to dealers who utilize them in a variety of ways. They are used to a considerable extent in the manufacture of artificial birds, which has long been an important feature of French women, who try to make a vintue of necessity, are discovering that freckles are becoming. They are "chic" they say and they stoutly maintain that the little yellow dots bring out the whiteness of the complexion in a marvelous way. Nothwithstanding this pronuncia-mento of their French cousins, English women are down on freckles, and when English women, headed always by the trreproachable Princess of Wales, frown, then it is time for the world to disapprove also.

In a private letter, received from a titled American woman-one with whose name you are very familiar-I read that she and several other beauties of London are removing freckles with salted sweet milk. The letter says: "Bathe your face four times a day in sweet milk, made very salty, and your freckles will soon disappear." If they persist, as in the case of the little Countess of Craven, use clear, salted lemon juice in the middle of the dayomitting the midday milk bath. These cosmetics can do no harm and are certainly to be recommended to the woman who suffers from rust patches.

Digestibiliy of Cold Food.

It is impossible to digest articles of food until they are raised to a moderately high temperature. Much of the filness prevalent in summer would be avoided if people ate warm food, as they do in winter. Delicate persons especially should avoid cold dishes and drinks. They are extremely taxing to the digestive powers and a great draft on the vitality. The human system has just so much power in reserve, and if this is exhausted in warming up the large amount of cold food that is taken into the stomach there is but little left to carry on the other processes of existence.

A physician of wide experience says that for 45 years he has scarcely had a day's illness or an hour's pain, and this exemption from suffering he attributes to an unvarying practice of taking a plate of hot soup three or four times a day, winter and summer. His practice is largely metropolitan, and if he is tired or overtaxed he makes it his imperative duty to visit the nearest first-class hotel and get a dish of the best soup he can find. He frequently takes it without accompaniment of any sort. Occasionally a cracker or roll is eaten at the same

This man declares that, all things being equal, he will stake his reputation on the theory that nine-tenths of the intestinal troubles of the summer season could be avoided by the systematic and frequent use of hot beverages, or, what is better, dishes of soup eaten as hot as they can be relished.— New York Ledger.

The Selection of Varieties and Their Treatment

Some Explicit Directions for Both Window and Garden Growing of These Beauties of the Floral World -The Time to Plant-The Soil-Drainage Absolutely Necessary-About Potting.

Of the many factors tending to make the home surroundings beautiful probably none can accomplish desired results more easily and cheaply than a luxuriant growth of bulbs, artistically arranged in the sitting room window, or beautiful clusters placed in different parts of the lawn. It is not difficult to secure a pleasing effect in either situation. The operations are not only simple, but most bulbs appear particularly adapted to various conditions, and even unfavorable conditions are, as a rule, quite easily overcome. The work is no longer confined to wealthy amateurs, commercial florists, experiment stations or botanical gardens, such a worthless toy with a richly-but any bright, thrifty, well-to-do person with a few rods of land at his command, may be the happy owner of many choice nowers. Let these institutions cultivate rare and costly plants which require careful nursing; there are many others just as beautiful which are within the reach of all who desire them.

Conditions vary so widely with different persons it is impossible to make any satisfactory set rules for all to follow, even in the general culture of bulbs, and much less is it possible to select sorts agreeable to the varied tastes. I will, therefore merely suggest methods which appear to me most convenient to the greater number and within reach of many others. Bulb growing naturally divides itself into two classes: First, window culture, or forcing; second, outdoor or garden culture. Window culture requires a little more labor, but the compensation is correspondingly greater, as the blossoms mature at a season when vegetation is naturally taking her rest. However, no more time need be spent caring for these, and frequently not so much, as with the geranium, a plant almost universally grown. Moreover, many of our most easily grown bulbs are not to be compared with the geranium in beauty and delicacy of bloom.

Hyacinths and the Chinese Sacred Lily are frequently forced in water, or by glass culture, as the process is usually termed. Glasses made especially for hyacinths, each holding a single bulb, may easily be obtained from florists or seedsmen. There are various designs and sizes, some having two or more compartments, for as many bulbs. The glass is sometimes colored, to exclude bright light from the roots.

About November 1st a bulb is placed in the top of the vase and the glass filled with water, even with the base of the bulb. Set away in a cool, dark place until Poots are three or four inches long, when they may be gradually brought to the light. Instead of immediately starting the bulbs in water, some growers recommend plunging into wet sand, to one-half their depth, keeping moist, and in a cool, dark place, until roots have formed about an inch long, when they are placed in glasses. Either change the water eccasionally, being careful that the water added is of the same temperature as that removed, or place a small piece of charcoal in the glass, which will keep the water pure.

For this purpose always select the largest and most firm bulbs, as they depend largely upon their own resources for nourishment. The single varieties of hyacinths are better for forcing, as they bloom earlier and seem to endure the unnatural conditions better than double sorts. Further than this, as the varieties differ, principally in color, a selection depends upon the taste of the grower.

The Chinese Sacred Lily is even more easily forced in this manner. Several are grown in each glass or earthen vessel, which has about one-half an inch of gravel in the bottom, on which bulbs are placed, and the space around them filled with fine pebbles to the depth of an inch. Otherwise treated as hyacinths, they may be brought inte bloom in a month, or even a shorter time. Other marcissi are sometimes grown in water, but with greater difficulty.

Most bulbs are quite easily forced in pots. The best time to plant them is about the middle of October. Use five or six-inch pots with a little drainage in the bottom. Of the large bulbs only ene can be planted in each pot, and of the small ones from three to eight. Larger pots. or even pans, may be employed, with several more bulbs planted in each, but much better effect in arrangement can, as a rule, be secured by using smaller pots. The best soil is a light, sandy loam, anriched with cow manure and mold.

In potting large bulbs, it is well to fill the vots about two-thirds full of the above mixture, put the bulb in place and fill with sand to one-third its height, adding an equal amount of prepared soil headth thus leaving one-third of the bulb exposed. Leave the lower soil loose, but firmly press the surface about the bulb. After the planting is finished, thoroughly moisten the soil, set away in a cool, sheltered place and cover with coal ashes two or three inches deep, and over this a layer of coarse manure, leaves or other litter, to keep from freezing and to prevent the tops from drying out. A strong, healthy root growth will thus be secured. the time ranging from four to eight weeks, according to the nature of the bulb. The root condition may easily be escertained by turning out the soil, and whenever the pot is well filled with roots it may be gradually brought to the light and heat. Upper growth may have started, and will now push forward quite rapidly. Some of the plants may be held back and not brought into the light for three or four weeks, thus securing a succession of bloom. When brought to the light it is better to keep in a temperature not exceeding sixty degrees, as the plants will remain longer in healthy bloom; or, if it must be kept warmer, the soil should be kept more moist than would otherwise be necessary. When the blooms fade, the bulbs are usually discarded. Should one care to take the trouble, all bed hyacinths may quite easily be propagated by allowing the foliage to ripen, then keep pots dry until autumn or spring, as the case may be, when they should be planted in any outof-the-way place and left for two years, when the bulblets will be of sufficient size for bedding.

The following sorts are among the best for pet culture, together with a few suggestions for the special treatment of each: Hyacinths, grown singly in five-inch pots. Select single flowered varieties and those designated by most catalogues as second size, and give equally good results. Early Flowering Roman Hyacinths, grown four or five of the same color in a

Early Flowering Tulips, three to five in each pot. The single varieties are more brilliant, but do not remain so long in blossom as the double, hence there is reason for having both forms represented. The Duc Van Thol are especially good, either single or double, my preference being for the latter.

Narcissus, four or five in a pot, Early Double and Roman Paper White being the best forcing. Jonquils, four or five in a pot, and have both single and doub. represented. Crocus, five or six in a pot. Have yellow, white, blue and striped, each represented in different pots. In planting, fill the pot with soil, even with the top of bulb.

Allium Neapolitanum, Glory of the Snow (chinedoxa Lucillae), Freesia refracta alba, each, seven or eight in a pos and treated the same as Crocus.

For garden culture we have spring, summer and autumn flowering bulbs. Those already mentioned for forcing, together with scillas and snowdrops, are among the best that bloom in spring; lilies and gladioli in summer, and the autumn species of Crocus and Galanthus, and Colchicum autumnale for autumn.

THE ASTER There are other valuable ones, but a collection of one or more varieties of the above will give a maximum effect, and this is only secured by a mass of individ uals of one species, or, frequently still better, one variety in the same clump. Hence I venture the assertion that it is far better to have 100 bulbs of a single sort than ten sorts of ten bulbs each. The spring flowering bulbs, and most of the lilies, may be planted any time from the middle of September to the first of December, better about October 15th. Methods of arrangement must be governed largely by the various tastes and different surroundings. Isolated formal beds or rows may have their places against walks or buildings; massive clumps scattered here and there, especially as foreground for shrubbery, are very becoming; smaller groups may add grace and beauty when property placed among other plants in the border; and lastly, certain bulbs, such as crecus, snowdrop and glory of the snow, do quite well planted in soi, without further care or cultivation.

In preparing a place for bulbs, the first and perhaps most important consideration is drainage. Other things in their favor, bulbs will succeed quite well in rather poor soil, but the worst treatment that can be given them is a wet, undrained situation. If the location is naturally well drained, spade up the area to be planted twelve or fifteen inches deep, working in a good quantity of well-rotted cow manure or other nonstimulating fertilizer. Bulbs will do well in almost any soil, but a light, rich, sandy loam is the best; and if naturally heavy, add leaf mold or an extra amount of manue, and in any event, when planting, it is always best to apply s large handful of sand to each bulb, to prevent rot. Low, wet, undrained places should be renovated by excavating eight or ten inches deep and covering the bottom with three or four inches of broken brick or stone, and above this about a foot of soil, thus raising the bed six or eight inches above the surrounding level. Again, it is well to mulch the beds with leaves or coarse manure for hardy as well as tender sorts, so that an even growth may be secured and the bulbs be prevented from heaving out by winter freezing. Mulching is especially valuable for preventing freezing and the consequent lack of root growth of late-planted bulbs. When the flowers have wilted they should be cut away, no seeds being allowed to ripen, so that all available strength may be used in developing the bulbs or bulblets. For the same reason leaves should not be removed until they begin to fade, after which the space occupied by spring flowering bulbs may be utilized by planting tender, shallow-rooting annuals, such as Portulacca, Dwarf Petunias. Asters. Verbenas, etc. Further treatment depends on the kinds grown, hence it will be necessary to coneider their special requirements.

We will give you a few who tendered for them: Mr. Armour, East London, whose price was $10; Mr. Bird figured them at $9; teachers "airing the effervescence of Mr. Baker, South London, $9 25; and their imaginative brains" instead of they were all too high. We can give you others, but it would be taking up too much space. These prices are for the union price for making coats, and Mr. Watson had the coats party made at Greene's wholesale house, so he got them up partly shop-work, and, as he said, got a big figure for them. Mr. Watson's own words are that he tendered on overcoats at $9, and the contract was given to Mr. Chapman for $11 50, so there was something wrong there; but it all goes with the street railway employes. When Should They Demand Health Certificates From Pupils?

Parents Dissatisfied With Present Rules-An L. C. I. Cadet Corps To Be Established-Board of Education Has No Funds.

The duty of school teachers in demanding a certificate from the medical health officer after a pupil has or is supposed to have had some infectious disease was discussed at the regular meeting of the board of education last night.

Trustee Wilkins raised the question and said a great deal of dissatisfaction existed among the teachers and parents. He cited the case of Mrs. Geo. Stinson, living on Maitland street north, whose child was unwell for a few days but with no contagious disease, and when she wished to send the child back to school, a certificate had to be obtained from the medical health officer. Mr. Hutchinson first asked $2 for the certificate, but finally gave it up for $1.

Some of the trustees said it was understood the certificates would be given free, but they also knew of cases where a fee has been charged. Dr. English considered Dr. Hutchinson quite within his rights. He was under the jurisdiction of the board of health and the board of education had no power to order him to give the certificates free. Mr. McRobert said he would not have made the motion he did about the certificates when it was decided to make them compulsory, if the medical health officer had not assured him that no charge would be made for them. Mr. Teasdall thought it most absurd for a teacher to demand a certificate because a child was feeling unwell and stayed at home for a day or two. Such a teacher should be compelled to get a certificate from the inspector as to ability, he said. Children with infectious diseases were not ill one day and well the next, and the teacher should take the mother's word. The medical health officer was not entitled to give certificates free, for Audience What Some of His Characteristics Must Be-A Capital Lecture.

"The Coming Man" was the subject of a lecture by Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw, of Philadelphia, in the Dundas Center Church last evening. The edifice was fairly well filled, as this talented lecturer is no stranger to London audiences, and has always had a reputation of being a forcible and pleasing speaker. The lecture was a capital one, the speaker was frequently applauded. Her illustrations were clear and distinct, and the lecture allowed of considerable humor, which was very effective. Rev. Dr. Saunders occupied the chair, and said he was pleased to be able to introduce one who had aided so much in the reforms of humanity.

Dr.Shaw, in her opening remarks, said she thought the new man should receive part of the attention that the new women had been getting for some years. Men were distressed and afraid that women would adopt the men's wardrobe. There was no fear of this, as women always wanted to look their best, and no human being ever looked well in men's clothing (Laughter.) The new man was to be created of God. The women were not the sentimental sex today; it was the men. The first thing that was required of the new man, for the new woman, was that he be physically a man. The girls of today were physically stronger than those of 25 years ago. They should get more into outdoor sports and life, and leave their crazy quilts and knitting for pleasure alone. One man attempted to make a crazy quilt, but he was crazy before he started. Gymnasium work at college was good for girls. The boys of today were not so strong, physically, as their forefathers. This was due to the use of narcotics, tobacco and yellow journalism. The new man would get an idea of the dignity of man, and refuse to let himself acquire bad habits, not because of women, but because he was a new man. The new man must be an intellectual man. It took a much better man to run an electric car than the old horse conveyance. He must have clearness of mind, and a steady hand. The demand of today was for minds, not developed brawn.

The W. C. T. U., the speaker said, had taken up all good reforms, and was doing a noble work along these lines. There was an old saying that the world owes everyone a living. This was not so. What the world did owe man was a chance to earn a living. It was said that woman was usurping man's right, and should go back to the work of the mothers and grandmothers. The work of these mothers and grandmothers was knitting, butter making, candle making and numerous other arts, which were all done now by machinery invented by man. Man dignifled woman's work. A female cook would get $4 or $5 a week, while a male cook, with a fancy name, in a Boston hotel, got the same salary as the president of Harvard university. the president Co-operation between employes and employer is the life of business. Men and women should co-operate. Women should get equal pay for equal work. This would do away with the cry of cheap woman labor. The new man must be a moral man, created in the image of God. His spiritual life should be developed. The recent plebiscite vote was a grand one, and when this was carried out, what hope there would be for the manhood and womanhood of the future!

A cordial vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer, accompanied by a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Rev. Dr. Shaw goes to Ottawa in a couple of days, where she will address the provincial convention of the W. C.

"THE COMING MAN" THE DETROIT SUICIDE

Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw Tells a London Proves to Have Been That of a London Cigarmaker.

The young man who committed suicide at the Michigan Exchange Hotel, Detroit, has been identified as fred Kennedy, a cigarmaker, of this city. He had been missing since Saturday afternoon after getting his pay at the factory of Mr. S. R. Manness, and the first positive knowledge the young man's wife or parents received of his whereabouts was sent by Mr. Joseph both interesting and instructive, and H. Grenfell from Detroit last night. A Quebec Concern Which Is Very Much Alive.

The Dominion Corset Company Open Up Their New Factory in Quebec.

About one hundred of the leading merchants of Quebec city were present on Oct. 13 to see the Hon. Mr. P. Garneau start the machinery in the new works of the Dominion Corset Company on Dorchester street. Mr. George Amyot, the president and manager, at whose invitation the com-tion of the handsome premises, and finally in his office a lanch was served, and after some speeches and many congratulations to Mr. Amyot on his new works, the company dispersed.

The factory is a building 40 feet by 200, and four stories high, a model of cleanliness and brightness, and replete with every device to facilitate good work, both in office and factory, and assure the greatest comfort to the three hundred odd people who are employed in it. A Corlies engine or 80horse power, and a dynamo with a capacity of 300 lamps of 16-candle power supply power and artificial light. This corset factory is the largest by far of any in Canada, yet it is taxed to its utmost to turn out the orders which the nine travelers, kept all the time on the road, have no trouble in secur-ing for the "D. & A."
