Lens Falls To British

Germans Fail To Make Effort To Recover Drocourt-Queant Line--Queant Is Captured With Several Other Places

Haig's Men Drive Four Miles On 20-Mile Front

Canadians Had Big Share In Storming Work On Monday

Carried Everything Before Them—Ten Thousand Prisoners Taken Yesterday—Hint at Something of Much Importance on Southern Battlefront

London, Sept. 3.—(Canadian Press despatch from Reuter's, Ltd.)—The British have occupied Lens, Wulverghem, Queant, Tromville, Doignies, Yelu Bertincourt and Rocquigny.

This represents an advance to a maximum depth of four miles on a twenty mile front this morning.

Lens was evacuated by the Germans, the British moving in. More than 10,000 prisoners were taken by the British yesterday. Additional prisoners were taken this morning.

Contrary to expectations the enemy has not reacted heavily with a view to the recapture of the Queant-Drocourt line, but has left the British in undisturbed possession of it.

SOMETHING BIG IN SOUTH? The situation in the southern part of the battlefield is said to be extremely interesting, but nothing more can be said for the moment.

The capture of the town of Queant, the southern support of the famous German switch line before Cambrai and Douai, is announced in an official statement from Field Marshal Haig today.

Along this line the enemy was heavily defeated in his prepared defences and is retiring on virtually the whole battlefield.

The British forces are reported to have entered the towns of Pronville, Dougnies and Bertincourt.

In storming the Drocourt-Queant line the Canadians assisted the English troops and carried everything before them.

WELL BEYOND THE LINE.

With the British Army in France, Sept. 3, 1918 p. m.—(By the Associated Press)—In heavy fighting last night beyond the Drocourt-Queant line, the British are reported to have made further progress on a front of 13,000 yards.

The villages of Seneffe and Re-court, more than a mile and a half beyond Dury, the capture of which was announced last night, are reported to have been taken today.

The village of Etzing, two miles north of Dury, fell yesterday at about the same time the British farther south were capturing Villers-Lez-Cagnicourt.

These captures were effected after most bitter fighting.

GERMANS SHORT OF ARTILLERY.

With the British Forces in France, Sept. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The Canal du Nord constitutes another heavily defended Boche system and the British in the fighting along this waterway have killed an enormous number of Germans who seem to have been packed in this locality.

There has been heavy fighting in Sully-Sallembre, where 100 prisoners were taken and another large group of Germans killed by the British.

Early this morning the British began operations in the area northeast of Hendecourt. After three counter-attacks on the town had been smothered, the British attacked the headquarters at the Chateau from which seventy prisoners, including a battalion commander, and his complete staff, were taken.

So swiftly did the British advance that at one point in the recent fighting a complete horse ambulance, including two doctors and 800 prisoners, were taken. Eighty German officers were taken.

At one place a British officer with one man bombed an enemy trench and then advanced. Eighty Germans of the garrison surrendered to the pair.

The effects of the recent Entente Allied artillery fire are shown in an order signed by General Ludendorff, which also apparently discloses a shortage of German artillery. General Ludendorff says that during one month the Allies shell fire destroyed thirty per cent of the German guns in action. He directs that strong counter-battery measures be taken.

REICHSSTAG LEADERS IN ATTEMPT TO END WAR

Stockholm, Sept. 3.—The Nydasiget Allehandas quotes Pieter Troelstra, Dutch Socialist leader, as saying that an attempt was made last January by the leaders of the three parties constituting the German Reichstag majority to reach an agreement with the political pacifist leaders of England with the view to preparing the way for energetic action in favor of peace on the principles enunciated by President Wilson.

After Draft Evaders

New York, Sept. 3.—Nearly 25,000 government agents today began to ferret out draft evaders in New York city and vicinity.

Means Loss of French Coal Fields; Perhaps Even Flanders Coast

Drocourt-Queant Switch All Important to the Germans

Pivot of Whole Enemy Front

Breach Made By British, Huns Were Expected to Make Desperate Efforts to Close It—Comment of London Papers

London, Sept. 3.—The essential breaking of the famous Drocourt-Queant switch line following a series of important Allied advances with great captures of men and material, has made an immense impression here. While the great confidence that the success can be maintained is depressed, and while the expectation is general that the enemy will make the most desperate efforts to recover the position, it does not appear as if one of the worst disasters inflicted upon the Germans during the whole war and one which could cause their high command the deepest anxiety.

The belief is general that the switch line is the main system of German defence and that there is nothing so strong behind it. Consequently, its loss if it becomes final, opens the widest possibilities.

"The loss would involve the evacuation of the French coal fields, perhaps even of the Flanders coast," says the Daily Mail, "and would imperil the German hold on Douai, Valenciennes and Cambrai, which are essential to Hindenburg for manoeuvring his armies. The switch line is thus the pivot of the whole German front, and its breach means that we have forced the enemy to a struggle of man against man which he had used to avoid."

The Telegraph, also noting the danger to the important German centres of communication, says: "If the Germans cannot stand before Douai, Cambrai and St. Quentin they can stand nowhere this side of the German frontier. If it is possible for them to fight harder and throw in reserves at a swifter rate than they have done in the last few days they will do so. We doubt the possibility of their accomplishing either."

Other commentators remark that the Germans now pretend that they are retiring according to plan, and are convinced that the retirement will be completely carried much further than they ever intended.

Supplies and Phosphates

By half past seven o'clock the British had completely passed the German front and were in the process of clearing the wood. Tanks again did heroic service. Where shells had failed to break through the wire, tanks rolled it out flat and charged down into the masses of Germans. Those who did not fall before the tanks were crushed, together with their machine guns.

The streets of Dury were carpeted with German dead. Here the British captured the town mayor, and among other prisoners taken nearby were several battalion commanders. Mount Dury was stormed soon afterwards, but it was taken only after a terrible struggle.

It was the Canadians who took Dury and the mount. Although facing a heavy fire they had only a small fraction of the casualties they inflicted on the enemy. All sorts of troops have been captured. Elements of six German divisions, fresh and tired, have been identified by the troops on a front of 2,000 yards. Good prisoners and the sweepings of the German army are fighting here. One prisoner taken was a Red Cross man until he was discharged a few months ago because of an incurable disease and a mutilated hand. He had been taken back into the army as an infantry man.

Giving Way In The South

Signs of Enemy Retirement in Vicinity of Ham And Guiscard Are Reported Today

Paris, Sept. 3.—Constant movements toward the rear of the German lines on the Somme front in the regions of Ham and Guiscard are reported by the correspondent of Le Journal at British headquarters. Hospital and dressing stations are being hastily cleared, while convoys are moving northwardward harassed by hostile airplanes.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Artillery actions on the Somme front and farther south between the Oise and the Aisne are reported in the official statement issued at the war office today. Enemy raids along the Vesle River and in the 'Voieges' regions were without result.

FIVE MILES FROM CHEMIN DES DAMES

With the French Army in France, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—The French army resumed its attack on the plateau north of Soissons this morning, encountering very strong resistance in spite of which General Mangin's men pushed on to Leudilly, which is only two miles from Vaux Allion and five miles from Chemin des Dames.

Further south they captured Torny-Sorny and Fontaine St. Remy. The road from Cozy to Font Rouge, in the direction of Chemin des Dames was reached and progress continues, according to latest reports.

BURNING THEIR SUPPLIES

Huge fires which were seen in the direction of Vaux Allion, northeast of Soissons, at three o'clock this afternoon indicated that the enemy was burning his supplies. There is said to be nothing else inflammable in that region.

Today's successes completed the conquest of Soissons plateau, which will compel the Germans to retire to the Chemin des Dames, which itself is menaced by the French advance towards Vaux Allion.

French Comment.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Yesterday was another day of notable successes for the Allies, results of the first importance being attained in the face of stiff resistance to both the British on the left of the line and to General Mangin's forces on the right.

The French military commentators were enthusiastically today over the breach in the Hindenburg line made by the British between Drocourt and Queant.

"Astounding as it may seem," says Henri Bidou, in the Journal des Debats, "the effects and the consequences of the presence of this important mass of effectives. Doubtless the German staff held the hope that the British, after several days of hard fighting, would be obliged to rest."

In the newspaper Oul, Colonel Fabry advances the view that the battle is being directed on the German side by the local command, which is being more and more left to their own resources by General Ludendorff. This, he argues, is the German plan that confusion prevails along the German line and likewise of a scarcity of reserves, for they say that the German staff are now in a state of command loses its best reason for intervening in the direction of affairs at the front.

All the commentators agree that the British success is likely to have wide-reaching effects and that the German army fighting before St. Quentin and Laferre will be obliged to accelerate their retreat for fear of the fall of what is characterized as the pivot of the whole line, to the west of Cambrai, which would place them in jeopardy.

NOW ON TO CAMBRAI

British Break Down The Determined Resistance

PROGRESS AT SEVERAL PLACES

Strong Opposition Developing at Only One Place, On Extreme Left, And They Are Expected to Try to Stand at Canal du Nord

With the British Armies in France, Sept. 3.—(By the Associated Press, 1918 p. m.)—The determined German resistance at the cross roads north of Villers-Lez-Cagnicourt was overcome by the British this morning and Haig's men are now showing forward in the direction of Cambrai.

A strong British force is driving forward on the northern reaches of the Hindenburg line. The British are well inside the Drocourt-Queant line.

So far as learned, no organized counter-attacks have been developed by the Germans, but on the extreme British left determined opposition is developing. British troops today advanced well to the east of Peronne and are making steady progress.

The enemy was in force at the last reports to the southwest and to the north of Queant. From the ridges he was pouring a heavy machine gun fire at the British, who were returning the fire and gaining ground at the same time.

On the Somme battlefield the British are driving at a pace generally fast in the direction of the Canal du Nord, where the Germans have erected wire. It is said, though, that their trenches here, however, have only been half dug.

The Germans, it seems to be expected, will offer determined resistance along this line, as they are now doing in front of it, and then retire back of the canal if necessary. With their lines at the canal in such an embryo state, however, little protection will be afforded the enemy should he be forced to take refuge behind them.

TRAFFIC CRUSH ON SATURDAY

Depot Carried a Peak Load—Complaint of Inadequate Arrangements

Trains and steamboats running to and from St. John on Saturday were certainly carrying peak loads, as they say nowadays. The Labor Day exodus, now being celebrated in the city, was a factor in the Toronto exhibition and an influx of outside people bent on spending the Sunday holiday in this city, literally jammed the transportation lines. It was the biggest whirlpool of travelers the depot has witnessed since the war slackness set in.

This being the first year that school opening was delayed until after Labor Day, brought the children back one day later, falling on the Saturday. Outgoing traffic was abnormally light, but the holiday trip, due no doubt, to the Toronto rush. The C. P. R. Montreal express had fourteen cars, four of which were sleepers. The Boston was about as long. When the Halifax train arrived in the afternoon—quite late because of the heavy traffic—it was packed to western train waiting for the Saturday holiday trip, due no doubt, to the Toronto rush.

In the depot the confusion and alloy of people was extraordinary. Police Officer Roberts had his heart and hands filled to overflowing. When the trains had all left he was hoarse from answering questions and seeing in every joint from regulating the crush, but he got away with it in great shape and exhibited remarkable tact and patience, even for a policeman.

The worst feature of the whole thing was the ticket-selling facilities at the depot. There were lines of people a hundred at times waiting for tickets at both windows, and only one man to handle the demand in each place. The process was unusually slow and some people had to wait for more than an hour to be served. A few thoughtful ones quietly walked to the King street offices and secured their pastebords. The depot arrangements were not warranted to care for anything greater than a casual run of buyers, which, citizens urge, is bad and backward. To argue that people should foresee rushes and get their tickets early, say that is old stuff and belongs to the days of waxed fingers. With the new rule preventing the sale of tickets on board a train, some changes are needed, said the public Saturday in the facilities for buying them in the depot.

All river boats were late from areas of traffic on Saturday. All along the line they picked up vacationists and school children. One of the boats failed to reach her wharf at Inlandtown until supper time. The up-going steamers were also heavily laden.

The funeral of Peter Britt took place this morning from his late residence, 55 Sheffield street, to St. John the Baptist church, where high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. F. J. McMurray. Interment was made in the new Catholic cemetery.

NOTABLE SINGING ACT
IN OPERA HOUSE BILL

CHARLIE RAY A HIT AT IMPERIAL

Charles Ray, the youthful leading man who is now so very popular, scored another triumph at the Imperial yesterday to large crowds in "His Own Home Town," the tale of a young chap who did a small city of a bunch of gruff and political crooks at the risk of his own life. It was a splendid story and will receive its final showings this evening. The Imperial introduced a new war pictorial in the Allied Review, Mutt & Jeff are running a hotel in a war town and the Drews are putting on a comedy entitled "His First Love." It's a great home-again bill.

OVERWHELMED BY CANADIAN FIRE
The weather was clear and cold and the roads were in fair shape. The pursuit was pushed forward by tanks and the motor machine gunners.
The honors of the day went to Ontario battalion, which made an advance of more than 1,000 yards over hard going, taking 700 prisoners, most of whom were captured in dugouts.

LABOR DAY AT CHAPEL GROVE
Labor Day was fittingly observed at Chapel Grove. In addition to a picnic there was a special attraction in the form of a championship baseball match between Johnnie McIntyre's Invincibles from the large Iago and a nine from the good ship Mona. The game was played in a field owned by Parker Edwards and was witnessed by a large gathering of people. The crew of the Mona, under the guidance of Edward McManus, triumphed and the Invincibles, failing to live up to their name, were vanquished by a score of 9 to 8. The McIntyre brothers, John and James, essayed the task of a battery for the Invincibles, but after Arthur Howard slammed out a home run and two of the other players knocked off three-baggers he was relieved and King attempted to stay the onslaught. The game was greatly enjoyed by all present and arrangements are being made for a return match. Among the spectators were young ladies and girls from St. Peter's Sunday school, who went to Chapel Grove on a picnic.

WHAT WILL YOU GIVE THURSDAY?

Just Remember The Allies' Best Friend Has Been The Sailor

The Results of Thursday's Drive Will Indicate Whether the Public Properly Appreciate the Fact—Three Hundred Thousand Are Braving the U-Boats

The men of the navy and merchant marine have given loyal service, yet, and their lives, ungrudgingly and unflinchingly. Until now no general recognition has been possible, but Thursday of this week will be a red-letter day of the war, when a general uprising of practical help will be seen in Canada and upwards of a million dollars raised to assist the sailors.

What is St. John going to do? If any individual can refuse that appeal made on behalf of the sailor he must be remarkably poor or wonderfully selfish. The tragedy is that this splendid body of men is not recognized by governments, no provision made for the relief of dependants, no separate allowances, no pensions. It is safe to assert that not ten per cent of the people realize these remarkable facts, but when the facts are presented, certainly they cannot turn a deaf ear, even if the subscription means a sacrifice. It is left for public subscription to care for the orphans.

It is vital work our seamen are doing, for without the supplies and munitions carried by the merchant marine it would be impossible to keep our army in the field. These hundred thousand men in the merchant marine are "carrying on" in spite of the U-Boat and the floating mine, and 15,000 have made their last voyage. One hundred and seventy-six merchant ships have been sunk since the war began, without leaving trace of ship or cargo or crew.

All this for Allied cause; it is for us. Is it not the very least we can do to care for the widows and orphans of these men who otherwise will nurse their grief in poverty? Some time the governments may make provision for this vital service but until then the public has an unequalled duty. Fifteen Thousand Dollars is the local objective on Thursday, but if all do their duty this will be largely exceeded.

BIG WAR NEWS OVER HOLIDAY

Great news came with Sunday and Monday. Over a front of thirty miles from the region of Arras to Peronne, the British forces have smashed the German front. The southern portion of the Procopet-Quent line which was regarded by the Germans as impregnable, has given way on the Scarpe River to Quent, a distance of ten miles, and on Monday night British and Canadian troops had passed three miles eastward in pursuit of the enemy. Thousands of prisoners have been taken.

FOCH, THE GENERALISSIMO

Nothing of the Napoleonic Rhetoric About Him—Man of Deeds, Not Words
(New York Times.)
There is no Napoleonic rhetoric in Ferdinand Foch. Bombast is foreign to his habits. One look at that shrewd face set with thought, in which no emotion stirs, the eyes unflinching, introspective, would set right any one who expected theatrical appeals, sonorous bulwags of victory from the commander-in-Chief of the Allied hosts. It is not to be imagined that Marshal Foch would address an army of Frenchmen as Napoleon exhorted the soldiers of the Directory: "I am about to lead you into the most fertile valleys of the world; there you will find flourishing cities and teeming provinces; there you will reap honor, glory, and riches. Soldiers of the army of Italy, will you lack courage? The Pyramids will not look down upon the army of Foch were operating in Egypt. Although human enough, he is the most tactician, unemotional of soldiers. He does not dream of glory, or talk about it. In that respect he re-

POOLING OF THE ALLIED SHIPPING

Important Announcement in Speech by Lord Robert Cecil

London, Sept. 2.—Lord Robert Cecil, assistant secretary of state for foreign affairs, at a dinner tonight celebrating the conclusion of the deliberations of the Allied Maritime Transport Council in London, regarding the pooling of Allied shipping. He also alluded to the pooling of Allied food supplies and of Allied munitions.

"The Allied maritime and transport council was established last December at a meeting of all the Allies. It has completed, but its central principle remains what it always was, the necessity of Allied co-operation in which we are engaged."
"We have been lately much too busy to be able to reason for a moment about effort, but rather for increased effort. Now is the time to strike a definite and final line, which is the only way to win. It is in other hands, and in hands which give us no cause for concern, and rightly claim, the right to decide each for ourselves what is necessary in the interests of the general cause in which we are engaged."
"That is true. I do not myself wish it and that I am satisfied that with all its inconveniences it gives us a spirited strength which ultimately will win us the victory over the enemy. If we are to succeed, despite our freedom, we must be prepared to scrap national prejudices, national sentiments, even, I would say, national interests. That is essential, if I really propose to make the best use of the strength which we have."
"Now, speaking as an Englishman, I am quite content that some of our allies have suffered more than others. We have not had to undergo the ordeal of invasion. I would not say that we have many respects the sufferings of France and Italy, not to speak of the smaller Allies, such as Belgium and the Netherlands. But I think that we are greater than our own, greater than those of our friends in America. But that makes all the more necessary the pooling of our resources. If our sacrifices are to be in any degree equal, the only solution is common Allied control of all the resources of the Allies."

"The pooling of Allied control is Allied shipping, though it is of the greatest importance that you should have common Allied control of shipping, yet our action and shall continue." And he also has full consideration of the Allied needs.

"We have by co-ordinated Allied efforts, as they have been immensely in our shipping expenditures, and in the country gets its supply from its nearest neighbor. Italy gets her supply from India, we get our supply from the American continent and an immense saving is effected. Allied shipping has been accomplished, and that is great credit to two people who are entitled to greater credit than Etienne Clementel, minister of commerce of France, and Sir John Peel, president of the board of allied food controllers."

"We shall go on being able to feed our people. We can transport across the sea vast armies to fight the Germans and submarines are powerless to stop us."

ALONG THE RIVER
Nothing could have been more tantalizing yesterday to the boys and girls along the river, who had to say goodbye to summer and return to the school, than the day itself. Yesterday was not a day on which to say good-bye, but one on which to linger by the shore or in the fields until the last gleam of sunset faded from the hills. It was as if something of the golden quality of every summer day had been withheld, to be poured over the pebbles of the river on this last holiday. Throughout the season saw as many craft of all kinds adrift, or so many parties along the shore.

EIGHTEEN TO FORTY-FIVE

(Douglas Malloch.) Look not for news upon the page Marked with the printers' set or writer's toil, For we are living in another age—The flower of all the ages that are so.

Not what the rest are doing now concerns; Search your own heart to find the thing aces; Find you therein some newborn hope that burns, Some solemn duty that you dare to do.

New things are happening in human hearts, The broader vision bursting into birth, Now from each life the liteness departs, And leaves the hitherto conception of God's earth.

Why, once I thought this life of mine To keep, to cherish, living but to live, But now I know my blood is so much mine, That, when the world faints, I must freely give.

To home and work I do not now belong, To happy dreams or hopes for my own gain, I am a link. Shall I be weak or strong? Nay, as men need, I go or I remain.

My life belongs to him who needs my life, My brother here, my brother yet unborn, I am because of yesterday; the strife may come to me to prepare tomorrow's morn.

The British Empire Following is the full text of the eloquent address delivered by Lord Curzon at the Dominion Managers at Westminster. Lord Curzon, in proposing the toast of 'Our British Colonies', said: 'I cannot tell you how helpful and how stimulating to British patriotism are these reports of the progress of our native land which we may be forgiven for having almost forgotten in our minds that at the moment when they are being read, the people are fighting for the cause of freedom and right, which they feel as sacred as we do, and which they are fighting for as eagerly, more so, than we are.'

TOTAL ENEMY DEAD NEARLY 3,000,000 It is estimated by experts in London that the German losses in killed alone now reach a total of more than 2,000,000 and probably approach 3,000,000. These figures were given out after a study of tables of German and Allied losses which have been published.

That is a great achievement. Germany thought that India was seething with discontent, that when the British Empire would disintegrate and not add to our strength. But in India they have raised a force—every man a volunteer—of nearly a million men. (Cheers.) They are about to raise another half million. They have been guarding the approaches of the eastern empire. They are guarding it today, and they will continue to guard it to the end. This war has taught us many lessons, but no lesson more striking than the lesson of the reality and the power of the British Empire. (Cheers.) What would have happened to the world had the night of the British Empire not been a fact and had it not been drawn into this conflict? Last year Russia had collapsed. America was not in, and if Germany had then commanded the seas, right would have been trampled under foot and despotism would have triumphed throughout the world. The Kaiser proclaimed to the world that God gave Hindenburg and Ludendorff to him and to Germany. I wonder who gave the British Empire to his enemies. (Cheers.) He can easily find out if he will only ask some learned divine to tell him who planted in the heart of man wrath against injustice and inhumanity and the love of freedom. These divine passions have raised in the British Empire from north to south, from the far east to the far west, one brotherhood of arms against the deeds and designs of Prussian despotism. The reality and strength of the bonds that unite the British Empire have been under-estimated by everyone. (The Germans thought they were paper tics that would shrivel and scorch into black dust at the first flash of the fires of war, but they were mistaken. In life the most enduring ties are the invisible ones. Here you

THE SNIPING OF A SNIPER

How Scrubby Stones Put End To One of Them

A Story of the Front Trenches and No Man's Land—German Lay Hidden Behind Dead Comrades

(By Rifleman Pat MacGill, Author of "The Great Push" etc. Special Correspondent of the Toronto Star.)

London, July 22—Scrubby Stones beat his head under the shelter of the parapet as the glass of his periscope fell to the ground in a shattering fragment. Then he looked at his mate, who was sitting at the door of the dug-out opposite.

"That was a near go!" he said. "A mighty near go!"

"No wonder!" said the man opposite. "If you go poking your head up like that what can you expect, Scrubby?"

"Wasn't expectin' this, anyway, Bill," said Scrubby. "It's so bloomin' quiet 'ere and 'ere on two unner and fifty away from the other trenches."

"Snipen, I bet," said Bill. "One of our blokes in Company A got a pocket this mornin' and him in a mob that's a good three hunner away from the Germs."

Scrubby felt in his pocket, brought out a shaving mirror and fixed it to the point of his bayonet. This he held up face to No Man's Land, and looked in it.

"Nothin' to be seen," he said. "Umpteen shall 'ole, half a dozen dead Germs, stumps o' trees, barbed wire and mud. I don't envy a bloomin' sniper as lies out there."

"If there is one he's well camouflaged," said Bill, lighting a cigarette as he spoke. "They never see 'em unless they see themselves, the swine."

"Ere I see something!" shouted Scrubby. "Out in No Man's Land. Come up 'ere, Bill, and 'ave a peep."

"Ere I see something!" he said. "The soldier by the dug-out door got to his feet, blew the ash from his cigarette and mounted the parapet. Scrubby handed him the periscope.

"It's half past five and you're lyin' together. In front of them a tree stump!" said Scrubby.

"I see it," said Bill excitedly. "At the foot of the tree a head or something that looks like a head. That's what you mean, ain't it?"

"To the left of the three stump three dead unns, lyin' in a bloomin' 'cap, and behind them something moved," said Scrubby, taking no heed to Bill's remark. "That's where the bloke, as tried to knock me out and bashed my periscope, is lyin'!"

"That black lump at the foot of the tree stump is what I'd put my money on," said Bill. "It's more like a sniper than anything else out there."

"That ain't no sniper, no more than it's your grandmother," said Scrubby, with an air of certainty. "It's a camouflaged. Bet you that it's a cap put there by Jerry to throw us off the scent."

"They're up to something, but I saw something more out behind the dead unns. Bet that it's the sniper, out there lookin' for his prey. Let me 'ave another peep at him."

The periscope changed hands, and Scrubby looked in it. For a while he kept silence, his body rigid, his mouth a little open. As he looked a rifle shot rang out clear and sharp across the level. Scrubby brought his bayonet and glass down and looked at Bill.

"Got 'im that time," he said. "Saw the bloomin' smoke just where I said. 'E's lyin' there behind the dead unns, and I'm going to see that 'e'll be there for duration. . . . A good floor comin' along. I'll speak ter him and ask him about it."

"Ehenty, sir," said Scrubby. "E've got my eye on one o' them, and 'im camouflaged behind a 'cap o' dead unns. It's that there sniper that's been trouble us since we've come in 'ere. 'Just 'ave a look, sir, and see."

The officer got up on the parapet, looked into the periscope and saw the heap of dead which Scrubby indicated.

"Out there?" he enquired.

"That's the spot, sir," said Scrubby. "'o's lyin' back o' them dead unns, and if you keep a sharp lookout you'll see the smoke if 'e fires."

The officer saw the spurt of smoke even as Scrubby spoke, and at the same moment the glass in which he was looking was smashed to pieces above his head.

"I saw where he is," he remarked.

"Saw the smoke, so we've got to get the man by the heels. I'm glad my head wasn't in line with the mirror."

"And it was a handy one for shavin', sir," said Scrubby. Then, after a moment's silence: "I know wot to do, sir. If I can have a free 'and I'll put the snipin' bloke out o' business for good."

"What do you propose to do?" asked the officer.

"This is my plan, sir," said Scrubby. "There's a wood behind this 'ere trench, so I'll get back there I can camouflage and 'ide myself. The wood is higher ground than No Man's Land, so I can lie behind a tree and let 'im whenever I see this bloke up ter his game. 'All an hour will do for the job, sir, if you'll give me permission."

The officer recollected Scrubby's deeds of old, his cool confidence in the tightest corner and his skill with the rifle. This skill was vouched for by the cross rifles on the soldier's sleeve. If any man was suitable for the job it was Scrubby Stones. Fifteen minutes later he left the trench and crawled back through a sap towards the wood at the rear of the line.

It was the officer who saw how the deed was done, as he stood, twenty minutes later, on the parapet looking at the field in front. A rifle shot rang out and a bullet whizzed past his head out to No Man's Land. Scrubby's rifle had spoken and it spoke with effect. The officer heard a screech in front and saw a form in field grey rise from behind a pile of dead men, crouch at the air for a space and sink to the ground again. The sniper had been hit, mortally perhaps, but for the moment that by the cross rifles. Only when night fell was the effect of Scrubby's shot known. A search party found the German sniper lying on the ground beside his rifle, a hole in his breast, and dead.

Nobody Allowed To Dodge Their Duty

How An Arkansas County Made Everybody Get Into Harness for War Work—Sixty-Seven Clubs Formed

(American Lumberman.)

Early in the work of obtaining money for the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A., as well as in selling Liberty bonds and Thrift stamps, it was learned that organization of some kind was necessary. In response to this need organizations have been formed in many communities, but too often these various organizations are either working at cross purposes or are failing to secure the best results by covering their entire territory in a thorough manner.

At each new call made upon these communities for war work of one kind or another the need of more perfect organization is seen and the need is met; but it has remained for an Arkansas county to provide an example of thorough and effective organization including every community in the county and covering its entire area without waste of effort or conflict of authority. And while the Phillips county organization was designed primarily for war work, the direction that that work took was such as to operate to the permanent benefit of the county. At the same time that it served to provide the government with the sinews of war it eliminated all slackers and made every resident of the county a loyal and enterprising citizen.

The organization of the county began with the forming of the Phillips County Central War Club under the auspices of the local Business Men's League. This central war club was subdivided into two parts or sections, one at Helena and the other at Marvel, twenty miles away; the idea being that by this form of organization all the communities of the county could be covered more systematically.

When the two divisions had been formed the business men of each immediately organized groups and teams of speakers who each Sunday afternoon traveled over their respective sections of the county and organized local community war clubs. Thus sixty-seven clubs were formed with memberships all the way from 20 to 500.

Phillips was one of many counties in the south whose people could think of agriculture in terms of cotton only; and the principal problem of the war club was to convert them to thinking of farming in terms of food and feed. Therefore, each member was required to take this pledge: "I agree to plant not more than 60 per cent of all my cultivated land in cotton for the year 1918, and I further agree to plant the remaining 40 per cent in food and feed crops." That was a pretty hard pill for many of them to swallow, considering the prevailing market prices of cotton. But it went down and the effects produced this year have demonstrated the wisdom of the physicians and the efficacy of their prescription.

At the same time that the farmer signed a pledge to plant food and feed crops he gave on his card particulars regarding his acreage in cotton, in garden, corn, sorghum, hay and other crops; as well as the number of sows, pigs, cows, calves and work stock. He tells how many persons are in his family and whether he has enough seed to plant the

Significant Remark by Premier Borden—175,000 Canadians at Front

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Sir Robert Borden was the principal speaker at the Labor Day directors' luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition today, and late in the afternoon addressed an immense gathering of the general public in the open air from the main bandstand. Probably fifteen to twenty thousand people listened to what was essentially an appeal to labor not to subtract from the national effort to win the war by controversy or discord.

Sir Robert declared his belief that the Canadian board of adjustment, consisting of six members representing the Canada railway board and as many representatives of the various organizations of railway employees would be able to adjust all differences promptly and satisfactorily and might continue after the conclusion of the war as a permanent arrangement.

Out of 384,750 Canadian troops overseas, he told them, more than 227,000 had been classed as "working men."

Railway Ownership.

At the directors' luncheon the premier devoted some time to the question of government ownership and operation of railways.

"With one exception," he declared, "the largest railway proprietor in Canada is the Canadian people," and he added, significantly, "the day may come when there will be no exception."

The premier said that Canada had 175,000 troops in France and Belgium. Up to August nearly 414,000 men had gone overseas. This was made possible by Canada's resolve to stand by her army and provide adequate reinforcements.

PRAISED COLORED TROOPS.

Over Quarter Million Are in U. S. Army—Represent 15,000,000 of Race in States.

"We have 100,000 colored troops in the United States army at the present time," Thomas L. Jones of Washington, D. C., stated to the Toronto Star.

"We have 100,000 colored troops in the actual fighting zone in France at the present time, and they are to be found throughout the various cantonments in the United States," stated Mr. Jones.

"At Camp Meade alone there are 30,000 colored troops."

Mr. Jones stated that when the French and British missions visited the United States they made a special request that colored troops be sent to France. "They make the very best of fighting troops," he said. "We fully believe that those who go to fight the battle of freedom and represent the 15,000,000 colored people of the United States will maintain the record for bravery and heroism which they have always displayed in any engagements in which they have participated in the past."

At the present time 4,000 of Canada's colored population, 47,000 are in arms.

Sweden Who Was in German Army There Says the Ex-Czarvitch is With Her. London, Sept. 3.-The following message from Stockholm signed "Hanson," and which is in French, has been received by the Daily News:

"I report under reserve a story published by the Svenska Dagbladet on the authority of a certain Erbs, conductor of a Swedish band, who has been serving in the Crimea, and who has arrived in Stockholm on leave. Erbs states that the ex-Czarvitch, with the ex-Czarvitch and her daughters, has been living in perfect safety in the Crimea since May, that they have never been in Siberia, and that all official reports to the contrary have been manufactured for political purposes."

ONLY SON OF HON. RODOLPHE LEMIEUX GIVES LIFE IN WAR

Montreal, Sept. 3.-Word has been received from Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, former postmaster-general, that his only son, Lieut. "Robby" Lemieux, has died of wounds received in action on Aug. 28.

RECENT WEDDINGS

Shanks-Gaza. A very interesting event took place on last Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock in St. Luke's church, Hoyt, N. B., when Arthur Douglas, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shanks of Ellersville, N. B., was united in marriage to Myrtle Loreta Gaza, second daughter of Mrs. Chas. Knorr of Mill Settlement, West, N. B., by the Rev. Edmund Hallstone, rector of the church. The bride entered the church with her brother, Charles, to whom the wedding march played by Miss Mamie Smith, organist, and stood under an arch of white flowers.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Shanks left by automobile for the bride's home, where a sumptuous wedding supper was served to about ninety guests. The dining room was tastefully decorated in red and white. Immediately following supper, dancing was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Shanks received many beautiful and costly gifts, including silverware, furniture, cut glass, china, linen and many other articles of value.

The wedding of Miss Clemon Valentine, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Crawford, of Lakeside, and Frederick William Simmons, of St. John, took place on Monday afternoon, the ceremony was performed by Rev. Gordon Lawrence. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Simmons left on a motor trip up the St. John river and will return to Halifax, where Mr. Simmons is employed.

The marriage of Trumpeter John Leahy of the 9th Steps Battery and Miss Irene Carson, of Walton, N. S., was solemnized at St. John's, by the officiating clergyman, Rev. D. J. MacPherson, on August 31.

NURSE IS ACCUSED. Mrs. Skeels of Bayonne Arrested at Andover After Body Was Exhumed.

Andover, Mass., Sept. 3.-Mrs. Jessie Mae Skeels, a nurse of Bayonne, N. J., who attended Miss Florence M. Gay, a teacher at the Abbot Girls' School, in her last illness, has been held here on a charge of larceny of $300 in jewelry from Miss Gay. When Mrs. Skeels was arrested she stepped into an adjoining room and soon after was found seriously ill. She is recovering at the Lawrence Hospital. It is stated by the police that she took poison.

The body of Miss Gay, who died in a quarter plot of the cemetery, was exhumed several weeks ago. District Attorney Henry G. Wells said tonight the results of the examination justified the action. The cause of Miss Gay's death is homicide.

Mr. Sullivan formally protested against any hearing outside New Brunswick and also reserved the right of the city to contest any decision reached except after a hearing of the necessary evidence in New Brunswick.

Vaughn and Mays or Ruth Likely Pitches in Opening Game

Chicago, Sept. 2.—The Chicago Nationals returned from Pittsburgh today and began preliminary practice for the opening game of the world's series here tomorrow with the Boston Red Sox.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his men, Manager Mitchell ordered them to report at the American League headquarters for a practice session, in which the Cubs will acquaint themselves with the lights and shadows of the grounds.

Charles A. Coniskey, president of the Chicago Americans, present world champions, has invited Manager Barrow to hold a practice session at the grounds on the arrival of the Red Sox, probably late today.

Jim Vaughn, a big southpaw, has been picked by Chicago sport writers as the probable choice of Manager Mitchell for the opening game, while the baseball rattle gusses that Boston's right-hander, Carl Mays, will start for the Red Sox with Ruth as second choice.

Mays' peculiar submarine delivery, the like of which the National League champions have not met, has led fandom to believe that he will start off baseball's earliest championship game.

Ticket reservations for the games, which in price will be the cheapest on record, have been far better than was anticipated, according to Walter Craighead, secretary of the Chicago Nationals.

Two thousand box seats for tomorrow's game at $3.30 each, war tax included, were placed on sale today and other sales for the following games will be held.

Several down-town ticket brokers have announced that the card boards would be available at their offices. Baseball men declare, however, that they can learn no tickets have been sold to scalpers.

MANY CHANGES IN THE STAFF

Schools Re-Opened After The Summer Vacation

Assignment of Teachers—Eight Thousand Children at Their Desks—New School Not Quite Ready for St. Malachi's Boys—Probable One-Session in Winter

As early as eight o'clock this morning the streets were dotted with children and books under arms and dressed freshly for the occasion, wended their way back to school. All were aglow with the excitement and anticipation of being placed in new quarters and having new teachers, except those, of course, who were unfortunate enough not to be graded. Dr. H. S. Bridges says the percentage of these ungraded pupils is very small this year, most encouragingly so.

Observant persons—especially if they had gone through the mill themselves—might have noticed many a mother heading towards the school buildings with her little one by the hand, looking as if they were heading it over to the lord high executioner or some other terrible personage. Graduation from babyhood to school life is invariably a heart-bug with mothers and primary teachers held a veritable funeral service, as it were, each term commencement as parents deliver up their wondering children.

The rush back to school was big and hearty. It was an inspiring sight to sit among the buildings this morning and observe bright-eyed and thoroughly rested children greet their new teachers and take up new locations with enthusiasm. Under the general orders of Superintendent Bridges organization was immediately commenced and with the precision of army mobilization 8,000 boys and girls were re-arranged into their many units and battalions of into buildings.

Superintendent Bridges today announced the following teaching staff changes—

HOWARD PETERS GIVES UP LIFE

Death of Another St. John Man In War Reported—News of Other Casualties

A former St. John boy who heard the call of battle and answered it has paid for his devotion to the empire's cause with his life. News of the death of Howard Peters in action in France has been received. He was but twenty-one years old.

Private Peters, who had been employed with Simon Jones, Ltd., until about three years ago, when he left for the United States, was employed in Roxbury, Mass., when the recruiting campaign for the 28th Klites was extended to the neighboring states. He promptly enlisted and, after a period of training in Fredericton, went overseas with them. He was transferred to another unit and reached the front only a short time ago, his death following soon after his entry into the battle zone.

MANY CHANGES IN THE STAFF

Schools Re-Opened After Their Summer Vacation

Assignment of Teachers—Eight Thousand Children at Their Desks—New School Not Quite Ready for St. Malachi's Boys—Probable One-Session in Winter

As early as eight o'clock this morning the streets were dotted with children and books under arm and dressed freshly for the occasion, wended their way back to school. All were agog with excitement and anticipation of being placed in new quarters and having new teachers, except those of course who were unfortunate enough not to be graded. Dr. H. S. Bridges says the percentage of these ungraded pupils is small this year.

Observant persons—especially if they had gone through the mill themselves—might have noticed many a mother heading towards the school buildings with her little one by the hand, looking as if they were heading it over to the lord high executioner or some other terrible personage. The graduation from babyhood to school life is invariably a heart-bug with mothers and primary teachers hold a veritable funeral service, as it were, each term commencement as parents deliver up their wondering children.

The rush back to school was big and hoarty. It was an inspiring sight to file among the buildings this morning and observe bright-eyed and thoroughly rested children greet their new teachers and take up new locations with enthusiasm. Under the general orders of Superintendent Bridges organization was immediately commenced and with the precision of army mobilization 8,000 boys and girls were re-arranged into their many units and battalions off into buildings.

High School.
Miss Clara Hay takes the school formerly taught by Wilfrid Tait—Grade IX, boys.
Miss Margaret Adams takes Miss Hay's place—Grade IX, boys.
Miss Alma Gale is transferred from Victoria annex to the High school as second assistant.

Victoria School.
Miss Helen Bailey is transferred from the Centennial Grade V, girls to the Victoria annex, taking Grade V, boys in the latter building.
Miss Maud Cummings is transferred from Grade VII to Grade VIII, to take the place of Miss Olivia Maxwell, resigned.

Miss Edith Cummings takes Miss Maud Cummings' place in Grade VII, being transferred from Grade VI.
Miss Laura Myles, transferred from Grade V to Grade VI, taking the place of Miss Dowling, resigned.
Miss Audrey Mullin, absent on leave, takes the place of Miss Myles in Grade V.

King Edward School.
Miss Dorothy Mitten is placed in charge of Grade VI (boys) to take the place of Miss Lillian D. Carry, absent on leave.
Miss Frances C. Vredenburg is advanced from Grade IV to Grade VI, taking the place of Miss Ada E. Allen, resigned.

Miss Esther G. Welford, present reserve teacher at King Edward, is taking Miss Vredenburg's place in Grade IV.

Centennial School.
Miss Ethel Coles is advanced from Grade III (girls) to Grade V, also girls, to take the place of Miss Helen Bailey, transferred to the Victoria annex.
Miss Mary Steves takes Miss Coles' place in Grade III.
Miss Iva Yerxa, absent on leave for the last year, resumes her former position in Grade II (boys).
Miss Nora Fairweather takes the place of Miss Ethel Magee in Grade I. Miss Magee has applied for leave of absence on account of ill health.

Aberdeen School.
Miss Mahoney is appointed to take charge of Grade V, to take the place of Miss Isabella Foster, resigned.
The new reserve teacher will be Miss Winifred Green. Miss Dorothy Mitten, the former assistant, has been transferred to King Edward, Grade VI.

LaTour School.
Miss Amy Napier has been placed in charge of Grade I, to take the place of Miss Jessie Hart, who has been transferred to the household sciences department. Miss Florence Perry takes Miss Napier's place.
Albert School.
Miss Newcombe has been appointed assistant in place of Miss Fitzpatrick, resigned.

Household Science.
Miss Northrup has been appointed by the board to succeed Miss Kate Bartlett as principal. Miss Jessie Hart of LaTour school is to succeed Miss Northrup.

There are no changes in the manual training staff, Waterloo street.
The Sisters' Schools.
Sister Redeemptor to be principal of St. Joseph's school in place of Sister Alphonsus.
Sister Patricia to be principal of the St. Thomas in place of Sister Redeemptor.
Sister Immaculata to St. Thomas', to take place of Sister Patricia.
Sister Fidelis transferred from St. Peter's to take the place of Sister Immaculata.

Notes.
Doctor Bridges told The Times today that if the fuel situation did not clear up it was probable the one-session idea, which was inaugurated with success last winter, would be put into effect again this year.
The new St. Vincent's High school building, Cliff street, being yet unfinished, the St. Malachi's hall boys who are to occupy the upper rooms temporarily, could not make the shift today. The change will be made in October.
Today's reopening disclosed considerable congestion in the LaTour and Al-
