STORY OF LOVE, INTRIGUE AND REVENGE

CHAPTER I.

Dolores remembered her first meeting after so many years. As Dolores was fully occupied, Lola went over to White Cliffs to see her. She started with surprise when she saw that three years had changed her from a girl into a most lovely, graceful, and charming woman. She barely wanted to exchange greetings before she expressed her opinion.

"Dolores," she cried, "you have grown up into something like a beauty! I never thought you could."

"For which part of your speech shall I thank you?" laughed Dolores. But Lola was contemplating her with a critical eye.

"You are—well, I must say it—beautiful. Your hair shines like gold, and your face is like a flower. What lovely eyes! Surely, Dolores, you and I together ought to do something!"

"In what way?" asked Dolores.

"We ought to make the country famous, and bring the most eligible men in England hither. We ought to be always seen together, we should be excellent foils for each other."

"You are still your old self, Lola," laughed the English girl. "I have not thought of such things."

"And I have thought of little else. We are not like other young ladies in the same position; there is no hope that we shall pass through the glories of a London season. My mother will not hear of a season in town, and the Squire is of the same way of thinking. I shall imagine, with regard to yourself."

"Quite," laughed Dolores—"the very mention of it makes him angry for a week."

"Then we have not the same chance as others. I have come home, tired of school utterly weary of country life, resolved to marry soon, and marry well. My dear mother spends all her time in lamenting the woes of la belle France, and gives no thought to the fact that she has a daughter to marry. So I shall take measures for helping myself."

"My dear Lola!" cried Dolores, with a horrified air.

"My dear Dolores!" mimicked Lola. "I have a fashion of saying what I think. I tell you honestly, the life of an old maid has no charm for me; in fact I cannot bear the thought of it. I must marry well. I have found out the number of eligible men in the neighborhood; it is small—most lamentably small. First and foremost, indeed one of the best matches in England, I should say, is Lord Rhysworth of Deeping Hurst. He is rather older than I care for; but one cannot have everything," she added, with a sigh. "He is very rich, however, and Deeping Hurst is a magnificent place."

"You speak as though—as though—"

"And then Dolores paused, embarrassed.

"As though I could be mistress of Deeping Hurst if I chose? Well, Dolores, I am a firm believer in what Thackeray says about women and opportunity. Do you know Lord Rhysworth?"

"Yes, very well—better than any one else in the neighborhood. He is papa's greatest and best friend."

Lola's brilliant face was half shadowed, half laughing.

"Is he so old as that?" asked Lola.

"No, he is not so old as papa, of course. He is very agreeable, and I like him."

"Do you?" interrogated Lola, with a peculiar accent.

Miss Clifton gave her dainty head a toss, and utterly ignored the look and tone.

"I shall do my best to captivate Lord Rhysworth," continued Lola. "I should like to live at Deeping Hurst."

"You seem to leave love out of the question," observed Dolores.

"The other answered carelessly—"I came home to marry well, Dolores; what may follow I cannot help. I must go on with my list. Of course you are acquainted with nearly all that happens; but have you heard the latest news?"

"I have not heard anything very interesting," replied Dolores.

"Nothing about Scarsdale Hall?" asked Lola.

"No not a word," was the answer.

"You know Scarsdale—you would not be wicked enough to say that you do not know it?"

"Yes, I know it. It is about five miles from Deeping Hurst; it is nearer to Beaulieu than to Deeping."

"Yes. Well, have you really heard no news of Scarsdale or the handsome young baronet, my second hope after Lord Rhysworth? Sir Karl Allanmore has just purchased the whole of the property; and the Hall is being put into thorough repair for him. He is coming to live at Scarsdale. He has neither mother, wife, nor sister—quite unprotected, you see!"

Dolores raised her hand with a gesture of unforgotten disapproval.

"Do not talk to me in that way, Lola; I do not like it," she said. "You pervert the right order of things—which is, that women shall be wooed, not wooers."

"Times are changed, Dolores. That was the custom once."

"And always will be," returned Dolores, "while women remain—"

"My dear, do not preach to me; it is all thrown away—completely and entirely thrown away. Let me tell you about the baronet, Sir Karl Allanmore. I fell in love with the name the moment I heard it, no matter what may I do with the owner. Mamma and I of course had a dispute over it. She said he must have had German ancestors. I said that his proper name was Charles, and that he called himself Karl because it suited him. I feel sure that I am right."

"I am called Dolores, yet I am not Spanish," said Miss Clifton, and Lola looked at her with a grim little smile.

"Every one wonders how you found your name, Dolores. But do let me tell you about my baronet. It is said that Sir Karl is one of the handsomest, most debonaire young men in England, moderately rich, though by no means so wealthy as Lord Rhysworth, and everything that is most delightful."

"Have you ever seen him?" asked Dolores, interested in spite of herself.

"No, not yet; but I hear that Lady Fleden gives a fete to the school-children next week, and we are all sure to go; so we shall see him then. Lord Rhysworth will be there also; I should imagine, and everybody else. The most important question to me is, what shall I wear? I have some exquisite costumes, but am quite undecided about them. Will you come over to Beaulieu and give me your opinion?"

"I do not understand much about dresses," answered Dolores. "If you are so bent upon conquest, you might wear the dress that suits you best."

"I shall be very good-natured," said Lola. "If, as is not at all improbable, both Lord Rhysworth and Sir Karl admire me, I shall make one over to you."

"You are very generous."

For a moment Dolores was inclined to be angry with the girl whose opinion of her own attractions was so great.

"I like fair play," continued Lola, with a righteous air; "I shall certainly make a point of never forgetting you."

"You seem to think it out of the question, then," laughed Dolores, "that any one should admire me?"

The utter vanity of the French girl amused her exceedingly.

"I do not say that," replied Lola, with an air of forbearance quite as amusing to Miss Clifton as her previous speech had been. "Your style of beauty always has some admirers."

"While yours is irresistible, I suppose," said Dolores; and the look of self-complacency on her companion's face told her that she implicitly believed her words.

Unusual Ice Conditions on Banks This Season

COAST GUARD CUTTER TAMPA SECURED MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION.

In from ice patrol duty the United States coast guard cutter Tampa, Captain Wheeler, arrived in port yesterday morning, and went to the Dockyard. On relieving the Modoc, the cutter went to St. Pierre to confer with the authorities there with regard to several French vessels that had got into an ice jam last year, including the trawler La Provence, and the fishing vessels La Raymond and France et Bretagne, but as these vessels are not equipped with wireless, they are outside the scope of the operations of the ice patrol cutters.

From there the cutter went to the Straits of Belle Isle and made a thorough examination of the waters around the Straits, owing to the unusual absence of bergs south of the Straits. Two bergs were sighted but they were well to the north of Cape Race.

The cutter then proceeded to St. John's, Newfoundland, and remained there for a portion of a day. While there Lieut. Smith, Oceanographic Officer interviewed the best known sealing ship masters for oceanographic and ice information relating to bergs along the whole coast, as far north as the sealers go. Many valuable points were discussed, after which the cutter proceeded to the Straits of Belle Isle for observation of ice this season and get ice information in general.

The lighthouse keeper on Belle Isle gave much valuable information with regard to ice conditions since he assumed duty in 1915. Some 50 bergs were seen in the Straits and a number grounded, also an icefield which extended from the Straits north for a great distance. Approximately an equal number of bergs were observed grounded off the coast of Newfoundland from Cape Bauld to Funk Island.

An outstanding feature of this season was the limited amount of field ice which allowed the ice to become grounded more readily on the north-east side of Newfoundland, and thus the bergs were kept from coming south into the regular steamship lanes. It was also observed that the bergs were smaller both in size and numbers this year, than for many years.

Much valuable data was given by the radio operator at Battle Harbor, Labrador, as field ice prevented the oceanographer going ashore there, as was originally planned. A stop was made at Twillingate, Newfoundland, and experienced shipmasters were interviewed with regard to this season's ice conditions, and for many years past. All this information will be used in compiling data for future use.

Lieut. Smith, the Oceanographic Officer, has done advanced oceanographic work at Harvard for the past two years, when not employed on the banks. Harvard University recently honored him by conferring on him the degree Master of Arts for his attainments in this work. Next year he will go to Bergen, Norway, for more advanced work along these lines.

The absence of bergs this season from the steamship lanes seems to be due both to the absence of field ice on the northeast coast of Newfoundland and to the diminishing number of bergs coming from the Arctic.

Besides this oceanographic work, the usual broadcasting to ships in the vicinity was carried out every night, also the temperature of the water and the regular ice patrol work was done. —Morning Chronicle, June 7.

ONE BLENDISH

No fellow could be straighter than James B. Gingham; on time, and never later, he pays up what he owes. His word is good wherever man's stories may be told; it's always his endeavor to make it good as gold. His life is good and clearly, there is no doubt of that, and he lies up serenely when people pass the hat. Yet I've heard people calling this fellow a cheap gallot, because, when night is falling, he always plays the flute. He burbles "Annie Rooney" and other ancient airs, which drive the neighbors looney, and make them bite their chairs. He is a bright example to all who haunt the place; it's good to see him trample on all that's vile and base; all virtues are adorning this "James B. Gingham," as lusty as the morning's vapors; he wears gloves; yet he is often stricken by brick or cast-off boot, because when shadows thicken, he always plays the flute. He plays forgotten pieces our fathers used to know, and voters and their nicks look round for rocks to throw. He murders "Mollie Darling," he butchers "Lily Dale," and people snigger, saying he ought to be in jail. His neighbors cannot bear it, his music makes them sore; we soon forget the merit of one who is a bore.

Use Sunlight Soap and Save Money

A half bar of Sunlight contains 6 ounces of PURE SOAP and will cost you only 7 cents.

A bar of inferior Soap contains no more than 6 ounces of Soap with 2 or 3 ounces of injurious chemicals or adulterants, and costs 9 or 10 cents.

From the foregoing you should realize that Sunlight Soap besides being ALL PURE SOAP is better and cheaper than inferior Soap.

Honest shopkeepers and intelligent women prefer Sunlight Soap which they know to be purest and cheapest in the world.

Low grade inferior Soap will damage your clothing and make your hands sore—Clothing is expensive and sore hands are unpleasant.

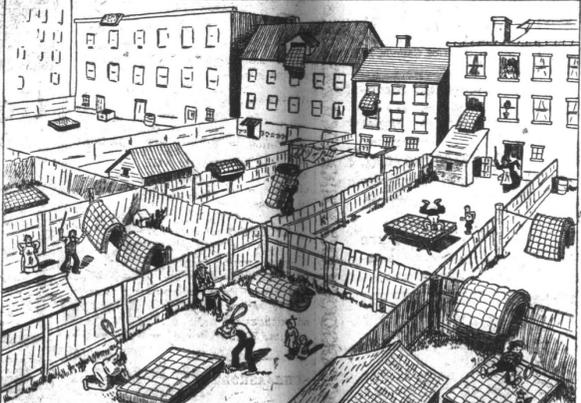

Sunlight Soap is so pure that it cannot injure even a baby's tender skin. It's almost good enough to eat.

You can buy Sunlight in bars for 14 cents, in half bars for 7 cents and in cakes for 5 cents.

All First Class Stores sell SUNLIGHT SOAP.

Gum Chewing Aids the Teeth

You have the authority of doctors and dentists for this statement. Your own experience will prove it, if you will use WRIGLEY'S after every meal.

The following quotations from a recent work on teeth and health are worth remembering:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth."

"The cleansing action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

The busy man—or woman either—rarely has time to clean the teeth after eating. Yet they should be cleaned, and

Another Treaty Between Canada and U. S. Signed

Washington, June 6.—A treaty designed to suppress smuggling of liquor and narcotics across the Canadian boundary was signed here today by representatives of the Canadian and United States Governments.

Ernest Lapointe represented Canada. Secretary of State Hughes signed for the United States.

The convention is to take effect ten days after the exchange of ratifications and to remain in force for one year with termination thereafter on thirty days' notice.

Each government is to furnish information to officials of the other regarding clearance of vessels or the transportation of cargoes, shipments or loads of articles across the international boundary when the importation of the articles transported by land is subject to the payment of duties.

Information also is to be exchanged regarding clearance of vessels to any ports when there is ground to suspect that the owners of the cargo plan to smuggle it into the territory of the other government. Clearances are to be denied to vessels carrying cargo consisting of commodities the importation of which is forbidden by either country, when-

ANOTHER HOLD-UP IN NEW YORK
NEW YORK, June 11. Ten armed bandits to-day held up a United States customs truck, knocked the driver unconscious, and escaped with 27 packages of precious stones, which were being transferred from the general post offices in West 33rd Street to an appraiser's store on Washington Street. The hold-up occurred at the corner of 12th and 13th Streets. As the driver of the truck turned the corner he was crowded against the curb by a taxi which four men alighted. Six other men thereupon leaped from a sedan parked along the curb and joined the four who jumped upon the truck. A traffic policeman not far away was issuing orders to a motorist. When the driver resisted he was struck on the head and collapsed. Two bandits gathered up the packages, hustled them into a taxi and escaped. Other bandits picked up the truck driver, bundled him into the taxi, and when about seven miles away they threw him from the car and hurried on.

UNION BILL AGAIN BEFORE THE HOUSE.
OTTAWA, June 11. The bill to provide for the Union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches has now been reported by the Private Bills Committee and is again before the House of Commons. The bill has been amended by a number of particulars, but the change which caused more debate was that which provides that the act shall not come into operation until and unless the courts decided that the Presbyterian general assembly has authority to agree to union, and that the bill is not beyond the jurisdiction of parliament. Two efforts were made to-day to have this amendment rescinded, and both motions were ruled out of order. A motion was passed, however, to include the report of the committee a record of the motion to rescind, and this will bring the whole issue before the House where the effort to strike out the amendment is to be renewed.

QUESTION RIGHT OF MONTREAL POLICE TO ARREST REPRESENTATIVE OF FOREIGN COUNTRY.
MONTREAL, June 6.—Official protest was made to Judge Cusson here last Monday, it was revealed to-day, by the Norwegian Consul, as Dean of the Consular Service in Montreal, against the arrest of the Spanish Consul in this city, Miguel Malquer, on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Canadian Customs by the smuggling of alcohol into Canada. Other consuls have also taken the matter up with their home governments. The question at issue is whether a consul, duly accredited and representing his country in a foreign land, can be arrested by the police. He is regarded as an Ambassador, whose person may not be arrested. Another point is the sanctity of Domicile. The arrest of the Spanish Consul took place at his office which is regarded as a part of the country he represents and therefore immune from the invasion of Canadian constables. In the meantime Me. Malquer is in Bordeaux jail no one having appeared with the $5,000 bail fixed for his release pending trial. He will appear for voluntary arraignment on June 11.

Our Tied-Up Assets

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Allow me to endorse the remarks made by the writer of the article "Silver Cliff" in this evening's Telegram, particularly the paragraph in which he says, "Our chief obstacle to development is due to the fact that our most promising resources are tied up, etc., by the proprietors and that they lack the incentive to develop them."
The above statement exactly hits the nail on the head and the holding up of development is a downright criminal offence both to the State and its inhabitants. Such lauded proprietors should be given a limited time for development, and if they do not others who will develop should be given the opportunity of stepping into their places. Undoubtedly rich and prolific minerals and metals are here, and the water power is also here for their exploitation and development.
In England we are constantly reading accounts of the natural resources of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Africa, India, etc., in the daily papers and weekly journals, but never a word of Newfoundland. The only intelligent article dealing with Newfoundland's mineral wealth appeared in the London "Financial News" during the Imperial Conference (1923).
As Newfoundland now has a stable and intelligent Government it is hoped that its members will not overlook the fact that the resources of Newfoundland should be given more publicity particularly in England. The writer is acquainted with intelligent and wealthy Londoners who have an idea that Newfoundland is "a man's land" or inhabited by aborigines.
I feel sure that the setting up of a Natural Resources Intelligence Department and administered through the High Commissioners Office in London would be the means of attracting British capital to this island, and the returns would fully justify the small initial outlay. At any rate the experiment is well worth trying.
Yours faithfully,
CHEMICUS.

What Bad Roads Cost You

It is obviously more expensive to run an automobile over poor roads than over good ones. Just how much difference it actually makes, though, is astonishing. Taking all expenses into consideration—gasoline, oil, tires and repairs—motoring over unimproved roads is more than 50 per cent more costly than rolling over smooth highways.
This fact was disclosed in a recent test conducted by the Department of Highways of the State of Kentucky. Sixty-two light cars of the same make and model were used in the test, one group being operated for a period on good roads, the other on bad.
The upkeep of cars that ran on the good roads averaged 4.22 cents a mile, while each mile on bad roads cost

Bicycles are safeguarded more conveniently against theft, it is claimed, with a new lock holder that is attached permanently to one of the rear frame supports and will work with any padlock of the proper size that has a hasp long enough to reach the opposite frame support.
The sheath in which the lock rests hinges back when the wheel is locked, covering the heads of the screws that attach the holder to the frame. When thus hinged back, the sheath is closed at the bottom by a clip with two holes through which the two rods of the hasp are run.

A Bird in the Hand

London Morning Post: The French and the Belgians hold certain sanctions, and, in view of the strength of the reactionary movement in Germany as revealed in the elections, it would be madness for them to destroy utterly those safeguards, unless they were convinced that there were others, even more powerful, ready to be put into execution at a moment's notice. Such sanctions can proceed only from a united Allied front, and they must not consist merely of words or emanate from that process which Lord Curzon has described as "osculation on paper," but must be of such a character that they will make not only Admiral Tirpitz, but even General Ludendorff, hesitate before they go into the division lobby. By all means let us have idealism. But it would be such a relief to see a little of it sprouting in the Fatherland.

Dynamite, Industry's New Pick and Sledge

(By H. E. DAVIS.)

Moving mountains, turning rivers from their courses, or leveling huge barriers of rock by the use of dynamite are tremendous feats, yet they are performed so frequently in engineering projects that they no longer occasion surprise. Recently, however, dynamite has been put to a variety of new uses, which, though less spectacular, are even more remarkable than the giant blasting operations usually accomplished by means of this powerful explosive.

Dynamite is now being used in small quantities as a substitute for the pickaxe, the sledge, the crowbar, or the cold chisel and hammer in such unusual places as large factories, or even the holds of ships. Moreover, it is being used in the midst of valuable machinery, electric switchboards, and similar equipment without stopping the machinery or even breaking a window pane!

Recently, for example, the Lehigh Valley Light and Power Company of Allentown, Pa., wished to remove the reinforced-concrete foundations of 3 turbine generators. Each foundation was 12 feet square and weighed 90 tons. Near by was machinery that could not be shut down without cutting off the electric current from several towns and trolley lines. A 22 inch steam pipe carrying 250 lbs. pressure to the inch ran within a foot of the foundations.

Drilling holes with jumpers and breaking the concrete off, bit by bit with wedges would have required 10 weeks.

The company decided to try dynamite. Holes four feet deep and 15 inches apart were drilled in the face of the pier and loaded. Each charge consisted of three-inch section of a one inch by eight inch dynamite cartridge primed with an electric blasting cap.

On top of the charge tissue paper was stamped in lightly to afford a two inch air space, and then wet clay was tamped tightly to the mouth of the hole. A blasting mat was placed over the foundation, and when the shot was fired it simply cracked the concrete without throwing any fragments.

By successive shots the pier was cut into blocks as neatly as if with a chisel. The operation of the plant was not interrupted, nor was any damage done.

Even a more remarkable instance of the new use of dynamite took place in an electric-lighting plant in Denver, Colo., where a shaft dynamite was employed to remove a solid cast-iron pulley wheel weighing more than a ton from a shaft to which it was rusted fast.

Charges of the explosive, skillfully fired in holes drilled in various parts of the wheel, shot away the spokes, split the rim, and finally cracked the hub into two pieces that dropped to the floor, leaving the shaft entirely unharmed.

The total amount of explosives in breaking up the wheel was thirty sticks of dynamite, 50 caps, and 40 feet of fuse, making the whole cost of materials less than four dollars.

At Spokane, Wash., a steel reinforced-concrete smokestack, 10 feet in diameter at the base and 210 feet high, located on a deserted crematory site, caused the city engineers much anxiety until they decided to bring it down with explosives. Sixty-five holes were drilled around two-thirds of the circumference, in a belt about four feet wide and a few holes in the remaining third, leaving about four feet intact.

Sixty-five holes were loaded and fired in groups to blast out the concrete. The steel reinforcing bars then were cut with an acetylene torch. A cable attached to the stack 100 feet above ground was tightened after each shot and after cutting the steel, causing the stack to be pulled about two and a half feet out of line. The holes in the remaining circumference then were loaded and fired, and the stack, breaking the reinforcing rods, fell in the desired place.

Blasting in the hold of a ship may sound like a rash proceeding, but the Charleston Shipping Company of Charleston, S.C., will testify that dynamite recently saved them "three days' time and 50 per cent of labor in unloading a cargo of potash that had become caked in the hold so hard that breaking it up with picks was extremely slow work.

Thus, in our ports in the midst of shipping, in busy city streets, and in industrial plants running at full speed, small charges of high explosive can be directed with the greatest nicety.

The Old Adam

Kansas City Star: It is all very well to say that selfish nationalism, economic imperialism and militarism must cease, just as it is to say that selfishness in business must be got rid of. But we live in a world where these ugly facts exist, and will continue to exist for an indefinite time. They will not disappear by adopting good resolutions.

"There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat"

Mrs. H. Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, Nfld., writes:

"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia—so much so that there were a great many things I could not eat at all on account of the distressed feeling afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

FOR THE MOTHER WHO NEEDS A BRACER.

Not long ago I read a story in which a chief character was a well-minded mother whom the author characterized somewhat as follows: "She adored her children and wanted above all things to be adored by them and to that end she never denied anything they wanted. She knew that for their own sakes their wishes should be thwarted at times, but she couldn't bear to be the one to do it."

What Every Mother Feels.

Every mother feels that way, only some mothers (heaven be praised) have the strength of mind to do the necessary thwarting, even though the displeasure of their offspring be incurred thereby. And, paradoxical though it may seem, in the long run the child thinks more of the mother who commands his respect by enforcing her authority than he would if she gave in to his every whim.

This was brought home to me anew the other day by an incident told me by the mother of a young girl.

"I was criticizing a girl friend of hers," said the other, "and I said that I didn't feel that she was a particularly good influence in the lives of the girls she chummed with, not because of any moral lapses, but just because she is so indolent. She is always calling up at a time when Margaret is busy helping me on Saturday, and asking her to go to the movies, or something of the sort; and she never seems to have anything to do at home, or to be interested in doing anything at all for herself such as embroidering or making dainty underwear or any of the other pleasant little industries which most young girls enjoy. She always wants to be amused."

"It's Her Mother's Fault."

"To my amazement Margaret came back a bit hotly in defense of her friend: 'I don't think it's fair to blame Edith, Mother,' she said. 'It isn't her fault that she's like that. Anyone would be if they never had to be any other way. It's her mother's fault because she's so indolent that she doesn't do things else.'

"That was a real bracer for me. Here I have been thinking that the children held it against me when I made them do work around the house. Goodness knows they're ungracious enough about it when it interferes with their own plans. But if that's the way they are going to shuffle the blame off onto me, if they are incompetent in years to come, I guess I won't feel so hesitant about making the most things any more."

I pass this little incident on because I'm thinking there may be some other mothers who need just that bit of a bolster to their moral courage when it comes to thwarting a child's natural tendencies toward indolence.

I don't believe any child loves his mother any more because she lets him have his own way in everything. Such training, or lack of it, fosters selfishness, and the selfish child doesn't love anyone but himself very sincerely.

They Will Blame Her After All.

Have you ever heard comments like this from young folks in their early twenties:

"No, I don't play the piano. I wish I could but mother never made me practice. I wish she had (resentfully). I didn't know enough to realize all the difference it would make to me later on, but she ought to have."

Or, "I shall never forgive my mother for not insisting that I have my teeth straightened when I was a kid. I didn't want it done and she gave in; and just see all the discomfort and embarrassment I've had since. She should have insisted."

Take warning, mothers! If there are things that need to be insisted upon, don't shirk the task of being the one to insist.

The children may protest and grumble now. They'll thank you by and by.

Nothing is more elusive than memory. How quickly we forget some things and how tenaciously memory clings to others. Its depth of impression that decides just things that please are called to mind long after other memories have faded into dreams. The Evening Telegram

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd., and not to individuals.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Thursday, June 12, 1924.

This Our Heritage

"Breathes there a man, with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, 'This is my own—my Native Land'."

It is not only in connection with the development of our latent mineral resources that enterprise and vision are required on our part, but also with regard to the natural attractions of the country.

At present our Game Laws are regarded with the same amount of unconcern as is shown for the Prohibition Act.

Economy, so it was said, necessitated the cutting down of the amount required for the proper surveillance of our inland waters and shooting grounds.

The consequent result has proved even more disastrous. Where formerly great herds of caribou wandered over the barrens, to-day little remains but deep worn trails and bleached skeletons.

So far as our caribou are concerned, nothing remains to be done but to take every precaution to protect the few that survive in order to guard against the complete extinction of this noble animal.

During the coming session of the Legislature, we trust that steps will be taken to pass a bill enforcing a close season for a period of years, and to make the punishment for a violation of the Act such as will deter even the most venturesome freebooter.

By far the most attractive inducement which we have to offer the sportsman to-day is salmon fishing. As yet, our rivers are without equal in any country in the world, and it is our bounden duty to maintain their reputation in that respect.

The rivers in the vicinity of St. John's and on the West Coast are well known and well patronized, but on the South Coast and elsewhere are many magnificent streams that are practically unknown and untended.

The reason given for this is that they are difficult of access, but the local sportsmen and visitors must be disabused of that idea. With the Coastal Service in operation at present, and with the excellent motor boats that may be obtained at a reasonable cost of hire in the South Coast settlements, the difficulties formerly experienced have been overcome and a new field of operations has been opened to the disciples of Isaac Walton.

Belleoram in Fortune Bay, or Hermitage in Hermitage Bay is excellently situated as the Headquarters for sportsmen who wish to combine fishing with a tour by water through scenery which cannot be excelled for beauty, grandeur and variety.

The weary city worker in search of rest and diversion and a complete change of environment this great area offers many attractions. The sturdy warm hearted settlers along the coast have retained owing to their insularity many of the customs and traditions formerly practiced but long since forgotten in the home land of their sires.

We frequently complain that Newfoundland is but little known to the outside world. Whose fault is it but our own? The greater number of us are almost as unfamiliar with our own island as are the people in foreign countries.

This Island Home of ours should be a land of plenty and prosperity. In natural wealth and attractions it is unsurpassed. Already strangers are casting envious eyes on our latent resources and are ready to tempt us to part with them for a mess of pottage.

Soldiers... It tells... How o'er... And how... To-day... It tells... And how... To-day... It tells... And how... To-day...

Soldiers' Monument, King's Beach

It tells a story
Adorned with glory
The stately symbol; for all well know
How o'er the ocean,
With true devotion
Brave sons wandered ten years ago.

And how they fought for
And bravely sought for
Freedom's altar, her torch divine,
When 'twas molested
They helped to wrest it
From despots who would not have it shine.

To-day victorious
That symbol glorious
Spreads its shadow o'er rich and poor;
It tells deeds done by
And honors won by
The gallant sons of our rock bound shore.

Of future ages
Service to statesmen, it will reveal.
A love and daring
Then hearts to share in
Their triumph with the same zeal.

That love surpasses
All creeds and classes
Which we behold in that symbol
Bright and true.
Their life for you men
They gave most true men
The creed of the God of Right.

It stands to-day there
In beauty fair there
As we view it, though mute it tells
Of brave men sleeping
In death's cold keeping
The fields of Flanders or the Dardanelles.

So let us greet it
And as beneath it
Let loving hearts and sincere we Stand;
Let a prayer be given
To God in Heaven
For the warrior hero's of Newfoundland.

TERRA NOVA,
June 11th, 1924.

Address to Departing Rector

M. H. W. Seeley,
Rector of Bellefleur Parish,
Dear Sir—We, your parishioners have taken this opportunity of addressing you and to make a few very brief remarks on the eve of your departure from us. We have learned with regret of your decision to leave us and to take your departure from us carrying with you the best wishes of us, (your parishioners) one and all for success and good fortune in the new life which you are about to begin. We hope and trust that in your new friends, you will not forget the old ones and keep us in touch from time to time. Your personality will be missed and we assure you that the vacancy left by your leaving will never be filled by that well known
"time," and we ask your acquiescence of the accompanying purse of small appreciation of the esteem in which you are held by your parishioners of Bellefleur, and we assure you here-to-night feel confident are voicing the sentiment of the entire parish. Once again, wishing Mrs. Seeley, and family every success for the future, bon voyage and speed.

Yours truly,
J. R. COURAGE, S.M.
June 11th, 1924.

Dear Friends,—It is with feelings of deep gratitude that I accept this address and purse of gold as evidence of regard on the part of our congregation for the parish.
It is one of the occasions in ones life when feelings are too deep for words. During the past week, Mrs.
Seeley and the children have received tokens of love from our people and we feel that we are leaving behind us friends and we shall never forget the kindness to us during the time spent among you and the indication of esteem now make it harder to leave. I am grateful that the members of our congregation have readily identified themselves with Church work and it has been a help to me in furthering the interests of our Spiritual Mother. I will always treasure the memory of our associations as among the happiest of my life and I ask you to ally yourselves with the incoming Rector whenever he might be and carry on the work under his leadership. For the tangible evidence of regard I thank you and I pray that Gods blessing will rest on you and yours for the future. Believe me,
Very Sincerely Yours,
M. H. W. Seeley

Three Flowers Face Powder has been justly termed the "Perfect Powder." Women who wish to be beautiful will find Three Flowers Powder a pleasing aid. Its dainty odor captivates and delights. Its smoothness of quality and lightness of texture are unequalled. No powder pleases as Three Flowers does. We have all the Three Flowers toilet requisites and take pleasure in recommending them to our patrons.

YOUR GIRL

Will take a real interest and make a success of the fine art of cooking if you provide her with the necessary equipment at home. Just because her grandmother used an old-fashioned coal stove is no reason why the young generation should be burdened down with it. If your kitchen is equipped with a
"SMOOTHTOP" VULCAN GAS
RANGE, fitted with a Modern Heat Regulator, perfect results are certain.

Try this recipe for NUT BREAD: 4 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup English walnuts, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add the chopped nuts.
Add milk and well beaten eggs.
Put in two buttered pans and let stand 20 minutes. Set your oven heat regulator at 375 degrees and bake for 20 minutes.

A white satin evening coat is embroidered in crystals and colored stones, and luxuriously trimmed with ermine.

The newest flat tailored silk handbag is lined with bright red leather. The leather gives the effect of a piping around the edge.

A two-piece sports costume in red and green jacquard design shows the sleeveless, gun-button jacket with toggled skirt.

Even long gloves are novel—they edge the seam with wee-pleated ruffles, or have bands of pleated material of contrasting color.

The Choice of Society.

Three Flowers toilet requisites have been unhesitatingly accepted by the most charming ladies of Society as the most beautiful aids to a perfect appearance. The faint fragrance of the lovely Three Flowers odor is only one of the many appealing qualities of this dainty perfume which is incorporated into all the Three Flowers aids to beauty. The Talcum is distinctive and altogether fascinating. The Face Powder possesses a rare charm. The Vanishing Cream is so fragrant—so appealing that its users experience a new delight every time the cover is removed from its dainty container. We have all the Three Flowers preparations in stock now.

Measuring by Echo

HOW THE BED OF THE OCEAN IS MAPPED.

When sound vibrations pass through water and strike a solid surface, they return as an echo to the point from which the sound started. Working on this fact soundings of the ocean can now be taken without the old laborious methods of plumb-line and depth, and it is a simple matter to find the depth of the unsounded parts of the sea.

A sound signal is sent out from one of the sound oscillators invented for use by submarines, and when the vibrations strike the bottom of the ocean they return to the ship from which they came, and are picked up by a sound receiver, fitted with a sensitive microphone.

As the velocity of the sound waves is already known, the observer has only to note the time taken between the sending and receiving of the signals to have a record of the distance travelled by the signals to the bottom and back. On dividing that distance he has the depth at that point.

During a trip of nine days in the Atlantic a ship took nine hundred such soundings, and the observers were able to make a map of the ocean bed below, showing the mountains and valleys beneath, which are just as irregular as the earth's surface.

with large stocks in times like this. Stocks are low, and when business picks up it will come back rapidly.

"Figuring the period from to-day to a year ago, our company's showing is on a level with the corresponding preceding period. However, there has been a tapering off in the last few months.

"Automobile prices, I believe, are at the low level. Prices tend to increase with better values to be offered. Stocks of automobiles on hand are being liquidated, and by July or August they will have been pretty well exhausted. There will be no bargain sales of automobiles.

"Production is gauged to meet the requirements of the trade. One of the big troubles in the automobile business is that dealers and manufacturers all have the habit of expecting business every year to be far in excess of that of the preceding year."

COTTON OPINION:

S. M. Weld and Co., say: We believe purchases can be made on reactions for at least scalping profits.

Hubbard Bros. say: In our opinion the trade will buy rather freely on all these declines and we do not believe this decline will go very much further.

S. B. Chapin and Co. say: It now looks as though there will be some further decline in prices from the effects of the present better weather conditions in the cotton belt.

Thompson and McKinnon say: Would prefer the buying side on the break.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

VOLCANO'S ACTIVITY CONTINUES.
HONOLULU, June 11.

Kilauea's renewal of activity continues. There were four violent earthquakes in the region near the volcano yesterday at four hour intervals, and the emission of steam, notable for several days, still goes on. The fall of sections of the crater lip into the depths below has ceased again, however.

THE RECURRING THIRTEEN.
PARIS, June 11.

The Presidential tri-color to-day dropped temporarily from the mast of the Elysee Palace when M. Millerand, for nearly four years the chief executive of France, resigned and became a private citizen of the Republic. Some time between four and seven o'clock on Friday, the thirteenth, the colors of a new President elected by the thirteenth Legislature will be raised to the flagstaff of the Presidential mansion. The new chief executive will immediately proceed to the formation of a cabinet to succeed the present ministry of thirteen members. Of the Presidential possibilities thus far mentioned M. Painleve, President of the Chamber of Deputies, is said to be superstitiously inclined. To-night, however, he is declared to be leading for the Presidential post.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR GRANTING A CREDIT COMPLETED.
NEW YORK, June 11.

The United States bankers to-day completed negotiations for granting a credit of $25,000,000 to the German Gold Discount Bank organized by Dr. H. Jalmar Schacht after an initial advance of $5,000,000 made six weeks ago. The International Acceptance Bank, which negotiated the loan, announced that all the banks constituting the original syndicate including the leading institutions of New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia were interested in the new credit, and that the group had been widened to embrace 34 banks covering the main centres of the United States. Enlargement of the original credit, it was indicated in the financial district, was due partly to the delay in the flotation of the International loan to Germany although the syndicate had contemplated increasing its advances to Dr. Schacht's bank.

GRADUATION OF N.F.L.D. NURSES.
MONTREAL, June 11.

Thirty-six Nurses will receive their graduation diplomas from the Montreal General Hospital to-morrow afternoon. Included among them are Eliza Kirby, Harbor Buffett, Nfld., and Pearl Snow, St. John's, Nfld.

ARGENTINE PAYS ITS LEAGUE DUES.
GENEVA, June 12.

The League of Nations received from the Argentine Government $2,285,000 Swiss Francs in payment of that country's membership dues for five years ending 1923. This has caused much satisfaction chiefly because it is interpreted as revived interest by Argentina in the League. It is hoped in council circles that the Buenos Aires Government will send a delegation to the September Assembly.

CANCER DEATH RATE INCREASES.
NEW YORK, June 12.

Mortality from cancer continued to increase at alarming rate during 1923 and the number of deaths per year from the disease in continental United States probably now is about 110,000 as compared with 75,000 ten years of a race is photographed, indisputably establishing the order of runners, should a difference of opinion arise.

The clock is started by the firing of the starting pistol. Its hands stopped the instant the runner has crossed the finish tape. The clock and hands are so large that the time can be read by many of the spectators yet by means of its three dials it graduated down to record fractions of a second.

A huge electric clock with three thousandth of a second, has been invented for important athletic contests such as the Olympic Games this summer. It can be connected with a camera so that a picture of the finish

SPORTS PROGRAMME.

St. Mary's Garden Party.
Owing to the weather conditions yesterday, the St. Mary's Garden Party had to be postponed, but despite the plans and arrangements made, the committee has decided wisely in holding the big event this afternoon. The sports programme will commence at 2.45 p.m. The programme of events and entrants are as follows:—
Quarter Mile—G. Stone, S. Parsons, C. Press.
Boat and Barrel Race—W. Redstone, W. Carson, C. Reid, B. Stirling, S. Parsons, Gordon Crane.
Cavalry Tournament—L. Hookey and R. Rodgers; E. House and C. Reid; H. Whitton and B. Stirling.
Half Mile—G. Stone, F. Burridge, D. Badcock, S. Parsons, G. Crane.
Football Sixes—Cadeys vs. Holy Cross; Wesley vs. Gaelic.
Tug-of-War—St. Mary's vs. St. Michaels.

One Mile—(6.30 p.m.)—G. Stone, C. Stone, J. Ralph, F. Burridge, G. Crane.
Three Mile Road Race—(7.15 p.m.)—Supervisor—Lieut. Col. (Rev.) Nangle, G. Stone, W. Linsgar, R. O'Toole, F. Burridge, G. Crane, J. Rabbitts, D. Badcock, J. Ralph, R. Colyer.
The much talked of 3 mile road race will commence from a point near the Sanatorium at 7.15 p.m.
Special trophies for the 3 mile road race (which is under the supervision of Lieut. Col. (Rev.) Nangle and the 1 mile, were donated by Messrs. B. B. Stafford and W. J. Brown, respectively. The balance of the Cups and Medals were donated by Sir J. C. Crosbie, Messrs. J. Fenelon, S. G. Collier, E. Esbary, G. F. and E. Snow; and Messrs. Snow & Snelgrove, of R. H. Trapnell, Ltd., and C. D. Slesater.
A fine day is now the only necessary requirement for a successful sports, and a successful sports programme means a successful Garden Party.

ST. BON'S SPORTS THIS AFTERNOON.

Owing to the weather conditions yesterday, the St. Bon's Sports had to be postponed, and as a result, much disappointment was felt by pupils, competitors, and intending patrons. However, weather permitting, the sports will take place this evening, beginning at 5.30 and all interested will be able to spend an enjoyable evening, after their day's work. There will be served from six to seven so that patrons will be able to proceed directly to the Campus from their places of business. The full programme will be run off, and the Mt. Cashel Band will be present to enliven the proceedings with classy music.

MILERS TAKE NOTICE.

The 1 mile race was inadvertently omitted in the M.G.C.A. sports programme as published in Tuesday's column. The above race will be No. 10 event on the programme, in conjunction with Putting the Shot. Entries for the various events can be made with Messrs. Stan Lumsden, T. W. Sparkes, W. Halfyard, and A. H. Thomas.

JUNIOR LEAGUE FOOTBALL.

Gaelic Team Victorious.
The second game of the Junior League series was played last night, when the Gaelic defeated the Scouts by a score of 2 to 1, after a well fought contest. The Gaelic, defending the eastern goal, made repeated attacks on the opposing territory at the opening of play, and as a result, were awarded two penalty kicks. The first one was saved by the Scout goalie, but the second one, kicked shortly after, registered the first goal. Play was very evenly divided during the balance of play, with no further scoring. The second half produced a very improved brand of football. The Scouts seemed to have taken on new life, and played an excellent game throughout. On one occasion the Scouts forward combined nicely and upon working the ball behind the opposing backs, the ball struck the cross-bar. When the ball rebounded into play Hammond, by a well placed shot, found the net, thus equalizing matters. From then on play was a give and take nature, and it looked as if the game would end in a draw. Just before full time the Gaelic lads bucked up when Stapleton sent a beauty from the right wing which easily found its way into the net. The game ended, Gaelic 2 goals; Scouts 1.

Referee, T. Delahunty.
The Wesley and B.L.S. teams will try conclusions in the next game.

DEMPSEY MAY NOT DEFEND HIS TITLE.

Richard Unable To Sign Firpo For Elimination Bout With Harry Wills.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Jack Dempsey will not defend his heavyweight crown this year if Tex Rickard goes through with his plans for a match between the title-holder's two outstanding rivals, Luis Angel Firpo, of the Argentine, and Harry Wills, giant negro.

This was disclosed today by the promoter, who explained that inability to sign Firpo for a match with Wills before August 20 precluded the possibility of arranging a championship contest for the winner with Dempsey.

Rickard, however, declared that he might abandon the Wills-Firpo contest for the long awaited title bout between the negro and Dempsey as the outstanding heavyweight attraction of the year. The promoter asserted he determined to stage only one major match, but as yet has not decided which to conduct.

Rickard has Wills signed to a contract for battles with either Firpo or Wills as a result of negotiations within the past few days. Firpo recently emerged from retirement to accept Rickard's offer of $250,000 for a Wills fight, but has not signed articles because of uncertainty over the date, which the South American does not want to be earlier than August 20th.

FIRPO'S RETIREMENT IS NOT DOUBTFUL.
Luis, the angelo Firpo, announced his retirement more than two months ago. He has made no contrary statement since then. All of which seems to convince even the most skeptical that the farewell of the "Wild Bull" has no Patti fragrance attached to it.

There are several reasons why the conclusion comes that Looie will remain retired.
A bloke swings first in a prize ring for two purposes: (1) money; (2) hope of a championship. Firpo no longer needs money and he dreams no more dreams of kingship. So return to the scene of resined arenas would mean nothing but more money—which he couldn't spend—and the prospect of having his brains spattered along the Atlantic seaboard.

Firpo Intelligent.
Firpo is a mighty intelligent youth; one with more logic and reasoning power than 90 per cent. of the athletes wearing mittens in this era. His brain undoubtedly has convinced him that the time has come to let well enough alone—and to retire while all his mental faculties are intact and his facial beauty unmarred.

No one knows exactly the extent of Firpo's bank roll. Two years ago he arrived on those shores in steerage, or second cabin. He fought his first fight for $100—and congratulated himself upon the size of the pickup. He drew $1,000 or so for his second quarrel. From that day on he speared ever-increasing amounts.

The $125,000 that was his portion for the Dempsey jamboree, $73,000 for frolicking with Jess Willard and the $25,000 for beating Jack McAllister, plus about $150,000 earned in other ways, mean that Firpo has at least $375,000 stored away with which to buy umbrellas and goulashes and other accessories for wet days.

A sum like that would sustain a blonde chorus girl for a lifetime, which means that it would soothe and nourish Looie through about five reincarnations. Firpo is frugal. Luxury never fastened its tentacles upon him and probably never will. He still thinks in terms of beefsteaks, celluloid collars, trick iron hats, suits that are more comfortable, serviceable than fashionable—and in cottages rather than mansions.

Has Good Income.

Unless Firpo experiences a radical change, he can live comfortably, happily, on $15,000 yearly. Inasmuch as he will receive about $25,000 annually through interest on his investments, it means that fifty years from now Firpo would have about $600,000 more than he has at this moment—even if he never labored in pursuit of another pesto.

ST. MARY'S GARDEN PARTY POSTPONED TILL THIS AFTERNOON.

Owing to the disagreeable weather yesterday the St. Mary's Garden Party which was to take place at Leslairs Field during the afternoon was postponed. The energetic committee, however, spent a very busy afternoon re-erecting the tents and other equipment which were demolished in the storm of the previous night. Should weather conditions prove at all favorable the affair will take place this evening beginning at 3.30 o'clock. The sports programme has been rather upset owing to the postponement, but the committee are hoping to commence the first event at 6.45 p.m. At 7 p.m. the competitors for the Road Race will be brought to the starting point in motor cars. The Race will commence about 7.15 p.m. The other items will be run off in order immediately afterwards to the convenience of the competitors.

DISTEMPER.

A tablespoon of Minard's in cup of molasses mixed with the bran mash will give quick relief.

Wonderful Models at War Office

A closed room at the War Office in London has puzzled many people, for a long time, but now its secrets have been revealed.

The room, which is known as the Wembley Room, has been jealously guarded for six months because of the wonderful collection of models it contains. These are to be displayed at the British Empire Exhibition.

One of the most remarkable collection of models in this department is a reproduction of the Spanish Armada. For months, naval architects, in the secret room high above Whitehall, have been designing and building this fleet. Every detail of the rigging of the unfortunate fleet has been faithfully reproduced. The finest of the ships is the ill-fated flag-ship that accompanied the Armada. These vessels will be set in a miniature lake at the Exhibition.

There is also the Ideal Town, conceived by the Ministry of Health, side by side with the town as it should not be. The model is a wonderful panorama of minute detail, containing hundreds of houses and dozens of streets.

All the most original minds of the Ministry have been busy for weeks on this exhibition. They call it "The town fit for humans to live in." It has ordered streets, all converged on to a beautiful circular green space, where foundations play and birds sing in the trees. It is a town where there is a minimum of disease, where there is nothing to fear the senses, either ocular or oral; architecturally is the nearest approach to Elysium.

Giant Map of The World.
A giant map of the world, made of plaster with contours set in water, has been built. Its size may be judged by the fact that the Continent of Africa alone is taller than a six foot man.

Delicately-made model views show the development of a settler's life in Canada and Australia. In the tents in which the settlers first live every detail is shown—the mirrors, the jugs the settler's wife making clothes for her husband with a sewing machine two inches long. All these dwellings are fitted with electric light.

There is a wonderful model of the Government Pavilion at Wembley, and of the British Pavilion of the Centenary Exhibition at Rio de Janeiro, in 1922, both designed by Mr. Maxwell Ayrton, the Exhibition architect.

A rocky precipice, with a road running along its face, shows the destruction of the Turkish transport at Sadi Perveh, during the Battle of Gaza. Bombs are seen falling onto the trapper transport high up on the face of the cliff. The model, which is five feet high is a masterpiece of realism.

The salvage of the Laurentic's gold beneath the sea is the subject of another model. The ship is shown lying on her side, with the gold bars showing; above is the salvage vessel, with the divers descending in the water. On the sea bottom all manner of seaweeds and ocean marvels are shown in miniature.

The Battle of Ypres.
There are many other models, some of which have been created by men who were on the scene when the incident depicted took place—as, for instance, in the Battle of Ypres. The ruined town of Ypres, a vista of shattered houses, is the finest reproduction of a ruined town ever seen.

The bombing of London by night is a remarkable spectacle, which has been prepared for display in the theatre of the Government Pavilion at Wembley. A miniature theatre has been erected, and on the stage London is seen in the sunset. As night falls airplanes glide over Westminster, bombs drop, buildings go up in flames, anti-aircraft guns flash back the answer to the bombs, and eventually the raiders are driven off. Then daylight comes, revealing the ruins of the city. The lighting effects are the finest the stage can provide.

These are only a few of the secrets of the Wembley Room. The rest are being kept until the Exhibition opens.

The Last Straw

The bus conductor had had a harassing day. First of all, it was raining—conductors are not fond of rainy days. Troublesome old ladies, irritating old gentlemen, people who tried to avoid payment of their fares, and other bus pests had combined to do their worst.

It was getting late in the afternoon when an American tourist boarded the bus.
"Say conductor," he exclaimed, "I want your Saint Paul's Cathedral."
"Oh, all right," replied the conductor, somewhat shortly.
"I say," repeated the American in a louder tone, "I want your Saint Paul's Cathedral—and I want it slick. Savvy?"
"Don't worry, guv'nor," retorted the now thoroughly fed-up conductor. "I'm gettin' it wrapped up for you now."

How Fast Do People Grow?

Nineteen and a half inches is the average length of a baby at birth, and during the first year of its life it grows nine inches.

If he—or she—kept up this rate of growth for seventy years, the result would be a giant sixty-four feet in height.

As a matter of fact, the rate of growth slows down amazingly after the first year. Between the ages of one and two a child grows only three and a half inches, and during its third year two and a half inches. After that the rate comes down to an average of one and a half inches for the next thirteen years.

From sixteen years onwards the rate of growth continues to diminish. During his seventeenth year a boy grows one and a quarter inches; during his eighteenth one inch. The nineteenth sees him grow three-quarters of an inch, and the twentieth half an inch.

The average young man does not attain his full height until he is twenty-five years of age; but the rate of increase during the five preceding years is only one-fifth of an inch a year.

The height of a full-grown and well-proportioned man should be six and three-quarter times the length of his foot; that of a woman, six and a quarter the length of her foot.

Different parts of the body grow at different rates. The legs double in length by the end of the third year, and triple by the end of the twelfth. When growth ceases, they are five times as long as at birth. Before the age of ten the foot is shorter than the length of the head; at ten they are equal; after ten the foot is longer than the head.

Grows Differently.

Boys and girls grow differently. The year of greatest growth in boys is usually the sixteenth or seventeenth. That is to say, the weight increases most during that year. In girls the chief increase is in the fourteenth year.

Girls usually reach their full height at or about sixteen, and their full weight at twenty; boys, as we have seen, are slower in development.

Boys are stronger than girls from birth to the age of eleven; then girls become superior physically up to seventeen, after which age the tables are turned again.

From November to April children gain little, either in height or weight; from April to July they gain in height, but not in weight; while from July to November they put on weight but do not grow much in height.

Hair grows at the rate of .018 inch a day, but the life of each individual hair is on an average only six years. Then it falls out. If hair never fell out and always went on growing, a woman seventy years old would have tresses nearly thirty-eight feet in length.

Eyelashes grow steadily, but are not long-lived. They last only four to five months, then fall out. Their growth is about one-twentieth of an inch weekly.

Nails grow more rapidly than is generally supposed. The finger nails renew themselves in a little over four months.

The brain weighs nine to ten ounces at birth. When a man is full grown his brain weighs about three pounds and one ounce.

YOUTH ATTEMPTS Jail Breaking

JOS. LAVERDIERE, 18 YEAR OLD, MADE BOLD EFFORT AT PLATTSBURG.

Joseph Laverdiere, 18 year old prisoner awaiting trial for house-breaking at Plattsburg, May 5, made a desperate try at escape from his cell while awaiting the action of the Grand jury. A chance glance at the jail wall by Deputy Sheriff Brunell of Plattsburg yesterday afternoon, led to the discovery of the prisoner's daring attempt to break jail.

Using a six inch spike found in the cell, the prisoner, crouched at the wainscoting, loosened the plaster from between the bricks and had a space fifteen inches square ready to crawl through. When the sheriff saw from the yard, several bricks from which mortar had been removed he made an investigation, and found the prisoner's room prepared for a get-away. According to the sheriff the prisoner is alleged to have stated that he intended to escape last night.

The Other Side

The Japanese outcry against the American "Exclusion Bill" seems to be increasing and intensifying rather than abating. It is not likely to decrease when the latest Canadian proposition, to a like effect, becomes known. But there is too much glass in Japan's own house to permit of her indulging with safety in stone throwing.

The laws of Japan testify against her. They prove that she has not refrained from doing to her neighbors and to other nations exactly what she protests against other nations doing to her. She has erected social and very high walls of exclusion against China and Corea. Emigration from these countries to Japan is forbidden for the same reasons that move the United States and Canada to prevent immigration from Japan—because Chinese and Korean labor is cheaper than Japanese, standards of living lower and competition unfair.

The Japanese legislation of 1889, amended in 1916, permits the naturalization of aliens in Japan, but it throws many restrictions in the way of such naturalization. The permission of the Minister of the Interior must first be obtained. Before that permission can be granted a number of onerous conditions have to be met. These include continuous residence in Japan for five years, good character and ability to earn an independent livelihood.

A recent translation of the Japanese Code made these facts plain. It shows that foreigners cannot own land in Japan, as individuals, although, when incorporated, they may. Foreigners cannot engage in farming or mining as individuals. They cannot become shareholders in Japanese banks. They cannot be owners of ships flying the Japanese flag. They cannot hold public office. They cannot become shareholders, members or brokers in Japanese exchanges. They are not permitted to exercise the franchise. Surely this is not far from as strict as the American law. And it is not the whole story.

All foreign labor immigration to Japan is forbidden entirely by Imperial Ordinance of July 28, 1889. Foreign life insurance companies are not allowed to write policies in Japan unless a very considerable portion of the premium is paid to the Japanese Government. The Japanese have thoroughly protected their shipping interests. Besides refusing the use of their flag to foreign-owned though home-registered shipping, the laws of Japan allow rebates to be given to Japanese steamship companies on all goods imported or exported by Japanese merchants.

The medical profession, too, is strictly safeguarded in Japan. Foreign doctors are not allowed to engage in the practice of their profession except in missionary hospitals, unless they have passed a written and oral examination, in the Japanese language, before a Board of Japanese doctors. Foreign dentists are exempt from this requirement.

One factor, which is said to have particularly irritated Californians, is the claim made by Japan that a Japanese continues to be a subject wherever he may live or happens to be born. This they hold to imply, among other things, that he is subject to military duty in Japan, and that a child born of Japanese parents in the United States, and recognized by American citizens, would nevertheless be claimed by Japan as one of her subjects.

On the whole, therefore, Japan would not appear to have much ground of complaint against other countries, considering her own enactments affecting them. Only Japanese laborers and farmers are to be excluded from the United States or restricted in entering Canada. Japanese students, ministers, teachers, travellers and business men have been, and are still to be, accorded free and unrestricted access and admission to both countries.—Morning Chronicle.

Ex-Slave Who Founded City

After reaching the age of nearly 80 years, Isalah T. Montgomery, founder of Mount Bayou, Miss., has recently died.

He was a product of slavery in its mild, patriarchal form. His father was a faithful servant in the household of Joe Davis, brother of Jefferson Davis, the President of the Southern Confederacy. The elder Montgomery was highly intelligent and faithfully devoted to the welfare of his owner, who, in turn, made him overseer of his large estate.

Isalah T. Montgomery grew up, therefore, under a congenial environment. He felt nothing of the hardship and cruelty of the harsher slave regime. He was taught the use of letters, and at an early age became a clerk in the Davis household.

Joe Davis and his brother Jefferson owned contiguous plantations in the State of Mississippi, which were virtually operated as one. The overthrow of slavery did not effect any violent change of relation between master and man as far as the Davises and the Montgomeries were concerned.

The elder Montgomery and his son engaged to buy the consolidated Davis' plantations from the former owners for $300,000. The size of the transaction indicates the capacity and courage of the former slaves and the confidence of the Davises in their ability and integrity.

It was the understanding that the new black owners should hold the slaves together under the same benevolent and kindly supervision as to which they had been accustomed. But the Montgomeries failed in their ambitious enterprise because of the panic which played havoc with business throughout the country, and the estate was returned to the original owners.

The failure of this venture did not swerve Isalah T. Montgomery from his purpose of establishing an agricultural colony where the negro might flourish under his own vine and fig tree.

As a leader of the migratory movement of the late '70s he planted a colony of negroes at Nicodemus, Kan., which to-day remains in a goodly degree of prosperity. These early attempts indicate the ideal to which the ex-slave had devoted his life.

In the early '70s Mr. Montgomery obtained from a railroad in Mississippi the control of some 30,000 acres of land in the rich Mississippi bottoms, with a view of planting a settlement of negro farmers. From that time to the day of his death he devoted all his energy to the consummation of this undertaking. The success of the Mount Bayou enterprise is well known and has been widely proclaimed.

The Mount Bayou community consists of a town of about 2,000 inhabitants surrounded by a black population of 5,000 or 6,000. The town is the centre of the industrial and social life of the settlement. Mount Bayou is modeled after thousands of small towns scattered throughout the South, and, for that matter, throughout the nation.

It is exceptional only in that it is planned, managed and managed entirely by negroes. The waterworks and electric lights are operated by colored experts. The Postmaster, Mayor and town officials come from the same race. The public school building, an imposing structure costing upward of $100,000, is well appointed and the educational centre of the colony.

Many people believe that agricultural settlements under intelligent negro leadership offer the one plan of solution of the race problem in the South that seems most promising.

Marconis Test Was Successful

Message Was Conveyed to Australia Without Applying New Beam

London, June 4.—William Marconi, who on Sunday succeeded in establishing communication by radio telephony between his wireless station at Faldun Cove, Cornwall, and Australia, commenting on his achievement said:

"My message to Australia," he said according to the Daily Mail, "was conveyed clearly with my new system, but without applying the new beam."

"With the beam I am sure there would be no difficulty in telephoning between here and Australia, or between here and any other part of the world. I have received a cable from Sydney stating that I was most distinctly heard."

Handy New Tire Deflator Clamped to Valve Stem

A handy automobile tire deflator has been designed primarily to save time in doing tire repair work.

Usually to deflate a tire it is necessary to press the prong of the valve cap, or other similar object, against the valve pin until all the air has escaped. The new deflator, however, is clamped to the valve stem simply by a slight pressure of thumb and finger. In this position a small pin in the center exerts continuous pressure on the valve pin, compressing the spring. This leaves the hands of the worker free for other jobs, such as assembling repair tools, while the tire is being deflated.

Military Training Not Militarism

It is strange how much inordinate persons sincerely anxious to avert the horror, waste, and utterly fruitless toll of war, display when they discuss means of prevention. In the annual ministerial assemblages, which are now commencing there is an obvious confusion among many worthy persons of pacific intention between military training for youths and war-like preparations.

The reverend gentlemen who condemn military training imagine the obligations of disarmament carry with them the obligation of encouraging the belief that young men know how to protect the state. They ignore the fact that the nation which has most scientifically practiced military training, Switzerland, has never had a war within modern times, chiefly because her manhood has been trained to resist to the full extent of its powers. They apparently do not know that intelligent military training for youth does away with the necessity of standing armies in times of peace, and thus removes one of the most blatant and notorious causes of both war and poverty. The nation, small or large, whose manhood is trained for defensive exertions is necessary, is much less likely to be provoked into wars for its own defence than one which is regarded by the neighbors as helpless. If, for instance, the United States had enjoyed military training on a large scale before the great war, Germany would have thought twice before ordering her ships of the high seas in February, 1917. There has been much retrospective discussion about Lord Roberts' appeal for a standing army in Great Britain two or three years before the great war. The defect of that plan was that Germany would not have waited until that army was ready but would have struck at once. In fact Germany was so well prepared for war in 1911 that the British government for a time momentarily expected it and developed its territorial plans accordingly. But—and it is a most important but—Great Britain twenty-five or thirty years ago had adopted the Swiss system of military training, then there might have been a different story to tell. Germany might have had her war anyway but certainly it would not have lasted so long; and the nation's effort would have been easier. Military training is not militarism; in a considerable measure it is the antidote of the menace of militarism.

The really convinced persons who originated the cry against military training in Canada are well aware of this. Their motives in opposing it are far from pacific. Many of them are avowed Bolshevistic sympathizers (though the clergymen who echo them may not know this) and Bolshevism is a bloody and ruthless form of popular oligarchy. The more active agitators against military training are equally opposed to all measures for the protection of life and property. They recognize in a nation which has enjoyed military training a bulwark against sabotage and revolution. Of such agitators some very excellent clergymen appear to be dupes. People who denounce military training speak as though we lived in an arcadia in which mob incendiarism has never been threatened; and as though a properly developed manhood merely existed for aggression abroad without thought of protection at home.

Apart altogether from the sinister motives which lie back of this cry against military training, the whole subject should be considered from its sanitary and economic side. The lad who undergoes military training is physically better for it. He is straighter, cleaner, neater and better disciplined than the boy who does not receive these advantages. Every school girl knows as much. And with the hygienic education which is now a recognized part of military training he is likely to be a better citizen.—Toronto Saturday Night.

Majestic Splendour

of Kilauea Crater in Eruption Witnessed by Many Canadian Tourists in Hawaii.

Returning circumnavigators on board the Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Canada, which arrived at Victoria, B.C., last week, brought remarkable eyewitness tales of the eruption of the ever-active crater of Kilauea, in Hawaii, as reported over the cables a week ago.

By a freak of fortune the 360 passengers of the round-the-world cruise had gone to the crater as one of the features of their trip. Like other tourists, many of whom are disappointed, they waited for the tempestuous display that the famous mountain occasionally stages. They were unprepared, however, for the tremendous demonstration of uncontrollable fury which rewarded their delay.

It was early in the afternoon when "the House of Everlasting Fire," as the natives call the crater, first began to emit a slow, silent white vapor like a gentle out of an Arabian Nights' midnight scene.

There was no sign of fury in her smoking. It was the sort of thing she had done for years. Then suddenly a dense cloud of snarling smoke belched forth and then began the greatest eruption that crater has ever given out—the greatest with one exception—for 180 years ago it had a similar outburst and wiped out the bulk of an Hawaiian army moving against Kamehameha, the Napoleon of the Pacific.

Stones Huzled Miles.

The tourists, among whom were a large number of Canadians and Americans, stood rooted to the spot. Subterranean noises filled the air and a dense cloud of smoke rose thousands of feet towards the sky and streaks of fire embrodered it. When it seemed impossible for the cloud of smoke to go higher, the storm burst, a storm of stones, ashes and lava, and some of the stones were hurled for miles, a few small ones even falling close to the spectators scattered around three sides of the mountain. There were no casualties, though the official photographer of the cruise, who was working his camera well in advance of the party, was struck by a small stone.

"It was an unforgettable experience," said General John F. O'Ryan, of New York, one of the tourists, and he termed Kilauea "Nature's greatest showman." The General was one of the heroes of Chateau Thierry and he is now of the opinion that there are worse things in the way of artillery than war offers.

Confessions of a Used-Car Gyp

Made to LESLIE V. SPENCER, M.E.

I used to be a gyp. At least I had a job for a while with a very successful gyp in a large Eastern city. At about the time I didn't realize just what a job it was. It didn't take me long, though, to discover what kind of an establishment I was in, and I got out as soon as I found another job. The things I saw in that place made my hair curl, and I'm telling them to you in hope they'll serve as a warning to people who are thinking of buying second-hand cars from dealers they don't know.

There are two kinds of people in the used-car trade—legitimate dealers and "gyps." The legitimate dealers require no explanation. They trade used cars just as honest people all over the world trade in other articles of commerce. They're in the business to make money, of course, but they make it honestly by giving their customers value and satisfaction to the best of their ability.

The used-car gyps, though, are entirely a different class. You'll find the word "gyp" in the dictionary, which says it means a "swindler or cheat." In acquiring and selling used cars the gyp aims to give nobody a square deal. His sole purpose is to turn over a usually worthless article as quickly as possible for the largest possible amount of money. If he can disguise an automobile that's really fit for the junk pile sufficiently to sell it to some unsuspecting person for a thousand dollars, he's put over a "good deal." That the car stops, never to start again, after going a hundred miles, bothers him not a bit; for the gyp is almost a fanatical believer in "the old maxim of law and business—'Let the buyer beware!'"

The boss of the place where I worked was called "Charlie." He had two floors in the automobile district. The ground floor was like any ordinary garage, but upstairs it was quite different. The cars that Charlie and his gang "picked up" were run up to this second floor on an elevator, and when mechanics and painters got through with them, they looked like real bargains—as far as outside appearances went. As to the service they'd give, that was something that Charlie didn't bother about. A lot more time and care were spent on making the cars look right than on making them run right. Charlie had learned from experience that if a car had plenty of shiny paint on it, the green buyer was likely to take its performance on faith.

The condition of a car when it came in and where it came from were by no means as important as the selling end. Once the engine was "doped" with high efficiency gasoline and with heavy oil to silence the rattles so the car would run through a demonstration, and the body was fixed up with paint, advertisements would be run in several of the daily papers. It rarely took more than three or four days to sell a car after it had come from the upstairs shop. There were always cars going in and out, and I learned the history of some of them. For instance, a hard-looking fellow drove in one day with a Packard touring car that was a fairly late model, but pretty badly used up. The mudguards were badly twisted, the windshield was cracked, the metal supports of the top were bent and broken, the top itself badly torn, and the car was covered with mud and dust.

This fellow told Charlie he had "picked up" the car in some Southern state. He was walking along a road, he said, when the car suddenly skidded and turned over a ditch. The owner, unhurt, walked away to look for a farmer to pull out the car. He was scarcely out of sight when a farm wagon drove up from the opposite direction. The man who brought the car to Charlie immediately got an idea. He stopped the farm wagon, told the farmer he owned the car and offered him $10 if he'd pull it out of the ditch.

A few minutes later the car was again on the road, and, while the farmer was hitching up his team, waiting to be handed the $10 he had been promised, our friend jumped into the driver's seat and drove off. Charlie didn't bargain with the man. He just opened his safe and handed his visitor $200. Then he put the car into the elevator.

The old bus didn't look so bad after it had been washed. Charlie destroyed the automobile license plates, and then we started to work. We overhauled the engine, got new mudguards and other needed parts from the service station, changed the motor number, put a new glass in the windshield and installed new metal in the top. Then the car was painted, and when the top was folded back so that the tears didn't show, it looked really for Fifth Avenue.

Meanwhile Charlie had faked a bill of sale that would have convinced a judge that he, got the car in an honest deal from a reputable man. A couple of days later anybody who was looking for a bargain in automobiles would have found one advertised in most of the morning papers. And when the "suckers" started to troop in, Charlie himself played the part of the broker who had lost everything in the stock market and consequently had to sell his handsome car for a song.

The "song" was $2000, and when Charlie found a man who would pay it, he made just about $1600, for besides the $2000 he had paid for the car it cost him about $100 to repair it.

Another time one of Charlie's scouts called up on the telephone to say that a Dodge had been virtually demolished by a street car, and that he could buy the wreck for $50. Charlie told him to grab it and within a couple of hours had it in a "sneaky" looking mass of junk I ever hope to see. Even after we'd taken off the ruined mudguards, the body, and the two broken front wheels, there didn't seem to be much left but wreck. The frame and the axles were bent, the springs were hanging loose, the thing looked just like what it had been sold for—junk.

We finally got a little encouragement when we found the engine would run after a fashion, although the crankcase and water jacket were cracked and the radiator had some big holes in it. We putted the cracks, straightened the radiator cells, soldered them up and poured a lot of flaxseed in with the water when we filled the radiator. After a while it stopped leaking.

A coat of gray paint hid the putty on the engine and helped hold it in place. Then we straightened out the frame as well as we could without spending much time on it, put on a brand new body new front wheels and a set of new mudguards, and filled the gas tank with extra volatile gasoline. The next day the car was advertised in the papers.

Charlie's crack salesman, whose name was Jim, was given the job of disposing of the camouflaged wreck. In three days he'd done it. He let his victim have it cheap, too—$800 with insurance thrown in, which represented a profit of $500 at least. The buyer was well satisfied apparently, too. How was he to know that that smart new body hid a sprung frame that eventually would make every operating part of the car go bad?

Another car that came in some time later had an engine that sounded like a concrete mixer. As an experienced mechanic, I was for taking the engine down, replacing the loose bearings and worn pistons, grinding the valves and so on. Charlie, though, had a simpler system that that. He merely had us fill up the crankcase with oil that was almost heavy enough for a transmission case; it silenced all the rattles; and I'd hate to drive that car very far away from home!

In another car we found two teeth out of the intermediate gear when we were putting in new grease. Ordinarily that would be serious, but it wasn't to Charlie. He had us shape two pieces of steel to conform as nearly as possible to the shape of the missing teeth—and we screwed them in place! Then we filled the transmission case with a mixture of oil and sawdust to cushion the meshing teeth and silence the noises. We never heard from the man who bought that car. I'll swear it didn't run very long, but maybe he was the kind who'd rather take his loss than admit he'd been swindled.

Every day you'll see in the papers advertisements that, besides offering a used car at an astonishingly low price, inform you that "the car has run 'only 500 miles.'"

Now, I suppose there are such cars

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do any work and care for my three little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had and began taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend it to any woman I think feels as I do."

Mrs. J. R. McMAHON, 153 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring sick, ailing women to health and strength. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as headache, pain in periods, irregularities, tired, worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lowell, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women." On the market, but my experience in Charlie's place makes me doubt it. For one of the first things we did with a car when it came in was to reduce the mileage by resetting the speedometer. A pen-knife inserted in the slots between the numbers and a little patience were all that was necessary to turn an old warrior that had gone 50,000 miles into a "very slightly used" car with a speedometer that recorded a scant 500.

Very volatile gas—a high test fuel such as racing drivers sometimes use—is one of the secrets of the snappy motor performances which a gyp dealer's cars give on demonstration. This fuel makes starting easier, and gives more "kick" to the whole performance. Another thing that smart gyps like Charlie always are particular about is that the battery be fully charged. Of course, the battery may be "shot," but they get by that difficulty by overcharging it for the demonstration. When the plates of the battery are so far gone that not even overcharging will make it function, filling it with acid from a good battery often will make it last long enough to demonstrate the car.

Platinum is expensive, and one thing the gyp hates is needless expense. Accordingly, if the platinum points in the timer are badly worn, Charlie and his kind don't bother to replace them with platinum. With a sharp knife they cut little chips from a ten-cent piece, and hammer these into the points. Of course, the silver points don't last, but somebody else has to worry about that.

Often you'll see used cars advertised as having new tires. In this case the gyp tells no untruth, but the tires are of the kind known among the gyp fraternity as "40-mile bolognies." In fact, it's the exceptional "bolognie" that will last 40 miles. However, they look good—especially if given a coat of white paint.

Charlie and Jim both were expert actors, and they'd think up all sorts of ingenious stories to help them sell cars. I've told you how Charlie played the part of a bankrupt broker. That was a favorite role for both of them. Other parts they played ranged from that of a struggling young business man, who was selling his car to take his dying wife to Arizona, to that of a wealthy physician who was retiring from practice.

Well, there's a lot more to the used-car game than that, but what I've told you ought to cause the man who starts shopping around for a second-hand automobile to watch his step. If you're going to buy a used car, my advice is to go to a dealer who is known to be reputable or to take along the best mechanic you can hire and believe what he tells you about a car, no matter how shiny the paint, how new the tires, how peppy the motor, and how low the speedometer reading.—Popular Science Monthly.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A GUEST

I'M GLAD TO MEET YOU.

"I'm glad to meet you!" Thus we say. And this from strangers' lips we hear.

When introduced along the way—A phrase that's very old and dear. We catch the name our friends repeat.

Two hands in newborn friendship meet. With this the other each will greet: "I'm glad to meet you!"

"I'm glad to meet you!" Day by day. As strangers we shall pass no more; From this beginning who can say? Just what the future has in store? New bonds of friendship may be tied. Perhaps our paths may soon divide. But now we utter, side by side: "I'm glad to meet you!"

Can this be but an empty phrase, A sentence, formal and polite, A relic of Victorian days That is forgotten over night? I often think it is, and yet. Sometimes, somewhere, it was you met. And told the friend you can't forget: "I'm glad to meet you!"

"I'm glad to meet you," here's my hand. But time must prove the worth of friends.

And you and I well understand How soon a mere acquaintance ends. So when the years have flown away, God grant you may recall to-day, Run through my book of life, and say: "I'm glad I met you!"

Britain's Liquor Bill

Great Britain spent £307,500,000 last year for alcoholic drinks as against £230,000,000 in 1922. According to a survey just completed by the United Kingdom Alliance, as reported to the Bankers' Trust Company of New York by its English Information Service, the expenditure per head of the population for alcoholic drinks in 1923 was £7.2s., as against £7.13s. in 1922. The relative expenditure per head in England and Wales were £7.5s., in Scotland £6, and in Great Britain £7.2s.

Taxes on spirituous liquors in 1923 directly collected by the trade from consumers of alcoholic drinks, in round figures were:—

Spirits .....£51,500,000
Beer ..... 81,500,000
Wine, etc. .... 3,200,000

£136,200,000

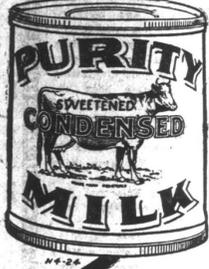

In addition, the sum of £3,871,000 was received during the financial year of 1922-23 for license duty and monopoly value. The total exports of British spirits during the year amounted to 7,209,000 proof gallons as compared with 10,090,000 proof gallons in 1913. Of this total, the United States and its neighbors took 2,061,000 gallons as compared with 1,583,000 gallons in 1922 and 3,156,000 gallons in 1913.

The following are comparisons of amounts spent on drink and for other purposes in Great Britain during the year 1923:—

Drink Bill .....£207,500,000
Interest on National Debt 307,000,000
Gross annual value of lands, houses and other property under Income Tax Schedule A. .... 287,000,000
Capital invested on coal industry, 1921 (excluding coke ovens and by-product plants) ... 180,000,000
Local Taxes collected 1922-23 ..... 176,000,000
Est. expenditure on Imperial defence Education ..... 89,000,000
National Health and Unemployment Insurance 75,000,000
War Pensions ..... 75,000,000
Relief of poor ..... 48,000,000
Old-age pensions ..... 24,000,000

One of the interesting facts brought out in this survey of the United Kingdom Alliance was that, while the con-
