

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JULY 1, 1887.

THE JUBILEE.

In no period of the world's history has any human being ever been so universally honored as has been our beloved Queen, Victoria, within the past few days.

Wonderful indeed has been the progress of the British people under her benign sway, and no period of their history is so full of interest as is that during Victoria's reign.

Brilliantly following the children were the order of the Knights of Pythias in goodly number, resplendent in new uniform, plumed helmets and regalia.

Refreshments were provided by the Young Men's Christian Association. The bands kindly gave pleasant pastime to the multitudes that frequently encircled them.

Our Ottawa Letter.

OTTAWA, June 24.—On Wednesday last the session had completed its eleventh week, and yesterday terminated the first session of the sixth parliament.

THE JUBILEE AT SPRING HILL.

The force of enterprise possessed by the good folk of Springhill secured for their town the privilege of celebrating this day for the county of Cumberland.

The procession, one thousand good, and reaching out hundreds of rods, was formed between the schoolhouse and the hay-stacks under a mounted marshall, Mr. Hayes, and the teachers of the graded schools.

The sight of the day.—A fairy chariot drawn by a span of white horses was put at the head. It was built with triple tiers of decorated seats.

The Queen, three men arrayed in white walked upon each side having guards to hold to prevent accident. Then followed the Springhill cornet band of twenty instruments, rendering selected music to make everyone happy.

They were equidistantly arranged two by two by the aid of a line adjusted and running to the rear among those a little older; while the children of the higher departments were entrusted to keep step and distance at the word of the marshall, their teacher.

Great credit is due all concerned for this pleasing and well-managed contingent to the procession. Sight-seers as well as parents were quite absorbed in the output of this part of the demonstration.

This long and slender line of youths recalled the administration I felt when reading of the "thin long line" of soldiers formed under the order of the commanding general for the attack in the battle of The Alamo.

Those for Nova Scotia are for the N. S. Central, 34 miles, $108,800; Cornwallis Valley, 13 miles, $41,600; Cumberland Coal (Springhill), 14 miles, $44,800; Minudie and Joggins, 5 1/2 miles, $17,600; and Joggins railroad, 1 1/2 miles, $4,000.

Granting money for Banff Spring was also hotly opposed by the Grits, but nevertheless, the selfsame Grits know when a good thing is on the carpet, and where to find it.

ner encourage the working of our vast mines of iron and coal, and promote the production within our own country of all the more important iron manufactures.

The establishment of a department of trade and commerce, under the supervision of a responsible minister, and the measures you have passed for the better organization of other departments of government, will, I trust, tend to aid in the extension of our home and foreign trade, as well as to improve the efficiency of the public service.

The numerous acts relating to railway and other industrial enterprises, to which I have given her majesty's assent, indicate a steady growth in the national progress of the Dominion, and your liberal appropriation for the construction of the complete St. Lawrence canal ensures the completion of our great system of inland navigation at an early period. Our agricultural population will, I assure you, learn with much pleasure of the provision you have made for the maintenance of the experimental farm in this vicinity, and the auxiliary stations in the several provinces. I trust that under the blessing of Almighty God the present promise of an abundant harvest may be fully realized and that when we meet again I shall be able to congratulate you on a still further increase in the general prosperity of the country. Meanwhile I bid you farewell.

I have a fine lot of Fruit Trees from one to four years old, of my own growing and grafting. I do not employ "Agents" to sell for me and can supply good stock at low prices.

White Bronze. YARMOUTH, MAINE, July 15, 1885. Mr THOS. MORRIS.—In answer to your enquiry about my White Bronze Monument, I would say that it stands on the sea shore ten feet above high water mark, it is twenty-five feet high, base four feet. It has been erected over ten years, and is as good now as when placed in position; it has not been effected in the least by either heat or cold; no moss or foreign substances gather on it as do on marble; it is as clear and bright as when new, and (in my opinion) White Bronze is superior to either marble or granite for monumental purposes, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to others.

Yours, &c., JOHN P. CARSWELL. "This is to certify that during the summer 1868 at the Schronbrun Palace Gardens, Vienna, Austria, I saw an equestrian statue of Prince Joseph which had been erected 85 years. It was cast of pure zinc, and in appearance was fresh and perfect." A. H. LAANDON, Supt. Pembroke Iron Works, Bridgport, Conn. You are at liberty to refer any one to me, either personally or by letter, to aid you in refuting the falsehoods circulated by the marble dealers about White Bronze. It is said the thieves got about $50.00 from Mr. Fullerton's safe. In Messrs Chase's store they were but poorly rewarded for their trouble, their booty only consisting of a small amount of money and a number of papers, of no value to anyone except the owners. REASONED.—Owing to an oversight we neglected before to mention that Miss Jennie Hitchens, the popular teacher of vocal music at Acadia Seminary, had resigned her position in that Institution at the close of last term. As a mark of esteem in which she was held, the young ladies presented her with a handsome Bible and book of poems, and at the same time expressed their regret at her departure. Miss Hitchens has been deservedly popular, not only on the Hill, but among our people, and she will be greatly missed when the seminary again assembles. We understand it is her intention to employ the coming winter in studying her profession in Boston.

The cheese factory has the prospect of a successful summer's work under the efficient management of Charles Stanford, Esq., who has made the cheese industry a specialty from the inception of the business in this county.

The farming interests never looked better, and the community generally were never more happy and hopeful, and never better satisfied with Sir John's Government than at the present time.

Rev. Isaiah Wallace spent a few days here last week with his old friends, and preached to an appreciative audience in the new Hall on Thursday evening. Mr. W. complimented the young folks on the erection and completion of so fine a Hall.

Avonport.

The crops are looking nicely here now. It is said that those pests, the potato bugs, are among our potatoes. One farmer found several among his crop.

Our genial townsman, Mr. Wesley Taylor, has had his house painted, which adds greatly to the beauty of the place.

The ground for the new schoolhouse has been purchased, 1/4 acre on Mr. John Borden's land, and 1/4 acre on Mr. John Porter's, so you see they mean to push things right along.

Strawberries are quite plentiful here now.

Mr. Walton has put a new steam whistle in his back-yard, which sounds much better than the old one.

Mr. W. A. Reid caught a salmon the other day, which weighed 18 1/2 lb.

Berwick.

Mr. Lewis, Grand Division, S. of T., lecturer, gave a highly interesting and impressive lecture here on the Methodist pulpit on Sunday morning, the 19th inst., and lectured to young men in the Baptist church in the evening. Owing to the unpleasant state of the weather on Thursday evening the audience was not large, but on Sunday large audiences had the pleasure of listening to the speaker. Mr. Lewis is evidently the right man in the right place, and well deserves the hearty support of his brethren in the temperance cause.

Rev. Isaiah Wallace, a former pastor of the Baptist church here, preached in his old pulpit last Sunday at 11 a. m. His discourse was excellent and highly appreciated.

Choice Miscellany.

Compensation.

One woman in furs and velvets, Another in rags and rags; One rolled in her stately carriage, The other stood on the flags.

One woman alone in her carriage, By the other a little child, Who, watching the prancing horses, Looked up in her face and smiled.

One stooped to her boy and kissed him, And gave him a hoarded crust; The other had just left costly blooms Where her son lay in the dust.

One back to her darkened mansion— Wealth cannot hold death at bay! One back to the hut, where labor Brought bread for the coming day.

Perhaps, as over the sands of life Time's great tide ebbs and flows, More faces among us are equal Than their outward seeming shows.

Good Advice.

R. J. Burdette pays his compliments to the chronic newspaper fault-finder as follows:

"Suppose a newspaper man, every time he hears of a man who severely criticises him or his paper in public, should retaliate by holding up to the public gaze the faults and short comings of said fault-finder, what would be the result? Why the criticiser would think himself terribly outraged, and would thirst for the editor's gore. Then the poor quill would get shot or shoot somebody. The patient beast of burden, the country journalist, never does this unless under great provocation. It isn't because he is afraid to do it, but because he is not mean enough. He allows men to go around trying to destroy his business. He hears and reads a worthless sheet because the editor, in doing his duty, stepped on some one's toes. Such worthless scoundrels should receive no mercy at the hands of the press."

He also gives the following excellent advice to railway travellers: "Never run after a train that has got out of sight; the train won't mind you getting left. Out of sight, out of mind. Don't deary sectional feeling on the railroad. It's part of the system. Swear off on daypo, deepo, deepo, dippo, and deepot, and learn to say station. It is not only English; it is correct. If the car is too warm don't open the window on your suffering and shivering neighbor. Take off your muffler, fur gloves and overcoat; it will be perfectly proper, even though there are ladies in the car. Give up your pass and pay your fare like a man. Every time you travel on a pass, some good man (accident on the "good") has to pay extra. P.S. If you decide to do this, don't waste your pass; send it to me. Don't be about your 14-year-old boy any more. Be honest, own up that he is 9 years old, and pay half fare for him. Never ask any questions of the station or train men before you get aboard. Act like an old traveller who knows it all. By this means you will often succeed in getting on the wrong train, while the timid, green, inquisitive and inexperienced go joyously on their way. If you see the fool all the rest of the passengers take you to be, whistle some tune that you don't know—whistle loud and shrill, and accompany yourself by drumming on the window with your fingers."

Valedictory.

DELIVERED BY MISS ANNIE F. SMITH AT THE CLOSING EXERCISES OF ACADIA SEMINARY, JUNE 1, 1887.

Dear friends of "Old Acadia," we have been cheered and helped to-night by seeing before us the faces of many, who have long been climbing the hill of knowledge, and yet have come to give words of good cheer to us who have just begun to climb. We know your hearts have long been warm for all Acadia's children and we trust your prayers will still ascend for us, that we may live truly and nobly, to the honor of "Acadia" and the memory of those grand old fathers who started these institutions, with the prayers that God might bless them to many years.

We feel truly grateful to you, our teachers, for the many words of faithful counsel, and the inspirations you have given us, to leave behind all things that are light and trifling, and pressing on with purer aims to gain true wisdom. You have taught us that true life does not consist in having the most of ease and happiness, but that the life is richest which is filled with patient toil, working for others' good. Although we shall meet no longer as teachers and pupils, your kindly influence, and the pleasant memory of these years, shall be as circles ever widening throughout our lives, cheering and urging us to noble ends. Our life together, dear school-mates, has in every way been a pleasant one. It has been said that interesting lives, all unknown to themselves, influence each other, and so our lives have been touched by those of our school-mates, in a way which has strengthened and helped us. We are indebted to the past for all the numberless advantages of education which we enjoy, and to-night we stand, almost at the close of the nineteenth century, as "heirs of all the ages," and it has been said that where much is given much shall be required. We who tonight are bidding farewell to all the sweet associations of school life, are but an infinitesimal part of the many millions who hope to enter the coming year, and yet we are a part of God's great plan, placed here to live and labor, and Christianity has made our sphere of action a wide one. May our motto ever be "Facts not Fables," and our treatment for our fellow mortals and for God.

Bill Nye's Experience.

When I was young, and used to roam around over the country, gathering watermelons in the dark of the moon, I used to think I could milk anybody's cow but I do not think so now. I do not milk a cow now unless the sign is all right, and it hasn't been right for a good many years.

The last cow I tried to milk was a common cow, born in obscurity; kind of a self-made cow. I remember her brow was low, but she wore her tail high, and she was laughy, oh, so laughy.

I made a commonplace remark to her, one that is used in the very best of society, one that need not have given offence anywhere. I said "so," and she "sood." Then I told her to "hist," and she "hist-ed." But I thought she overdid it. She put too much expression in it.

Just then I heard something fall through the window of the barn, and fall with a fall, sickening thud on the outside. The neighbors came to see what had caused the noise. They found that I had done it in getting through the window. I asked the neighbors if the barn was still standing. They said it was. I asked if the cow was injured much. Then I requested them to go in and calm the cow a little, and see if they could get my plug hat off her horns.

I am buying all my milk now of a milkman. I select a genuine milkman who will not kick, and I feel as though I could trust him. 'Twen if he feels as though he could trust me it's all right.

A UNIQUE WORK ON CANADIAN TOPICS.

Mr. Ernest Wiman, President of the Canadian Club, writes to the editor of this paper as follows: "It is the intention of certain members of the Canadian Club in New York, to issue, in the form of a beautiful book, the papers which have been delivered before the Club during the past winter by prominent parties, together, with those which are to be delivered during the remainder of the season."

"These papers will include a speech on 'Commercial Union,' by the Hon. Benjamin Butler, member of Congress, who is said to be one of the most eloquent men of that body. A remarkable production by Prof. Goldwin Smith on 'The Scheme in the Anglo-Saxon race.' A paper by Dr. Grant, of the Queen's University, on 'Canada First.' One by J. W. Bengough, editor of Toronto Grip. By Mr. Le Moine, of Quebec, on 'The Heritage of New France.' By J. A. Fraser, 'An Artist's Experience in the Canadian Rockies.' By Edmund Collins, on 'The Future of Canada.' By Prof. G. D. Roberts, of King's College. By Geo. Stewart, Jr., of Quebec. By the Rev. Dr. Eccleston, on 'The Canadian Northwest.' By John McDougall, on 'The Minerals of Canada.' And the editor, G. M. Fairchild, Jr., on 'The History of the Canadian Club.' The work will also include extracts from the speeches and letters of the President."

The book is to be issued in beautiful style, at $1 per copy. "A great many Canadians will doubtless desire to possess themselves of this rare compilation, and, by purchasing copies, indicate the interest which is manifested throughout Canada in the attempt of the Canadian Club to lay before Americans the resources, advantages, and attractions of their native country. Parties desirous of obtaining copies can do so by enclosing the price of the book to James Ross, Canadian Club, 12 East 29th St., New York."

A Word to Grumblers.

Don't be a grumbler. Some people contrive to get hold of the prickly side of everything, to rub against all the sharp corners and disagreeable things. Half the strength spent in grumbling would often set things right. You may as well make up your mind, to begin with, that no one ever found the world quite as he would like it; but you are to take part of the trouble and bear it bravely. You will be sure to have burdens laid upon you that belong to other people, unless you are a shrink yourself; but don't grumble. If the work needs doing and you can do it, never mind about the other boy who ought to have done it and didn't. These workers who fill up the gaps and smooth away the rough spots, and finish up the job that others have left undone, they are the true peace-makers, and worth a whole regiment of soldiers.

Give Them a Chance!

That is to say your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well. Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption, or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Bogache's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

Eight Nevers.

Never get in a rage. Never disparage another by name in a letter. Never say a word nor write a line in a passion. Never take physic until you have tried patience. Never refuse to pay a debt when you have the money to do it with. Never forget that of the word said you are master, of the word spoken you are slave. Never say what you would do under any given circumstances; you might do just the opposite. Never find fault until you are as sure as you are of your existence that a fault has been committed.
