CHAPTER XLIII.

"Now tell me, Diana, if you are pleased with your new home," he said. She tried her best to look contented and happy as she answered "Yes."

"I shall be able to tell you better when I have had one," she replied. "There are circumstances in which I can imagine a honeymoon almost like a Paradise in its happiness, but there are also circumstances which would make it just the reverse."

"There is an insinuation of some kind hidden away in that little speech, Diana; but I cannot tell just what it is. If we are to spend the time pleasantly, you must amuse me. Suppose you begin now."

"I will tell you what I should like to do," said Diana, her eyes dilating with scorn. "I should like to rouse you, to stir your dormant faculties, and make you for once feel the energy, the activity, the ambition of a man."

"My beautiful Diana," he returned, carelessly, "you must admit one thing; I had the energy to win you, which is more than any other man in England could have achieved. You ought to reward me with one of your sweetest smiles for that."

"Do you ever read?" she asked, suddenly.

"Not if I can persuade any one else to read to me—always excepting the journals of my country, which occupy me for a couple of hours every morning."

"But," she persisted, "do you never read a book?"

"Very seldom; when I do, it is a French novel."

There was a short lull in the conversation, and then his lordship broke the silence.

"There is a capital billiard-room in the eastern wing," he said. "Do you play at all, Diana?"

"Sir Royal taught me," she replied; "I have often played with him."

The name almost choked her as it passed her lips, and her face paled. Oh, the contrast, the bitter, black contrast, between the past and the horrible life which lay before her.

Lord Clanronald began to whistle the air of a favorite song, his hands thrust deeply into his pockets, his manner one of stolid indifference. She turned to him almost in desperation.

"Have you no occupation, no interest, no aim in life?" she asked.

"Yes; just at present my occupation is admiring you. You must not be too exacting, Diana," he added, seriously. "I am not intellectual or clever. I enjoy life; that is all."

"And that contents you?" she asked scornfully.

"Quite, my dear. My chief aim is to find out new enjoyments and new pleasures when I tire of the old."

"Have you never thought of anything higher, better, nobler—of the poor, the sick, and the sorrowful—of those dependent on you?"

"My agent manages all that for me," he replied, airily.

"But your agent cannot keep your conscience!" she cried.

"The office would not be a sinecure. But look, Diana; there are limits to all things. I did not bargain for catch-eating as a portion of the pleasures of our honeymoon. Now make a proper honeymoon of it, Diana; throw your arms round my neck, and put your beautiful lips to some better purpose than lecturing me."

But she was still looking at him with thoughtful eyes.

"Ronald," she said, earnestly, "every man should live up to his highest ideal of true manhood, should he not?"

"I suppose so," was the careless reply.

"Is what you told me your highest?"

His face suddenly darkened.

"I have had enough, Diana," he said abruptly; "I want no more. I see no sense in talking about standards and ideals. Let a man go on his way straightforwardly; he need do no more."

With this exposition of the duties of man, he walked away, leaving her almost transfixed with wonder.

She could not understand that there should be a man whose only aim in life was to find new amusements. "Am I a new amusement?" she thought.

"Diana," said Lord Clanronald, as they sat together at dinner, "I am really in love with you."

"I have never doubted it," she returned, with a quiet, queenly fashion that somewhat disconcerted him.

"I married you," he said, "because I was deeply in love with you and I thought you, as I believe you to be, one of the handsomest girls in England; but," he added, anxiously, "I hope you are not going to develop into a strong-minded woman, or a woman with ideas about rights and missions and all that kind of nonsense. I may as well tell you that it would be a horrible disappointment to me in fact, I could not endure it."

"I cannot be anything but what I am," answered Diana. "No one has ever accused me of being strong-minded," and her thoughts went back to the happy years in which she had been so loved, so praised.

"I may say frankly that I hate preaching woman," said the lord of the household. "If we are to live peacefully and enjoy the happiness that is supposed to belong to the matrimonial state, you must check all that. I tell you candidly that I am quite satisfied with myself, and that I have no desire to change—not the least in the world."

"You are certainly quite a new specimen of manhood to me," retorted her ladyship, the disgust she felt very plainly revealed in her words.

"You knew what I was when you married me. If I was good enough for you then, I ought to be good enough now; and I may as well tell you at once that I have no intention of altering my habits of life to please you or anybody else."

There was one moral feat, however, that he did accomplish that evening—he kept sober. He resisted the attractions of "brandy and soda." When the butler brought it, he sent it away, and then felt as though he were the very embodiment of all the virtues.

"I will go into the drawing-room with you to-night," he said. "It must be rather dull for you to be alone."

"I am never dull when I have the society of a book," rejoined Diana quickly.

"Another shot at me! You will get tired of firing in time; I am positively armor-proof against such moral bullets. Now be amiable, Diana, and sing to me."

"That you may sleep!" she thought to herself bitterly.

Lord Clanronald accompanied his wife to the drawing-room, and, stretching himself upon a luxurious couch, waited patiently for Diana to charm him with music and song.

Her fingers wandered over the keys, and the first words that came to her were these:

"Once in the days of golden weather,
Days that were always fair,
Love was the world we walked to—
Oh, what a love was there—
Fresh as a fawn when rains are falling,
Pure as a child that prays—
Once in the days beyond recalling,
Once in the golden days!"

"Ah, but the days brought changes after,
Clouds in happier skies,
Care on the lips that curled with laughter,
Tears in the radiant eyes!
Parted sunder, worn with grieving,
Wearily each one prays,
Oh, what a love was there—
Fresh as a fawn when rains are falling,
Pure as a child that prays—
Once in the days beyond recalling,
Once in the golden days!"

Her voice died away and her lips quivered. A sudden noise from the couch brought back her thoughts to the present realities of her life, and, on turning round, she saw her husband not only fast asleep, but breathing heavily. She turned away, disconsolate and faint at heart. She drew the hangings, lowered the lamps, and went away silently and left him to his noisy slumbers.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Diana had been married a week, and she owned to herself frankly that life had no illusions left. She went into her dressing-room one morning when Susanna was arranging her wardrobe. Among other things, she saw the wedding-wreath she had worn on her marriage morn lying on the table ready to be packed away. She could hardly account for the impulse, and she was heartily ashamed of it afterward; but she took it in her hands and destroyed it, trampling the fragments under her feet. She then laughed the most bitter laugh that had ever passed her beautiful lips.

"I wish," she cried to herself, "that I could fling the ring from my finger as easily as I have destroyed that!"

She was wandering listlessly about the house, trying to get interested in it, trying to become acquainted with the various rooms and their uses. She endeavoured to feel some interest in what Towner, the butler, told her about the plate, and what the housekeeper said about the china and linen closets; but in her heart she could not. In vain the housekeeper threw open door after door; Diana scarcely glanced at the contents of the various closets that she was expected to admire.

"I should not think, my lady, that there is a finer collection of antique china in England than this," said the housekeeper. "Many of the lady visitors who come here admire it immensely."

"It is very nice," allowed Lady Clanronald, absently. To herself she said, "I wonder, if I had married a man whom I loved, whether I should have been interested in his china and glass?"

Presently she said she was tired, and would resume the task of inspection on the morrow.

Middle Aged Women

Women should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, shortness of breath, excessive nervousness, irritability, and the blues—which indicate the approach of the inevitable "Change" that comes to all women nearing middle age. We have published volumes of proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest aid women can have during this trying period.

Read About These Two Women:

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run-down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. Goddard, 222 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Urbana, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to its annoying symptoms I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life."—FRANK HARRIS, 1316 South Orchard Street, Urbana, Ill.

LANDED AT NEW YORK.
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.
Six members of the crew of the waterlogged British schooner Gigantic, abandoned 150 miles east of Cape Race November 9th arrived here today on the American steamer Craigmere. The Gigantic encountered a severe storm and her sails and rigging had been carried away when she was sighted by the steamer. The schooners crew were rescued with difficulty in a heavy sea. The Gigantic was bound from Lisbon to Harbor Buffett, Newfoundland. She registered 124 tons.

KOLCHAK RETREATS.
HONOLULU, Nov. 13.
The evacuation of Omsk by the anti-Bolshevik forces of Admiral Kolchak had been ordered, it was reported here today in cable advices received by the Nipponji, a Japanese daily newspaper. The cable added that Admiral Kolchak would establish his new seat of Government at Irkutsk.

TO CONSIDER RUSSIAN PROBLEM.
LONDON, Nov. 13.
Premier Lloyd George declared in the House of Commons that no person at any time on his behalf or with his knowledge had interviewed Bolshevik representatives in order to learn whether negotiations for peace might be opened and upon what terms. The Premier said it was proposed to call at an early date an International Conference at which Ministers of Allied and Associated Powers might consider various problems which the Peace Conference had found itself unable to settle, among which was the problem of Russia.

RADICALS MAKE TROUBLE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. Activities of radicals threaten serious trouble in the bituminous coal fields of West Virginia, according to reports received today by the Department of Justice. The situation in Monongahela and Taylor, is described by the Department of Justice as "particularly nasty." Meetings directed and attended largely by Russians have precipitated some violence among the coal miners, the reports said.

JELICOE IN CANADA.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13. Viscount Jellicoe of Scapa Flow will leave Esquimaux on November 19th and will arrive in Ottawa on Nov. 27th for the purpose of conferring with the Naval Department Officials and advising the Government as to future naval policy. He will spend some time in the capital and it is expected that while here Viscount Jellicoe will be a guest at Government House.

AIRSHIP IN COMMERCE.

MINNEOLA, N.Y., Nov. 13. Vice-Admiral Mark Kerr announced that he expects to start from Mitchel Field tomorrow with his big Handley-Page bombing machine on a non-stop flight to Chicago. The plane will carry 3,600 pounds of express for the American Express Company. The main purpose of the flight is to demonstrate the possibility of using airships in commerce.

ONLY TWO PARTIES.

PARIS, Nov. 13. Indications in the preliminary elections to be held next Sunday are that the small groups which have heretofore existed in French politics will be greatly reduced or swept away and that the new Chamber will be composed of only two parties, known as the "Right" and the "left."

AMERICAN PROHIBITION WORKER ASSAULTED.

LONDON, Nov. 13. Wm. E. Johnson, an American prohibition worker and anti-saloon organizer, familiarly known here and elsewhere as "Pussy Foot," was dragged from a platform from which he was speaking to-day, severely beaten, and paraded through two miles of crowded West End streets on a plank. His assailants for the most part were medical students, and against them at times he put up a strenuous fight, receiving a badly damaged eye and other injuries, so that finally owing to his weakened physical condition he was obliged to submit to the indignity. Eventually Johnson was rescued by the police, who during the early part of the march simply kept the crowd moving.

INCREASE FOR RAILWAYMEN.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13. It is announced by the Canadian Railway War Board that an agreement providing for increases in rates of pay and certain changes in working conditions was signed to-day by the Board, acting on behalf of the railways concerned, and by the officials of Division No. 4, railway employees' department, American Federation of Labor, which included in its membership Canadian railway employees engaged in the locomotive and car departments.

SNOW IN THE OLD COUNTRY.

LONDON, Nov. 13. Shipbuilding on the Clyde, Tyne and Tees was virtually stopped today by a heavy snowfall, which also seriously affected the mining districts of England and Wales. The storm extended as far north as the Isle of Wight. London was slightly sprinkled by the fall.

IRISH NATIONALIST MEMBER SUSPENDED.

LONDON, Nov. 13. In the House of Commons to-day Jeremiah MacVeagh, Nationalist member for South Down, Ireland, was suspended because he told James Ian Macpherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, not to be "impertinent," when the Secretary replied to a question with a remark which Mr. MacVeagh considered as insinuating that he was a Sinn Fein sympathizer. The member refused to withdraw the expression, declaring that before many months had passed the House would hold the same opinion that he had regarding Mr. Macpherson.

SEEKING RELEASE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. Applications for writ of Habeas Corpus to obtain the release of James Larkin, Irish Labor Leader, and Benjamin Glid, former State Assembly man, held on charges of criminal anarchy, were withdrawn to-day by their attorneys.

Labor Can Go Too Far.

The sport of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs is going on all the time in some form or other. When a man, or a group of men, think themselves indispensable, and make exorbitant demands, they set in motion, intensively, the inventive genius and initiative of those who are under attack and out of that comes revolutionary methods.

The case in point is the strike of the printers in New York. The publishers felt so strongly that the demands of the men were excessive that they preferred to cease publication of their magazines rather than concede what was asked. Obviously there was ground for arbitration, which the men refused. One publisher did not want to suspend. He found a way out of his perplexity by having the articles for the publication type-written, then photographed and a zinc etching of the page made. This process dispenses with type setters.

The first experiment was so encouraging that the plan is being perfected, and it is predicted with some confidence that the new process may take the place of the present method of production. If that should prove to be feasible there would be thousands of typesetters out of work. The writer could himself do the typing, and the publisher made immune from strike and labor troubles.

The situation is one of great interest to publishers and printers. It shows that there is always a way, if it can be found, to overcome any difficulty, or solve any problem.—Exchange.

DUTY.

This truth comes to us more and more the longer we live that on what field or in what uniform or with what arms we do our duty matters very little, or even what our duty is, great or small, splendid or obscure. Only to find our duty certainly and somewhere, or somehow, to do it faithfully makes us happy and useful men and turns our lives into some echo of the life of God.—Philip Brooks.

Col. Lynch on the Irish Question.

TORONTO, Nov. 7.—Colonel Arthur Lynch, former member of the British Parliament for West Clare, Ireland, once under sentence of death for participation in the Boer war against Great Britain, and an active pro-British officer in the recent great war, arrived in this city to-day in connection with a lecture tour. In an interview on the Irish situation, Colonel Lynch said:

"The British Government recently proclaimed the main lines of a bill which they hope will settle the Irish question, but which I think has no chance of becoming law, and is only for the purpose of gaining time. In the language of the prize ring, Lloyd George is simply sparring for wind. The bill will not be accepted either by the Ulster referendum or by any Nationalists except the extremely small minority.

"The bill, in short, is an example of the usual incapacity which the English Cabinet have shown toward the Irish people.

Domestic Tragedy

Semi-Deranged Husband Slashes Wife's Throat--Attempted Homicide and Suicide--Both Victims Now in Hospital.

The saddest and most tragic of occurrences of many years took place in the city last night when, as a result, two lives were all but snuffed out. The principals in the event now lie at the General Hospital, where they will have to remain until recovered sufficiently to return home.

Kenneth Strickland, aged 50, resident of Brine Street, near Woods' Candy Factory, and his wife, Evelyn, are the victims. The cause of the occurrence is not known by either the children of the pair, the neighbors or the police. Apparently they had been on friendly terms right up to the second of the accident, for as such it must be categorized.

Mr. Strickland, who had been out of employment for several weeks, had been despondent for some days past, and it is evident that his worry was playing on his mind sufficiently to cause a temporary derangement and the consequent tragedy. In his sane mind he would never have acted so, for he is known to have been both kind and affectionate to his family. Last evening, tells the eldest daughter, the three of them, husband, wife and daughter, were sitting around the kitchen fire, preparatory to retiring for the night. The mother sat in front of the husband near and the daughter at the side—in other words in the regular family group. Mr. Strickland was sharpening a sheath-knife, which he had taken from a dresser nearby, on the edge of the stove for the purpose, as the wife and daughter thought, of cutting some shavings with which to light the fire the following morning. They were partially disinterested when, after rubbing the knife's edge on the oven door, he exclaimed: "I think this is sharp enough now to cut a throat." With the words he sprang to his feet, clasped his wife and made a slash at her throat. The knife took effect, inflicting a gash in her neck. Mrs. Strickland then, with the wound bleeding profusely, grappled with her husband and attempted to hold his hands. In so attempting her own hands were severely cut. Then, evidently sobered by a realization of his action, and also by the entreaties of the horrified daughter, who stood by, helpless and unable to attempt any interference, he released his wife, who was half carried and half helped down the stairs and into a neighbor's house by Miss Strickland. The injured lady, although so grievously wounded, did not lapse into unconsciousness, and was able to ask that a doctor be called. The young lady, then returning to the house, found that her father was lying unconscious on the floor, with blood gushing from a gaping wound in his throat. Thinking that he was dead she rushed from the home once more, and had two doctors, three constables and the Inspector General summoned. Within a few minutes Drs. Tait (Arch) and Roberts, Sergt. Furlong, Constables Simmonds and Burke, and the Inspector General were upon the scene, the ambulance arriving shortly after. After making a swift examination of the injured ones, the doctors did as much as they could and ordered them to Hospital, Mr. Strickland going in the ambulance, and Mrs. Strickland in the Inspector General's automobile.

It is thought that, seeing what he had done to his wife, the temporarily unbalanced man made a slash at his own throat, which would account for the wound. The affair is a most unfortunate one. The children of the pair, numbering five, were greatly shocked this morning, and forenoon, and it will be a long time before the occurrence will be erased from their minds. The sympathy of the community goes out to them.

Enquiry at the General Hospital just before press hour elicited the information that, although Mrs. Strickland was just about the same, the husband was "seriously ill."

Boy Scout Items.

The regular meeting of the Gower Street Troop this week was attended by 75 members. The Scouts were glad to see their drill-master, Assistant Scoutmaster, Mr. Robert Francis again on deck, having been absent two weeks through illness. Candidates are still coming in week by week. The strength of the Troop is now 88 Scouts, 42 Wolf Cubs, 4 Scoutmasters and 2 Cub-masters, 136 in all.

The Scouts are divided into two companies for purposes of drill and instruction. While one company is at signaling and drill the other is receiving gymnasium and first aid.

The Scouts are getting a great deal of pleasure and benefit from the gymnastic work given them by Assistant Scoutmaster, Mr. Stephen Tizzard, who is very popular with all.

It was noticed on Wednesday evening

ing that the Patrol leaders are taking a greater interest in their Patrols, and boosting them on in badge-work, drill and tests. The whole Troop is now practicing for a concert in aid of their funds, which will be given in the Methodist College Hall, Dec. 2nd.

The Scouts recently paid a visit to Escocian Hospital, where they did a good turn to the inmates by clearing up the grounds, and the head nurse Miss Tuck, did them a good turn by serving refreshments.

The Wolf Cubs are getting on well. They meet regularly Thursday afternoons at 4 o'clock. They held their first route march this week, and are eagerly looking forward to the arrival of their uniforms.

Making Fortunes After Forty.

"Too old at forty!" is an old slogan of the industrial world, although during the war it truth was strenuously disputed; a man is just as old as he feels. It was argued, and in a national crisis no man has any right to feel old.

Now that we are settling down once more to business affairs, this hoary old half-truth is being revived; the forties, and onward, are meekly accepting it as an excuse for slacking.

But is it an excuse? The answer is in the negative; at any rate, so say the men who have "made good."

Recently, when the will of the late Dr. James Douglas was proved, it was found that he had accumulated a great fortune since his fortieth year. Up to that age he had done practically nothing; at forty he found himself without prospects; he was what is commonly known as "in the rut." Then he rooted himself up, cast away the profession to which he had been reared and educated, and started afresh. At the age of eighty-one he died a multimillionaire.

This is but one of the many examples of men "making good" during middle age. The secret of this success is in ignoring your age; don't persuade yourself that you are too old at forty, and you won't be.

Germany's New War.

With no conception, apparently, of the horror in which things German are held in the allied world, here are these Teutons deliberately planning to make Germany a great international business centre at which the world's press would be to a large extent influenced if not controlled. It is a bold stroke. But it should provoke thought. How do the Allies mean to meet this sort of thing? Are we organizing the efficiency, mobilizing the resources, adapting the propaganda needed for the race that is coming?—Quebec Telegraph.

(From the Irish World.) Struck by the notice, "Iron Sinks," in a shop window, a wag went inside and said that he was perfectly aware of the fact that "lead sank." But the visitor had bolted. After collecting his thoughts he returned, and, showing his head at the doorway, shouted: "Yes, I agree with all of that perfectly—and marble busts."

SOME THOUGHTS OF

What a magnificent, thoroughly regal farewell the outdoor world does give to those who love her in autumn! I have elsewhere written against the idea that this season of fruition and sunshine, of bracing October air and mellow Indian summer hazes, was as sad a season as the muggy windy spring time with its continually broken promises of warmth and sunshine—or in fact a sad season at all. And on a little trip into the country which I took a few weeks ago I felt anew the regal magnificence of this time, especially as regards color manifestations.

Her Farewell Party a Regal One. I repeat the word "regal" because the colors in which autumn gives her farewell party are so essentially the colors of the robes and trappings of royalty—purple and gold and scarlet.

I started to say that those colors belonged solely to autumn, and hastily withdrew that statement. Autumn has no monopoly of yellow, in fact, it is as much a springtime as an autumn color. But it is not mostly a paler, more delicate yellow that we associate with the spring—the yellow of jonquil, and daffodil? Purple Belongs to Both Spring and Fall.

As for purple, while the fuzzy purple asters clothe the autumn hillsides and make purple a predominant note in the autumn color symphony, one should not forget that purple flowers equally symbolic of spring—the violet. Here again however, spring lays on her colors with a more delicate hand.

Crimson comes the nearest. I think, to being an essentially autumn color. There may be bright red spring flowers, but I have not been able to recall them. It seems as if it took long months of sunshine to make a cardinal flower or the scarlet maple leaves in which the maple flames forth into almost unbearable beauty.

IT'S A WILD NIGHT OUT, MUTT. IT'S JUST SUCH A NIGHT AS THE ONE IN WHICH I HAD MY MOST TERRIFYING EXPERIENCE OF THE WAR.

Bulgaria's Debt.

No nation entered the late war in such a cold-blooded, calculating, mercenary spirit as did Bulgaria. That country, in fact, sold its sword to the highest bidder, which was Germany, but in the selling the Bulgarian statesmen were mistaken. They sold because they thought Germany had the whip hand of the Allies, and only a few more months would see the Teutonic powers victorious and triumphant. But Bulgaria, with all her caution and bargaining, was guilty of a bad blunder, a blunder which became, as the war advanced to a conclusion, irreparable, and to-day to use the observation of a prominent United States journal, the Springfield Republican, "Bulgaria now knows officially what it means to back the wrong horse."

Newspaper statisticians have figured out that this Balkan kingdom is saddled with a cash payment of six dollars per head annually for each of its two million inhabitants, for a period of thirty-seven years, to square the war fine imposed by the Allies. In addition to this huge sum, the total of which is four hundred and forty-five million dollars, Bulgaria must concede certain other agreements, the principal ones being:

- (1) Reduction of army to 20,000 and gendarmerie (armed police) to 10,000 men.
- (2) Surrender all warships and submarines to the Allies.
- (3) Cede Western Thrace to the Allies.
- (4) Modify her frontier in four places in favor of Serbia, which country was invaded and over-run by Bulgar troops in 1915 and subsequently.
- (5) Recognize the independence of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, now comprised in Jugo-Slavia.
- (6) Compensate Jugo-Slavia for coal stolen, by delivering to that State 50,000 tons a year for five years.
- (7) Renunciation of the German-made treaties of Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest.

Notwithstanding the severity of these terms, the New York Globe says that "on the whole Bulgaria is getting off more easily than she deserved," though another equally influential paper, the Wheeling Register, holds that the entrance of Bulgaria into the war as a German ally was due to the machinations of "an avaricious and ambitious king," and the Bulgar people had no say whatever in their own national affairs, being not really their own masters. Be that as it may the Bulgarian revolt which overthrew their ruler, caused a toppling of the first stone in the Teutonic fabric, and overtures for peace followed the revolution. But Bulgaria has to pay the avarice and ambition of her foxy king, and the terms as pronounced by the Allies must be met and settled. The Peace Conference decisions regarding the Bulgars must stand, and responsibility for the war must be shared by that people. The powers have refused to make any changes in the territorial clauses of the treaty, as well as declining to reduce the war indemnity. They point out that the people of Bulgaria cannot be freed from responsibility and that consequently, after mature reflection the conditions of the treaty cannot be materially changed.

The reply of the Peace Conference to the protest of Bulgaria against the severity of the terms, sets forth that these were not inspired by any idea of vengeance, and that in imposing such terms the Allies are markedly lenient as they have not included all that Bulgaria should have paid, some of her past mistakes being forgiven. Their one desire is to establish a peace which shall be just and lasting and productive, and they have reminded the Bulgar Government that in this connection they have guaranteed them a trade and commerce outlet in the Aegean Sea. Ten days is given in which Bulgaria must make reply, and the text of the treaty, as it stands, must either be accepted or rejected. This amounts practically to an ultimatum, with the chances in favor of Bulgaria's acceptance without further hesitation or demur.

Thus the avarice, ambition and craftiness of King Ferdinand, in lining up his country with the military fortunes of Germany did not avail any, and for years to come the Bulgars will be saddled with a weight of extra taxation to provide the necessary finances wherewith to settle their war fine, unless they accept an alternative, and instead of meeting the amount in currency, make payment by means of property, real estate or concessions. In any case, however, the toll must be paid in full.

REPORT AT BANQUET.
The Committee of one hundred campaign workers gathered in force in the basement of the Church last evening to report the results of their canvass of the congregation during the past two days. After supper, the conditions on which points were awarded were laid down by the organizer, Mr. Albert Soper. The summary cards were then distributed, and the Division Leaders reported each for his division. Following were the results:—Division (a) Mrs. W. G. Currie, leader, reported a total of 455 names, 392 previously on Church records, and 63 new. Division (b), Miss Ada Horwood, leader, reported 486 names, 442 registered, 44 new. Division (c), Mr. George Peters, leader, 489 names, 442 registered, 38 new. Division (d), Mr. John Leaman, leader, 528 names, 488 registered, 40 new. The Division award, consisted of a fine oak shield, with a picture of the church upon it, was presented by the Pastor to Mr. John Leaman, leader of the highest ranking division. Division (e) consisting of only one team of older boys, reported 145 names, 121 registered, and 24 new. A challenge was issued by this team to any team in Division D, and was accepted by team 16, the team banner to be awarded for these two Divisions on the points gained by these two teams. The banner was won by team 16. The following were the star-workers in each Division:—Division (a), Mrs. W. S. Parsons; (b), Miss Ethel Fenwick; (c), Mr. Walter Moore; (d), Mr. John Post; (e), Albert Spencer. The total number of names reported was 2094, of which 1880 were previously on church records, and 214 were not before recorded.

The result of this canvass will be that the Church officials will have in their possession a complete and accurate church register. The next canvass to be carried through by this committee, will be inaugurated with another banquet to be held Nov. 25th.

Herring Plentiful, But No Vessels.

(Western Star.)
Herring have struck in in abundance at Bay of Islands, but unfortunately there is little or no sale. Few firms have started at the Scotch pack, but they are unable to handle anything like all the herring offering, and no vessels for salt bulk have arrived here yet. In Goose Arm on Monday Thomas Kennedy had a catch of 150 tubs for two boats, other boats loaded and were unable to free their nets. Yesterday there was fair fishing all over Humber Arm. The price being paid is $3.00 from the net.

Newfoundlander's Narrow Escape.

J. H. George Lost His Life--Luther Barnes Washed Up on Rocks.

John Henry George, a member of the crew of the fishing boat Alleman was drowned at Cascade Head near Shushart Bay at the head of Vancouver Island, on Oct. 8th. He and Luther Barnes put out in a ten foot dinghy to shoot ducks, but at the mouth of the harbor found it so rough in Queen Charlotte Sound that in attempting to put about, a big sea caught the little vessel turning and capsized it. Barnes who survived said that George was rowing at the time, and the last he saw of his partner, he was swimming strongly for the shore, fifty yards away. Barnes had a miraculous escape, described in his statement to the police as follows:—After I had swum to the point I found it was impossible to climb up on the rocks. I struggled in the back-wash for about ten minutes and was losing strength fast. The last I remember, I felt myself being thrown upon the rocks by a big sea and I just had strength to hang on. I tried to stand but could not, my legs were so numb. Then another sea hit me and washed me up a little farther and again I managed to cling to the rocks. I don't remember anything after this until I woke up and found myself in the same position. The tide was falling and that accounted for my being safe. Barnes stated that he hunted for his partner but could find no trace of him. The water was deep and the bottom rocky and covered with kelp, so that dragging operations only ended in failure. Barnes left the north on the Alleman on Oct. 12th with the intention of reporting the accident to George's sister at Loco. He and George had been chums for months. Mr. Barnes is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barnes, Champneys, East, T.B., and a brother of Mrs. R. Simmonds of 39 Alexander St. City. He has been a resident of Vancouver for a number of years.

Coaker Wins Twillingate.

The Twillingate election count, which began yesterday afternoon, was completed late in the evening, the result being an overwhelming majority for the Coaker candidates, the three members elect for that district bringing the F.P.U. party strength in the new House of Assembly up to ten. St. Barbe will complete the F.P.U. quota of eleven against Mr. Squires' thirteen, and a fifty-fifty arrangement of Executive seats and portfolios is likely to be demanded by President Coaker in consequence. The final count from the big northern district gave the following figures:
Jennings 3718
Jones 3688
Samson 3417
MacKay 922
Moore 881
Short 656

The afternoon meetings will be held in the Canon Wood Hall, and evening meetings will be held in the Methodist College Hall. Dr. North Pippy, Dr. Clarence Hincks, Rev. Canon Vernon and Rev. Dr. Shearer will be present for these meetings. A number of local speakers also will be heard. Such subjects as Public Health, Child Welfare and Industrial Relations will be discussed by these experts. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. The local officers of the Social Service Council are Rev. Canon Smart, President; Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, Vice-Pres.; Rev. G. Dickie, Secy.; Hon. J. A. Robinson, Treasurer.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, Nov. 14, 1919.
We have just got in a further small consignment of French Ivory goods, mentioned in this column a few days ago. Among this lot, we notice two or three very dainty and elegant Manicure Sets which we are sure you will like to see. We shall be glad to show you these goods if you will favor us with a call.
If you need a Hot Water Bottle for the coming winter, secure it now, as our stock is becoming depleted, there being a steady sale for these indispensable articles as the cold weather approaches. We have still, however, a good sized and well varied stock, and should be able to suit you well. Prices to suit all purses.

Fate of Crew a Mystery.

FIFTY-ONE MEN OF STEAMER POLAR LAND SUPPOSED TO BE DROWNED.
The fate of the officers and crew, 51 all told, of the steamer Polar Land, from Halifax for Italy, which went down off the Cape Breton Coast Sunday, 9th inst., remains a mystery. The Furness liner Kanawha arrived at the position given by the Polar Land in her S.O.S. call, and after four hours, could find no trace of the boats. She then proceeded on her voyage to London.
Word was received at Halifax on Monday, from the steamer Strathfillan, bound from Glasgow for New York, stating that she was proceeding to the position, which was contained in the S.O.S. call, in an endeavor to find the missing crew, and expected to arrive there about noon to-day. Since then there has been no further word regarding the men that took to their boats on the stormy Atlantic Sunday afternoon.
The majority of the crew which numbered 51 men are foreigners, belonging to Spain and Portugal, although most of the officers are Americans. There is known to be one Newfoundland man on board, a native of Trinity.

A Recent Portrait of Cardinal Mercier.
PRESENTED TO REV. FR. COADY.
There appeared recently in the window of Parsons' Studio a very beautiful photo of Cardinal Mercier, the hero Cardinal of Belgium. It was sent there to be framed. On enquiry as well as on observation, we find that it was sent by the Cardinal personally to Rev. Fr. Coady, who was intimately and favorably known to the Cardinal when a student at the University of Louvain. The photo bears the autograph of the Cardinal, the recipient's name as well as the kindly words, "With my most cordial souvenirs and my blessing." It was accompanied, we understand, by a beautiful letter, recalling happy memories of Louvain as well as references to some fearful experiences and trials undergone during the years of the war. Father Coady has another photo of the distinguished prelate in his possession, as Monsignor Mercier, Professor at Louvain, and he values both above all price. This is certainly a fine testimony to the Rev. gentleman's place in the Cardinal's affection, who knew him intimately as a student, as he was also universally popular amongst the students and professors there, who valued him highly for his kindly and uniform manner, sterling character and genuine ability. Congratulations.

Two Lighthouse Men Perish in Storm.
QUEBEC, Nov. 9.—News reached here to-day that J. B. Desjardins, lighthouse keeper at Kamouraska Island and his nephew and assistant Joseph Desjardins had perished during the violent gale and snow storm Thursday. The first intimation received here that something had happened was a notification on Saturday to B. J. Kaine, superintendent of lighthouses, that there was no light at Kamouraska lighthouse on Thursday or Friday nights. A party of men from Kamouraska rowed out to the island on Saturday and discovered that both the keeper and his assistant were missing. It is presumed that when the storm was at its height on Thursday their tender which was anchored between the island and the mainland broke away from her moorings and the keeper and his assistant with the hope of saving her followed in a small boat. The boat must have been swamped as no trace of it has been found. The tender has since been recovered. The C. G. S. Druid has been dispatched to the scene and further particulars as to the fate of the two men is expected soon.

Church Lads' Brigade.

Last night's band concert was the finale of the programme arranged by the 27th Anniversary Committee, which was appointed by the officer commanding, Lt. Col. R. F. Goodridge, to celebrate armistice night and the brigade's birthday. The committee responsible consisted chiefly of Lieut. the Rev. E. Fletcher, Paymaster R. G. Ash, Secretary Sgt. Sanders, with Batt. Sergt. Major Co. Sergt. Majors Rendell, Colton, Dowton and others. Gentlemen, you have the thanks of all ranks for your excellent work.

Last night's concert consisted of the following programme: "March On Quarter Deck"; selection, "Evening Thoughts"; Waltz, "Sweet Seventeen"; fox trot, "Ja Da"; selection, "Southern Melodies"; one step, "Johnny's in Town"; selection, "Melodious Memories"; Waltz, "Blowing Bubbles"; march, "The Winning Fight"; march, "Avallon Battalion", the National Anthem.

Quite a large audience was present and appreciated the music of Lieut. Alex. Morris, the brigade's bandmaster, and his musical men. The funds from the concert go towards general expenses, which are heavier than usual this year.
On Thursday, Nov. 20th, the C. O. will inspect A Co.
The Lt. Col. commanding has been pleased to appoint Acting Co. Sergt. Major Dowton to the full rank of the same, to date from 1st November, Lt. A. S. Lewis, of A Co., has been posted to the reserve of officers: Rev. and Lieut. Fletcher has been appointed to be second in command of A Co. and the following promotions were gazetted, viz.: Sergt. E. Colton, to be Act. Sergt. Major, with the rank of C.S.M.; Lance Corp. H. Adams, to be Armourer, with the rank of Act. Sergt.; and Ptes H. M. Mitchell, H. Brown, G. Brown, J. Snow, W. Boone, W. Ewing and A. Berg (Private Secretary) to be Corporals; Capt. Wm. Lindsay, officer commanding J. Co., Wabana, Bell Island, to be Major.

We are glad to report good news from Trinity E. Co. Lt. Hugh Brown is making things hum and has re-constituted the Quartermaster for a full supply of kit, which is going forward. All outpost Co. Quartermasters are requested to promptly advise Major Riley, Adj. C.L.B. Armoury, St. John's, of a full list of their respective kit requirements for the next six months, so that adequate supplies may be imported from London headquarters.
Another addition was made to the collection of photographs yesterday by the officers' mess by the presentation of a magnificent photograph of Lt. Col. Will H. Franklin, D. S. O., former Major of Avallon Battalion but now His Majesty's Imperial Trade Commissioner for East Africa. The Brigade congratulates Col. Franklin on his appointment and wishes him a speedy recovery to health and very good luck in his job!

Church Lads' Brigade.

Last night's band concert was the finale of the programme arranged by the 27th Anniversary
Committee, which was appointed by the officer commanding. Lt. Col. R. F. Goodman, to celebrate armistice night and the brigade's birthday. The committee responsible consisted chiefly of Lieut. the Rev. E. Fletcher, Paymaster R. G. Ash, Secretary Sergt.
Barnard, with Batt. Sergt. Major
Hall, Co. Sergt. Majors Rendell, Petton, Downton and others. Generally, you have the thanks of all thanks for your excellent work.

Last night's concert consisted of the following programme: 'March on the Quarter Deck'; selection, 'Evening Thoughts'; Waltz, 'Sweet Seventeen'; fox trot, 'Ja Da'; selection,
'Southern Melodies'; one step,
'Johnny's in Town'; selection, 'Melons Memories'; Waltz, 'Blowing
Bubbles'; march, 'The Winning Fight'; march, 'Avalon Battalion'; the National Anthem.

Quite a large audience was present and appreciated the music of Lieut.
Alex. Morris, the brigade's bandmaster, and his musical men. The funds from the concert go towards general expenses, which are heavier than usual this year.

On Thursday, Nov. 20th, the C. O.
will inspect A Co.
The Lt. Col. commanding has been pleased to appoint Acting Co. Sergt.
Major Downton to the full rank of the same, to date from 1st November, Lt.
A. S. Lewis, of A Co., has been posted to the reserve of officers; Rev.
and Lieut. Fletcher has been appointed to be second in command of A Co., and the following promotions were announced, viz.: Sergt. E. Colton, to be Act. Sergt. Major, with the rank of C.S.M.; Lance. Corp. H. Adams, to be Armourer; Sergt. the rank of Act.
Sergt. and Ptes H. M. Mitchell, H.
Brown, G. Brown, J. Snow, W.
Boone, W. Bennett, H. Bennett have been advanced to the rank of Lance Corporals; C. A. Butler, to be Co.
Sergt. Major; Corporals R. White, E.
West, C. Taylor, to be Sergeants;
Lance Corporals E. Ewing and A.
Berg (Private Secretary) to be Corporals; Capt. Wm. Lindsay, officer commanding J. Co., Wabana, Bell
Island, to be Major.

We are glad to report good news from Trinity E. Co. Lt. Hugh Brown is making things hum and has requisitioned the Quartermaster for a full supply of kit, which is going forward. All outpost Co. Quartermasters are requested to promptly advise
Major Raley, Adjt., C.I.B. Armoury,
St. John's, of a full list of their respective kit requirements for the next few months, so that adequate supplies may be imported from London headquarters.

Another addition was made to the collection of photographs yesterday to the officers' mess by the presentation of a magnificent photograph of
Lt. Col. Will H. Franklin, D. S. O., a former Major of Avalon Battalion but now His Majesty's Imperial Trade Commissioner for East Africa.
The Brigade congratulates Col. Franklin on his appointment and wishes him a speedy recovery to health and every good luck in his job!

Historical Society.

Of Interest to Young and Old Alike, to Student and Teacher, to Fisherman and Farmer, to Lettered and Unlettered.

Newfoundland is the oldest sister in the Empire's family. There are younger Dominions and younger Colonies, but none which so abounds in the wealth of history and tradition. In many a hamlet nestling upon the shores of our glorious bays are spoken words familiar in the days of the Tudors and the Stuarts. The waters that wash our rock-bound coasts and the soil on which our people tread have witnessed deeds of the earlier Empire builders and, if gifted with speech, could tell tales rich in interest, in daring and in adventure. Newfoundland's history dates back to the seventh Henry's days, and beyond to the days of the Norseman. Our sagas are unsung, our stories untold. Romance has been buried by the commonplace, and the chronicles of the fathers forgotten through the carelessness and indifference of the children. A few whisper of the olden days, but their number lessens with the passing years. There is scarcely a mile of the six thousand miles of our coast line but could tell of stirring deeds, but we have been content to let the history of five hundred or a thousand years be almost lost. Happily almost is not quite. There are still amongst us patriarchs who are handing down to their descendants traditions and stories that they in turn received from ancestors whose bones have long since mingled with their mother earth. It is these stories, these traditions, the tales of the grandfathers, the stirring stories of five hundred years that the Historical Society wish to rescue from oblivion, so that when this generation has been gathered to the fathers, succeeding ones may know the manner and the method of those who, amid privation and effort, built up the frame and fortune of the New-Found Isle, and by their efforts and energies rendered invaluable help in the establishment of the Greatest Empire that has been.

With this object in view the Historical Society offer three prizes—

- First Prize $30.00
- Second Prize 20.00
- Third Prize 10.00

for stories of any event or events of historical interest relating to scenes and events that have transpired within a ten mile radius of the present or any previous residence of the writer or narrators. Such story should not exceed 2,000 words, and may be as short as a faithful narration of events can make it so. The contest is open to all. The rules are simple.

The focal yarn told by the unlearned may be transcribed by his little daughter or son, or by any willing scribe. It is the story, true or traditional, that is asked, not fiction. Stories that shall tell of

- Early Settlers,
- Marine Catastrophes,
- Deeds of Daring,
- Establishment of Industries,
- Building of Ships,
- Origin of Customs,
- Voyages of Adventure,
- Voyages of Discovery,
- Development of Trade,
- Fishery Experiences,
- Names of Places,
- Genealogy,
- God's Acres,
- Cemeteries,
- Churches,
- Folk Lore,
- Political Stories of the Past,
- Etc., Etc., Etc.

Stories must be submitted not later than February 15th, 1920.

1. Stories must be written on one side of the paper only.
2. The competition is open to all.
3. Competitors may send in more than one story, but each story must be in a separate envelope, and must be signed by a pen name, the writer's real name being enclosed in a separate and sealed envelope.

Stories from children between 14 and 16, if found of exceptional merit, will be given special consideration.

Each story shall be authenticated, if so required by the committee, as current rumour or fact, by a clergyman, magistrate, school teacher or prominent citizen, resident in the locality, which is the scene or near the scene of the story.

The prizes will be awarded by a committee of the Historical Society. The society reserves the right to withhold prizes if none of sufficient merit offer or to divide them in such manner as may be considered just if there are several of equal merit.

The decision of the committee shall be final.

ENTERS HOSPITAL.—Mr. Thomas Hartley, a prominent resident of Portugal Cove, South, arrived by train yesterday morning suffering from a severe attack of neuritis. He was conveyed to the General Hospital by the most obliging and always on hand attendant Mr. Bartlett.

Indigestion!

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the quickest, surest relief for a Sour, Acid, Gassy Stomach—Distress vanishes!

Stomach acidity causes indigestion! Food souring, gas, distress! Wonder what upset your stomach? Well, don't bother! The moment you eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin all the lumps of indigestion pain, the sourness, heartburn and belching of gases, due to acidity, vanish—truly wonderful!

Millions of people know that it is needless to be bothered with indigestion, dyspepsia or a disordered stomach. A few tablets of Pape's Diapepsin neutralize acidity and give relief at once—no waiting! Buy a box of Pape's Diapepsin now! Don't stay miserable! Try to regulate your stomach so you can eat favorite foods without causing distress. The cost is so little. The benefits so great. You, too, will be a Diapepsin enthusiast afterwards.

C. C. C.

The C.C.C. parade last night was largely attended. Nos. 1 and 2 Companies were present, and 198 other ranks in attendance, with the following officers: Capt. and Adj. J. O'Grady; Capt. Leo Murphy, W. Clare, L. Hickey; Lieuts. J. A. Burke, C. McGrath, and A. Lacey. The N.C.O.'s class were put under instruction, and Company marching and drill with arms carried out. The officers held a Mess meeting at 9 o'clock, and considerable business affecting the organization was transacted. The Athletic Club meets next week, when the programme of games for the winter will be drawn up. The Serge's Mess is now thoroughly painted and renovated, and the N.C.O.'s will move into their new quarters shortly. It is announced that several popular promotions from the ranks—including many of the old privates—will be made known to the Battalion at their next parade.

DOES MONEY EVAPORATE?

Money spent on medicinal preparations often does! In this way—You buy a preparation, use perhaps a third of it, and put the remainder on the shelf. When next you need it—unit for use! Two-thirds of the money value of your expenditure has "evaporated." Just there is where Zam-Buk is so different—so superior! Zam-Buk is not only 100 per cent. medicine, but, owing to its freedom from animal fat, it never becomes rancid, but will keep indefinitely. Buy a box today, use what you require, put the remainder away, and when you have occasion to use it again, you will find its healing, soothing and germ-destroying powers just as effective as the day you bought the box.

S. A. Maternity Hospital

A meeting of those interested in the Maternity Hospital project, was held at the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Dunbar, now here from Toronto, outlined the progress made to date. Hon. M. G. Winter presided and present were Mrs. Gordon Winter, Mrs. M. G. Winter, Mrs. (Dr.) Scully, Mrs. T. J. Duley, Mrs. J. Browning, Mrs. Herbert Outerbridge, H. E. Cowan, A. W. Mews, Dr. Roberts, J. Pratt, J. Peters, H. Mitchell, C. O'N. Conroy, Rev. Dr. Jones, A. H. Salter, J. J. McKay and D. M. Baird. Considerable preliminary work in the way of suggested committees, etc., was transacted. A meeting of the executive will be held this afternoon, after which a list of the executive officers and chairmen of committees will be published. The object is to raise $100,000, of which $20,000 has already been subscribed, leaving $80,000 yet to be collected. The campaign to secure the desired amount will open on December 1st.

Inter-Collegiate Football

The last match of the season was played yesterday afternoon between St. Bon's and Methodist College. The Methodists were in excellent form while St. Bon's seemed out of practice. All the scoring occurred in the first half. The game was drawn, the score standing at 2 goals to 2. Despite yesterday's draw St. Bon's holds the cup. Congratulations to Capt. Muir, also to his team.

Positively none better.

Crew Mutinied.

HALIFAX CAPTAIN AND HAVE THRILLING EXPERIENCE

The London Daily Telegraph October 26th prints the following trial for mutiny on the sea on the steamer Mariska which Capt. C. O. Allen and wife, of Halifax, had such a thrilling experience:

Appropriately enough, Mr. T. Hardy, the novelist, sat on the bench at Dorset Assizes, at Dorchester Saturday, with Mr. Justice, Dyson, when a thrilling story of the sea was narrated in connection with the trial of three firemen of the steamer Mariska, named Mike Connell, John and Gerald Lynch, for mutiny and doing grievous bodily harm to the master, Captain C. O. Allen.

The case for the Crown was conducted by Mr. Iskip, K.C., and Du Parc, and the prisoners were defended under the Poor Prisoners' Defence Act—Connell by Mr. Tuck, the other two by Mr. Duke.

According to the case for the prosecution, the Mariska was a Canadian ship flying the red ensign, owned by the Transatlantic Steamship Company, and was registered in England. The captain and all the crew were British subjects. The ship left Halifax on or about July 3, with a cargo of pure alcohol, glass, and goods, bound for Baltimore, Md. On August 8 there was a mutiny brewing among the crew. The captain was advised not to go to Baltimore. He was advised by Mr. Iskip, K.C., and Du Parc, and the prisoners were defended under the Poor Prisoners' Defence Act—Connell by Mr. Tuck, the other two by Mr. Duke.

After dinner the three men on the bridge and said they were going to hoist the red flag. They tried to get at the halliards, but were prevented. TODAY'S WATCHWORD

Sickness Prevention

The guiding inspiration of modern medical science is Sickness Prevention. As this idea has worked itself out, smallpox, cholera, yellow fever and other infectious diseases already have given way. And science has finally developed an effective agent against the plague which is the originating point of over 90% of disease.

That plague is constipation, and that agent Nujol. The dangers of constipation are so widespread because by reducing the body's power of resistance through self-poisoning it makes it easier for any disease to develop. Nujol by relieving constipation prevents the absorption of the poisons which otherwise would be taken into the blood and infect the whole system.

Leading medical authorities agree that pills, salts, castor oil, etc., simply force and weaken the system. Nujol softens the food waste and encourages the intestinal muscles to act naturally. Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

Crew Mutinied.

HALIFAX CAPTAIN AND WIFE HAVE THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

The London Daily Telegraph of October 20th prints the following of the trial for mutiny on the high seas on the steamer Mariska, in which Capt. C. O. Allen and his wife, of Halifax, had such a thrilling experience:

Appropriately enough, Mr. Thomas Hardy, the novelist, sat on the Bench at Dorset Assizes, at Dorchester, on Saturday, with Mr. Justice Darling, when a thrilling story of the sea was narrated in connection with the trial of three firemen of the steamer Mariska, named Mike Connell, John Cody and Gerald Lynch, for mutiny and doing grievous bodily harm to the master, Captain C. O. Allen.

The case for the Crown was conducted by Mr. Iship, K.C., and Mr. Du Parc, and the prisoners were defended under the Poor Prisoners' Defence Act—Connell by Mr. Tucker and the other two by Mr. Duke.

According to the case for the prosecution, the Mariska was a Canadian ship flying the red ensign, owned by the Transatlantic Steamship Company, and was registered in England. The captain and all the crew were British subjects. The ship left Halifax on or about July 3, with a cargo of pure alcohol, glass, and other goods, bound for Baltimore and Brest. On August 8 there was trouble brewing among the crew, and the captain was advised not to go.

After dinner the three men came on the bridge and said they were going to hoist the red flag. They tried to get at the halliards, but he prevented them. He pulled out his revolver, and he was then knocked down, and was nearly blinded by Mike Connell, who was then followed by John Cody, and put a revolver to his ear. The chief officer, MacBride, was chased and fastened in a locker by Cody, who also chased Mrs. Allen, the captain's wife, who would have jumped into the sea had the post-captain not restrained her. A wireless call was sent out, and the steamer War Khan came up, and an armed party was put aboard, and the men were placed in irons. The affair took place about 200 miles off Ushant, and the mutineers were taken on to Brest.

Mrs. Allen told a pathetic story of the extent to which she was terrorized. She would have jumped into the sea had not the boatswain prevented her. Her two children pleaded with the prisoners not to hurt their daddy.

Capt. Allen told the judge that Cody was the ringleader.

All the prisoners were found guilty, and Cody was sentenced to five years' penal servitude, and Lynch and Connell to eighteen months.

The judge told the prisoners they had nearly made themselves liable to the death penalty.

Let "Danderine" Save Your Hair.

GET RID OF EVERY BIT OF THAT
UGLY DANDRUFF AND STOP FALLING HAIR.

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After several applications all dandruff usually goes and hair stops coming out. Every hair in your head soon shows new life, vigor, brightness, thickness and more color.

The War and Religion.

There has been more than necessary discussion about the religion or lack of religion of the returned soldier. All opinions have shot wide of the mark because they tried to classify the men who fought. Because these men were clothed in uniform, and trained to act in unison those who have their religious welfare under consideration apparently believe that their souls still are cloaked in the same shade of khaki and that all will act identically if only the learned word of command can be learned by the religious instructors. The church will make more progress with the returned soldiers when it realizes that they did not surrender individually by wearing the uniform. —Buffalo Express.

EUROPEAN AIR SERVICE.

The Airco express aeroplanes, which fly daily between London and Paris, on Saturday completed their sixth week of continuous operation.

"I started this service," said Mr. Holt Thomas on Sunday, "to show that besides providing transport at 100 miles an hour, aeroplanes can now be flown to a time-table in bad weather. We have since we began scheduled 36 flights. Of these, though on 23 days the weather was unfavourable, we accomplished no fewer than 33. Only one flight had to be abandoned through weather. On that day conditions were worse than they had been for years. The progress of another flight was interrupted by mist and exceptionally low clouds. As a proof that the aeroplane is no longer unreliable, I may mention that once only during 20,750 miles flying has a pilot alighted through mechanical trouble.

"This service is the first link in a European chain of 100 miles an hour aerial ways. Before long we shall be able to save, not merely hours, but days, in the transport of letters from London to some of the great Continental cities."

EXTRACT FROM "THE OBSERVER"
Aerial Mail by Night—Fine Record of Folkestone Cologne Service.

An interesting experiment in night mail carrying has just been carried out. An Airco or H. D. 10 machine left Hawkinge aerodrome near Folkestone, at 9.30 p.m. and flying straight through without a stop reached Cologne at 1.30 a.m. The machine was piloted by Captain Barrett, with Lieut. Fitzmorice as navigation officer and Lieut. Oliver as observer. The course taken covered about 300 miles, and as there was a fairly strong adverse wind the performance, at an average speed of 100 m.p.h. was particularly good.

The DeH. or Airco Machine is built by Mr. Holt Thomas' Company, which with its associated companies forms the greatest Aircraft enterprise in the world.

The Aircraft Manufacturing Company's principal works are at Hendon.

Lifeboat Disaster at Caistor.

The most fatal lifeboat accident that has ever occurred on the Norfolk coast took place on November 14, 1901 at Caistor, near Yarmouth, when the lifeboat "Beauchamp" capsized while returning to the shore, and nine of her crew were drowned. In answer to signals of distress from a Lowestoft fishing boat that was drifting on to the Barber Sands, the boat was in readiness to go off at eleven o'clock on the Wednesday night. A tremendous sea was running at the time, and the task of launching the boat proved almost impossible. She was got off once, but heavy rolls caught her and drove her back, and it was only after three hours' continuous struggling in the teeth of a hurricane of wind and blinding rain that the "Beauchamp" was got clear away on her errand. Nothing more was seen of her until four o'clock in the morning, when the watchers in the lifeboat shed caught a faint glimpse of her, keel upwards, driving up the beach before the waves. Thirty boatmen plunged into the water to render assistance, but could do very little. As the boat was rocked by the waves they could see the faces of some of their comrades imprisoned beneath her. Straining every nerve they succeeded, with the utmost difficulty in dragging out three of the lifeboat men as the "Beauchamp" rose and fell. A few hours later, when the tide went down, the capsized boat was righted with the assistance of a large crowd, and more bodies were recovered.

She Was Privileged.

A good story is current concerning the Duchess of Norfolk, who lent Norfolk House to the overseas women during the war, and who has recently been presented by them with a silver-mounted writing-set in token of their gratitude.

Following ancestral custom, the grounds of Arundel Castle, the beautiful family seat of the Howards in Sussex, are freely thrown open to visitors at certain times.

One bank holiday they were thronged with trippers, all of whom, however, were careful to observe the warning notices to "Keep off the grass."

All that is to say, but one quietly-dressed woman, who was observed to be calmly walking about on the forbidden greenward.

Muttered comments among the other women culminated presently in one of them calling sharply to her:

"Come off the grass you there! Can't you see it's forbidden? 'Tis the like of you that gets poor people a bad name."

The person addressed, however, only smiled and continued her walk; and the surprise of the speaker may be imagined when, later on, she learned that the woman she had remonstrated with was none other than the Duchess herself.

"An interesting experiment was tried some little time ago," he writes, "with an ordinary herring."

"The fish was put into a large bowl of salt water and every day a small quantity of the water was removed and an equal quantity of "fresh" was substituted, until eventually the fish lived and thrived in purely fresh water.

"The owner was so pleased with the success of his experiment that he then tried removing a very small quantity of water daily until the bowl was empty and found that the herring did excellently, entirely

Scotland is to vote on liquor licenses this coming Summer. Electors will have a threefold choice. By a cross on the ballot paper they can signify their preference for: No change in the number of licenses. Reduction of licenses. Abolition of all licenses. If abolition is carried, all licenses will end on May 28 following. But this "no license" reduction can be carried only if 55 per cent. of the votes recorded are in favor of it and if these number not less than 35 per cent of the electors on the register. If a district goes "dry" the sale of drink will stop entirely with this exception, that under special circumstances the licensing board may allow certain hotels or restaurants to sell drink to residents or to those taking a meal, but there is to be no drinking-bar.

Extremists Must Pass.

For close on five years the world has wallowed in extreme doctrines. In the fire and fury of war there was no room for the man who would admit that there might be men very like him on the other side. There was no time for thinking of others in the tremendous stress and strain of the efforts to save ourselves. We were educated and forced into a system of living where every thought was exaggerated, where every opinion was subordinated to the one great idea that we were in the right, where every effort was subservient to the great effort of winning. We were extremists par excellence, though in a just cause.

That mood is taking time to die, but it will pass. It must pass. The world must come back again to the days of moderation when men were willing to enquire into the views of the other side, and compromise. The extremists who have given us Bolsheviki and I. W. W. agitators are a product of the war mind which developed extremists. The further we get from the war period the swifter and more certain will be the decline of their power. The world must broaden its mind again and return once more to the doctrine of 'live and let live.' We have learned many things in this period of white heat, but perhaps the greatest thing we have learned is the value of the old-time moderation.—Sydney Review.

Novel Accounting.

Under the Profiteering Act a tradesman can be called upon to produce his books and show what he paid for goods to see that he is not making an unreasonable profit. It is a remarkable fact that hundreds of tradesmen who have a turnover of several thousands a year never keep a book of any kind, but rely almost entirely upon their memories or a few figures on odd scraps of paper. Cases are continually cropping up in the courts dealing with queer ways of keeping accounts.

A grocer in the North of Ireland who sued a customer, when called upon to produce his account against the defendant, calmly produced a notched stick. It was covered over with nicks, some long, some short, denoting pounds, shillings, and pence, to the amount of £7 10s., and after the nicks were properly explained to the judge, he had no hesitation in giving a decree for the full amount. These "tallies" used to be quite common in this country, and still survive in some parts of France. A peasant enters the village shop, and, making a purchase, gives a stick which he carries with him to the shopkeeper. The latter lays it alongside another stick which hangs on the wall, and, making a notch in both sticks at one operation, hands the one back again. Each peasant has a stick, and a duplicate of this hangs on the shopkeeper's wall. When accounts are squared up periodically the sticks are destroyed.

BOY SCOUTS' COLUMN.

(Edited by an Asst. S.M.)

THE MONTH.
This month is called, according to the Indians, "The Mad Moon." This is the month of "Short Tramps." Saturday afternoon is the school-boys' tramping day. Start at 2 o'clock, end at 5 o'clock. You ought to be able to do about ten miles' tramping in one Saturday afternoon. This is the great month for building your shack or "bough-house" for winter tramps.

TREES.
The principal trees of the East Coast of Newfoundland are evergreens. Of course there is also a quantity of other trees but the main ones are the fir and the spruce. How many of you know the difference? Don't laugh. It isn't so easy as you think to distinguish the difference between a spruce and a fir. Try it.

SCOUTS ARE FRIENDS.
As a matter of fact the 4th Scout Law says that they are brothers; but what I want to know is why there isn't more friendliness among the boys of the various troops in the city? Keep the 4th Law, boys; it doesn't cost anything to know more about your brother Scouts both here and all the world over.

A NEW COUNCIL.
There will be a meeting some time next week of the S.M.'s, Asst. S.M.'s, Commissioners and prominent citizens to form a new Council for the Dominion. A Council will have to be formed, for at present each Scout-Master has independent control over his own troop and does what he likes. The Chief Commissioner is too busy, the District Commissioners are asleep. We have to wake them up Scout-Masters. Something has to be done before the week is finished.

CITIZENS!
I have been authorized by the Chief Commissioner to call a meeting of all the prominent citizens of the town to form a Central Council of the Boy Scouts of Newfoundland. How many of you will give us your support in forwarding the Boy Scout Movement

Fulton Wants Another Crack at Dempsey

There is one important reason for believing that Fred Fulton who wants to take another crack at Jack Dempsey, may amount to something after all. For nearly a year he has been under the management of Tom O'Rourke, the man who exploited George Dixon, once featherweight champion; Joe Walcott, a former holder of the welterweight title, and Tom Sharkey, who gave James J. Jeffries the hardest fight of his career.

O'Rourke has been identified with the boxing game in this country for more than thirty years and he still is regarded as the best handler of pugilists in the profession. He took hold of Fulton early this year with the idea that the latter, if properly managed, could be developed into a dangerous contender for the heavy-weight championship and incidentally a profitable drawing card.

Fulton was in much disfavor when he accepted O'Rourke's managerial terms. O'Rourke wisely decided to transport the big plasterer to England, where he knew that boxing was sure to enjoy a great revival. O'Rourke probably figured that if he could send Fulton against Joe Beckett, new British champion, or Georges Carpentier with success he would be able to bring the Minnesota giant back to the U.S. ready to fight for the world's championship. But O'Rourke had been blocked in his plans to ensure Beckett or Carpentier, who will meet for the European title in London next month, and has concluded that he will sail with Fulton for New York at an early date.

With O'Rourke in his corner to advise him how to fight, Fulton has knocked out several obscure heavyweights on the other side. But these one-sided victories will not restore Fulton's prestige which he lost when Dempsey flattened him with three well-directed punches at Harrison, N. J., a year ago last summer. Fulton's future, therefore, depends entirely on what he has learned from O'Rourke and what he may be able to accomplish in American rings.

Naturally sporting men are wondering if O'Rourke has inspired Fulton with gameness. Ferocious Fred when he tackled Dempsey, was so frightened that he forgot all that he ever knew about the manly art. A terrific left handed body punch delivered by Dempsey in less than twenty seconds of milling took all the fight out of Fulton, who then became the softest kind of a mark.

Fulton's cowardice in that memorable affair still is a black mark. If O'Rourke has eliminated fear from the big fellow's make-up he has performed a miracle.

Successful Auction Sale

Messrs Dowden and Edwards held their first auction sale yesterday at the store of Miss Carey, Duckworth Street. A large crowd was in attendance and from the manner in which the sale was conducted, we bespeak for the firm a large share of the public patronage.

Bazaar Closes.

Last night about two hundred couples enjoyed themselves dancing as conclusion to the Presentation Convention Bazaar, held in the C.C.C. Hall. The Bazaar proved a great success, and the amount realized was beyond the expectations of the promoters.

Fads and Fashions.

Silver frosting on dyed flax lace is an interesting trimming idea. Rich evening headresses of striking color combinations are worn. Over an underdress of white organdie is a paneled printed chiffon. Cherry red and pearl gray are favored colors in the millinery world. A general use of pleatings is noticeable in many of the new frocks. Checked velours of henna and navy will be used for Southern sportswear. Some suit blouses are of high colored silks, trimmed with the suit cloth. Accordion-pleated insertions may be used to give the prevailing side fullness.

More Heat on Less Fuel.

Many thousands of users in City, Town and Country have learned from natural experience that the Caloric, the Original Patented Pipeless Furnace, heats the homes better than they were ever heated before, in all kinds of weather. Also that it save one-third to one-half the Coke, Coal and Wood. If you want real winter comfort, if you want to turn your houses into homes, and if at the same time you want to cut your heating expenses to practically one-half, install a Caloric. The cost of installation and maintenance, in money and labor, is much less than the number of stoves required to heat the same space. Thousands of Caloric users have paid the first cost of their furnace through the saving of fuel. It can be installed as quickly in the old houses as in the new, frequently in a day, because it has but one register, and requires no pipes in floors or walls.

More than fifty thousand Calorics are giving satisfactory and economical service in all types of homes, up to eighteen rooms in size, as well as in churches, stores, factories and other buildings.

Read the following testimonial from one of our customers:—

St. John's, Newfoundland.
November 12, 1919.

Messrs. Bowring Brothers, Ltd.,
Hardware Department.

I have installed the Caloric Pipeless Furnace in my home (it is also the first Caloric in Newfoundland) and find it to give all the satisfaction claimed by its manufacturers. I would therefore recommend it to anyone that wants the most perfect system of heating by the circulation of warm, moist air through one register.

Spanish Commerce With Newfoundland.

PAPER BY H. F. SHORTIS.

A meeting of the Historical Society was held at the C.F.E. Rooms, Millitia Building, last night, the President, Mr. H. W. LeMessurier, C.M.G., in the chair. The report of a committee, was presented by Dr. Robinson, after which a most interesting paper on "Spanish Commerce with Newfoundland" was read by Mr. H. F. Shortis. He dealt exhaustively with the days when this port was visited by large numbers of Spanish vessels, and entertainingly described many of their captains and owners, who arrived by them. Many of these were highly cultured men, and splendid musicians, as also were the members of the crews who often delighted the public with their guitar playing. The description of the seamen's washing of their clothes near Brown's Bridge, and the part they took in local gatherings as well as many other incidents of the time, was followed with deepest interest by all. The story of how when the ships were frozen up in the harbour some 70 years ago, the captains sent their money for purchasing fish across the ice, and had it hauled to the bank in boxes on catamarans, proved a chapter in an address that evoked the warmest praise. This story was told Mr. Shortis by the late Geo. H. LeMessurier, Esq., and the amount of money referred to was some $68,000 in silver dollars, contained in bags. At the close of the paper a vote of thanks, proposed by Rev. Canon Bolt, and seconded by Mr. W. A. Munn, was heartily accorded Mr. Shortis.

Enjoyable Social.

Last night's Social at the Congregational Church was a most enjoyable function, a representative gathering being present. After a short musical programme, consisting of selections by Mrs. Whiteley, Misses Langmead and Estelle Barnes and Mr. R. G. Ross had been gone through, Mr. Dunbar delivered a most carefully prepared address on the proposed Maternity Hospital, outlining the work of such an institution and the need there is in this city for such. The members of the Ladies' Aid Society provided refreshments, which were served at the conclusion of the address. The singing of the National Anthem terminated a very pleasant evening.

At the City Hall.

The regular weekly session of the City Council took place last night. The Mayor and Councillors Ayre and Vinicombe were present.

A communication was read from Mr. A. Macpherson, as to water extension Quidi Vidi Road. Mr. Macpherson can lay a lead pipe if he requires to do so.

A light was petitioned for Sudbury St. Report was ordered.

Mr. Parsons must put concrete in front of his garage on King's Rd., instead of a bridge.

It was ordered the Solicitor be instructed to take proceedings against the party blocking Thomas and Springdale Streets.

Small Home Sewerage was granted T. Carow, Cook St.

W. J. Williar wrote he did not want to install sewerage this year. He is to be informed it must be done.

Laurence O'Driscoll was granted a permit to repair house: T. Collingwood to build addition to house, and plan of house for Mr. Hudson, Franklin Ave., was approved. C. Campbell is to be given street line for erection of fence.

Plumbing tenders for small homes sewerage were awarded to Bishop and Austin (3) and A. Mills (1).

The City Engineer's report dealt with water works' progress on South Side and other works in the city, for the week.

After the disposal of bills, pay rolls, and a lot of routine matter, the meeting adjourned at 9.30.

At the Majestic.

John Stanton has long desired to enlist, but his mother who is ill and fearful, exacts a promise from him, not to enlist, because she could not resist his departure. He is called a slacker by his friends, and when his sweet-heart, Jane Novak, treats him coldly he is in despair. In his father's safe reposes the Formula of a high explosive entrusted to him by the U. S. Government, and Stanton learns and frustrates the plots of several German Spies to obtain possession of it. When Stanton's mother come to a full realization of Hun-espionage in this country, and of the necessity of combatting it abroad as well as at home, Stanton is permitted to refute the charge of being a slacker by enlisting.

Don't miss this splendid production "The Claws of the Hun" at the Majestic on Friday and Saturday.

ONE BETTER THAN THE LAST. That is the worst of those fish stories—somebody always comes along with a better one.

Recently "The London Evening News" told the V.A.D.'s story of the frozen fish that came to life in the cooking pot. Then a correspondent—

Returned Soldier Had to Give Up Position, He Says

C. Renouf Was So Run-Down He Couldn't Walk—Built Up By Tanlac.

"If I had heard of Tanlac sooner I would not have been forced to give up my position," was the statement made by C. Renouf, 53 Cochrane St., St. John's, Newfoundland, formerly employed as cost clerk for the Dominion Iron and Steel Works at Bell Island. Mr. Renouf saw service in the Canadian Expeditionary Forces in France, where he was wounded in action in the big Allied drive at Beaumont.

"When I got back from France I was in a terribly run-down condition," continued Mr. Renouf, "due to the nerve-racking strain all of us boys had to go through. I had almost no appetite at all and what I did eat didn't agree with me and I wasn't able to get back any strength. I couldn't sleep at night but would roll and tumble from one side of the bed to the other and when morning came I could hardly tell I had been to bed. I got so weak I couldn't do my work and I just had to give up my position as cost clerk. I guess I took as many different kinds of medicine as any man ever did but for the good it did me I might as well have thrown the money in the streets.

"Finally a good friend of mine told me about Tanlac and I commenced taking it. The way I began to pick up right from the start was a surprise to me, and now four bottles of Tanlac have just seemed to give me new life and strength. Everything I eat agrees with me perfectly and it gives me nourishment, and I am gaining in weight right along. I sleep like a log every night, and in the mornings I get up with a big appetite and go all day long feeling fine. I wish you would publish this statement so that other soldiers who are in the fix I was will know that Tanlac is just the thing they need."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, in Harbor Buffett, by Thomas Wakeley & Son; in Placentia, by James Murphy & Son, and in Topsail by J. K. Bursell.

SOME SWEET DIAL.

Some day I will reform the world and make the crooked places straight; then every evil will be hurled to outer darkness, sure as fate. But now I have to do my chores, and keep the well known wolf away; I have to fix the cellar doors, and lay in coal and flour and hay. Some day, with you, I'll take the stump and talk from morn till night arrives, send old abuses to the dump, and brighten up men's darkened lives. But now I have to raise the price of things we need—it takes some roll—and pay the chap who brought the ice and t'other guy who brings the coal. And sometimes, as I pay my bills, I think perhaps that helps as much as whooping up and down the hills, demanding things, to beat the Dutch. And often, as I do my chores, I think that helps the world along as much as raising raucous roars, and showing that all things are wrong. Some day I'll leave my useful tasks, forsake my simple, homely joys, and stand on boxes and on casks, and wave red flags, and make a noise. Then you will know, if you are near, that something's wrong beneath my thatch, and you may take me by the ear, and lead me to the booby hatch, spaniel, Floss, was in trouble.

The White Clothing Mfg. Co., Ltd. Oct. 15th, 1919.
GENTLEMEN.—We received your bill and the 58 Suits O.K. and let me congratulate you and the working people on the workmanship of the clothes.
I inspected the Suits and they were done to the "point." You can show this letter to your workmen as they deserve it. I just came from the States and I consider the style and fit wonderful, and we can assure you that as long as we receive work as good as these you can be assured of our trade.
Hoping you will do all of our work like this, and thanking you very much,
I am, respectfully yours,

To-day's Messages.

MORE FLIGHT VICTIMS.
LONDON, Nov. 13. Lieut. Douglas, Australian Flying Corps, and Lieut. J. S. L. Ross, his navigator, who started from Hounslow this morning for a flight to Australia, were killed shortly after they began their journey, when their airplane crashed near Surlinton in Surrey. Lieut. Douglas and Ross were Australian entrants in the reliability flight from England to Australia, for the Australian Government prize of sixty thousand dollars. Several aviators also have entered this contest. The conditions of the flight are that the distance of eleven thousand five hundred miles must be covered within thirty days.

FEW WENT BACK.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 13. Although practically all the locals of the United Mine Workers had received official notice of recall of nation-wide strike orders, few of the forty thousand Union Coal Miners in Ohio returned to work to-day, according to operators and headquarters of Mine Workers here.

DON'T WANT TO WORK.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 13. The coal operators of Pittsburgh District, and Central and Eastern Pennsylvania reported that Union Miners of this area have displayed no inclination to return to work, despite the recall of strike order by United Mine Workers Executives.

BOLSHEVIK THREAT.
LONDON, Nov. 13. Nicholas Lenin, the Russian Bolshevik Premier, has sent a letter to the Turkestan Communists, in which he says that restoration of communications between Soviet Russia and Turkestan "opens the way for a struggle against Universal Imperialism and the wealth of Great Britain." The message is interpreted here as a hint at operations in the direction of British India.

L. W. W. LYNCHED.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. The man, who was lynched here to-day, after four members of the American Legion had been shot and killed during the Armistice Day celebrations, was identified early to-day as Ernest Everetts by a woman who conducted a rooming house where Everetts lived. He was working as an I. W. W. organizer, the woman said.

LABOR OFFERED SAY IN RAILROAD.

LONDON, Nov. 14. Premier Lloyd George has offered the Railway Men's Union membership in the committee of management of roads with directors and government officials, according to a statement by J. H. Thomas, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen. Mr. Thomas announces that the Government also has made a definite offer of new legislative machinery to deal with wages of railwaymen and the settlement of the disputes. Both offers were made at a conference of the Premier with a delegation from the National Union of Railwaymen, Thursday. The plan will be submitted to the executive of the Union to-day for decision.

BADE WASHINGTON ADIEU.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. At a brilliant reception, held at the British Embassy to-night, the Prince of Wales bade formal adieu to official Washington and indirectly to the city which for three days has given expression in unobtrusive hospitality and to the friendliness of the American people. It was one of the most cheerful twenty minutes which President Wilson has spent since his illness and he thoroughly enjoyed them. Late to-day the Prince of Wales called upon him at the White House. In describing the visit afterwards to Rear Admiral Grayson, Wilson's personal physician, said the two had a "fine old time."

WILSON WIRE ROYALTY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. President Wilson, in a cablegram to Queen Alexandra of Great Britain, said he was happy to say that his health was steadily improving. His message was in reply to one from the Queen, thanking him for receiving her grandson, the Prince of Wales, and expressing hope that his rest would give him fresh strength and health for the future.

POINCARÉ INSTALLED AS LORD RECTOR.

GLASGOW, Nov. 13. Raymond Poincaré, President of the French Republic, was installed to-day as Lord Rector of Glasgow University.

ITALY RAISES BLOCKADE.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 13. The Italian Government has officially raised the blockade of Flume, according to advices from that city received through Laibach, Austria.

Then Blew Out Own Brains—Shocking Crime in Lunenburg County.

BRIDGEWATER, November 10.—A shocking tragedy occurred at Pleasant River early on Sunday morning, and the worst on record in this County. Wilson Huey, a returned soldier, came to the house of Mrs. Stuart Smith at Pleasant River and asked for lodging, which was given him, and late in evening she was awakened by a man entering her room. She protested against the intrusion and a revolver shot struck her skull, inflicting a slight wound, after which he left her, and attacked her daughter, Madzie, while Mrs. Smith walked one mile and a half to the nearest neighbor.

On Sunday morning Dr. Simpson, of Bridgewater, accompanied by Constables Snyder and Veinott, visited the house and found the daughter battered to pieces, and Huey with his skull blown off by a rifle in his own hand. The cause is unknown.

Story of the Crime.
LUNENBURG, November 10.—The murder of Miss Madzie Smith, and the suicide of Wilson Huey, at Mount Pleasant, has caused intense interest in this town.

Wilson Huey, a returned soldier, formerly of Mount Pleasant, who was married to a Miss Smith of Hemford, with whom he lived apparently on amicable terms up to the time of his enlistment, but during his absence at the front, Mrs. Huey was carrying her living at Bridgewater. It appeared that Huey became infatuated with Miss Madzie Smith, daughter of Mrs. Stuart Smith, and although his attentions were not reciprocated he visited their home.

At a late hour on Saturday night he was given permission to remain for the night, and taking a light and his rifle, which he had with him, he proceeded up stairs.

Found Both Dead.

Mrs. Smith and her daughter retired, both occupying the same room. Through the night Huey came downstairs and entered their room. Mrs. Smith raised her head from the pillow and told him that this was not his room, and asked him to go to his own room. With that he fired at her, the shot grazing the side of her face. She immediately left the house and got to the home of Joseph Colp, at two a.m., a distance of one mile through the woods. She was in an exhausted and highly nervous condition, but nevertheless returned with Colp to her home, only to find that her daughter had been slain by Huey, having dashed her brains out with the butt of the gun. Huey then went up stairs and blew his brains out with a shot from his rifle.

An inquest was held yesterday and a verdict given in accordance with the facts. Herford is about forty miles from here, and the quiet and respectable community is highly shocked at this most atrocious murder. Mrs. Smith has the respect of everybody in the settlement, and Madzie was a beautiful girl in looks and character, and it seems so sad that as she was coming into womanhood with a bright future that she should meet such a dastardly end from the hands of such a fiend.

Britain's Biggest Bell. Walter A. O'D. Kelly,
Licensed Auctioneer and Commission Agent.

In the course of the hearing of a case that was being tried in the High Court of Justice, it was stated by an eminent K.C., that Big Ben is the biggest bell in the British Isles.

The statement was apparently acquiesced in alike by Judge, jury, and spectators. At all events, it passed unchallenged. And no wonder, since most standard books of reference assert the same thing.

But they are all wrong. Britain's biggest bell is not Big Ben, but Great Paul, which hangs in St. Paul's Cathedral.

It is a very hermit amongst bells, its abiding place is situated far away in the innermost recesses of the building, in a chamber forbidden to the public, and to be reached only after much clambering of tortuous stairs and traversing of many devious passages.

Perhaps it is for this very reason that its claims to superiority of bigness over all its British rivals have been, up till now, nearly ignored. "But its sound," you say, "will surely betray it!" Not at all. Indeed, so securely is the monster buried in its aerial mausoleum of solid masonry, that though rung every day, London is totally unaware of the fact. Just a whisper of it you may hear, if you "chance" to be standing in the churchyard between one o'clock and five minutes past, the ghost of the echo of a distant tintinnulation, so to speak; but you will have to listen intently.

Yet Great Paul weighs nearly seven tons, and is rung by the combined labour of four men, who swing it to and fro for the regulation five minutes, until towards the end it is swinging through nearly two-thirds of a circle, and both sides are thundering with the crashing blows of a clapper which itself weighs a third of a ton.

Big Ben, on the other hand, weighs only 13 tons 11 cwt., and is, moreover, incapable of being rung.
