Restoring Nerve Power.

In many people the tissues of the nerves have suffered from the strain of War and from the shortage of fats. You can restore your nerves in a natural way by eating "Skippers." The pure olive oil in which they are packed is worth its weight in gold to those who suffer from "fat-starved" nerves.

"Skippers" are especially valuable for children. They are very easily digested, and contain certain vital elements which assist the growing body, nerves and brain. Your retailer will supply you with a tin of

CHAPTER LII.
A MOMENT OF PERFECT BLISS.

He did not open it in the little shop, but waited a few minutes to buy a quire of note-paper—an unnecessary purchase, considering that there were reams of it lying in his room—and to exchange a remark in regard to the weather with the shop-keeper. Neither did he open it directly he regained the street, but with his lips tightly shut and his spectacles very much over his eyes, he hurried along to the park and, withdrawing a little from the stream of people, pouring down the path to a clump of trees, stopped and held the letter before him and paused as if to regain breath. The hand with which he held it trembled like the leaves above his head, and as he tore open the envelope, the blood deserted his face and left it waxen white.

But it rushed back in a crimson torrent as he deciphered the painful scrawl, and by the time he had reached the signature he felt faint enough to lean against the friendly tree.

Seeing this evident case of intoxication, one of the guardians of the people, who was leaning against the rails, eating nuts and trying to look as if he were not, swallowed a kernel, settled his neck in his stock with a look of determination and marched toward him.

But before he could knock him down or take him in charge—for your policeman's brain allows of only two courses—John Stanfield had hired a hackney cab and, giving the driver an address to which to drive, sank back

Pains About the Heart

ANY derangement of the heart's action is alarming. Frequently pains about the heart are caused by the formation of gas arising from indigestion.

Relief from this condition is obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion results from sluggish liver action, constipation of the bowels and inactive kidneys.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills arouse these organs to activity they thoroughly cure indigestion and overcome the many annoying symptoms.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

GERALD S. DOYLE,
Water St., St. John's.

and the secretary, as if ashamed of himself, rose to his feet rather sharply and, brushing the tears away, said, very quietly:

"I'm very sorry; don't you mind, please; you see, I haven't seen my brother for some years, and it's rather bad news. There, I am all right. Now, go on, please; do go on, tell me all—all, please; everything!"

Rather hesitatingly, for Mr. Tovey was terribly afraid of another outburst on the part of the listener and rather distrusted this unnatural calm, proceeded:

"Joe found him on board the 'Sclavonia'—run name, ain't it, sir? She came from the Cape—leastways, what remained of her, for she'd run through her course for two weeks. I never see a vessel so knocked about, nor such a done-up crew. You see, they had run short of provisions, water and all, and some of them were nigh starving. They was more like skeletons nor human beings, all skin and bone, especially the women. For there was women, you see; that was the worst of it; for some of the men, four of them, I think, was a-goin' on half rations for the sake of the women—half ration, when a ration was about two biscuits a day! Your gentleman was one of those good-hearted ones. And of course he suffered considerable. In fact, to tell you the truth, if he hadn't been the fine-made gentleman he is he'd 'a' been off the ship's sides long and long ago. They tells me he was a brick—a perfect brick—a goin' about the ship, encouraging of the men and a-cheering up the women like a hero. There was a mutiny—leastways, there would have been, for some of the men got at the spirits; but your gentleman stood beside the officers and acted so brave-like that the poor chaps were cowed and give in. But there; you're a-cryin' again, sir!"

"No, no, I'm not," murmured the secretary, lifting up his face, down which the tears, as if to belie his words, ran thick and fast. "Go on, please; oh, go on!"

"Well, of course, the papers got hold of this, and there was a regular outcry for the man who 'ad behaved so noble-like; but fortunate for Joe and me—twenty pounds is a lot o' money, sir, to the like of us—your brother was took very bad when the vessel came in—he'd bore up as long as there was any occasion, just up to the last minute, you see—and in the confusion Wiley and me smuggled him into the cottage and got him to bed. He never asked no questions as to who we were nor where we was takin' of him; he seemed regular tired out, you know, but just said, 'Are all the women saved?' and when we said 'Yes, and all the men, too,' dropped over and fainted away."

"Oh, my noble heart—my noble heart!" murmured the secretary.

"What did you say, sir? Beg pardon; thought you spoke. Well, there came a rare host o' people—regular swells and nobbs, some of 'em, inquiring for the hero of the 'Sclavonia,' and I was asked all manner o' questions. But I said I knew nothing about it—it was no business o' mine; and Joe, he caps it by swearin' as he sees him go out o' the gates about half an hour after the ship was in, and so we managed to put 'em off the scent. And to make a long story short, sir, there he is, a-lying in the cottage at this moment—leastwise, if one of the newspaper chaps hasn't stole him away."

The secretary dried his tears and replaced his spectacles; but his hands—nay, his whole little body—trembled still, and he waited a moment quietly and silently.

"Gon on," breathed the young gentleman, faintly. "Tell me—here—we will go on in a moment—tell me, please, quick."

"Well," responded the old man, rather bewildered by these signs of emotion, and thrown off the rails—"well, I thinks as we have got him—leastways—but, sir, you'd better come in, I think."

"Go on—go on!" breathed the other, clutching his arm and pressing his other hand to his breast, which, as the old man could see, rose and fell rapidly.

"If he's the gentleman you want, sir—he's as like as two peas to your description of 'im—I'm feared he's in a bad way."

"Not dead!" almost shrieked the secretary, grasping his arm until he winced—"not dead! Don't tell me that you have been breaking that to me—not dead—anything, ill, crippled—ay, even dying, but not dead—oh, Heaven, not dead!"

"No, no, no! He ain't dead," replied the old man, anxious to dispel the fearful agony plainly demonstrated by the white, strained face. "He ain't dead, but he's in a bad state, a very bad state, and it ain't no use concealin' of it as I knows on."

The young gentleman gave a sigh of relief, and then—oh, wonderful human nature!—dropped on a bale and burst into a torrent of tears.

"Oh, I say, you know, sir; for Heaven's sake don't you go to take on like that!" remonstrated the old man, plaintively, and looking around with a look that was comical in its utter helplessness. "If I'd 'a' known he'd been so cut up I'd 'a' left the job to Wiley," he added, inaudibly, scratching his head and staring forlornly at the bent, sob-shaken figure.

Presently, as suddenly as it had

IF YOU WANT BABY TO GROW UP into a hardy, vigorous child, you must make sure you are feeding him properly. Baby should be fed at the breast if possible—and this will always be made easier if the expectant mother will prepare herself by including in one of her daily meals a bowlful of Neave's Health Food. But when Baby has to be put on the bottle, extra care must be taken in the choice of the food. Neave's Food has nearly a century's reputation, and many eminent doctors express the opinion that it is the best alternative to mother's milk.

Dr. L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S. (Edin.), L.P.S. (Glas.), etc., Leeds, writes:—"Your Neave's Food is suiting our youngest admirably, for which we are very thankful. She was not doing well on cow's milk and water alone."

HOW YOU CAN TELL GENUINE ASPIRIN

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Aspirin—No others!

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, refuse them—they are not Aspirin at all.

There is only one Aspirin, that marked with the "Bayer Cross"—all other tablets are only acid imitations. Look for the "Bayer Cross"! Then it is real Aspirin, for which there is no substitute.

Aspirin is not German but is made in America, and is owned by an American Company, all rights being purchased from the U. S. Government.

Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" have been proved safe by millions for Pain, Headache, Neuralgia, Colds, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger "Bayer" packages, can be had at any drug store.

Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 761), of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

The Bayer Co., Inc., U.S.A.

Then, with an inclination of the head, he said in a low voice:

"You have done more than I ever dared to hope. I promised you twenty pounds, but I will give you fifty. Please don't speak—I—I will you go on first and see whether he is there all safe, and come back and tell me? You won't be long, please?" he added, imploringly.

"Not a minute," responded the old man, with alacrity, and he started off toward the cottage, muttering: "Fifty pounds! Fifty pounds! My eye!"

The secretary stood in the shadow of the little box waiting with hands before his face.

Presently the old man came back breathlessly.

"He's there—all safe—and asleep, sir."

"Asleep? Thank Heaven!" murmured the secretary; then with a sudden, wistful eagerness, added: "Do you think I could—could see him without waking him?"

"Yes, in course you could," replied the old man. "Come along, sir. I can understand how glad you are to get him back—such a fine, brave-hearted gentleman!"

They reached the cottage and went straight upstairs.

"Joe is aboard one of the vessels; won't be home till dinner-time. He'll be very grateful, sir; very grateful!" whispered the old man, fervently, stopping before the closed door.

"Is this the room?" asked the secretary, more with his eyes than his lips.

The old man nodded, opened the door and stood outside.

The youth passed in and closed the door behind him.

It was a small room, but clean and comfortably furnished.

At the further end was the bed, and stretched out on it lay the tall figure of a man, his face, thin, but tanned by the sun, lying on his arm, thin, but sinewy and tanned, too.

The bedclothes were pushed away from his breast and left it exposed, showing two scars from old sword-cuts.

The whole form was stretched in an attitude of majestic, graceful rest, the pose of the arms, the play of the grave, handsome face, all spoke physical exhaustion.

All this the quiet secretary took in with the first devouring look; then, with a smothered cry upon his lips, he sprang noiselessly forward and dropped like a wounded bird at the side of the bed, his face—bereft of spectacles now—lying within an inch of the sleeping man's, his heaving bosom actually touching the scarred breast, his breath mingling with the sleeper's, and his eyes drinking in—oh, how thirstily!—every inch of the noble, peaceful face.

Ah, surely those who sing of life as a voidful, joyless thing have never felt love—have never sipped the nectar of such a moment as this!

THE RACE.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
The sea for the yacht race was very smooth at 10.10 with an even breeze blowing.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
Fog moderated, to-day's race started, Resolute leading.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
The Resolute crossed at 1.1.33, Shamrock crossed at 1.1.56.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
At 1.15 the Resolute was two hundred yards to windward, with the Shamrock almost becalmed.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
At 1.37 the Shamrock had cut down the Resolute's lead to a little more than a quarter of a mile.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
At 2.07 the Resolute was seven hundred yards ahead.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
At 3.50 the yachts were four miles from the lights and in a squall the Resolute leading by a quarter of a mile.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
The Resolute's lead at the first mark was one minute, forty-eight seconds.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
The Shamrock passed the Resolute within three miles of the finish, the Resolute wins.

BRITISH FEAR ANOTHER WAR.
LONDON, July 23.
The British public is disturbed by the possibility that the Allies may have to enter another European war to save Poland. Practically all papers support the Premier.

AUTHORITY OF CROWN WOULD BE MAINTAINED.

LONDON, July 23.
In the House of Commons last night Sir Hamar Greenwood, Secretary for Ireland, announced that the Government had introduced the criminal injuries bill, which would enable it to intercept every grant from the exchequer to any person or authority in Ireland which was acting illegally and he assured the House that the action of every council or other public authority in Ireland was being examined into and that most drastic action would be taken to maintain the authority of the crown.

"A BITTER PERIOD IN IRISH HISTORY."

LONDON, July 23.
"I regret to have to say that Parliament and the Kingdom must brace up to face a bitter period in Irish history, as there will be a determined organized attempt to establish an Irish Republic by means of murder and intimidation," the Irish Chief Secretary, Sir Hamar Greenwood, declared in the Commons debate yesterday. He appealed to all parties and creeds to support the Government, predicting the situation would become still worse than at present. Carson said there were only two courses open, surrender to an Irish Republic, or organize forces to ensure the Government is not beaten, as it has been recently.

PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE ON IRELAND.

LONDON, July 23.
Premier Lloyd George told deputations of Parliamentary Committees of the Trades Union Congress yesterday he was as anxious as anyone to see the Irish question settled on a basis acceptable to the majority of the Irish people. He said the Government was not afraid to accept a truce, but could not permit outrages and murders. He was prepared to go a long way in the direction of Home Rule, if the necessary assurances were forthcoming. He asked labor's aid.

FURTHER MURDERS IN BELFAST.

BELFAST, July 23.
Three Unionists were shot dead by Sinn Fein snipers and another man's head blown off last night in a continuation of the riots started in the shippards on Wednesday. Soldiers complain they were fired on from a monastery. During the riot there was much looting of Spirits, Groceries and Licensed premises. More than one hundred and thirty arrests were made.

TEN KILLED IN BELFAST FIGHTING.

BELFAST, July 23.
It is definitely stated to-day that ten were killed in last night's hostilities. Shooting was renewed to-day in the Kaahm'r Street area.

MILITARY WRECK SINN FEIN HALL AND HOUSES.

LONDON, July 23.
Caltra, near Ballingsloe, was visited by police and military early to-day, who wrecked Sinn Fein hall and many houses, according to word received to-day. The sacking is said to be in reprisal for the murder of two constables.

WARSAW, July 23.
According to a Polish statement issued Wednesday the Bolsheviks have captured Grodno.

A BOLSHEVIKI THREAT.

LONDON, July 23.
A Bolshevik despatch from Moscow received here to-night, threatens vengeance against the British and the Finns should Great Britain deport Santeri Nuorteva, once secretary to Martens, Russian Bolshevik representative in the United States, to Poland should harm befall him. The wireless communication says with reference to the arrest of Nuorteva and the British decision to deliver him to Finland where he has been condemned to death, the Soviet Government has decided that in the event this infamous act is perpetrated, all British prisoners of war in Russia, Ukraine and Azerbaijan will similarly suffer, and that should Finland harm Nuorteva, punishment will be meted out to Finns. The Soviet Government notifies the British and Finnish authorities that they will receive a lesson and be taught to be wise. The allegation of the Soviet Government that Great Britain had decided to hand over Nuorteva is not supported by anything known here. Premier Lloyd George, answering a question in the House of Commons yesterday, said Nuorteva had left England and was returning to Russia.

Birds That Can't Fly.
Why don't barnyard fowl fly? They can make a fluttering pretence at flight, it is true, but for real flying their wings are useless. Barnyard fowl have lost the use of their wings through neglecting to use them. They have been valued for their eggs, and, as a consequence, they have been well fed. Thus the necessity for flying from place to place in search of food has not existed. They have for the same reason been protected as far as possible from attack by animals, and from other dangers that would make flight, as a means of escape, a necessity. In course of time, therefore, their wings have become practically useless for purposes of flight.

The wings of barnyard fowl are gradually decreasing in size. It may be that in the course of time their wings will become so small that they will be nothing more than mere stumps, and later still it is quite possible that they will disappear altogether.

Salt Shortage on Labrador.

(Trade Review.)
The best news we hear from Labrador this week comes from Sandy Island, where up to Wednesday last several crews had secured over 100 quintals each. As predicted by the Trade Review in last issue, there is already a scramble for salt on this part of the coast, and Marconi messages have been received to despatch salt to this vicinity. If the good fishing becomes general, there will be trouble on the part of many crews in getting salt.
This will apply especially to small dealers who make their annual trip from the coast by the usual steamer, and who depend altogether on the merchant to get their supply. We would again emphasize the necessity of an improved Marconi station at Battle Harbor so that there may be no delay in getting messages through.

Wedding Bells.

MORRY—GRANT.
A pretty as well as interesting wedding took place at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Oratory at the Presentation Convent, Cathedral Square, the ceremony being performed by His Grace Archbishop Roche. The contracting parties were Mr. Frederick T. Morry of P. C. O'Driscoll, Ltd., and Miss Agnes Grant, daughter of the late James Grant of this city. The groom was attended by Mr. Harry Morry, brother of the groom and Mr. John O'Driscoll, while the bride was assisted by Misses May Grant, her sister, and May Maddigan. The bride looked extremely pretty in a very handsome costume with bridal veil and orange blossoms and carried a magnificent bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair ferns. The bridesmaids were also handsomely gowned and carried very pretty bouquets. When the nuptial knot had been tied a reception and banquet was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss St. John, of the Upper South Side, where numerous friends joined in the festivities and the health of the young couple duly honoured. Both received many valuable presents, reminders of the regard in which they are held by many in the city. Dancing was indulged in until midnight, and an hour preceding its conclusion a bride and groom motored to Forest Pond where the honeymoon will be spent. In the hearty felicitations extended them the Telegram sincerely joins.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE ROAD TO PEACE.

What a lot of energy people do waste trying to make other people different, trying to make them see where they are wrong, fretting because they have certain traits, finding fault because they will not "listen to reason" — reason, of course, being what they think.

"Heterodoxy," said a famous bishop; "is the other man's doxy; orthodoxy is mine."

And what a great peace comes over one when one realizes that, after all, one doesn't have to wear oneself out one's way.

She Thought She Would Burst.

"He must know he wasn't fair about it," a little friend of mine once said to me in regard to an argument she had had with her husband, "but he simply wouldn't admit it. It seems as if I would burst if I can't make him see and admit it."

That's a typical example of the state of mind I mean—the state of mind that huris itself against some other personality and wears itself out trying to mould, or change, or convince at personality.

In May Sinclair's latest book (a peer medley of the morbid, the melancholy, the beautiful and the helpful) she tells how her heroine wins through her restlessness and unsatisfied desires, to peace—and that in spite of living every outward circumstance of life against her. And one of the milestones on her road to the haven of peace is the realization that you don't have to fret and worry your head to make people see things as they are—all you have to do is to accept and make the best of them.

Of course if you see some one for whom you care, following a line of conduct which you know (or rather think) only supreme intelligence can know (see things) by keeping him from the best happiness and development, there is no reason why after thorough consideration, you should not outline the change in conduct which you feel will bring happiness. Having outlined it the best you can, there your duty ends.

It may be entirely rejected. You will naturally be sorry, but you need not fret.

Would You Be Satisfied With This? Or it may be apparently rejected, and yet in reality, the seed may have been sown that will ultimately bring good fruit.

Many people are like that—they will never admit they are wrong or appear to accept any suggestion, and yet the seed lodges down deep and some day bears fruit. True, they will seldom admit that they were helped; they prefer to think they stumbled upon the change fortuitously. But that need not worry you if it is only their good and not self-aggrandizement you were after.

Tommy Burns Did Not Last Very Long.

London, July 16.—Tommy Burns, one-time heavyweight champion pugilist of the world, was stopped in the seventh round of what was to have been a twenty-round bout in Albert Hall to-night by Joe Beckett, heavyweight champion of England.

The seconds of the French-Canadian fighter threw up the sponges after Burns had taken counts of seven and nine. Burns protested and desired to continue the unequal fight, but his pleas were unavailing.

It was clearly a fight in which brute strength was pitted against age. Burns is nearly thirteen years older than Beckett and he had not engaged in a big boxing match for many years. Three months of hard training had not reduced his waistline and he appeared to be sluggish when the fight began.

It seemed that Beckett could have ended the bout in the second round when Burns, to save himself, repeatedly clinched after having received a series of blows to the head and body. Nevertheless the ex-champion came back in the third and this was his best round. He out-boxed and out-manoeuvred Beckett. His blows, however, lacked the old-time steam and he could not hurt his rugged opponent.

Python Escapes From Circus.

KILLED BY NORTH SYDNEY MAN.

North Sydney, July 19.—Sunday afternoon as Jack Fisher, Archibald Avenue, was taking a ramble in the neighbourhood of Ferris Hill, a huge snake appeared from the brushwood and moved threateningly toward him. Without losing his presence of mind, he grasped a stout club, which, fortunately was lying at his feet, and with one blow killed the snake. The monster was carefully measured and found to be eight feet two inches in length, unheard of dimensions for a provincial snake. It is believed, however, that the reptile in question made its escape from the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, which exhibited not far from this locality a short time ago. It is Mr. Fraser's intention to have the snake stuffed and placed upon exhibition for our citizens, and if he can be induced to part with it it will probably be placed in some local museum or natural history collection for school purposes.

Men's High Grade Footwear in Black and Tan leathers at greatly reduced prices at Smallwood's Big Shoe Sale.—July 22, 23, 24.

When we grow old we all look back with longing o'er the traveled track, to days of auld lang syne; and we inform the younger men that everything was a s better then, yea, doubly a m o o t h and fine. I'm having better times to-day than in the dim years far away, when I was always broke; I'm living now in Easy Street, but every morning I repeat the old gent's harmless joke. "When I was young," my yarns begin; then all was gold that now is tin, and bricks were precious stones; then orchids grew on all our lawns, and guinea hens and geese were swans, and trees grew silver bones. When I was young my path was steep, and often I sat down to weep and wish for better times; I slaved away at bitter tasks, and carried kegs of nails and casks, to earn some meagre dime. I worked some eighteen hours a day on farms composed of rocks and clay. I wrought with rusty tools; I swung an ax, I packed a hod, and breaking miles of prairie sod, I pushed two sorrel mules. I wouldn't do the old time chores for all the wealth the miser pours into his bin at night; but when I'd break some hearers' hearts, "When I was young," my story starts, "the world was gay and bright."

THE GIFT OF MEMORY.

Of all the gifts which God has given to warm and cheer the soul of man, the gift of memory is supreme, the crowning jewel in His plan; Without it all that's good would fade and love would have no tenderness. There'd be no keepsake for the past, no little shoes or faded dress. Without the gift of memory to conjure up by-gone delights, The hours would lonely be and long, and dull and dreary all our nights; The dead would then be truly dead and lost to us beyond recall, And every joy which we have claimed would vanish when the shadows fall.

Friens would be ours for just a day, their gifts would never treasured be. We could not read the splendid past without the book of memory; And every deed of greatness here which makes the world a better place, Could not endure to thrill and rouse the children of a future race.

Here is the treasure home of man where all the joys of life he keeps, God's precious gift of comfort for the lonely mother when she weeps. His inspiration for the brave—His pledge divine which makes it sure That love is an immortal joy, and all that's good shall long remain.

New Controller of Dennis Press.

William H. Dennis, who succeeds to the control of the Herald publications, is generally regarded as having one of the brightest business minds in eastern Canada. To him is very largely due the phenomenal growth, during recent years, of the Herald publications, and the fact that he remains at the helm assures the continued success of the newspapers. Mr. Dennis stated to-day that it would be his ambition to conduct the Herald, Mail and Sunday Leader along the lines laid down by his uncle—Sydney Record.

Not Without Protest.

The proposed repatriation of the Jewish people is obviously not going to be accomplished without protest, from the present inhabitants of Palestine, the great majority of them being Arabs, Mohammedans and Christians, who do not look with favor upon the Zionist Movement. And it is not yet certain whether the Jews themselves, especially those in Anglo-Saxon countries and dominions, are completely filled with the desire to leave the place of their birth and abandon all their business connections and friends to satisfy a sentiment. To the modern Jew, the land of his early ancestors is regarded as a sacred spot and to be held in reverence, and all the teachings of his youth touching that land, never fail to impress upon him that Palestine is the land of the promise. It therefore holds an attraction for him similar to that which the old country has for the descendants of Englishmen, born far away from the home of their forefathers. By birth the Jew is of the nationality of the country in which he sees the light, exactly as the newly born of other parentage are classed. He is a citizen of the country which produces him, and as such he is vested with all the rights of citizenship and given all the protection that can be afforded. True his heart may yearn at times for a sight of the hills and lakes and mountains of the promised land, but the Jew of to-day in the country of his birth does not sing with the Psalmist, "If I forget thee O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget its cunning," at least literally. His home and his labors are far away from the cities of his fathers, and he has so dovetailed himself into the trade and commerce of the world, and made himself a factor in the world's work, that speaking open to correction he has no wish to throw up the enterprises in which he is engaged and his him Zionwards.

It is therefore an open question whether the majority of the Jewish people, scattered abroad under Heaven, possess the wish to separate themselves from their commercial and social affiliations, their ambitions to succeed in life and their present mode of living, and return to the Holy Land, in order to begin again. That the dwellers in Palestine think this is so, however, is evident from the strenuous protests they are uttering against making Palestine "the national home of the Jews." Both native Christian and native Mohammedan are crying with ever increasing vigor that Palestine belongs to the Palestinians. The Arabic press urges that the opposition to Zionism is based not so much upon religious grounds as on national and economic considerations, the mixed population having "awakened to a new and vigorous national consciousness since the war, and because of the repeated promises of the Allies to give them their long desired independence." They consider themselves Syrians and their country as Southern Syria, and aver that the economic, racial, cultured and political interests of the Syrians and Palestinians are identical. Balfour's declaration in 1917 committed England to the support of the Zionist movement, and it may be remarked that the Palestinians were not slow in expressing their disapproval, for on December 27, 1919, a Palestinian Congress forwarded to the Peace Conference a strong protest against Zionism, claiming that the Zionists have no right to crush the nationalism of one million Arabs. The Balfourian utterance of 1917 consolidated Christian and Mohammedan natives of Palestine to a degree undreamed of before, and public demonstrations have taken place against the proposal to hand over Palestine to the Jews for a national home. Some of the Arabic newspapers go so far as to advocate forcible resistance. One of them says:

"Are the Zionists still unconvinced that our national rights are above theirs? Nay, the beautiful Jordan shall never be theirs (the Jews) though they dye its waters with their blood. They shall not possess Palestine so long as the bells of the Arabic churches reverberate, and the shadows of Arabic minarets move across its clear waters."

But it is not thought that such will ever happen and the story of the Ephraimites be repeated. It is exceedingly unlikely that the Jews outside Palestine, will wish to go back under conditions to which they are utterly foreign. To be buried in the land of the patriarchs may be the desire of many and to bathe in Jordan the fond hope of numerous others, but the modern Jew will not sever himself from the connections which his industry and integrity have made, to return to Palestine in the face of racial and political opposition.

Blasting Operations.
A lot of interest is being taken by passersby in the blasting operations being carried on near the Bank of Montreal, on the land to be occupied by the Royal Bank of Canada building. The blasting is being conducted under the supervision of Mr. W. S. Smith and good progress is being made with the work. Some hundreds of tons of rock will have to be cleared away before the foundation can be laid.

Honeymoon Trip.
The Rosalind this trip takes another bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Love, who were married in St. Thomas' Church at 10.30 this morning. Mrs. Love is a daughter of Mr. Geo. Coen, and is a very popular young lady. Many friends were to the ship's side to-day to wish the happy couple bon voyage, to which the Telegram adds its felicitations. Mr. Love is Assistant Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce this city.

The Wonder of the Age.

Signal Hill Speaks to "Victorian," 1200 Miles Distant.

In the course of experimenting at the Signal Hill Marconi Wireless Telephone Station yesterday, the S.S. Victorian, with the press delegates on board picked up the station at noon, Greenwich time. She answered that she was 1200 miles from St. John's, Newfoundland, and was then about to give a concert to the S.S. Olympic and S.S. Kaiserin Auguste Victoria and all ships in the vicinity which had wireless telephonic receivers installed on board. The concert consisted of one baritone solo and two gramophone selections. The concert was greatly appreciated by the passengers on board the two big liners mentioned, who expressed their thanks most heartily, in appreciation the Marconi Engineer on the Victorian gave another concert at 5.30 p.m., G.M.T., which was also greatly enjoyed. At the conclusion of the last concert, Signal Hill station opened wireless telephonic experiments with the Victorian, clear speech being exchanged. Arrangements are being made for 11 a.m. tomorrow the Premier will officially welcome the press delegates to this side of the Atlantic.

St. George's Coal Fields.

Latest news from St. George's coal fields is most encouraging. New finds have been uncovered which heretofore were regarded as doubtful. The section now uncovered was regarded by the late geologist, J. P. Howley, as existing within the area now being developed but until recently was a matter of conjecture. The information just received from Foreman Purton leaves no further doubt of the existence of those seams and it is gratifying to know that the new find exceeds the most sanguine expectations. Hereby we append the message received by Mr. T. J. Freeman from the manager at the coal fields:

Quite an improvement in number one seam. Coal band is 22 feet wide, clean coal 10 feet, mixed coal and shale 12 feet. Number two seam coal three feet.

Good Suggestion.

The suggestion that the Brigade Bands may have the use of the band stand at the Lake side during next week to give a few concerts during the evening, has met with general approval, and it is likely that the C.C.C. will play there one night early in the week. The stimulus given to crews practicing, by the strains of music, would help them make good time, and back up their rowing.

Good Salvage Work.

The salvage tug La Canadienne arrived in port last evening and is now at Bowring's central premises. The ship is commanded by Capt. Peach and has just arrived from Sydney via St. Pierre, towing the barge Dan McWilliam to the latter port. Last week Capt. Peach and his assistants were successful in salvaging the U. S. Shipping Board steamer Lake Elwin, wrecked at Canso. The La Canadienne will leave here to-morrow for Gaspar Bay to salvage the S. S. Dundee. During the past winter this ship performed a remarkable piece of work and one of exceptional difficulty in the salvage of the S. S. Flaisden, wrecked near Sable Island. About one month ago she salvaged the schr. Jeanette at St. Pierre.

Regatta Jingles.

August 4th is the date.

Even if you go out of town your soul will be at the Lakeside.

Renew your youth for once in the year, and taste once more the "wild freshness of morning."

President Hancock says that "assuming good weather, 1920 Regatta will be the best since he rounded Skerwink."

There will be a fast motor boat stationed at the end of the Lake in case of accidents.

The Band Stand will be "Filled with music. And the cares that infest the day Shall fold their tents like the Arab And as silently steal away."

His Excellency the Governor will come down early. If there was never a Regatta there, Governor Harris loves every hill, dale and field in the landscape of Quiet Yld.

The Committee are determined that a Juvenile must be a Juvenile this time whiskers or no whiskers.

The man who wants the buoys put in place a week before the races should be commended for his zeal and his innocence—but we notice that he bought a "daisy" stop watch yesterday.

There will be four boats in all the contents except one, viz., Red Lion, Cadet, Guard, Nellie R.

The medals will not be presented till the afternoon when the whole programme is finished. A man who wins a medal is entitled to be the "cynosure of neighboring eyes" for a few seconds at least.

There will be a good mixed Band of 20 instruments organized by Mr. Bennett—a name that is redolent of band music in this city.

There is no regulation to prevent old timers like me and you, brother, from calling the boats, the "Buttercup," "Myrtle," "Lurline" and "Daisy" if we like, for them.
"The tender grace of a day that is dead Will surely come back to we."

Excuse the grammar but when we can't now get a "license" of any other kind on the Lakeside I "spose they won't prevent us from taking out a "poetical" license.

I do hope that the dancing stands will be there and boys and girls "whippin' it to a jingle," near Rosk. It would not be the Races without it.

We shall miss many of the familiar faces, brother, but don't be sad. If they could get us a message back you know and I know they would say "Oh boy relax to-day and be happy."

The young man was giving a graphic account of a narrow escape he had had from an enraged bull.

"No," replied the young man, "I wasn't between the horns at all; and, besides, he wasn't a dilemma, he was a Jersey!"

DIAMOND DUST
Nothing But the Truth—Without Fear or Favour.

Like Lazarus in "The Black" Flag
"Tis no use, 'tis no use."

The B.I.S. refuse to come back.

What the Cubs did to them last night in the five inning Mt. Cashel prelim. was criminal.

16 runs was the total they notched up—and 10 of them in the one inning. Their score made a hit with the cricket fans.

O'Leary was all shot to pieces and the Cub batters murdered him something awful.

The way the Irish shortstop checked the ball with his shins reminded one of Nixey Hunt in goal for the Feldians.

Claude allowed but one Irishman to get as far as third where he died a lingering death as succeeding batters vainly wished the ozone at his offerings. As the Herald scribe truly bromides, baseball is a contest except these nights when the B.I.S. are playing.

The Cubs' batting eye was working well, and the jolt the Wanderers gave them has no doubt brought them to their senses.

The Wanderers and Cubs will play the final game of the day of the Garden Party at Mount Cashel. Whoever wins will become the outright owners of the magnificent H. D. Reid trophy so that the clash will be most exciting.

DeMers says that the coaloil Johnnies wouldn't beat them again in a thousand years. However, Grandpa Smith will have something to say to that.

"THE HARPS THAT ONCE."

The Harps that once on George's Field Their fame and lustre shed, Now play as duds on George's Field As if their brains were fled. So sleeps the pride of former days, So glories their thrill is o'er, And hearts that once beat high for praise, Get the glad-hand no more.

No more to fans and fem-fans bright The hope of a pennant swells, The "Diamond Dust" most every night Their tale of ruin tells, Dickie Mac now so seldom wakes, The only throb he gives Is when Bert Channing makes some breaks To show that he still lives.

But the juniors showed some pep and class in their little squabble.

The Shamrocks and St. Bon's played their preliminary to see who would face the Mount Cashel lads at the Garden Party, and the game they put up brought blushes to the faces of the seniors.

For two innings there was no score, Rory O'Moore the St. Pat's hurler, and McGrath for the college lads, making the sluggers harmless.

In the third the trefols got two men on the bags, and then O'Moore hit out a beautiful three-bagger which he might have stretched into a home-run had he speeded.

In their half of the third, the St. Bon's tied the score through Daly's error and a hit by Ryan.

You should have heard the rival factions shriek. These youngsters are the true fans when it comes to bucking up their teams.

The force of bad example was shown last night, when Umpire French emulated the great Chief in calling a fouled bunted third strike just a plain foul ball.

When Collins attempted a double play he overthrew to third and let a St. Pat runner home.

Play ended in the Shamrocks being victorious by 4 runs to 3—letting them get in the finals at the Garden Party.

CLEAR VICTORY FOR RESOLUTE.

SANDY HOOK, July 23.
Defender Resolute tossed her six minutes and forty second handicap overboard to-day, and defeated Challenger Shamrock Four, boat for boat, in the fourth race of the regatta for America's Cup. To-day's race was the test of the series so far. Resolute completing the thirty mile triangular course in three hours, thirty-seven minutes and fifty-two seconds. Shamrock followed three minutes and forty-one seconds later, but the actual difference in sailing time was only three minutes and eighteen seconds, Resolute having led across the starting line twenty-three seconds.

A SEETH OF DISORDER.

DRUMORE, County Down, Ireland, July 23.—Rioting and pillaging by Unionists occurred here yesterday, and during the disorder crowds attacked the house of prominent Sinn Feiners, the occupants of which fired upon the attackers as they approached, but slipped out through a rear entrance before the building was captured. The house was promptly burned. Shops belonging to Nationalists were also attacked and badly damaged. Military reinforcements were sent this morning to aid the police, who were hard pressed.

TAKEN TO ENGLAND.

BELFAST, July 23.
Sixteen Sinn Feiners, arrested here Sunday, were removed last night to England. Thirty or forty prisoners remained on looting charges are still in jail here, and it is expected that this number will be largely increased.

TWO TELEGRAMS.

BELFAST, July 23.
Most Reverend Joseph Macrory, Bishop of the diocese of Down and Connor, to-day sent a telegram to the Chief Secretary for Ireland, saying, "The condition in Belfast is appalling this morning. Our Catholic people are being brutally driven from their homes, and unless the men expelled from Queen's Island be reinstated and adequately protected, there is no hope of peace, the ruffians, who expelled them, will only be encouraged to adopt similar tactics in future." Sir Edward Carson, Ulster Unionist leader, to-day telegraphed Belfast Unionists as follows: "I earnestly hope that all Unionists in Belfast will assist the authorities in putting down disturbances and restoring order."

NEWSPAPER YARNS.

LONDON, July 23.
Mention of Lord Byng's name, in connection with the Governor-Generalship of Canada, is a revival of statements which appeared some months ago in the newspapers, when the Earl of Athlone's name was also mentioned. The Canadian Associated Press was officially informed that neither name had been considered in connection with the appointment, except by the press. Recent despatches from London mentioned the name of Lord Byng as the likely successor to the Duke of Devonshire.

Picked Up on Bargain Counter.

One hears frequently of rare treasures, in the shape of priceless first or second editions, being picked up on the bargain counters of the second-hand booksellers of Paris or of Bruges. Books to the value of many thousands of pounds have been purchased for a few shillings from the vendors of the Pont Neuf. In the old cities of Western Europe. On the bargain counters of modern booksellers, however, are often picked up a book whose title sounds slightly interesting or whose cover is attractive, and in perusal of its pages one becomes lost to the world and in a world created by an author. Such a book is "Captain Gardiner, of the International Police." Picked up by the reviewer on a bargain counter because it had both an attractive name and cover, it proved to be a book of thrills. The plot of the novel is laid in about the year 1920 when the world is run by an International Federation. The whole beauty of it is, the subtlety with which the author combines a love story with a thrilling war novel of the future. The publishers claim it to be the first novel of the League of Nations. The only flaw in this well-nigh perfect creation is, that in places the dialogue is a wee bit too "long-winded." The author is Robt. Allen, while the publishers have on the cover the familiar seal of "H. & S." Hodder and Stoughton. In conclusion let us advise our readers not to despise bargain counters or the bargain counter at Dicks' where we picked up this gem.

Notes From Brigus.

On Thursday, the 15th inst., the women of the R. C. Church turned out en masse for the annual cleaning of their place of worship. This church, always renowned as being one of the most beautiful in the island, is now the more attractive as the result of their labors.

Capt. Harold Bartlett left in his schooner Effie M. Morrissey, for Hr. Grace on Friday last with the intention of having her cleaned and painted before proceeding to Sydney for another load of coal.

Mrs. (Capt.) Stewart Gushue returned on Saturday night from Bay of Islands, whither she had gone on the Cecil Jr., of which ship her husband is master.

Mr. P. O'Leary, wife and child were in town on Sunday on a visit to friends.

Mr. Thos. Brien, of the Bay Roberts Cable Staff, came up on his motor cycle on Sunday last, to visit friends.

Messrs. Jas. Chalker and friends came from St. John's by motor on Sunday, to visit relations. They returned the same evening.

The Prime Minister, Hon. R. A. Squires, motored through this town on Sunday evening on his way to St. John's.

The U. S. Seal arrived here early on Sunday morning, took on board several passengers and proceeded again on her voyage.

Mrs. P. J. Kent and her aunt Miss May Brien, are in town visiting relations.

Rev. Dr. Murphy went to the city by Monday morning's train.

Mrs. S. E. Chafe went to Hr. Grace on Saturday to visit friends; she returned again on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Butt, of Placentia, were in town on a short visit during the week.

Schr. Ethel M. Bartlett, J. Kirby, master, arrived from Sydney on Wednesday with a cargo of coal for F. G. Jerrett, Esq. It is being retailed for $17.50 per ton including cartage.

During the past week Mr. John Snow has been engaged painting the residence of Rev. Dr. Murphy. The attractive colouring has given it a pleasing appearance.

Mr. Joseph Bartlett, of Millertown, arrived by last night's train. He left again this morning, accompanied by his wife who had been spending the last few weeks here.

Mrs. F. Angel and children are here to spend a time.

Mr. Ralph Burnham was here on Sunday last on a visit to his sister Mrs. (Dr.) Gill. Mrs. Burnham is also here visiting her daughter.

A party of three waltonians, having heard "the call of the great outdoors," have encamped at Three Island Pond. We understand they've found the speckled beauties sufficiently plentiful to provide ample sport besides furnishing them with the nucleus of many a tasty meal.

The codfishery has so far been a blank, the only catches worth recording are those of Mr. A. Harvey, who on Monday last had eight quintals of large sized fish and about five quintals this morning. There are several traps and some hook and line men endeavouring to procure a catch of the staple product, but the outlook at present is not very favorable. However, there is no need yet to take a pessimistic view of things, as kind Providence may yet include us in the gifts of its munificence.

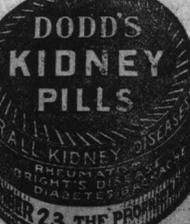

Caplin, which for a few days had slacked off, again became very plentiful yesterday, and those requiring same were actively engaged in securing sufficient for their needs.

The first garden party is scheduled to take place on Wednesday next on Magistrate Thompson's lawn. We have no doubt but that the affair will be as highly successful as those held there in the past, and we bespeak a pleasant time for those who attend.

Orphans Outing

Shortly before leaving for England, Sir John Crosbie made arrangements to give the orphans a series of outings, the carrying out of which was left in the capable hands of Mr. Gus Lester. On Wednesday the children of the Methodist Orphanage were given a splendid time at Bowring Park. The little girls were motored there and served with ice-cream, after which they were taken to the beautiful lake where they spent an enjoyable time boating under the kind care of Mr. Canning. At 5.30 a bell rang out announcing tea. The little girls hastened to the Bungalow where a sumptuous repast was provided by the hostess, Mrs. Bendell. At 8 o'clock the motor came to take the little ones home, and before leaving the park they were given lemonade and a bag of candy. They arrived home tired and happy, after a most enjoyable day. The officers wish to thank all who helped to make the day a pleasant one for the orphan girls.

British and French Face Their Problems in Calm Spirit.

Boston Man Sees Order Growing Out of Confusion Following the War.

(Boston Globe.)
Merton L. Emerson, vice president of the American Pneumatic Service Company of Boston, who arrived home from a six weeks' stay in England and France a few days ago, takes a cheerful view of the situation in those countries, although he says conditions in England are much as they are in America. Nevertheless British business men view the situation calmly. "A prominent man told me," said Mr. Emerson to a Globe reporter, "that they had expected the industrial conditions to be in a turmoil for three years after the war, and they were really encouraged because matters seemed to be settling down within one and a half years. "Without doubt this general unrest is greatly intensified by the high cost of living and the British Government's dealing with many of these problems in a manner that to us would seem the extreme of Socialism. For example, all Civil Service employees, which means not only Postoffice clerks and carriers, but those employed by the army and navy, Treasury Department, etc., have their wages automatically adjusted every three months according to the increase or decrease in the cost of living. On the arrangement the lower grade postal workers have had their wages increased up to the adjustment 135 percent over pre-war conditions. In addition they receive pensions, sick leave, uniform and shoe allowances, free medical attention, etc.

Government Aid in Housing.
"The Government is also going after the housing problem in a wholesale manner and during the next three years will pay up to 30 percent of the cost of houses of certain types and values. One architect alone told me that he had 4000 houses under construction in 17 different projects—the total cost of which would be around $20,000,000 in American money. It is estimated that there is a shortage of over 2,000,000 houses in the United Kingdom and the conditions are so grave that all other building is being suspended as far as possible.

"The attitude of labor in regard to housing is, however, very peculiar. Every one wants houses, but those men who build houses don't seem to want to work. Masons are restricted to laying 400-500 bricks a day, when they could lay two or three times as many. There is a great scarcity of labor, but, nevertheless, the unions will not even permit ex-service men to go in on this work.
"The situation is, however, I feel certain, solving itself slowly but surely. People at the time I left had stopped buying, therefore the shops were empty and prices were falling. The railroads claimed they could not afford to give Summer excursion rates, therefore, people are not traveling and so many employees are not needed. Neither London hotels nor theatres are crowded. There is every indication that the peak of high prices has been reached and that everyone is settling down to business. Threatened strikes are being postponed and workmen were greatly modifying their demands for wage adjustments. The attitude in general seemed to be that the time had come to get down to work.
Attitude Toward Americans.
"As far as relationships with our country are concerned, the attitude of all the British whom I met was quite the reverse of what I had anticipated. They do not dislike Americans, but they are fearful that Americans do not understand and therefore may dislike them.
"To my mind, the British need a good advertising manager to bring forward their good points and to boost the many wonderful things they did, particularly in the war. You hear all about what the Americans did in the Argonne, the Canadian at Vimy Ridge, the Australians at Mt. St. Quentin, but never about the British. When they discuss themselves, it is usually about what the Government didn't do and how poor the Government control has been, and how much better things could have been—all of which sounds very familiar to American ears.

"It is only after one becomes well acquainted with these people that one ever hears of their terrible losses of the sons, brothers and relatives who have "gone west," of the great financial losses and hardships. They never complain—except that all agree that the war ended just a bit too soon. They are a wonderful people, who have been baptised in fire and who are ready to go through it again if the world demands it.
Dislike for Wilson.
"While to my mind both the British and French have most cordial feelings for Americans, though they admit frankly that they cannot understand our politics, one and all expressed the most extreme contempt for President Wilson. They look upon him as an usurper; as a man who claimed to represent America, when he knew he did not, and who advanced theories and caused delays when the whole world needed the most sane and practical kind of legislation. They also blame their own representatives and press for not giving them the facts instead of filling them up with glories of Wilson.
"No one seemed to know of the election of a new Congress which in any other country would have meant the retirement of the Cabinet and a new Government and everyone assumed that the President had been authorized by the Government to act in the manner in which he did. The general conclusion seems to be that his one idea was to be the head of a League of Nations of whatever form that League might be.

"I heard a prominent Englishman say that no one believed a League of Nations practical or possible at the time of making a peace treaty, and that what Clemenceau and Lloyd George wished to bring about was an agreement between France, Great Britain and America to maintain peace until the equilibrium of the world should be restored. Our President, however, in the entire deliberations did he advance a possible or practical plan, conceived by himself or his associates.
"I said that the British do not understand our politics. More especially they cannot understand our attitude on the Irish question. They look upon this as a family matter—in the same relationship as one of our States would be to us. The fact that the Republican platform did not mention the subject pleased every one, and the press in general commented on it. The situation seems to be that the British don't know what to do with the Irish problem, principally because the Irish themselves don't know what they want. To-day Ireland is the most prosperous part of the Irish Kingdom—during the war the Irish had special privileges. In the past Ireland was not properly treated, so say all Englishmen. But as for her being a republic or a separate country, all the Irish whom I talked to in London said such a thing was as ridiculous as New York to become a separate country in order to escape prohibition.
Doesn't Seem Possible.
"As for prohibition—well, the English can't believe it possible, even though Scotland may go prohibition itself before they know it. They admit it must be a good thing, but, like New York, they don't believe it to be possible, at least in this stage of civilization. To them it is the most remarkable thing America has ever done.
"Conditions in France are quite different from those of England. There is absolutely no metal money, in spite of the fact that you can't take more than 1000 francs, metal or paper money out of the country. Postage stamps are used instead of small coins, different cities issue their own paper money and the value of it therefore depends on where you are.
"The country and the people, particularly in the devastated section, are a pathetic sight, but they want no sympathy, except in money credit. In the cities, they are having strikes, but the citizens are getting tired of them and have volunteer organizations, so that when the Government owned railroad employees, the underground employees or the electric light men strike, the 'citizens' merely carry on, until the strikers get tired and come back. There is no sympathy for strikes or strikers and that method of arbitration seems to be going out of style.
"In the devastated regions, every one is working. Conditions there are beyond description, but the battlefields are being slowly put under cultivation and in another year most of them will be cleared up and the hundred thousands of soldiers' bodies, as far as possible, put into military cemeteries. But the country and even the soil has changed. On the Somme front all the trees and forests have gone. It is now one vast treeless plateau—more than 200 little towns have disappeared, not a trace remains. Mustard marks the lines of filled in trenches and shell holes. Where did it come from—it did not grow there before. Also in the deep shell holes which have water in them, bull rushes grow and frogs live. Neither existed on the great plateau before the war.
Coming Back in France.
"The large cities, like Arras, Peronne, Bapaume, Soissons, Rheims, etc., are cleaning up, as far as they can and so are the hundreds of little villages that were destroyed everywhere. If the cellar remains, the owner comes back and lives in it. If part of a wall is standing, he uses it. In most every case a house of about the same kind, made of the same material is being erected on the same site by the former tenant and his family. Where and how these people live is simply a mystery.
"In Lens, for example, which was destroyed by the Germans before they retreated and not one building left standing—10,000 people are said to be living on May 22. Temporary shacks are, of course, erected everywhere and, but it will be many years, if ever, before the marks of war are effaced from these cities and towns.
"No one can realize without seeing the conditions of these countries how serious their situation is, and yet every one will also feel, I am sure, that they are going to pull through because they must, if the world is to be held together.
"I heard Mr. Lloyd George, speaking in the House of Commons on June 7 on the question of trade relations with the Bolsheviks, say that whatever conditions might be, the time had come when the world must have peace and find itself, or there was no knowing what the future might bring. He said that no one detested the Bolsheviks more than he, but that Great Britain, Europe and the whole world needed Russia, and that the only way he knew of to break down Bolshevism, was by trade relationship which would let in

YOU cannot save the surface with a poor paint—unless you re-paint frequently. That is extravagant—so you naturally seek the paint of utmost durability. Your search for such a paint will lead you ultimately to the pure and permanent

B-H "ENGLISH" 70% Pure White Lead 30% Pure White Zinc 100% Pure Paint

Its outstanding merit is primarily due to its white base: zinc white and Brandram's Genuine B.B. White Lead, which for two centuries has been the standard white lead of the world. The purest linseed oil (from our own mills) with best turpentine, aids in giving a tough air-tight coat. You cannot prove these high claims until you've used the paint—but you can meanwhile accept as your guide the experience of your neighbors. Ask any man who ever used B-H if it is not true that it goes farthest—and lasts longest. You will find unvarying conviction among experienced paint-users that the quality and durability of this brand are such as to make it the supreme surface-saver. You will probably find in your neighborhood houses painted with B-H long ago that look as if they were painted but recently.

the light and the news, so that in time the Russian people would know the truth, for as long as intercourse was refused with the Bolshevik Government, just so long would the Russian people be kept in ignorance of actual conditions.
Need Moral Support and Credits.
"I do not believe that either the English or the French think the people of the United States of America selfish because they think of their own country and problems and dislike to enter into European politics. On the other hand I am sure that they believe that a country which looks to its own problems, first is a pretty sane country, and one that can be depended on at all times to do what is right at the right time. What these countries need most of all is moral support and credits, so that they can have the opportunity to work out their own salvation.
"As for Germany, I did not go there, but I talked with many who did. One thing is certain, and that is, as long as her Government is so divided, with no strong majority in power, she is going to be a plague spot, fertile ground for Bolshevism, and a problem for herself and the world for years to come. Every one agrees that if the war had had only lasted long enough to permit German soil to be occupied, the German problem, with which is bound up the peculiar psychology of the people would be so much the easier to solve.
"As conditions are, England is the only creditor of all the Allied Nations except America. These Nations are looking to Germany to pay them, so that they in turn can pay their debts. An unsettled German Government means stagnation in business and no money with which to pay debts. Above all the question is, what is America going to do? The general feeling seems to be that if the Republicans come back into power some constructive action will result, whereas if the Democratic party should be continued in power chaos will continue.

"The public and the press are looking to America for cooperation and help in solving the many puzzling problems that affect the world to-day. Every London paper, with the possible exception of the yellow sheet, John Bull, takes great care to explain to its readers what different political situations in America mean.
"This is done in their own language and it does look strange to see our Secretary of the Navy referred to as the First Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. Daniels, or Congressman Gallivan, speaking on prohibition, referred to as the Member of Parliament from Boston.
"One thing I feel certain of and that is that while we may row and wrangle with England in the future, just as we have in the past, our relationships are bound to become more and more close, for the English-speaking countries only can work out and must work out the peace of the world."
CONCERT APPRECIATED.—The Band Concert given by the C.C.C. Band in Victoria Park was well appreciated by the large crowd present. The programme was a splendid one and the director and his aides are to be complimented on providing such wholesome entertainment.

Produce and Livestock
(To-day's Trade Review).

Codfish.—The shipments this week to foreign markets were small amounting to nearly 8000 quintals, 1,38 from St. John's and 6000 from the West Coast. There are seven cargoes of fish now being loaded on the South and South West Coasts, a good deal of which is new fish. These are being loaded and shipped under the new Export Regulations and are being subjected to Government inspection. It is likely that the ships will not be allowed to sail till the stocks of old fish in the foreign markets are gone into consumption to a more considerable extent. The stocks of 1919 fish in St. John's are now under 50,000 quintals and two-thirds of this is for Brazil.

Cod Oil.—News came in from foreign markets this week that Common Cod Oil continues to decline and the demand is poor on both sides of the Atlantic. It appears that factories are again substituting various kinds of vegetable oils, which were not so easy to procure in sufficient quantities since the war. Even in the manufacture of lather which almost exclusively called for cod oil, they are now using a vegetable oil imported from Africa. Apart from this there is slackening off in the manufacture of leather goods as compared with the war years and the past year. Taking all the circumstances into account, it would be than $200.00 a ton for Common Cod Oil in the local market the coming five months. It is not unlikely that it will be lower.

Cod Liver Oil.—The market has gone extremely quiet. Buyers on the foreign markets all complain that sales of Newfoundland Oil are very dull and that Norwegian oil is offering very freely. As to the new local supply of 1920 oil, in some localities the Refiners have been doing good work. We would again warn them not to pay any fancy prices for their livers, as indications do not point to any advance on $1.50 per gallon. The export this week was nil.

Lobsters.—The Lobster market is sick, but we all hope to do something "later on" is the way that one of our largest exporters of Lobsters describes the situation. It is impossible to get any orders from the foreign markets at a price that will reach anyway near that which the local Packers are expecting. It seems now that $25.00 will be about as much as exporters will be inclined to give per case of 48 one pound tin flats, unless the stringency in foreign money and the ban against luxuries is modified in the meantime.

Sugar.—An advance in price for the 27th time has been proclaimed by the Food Control Board in the papers. This is intended to cover the carrying expenses of the Government's purchase of sugar and incidentally as sumption and to transfer the burden from the coffers of the Government to the purse of the Consumer. We fear, however, that the consumption of sugar will not be greatly increased in the outports where many families have been obliged to discontinue the use of sweetening in their tea altogether. The other uses for sugar which normally swell the consumption such as in cakes, home-made candies, home-made drinks, have long ago been abandoned by the majority of the people, except by Government Officials and Motor Car Owners. The poor people can't fall back on molasses because the price of this commodity is also out of their reach, over $2.00 a gallon. We trust that in the event of a decline in the sugar market abroad the Food Control Board will enable the public to avail of such a decline. This can be done by carefully watching the consumption here from month to month and placing themselves in a position to export any surplus which they may estimate that we shall be forced to carry for an unreasonably long period.

Pork.—The market is very quiet at home and abroad and is dull and weak following the recent decline in option Pork referred to in last issue. Mess Pork is now quoted at a reduction of $5.50 per barrel from the quotation of a month ago. The other grades such as "Fat Back" and "Bean" show declines of 75 cents to $2.25 per barrel during the same period. It appears from present indications that Pork prices are likely to touch reasonable figures by the time the Fall trade opens. The sudden break in value seems to be the result of a sudden realization that Pork products were not going into distribution fast enough to take off the accumulation from month to month.

Beef.—There is not much change. The market is quiet but very steady. It will be remembered that Beef has already experienced an important decline in price and it is unlikely that it will reach lower levels for some time, particularly when we consider the great disparity in price that has existed since March between Beef and Pork. During the week "Beef" which had touched an extremely low price, showed some signs of stiffening and some packers quoted advances on this grade of from $1.00 to $1.50 per barrel. The other grades are as yet unchanged.

Flour.—Indications point to a considerable advance in flour before long. The large Manitoba Mills wired here this week that their present stocks of flour and wheat are almost exhausted and that they only have limited quantities for shipment. The Canadian Government have come to no decision as yet to the system of control, but the opinion prevailing is, that a price will be fixed to prevent any reduction in values and that Millers will be allowed to speculate and get the highest prices they can. With a Manitoba Premier now in office at Ottawa it is likely that farmers will get every protection. There has been an advance of 25 cents per barrel in the freight which is the first step in the advancing of price. The highest grade Manitoba Flours will now cost $18.00 per barrel to import, and we expect to see this flour selling for $19 next month and $20 in the course of the fall. We would advise dealers here to make their contracts as soon as possible.

Potatoes.—The market has declined and is much weaker than last month. Prices now are $12.25 per barrel for imported, which is $1.75 below the highest point that prevailed in early June. The local market is well supplied with imported stock and enough is being carried to supply all requirements till the new potatoes come. The local crop is not promising especially in those localities where the alleged "canker-proof" seed were sown. Whole fields of this seed misseed. The Canadian crops are looking good.

COLGATE'S TALC POWDER

A Summer Necessity

"A Babe in the House"

We have secured the rights to Marianna Wheeler's authoritative book, "A Babe in the House". A special edition, illustrated by Rose O'Neil and Shirley Kite, has been prepared, and will be sent to any address upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps, with your name and address.

Colgate Preparations enter intimately into the early days of baby's life, but the book covers far more than Talcs, Soaps, Toilet Waters, and Dental Cream. It gives authentic advice on the month-to-month feeding and care of the child.

Send ten cents in stamps with your name and address, and ask for the book, "A Babe in the House."

THE skin must be protected from its natural enemies—wind, dust and sun—and also from chafing. In Summer it is especially necessary to use plenty of Colgate's Talc.

The 10.54% Boric Acid—not found in other talcs—is soothing and mildly antiseptic. It is the safest and best Talc.

For Baby's Comfort and Yours

After the bath, dust well all over with your favorite perfume of Colgate's Talc. It will add to the pleasure of all sports, so be sure to take plenty with you on your vacation.

Colgate's Talcs give just a hint of perfume to the skin—so elusive that men prefer Colgate's after shaving.

No matter where you buy Colgate's Talc, it is the same high quality, soothing and protecting, and as light as thistle down.

Made in Canada

South American "Ship of the Desert."

When first seeing a llama, an alpaca, guanaco, or a vicuña, in their native habitat your first comment would be: "How big for a sheep, too small for a camel, yet looks like both!" You might add mentally, as did the yokel when he saw the giraffe at the circus, "There ain't no such animal." These extraordinary creatures, little known outside of the southern Andean region of South America, have their range in the high plateaus of Peru and Bolivia, where they live in the high sierras to the west of Patagonia and Terra del Fue.

All are of the same highest utility men's needs for food and clothing, but the four are merely different breeds of the same race, varying only as they have been bred in domesticity for specialized purposes, or modified their environment when left unassisted in their native wilds. Possessing a head like a sheep, a swayed neck like a camel, without a camel's hump but drawn in at the neck like the camel and with the "wobbly" look, apparently insecurely braced upon its tall, slender legs with the camel's cushion-like splay feet, the llamas undoubtedly belong to the camel family. They have the camel's nature, for though more vigilant than the camel, they possess the same dull imperturbability, and their identical stubborn, morose disposition, and seem to consider man their hereditary foe, only to be obeyed by compulsion and with "spitful" sniffs and groans.

Easily Controlled by Indians. Only the Aymara and Quecha Indians seem to inspire them with affection to any degree, and to be able to control them for useful purposes; and where a Spaniard or Englishman would totally fail in herding or driving them, an Indian or Indian child of 8 or 7, bare-legged in a cold driving wind, and wrapped in a llama or guanaco hide, will with shrill, childish scoldings, quickly round up and drive before him a whole band. The llama family, in prehistoric times had a much wider range than at present, their fossil remains being found from the republic of Colombia northward to Central America, and even as far north as Central Colorado. The llama and alpaca are domesticated, the guanaco and vicuña are still in the wild state, and this is one of the instances where domesticated animals range coexistent with their wild congeners. Of the four kinds the guanaco is the most numerous, and is found in bands of five to 500, and while confined to the high table lands elsewhere, in Patagonia, their range is over the plains and lower lands as well.

Both the guanaco and vicuña are easily tamed and readily take to captivity, and from the wild guanaco and vicuña have sprung the domesticated llama and alpaca. The alpaca is kept upon the wild uplands, near the eternal snows and is only driven in to be shorn of its beautiful fleece of black or brown wool, which is so long that it often falls over its sides and back like a curling cascade reaching to the ground.

As Beasts of Burden. The llama (pronounced "yahma") is principally bred as a beast of burden, its hair is not so long and hangs but a short distance down the flanks, and it is of a more varied color than the alpaca; it is usually not all brown or black, but may be spotted or all white with bare patches upon its knees. When Pizarro and his fellow conquistadores conquered the aboriginal Peruvians they found the llama the domesticated beast of burden. Under Spanish domination more than 800,000 llamas were used to carry silver from the mines to the seacoast, but the coming of the horse, the burro and more than all else, the railway is gradually running it out, as it is timid and slow, and can travel with its 100-pound pack only twelve to fifteen miles a day; yet it retains a certain advantage, as it is never fed on the trail, but forages its own living.

Two Cows "Beastly Drunk."

Leads to the Discovery of a "Still" in the Pasture. Durham, N.C., July 18.—John King, a farmer living near this city, last night found two of his cows lying on the ground of their pasture in a stupor, apparently suffering from some strange malady. A veterinary was called, and after a lengthy examination, pronounced both animals as merely "beastly drunk."

A search for the cause led to the discovery of a big "moonshine" still in a secluded corner of the pasture. The cows had eaten a quantity of the mash used by the illicit whiskey manufacturers.

NOTES OF TRAVEL:

And Reminiscences of a Pleasant Tour.

L. C. MORRIS.
CHAPTER XXXIII.
THE HOTELS.

We have heard a lot about Hotels of late, and it is generally conceded that we should have larger hotel accommodation here in our own city than is at present available. The real conditions of our hotel accommodation, I do not profess to know, but I have no hesitation whatever in stating, that until there be extension in this direction, throughout the country generally, it is vain to expect any material increase in our tourist traffic. Sooner or later Newfoundland must develop her tourist traffic, and hotels and tourists are so identical that one cannot operate without the other. This is very noticeable in travelling, because the hotel is literally the home of the stranger; and when arriving in a strange city, or dropping off at a summer resort, the hotel is the first place sought and it thus becomes a sort of transient home. Our experience of the hotels of the American and Canadian cities which we visited, and of which we have written, was satisfactory in every way. We were, of course, a little timid at first, and had to feel our way; but we soon found that things were so systematically conducted, that there was not any room for fear.

The large hotels are conducted on what is known as the European plan; that is, the guest hires his room, or a suite of rooms, and pays so much a day for them; and with the room he has access to all the comforts of a hotel, but must pay extra for meals as ordered. This leaves it optional with the guest as to when, where, and how, meals may be taken. The dining halls, and lunch rooms, and restaurants are all large, and they accommodate thousands of guests daily; but the service is such as to please the most fastidious; and whether it be a fifty cent lunch, or a five dollar dinner, the guest is sure of receiving polite personal attention from the waiters. The waiters, like the porters at the railway stations, are painstaking and polite, and many of them are highly educated gentlemen. It is said that during the summer season, hundreds of thousands of students find employment at the hotels, and that many of them pay their way through college in this manner. It is also stated that many young men who have chosen a professional life, engage in this class of work for the sake of the experience which they gain; so that on graduating, they may possess a practical, as well as a theoretical, knowledge of men, places, conditions and things.

This may seem a strange course for students to adopt; but in many cases it is necessary from a monetary standpoint; but aside from this aspect of it, there is much in it that is instructive and helpful, and which in the long run, tends to develop the sterling qualities of the man. Perhaps at no place is human nature better revealed, nor could personal character be better studied, than at a large hotel; for all ranks, classes, and conditions of persons, frequent these places. Does one wish to see style, grandeur, and lavishness? Then take your seat some evening in the centre of one of the main dining halls of such a hotel, as the McAlpine at New York, or the Windsor at Montreal, or the Chateau Laurier at Ottawa, or the King Edward VII at Toronto, or Hotel La Salle at Chicago, or the Thornton at Butte, or the Parker House at Boston; and as you partake of your dinner, and listen to the Orchestra, and in the meantime glance at the hundreds of guests who sit around you, you will see that any student, either of men, or women, or children, will there find such a field for study, as would be impossible to find within the limits of a classroom, or within the syllabus of a college term.

Or does one wish to see another phase of life as found at the large hotels? Then descend at evening to the Grill rooms, and sit or sup for an hour or so, and as you listen to the jazz band, murdering music; and see the hundreds of young girls waltzing to its strains, you learn something, that can only be learned at such a place. Of further, does one wish to learn a lesson from the class of men who have chosen a professional life, engage in this class of work for the sake of the experience which they gain; so that on graduating, they may possess a practical, as well as a theoretical, knowledge of men, places, conditions and things.

fulness; inasmuch as it gives them an insight into human nature, and into the doings of society, and they thus come to learn their fellows, and to understand what is really going on, and therefore sometimes see, that "it is not all gold that glitters." (Continued on Tuesday.)

Regatta Meeting.

TWELVE CREWS ENTER.

At the weekly meeting of the Regatta Committee held last evening President Arthur Hiscock occupied the chair. The business of the meeting was to hear reports from the collectors and enter crews.

Mr. George Kearney offered Christie hats to the crew taking third place in the Football race which were accepted by the Committee.

The Luncheon Committee were given power to make best arrangements possible for the day.

It was decided to have the Band Stand erected early next week and the Brigade Bands will have the privilege of using it for concerts up to Regatta Day.

Another wharf, for the comfort of crews, will be erected under direction of the Pond Committee.

In connection with the Juvenile race the rules will be strictly enforced and rowers must produce bona fide certificates before being accepted. Entries for this race were left over until Friday night next when all crews not already entered must do so.

The following crews entered.

Courtesy in Telegrams.

(Kingston Whig.) Have you ever written a telegram and been tempted to cut out the word "please" in order to reduce your toll? The same thought undoubtedly flashes across the minds of thousands of Canadians in the course of a year. But they let the word stand and pay the bill.

The cost of the word "please" in telegraph tolls in the United States is estimated to be $10,000,000 a year, and in Canada it is correspondingly great.

Was there ever a better lesson in the value of courtesy and good breeding in business? Business men have found that the word "please" is worth all it costs. It gets results. And the telegraph companies say it is being increasingly used.

When you want a thing done it always pays to ask for it in a courteous manner. You instantly gain the other man's good will. Try it.

An Old-Time Horse Case

For Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—As many of the horses tried from time to time, in the District Court, have had a perching and humorous side to them, though tall swearing and comical asseology, I thought the subpoenaed, and its proceedings, worth forwarding for publication. This case, never, was tried some sixty-one years ago (1859), in the Supreme Court, before Acting Chief Justice and Justices Robinson and Hickey. James Hickey vs John Lench—Mr. Hickey for plaintiff; Mr. Flood for defendant. This was an action of assumpsit for breach of warranty of a horse, which, according to plaintiff's evidence, had been sold by defendant to plaintiff's wife last fall, warranted in wind and limb, of seven years old, and which afterwards turned out to be an old horse over twenty years. The plaintiff accused defendant of having been guilty of a fraud; that the head and body of the horse, grey from age, had been painted black, and that after the first rain all paint or varnish washed off, and the horse to be an old and unsparingly useless animal. James Hickey, son of plaintiff, was called to prove the warranty. He, his father, and sister, with one Thomas Hickey, called at defendant's house on their way home some time last September, about eight o'clock, to look after the purchase of the horse, which, after negotiations, had been purchased and paid for at £15, and defendant engaged the horse to be seven years old, lately from Prince Edward's Island, and warranted to be sound in wind and limb. Witness did not ride the horse before the purchase, and kept it for about five days. It was sold as a coal-black horse, but when the rain came the blackening or paint washed off, and the horse turned out to be one whose head was grey with age, and to be an old one owned by one Foley of Torbay, and over twenty years old. The horse was then returned to defendant, who refused to receive him.

James Milley, deposed to being present at the bargain, spoke as to the warranty being given by Lench—the horse sold as a coal-black horse, the paint washing off after rain some days after, leaving the horse's head grey.

Defence—Denial of warranty of any sort. The horse had been given to defendant by one Courtenay to sell on commission. He was limited to £15; there was no deception practised in any way. The horse was not painted or colored, and was sold as it stood at plaintiff's risk.

John Lench, defendant, said Jas. Hickey rode the horse twice for a quarter of an hour to try him before the sale. Milley was not there at all. He expressly refrained from giving a warranty, knowing nothing about the horse, which had been given him only a few days before the sale on commission. When asked by Mrs. Hickey if the horse was good, said he did not know; there it is for £15, and they might take it or leave it. Witness denied in the most positive terms giving any warranty, or saying anything about the age or the horse, or having come from the Island.

Richard Courtenay proved he gave the horse to Lench to sell for him. He was a good sprightly horse; he was not painted, and no fraud or collusion was practised between Lench and himself.

Acting Chief Justice Little charged the two points for the consideration of the jury were—First, was there a warranty, as described, by the testimony for the plaintiff, given; and secondly, was there a breach of that warranty. (The learned Judge then read the evidence.) If they believed there was a warranty, or fraud on the part of defendant, they ought to find for the plaintiff; but, if they believed the evidence of defendant, which denied in any way warranty of the horse to be sound, and at the age alleged, or having in any way by fraud imposed upon the plaintiff, they should find a verdict for the defendant.

Verdict for plaintiff for £15. The defendant Lench, as I knew him in later years, was a tailor by trade; of fine personality, and well known as a practical joker. He died, however, in Harbor Grace many years ago, where he had resided for some 300,000,000 Bushels of Wheat

IN THE CANADIAN WEST.

Calgary, Alta., July 19.—Three hundred million bushels is the estimate at present placed on the wheat crop of the three Western Provinces by J. M. Cameron, General Superintendent of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who returned to Calgary this morning after a close inspection of some portions of the Province's Alberta's crop, he said, would be somewhere about seventy million bushels.

Municipal Commission.

WEEKLY MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Municipal Commission was held Thursday, July 22nd. The Chairman and all the members were present. After the preliminary business was disposed of the following matters were given attention.

It was decided to instruct the Sanitary Supervisor to put some lime on dump, head of Quidi Vidi Pond.

Two letters were read from the Colonial Secretary, in connection with the resignation of certain members of the Commission.

Permits were ordered to be given to the following, in connection with buildings, etc. R. James, Monkstown Road, conversion of a building into a garage; George Williams, Bond Street, to lay a concrete platform front of his house with the understanding that the line and height is obtained from the City Engineer; J. F. Lynch, to erect a temporary shed to stow coal provided an undertaking is given the structure will be taken down by the 1st of June next; Chas. Percy, house Franklin Avenue, provided water and sewerage are installed at once; Mr. Cummins, two houses Franklin Ave.; Philip Murphy, a garage LeMarchant Road; W. T. Penney, house Merrymeeting Road; Alexander Westcott, house Franklin Avenue, provided water and sewerage are installed. Plan of new street, off Leslie, submitted by Ayre & Sons, was approved for building purposes, provided cost of sewer, water, etc., is borne by the owners.

G. I. Anderson can connect with the service pipe on Torbay Road, with the understanding that annual cost for same may be readjusted at any time.

A letter was read from Walter Clouston in connection with straightening the line of the General Protestant Cemetery, Waterford Bridge Road. The City Engineer to examine the place.

Decided to ask the Government for a rebate on all imported materials used in the houses built by the Council on Quidi Vidi Road; and also to ask for free entry for all materials to be used in any other houses that may be built there.

It was decided to issue public notice warning all the occupants or owners of houses to have leaky services and plumbing fixtures repaired, as, owing to the dry summer, the water in Windsor Lake has fallen somewhat. Any persons not taking notice of same will be prosecuted.

Decided to appoint James King in charge of the Swimming Pool and also to have the stones raked off King's Road.

The weekly reports of the Plumbing Inspector and Health Officer were read. In the former case eleven applications were shown to have been made during the week for sewerage installations for houses.

A petition from the members of the of the Charter. As no election could take place for twelve months they asked that the herein mentioned commissioners would give their decision to resign reconsideration and put their services at the disposal of the citizenship of St. John's. After a short discussion on the matter it was decided to defer action until Saturday at noon. The meeting then adjourned.

Magnanimous.

(From the New York Tribune.)

The reporter was sent out by a certain city editor to question a well-known young amateur sportsman who was being sued for divorce. The reporter called up a couple of hours later and said: "Boss, I can't get anything out of this fellow. He's a big whale, and when I rang the bell and asked him how about this divorce action he just reached out and clipped me on the jaw and knocked me down. Then he slammed the door. I waited around awhile and brushed myself off, and then I tried it again. He came out, and said: "Oh, you're here again, are you?" and he took me by the collar and threw me down a flight of stairs. So I guess there's nothing doing on getting anything out of him, boss. I'll come right in."

H. M. S. Canopus.

(From the Westminster Gazette.)

The news that the "Canopus" is to be broken up will recall many memories, and some tragic ones. In the old "wooden wall" days, a ship of the line not yet twenty-three years old would have been considered still in her prime; nowadays twenty-three years is old age. There is something pathetic in the thought that a ship, which, when she was launched in 1897, was regarded as a miracle of power and efficiency should have been the "lame duck" of a sea-battle only seventeen years later, and that the Admiralty should have been censured for the use of what was then called a slow and lumbering ship in comparison with those of the later development. But she did her work when the opportunity offered, and will not lack grateful memory.

Vacation Days

Take Along a Gillette

For the Gillette owner, life is one long holiday from stropping and honing. It is a round of daily luxurious shaves. The shaving quality of the hard-tempered, keen and lasting Gillette Blade is a never failing source of satisfaction.

You, who are planning a vacation, should include one pleasure you can enjoy twelve months each year—buy a Gillette Safety Razor. Free your holiday from strops and hones.

The new Kit Set—the Pocket Edition Gillette Safety Razor—in a limp leather roll case, complete with twelve double-edged blades and a mirror, takes only a few inches of space in your kit.

Remember how the Gillette was the choice of the soldiers of all the Allied armies. You will need a Gillette to remove your open-air growth of beard.

The price is $5.00.
