Old Age Pension.

The special committee to consider old age pensions met to-day. Rodolph Lennox presided. Among the first witnesses to be heard will be Prof. Mayor, Toronto; Prof. Shortt, Queen's University; and D. J. O'Donoghue, Parliamentary agent of the Trades and Labor Council. Mr. Ralph Smith suggested that a royal commission, with extensive powers, should be appointed to deal with the matter.

ment in 1904 he followed the same course, as far as he knew, in regard to this work, as had been done previously. He opened the tenders, but did not award the contracts. That was done by the timber branch, to which the tenders were returned by him. All that he did was to open the tenders, make a note of the amounts and return them to the timber branch. About a year ago the system was changed and he awarded the contracts, as well as opened the tenders. Since December last the system was changed and berths were now disposed of by auction.

In reply to Mr. MacDonald (Pictou), the witness said that he pursued the same course, as far as he knew, as Mr. Zuffi did in regard to opening tenders. Mr. MacDonald—Did you lock the door when you opened them? Mr. MacDonald—Was there a secret room? Mr. Greenway—No.

Mr. MacDonald—Do you know if there was a dark and secluded room when Mr. Turiff was there? Mr. Greenway—I never heard of any such room.

The clerk and he always opened them together. There were always two people present and sometimes more. Sometimes those who were tendering were present. He never knew of Burrows, Fraser or Nolan being present, but anyone who was tendering and desired to be present was never refused, and it frequently happened, although he kept no record what tenderers were present. Mr. Bristol objected to Mr. MacDonald asking questions about what was the course followed before Mr. Greenway came to the department.

Mr. MacDonald—Surely you are not going to be an obstructionist. You will get your picture in the paper. In reply to Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Greenway said that his clerk, Miss Muir, was a second-class clerk in the department, and filled the same position when Mr. Turiff was there as she did to him since he came into the department. He had learned from her the course pursued before he came into the department, and she always brought him the tenders, and was present when he opened them.

At the Public Accounts Committee to-day, J. W. Greenway, Commissioner of Dominion Lands, was examined in regard to the awarding of timber berths contracts. After coming into the depart-

Sweet Norine

CHAPTER XXIII.

"I see you comprehend your position exactly," retorted the half-breed, "and now I come to the point that brings me to your tent. You can gain your freedom but in one way, and that is that you tell us how the dwellings of Hadley are built. If anything happened to cause the villagers to band together, what place would they choose, and how are they fortified?"

In an instant the horrible truth broke upon Joe. They were planning a raid upon Hadley village, and a fearful massacre would follow. He thought of his old mother watching and waiting for his return to her, all heedless of her anger, and of Norine, the girl whom he loved better than life itself, and again his thoughts tottered at the bare agonizing thought of her being at the mercy of these savages, and unconsciously he breathed the very words that had fallen from her grandfather's lips when he discovered her flight.

"Better death for Norine—ay, death from the wild beasts that roam the mountainside for her than that she should fall into the hands of the savages."

"I will give you until midnight to think it over," added the half-breed. "I shall then be here for your answer. If you comply, well and good, if you refuse—well, you know what you may expect at the hands of the Pawnees. I have no more to add than that warning."

With these words he vanished quite as deftly as he had appeared, and poor Joe was left alone with his own agonizing thoughts, which were a thousand times more excruciating than the pain which racked his body so cruelly. He had lived all his life on the plains of Washington, and he knew the habits of the dreaded Pawnees, the most ferocious of all the Indian tribes, but too well. He realized that they would keep their word, wring from his lips the intelligence they desired, or torture him at the stake, dancing with fiendish glee around him, enjoying his horrible suffering until death shut them out from his gaze, and ended it all for him.

It mattered little enough to him what became of his body after the soul was freed from its earthly tenement.

Then came the thought to him, he must not die. Heaven had worked for him to do, he must escape from these savages and flee to Hadley, naming and suffering though he was, and apprise the villagers of their danger—ay, and fight until the last drop of blood in his heart was left, in protecting his mother and his dearly beloved Norine.

He realized dimly the fact the villagers would accuse him as being the cause of the massacre, upon his failure to appear at the Great Bear Mine with the wage money of the half-breeds, from the fact that they had needed but a slight cause as an excuse for an outbreak, and this thought was as cruel as death to him, ranking worse than the thrust of a knife in his tortured breast.

But one thought seemed clear to him—he must get back to Hadley or die in the attempt. In attempting to rise, he realized how badly he was hurt. His severe illness had left him terribly weak, and the blows he had received in endeavoring to guard the large sum of money he carried had well-nigh finished him.

Crawling to the door of the tent, he saw that he was in the very midst of the savage domain.

Bitter cold as the day was on this mountain height, the Pawnees seemed impervious to the weather, as the braves, squaws, and even the papooses move to and fro leisurely, the early morning sun shining weirdly upon their half-clad and gayly painted, supple limbs, and the waving eagle feathers that decorated their heads.

To these hardy barbarians the horrors of winter seemed quite unknown, unfeared.

Just where he was, Joe could not quite comprehend, though he realized that it must be upon some level spot on the mountain.

How far was he from Hadley—great Heaven, how far? he asked himself in agony. If he had but been in his usual state of health he would have taken his fate in his hands by making a bold dash for liberty. As it was, he realized that his strength would not hold out on the first mile, and he would fall in his tracks, and the red demons, with wild rage at his attempt to escape, would be upon him, and in less time than it would take to tell it, his life would pay the penalty of his daring. No, he must make his escape by stratagem, if it were to be accomplished at all.

He knew that he was the subject of much excited discussion among the braves, who were gathered in little knots here and there, from their glances, furtively cast in his direction, and their fierce gesticulations. Another thing caught and held his attention spell-bound, in the centre of the clearing he observed one of the Indians driving a heavy hickory stake into the ground, while the squaws and children were actively engaged in fetching armfuls of dry fagots, which they proceeded to place around it, chattering the meanwhile in Joe's hearing, but one of their customs—to prepare a fire which should be lighted at night and last through it, the greatest glee.

But when one of the old squaws pointed to his tent, his blood ran cold with horror, for in that moment the meaning of the scene broke upon him—they were building his funeral pyre.

Joe's brain was brave, but even the stoutest heart would have quailed in such a moment.

"Whatever may be my fate, I can meet it like a man, and die like a brave one; but God in Heaven protect mother and Norine when I am not there to aid them," he sobbed, and the tears which coursed down his honest, weather-beaten cheeks were no shame to his manhood.

He felt from the drift of the half-breed's remarks that the Pawnees intended attacking the village within a very few nights. What if they had laid their plans to swoop down upon the village that very night, he had the opportunity to warn them of their impending peril? God give him the strength to save them.

He must make his escape and reach Hadley, even though his life paid the forfeit of the effort. He would lose a dozen lives if they were his to sacrifice in such a cause.

The sun crept higher and higher in the heavens, noon came, then the sun dropped lower and lower, denoting the approach of the oncoming night, and the late awaiting him.

During all the long hours of the day

no one had been near him with food or drink.

He knew but too well the Indian mode of warfare—who they intend to give to the fire-god they serve with neither meat nor drink.

He suggested back to his pallet of skins, threw himself upon them and give himself up to devising plans for his escape.

He knew that it should not be attempted until the shadows began to darken the mantle of darkness would shield him, then he could trust to God, who rules and reigns over all to befriend him in his peril.

As the long hours dragged their slow lengths on he formulated his plans carefully and fully.

Once the half-breed who had spoken with him before paused for a moment in passing and peered into his tent.

Joe lay so still upon his pallet of skins that the man was certain that he must be sleeping. He moved away muttering to himself. It was well for Joe's peace of mind that he did not hear the words on his lips.

The half-breeds had made no attempt to manacle their victim, for, knowing him so well, they had little difficulty in perceiving how very weak and ill he was, and looked upon his attempt to escape as certainly beyond the possibilities; for they had observed that he could not stand on his feet, and concluded that the ugly gash over his temple would soon finish him, even if they did not.

Every moment of that awful and never-to-be-forgotten day seemed an hour's duration, and each hour a year in length, so much torturous anguish was crowded into them. By that time to-morrow, he told himself, he would have saved Hadley, his dear old mother and Norine, or his lifeless body would tell the tale of his pathetic story of his heroic attempt. Lower and lower dipped the winter sun in the western sky.

Already the shadows began to gather in the tent of deerkin. Joe lay with upturned face, his eyes closed, his lips drawn in a tense, straight line, which was the only sign of his excitement laboring within his breast.

With bated breath he watched and waited for the shadows to deepen, and at last he told himself that the auspicious moment had arrived. Would it mean life or death for him? Ah, who could tell!

CHAPTER XXIV.

While Joe had been casting about for some way which might lead him out of his perilous surroundings, a way suddenly opened itself. One of the Indian ponies, which were permitted to roam about the encampment at will, drew near his tent—ay, within a couple of yards of the spot where he was crouching. In an instant the valiant young express messenger had seized the reins, and with a throbbing heart and quivering pulse he gathered himself together for his leap for life.

If he succeeded in mounting the pony he would at least have a chance of gaining his liberty. If he missed his mark, ah, God, he dared not miss it—there was too much at stake.

In that fatal moment he thought of Norine, the fair, beautiful maiden whom he loved so dearly, and with her name on his lips, mingled with a broken cry to heaven to aid him, he made the terrific plunge.

Heaven had heard his wild prayer. He landed directly astride the animal's supple back.

The action was so daring, so unexpected, that for an instant the Indians were taken completely by surprise, faintly paralyzed with amazement.

For one moment the forms of man and horse are outlined against the stars, then the night swallows them, and at an instant the stillness of death reigns, the savages are trying to comprehend what has happened. Then a mighty war-whoop follows.

A score of dusky leaves leap to the back of their ponies and dash in mad pursuit in the direction our hero has vanished, yelling like veritable demons.

Galloping Joe, whom our hearts are following, heard it, and realized what it meant, even before he reached the summit of the mountain. He had not pursued down the mountain road, but he had hoped to distance them in the intense darkness, but even as this thought crossed his mind the dense, billowing clouds overhead rolled slowly away, and the full moon broke forth, dazzling and bright in its full white glory, rendering every object plainly visible on the broad stretch of almost level ground, which seemed to extend for miles over the mountain. A groan that was almost a sob broke from Joe's lips, for he knew by the increased demonic yell and the arrows that were whizzing about him that they saw him, and were urging their steeds forward.

They were all riding madly onward for one scalp, and that scalp his own. He would be butchered without pity if he fell into their hands, and he knew too, that the inhuman fiends always tortured their prisoners before they showed them the mercy of death.

Hadley's three fiercest warriors were husband, and not even an arrow was directed toward him. This puzzled Joe greatly. Had it not been for the steady onward patter of hoofs in the rear over the hard, frozen earth, Joe would have thought that they had abandoned pursuit of him.

He panted long enough in his mad leap to turn and glance uneasily over his shoulder. His keen eyes discerned but a herd of ponies dashing riderless toward him. He could see no one on their backs, but he instantly divined, by the way they dashed onward, and the steadiness with which they held their reins, neither diverging to the right nor to the left, that they were guided by invisible yet firm hands, and he remembered once having heard old Daniel Gordon, the blacksmith, say that this was but a cunning device of the tricky savages. They were lying under the bodies of their steeds to escape observation, as well as perhaps a stray bullet. And, moreover, none save Pawnees—ay, and the best and most daring of their tribe—could ride thus.

Joe felt that it would simply be a matter of which pony—theirs or his—that would hold out the longest.

He pressed his little pony on to renewed speed, again glancing backward, and as though she understood with almost human intelligence all that there was at stake, she shot forward at a terrific rate, which began to feel instantly in the space between pursued and pursuers.

Seeing this ruse had failed, the Pawnees sat bolt upright on their ponies' backs again. Even in the midst of his terrible danger, Joe could not help but admire, as he took another glance backward, the firm, centaur-like and yet graceful riding of the pursuing Indians, whose nude bodies gleamed in the moonlight like statues of bronze. Broad-chested and powerful fellows they were, looking warlike and picturesque enough, with their head-dresses of gorgeous feathers, their long, thick hair out behind them like a mane.

Thus they swept on, pursued and pursuers, mile after mile, and a cry of "Thank God!" broke from Joe's death-white lips as he saw a dense forest lying ahead of him. If he could but reach it he might elude them.

As he neared the underbrush he saw a huge white rock looming up ahead of him. Now he knew where he was, a mile or so off from the main road that led over the mountain. At that place on the main road five different express messengers on as many years had met a tragic fate.

Two of them had been killed by white handbills for plunder, and the remaining three by the hostile, blood-thirsty Pawnees for their scalps.

Just as this recollection came to Joe his pony suddenly shied at some thing directly before him, then stood stock still, trembling like a leaf. Joe was not long in discovering the cause of its alarm, for the clear moonlight revealed the skeletons of a horse and its rider.

Joe bent forward breathlessly.

He knew by the ghastly, grinning teeth of the latter, many of which were dark and discolored, that he had been a white man, for an Indian's teeth never decay.

A round hole in the dead man's skull, which the birds or beasts of prey probably both had cleared of every vestige of flesh or hair, indicated that he had met a violent death.

Bits of straps and leather lying about showed conclusively that he had been a mail carrier, who that year before was supposed to have missed his footing in climbing the slippery mountain heights, both horse and rider probably plunging to death down the rocky gorge and into the boiling chasm, where a body would never again be found until the waters of the canyon gave up their dead.

A terrible shudder crept over Joe.

"Poor fellow, what was your fate may be mine ere the morrow's light dawns," he muttered, half addressing the bleached corpse as he forced his pony past it and on into the shadow of the tract of woodland beyond.

To his unspeakable thankfulness he saw that he had distanced his pursuers greatly in the terrific race for life.

He realized that he must have seized the reins of his pony, with its speed and endurance were so superior to the rest.

He felt that it must be the handwork of heaven that had brought the animal so near him.

He creathed the dark shadows of the forest with a thankfulness words are weak to describe. He knew a dozen ways out of it on the main road, and, sweeter thought than all the rest, he was but five miles up the mountain road from Hadley, and could not be far from the chief of the Indian little pony, he was lessening the distance.

Once again he drew rein for an instant to listen. He could no longer hear the patter of ringing hoofs thundering after him. "Could it be that the Pawnees had given up the chase?"

For an instant he was doubtful. He might have believed it had he not known full well the nature of this particular tribe—that the Pawnee never never known to give up until he is the victor, or has been vanquished. No, he concluded, they must have resolved to pursue some other tactics.

Perhaps they knew some other path that led to the main road, and had found the only ponies in that direction to head him off.

NO INTERFERENCE FROM EMPLOYEES.

(Continued from page 1) In making the rounds of the Separate Schools yesterday, inspecting as to provisions for rapid exit in case of fire, Chief TenEyck tried using hand bells and gongs. In every case the teachers found the gongs to be the best, and their use will be authorized. The gong is more easily heard, and does not conflict with the ordinary class bells. Chairman J. A. Reding, of the committee, and Father Leves, secretary, were with the chief at St. Mary's School, and Chairman Reding accompanied him to the other schools. At St. Mary's the scholars all got out in 38 seconds. No fire escape is required there, and the furnaces are so placed that in case of fire arising there, from fire and smoke would not reach the stairways. At the Sacred Heart School there is a bad back stair. An outside stair, a fire escape in front and a direct door into the yard from one class will be recommended. The school was cleared in 1:43. At St. Thomas' School recess was on, and no drill was practised. A direct door from the junior class room into the yard, a fire escape from the second floor and the change of a furnace pipe will be recommended. At St. Lawrence School all the children were out in 45 seconds. In two rooms direct doors into the yard are needed, and an outside fire escape for the second floor. The swing of one door should also be changed. This school is entirely heated by stoves, but they were found to be in good condition. The deputation from the Parks Board which went to Toronto yesterday to try and induce the Government to give the city a piece of the asylum grounds near Queen Street for park purposes in connection with the Mountain Drive and Park scheme returned home satisfied with the success of its mission. Provincial Secretary Hanna agreed to be bound by anything Col. Hendrie decided, and the deputation is satisfied Mr. Hendrie will grant the request.

C. E. FISHER DEAD.

President of Fisher Paper Mills Company, Dundas. Christopher E. Fisher, president of the Fisher Paper Mill Company, of Dundas, died at his home there just before noon today. On Wednesday he was operated upon, a leg being amputated in the hope that the progress of gangrene would be arrested. Deceased had long been at the head of the manufacturing concern in the neighborhood of 60 years of age, and was unmarried.

POISONED AT SOCIAL.

Five hundred people were made ill from ptomaine poisoning here last night at a social given by the ladies of the English Lutheran Church after eating chicken at a buffet. Many of the people were not taken ill until after they had gone home and by midnight all the doctors in the city were busy. Today some of the doctors had to close because all the clerks were sick. It is believed that no one will die.

A GOOD ARRANGEMENT.

Secretary Foster, of the Board of Education, this morning communicated with the Department of Education to the fire escapes for the city schools. Mr. Cloughlin agreed to leave the matter in the hands of the Hamilton Board, Inspector Ballard and Chief TenEyck to be satisfied first as to the plan.

MARKETS and FINANCE

TORONTO MARKETS.

Live Stock. The total receipts of live stock at the city market since Tuesday, as reported by the railways, were 100 car loads, composed of 1,635 cattle, 1,975 hogs, 503 sheep and yearling lambs, and 114 calves. Prices ranged from 15 to 25c per cwt. lower than on Monday, and from 30c to 50c lower than two weeks ago. Exporters—A few choice quality export steers sold at $5.20 to $5.25; these same cattle would have brought $5.20 to $5.35, which was the top price of picked steers two weeks ago. T. Halligan bought one lot of exporters, gathered up on the market in small lots, at $5.12 1/2 to $5.75. Butchers—Good butchers and light exporters, at $4.50 to $4.90 per cwt.; fair to medium butchers, $4 to $4.30; light butchers and good cows, $3.50 to $3.85; common to good cows, $3.50 to $3.85; light, inferior cows, $2 to $2.85 per cwt. Feeders and Stockers—Best feeders, 1,000 to 1,100 lbs, each, at $4 to $4.50 per cwt.; best feeders, 900 to 1,000 lbs, each, at $3.60 to $4; best stockers, thin, 700 to 800 lbs, each, at $2.75 to $3; butchers', from $3.50 to $4.50. Milk and Springers—About 40 or 50 fresh arrivals of milkers and springers, the bulk of which were of medium quality, with a few good and an odd choice cow, interspersed in the lot, sold from $30 to $35 each, but only one cow at the latter price. Veal Calves—Prices for the bulk of the veal calves sold at $3 to $6 per cwt., with a very few choice at $6.50 to $7 per cwt. Sheep and Lambs—Prices for sheep and lambs generally were easier. The best lambs were quoted at $6.50 to $7 per cwt., but there were a very few selected ewes and wethers that sold at $7.25 per cwt.; common rough lambs sold at $3 to $6 per cwt.; export ewes, $4.25 to $4.75 per cwt.; rams, at $3 to $4 per cwt. Hogs—There was a fair delivery of hogs, about 2,000. Mr. Harris quoted prices unchanged at $3.15 for selects, and $4.75 for lights, fed and watered.

Stocks and Bonds

Noon Stock Letter—New York, March 13.—The market during the morning developed continued important absorption of Union and Northern Pacific, St. Paul Steel and B. R. T. London was a considerable seller. An official of Atchafson says that the depression in traffic is much less than had been expected. This is, we think, true in many other instances. It is noted that as to showings of earnings, Colo. Fuel is in a class by itself, reporting steady increase, which would have been greater if the panic had not interfered. The 1907 statement shows about 50% per cent. earned on the common, after preferred dividends. These two preferred issues paying 4 per cent. look very cheap. There are very bullish points on Utah Copper, which is said to be slated for $4 dividend on the 310 shares by next year. It is officially declared that the P. & N. has a rail dispute with the U.S. Steel. The bank statement should not show much cash decrease. If President Roosevelt's reported plans for changing the Sherman law and for Federal change of the currency, it is noted that the unfavorable aspect of corporation affairs may be eliminated.—Ennis & Stoppard.

THE HAMILTON TIMES

FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1908.

TARDY, BUT SATISFACTORY.

Tardy as was the arbitration on the electric light question, the award has been very satisfactory to the city, and will result in a considerable saving in the lighting department.

AN ANNUITIES BILL.

The Annuities Bill, brought down on Tuesday by Mr. Fielding, is not exactly the same as was proposed by Sir Richard Cartwright last session, although it follows the same general lines.

The House of Lords has rejected the Government's Scottish Small Holdings Bill. They will probably be given opportunity to increase the balance against them in the accounts of the electors.

WHAT'S THE GAME?

Whitney, a short time ago, announced, with the self-conscious air of the rigidly righteous, that the redistribution of Ontario was to be left to a committee of five Conservatives and three Liberals.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Our sympathy goes out to the Conservative Club in its struggles. Whitney proposes to go to the country soon. Well, he won't have a walk over.

any fair ground exists for such complaint. Whitney will not lack an apologist while this unbending "independent's" ink holds out.

row to be retained in the service of the city in some other capacity. That means another big salary to somebody.

Fifteen new K. C.'s have been appointed in England. When we look at our army of silk gown-clad lawyers we feel like pitying Englishmen who have only about 250 King's Counsel, all told.

Messrs. Thompson and Reed, our country members, drew attention in the House last evening to the unbusiness-like way in which supplies are procured for the Hamilton Asylum.

The House of Lords has rejected the Government's Scottish Small Holdings Bill. They will probably be given opportunity to increase the balance against them in the accounts of the electors.

A Toronto man has been remanded for examination as to his sanity, he having been arrested for spitting in a man's face. Where he from any other place than Toronto, the act would go far toward qualifying him for an insane asylum.

Whitney will go on taxing incomes of even $300 from invested savings, having refused a bill to exempt such. When a Government begins to increase its takings from the people at the rate of $1,000,000 a year, its hunt for taxes becomes keen.

The Montreal Herald compares the prices of food in New York and its own city, and computes that it costs $2.27 to buy meats and dairy produce in Montreal which in New York could be bought for $1.75.

Isn't it noble of Hon. A. B. Aylesworth to legislate against the circulation of lies at election time?—Toronto Telegram.

Why this sarcasm? Our contemporary may feel annoyed at Aylesworth for his proposal, but why accept it as a personal grievance?

A Toronto woman was awarded $750 damages in a suit against the Toronto Street Railway Company for $3,000. Her satisfaction at winning the suit is somewhat marred by the fact that the company tried to settle the suit, before it went to trial, by offering her $2,000.

The Liberal Club has done well in inviting Mr. C. N. Smith, M. P., P., of Sault Ste. Marie, to deliver an address, under the auspices, on the evening of Thursday next.

Mr. C. H. Bishop, Superintendent of Toronto Public Schools, has no confidence in fire escapes, but pins his faith to spacious stairways, hallways and exits.

Mr. Harcourt's protest against the enormous increase of the expense of civil government in Ontario is very timely. It has cost for this item 45 per cent. more than four years ago, and the increase has been 36 per cent. in two years.

Mr. Bennett, M. P., has quite vindicated the Opposition at Ottawa from every charge made against it. This gentlemanly (S) member accomplished the feat by reading a report of a sermon preached by Rev. J. A. Macdonald, and declaring that he was a "pious, saug-faced hypocrite."

Whitney says that he has done his part in the Hydro-Electric matter, and it is now the municipalities' turn to move. Some of the municipalities had, rightly or wrongly, got the idea that they were to have a form of contract submitted to them before being required to commit themselves.

Our neighbor, the Herald, becomes very wrathful because the Globe has represented Hon. Adam Beck as fighting "with his back to the wall" for the Hydro-Electric scheme, and charges that this is "insincere, hypocritical claptrap."

In spite of the denial issued by the Ross Rifle Company of the Montreal Star's stories to the effect that the Ross rifle was not manufactured in Canada, but that it was merely assembled in Quebec, the parts being made in the United States, that paper, the other day, printed an alleged interview with Mr. Frank Mossberg, of Attleboro, Mass., in support of its statements.

The fire and police departments could use up that street lighting award money to good advantage. Can they have it?

The Herald's lightning calculator was out a few dollars last night in figuring out the refund to the city by the street lighting award.

While the city is acquiring parks and slices of the mountain, it might also stretch out its hand for the west end marsh patent.

A strike of coal miners on April 1! The date is significant. Perhaps old Sed will have warned up to his work by that time, and better counsels may prevail.

discussing them. The other day he thought to floor Mr. Fielding by asking the banks came to the Government to ask it to assist them in moving the crops. Mr. Fielding gently imparted the information that the banks did not come to the Government asking it to assist them in the movement of the crop, and the great critic's jaw fell.

OUR EXCHANGES

Called Bill for Short. (Toronto Star.) Now Whitney sharpens up an axe To knock the Grits quiet silly.

Sealey All Right. (Dundas Banner.) We are pleased to state that Mr. Sealey is in the best of health—no influenza, no heart affection, no cold, no fever. He wears the smile that won't come off.

Are There Any? (Toronto Star.) Secretary Hanna is seeing what can be done to wipe out arrears for the keep of patients in public institutions. It is understood that bills against Grit lunatics will be vigorously pressed.

To Raise Them. (Brantford Expositor.) A fraternal organization announces that its members are to be "levelled upward." That's a gentle way of breaking the news.

The Foulest-Tongued One. (Toronto Globe.) It is encouraging to note that Mr. W. H. Bennett reads a sermon once in a while. For while the lamp holds on to burn the vilest sinner may return.

The Gerrymander. (Toronto Globe.) It is proposed to link the eight constituencies of Toronto in four pairs, each pair to elect two members. It is just as easy to divide Toronto into eight single constituencies as into four double constituencies.

After the Fakir's Performance. (Toronto Globe.) Original documents need very rarely be asked for, as a copy is in a thousand cases all that is needed. It may be reported that the demand for the originals was all grand stand play.

Robins Killed for Food in the South. (Leslie's Week.) A million robins were killed in Louisiana during the winter of 1907-8, the offenders being men and boys who shot them for food.

HEMORRHOIDS SORES AN ECZEMA Accompanied by Terrible Itching—A Complicated and Most Distressing Case—Well-known Remedies Failed to Cure—Doctor Thought an Operation Necessary—Then CUTICURA PROVED ITS WONDERFUL EFFICACY

"I am now eighty years old and one morning, three years ago, I was taken with a hard pain in the morning. In two days I had an attack of piles (hemorrhoids), bleeding and protruding. I tried to get some medicine and an ointment for them which helped me some but I had to keep using them all the time. Then I changed to the Cuticura remedy, but if I did not use it every day, I would get worse. The doctor said the only help for me was to go to a hospital and operated on. At this time, about a year ago, I went to using the Cuticura remedy. I tried them for four or five months but did not get much help for my piles. During this time sores would come on a fleshy part of my body. They bothered me all the time. I would get one healed and another would come. These sores changed to eczema, accompanied by a terrible itching. It seemed as if I could not keep my hands from tearing my flesh. This and the pile trouble brought on an inflamed condition. Then I got the Cuticura Remedies. I washed the affected parts with Cuticura Soap and treated them with Cuticura Ointment on the irritated surface. I injected the Cuticura Ointment with a Cuticura Syringe. I also took Cuticura Resolvent Pills three times a day. It took a month of this treatment to get me in a fairly healthy state and I treated myself once a day for three months and, after that, once or twice a week. It is fortunate that I used Cuticura. The treatments I had tried took a lot of money that I could have saved by using Cuticura Remedies sooner, but I am wiser now, and I would not feel safe without them. J. H. Henderson, Hopkinton, St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., U. S. A., April 26, 1907."

BEAUTY OF MARS. A Vision of Wonderful Color and Growing Grandeur. Viewed under suitable conditions, few sights can compare for instant Mars as presented by the telescope. Framed in the blue of space, there floats before the observer's gaze a seeming miniature of his own earth. Its changed by translation to the sky. Within its charmed circle of light he marks apparent continents and seas, now ramifying into one another, now stretching in unique expanse over wide tracts of disk, and capped at their poles by dazzling ovals of white. It recalls to him his first lessons in geography, where the earth was shown him, set ethereally amid the stars, only with an added sense of reality in the notheosis. It is the thing itself, stamped with that ill-perceiving in which the cleverest reproduction somehow fails.

the caps. Nor is either hue uniform; tone relieves tint to a further heightening of effect. In some parts of the light expands the ochre prevails alone; in others the rose deepens to a brick red, suffusing the surface with the glow of a warm late afternoon. No less various is the blue, now sinking into deeps of shading, now lighting into faint washes that in places grade off insensibly into ochre itself, thus making regions of intermediate tint the precise borders of which are not discernible by the eye. Superimposed upon its general opaline complexion are now and then to be seen ephemeral effects. At certain times and in certain places warm chocolate brown has been known to supplant the blue. Often, too, cold white dots are scattered over the disk, dazzling diamond points that deck the planet's features to a richness beyond the power of pencil to portray. So minute are they that good seeing is needed to disclose them. It is at such moments that color best comes out. To those who know the sun only as golden and the moon as white, even in its color scheme Mars would stand forth in revelation.—From Percival Lowell's "The Sun Dominant" in the March Century.

BATTLEFIELD A PUBLIC PARK.

STATEMENT BY WOMEN'S WENTWORTH HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Sketch of Work in Connection With the Stoney Creek Battlefield—Only Historic Property Handed Over to the Public by a Society—People Free to Come and Go—More Work to be Done.

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—The present would seem to be an opportune time to present to your readers a history of the Women's Wentworth Historical Society in its relation to the Stoney Creek Battlefield. We regret the absence from the city of Mrs. John Calder, the energetic President of the Society, by whose efforts some eight or nine years ago the property was preserved, and out of whose full knowledge of the case a more complete history might be written. It was in 1899 that notice was sent to the Dominion Government of the purchase of a portion of the Battlefield of Stoney Creek by the Women's Wentworth Historical Society and of the intention of this society to convert the said parcel into a park, and that a portion of the said land is offered as a site for the monument to be erected on the Battlefield of Stoney Creek and the President and Secretary are authorized to take such steps as they may deem advisable to secure the erection of the monument on the above parcel of ground. Steps were taken immediately to put the house and grounds in presentable shape. In this work the members of the Society were nobly assisted by some of the prominent residents of Saltfleet, who brought their teams and gave their own services until the necessary work was completed, and on Saturday, Oct. 21, 1899, at the formal ceremonies connected therewith, the Battlefield of 1812 at Stoney Creek was declared open as a public park by Lady Aberdeen. During the intervening years the members of the Society have worked zealously with no source of revenue but their own earnings, membership fees and a small grant from the Ontario Legislature given for the past three years, and now have succeeded in freeing the property from all debt, in addition to maintaining it during these years. This is the only Society in Canada which has bought a piece of historic property and delivered it over to the public. There seems to have been a slight misunderstanding on the part of some as to the privileges of the public. Dundurn Park, the property of the citizens of Hamilton, is open to the citizens of the world so long as said citizens conduct themselves in accordance with the laws governing the rights of property and do not tease the bear. In like manner Stoney Creek Battlefield, the property of the Women's Wentworth Historical Society, is open to the citizens of the world who are cordially welcomed to the Battlefield, and its sacred ground provided said citizens of the world do not fire off the cannon, tear up the sidewalk, throw the sign board into the angry, turbulent waters of Stoney Creek at full spring flood, or in any other way, metaphorically, tease the bear. As to Battlefield House, any fair-minded reader will recognize the fact that there must be restrictions to guard a place filled with furniture of somewhat ancient art and craft and relics of priceless historic value. Immediate steps were taken to procure the monument to commemorate the event of June 6th, 1812. The scheme included a relic house where the historic mementoes of the neighborhood might be safely lodged. The Government of Canada was asked for a grant, and the sum of $3,000 was voted by that body. Unfortunately just at that time the Empire was plunged into the war with the Boers, and the expense devolving upon our Government in connection therewith made it necessary to withdraw the grant. It is not, however, committal promising that at some future time it would be restored. The Society has made application to the Government now in session at Ottawa for a grant towards this relic house and monument scheme and has every confidence as to the amount which will be set aside. So soon as the necessary funds are in sight the work will be undertaken and Stoney Creek will have a monument of which Saltfleet, Wentworth and all Canada will be proud, all owing to the efforts of the Women's Wentworth Historical Society. It is not, however, never has been the intention of the Society to exclude the public from Stoney Creek Battlefield, and we regret that any misunderstanding in this connection has arisen. The citizens of the world are welcome and may visit the relic house at any time. We thank you, Mr. Editor, for the space you may accord us in your paper, yours very truly, Lena M. Hendrie, Vice-President. Bertie E. D. Smith, Hon. Sec. Hamilton, March 12th, 1908.

The late Joseph Prentice, ex-Sergeant-Major of Police.

MUST KEEP OFF.

Cannot Enter Fortified Black Sea Ports at Night.

Odesa, March 13.—In consequence of the arrest near the fortresses at Kars and Batumi, in Trans-Caucasia, of several Turkish officers, alleged to be spies, the Minister of Marine has forbidden all vessels, without respect to nationality, from approaching or entering any fortified harbor in the Black Sea at night. If this order is disobeyed the vessels will be bombarded.

A LONG CASE.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 13.—The Capitol conspiracy case, in which John H. Sanderson, a Philadelphia furniture dealer and contractor, former Auditor General W. P. Snyder, former State Treasurer W. L. Mathies, and James H. Shumaker, former superintendent of the board of grounds and buildings, are charged with defrauding the state in furnishing the Capitol, was given to the jury today. The arguments were concluded yesterday, and to-day Judge Kunkel gave final instructions to the jurors, who have patiently listened to the testimony and speeches since Jan. 27.

AVERTED COLLISION.

Kingston, March 13.—(Special).—The Battersea Stage had a close call yesterday at a street crossing. The driver tried to cross before an approaching K. & P. Railway train, but could not make it. The engineer saw the danger, and gave the signal for a quick stop, which brought his train up just a couple of feet in front of the stage.

FIRE LOSS SETTLED.

Cheap Clothing May Now be Expected at Farrar's.

Farrar's clothing store, 5 Market Square, which has been closed for the past week, will be ready for business tomorrow, as a settlement of loss occasioned by the recent fire has been made with the underwriters. This means big values in men's trousers, spring suits and overcoats, men's shirts, flannels and other long-kept goods, that many have been waiting anxiously to secure at low prices. Farrar's clothing is made well and he guarantees a good fit. His stock was principally damaged by smoke and anything offered at this sale will be practically new goods. Before the fire, he will start a good line of business going to-morrow by offering 250 pairs of boys' knickers, worth from 60 cents to 75 cents, for 25 cents, and other goods in proportion. Look over the list in this issue, and be on hand early Saturday morning. The store will be open evenings.

TWO TICKETS FOR THE POET.

The Late William Sells Soon Convinced by a Deadhead.

"I met William Sells, the circus man, who died the other day, once only," said a long-haired man, as he stopped writing a sonnet about the dead man, "but I have reason to remember that interview.

"On that day I was particularly broke and had been down town, taking with me a book in which I had pasted a good many of my poems which had been published in a few of the magazines. I was, too, but the bulk of the book was made up of verse.

"Having no luck in finding any editor who would give me a commission, I wended my way back home. Passing Madison Square Garden I saw that Sells' circus was holding out there. An idea struck me, and in I walked.

"I asked to see the press agent. He was out, but Mr. Sells was in, so I marched with all the importance I could command into his private office.

"What can I do for you?" said Sells. "Well, I stammered, 'I should like two seats for to-night's performance.' "Who may you be?" asked the circus man.

"I told him my name, whereat he smiled and said: "Ah, yes; I've heard of you. You're a poet, aren't you?" "I blushed.

"Well," he continued, "but why should I give you two tickets?" "I said something about the courtesy of the profession, and then added: "Of course you may not believe I am the person I represent myself to be. If you wish for identification I have here a book of my accepted and published poems, which—

"But Sells started up and shouted out to a man standing by: "Here, give this gentleman two seats for to-night," and then turning to me: "I'd sooner give you the whole house than read your poems."

"But I got the tickets."

"And the bard resumed his sonnet—New York Sun.

The important announcement was made at the Dominion Forestry Convention, which opened in Montreal yesterday, that the Dominion Government had decided within a very short time to set aside the whole of the vast area of the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains for all time as an inalienable forest reserve.

Note the very little prices for which some of the most fascinating hats may be bought.

No idea of their beauty can be gained without seeing them. Descriptions are impossible, variety is infinite. Each Hat is an artistic whole—and its beauty is indescribable. These things may be noted though: The leading colors are Copenhagen, leather shades, browns, navy blues, cerise and greens. Larger shapes that turn well off the face, Russian turbans, toques and Merry Widow sailors are all very smart. Flowers, ribbons, ospreys and wings are the popular trimmings.

Hundreds of Hats to select from—types becoming to every face, colorings to match any costume. The showing is at its very best now. Why not select to-morrow.

APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE.

Whitney Will Go to the Country at Early Date.

Committee to Deal With Redistribution Has Been Named.

Thompson and Reed Criticize Purchase of Supplies.

Toronto, March 13.—Prorogation of the Legislature before Easter and an early election to follow are the desires of Premier Whitney. These important matters were discussed at a caucus of the party held at the Parliament buildings yesterday, when the Premier urged his supporters to do all in their power to forward business. The Premier expressed his intention of going to the country as early as possible, and it is probable that the general election will be held during the second week in June. As matters stand at present the business of the Legislature is much further advanced than it was last year.

Redistribution Proposals. The Premier in moving the second reading of the bill respecting representation in the Legislative Assembly said that the time had come when a new scheme of representation was absolutely necessary. It did not necessarily mean that any great variation or change might be brought about in any particular number or class of constituencies. The position was very simple. They were not, as the Dominion Government were, bound by any pivotal system, but could take such steps as seemed reasonable.

In a method by which it was proposed to deal with the matter Mr. Whitney said that the Government were following the principle laid down by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in regard to the last Federal redistribution. Sir Wilfrid had, when introducing the measure, said that schemes would be referred to a special committee by whom the constituencies would be created, and no cut-and-dried scheme would be presented to the House, which it would have to swallow whole. Mr. Whitney said that in this regard the Government were also following the precedent created by the Gladstone Administration in Great Britain. They could, of course, have referred the matter to a commission of Judges, who he had no doubt would have dealt with the question fairly, but he could see no reason why the Legislature should throw aside responsibility. He did not believe that the House would fail to deal with the question in a reasonable way which would give general satisfaction. At the same time he did not expect that every body would be completely satisfied and overjoyed.

In Great Britain advice from outside sources had been obtained with regard to the delimiting of constituencies, but that it had not resulted as far as desired was shown by the fact that the Government had a majority in the House of Commons of over 200, while the official returns of the votes really only entitled them to sixty.

Increase Representation. The first result of the proposed legislation would be to increase the number of representatives in the House of Commons by 100. The reason for the increase, he thought, would be apparent if they gave a little consideration to the matter. In several localities the population had increased rapidly. The population of Toronto had increased rapidly, and the representation would have to be increased, but at the same time he did not think that cities were entitled to the same number of representatives as a rural constituency having the same number of people.

In New Ontario a number of new constituencies would have to be created. Let the Government be as moderate as they could in increasing the membership of the House, he ventured to prophesy that within five years the new constituencies would probably create in New Ontario would have the largest number of voters in the Province. As illustrating this Mr. Whitney said that when the constituency of East Nipissing was created the population was 25,000, and now it was 60,000. A portion of East Nipissing, which ought to be made a new constituency, had a population of 13,000 in 1901 and now had a population of 20,000.

Follow County Boundaries. It was proposed that county boundaries should be followed as far as possible, and the basis of any action would be the equalization, as far as possible, of the population of the different ridings.

Mr. Whitney pointed out, in order to show that no undue pretense was being made, that when the Premier was asked for, that while the ideal in Ontario was regarded as being one member for each twenty or twenty-two thousand people, the proportion was much less in some States of the Union. In Massachusetts there were ten members of the Executive, forty members of the Senate, and 240 of the House of Representatives, while the population was 2,800,000, giving an average of 9,300 people to each representative. The population of Ontario was 2,167,000, and if they had a little over one hundred representatives the ratio in regard to the population would be one representative to considerably over 21,000 people. Vermont, Mr. Whitney said, had 63 Senators, 250 Representatives and a population of 343,000, giving an average of about 1,300 to each member, and New Hampshire, with its population of 411,000, had 24 Senators and 393 Representatives.

Opposition Leader Criticizes. Hon. A. G. MacKay said that he understood that in Great Britain the principles of the redistribution bill were discussed at a conference of the leaders of the parties, and the principles of the measure decided upon before it was laid before the House. In the present instance, he understood, from what the Premier had said, that a number of the schedules had already been prepared.

Premier Whitney—Oh, no! I must protest against that. What I said was that no person should think of changing counties like Dundas and Stormont, and that it would not take long to get over them, leaving the more contentious matters. I never said that any schedules were prepared.

Hon. A. G. MacKay was referring to the statement made before, that the gentleman said the number of constituencies which were likely to be changed were decreasing. Continuing, the leader of the Opposition said that it was not his intention to say a word of either condemnation or commendation with regard to the measure. He reserved the right of criticizing until there was something more tangible before the House. He would like to call attention, however, to clause four of the bill, which said that each electoral district should return one member except the electoral districts of North, South, East and West Toronto, which should return two members each. He did not see why one method should prevail throughout the Province except Toronto, and that in the old Conservative city a different method should be adopted. There was no hint in the clause of minority representation, and while he did not move an amendment, he hoped that the committee in their wisdom would strike out the exception.

Eight Are Too Many. Proceeding, Mr. MacKay contended that Toronto, the seat of the Government, with four Cabinet Ministers practically living in its midst, did not need eight members. Of the 83 members Ontario sent to the Dominion House Toronto had five, and if they worked out the representation on the same lines with regard to the Legislature the city would have six members. That would be, he considered, a sufficient number. Mr. MacKay also added that if the Premier had gone to Great Britain for his illustration as to the proportion of representation to population he would have found the reverse to the condition which existed in those States of the Union he had mentioned. In the old country one member represented fifty or seventy thousand people.

The Premier said the conditions in Great Britain were different. There was only the central Parliament, and besides, the country had an exceedingly large population. Mr. Studholme had heard no mention of the third party being represented on the committee. He desired to know whether the Premier would have an opportunity to discuss the bill. Premier Whitney—Oh, yes. Mr. Studholme—I just wanted a square deal, a little talk.

Premier Whitney—I have no knowledge of the "Independent" party ever having failed to do so. (Laughter.) One Member Each. Mr. Preston (Brant) expressed his appreciation of the fact that nothing definite was settled about the bill with regard to Toronto. The single-member system had been on the statute books of Great Britain since 1883, and there had not been any effort to eliminate it. He thought the principle might very well be considered.

The Premier said that the boundaries in Toronto had been made by Mr. Preston's own friends when they were in office. The Government in their modesty did not have the arrogance to change these.

Hon. Mr. MacKay—Then why change any part of the Province? Premier Whitney moved that the bill be referred to a committee composed of himself, Hon. Matheson and Hanna, and Messrs. J. R. Dargavel (Leeds), F. G. Macdaniel (West Elgin), C. M. Bowman (North Bruce), C. Clarke (Northumberland), and G. S. May (Ottawa).

Maintenance of Institutions. When the House went into Committee of Supply the Opposition criticisms were directed against the acquisition of Hamilton. Mr. Thompson (Wentworth) asked how it was that the Hamilton Insane Asylum needed $50,000 for groceries, while the London Asylum, with practically the same number of patients, got along with $8,000 less. Mr. Hanna told of the better equipment in the London institution, but this did not satisfy the member from Wentworth. "Well, then, the difference is due to inefficiency in the officers at Hamilton," added the Provincial Secretary, jokingly. Again, Mr. Thompson persisted, and Hon. Mr. Hanna challenged him to point out one item that was wrong.

"There may have been something wrong in its management, but we remedied that last fall when we got a new superintendent at Hamilton," said the Minister.

Mr. D. Reed (Wentworth) called attention to the fact that teas, etc., purchased for institutions all over the Province was purchased more cheaply, but again Hon. Mr. Hanna took refuge behind a general challenge.

"These items should be bought by tender," added Mr. Reed, "and not by buying a pound here and a pound there."

Mr. Clarke (Northumberland) also took a band in the argument, and the Premier stated that it was the same thing years ago, when Hon. Mr. Gibson had said that the articles could not be purchased by tender. Mr. Clarke maintained that such a comparison was not fair, and he averred it was "going behind the barn."

Mr. Preston (Brant) instanced the Institution for the Blind at Brantford, where it was common knowledge that groceries were purchased month by month from grocers recommended by the defeated Conservative candidates in that city. It was true, he admitted, the same system was in vogue under the old Government, but aside from that he thought the list of articles secured by tender should, in the public interest, be enlarged. To this the Premier said "Hear, hear."

Replying to a question regarding the Hospital for Epileptics at Woodstock, the Provincial Secretary said that, though it had been originally intended to admit cases that might be cured, it had been found that chronic cases must be admitted or else the patients would be sent to the asylums. Before adjournment Hon. Mr. MacKay asked about the Public Accounts Committee, and it was arranged that the committee should be organized on Tuesday next.

FOUR HUNDRED SLAIN. Battle Between Italians and Tribesmen in Somaliland. Rome, March 12.—News has been received here from Italian Somaliland to the effect that a local tribe, helped by soldiers of the Mullah, attacked another tribe under the protection of Italy and killed thirty of their opponents. They then proceeded to a quantity of cattle. Italian troops were then sent into the disturbed section to punish the raiders. In this they were successful, for in one engagement they killed four hundred of the tribesmen and sixty of the Mullah's followers. The Italians had one man killed and two wounded.

HIC COSTUME.

Nos. 6135-5678.—The cutaway coat is beyond question the leading model for the coat suits. One of the smartest of the new designs is shown in this stylish suit of gray striped broadcloth. The pattern allows for full length or elbow sleeves, either style being finished by turn back cuffs. A notched collar completes the neck. The seven gored skirt is a most excellent design for a walking skirt. The shaping allows of close adjustment at the hips and from that point the folds fall in graceful fullness to the floor. English suiting, camel's hair, serge and Panama are suitable for development. For 36-inch bust measure 2 1/2 yards of 44-inch material will be required for the coat and 5 3/4 yards for the skirt. Ladies' cutaway coat. No. 6135. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Ladies' seven gored ripple skirt. No. 5678. Sizes for 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure. THREE BOYS POISONED. They Died From Eating Skunk Cabbage Root.

Hackensack, N. J., March 12.—Three small boys are dead at Norwood and two others are desperately ill as a result of eating skunk cabbage root, according to a message received today by Coroner Curry. The little fellows, whose ages ranged from five to nine years, were children of Italian residents of Norwood. They dug the skunk root in a swamp near their homes yesterday and ate it and became desperately ill within a few hours.

One of the boys was dead when a physician who had been summoned reached the child's home. Two others were beyond help and lived only a short time. The other two responded to the treatment and it is believed they have a chance for recovery.

AMONG THE JEWS

News Notes About Them From All Over the World.

It is estimated that the Jews of Greater New York and the neighboring portions of New Jersey number one million, being the greatest aggregation of Jews in any one spot on the earth, and being one-tenth of the entire Jewish population of the globe. This makes one-fifth as many Jews as now in Russia, one-half as many as in Austria-Hungary, four times as many as in the British Isles, ten times as many as in the Holy Land, and twenty times as many as dwell in Jerusalem.

On account of the Aliens Act in England, 802 aliens were excluded during the second year of its operation, as compared with only 469 during the preceding year. In other words, the number of rejections during the second year was not very far from double the number during the first year. The number excluded on account of bodily unfitness rose from 129 last year to 398 this year.

The Medical Record of New York, reviewing the mortality in the American metropolis, says that the Russian and Polish blocks show a low general rate, with a pneumonia death rate somewhat above the average. The low rates in the Jewish blocks and throughout the city can be ascribed, in the opinion of the Record, to several causes. Although living in densely populated sections, the Jew, by reason of his temperate habits and his inherited vitality, is able to resist and overcome infection, or, as has been said of the Jew, he is physically "tough" in its best sense. Again, the present status of the Jew as to age distribution is favorable at most age periods, with the exception of under five years.

Romanian Jews have produced a limited number of great men. One of the greatest, Don Roman, the author of "Manasseh," a poet of international repute, died the other day at Jassy. Don Roman devoted his life to the struggle of his people, and wrote in the language of his very enemies.

On the 24th of Sivan (June 23), of the present year, the centenary of Samson Raphael Hirsch, the founder of German neo-orthodoxy, will be celebrated. Fr. Laura Garsin has organized an International Jewish Child Exchange, with an information bureau at Milan. Jewish parents can exchange their children for a limited period with the Jewish parents of another country for the perfection of foreign languages in the respective countries.

Boston has followed the example set by New York, and opened a Jewish kosher kitchen. The Governor-General of Odessa has bestowed his goodness upon the Jewish women of that city by declaring that he will recognize every woman whose husband is in America, and whose wife is a foreigner, so that she experiences no difficulties when she desires to leave the country, and can cross the frontier without danger to her life. Christians in Louisville, Ky., are contributing liberally to the Hebrew young men's fund of Detroit, Mich., and declared to be completely exhausted, and that it cannot for the present continue its good work of alleviating the suffering of the poor Jews of that city.

A collection of Heine letters and manuscripts such as have never hitherto come on the market is now available for purchase. The collection consists of the whole autobiographical bequest of Heine's nephew, Baron Zolwitz von Emleben, all the preserved letters from Heinrich Heine to his mother and sister, 118 long letters, almost all written with his own hand on beautiful white quarto sheets and wonderfully preserved, as well as unprinted manuscripts of the poet's unprinted letters. After her death the collection was presented to the Crown Prince Rudolf of Austria to his mother, the Empress Elizabeth, who was an ardent devotee of Heine. After her assassination the Emperor Francis Joseph sent it to the poet's sister, Frau Charlotte Emleben. Funds will be raised to complete the Harlem Educational Institute. This institution will be to the Jews of Harlem what the Educational Alliance is to the lower East.

The Kievski West printed an order signed by the czar himself which contained a pardon for 21 peasants sentenced to six years in the Siberian mines for the murder of many Jews. The closing words of the ukase were: "Though knowing that these men are not innocent, we nevertheless extend them our imperial favor, and hereby declare them free."

A committee has been appointed in Boston to find sources of income for Rabbi Margolis. Tax on kosher meat is suggested.

Herr David Wolfsohn, in a speech at Esch, Germany, said the Sultan of Turkey is in hearty sympathy with the Zionist movement, realizing that the settlement of Jews in Palestine will greatly benefit the Ottoman Empire. Mr. Wolfsohn assured the audience that Zionism will come to a realization much sooner than even Zionism hopes for. There are now 10,000 olive trees in the Herzl forest of Jerusalem. It is proposed to have 100,000 olive trees planted in that forest, and that in course of a century it will bring an income of half a million francs annually.

This year 5668, a. m., 1908 C. E., is a Jewish leap year. Purim falls on the 17th and 18th of this month.

A NEW EASTWARD RECORD. Mauretania Clips Over Two Hours Off Her Time. Queenstown, March 12.—The steamer Mauretania to-day establish a new transatlantic record by beating her own best previous eastward record by two hours and thirty-six minutes. She arrived at Daunt's Rock at 4:14 this afternoon, and this makes her time in transit five days and five minutes. She cleared Sandy Hook lightship at 11:09 a. m. on March 7. She travelled over the long route, the total distance traversed being 2,922 knots. The average speed made by the Mauretania during the whole trip was 24.42 knots an hour. Her best previous speed was 23.90 knots an hour. The best eastward daily average for the Lusitania is 23.62. The best day's run was 575 knots, with an average of 24.77 an hour. This was made on Tuesday. It had been equaled before, however, for on January 29 the Mauretania covered the same distance in a day while bound west.

WANDERERS EASY WINNERS.

The Montreal Team Captures the Stanley Cup.

Tommy Burns Injured and May Not be Able to Fight Roche on Tuesday Next—A Bad Spill at New Orleans Yesterday.

Montreal, March 13.—The Wanderers and Maple Leafs of Winnipeg played the second game for the Stanley cup last night at the Arena, before a fair-sized audience, the Wanderers winning by 9 to 3. Both teams were the same line up as Tuesday night, but the Maple Leafs played much better hockey and the game was a great deal better exhibition than the former one. Not so many off-sides occurred, and, although the ice was soft, it was very fast. The Maple Leafs started the first half by scoring in six minutes after some very pretty combination work and repeated the trick again in one minute. Shore doing the scoring on both occasions. The Wanderers then scored three goals, making the score at half time 3 to 2 in favor of the Wanderers. Small, Glass and Ross of the Wanderers were ruled off for roughing it, the latter being off twice, while Campbell and Forrester of the Leafs were off for trivial offences.

The second half started off at lightning speed and was clearly all Wanderers, as the score indicates, although Hern was called upon to stop several hot ones, Winchester had treble the number. Considerable delay was caused by accidents, Small being the chief sufferer. The Wanderers scored five goals in the second half before the Maple Leafs tallied, they scoring the 11th goal in one minute, Lake doing the scoring. Then Wanderers scored again, making the total score 9 to 3. Total goals scored for both games, Wanderers 20 Maple Leafs 8.

HOCKEY PLAYER FINED.

Simcoe, March 13.—Frank Smith, who was charged with assaulting Harry Ferris, the hockey player in a hockey game between Victoria and Port Dover here on March 4, and who was remanded until the 11th for trial, was fined $10 and costs by Police Magistrate Beemer yesterday.

RINGERS AT BELLEVILLE.

Belleville, March 13.—The hockey season was wound up here last night by a game in the City League between the Lehigh and Bankers, which ended in a tie for the city championship. Both teams had strengthened up for tonight's game, the Bankers importing Koyle, the fast Lindsay Midget, and the Lehighs bringing down the Moffit brothers, from Cobourg. A most exciting and very close game resulted, there being no score at half or full time. After a short rest, in extra time, Koyle, for the Bankers, scored unassisted, taking the puck from point right up to the Lehigh goal, and scoring the only goal of the evening.

Cobalt, March 13.—Cobalt ice races opened yesterday with three classes. The half-mile track on Cobalt Lake, immediately in front of the town, was in a very slow condition owing to the mild weather. JOCKEY HURT.

New Orleans, La., March 13.—Three jockeys fell after the start of the seventh race at the Fair Grounds yesterday when their mounts stumbled in the rush. Jockeys Henry, Leibert and Hoffman fell, and Hoffman was painfully hurt. Green Seal, a 7 to 10 favorite, in the sixth race, finished third.

SADDLE AND SULKY.

Angelus, Burlew & O'Neill's second string for the Derby is said to have worked a mile in 1:30 2/5 at New Orleans this week. The Derby will be run to-morrow.

Simcoe, the Toddington—Luckless colt that was second at 40 to 1 in the two-year-old race at New Orleans yesterday, is trained by "Doc" Graydon. This was his first start. Simcoe is owned by Mr. J. H. Madigan, of the Niagara Jockey Club, the new owners of the Fort Erie track, and was named by Mr. Madigan for his old home in Simcoe.

A curious incident occurred in connection with the Tongariro Hack Handicap at the Wellington Cup meeting in January, says a New Zealand paper. Through some mistake the totalizer kept open till after the conclusion of the race, which Suttice won. The race had to be run again, and Culmination, who had previously missed a place, won easily.

Sir Archibald, who is at present favorite for the Derby at 5 to 1, will be ridden in the race by Mr. George Thurstby, a wealthy amateur rider, whose brother is Sir John Thurstby. Twice Mr. Thurstby has ridden mounts into second place in the Derby—on John o' Gaunt and in Picton. Sixty years ago an amateur who was a lawyer by profession rode his mount into third place.

"Joe" Thompson, the Australian book-maker, is reported as laying some very large double event wagers in the London clubs on fancied candidates for the Lincolnshire Handicap and Liverpool Grand National. Land League is favorite at 6 to 1 for the first named, and Tow West, at 10 to 1, is first choice for the Grand National. He has laid 10,000 to 90 in a double against these two.

HAS BAD EYE.

Tommy Burns Met With a Slight Accident.

London, March 12.—(C.A.P.)—Burns has met with an accident to his eye, which is inflamed. He hopes it will not interfere with his fight with Roche, in Ireland, next Tuesday, which is likely to be the stiffest he has fought here.

FIGHT MAY BE POSTPONED.

London, March 13.—(Noon.)—There is a possibility that the fight between Tommy Burns and Jim Roche, fixed to take place at Dublin on March 17, might have to be postponed. Burns met with an accident on Tuesday, which resulted in inflammation of the eye. The injury at first was considered slight, but since he has grown more serious, and a physician ordered that he be kept in a dark room for some days, Burns has written to the promoters of the fight asking them if they would consider a postponement of the fight, and expects an answer to this communication by to-night. No matter what this answer will be, it is Burns' intention to go to Dublin to-morrow.

BARRY AND BURNS.

Jim Barry, the young Chicago heavyweight, is willing to go to London and fight Tommy Burns for the $5,000 purse so widely discussed in the Jack Johnson negotiations.

Further than this, Barry will pay his own expenses of the trip to London and what it costs him to prepare for the battle.

Billy Gee, the Waukegan farmer, who once handled the managerial reins over Tommy Burns, has taken charge of Barry and will attempt to force him into a position where Burns will have to box him.

Failing to get a favorable reply to a cablegram to Burns, Gee will match Barry against Jack Johnson for a limited number of rounds, six to twenty, or even more, at any place where a suitable purse is offered. The winner of this match could then do business with Burns.

CRISPIN WON FROM HAWKES.

Exciting Roller Event at the Alexandra Last Night.

A series of roller skating races was given at the Alexandra rink last night, and were witnessed by an exceptionally large crowd. The most important race was a matched contest between George Crispin, of London, the champion roller skater of Canada, and Elmer Hawkes, of this city. On the second lap Hawkes fell and the London man won as he pleased. There were two other open races and these proved to be the exciting events. The one-mile race had eight entries and was run in heats. The first was won by L. Christie. In this heat Riggs fell, but got up quickly, after loss of many yards. He caught Christie, however, and in trying to pass him fell again.

The second heat was quite handily won by H. Culm and the final proved to be an interesting struggle. Christie led for six laps, but the pace was too fast, Culm passed him and won by three yards.

The two-mile event brought out four starters, including Riggs. Before the race was half over he had lapped them all and won easily. Peters was second. Manager Thomas presented Riggs and Culm with gold lockets.

The judges were Willie Dixon, F. Ross and C. Johnson. Manager Thomas and "Burlington" Smith were starters.

Nobody issued challenges to Crispin.

THE UNKNOWN LOST.

Sandy McMaster, the city roller skating champion, defeated the unknown in their race at the Britannia rink last night. The unknown showed up well, but he had trouble with his skates, and raced under difficulties. Both skaters fell, but regained their feet and finished. McMaster had a lead of about five yards at the finish. His time for the mile was 2:32. The judges were, James Barr, C. A. Berry and W. O'Brien. W. H. Daniels was timer and A. L. Smith starter and judge of the course.

Great preparations are being made by the rink management to accommodate the large crowd that will to-night witness the matched race between Walter McMichael, of Hamilton, and George

MAY BE THE LAST.

International Basketball Game Here on Monday Night.

Chances are that the game of basketball to be played at Alexandra rink on Monday night between New York and Hamilton will be the last international basketball played for some time, owing to the differences between the amateur athletic unions. The reserved seat plan is now on sale at Nordheimer's, King street west, and it is advisable for all to get seats as soon as possible, as a large crowd is anticipated. The local team will have a light work-out to-night at 6.30, at the Alexandra rink. This will be the final work-out in preparation for the big game. It will be a master of points and not baskets that will win the game on Monday night.

LADIES AT Y. M. C. A.

A good programme has been arranged for the "ladies' night" at the Y. M. C. A. to-night. The feature will be a basketball game between ladies, the teams being as follows:

Blacks—Ethe, Copeland, Elsie McNeil, Florie Austin, Jessie Slater, Nellie Hoover, Miss Booth, Miss Stouman.

Whites—Louise Chilman, Lizzie Warren, Flossie Goodman, Della Slater, Myrtle McCullough, Jessie Austin, Myrtle Vosper.

Bert McKay will referee.

PRESENTATION TO-NIGHT AT ROYAL.

Mr. Lou. Archambault, past president of the Canadian Bowlers' Association, and Mr. J. Casel will be in Hamilton to-night with the international trophy won by the Hamilton Bowling Club in the recent tournament at Toronto.

The presentation will be made to the club, and Mr. R. R. Simpson, the newly

COMMENT AND GOSSIP

Word was received from Fred Paige, of New York, this morning to the effect that he has signed five players at present in the south for the team which will represent Hamilton in the new International League. He will be here next week to arrange for the meeting of the league on March 25, when officers will be elected and a schedule will be prepared.

Mr. Paige has learned that the Brantford promoters have got cold feet; he says they backed up when told they would have to post a substantial forfeit. He is considering the advisability of taking another York State team in to fill the vacancy. Five cities are now assured, as follows: London, Guelph, Hamilton, Lockport and Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Perhaps Tommy Burns got some "green in his eye."

It's a good bet that Tommy Burns will keep his "good eye" on the box office at Dublin when the fight comes off.

Moran, the English featherweight, has received an offer from the National Sporting Club of London to meet Jim Driscoll in a twenty-round fight in June. Driscoll is now the featherweight champion of England and is considered to be the best man of his weight in England. He beat Jim Bowker for the championship, but has not had any important battles since.

As long as Tommy Burns doesn't get writers' cramp while preparing the copy for his books, the Canadian ring followers will not become uneasy.

The fair daughters of Chicago are elect president of the association, in the Royal Hotel parlors at 8 o'clock. All local bowlers are invited to attend.

SHORT ENDS.

Little Paragraphs of Sport From Far and Near.

It being impossible for the Balmly Beach Gun Club of Toronto to shoot here to-morrow afternoon, the Hamilton Gun Club will hold a practice shoot, as a number of the shooters are desirous of attending the Brantford shoot on March 17 and 18.

Kansas City, Mo., March 13.—Frank Gotch, the champion American wrestler, last night defeated Hjalmer Lundin, the Swedish champion, in two straight falls. The first fall, catch-as-catch-can, consumed 12½ minutes, while the second bout, Grace-Roman style, lasted 17 minutes.

Indianapolis, March 13.—Jacob Schaefer and Willie Hoppe played two games of billiards here yesterday at 18.2 ball line. Hoppe was winner in both events. The afternoon score was: Hoppe, 300; high run, 104; average, 25. Schaefer, 97; high run, 11; average 8-9-11. The evening's score was: Hoppe, 400; high run, 102; average, 28 8-14. Schaefer, 270; high run, 87; average, 28 6-13.

The final game in the "Big Three" indoor league will be played tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Alexandra rink. The opposing teams will be Dr. Thompson's Tigers and the Bankers. An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged to defray the expenses.

Electricity in the Khyber Pass and the Land of Llamas.

There is a plan for utilizing the tremendous force which lies beyond the Khyber Pass in the wasted waters of Afghanistan. It is proposed to supply electricity for lighting the forts and military cantonments scattered over a large territory and also for the stations and yards along the railway lines. The enterprise contemplates the construction of trolley lines spreading out through the dense population of northern India and an electric railway from Peshawar up the Khyber Pass to the British outpost station there. When I write this article this project is receiving favorable consideration from the British Government. In some form within the next few years it will be adopted.

Apreros of the Himalayas and the progress of electricity a query is raised regarding Tibet. Is the roof of the world less susceptible to this progress than the answer may be given that the conditions are not the same, for Kashmir is habitable by a large number of people, in altitudes ranging from 2,500 to 10,000 feet, while Tibet at 140,000 to 20,000 feet could not sustain a large population. Yet should the ultimate outcome of the British political mission to Lhasa with its military accompaniment be the prospecting of the Himalayas for gold, and discoveries of that precious metal be made, the water-power would be utilized as in the Kolar gold fields of Mysore.

The influence of the electrical element in one of its primary forms is already seen. During the British invasion the "lineman" was with the advance guard of the troops and communication with the rear was kept up by the telephone and telegraph apparatus. To-day remote recesses of the Chumbi valley in Tibet are in communication with the world's centres, London, New York, Hong Kong, for the messages are transmitted to Darjeeling, the Indian gateway to the Tibetan passes, re-telegraphed to Calcutta or Bombay and then cabled to their destination.—"From 'The West in the Orient'—Electricity the New Force in Old Lands," by Charles M. Pepper, in the February Scribner.

What Is An Amateur Driver.

"Under the rules of the League of Amateur Driving Clubs an amateur driver is designated as one who has not accepted wages or hire for his services as a trainer or driver and any member who competes for a purse or against professionals forfeits his amateur standing."

The new rule passed by the recent congress of the national association is likely to conflict in the arrangements of some of the clubs in future matinee racing and many well-known horsemen, who call themselves amateurs, and are recognized as such, would be barred under the league rules since they have driven for money or competed against professionals.

The rule defining an amateur in force in the Belmont Driving Club, of Philadelphia, permits an owner to drive his own horse or other person's horse. To avoid conflict in the future, thinks the Philadelphia Record, it would be advisable for committees appointed by all the clubs to meet and settle the question by adopting a uniform rule to cover the case.

The Sports of the Times says: "The genuine amateur is a gentleman who loves the sport for itself, who does not expect to make a profit out of his own pastime and certainly would not accept remuneration even indirectly through the performances of his horses or his own driving."

"The lines between amateur and professional racing should be sharply and clearly drawn, because if it once becomes understood that amateur races are merely preliminary workouts for horses which are being headed for the professional tracks, and that as soon as the amateur owner or driver has got the horse track wise and race wise, a professional driver will take him on the circuit, the real dignity and honor of amateur sport will be dealt.

"Even the commercial idea will be comparatively a failure, if it is true that the horse has no record, but if it trots in 2:10 or 2:12 it will be duly noted, as the astute amateur will soon find, there are a dozen Richmonds in the fields besides himself."

Neglecting the Horse Industry.

From the Canadian Sportsman: As the session of the legislature progresses much business has been outlined, but so far the horse has received but scant attention. Electrical development is all very well in its way, but it should mean no means be the sole aim and object of the Ontario Government to provide cheap power for the people. We take the liberty of suggesting that an actual as set of $80,000,000 is worth a little more official attention than a brief allusion once a year by the Minister of Agriculture at a banquet given by the Horse Breeders' Association.

Again, it is not amiss to jog the memory of Premier Whitney who made a distinct promise that if elected to office he would introduce a liberal programme in connection with the horse breeding interests. So far he has proved himself possessed of a treacherous memory. The question will down. He may postpone its consideration, but sooner or later he will be forced to deal with one of the most important live subjects of the present day.

CONFIDENCE OF BOXERS.

In no athlete more than the boxer or fighter is the quality of confidence so predominant. He may be defeated by the knockout process or overwhelmingly outclassed, but the next day bobs up serenely with the idea that it was the chance blow or a combination of adverse circumstances that proved his undoing.

Before the battle, Jack Palmer, the Englishman, thought his chances with Burns were good. From his training quarters he wrote to his brother in America a letter that is almost pathetic in the faith he was placing in himself:

Dear Brother Joe: Received the papers and clippings. They were good. The clipping saying that the match was a huge joke made a bit with us. My curved legs seemed to be funny to the writer. Well, Joe, I am as good as I ever was in my life, and I'm going to stay—oh, a long time—with Burns.

I will weigh about 180 in the ring and will be good and fit. Father, here at the quarters, has never seen a prize fight. It will be a treat to him, and I have arranged to take him in with me.

The sporting writers in the States seem to class me with Moir, I admit me, Joe, he was a big quince, but not me, Joe. Don't be surprised if you see my number go up. Burns is so short and his poor form in allowing Moir to go ten rounds makes me certain of victory. That was a mistake about me boxing with Bobby Dobbs. I only boxed one colored man in my life, and he was Frank Craig, the "Coffee Cooler," and I knocked him out after a good licking.

Burns is matched to fight Roche in Dublin. Well, young John L. Sullivan of Boston licked him in 19 rounds and fought two 20-round fights with him. That's 59 rounds it took Roche. You know how I licked Sudda. Get on a bet on Burns at any odds. Roche is too short and fat to get ground.

On the 16th, when I box Burns, it will be exactly twelve months since I left the States. Tell Sister Nora that I will have the green cash on that night for luck. Best wishes for all. Don't be afraid, Joe, I will be there for a long time with Burns. Remember that now. Jack.

firm, and is intended to connect the colliers of the Societe de l'Industrie Charbonniere et Miniere de Turkestan, situated about 80 miles from Samarcand, Russian Turkestan, with the nearest railway station. Hitherto the coal has been transported by camels, the journey, on account of the very hilly district, occupying five days. The new ropeway, which will be 34 miles long, is intended to carry from eight to ten million pounds a year, and the trolleys, which will each hold 20 pounds, will travel at a speed of six miles an hour.

Flossie's Choice.

Flossie had been presented with a box of French candy.

"Now, Flossie," said her mother, "you have eaten all that you ought to. You can have one piece more and then we will put the box away until to-morrow."

"May I have any piece I like?" asked Flossie.

"Yes; take the kind you like best."

Flossie hesitated. "Well, mamma," she said, finally, "if I take the kind I don't like best may I have two pieces?"

It is probable that when the Provincial Treasurer lays before the Legislature his supplementary estimates they will be found to contain a provision for the taking over by the Government of the Ontario Veterinary College.

THE TRADE OF HONGKONG.

Germans Very Much in Evidence in Chinese City.

In Deutsche Rundschau it is stated that Hongkong is an ideal colony. Germans are there very much in evidence, and German colonization is going on apace. Last year 17,000 ships entered the port, of some four and a quarter million tons burden. This does not include the huge number of Chinese boats and junks. The total yearly trade in this free port is reckoned at a thousand million marks, and the total exports are not equalled by any seaport in the world. The British lead there in trade, followed by the Chinese; then come the Germans, the Japanese, the French, the Americans, the Norwegians, the Austrians, the Danes, the Belgians, the Swedes, and last of all, the Portuguese. It is interesting to note that the Dutch and Portuguese trade has fallen off, while the German and Japanese have increased, although not anywhere near the British. Russia has her own ports and is connected by land with China, so the volume of her trade through Hongkong is very small.

KING OF BURGLARS CAUGHT AT LAST.

ENGLISH CRACKSMAN WHO EMPLOYED EIGHT ASSISTANTS.

Autocrat of Crime—"Business" Maxims Which He Taught His Pupils.

(London Daily Mail.)

Not since the days of Charles Peace have London detectives encountered a cracksmen of such consummate cunning and skill as Emmanuel Hill, the Wandsworth "master burglar" and employer of eight journeyman robbers, who has been sentenced to three and a half years' penal servitude at Newington sessions, in the name of Joseph Hebburn.

"Manny," as his staff of thieves called him, invoked a terrible fate upon his judges as he descended to the cells. Among his evil associates in the Wandsworth Warren of thievish dens, where "Manny" moved like a veritable king of crime, his absence is bitterly lamented. They are already counting the months till he will resume business and enrich the criminal community with his gains. There used to be great nights of revelry when "Manny" turned his booty into cash.

Charles Peace was "Manny's" model. He advised his young hopefuls to study that arch-criminal's methods, bidding them keep in friendly touch with the police, so as to avert suspicion. "That's the way to mesmerize them," he used to say. Peace pursued this policy for years, manifesting the greatest interest in the discovery of burglaries committed by himself, even volunteering to assist the police.

But there was this difference between Charles Peace and Emmanuel Hill: The officers never suspected Peace. His crimes were committed in districts widely apart. He prowled over half the country.

"Manny" Hill never travelled far. His hunting-ground was the neighborhood of Wandsworth and Putney, where as a boy he had run wild, acquainting himself with every hiding-place and practically every backyard and villa of the district. For ten years he had known every policeman and detective, and they had all known him. During the recent epidemic of burglaries in Putney and Wandsworth the police knew that "Manny" and his men were "working," as the phrase goes. "Manny" knew that they suspected him; but, as an officer remarked, "his impudence was lovely."

He would stop police officers in the street at all hours of the day and night and say, "I see the boys have been at it again. Too smart for you, eh?" The "boys" were "Manny's" men. His brain directed the enterprise, prepared the plans, and arranged for the quick disposal of the loot.

As an employer of labor—burglary being his line of business—"Manny" was generous and just in dividing the profits. "Share and share alike" was his motto. He believed in honor among thieves, as a safeguard against jealousy or discontent, which might have led to "splitting"—the slang term for giving information to the police.

Hence his men were loyal as the French army to Napoleon. They were hero-worshippers, and "Manny" was their generalissimo. His word was law. At any moment they were ready to trust him with their liberty. They called him their "boss," as men in wretcheder pursuits speak of their "chief." He had filled their looting, good-for-nothing lives with the spice of adventure. The stratagem, ingenuity, dash, and daring involved in "Manny's" plots fascinated them, till burglary was in their blood.

An officer who could not withhold admiration from "Manny," described him as a born thief, cunning as a fox, agile as a monkey, and bold as a lion. As a general he kept aloof from the fighting line, directing the battle out of range of the guns, so Emmanuel Hill of ten dispatched his men to ransack a villa or shed while he remained concealed near, to aid them with his counsel or his courage as required.

From inquiries here and there among "Manny's" associates, the following may be given as the master burglar's standing orders to his staff of thieves—the rules of the firm.

Falling ready money, jewelry in the most conveniently portable spoil. Never take anything that bulges out of your pockets, because in that way the suspicion of the police is aroused.

Always clear out at the first sign or sound of danger. Take no risks. There is no need of hurry. What cannot be done one night can be all the easier done the next.

Boots must always be taken off before bedrooms are entered. It is best to crawl on hands and knees. If beer or whiskey or wine is found in the house it must not on any account be consumed on the premises.

Never drink with strangers; only with members of the firm. Beer brings about trouble. On leaving a house never forget to close the street door. An open door attracts the police.

Never carry a jemmy after 9 o'clock at night. Take your jemmy to the marked shop or house in the day time, and hide it somewhere near, carefully marking the spot.

When the job is done, hide the jemmy again. It will come in handy some other time. The rules relating to the hiding of the jemmy was "Manny's" masterpiece of cunning. He knew all about the law which made a person liable to arrest who was found with a housebreaking tool in his possession after 9 o'clock at night. It would have been dangerous in the extreme for him to have neglected this precaution, in view of his habit of talking freely with the police.

In all parts of the district jemmys were found, in some cases at a house that had been broken into months before.

Not even when arrested and sent to penal servitude was a jemmy found in "Manny's" possession. The only weapon he carried was an ordinary workman's white pocket-knife, with some slip of green paper on the blade. It had apparently been used for inserting between window frames for the purpose of turning back the catches, and so admitting "Manny" himself.

Every member of his men in every sense of the word, "Manny" was the strictest and strictest of the gang. When windows had to be entered the delicate work was undertaken by himself. Where a cat could climb he could creep. His sand and wily frame enabled him to wriggle noiselessly through a hole that would have made a cat bend its back. This done, he would silently open the door, and admit one, or perhaps two, of his men. While the "job" was on hand the others would be counting.

On "Manny's" staff was a black man, said to be endowed with all the instinctive tracking skill of the Australian native. The negro, however, was sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment some time ago, and "Manny's" friends say that the "Boss" would never have been caught if "Darkie" had been on the look-out.

This brings the narrative down to the arrest of "Manny" himself, the master burglar, whose incarceration till the year 1911 gives the Wandsworth detectives, as well as the residents of that suburb, good reason to have a sigh of relief. For the past month they have been out of their beds at all hours to catch "Manny" red-handed. Recourse had even been had to the device of importing new men unknown to "Manny," in the hope of outwitting the wily felon. But he soon discovered the importations, and warned his gang that fresh detectives had been led into Wandsworth and Putney for their special benefit. It added zest to "Manny's" sport, and still fresh burglaries were reported.

Then in the simplest way the long arm of the law took a firm hold of the master. It was not a plain clothes man who ran him to earth, but Police-Sergeant 99 V in uniform. Meeting "Manny" and one of his merry men in the small hours of the morning, he had a good look at the pair, knowing quite well who they were, and feeling equally sure that they were cleverly coming from a "job" or going to one.

On "Manny's" back were traces of whitening or plaster. This, added to the fact that the disciple of Charles Peace did not come up and speak, being apparently in an unusual hurry, induced the sergeant to make a dash, and, seizing the bold burglar, he soon landed his captive at the station. He had in his pocket £8 17s. 6d., contained in a linen bag. He had no jemmy, only his faithful white pocket-knife. The police insisted that "Manny" should spend the night at the station, and in the meantime his assistant, who had escaped, was tracked to his lair.

It was a small piece of paper, with the name "Miss Snook" written on it, that proved "Manny's" undoing. Mainly by this trifle was guilt brought home to him. The working up of evidence was entrusted to Detective-Sergeant Davies, an intelligent young officer. A burglary had taken place at a large shop in Putney, near L. S. W. station. Exactly £8 17s. 6d. was taken in cash. Among the money was a half sovereign belonging to a young woman employed there. This coin was wrapped in paper, bearing the young woman's name.

Every penny of the money was found in "Manny's" possession and restored to the proprietors of the shop. Three convincing evidences of "Manny's" guilt were: the fact that the money found on him corresponded with the money missing, the paper in which the half sovereign was wrapped, and the linen money bag, which the shop people easily identified. And so it was that the crafty master burglar, the idol of his associates, the terror of the district, and the tormentor of the police, ultimately fell a prey to the shrewdness of an officer in uniform and to his own blunder in not disposing of the bag and the paper. To effect an entrance to this shop "Manny" and his men clambered over a wooden gate eight feet high, the top of which was covered with six-inch spikes.

Emmanuel Hill, or "Manny," is only twenty-five years of age. The sentence he is now beginning to serve is his tenth and longest.

DEPORTED HIM.

BIGAMIST JACOB SWARTSBURG SENT BACK TO UNITED STATES.

Story of His Marriage With a Cashier of a Montreal Hotel and His Arrest for Bigamy Within a Few Hours After the Ceremony.

Montreal, March 12.—Jacob Swartsburg was liberated from jail yesterday and was deported to the United States to-day. Swartsburg was arrested in February, 1907, and sentenced to two years' imprisonment for bigamy. Two months prior to his conviction Swartsburg arrived from Norwich, Conn., in the capacity of a detective for the purpose of shadowing a criminal. While in the city he fell in love with the cashier of a local hotel, who, despite his mother's advice, consented to marry Swartsburg without making any inquiry into his family history.

The wedding was a grand affair, and created a good deal of talk. On the following day, and just when the couple were about to start on their honeymoon, Chief Carpenter received a telegram from the brother of the bride, who had travelled to Norwich, stating that Swartsburg was a married man, and had a wife and four children living in that city.

Detective John McLaughlin and McCall hurried to the hotel, and were just in time to arrest Swartsburg. He was convicted, but liberated yesterday and deported.

A TRANSLATING MACHINE.

Wonderful Invention of Columbia University Student.

New York, March 12.—Donald H. Miller, a Columbia student, has invented a machine to translate mysterious Chinese into English by the mere touching of keys resembling those on a typewriter. Miller also says it will translate any other language. Professor of Oriental languages at Columbia have had scores of midnight conferences in young Miller's rooms, investigating his remarkable discovery and experimenting with it.

As a result they yesterday announced that they believed the machine practicable, and that it would eventually revolutionize trade with China. The contrivance resembles an adding machine. It has keys bearing Chinese characters. When the key is struck type on the other end leaves in the paper an impression of all the possible meanings of the character.

Miller has been a student of Chinese for two years. He was graduated from Columbia last summer, but is continuing his work in order to obtain a degree of Ph.D.

London, March 12.—W. W. Astor has imparted another impetus to the Oxford University endowment fund, which was inaugurated by Lord Curzon on his election to the Chancellorship of the university. Mr. Astor originally promised to give $50,000 when the fund reached the total of $500,000. He now promises to give $100,000 when the fund reaches this amount. The present total of the fund is $375,000.

Fun for Times Readers

Robert Henri, the artist, was among the crowd at a large private view of new pictures in New York not long ago, and was pausing before a portrait by Sargent, when he noticed a big, brawny man, who looked like anything but an artist, engaged in admiration of the same canvas and muttering: "They have given me a good picture, eh?" Henri grew interested immediately. "You are in this sort of work?" he asked.

"Been in it for twenty years," asserted the stranger, "and this is the first time I ever got on the line." "Ah, indeed!" echoed the now thoroughly interested artist. "And where is your picture?"

The stranger pointed to the Sargent. "Right there," he responded. "That?" said Henri. "Why, Sargent painted that!" "Painted it!" sniffed the brawny man. "Yes, I think Sargent was the name of the man that painted it, but it was me made the frame."

A country clergyman on his round of visits interviewed a youngster as to his acquaintance with Bible stories. "My lad," he said, "you have, of course, heard of the parables?" "Yes, sir," shyly answered the boy, whose mother had inducted him in sacred history. "Yes, sir." "Good!" said the clergyman. "Now, which of them do you like the best of all?"

The boy squirmed, but at last, heeding his mother's frowns, he replied: "I guess I like that one where somebody loafs and fishes."

During the hour of the spelling lesson the teacher of the primary class slowly pronounced the words, while the small persons in front of her laboriously wrote them down. According to the usual custom, she called for volunteers to define each word as it was pronounced. "Lunch, how can you tell me what lunch is?"

There was a long period of silence, then a hand went up. "Well, Johnny, you may tell us what a lunch is."

"Please, ma'am," said Johnny, "please, ma'am, a lunch is what you have for dinner when your father ain't at home!"

SWEEPS BRITAIN.

CHURCHES UNROOFOED AND TRAIN BLOWN INTO A BOG.

Thirteen Lives Lost—Football Grand Stands Wrecked—£20,000 Damage to Mill.

(London Daily Mail.)

One of the most violent and sudden gales of recent years swept down from the northwest over the British Isles on Saturday afternoon. In the Midlands and north it left a track of destruction causing thousands of pounds' damage and the loss of thirteen lives.

Thunder and lightning accompanied the gale, which swept across country at sixty miles an hour with gusts reaching at times between eighty and a hundred miles. Hail fell so thickly in places that the air was darkened. Snow fell in the north, but in most districts it was a deluge of rain flooding rivers and streets. Telegraph, telephone and electric tramway wires, roofs of factories, houses, and churches, football grand stands, rifle and golf pavilions, vessels and lightships, and even the ancient stone market cross of Halesowen, weighing several tons, were swept off and wrecked. Three carriages on an exposed railway viaduct in Donegal were almost blown over the parapet, hanging at an angle of forty-five degrees. The engine kept the line and the passengers escaped.

The death toll is as follows: Mr. Tom Cook, chairman Caistor Board of Guardians, found dead beneath a hoarding, having evidently sought refuge beside it before it collapsed.

Joseph Clough, fatally injured by hoarding in Loughborough, N. Worcester-shire village, killed by chimney falling through the roof while tending two sick children, who escaped.

Mrs. Rebecca Segal, wife of restaurateur, Manchester, killed by debris from chimney falling through roof of shop; servant had miraculous escape.

Isaac Stacey, miller, killed by collapse of wooden mill at Tarrington St. John, Wisbech.

Man killed at Kilmarnock by collapse of wall.

Tom Venn, signalman, Venn Cross, Devon, cut to pieces by train whose approach the gale prevented him from hearing.

Four of the crew missing from the wreck of the Barrow schooner Richard Fisher, struck by squall in Upper Mersey.

Edward Wright, Sheerness piermaster's son, drowned in stepping into his boat.

Captain Blewitt, drowned in schooner Deang Wave, which foundered after collision with a brigantine at Sheerness.

At the height of the gale, especially in the Midlands, it was only at the peril of life that one would walk in the streets. Plate glass windows were smashed in, chimneys, slates, tiles, and pieces of roof falling, hoardings and trees collapsing, and whole houses, as in the case of two old buildings in Dublin, being wrecked.

Some strange forms of accident are recorded. Constable Maguire, Belfast, was blown under a tramway car and his skull fractured. Martin Glynn was pushing a wheel-board in Grimsby when it was caught up and then dropped on him; he was taken to hospital unconscious. A bullock shed in Whittingham fell and fractured his thigh. A corrugated iron roof broke the leg of a motor-cyclist near Peterborough. Mrs. Atkinson, mother of the Rev. T. Atkinson, Birmingham, had a leg broken by roof debris, and a woman was blown over and stunned at Brighton.

Perhaps the worst case of damage to a church was that of the Abbey Church of Sempringham, of Gilbertine fame, about a mile from Hillingborough, Lincolnshire. Three massive crocketed pinnacles were blown from the tower and crashed through the chancel roof. It is estimated that a ton of masonry fell into the sacrum, smashing the altar rails and damaging the communion table and reredos. The roof of a church at Spalding was wrecked at St. Margaret's, Birmingham, suffered similarly. The spires of St. Matthew's, Holbeck, Leeds, and of Nery Church were badly damaged.

The entire roof of St. Lawrence's Schools, Dartmouth-street, Birmingham, was blown in, children in the gymnasium having only time to escape. The roofs of the Gaiety Music Hall and the Smithfield Market were more or less seriously damaged. Railway traffic on the Great Western line from Wolverhampton was temporarily suspended owing to a heavy fall of debris. At Duke street, Police Station the roof of one of the dormitories fell in. Two trees blocked Norfolk-road and had to be cut in two to allow traffic to proceed. In Jamaica-row the fall of a hoarding fell on the tramway service.

The sliding roof of Coventry Hippodrome was carried off, and a whole roof, 200 ft. by 60 ft., of the Haywood Forge, Halesowen, was blown 200 yards away, in an open-air market at Skegness a jockey's bench was lifted up by a gust the roof, laths, and tiles of a new girl's home were swept off, and a gust travelled through one house from west to east, damaging the bay window facing the sea.

Four hundred children were enveloped in the collapse of a circus tent at Snettisham, Stafford, and a picnic was only narrowly averted. The Alexandra Theatre, Ashley-de-la-Zouch, was blown down, but 100 children got out before the roof fell. Fine old trees were uprooted on all sides. Scores of fires on the King's Sandringham estate suffered, and at Market Drayton the damage of this nature was particularly severe.

At Cleverly, Donagel, carriages were blown off the railway and now hang over a bog. The passengers escaped. The Menai Suspension Bridge was blown free from its attachments and swung eighteen inches clear on its chains. On the line between Ouseby and Elton a stay post to a signal was uprooted and swung into a train, damaging a carriage. At Coxhoe, Durham, a goods truck was blown from a siding to the main line, struck by a passenger engine and thrown into a field.

Both players and spectators were endangered at football matches where they were not stopped as in Derbyshire, by the accompanying darkness of the hall. At Birmingham a mass of wood and iron work was hurled into waste ground. The roof of the Balmoral grand stand, Belfast where the Ireland-Wales international will be played next month, was blown into a field near.

Of thirty people hurled into a field by the wreck of the football grand stand at Lincoln, one named Cooper was taken to hospital. Three persons were removed unconscious from head wounds caused by the fall of a hoarding at the Grimsby football tie.

At Bradford a horse was overturned, but the coffin was little damaged, and the funeral proceeded. At Consett a PUBLIC WORKS EXPENDITURES.

Government Accused of Building Wharves For Votes.

Asked to Point Out Works That Were Unnecessary.

Osler Accused of Making False Statements.

Ottawa, March 12.—After a quiet afternoon the House to-night indulged in a political debate precipitated on a resolution offered in amendment to Hon. Mr. Fielding's motion to go into supply, by Mr. Perley. Opportunity was afforded during the course of the evening for effective speeches by Hon. William Pugsley and Hon. W. S. Fielding in reply to the usual scandal and obstructive warfare of the Opposition.

At 2 o'clock the debate was still in progress. Hon. A. B. Aylesworth introduced a bill to amend the Supreme Court Act. It was brought in, he explained, at the request of the Judges, to meet the convenience chiefly of legal gentlemen of Quebec, who found that hearings in the Supreme Court, as at present arranged, often conflict with the sittings of the Quebec courts.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, answering Mr. Porter, said that during the year ending March 31, 1908, there had been forty-eight prosecutions and forty-eight convictions for infringement of the Fruit Marks Act. Some persons were twice convicted and one three times.

Admiralty Jurisdiction.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth moved in committee: "That it is expedient to make better provision for the exercise of Admiralty jurisdiction within Canada, in accordance with the colonial Courts of Admiralty Act, 1890; also to provide that by way of compensation for loss of salary or emoluments of office there may be granted to each of the present Judges in Admiralty of the Exchequer Court who had office on the first day of September, 1907, and to the Marshal of the Quebec Admiralty district an annuity equal to two-thirds of his salary; to the Registrar of the Toronto Admiralty district the sum of $1,000; to the Registrar of the Nova Scotia Admiralty district the sum of $1,250, and to the Registrar of the Brunswick Admiralty district the sum of $1,500."

He explained that the present system of Admiralty jurisdiction was not satisfactory. The bill, which would be introduced following the passing of the resolution, would take away from the Exchequer Court anomalous jurisdiction in Admiralty and confer it upon the various courts of civil jurisdiction in the different Provinces. It was not proposed to interfere in the slightest degree with the jurisdiction of Admiralty courts, and, with the exception of local Admiralty Judges in Nova Scotia, Ontario, and Quebec who were not members of the Superior Courts of their respective Provinces, there would be no changes in the personnel of Admiralty Judges. For these Judges there was a provision for compensation.

Mr. Borden failed to see any good grounds for the proposals embodied in the resolution. The present Admiralty system had been in operation for seven or eight years, and had worked well and should not be departed from.

Mr. Porter also opposed the resolution. Mr. German claimed that in Ontario, at any rate, there were good reasons for the proposed change.

Mr. Gervais opposed the bill on the ground that if the jurisdiction of the Admiralty Court was transferred to the Superior Courts it would be to the detriment of the interested parties.

Public Works Criticized.

On motion to go into supply, Mr. Perley moved an amendment condemning the Government on the ground that public money had been expended on works which were for the benefit of favored corporations and private individuals, and not for the public benefit. Mr. Perley admitted that a reasonable growth of expenditure by the Public Works Department would be expected, but he maintained that large sums of money had been spent on works that were unnecessary.

Mr. Girard, member for Chicoutimi, speaking in French, declared that the wharves at Chicoutimi to be a public work, and he talked about it. Eight thousand Ross rifles have been distributed and are in use.

Dr. Reid criticized all the departments, arguing that they were being mismanaged, and that there was graft. Sir Frederick Borden—the hon. gentleman absolutely does not know what he is talking about. Eight thousand Ross rifles have been distributed and are in use.

Mr. Fielding—But the hon. gentleman will not say what part of Nova Scotia he visited. Mr. Osler—I made the statement.

Mr. Fielding—But the hon. gentleman will not say what part of Nova Scotia he visited. Surely my hon. friend is not going to allow himself to remain in this position. I think he is not doing justice to himself when he makes a statement of that character, and when challenged refuses to state even the county of Nova Scotia to which he referred.

Mr. Borden—I do not think the Finance Minister has any reason to show so much temper, nor do I think the hon. Minister is in accordance with Parliamentary rules. I think the Finance Minister should take care of his remarks that the statement of the hon. member for West Toronto was scandalously untrue.

Mr. Fielding—By their action, they were forced by Mr. Osler's challenge to say what he had said, and what he had drawn them. Mr. Osler had made statements that were absolutely unwarranted. He had stated that the estimates proved that certain items in Queen's and Shelburne had been dangled before the hon. member's eyes. What right, asked the Finance Minister, has the hon. member for West Toronto to say that motives are in the minds of the members of this side of the House? How can he read what is in their minds?

Mr. Osler—By their action, they were forced by Mr. Osler's challenge to say what he had said, and what he had drawn them. Mr. Osler had made statements that were absolutely unwarranted. He had stated that the estimates proved that certain items in Queen's and Shelburne had been dangled before the hon. member's eyes. What right, asked the Finance Minister, has the hon. member for West Toronto to say that motives are in the minds of the members of this side of the House? How can he read what is in their minds?

Mr. Fielding—The hon. gentleman can point to no occasion which would justify his remark. We have a right to expect more consideration from him. He does not visit us so often as we might expect, but when he does come he might at least conduct himself with a little more fairness and a little more consideration.

Turning to the assertion of Mr. Per-le necessary public works, but these were being carried on in the best manner, and with the service of the public interests only in view. As stated in the House yesterday, thirty-one post offices were now under construction in various parts of the country. He challenged hon. gentlemen to put a finger on one of those and say it should not be built. It was all very well for them to speak of the largeness of the expenditure and to talk of extravagance, but he wanted to know if any one of them had the courage to say that it was against the public interest that these necessary works should be undertaken.

When Mr. Osler rose there were cries from the Liberal benches of "Now we are going to get it." Mr. Osler began by stating that there was no one so absolutely the favor of spending public money for the benefit of the country as himself.

A Liberal member—The C. P. R., for instance.

Mr. Osler—Had it not been for the fact that the C. P. R. had $20,000,000 in Canadian banks during the past crisis, where would this Government have been when they needed the money to pay and meet unpaid debts to all these contractors? The C. P. R. was the only thing that rescued them.

Hon. Mr. Fielding—What does the hon. gentleman mean by saying that the money of the C. P. R. came to this Government?

Mr. Osler—I say it enabled the banks to carry on the business of the country.

Mr. Fielding—That is not what you said. Do not mix the country with the Government.

Mr. Osler—I said the Government owed the money to this country.

Mr. Fielding—The Government owed nobody.

Mr. Osler—The Government through the Quebec Bridge Company borrowed $7,000,000 from this country.

Mr. Fielding—The hon. gentleman knows that it is not correct. The Government did not borrow it; it was borrowed by a corporation.

Mr. Osler—The Government bonds were guaranteed by the Government.

Mr. Fielding—I will correct the hon. gentleman at once. Loans were obtained by the Quebec Bridge Company covering a period of years with guaranteed bonds pledged as collateral. The Government never engaged to give the Quebec Bridge Company money, and never owed it to the bridge company at all. It was a matter of finance between the bridge company and its creditors, and was ultimately arranged to the satisfaction of everybody. Why does the hon. gentleman complain?

Mr. Johnston—This is a gravestone statesman now. (Laughter.)

Mr. Osler—There will be a lot of tombstones over there soon. (Laughter.) Proceeding, he asserted that one could not go down the St. Lawrence and enter the Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick without coming to the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick expenditure on public works was not in the public interest.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley—The hon. gentleman says that half the public works built by the Government are not in the public interest, and he included New Brunswick. Will he mention a single wharf in the Province of New Brunswick which is not in the public interest?

Mr. Osler evaded the challenge, and went on to protest against the expenditure of public money for what he called specific purposes.

Mr. Conmee severely scored Mr. Osler for his reckless assertions, pointing out that while he had made a general charge of spending money needlessly, he had not had the courage to mention one specific case.

Mr. Devlin stated that the wharf at Hull, which had been subjected to criticism by Mr. Perley, was a necessity, and had served for shipping immense amounts of cement and lumber, and had benefited the commercial and trade interests of the country.

Mr. Fowler argued that the Opposition did not object to necessary public works, but they objected to the wasteful expenditure of public money in connection with public works.

Mr. Clements, Dr. Walsh and Mr. Ganong joined in the criticisms of the Government.

Hon. W. S. Fielding, who arose at 12:30, said he had no intention of making a long address in reply to all that had been said, such as, for instance, the rather reckless statements of the member for Grenville (Dr. Reid), who declared that public works in Queen's and Shelburne were bribes dangled before the electors. He had, however, expected more consideration of public interests from Mr. Perley than that gentleman had shown. As to the criticism by Mr. Osler, he asked that gentleman if they were based on personal observation on the coast of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Osler—To a certain extent, yes. "I believe," said Mr. Fielding, "that the hon. gentleman makes a statement which are scoundrelly untrue." (Liberal cheer, and cries of order from the Opposition.) Continuing, Mr. Fielding said: "The hon. gentleman challenged me to say that they were untrue. I said I did not like to say that part of Nova Scotia he visited, because it was scandalous, but he forced me to use the expression. I withdraw it, however, in deference to Parliamentary rules. I am giving him an opportunity to show some grounds for his statements, but he will not even say what part of Nova Scotia he visited."

Mr. Osler—I made the statement.

Mr. Fielding—But the hon. gentleman will not say what part of Nova Scotia he visited. Surely my hon. friend is not going to allow himself to remain in this position. I think he is not doing justice to himself when he makes a statement of that character, and when challenged refuses to state even the county of Nova Scotia to which he referred.

Mr. Borden—I do not think the Finance Minister has any reason to show so much temper, nor do I think the hon. Minister is in accordance with Parliamentary rules. I think the Finance Minister should take care of his remarks that the statement of the hon. member for West Toronto was scandalously untrue.

Mr. Fielding—By their action, they were forced by Mr. Osler's challenge to say what he had said, and what he had drawn them. Mr. Osler had made statements that were absolutely unwarranted. He had stated that the estimates proved that certain items in Queen's and Shelburne had been dangled before the hon. member's eyes. What right, asked the Finance Minister, has the hon. member for West Toronto to say that motives are in the minds of the members of this side of the House? How can he read what is in their minds?

Mr. Fielding—The hon. gentleman can point to no occasion which would justify his remark. We have a right to expect more consideration from him. He does not visit us so often as we might expect, but when he does come he might at least conduct himself with a little more fairness and a little more consideration.

preserve their hair by wearing it in plaits worn round the head. Englishwomen exploit their hair, saying: "Look what luxuriant tresses I've got!" German women conceal theirs, we exploit ours. It improves our faces. Englishwomen always make the best of themselves. German women do her best. Again, a face without character has no beauty. And character implies self-restraint. But beauty is a matter of individual taste. A good figure is part and parcel of being beautiful. And a good figure (in the meaning of the word) means low heels. It depends on the height of the heels and the broadness of them. Low heels and flat heels for beauty and health. One should take pains of exercise, riding if possible, and eat plain food. That is for an athletic figure, and that is what I want.

The Hair and Good Looks.

Beauty is, of course, a relative term—just as pain is relative. I do not know that I can say very much about the best way to preserve it. One should take pains of exercise, riding if possible, and eat plain food. The majority of women pay too little attention to their hair, and do not brush it enough. Hair is essential to beauty. Badly kept hair gives one an unkempt look. I have looked down from a box and seen the stalls full of charmingly dressed women of beautiful appearance with untidy heads. It completely spoiled their effect. Good teeth are another necessity, and often one finds a truly handsome woman spoiled by her teeth, which may have been neglected in youth. Grease paints preserve the face, I am quite certain. Not only by reason of the fat they contain, but because you more or less massage your face as you apply it to your complexion. Actors and actresses, as a rule, have very good skins. I have often noticed this. Lastly, I must say that for real beauty perfect health is essential. You may get a kind of erotic, neurotic fascination from unbrushed—but as for the true beauty, health is the one thing that gives it. So the best way to preserve your beauty is to preserve yourself constitutionally and keep sound in mind and limb.

How to be Beautiful

Five Beautiful Women Give Five Effective Recipes London Daily Mail. "Not every woman wishes to be wealthy, but all women would with gladness accept the gift of beauty—that elusive attribute of flesh and soul, which no two people ever define alike," says a modern essayist. The definition of beauty does not trouble a woman. She is only concerned with possession. Some (as an American jury was asked to do recently) would, perhaps, refine it as an excellence of form, or face, or figure; but Miss Ellen Terry more nearly hits the mark, perhaps, when she declares that there is "no cosmetic like happiness"—an inner light of the mind radiating through this texture of flesh. Miss Terry tells us how every woman can be beautiful—even the plainest. And beautiful women tell us of other ways for lessening the ailments and interviews published below.

EXPERIMENTS WITH FARM CROPS.

The members of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union are pleased to state that for 1908 they are prepared to distribute into every township of Ontario material for lessons in the construction of political expediency and advantage. Mr. Johnston followed with a slashing attack upon Mr. Osler, and Mr. Blain continued the debate.

Anger Worse Than Smallpox.

I think there can be very little doubt that the best method of keeping one's complexion is accordingly preserved. I personally never feel as well as when working my hardest; it is so necessary to observe the strictest rules as regards hours, diet, etc., that the body becomes more or less a machine. When playing two performances daily I have so little time for anything but to take my meals, and plenty of sleep, that I really have not time to be anything but well, and when the body is well, the skin performs its natural functions, and one's complexion is accordingly preserved. Like beauty itself, a good complexion is a great gift, and it is only one's duty to preserve it as much as possible. It is nothing to be proud of, but to keep it good is something to be very proud of indeed.

Happiness the Best Cosmetic.

With regard to the question of how to preserve beauty, remarked Miss Terry to an interviewer the other day, I have observed that when people are forgetting themselves, or are engrossed in work, there comes a something or other into their faces that makes what I call beauty. For the preservation of actual face and figure there is, in my opinion, nothing like hard work. For a clear complexion, I believe in lots of open air and plenty of washing. Bathing! there's nothing like that. But, of course, being happy is the great thing, and if one is hard at work one is usually happy. Therefore, I come back to my original statement of hard work being a beautifier.

Brisk Walking vs. Beauty Doctors. (By Lily Elsie.) From my point of view, I think that to preserve beauty in the true sense we must preserve health, and I find that outdoor exercise is the most essential thing in keeping the body strong. It is the main thing of all. Walking, riding, fencing (which trains the nerves and muscles as perhaps no other sport), and the quickness of decision, mentally and physically, are the mainstays of health. A good game of golf is very good indeed, the brisk walking alone being very good for the circulation. Now, all these outdoor exercises give such splendid circulation. We all know how our cheeks glow and how the air oxygenates the blood and sends it tingling through the system. The good circulation means good digestion, and a clear complexion. I find also that after a hot or windy day's exercise in the open a good unscented cold-cream rubbed into the skin before retiring at night, and washed off afterwards in hot water is very beneficial. I know nothing of massage and all the rest of it for the complexion. It may be very good in its way. But if people would only be happy and contented, instead of worrying over the little ups and downs of daily life, as I see so very many do, I am sure the wrinkles which age so many young people need not appear before one gets quite old. For myself, I think that a regular life, moderate exercise and regular hours for meals go a very long way towards keeping one young and beautiful.

GREATEST INCREASE IN THE WEST END.

School Population Growing Twice as Rapidly as in the East End.

Need For Care, But Not For Scare, About Fire Protection in Schools.

The Board of Education last night spent considerable time in discussing the question of improving the condition of some of the Public Schools in the matter of protection against fire. Incidentally the question of improved sanitation and ventilation of two or three of the oldest schools was considered. Discussion commenced when the report of the Internal Management Committee was presented by Trustee Hobson. It contained the following recommendation:

"That the Building Committee be requested to place outside fire escapes on all three-story school buildings and on such others as in the judgment of the Building Committee may be necessary."

Before a motion to adopt the report was made the Chairman announced that a denunciation was present in regard to the condition of the Victoria Avenue school. Dr. Wickert was the spokesman and he told the Board of a visit of inspection which he had made to that school. He said so far as the children of the third story were concerned, the place was just as Trustee Booker had represented it to be—a fire trap. He recommended that the third story be not used until such times as a better means of exit were provided. The doctor pointed out that in many of the rooms the registers of the hot air furnace were close to the doors, and the children, in case of fire, would have to pass over them. One of the furnaces was also in a dangerous position—it being immediately under the main hallway. The hot air pipes in the cellar were very close to the woodwork, and some of the joints were charred, showing that there was a great danger of their becoming ignited if the furnace became overheated.

That other members of the deputation were Andrew Ross, F. C. McElroy and E. Truesdell.

Trustee Booker then told of the discoveries that he and Trustee Watkins had made on a recent visit to the school in company with Fire Chief Tom Eyck, which discoveries have already been reported in the press. Mr. Booker said the recent catastrophe in Collingwood, Ohio, had aroused him to investigate the conditions of the local schools, and the Fire Chief had assured him that further protection against fire should be made at the school in question. He moved that a special committee, which included himself, Mr. Watkins and Mr. Wood, be appointed to act in conjunction with the Internal Management Committee in improving the condition of the school.

Mr. Hobson, Chairman of the Internal Management Committee, said there was no need of alarming the citizens, and intimated that his committee would take steps to safeguard the lives of the children.

Mr. Allan announced that Major Higgins, who supervises drills in the various schools, had informed him that the Hess Street School was in a dangerous condition, so far as exits in case of fire were concerned. He said that the responsibility was now on the Board, as he had informed the members of what Inspector Higgins had told him.

After considerable discussion the motion for the appointing of a special committee in regard to the matter was defeated by a vote of seven to five, and the matter was left entirely in the hands of the Internal Management Committee. Some of the members did not vote on the motion.

The reports of the committees were then adopted. Following are clauses from the report of the Building Committee:

"That Stewart & Witton, architects, be engaged to prepare plans for the enlarging of Sophia street school by adding eight rooms as per sketch submitted, and that tenders be called for at once; also that the Finance Committee of the Board be requested to ask the City Council to issue debentures to cover the cost of same.

"That Stewart & Witton be instructed to make a sketch of the Picton street school, with a view of giving more school accommodation.

"That the Secretary be instructed to call for tenders for the erection of fire escapes on the Cannon, Hess and Victoria avenue schools.

"That six bells be procured for the Collegiate Institute, for fire alarm purposes."

Chairman Allan, of the Building Committee, said the estimated cost of the addition to the Sophia street school was $22,000, and the cost of adding six rooms to the Picton street school would be $25,000. To put up four fire escapes would cost about $3,400.

Trustee Grant suggested that as a technical school may have to be built shortly, the Board ask the City Council to issue $250,000 in debentures, so the matter of putting the school system in a first rate condition could be gone on with. The members did not approve of this action, however.

Trustee Watkins suggested that the plans for the fire escapes be submitted to the Provincial School Inspector before the contract is let. This was considered a good suggestion, and will be acted upon by Chairman Allan.

The following report from Inspector Ballard was referred to the Internal Management Committee:

"While the increase in the extreme northeast is very considerable, the total increase east of James street is only 2.2 per cent, as compared with 3 per cent west of James street. As to the two districts under consideration, I may say: In the district naturally served by the Sophia street school the returns show 967 pupils.

"The increase in attendance over last year is 4.23 per cent. But the percentage is unequally distributed thus:

"Southeast portion, south of King and east of James, shows no increase.

"The section north of King and east of James shows an increase of 5 per cent.

"The section north of King and west of James shows an increase of 7 per cent.

"The section south of King and west of James shows an increase of 4 per cent.

"Considering the present attendance and the rate of increase in this district the erection of eight additional rooms would be fully justified.

"In the district north of the G. T. R. served by the Picton street school the returns show 751 pupils.

"The upper rooms in Cannon street school have each a floor space less than half that in any of the modern schools, and are objectionable for other reasons, such as being third story rooms, and having insufficient protection against fire.

"The north rooms in Murray street school are each only a trifle more than half as large as a school room should be. Such changes could, however, be made as would make this a four-room school, each supplied with a cloak room and satisfactory in every way for occupation by public school classes.

"In the Hughson street school the west room is quite unfit for school purposes, so that the condition here reduces to that of maintaining a school for the use of a single room.

"The pupils on the north side of King street with the present number of rooms would make classes averaging 51.2 per cent, pupils each larger than those on the south side, and although this has been adjusted as far as possible by shifting pupils to the southward, the north side classes are still larger than those on the south side, notwithstanding the unsuitable condition of many of the north side rooms."

"The following clause in the report of the Finance Committee was withdrawn without comment:

"The Committee further recommends that the Board procure their annual supply of coal and wood through the City Council, on terms similar to last year."

SCORES SOCIALISM.

LORD ROSEBERY CONDEMNS PROTECTION AS AN EVIL.

A Source of Corruption—Preferable, Though, to Socialism—He Regrets Agitation Against Upper House—Never so Great Need for a Second Chamber as Now—Admits Need of Reform.

London, March 12.—"The active menace of Socialism" with which Great Britain is confronted was a prominent and striking feature of Lord Rosebery's Presidential address before the Liberal League this afternoon.

The former Premier was discussing the necessity of the league's increasing support of "sane Imperialism," in which categories he included the maintenance of the policy of free trade.

"Protection," Lord Rosebery declared, "is a great evil, a great tyranny, and a great source of corruption." Continuing, the speaker said that he foresaw, however, a time when the present movement in Parliament founded on ideas of social reform, might lead to such enormous pressure in the way of direct taxation as to make the nation seek relief from its intolerable burden by shifting a part of this burden to the taxation of imports.

The time might come, Lord Rosebery said he trusted to God it never would, when the Liberals would be forced to choose between allowing the Socialists to gain the upper hand or allying themselves with the party of protection in order to defeat Socialism. Of these two conditions he, for one, without hesitation would prefer protection. This would be a great evil and a source of corruption, but Socialism would mean the end of the empire, religion, freedom and prosperity. From the point of view of the empire he regarded the tariff of the self-governing colonies as an impediment to union, and only an over-punishing necessity would compel them to accept the terms of a most universal tariff springing from the centre of the empire itself.

In the elections of 1907, Lord Rosebery went on, the country had seen the Liberals and Conservatives flying at each other's throats for the hanks and letting Socialism slip away from the kernel, namely, seats in Parliament, and they had witnessed the tragedy of the Liberals fighting under the banner of "no second Chamber" at the very moment when a second Chamber was most necessary in order to combat Socialism.

Formerly Great Britain had a strong second Chamber, backed up by the veto of the Sovereign. The veto of the Sovereign had long since disappeared, said the former Premier, and now it is sought to do away with the second Chamber. Contrast this, Lord Rosebery continued, with the conditions in the United States.

"There you find a written constitution, not one syllable or letter of which can be altered without grave and lengthy constitutional process. You find a Senate of overpowering authority, and you find a veto in the hands of the President. Not a veto that has fallen into desuetude, but an active and vigorous element in the constitution. Here we have nothing but the feeble barrier of the hereditary second Chamber, which it is now said ought to be entirely abolished."

Lord Rosebery admitted that the House of Peers needed reform, but no such reform as suggested by the present Government.

LOCAL LEGAL.

The following legal cases of local interest were up at Osgoode Hall yesterday:

Blain vs. Konkle—W. S. McBrayne for plaintiff, appealed from the judgment of the County Court of Lincoln of February 6th, 1908, on the question of the scale of costs allowed to the plaintiff on taxation of his costs. Action and counterclaim, each claiming damages on an exchange of horses, and verdict for plaintiff only entitled to Division Court costs, and the County Judge should have affirmed this ruling, but without right of set-off to defendant. By consent of both parties it is referred back to the County Court Judge to exercise his discretion as to costs of action, his decision to be final. No costs of defence.

Allith Manufacturing Co., vs. Allith Manufacturing Co., Limited; vs. Smith-James Dickson (Hamilton), for defendants in first action, moved for order consolidating actions. J. D. Montgomery for plaintiffs in first action, contra. Order made for judgment for plaintiffs in first action for $1,234.78, not to issue until termination of Hamilton May sittings, or further application therefor on notice.

Second action to proceed with all possible despatch and to be entered and done for trial at such sittings. Costs in each case.

HAVANA STRIKE SETTLED.

The Cigarmakers Are Returning to Their Work.

Havana, March 12.—The strike in four cigar factories, which was begun in January in consequence of protests made by the Cigarmakers' Union against the reduction in the number of operatives employed, has been settled, and hundreds of workmen are now applying for and receiving employment. Two other factories are expected to resume to-day.

In consequence of reports of widespread distress among the field laborers in the western part of Pinar Del Rio, who are without employment at the end of the tobacco harvest, Governor Magoon has ordered the extension of road building for the purpose of affording relief. From the sugar districts throughout the island come general complaints of the scarcity of laborers, as a consequence of which, it is predicted, thousands of acres of cane will remain uncut, resulting in a great reduction in the sugar crop.

The annual British subsidy is £45,000.

Great Fight For Reduction at Grand Lodge Meeting.

Protest Against Paying Bonuses For Immigrants.

Ministers Criticised For Action at Berlin Banquet.

Mount Forest, March 12.—William Fitzgerald, of the Property Commissioners Department, Toronto, was this evening elected Grand Secretary of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West, in place of William Lee, who is retiring because he has been elected secretary of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of British North America. Mr. Cooke was afterwards elected associate secretary, beating Jas. Mayor and W. H. Sanders, both of Toronto.

The following officers were re-elected by acclamation: E. T. Essery, London, Grand Master; H. Lovelock, Toronto, Deputy Grand Master; Fred Dane, Toronto, Junior Deputy Grand Master; Rev. R. W. Lowe, M. A., London, Grand Chaplain; with twenty-five Deputy Chaplains; John Hewitt, Toronto, Grand Treasurer; Dr. J. J. D. Banting, Cookstown, Grand Lecturer; A. A. Gray, Toronto, Deputy Grand Lecturer; W. J. Thompson, Mitchell, Grand Director of Ceremonies; and W. H. Wilson, Aurora, and A. W. Wright, Toronto, Auditors.

Mr. W. J. Parkhill, of Midland, installed the new officers. It was then decided on ballot that the next place of meeting should be St. Thomas, the other places named being Brampton, Listowel and Barrie.

It was announced that the number of delegates exceeded 350, the largest in the history of the Grand Lodge, and there were also present over one hundred visitors. On motion of W. H. Sanders, a resolution was unanimously adopted protesting against any more bonuses being paid for securing immigrants and asking for the total prohibition of the immigration of Galicians, Doukhobors, Assyrians, Armenians and generally of people from southeastern Europe, many of whom are members of dangerous secret societies. The question of the reappointment of Mr. R. Birmingham as organizer for the order was placed in the hands of the executive, which at once reappointed him. Other organizers may also be appointed, and with the lecture bureau a vigorous campaign for the extension of the order will be conducted. The usual votes of thanks were passed to the Mayor, council and citizens generally for the hospitality extended to the visitors.

The great fight at the afternoon session was over the proposal of the Wm. Johnston Lodge, Toronto, to reduce the per capita tax from 25 cents per member to 10 cents. The great argument for the reduction was that the treasurer had in hand a surplus exceeding $6,000. The answer was that the Grand Lodge had practically decided on the increased organization work. The yeas and nays were called for, and the present 25 cents per capita was retained by a majority of only seven votes.

The Grand Lodge of Ontario East appealed for aid in stemming the tide of French Canadian migration into the Counties of Prescott, Russell and Glengarry, where, according to the eastern lodge, there are councils and school boards some of the members of which cannot speak a word of English.

The sum of $800 was, on motion of Controller Hocken, voted to the support of Protestant missions in Quebec.

The sum of $100 was voted to the True Blue Orphanage at Picton, Ontario, and $100 to the Protestant Orphans' Home, Toronto.

The action of the Hon. Dr. Reaume and the Hon. Adam Beck in attending the banquet at Jerome College, Berlin, and tacitly consenting to the toast of the Pope being given before that of the King came in for severe censure in the reports and from speakers.

DANGEROUS PRISONERS.

Second Attempt to Break Guelph Jail Frustrated.

Guelph, March 12.—Although foiled at the first attempt, the prisoners in the county jail who endeavored to make their escape have not been discouraged. The jail officials are reticent to-day, and refuse to divulge the particulars of a second attempt, but it has been learned that utensils, secured by Cox in some mysterious way to aid in his escape, were found in the cell where he is now confined. It is also said that he had contrived to make a rope out of the sheet off his bed.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon three prisoners from Palmerston, McAllyn, Heathington and Daveling, appeared before the Magistrate, charged with attempting to break jail. Cox appeared on the charge of abetting them. A Central Prison bailiff arrived here on the 2.50 train, and after the trial removed the first three named prisoners. They have three-year terms to serve, in addition to what may be imposed on the present charge. Cox has only three weeks to serve.

ALIO FOUND GUILTY.

Jury Orders Death Penalty for Murder of Denver Priest.

Denver, Colo., March 12.—"Is there no appeal?" These words were the only words spoken by Giuseppe Alio when formed by Interpreter Matteo that the jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree, and fixed sentence at death. Just eighteen days after firing the shot which brought death to Father Francis Leo Heinrichs at the altar in St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church while in the act of administering the holy sacrament, this wanderer from Italy, an alleged but not proved anarchist, heard his doom.

The attorney for the defence made a motion for a new trial, and was granted five days in which to file papers.

Amateur Contest Enjoyed by Members Last Night.

Selections were given by Stuart Lees, D. A. Wilson, T. M. Wright, G. J. Bath and Ross McPhaie. A talk on elocution and expression was also given by T. M. Wright, which was very timely and much appreciated. Next Thursday an oratorical contest will be held, and as a large number have entered, it is going to be an enjoyable evening. The Union's basketball team, playing in the Senior City League at the Y. M. C. A., reported that they were now in the lead by some game.

on the H. & D. car and brought here. Constables English and Yaxley met the car at the Terminal, and rushed Rieszko to the City Hospital, where it was at first thought he would not live over night. From the appearance of the wound it appeared that Rieszko's assailant had delivered an underhand stroke low down in the abdomen, and then twisted his knife about, inflicting terrible injuries to the intestines. The wound was dressed as well as possible, and this morning some hope was held out for his recovery.

Chief Twiss took an interpreter to the scene of the trouble and after a much laborious work managed to get the details of the principles in the struggle and also the names of all the witnesses. Chief Twiss and Constable Pearce started a search for the men who committed the assaults, and the telephone and telegraph wires all over this place and telegraph wires all over this place and telegraph wires all over this place.

There is a scarcity of particulars about the fight. It is impossible to read out yet where the Greco brothers came from. They are described as being, one tall and dark, and the other short and dark. The one who is alleged to have done the stabbing is only 29 years of age and his brother is 27. The knife used has not been found and it is supposed that the knife was long and slim and sharp on both edges.
