CHARLOTTETOWN.

The French "Separation" Campaign.

The following article on the so-called Separation Bill, which was passed by the French Chamber of Deputies recently, is from the Saturday Review of London, July 8:—

On Monday at midnight—"the hour of crime"—the French Parliament voted the text of the Revised Bill for the separation of the churches from the State—whereby the Republic lightly endorsed an act of the weightiest consequence, not only to France herself, but also to the rest of Europe. It would, however, be premature to say that the Bill is "passed," or that the separation is accomplished: for it will have to go before the Senate, where it may be obstructed for a very long time, during which the General Election (which is within sight) may overthrow the whole scheme, since it is not as popular as the Socialists, Radicals, Atheists, and their chief organ, La Lanterne, intend the uninitiated to believe. Four million eight hundred and seventy-two thousand persons, all of them over twenty-one years of age, have already signed a petition against the Bill; and, as La Temps observes, the Catholics may, in due course, turn the scales at the future election, and a Moderate, if not exactly a Catholic, majority replace the present anti-clerical Bloc. Once returned to even a modified degree of power, the Opposition might follow the methods of M. Combes' all-too-famous majority, and vote unreasonably yet steadily, as bidden by its leaders, and with surprising results.

But we will for the sake of argument consider the Bill as passed, and the churches as absolutely separated from the State, as M. Aristide Briand or even M. Combes would desire; what then? The Church will not be killed by this measure, and the "human conscience," to quote M. Bienvieux Martin, will not therefore be any the more "emancipated." Unfortunately French Socialism, by allying itself with atheism, has sown noxious weeds in its own political garden, and anticlericalism is beginning to prove an undesirable growth even to an ultra-Radical Republic. When, a fortnight ago, France suddenly realized that she was within sight of a war with her ancient foe on the other side of the Rhine, a thrill of terror passed over the land at the mere thought that whilst engrossed in the specious work of dechristianizing the nation and hating monks and nuns up and down the country, the politicians in power had demoralized the army, neglected the navy, and left the frontiers almost entirely unprotected. Things have quieted down since then, but, none the less, there is a feeling of unrest abroad which makes thinking people dread the passage of a law that may eventually lead to internal divisions and disorders even more serious than those which agitate France at the present time. True, the Bill as it stands has been considerably modified in a liberal sense, and there now appears little danger of the cathedrals and churches being seized and converted into music-halls and meeting-houses, and even the religious processions are not to be abolished. But the bishops and priests will be subjected to a very strict police supervision; and laws admirably framed to silence them, should they say a word likely to offend their Prefect or their Mayor, are already existent. La Lanterne intimates that "it only accepts the Bill as it stands as a preliminary; we must silence the priests, and prevent them, even in their pulpits, from infusing any more of the virus of religion into the minds of the people. For if we do not kill the Church, the Church will kill the Republic." Evidently La Lanterne sees a rock ahead which the over-zealous deputies who sit on the Left and the Extreme Left have overlooked. Surely when the clergy are no longer paid by the State and have to pay the same taxes as other citizens, it would be monstrous to prevent their freely expressing their political opinions, however opposed these may be to those of the majority temporarily in power. So long as they were paid by the State, the State had a right to complain if a salaried clergy opposed its will. If the Bill is finally passed, it will be different; and though, for a year or so, the more independent and outspoken of the bishops and clergy may be hunted down and even imprisoned, the day will come when the Republic, wearied by their resistance and, possibly, alarmed at their increasing popularity, will have to realize that she has created a new and (from her point of view) a very perilous party—an emancipated episcopate and clergy. No longer Erastian, these will presently prove a formidable barrier to the darling projects of a Government which sees in Christianity the chief enemy of Progress and humanitarianism—ignoring that both are the offspring of that very teaching that they are seeking to destroy by every means at their disposal.

The outlook for religion in France is distinctly ominous just now, but it is by no means hopeless. Human affairs are much influenced by action and reaction, and probably the climax of anti-clericalism, rather than of anti-religion, in France was reached last Monday night. We may be on the eve of a powerful reaction that will undo the nefarious work of the Bloc and this much sooner than is generally imagined. The extraordinary conspiracy of silence on this momentous matter in the English press is doubtless due to the fact that English Christians and gentlemen are usually considered unfit to represent English newspapers on the Continent. The Paris correspondents of our leading journals, being nearly all of them men of Oriental extraction, can not, however honorable and enlightened, be expected to entertain any particular interest in the fate of the Christian religion. We are invariably led by these gentlemen to believe that all is for the best in the best of Republics. The unanimous protests of the archbishops and bishops have been barely alluded to, and most Englishmen believe that the French Episcopacy is more or less indifferent to the Separation Bill, whereas in reality it has already vehemently protested against all the innumerable arbitrary acts of the present Government, and this not only by individual pastorals addressed to their respective flocks, but in a joint note endorsing the powerful letter written some time ago by the aged Cardinal Archbishop of Paris to President Loubet, a letter which, by the way, that gentleman never answered. Then again we hear nothing of the countless meetings which are being held in every city, town, and village, at which the anti-religious policy of the Government is severely attacked and violently condemned. It was mainly because the deputies witnessed such meetings during the recent vacation that they personally realized the danger to which they were exposing their offices of re-election by their excessive anti-clericalism, and, therefore, they introduced, several modifying clauses into the Bill, which, as it now stands, is much milder than it was when first presented to the Chamber. The churches, for instance, are not likely to be closed for some time to come, and "the baneful procession," as a Republican journal expresses it, "is which figure so conspicuously the Infamous One and his vile Mother," are still to be tolerated, always provided the Prefect or the Mayor proves obliging and conciliatory.

On the whole to a thinking foreigner the spectacle presented by contemporary France is an amazing one. Here is a great nation, which for sixteen hundred years has proclaimed herself the "eldest daughter of the Church," renouncing her great position as protector of the Catholics in the East and breaking off her official connection with the Vatican, at a time when Germany is menacing her and proclaiming at Metz, of all places in the world, her Imperial wish to become more and more friendly with the head of that Church of which France has so long been the natural ally! Surely a great statesman would have considered the present an ill-chosen time to quarrel with the Papacy, when by a more conciliatory policy an Ambassador could have been retained at the Vatican, if only to keep an eye on the maneuvers of the Triple Allies.

In the Street.

It is The Correct Thing. To appear dressed neatly, soberly, and becomingly on the street. To avoid every act calculated to attract attention. To return all salutations courteously. To avoid what is called a street flirtation as one would the plague. To remember that laughter and loud tones are particularly unbecoming on the street. To remember that others have the right of way as well as one's self, and that it is ill-bred to try to monopolize the whole pavement. To refrain from staring at the passers-by. To remember that no lady is ever seen talking on the street-corner. To remember that the street is not a dining-room for the consumption of candy, peanuts, etc. For a young person to give precedence to an older one. IT IS NOT THE CORRECT THING. To wear flashy, showy costumes, jewelry or rouge on the street. To be dressed so shabbily as to attract attention.

To be defective in eyesight when a poor acquaintance is passing by. For a girl to try to attract a gentleman's attention.

To speak to some one across the street. To hold an umbrella so that its drippings will fall upon one's companion or the passing pedestrian.

For three or four girls to walk abreast like a detachment of militia, to the inconvenience of others who have a right to the street.

For a lady to take a gentleman's arm in the daytime unless it has been slooting.

For a girl to giggle, talk slang, or discuss private affairs on the street.

To laugh at the defects or the peculiarities of persons seen on the street.

To show ill-temper if one is jostled accidentally by the crowd.

—The Correct Thing for Catholics.

Items of Interest.

Of Father Martin, the general of the Jesuits, a Roman correspondent says: "He might have been seen almost every afternoon this week (until yesterday, when he left Rome) taking his usual afternoon walk with Father Chandler, and wearing, instead of the customary 'groom' or long coat, a light cloak which concealed the puffed absence of the right arm removed by the surgeons a couple of months ago. Father Martin seems to be in good health, and not only does he say Mass every morning in a private chapel, assisted by one of the Jesuit fathers, but he has already learned to write almost as well with his left hand as he ever wrote with his right."

Bad as it is, the separation bill recently passed by the French Chamber is not satisfactory to the Church's enemies. "The Catholic party," says the "Action," "has forced back the Republican bloc, which is as disunited in action as it is in its ideas, step by step. This capitulation before the Catholic Nationalist or Progressist Right has been general. The Republican party has consented to a divorce which is to the profit of the Church." The "Lanterne" speaks out quite plainly as to what is to follow: "The bill just voted is only a transition. We shall complete it, we shall amend it in the future. We have just made the first step, which is always the hardest; the coming Chamber will make the next and help us to deprive the Church of the stupid concessions which she has managed to wring from the 'weakness of certain Republicans.' Could any words be plainer than these? But even without any apprehensions as to what alterations may be made in the bill in the future, there is evidently quite sufficient reason for anxiety as to what may happen from separation. The 'Temps' continues to take the darkest view of the situation. This perilous task of separation ought never, it thinks, to have been undertaken: 'It is a leap into the unknown. And it is not only the unknown of its application. The future of everything is unknown. But they have neglected to learn what could and ought to have been obtained, the opinion of the country. M. Briand yesterday acknowledged that at the beginning of the present Parliament there was no question of the separation of Church and State. And so this redoubtable question was raised without any reference to the opinion of universal suffrage, which they pretend to respect.' * * * We leave the responsibility of it to those who have raised it." Concerning the probable action of the Senate on the bill, the general opinion is that it will be concurred in without grave alteration. Indeed, should they display much desire of change in it, public opinion seems to hold that the change would be in the direction of making the bill less liberal than it is as sent up by the Chamber of Deputies. The latter have all along felt that the elections of 1906 have to be faced, and they have shown a comparatively tolerant spirit out of fear lest the peasantry might visit them with summary vengeance at the polls next year.

After writing a prescription for a patient, the physician told him that the druggist would probably charge him sixty cents. Then the patient asked the physician to lend him the money. The Vice Regal Visit.

The Vice Regal visit, which had been anticipated for some time, is now a thing of the past. But all who saw or came in contact with his Excellency the Governor-General and Lady Grey must have been impressed with their excellent common sense; their easy unaffected manners and their admirable bearing in the discharge of the functions devolving upon them in their exalted position.

In consequence of foggy weather the Minto, with their Excellencies on board, was delayed and did not reach here till near 8 o'clock Thursday evening. The party did not land that night; but shortly after arriving, Messrs. Arthur Newbery, I. S. O., R. N. McNeill and W. W. Clark, representing his Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor, the Government and the City Council, boarded the steamer. Through these, the Lieutenant Governor, the Premier and the Mayor were invited to luncheon that evening.

At 10.30 Friday morning his Excellency and party landed. The party consisted of his Excellency, Earl Grey, Lady Grey and daughter, Lady Evelyn Grey, Col. Hanbury Williams, Military Secretary, Major Paske, Comptroller, Capt. Newton, A. D. C., and A. F. Sladen, Private Secretary. Besides these there were Lady Morley, Lady Grey's sister, and her daughter Lady Parker; these latter remained on board the steamer. After landing the Vice-Regal party were escorted, by the Charlottetown Light Horse and the 4th Regiment with band, to the Provincial Building. They were received at the entrance by his Honor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Premier of the Province and the Mayor of Charlottetown, and conducted to the Executive Council Chamber. Here addresses on behalf of the Province and the City were read and presented to his Excellency, by the Premier and Mayor respectively. To these addresses his Excellency made most appropriate replies and then members of the Government and City Council, his Lordship, the Bishop of Charlottetown and a few others were presented. The building was appropriately decorated and there was an immense throng of people in attendance.

After these functions his Excellency inspected the Military and then returned to the steamer. Shortly afterwards he, in company with the Government, Civic and Educational authorities proceeded to the McDonald Consolidated School at Hillsborough. After returning their Excellencies held a reception at Government House when a large number of ladies and gentlemen were presented. Afterwards they proceeded to the tennis grounds where 5 o'clock tea was served. Later they visited the golf links and then returned to the steamer. They left for Pictou, early Saturday morning. From Pictou they went to Chatham, and from there they proceeded to Quebec.

The Minto is the head quarters of his Excellency, Lady Grey and part of the suite during this cruise to the Maritime Provinces. The other members of the Vice-Regal suite are quartered on board the Government steamer Champlain. The last named steamer is from the St. Lawrence. She is smaller than the Minto and not so fast. The Vice Regal visit, although necessarily brief, was most agreeable an can leave nothing but pleasant memories.

Ominous Reports.

News comes from the west that not only has no construction work been done on the G. T. P., through that country but a large number of the surveying engineers whose work is by no means completed have been called in and are loafing. The company's officials decline to give any explanation of this state of affairs but reliable report has it that the G. T. P., is negotiating a deal with McKenzie & Mann for the purchase of the Canadian Northern, a line which runs south of the C. P. R., from Lake Superior to Winnipeg and crossing the C. P. R., there cuts northward across the wheat-belt toward the Pacific coast. If the road can be secured the G. T. P., will utilize it instead of building a new line. Of course this means a new deal with the government but the promoters have good reason to know how easily that will be accomplished.

These increasing reports concerning radical changes in the construction plans cannot be wholly without foundation and, considering the result of changes which have already been made in connection with their enterprise, are disquieting. Every alteration which has been made in the original contract has been enormously for the benefit of the company and has cost the country much money. The same government which allowed those alterations is still in power.

Meanwhile the crisis which Sir Wilfrid two years ago prayed heaven it might not be too late to avert has not yet been averted, unless the planting of a few trees by wandering gangs of surveyors could do it, and there is no word, either from the government or the company as to the date when the actual construction of the transcontinental will be begun. It would not be surprising if the G. T. P., would be the main issue in another election.—St. John Star.

A convention of Liberals of Alberta has been held at Calgary and the decision has been reached that the impending Provincial election in that Province should be run on party lines, with the view of securing for the party the control of the Legislature and Government. Mr. Haultain, who is still premier of the whole Northwest, is now and always has been opposed to party lines in the local administration of that region. He has always retained Liberals in his Government and says he would do so still if he were entrusted with the government of one of the Provinces. The decision reached at the Calgary meeting, no doubt, grew out of the desire to make use of the machinery and influence of the Federal Government and especially of the department of the Interior for campaign purposes.

Now that the Minister of Railways and the Minister of Finance are here, we trust the matter of the new Railway Station for Charlottetown will be settled. We trust, too, the Great George Street site will be chosen. This is where the people want the station to be built; this is the most central and convenient site. Let us see now whether the wishes and convenience of the people will prevail with the Ministers, or whether all these considerations will be thrown to the wind, and the new Station built on a site from which some favorites will make a scoop. The Hillsborough bridge was built away up the river; its approach is a long way from the centre of the city and a matter of grave inconvenience for pedestrians. It was so placed because some one who had a pull with the Government had land to sell in that locality. Shall the new Station be placed in an equally inconvenient and undesirable situation because some Government favorite will benefit thereby? Is it the Liberal Government's motto to disregard the wishes of the people in all things? We shall see.

Gold Mining Interests Consolidating.

Recent advices from Rossland, B. C., say there is a movement on foot to consolidate the White Bear and the Oakfield Mining Companies. The management of the former company is taking the initiative in the matter. The White Bear has reached a depth of 900 feet, and should the deal go through it is proposed to extend a cross-cut from the lowermost level of the White Bear into the territory of the Oakfield, and from this cross-cut to explore the ground with diamond drills. There is an eighteen-foot iron capping on the Oakfield, and it is thought that somewhere in this ground there are some good ore shoots. As the Oakfield has been idle for the past four or five years, it would seem that an alliance that would result in restoring it to activity would be advantageous to its stockholders. The shipments for the week were: Le Roi, 1,975 tons; Le Roi milled 310; Centre Star 2,310; War Eagle 1,500; Le Roi No. 2, 600; Jumbo 200; Spitzee 60. Total for week 6,415, and for the year to date 195,193 tons.

Yellow Fever.

New Orleans, Aug. 7.—Official yellow fever report up to six o'clock p. m.: New cases today, 32; total cases to date, 565. Deaths today, 8; total deaths to date, 113. New sub-foci to-day, 4; total sub foci to date, 97.

New Orleans, Aug. 7.—With the marine hospital service placed in control at noon of the scientific fight to eradicate Yellow fever from New Orleans before frost, the campaign against the scourge to-day took fresh life. With ample funds, the best available medical talent and an army of willing workers at his back, Dr. J. H. White, surgeon in charge, hopes for a successful termination of the struggle. During the day Dr. White received formal orders from Surgeon General Wyman informing him that the federal government had decided to assume the task prepared for it. Dr. White then visited the state and the city board of health, where he arranged for the transfer of control of the work.

A false impression has prevailed in some quarters that all the cases occurring were not made public, and in order that there may be perfect confidence throughout the country, Dr. White desires that hereafter statistical announcements of the situation shall be made under federal supervision. Dr. White says that the figures on the yellow fever situation carried daily by the Associated Press have been correct. There was a prompt response to-day in the appeal of Chairman Janvier of the citizens' committee for additional subscriptions to the citizens' fund toward the $250,000 desired by the government. In addition Mr. Janvier to-day telegraphed to Governor Blanchard asking the state's assistance in securing the money desired to fight the fever. Unsolicited checks have been sent from other parts of the country, and the whole fund will be fully subscribed. The death reported on the Bell plantation in Jefferson parish, across the Missouri river from New Orleans, is the fifth that has occurred there, showing the heavy mortality from the fever where adequate attention is not given. Five Italians fled from New Orleans to the Bell plantation, and all have died of yellow fever. The vicinity has been thoroughly isolated and disinfected. It will probably never be possible to estimate the losses which New Orleans has suffered financially through the diversion of business, but the heavy tax on the people by the present visitation is shown by the fact that besides the money already spent by the board of health and the $250,000 to be raised for the government, thousands of dollars have been subscribed and expended in ward sanitation.

Wolves Prowl Ripton Streets.

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 6.—The two wolves, the first seen in the state in more than half a century, which attacked Edward Harrington at Ripton, July 25, have since made their appearance at several places on the outskirts of the woods, and, although they are becoming exceedingly obnoxious, no hunter has been sharp enough to kill them. Visits from the animals in other parts of the country lead to the belief that the pack has been augmented since first seen. Ford Maderson of Ripton, found one of the wolves among his cows one day, but had no gun, and it got away. Joe Caswell, in another part of the town, saw one of them prowling around his barnyard. The last account of the wolves is from Bread Loaf Inn, where two of them trotted slowly along the road one evening, seen distinctly by many of the summer guests. Several bear traps have been baited with choice morsels, but so far the only catch has been a cub. There are no dogs in the vicinity which will hurt wolves, the ordinary fox hound being afraid of the scent. Hence, the hunters are greatly handicapped.

Excelsior and Elegance.

Mr. G. T. Bell, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System, is frequently in receipt of communications from patrons, extolling the service that is found on Canada's great double track railway. An unsolicited letter of recent date, reads as follows: "I have just returned from the Pacific coast and it may interest you to know that my wife and I immensely enjoyed the run over your road, and you must admit that when a woman is pleased and delighted the reserves something that has the classic touch of excellence and elegance. I am inclined to think that the railroad that pleases a woman is pretty near perfection."

Another letter from a physician of Alken South Carolina, reads: "I had the pleasure of travelling over your line from Portland, Me., to Detroit, Mich., and have no hesitation in saying that your road is in one of the smoothest I have ever been on, and the night from Montreal to Toronto, the train was as steady as if one had been in a hotel."

The travel over the Grand Trunk is increasing every year, and as the excellence of this railroad is becoming known more and more, travellers from all parts are taking the opportunity of riding on the fast trains which this line is noted for in Canada and over their double track route between the principle cities of East and West.

Collision Between Train and Street Car.

The fast Pittsburg flyer, No. 560, on the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railway, crashed into an east bound St. Clair Street Car in Cleveland at 9.30 o'clock last Sunday night, killed a child instantly and fatally injured six people, while fifteen others sustained injuries. The accident happened without warning as the conductor had just crossed the railroad tracks to see that the line was clear and had thrown the safety detainer switch to permit the car to pass. The headlight of the train was not visible, nor was its rumbling heard until it was close to the crossing. The conductor let go the detainer switch in time to throw the rear truck of his car off the track, but not in time to prevent the front end from being struck, and the car was hurled from the track. The car contained forty passengers who were bound for their homes from amusement resorts along the car line. Only a few persons escaped uninjured being the persons occupying the rear seats. Ambulances from all parts of the city were summoned, and the wounded were taken to their homes or to hospitals. The train was proceeding at a fast rate when the accident happened, and the engineer could not check the speed of his train to mitigate the disaster. The safety gates with which the crossing is provided were up at the time, and there is a curve at that point so that the conductor could not see the flyer approaching. The dead child's name is Cora Martin, two years old, a daughter of James Martin. The fatally injured are Mrs. James Martin, Gertrude Martin, Frank Williamson Motor-man, Mrs. Patrick Kilduff, Michael Massey and Lucy Halter.

Acetylene Explosion.

At 8.50 Saturday evening a heavy explosion occurred in the bakery of A. E. Jones, Caledonia, Ont. The entire front of the building, also that of Geo. E. Oulp's jewelry store immediately adjoining, were blown into the street. The Bell telephone office was located within the former shop, and it was known that a large number of people had been within at the time of the explosion. Contrary to the usual custom no fire followed and the work of rescuing those within the wrecked buildings had to be done in darkness or by lanterns. Twenty-two people were taken out in an incredibly short time by ready volunteers assisted by members of the fire brigade. Nearly all of them required immediate medical aid. Several are so severely injured that at present their recovery is doubtful. The most severely injured are A. E. Jones, proprietor of the bakery; Geo. Murray, Caledonia; Gerard Delacherois, surveyor, Toronto; Thos. Draper, clerk in the bakery. The remainder escape with sprains, bruises from falling debris and cuts from flying glass. Delacherois was taken to the Hamilton hospital. The remainder are being taken care of in their homes by local doctors. Both stores are completely wrecked. The cause of the explosion is supposed to have been a leak in the pipe leading from an acetylene gas machine in the cellar of the bakery.

The Western Express Company was robbed recently of $800 at Sudbury, Ont. by an unknown man. The money was addressed to the Traders Bank of Canada. The excursion steamer Sunshine sank Monday afternoon at Broad Ripple Park Indianapolis Indiana with one hundred and eighty passengers on board, all but one of whom were men. No person was drowned but several were injured in the panic. The steamer was overloaded and broke in two but as it was not in deep water the passengers clung to the upper works until rescued.

At a late hour Thursday night the main buildings of the Carris-Patterson Co's plant on the outskirts of Halifax were destroyed by fire. It started in the boiler department and spread rapidly over the whole place. The factory was beyond city water service and very little could be done to save the property. For the Canadian product, the export demand has been unusually active and shipments from Montreal since the opening of navigation total 575,836 boxes or 131,204 boxes more than a year ago—a record only once before exceeding. This was in the banner year of 1903 when over a million boxes were exported up to August.

As a result of a battle between two of the big Chinese societies in a Chinese theatre in Doyer Street New York last Sunday night two Chinamen were killed, a third and probably a fourth fatally wounded, and many others injured. When the police succeeded in quelling the riot they had arrested more than enough of the inhabitants of the Chinese quarters to fill Elizabeth Street and other Police stations in the vicinity. According to report received by the police, Hop Sing Tong started the trouble and deliberately selected the Chinese theatre which is seldom visited by the police as the most favorable scene for his operations.

The jewelry store of J. Smith St. Catharines, Ont., was robbed of a tray of diamonds at about two thirty o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The thieves selected their times when Mr. Smith was at dinner and sent two men first to engage the two clerks. The third followed watched his chance and rushed to the open door of the shop case, seized the tray and walked out. His two pals soon left. The clerks discovered the robbery and gave the alarm. Several officers are in pursuit. It is known that the thieves hired a rig and drove towards Niagara Falls. The diamonds are valued at $1800.

Montreal advices of Saturday say: The Grand Trunk Pacific will probably have a section of their main line under contract in the near future. It is officially announced that a number of leading contractors have been asked to take cognizance of the company's plans for some 275 miles of the main line west of Portage LaPrairie, and tender for the same. These plans will be at the disposition of the contractors from the 8th to the 28th of the present month at the headquarters of the company here. After looking at the specifications it is quite likely that intending tenders will have to go over the proposed section. It now looks as if the first section of the G. T. P. will be under contract by September. It is understood the company will accept the tenders for the entire 275 miles, or for a portion of the same.

London advices of the 8th say: The Privy Council has refused the C. P. R. owners of the Empire of India leave to appeal in their suit against the Chinese government. The application was dismissed with costs. This case was in reference to an accident which took place two years ago, when the Empire of India was bound from Shanghai to Hong Kong, when she was overhauled by the Chinese second class cruiser Kwangtung bound for Canton and suddenly altered her course across the Empire's bow and before the latter could be stopped rammed the cruiser which sank in a few minutes. All the crew with the exception of eight men were picked up, but the others were drowned, and a good deal of Mexican specie also on board was lost. The Chinese government took the case before an International Tribunal at Shanghai which found against the C. P. R., mulcting them in the sum of nine thousand pounds. The decision was based on a ruling that any ship astern of another must anticipate the movements of the other vessel. The C. P. R. plea, was that the Kwangtung evidently got out of control and pursued her course so erratic that her action in crossing the Empire's bow could not be anticipated.

A New York despatch of yesterday says: According to a Portsmouth despatch the pessimistic remarks regarding the outcome of the peace conference have come out. The Russian envoy is correct in denying that he gave out any such statement for publication. Immediately after leaving President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay Friday Mr. Witte expressed himself briefly on the subject to a Russian who arrived at Portsmouth yesterday. He said "I am afraid it will be very difficult to make any terms of peace at this conference as the Japanese conditions are too hard for Russia to accept." It is understood that Witte outlined the Japanese demands from President Roosevelt who had previously seen Baron Komura. The Russian envoy was much more hopeful for peace before his visit to Oyster Bay.

Robin's Wheat.

BY ROBERT GUTERMAN.

In Brittany, in Brittany, The summer time is sweet With robin's mellow litaney And field of waving wheat; In Brittany, in Brittany, A simple tale is told When, peared with rain, the sunlit grain O'erwhelms the land with gold. There came a band of holy men In russet gowns or gray, To teach the tribes of wood and fen To labor and to pray. They cleared the wild, they trained the vine; The stones that strewed the moor They heaped, and raised a lowly shrine To Him Who loves the poor. And much they longed to till the plain With mattock, plow and hoe, But sought they had of hoarded grain Nor any seed to sow. Then spake their abbot: "Soon or late, Faith conquers every need; Do ye but draw the furrow straight And God will send the seed." With trust and strength they drove the share, They turned the loamy sod; They made the furrow deep and fair And left the rest to God. When red was all the glowing west As sacramental wine There came a bird of crimson breast And perched upon the shrine, Within his bill of golden brown A heavy head of wheat; He dropped the fruitful burden down Before the abbot's feet. The precious kernels, one by one, The friars laid in place; The green blades leaped; beneath the sun The harvest throve apace; And year by year it multiplied, And spread on every hand, Till "robin's wheat" is waving wide Through all the pleasant land. In Brittany, in Brittany, When summertime is sweet With robin's mellow litaney Above the rolling wheat, On harvest-field and burdened wain From peasant lips is heard The tale of him who brought the grain— The ruddy-breasted bird. —Youth's Companion.

The Ups and Downs of Marjorie.

BY MARY T. WAGGAMAN.

(From the Ave Maria.)

(Concluded.)

XV.—ST. VINCENT'S PICNIC.

"We can and we will," answered the Judge, with an odd tremor in his voice. "But St. Vincent's is rather a dull place for a frolic, isn't it, Marjorie? Suppose we bring the party out here and make a picnic?" "Out here?" exclaimed the little girl, breathlessly. "Oh, goodness, wouldn't that be splendid?" And the look in the brown eyes settled matters. That picnic must be, Judge Lindsay resolved, if he had to cable to Rome for consent. But there was no need for any such extraordinary efforts. Mother Thomasina, who had been beaming with joy ever since she had heard of little Marjorie's fortune, was quite willing to convey the picnic herself. And what a picnic it was! Marjorie felt there never had been such a day of delight from the beginning of the world, as that wonderful Easter Monday, when the two big stages hired for the occasion rolled into the gates of Manor Hill, and fifty little blue-skirted, white-apron-

ed girls tumbled out upon lawn and carriage-way. Everybody was there to see and help along the fun; old Mrs. Lacy and Mrs. Hill and Miss Betty Crofton; Bert and Dick and Evelyn; Mrs. Tibbs and Polly; old Lem, his brown face fairly beaming; and Father James, who declared he would not have missed the occasion for a cardinal's hat.

What a day it was! How the old place rang with glad voices and happy laughter; while lawn and grove and garden seemed fairly ablaze with orphea flowers in blue and white! What joyful shouts went up under the oaks, as the big swings old Lem had rigged up for the sturdy boughs went flying skyward under Bert's mighty "pushes!"

What chattering there was on the old croquet grounds, where Dick Hill guided mallets and balls! What a merry, chattering crowd Marjorie led to see the new chickens and the turkey gobbler and the calf! What a wonderful day it was, with Mother Thomasina's mellow laugh making a deeper note in the silvery music; and Sister Angela forgetting to chide even when Molly Byrne left half her apron on the chicken-yard fence!

Old Nora—dear old Nora—who had come with the rest, beaming with triumph that Marjorie's "golden fortune" was found!

"I thought you would be dressed fine as Helen Grosvenor," said Nellie Deane, critically regarding the blue skirt and white apron of Marjorie. "Oh, no!" was the quick reply of the little hostess.

"I wanted to look just like the rest of you to-day. Grandfather!—O girls, I do hope you'll all get grandfathers, too; they're so nice! Grandfather took me to town and bought me lots of things—a new hat and coat and shoes, and dresses with tucks and buttons. But, for real fun, I'd rather have this old blue skirt. There's the very tear I gave it in the Zoo last Christmas and that Sister Angela made me mend."

"You'll never have to mend any more," said Nellie, with an envious sneer. "Oh, yes I will!" I'm going to Mont Marie to school, and I'll have to learn to do everything. But I'll come home every Saturday and have grand times. Grandfather wants me to learn how to row and swim and shoot and drive. And I am to have two grey ponies and a cute little phaeton. I'll come to St. Vincent's and take you all out in turn's. Oh, I'll never forget St. Vincent's and the fun we had there together—never!" concluded Marjorie, giving the two friends with whom she was walking "arms around" a loving squeeze.

"Goodness!" exclaimed Molly Byrne, starting as they passed the cedars. "There's a graveyard!" "Yes," replied Marjorie. "It's Miss Martha's." Everybody she loves is buried there. And, O girls, won't it be lovely! Grandfather is going to put up a little chapel there—a dear little tiny chapel, with a beautiful marble altar—in memory of my mother, who was his own only little girl, like I am now. There's no church near here, and Father James will come every other Sunday and say Mass."

And Marjorie chattered on confidently, as the little orphan of yore, until a big bell sounded calling back all the ramblers to luncheon.

And it was a luncheon—grandfather and Miss Martha had seen to that; no skimpy little hand-around affair, but a real luncheon, spread on long tables under the trees; with Father James to say grace, and half a dozen grinning waiters to bring in creamed chicken and hot biscuits and sandwiches, and everything else good.

What a clatter of knives and forks and merry tongues filled the air! What a momentary hush of breathless delight when the ice-cream appeared, in all sorts of surprising shapes—towers and baskets and birds and flowers, that seemed almost too pretty to eat! How the fun rose again when the French "kisses" were popped hilariously, each dis closing some gay little favor, and Marjorie banded around the pretty boxes of French candy to be taken home!

We like best to call SCOTT'S EMULSION a food because it stands so emphatically for perfect nutrition. And yet in the matter of restoring appetite, of giving new strength to the tissues, especially to the nerves, its action is that of a medicine.

SCOTT'S EMULSION, CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC CURE, and other medicines.

And, finally, what a chorus of joy arose when Humpty Dumpty himself came tumbling in on the scene, from no one knew where—a truly wonderful Humpty Dumpty, who could twist himself into anything, and did tricks for an hour or so, finishing up by playing football with his own head, which he potted upon a tree! Some of the tiny tots were so overcome at this that he had to turn a somersault and appear with the new head of a laughing clown, who informed the company that he had in his pocket just fifty-two tickets for the circus next week; and if they could be any use to Miss Marjorie Mayne's friends he would leave them with Mother Thomasina, with fifty-two dimes for the necessary adjuncts to a circus ticket, peanuts and pink lemonade.

All St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum going to a circus! Marjorie led the grateful cheer that arose at this announcement, and felt she couldn't be awake—that it must be a delightful dream.

And when at last the sun went down behind the cedars, and the beautiful day was done, Mother Thomasina marshalled her little band on the wide porch of Manor Hill; and while they waited there for the big stages to come, Sister Angela clasped her hands in the usual signal, and fifty sweet little voices rose in music that touched every listener's heart, and made old Judge Lindsay look down at his little Marjorie with eyes that grew tender and misty, as, holding his hand, she led as of old the evening hymn:

Mother of the motherless, Mary pure and fair, Shield us through the darkness With thy loving care; Be the orphan's Mother, Hear the orphan's prayer Ave Sanctissima! Ave Purissima! Ora, ora, pro nobis!

Mother of the motherless, Fades the dying day; Lead us through the shadows, Lost our footsteps stray; Be the orphan's Mother, Mother dear, we pray! Ave Sanctissima! Ave Purissima! Ora, Ora, pro nobis! (The End.)

Crimes in the Name of Labor.

Since Chicago is the hope and the stronghold of the social reformers who pin their faith to the trade union and its plenary power over industry, in Chicago of all places trade unionism might be expected to be clean and to be conducted with an eye single to the welfare of the workers. Nowhere more heartily than in Chicago are the philanthropists of the social settlements identified with the trade union in its extreme pretensions. The tendency of these philanthropists everywhere, in their anxiety to be in sympathy with their adopted neighbors, is to swim with, or even ahead of, the current of their thought on social and industrial questions, instead of bringing to them a new light or a moderating influence. This has been especially true in Chicago, the hotbed of radical labor movements. Yet, if we may trust the findings of the Cook County Grand Jury, some of the most influential of the Chicago labor unions are merely instruments of private "grafting," and should never have had any countenance from the seekers for social betterment. The grand jury has just handed down a long list of indictments. Four of them are for conspiracy between labor unionists and brick manufacturers to injure the business of independent brick concerns. Thirteen union officials were indicted for conspiracy to injure the business of Montgomery, Ward & Co., thirty-two members or friends of the teamsters' union were indicted for violence in the strike, and, in addition, the grand jury made a presentment recounting the methods of union officials in levying blackmail and exploiting their power over honest workers to enrich themselves.

It is always possible to make some allowance for the extravagances and excesses of earnest men honestly seeking the redress of grievances. When a labor union really tries to promote the welfare of laboring men we sympathize with it, even if we feel that it is aiming blindly and are compelled to condemn it for lawless and unjust methods. But who can defend labor unionism which lets itself be exploited by blackmailers within its own ranks, or be made the tool of capital for the oppression of rival employers? This misuse of trade unionism has been growing. The Chicago indictments are a continuation of the story revealed by the prosecution of Sam Parks. It then appeared that both in New York and Chicago the building trades were a sink of corruption, and that the antagonism of employer and employed was to a great extent merely a blind, covering dishonest combinations of some employes and some employers for the oppression of the general public and the persons in the trade outside their company. Now it appears that trade union "graft" flourishes among the truck drivers, the elevated railroad conductors, the building janitors, the electric workers and the meat packers. Where such things are true

Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Stomach Cramps and all Summer Complaints take

Don't experiment with new and untried remedies, but procure that which has stood the test of time. Dr. Fowler's has stood the test for 60 years, and has never failed to give satisfaction. It is rapid, reliable and effectual in its action and does not leave the bowels constipated. REFUSE ALL SUBSTITUTES. THEY'RE DANGEROUS.

Max. BROOKS LEEK, Aymer, Que., writes: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for diarrhoea for several years past and I find it to be the only medicine which brings relief in so short a time."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Fully Explained

"You say, madam," said a lawyer to a woman in the witness-box, "that the defendant is a sort of relation of yours. Will you please explain what you mean by that—just how you are related to the defendant?"

"Well it's just like this. His first wife's cousin and my second husband's first wife's aunt married brothers named Jones, and they were own cousins to my mother's own aunt. Then, again, his grandfather on his mother's side and my grandmother on my mother's side were second cousins, and his stepmother married my husband's stepfather after his father and my mother died, and his brother Joe and my husband's brother Henry married twin sisters. I ain't never figured out just how close related we are, but I've always looked on him as a sort of cousin."

Lord Russell's Tribute to the Confessional.

In "The Catholic Church, Her Faith, Works, Triumphs," the following letter, addressed to the Times, of London, some years ago, by the late Lord Chief Justice, Lord Russell, of Killowen, is quoted: "During over thirty years I have made certainly more than 1,700 confessions to hundreds of different confessors, and in various countries, and I have never discovered therein any trace of wrong or harm. In addition to my belief in a priest's power of absolution, which as a Catholic I hold, I have found that the duties, incident to every confession, of making a careful examination of my conscience, an express and vigorous mental act of sorrow, and a firm resolution to avoid sin, most useful; and though these mental acts may be made without intending confession, the habit of confession certainly causes many of them, which would otherwise not be made. My experiences of confession have, so far as man can judge, been those of my mother, sisters, wife and daughters, and of many female friends, and I have always noticed in myself and others that devotedness and regular attendance at confession and at Holy Communion which it ordinarily precedes, ebb and flow together."
