Holloway's Pills—Weak Stomach

The wisest cannot enumerate on a quarter of the distressing symptoms arising from enfeebled digestion, a few of which might be readily dispelled by these admirable Pills. They remove all unpleasant tastes from the mouth, flatulency and constipation. Holloway's Pills rouse the stomach, liver, and every other organ, helping digestion to that healthy tone which fully enables it to convert all we eat and drink to the nourishment of our bodies. Hence these Pills are the surest strengtheners and the safest restoratives in nervousness, wasting and chronic debility. Holloway's Pills are infallible remedies for impaired appetite, eruptions, and a multitude of other disagreeable symptoms, which render miserable the lives of thousands. These Pills are approved by all classes.

TRIAL OF THE ESKIMO EPHRIAN.

The Jury Find a Verdict of Willful Murder Against Him

The Accused sentenced to Death.

Cross examined by Mr. Boone.—The Eskimos have no surnames, they have only one name. We have a station on Cape Mugford. There are three stations north of Ujruak, I can't say if the coast between Ujruak's Straits and Cape Chidley is populated. There are no Eskimos living in the interior. There is a race of mountaineers in this living in the interior. I have never seen any of them. They are on friendly terms with the Eskimos now. I don't know if Ephriam could have gone to any of our stations. The Eskimos are quiet; some of them often get into a passion, but they are easily reconciled. The first missionary who went to Nain was murdered in the year 1752 by the Eskimos. Ephriam made three statements before the Magistrate at St. John's. I didn't examine Philip's gun; it was examined in my presence. I saw the broker, nipple on it. I didn't enquire if it was Philip's gun. I think it was on the 30th of September Nancy informed us that Ephriam shot Philip. As far as I know Philip was not just shot; Ephriam shot him. It was not quite clean and we were very glad when Philip married her. There are no prisoners on our stations. We pay no at my's duties. We pay no duty, as he mission was exempted us from paying duties. I looked for indications of struggle on the ground. The place where the body was found was on the side of a hill. I was never there before. When I say her course of her life was no clean, I mean that she had an illegitimate child before her marriage. The child died. I could not say anything else again to her.

Re-examined.—The Society in London made application to the Government for a mit goods, for duty free. All goods, for use for church purposes. The profits are only used for private purposes, but a case for the Mission. The confessions made by Ephriam are at the free will of two or three. I used out no inducement to Nancy or Ephriam to make a confession.

By the Court.—I can't say if the map and chart produced are correct.

William Ford—Examined by the Attorney General.—I have been living at Nain for eleven years. I go in the craft in the summer time, carrying goods for the Eskimos. I know the Eskimo language. Know Philip; we were boys together. Knew Philip; he was about 30 years of age. I was at Nain when I first heard of Philip's death. I accompanied Mr. Bourquin and some Eskimos to the island where Ephriam and his wife were. There were several Eskimos there. We first saw Ephriam on the beach; there were some women there. Philip was there. Several of us went across to where Ephriam was. Mr. Bourquin asked him about Philip. He asked him how he shot himself. Ephriam said they were walking together, him and Philip and Nancy and Philip shot himself and heary shot Nancy. He said, by falling his gun went off. Nancy was then asked if what Ephriam stated was correct, she then said she was not there with them. She said that Ephriam and Philip went alone. She also said that Ephriam told her he had shot her husband. She told Mr. Bourquin in Ephriam's presence. Ephriam denied it. They went on continuing each other for some time. We asked him if he would go with us and show where the body was; he refused. We then bound him and took him to Nain. All the party then went back. We remained at Nain that night. Next morning we went in a boat up the Bay to where the body was. We landed at Uprauak, the place where they had their tent. We landed on the north side of the Bay. Their tent was about fifty yards from where we landed. We remained there that night. In the morning Ephriam said he wished to have something to say to Mr. Bourquin, and when Mr. Bourquin came ashore he was told of Ephriam's request. He made a statement to Mr. Bourquin in the presence of Mr. Wath, myself and some Eskimos. He made a free and voluntary statement of his own accord. He said Nancy was not with them and that he had shot Philip with Philip's own gun, when they were quarrelling and fighting. He said they were speaking about a bear skin that Philip had out to dry, and that his wife would not take it in and that he wanted to go home, where upon they quarrelled; he shoved Philip down and shot him in the back of the neck. They came to quarrel about the skin. He wished to say more, but we were in a hurry to get to the place where the body was.

William Ford—Examined by the Attorney General.—We went on until we came to a place, when Nancy said the gun is here somewhere. We found the gun. I know the gun; I saw it the gun now produced to be the same. When I found it, it was a lead sand and turf. When I saw there was nothing on the nipple, the Eskimo's always use bullets when deer hunting. Ephriam's gun is a mouth bore gun. After we found the gun, we left and found the body. Nancy showed us the place where the body lay. We overhauled the place very carefully and could not find any sign of a struggle. If there had been a struggle we would have seen the indications. The body was covered up with earth and a few sticks; the feet were exposed; the body was wrapped up in a deer skin, the deceased had his cuffs on and his hood over his head. The wound was in the back of his neck and came out in his jaw. I have experience of bullet wounds. It was a bullet wound. I overhauled it for the purpose of seeing how the ball entered; it entered the neck and came out in the jaw. There were no other wounds about the body. We had no other doctor to hold a post mortem examination. We made a coffin, put the body in and then and laid it there buried it on the spot. This place was about a mile and a half from a half of two miles from where Ephriam had his tent, and it would take us a long time to get to it through the woods. We took Ephriam back to Nain. I was examined before a magistrate the other day. I remember the accused made an observation after I was examined. One of the gentlemen present asked him if there was anything wrong in what I said, and he replied, "No."

Cross Examined by Mr. Boone.—The first statement made by Ephriam in my presence was the one made at the Bay where we had our tent. I didn't hear him say anything when the body was found. I heard him make some remarks before the magistrates. I don't know what kind of a gun Ephriam had, I know it could be a lead bore gun. I have had experience of bullet wounds on deer and seals. I can tell which way a bullet entered. The mark was quite plain to be seen. He was dead about a week when I went there. He was covered with turf and sticks. His face had turned black. I didn't examine his pulse. He was not breathing. I saw no sign of a skull or light. I searched around the place about 200 yards. I didn't believe the story he told Mr. Bourquin at the Bay. As he has only one hand, he could not shove Philip down and shoot him. I didn't believe the story that he shot deceased with Philip's gun. There is a strong feeling against the prisoner at Nain. I live among the people of Nain. My sympathies are against Ephriam. These people are in the habit of carrying their guns at half-cock on their shoulders. I don't know much about Nancy's character. She was not thought very highly of by the people of Nain.

Re-Examined.—I didn't believe the deceased was shot with his own gun. Ephriam could have fired off Philip's gun. My evidence has not been affected or altered on account of the bad feeling that exists at Nain against the prisoner.

Samuel J. McNeil examined.—I live in St. John's at present. I have been visiting Labrador. During my visit I became acquainted with the prisoner Ephriam at Nain, some years ago. I have learned the Eskimo language on the Labrador. I attended the examination of the witnesses in this case at the Magistrate's office. I there interpreted the evidence of witnesses to prisoner. Before the witnesses came to Saint John's to be examined I visited the prisoner at the Penitentiary. I visited him several times. On one of these occasions he made a statement to me relative to the death of Philip's. That statement was made in the Penitentiary and partly at the Court House. When he made the statement to me at the Penitentiary we were done, I did not induce him to make a statement by any threats or promises. He made the statement of his own free will and accord. Before he made the statement I told him that if he made it it would be given in evidence against him. He was quite willing to tell me, and he said he would tell me the truth. No pressure or inducement of any sort was made. I took a note of that statement at the time. He told me that on Sunday, Sept 13th, 1880, Philip and himself left to go deer hunting, each one having a gun, leaving Nancy and the little boy at home. After they had gone a good way from home it began to rain. They turned to go home; they sat down and Philip made an excuse to go home to take in some bear skins which he said his wife would not attend to. They got up and proceeded on their way home. After proceeding a little way towards home, Ephriam, with his own gun, as Philip was about three feet ahead of him, without saying anything to Philip, or without knowing what he (Ephriam) was going to do, shot Philip through the neck. Philip fell down dead and never spoke after. Ephriam said that fearing Philip would do some injury to Nancy when he got home, he shot him. Ephriam then left him, went home to where Nancy was, and told her that he had shot Philip. The next morning (Sunday) Ephriam, with Nancy and her little boy, went to the place where they had their tent, and them; wrapped the body in the skin, laid it under a fallen tree and covered it up with moss, sods and some sticks. They left the body there until they went again with the missionaries and several others. The missionaries buried it. He said that on that day they had no quarrel or angry words, but that they had quarrelled several times between themselves, but not for a long time before. He told me that on another occasion he awoke one night and heard Nancy crying, and he asked her what was wrong, and she said that Philipus threatened to stab her. He also told me that when he saw that I had to kiss the Holy Book he knew I would have to tell the truth, and he would tell me the truth; and he told me what he said to the missionaries was wrong, as he was vexed with them he didn't tell the truth. I afterwards made a deposition before the magistrates, and the account was present. When I made my statement it was interpreted to him and I signed it. The prisoner corrected me about the burying of the body. I said he told me that he buried it in a deer skin and with turf, and he said I omitted to mention that the body was also covered with sticks. He understood all I said and he assented then. He understands perfectly well what I am saying now I remember that at the close of Mr. Ford's examination he made an observation. What Judge Conroy and Mr. Lilly took down was correct. I was present when Mr. Ford was examined and his deposition was read over. The prisoner made an observation of his own accord; he said he wished to say something. The prisoner made a similar statement to the magistrate. Whatever remarks he made I translated them correctly and they were so taken down, I didn't know Philipus. I have seen him.

Cross-Examined.—I never acted as an interpreter in a Court before. I have acted in many capacities as interpreter before. A great many of the words are difficult to translate into the Eskimo language. He can understand all I say. He was always cheerful and hopeful and not at all melancholy. He says he has better hopes of the next world. I took a note of his statement partly at Penitentiary and partly at Court House. I was sent by the Magistrate to see Ephraim to ask him a few questions relating to the death of Philipus, leaving it to himself whether he would tell anything or not. I made no threat or promise. This was before the examination before the Magistrate. The conversation which the prisoner had with Nancy about Philipus threatening to stab her was before his death. It was up the Bay and Philipus had gone off shooting when the conversation took place between them. Ephraim told me that he had connection with Nancy before Philipus's death, and that he slept with her every night until they arrived at the Island.

Re-Examined.—I fully understand what he said. He is desirous now of telling the truth. He understands that he committed a very bad crime and expects to be punished for it. He desires to tell the truth. I saw Ephraim sign the deposition. I translated the caution before he made the statement which he signed.

By the Court.—The prisoner is a man of education. He can read and write and thoroughly understands the Scriptures.

Judge Conroy Examined.—I am one of the Stipendiary Magistrates at St. John's and a Justice of the Peace for the Island of Newfoundland. I took the use of preliminary examinations in this case. I now hold in my hand the depositions taken in the case and amongst them I have the voluntary statement of the prisoner. I have heard Mr. McNeil's evidence; it is quite correct. The caution was read to the accused and interpreted by McNeil before the voluntary statement was taken down. The statement was read over to the prisoner. The interpreter informed us that he assented to the statement. He signed it. We then became aware for the first time that he had a second name. Takros, which I believe, a sort of nick name. I saw him sign the statement.

Cross Examined.—I sent the interpreter, Mr. McNeil, at an early stage to the gaol to the prisoner to enable Ephraim to make a statement to him. This was before the examinations were taken upon which he was committed. I cautioned McNeil to give the prisoner the warning. That statement corresponds with the voluntary statement. He had every fair play as regards his statement. Nobody told him to my knowledge that he might have Counsel if he choose;

The voluntary statement made by the prisoner before the Magistrate was then read by the chief Clerk. This closed the case for the Crown.

The Court was then adjourned and the Jury locked up until the next morning when they brought in a verdict of Guilty against the prisoner.

The Chief Justice then sentenced the Prisoner as follows: "Ephraim, the Jury before whom you were tried have just found a verdict of guilty for the murder of Philipus against you, and the Court think that the Jury could not honestly have given any other verdict. You will be allowed more time to prepare yourself for your awful fate than you gave to Philipus, and we advise you, that you make the most of your time that you may have to live on this earth. The sentence of the Court is, that you, Ephraim, or Ephraim Takros, be taken hence to a place for execution, and that you be there hanged by the neck till you are dead, and that your body be afterwards buried within the precincts of the prison wherein you were last confined after your conviction, and may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

would be a much pleasanter drive, as it will pass around the hills from small point to Salmon Cove, where it would connect with the new Salmon Cove Road. This road would bring the people of the Shore much nearer the railway as the drive would be both pleasant and picturesque and would hold out grand inducement to the tourist.

While passing through Adams' Cove a few days since I noticed two dogs chasing a number of sheep from the hill side into the Cove, where, but for the interference of some of the owners many of the poor sheep would come to grief.—Com.

North Shore Slaughter.

ELEVEN KILLED AND MANY WOUNDED.

To the Editor of Carbonear Herald.

North Shore, Conception Bay, Aug 24, 1881.

Dear Sir,—Have your town Police Force their hands too full of business at present to spare a day or so for a visit to this truly neglected shore, where we are now passing the "Dog days" in reality,

At morn, noon and night the howling, barking of fighting dogs makes parents tremble for the safety of their children, who, perhaps, may be playing near home at the roadside, whilst the owners of sheep, and other cattle must be content to wait (if at night) until daylight to discover to their surprise and regret one, two, or more, half eaten sheep, each person thinking himself fortunate if he finds not amongst the slain an animal bearing the mark by which his property is distinguished from that of others.

Not long ago, I think during the latter part of last month, one of those Greenland Bears, in the shape of a dog, attacked a woman on the public road and would have in a few minutes taken her life were it not for the timely arrival of a neighbor who risked his own life to rescue the woman, and who afterwards rid the neighborhood of Northern Bay of one of those atrocious masters, leaving for you to be dealt with either by the law or a long suffering people.

We are peculiarly under christian authority here in temporal matters, the dogs are a tendency to Proclamation but the pens at the roadside still remain to give anything but a pleasing smell to the most healthy traveller, whilst invalids would require Florida Water passing through the North Shore localities.

Last year strict attention was paid to reports about liquor selling in this quarter, the presence of glassware in a house gave cause for inquiries as to the intended use of the same. Yet with all this apparent regard for law the dogs were running at large and escaped I suppose, because they were not found drunk as well as disorderly.

Yesterday one man named Charles Steele found seven sheep, all he possessed, killed but a few yards from his premises the night before, two other neighbors lost four and many wounded.

Where is the elephant which captured the North Shore Bull last year? His presence is much needed here now and is daily looked for with anxiety.

How much longer will such a state of affairs be permitted to continue. If this brutal rebellion is not checked by powder and shot I cannot say where it will end, or in the words of "Anon" slightly altered: "Be long unless some guardian interpose"

What the dogs will do down this way no one knows.

Your, etc., SPECTATOR.

HALIFAX, August 25. President Garfield's condition has slightly improved, but symptoms of typhoid continue, pulse 109.

It is reported that the Cabinet have summoned Vice-President Arthur to assume the Presidency.

Blake, leader of the Canadian Opposition, arrived at Halifax last evening. He will address a public meeting in the Skating Rink on Friday.

The Canada Pacific Railway Syndicate have issued ten million dollars worth of bonds.

The Nihilist Prince Krahatine has been expelled by the Swiss Council.

August 26. The dory City of Bath crossed the Atlantic safely and reached Falmouth yesterday.

It is rumored that there has been a general rising of natives in the Transvaal against the Boers. Gambetta publicly deprecates the Italian alliance with Germany and Austria.

The Bank of England will raise its discount to four per cent.

President Garfield desires to be removed from Washington; but his physicians consider it impossible. Pulse last night, 120, with symptoms of the gravest character. His mind is now delirious and wandering, glands swollen and extreme weakness.

To the memory of Arthur Thomey who died at Labrador 19th July, 1881.

He left his home light-hearted And crossed the stormy wave; At Labrador he landed A Captain true and brave.

'Tis three o'clock! What's the cause Of this unusual sound Of voices raised in mourning? Sure, some one must be drowned. No. But Arthur home is borne A corpse. The noise you hear. Is mother's sad lament And that of sister dear.

Ah! such crying will not cure The pain we now must bear, But look we up to Heaven And hope he's happy there.

Then let us join together, We'll all those tears remove, And pray his soul be happy And dwell with God above.
