BANQUET TO CAPTAIN BELL

Large and Representative Gathering Honor Esteemed Citizen.

Mr. Bell's Feeling Response to Toast of the Evening—Other Speakers Pay Tribute to His Worth.

"May I ask you all to fill your glasses to the brim and drink to the health and prosperity of our guest of the evening, Captain Edwin Bell, LL. B. We honor, esteem and admire him as a citizen, as a military man, as a friend."

As Lieut.-Colonel J. D. Rankin, M. C., presiding officer at the magnificent banquet tendered Capt. Bell at the Hotel Garner last evening by the 24th Kent Regiment and Macaulay Club, rose to propose the toast of the evening he was greeted with a fusillade of hearty and spontaneous applause. In graceful and appropriate language the eloquent Colonel depicted the many virtues and values of Capt. Bell and the splendid service he had rendered the city during his residence here.

Captain Bell, on rising to respond, was greeted by cheer upon cheer and the hearty singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow."

After appropriately expressing his appreciation of the reception accorded him, Mr. Bell said that after a residence of over 40 years in the city, one felt keenly severing his immediate relations with life-long friends. But it was a source of satisfaction to know that while he was leaving his native city he was not leaving his native country. Applause.

Colonel Rankin conveyed messages of regret at inability to be present from his worship Mayor McKeough, Judge Bell, N. H. Stevens, S. Stephens, Dr. J. H. Duncan, Dr. G. T. McKeough, A. C. Woodward and others. A splendid orchestra, under the direction of Bandmaster Harry Phillips, gave a series of delightful selections during the evening.

After justice had been done to the excellent menu provided, the toast list was proceeded with as follows:

"The King—National Anthem."
Canada and the Empire—E. Stone, Thos. Scullard.

Army and Navy—Major G. P. Schell, field and C. E. Beaton.

Our Guest—Captain Edwin Bell, LL. B.

Learned Professions—M. Wilson, K. C., M. Houston, P. M.

Municipal Institutions—Warden Robinson, S. T. Martin, J. A. Walker, K. C.

Song—W. W. Scane.

Athletic Sports—J. S. Black, S. B. Arnold.

The Press—H. W. Anderson, F. Jarvis.

The Ladies—W. T. Pigott, M. D. Fraser, W. A. Coltart.

The Host—Chas. Hadley.

Auld Lang Syne.

PRESIDENTATION.

The members of "H" Company of the 24th Regiment met last evening in the Garner House parlors, before the banquet, and presented Captain Edwin Bell, of their company, with a nicely worded address and beautiful pair of field glasses. Color Sergeant John R. Smith made the presentation.

Captain Bell made a most feeling reply, expressing as his greatest sorrow in leaving Chatham that of leaving his company. He would remember the boys as long as he lived.

Captain Black, the new company commander, also made a few remarks expressing his pleasure at succeeding to such a fine company, and his aim to endeavor to keep it up to the high standard established by Captain Bell.

A pleasant hour was spent in conversation and smoke.

THOUSANDS ON STRIKE.

Labor Troubles in Cities of the United States.

New York, May 2.—The strikes of mechanics and laborers which had been looked for did not materialize to the extent that had been anticipated, although a great many men, including 30,000 Italian excavators, are on strike.

Philadelphia, May 2.—At a meeting of the Carpenters' Union it was decided to strike because the employers refused to advance wages from 40 to 50 cents an hour. More than 7,000 men in the building trades obeyed the order to strike. A thousand more men are directly affected.

Omaha, Neb., May 2.—Eighteen hundred men, including teamsters, hotel and restaurant employees and members of the building trades have struck.

FRANK VICTIMS 62.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER READS MESSAGES.

Damage to the Mine Less Serious Than Reported—Several Persons Reported Killed Have Turned Up—More Additions to the Death-roll.

Ottawa, May 2.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Oliver asked the Prime Minister if he had received any further word regarding the disaster at Frank. Now that the accredited officials of the Government are on the ground and are aware of the extent of the actual disasters, both as to loss of life and loss of property, he thought it would be satisfactory to everyone to have whatever information the Government possessed made public.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, said that he had received further information from the Government accredited officials on the spot, but he was sorry to say that the information was not exact. It was sufficient, however, to show that the damage is of an extensive character. They are proceeding with the excavation, but are not yet able to report exactly the damage done. He had two telegrams from Mr. Pearce. One of them was very long, and it was unnecessary to read it all, as the information it contained was mainly covered by the other.

The other telegram was as follows:—
"Frank, N.W.T., April 30, 1903.—James A. Smart, Deputy Minister Interior, Ottawa, Ont.: No Welshmen killed. Reported death of Welshmen incorrect. Canadian-American has all works, excepting probably the tunnel, destroyed, all the machinery installed, and the new machinery not yet in place. Tipples scales, power house, horse stables, with horses, fire hose and all works totally wiped out by rock slide. Whether tunnel, 6,000 feet in length, will be available for future operation remains to be seen. Only damage to the mines is to Little Collieries, the French Company of Grassy Mountain, having one and half miles of railway knocked off. Space and site of same covered with rock to an average depth of fifty feet. (Signed) Wm. Pearce."

Continuing, Sir Wilfrid said:—As I have said, it will not be necessary to read the other telegram, which is very long, but I can give some parts of it, which may be material:—
"The following is probably more nearly a correct estimate of loss than any yet: 34 men, 8 women, 30 children killed; 11 injured, probably only two or three dangerous. The injured have good attendance. Only two killed in or near mine. Ten dead recovered; remainder nearly all buried under many feet of rock; possibly a few near edge of rock may be recovered. Of the killed twenty-one are miners at the balance ranchers, merchants, livermen, engineers, railway contractors, laborers. Six cottages were totally destroyed by rock, being swept away like feathers and broken into match-wood. One was partially ruined. Ten habitations of ranchers and others outside Frank were destroyed. All the machinery installed and large amount of new machinery near the tunnel mouth was totally destroyed; tipples scales, engine house and all other plant destroyed. It is uncertain whether or not the tunnel is materially injured, probably not."

Mr. Oliver asked whether it was possible to give a list of those who have been killed.

Sir Wilfrid replied he had no doubt it would be forwarded as soon as possible, but so far he had received the names of one man only.

Frank, Alta., May 2.—Six new names were added yesterday to the list of victims of Wednesday morning's rock-slide. The additional dead are: Abram Dixon, John Custafeson, Edward Cruse, David Johnson, Jacob Tommi and Jacob Sorri. One of the men reported yesterday as dead has been found alive.

The total number of known dead is sixty-three. Two others of the injured will also die.

Divisional Chief Engineer McHenry of the C.P.R. is hard at work directing the survey of the new line. The work of rebuilding will begin on Saturday.

Telegraphic communication to the east, which had been interrupted, was resumed yesterday.

The death roll has been increased to-day by the names of Wm. Bobbles and John Clark, all miners. Two brothers, named Wooster, cannot yet be accounted for, and it is feared that they are also among the lost. Two hitherto reported dead have been found to-day to be alive. They are B. Sumis and John Sorri. The total of the death list now numbers 84. The injured are reported progressing favorably. No new bodies have been thus far found in the mine, all have been identified but one.

Ernest Neahr, of the C. B. C., has accepted a position with a Detroit firm.

The fire returns for the month are:—April 1, 7:15, local alarm. Stone's dry goods store; April 5, 4:50 p. m. box 32, chimney fire, residence of Mrs. A. Arnold, Richmond street; April 9, 12:55 p. m., box 35, residence of Mr. Horn, Raleigh street.

DISCUSSING AUDITOR'S REPORT IN PRIVATE COMMITTEE CAUCUS

Commissioner Vester's Suggestion that the Proceedings Be Open to the Public Voted Down—Members Say There is Nothing to Conceal.

A special session of the Kent County Parliament is in progress in Harrison Hall. When the Warden, Thos. Robinson rang the gong yesterday afternoon at three o'clock every Councillor was in his place, as follows:—
Warden Robinson and Councillors Sturgis, McCoy, Vester, Roycraft, Chinnick, French, Grant, Somers, Sifton, Handy, Haggart, Hornall and Ross.

Warden Robinson opened the meeting with an explanation of the reason for calling it, namely, to consider the report of Auditor Frank H. Macpherson on his audit of the Treasurer's books. The Warden then called upon County Clerk Jonas Gosnell to read the report. The report appeared in yesterday's Planet in full.

Immediately after the reading of the auditor's report a deputation of lawyers, consisting of Judge Houston, Edwin Bell, J. A. Walker, S. B. Arnold, O. L. Lewis and M. Wilson were heard regarding the Kent Law Association. M. Houston and M. Wilson spoke, asking that more space be given in the association, as the large and increasing library of books demanded it. The matter was put in the hands of the Property committee.

"It is my intention," resumed Warden Robinson in connection with the auditor's report, "that the report be referred to the Finance committee, consisting of the whole Council, and adjournment be made to the committee rooms, where the matter can be fully discussed by the members."

MR. VESTER AND THE PRESS.

Mr. Vester—Why not have the discussion right here in the open, do the thing above board, and have all the matters made public by allowing the newspaper men to be in. There are men on the staff of the report and they should have the privilege to make their explanations right here in the open.

"The object is, Mr. Vester," replied the Warden, "to have a general personal of the report and consult one another's views on the different matters with the auditors, Messrs. Walker and Wilson."

"Will the reporters be allowed in?" asked Mr. Vester.

The Warden—No.

Mr. Vester—Well, then, there's something this Council doesn't want the people to know.

Mr. Ross—Mr. Vester is just talking to get into the newspapers. Why don't he move an amendment if he don't like the motion, and save all this valuable time.

Mr. Vester moved an amendment to the motion of Messrs. Sifton and Hornall, that the perusal be in committee.

Mr. Sturgis, in seconding the amendment, said he did not altogether agree with it, but the Council could vote one way or the other.

Mr. Vester's late colleague, C. L. VonGuten, has a charge against him in this report and he should have the privilege of making his explanations in public and before the new men of the Council.

Mr. Ross—The committee room is the proper place to discuss these matters.

Mr. Sifton—As mover of the motion I have nothing whatever to conceal, but we can talk so much better together in the committee room.

Mr. McCoy—The Warden has been in a position to know more about these things than we do, and would like to explain to us and have our views. There's no disposition whatever to smother anything up.

The Warden—I have nothing whatever to hide. What we want is the best way to deal with this report.

Mr. Vester—It's the best way that I want, too.

The Warden put the amendment first. Messrs. Vester and Sturgis voting for it, while the remainder voted for the original motion, and adjournment was made to the committee room.

SATURDAY MORNING.

The County Council were in committee all morning and only resumed about noon. A communication was received from the Auditor Macpherson in type and copies of it could be secured for distribution in the townships at a low figure. On motion the communication was left till the afternoon.

The account of Auditor F. H. Macpherson was presented. The account amounts to $1,349.83. The following is a copy of same:—

Paid C. E. Beaton for writing up 12 Land Registers by special arrangement, $60.
Total, $1,349.83.

DEATH'S SUMMONS

Edward McCorvie, one of the most prosperous young farmers of Mull, passed away yesterday after a long wearisome illness. Mr. McCorvie comes from one of the best respected families in Harwich, and universal regret is felt at his untimely end. The family also have the undivided sympathy of the entire community in their sad affliction.

Deceased was 48 years of age and was born and brought up on the farm where he resided previous to his death. Two years ago he was troubled with a growth on his throat, which afterwards developed into paralysis and caused his death. He was in Hamilton for six months taking X-ray treatment and returned home last March to all appearances much improved. A short time, however, a turn was made for the worst and his death is the result.

Out of a family of nine children Edward is the first deceased, which probably makes his death felt more keenly than otherwise. The other children are Mrs. (Major) Rowe, Ridgetown; School Trustee John McCorvie, of this city; Miss Mary McCorvie at home; Mrs. James Anderson, of Howard; Miss Bell McCorvie at home; Mrs. Joseph Baird, Harwich; Archie McCorvie, of the firm of Watson & McCorvie, grocers, Mull, and Mrs. McVicar, of London.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at half past three o'clock to the English cemetery. Rev. A. E. Jamieson, of whose church at Bethel deceased was a consistent member, will conduct the funeral services.

HE RESIGNS

Superintendent of the House of Refuge Decides to Quit His Position.

Action Taken as the Result of Auditor's Report and Views of County Council.

The County Council in committee had an interesting session. When the report of the Provincial Auditor was read yesterday the Superintendent of the House of Refuge was mentioned as not having made quick returns of money received from the sale of some logs. The Superintendent, Mr. Arnold, asked to be heard by the Council in committee of the whole, that he might explain his position.

He, however, found so many of the Council opposed to him that he decided to send in his resignation at once, and told the Council that he would be out of the House of Refuge by Monday night.

The County Council were in committee all morning and only resumed about noon. A communication was received from the Auditor Macpherson in type and copies of it could be secured for distribution in the townships at a low figure. On motion the communication was left till the afternoon.

BANQUETTED GEORGE

Geo. Merritt, of Glenheim, formerly of Chatham, was rendered a farewell banquet at the Sheldon House, Glenheim, Thursday evening, prior to his departure for the Canadian Northwest.

About 30 of the business men of Glenheim were present. Mr. Merritt and W. J. Baird left to-day for Calgary, N. W. T. They are taking 300 head of cattle with them. A party from Ridgeway is also going and are taking cattle too. The two parties have combined and have secured a special C. P. R. train to take the live stock West. William Blight, of this city, attended the banquet to Mr. Merritt.

HEALTH COMMENT

"The cause of this diphtheria and other diseases prevalent in Chatham," said ex-Ald. Phelps to a Planet reporter this morning, "is explained in the trapping of the sewers into the river, which was done a few years ago. The trap goes right down into the water and there's no way for the stench to get out unless it backs up, so naturally it backs up." "Another thing," continued the ex-alderman, "the sewers haven't been thoroughly flushed in years. True the hose has been turned in them but they never have been really cleaned. It's an important matter, the health of the city of Chatham, and it should be thoroughly gone into by capable persons and studied out."

CHATHAM TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

The regular monthly meeting of the township of Chatham council was held at the Township hall on Monday, the sixth day of April, 1903, pursuant to adjournment. The members were all present and the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

John Soutor and other ratepayers were present and presented a petition requesting that a new school section be formed, out of portions of sections 9, 13 and 14 in the township of Chatham, the petition was received and read, but no action taken.

A letter was read from James Travis, requesting to have his statute labor commuted and that he be allowed to perform the same on the south side of the 12 and 13 concessions road, just west of the Prince Albert side road.

Mr. Robert Burns was present and submitted a report stating that the Glasgow drain is in a good condition and that his time spent as commissioner was six days—Report adopted.

The boards of trustees of school sections numbered six and eight were present pursuant to notice that the council intends to pass a by-law changing the boundaries of said sections.

A notice that the Irving drain is very much in need of repair was read of lot 3, con. 11.

A letter was read from the Hamilton Bridge Co., offering to erect a steel swing bridge with wooden floor, Tupperville for the sum of $9,125 and from the Rev. and Elliott, general contractors, St. Catharines, Ont., offering to construct the substructure for said proposed bridge according to the plans and specifications of Engineer W. G. McGeorge for the sum of $10,000.

Moved by Mr. Thompson and Mr. Tompkins that the statute labor of James Travis be commuted for a period of three years on condition that he complete a portion of the road ditch on the south side of the 13th concession road as agreed on, to the satisfaction of the commissioner of the council having charge of the fourth division, said commissioner to report when work is finished.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Thompson and Mr. George that the by-law detaching the 3 of lots 13 and 14, concession from school section No. 8 and adding the same to section 6, all in the township of Chatham be finally passed.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Abraham and Mr. Tompkins that the tender of the Hamilton Bridge Co. for the steel structure for Tupperville bridge be accepted and that steel floor stringers be substituted in place of the wooden ones mentioned in said tender also that the tender of Bowen and Elliott, St. Catharines, Ont., be accepted for the substructure for the proposed bridge and that the reeve and Councillors Abraham and Tompkins are hereby appointed and empowered as a committee to do all things necessary for letting, closing and executing the contract with the said companies for

ONE STEP MORE

Will be fatal to the sleep-walker. Will he draw back or will he take the final, fatal step? A great many people are in peril like the sleep-walker. They are diseased. The disease is progressing day by day. The time comes when one more step away from health is fatal. The man who has suffered from indigestion or gastric trouble goes some night to a dinner and returns home to find he has taken that last step from health which can never be taken back.

To neglect the cure of indigestion or some other form of stomach trouble is dangerous. It is also incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and eliminates all poisons from the system.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes Jas. R. Andrews, Esq., of 1200 Main St., Hingham, Pa. "I was taken ill with what our physician said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you, and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped—being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

You can get the People's Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, paper covers, free by sending 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

the said work.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Abraham and Mr. Tompkins that as application has been made by Mr. Conner and others to have some trees trimmed and some cut down and removed on Taylor avenue and also by Edgar French to have some trees cut along the fifth concession, that the consent of this council be hereby given for the same and that commissioner of the first division is empowered to have said work done.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. George and Mr. Tompkins that the time for the tax collectors to return their collection rolls to the treasurer be extended to the 15th of May, 1903.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. George and Mr. Tompkins that the account of J. R. Guttridge for disinfecting the house of Mr. Barr, infected with smallpox and the account of Dr. Charteris, medical officer, in connection with the same matter referred to Councillor Tompkins to investigate and with power to settle.—Carried.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Alex. Williston, commissioner Skinner drainage works, $62; Frank Davis, two-thirds value two sheep, $8; B. Holmes, inspecting sheep killed by dogs, $1.50; Warren Myers, repairing a sawdust $1; Josephus Miller, keeping Mrs. Taylor, one month, $4; A. McDonnell, C.E., inspecting drains and lands, and witness fees Hoyle's law suit, $18.50; Wallaceburg Herald, printing audit report, $5.00; John Johnston, two-thirds value sheep killed, $10.66; J. W. Brown, part salary as collector, $100; Thomas Brewster, repairing ferry, $1.50; John Wilcox, running ferry, $27; Robt. Burns, six days commissioner Glasgow drain, $12.

Meeting adjourned.

A. MCARTHUR, Clerk.

The Success of

Paine's Celery Compound

Has Astonished and Gratified

Medical Men Everywhere

It is the Only Remedy that

Positively Bestows Health and Lasting Strength.

Years ago when a great public demand arose for a remedy for nervous ailments as well as a reliable blood purifier, Dr. Edward E. Phelps, Professor of Materia Medica and Medical Botany, of Dartmouth Medical College, gave to diseased and suffering men and women his great discovery Paine's Celery Compound. The success of this wonderful prescription has been phenomenal. No other remedy known to medical science enjoys such a widespread reputation today.

In this month of May when so many are sick, Paine's Celery Compound makes people well. It is the one true specific prescribed by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system; it is a positive cure for sleeplessness, wasting strength, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, and all blood diseases. Mr. S. Hanna, a respected resident of Manvers, Ont., writes thus:

"After severe sickness and suffering for a length of time, I am happy to state that I was made well by Paine's Celery Compound. To be raised up from a low and weak state, inside of two weeks is a marvellous work, which nothing else but Paine's Celery Compound could have accomplished. After using the first half bottle of the compound, I was able to dig the holes for a forty rod fence, and help to build it. Before using Paine's Celery Compound I could not sleep, and had no appetite; now I enjoy good sleep and a healthful appetite. Paine's Celery Compound is worth its weight in gold to any sufferer. It is the best medicine in the world."

ASPHALT BLOCK

Mr. J. G. Kerr, Mr. R. J. Gardiner, Mr. Ed. Smith, Mr. Chris. Smith, ex-Alderman Waddell, and some others formed a deputation to Windsor and Detroit, Thursday, for the purpose of inspecting the asphalt block pavement in Windsor and Detroit.

They all report a hard day's work, and are all enthusiastic in the praises of the asphalt block. Mr. Kerr stated that in the city of Detroit they were given an opportunity of comparing it with nearly all other kinds of pavement.

In Windsor, Ouellette Ave. and parts of Sandwich St. are paved with the asphalt block, and the streets are very handsome in appearance, and residents are very loud in praise of their pavement.

In the city of Detroit, the deputation visited John R. St., where the pavement has been down four years, the subway on Woodward Ave., and a number of other streets. All of these streets have the asphalt block for a pavement, in whole or part. They were careful to interview the lively men, carter, and residents on the streets, and there was but one verdict, and that was that it was the best pavement in the city. They were particularly careful to examine the subway, that being the pavement which the Evening News most strongly condemns. At the point of the foundation of the street railway has been badly laid or the street cars have been allowed to run upon it before it was set, and in consequence it is sunk from three to six inches below the surface of the pavement, and has carried down with it the foundation of the asphalt block pavement for two or three feet from the rail. At this place the support of the asphalt block has gone away and it is left in an irregular and disturbed condition, but the blocks are as hard as ever, and ex-Alderman Waddell tried in vain to break one of them.

It is proposed to lay some 10,000 yards of this pavement on Gleggery Ave., in Windsor, and on that account a keen interest is being taken in Windsor in the subject.

Mr. Kerr says that the deputation was convinced that the asphalt block, as now being made, was the safest investment in the paving line that could be made.

Bicycle vs. Horse
A bicycle can be bought for at least one-fifth the cost of a horse and his appurtenances, harness, buggy, etc. Its cost of maintenance amounts to nothing in comparison with the trouble and expense of the equine; in fact, the expense of owning a horse compels most of us to do without one. Yet the cost of a modern bicycle is less than that of a horse of nearly everyone who wants one. And the wheel-to-day is so solidly built and simply constructed that it lasts for years and gives satisfactory service. No doubt these are reasons why there are to-day in use more bicycles than ever though we hear less about the bicycle than when it was comparatively a rare novelty.

BARR COLONY
The following letter from the Rev. Mr. Barr, the Director of the All British Colony, has been received at the offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway:

As the Founder and Director of the All British Colony, I have pleasure herewith of reporting to you my great satisfaction with the arrangements made by the Canadian Pacific Railway Authorities in the transportation of my people, numbering nearly 200, from St. John, N. B., to Saskatoon, N. W. The officials and the employees have treated us with great courtesy, and managed the transport of the party with great ability. I desire especially to mention the staff at St. John. The Superintendent at that division and those associated with him secured the despatch of the party with promptness, and at every point en route every facility was accorded us. On arrival here I found Mr. Dilling, the Superintendent of this division, and Mr. St. Laurent, your agent at Saskatoon, and staff, had made such arrangements that the party was detained without loss of time, and the supplies, which were of the utmost importance, have been brought forward with such despatch that everything was in readiness for the comfort of all concerned. My Colony are loud in their praises of the manner in which they have been treated by your company, and I need not say this will have its effect on the British public, from all classes of which this party has been drawn. There are no less than 10,000 in England, Ireland and Scotland towards Canada, and in the near future we expect thousands more will turn their faces to the fruitful valley of the Saskatchewan.

I shall be glad if you can communicate to all concerned my satisfaction with their services so willingly rendered.

(Signed) J. M. PARR, Saskatoon, April 21st, 1903.

PECULIAR EXPERIENCE
Dr. John Rannie, son of Tax Collector William Rannie, is walking the streets in Berlin, Germany. The Maple City doctor didn't understand the German way of doing things and his lack of knowledge in this particular caused him a great deal of trouble. It seems that foreigners in Berlin have to get a passport within six days of their arrival if they intend to remain. Dr. Rannie knew nothing about this and was surprised one morning when aroused from his bed about six o'clock by the German police. As Dr. Rannie had only been in the city six days he was very much perplexed as to what the trouble could be. As soon as his oversight was explained to him he called to his aunt, Mrs. Rannie, in London, England, and secured an affidavit as to his identity. The British Consul accepted the affidavit and the passport was granted. Dr. Rannie, despite his little inconvenience, likes Berlin very much and is enjoying his year abroad. He will stay in Berlin till December.

TEAMSTERS TAKE A HAND.

New Phase of the 'Longshoremen's Strike.'

Montreal, May 2.—A new phase of the longshoremen's strike has materialized, when the heavy teamsters of the C.P.R. and Shelden Companies and the freight-handlers refused to receive or despatch any goods passing through the hands of the non-union men at work on the wharves. This move is of considerable importance, as it affects the business of the country even more than it has already been affected by the strike proper.

Notices were sent out by the International Association of Teamsters and Heavy Carters to the large transportation companies. At this time of year, when all the carters of the city are at work night and day moving household furniture from house to house, no emergency men or teams can be procured to take the place of the ones who so substantially sympathize with the 'longshoremen. Even could any be obtained, the charges would be more than the profits on the goods to be carted would stand.

Merchants all over the country are feeling the effects of the tie-up. For instance, a Toronto dealer, who had quantities of fruit on the steamer 'Fremont,' wired to-day to have it forwarded at once.

As no teams are available, the freight-handlers' strike is felt in the railway sheds, where much of the goods handled by the 'longshoremen' passes. Great risk is also run by exposure of goods to the weather. The sheds on the wharves are not in shape to receive cargoes from the steamers.

The result is that much of what has already been unloaded lies about uncovered. Large quantities of tarpaulins were taken to the wharves on Thursday, but the military officers have appropriated the greater part of them to protect the route from the cold and threatening weather.

Contrary to expectations, May Day passed without the least demonstration; the vicinity of the waterfront was the quietest it has been since the troops were called out on Tuesday.

PARIS GREETES THE KING.

Most Cordial Reception All Along the Line.

Paris, May 2.—The keynote of the attitude of the Parisian public was given yesterday when King Edward, in the uniform of a Field Marshal, descended from the train, shook hands with President Loubet, and exchanged a few cordial words with him. The band of the Garde Republicaine played "God Save the King" as the King came to the station, and shouts of acclamation burst from the compact crowd behind the cordons of troops. The King paused for a moment at the step of the carriage as it approached at this outburst of cordiality. He seemed to be in robust health, and his face was bronzed.

So far the visit is a decided success, surpassing the most optimistic forecasts, and Le Francais voices popular sentiment with the words in heavy black type, "Welcome to our guest, King Edward the Seventh. Parisians tender to the King the same respectful and affectionate sentiments that they felt for the Prince of Wales. May the meeting of King Edward the Seventh and the President of the Republic strengthen the ties which should unite two powerful, free and progressive civilizing nations."

To relieve a nervous headache apply hot water to the temples and back of the neck. A hot foot bath will also materially aid.

PUBLIC WORKS ESTIMATES.

House of Commons in Committee of Supply.

Ottawa, May 2.—The House spent the greater part of Friday in supply on public works estimates, and the discussions were not of great public interest. The rearrangement of the Public Works and the Army Departments were the subject of some cross-firing.

Mr. Frank Oliver introduced bills respecting the St. Mary's River Railway Company and to incorporate the Cardiff Railway Company. Other bills introduced were: Respecting the Medicine Hat & Northwest Railway Company, by Mr. H. A. Logan, and respecting the Elgin & Havelock Railway Company, by Mr. G. W. Fowler.

Mr. Fielding moved that the House on Tuesday next consider the resolution, of which he has given notice, authorizing the Governor in Council to grant a subsidy of 3 per cent. on the cost of constructing dry docks where required. The House concurred in the motion.

Mr. Fitzpatrick's bill to amend the Dominion Controversial Elections Act, and Sir Frederick Borden's bill amending the militia pension act, 1901, were passed through their final stages.

The House went into Committee of Supply at 3.45 on the public works estimates for harbors and rivers. The items for Quebec Province were first taken up.

When the item for a wharf at Murray's Bay was under discussion, Mr. Ingram recalled the statement by the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, during the late election campaign, that the Public Works Department was to be divided, and a portion of the duties transferred to the Marine Department. Mr. Ingram asked what portion of the Public Works Department is now under the control of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Hon. James Sutherland stated in reply that there had been no division of the duties.

Mr. Borden insisted that the statement published in the public press had not been repudiated by Mr. Prefontaine, and asked, if the announcement had been made with the consent of his colleagues, why it had not been an article in the House before this. After some further cross-firing, in reply to a question by Mr. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the Government's policy on the matter would be announced at an early day, probably on Tuesday.

The following private bills were given third readings:—To incorporate the Federal Oil Co.—Mr. Belcourt. To confer on the Commissioner of Patents certain powers for the relief of the International Railway Appliance Co.—Mr. Brock. To incorporate the Quebec, Saguenay & Gulf of St. Lawrence Railway Co.—Mr. Girard. Respecting the Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada.—Mr. Geoffroy.

The House rose at 10.15, after passing all the Quebec items excepting, and two votes, for immigration and the Alaska Boundary Commission, that were immediately required.

FOREST FIRES RAGING.

Young Girl Burned to Death in Hull Township—Losses Along the Line of the Central Ontario Railway.

Ottawa, May 2.—Abbie Perry aged 28 years, was burned to death Thursday while helping the family beat back the forest fires from their home in Hull Township, about twelve miles from Ottawa. By some means she became separated from the others and was surrounded by the fire. Yesterday her charred body was found. The fires raged all through the Gatineau yesterday, the people in Wuyon and Kazabura having to turn out en masse to save their homes. Several farm buildings are reported to have been burned.

Chawinigan Falls, Que., May 2.—Bush fires are raging very bad all around this place. We are surrounded by fire, and the wind is blowing a terrible gale.

Bellevue, May 2.—Bush fires have been raging for several days in the Townships of Dunganon and Faraday. Yesterday the fire destroyed the fences and damaged the track of the Central Ontario Railway, nine miles south of Bancroft, so that the southbound train could not pass. Repairs were made yesterday.

WELL SHOT

The Raleigh Oil Company's well near Charing Cross was shot yesterday by Mr. Booth. There were about 40 present at the shooting, including nearly every one of the company. It is claimed that the well looks very promising indeed and will be a good producer. The company are not offering any stock on the market, but it is supposed that they will, in the near future. It is their present intention of commencing at once to put down another well.

ELAINE OF THE ORCHARDS

By Martha McCulloch-Williams
Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company

The joy of midsummer possessed Elaine. Commonly she was pale, with shadowed eyes and piteously drooping mouth. Today the shadows, the drooping, had vanished. She smiled until dimples played hide and seek through cheeks faintly pink as the sweetbrier in the hedgerow. She was picking the first ripe peaches in the young orchard that was her mother's pride. It had but just come into bearing and was full three weeks ahead of anything the neighborhood had ever known. Elaine and her mother were plausibly glad that the ripening fell in with the date of the big meeting.

The peach basket would go to church tomorrow along with other baskets overflowing with good things. There were to be three sermons, with dinner and supper in between; much choice gossip also, with, incidentally, love-making. Everybody within ten miles round would be there. That meant to Elaine mainly sight and speech of Allan May. He would be sure to fetch his mother, a lady of gracious speech, but coldly calculating eyes. Elaine dreaded the eyes, yet was glad Allan had a mother to look out for. It saved her the torture of seeing him gallanting other girls ever so much prettier than her own pale self.

Until he came she had never loved anybody. She was sure that he loved her. Had he not kissed her fingers and called them "precious" after she had played for him a whole evening through? He had said too: "I must be free before I marry. My mother, you know, holds everything in trust until I am thirty." It was easy for Elaine to persuade herself that he did not speak out because he was too honorable to ask any woman to wait for him five years.

Gossip had it his mother was bent on matching him with her niece, Madge Clayton, who lived in the next county. But the young pair were close and friendly comrades, seeing through the scheming of their elders and finding in it an excellent joke.

Madge came often to the May house, but somehow Elaine had not seen her since the era of pigtail and ruffled pinafores. As she nestled the cream and pink peaches amid the vine leaves in her basket she seemed to see in them hints of her rival's fairness. Just as she crowded in the last a shiver ran through her; then her heart beat like mad. The orchard ran down to the road. Two people came riding there, and through the hoofbeats she caught Allan's voice.

In a minute they would be upon her. Instinctively Elaine swung herself to an ambush of thick green leaves. As she crouched, shaking all over, the nearing hoofbeats stopped. Clear across the silence she heard Allan say: "You'll have to marry me, Madge, unless you can think of some other way out. Oh, no! I am not committed, except morally. It was the music laid hold on me. Elaine can make piano keys say the most wonderful things. I really forgot she was a woman until—There are things one cannot put in words!"

"Evidently," a rich voice answered. "But since you have spoken so much you must tell the whole truth. Did you draw back the very minute you found out your mistake? If you did, you are not wholly despicable. Otherwise—"

Elaine, gasping, felt the tentative pause. A rustling wind led her through the leaves. A little young goddess, yellow haired, with straight brows and unsmiling mouth, looked full in Allan's face. Her hand lay easily on the reins, but the other, clenching the whip within it bent. Love may be blind; jealousy has eyes that see far and deep. By the tense clutch Elaine understood. Madge loved her cousin, yet had strength to sit in judgment of him.

"You are silent. That is answer enough," Madge said after a long minute; then, with the least hard breath: "The way out is the right and true one. You have taught a woman to love you; now teach yourself to love her as she deserves."

"It is your fault after all, Madge," Allan said, sighing. "You ought to have made me love—oh, I know you could have done it—but chose instead to laugh me out of sentiment, because, forsooth, you wanted your own way. I don't love you as matters stand, but, on my soul, when I look at you I do not understand how I ever kept from it."

"Go to Elaine!" Madge commanded, wheeling her horse.

Allan kept doggedly beside her. "Tomorrow will be time enough," he said. "Poor Elaine! She is a million times too good for me—so much too good I tremble to think of taking her happiness in my hands."

As they galloped off Elaine crept from her covert and sank beside her basket, a huddled, moaning heap. She lay there until sundown, love fighting hard with woman's pride. And love won out. That night all her prayer was, "Lord, Lord, let him love me or else let me die."

Allan came to her next day as she knelt beside the peach basket, lifting up pink flushed beauties from their nests of cool green leaves. His whisper in her ear made her cheeks outflush the pinkest peach, but she shook her head when he made to raise her and lead her away. "I will come presently," she said. "Mother cannot get through dinner without me." Yet when he left her she got suddenly white, and her hands trembled so she almost let fall a laden dish.

Time ambles withal in spite of heart-aches. Somehow dinner got itself over and left Elaine free. She slipped away toward the spring in the edge of the grove.

Half way Madge overtook her and said with no pretense of greeting, "You must not mind about anything today, only being happy."

For a minute they walked in silence down the sun flecked path. It bordered the road by which teams were taken to water. There was a sharp turn in the road where the path crossed it to reach the well head. As the two came to it a thunder of hoofs bore down on them, cut through with weak, terrified screams. Wild Janie Lee had ventured to drive the wickedest pair upon the grounds. They had taken the bits in their teeth and were running away.

Madge sprang back to let them pass, tripped on a loose stone and fell forward almost under their feet. Elaine darted, caught the leader's bit and sverred him sharply aside. He reared, striking out with both hoofs, but she clung fast until stronger hands stayed the maddened beasts, then slid into Allan's arms, with blood gushing over her lips. Between the spurts she whispered to him: "It has all come right, I know. I had to save her—because she gave you to me. You must grieve for me—a little bit. But God knew best. He heard my prayers."

FREAKS OF WEATHER

FOGS, WINDS AND STORMS OF VARIOUS PECULIARITIES.

The "Williwau" That Spends Itself Upon Tierra del Fuego—The "Fohn" Wind of Switzerland and the Ferocious "Purga" of Siberia.

In mountainous countries, such as Scotland, a fog usually forms at the top of a hill and works downward. The cold mountain top, cooling a warm current of wet air, renders its moisture visible, and this cold fog, being of lower temperature than the air below and therefore heavier, drops gradually to the valley. Colorado, however, can show an exception to this general rule. There in winter the frost on the low ground is so intense that a fog often forms in the valleys and works slowly up the mountain side. This is known by the Indian name of "pogonip."

Peru has hundreds of square miles along its coast of rainless country. In this tract rain is never known to fall from one century's end to another. Yet the region is not entirely barren of vegetation. Some parts of it, indeed, are comparatively fertile. This is due to the extraordinary fogs known as "garuas." They prevail every night from May to October after a summer that is sultry and extend up to a level of 1,200 feet above the sea. Above 1,200 feet rain falls.

The "calina" of Spain is a fog we may be grateful that we do not have. It is a dry, yellow mist which sometimes hides the sun for days at a time over vast tracts of country and makes the sky look as though covered with leaden gauze.

Another peculiar freak of weather we must be thankful to escape is the "williwau." This form of storm is confined to that faroff island Tierra del Fuego. The coast is indented with deep fiords crowned with high mountains. Down from their gorges drops the "williwau." A low, hoarse muttering is heard in the distance. Suddenly, without the least preliminary puff, a fearful blast of wind drops upon the sea. The water is not raised into waves, but driven into fine dust. Fortunately the shock lasts but ten or twelve seconds, and calm follows at once, for no vessel could stand such a wind for even half a minute. During the coming and going of a "williwau" the barometer may be watched to drop a tenth of an inch or more and rise again at once.

Similar in name if not in nature is the "willy willy" with which Kalgoorlie gold diggers are acquainted, to their cost. "Dust devils," some people call them. Half a dozen may be seen dancing harmlessly along over the desert when suddenly one will dive into the city and fill all the shop windows in Hannan street with dust and sand, blinding every passerby. The "willy willy" is a thief of the worst kind. It will steal the washing from a line or the roof from a shed. In some parts of the country wire ropes are anchored over the roofs of huts to save them from the attacks of these odd little whirlwinds.

Most people have heard of the "fohn" wind of Switzerland, that warm, dry gale which comes over the mountains and in spring will melt two feet of snow in a day. Its cause is most peculiar. The "fohn" comes from the south. As it strikes the Alps it is wet, like most gales which have crossed the sea, but the south face of the mountains receives its rain, and as it crosses the summits it is dry. The moving air current is also compressed and therefore dynamically heated. As it falls into the northern valleys in a cataract of air it gains heat at the rate of half a degree for every 100 feet of descent. It usually blows for two or three days, causing great suffering by its dry heat and oppression. While it lasts the temperature is about thirty degrees above the average. The "chinkoo" of British Columbia and the western side of the United States is very similar to the "fohn."

England has adopted the American word "blizzard" for a gale with snow. But the blizzard, however, must yield to the ferocious "buran" of the central steppes of Asia and the "purga" of northern Siberia. To be caught in gales such as these means death in a very few minutes, however warmly clad, for the very air becomes unbearably cold, so filled is it with spikes of ice drift. "Khamsin" is the hot wind from the desert which blows out of the Sahara upon Egypt. The word means fifty, from the idea that it lasts for fifty days. The "khamsin" is terribly hot and dry and sometimes brings pestilence with it.

Red snow we have all heard of. It is caused by a microscopic infusorial growth and only occurs in snow that has lain unmelting for a long time. In Spitzbergen recently green snow has been noted tinted by similar organisms. "Gold dust" snow has often been seen, but only in spring. At one time it was a mystery how the surface of new fallen snow came to be strewn with a shining yellow deposit. Now it is known to be due to the pollen of pine trees.

Chicken Pox and Smallpox.

The eruption of chicken pox has an imperfect resemblance to that of smallpox, but can never be mistaken for it by the experienced eye. In smallpox the eruption of papules first appears on the forehead, the "papules" always become "blisters," and the latter always develop into pustules—that is, sooner or later their contents get changed into pus. Then the center of the pustules undergoes a peculiar sinking that in some measure resembles the depressions in a cushion or padded chair where the "button" are seen. In chicken pox there is no such uniformity of sequence, and the depressions are absent.

A Hospital Case

There was a hurry call for the ambulance of the City Hospital. In the course of a few moments a very sick woman was brought in on a stretcher—she was pale as death and evidently suffering keen agony. There was a hasty examination and consultation, and in less than a quarter of an hour the poor creature was on the operating table to undergo an operation for ovaritis.

The above is an accurate account of an incident which occurred in New York recently; the young woman in question had warnings enough of her dangerous condition in the terrible pains and burning sensation low down in her left side. She had no one to advise her, and she suffered torture until it was too late for anything to save her life.

Women should remember that if they do not care to tell a doctor their troubles, they should be willing to tell them to a woman, who stands ever ready to advise and help them. Again we state that Mrs. Pinkham's advice is freely and confidentially given to every one who asks for it. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The following letters prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the power to cure, and does cure thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries, womb, and all other derangements of the female organism.

MRS. OTTOSON SAVED FROM A SURGICAL OPERATION.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot thank you enough for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. If it had not been for your medicine, I think I would have died."

"I will tell you how I suffered. I could hardly walk, was unable to sleep or eat. Menstruation was irregular. At last I had to stay in my bed, and flowed so badly that they sent for a doctor, who said I had inflammation of the ovaries, and must go through an operation, as no medicine could help me, but I could not do that."

"I received a little book of yours, and after reading it I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now a well woman. I shall praise your medicine as long as I live, and also recommend the same to any one suffering as I was."

MRS. MINNIE OTTOSON, Otho, Iowa. (June 9, 1901.)

Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that these thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the great Woman's Remedy for Women's Ills. Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Moral—Stick to the medicine that you know is best. Write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice.

INFLAMMATION OF THE OVARIES CURED WITHOUT THE KNIFE.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express my gratitude for the restored health and happiness Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought into my life."

"I had suffered for three years with terrible pains at the time of menstruation, and did not know what the trouble was until the doctor pronounced it inflammation of the ovaries, and proposed an operation. I felt so weak and sick that I felt sure I could not survive the ordeal, and so I told him that I would not undergo it. The following week I read an advertisement in the paper of your Vegetable Compound in such an emergency, and so I decided to try it. Great was my joy to find that I actually improved after taking two bottles, so I kept taking it for ten weeks, and at the end of that time I was cured. I had gained eighteen pounds and was in excellent health, and am now."

"You surely deserve great success, and you have my very best wishes."—MISS ALICE BAILEY, 50 North Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga., Treasurer St. Francis Benevolent Association.

TELLS THE PEOPLE

ABOUT HIS

RHEUMATISM CURE

In a Letter to the Press.

IT CURES TO STAY CURED.

More Testimonials Being Received—The Excitement Continuing—Two Extraordinary Cures.

"The quickest cure with the least possible discomfort insures the most permanent results, with the smallest amount of damage."—MUNYON.

"I am well satisfied," writes Prof. Munyon to the press, "with the enthusiastic way in which the people of Canada are talking about my Rheumatism Cure. It demonstrates in the most positive manner that my Rheumatism specific is benefiting and curing rheumatism. That the cases are severe and of long-standing—that they have resisted all other treatments but mine—is tremendously significant of the value of these little sugar-coated pellets. There is not a case, no matter how chronic it may be, that cannot be cured by my Rheumatism remedy—quickly and for all time. In regard to my Rheumatism Remedy curing quickly I have heard it said that, for this reason, it is not a permanent cure—merely a concealment of the disease, and that it will break out more virulent than ever. In stopping the Rheumatic pains quickly, I adopt the same rule of therapeutics that holds good in gastro-intestinal troubles, or any other derangement of the system, namely: the quickest cure with the least possible discomfort insures the most permanent results, with the smallest amount of damage. Trifle with Rheumatism and the injury goes on. Go at it resolutely and boldly with my Rheumatism cure and the injury stops, because every vestige of the disease is driven from the system, the acid is neutralized and the malady cured. Many of my former patients in Canada who were cured six years ago, and who have never had a return of their trouble, vouch for the permanence of their cure by my specific, as do many thousands the world over."

ROBERT BUNKALL.

"I received one vial of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure at the distribution at

The News-Office, and it has been of untold benefit to me. I could not move my arm, it pained me so much; now I can move it freely. I have no more shooting pains, and I believe I am cured. I recommend this wonderful remedy to everybody afflicted with Rheumatism. Robert Bunkall, 1109 King street east, Toronto."

MRS. F. HIMBS.

"I tried all sorts of medicine and physicians to get relief from Rheumatism, and the best I could get would be a slight relief for a few hours. Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is above them all for taking away pain. I feel so free from any kind of distress that I know I am cured. Mrs. F. Himbs, 928 Givens street, Toronto."

WHAT IS WORN.

Separate Waists—Bare Arms No Longer the Fashion.

Bare arms, except for very full dress occasions, are not seen so much. Even ball gowns boast some suggestion of a sleeve. The best frocks are a perfect harmony of color even to the trimmings.

The intelligent observer cannot but be struck by the improvement in shirt waists. The blouse is no longer a sloppy, untidy garment, but even those which are composed of the most inexpensive fabrics have a certain style of their own, are extremely well cut about the neck and shoulders and have plenty of fullness across the bust, which used to be the chief fault with the ready-made waist.

Unless a woman wants something very exclusive and expensive she had better buy her waists ready made at one of the big stores.

Fancy wraps will be a feature of the summer season. Now that the tailor made is no longer considered dressy, gowns will be worn for all important occasions, and this makes it necessary to have some light, becoming wrap of lace or silk to protect the wearer's shoulders on cool days.

Many of the smartest new wraps are made entirely of all over lace trimmed with fringe and lined with mousseline de soie or silk.

The cut shows a smart silk waist made with a fancy embroidered collar and a soft frilling down the front. This would be well carried out in pale blue silk. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR THE SUMMER SEASON.

Costumes of Thin Cloth—Chiffon and Lace Boas.

The new floral hats and toques will certainly be fashionable during the entire season, as there is no possibility of confusing the exquisite copies of roses and orchids with the cheaper imitations.

VEILING SUIT.

tions. Red and pink fuchsias and begonias with waxy foliage are not likely to be copied in cotton, while the delicate roses in a soft coloring, with dark green leaves, are quite unlike the common type of flower.

Stunning boas of chiffon are completed particularly in the brown shades with ecru lace or Russian galloon.

The woman who dresses smartly will enrich her wardrobe by a coat and skirt of thin cloth with medallions of black guipure laid on black panne and with a deep belt of panne with little tabs of the cloth and panne intermixed and finished with steel buttons.

Snood gloves, both white and black, are taking the place of the glove kids in women's favor. They make the hand look smaller and are far easier to clean.

The cut shows a costume of blue veiling over deep red silk. The hat is of yellow straw and trimmed with a blue and white scarf. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE NEW RAILWAY.

Hon. F. E. Latchford on Temiskaming Route—Drove Out Fifty Miles From North Bay—Great Progress.

Just before the opening of the Legislature Hon. F. E. Latchford returned from a tour along the line of the Temiskaming Railway. He expressed his great pleasure with the progress of the work. "Construction has proceeded continuously throughout the winter," he said, "and no difficulty has been experienced in handling either earth or rock. Between 1,900 and 2,000 men are now at work. The sum of the grading completed to the end of February is about 22½ miles. This covers some of the heaviest portions of the work. Grading is in fact in progress north of Boyce Lake, 50 miles from North Bay, and the most northerly point I was able to reach. Here the contractors have established a large depot for supplies. During the winter from 150 to 200 teams have been continuously engaged in drawing in supplies from North Bay over a road constructed by the contractors. At Boyce Lake quite a village has sprung up in the last two months. Five large warehouses have been erected, and a sixth is in process of construction. Stores aggregating over 3,000 tons have been collected from all parts of the Province of Ontario. Every town in the Province has already felt the stimulus of the demand created by the construction of the railway.

Progress So Far Made.

"The line along Trout Lake and the North River, where it rises some three or four hundred feet, encounters some heavy work. The grades, however, are easy, the maximum being 4 per cent. going north and 14 per cent. going south. The maximum curve is six degrees, and there will not be many as sharp as this, most of the curves being of one and two degrees. There are no reverse curves, and the ends of all curves are eased. Piles are being driven at all points where piling is necessary over the whole of the first 60 miles, and all work of this kind will be completed before the ice break up. The bridge timber for the first year's work has been taken out near Moose Lake and sawn. By June it is estimated that 40 miles will be ready for the steel, and track-laying will proceed at the rate of about 25 miles per month afterwards. Lake Temagami, it is confidently expected, will be reached by the end of the present summer. The contractor states that he will commence grading southward from New Liskeard during the summer, and hopes to complete twenty miles from that end this year. No difficulty has been experienced in providing the line along the road. Tamarac is found in immense quantities, and although the trees are all dead, having been killed, like all tamaracs throughout America, by the sawfly about eight or ten years ago, they are still sound, and make excellent ties.

No Material Needed.

"It is probable that in addition to the 175,000 contracted for, about 40,000 additional ties will be required in view of the progress that is being made, and about 2,000 tons of steel rails in excess of the quantity first ordered. The embankments are sixteen feet wide and cuttings twenty feet wide, and the roadbed will be first-class in every respect, and up to the standard of trunk lines. Construction camps, warmly built and well ventilated, have been erected at points about ten miles apart, and excellent fare is provided for the workmen. Hospitals have been erected at North Bay, at the end of the 25th mile at Moose Lake, and at the end of the 50th mile at Boyce Lake, and three physicians are constantly employed. Freight from North Bay to Boyce Lake is paid for at the rate of $1 a ton, and as this work is largely done by the settlers in the vicinity of North Bay.

The Wealth of Timber.

"The north half of the Township of Merrick, the Townships of Stewart and Mulock, and the south half of Osborne, are covered with dense growths of excellent white pine. Lockhart, Blyth, Notman and Hammett are also largely clothed with pine. From the crossing of Jocko Lake in Osborne a level country is encountered, thickly forested with spruce, rather small in size along the streams, but very large on the higher ground, and everywhere very long, and set close together. Near Bush Lake and Boyce Lake, which are tributary to the Sturgeon waters, the spruce is much larger, but more scattered. The supply of pulpwood is practically inexhaustible. The birches, black, white and yellow, exist in enormous quantities on the higher ridges. Cedar is found also, but not in large quantities, nor of a large size. Along the upper reaches of the line, near the Montreal River, the cedar is, however, of very great size, and perfectly sound. Location has been kept well ahead of construction, thus affording time for revising locations. The great mineral-bearing belt is encountered in the vicinity of Lake Temagami, where numerous discoveries of copper and iron have recently been made. A large area of level land at the headwaters of the Jocko River appears to have excellent agricultural possibilities.

The Sportsman's Paradise.

"The road passes through the heart of the greatest moose territory in America. This monarch of Canadian woods, whose horns furnish the finest sporting trophies to be found in any part of the world, occurs in large numbers, and, notwithstanding the advent of the railway, will find in these vast forests a comparatively safe asylum for many years to come. The streams abound with fish, but the true terrestrial paradise of the sportsman will be only reached at Temagami, at the end of the 72nd mile from North Bay. It is regarded as certain that at the opening of the hunting season of 1903 a tourist, leaving Toronto at night will be able to take his breakfast the next morning at his camp fire on the shores of Lake Temagami."

LIFE AND DEATH.

So he died for his faith. That is fine—
More than most of us do.
But stay! Can you add to that line
That he lived for it, too?

It is easy to die. Men have died
For a wish or a whim—
From bravado or passion or pride,
Was it hard for him?

But to live; every day to live out
All the truth that he dreamt,
While his friends met his conduct
With doubt,
And the world with contempt.

Was it thus that he plodded ahead,
Never turning aside?
Then well talk of the life that he led—
Never mind how he died.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Marie Ann Bujold Tried Many Methods of Curing Her Dyspepsia—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets did it and did it Thoroughly.

"For two years my life was a burden." This is part of the experience of Marie Ann Bujold, of Maria Cap, Bonaville Co., Quebec. It is hardly necessary to tell what was the matter with her. Half the people of Canada know without telling. They too have indigestion or dyspepsia and they know only too well that life is a burden to them. But listen to the other part of Marie Ann Bujold's experience.

"I could not take the simplest food without having a pain across my stomach. I finally consulted doctors, but they did me no good. I saw some announcements of wonderful cures by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and though I had strong objections to patent medicines I made up my mind to try them. The result was wonderful. One box cured my Dyspepsia completely and it has never come back since."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets not only relieve but cure Dyspepsia. And they cure to stay cured.

Toronto May 2.—Further details of the interview between Mr. Gamey and Mr. Stratton were brought out yesterday before the commission. One of these put a different light upon the connection of The Globe interview with the whole story. It was shown that this interview was prepared, not at Mr. Stratton's request, but at Mr. Gamey's, and that it was the member for Manitoulin himself who supplied to Mr. Stratton the subject matter for this statement. Other witnesses corroborated previous testimony as to Mr. Gamey's intention to support the Ross Government, commencing as far back as July. Judge Finkle occupied a seat on the Bench during a portion of the morning.

The cross-examination of Mr. Myers was in the morning continued by Mr. Ritchie with regard to The Globe interview. He said that Mr. Gamey called about 2 o'clock on January 29, and he supposed it was about the interview which he had typewritten the day before. Mr. Gamey was in Mr. Stratton's room about twenty minutes, and then left. About 6 o'clock he met Mr. Gamey again in the elevator. He got off on the first floor, and Gamey went up to a higher floor. About half-past 6 Gamey came in and asked for Mr. Hammond. Mr. Hammond was gone, and Gamey went into the Minister's room. After about twenty minutes Gamey came out, and Hammond was there then, and the two sat down at a table with the interview. Someone opened the door and looked in, but he did not see who it was. He heard in the court room that it was Frank Sullivan, but had no idea himself. After sitting at the table about ten minutes, Mr. Hammond went out into the hall. Mr. Gamey returned to the Minister's room for a minute, but he did not hear what took place. Mr. Hammond came back in a few minutes and went in to the Minister. He did not know at the time what had become of the interview. Mr. Hammond was with the Minister about five minutes. He never saw Gamey again until this investigation began.

With regard to Frank Sullivan's statement that in February he asked him (Myers) to see Mr. Bastedo about getting the patronage of that district for Mr. Gamey, he said he did not understand that this "patronage" was anything more than a fishing license, about which Sullivan spoke. He did not think it was "patronage" in general. He told Mr. Bastedo that Mr. Gamey did not want the Nobles to get a certain license, and Mr. Bastedo replied that the Nobles had gone away. He said nothing about "patronage" to Mr. Bastedo, made no report to Frank Sullivan, and thought no more about the subject.

Re-examined by Mr. Johnston, he said that, though he had spoken to Frank Sullivan since the statement in the House, Sullivan never told him the side of the story.

Mr. Johnston—He reserved that for The Telegram reporter? Mr. Myers—Evidently. Continuing, he said he opened Mr. Stratton's confidential as well as official letters, and never read anything suspicious in them. With regard to The Globe interview, there was nothing private. The notes of it were in the handwriting of Mr. Stratton's clerk, Mr. Yokome, of Peterboro', so that Mr. Stratton, Mr. Yokome, Mr. Hammond, Mr. Gamey and himself all knew about it before publication.

Mr. Francis Costello, messenger for the Provincial Secretary's office, said he read on September 11th a report of a Conservative caucus on September 10th, and noticed that Mr. Gamey called on the Minister on September 9th. Gamey had called with Frank Sullivan, and neither of them came back. He swore positively that neither of them saw Mr. Stratton in his office on September 10th or 11th. Gamey was not in the office again in September.

To Mr. Johnston witness said he never delivered any parcel or letter to Gamey or Sullivan in the smoking-room, and knew nothing about any letter containing money in connection with them. It was a month after the interview of September 9th that Gamey had the next interview with Mr. Stratton, and he never had interviews on two days in succession.

Dr. Chamberlain, Inspector of Prisons, said he was summoned to Mr. Stratton's office on January 13 in connection with a lock-up at Little Current. Mr. Gamey was there and wanted the keeper of the lock-up changed, because he also kept a hotel. Mr. Gamey also spoke about License Commissioners and the Government. Mr. Stratton replied very sharply that he did not look much like it that he was speaking for the Conservatives in North Perth. Mr. Gamey said he had to do it. Mr. Stratton said it was time he declared himself publicly. Mr. Gamey said he was prepared to do it, and asked Mr. Stratton to prepare a statement for the press. Mr. Stratton asked Mr. Gamey what he wanted to say and took down some notes. The Globe interview afterwards published was along the lines of their conversation as far as he heard. He thought he remained after Gamey left, because he wanted to speak to Mr. Stratton about coal.

In cross-examination he said that the only reference to patronage was Mr. Stratton's statement that if Mr. Gamey supported the Government his recommendations would receive the same consideration as those of any other supporter of the Government. The patronage was not in consideration of giving this interview. Gamey said that he would support the Government on motions of confidence. He did not understand the interview was for one paper only, but to be distributed broadcast. The court then adjourned for luncheon.

Dr. R. H. Arthur of Sudbury said that he was an examiner for the insurance company which Mr. Gamey represents, and also a partner in some mining transactions in McGregor Township. He frequently saw Mr. Gamey, and they were quite intimate. About the beginning of July Gamey came into the office, and said he had been at the Conservative caucus in Toronto the end of June. They then discussed the political situation, and Gamey said, "I think Ross is going to rule for the next four years." Gamey then told him what took place at the caucus, and that many of the members were much discouraged at the outlook. Gamey said that he would not have been a candidate if he had not thought Whitney was going to win; that he did not want to sit four years in Opposition like A. F. Campbell; that he would give Whitney the first vote, but after that he would support the Ross Government, and that there were others who would do the same.

Another reason Gamey advanced for supporting the Ross Government was that scores of Liberals voted for him. He told Gamey that if he intended to support the Government the more honorable course would be to resign and run over again as an independent. Gamey replied that this would cost money. He replied that it would be cheaper to run over again than to fight the protest against his election. Speaking of a speech by Mr. Whitney on mining, said: "Did you ever hear anything more childish?"

In January of this year, after the bye-election, Gamey was in his office and Dr. Struthers was present. He expressed surprise at reading that Gamey was speaking for the Conservative in North Perth. Gamey said he had been announced to speak in Listowel, but that Whitney had up set the whole thing, because Whitney was jealous of anyone who attracted any attention. Gamey said he spoke about new Ontario, and that interested the people, but Whitney's speech was the same old scold.

On Jan. 13 or 14 Gamey told him in Toronto that Mr. Stratton had sent for him, and was annoyed that he spoke in North Perth. Gamey also told him there was trouble in the island, and he wanted to get back home, and showed a paper which he was going to get the Conservative farmers to sign in support of his position, and then he would defy the professional politicians in town.

Gamey on several occasions also spoke of the prospect of the Conservatives winning out, and about dividing the Crown Lands Department, and that he would be Minister of Mines and Mr. Mischampbell that of Crown Lands in that event.

In cross-examination he said he would be surprised to learn that Gamey was not at the Conservative caucus in Toronto on June 25, and he would be surprised to learn that Gamey had not been in Toronto for some time before that, but that was not what he was swearing to. He was swearing only to what Gamey himself said to him on July 3.

Mr. Gamey interrupted:—"I was not in Toronto for two weeks."

Dr. Arthur repeated that he knew nothing about that, but was telling only what Gamey had told him. Continuing, he said that Gamey had told him he had supported R. A. Lyon, when the latter was the Liberal candidate.

Mr. Gamey leaned over and whispered to Mr. McPherson, who said he was instructed that Gamey never voted for Lyon.

Dr. Arthur repeated that Gamey told him that both he and his father voted for R. A. Lyon.

The court adjourned at 4.10 until Monday morning.

MUNICIPAL COAL QUESTION.

Mr. Preston's Bill Discussed in the Legislature.

Toronto, May 2.—The Legislature sat for an hour and a half yesterday, and, in addition to hearing answers to a number of questions by members, sent six bills on to committees, after second readings. The only discussion of any interest arose over Mr. Preston's bill to enable municipalities to go into the fuel business in cases of emergency.

Mr. Preston explained that the bill was only in a crude form, and a fit subject for amendment in committee, in order to provide safeguards against municipalities assuming great power than was intended. He believed that the financial unremunerativeness of such ventures, however, would provide a considerable deterrent. Mr. Gibson announced himself in favor of a certain amount of municipal ownership and control of public utilities, but was not inclined to extend it to trading generally, although, with certain provisions and restrictions, the power to enter the fuel business was one which they should have.

The Premier, in reply to a question regarding the amounts of the bonds held by the Province, given by Alfred McLaughlin, said that the Province had the bond of the London Guarantee and Accident Co. for $5,000, the company was notified of the default, claim was made and disputed, and was now in the hands of the solicitor for collection. The Province also had a policy in the Mutual Reserve Life Co. for $10,000; also one in the Mutual Life of New York for $5,000, and one in the Dominion Life Co. for $5,000.

Van Halgren, the veteran outfielder with New York, who was out of the game all last season with a broken leg, wrenched and will be unable to play for some time.

Letter of Condolence

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowes,

City:

My Dear Friends—I never felt so much at a loss to express my feelings as I do now. It seems to me that in your present grief silence is the only suitable offering. How deeply I sympathize with you I cannot express, and to utter common words of condolence would serve no end in your case.

One only hope can comfort you in these sad hours, the hope that somewhere in the "many mansions" of our Father's house your son who loved you so well, loves you still. The shadows of the valley cannot eclipse the light of love. Time, the great healer, will bring balm to your wounded spirit and on behalf of Court Hope, No. 6244, of the Ancient Order of Foresters, of which your beloved son was so long an honored member, I extend my most sincere condolences. On behalf of officers and members of Court Hope, No. 6244, A. O. F., E. WANLESS, P. C. R.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowes desire to express their heartfelt thanks to the members of Court Hope, A. O. F., No. 6244, for the kind letter of condolence in their sad bereavement on account of the death of their only son William. They also desire to acknowledge the receipt of $100 funeral expenses from the same fraternal society.

CANOEING ON THE RIVER

This Popular Branch of Athleticism will have a Re-Awakening in the Maple City this Year—A Few Pointers.

Chatham has ever been known as an athletic city and her citizens have always taken an interest in and given hearty and whole-souled support to anything which tended to develop the physical and moral condition of her young men along the lines of athletic and manly sport.

Her athletics in the past have made themselves famous in the eyes of the public, and the young members of the present athletic associations are working successfully to keep up to the standards set by their predecessors. People still talk of the olden times when Chatham had such men as "Mac" Macaulay, "Duff" Robertson, and Joe Northwood on her lacrosse team, and the admirers of that popular game, football, never tire of telling how the local team, under the captaincy of F. D. Laurie, carried off the trophy of the Peninsular League. Cricket also flourished in the past, and Tecumseh Park has been the scene of many a hard fought battle, and well earned victory.

These are incidents which are recalled with many pleasant memories by some of the citizens, but the days of achievement are not passed. The different athletic teams who will uphold the honor of Chatham's sports during the coming season are composed of young men equally as sturdy and athletic as those of the past—in fact Chatham, instead of going behind in this particular, is progressing rapidly. The football team, under Captain Sissons, looks very promising this year, while no one doubts the popular belief that the lacrosse team under Captain Wilson, the champions of last season, will again carry off the Gray cup in the Kent County league series. Cricket, baseball and other popular games, it is understood, will be taken up again with renewed interest and everything points towards a grand awakening of sport in the city this summer.

There is one branch of the city's athletics, however, which has, during the past few years, been sadly overlooked and neglected. That is aquatic sports. There is no place in Ontario where a better opportunity is afforded to amateur sportsmen than in Chatham. Visitors to the city have, upon several occasions, commented upon our splendid river with its beautiful scenery and magnificent opportunities for paddling and rowing.

It is true that a few of our Maple City young men have, during the past few years, taken advantage of the river and a canoe to develop muscular strength and, more often perhaps, amorous inclinations, but it is safe to say that this branch of athletics—the development of muscular strength—has not been followed up as it should be.

This year, however, the prospects are that a lively boating club will be established in the city. Among the young men who are contemplating membership are W. A. Collett, Garfield Northway, W. Stevens, W. Foreman, Jr., Mr. Hopkirk, W. Brackin, J. Fitzsimmons, H. Dennis, Mr.

Lowe, W. Elliott, W. Hartick, Harry O'Keefe, A. W. Grant and there are no doubt many others who will join in when the season opens, so that during the long summer evenings the romantic picture of several canoes being paddled up and down the river will be a common thing in Chatham. Yachting should also become popular on the river, while there is no better place for running a naphtha. These, however, will all follow if a good energetic canoeing club is established.

The club should go even farther than canoeing for pleasure. Why not hold a regatta during the summer when races could be held. This is not an entirely new idea, as regattas at one time were very popular and warmly supported in Chatham. In 1881 and 1882 Chatham was the scene of tournaments in which Chathamites were not the only people interested. It was a grand day for Chatham when W. B. Wells won from Aeneas Jarvis, of Toronto, the single amateur championship of Canada. Another famous race was that of Hanlon and O'Connor against W. B. Wells and Harry Ball. McKendrick Bros. champions of America, were also here at one time.

There is no reason why this old enthusiasm in aquatic sports should not be revived. The Planet would suggest that a regatta be held by the new club on the first of July. This would give the club a good start-off and afford a day of pleasure for those who would patronize them. Several races could be held, such as tilting race, topsy turvy race, single men's race, tandem races, gentlemen and ladies' races, etc. Skiff races could also be held. As there is at present no other celebration under consideration for the first of July this would seem a very popular suggestion.

If this proposed canoeing club receives the support it undoubtedly deserves, arrangements could, in all probability, be made so that it would be managed in connection with the contemplated bungalow building on the Park.

PICNIC DAYS

Under the spreading chestnut tree
The well-filled baskets stand;
Containing chicken, pies and things—
The work of Bridget's hand,
And way off in the distance there's
A blaring country band.

Dick battles with a bumble bee,
And Bob, with youthful zest,
Falls from the lofty chestnut tree,
And papa and the rest
Proceed to eat the lunch upon
A yellow jacket's nest!

The gentle rainstorm rolls around,
And when the day is late
They homeward wend their weary ways.

And turn inside the gate,
And lie in bed and wonder just
How many ants they ate.

"My love for you," he wrote, "is so deep, so vast, so powerful, I cannot express it." "Why don't you send it by freight," she wrote back. And then it was all off.

THE TARTAR QUEUE

Herbert Allen Giles, in "Canda and the Chinese," says that there are strange misconceptions as to the meaning of the Chinese queue, which has really been worn by that nation for only about two hundred and fifty years. It was imposed by the Manchu Tartars, the present rulers of China, as a badge of conquest. Previous to 1644 the Chinese clothed themselves and dressed their hair like the modern Japanese; that is, like the Japanese who still wear what is incorrectly known as the "beautiful native dress of Japan." As a matter of fact, the Japanese borrowed their dress, as well as their literature, philosophy and early art, from the Chinese. The Japanese dress is that of the Ming period in China, 1386 to 1644.

But where did the Manchu Tartars get the queue? They depended, as a race, almost for their existence upon the horse. The accepted theory is that, out of gratitude and respect for his noble ally, the Tartar, so far as he could, took on himself the equine form, and grew a queue in imitation of a horse's tail. This somewhat grotesque theory might fall to the ground, save that it is supported by striking evidence. Official coats, as seen in China at the present day, are made with peculiar sleeves, shaped like a horse's leg, and ending in an unmistakable hoof, covering the hand, which are known as "horse-shoe sleeves." Encased therein, a Chinaman's arms look much like a horse's fore legs. The tail completes the picture.

All that is real in life is our sense of its morality.

The better you are the better you ought to be, especially in charity to those who are without any protecting influence of good.

CAN HOLD GIFTS

A husband may give presents to his wife when perfectly solvent, and the presents are not liable to seizure for the subsequent debts of the husband. They are the wife's "very own," so Mr. Justice Street and Mr. Justice Britton decided on March 21, at Osgoode Hall, in the case of Shuttleworth against McGillivray. Between the years 1895 and 1898 the defendant husband purchased certain pictures and gave them to his wife, who hung them beneath the family roof-tree. He subsequently got in financial difficulties and the pictures were seized by the sheriff of the County of Middlesex in the present suit for an unsatisfied judgment. The wife naturally claimed the pictures that were given to her in happier days, but the judge of the First Division Court, in the County of Middlesex decreed that the wife's pictures so received were liable for the husband's debts.

The Divisional Court held, however, on appeal by the wife, that the law that a married woman could not receive and hold property as well as real estate by direct gift or transfer from her husband was done away with. The pictures were her property, although the house was occupied by her husband and herself. This was the law, so the Divisional Court laid down, except such a gift was made for the purpose of defeating the husband's creditors. Mrs. Shuttleworth therefore owns the pictures.

THE DAYS OF AULD LANG SYNE

Interesting Events of Ye Olden Times Gathered from the Planet's Issues of Half a Century Ago.

A melancholy affair occurred about eight miles from Louisville, on Saturday morning, Oct. 15. A man named G. A. Martin had been teaching school there and was engaged to Miss E. Shaw, also a teacher, whose parents live there. Afterwards he concluded not to marry her, and, to screen himself from the consequences, presented a paper to her for signature, in which she was charged with having exercised the grossest improprieties towards his person. She, of course, refused to sign it. Martin and a brother of Miss Shaw then got into a fight on the road. Shaw drew a pistol, which Martin attempted to wrench from him, and it went off accidentally, the ball entering in front, near the shoulder, and lodging in the back. Miss Shaw, unconscious that Martin was wounded, then jumped the fence, walked up to Martin, and shot him in the side. He died in about 15 minutes, though it was thought that the first wound would have caused his death.

The November 4th and 11th issues contain a schedule of lands in the County of Kent which are in arrears for taxes, showing the amount due thereon up to the first day of January, 1853.

The marriage is recorded of Edwin Owen to Miss Jane Dunlop, both of Dover. Rev. A. McColl performed the ceremony.

Another marriage in the November 18 issue is that of John McEachern to Miss Agnes Lowrie by Rev. John Fraser.

Henry, the youngest son of W. D. Eberts, died Nov. 18.

In the list of cases at the Fall Assizes, for 1853, are recorded cases, between J. Broadbent and Mary Broadbent; H. Waters and M. Clancy, Johnson and McGregor, Vosburg and Waddell, Scane and Hartwick. The criminal list included, John Smith, for horse stealing, three years. Henry Vidal, charged with committing a felony. This prisoner was found guilty of an offence which the law does not allow to be named among Christians, and sentenced to be hanged on the eighth day of December next. The jury recommended him to mercy on account of his youth and inferior intellect.

George Kerby, son of Aaron Kerby, of Zone Mills, while at work on a bridge at Cee's ferry, across the River Thames, on Monday last missed his hold and fell from the bridge, a distance of 20 feet, striking on his head on the bottom of a scow used in the construction of the bridge. He was picked up unconscious and lingered until Wednesday, when he died.

Note.—The Hamilton Spectator is devoting a department to extracts from the Spectator of 35 years ago. In its issue of yesterday the Spectator says:—

"In the issue of thirty-five years ago to-day is reproduced, an article from The Chatham Planet, giving an account of an elopement, in which Stephen Kenny, of that place, a magistrate, county councillor, postmaster and tavern keeper, and Mrs. Keeler, wife of a respectable farmer of that district, were the two persons involved. The man of many occupations and his eloping partner took $800 of the wronged husband's money."

HELPED OUT

She helped him out; she was most kind
And knew the poor youth could not find
Words his ideas to express
Because of his sad bashfulness
And some deficiencies of mind.

He really thought she was inclined
To him, but vanity is blind;
Because she pitied his distress
She helped him out.

But when he showed that he designed
In matrimonial chains to bind
The maiden who then liked him less,
And scolded her with a fond caress,
Her father, coming up behind,
Just helped him out.

JOE ON ATHLETICISM

What He Thinks About the Various Maple City Clubs and Their Players—What He Could Do.

"Quick there now. Shoot! Hot stuff. That's the way to bore 'em through."

The football boys were out on Tecumseh Park hard at work in practice. Joe was over at the side issuing command and counsel in his high semi-falsetto double-forte voice with a fine disregard to the rights of manager or captain.

"Botten," he shrieked as some unfortunate misjudged the ball, "don't be a dub all your life. Get in the game. Bug up. Send 'em in for keeps."

"You evidently take a keen interest in athletics, Joe," tapping the excited young onlooker on the arm. "Good game—if it's played right. Hoo-ray!" and Joe's cap went skyward as the ball shot between the posts.

"All games is good—especially football, baseball and lacrosse," croaked Joe. He was husky from his vocal exertions at the players. "They fetches a feller if the guys what plays 'em delivers the goods. But cricket don't count for much. A lot of old guys who ain't much good for anything else goes in for cricket and gets crankier the longer they plays it. And fellers comes over to watch 'em on a hot day, so's to get a 'souse to have a snooze under the trees."

"I once heard a man say cricket was a gentleman's game. Ise always been skittish of fellers calling themselves gents ever since. Cricket is a cranks game, I guess, but it can't get all the cranks while they keep a-runnin' a tennis club. Tennis is like cricket—only worse. If a guy comes in for a shine what is sore with himself and on the whole business, I allus chalks him up as a tennis player. And I wins on my guess."

"Football ain't a bad game if it weren't for the guys what play it. They ain't swift to their business. You can't play football and practice lyin' on feather beds all day to get in shape. That's where some of our fellers fall down heavy."

"Lacrosse is a keen article. I used to wonder why the fellers didn't used to stay the clip round here till I went out one night after hours. Ise had a 'guess comin' ever since. I seed a lot of our fellers playing lacrosse with telegraph poles and bayin' to the moon wid throaty tenor voices."

"Baseball is hot stuff but I ain't seen none of it burnin' round here lately. I kinder think the kids can skin 'em at baseball."

"Games is all good for fellers and the people what looks on and I guesses things looks pretty good this season."

"Why don't you play some of the games yourself, Joe?" the young philosopher was asked.

"Cause I don't want to show the rest of 'em up. Hi, there. Shoot! That's gettin' 'em, eh boss?"

SATURDAY, MAY 2.

CAPTAIN EDWIN BELL, LL. B.

The magnificent banquet tendered to Captain Edwin Bell, LL. B., last evening by the members of the Macaulay Club and the officers of the 24th Kent Regiment, was a graceful and appropriate tribute to a citizen universally esteemed and deservedly popular, on the eve of his departure to take up his residence in the Queen City of Toronto.

In the removal of Captain Bell the Maple City suffers a distinct loss. He has ever been an earnest, energetic and public-spirited young citizen, and that his talents and worth have been appreciated is evidenced by the fact that he has held many of the most responsible and honorable positions in the gift of the people.

Captain Bell has served as an alderman in the City Council, as member and as chairman of the Collegiate Institute Board, in which capacities he left a record of permanent accomplishment well done. He has been a valued officer of the 24th Regiment for many years and an ardent advocate and devotee of healthy athletics, being always enrolled upon the membership of the Chatham Cricket Club. He was also for several seasons president of the Macaulay Club.

Captain Bell's one weakness has been his politics. He was a pronounced Liberal and for some time president of the Kent Liberal Association. He was, however, always a fair-minded and vigorous fighter and he earned the respect of opponents as well as colleagues for his upright and honest methods of political campaigning.

While The Planet sincerely regrets to see the departure of this estimable citizen, it heartily unites with his many friends in wishing him a hearty God-speed and continued prosperity in the wider sphere of usefulness with which he will henceforth be identified.

THE DISASTER AT FRANK.

The immediate question with regard to the calamity at Frank is the extent of the suffering and privation caused, comments the Toronto News. Local resources will doubtless be used in the work of succor, and used with the fine free-handedness and energy of the West. The Dominion Government is already taking the executive measures demanded by the situation. Should the volume of distress be very great, the private beneficence of the East may be called into play.

The human aspect of the case apart, it is impossible not to feel the deepest interest in the cause of the mysterious convulsion which has wrought such destruction. The earlier theory of volcanic disturbance has been discredited, and the disaster now appears to have been a huge landslide. The village lay at the foot of an almost precipitous slope. Natural causes, which it so far has been impossible to determine, seem to have detached a great section of the steep mountain-side, the surface rock rushing down upon the devoted settlement. The choking of the river, the added horror of a threatened flood, the possible diversion of the stream—all vividly show how puny is man in the presence of the elemental forces of Nature.

HIS MOTTO.

New York Press.

"Three years ago," said a middle-aged business man, "I passed in my hat the word 'Wait,' and called it my motto. I feared that in previous years I had been a trifle too impatient on certain propositions which had cost me dearly, so to wait looked like a good change. Up to last winter it worked all right. It kept me out of several losing speculations. In an evil moment I bought 500 shares of Amalgamated Copper at 70. It went to 74. I heard it was booked for par. I looked in my hat at 'Wait.' It went down to 60. I looked in my hat at 'Wait.' After two months it rose to 75. Judgment cried 'Sell!' I looked in my hat at 'Wait.' Tuesday it was 60 again. I am looking in my hat at 'Wait.' The trouble about such a motto is that it does not tell you how long to wait."

Death twice visited the home of Mr. Adam Barkness, Comber Side-road, Tilbury West, within 24 hours last week. Early Wednesday morning, April 22nd, 1903, his aged mother was called home, and early Thursday morning, April 23rd, his youngest daughter died; death being due to scarlet fever. The latter was a bright little girl of three years and six months.

Mrs. Rachel Shaw, relict of the late James Shaw, died at Thorncliffe on Saturday last after a lengthy illness. Deceased was in her 80th year of her age at the time of her death. The children at Thorncliffe who survive are George Shaw, D. C. Shaw, Charles Shaw and Mrs. Hughson. The funeral took place on Monday, interment being made at Kent Bridge.

THE GREAT CENTRE OF LIFE

States Shall be Strong if they Have Happy Homes.

Peace if we have Peaceful Homes—Good Men and Good Women if we have Glad and Cheerful Homes.

Home life is the centre of all life. We shall have strong States if we have happy homes. We shall have peace among the nations if we have peaceable homes. Senator Hoar once said wisely that the real purpose and end of every struggle for liberty and constitutional government were to be found in the necessity of establishing happy homes. King Alfred, Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, all have their value, which is infinite value, so far as they secure for us happy homes. We shall have good men and good women if we have glad and cheerful homes, and only so.

This is not to be gained by instruction in homes. Instruction is one thing and education is quite another. Such education as one wants in a home is gained when the life of home is a large one and not a small one. No, I am not asking to have instruction as they call it, forced into home life, a catechism now, a code of manners half an hour hence, botany in thirteen lessons sandwiched in between politics in six lessons and religion in three. We will not make home an annex of the high school or the grammar school run by power from the same steam engine by a hand across the street. But we will see that the life of home shall be a large life and not a small one. It must make home look outside to the common life of mankind, not shut itself with the twopenny talk of No. 27 or No. 436. The rights of the little people at home are that they shall share with fathers and mothers and uncles and aunts and kings and queens and emperors and popes—whatever is nice and good they shall have a share in. This means large life, it means infinite life. In the smallest family, the father, the mother and the child, it means there shall always be present the fourth companion—

That every house Thy house may be And every home a home for Thee.

The daily bread at breakfast is God's bread. His sunshine ripened that grain. His steam drove the engine. The Mayflower by Mary's plate is God's Mayflower. He distilled its fragrance and He painted the petals. The song mamma sings is His song, for Robert Burns also was His child. The story book John has brought from the library is His story book for He led Robert Stevenson up the highways and down the by, taught His secrets and quickened his love so that he might write the story. Mamma loves me and papa loves her. You love me and I love you, and this is because the good God loves us all. This home is His home as it is ours. It is ours because it is His, and we are always in His arms. If our children grow up in such life and such love there is no fear that home life will be petty. They will know what they mean when they say "My kingdom come." We must not stop here. If we have our home what our home should be we shall all know what brothers owe to brothers the world over. We shall know as well what the whole world can give to each of us.

The leaf on the elm draws up from the damp soil, perhaps a hundred feet away, the moisture it needs. It draws up the material for its growth, and also it sends down to the tree what the tree needs, and so we see the tree in its beauty of thousands and thousands of leaves and we enjoy its shelter. The leaf does its duty by the tree, the tree does its duty by the leaf. Now each one of us in this world has such a duty to do to the world, and in return the world for which he has been living does its duty by him. "Each for all and all for each." This is the glad tidings of the Gospel. This is the centre of the Gospel. "He who is greatest among you shall be your servant." As St. Paul says—"Bear ye one another's burdens."

This generation of ours hardly comprehends that muddy, slimy, dark loneliness into which men stumbled, led, alas, by what was called "religion," where they were only trying to save their own souls and bearing no burdens but their own. Their religion died out in such selfish devotion as men looked in and not out. They were like the Eastern fakir contemplating his own pulse throbs. "Hosannas" languished on their tongues and their devotion died. It is noticeable even to-day that until our own time the drift of all poetry but the best was self-absorbed. The shield was polished—yes, that the knight might see his own face the better.

For this fraternal life home is the school—brothers with brothers, sisters with sisters, sisters with brothers, brothers with sisters, really teach one another the great lesson of together, "all for each, each for all." This lesson sooner or later takes us out into the highways where the nations war, or into the byways where the beggar counts his crust. "I have been learning to read. Where is the blind man I can read to?" "I have been learning to sew. God may send me, if he chooses, to clothe the naked." "Did you say there was some one alone in an attic? Here am I, send me." "Did you say that the widow Dorcas had no time to plant her garden? You shall not say it again."

The man of pronounced ideas never cares to acknowledge he has made a mistake.

As the new century begins this is the lesson which you and I have to teach to the country. These are little things in comparison; but the age which has seen such little changes teaches in them its secret to another century. It knows that insurance must be mutual insurance. It knows that trade must seek the other man's profit as well as mine. It knows that justice is gained not by the strength of a baron's tunic, nor safety by the strength of a baron's castle. It is gained as all take care of each, of castle and cottage together. Health is the health of the community, and only so of this man or woman. Wealth comes from the prosperity of the community; it is not the stumbling upon a gold streak or the raking for a koinobron. The century was learned by some hard lessons that each man must bear his brother's burden.

To the next century we must teach that lesson and place it on higher ground. The Son of God has shown us that all of us are God's sons and daughters. "If children, heirs—heirs of God." Such right have we to claim that His kingdom shall come, that all laws shall be His law, that the strong shall help the weak and the weak the strong. The children are brothers and sisters. Because they are, they shall bear the others' burdens.—Edward Everett Hale.

Leontavallo's unfortunate joke.

Leontavallo tells a very amusing story of himself. One day when visiting a town in Italy he heard that his opera, "Pagliacci," was to be produced, and he decided to hear it in person.

It was not generally known that the young composer was in town. It happened that his seat was beside a bright-eyed and enthusiastic young lady, who, noticing that he did not join in the general applause, but remained quiet, turned to him and asked:

"Why do you not applaud? Does it not suit you?"

Leontavallo, much amused, answered: "No, on the contrary, it displeases me. It is the work of a mere beginner, not to call him anything worse."

"Then you are ignorant of music," she said.

"Oh, no!" replied the composer. Then he proceeded to enlighten her on the subject, proving the music worthless and entirely without originality.

"See," said he, "this motif is— and he hummed lightly a short melody: 'this aria is stolen from Bizet, and that is from Beethoven.'"

In short, he tore the whole opera to pieces.

His neighbor sat in silence, but with an air of pity on her countenance. At the close she turned to him and said, "Is what you have said to us your honest opinion?"

"Entirely so," was the reply. "Good," said she and with a malicious gleam in her eyes left the theatre.

Next morning, glancing over the paper, his eye fell upon the heading, "Leontavallo on His 'Pagliacci,'" and reading further he was somewhat startled to find the conversation of the evening before fully reported and accredited to the proper source.

He had, unfortunately, played his little joke on a reporter who had proved too smart for him.

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow—Paul Arrested—Acts xxi, 30-39.

Golden Text—"If any man suffer as a Christian let him not be ashamed."

Here is Paul's experience of the bonds and afflictions which awaited him. Jerusalem and the Temple in commotion and the Apostle to the Gentiles in the hands of a howling mob of religious fanatics, who assaulted and would have killed him, but for the strong arm of the Roman civil and military power, who captured Paul as their prisoner, binding him with chains between two soldiers. Paul had sought, with the approval of James the Apostle and the Elders of the church and the church, to appease the prejudices of those who were zealous for the law, by taking part in its ritual; and although Gentile believers were free from law, evidently they saw no reason why such liberty (to practice these object lessons of the law of Moses and understand and explain them, in harmony with the word of Jesus Christ,) should not be used by Jews; yet it looks like putting new wine into old bottles—which would only burst them and waste the wine—which was about the way things turned out after all.

Afflicted by the mob, bound by the Romans, Paul stands on his dignity as a Roman citizen, and has a splendid opportunity in defending himself to proclaim once more the unsearchable riches of Christ to this doomed city, fast hastening to destruction. "Their harvest was past, their summer ended." Reader, how is it with you?

Let us first see the spiritual influence of letter writing in your own life. Strange to say, you do not remember much about your mother's life. I mean, how did she live? You have forgotten exactly how she looked and the tone of her voice. She has been dead many years. Then you have forgotten to a great extent the words she said in your home, but you have never forgotten her letters. Somehow, after you left home, the words which she wrote to you made a far greater impression than the words she said in space. If you could get into your home and ask for the most valuable collection of papers you would in all probability show me a collection of old yellow letters. They were written by her and you have read them over and over again. Some of those letters are stained as though the children had spattered water upon them.

Kills Inside Germs

Powley's Liquefied Ozone is the only way to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues too—and you can't cure a germ trouble without killing the germs. Some of you have taken medicines until you are discouraged, for drugs never kill germs. Some of you believe your trouble incurable—simply for lack of a germ-killer. These are some of the known germ diseases. Powley's Liquefied Ozone has cured each of these diseases—completely and forever, in at least several hundreds of the most difficult cases that physicians ever meet. Ozone is the proper treatment for all of them—the only quick, direct and certain way to remove the cause of the certain way to remove the cause of the trouble. Medicine may palliate, stimulate, help nature overcome the germs, but Ozone alone can directly kill those germs, and that is what must be done.

Ozone is the discovery of a chemist who spent 20 years in learning how to get an excess of oxygen, in liquid form, into the blood. This product alone solves the problem of an internal germ-killer—a problem to which many scientists, including Koch and Pasteur, have devoted their lives.

...CONSTITUTION...

By the kindness of the secretary The Planet is enabled to give the following extracts from the constitution of the amalgamated association of cyclists of the city of Chatham recently incorporated:

Article 1.—The object of this Association shall be to remove from the fair name of sidewalk cyclists the unjust aspersions that our natural enemies, the City Council, have cast upon us.

Article 2.—The treasurer of the Association shall receive all dues and hold the same for the purpose of defraying legal expenses incident to suits brought against the city by reason of bicyclists being damaged as a result of riding on the city streets.

Article 3.—This Association puts itself on record as unalterably opposed to riding on the road. What we want is the privilege of riding on the sidewalks.

Article 4.—A model citizen is one who gets off the sidewalk when he sees a cyclist coming.

Article 5.—This Association demands that citizens keep their children off the sidewalks so as to avoid accidents.

Article 6.—This Association offers a reward of $10,000 for the discovery—dead or alive—of the man who invented the by-law forbidding cycling on the sidewalks.

CHARLOTTE CUSHMAN

Charlotte Cushman, the actress, was in love but once in her life. She met in Cincinnati, where she was playing, an actor named Clark, with whom she fell in love. Through her efforts Clark was advanced to leading man in the company, and the course of true love ran smoothly.

One night the actress met a strange woman behind the scenes between the acts.

The woman came up to her and addressed her thus:

"You are Charlotte Cushman, the great actress. Haven't you got enough men to admire you without coming between man and wife and robbing me of my husband?"

"Your husband!" cried Miss Cushman, getting excited.

"Yes, and you have taken or you are trying to take him from me," continued the ragged woman, looking Miss Cushman full in the face.

"Who is your husband?"

"Conrad Clark," replied the woman, "the father of this child," pointing to a half starved, thin little child in her arms.

Miss Cushman started as if she had been shot.

She went through her part that night as usual—acted it splendidly—brought down the house; then, after the performance, she sent for Clark to come to her dressing room. Clark knocked and then opened the door. She brought forward to him his wife and baby, who had been waiting in the dressing room to receive him.

Such a reception! Charlotte Cushman never looked or acted so grandly on the stage in all her life as she did that night in her dressing room. She waved Clark away with a greater majesty than ever as Queen Catherine she waved away Cardinal Wolsey, and then going to her hotel probably she had a good crying spell.

But she never loved again.

What is an organism? I saw the word in a newspaper the other day and I can't find any one who knows what it is.—Jewshap.

An organism is a queer species of beast somewhat akin to the gynecolus. Fragmentary skeletons of this extinct species may be found at the British museum. It is believed that the organism succumbed to the encroachments of his inveterate foe, the organism, in accordance with Darwin's law of the survival of the fittest.

Is it proper for a man to wed his widow's sister?—One in Doubt.

Ask John Lee, M. P. P. He's the one that solves jokes and communicates with the unseen.

I hear the 24th Regiment have been invited to St. Thomas. Where is that place?—Militia Man.

Ask Bugle Major Plumeridge. He took a week off and finally located it on the 13th of last month—nuff said; unlucky for Bill!

Will you kindly tell me when the next big fight comes off?—Art. Mock.

Which one, Arthur? Between N. H. and P. D. or between G. G. and the L. E.? Spurs are a feature of the latter contest.

Was the Banner indicted for contempt of court on its recent outbreak on the Gamey charges?—Anxious little scribbler.

No, sonny, the Banner was not. It is understood that your sympathetic friends effectually presented the plea of mental disability.

THE HORSES

In caring for work horses, I like to give them a drink of water the first thing in the morning, then some hay, and finally their grain the last thing before going to breakfast, writes W. W. Farmer, in The Orange-Judd Farmer. By letting them eat hay awhile before feeding the grain, they are not quite so hungry, and will not eat so fast. If there is something in the stomach the grain will do more harm than good. In condition if worked steadily without short stops, than he will if hurried and allowed to stand still long at a time. The last half hour before quitting time, he should have short stops often, when he gets to the stable he can have some water. At noon give hay while the driver gets his dinner, then water and feed the grain. Give a little water when they go out to work if they want it.

At night the horses should have some water when they come in. Then give hay and afterward more water before they have their grain. If one does not feed the same at each feeding the horses should have the largest amount at night when they are going to have a long rest. I may seem over-cautious about giving water, but the horse wants plenty of it, and he will get it if you will watch horses in the yard you will see them go and drink often and take a little at a time. In feeding horses one should watch each animal, as the same rule will not apply to all.

Much can be done to keep the horse in health by careful feeding and changing the feed.

One can do his horses much good with wheat bran. There seems to be something in it that just fits the horse. One of our most successful feeders mixed corn, oats and barley equal parts by measure and ground then fed to his work horses. He said each driver fed his team, and every few days they had a case of colic.

Finally he mixed a bag of bran with each bag of meal and told the boys to give the horses all they would eat. He had no more trouble. Bright clover hay is good for horses. Most people seem to think that timothy hay is best and for driving horses I think it is, but if they can have hay with just a little well cured clover, they are more easily kept thrifty. One should be careful and limit the hay for most horses, for if allowed all they will eat, they take entirely too much for their own good.

When given straw, some horses will not eat enough to keep their digestive organs in good order and they will soon get out of condition.

Linseed oil cake meal is a great help to building up a horse, or for fattening and improving the coat. In feeding, watch each horse closely and do not let him get too much. While a single handful is enough for some horses, others will eat more than a quart.

A BLESSING TO CHILDREN

Strong words, but truthful, and the experience of a mother who has thoroughly tested the value of Baby's Own Tablets. Giving her experience with the use of this medicine, Mrs. George Hardy, of Fourchou, N. S., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and find them a blessing to children, and I am not satisfied without a box in the house at all times."

These Tablets cure all the minor troubles of babyhood and childhood. They are prompt and effective in their action, and are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm. Good-natured, healthy children are found in all homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used. You can get these Tablets from any druggist, or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

It is the duty of a mother to have the admiration as well as the love of her husband and children. She may always hold their love, but their admiration she must work for by keeping herself bright, young in manner if not in face and entertaining.

One reason why the average woman wears out and grows old and plain is that through a mistaken idea of duty she lays out for herself a scheme of duty of which every hour is filled with work, with rare and short periods of relaxation.

This she follows religiously for years, feeling that she has done her duty because every household event occurs regularly and on time. She, however, soon becomes merely a machine, a thing without life of itself or volition. In other words, she settles into a rut and goes around and around on the same track everlastingly.

Can any woman keep brightness, originality of thought or even mere pretentiousness such a life, and without those things how can she keep her husband and growing children full of loving admiration, which is one of the strongest claims by which she can bind them to her? Decidedly no.

Constant association with others of her own age or younger, with her children and their friends, and an occasional period of recreation and relaxation are what the average woman requires to make her attractive.

To Give a Little Dinner.

Six or eight persons are enough for a pleasant dinner. At each place should be a place plate. On it are the napkin, plainly folded, and a roll. The roll may be laid in the fold so that it may be seen when the guest takes up the napkin. At the left are three forks, at the right two knives, a soup spoon and an oyster fork. The glasses to be used are grouped uniformly at the right.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON.

She is a Notable Housewife as Well as an Author.

Mrs. Burton Harrison is not a successful authoress and playwright only, but a notable housewife, again disproving the old fashioned theory that to write—or, to use the now almost obsolete term, to be a bluestocking—was the corollary of a lack of all housewifely qualifications, and even of proper pride in one's own appearance.

Mrs. Harrison exercises a careful supervision over all her household matters, the marketing as well, and not a detail escapes her keen eyes. Her charming old fashioned home in East Twenty-ninth street, in New York, as well as Sea Urchins, her cottage at Bar Harbor, which overlooks Frenchman's bay, are both as spotless and spotless at all times as though some invisible maid with equally invisible dust cloths and brushes were continually on her rounds.

The second floor of the Twenty-ninth street home is Mrs. Harrison's very own, from the study in front and through the large and airy sleeping room to the rest of the suit in the back. The study is a sunny room facing the south, with three large windows shaded by heavy net and with soft droll hangings. The hardwood floor is partially covered with oriental rugs, and the woodwork is white.

Low, well filled bookcases are placed around the room, and above them are a few vases and some water colors. There are many views of Venice, and the bright blue of Italian skies strikes one on entering. A low couch, some easy chairs and several small tables, including a tea table, and Mrs. Harrison's Chippendale desk, with its graceful curves, comprise the simple furnishings of this study. The large bedroom beyond is hung with toilet de Genes brought from Genoa by the authoress. These are in deep red on white, and the birds, vines, crocodiles and even the monkeys—which last adorn only the rarest of these so called "tapestries"—are all of deep red. Here also a few water colors are hung.

Mrs. Harrison's dining room is her especial pride, and in it are the old mahogany pieces coming originally from England and used in the home of the Virginia Carys, for it will be remembered that Mrs. Harrison before her marriage was Miss Constance Cary. Here also is the old family silver, some of it very antique. Ancestral portraits hang on the walls. The effect produced is that of stepping into an old English dining room of a century or more ago instead of a modern American room.

Attractive Mothers.

It is the duty of a mother to have the admiration as well as the love of her husband and children. She may always hold their love, but their admiration she must work for by keeping herself bright, young in manner if not in face and entertaining.

One reason why the average woman wears out and grows old and plain is that through a mistaken idea of duty she lays out for herself a scheme of duty of which every hour is filled with work, with rare and short periods of relaxation.

The roll may be laid in the fold so that it may be seen when the guest takes up the napkin. At the left are three forks, at the right two knives, a soup spoon and an oyster fork. The glasses to be used are grouped uniformly at the right.

The oysters on the shell are served on plates with cracked ice, with half a lemon in the center, six oysters for each person. These are put on the place plates as soon as the guests have removed napkins and rolls. When all the oyster plates have been removed, soup is served, the plate of soup being placed on the place plate. After this course the soup plates and plate placed for the next course. After the meat course plates for the salad course are placed, and a bowl of salad is passed, each guest helping himself. The table is then cleared for dessert.

On each dessert plate as it is brought rests a smaller plate, and on it are a finger bowl and the small silver needed for dessert. Beneath the finger bowl is a dainty dolly. The guest removes the finger bowl and dolly to the left. After the dessert the plates are removed by the maid, leaving the plate for fruit. Coffee is passed on a tray after the ladies have returned to the drawing room and is served to the gentlemen in the dining room while they are smoking.

Jenious and Its Cure.

While a wife may win her husband's confidence, she must never attempt to force it. She must in some way let him know that perfect truth between them is the only basis of a life in common. Even when the truth is unpleasant it is better than smooth dissimulation. To maintain happiness and a perfect relation between the husband and wife once the shade of doubt has darkened either mind the business and social relations of each should be made known to the other, and the first barrier of deceit should be torn down by a full and honest acknowledgment of any wrong that has been done. This is the only cure for jealousy. Mutual confidence must disarm suspicion and destroy jealousy, which are the gravest enemies of life's most serious, most beautiful partnership. White lies between husband and wife are to be abhorred, for the life of each is to be made an open book for the other.

Windows of the House.

To the passerby there is probably no one feature which lends more character to the general aspect of the house than do the windows, says Country Life in America. Windows are at once the eyes and the smile which light up the architectural face of a dwelling. Through the saving grace of well designed and well placed windows the humblest house may assume a charm all its own. They attract unconsciously and by contrast dignify even the plainest portions of the house. The successful home builder must wisely consider the distribution, placing and character of his windows. Moreover, every window should receive double consideration in each of these respects, for it must look well both outside and inside.

Bad Manicuring.

Many women suffer from the results of bad manicuring. First aid to these sufferers is the advice to give up having their nails manicured unless they can find a good manicure. Here is a good remedy for chipped and mutilated cuticle: Buy 10 cents' worth of pure olive oil and a small tin cup. Heat the oil over a gas jet, taking care that it does not get too hot. Soak the fingers in the oil for fifteen minutes, reheating the oil if it gets too cool. Do this three times a week, and in two weeks there will be surprising results.

Homemade Pastry Bag.

A homemade pastry bag costs less than one ready made and is quite as serviceable. Buy a twelve inch square of rubber cloth. Fold it together from two opposite corners, sew the edges together and you have a serviceable bag. Cut off the point and make it large enough to hold a pastry tube when slipped inside. The tubes cost 15 cents each, and three are sufficient for the woman who enjoys a little fancy cooking and pretty garnishing of everyday dishes.—Good Housekeeping.

Does Your Child Sneet?

How many white mothers know whether their children breathe well or ill? How many take the pains to teach their offspring the office of the nose as compared with that of the mouth? How many are intelligent enough to realize that the difference between letting a child sleep opened mouthed and close mouthed is the difference between a nuisance and decent peace?

Ironing Ribbons.

In ironing ribbons instead of placing the ribbon on the ironing board and passing the iron over and over the surface the result will be more satisfactory if the ribbon is drawn from under the iron a few inches at a time, taking care that the edges are kept even. else the ribbon will present a crooked appearance.

Night Sewing.

Busy mothers who find it necessary to sew in the evening are recommended by the mother of a large family to use self threading needles for night work and thus save time and eye strain; also to confine these evening efforts so far as possible to white sewing.

Ordinary glassware may be made to look almost as fine as cut glass if it be washed in hot soda, dried on a linen towel and then rubbed, while still warm, with tissue paper.

Clean pillows by putting them on the grass in a drenching rain. After being well soaked they should be squeezed and hung in a shady place to dry.

The corks of bottles or jars containing sticky substances should be dipped in salad oil before they are replaced.

Making the bed should be the last duty in putting a room to rights.

A CHANCE FOR CLEVER PEOPLE

It should be easy for people who drink delicious Blue Ribbon Red Label Tea to say something that will induce their friends to try it

$545.00 in Cash Prizes

Twenty-five cash prizes will be awarded in order of merit to those sending in the best advertisements for Blue Ribbon Red Label Tea.

First Prize	$200.00
Second Prize	100.00
Third Prize	40.00
4th to 13th Prizes, $10.00 each	100.00
14th to 25th, $5.00 each	60.00
	$500.00

In addition, beginning with the week ending April 4, a special weekly prize of $5.00 will be given to the one sending in the best advertisement during that week, making for the nine weeks $45.00 in special prizes, or a grand total of thirty-four cash prizes, $545.

CONDITIONS

- 1st. No professional ad. writer, nor anyone connected directly or indirectly with the Blue Ribbon Tea Company may compete.
- 2nd. Advertisements must not contain more than 50 words, and shorter ones are preferable.
- 3rd. One of the cards used in packing Blue Ribbon Red Label Tea—there are two in each package—must be enclosed with each batch of advertisements sent.
- 4th. The competition closes June 1, 1913, and all competing advertisements must reach one of the following addresses on or before that date.

Blue Ribbon Tea Co., Winnipeg, Man.
Blue Ribbon Tea Co., Toronto, Ont.
Blue Ribbon Tea Co., Vancouver, B.C.

- 5th. No person shall be awarded more than one of the main prizes, but may also take one or more weekly prizes.
- 6th. In case of a tie, decision will be based on all the advertisements submitted by the competitors in question.

Mr. H. M. E. Evans, of the Winnipeg Telegram, has kindly consented to judge the advertisements and award prizes.

All advertisements that fail to win a prize, but which are good enough to be accepted for publication will be paid for at the rate of $1.00 each.

Unless expressly requested to the contrary, we will consider ourselves at liberty to publish the names of prize winners.

A good advertisement should be truthful and contain an idea brightly and forcibly expressed. A bona fide signed letter with address and date from one who has tested the tea, is a good form. An advertisement for an article of food should not associate with it, even by contrast, any unpleasant idea. The best advertisement is the one that will induce the most people to try the article advertised.
