A Great Intrigue,

Mistress of Darracourt.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"No, a thousand times no!" exclaimed Marie, sharply. "That is, if you do not want to bring him to ruin. Why, you silly girl, wouldn't he want to come back here and face the thing? And if he did, wouldn't they find him guilty and send him to penal servitude?"

"Ah, yes; I see, miss!" moaned Susie. "Oh, dear, dear! Poor Master Harry!"

"You see! Not a word to him. Tell him anything you like—tell him that you have left service for a change—anything that will keep him from coming back and falling into the trap. Stop!"—her face lit up—"I will tell you what to tell him. Say that the marquis is engaged to be married to Miss Lucille!"

"Oh, Miss Marie!"

"Yes; or better still, that she is married to him. He must not come back, mind; nor must you. If either of you do you are lost. There—put the money away safely. I will send you some more to London. You had better take a different name when you get there. And you must be careful to say nothing to any one. Now, do you think you can do all this?"

"Yes," said poor Susie, exhausted and utterly crushed, but quite strong in her resolve to save Harry; "I can do it!"

"Then I'll go and get the clothes. Go into the room there and wait. I will lock the door, so that no one can come in. If they should, you can creep through the window. There, dry your eyes and get cool. Pluck up all your spirit, Susie. Remember, it is to save Master Harry from penal servitude!"

And with these encouraging words

MRS. MABEN WAS MADE WELL

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Wants Other Suffering Women To Know It.

Murfreesboro, Tenn. — "I have wanted to write to you for a long time to tell you what your wonderful remedies have done for me. I was a sufferer from female weakness and displacement and I would have such tired, worn out feelings, sick headaches and dizzy spells. Doctors did me no good so I tried the Lydia E. Pinkham Remedies—Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash. I am now well and strong and can do all my own work. I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and want other suffering women to know about it."—Mrs. H. E. Maben, 211 S. Spring St., Murfreesboro, Tenn.

"This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Why Lose Hope.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (consultants) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CHAPTER XIX.

Leaving Susie locked up in the hut, Marie Verner, keeping under the shelter of the wood, and then of the shrubbery, sped to the Court.

It was still early, and though some of the servants were up and about, Mrs. Dalton and Lucille were in their rooms. The latter, indeed, lay locked in that sleep which follows a period of excitement.

Marie watched until she saw that the hall was clear, then darted noiselessly up the back stairs, and went cautiously into Mrs. Dalton's dressing room. That lady being a pattern of neatness, Marie had no difficulty in finding a bonnet and dress and cloak to suit her purpose, and, concealing them as well as she could under her own shawl, she started again for the hut.

It was a dangerous game she was playing; one false step, her discovery by one of the servants, would ruin all; but though her face was paler than usual, and her heart beat fast, she did not hesitate. To tell the truth, she felt a strange sense of enjoyment in the work.

"I was born to be a conspirator," she murmured, screwing her thin lips into a smile. "In Russia I should head a Nihilist gang, and be the first to plot against the powers that be. Poor Susie! If I had had my choice of a dupe, I could not have been better suited."

She found the door locked as she had left it, and Susie crouching in the inner room, half dead with fear and misery.

"Oh, Miss Marie!" she moaned. "I thought you were never coming!"

"I have been as quick as I could, Susie," said Marie Verner. "I have had to get the things, you know. Put them on as quickly as you can—here let me help you."

Susie shrank back when she recognized Mrs. Dalton's clothes.

"Oh, Miss Marie, I cannot put them on! It's—it's like stealing!" she cried, trembling; but Marie seized her by the arm and shook her slightly.

"Don't be a fool," she said. "What does it matter? I tell you, you have no time to lose! You will have to hurry as it is, if you want to get to the station before Lord Merle and the police set to work. Remember, if you are caught, Harry Herne is lost! And Susie, thus adjured, permitted her to exchange the plain cotton frock for the other clothes.

When she had finished Marie held her at arm's length and surveyed her critically.

"You will do," she declared, with a smile of satisfaction. "Keep the veil down and your wits about you, and all will go off well. Don't tremble so! I tell you there is nothing to be afraid of, and that you are quite safe while you do as I bid you. Here, drink some water. You have no breakfast yet."—She broke off, and, going into the next room, found a jug of milk and a crust of bread. She forced Susie to drink the milk and put the bread in her pocket. "Get something to eat at the station, where you stop for five minutes; here is some small change. Have you the rest of the money safe?"

"Yes, miss," replied Susie, a little more firmly.

"Come on, then, I will go with you as far as the break of the wood. When you are on the high road you are all right. Don't speak to any one and keep your veil down; and remember, Susie, that it depends upon you whether Harry Herne gets off or is sent to prison for life."

Poor Susie braced herself up for the effort, and the two emerged from the hut and made their way toward the road.

The disguise was so good a one that there was not the slightest possibility of any one recognizing the slim, girlish figure and fresh, pretty face of Susie in the full, dark dress and veiled bonnet of Mrs. Dalton.

At the gate by the road, Marie Verner drew back cautiously and pressed Susie's arm by way of farewell.

"I will write to-night," she whispered. "Do nothing until you hear from me. Good-by, and be careful. You know how much depends upon you!"

Susie nodded. She was crying no longer, but stared before her with dull, heavy eyes in which, through their

Marvelous Balsamic Essences Cure Catarrh

No Drugs To Take—A Direct Breathing Cure!

Statistics Prove Ninety-Seven Per Cent of Canada's Population is Infested With the Germs of Catarrh.

This disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the Bronchial tubes and lungs, where it causes Consumption. Unfortunately the people have had faith in sprays, ointments and snuffs, which can't possibly cure, and in consequence catarrhal disease has become a national cure. Science is advancing every day, and fortunately a remedy has been discovered that not only cures but prevents Catarrh. This new treatment "Catarrhose" has sufficient power to kill the germs of Bronchitis, Catarrh and Asthma. It contains pure pine essences and healing balsams that go to the remotest part of the nose, throat and lungs, carrying health-giving medication to every spot that is tainted or weak. You don't take Catarrhose like cough mixture—you inhale its healing vapor at the mouth and it spreads all through the breathing organs, soothing and curing wherever Catarrh exists. This is nature's way of supplying the richest balsams, the purest antiseptics known to science.

A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes. A harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system.

For Asthma and Bronchial Irritation nothing can equal Catarrhose—every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment if suffering with a winter ill. The complete outfit costs $1.00, medium size, 50c., at all dealers.

heaviness, shone a glimmer of determination.

"No, miss; I understand. I'll do it for the sake of Master Harry! Good-by!" And with a parting glance of farewell toward the village, Susie lowered her head and walked on.

Marie Verner watched her until the carefully disguised figure passed out of sight, then she stealthily made her way back to the Court, and going up to her own room, quickly changed her frock for her dressing-gown, and threw herself into a chair.

Half an hour passed, and then she heard Lucille's bell.

Rising, and bathing her face, she went to Lucille's door and opened it.

"May I come in, dear?" she asked.

"Yes—is that you, Marie? I thought it was Susie," said Lucille.

She was standing in the centre of the room, in her morning robe, her hair falling over her shoulders in a golden flood, a dazed, happy light glowing in her eyes. Marie came up to her and kissed her.

"How well you look this morning, dear," she said, lovingly; "and so happy, too!"

"I am happy," assented Lucille, softly. "Where is Susie?"

"I don't think she is well," said Marie. "She was standing in the centre of the room, in her morning robe, her hair falling over her shoulders in a golden flood, a dazed, happy light glowing in her eyes. Marie came up to her and kissed her."

WARNING!

IN THE INTEREST OF THE PUBLIC SAFETY.

The Rifle Range on the South Side Hill will be in constant use, from daylight till dark, for musketry practice, until our Regiment leaves for England.

All persons are therefore prohibited from approaching the Rifle Range within 200 yards from either side, or within 1,000 yards of the targets to the eastward.

Any unauthorized person so doing will be liable to arrest, besides incurring serious danger from rifle bullets.

A number of red flags will be used to indicate the Danger Zone. This prohibition does not extend to any part of the Hills west of the 800 yards Firing Point.

By order,

Dear Sir,

We beg to draw your attention to the advantages offered, both in the way of security and privacy, by our Safety Deposit system which has recently been installed in our vault. The system is the most modern and complete that is known, and is deposited in a vault of exceptional strength and safety. The boxes are individual and can only be opened with the joint aid of the key in the possession of the Company and of that in the custody of the customer. They are of solid metal and are arranged in nests of fifty, so that no box can be removed from the vault separately from the rest.

The boxes are rented at $4.00, $5.00 up to $20.00 a year, according to size. An inspection of the installation is invited.

GERMANS ABANDON EQUIPMENTS

PARIS, Sept. 15. (Official.) During the 14th and 15th our pursuing forces came in contact with the German rear guards. The latter were compelled to show fight after being reinforced by some of their main armies. The enemy is offering battle on the whole line certain points of which they have most strongly fortified. This German battle front runs along the region of Noyon, the heights north of Vic-sur-Aisne, Soissons, Laon, the heights north of Ville-sur-Tourbe, thence continuing beyond the Argonne Mountains, passing north of Verdun—this point has fallen into the hands of the allies—and reaches the river Meuse near the forest of Forges north of Verdun. During the pursuit effected after the battle of the Marne, the Germans abandoned considerable equipments and numerous prisoners were taken. The War Office has not given an estimate of the number, but says it will only publish the same when exact figures can be procured.

AUSTRIANS STILL RETREATING.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 16. Our operations in the region of Lublin and Kholm are completing the Russian successes against the Austrians who are still retreating. At Radom a division of the Landwehr and Germans who came to the rescue of the Austrians, were defeated by Russian cavalry. The latter took 125 prisoners. The Serbs are occupying Visegrad.

SITUATION FAVORABLE TO ALLIES.

LONDON, Sept. 16. The official statement says the situation continues favorable to the allies. The Germans are slowly drawing back. Several attacks have been repulsed with heavy German losses. The British have captured two thousand prisoners.

GERMAN ATROCITIES AND BELGIAN PROTEST.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. The Belgian bill of complaint against the German Army was this afternoon laid before President Wilson in the historic east room of the White House. The President received the delegation of Commissioners appointed by the King of Belgium to protest against alleged outrages in Belgium by German troops. A carefully prepared response by the President awaited the Commissioners, who were accompanied by and introduced by Secretary of State Lansing. The Belgian Minister and attaches of the Belgian legation were also present.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S REPLY TO THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. President Wilson, yesterday, replied to Emperor William's protest that the Allies were using dum-dum bullets. The President's reply follows closely the statement made to the Belgian Commissioners protesting against alleged German atrocities. His reply to President Poincaré's message will follow along the same lines. The text of the President's reply to Emperor William is as follows: "I received your imperial Majesty's important communication of the 7th, and have read it with the gravest interest and concern. I am honored that you should have turned to me for an impartial judgment as the representative of a people truly disinterested in regard to the present war, and truly desirous of knowing and accepting the truth. You will, I am sure, not expect me to say more, presently. I pray God that very soon this war will be over. The day of accounting will then come, when I take it for granted that the nations of Europe will assemble and determine a settlement, where the wrongs committed and their consequences, and their responsibility involved will be assessed. The nations of the world, fortunately, by agreement, have made plans for such a reckoning and settlement. It would be unwise, it would be premature, for a single Government however fortunately separated from the present struggle, and it would even be inconsistent with the neutral position of any nation which, like this, has no part in the contest, to form or express final judgment. I speak thus frankly because I know that you will expect and wish me to do so as one friend should to another, because I feel sure that such reservation of judgment until the end of the war, when all its events and circumstances can be set in their entirety and their true relation, will commend itself to you as a true expression of sincere neutrality." (Signed) Woodrow Wilson.

BATTLE RAGING NEAR NOYON.

PARIS, Sept. 16. Noyon, the birthplace of Voltaire and also celebrated for its connection with Charlemagne, formed to-day the extreme left of the allied line, which for twelve days has not lost its close and constant contact with the Germans, and has done brilliant work in driving them back. From Noyon the line of battle sweeps southwards, then north to Laon fortress, forming a half circle, and from the fortress stretches east to the Meuse north of the first fort of Verdun, where, it is stated, the Allies' right wing is pushing the Germans northwards. The fact that the battle is raging within short distance of Paris passes almost unperceived at the French capital. Trains filled with prisoners or wounded do not pass through the city, but pass around over the belt railway. Those of the wounded able to converse, declare the fighting fierce, but that the Allies feel that success in the end is certain.

SUSPENSION BILL PASSES LORDS.

LONDON, Sept. 16. The House of Lords, to-day, passed through all its stages the bill suspending operations of the Home Rule and Welsh Disestablishment Bills.

STATES PROTESTS TO TURKEY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. The United States Ambassador at Constantinople was instructed to protest to the Turkish Government against its abrogation of the capitulations (relative to the status of foreigners in Turkey). Secretary Bryan announced to-day.

GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED.

LONDON, Sept. 16. The Official Press Bureau, yesterday, gave out a statement, which says that the general position along the Aisne River continues very favorable. The enemy has delivered many counter attacks, especially against our front lines. These have been repulsed, and the Germans have given way slightly before our troops, and the French armies on our right and left have been very heavily engaged and we have taken 200 prisoners.

GERMAN CRUISER TORPEDOED.

LONDON, Sept. 16. The Admiralty announces that the submarine E 9, Lieut.-Commander Horton, has returned safely after having torpedoed a German cruiser six miles south of Heligoland. It is believed the cruiser was the Hele.

AUSTRIANS TERRIBLE LOSSES.

LONDON, Sept. 16. The Official Press Bureau issued the following announcement last night: It is stated from Russian official sources that the rout of the Austrians in Galicia is complete though full details have not been received. The Austrian loss since the taking of Lemberg, is estimated at 250,000 killed and wounded, 100,000 prisoners and 400 guns, many colors and vast quantities of stores. The Germans made desperate efforts to save the Austrian army, but failed completely. At one point the Germans lost 36 pieces of heavy artillery, and at another several dozen pieces of siege artillery.

NOTHING NEW FROM FRENCH SOURCES.

PARIS, Sept. 16. The French official statement issued to-night, announces that headquarters sent no new details of the action now being fought along the Aisne River. Up to 6 o'clock to-night we have not weakened on any point.

Rheumatism Goes Quickly its Virus Forever Destroyed

EVERY CASE IS CURABLE.

Good-bye to Rheumatism! Your aching joints, your stiff, sore muscles, those sleepless nights and suffering days—good-bye forever—your day is gone. Sufferer, cheer up, and read the good news below.

"A man met me a month ago, and said, 'don't stay crippled, quit complaining, limber up.' My answer was, 'I'm rheumatic, I can't do it.' He looked me over in a playing sort of way and told me to go to the nearest drug store for Neville's and Ferrone's. The combination had cured me. I was convinced of his sincerity and followed his instructions. I rubbed on Neville's three times every day—rubbed it right into my aching joints. The pain quickly lessened, and I became more limber and active. To draw the virus of the disease from my blood I took two Ferrone's Tablets with every meal. I am well to-day, not an ache, not a pain and no sign of stiffness at all."

What Neville's can do in a case like this it can do for you too. For nearly forty years Neville's has been recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica and Lame Back. It is the one remedy that never disappoints.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hanson Fuesler

One Woman's Tragedy

All that week Marian scanned the newspaper columns with anxious concern, and much to her gratification she beheld no story of Calhoun's suicide. Nights the brooding clouds of apprehension kept recurring insistently, and the philosophy of Mrs. McCarrens, to whom she had begun to feel very close, helped greatly in enabling her to keep her balance.

Early the next week came a picture post card from Atlantic City. The only writing upon it was "From the Foolish Boy." While it was not entirely reassuring, it relieved Marian immensely.

"What did I tell you," laughed Mrs. McCarrens, when Marian showed it to her. "He'll be playing about the same coppers in Atlantic City, I presume. He's not grown up yet by a great deal."

"What makes a man so angry to be called a boy?" mused Marian aloud. "It's his egotism, replied the older woman. 'Egotism is the cause of nine-tenths of all the trouble between men and women. It's the cause of all the trouble between women. I mean the sort of egotism that tries to lord it over another. The pity of it is that it's natural. My own egotism, for instance, has made my life a tragedy. Try as I will and do, I seem unable to overcome it. I'm a living example of what I condemn in others,'" she smiled sadly.

"I shouldn't call you an egotist," but in Marian anxious to hear the revelation of self which she anticipated her companion was about to make.

"But I know that I am," was the answer. "And I am paying the penalty for it every day. I'm miserable because I want my son to grow up in accordance with my ideals of manhood. I'm miserable because I'm afraid he will fall frightfully short of

Speaking of Peace.

Mysterious hints are cropping out in a variety of quarters touching the coming of peace in Europe. It's a delightful thought, welcomed by every one. The armies in the field, soldiers' relatives outside, levelled cities, untilled fields, suffering women and children, all cry for peace.

Last, but by no means least, the disturbed and in some instances wrecked conditions of business demand it.

But it is no use "saying peace, peace, when there is no peace." Desirable as it's advent would be, peace must come in such shape that, so far as human mind can compass it, there will be no possibility of any fire-brand again suddenly setting a goodly portion of the world by the ears.

It is feared some now prating of peace have the Nobel Prize, with its monetary value, honors and attendant advertising, in view.

Above all, it must be remembered peace in Europe will come when France, Russia, Great Britain and Japan say so and not till then.—N. Y. Telegram.

Seize 30 Germans Asleep in Barn.

PARIS, Sept. 11.—During the third day's fighting in the battle on the Marne a detachment of the French which had chased the enemy out of a village was halted by an old woman, who led them to a barn where there was still thirty Germans, telling them to make no noise, as they were asleep.

A man crept noiselessly into the barn and found the Germans sleeping so soundly that it took half an hour and a tremendous shaking to wake them. One explained that he had not slept for three days. They had been harassed by the French and English and the evening before they had entered the barn, where all fell asleep from sheer exhaustion.

"Take Me Back."

Lovers of music who attended the popular Crescent last night were impressed by Miss Clark's singing of Irving Berlin's latest success, "Take Me Back" and pronounced it to be one of the favorite prima donna's best numbers. The feature picture: "The End of the Road" is a very interesting drama with a pathetic story. "The Plaything" is one of those high class society dramas that is full of dramatic situations and is intensely interesting. "Betty's Bandit," a frontier western comedy, is just the opposite of the other two, plenty of life and vim and laughter. The same bill is repeated to-night.

The great Jewish feature: "The Jews' Christmas" is on the way.

An Inspiring Manifesto.

To-morrow the British Parliament will be prorogued. The King will consent to the Home Rule Bill and to go on the Statute Book and come into operation on the close of the war. For over a century the majority of the Irish nation have looked forward to the day when Home Rule for Ireland should be enacted. We are now on the eve of that day, and with to-morrow's sun that day will arrive. In her great day of decision when England found it necessary in honor to declare war on Germany, John Redmond stepped to the front and declared that every soldier of the King might be released from duty in Ireland, and that Nationalist and Unionist volunteers would stand shoulder to shoulder to keep the Union Jack flying in Ireland.

His were the forewords of that enthusiasm and patriotism which have thrilled the hearts of Britons the world over. No matter what their race or their color, they have all flocked to the defence of the flag, and shown a true union of hearts, heads and hands. Now on the eve of Home Rule day, John Redmond has issued a manifesto, reminding the Irish people that the democracy of Great Britain have been true to them, and that the need of the day is fighting men at the front. What more powerful appeal could be made for recruits to fill up the ranks of the million troops Kitchener is calling for.

Redmond rose to the occasion in the fight for Home Rule. He rose to the occasion when Britain declared war. He has now risen to the occasion when Kitchener called for troops and selected the eve of the enactment of Home Rule as the most opportune moment.

We have secured control of the Schall Foot Specialties, including the Schall Foot Eazer, Schall's Bunion Reducer, Absorb Corn Pads, Toe Right and Foot Soap. The Scholl Foot Eazer is of course the main feature in the series; and its work is to set right many kinds of foot trouble by simply supporting the foot arch, thus curing flat foot, strengthening weak ankles, in many cases banishing what was supposed to be rheumatic pains in foot and ankle, and in all cases helping the wearer to walk easier. The Scholl Foot Eazer can be adapted (if necessary while you wait to any foot and shoe), and is sold in all sizes for ladies and men, and may be had narrow or wide measure. We invite all who suffer from foot trouble of whatever kind and from whatever cause, to come in and talk the matter over with us.

Obituary.

JAMES O'REILL.

A well known citizen in the person of James O'Neill passed away at his late residence, Power Street, this morning. The deceased was 63 years of age, and had spent practically all his lifetime in the employ of Bishop and Monroe. He held a position of trust and in that capacity rendered satisfaction to his employers and their patrons alike. The old-time dealers of this firm, which has undergone some changes in recent years, will regret to hear of the passing of "Jimmy O'Neill," whose name had grown to be a household word in many of the outports, whence platters came semi-annually for their supplies. Besides a widow he leaves two sons and five daughters, to whom the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

PROBATION ON FRIDAY.
 LONDON, To-day. Parliament will probably be prorogued on Friday. The new session is understood to begin the first week in November, unless some National emergency should demand the earlier attendance of members.

REDMOND'S INSPIRING WORDS.
 LONDON, To-day. "The democracy of Great Britain have kept faith with Ireland, and it is now a duty of honour for Ireland to keep faith with them," says John Redmond, in a manifesto issued in which he calls on Irishmen to bear their share in the war in which the Empire engaged. "The Irish people," Redmond continued, "know and appreciate the fact, fully that at last after centuries of misunderstanding, the democracy of Great Britain have finally and irrevocably decided to trust them and give them back their national liberty. By an overwhelming British majority the charter of liberty for Ireland has three times been passed by the Commons and in a few hours will be the law of the land. A new era has opened in the history of the two nations. We have even when no ties of sympathy bound our country to Great Britain always given our quota, and more than our quota, to the firing line, and we shall do so now."

THE AUSTRIAN RETREAT.
 LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Petrograd gives out as the situation in Galicia: A portion of Gorem has been occupied by the Russians. It is 13 miles west of Lemberg. The Austrians abandoned this position after the capture of Lemberg, Moskala, to which the Russians have advanced, is a little over 40 miles west of Lemberg on the main line between Przemyel and Lemberg. The shattered second Austrian army was evidently incapable of staying the Russian advance and took refuge in Przemyel, from which the Russians, according to the latest official report, are only 19 miles.

The Four British Belles
 First Class Singers and Expert Dancers.

The Evelyn Keen Troupe of first class lady singers and dancers, the best in the business and known as the Four British Belles, will commence an engagement at the Mossley Theatre to-night. They are young, good-looking and British and stand at the head of their profession. Mr. Rossley has had the bad luck to get one or two companies from the States who were not what they wrote him they were, so in future he will give his own side of the water a chance to prove what the British performer can do. Those young ladies are living in the house of Mr. and Mrs. Rossley, and we feel sure they are what the Rossleys claim them to be, judging from where they worked in England and on the continent they must be artists;

Patriotic Meeting. The members of the Y. M. A. held a very largely attended meeting of their Association at their club rooms last night when the proceedings were entirely of a patriotic character, and showed the spirit which is in evidence amongst the organization. Mr. Cairns sang a stirring song, entitled "We're marching to the front in the morning"; Mr. L. C. Murphy delivered a well-worded address on the Empire's Volunteers, while Mr. Anderson, in fine voice, sang "Soldiers of the King." The meeting was brought to a close with the rendition of the National Anthem.

Great Pictures at the Nickel. See "The Judgment of Buddha." "The Judgment of Buddha" was presented at the Nickel Theatre last evening to large audiences. It is a thrilling story of the Sultan's life showing the kidnapping of his favorite daughter. Years later she grows into a beautiful dancing girl and the Sultan is impressed with her. Not knowing the relations the Sultan is persuaded to marry, and takes her to be his wife. The priests are informed and the father and daughter will receive forgiveness if the Temple will be rebuilt in ten days. They fall in this, and as punishment both are turned into stone. "The Power of the Sea" was shown last night. It is an interesting and attractive drama in which the charming actress Rosamary played a delightful character. John Bunny and Flora Finch appeared in one of their very funny comedies which kept the audience in roars of laughter. This evening the pictures will be repeated, and all who were not present should make an effort to attend.

Another Warning to Berry Pickers. Notwithstanding the repeated warnings made through the press since the opening of the Southside Range for the practice, berry pickers may be seen daily within the danger zone. To prevent an accident it would be well to have a policeman stationed at the Long Bridge to warn those who go that way to the hills. People should be made to understand that they are courting danger by going east of the range, which section has unfortunately been too much frequented of late.

Heaviest For Years. According to reports brought along by the S. S. Adventure the ice in Hudson Bay this season has been the heaviest for years. On her last trip north the Bonaventure was forty days going from Montreal to Port Nelson, the delay being caused by ice conditions. She left Montreal on July 5th or 21 days before the Adventure. The latter proved herself a more powerful icebreaker and reached her destination first. The Bonaventure was impeded greatly by the heavy ice.

Sulphate of Ammonia. St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your works, and I found 99.5 per cent. of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonium and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manures. Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season. Yours truly, D. JAMES DAVIES, B.S.C., F.C.S. Analyst and Assayer.

Where Responsibility Lies. No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. A Thought for the Times

THE WAR—CHAPTER VIII.
I. C. MORRIS.

Hail to our lads, our Volunteers,
Our town and country's sons;
We'll send them off with thousand cheers,
To man Old England's guns.

We'll send them forth both strong and true,
With blessings on their head;
To stand their ground, and dare and do
Mid fire, and smoke, and lead.

The parade of our lads on Sunday last was of more than ordinary interest to the entire community, and it marks a new departure in our history.
The sight was such as we did not expect to see in St. John's. True, we have seen parades of our brigades, and of our constabulary, and of our societies; and have witnessed many a turn out of our naval men. Forty-five and fifty years ago we were accustomed to see the soldiers of Fort Towns-head about our city; and on the Queen's Birthday watch them in their great reviews on the "Barrens"
—now known as the "Parade Ground."

Those events were very different from what we saw on Sunday, and from what we expect to see for a few weeks more. They were peace movements, and were indicative of good will, law and order; and ended with the sunset. Not so our lads on Sunday. Their parade was not a feature of a day; nor did it end with the sunset. There was a deeper meaning in their manoeuvring, and a greater significance in their presence. These lads are not mere toy soldiers, far from it; they are sworn soldiers of the King, and there is one word in their training which gives effect to their existence as a regiment, and it is the word war.

What a small word, say we. But who can tell the agony of its horror or the depth of its anguish? Who can describe what it means? Who can describe the sight of a modern battle-field?
Terrible indeed is the word; and it is this terrible word that imparts to our regiment its real meaning. Hence we saw them on Sunday as soldiers in uniform, and it was the uniform that really convinced us of what the regiment meant. In the ranks there were five hundred young men, all in the bloom and vigor of life. Stalwart and erect they marched by, loose and agile they swung out their arms, determined and firm they kept step, and in true military style moved on to their headquarters at Pleasantville; while at their front the band of the C.I.B. played those tunes which stir the heart and fire the breast. For the day their march ended at Pleasantville, but Pleasantville is not the end of their marching; but rather is it far away across the sea, in strange places where their numbers will be increased into thousands and where amid the noise of battle array, and amid the prancing of fiery steeds, they will learn the meaning of this little word, this terrible word, war.

Their presence in our midst has created a new phase in our city life, and added a novel chapter to our colonial history. We are all thinking about them, and speaking about them, and their camping grounds have drawn ten thousand of us to old historic Quidi Vidi. By day we see them practice, and by night we view the lights of their rendezvous from the distance. We are getting accustomed to them and we seem to gravitate to the spot whenever we have leisure.
For a few weeks this will be our privilege, and then the silence of the field and the stillness of the place will tell its own tale—the tale of departure.
And this reminds us of the contin-gent of our Naval Reservists who went from us on Saturday, the 5th inst. Was it not an oversight that they were allowed to sail without a "send off"? We are fully aware that "secrecy" has been one of the prominent features of this war; and there is no doubt whatever that this precaution is very necessary. But there are exceptions to all rules, and it would seem that the case of our departing reservists offered such an exception. One hundred of them went, since the establishment of the Naval Reserve here by Governor McCallum, some sixteen years ago, several squads of them have gone south for a six months' tour. These squads consisted of about fifty in number. Before their departure they left the Calypto and paraded through the city to pay their respects to the Governor. On their return they did the

What is Meanness?

By RUTH CAMERON.

There are many people in this world who are far more afraid of appearing mean than of actually being mean.

On the seat in front of me on the trolley the other day a man and a woman were discussing finances in tones so unguarded that I could not accuse myself of eavesdropping in hearing all that they said.

"It will be a week and six days when we leave," said the man. "I suppose we ought to pay her for the full two weeks."

The woman, a thin, anxious little creature with the haunted look in her face of those who are forever harried by money worries, protested.

"But think what that will mean,—about a dollar and ninety cents difference for the three of us. That would just about pay the milk bill. I don't see why we shouldn't pay her just what we owe her and no more."

"No, of course you don't," flung back the man. "That's just like a woman wanting to count the dimes and pennies. I say it would look downright mean. If I pay her I shall pay for the full two weeks."

The woman subsided. As she turned her face to gaze listlessly out of the window, I could almost see the anxious lines deepen. There is nothing in the world more harassing than to struggle along on a small income with an easy-going person who thinks that an attempt to live within tight income is mean.

I pitied her from the very bottom of my heart just as I pity all such.

He evidently thinks she has a mean nature. As a matter of fact, he is the mean one.

Extravagance is often the worst kind of meanness and rigid economy the real liberality.

In a magazine article, supposed to be a true personal history, a man tells how he made a reputation for meanness because he refused to be lavish about little things. His brothers were so afraid of being called men that they never could save a cent. Eventually he was able to help them out of scrapes into which their loose fingered habits had gotten them, and to look after his parents, with the money he had saved by being 'mean.'

He spent large sums in these ways without in the least begrudging them but, even now, wealthy as he is, he says he cannot see a dime wasted without feeling regret. Now, which was really liberal in the highest sense of the word, this man or his brothers?

The most generous man I know cannot bear to see anything wasted. I once went camping in a party with him and when the rest of us would have thrown the remainder of an especially tempting dish away, he objected, hunted up a jar to put it in and carried it home to a friend whom he knew to be particularly fond of that dish.

Throwing money around is not liberality. Unwillingness to waste anything or to overpay when you cannot afford it is not meanness. Remember these things when you are tempted to avoid the appearance of being mean.

Stiffen about six inches of the end of your tape measure and you will find it a great convenience in working.

Cold corned beef is a good meat for summer luncheons or even dinners; it provides the heavy ingredient of a meal and yet is not heavy nor overheating.

YE MARINERS OF ENGLAND.

Ye mariners of England,
That guard our native seas,
Whose flag has braved a thousand years,
The battle and the breeze,
Your glorious standard launch again,
To match another foe!
And sweep through the deep
While the stormy winds do blow—
While the battle rages loud and long
And the stormy winds do blow.

The spirits of your fathers
Shall start from every grave;
For the deck it was their field of fame
And the ocean was their grave;
Where Blake and mighty Nelson fell
Your many hearts shall glow,
As ye sweep through the deep
While the stormy winds do blow—
While the battle rages loud and long
And the stormy winds do blow.

September.

September, the smiling month of delight, entrancing, beguiling, is with us to-night. September the pleasant, of generous fame, is answered in the "Present!" when called is her name. September's the guardian for all we have borne, the heat and the burden that made our hearts mourn. She pays for the grilling we got in July; she says, "I am willing your teardrops to dry; some rest on my bosom, and if you have fears, I'll see that you lose 'em, my own sticks 'em!" She pays for the glaring of midsummer skies, the sweating, the swearing, the beetles and flies; the pains and the rigors of long August days, the seas and the chiggers—ah, nobly she pays! Her breezes caressing already have cheered; no hot winds distressing, are scorching my beard; her nights come a-creeching from some cooler clime, and man in his sleeping, makes up for lost time. The meadows are golden, the heavens are blue, the year is unfolding its blessings to you. You cease to remember the troubles you've known, since gentle September comes into her own.

FRANCE.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

The Republic of France, which is now engaged in a desperate attempt to get even with Germany for the beating up that the latter country gave it in 1870, is a state of enthusiasm varying from inspiration to hysteria. It comprises one of the western corners of Europe, which is about 400 miles square and goes up in the air as far as 30,000 feet at times during great political crises.

France has 35,000,000 people, but it sounds like more than that when a few of them are talking. It is a sunny, smiling, fertile country, full of thirty citizens, who can live comfortably and fill a stocking full of gold on a few dollars a year and who love nothing so much as a chance to talk about their beloved country. France is famous because it has 35,000,000 press agents.

Next to the thriftiness of the French people, the most amazing thing about them is their universal ability to talk French. Only those who have attempted to wrap their tongues about this elusive language can realize the greatness of this feat. The French language is spoken with the tongue, ably assisted by the nose, the shoulders, the hands, the eyebrows, the hair and the backbone. France has always been deficient in athletics, but she does not need games. Her language is athletics enough.

France produces silk, fine linens, fast automobiles and enormous quantities of artistic things to sell to tourists. It also suggests each year the style of clothes to be worn in the world. France women are the most effectively dressed women in the world, while no one can equal the French man in the art of growing and sculpturing whiskers.

France also produces about two billion gallons of wine each year and drinks most of it. Sitting on the sidewalk at a small table and drinking wine at the rate of two sips an hour, with conversation between, is the great recreation.

France is most noted for Paris, aeroplanes, actresses, the Eiffel tower, the dueling system, the Latin quarter, and its history, which is congested with romance. The greatest Frenchman was Napoleon, who had all Europe at his feet one hundred years ago. Anyone who will produce another Napoleon for France at this minute will receive a liberal reward.

France is a republic, with a president used only for ornament and a chamber of deputies, which is as explosive as gasoline. The French government supervises everything in France very earnestly and has succeeded in piling up $6,000,000,000 in debts without impairing the credit of the country.

France and the United States have always been friendly. France sent Lafayette and an army to this country during the Revolution and gave us the Statue of Liberty. In return we send them 100 boatloads of tourists every summer and our wives wait for their new hats until they see what is being worn in Paris.

Joe Birmingham.

Red McGehee says: A guy that throws stones at a kite when it's up a-e-a-r-l-y out o' sight don't get but exercise. An' if the kite lands in a tree a guy can bust it easily with stones of any size. So either way it ain't no sport. The fellers of the proper sort don't throw no stones at all. That's why we ain't a-goin' to slam poor, luck- less, young Joe Birmingham, the treed kite of baseball.

When Harry Davis took the can as head of Somers' Cleveland clan of sliding, coasting Naps, they called on Joe to sand the track an' start the team to climbin' back towards where the pennant flaps. Last year, his first full year as boss, Joe sure did put the stuff across, pursued Mack's tribe straight through. To him the sport world dofed its lid. Boy Manager an' Wizard Kid were nick- names that he drew.

But this year — Oh, let's have a heart. Let's talk of Birny's playing; art. He used to be a bear. His throws from center to the plate, his battin' an' his fieldin' gait made fans in Napland stare. From sandlots in Elmira Joe hiked up to Johnson's big time show with just one year of bush. Some kids! He's only 'thirty now. Just give him time—he'll show 'em how. He's got the pep an' push.

Fads and Fashions.

Evening gowns are still tight around the ankles, but very full as to tunic. Plaid silk linings have been in- dorsed by the tailors for their finest wool suits. White pique is a good fabric for the smart separate vests, made to wear with coats. Heavy silks with raised velvet pat- terns will be much seen among gait- lets for fall. White suede shoes with black pat- ent leather tips are among the smart- est of smart shoes. In some dresses the tunic and girde are of Roman striped cloth and the rest of a plain color. Some of the prettiest fabrics for one- piece dresses are subdued checks in brown, blue and green. Flounced skirts have their flounces rounded or pointed and bound with silk or braid.

FOR SALE!

We hold the agency for a fine Lighting System for town and outports. This system generates its own gas from Kerosene OIL, is perfectly safe and gives a better and brighter light than electricity at only a fraction of the cost.

Owing to the many other lines which we handle we have not time to work this agency properly, but it should prove a fortune to any man with a little spare cash and time to work the city and outports thoroughly.

We offer to transfer the agency and our stock comprising Table Lamps, Shop Lamp, House Lamps, Tanks, Hollow Wire, Tools, etc. (which cost us over $100), for SEVENTY-FIVE DOLLARS CASH. We also have a list of applicants in the city and outports for particulars re these lamps, many of whom could be turned into customers.

It costs you nothing to investigate. Demonstration arranged.
