German Commercial Submarine Under Same Captain Arrives at New London, With a Cargo of Chemicals and Medicines

New London, Conn., Nov. 1.—Germany's first commercial submarine, the Deutschland, arrived here early to-day, completing her second voyage. Under command of Captain Koenig, who was in command during her first trip to Baltimore, the Deutschland left Bremen on October 10, and tied up at berth prepared for her here at 2.35 o'clock this morning.

A return cargo for the Deutschland, consisting mainly of crude rubber and surgical supplies, valued at more than $2,500,000, has been made fast to the New London bank of the Thames and in such a position that with the ship on one side, the pier on the other and the bank at one end an open water space 50 by 35 feet is made enclosed on three sides.

Washington, Nov. 1.—A board of navy experts probably will be directed to inspect the submarine Deutschland at New London, to make certain that no war equipment had been placed aboard the submarine during her stay in Germany, thus altering her status as a merchant carrier.

Officials said they had no reason to believe the boat had been altered or armed, but that the routine of maintaining neutrality required an inspection on each visit.

BRITISH STEAMER ROWANMORE SUNK BY GERMAN SUBMARINE

Admitted That Vessel Attempted to Escape, But Was Shelled After Coming to a Halt—Two Americans Were on the Ship—All the Crew Believed Saved

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Tuesday, Oct. 31, 6.14 p.m. (delayed).—The British steamer Rowanmore, from Baltimore for Liverpool, sunk last week by a submarine, attempted to escape from the attacking undersea boat, but the latter continued to shell the ship after she stopped, according to affidavits from members of the crew procured by the American Consul at Liverpool. The principal details of the sinking extracted from a number of the affidavits are as follows:—

On October 26, at 8.45 a.m., the steamer was 130 miles from Fastnet, when shells began to burst about her. A moment later the look out saw the submarine's helm port hard aport, bringing the attacking craft directly astern. Early in the chase two shells struck the bridge. The pursuit continued until 9.30 o'clock, five or six shells in the meantime striking the steamer. The Rowanmore stopped her engines and hoisted signals that she intended to abandon the ship, but the submarine continued to shell her as the boats were being lowered, and when they were in the water the occupants were drenched by spray from falling shells.

RESIGN FROM THEIR POSTS

Several Australian Statesmen Split on Conscription Issue.

Melbourne, via London, Nov. 1.—The resignations of Albert Gardiner, vice-president of the executive committee, Russell, assistant minister of marine, and M. Higgins, minister of the treasury, have been accepted.

A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company of London, from Melbourne under date of October 27, said that Messrs. Gardiner, Russell and Higgins had tendered their resignations, owing to their opposition to conscription.

A later Melbourne despatch stated that the minister for labor and industry, John Estell, had resigned his portfolio owing to differences over conscription, and that at Brisbane, Senator Bamford had been expelled from the labor party because he favored conscription.

Two white Americans were on board. They were George Murphy of 740 Jefferson avenue, Brooklyn, and Albert Sessler of 42 Sharon St., Boston. Five Filipinos on board gave Liverpool addresses.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS DID NOT AID WARFARE OF HUN SUBS

Understanding Which Has Always Existed Between Naval Officers of England and America Has Been of the Best, One of Cordial Sympathy—Some Instances

New York, Nov. 1.—Poultney Bigelow, in a letter addressed to the editor of The New York Times, writes as follows:—"It cannot be true that American officers assisted Prussian submarines in their dirty work outside of Newport. No doubt Washington will soon clear up this ambiguous affair. Meanwhile pray permit me to add my mite of testimony regarding the attitude of Great Britain in 1898, when Imperial Germany sided with Spain and sought to bully our gallant Dewey in Manila.

"The tale of how the British captain, Chichester, stood up with our admiral against the German admiral has been told before—and finally by Admiral Dewey himself. This story I checked step by step in Manila by conversation, not merely with our own admiral and his British colleague, but by other participants in the memorable fight. Moreover, the British authorities in Hong Kong, although legally neutral, interpreted their duties in the manner most favorable to the American ships, and Dewey found no difficulty in fitting out to the best advantage prior to steaming across to the enemy in the Philippines. And as the Yankee fleet steamed past that of England in Hong Kong, the British blue jackets manned the rigging and cheered us heartily—a most unneutral and yet most generous act.

COST OF LIVING HIGHEST HERE

Ontario Shown By Figures to be Dearest Province For Food.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—The Labor Department's October publication of the cost of living figures shows that the average weekly budget of a workman's family, for staple foods, fuel, lighting and rent, had by the end of September risen to $15.01, as compared with $14.63 for August last, $13.67 for September of last year, and $13 for September of 1911.

The average is made up from prices obtained from sixty cities in Canada, and the items included concern practically only the essentials of very plain living. Nothing is included for clothing, doctor's bills, amusements, church or contingencies.

The increase in the cost of living for the wage-earners, on the modest scale measured by rent at $16 per month, is $1.54 per week during the past twelve months, and $2 per week since September of 1911. If the increased cost of clothing is also taken into account the total increase in the workman's weekly bill for necessities will be considerably greater. Unless his wages have gone up by more than twenty per cent. within the past four or five years he is worse off now than he was in 1911.

Rent is the only item which shows any downward tendency. The average weekly cost of rent is now put at $4.08, as compared with $4.58 in September of 1914, and $4.75 in September, 1913.

Food costs $8.69 per week now, as compared with $7.75 in September of last year, $7.82 in September of 1914, and $7.13 in September of 1911.

Ontario is the dearest Province of the Dominion for food. The average weekly budget for the Province is given as $9.18, as compared with $8.64 for Quebec, and $8.65 in Manitoba.

TO SEE PICTURES. They Will Be Shown at the Colonial Theatre This Week.

When "The Battle of the Somme" official motion pictures, the greatest film in the world, were first exhibited in England and took that country by storm, not the least interested spectators in the millions of people who viewed the pictures, were convalescent soldiers recovering from wounds in English hospitals.

All of these whose condition permitted them to attend the theatres, saw the presentation and voiced hearty praise and relatives in their home cities advising them to see the films if the opportunity was presented.

One officer who has returned on sick leave, and who saw the pictures in London declares that the film is the most wonderful production of its kind he has ever witnessed.

The officer says that all the theatres in London during the exhibition of the Somme pictures were crowded, and that the films were the all-absorbing topic of conversation during the time they were shown in the mother country. He asserts that the pictures bring home with an intense realism a keener appreciation of the warfare in France than any other realistic medium of the past.

The officer is one of the many who, having seen the films, express hearty approval and recommends them to the view of everyone.

If the Somme pictures are the greatest war films they also represent the finest peace picture in the world to-day; they are worth a thousand Hague conferences.

Wherever they are shown they should awaken the minds of men to the pretensions of pompous princes who have too long claimed the right as the "All Highest" to doom their fellow creatures to suffering and death.

The film, as has been announced, will be exhibited to the public at the Colonial Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week, with continuous showing afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Brantford Courier.

Men who see it will never lightly talk of war again. In this picture the world will obtain some idea of what it costs in human suffering to put down the devil's domination.

Can't Escape Facts

If there is a man in Brantford or Canada who shrinks at the sight of British dead upon the field he will not go to see this picture. He may not care to have his feelings disturbed; he may prefer ignorance about a war that is preserving him and his people who haven't the moral courage to read about the actions of their saviors. Such a one is always seeking a refuge from the things which make him think. He prefers not to know, not to see, to escape through any avenue from the facts of life.

The great mass of the nation is not of this type; it is directly and deeply interested and concerned in the men who are engaged in the smashing of the greatest military machine the world has ever known. It will not shrink from watching their movements, their struggles, the falling of some, the suffering of others, because it knows that war cannot be without these things.

FREIGHT TRAINS COLLIDED AT GALT

Engineer and Firemen Saved Their Lives by Jumping.

Galt, Nov. 1.—By jumping clear down a steep embankment, Engineer George Broad, Toronto, and Fireman Kusel, London, saved their lives yesterday, when their freight train, eastbound, crashed into the rear end of a split freight standing on the big C.P.R. bridge over the Grand River here. Broad did not see the tail end of the standing cars until too late to avoid a collision, as the rails were greasy, although he braked his train so hard that a couple of cars some distance back buckled. The engine crashed into the standing engine, grinding it into mangled shreds, and three cars and smashing another. The wreckage caught fire and the local fire brigade was called to extinguish the flames.

The smashup is on the main line just at the west end of the bridge, and traffic was delayed several hours. A wrecking crew from London cleared the track.

All the Difficulties that War Are Surmounting Training Here.

The past two weeks since the arrival of the 215th second Battalion in the city have been entirely devoted by Lt.-Col. and his staff in effecting an action upon which the operation of the troops, which might be their stay here for the next months. The securing of the troops, which might be their stay here for the next months. The securing of the troops, which might be their stay here for the next months.

Of completing arrangements physical drills in the Y.M.C.A. regular classes and the instruction details involved in the training of so many men, have been concluded, and the battalion settled down to the winter's work. As the training acquired in all probability, be the going overseas, it is being in a thorough, extensive manner.

One of the prime essentials training given here, is that it should be as far as possible strenuous experiences which have to be faced in the future perhaps the most requisite war service with which should be familiar, is training. It was therefore with respect that a suitable location in which training should be constructed and trenches were constructed. Several were considered, but the one with the most general was the one formerly occupied by the Workman brickyard. The site of this place completely closed with those desired sand, clay and gravel soil present, as well as rolling an undulating surface were found there, and were practically the same difficulties encountered at the battle.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Is Decesion Reached Last Night at Meeting of Executive Committee.

Take One Semi-Centennial. Another step in the organization of the coming celebration to be held in this city next July to commemorate the amalgamation of the provinces of Canada effected by the Act of Confederation, was taken last night at a meeting of the executive Semi-Centennial committee. The meeting was held in the Public Library, with Ald. S. P. Pitcher, presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, following which, the chairman called for discussion.

The most important item to be considered, was the length of time over which the celebration would extend, and in reply to this, Mr. J. G. Liddell, chairman of the entertainment committee, replied that as yet it was not definitely known what number of days would be taken up, but he was of the opinion that in addition to Sunday, on which July 1 fell, the bulk of the programme should occur during the following two week days. It was also the intention of his committee to have, if possible, the school children to participate in the proceedings to as great an extent as possible. While this phase would unfortunately probably not be appreciated by some of the citizens, Mr. Liddell thought there was no reason why an entertainment could not be offered that would appeal to all classes and result in a financial success. If, as was anticipated, a grant was received from the city, it should, as in the case of Old Home Week festival, be returned at the conclusion of the fair. While there would be some objection to an extensive celebration, on account of the war, nevertheless, in view of the fact that his committee had in mind, Mr. Liddell was unqualified in his support of two days as the time to be chosen.

Mr. Charlton also advocated two days as advantage could be taken of the cheap rates which would be available on the railroads until Tuesday night and in the event of rainy weather on Monday, they would still remain the next day to prevent a failure of the proposition.

Chief Lewis thought that if some aeroplanes were received, they would provide a splendid feature. This was thought to be a good idea and will be considered by the committee in charge of the matter.

At this juncture, it was decided to call for a vote on the motion of Chief Lewis as to the length of the celebration. The motion carried without dissent, and it was finally decided to provide a two day festival.

Memorial Committee. A committee consisting of Messrs. Geo. D. Watt, Liddell, Burnley, Kell, and Lane was appointed to confer with the Bell Memorial Association and ascertain their attitude in regard to co-operation.

A comprehensive plan had been worked out by Mr. Charlton of the part to be taken by the scholars. He explained it to those present, and suggested a meeting with the school officials to consider the question, when he could show them on paper just what he proposed.

As a result, a meeting of the representatives of the schools, the chairman of the sports and music committees will be held in the public library on Monday night with the entertainment committee to decide the question.

After some discussion it was decided to hold a meeting of the committee on the last Tuesday of each month, thus preventing affairs being conducted in a haphazard manner.

The definite assurance of the willingness of the Bell Memorial Association to assist in the undertaking should be obtained, advised Mr. Jack Kelly, of the Sports Committee, before a two-day entertainment was attempted. Owing to the absence of so many men at the war, there was a great dearth of athletes, and it would be difficult to secure sports events.

In reference to the lack of sports, Mr. Liddell proffered a suggestion of Mr. McBride's, in the latter's sense, that the members of the old Brantford lacrosse team of which there were quite a few in the city, should be persuaded to engage in a game with their old rivals, of St. Catharines. This together with automobile, bicycle and motorcycle races would, in some measure at least, make good the deficiency in this regard.

Mr. B. Burnley reported that he had learned through conversation with a gentleman connected with the erection of the monument, that as soon as the cost for the roos was completed, that the remainder of the construction would progress splendidly.

In view of the unavoidable delays experienced in the past, Mr. George Ward deprecated the idea of relying on a set date for the completion of the monument. He expressed perfect confidence in the ability of the committee to proceed independently of the Bell Memorial, if necessary.

School Children. Mr. Lane presented a plea for the first afternoon for the school children, as the board of education could exert no control over the pupils after the closing of school on the last of the month. Whatever was accomplished through the assistance of the scholars would be the result of persuasion only. He was, however, distinctly in favor of two days.

Mr. E. E. C. Kilmer declared that he would involve more work and effort, than was anticipated; there were about 4,300 school children in the city, including the separate schools. In concluding, he assured the committee of the assistance of his staff, the pupils and himself in every way possible.

Finances. Mr. Pitcher brought to mind the need of financial assistance, as there would be no revenue derived from the midway, as had been the case during Old Home week. The present representing actual events which took place fifty years

ROUMANIANS STILL ADVANCE

Austro-German Forces Sustain Renewed Repulses in Transylvania.

London, Nov. 1.—Noon.—The Austro-German forces have retired from the region of Campulung, in Northern Rumania, pursued by the Rumanians, who have passed over the frontier in the movement, according to a despatch from Bucharest, says a wireless message from Rome today. Four hostile battalions were annihilated by the Rumanians, according to this report.

Bucharest, Nov. 1.—via London, 2.21 p.m.—The Rumanians have driven back further, the Austro-German forces in the Jiu region of the Transylvanian front, and are continuing the pursuit, the war office announced today. They have captured more than 600 men and a great quantity of war materials.

NEW OFFICER JOINS 215TH

Following closely upon the house-cleaning administered to the barracks of the 215th on Saturday, fortification was obtained in the orders issued this morning to the effect that from now on the bunks and floor of the armories are to be scrubbed twice weekly. For this purpose a fatigue party of two N.C.O.'s and fourteen men is to be detailed to parade each Monday and Thursday morning at eight o'clock.

Another officer was added to the staff of the 215th battalion yesterday in the person of Lieut. Poulton, previously attached to the 156th battalion.

The forms to be used for bayonet practice at the site of the proposed armories on Brant Avenue, are about completed, while the pioneers have also built four targets for the indoor ranges in the old pottery building. These targets will probably be installed to-day or to-morrow, and gallery practice will be indulged in soon after.

The battalion are to go on a route march this afternoon, the first since their arrival in the city.

TURK TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Hussif Osman Broke Parole in Nova Scotia.

The local police automobile gathered in one, Hussif Osman, a Turk, last night who is wanted in Sidney, N.S., for the violation of his parole. He was interned shortly after the outbreak of the war but was later released on parole to help relieve the prevalent scarcity of labor. He broke his parole and travelled to this city, and shortly after wrote a letter to a fellow countryman advising him how to escape from a similar predicament. The letter was intercepted with the result above mentioned. Chief Slemin is investigating the matter, and warns all other aliens resident in the city that unless they report as required, at police headquarters, serious consequences will follow.

NEWS FROM SIMCOE

Simcoe, Nov. 1.—Halloween passed off nicely last night. The small boys were out in force, many in handsome and clever masquerade, and a goodly number up in the "teeny buns." Many real pranks participated in, in the evening street revelry too, but did not reciprocate the means of disguise adopted by so many of the boys. For the most part harmless pranks were indulged in. Soap was put in scrolls on most of the store fronts, and only on the photo display cases is it causing any serious inconvenience this morning.

There was a very pretty affair at the home of Postmaster Lawson, which netted about $25.00 for the young ladies' mission band of St. Paul's, and the young people of this church had a social time instead of the usual devotional meeting.

Fern Lodge of the Rebecka's had a hearty welcome from the Oddfellows and their wives and a very pretty masquerade party got underway about nine o'clock. Refreshments and music followed the games.

One dozen operators worked at the sewing machines in the Shoe Factory this afternoon. This was the first work in the building. The plant will use hydro for motive power. The heating system will be in operation to-day. Night shifts have been hurrying along the work of running line shafts and placing the machinery.

Charles Culver, a Woodhouse farmer, who had an action against the G.T. R. for killing one of his horses, and secured a verdict against the company, has the wherewithal for another case now. Another horse got in the way of a train at the same place on Sunday, and died.

Obituary. John Smith. The death occurred yesterday of Mr. John Smith, 222 Wellington St. He leaves besides a widow, two daughters, Mrs. Jno. Barlow of Sparta, Ont., and Mrs. W. F. Services will be conducted at the home of deceased on Thursday evening, while the interment will take place on Friday morning to Richmond Hill cemetery.

War Will be Fought to the End Without Slackening

Entente Forces Have Now Only To Increase Pressure Gradually Until Breaking Point of German Endurance is Reached, and Huns Give Way.

London, Nov. 1.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—“You will have to ask Germany.” This was the answer of a distinguished English officer recently back from the front when the familiar query was put to him: “When will the war end?”

“We know what we can give them,” he continued, “but we do not know as yet just how much they are prepared to stand, or are willing to stand. In the meantime we will increase the pressure more and more until the break comes.”

With the turning of the tide on the western battlefields there was naturally a disposition here to feel that hostilities soon would be over. The officers and men of the army do not share these views, however, and are constantly cautioning the people at home against the idea that the issue will be settled within the next few months.

From conversations with scores of officers familiar with the situation at the front, it can be stated that they do not expect the war to end at the earliest before next autumn. There are many who believe there are two more years of fighting before the Allied nations.

“We have got a long way to go,” said General Sir William Robertson, Kitchener's successor, a few days ago. “And we must be ready to go all the way,” he added. “Fight to a finish is the order. There must be no slackening off. On the contrary, there must be a great tightening up.”

No good soldier will make a definite prediction as to the end of the war.

“We must be prepared to go on for a period of time which it is impossible to estimate,” said Sir William. And that expresses the opinion of the army. There may be various influences at work which they know nothing of, there is the constant talk heard here of internal troubles in Germany, but the army officer only “looks at the map.” He still sees a long road ahead before the victory he has in mind can become a reality. The military defeat of Germany, and that is the only defeat the army looks forward to, means an invasion of the German Empire. General Sir O'Moore Creagh, the distinguished Irish “V.C.” has said:

“The Indian Lancers may never ride through the Brandenburg gates, but the end of the war will not come until it is possible for them to do so.”

Things are going so well at the front that it is difficult even for any words of warning to dull the spirit of elation in London. With Germany on the defensive it is felt that the enemy is no longer fighting to retain all he seized in the first great onslaught of the war, but is rather struggling to hold as much as possible until peace shall come. There is the predicted “shortening of the western line” which Londoners confidently look for from day to day.

On the other hand, is the statement of General Foch, the French commander, who declares the Germans are so tightly held in the west it is impossible for them to either advance or to retreat in any great number.

“We are on them,” he said, “like a corrosive acid. We have eaten into their flanks and they can't throw us off. You cannot always see the work, but the disintegrating process is going on all the time.”

The artillery of the Allies on the Somme, where the great armies of the belligerents are massed, commands such an overwhelming influence as to prevent a retreat, it is said. The shelling behind the German lines is just as intense as it is in front. The expenditure of English shells has been so great that the Germans, the military critics here all agree, and the artillery activity has brought about a distinct phase in the fighting. It has driven the once closely locked trenches further and further apart. It has solved the problem of dealing with a “dug in” enemy. It has been demonstrated that the way to successfully take a trench is to obliterate it, to flatten it out with shell-fire. Recent allied advances have been bought with ammunition rather than with blood. This has led Georg Querf, the German critic, to write in the Berliner Tageblatt:

“Every German killed costs a fortune to the French. The enemy is devoting all of his attention to artillery. The whole concentrated experience of two years finds expression in shells and more shells. His infantry is used only to test the bridge made by shells to the German trenches. Infantry fighting is no longer man against man. The trench is only rushed by infantry when it has been blown to dust. It is a confession by the enemy that his infantry is of poor quality.”

This fling at the infantry, according to British officers, is merely put in to cover up the tribute to the artillery of the Allies. The military authorities here have been somewhat surprised at the deep impression on the British has made in Germany. They were quite delighted with a report by a German military expert quoted as having said:

“British infantry never had any value. The French infantry now is only a miserable shadow of what it was two years ago. The French infantry nowadays attacks only when the artillery has done its work so perfectly that they have only to occupy the shattered trenches.”

Those officers who believe the war will go on for two years longer say it has taken two years to put Germany really on the defensive and they anticipate it will take two more years to make her acknowledge the defeat which the Allies believe is inevitable. As to internal conditions, the army man takes it into consideration only as to its effect upon the moral of the fighting men. It is undeniable that great sacrifices are being demanded of the civilian population in Germany and it is contended no army long remains wholly superior to home influences.

Those who believe in an earlier ending of the war base their belief—or perhaps their hopes—upon the military assumption that an army cannot enter the same resistance in third or fourth or fifth line trenches that it did in the first line. They declare that when the French and the English were retreating at the beginning of the war it was a retreat of unpreparedness. The German retreat, they assert, is a retreat of exhaustion. These, these say, are the vital physical and moral facts of the laws of war. An army driven from one strong position cannot fall back unshaken upon another.

WILL REFORM CHINA'S FINANCE

Peking, Nov. 1.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Chen Chin-tao, the new minister of finance has outlined plans for financial reform and prepared estimates of the possible income of China under effective administration, which shows an annual total of 490,000,000 dollars silver.

This amount is in decided contrast to the recent annual receipts of the central government, which have been about $7,000,000 silver. Of this the minister of finance says that only $30,000,000 dollars silver can be depended upon.

The receipts of the central government have dwindled terribly under the revolutionary influence. At present less than half a dozen provinces are remitting to Peking, and finances are in a precarious condition.

Chen Chin-tao has advised that a foreign loan of one billion dollars silver should be contracted at once. Of this sum he would use 25,000,000 dollars for the resumption of specie payment on the notes of the Bank of China and the Bank of Communications. For the disbandment of surplus troops, 20,000,000 dollars more will be required. Reorganization in the various provinces would claim an expenditure of 25,000,000 dollars, and he suggests an appropriation of 6,000,000 dollars for the improvement of railways, and 40,000,000 dollars for administrative expenditure.

An elaborate plan for the reform of tax collection is outlined, including the making of a proper budget and the reformation of the currency system. He would establish an inspector-general for the supervision of tax collection throughout the republic, fashioned somewhat after the reorganization foreign bankers effected to collect salt taxes pledged to them as security for a reorganization loan.

The minister of finance estimates 120,000,000 dollars can be realized from the land under proper supervision.

Roosevelt and Shackleton Have Both Increased the Vocabulary.

Sir Ernest Shackleton is given credit for the invention of more new English words than any one else.

Colonel Roosevelt has a goodly number to his credit, as has also Gifford Pinchot. The European war has introduced many new ones which will be permanently retained.

Oldest player on club—Hercie Wagner. This veteran who is 35 years old, is warming the bench, but to highly regarded as an adviser by Manager Carrigan.

Youngest player on team—Geo. Babe Ruth—Ruth doesn't look the part, but he's the baby of the world's champions. He has seen only 22 summers. That's why his name is nick named Babe.

Oldest member of the Red Sox team in point of service on the club—Manager William Carrigan. The Red Sox Manager joined the Hun team in 1906, coming direct from Holy Cross College. He was sent to Toronto for more experience and recalled in 1908.

Shortest player—Olaf Hendrickson. This midget is not so short as some imagine. He is a giant compared to Nemo Liebold of the White Sox. Hendrickson is 5 feet 7 1/2 inches in height. Liebold is 5 feet 4 1/2 inches.

Tallest player—Ernest Shore. This elongated slab specimen is 5 feet 11 inches in height. Only one player in the American League has anything on Shore for height. He is Carl Weiland of the St. Louis Browns, who stands 6 feet 5 1/2 inches. Bill James of the Detroit Tigers is 6 feet 3 inches tall.

Most Careful Dresser—Clarence Walker. This player is the Best Brummel of the world's champions. He assumed the title when Fielder Jones sold him to the Boston Club. “Tilly,” as he is popularly known in baseball circles, has to submit to considerable criticism from hostile crowds around the American League but the fans in Boston finally have been won to him, and now are strong for this player. They applaud him every time he steps to the plate.

Greatest Fielding Outfielder—Harry Hooper. This player's phenomenal catches in the world's series of 1912 and 1915 are still fresh in the minds of those who saw those post-season classics, and everyone knows what he did in the series just over. Hooper has robbed more players of base hits than any other outfielder this season, with the possible exception of Trip Speaker.

Greatest Thrower—Duffy Lewis. There is no more accurate heaving outfielder in baseball than Lewis. It

Who's Who in Boston

World's Champion Red Sox Boast a Roster Comprising Many Types.

There is not much new to tell of the Boston Red Sox, now three-time champions of the world. The most discussed feature of Carrigan's team is not what it has but what it has lost and still able to show the way against all its American League rivals and down the Brooklyn Dodgers. After Speaker and Joe Wood had left some baseball humorist remarked that he would like to see the Red Sox minus Ruth, Leonard Hooper and Lewis, just to see if Carrigan, with what he had left, could not make a runaway race of it.

Here are a few fanciful facts about the Red Sox which may excite interest to the fans who follow the world's series.

Why Hair Falls Out

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Dandruff at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

REMOVE HUNS FROM BRITISH PEERAGE

Premier Asquith Says Measure For This Will be Introduced.

London, Nov. 1.—Premier Asquith told the House of Commons yesterday, in reply to a question from Arthur Lynch, that the Government would introduce a bill providing for the removal from the Peerage of those members of the House of Lords, for instance, German princes, who are now in arms against the Allies.

The Duke of Cumberland and the Duke of Albany (Leopold, Duke of Saxe-Coburg) are the members referred to. The question has been before Parliament before, but action was deferred.

SISTERS THREE

She ran up the path, laughing, Keener racing ahead, Gaston stood looking after her, and had his mother been there to see she would have rejoiced at the look his face wore. Much of the boyish brightness of outlook was coming back to it, and intermingled with this an expression quite new and very significant.

The little gathering that took place at Sunset Crag the following week scarcely merited the name of a party, as Gipsy had truly said. For the girls had no large acquaintance in the sparsely populated neighborhood, and had only invited those of their friends who had known Jim Kildare in the past and were keenly interested in the romantic story of his return home.

They had scarcely expected Miss Willoughby to remain with them so long. She had paid a few visits in the next county during the three weeks of General Kildare's absence in London before he returned with his son, but she had returned in order to meet the father and son, and now seemed willing to let herself be persuaded to linger on.

The domestic life of the sisters soothed her spirit. Gipsy's mirthful moods cheered her. With Audrey she would hold long conversations enjoyable to both, and once she had asked her somewhat abruptly—

"What will happen when your sisters marry?"

Andrey's eyes took on their whimsical, humorous expression.

"Are they going to marry?"

"Yes, both of them; and in pretty quick time too! What will you do then yourself?"

"I suppose I shall have to be contented with a poppy of L-I-Ie!" half sang Audrey, keeping a quite composed countenance; whereupon Miss Willoughby said—

"You might perhaps come and live with me. We should suit each other."

"Perhaps, but I shall stick to my independence and Sunset Crag—"

Andrey said, looking at her with an eye on each young sister at my gates—if that is what you are thinking. Mrs. Gosling and I have planned and contrived long, and we can do it again. They will leave me the house, and here I shall stay—alone in my glory!"

"Well, well, well! Perhaps you are right. But I shall not lose sight of any of you girls. You have done things for me more than any of you know!"

And Miss Willoughby was in her own way making return. There, as she arrived at Sunset Crag, with the boxes of fruit for the party, several large cases, Miss Willoughby, in her abrupt way, spoke to Audrey and begged to hear no more of the matter.

"Once I was going to be married. I was young and firm in those days, and a wealthy aunt gave me a trousseau. I could never bear to look at or wear the things afterwards. I want you girls to have them. You are clever-fingered. The fashions of to-day are more like that which were than those that have been for some time. You will find a good deal to use; what you don't want give away. I don't want to hear anything about it. Just do as I say, and give me that pleasure. I have not so very many."

So Allardyce was arranged in a charming robe of silk and lace and narrow white ribbons—just a little quaint as to the sleeves, but picturesque and very becoming, for she was the tallest of the three and could wear this dress just as it was originally made. But the others all wore something out of that treasure chest; and as they stood together to receive their guests they formed a charming picture of girlish freshness and beauty.

Miss Willoughby, watching intently from her coten of vantage, saw how Jim Kildare's eyes lighted at glance bestowed upon the slender figure of the youngest of the sisters. Was it likely to be otherwise? When he came over to her his young face was all aglow. Miss Willoughby had not seen him to speak to since that day upon the terrace, when they met as it were in a crowd.

This was different. Although guests were arriving, for the moment these two were alone together, Jim spoke.

"I want to thank you. I know just how you felt about it. In your place I believe I'd have done the same."

"I think not, Jim; but let that pass."

"I'm more glad than I can tell you that there's been no raking up of the details of that business. I should simply have hated to be free if—"

if his name had been in everybody's mouth. It would have spoiled even the sense of being free—in a way. Don't think I don't understand all you felt. That makes me appreciate all the more what you have done now."

"Don't give me any credit for it. All that belongs in a different quarter."

Chapter XXXII

Gaston Lebreton went with his mother to the garden party at Sunset Crag, and as he shook hands with Gipsy Vere their eyes met with a certain understanding and veiled amusement. A few of the guests present regarded the tall, handsome stalwart man with some attention and curiosity.

For Gaston's withdrawal from social life had been a rather marked thing. He had come back just when the local displeasure at Mr. Lebreton's prosecution of his old friend's son was at its height. The father's death and consequent withdrawal of Mrs. Lebreton from all social functions had made it easy for Gaston to take up his own line, and that line had been one of holding aloof from his neighbors with an almost ferocious determination; and every policy of his father's which made for friction or roused local irritation he had prosecuted with the zeal of a young and determined man who has not learned the lessons which experience teaches, and who meets veiled disapproval with open hostility and seeks to make enemies rather than to win friends.

It was this trait in his character which had grieved the good clergyman and his wife and had raised a certain stern disapproval in the heart of Mr. Rickard, so that it had been his wish to hold back his young nieces from intimacy at Gaston's Keep.

But with the return of Jim Kildare the situation suddenly changed. The warm and eager friendship between the two young men made his appeal to all; they had been seen together almost every day. Gaston had sent over one of his finest riding horses for Jim's use till he could look about for mounts for himself. They had ridden and swam and boated together. The cloud was lifting from Gaston's brows; and as for Jim, the sunlight seemed to radiate from him. He was so joyously happy. If the iron had at moments entered into his soul it had left no visible scar. His native elasticity of spirit which had stood him in such good stead through those dreary years of captivity now asserted itself in an exuberance of almost boyish enthusiasm which were good to see. And if he were not somewhere else he was continually with Gaston Lebreton.

SIDE TALKS

By Ruth Cameron

At the country place where I was staying last summer, a neighbor of ours told us this little experience.

At a city shop, which delivers free to a radius of a hundred miles, she bought two pieces of blotting paper and ordered them sent. The blotting paper cost ten cents. The gross profits could not be more than five, and the cost of delivery was twenty-six cents. Fancy! My neighbor regards this as a huge joke on the shop.

But was it? Who Pays That Twenty-Six Cents? Who actually pays that twenty-six cents? The customer, of course. To be sure, the woman who bought the blotter doesn't pay the whole of it, only an infinitesimal amount. But she also pays an infinitesimal part of countless costly deliveries made to other people.

With my purchases from another shop, I found the other day a small slip requesting that merchandise returned for a refund in proper condition and returned within the week because—"Much waste is caused by the habit some people have of keeping purchases for weeks, sometimes months, and then returning them, often in unsealable condition. This waste adds to the expense of doing business. YOU pay your share of this expense when you buy goods here or in any other store."

RIPPLING RHYMES

BY WALT MASON

Winter's Coming

It is a pleasant thing to know that Winter comes a-flying, and we shall have the luscious snow for which we have been sighing. Some people shudder when they speak of this delightful season; they hate to see the blizzards shriek, and mark the brooklets freezing. But I am glad to see the sleet, I keep my harpstrings thrumming, and clap my hands and wave my feet, for winter time is coming. Then we sit around the fire, the whole blame bundle together, and tell old tales and punch the lyre, and laugh at stormy weather. We're closer drawn in kinship then, than warm days ever find us, the children and the whiskered men, and granny perched behind us. Home life is truer when the storm howls round the roof and basement, when our old sitting room is warm, though frost is on the case. So light the lamp and bar the door, and keep the fireplace humming; all other seasons are a bore, and winter time is coming.

Music and Drama

Some Baby.

At the Grand Opera House this week "Some Baby," the clever farcical comedy will be here. It is a three act play conceived for the purpose of rousing the risibilities and when you sit into what a perfect maze of complications an aged professor of chemistry, his daughter aged twenty, his sister on the other side of forty, the youthful suitor for the daughter's hand, a retired general of sixty, and a number of minor characters are involved in, you will understand the reason for the laugh producing qualities attributed to it. The Ellixir of Youth does it all—or rather the old professor's firm belief that he has discovered this long sought magic—that starts the action and keeps the audience on the qui vive up to the final curtain. Graze Merritt heads an excellent acting company including Carolyn Haywood, Gertrude Johnson, Celeste Leslie, Dorothy Gray, Don MacMillan, Sterling Hunter, Homer Hunt, Sam Black and William Moore.

Boxing Bout That the Pete Scott-Jimmy Conway 10-round boxing exhibition to be held in the local opera house this week is arousing intense interest is evident. Some of the local with the fans who are quite familiar with the boxing game, claim that Conway will prove one of the best boys Scott has yet encountered.

Conway comes here highly reputed. He has fought close to 100 battles and has never yet been forced to take the count. He has been shaken a few times by the real notchers, but his record is quite clean, and he has proven himself one of the best of the lesser lights in the welterweight ranks. He started in the game when quite young, and this accounts for the fact that he has indulged in so many scraps. But while Conway is so well thought of and in such fine shape for the clash, Pete Scott will have something to say as to where the honors shall be. He is going along at a clip that has his sparring partners in a frenzy, and it is reported that he looks better than at any time in his career. He is now working out with young Alter, the clever featherweight, and when he jumps over the ropes will be ready for the exhibition of his life. Scott has fought his way well up the ladder. So has Conway. This result should be a great one-fashioned bout.

The preliminaries, three in number, will be quite in keeping with the calibre of the main attraction.

The Rockefeller General Education Board announced appropriations of $100,000 more for the advancement of higher learning. The total appropriations for all purposes have amounted to $18,303,577.
