CON. 10 CARRICK.

George Rudolph of Elmwood visited at Jacob L. Schneider's over Sunday.

Fred. Mielhausen and family of Elmwood, spent Sunday at Mr. Schlegel's on the 11th concession.

Joseph Schickler's mother came up from Berlin to spend a short time with her son's family.

A rather curious event came to light during the past week. Last summer when Jos. Eidt was hauling in hay, a hen was accidentally buried in the hay in the mow. This week in taking the hay out of the mow Mr. Eidt came across his long-lost hen, and to his intense surprise, she was alive and as active as ever. She had eaten out quite a cave for her self, and had plenty of room to move around. One egg was also found in her prison.

George B. Smith and wife, of Ayton, spent Sunday with Frank F. Schmidt on this concession.

Every person in this vicinity is busy at the spring work. The women are gardening and planting their early potatoes.

Rev. George Brown preached his introductory sermon in the Evangelical church on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Brown was stationed here ten years ago, and the congregation is pleased to have him here again.

Frank F. Schmidt has leased the Evangelical parsonage on the 10th concession for another year. Frank intends going extensively into the potato business this year. Frank is still rather weak from the effects of his late severe illness, and cannot do much else just yet.

Henry Eidt left on Tuesday morning for Edmore, North Dakota, where he will work at the painting trade.

Martin Diebolt's two sons captured a live ground-hog this week, and the animal is now on exhibition to the public.

SOUTH BRUCE.

Both the Liberals and Conservatives of South Bruce now have candidates in the field for the Provincial Legislature. General elections are expected early in June, and naturally speculation is rife as to the chances of Mr. Truax and Dr. Clapp. The candidates are the same as faced each other four years ago when the Ross government went down to defeat. In South South Bruce the political parties are fairly evenly divided and victory will depend upon personal qualities of the candidates, the work of the "workers" or upon prevailing sentiment respecting the parties. Dr. Clapp's majority at the last election was 72, which looks safe enough. But it would be quite a mistake to expect that he will be favored in like manner this year. This is not because of any short-comings or weaknesses as a representative that he has displayed, nor because of raised popularity on the part of Mr. Truax. Four years ago the Liberals that held power were utterly discredited. There was a huge mass of "time for a change" sentiment, and the more independent Liberals throughout the province voted in great numbers for the Conservative candidates. This affected South Bruce as it did the province at large and doubtless was the chief factor in giving Dr. Clapp the majority that he got. The anti-liberal sentiment, it is safe to say, has now largely subsided, and at the coming elections there will be a large return to old party lines. We make no pretense to the gift of prophesy, but will venture to say that what may be expected is that whichever candidate is successful, his election will be by a small majority—much smaller than that received by Dr. Clapp four years ago.—Teeswater News.

LAKELET.

The nominating convention held by the Liberals in Wingham last week, resulted in Mr. J. T. Currie, of East Wawanosh, getting the nomination. We have never seen him, but from reports he should make a good candidate. There were very few from this quarter, owing to the busy time. A Liberal candidate will have uphill work in North Huron, but there is a chance.

Mr. Adam Scott, of Fordwich, was taken suddenly ill the latter part of last week, and this evening we hear there is no improvement. A weakness of the heart appears the great trouble. Mr. Scott is getting to be an old man.

It is certain that Mr. Boyd's neighbors from Drew gave him right royal assistance in moving his effects here. When the farmers out this way were busy on the land, the Drew chaps were assisting their neighbor.

We hear there were three tenders in for the repairing of the school. Mr. W. A. Cook of the burg, Mr. Schwalm of Mildmay, and Mr. W. F. Rainey of Yautum being the tenderers. The latter was the lowest, but we have not heard whether or not the contract was let. It will cost a lot of money before they are through with it, but then it has to be done and should have been done years ago.

A suit of more than ordinary interest was tried at Flesherston last Thursday. W. Boyd, cattledealer, sued the C. P. R. for loss on cattle caused by being snow bound near Shelburne last February. The cattle lost in weight and "missed the market" in the city. He was given damages of $50 and costs.

Clifford.

The largest ever brought into Clifford: a sow from Mr. Isaac Baylis, which weighed 740 pounds. This is the sow which was bought at Shoemaker's sale for $50. Mr. Baylis also brought in another sow, and the two weighed over 1200 pounds.

Mr. Con. Baetz cut up a maple tree in Mr. Philip Oehm's bush which may well rank among the largest in the section. It measured 42 inches in diameter at the base. These old timers are rapidly disappearing.

Mrs. Henry D. Schaus, of the 7th con. of Normanby, died on Wednesday, April 22nd, at her home, in her 35th year. She was a daughter of Philip N. Schaus, and sister to Wm. V. Schaus of the village. The funeral on Saturday to Carrick Lutheran cemetery was largely attended.

Mr. Wm. V. Schaus, the enterprising blacksmith, is going to put a new No. 4 House Cold Tire Setter and Shear. This machine works in the same way as the hot tire setters. It is just made strong enough to upset the tire cold, which saves taking it off the wheel to heat it, and one of its great advantages is that with it you can set a tire just as much or just as little as you please, and you can give the wheel exactly the dish that you wish to, and with no chance of making any mistake.

NOVEL PLEA AGAINST LOCAL OPTION BY-LAW.

Mr. J. B. Mackenzie is moving on behalf of Richard McGrath to quash the local option by-law of the township of Howick, County of Huron. Among the reasons alleged is one the novelty of which is most refreshing.

It appears that formerly a Mr. Dane was clerk of the township. He died a number of years ago, and his widow was appointed to succeed him. Subsequently the lady married again, and is now Mrs. Walker. Her present husband has been doing the work, such as attending Council meetings, etc., but she has been signing all documents, such as by-laws, etc. It is held apparently on the soundest of legal precedents that as soon as she married again her individuality became merged in that of her husband, and the position of Clerk became ipso facto vacant. This means that for a number of years the township has in reality been without a Clerk at all, and consequently most, if not all of its proceedings have been irregular, among them, of course, the by-law appealed against.

There are also a number of other grounds alleged. The by-law was only passed by a plurality of four votes over the necessary three-fifths majority.

"LOOK PLEASANT, YOUR MAJESTY."

An amusing story is related by a Parisian photographer of the King of Portugal, which brings into light his Majesty's delightful sense of humor and keen appreciation of the fact that he is not so symmetrical and sylph-like in figure as he once was.

His Majesty, having consented to give an artist a sitting, dropped into a chair before the camera.

"If your Majesty pleases," said the photographer who was not at all satisfied with the pose, "and will stand, we could get the whole figure."

"What!" cried King Carlos, rising heavily, "do you, then, contemplate a panoramic view of me?"

The Sultan of Turkey is the photographer's despair. Only twice within the last ten years has he consented to being photographed, and on one of these occasions he betrayed so much nervousness that it was impossible to make a good negative. His horror of being photographed has been explained by the story that it was once discovered that a native photographer, who had long sought permission to make a negative of his Majesty, had constructed a camera which was nothing better than a miniature gun. The Sultan is not wanting of personal courage, but face a camera is one of those things he will not do now-a-days.

A SULPHUREOUS CALDRON.

(By A. Banker.)

A few miles west of Naples is the vast crater of an extinct volcano from which no eruption has taken place since A. D. 1198, known as the Solfatara. But, although in a sense extinct, yet at various points it is always belching forth dense, suffocating volumes of white sulphureous fumes; jets of sulphur vapor issuing from yawning clefts and gaping fissures and rents in the solidified mud floor of the crater in all directions; and even from the cliffs encompassing the great hollow strange puffs of smoke are from time to time seen breaking out amongst the bushes and shrubs growing thereon. It is stated in a guide book that a roaring sound of thunder or of musketry fire accompanies these eruptions. This, however, is certainly not always the case. But even when there are no swelling blasts, and no booming stridor caused by these outbursts from this safety valve of Nature the scene is so weird and mystic that an uncanny, unearthly spell appears to pervade the place, forcibly reminding the visitor of Gustave Doré's terrible picture of the nether regions in his illustrations of Paradise Lost.

The great crater—it is about a mile in circumference, and, unlike other volcanoes, is not at the summit of a mountain, but on almost level ground—appears to be a vast caldron of boiling water, upon which floats a crust of solidified mud about three feet in thickness. Here is a small lake of water furiously boiling; here an island on which the beautiful Mediterranean white heather is blooming luxuriantly, notwithstanding the sulphur fumes (owing, however, probably to these fumes the flowers decay very soon after being plucked); here a rift from which issues a stream of noxious gas and steam; while the mud floor, many acres in extent, upon which the visitor is cautiously walking reverberates with a hollow sound if stamped upon. In fact if a regiment of soldiers were to march across the crater, in all probability the crust would collapse and they would all be plunged into the huge caldron beneath.

And perhaps this strange sulphureous earth-vent may remind some of the figurative "fire and brimstone" which is the fate of those shut out from the glory. But the fires of remorse implied by this metaphor need not be the fate of any. For by making the reparation demanded by Eternal Justice by undergoing, on the transgressors' behalf, the chastisement due by them, the Saviour of the world has provided a means by which all, without any exception, may, if they will but come to Him in contrition and penitence, attain to that Realm of Glory.

The boy stood on the bridge of a schooner beside the captain on a starry night. It suddenly became necessary for the captain to go below, and he said to the boy:

"Here, take the wheel. I'll be back in a few minutes. Steer by that star, and you will be all right."

The boy began to steer the boat and soon got her out of her course. The star now appeared astern instead of ahead. He shouted down to the skipper:

"Hi, skipper, come up and find me another star, I've passed that one."

ZAM-BUK SAVED THIS MAN'S FINGER!

Mr. William C. Edwards, Peter Street, Toronto (late steward Elks' Club), sustained a severe cut on the middle finger of the left hand. Blood poisoning ensued and the finger caused him excruciating agony. He says: "My hand was so swollen and painful that I had to carry it in a sling for some months. I was under the care of a well-known doctor in Toronto for several weeks. The wound got no better, and one day he said my finger would have to be taken off. The pain from the wound was extending right up the arm. I consulted another medical man and was treated by him for some weeks longer. He then suggested that the finger be opened and the bone scraped. At this stage a friend advised me to try some Zam-Buk which I did. I bathed the wound and applied Zam-Buk as directed. Next morning the wound began to bleed. It was a healthy sign so I continued with the treatment, and in a week time I was able to discard the bandage. A little more perseverance and Zam-Buk cured the wound completely."

Zam-Buk Cures cuts, burns, chafage, itch, eczema, running sores, ringworm, piles, bad legs, poisoned wounds and all skin diseases. All druggists and stores, sec., or postpaid from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

TERMS OF ENDEARMENT.

Pet Names in France and Germany—Instance From Von Mollke's Letter.

The terms employed by the people of one nation as the choicest phrases in their vocabulary of endearment are often employed for quite the opposite purposes by other peoples, says London Tit-Bits.

One of the most familiar and most coveted phrases of endearment among the French, for instance, is "my little pig," and "my little puppy dog" is also much appreciated. When a French husband calls his wife a "cat" she does not fly into a passion of resentment, as an English speaking wife might do under the same circumstances, but takes it as a gentle compliment. On the other hand if he were to call her a "duck," as the British husband might his wife, she would be very much offended.

Some time ago in Germany letters written by the late Count von Mollke to his betrothed were published. In these the great soldier frequently called the lady "my little kernel of coffee." This strikes one as a very queer pet name and has suggested to a cynical authority that in view of the writer's profession "my little grain of power" or "my little lump of lead" would have been more appropriate.

A person's individual likings and occupation frequently supply him with terms of endearment. A farmer sometimes calls his little girl his "colt," and a well known fisherman, to whom the creatures of the brook were as the apple of his eye, used to begin his letters to his wife when he was on his fishing expeditions with the word "My dear little speckled trout."

"What do you want?" said Jones. "I've been in bed those two hours!"

"I'm Bilson," went on the other. "Remember seeing me running this morning, eh? Yes? Well, I was going somewhere, and I was in a hurry! Good night!"

"Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The Particulars of a Remarkable Cure Told by a Presbyterian Clergyman--The Sufferer Brought Back from Death's Door.

St. Andrew's Manse,
Cardigan, P.E.I., Jan. 1908.

Though I have never been sick myself, and have not had occasion to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I thought you ought to know of the remarkable cure they have wrought in Mr. Olding's case.

During a visit to my home in Merigomish, N. S., some years ago, I was grieved to find our next door neighbor and friend, Michael Olding, very low. "He is not expected to live," my mother informed me. "And you must go over and see him as he is liable to pass away at any moment." "Not expected to live," that was the opinion not only of the doctor who attended him, but of his wife and family as well. Upon visiting him myself I found abundant evidence to confirm their opinion.

Mr. Olding had for years been afflicted with asthma and bronchitis, but now a complication of diseases was ravishing his system. He had been confined to his bed for months and was reduced to a skeleton. Though evidently glad to see me, he conversed with the greatest difficulty, and seemed to realize that it was the beginning of the end. He was daily growing weaker; his feet were swollen to twice their natural size, and the cold hand of death was upon his brow. "It's no use," he said feebly, "The doctors medicine is not helping me and I am going down rapidly." I prayed with him as for a man soon to pass into eternity, and when I took his hand in parting it was the last time I expected to see him in the flesh.

Three years later while on another visit to my mother's Michael Olding was seemingly in better health than I had ever seen him, for, as I said, he had always been ailing. In sheer desperation he had asked his wife to get him Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They soon began to help him. His appetite and strength began to improve, and to the astonishment of the family and friends he rapidly regained his health. Now, though the burden of well nigh four score years is upon him, he is able to do a fair day's work, and is in the enjoyment of good health, even the asthma has ceased to trouble him as in former years.

Mr. Olding himself, as well as his neighbors and the writer of this letter, confidently believe that his rescue from the very jaws of death--seemingly so miraculous--is due under the blessing of God to the timely and continuous use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

REV. EDWIN SMITH, M.A.

Mr. Olding himself writes:—"I am glad Rev. Mr. Smith has written you about my wonderful cure, for I confidently believe that if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I would have been dead long ago. It would be impossible to exaggerate the desperate condition I was in when I began to use the Pills. No one thought I could get better. I scarcely dared hope myself that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills would bring me through, but they did and I have ever since enjoyed good health. Though I am seventy-nine years old people are always remarking on how young I look--and I feel young. I can do a fair day's work, and I am better in every way than I had been for years. I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I take every opportunity I can to recommend them to friends who are ailing."

"I suppose old Cashman has more money than he knows what to do with?" "Yes; but his wife and daughters are ready to supply the needed information."

THE MONKEYS MUTINIED.

Four Hundred Took Possession of Steamship Braunfels.

Four hundred drunken monkeys, staggering about the decks of the British steamer Braunfels, which arrived at Philadelphia recently from Calcutta, served to banish ennui from the lives of the officers and crew on a dull Sunday at sea.

The condition of the animals was the result of a prank three days ago by Lizzie, a pet baboon, which has been aboard the Braunfels for two years. Evidently sympathizing with the lot of the several hundred members of her family, Lizzie, who had the freedom of the vessel, made her way between decks where the monkeys were confined, and liberated four hundred of the six hundred from the large cage.

They scampered about the decks of the vessel, chattering wildly. For two days there was no rest among the officers or crew. Parties of the monkeys, led chiefly by a crafty simian, known as the pigtail monkey, frequently rushed down on the decks, picked up a belaying pin or other handy object, and quickly climbed back up the rigging.

Then, when an officer or member of the crew walked across the decks, the animals would let fly their belaying pins or other missiles.

Nothing could be done to round up the mischievous animals. At last, as the ship was being towed up the river this morning the captain decided on heroic measures. He took a large quantity of molasses, mixed it with three quarts of brandy, and putting it in pans placed it about the decks.

All hands disappeared. Attracted by the sweet odor from the pans, the pig-tailed leader descended, followed by the others. Chattering and screeching, they devoured the brandy and molasses. Soon there were four hundred monkeys staggering. This ended the trouble, for just as soon as any showed signs of stupor the animals were picked up and placed in the cage. Lizzie is a prisoner, too.

"You say the victim was shot in the head?" queried the coroner. "Yes, sir," replied the witness. "Previous to the shooting, had there been any trouble or threats that would have led the victim to expect the shot?" No, sir; I don't think such a thing ever entered his head before."

It is an Officer of the Law of Health--When called in to attend a disturbance it searches out the hiding-place of pain, and like a guardian of the peace, lays hands upon it and says, "I arrest you." Resistance is useless, as the law of health imposes a sentence of perpetual banishment on pain, and Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil was originated to enforce that sentence.

"Perfectly Trustworthy" is the character of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It can be used with the utmost confidence that it will do what is claimed for it. It is sure in its effects, as the use of it will clearly demonstrate and can be relied upon to drive a cold out of the system more effectively than any other medicine. Try it and be convinced that it is what it is claimed to be.

"Yes'm. Last Sunday the preacher was going to talk about Jonah an' the whale but he only talked about Jonah. Said he'd preach the rest of it to-day, and I had to go again to-day to hear about the whale."

RESIDENCE AND PHOTO OF J. E. CARSON, TORONTO, CAN.
Mr. J. E. Carson, 218 St. Clarens Ave., Toronto, Canada, Inspector London Life Insurance Co., London, Canada, writes:
"I have used the popular remedy known as Pe-ru-na, and I can testify as to its merits. I regard it as one of the best tonics now on the market."

TORONTO is one of the most beautiful cities in the world. It is a city of homes and churches, a city of intelligence and good government, a city of healthful climate and beautiful scenery. Among the many beautiful homes which make up the city of Toronto, is the home of J. E. Carson, 218 St. Clarens Ave. In this home Peruna is revered as a family medicine. Peruna can boast of being a fixture in over a million such happy homes on this continent, where it is used for the petty ailments that afflict the family. Coughs and colds, catarrh of the head and throat, sore throat in various forms, disturbances of digestion, catarrh of the stomach, and other internal organs. These ailments, petty in themselves, are often the beginning of very serious diseases. A dose or two of Peruna taken in the beginning may quickly avert tedious if not fatal illnesses.

Head Stopped Up.
Mr. G. W. Martin, Harford, Ontario, choir leader at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, writes:
"I have been troubled with catarrh for a great many years, and always trying something for it, but was able only to secure temporary relief until I used Peruna. Only five bottles rid my system of all traces of catarrh, and I have not noticed the slightest trouble for several months. My head was stopped up, my breath offensive, and it is a relief to be able to breathe freely once more."

There is a movement on foot to induce the employers of Port Huron, Mich., to give preference to local people in the matter of employment to the exclusion of the residents of the Canadian side of the river. A petition signed by 275 people was presented to the chamber of commerce, asking that body to appoint a committee to wait on the employers of Port Huron and request that they give employment to the residents of the city. There has been a census taken which shows that over 300 people cross the river every day from Sarnia to work in Port Huron.

He placed a dozen sticks of dynamite in a nail keg in his woodshed, sat on the keg and touched off the fuse. The shed was blown to slivers, and no trace of the keg can be found. De Wilde received a scratch on the leg and a few burns on the face. De Wilde recently sold his farm for $8,000 and was despondent because he did not know where to go when he gave up the land.

PROMISES TO THE DYING.

A clergyman, discussing unhappy love affairs, said:

Many a love tragedy is caused by a husband's promise to a dying wife that he will not marry again. He thinks when he makes this promise that it will be easy to keep. Whether it is easy or hard to keep, it is a promise rarely, if ever broken. Time and again widowers have sought me out for advice on this subject. They are in love, but they promised their dead wives not to marry again. Shall they break or keep this promise? I can only advise them to do as their conscience dictates. At the same time I think it is selfish of dying wives to extract such promises from their broken-hearted husbands. Such promises, by the way, are rarely extracted by dying husbands from broken-hearted wives. But, then, when the dead husband's will is read it is usually found that if the widow marries again the money is all taken from her. So it comes to the same thing in the end, doesn't it?"

Guelph, May 5.—James Black, a well-known farmer living in Eramosa township near this city, sustained a most peculiar accident yesterday. A cow ran at Mr. Black, who had in his hand an iron bar. The bar was knocked into his face and hit him in the eye. The injured optic had to be removed at the hospital.

The license reduction by-law in Toronto remains quashed, and the city must pay all the costs of its attempt to reinstate it by appealing to the Divisional Court from Chief Justice Meredith's recent decision. Some 34 licenses are thus removed from the jeopardy of withdrawal. Chief Justice Falconbridge and Mr. Justice Teetzl upheld the decision of the lower court; Mr. Justice Riddell very vigorously dissented, and would have reinstated the by-law.

THE SYSTEM IS GENERALLY RUN DOWN AND LACKS POWER TO DESTROY GERM.

Winter takes the vitality and snap out of us all. Instead of being rich and healthful, the blood is sure to be thin and watery in the spring. An overpowering tiredness comes upon us—this is followed by dead weakness, loss of sleep, poor appetite and depression. Doctors all say the only hope lies in supplying lots of new blood which must be brimming with vitality and building material.

The quickest way to get the necessary supply of vitalized blood is by taking Ferrozone. It establishes a high standard of blood, increases nerve force, restores bodily vigor in a truly marvelous way.

You are amply protected from spring fever and debility diseases by using Ferrozone.—This is proved by Mrs. E. J. Richardson, of Manotick, Ont., who tells in the following words how she gained in health and spirit from Ferrozone. "For about two years I was not well. I was thin and anaemic. Towards spring I fell into a condition of nervous exhaustion that made life scarcely worth living. A dead tiredness seemed to hang over me like a load of lead. I simply could not do housework of any kind. A bad cough developed that worried me greatly, for I thought it might be tubercular. When I first read about Ferrozone I was convinced it was good. I took it regularly for about eight weeks and the change in my health was wonderful. My checks filled out and became clear and rosy. I gained eight pounds in weight and am now as strong and vigorous as possible."

Ferrozone feeds and nourishes the organs that require assistance. It sends the thrill and vim of robust health from head to foot, makes you feel better at once. Won't you use Ferrozone? Sold everywhere; 50 chocolate-coated tablets in a box for 50 cents, or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

CORRECTLY NAMED.

Mose, the darky cook of a party of surveyors in Eastern Texas, was greatly annoyed by the razorback hogs that roamed around the camp. One evening, while he was at the spring, a particularly ravenous band of these "rooters" raided the cook tent and ate everything that was edible and some other things that weren't.

For several moments after his return from the spring Mose could find no words to express his feelings.

"Wall," he finally exclaimed, "de good Lawd suhtainly knowed His business when he named hawgs 'hawgs'! Dey sho' is hawgs!"

THE TWO ALTERNATIVES.

"We get some sad cases," said the attendant at lunatic asylum to the visitor, and opened the door of the first cell.

Inside was a man sitting on a stool and gazing vacantly at the wall.

"Sad story," said the attendant, "he was in love with a girl, but she married another man, and he lost his reason from grief."

They stole out softly, closing the door behind them, and proceeded to the next inmate. This cell was thickly padded, and the man within was stark, staring mad.

"Who is this?" inquired the visitor.

"This," repeated the attendant—"this is the other man."

POWER THAT LIES IN STEAMS.

In these days of farm-help famine, farmers are beginning to look about them for other means besides mere muscle to help them to carry on their business. Many a man has watched the water in the brook that runs through his farm go by for years without ever a thought that it might be made useful to him. Now he is waking up to the fact that a wheel placed in the stream will produce enough electricity to supply power to do the work of a dozen hired men. For instance:

In Oneda County, New York State, David M. Miner has lived on a farm for 40 years, and he and sons have have by hard blows, wrought out a living.

Three-years ago one of his sons, home from college on his vacation, fell to thinking about the brook that ran thro the farm, and decided to put it to work. Now this little stream runs an electric motor which supplies heat for the house and light as well, not only for the dwelling but for the barns, dairy and poultry house. It runs the separator, saws all the wood, runs the feed cutter, elevates the silage; heats the laundry iron, runs the sewing machine, and in fact does four-fifths of all the work about the farm dwelling and barns that has heretofore been done by hand.

The expense was only a few hundred dollars and the work was all done by the farmer and his son. The harnessing of this little stream and the forcing of its wasted power to do the work of many men has added twenty-five per cent. to the value of the farm in the saving of time and labor.

There are thousands of farms all over this country where equal opportunities are awaiting the intelligent touch of farmers who are progressive enough to see the advantages that lie at their very doors.—Galt Reporter.

EAT WHAT YOU WANT

BUT FIND THE WAY TO DIGEST WHAT YOU DO EAT.

The first thing to do in the case of indigestion or stomach weakness is to strengthen the muscular walls of the stomach and intestines, so that they will care for the food that is eaten. In no other way can this be done as well as by taking a Mi-o-na tablet before each meal. This restores strength to the stomach muscles and stimulates the pouring out of gastric juices, then the food digests readily and you begin to get the full benefit from what you eat.

Use Mi-o-na whenever you have sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, spots before the eyes, sleeplessness and the many other symptoms that are the direct result of indigestion.

Jno. Coates gives with every 50c box of Mi-o-na a guarantee to refund the money unless the remedy cures.

Amusing Advertising Swindles.

A man who answered advertisements in cheap "story papers" has had some interesting experiences. He learned that by sending one dollar to a Yankee he could get a cure for drunkenness. Sure enough he did. It was "to take the pledge and keep it." Later on he sent fifty two-cent stamps to find out how to raise turnips successfully. He found out—"Just take hold of the tops and pull." Being young he wished to marry, and sent thirty-four one-cent stamps to a Chicago firm for information as to how to make an impression. When the answer came it read, "Sit down on a pan of dough." It was a little rough, but he was a patient man, and thought he would yet succeed. Next advertisement he answered read, "How to double your money in six months." He was told to convert his money into bills, "fold them" and he would see his money doubled. Next he sent for twelve useful household articles and he got "a package of needles." He was slow to learn, so he sent one dollar to find out "How to get rich." "Work like the devil and never spend a cent." And that stopped him, but his brother wrote to find out how to write a letter without pen or ink. He was told to "use a lead pencil." He paid one dollar to learn how to live without work, and was told on a postal card to "fish for suckers as we do."

"SHOW ME" PROOF.

THAT IS WHAT HYOMEI WILL DO IN ALL FORMS OF CATARRH AND TROUBLES OF THE BREATHING ORGANS.

It's not a question of Hyomei having cured some one else but will it reach your own particular case. If it's cold in the head, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Croup or any affection of the breathing organs J. Coates says yes, and will refund the money if it fails. No other preparation for the same purpose can successfully do this, because the Hyomei system of treatment is different from anything else.

You simply breathe and inhale its medication in dry air form which destroys the germ life that causes oppressed breathing, Nasal Catarrh, Throat Irritation and Lung Troubles. It brings to these suffering organs the balsam laden air they would get in the Pine and Eucalyptus forests. The air that stamps out Bronchial troubles.

The price of entertainers, Marshall P. Wilder says; Hyomei is easy to use and swift to cure. It insures against coughs and colds. It gives you pure air and kills the germ of disease. It helps the voice.

AN OPTIMIST.

It was not always possible for Mrs. Leahy, from her permanent station at the washtub, to appreciate the silver lining which Mr. Leahy discovered in every cloud and pointed out to her.

"I've lost me job," he said, cheerfully, "but this is the time you'd ought to be thankful I'm not as smar-at as some."

"Why would I be thankful for that?" inquired Mrs. Leahy, pausing an instant to wipe her glistening forehead with her damp apron.

"Tis aisy seen," and her husband gazed tolerantly at her from his comfortably tipped back chair by the stove. "If I were Terry Dolan, and out of me job, I'd be losin' t'ree dollars a day instead of wan-sivinty-five. You think o' that me darlin' an' 'twill put the hear-rt into you same as it has into me."

A suffragette lecturer recently brought down the house with the following argument:

"I have no vote, but my groom has. I have a great respect for that man in the stables, but I am sure if I were to go to him and, 'John, will you exercise the franchise?' he would reply, 'Please, mum, which horse be that?'"

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

BRITISH CRUISER RAMMED

Gladiator Sent to the Bottom By the Ocean Liner S. Paul.

A despatch from Portsmouth, England, says: The American Line steamship St. Paul, which left Southampton on her regular voyage bound for New York on Saturday afternoon in a dense snowstorm, ramméd and destroyed the British second-class cruiser Gladiator off the Isle of Wight. According to the statement issued by the Admiral commanding the Portsmouth station, three bodies have been recovered, those of Cowdry, first waiter, and Widgey and Scherres, stewards. Two seamen were injured and have since died in the Golden Hill Hospital. Six injured are in the hospital. Lieutenant Wm. P. Graves, five petty officers and fifteen seamen and stokers are missing. Nobody on the St. Paul was killed or injured.

COLLIDED IN SNOWSTORM.

The St. Paul left Southampton at 12.30 o'clock. She was an hour behind her usual time for sailing, the delay being due to the delayed arrival of the passenger train, which was blocked by snowdrifts on the trip from London. The weather was comparatively clear to Southampton waters, but immediately the St. Paul turned into Solent, which runs parallel to the Isle of Wight, she encountered a terrific snow blizzard.

Capt. Passow and his chief officer with the American Line's regular pilot, were on the bridge, and a lookout man was posted in the bows. Suddenly a ship appeared immediately in front of them: It was the Gladiator at anchor. Orders were given on the instant for full speed astern, in an endeavor to clear the cruiser, but it was too late.

RAMMED AMIDSHIPS.

The St. Paul's sharp stem ramméd the anchored vessel amidships. The liner quivered and reeled, and the passengers rushed on deck in great alarm, the women on the verge of a panic. The officers and crew acted with the greatest coolness, and allayed the terror with as fine a display of discipline as though she were the best-disciplined man of war. Five lifeboats were lowered to rescue the crew of the Gladiator, which had begun to sink almost at once.

FORMED IN LINE ON DECK.

The men of the cruiser gave a magnificent demonstration of discipline. At the captain's command they formed in line on the deck and stood in ranks while the cruiser settled down in obedience to orders, successive batches marched to the gangways and entered the St. Paul's and the cruiser's boats, until practically the whole crew, which numbered 450 men, had been taken off and landed on the Isle of Wight.

Captain Walter Lumsden, true to naval traditions, was the last to leave his ship. Only a few men then were missing, and it was thought that most of them had been saved by a boat which had put out from Yarmouth. The Gladiator soon settled down, sinking in about twenty minutes. The St. Paul returned to Southampton and her passengers were put ashore, seeking accommodation at the various hotels.

ST. PAUL BADLY DAMAGED.

The St. Paul was more seriously damaged than at first supposed. She shipped a great quantity of water through her broken plates, and from the moment she backed away from the wrecked cruiser until she reached her wharf at Southampton all her pumps were kept going to their full capacity. The damaged bows of the St. Paul indicate that she forced her nose at least twenty feet through the cruiser's side, but fortunately the greatest damage she received was above the waterline. The bow post was buckled, while the plates on both the port and starboard bows were crushed in and gaping cracks extend along the side.

DEATH IN TORNADO'S WAKE

Terrific Cyclones Rage Over the Southern States

A despatch from Atlanta, Georgia, says: A wind of cyclonic proportions swept over portions of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama late on Friday, leaving a trail of dead and injured. The number of killed is estimated at close to 100, and the number of injured at over 100, with many portions of the afflicted districts to hear from. Most of the dead are negroes. Perhaps a dozen white persons were caught in falling buildings and either fatally injured or seriously disabled.

In Louisiana it is estimated that a score of small towns were destroyed or partly wrecked. They include Amite City, Arcadia and Independence, Belle Grove, Melton, Lorman, Pineridge, Quitman Landing, Fairchilds Creek, Fuvivis and Lumberton, Miss., are reported seriously damaged by the storm. 45 persons are reported killed at Amite. In Alabama, Dora was the chief sufferer. Fifty persons at the lowest estimate were injured. Cars were blown from the railroad tracks and considerable other property destroyed. Reports also say that the storm struck Albertville, Ala., late Friday afternoon, and destroyed the entire northern portion of the town. An unconfirmed report from this section gives the death list as from 30 to 35, with scores of persons injured.

From Meridan, Miss., comes a report that a woman and her child were killed outright, while a number of other persons were hurt.

Richland and Lamourie, La., were struck by the storm and nearly a fifth of their population injured.

Winchester, Miss., a small town, is reported wiped out, though only two other persons are known to have been killed. Natchez, Miss., reports sixty are known to be dead in the northern Louisiana storm.

Mobile reported nine dead in Hattiesburg, Miss., but this has not been confirmed.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP PAYS

Annual Report of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

A despatch from Toronto says: That municipal ownership pays is one of the things the second annual report of the Ontario Railway Board shows. It paid in 1906 with a profit of over half a million.

Important figures are given respecting public utilities in the province. The total investment is $21,824,564.88, divided as follows:—Waterworks, $19,085,110; Electric Light & Power, $1,716,667; Gas Works, $916,735; Telephones, $106,044.

Debture and other debts are: Waterworks, $12,502,301; Electric, $1,213,816; Gas, $737,948; Telephones, $100,658.

For the past year the returns were as follows: Waterworks, gross income, $1,626,984; net, $431,013; Electric, gross, $454,644; net, $67,152; Gas, gross, $188,750; net, $40,901; Telephone, gross, $26,797; net, $6,100.

Thus during the past year the public utilities yielded to the municipalities owning them the neat little profit of $545,176, after paying all charges and giving service on a cost basis.

32 PERSONS KILLED.

During the year 32 persons were killed and 320 injured on the railways under the jurisdiction of the Board. Of the killed seven were passengers; seven employees; 17 travellers on the highways; one trespasser; none on level crossings. Of the injured 181 were passengers, 38 employees.

The Electric railway business increased all along the line during the year. The mileage increased from 405 to 436; passengers carried from 111,316,577 to 125,417,057; gross earnings from $5,080,026 to $5,608,456, the net earnings from $2,107,463 to $2,344,098.

The report also deals with the question of jurisdiction and re-affirms its position as set forward in the letter of Chairman Leitch to Premier Whitney a short time ago.

The facts respecting Toronto's complaints against the Street Railway are also reviewed at some length.

LANDSLIDE BURIES TOWN

Terrible Disaster at Notre Dame de la Salette, Quebec.

A despatch from Ottawa says: From Notre Dame de la Salette, a little hamlet of French-Canadian farmers on the Lievre River, eighteen miles from Buckingham, Que., comes word of a terrible disaster. At 4.30 on Sunday morning while the villagers were still asleep the clay comprising the top of a high hill of the Laurentian range beneath which the village lay slid down with terrific speed, buried in the twinkling of an eye or swept before it most of the twenty-five houses in Notre Dame de la Salette, killed at least thirty-five persons, and injured many others. So huge was the mass of falling clay that it filled the bed of the Lievre, damming it up and flooding the adjacent land. Much of the loss of life was caused by the ice forced out of the river-bed sweeping away the houses adjacent to it.

The villagers, roused from their slumbers by the roar of the avalanche as it swept down the hillside, at once entered upon the work of rescue, but as the houses overwhelmed stretched over a considerable area, and the location of some of them was in doubt, progress was slow. Messengers were at once despatched for help. There was no telegraph or telephone system in the village, and it was some time before the news reached Buckingham, but when it did doctors and nurses were rushed to the spot, followed later by some twenty-five coffins in which to bury the dead.

$5.60 to $5.80 per cwt; choice loads, $5.20 to $5.50; medium, $4.60 to $5; common and medium mixed, $3.50 to $4.50; cows, choice, $4.25 to $4.75; cows, medium, $3.60 to $4; cows, common, $2.50 to $3.50 per cwt. Bulls ranged from $3 to $4.75 per cwt.

A considerable business was transacted in feeders and stockers on fair offerings. Prices were unchanged at $4 to $5 per cwt. for feeders, and $3.25 to $4 for stockers.

Calves were lower in value on large offerings. Their prices ranged from $2 to $5 per cwt.

Export ewes sold at $4.50 to $5; bucks and culls, $3.50 to $4; lambs, grain-fed, $6 to $7 per cwt.

Hogs were unchanged at $6.40 for selects, and $6.15 for lights and fats.

LOG CAR RAN AWAY.

Killed Nine Men on the Susquehanna Railroad.

A despatch from Ralston, Pa., says: A work train on the Susquehanna & New York Railroad, near Laquin, Pa., was wrecked on Wednesday morning by a runaway car which dashed into the train after descending a steep grade. Eight lumbermen were killed outright, one died later while being taken to a hospital, and fifteen were seriously injured. The wreck occurred on the Laquin Lumber Company's log road leading up into the mountains, about twenty-six miles from Ralston. The men were riding on the log train, which was being pushed up the steep ascent by the engine. A log car ran away and came down the grade at terrific speed toward the train. An attempt was made to reverse the engine on the log train to avoid the shock of the collision, but the runaway car crashed into the cars before anything could be done. The engineer and fireman and those in the train who were near the engine escaped injury.

INSANE, TOOK HIS LIFE.

Farmer Living Near Lindsay Committed Suicide.

A despatch from Lindsay says: Wm Lowrie, a farmer living about ten miles north of here, committed suicide on Thursday night by hanging. He was well-to-do, and no cause can be given for his action other than that he was suffering from temporary insanity. He attempted suicide two weeks ago, but was prevented by his wife.

REGISTERED MAIL STOLEN.

Thieves' Work at Edmonton—One Bag Recovered.

A despatch from Edmonton, Alta., says: A bag containing registered letters was stolen on the arrival of the Winnipeg train on Thursday. The sacks were loaded on the mail wagon, and on arrival at the post-office, it appears, were overlooked. One contained registered matter for the Calgary and Edmonton Railway, south. A search revealed the Calgary and Edmonton bag beneath some empty sacks near by, but the other was gone. Two or three suspects are under surveillance, and arrests are probable.

BATTLE WITH MAHMOUDS.

British Troops Dislodged the Hill Tribes men.

A despatch from Simla, India, says: In consequence of an attempt made by the Mahmud tribesmen to cut his lines of communication Sir James Willcocks, the commander of the British force sent out from Peshawar against the raiding natives, attacked the enemy on Friday morning with two columns, comprising all his available troops. After a sharp fight the British troops dislodged the tribesmen from their positions. The British casualties are given at sixty. The losses of the Mahmuds are not known.

MANGLED BY WHEEL OF MILL

Two Little Nova Scotia Girls Meet With a Horrible Death.

A despatch from Halifax, N. S., says: The report of a most unusual accident comes from West Lohave Ferry, by which two little daughters of Henry Rernette, aged 9 and 11 years, lost their lives while on their way to gather May flowers. There is a sawmill in the vicinity, and the children were in the habit of taking a short cut under the wheel when the mill was idle, to shorten the distance. On this occasion their father warned them not to go in that

TWO TRAVELLERS WERE VICTIMS

The list of known dead, so far as can be learned, includes Mrs. Camille Desjardins, sen., and five grandchildren; Mrs. Joseph Murray and five children; Mr. A. Murray and a brother-in-law who lived with him; Mrs. D. Desjardins and two boys; Cleophas Des Lauriers, his wife and two children and two English-speaking men, supposed to be commercial travellers who are known to have been in Desjardins' Hotel on Saturday night, are missing.

The only one rescued from the Desjardine establishment was Grace, the eleven-year-old daughter. Mr. Desjardins was in Buckingham at the time, and did not learn of the accident until noon on Sunday. Most of the wrecked buildings are on the side of the river opposite the slide.

Details coming in show that from Mr. Louis Mauntion's general store south to Desjardins Hotel, postoffice and store, half a mile away, only three houses are left. Sixteen buildings were damaged and of these ten were completely demolished.

GIRL'S HEROISM UNAVAILING.

Saved Children From Burning House Only to Lose Them.

A despatch from Battleford, Sask., says: Miss Anna Matthews is the only survivor of a family of five, as a result of prairie fires in the Tramping Lake District. The father went to fight the flames, which were sweeping down on their little home, and perished in the attempt. The house took fire, and Anna Matthews, 18 years of age, with her clothes all ablaze, carried her five-year-old brother and sister to a place of safety, and then returned for her mother, but too late. She fought her way again through the sea of fire only to find that the other children had wandered again into the fire zone and perished.

BATTLE WITH MAHMOUDS.

British Troops Dislodged the Hill Tribes men.

A despatch from Simla, India, says: In consequence of an attempt made by the Mahmud tribesmen to cut his lines of communication Sir James Willcocks, the commander of the British force sent out from Peshawar against the raiding natives, attacked the enemy on Friday morning with two columns, comprising all his available troops. After a sharp fight the British troops dislodged the tribesmen from their positions. The British casualties are given at sixty. The losses of the Mahmuds are not known.

REGISTERED MAIL STOLEN.

Thieves' Work at Edmonton—One Bag Recovered.

A despatch from Edmonton, Alta., says: A bag containing registered letters was stolen on the arrival of the Winnipeg train on Thursday. The sacks were loaded on the mail wagon, and on arrival at the post-office, it appears, were overlooked. One contained registered matter for the Calgary and Edmonton Railway, south. A search revealed the Calgary and Edmonton bag beneath some empty sacks near by, but the other was gone. Two or three suspects are under surveillance, and arrests are probable.

MANGLED BY WHEEL OF MILL

Two Little Nova Scotia Girls Meet With a Horrible Death.

A despatch from Halifax, N. S., says: The report of a most unusual accident comes from West Lohave Ferry, by which two little daughters of Henry Rernette, aged 9 and 11 years, lost their lives while on their way to gather May flowers. There is a sawmill in the vicinity, and the children were in the habit of taking a short cut under the wheel when the mill was idle, to shorten the distance. On this occasion their father warned them not to go in that

A Broken Vow;

BETTER THAN REVENGE.

CHAPTER X.

"What are you doing here?" asked Olive breathlessly, as she faced the man across the narrow grave on which the stolen wreath was lying.

"My dear Olive," he responded coolly, "I think the question rather should be—what are you doing here? If we come to a matter of every-day fact, I have a right to be here because I am alive; you have no right at all, because, according to the newspapers, which never lie and never make mistakes, you are most unmistakably dead."

"I am supposed to be dead," she admitted reluctantly. "It sometimes becomes necessary, in this life of ours, that we should apparently drop out of things." Was my life so fine or so noble that I should not crave to begin again—to be something else?"

"Very interesting," said the man, thrusting his hands into his pockets, and looking at her curiously. "You were always a little odd, my sweet Olive; that was the real enchantment of you"—he removed a hand from his pocket for a moment and wafted an ironical kiss at her—"one never knew what to expect from you. Behold me; I hear suddenly that you have been abruptly and most unromantically killed: my heart is torn—my breast a desert; I spend the last money I have in the world to come and cast myself upon your grave. And you rise up before me—alive, and as handsome as ever. Wonderful Olive!"

"Why should you trouble me at all?" she asked quickly. "I have no very pleasant memories of you in the past; why not believe, or try to believe, that Olive Varney lies quietly there below us, and that you need not trouble about her any more. Why not let me put everything aside—lay it to rest here—and begin again."

"Because, my dear Olive, that is quite impossible. I have told you, on many occasions in your own lifetime and in that of your sainted father, that I love you; your obduracy in the past has been the only thing that has spoiled my life, in a manner of speaking. I met you abroad years ago, when I had grown a little tired of things, and you were fresh and sweet and comparatively new to life. You were a girl then, living under the dominion of a most unnatural father—"

"My father is dead," she reminded him sternly.

"That does not alter the circumstances; it is merely a relief for you and for me," he replied airily. "I loved you then, you were so uncommon—so surprising. There was about you some infinite capacity for love, which you, under the direction of your father, were only too willing to starve and stifle. I tried to draw that love out of you, and you turned upon me like a fury, which only made you more enchanting than ever. Of all the women I had met, my dear Olive, you were the one I could not read in the first moment; if it should ever be my dear delight to call you mine, and I had the extreme felicity to live to be a hundred and you a few years less, I should still know that with your latest breath you would surprise me. Adorable Olive,"—he seated himself on the grave and looked up at her with a whimsical smile—"who lies under here?"

"Victor Kelman," she said sternly—"I never loved you, and I never can. You were my father's friend, and I was forced against my will to see a great deal of you. I ask you now to go away and to leave me—to believe me dead and never to change that belief. So far as you are concerned, Victor, Olive Varney lies in that grave; she has nothing to do with you."

"My dear Olive," he replied, with a little laugh, "you fail to see the extraordinary advantage I have gained. For the first time in your life I have the better of you; for the first time I have discovered that you are committing a fraud, and with the instinct of a man I take advantage of it. I find you advertised as dead; I discover you living. I ask again, what is the move?"

"I had a purpose in being hidden," she replied doggedly. "It suited me that someone who expected to come face to face with Olive Varney should come face to face with a stranger instead. I was here when the accident took place; by a miracle I escaped, and another woman unconsciously took my place. Olive Varney is dead; I want you to remember that always."

"Olive Varney is dead—peace to her!" he exclaimed dramatically, removing his hat. "And I—Victor Kelman—her old friend, and the friend of her father—I have the satisfaction of meeting a certain sweet personage who resembles her wonderfully, and has all her most charming attributes. And as that sweet person and I must have much to say to each other concerning the dear departed, I propose that we begin to talk about her at once. For I can never forget that I loved her."

"And you show your love by robbing another grave to decorate hers," said Olive bitterly.

"My dear Unknown," said Victor Kelman, rising to his feet and replacing his hat—"when I explain my reasons, am sure that I shall be forgiven. Fortune has not been good to me; if you come to that, it never was. I come to the grave of the one woman I ever loved, and I find that she has no friend who could afford to place upon her last resting-place some slight memento. My blood boils at the thought; my empty pockets are a reproach to me. But near at hand I observe a grave on which a wreath has been placed.

I have no earthly interest in this other grave; probably there reposes within a man or a woman with whom I should inevitably have quarrelled in life—an utterly unworthy individual. Shall my sweet Olive lie undecorated, and the worthless one have a wreath? Perish the thought; I change the wreath from the unworthy to the worthy—and all the gods and all the graces smile upon me for the act."

Olive Varney picked up the wreath, and walked with it to the other grave; gently deposited it there. Coming back she looked at Victor Kelman, who was sadly shaking his head at her.

"Now—since you have discovered me—tell me what you want," she said. "I have asked nothing in this life but to be let alone; but Fate has been too strong for me. I thought to lie hidden there"—she pointed at the grave as she spoke—"but a man of your stamp has no compunction about breaking in upon my decent obscurity there. I ask again—what do you want?"

"My dear Olive—I want you," he replied coolly. "In this world the weak and the strong—the timid and the courageous—the helpless and the forceful—all drift naturally together. I am weak—timid—helpless; you are all the other things. More than that, you are unlike any other woman I ever met.

I liked you and admired you as a girl. I loved you as a woman; I wept bitter tears when I heard that you had departed for another world to which I could not, except by violent means, be permitted to follow you. I visited your grave; an elderly and very obtuse sexton, who is also various other romantic things in the parish, pointed it out to me, and gave me a full account of the accident. But it seems, my dear Olive, that he was misinformed, and that some other Olive Varney lies here. But, of course, the last word is with you."

She hesitated for a moment or two. The situation was so entirely strange to be thus standing beside her own grave, and yet to have to give an explanation of her own appearance in bodily form to this man, who had mourned her as dead. The difficulty was increased by the fact of that one-sided love-story to which he referred; she saw that for the first time in her life she had given him a power over her, and she resented it bitterly.

"There was no particular object in my declaring who I was, or in my clinging to the name of Olive Varney," she said at last, evasively. "An accident pinned that name, as it were, to a dead woman—a woman who died in the train in the place I had been in but a moment before. She happened to have caught up a bag that was mine; there was no clue to claim her, and so they put down the name in the bag as hers. It did not matter to me, and I did not contradict it. There you have the whole story, Victor Kelman."

He shook his head and smiled, scratched his chin, and looked at her through half-closed eyes. "My dear Olive—you are not so completely honest with me as I could have hoped," he said. "If there is one thing in this world we cling to more than another, it is our identity; with many of us it is the only thing we are able to carry beyond the grave. Yet you willingly give up that to an unknown woman, allow her to take what is yours while you walk out into the world with no name at all. My dear—it really will not wash."

"What do you suspect?" she asked.

"I suspect nothing; but I scent a romance—broken vows—a lover who has deceived a trusting heart, and who must be pursued in secret. All very beautiful, my charmer—but where do you come in?"

"You are entirely wrong. I have no lover, unless you call yourself one," she added contemptuously. "I admit that I had a purpose in dropping out of life, as it were; but that purpose does not concern you. You have by the merest chance discovered my secret; keep it, and I shall be grateful. So far as you are concerned, Olive Varney lies there,"—she pointed to the mound between them—"and you're done with her. You have spoken to a stranger, and the stranger wishes you 'Good-bye.'"

She turned and walked swiftly away, but the man came striding after her. When they faced each other again in the deserted graveyard there was a look of determination on both faces, Kelman was the first to speak.

"I shan't let you go like that," he said, with a new sternness in his voice. "You don't seem to understand the po-
