The Western Fair Opens on Monday

A successful record of sixty-two years consecutive exhibitions is an achievement to be proud of and a spur to continued progress.

Back in 1867, when railroads were the ultimate in speed, when electric street cars were unknown, the automobile was not even dreamed of, the telephone, the radio, the phonograph, the electric light, the aeroplane and many other wonders of our day would have been considered crazy schemes, the Western Fair was launched by far-sighted men at the "show-grounds" then located on Talbot Street, just north of Oxford.

It quickly proved its worth as a place of instruction and education for farmers, their sons and daughters—a place where the latest in machinery and manufacture could be seen—where city and country folk could meet—where progress in agriculture and processing of raw materials could be shown to thousands and where prizes could be awarded for all that is best in crop production, animal husbandry, handiwork and crafts—manhood, art, household science, dairy produce, poultry, and many other branches of endeavour which go to make up the complex state we call "human existence."

All through the years, the exhibition has grown, the prize list has increased, the many attractions have improved, new grounds were secured, new buildings erected to be later replaced by still larger and better structures of permanent type, until to-day the Western Fair stands well established among the exhibitions of the world and in Canada is second only to the Canadian National Exhibition.

To-day it is distinctly modern in type, with substantial up-to-date brick buildings, pavements, efficient operation and a governing board embracing many of the most prominent agriculturists and business men of Western Ontario.

This year Western Fair will be greater and better than ever before, in every branch, live-stock, poultry, agriculture, races, grandstand attractions, midway, industrial exhibits and displays.

A visit is a treat, an education, a diversion and a profitable holiday for the tens of thousands who will assemble here next week.

Garvey Is Elected U. N. I. A. Leader

Kingston, Jamaica, B.W.I., Aug.—That it will take more than deportation from the United States to break the hold of Marcus Garvey on the members and destiny of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, was manifested here when 15,000 delegates from the four corners of the earth attending the international convention of the organization re-elected Garvey as their president and leader.

The convention, which is the sixth, is being held in Edelweis Park and is one of the most colorful events ever witnessed here. Men clad in uniforms and beplumed headgear and women in the uniforms of the "Black Cross Nurse" mill about the park, the convention, and participate in mammoth parades.

The differences of the two factions, mainly in New York City, found their way to the convention but were squashed by the diplomatic ruling of President Garvey, when he refused to appoint delegates to committees, whom he knew and termed as "undesirables." This move on the part of the President evidently proved to the assemblage that if there were factions in America so far as the convention was concerned the body was a distinct and powerful unit.

AFRICAN WEDS AMERICAN HEIRESS

Baltimore, Aug.—Mary McCormick Finney, young Vassar graduate and Baltimore heiress, was married in New York June 11, last, to Mohammed Barada, of Morocco, it was learned here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Finney of Churchville, Hartford county, and Baltimore. Her father is associated with a Baltimore financial institution.

The romance is the result of the meeting of the two young people—both are under 30 years of age—here in Baltimore, where Barada, a brown skin youth, has visited at various times during extensive travels in this country.

In his message to the assemblage President Garvey emphasized the urgent need of men and funds. Men to fill diplomatic offices in the government of the black peoples of the world men to carry on the administration work of the organization and for propaganda operations. The funds were necessary to prosecute the ambitious program formulated by the organization and to promote the new Black Star Line.

Recent Human Migrations

When Johnnie returned home after his first visit to one of the larger Fall Fairs, his mother asked him what he had seen. He replied, "Oh! there were crowds of people there, crowds and crowds of people; and they all seemed to be going everywhere." If we, pushing back the horizons from our more or less limited daily experience, take a glance at the world that we inhabit, we shall repeat Johnnie's assertion that there are crowds and crowds of people living on it. Taking Prof. Edward East's careful estimate of the world's population, we have between 17 and 18 hundred millions of people; and these he classifies as: 710 million whites, whose homeland is chiefly Europe; 510 million yellows, living in Asia; 420 million browns, living mainly in India and the Pacific Islands; 110 million blacks, native to Africa; and possibly 40 million reds, natives of the Americas. His careful study arrives at a more interesting conclusion, that at the present rates of increase, whites may be expected to double in numbers in 58 years, yellows in 232, browns in 278, and blacks in 139 years. If East's calculations are correct, the white race will, by 1950 or 1960, actually outnumber all other races combined.

With regard to this world population the latter part of Johnnie's reply, "They all seem to be going everywhere," will be generally admitted by most readers. During the last fifty years, or even the last twenty-five years, the "going everywhere" of people has become almost revolutionary. Men's thought, inventive genius, mechanical dexterity and courageous experiments have developed an unprecedented array of means and devices of transportation towards that end; and it is no doubt time that, as the peoples of the world become increasingly linked together by more rapid communications and commercial intercourse, enterprising individuals, families and varying groups of different races will seek to overcome existing barriers and participate in a growing intermingling of races.

The causes of these movements of peoples, these migrations or dispersions, provide one of the most interesting inquiries that a reader can make, a study that implants a world-con-

GEORGIA AND JIM CROWISM.

More than two centuries ago Gov. Oglethorpe, an English philanthropist, secured from the Crown, a tract of land in the then new world, to which he brought hundreds of English men and their families, who had been persecuted for debt. This new home of hope and promise Oglethorpe named Georgia. Georgia, therefore, was well meant. If the descendants of any state or country should remember mercy in dealing with the poor and downtrodden it should be the descendants of that band of debt-ridden people who settled Georgia. But the unexpected and new kink which Georgia has given the Jim Crow law has both startled and amused the civilized world. And if it were possible for the shade of the venerable Gov. Oglethorpe to come back from the dead past and view Georgia's latest Jim Crow law we believe he would bow his head in shame and return again to the past. For Georgia has proposed a bill which not only separates the races on railroads, street cars, busses and in fact on all public conveyances, but owners of such companies must also furnish separate cars for negroes. They must not ride in the same compartment with white people. The bill is reported to have had its second reading and, despite numerous protests from all companies concerned, it seems likely to pass the house and become a law.

With her population almost 50 per cent. Negro, Georgia has always been among the first to pass laws which were meant to humiliate and to impede the progress of her thrifty and intelligent colored population. We say intelligent and thrifty advisedly, for almost under the dome of the Capital stand four Negro colleges which are rated high by the best white colleges, not more than a mile from the Capital was the office of Alonzo Hemdon, the ex-slave, who, by dint of his own thrift and ability, became a millionaire, and so, we had hopes for Georgia. Such stalwart men as the late Gov. Dorsey and the late Gov. Atkinson caused our hopes to mount high and we began to believe that "some good could come even out of Georgia." But her latest Jim Crow law, which if passed, must entail millions of dollars of loss to the state and necessitate untold inconvenience and rotten service to her colored citizens, bespeaks the fact that Georgia, as far as her white people are concerned, is still in the first stages of barbarism. It is but to laugh, to think that GEORGIA, the state that has given the country as many mulattoes as any other part of the world, has now become so conscience stricken that she cannot now allow the two races the contact of separated common carriers. It is said that in the rural districts of backward Georgia a colored man must not be seen on the streets after dark with a nicely dressed colored girl. If he persists he is warned. If he still repeats the indiscretion he is whipped and ordered to leave. There is something mighty rotten in Denmark concerning the whole situation.

Abundance of evidence attests the fact that the Georgia "Cracker" is not afraid of close contact with either his brown brother or his brown sisters, but on the other hand he seeks it. The thing he dreads most is the image of his own misdoings. From his first contact with Negro women, down to the present, he has raped and traduced them, has taken advantage of them through force, bullying and by any other unfair means. He sees the Negro gaining in intelligence in wealth and in power. He believes that every race is as morally depraved as himself. The image of his misdeeds among Negro women looms high and large and finally this image becomes with him, a continued nightmare. He now seeks to avert what he believes is just retribution, by making more and more severe Jim Crow laws. If he would but purge his soul, cleanse his mind and decide to give the Negro full justice he would find it unnecessary to disgrace the state of Georgia by enacting unjust and impractical laws at which his own unborn children and all the world will laugh.

THE CITY COUNSEL AND THE C. N. R.

Officials of the C.N.R. have placed in the hands of the present City Council a definite proposal for the erection of a new station and for eliminating the level crossings in the business section of the city. From what we can understand, the C.N.R. proposition is fair to the city and it is FINAL. The city may either accept it and be assured that the work will be started within a reasonably short time or it may make up its mind to remain silent on the subject of a new station and grade separation for at least 20 years hence.

In the first place, the City Council and every other citizen who is interested in the progress and in the welfare of London, will agree that nothing is more necessary to the growth and prestige of the city than a new station and the eliminating of the level crossings. If the number of hours lost each day by the inconvenience of the level crossings were reckoned up it would be found that hundreds of working hours are lost to the citizens each week. Time lost is money lost and London and her citizens are the losers. London has long since outgrown, in size and in importance, that class of cities whose main arteries of traffic can be held up seven minutes or more several times during its busiest hours, without feeling the loss. And too, the present C.N.R. station has outlived its usefulness. Its accommodations and its appearance are too antiquated for a thriving, hustling, progressive city, such as we pride London to be. It does not add to our prestige, nor does it give adequate and modern accommodation to travelers coming into or leaving the city. Its appearance is that of some relic of pioneer days.

We believe the members of the present City Council will not endear themselves to the electors if they allow this opportunity to pass. If the C.N.R.'s proposition is as reported, fair, to the council it is fair to the electors and we feel sure that citizens will put their stamp of approval upon the transaction at the proper time. There is no reason, or good reason, why the men in whose hands the destiny of our commonwealth rests, should, through lack of decision, lose this golden opportunity to shove the city several notches higher.

One of the beauties to be seen and heard at the Capitol Fair Week in that spectacular all technicolor song and dance Revue "ON WITH THE SHOW," one of the most successful all-talking, all-singing, screen achievements of the year.

STRATFORD NEWS.

Old Resident Passes.

With a large number of friends and relatives in attendance, the funeral of Mrs. Nathan Brown, who passed away at her home in Moneith Ave. early Monday morning, August 5th, was held from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Wesley, 41 Moderwell St.

The deceased had not been ill long, having taken suddenly ill on Sunday, and passing early Monday.

The service which began at two o'clock was conducted by Rev. E. Alph Richardson of Beth-Emanuel Church, London, who was assisted by Mr. Geo. E. Crawford, in charge of the Stratford B.M.E. Church. Rev. Mr. Richardson brought a very forceful message on salvation and safety, based on Psalm 23-4 and stressed many points, among which he said, "Salvation delivers us from all that is sinful and forces from the bondage of fear. This going before is a passage across the Bridge of Sighs, a transition from darkness to light."

Rev. Saul A. Lucas was present and spoke encouragingly to the family who have been intimate friends since his first pastorate there more than twenty-five years ago.

Rev. Claude Stewart of A.M.E. Ch., Hamilton, and Rev. Dr. Howell of Detroit were present also and assisted in the service.

After service the funeral cortege proceeded to Avondale Cemetery, where interment was made.

The pall-bearers were C. Miller, Listowel, A. Douglas, R. Underwood, Geo. Harrison of Stratford, G. Malott and Gordon Baldwin of Brantford.

Chief mourners were—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wesley, and family; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brown, Hamilton, Mrs. T. Green, Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. S. Morton, Windsor, Mrs. Anderson Smith and daughter of Mimicoe, Mrs. E. Jackson of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. J. Williams.

A large number of floral tributes showed the esteem in which the deceased had been held by all who knew her.

The funeral of Mrs. Harriette Matthews was held in August 20th at her late residence, 108 Blake St. The funeral was private, only near relatives and intimate friends being present. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Balson, who a few short years ago conducted the funeral service of the late Mr. Matthews. Interment was made at Avondale Cemetery. In her death Stratford has lost one of her oldest and most highly respected citizens. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Grace Groat of the city and many relatives and friends to mourn her death.

Ramsgate, England, Aug.—A little brown man from India, a native named M. Sultan Khan, recently matched his wits with the peer Anglo-Saxon chess players and emerged victorious and with the chess championship of Great Britain. Khan is the son of Lieut. Col. Sir Umar Hayat Khan.

Khan entered the annual tournament of the British Chess Federation as a rank outsider. He achieved his triumph in the face of a reverse in the first round. He was playing against the premiere of Australian, French, German and English chess players. Khan succeeds as titleholder, F. D. Yates,

Manager Roddick of the Capitol Theatre announces Fair Week's great attraction as "On With the Show," Warner Bros. first 100 per cent. natural color, talking, singing, dancing, Vitaphone picture.

"On With the Show," besides the glamour of back stage life—it is a play within a play—combines a tender heart story, with the fantasy that is in the extravaganza which the stranded company of players are determined to put on, despite the fact that the "ghost" refuses to walk.

Gorgeous costumes and settings are seen in their ows brilliant coloring,
and the tintings make the players all but living. Beside the great cast, "On With the Show" has a chorus of dazzling beauties, numbering over one hundred.

On of the interesting things about this story is the fact that it is the first play of Humphrey Pearson, who went to Hollywood for his health, casually flung his brain child into the Warner Bros. lot—to find himself a fortnight later—with a job as a special writer for them, and with "On With the Show" in production.

Robert Lord did the screen adaptation. The cast includes Betty Compson, Arthur Lake, Sally O'Neil, Joe E. Brown, Louise Fazenda, Ethel Waters, William Bakewell, Fairbanks
Twins, Sam Hardy, Wheeler Oakman, Lee Moran, Otto Hoffman, Harry Gribbon, Purnell B. Pratt, Josephine Houston, Henry Fink, Thomas Jefferson and Tom O'Brien. Alan Crosland directed.

THE AIR IS DIFFERENT.

Lake of Bays is one thousand or more feet above the sea level, and the altitude of this sequestered group of lakes combines with the fragrance of the pines to give the visitor a new vigour in life. You have real enjoyment—golf or paddling all day long without tiring. You eat heartily and sleep like a log.

Select your own type of accommodation, for here you save them all from rustic cottage to the most pretentious of hotels. Canadian National Railways' comfortable trains connect at Huntsville with the steamer for all points on the Lakes.

Ask any Canadian National Agent
for information and literature on this attractive country.

A WORLD APART

When you leave the steamer "Belle of Temagami" you are in a quiet retreat seemingly thousands of miles from the noisy workaday world. Peace and quiet are the chief laws of this forest kingdom, twenty miles from the nearest automobile and a hundred from a street car.

Under the lordly trees of Temagami,
black bass, lake trout and maskinonge lie in wait for the fisherman in the innumerable lakes. The quaint Indian settlements, the magnificent scenery and the many other attractions simply can't be appreciated until you see them.

Ask your Canadian National Agent
for literature and information on Temagami.

consciousness and an humanitarian sympathy with the struggles and ambitions, successes and sufferings of the greater part of the human family. Let us look at a few of these causes. Expanding populations are regarded as a primary cause of the migration of peoples. Countries like India, China and Japan, where the birth-rate is high as compared with European countries, are said to outgrow their boundaries and the necessary supply of food resources; and a migration is the result. This probably is not altogether true; but when such countries have opposite them, vast, half-empty regions like Australia, Manchuria and Canada, the desire to settle these surplus populations in them is in a degree reasonable and just. A second cause is that of labour supply. Here the initiative did not in the first case lie with the race supplying the labourers, but originated from capitalistic sources seeking the cheapest, most docile, most abundant supplies. Third, famine and disease have been twin evils in many lands and in many ages which migrants have sought to exchange for health and plenty in other lands. Fourth, government oppression has driven many peoples from their native territories. Two of the most recent cases are from Portuguese East Africa and from French West and French Equatorial Africa. In the former, the native peoples have lost hope of receiving a fair deal and are moving into contiguous countries in the hope of getting better treatment. In the area of the River Shire, villages on the Portuguese side of the river have become depopulated while the British side is full of Portuguese native fugitives. From the latter, the French territories, during the past three years two million people have moved into Nigeria, six hundred thousand into the Gold Coast, and ten thousand into the Ivory Coast and nearby forest lands. These people were scared away by military recruitment, forced labour on roads and railways and wood-cutting in the forests. Fifth, the fear of war and the spirit of adventure are also active agencies in the rise and progress of racial migrations.

Migrations or dispersions are to-day one of the greatest forces moulding the modern world. A distinguished Greek geographer and traveller of the first century wrote thus of the Jews: "They have penetrated into every state, so that it is difficult to find a single place in the world in which their tribe has not become dominant." These statements still hold good. There are Jewish communities in every continent and in the isles of the sea. Perhaps there is no dispersion so world-wide as the Jewish, except that of the British people overseas. The Jewish world population to-day is over fifteen millions, about eleven millions in Europe and the rest in America. They concentrate chiefly in capital cities and financial centres. New York heads the list with nearly two millions of Jews; Warsaw has two hundred and fifty thousand; Budapest, Vienna, London and Paris have large Jewish colonies. Of immediate interest is the recent trek back to the
