Ouch ! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called Frezoline when applied to a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn dries up and lifts right out without pain.

STORY OF WAR TOLD IN BRIEF

Important Dates in Great World Struggle.

THE FALL OF AUTOCRACY

Close Study of the Past Four Years Shows That Democracy Won the Victory Because the Foes of Civilization Were Never Able to Drive Home a Blow at a Vital Spot.

URING the first two weeks of last July, the Allies were facing the darkest days of the war, and the German war lords were proclaiming triumphantly that they were about to achieve the victory that would bring them the world domination which was the Kaiser's ambition. The British troops with their "backs to the wall," to use the phrase of Field Marshal Haig, were fighting to keep the Teutons from reaching the Channel ports, and farther south, the French army struggled grimly to hold the beast back from Paris. Little did the Allied world dream in those terrible weeks that in less than four months, the forces of democracy would be triumphant. No prophet could have foretold that during the second week of November the armistice would be signed which meant the complete surrender of Germany. With this collapse came the end of militarism, and the great autocrats of Europe were all overthrown. Men who, in July, believed that they were about to dominate the world were fugitives in November, flying from the execrations of their former subjects.

Now that the war has become history, it is interesting to look back at the important dates of the past four years and to trace the gradual growth of the onens that pointed towards the final victory of the Entente Allies. There were two great factors in the success of the defenders of civilization. The first was the invincibility of the British navy. At no time since August, 1914, has it failed to do all that was expected of it. Britannia drove Germany from the high seas, and slowly but surely strangled the Central Powers. The second factor was the military genius of the French. When the great armies of the Allies were finally organized, Generalissimo Foch took them in hand, and by wonderful patience combined with magnificent strategy, he secured the victory on the field that finally smashed the German morale at home, which had been gradually crumbling. Political causes in the Central Powers precipitated the collapse that has left the world gasping, but it was the British navy and the French military prowess that produced these political causes.

Some persons may ask what names history will remember most distinctly in connection with the great war. The name of the Kaiser and his chief tools will be remembered with loathing. But in the history of the war, the names of the great leaders of the Entente Allies will be remembered with admiration. Generalissimo Foch, who ended the war that the Kaiser commenced, and Premier David Lloyd George of Great Britain, the greatest single factor in organizing the resources of the British Empire. Foch has also given Lloyd George the credit of having made possible the choice of the French general to command the united forces of the Allies.

Looking back over the important incidents of the war, it will be noted that the victories of the Germans were all of secondary importance. The war lords were never able to deliver a vital blow that would have given them a peace based on German ambitions. In 1914, they almost achieved a swift and complete victory. If the Allied world had realized in August of that year how close the Central Powers were to crushing the defenders of civilization, they would have known that only a miracle could save them. The miracle happened at the Marne, when Joffre and Foch broke the first onrush of the Hun. The Battle of Verdun was another attempt to knock-out blow; the Battle of Jutland was the big German effort to break British sea power; the submarine warfare which the British navy handled in a manner that justified the highest faith of the Empire, looked like the strongest weapon of a pirate nation; then came the terrible offensives of the early summer of the present year. In all these life and death struggles, the Allies came out victorious. They made it certain that the ultimate destination of the Germans was downfall, and not world domination.

Even though the Central Powers could not score a decisive victory, they were able to win spectacular campaigns enough to buy their people up with hopes of final triumph. Each summer of the war was ended by them with something that looked like a brilliant feat of arms. In the autumn of 1914, they massacred the Russian armies in East Prussia, and ended the only invasion of German soil. In 1915, the great Russian retreat, after a winter of victories against incompetent Austria, took place. In the autumn of that year little Serbia was completely crushed; in the autumn of 1916, Roumania was smashed in a swift and cruel campaign; and then followed the Russian revolution and the melting away of the cumbersome and important armies of the Slav. The Russian revolution, which was intended to create democracy, brought forth Bolshevism, the most important menace that modern civilization must face now that the war is over. The defection of Russia brought another black period in the affairs of the Allies, but this was offset by the coming into the war of the United States, bringing with them the mantle of the moral and high ideals of the world's biggest republic. Last October, the Germans used the troops secured from Russia in an effort to knock Italy out of the war. For a week it looked as though the strategy of Roumania and Serbia would be repeated, but the crisis passed, and Italy more than retorted. In the two great battles of the Piave, fought in June and October of the present year, Germany found the final forerunner in the failure of the Gallipoli campaign and the defeat of the British at Kut-el-Amara. The Allies met with these disasters at the hands of the Turks, but the British, with characteristic persistence, went at it again, and the brilliant victories in Mesopotamia resulted in the collapse of Turkey. It was in the east that the first signs came, about two months ago, that the Central Powers were going down to ignominious and humiliating defeat.

It is possible now to look over the war and to place our fingers on the black periods of depression, but it is also easy to follow the golden line that led to the final victory of the Allies. The ultimate good of civilization made it necessary that the Entente should win. It was a struggle between reaction and progress, and the purpose that one can trace in history should win. It was a struggle to make certain of victory, but "it was not to be."

The effect of the Great War on Canada has already made itself apparent. Our Dominion entered the conflict as soon as the Germans threw down the challenge of the world. Canada may be proud, chiefly because her record in the record of the Canadian people, while the Greeks, almost unwillingly to do their duty, that fact makes the achievement of the Canadian people all the more notable. History will say that in this struggle our young nation found its soul.

A 26TH BATTALION BOY.

Wins The M. M. Word has been received that Sergeant Elmer L. Frew of the "Fighting 26th" has been awarded the Military Medal for bravery displayed when that battalion crossed the Canal at the Battle of Cambrai. Sergeant Frew is a Yankee, his home is in Seattle, Wash. He enlisted at Dalhousie, N. B. in the winter of 1916 with the 32nd Battalion and when that battalion was broken up, he was one of many who was drafted and sent to France to fill up the gaps of the old 26th New Brunswick Battalion. Sergeant Frew has seen much severe fighting. Being a quite popular young man he made many friends while stationed at the Shiretown, and all are pleased to hear of his success.

A GENEROUS GIVER.

When a newspaper gives you a lot of free advertising in order to boom some patriotic concert or church entertainment which you are interested in, keep track of the number of lines that are printed week by week, and multiply that number by the regular advertising rates of the paper. Compare the results with the actual money value of any favor that you can get from any other business concern. Then take into consideration the fact that advertising and circulation are the only two things that a newspaper has to sell, and in these days of higher prices, how much do you think they ought to give away for nothing?

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL FUND.

The Graphic has been informed by a member of the Committee that the General Hospital fund is increasing rapidly, already over $25,000 has been subscribed and they are quite satisfied that the $40,000 mark set for Campbellton will soon be reached.

The total amount required will be $60,000 to $65,000.

Spr. William T. Young.

Death occurred at St. John's Military Hospital, St. John's, Que., of Spr. W. S. Young of Grand Caspe, County Bonaventure, Prov. Quebec. He died on Monday, December 23rd, of pneumonia following influenza at the early age of 23 years.

He was the youngest son of Mrs. James Young. He leaves to mourn his loss his widowed mother, one sister Mrs. I. Harrison of Grand Caspe, Que., and one brother James at home, besides a large number of relatives and friends who came to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed and to look for the last time on the calm and peaceful face, bore ample witness to the esteem in which he was held.

The pall bearers in uniform were Clem Woodman, George Robertson, Forest Barter and Dolph Barter. The funeral was largely attended. Willie was of a most hospitable and charitable disposition. The remains of a cherished son and a brother, a noble and generous giver was laid to rest on Friday afternoon, Dec. 27th, at 3 o'clock in St. Andrew's Cemetery at New Richmond, County of Bonaventure, Prov. Que. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. E. J. Mitee.

His memory he has left behind for the past eleven weeks in which he bore his sufferings with Christian patience. He was seventy years of age and had resided at Sea Side practically all his life. He leaves to mourn his loss, one brother and three sisters, Peter, H. C. G. R., station agent at Dalhousie; Mrs. Margaret Shea, Black Point; Mrs. Bessie Bassett, Napa, Calif.; and Miss Katie A. who resided at home with him.

The funeral which was largely attended was held on Sunday at 2 p.m. by Rev. E. De la Garde. As the deceased was a staunch member, and an old committee of the church, it was beautifully draped for the occasion.

We are asked as to the origin of the saying, "He isn't in it." It was first used by an editor who died and went to heaven and looked around for the man who took his paper five years and then left it in the post office marked "refused."

A financier is a man who collects all the money due him and stands off every bill collector that calls on him.

ALFALFA AND PROSPERITY

If there is one crop more than another on which the prosperity of a country may be firmly established it is alfalfa—the king of fodder crops. This wonderful crop has been the foundation of successful irrigation agriculture in the United States, and history is now repeating itself in Canada. In Southern Alberta already an important alfalfa growing district—government reports show that there were 30,500 acres in this crop this year—farmers are using more and more of their irrigated lands every year for the growing of alfalfa. It is only a question of time when the irrigable lands of Southern Alberta will rank among the largest alfalfa producing areas on the North American continent. The country is still young. Thousands of acres of irrigable land have not been touched by the plow. Thousands more have been broken during the last two seasons and are not yet ready for the crop, as it does not do well until the soil has been thoroughly integrated—a process which is best accomplished by the growing of one or two other crops beforehand. Then, too, during the last two years the most urgent call has been for wheat.

For the growth of alfalfa Southern Alberta is extremely well favored. Alfalfa requires abundant sunshine, and a warm summer temperature. Southern Alberta has both. During the summer months the days are much longer than they are farther south, and the sun shines almost continuously. Alfalfa does best on rich, deep, well-drained soil. These are special characteristics of the soil in Southern Alberta. Alfalfa thrives best under irrigation, in arid and semi-arid climates. The climate of Southern Alberta may be said to be semi-arid, and under irrigation alfalfa grows there to its highest perfection. In the Lethbridge irrigation district, which is the oldest of the irrigated areas of Southern Alberta, alfalfa is beginning to be looked upon as the mainstay of the farmer. Yielding from three to four tons to the acre, and in some cases even more, in two cuttings, and selling at from $25 to $30 a ton, alfalfa has brought farmers returns of $100 an acre and upwards in one season. It is no wonder that a visitor driving through this country recently and seeing the beautiful green alfalfa fields on every hand would pronounce it one of the most prosperous districts in the whole of Western Canada.

But besides these very satisfactory returns from the sale of the hay, alfalfa is of inestimable value on account of the improved condition in which it leaves the soil in which it has been grown. Enormous yields of other crops have been obtained on land previously growing alfalfa. In 1918, which was by no means an extraordinary crop year, 757 bushels of potatoes to the acre were raised at Lethbridge on land which had been in alfalfa the previous year. Wheat on similar land yielded on successive years 58 and 59 bushels to the acre. Coming nearer to the present, two acres of land near Lethbridge that were planted to tomatoes this year after being in alfalfa for a few years produced 35,000 pounds of ripe fruit in less than two months after being set out.

And this is not all that can be done with these irrigated lands. To obtain the fullest revenue would require that no roughage be sent from the farms as such, but only in the form of butter, cheese, beef, mutton and pork. The plant food contained in alfalfa hay is often worth more than the money actually received for the hay itself, high though this is. If only unmanufactured products were sent away this valuable plant food would be left on the farm, giving it every year increasing fertility. It is held that for every acre of irrigable land at least one head of cattle or a proportionate number of hogs or sheep, can be supported all the year round. This fact is beginning to be appreciated, and it means that many times the number of livestock at present kept can be maintained on these irrigable lands. And as the number of live stock increases, the prosperity of the country will grow correspondingly. There are already signs that the time is not far distant when the irrigable areas of Southern Alberta will become the home of the most closely settled and most prosperous farming and stock raising communities in the Canadian West, and, indeed, one of the most prosperous communities on the whole of the continent.

GRAND CASCAPEDIA

A quiet event took place on Saturday evening 28th inst., at 7:30 at the Manse, New Richmond when Mr. Malcolm Lloyd Coull was united in marriage to Miss Dora May McNaughton of Dece Sids, Que. by the Rev. J. E. Rattee. The bride was becomingly dressed in blue tailored suit with hat to match. The bride was assisted by Miss Beatrice Barter, while the groom was supported by Mr. Cameron McNaughton, brother of the bride. After the ceremony was performed the bride party drove to the home of the groom where refreshments were served to a small number of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Coull will leave Monday for a short visit to friends after which they will reside in Grand Cascapedia. We all join in wishing them a long and happy journey through life.

With regret we record the death of Sapper William Thomas Young, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Young of this place at the age of 24 years, at St. John's, Que. of the C. E. T. D. Military Hospital on Monday, 22nd inst., of pneumonia, following influenza. Word was received Saturday evening by his mother, if he wished seeing him to come at once. His mother and sister hastened on, but ere they reached his bed-side death had claimed him as its victim. With heavy hearts and oppressed they gazed the tidings of his death. Yet one consolation awaited them, that he had passed peacefully away trusting in his Saviour. Willie was a boy of sterling qualities and his kind smile and cheerful manner endeared him to all who knew him. His remains were conveyed from St. John's, Que. by his mother and sister, where a short service was held on Friday the 27th, from whence they proceeded to New Richmond, where a service was held by Rev. J. E. Rattee assisted by Rev. Vivet.

The hymn selected was beautiful, also Willie's favorite, "Willie take Jesus to be Your Guide." The pall-bearers were his soldier chums, dressed in uniform: Dolph Barter, Boreat Barter, George Robertson and Clement Woodman. He leaves to mourn his loss a loving mother, one sister, Mrs. Oshert Harris and one brother, James at home, and a large circle of friends. The bereaved family have the heart felt sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord When love has bound the heart.

Tis hard, so hard to speak the words "We must forever part."

Dearest loved one we have laid thee, In the peaceful grave embrace.

But thy memory will be cherished 'Till we see thy heavenly face.

NEW RICHMOND, QUE.

WAS SUNK IN THE DARDANELLES

Bold Effort of British Submarine Had Sad Ending.

London, Dec. 26.—The finest of all tales of the achievements of British submarines in war time is now completed by the official statement of the sinking of the famous submarine E-14 off the Dardanelles early in 1918, with the loss of her commander, Lieut. Commander Geoffrey White, and all except seven of the crew.

The E-14 left Mudros on the evening of January 27 and proceeded on the Dardanelles to search for the Goeben. After diving under submarine E-14 the Goeben, which the enemy had removed a few hours previously, had gone, so Commander White turned back, keeping a sharp lookout for enemy craft.

A torpedo was fired at the ship, which it transpired carried the Goeben's ammunition, causing a heavy explosion which extinguished the submarine's lights and sprang the fore-hatch. Leading badly the submarine rose to within fifteen feet of the surface. Land forts immediately opened a heavy fire, but did not hit her. She submerged to a hundred feet and continued on her course, but became untended and kept diving, so she was brought to the surface, as she could no longer be relied upon under water, and only three bottles of air were left. A heavy fire immediately opened from both sides of the straits and a shell hit the hull just over the wardroom, destroying the upper steering gear.

An E-14 survivor says: "Orders were given to steer from below and we ran the gauntlet for half an hour and then a sand bank close on shore and then seeing it was hopeless to escape, we ran toward the shore. His last words were: 'We are in God's hands.' Only a few seconds later I looked for him, and saw his body, mangled by shell, lying on the beach. He was under. The last shell hit the starboard saddle tank, killing all I believe."

AWARDED MILITARY MEDAL

Word has been received that Sgt. J. A. McPherson of Fort Daniel Centre, Quebec, has been awarded the Military Medal for gallant service in the trenches.

son, Sr., who died on the morning of the 28th inst., after a long and painful illness. In Nov. 1917, Mr. Watson was stricken with paralysis, and never recovered from the attack. His illness was borne with Christian fortitude for no word of complaint ever passed his lips. He gave abundant testimony by both life and word of his Christian faith. Fearlessly he passed beyond. He said, "I know I am justified before God," and so he passed into the presence of the King, whom he loved and served on earth. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. E. J. Rattee, B. A. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Watson was a faithful member. The building was crowded, but the silent attention was very marked during the service. Mr. Rattee spoke very impressively from the words Job, 5:26. "He spoke of death as it is; a necessity, and also how it separates and detaches one from all that is loved; and is always an unwelcome guest."

In his second point, he referred to the true life in common with God, i.e., having the new life of Jesus Christ in the soul. The third point considered death with Christ; then it is not death to die for Christ transforms the face of death, leading him through the portals, contrasting the death of the unsaved and the Christian. To the latter to depart and be with Christ is far better for at death the believer passes into the presence of the King.

Very solemnly Mr. Rattee pressed the vital question, which death is before us as we are to-day? He showed the danger of procrastination, as no one is sure of another opportunity. He urged the choice of the death of the Christian by acceptance of Christ, who will make death attractive to the believer.

Mr. Rattee bore loving testimony to the strong undimmed faith of Mr. Watson, and told how with faltering lips the dying man sang in the singing of the hymn "O think of the Home Here There."

Mr. Watson had a very happy personality, and was very highly respected by all who knew him. He was seventy-eight years of age, and was a native of New Richmond. His son was twice married. His first wife was Miss Selma Dorringer and the following children survive: Mrs. Thos. Fairweather of Black Cape; Mrs. Jas. Henderson, New Richmond; James of Seattle, Washington, U. S.; John of New Richmond; Mrs. Ashby of Boston; Alfred of New Richmond; U. S.; Cameron, New Richmond; Richard of Seattle, Wash., U. S. His second wife who survives him was Mrs. Smith of New Richmond.

Mrs. Watson nursed her suffering husband with unfailing care and devotion. Many hearts go out to her in loving sympathy in her hour of loneliness.

Two sisters also mourn his decease. Mrs. Edmund Gilker, Jr., of Grand Cascapedia, and Mrs. George Tozer of New Richmond.

The family appreciate greatly the kindness and sympathy of their friends and neighbors in their bereavement.

RESPONSIBLE FOR THE WAR

German Commissioner Names Culprits in Order.

Washington, Dec. 24.—Responsibility for the war and its prolongation is ascribed by Mr. Kautsky, commissary of the people at the German Foreign Office, to the following in order: First—The German Emperor and the Crown Prince; Second—General Ludendorff and Admiral von Tirpitz; Third—The great industrial concerns; Fourth—The pan-Germans.

This view of Mr. Kautsky, who is examining documents in the archives of the Foreign Minister, was given to a correspondent of the Petit Parisien in an interview, quotations from which reached Washington to-day in official despatches.

The official documents so far as examined, Kautsky said, prove the truth of statements made by Dr. Munster, director of the Krupp factories, and by Prince Lichnowsky, German Ambassador to England at the outbreak of the war, both of whom have laid the war at Germany's doors.

The first part of the documents relating to the cause of the war will be made public within a month. Kautsky said, and at the same time the Austrian Government will publish some of the documents found in the archives of the Ballplatz.

A colored transcript on his way to the train with a number of other prospective soldiers, was greeted by a friend: "Fello, Mess: Where you goin'?"

"Ah, ain't goin' no place. They's lak'n' me," answered Kautsky.

Wife—My dear, I left my thimble in the pocket of my new dress, and with you'd gone up stairs and— Husband—Now, see here, I'm not going off on any such job as that. How foolish you are! Nothing is easier than finding the thimble in a dress. You'll just need to do it to slip it on."

The dress, of course. But you needn't try to justify it, you know."

Well, then what?

The situation seems, of course, all you have to do after the dress is on is to give down and— Husband—A little handkerchief and up and away! Just as you see ladies do in a shop, and your hand will go straight into the pocket."

LURED U-BOATS TO DESTRUCTION

Great Work Done in War By Decoy Ships—Some Stories Given Out.

London, Nov. 30.—One of the most exciting chapters of the war against German U-boats is a series of accounts of notable engagements between British decoy ships and the submarines, made public by the British Admiralty. While the whole story of the part played by these decoy vessels, "mystery ships" or "Q" craft has not been revealed, it is evident that several of them were used to lure the Hun underwater craft to their destruction.

Some incidents in this campaign already have been made known, dealing chiefly with a few of the exploits of Commander Gordon Campbell as master of the decoy vessels, but others in which he and other captains participated now are available. That at least a small fleet was used in this work is evident from the fact that Campbell at different times appears as the master of the Farnborough, the Pargust, the Dunraven and the Q-5.

The prize, another decoy ship, was commanded by Lieut. William E. Sanders and the Stock Force by Lieut. Harold Austen.

Stories of the encounters between decoy ships and the U-boats are filled with deeds of heroism and instances in which the discipline of the British navy was displayed under the trying circumstances. For many months the decoy ships heavily armed but with their guns hidden behind false bulwarks, steamed zigzag paths in the seas which were the hunting grounds of the submarines.

In their character of lazy colliers or slow cargo craft they presented to the submarine commander an inviting object of attack, but once he was well within range of the British guns, the false superstructure hid the guns fell away and the helpless collier became suddenly transformed into a fighting craft, bent on destruction. It was dangerous work requiring a high order of courage, for the submarine was lurking near before the guns could safely begin their work. Meantime the Hun frequently had sent his torpedo home and the decoy ship was left in flames, the crew wounded, in that condition the battle was fought and often the submarine destroyed.

"Panic parties" was one of the ruses practiced by the decoy ship's commander to coax the submarine alongside. When the mystery ship was torpedoed these panic parties took to the boats, apparently abandoning their vessel but always leaving on board another crew to man the guns and finish the submarine if it came near enough.

The first encounter mentioned by the Admiralty took place in March, 1916, when the Farnborough, disguised as a collier, lured a submarine. The "panic party" took to the boats and when the submarine closed in about 800 yards the Farnborough opened fire. The U-boat submerged and the Farnborough passed over her, dropping depth bombs. The submarine reappeared steaming almost on "eye" level. The crew fired into her at nearly point blank range and she went to the bottom of the sea.

Prior to that action the Farnborough had cruised throughout the entire winter without being attacked. Within a month the Farnborough coaxed another submarine near enough to sink her by gunfire. Commander Campbell later was transferred to the command of the Q-5 and in the following February, 1917, his vessel was torpedoed by a submarine which eventually approached so near that a shot from the Farnborough headed the U-boat captain as he climbed out of the conning tower. The U-boat was sunk with her conning tower, open and her crew pouring out. Destroyers towed the Q-5 in and beached her. For this exploit the Victoria Cross was awarded to Campbell.

The decoy ship Pargust with Campbell in command was torpedoed in June, 1917, while disguised as a British merchant vessel. The submarine came within fifty yards of the Pargust, which then opened fire on her with all guns. The submarine crew poured out of the conning tower and held up their hands in token of surrender, but the U-boat steamed away trying to escape in the mist. The Pargust again opened fire on her and sank her with one man clinging to her bow as she went down. The decoy vessel was towed back to port by American destroyers. Two Victoria Crosses were awarded for this successful action.

A Brave Tale.

The loss of the British decoy ship Dunraven in a desperate battle with a German submarine, the story of which has now been made public by the British Admiralty, constitutes one of the most daring and heroic episodes of the anti-submarine war. With their vessel ablaze, and boxes of cordite and shells exploding every few minutes, the crew by gun to their guns until the magazine exploded and blew them and their gun into the air. Meanwhile the battle "with the submarine" was going on.

In her role of an armed British merchant ship the Dunraven was signaling her courses in the "lanes" of the Atlantic, and was seen by a U-boat about five miles off at 5:00 yards. The Dunraven returned the fire with her machine gun and sank the U-boat with her main gun. The U-boat was seen to sink, and the Dunraven was seen to be in the air.

"Panic parties" was one of the ruses practiced by the decoy ship's commander to coax the submarine alongside. When the mystery ship was torpedoed these panic parties took to the boats, apparently abandoning their vessel but always leaving on board another crew to man the guns and finish the submarine if it came near enough.

Although he knew that the magazine must explode if he waited, and that a gun and gun crew lay concealed over the magazine, Captain Campbell reserved his fire until the submarine had passed clear of the smoke. A moment later there was a heavy explosion and the Dunraven's gun and its crew were blown into the air. The concussion started the fire going at the remaining gun positions. The screens hiding the guns were dropped and the oxy gun that could be brought to bear opened fire. The submarine commenced to submerge. Knowing that the submarine was about to be sighted, Captain Campbell had all the wounded brought up and concealed in cabins. The after part of the Dunraven was a mass of flame but the crew fought the fire with hose while wireless signals were sent out warning all other vessels to keep below the horizon so as not to interrupt the final phase of the fight.

In the good old days of Baron Haig, the submarine was a room. Another "panic party" was sent away in the boats, leaving the ship apparently completely abandoned by the British flag flying and her guns unattended, but Captain Campbell and his crew were on board and had remained on board and lay hidden for nearly an hour while the submarine commander held off watching the burning ship through his periscope.

During all that time boxes of cordite and shells were exploding every few minutes and the fire was blazing furiously. Eventually the submarine emerged astern where no guns could be brought to bear upon her, and she sailed the Dunraven for twenty minutes. The U-boat then steamed past the ship 150 yards off and Campbell fired one of his torpedoes at her but missed by a few inches. A second torpedo also missed. The submarine saw it and submerged. A third "panic party" was planning to jump overboard and leave one gun crew for a final attempt to sink the U-boat when British and American destroyers arrived on the scene. The Dunraven's wounded was transferred, her gun crew recalled and the fire extinguished. The Dunraven, sinking, was taken in tow, but the weather grew worse and on the following morning she sank with her colors flying.

Went to His Head.

"He is building castles of clouds, and some time his creditors will come and gently ooze him into the boundless spaces of desuetude, where the whangdoodle wears a nightcap and the daddaw swings by its tail from the crosswalk, tree like a pendulum with whippersnappers on it."

It is with these words that "State Press" of the Dallas News describes the fate of the country publisher who comes to it, to conduct a newspaper at a loss. How awful such a fate is may be imagined by the reader—and the words of State Press are not exaggerated.

Press Advertising Sold Victory Bonds.

BEFORE the war, bond buyers were "marked men." In number they were 40,000 in March, 1917—this is shown by the number of purchasers of the Government War Loan of that date. But in the autumn of the same year, their number increased twenty times—to 820,000! This was the number purchasing the Victory Loan, 1917. Last month—November, 1918—over 1,000,000 persons purchased the Victory Loan, 1918!

These wonderful results were accomplished by Press Advertising.

Before the war one-half of one per cent. of our people bought bonds. Now quite twelve and one-half per cent. of our people are bond buyers!

Before the stupendous amount of $466,000,000 worth of bonds could be sold to our Canadian people in three weeks a most thorough and exhaustive campaign of education was necessary, and this campaign was carried through by advertising in the public press. The power of the printed word never had a more convincing demonstration.

By means of the printed word, through the medium of advertisements in the press of our country, the Canadian people were made to know what bonds are, the nature of their security, their attractiveness as an investment, and why the Government had to sell bonds.

Every point and feature of Victory Bonds was illustrated and described before and during the campaign in advertisements. No argument was overlooked. No selling point was neglected. The result is that Canadians today are a nation of bondholders.

They know what a convenient, sure and profitable form of investment bonds are. Instead of one man in two hundred owning bonds, now one Canadian in eight—men, women and children—owns a Government Security.

This complete transformation in the national mind and habit was brought about by advertising in the press of the nation. Press advertising has justified itself as the surest and speediest method by which a man's reason can be influenced and directed.

The Minister of Finance acknowledges this. His own words are:

"The wonderful success of the Loan was due in large measure to the (the press of Canada) splendid and untiring efforts during the whole of the campaign."

Mr. E. R. Wood, Chairman of the Dominion Executive Committee having oversight of the campaign to raise Victory Loan, 1918, said "The press publicity campaign will rank as one of the most remarkable and efficient publicity campaigns ever undertaken in any country," and Mr. J. H. Gundy, Vice-Chairman of the same committee said: "I have been selling bonds for a long time, but never found it so easy to sell them as at this time. The reason is the splendid work the press has done. I take off my hat to the press of Canada."

The success of Victory Loan, 1918, and the knowledge which Canadians now possess of bonds are a straight challenge to the man who doubts the power of the printed word, in the form of advertisements, to sell goods—and this applies not to bonds alone, but to the goods you are interested in selling.

WAR SERVICE GRATUITIES.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—The Militia Department tonight issued the following statement:

There appears to be some misunderstanding concerning the provisions of the recent order-in-council, authorizing a war service gratuity for the naval and land forces of Canada. This order-in-council is in the printer's hands and will be ready for general distribution within a few days.

Under the new regulations the war service gratuity is payable according to length of service. There are two scales, one, the higher, for those who have served overseas which includes Great Britain, and the other, the lower, for those whose service has been in part overseas and in part in Canada. The maximum of those whose service has been entirely in Canada is three months. All soldiers discharged on or after November 11th, 1918, will be entitled to the benefits of this order-in-council according to their class, provided they are not disqualified by misconduct, etc. The regulations are retroactive beyond November 11th with respect to soldiers who have not served at the front in an actual theatre of war.

With regard to the retroactive feature, the provisions are as follows: Any soldier who has been on active service for three years or over, and has been in service at the front in an actual theatre of war, is entitled to six months' gratuity, and over one year and under two years, four months' gratuity, and over two years and under three years, five months' gratuity. To the soldier who was discharged prior to November 11th, and who was not at the front in an actual theatre of war, the provisions of the new order-in-council are not applicable. Any soldier who has not been out of Canada or the United States, but who was on the strength on November 11th, and has been on active service for three years or over, will receive three months' gratuity; if on active service over two years and under three years, two months' gratuity; if over one year and under two years, one month's gratuity; if under one year, no gratuity.

There is also a misunderstanding about the amount to be paid. Any soldier with dependents who received separation allowance, will receive not less than $100 per month war service gratuity. Any soldier without dependents will receive not less than $70 per month war service gratuity.

For instance, a married man whose wife was receiving separation allowance will be entitled to receive $600 in all if he has been on active service for three years or over, any part of which service was at the front in an actual theatre of war.

A proportion of the gratuity, equal to separation allowance, namely $30 per month in the case of a private, would be paid direct to the wife. A soldier without such dependents would be entitled to receive in all $420, if he had been on active service for three years or over, any part of which service was at the front in an actual theatre of war. The gratuity would be payable in the above cases in six monthly installments, the first payment to be made on date of discharge. The war service gratuity takes the place of post discharge pay, and any post discharge pay which has been received by the soldier will be deducted from the amount of the war service gratuity to which he is entitled.

In the cases of men already discharged, any adjustment due to them under the new Order-in-Council will not be made until the first of February, 1919. Application for an adjustment must be made to the Paymaster of the District by which the soldier was discharged. The necessary forms to be filled out in support of each claim for adjustment may be obtained from the Military Headquarters of each district from the District and Unit Paymasters and from officers commanding militia units after the 4th of January next.

HARD TREATMENT OF WOUNDED VETERAN.

With two and a half years' service and over a dozen wounds, for which he is still under treatment, a first contingent soldier returning from New York to Toronto was forced by the Canadian customs authorities to pay $11 duty on the $18 suit he had just purchased.

Disgusted by this treatment meted out to a veteran by a government employee, and finding that the soldier was unable to pay, his fellow passengers passed around the hat, collecting $22. On receipt of this sum the veteran broke down and wept. He had given up his post as a railway engineer at $130 an enlistment in the C. E. F.

Calgary, Dec. 26.—W. J. Dyson, who went to Winnipeg to conduct a party of men who returned on the hospital ship Regina, reports that the men complained that the cooks, instead of serving the food provided by the government, made it into pie, and sold it to them at two shillings each and sold them apples and oranges provided by the Red Cross at two pence and three pence each. They said the C.N.R. neglected to supply blankets or other bed clothing, which had to be supplied by the military authorities. The cars were not provided with double windows but were open and the men were cold all the way west.

Mr. Dyson refused to allow the train to leave Winnipeg until two of the worst of these coaches were replaced by better cars, which was done.

A NOTABLE EXAMPLE.

Preparations the Canadian Pacific Railway is making to take back all permanent employees who enlisted for service overseas provides another evidence of that splendid patriotism which has characterized every phase of C. P. R. war effort. The significance of the announcement that all returned men are to be taken back into the employ is appreciated only through realization that the Canadian Pacific Railway's contribution to the nation's fighting strength numbered thousands from all branches of the services. While many will never return, and while others cannot again take up their old work, it is believed that by far the greater number of those who went from the desk, the trains, the shops, the yards, the warehouses of the company, will return to their old positions. "New places must be found for many wounded, shell shocked and otherwise disabled men who want to work but cannot take up their old tasks."

NOT ON THE PROGRAMME.

Every Canadian soldier is aware of the facilities offered by the Y.M.C.A. Social Service, Leave Department, and the Beaver Hut. These are definite departments with more or less well defined duties, various though they may be. The soldier in London may have his every minute, night and day, filled by the Association which has accompanied the Canadian Army overseas for no other purpose.

But with every duty organized as completely as possible in order to be on hand for every anticipated need, there are contingencies constantly arising which only the flexibility of the Y. M. C. A. can handle.

A hasty glance over the contingencies and aid on requirements of Canadian life in London during a couple of recent weeks is interesting.

A charity concert organized at the Alhambra Theatre by the officers and men of a Canadian military office in London was on the way to the cold ingratitudes of no refreshments for the artists, because the organizers could not find a caterer. The Y. M. C. A. stepped in and saved the day.

An officer in a London office requested the formation of a dancing class for his staff. The Y.M.C.A. arranged with a down-town Academy for an hour and a half a week for 64 members of the staff, at one shilling a head.

For a member of the Chaplain Service the Y.M.C.A. obtained a hall for the entertainment of blinded soldiers, supplied the orchestra, and found twenty-five young ladies to assist in the entertainment. A dance was organized for a branch of the Canadian service, while the officers of the service paid all expenses. The emergency fund of the Y.M.C.A. paid $120.00 in October.

GREAT BRITAIN'S NEW PARLIAMENT.

Hugh Majorities for Coalition Government.

London, Dec. 29.—Complete returns for the election of the new parliament give the following results: Coalition Unionists 324 Coalition Liberals 127 Coalition Laborites 10 Unionists 46 Asquithian Liberals 37 National Party 65 Independents 2 Socialists 78 Sinn Féiners 78 Irish Nationalists 7

All Coalitionists with the Unionists and National party may be regarded roughly as supporting Lloyd George.

The only opposition will be formed by the Asquithian Liberals, Laborites and Independents, barely more than 100 members in a house of 707.

Not only has no coalition minister been defeated, but most of them were re-elected by extraordinary majorities.

No man should object to thick coats, the objection will again wear away.

"OLD GLORY" AND THE ROYAL STANDARD FLOAT OVER BUCKINGHAM PALACE

"Boxing Day" in London Sees the Re-Union of the Two Great English Speaking Powers.

London, Dec. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—President and Mrs. Wilson are in Buckingham Palace this afternoon after a journey from Calais to London during which they were accorded the honors given royal guests. Never has a royal progress, except those of great national ceremonial, excited such interest here as the first state visit of an American president.

The drive of the short procession from the station to the palace was through the streets lined with guards in khaki. Fresh flags hung overhead and covered the buildings while windows, balconies, sidewalks and open spaces were filled with people, many of whom wore the American colors.

It was a brief spectacle. First came the sovereign's escort of Troops from the Household Cavalry, with helmets and steel cuirasses. Then came the carriages with King George and Queen Mary, Mrs. Wilson and Princess Mary. These were followed by others.

Although the trip was a short one it lay through a most interesting section of London. From Charing Cross the route ran along the north side of Trafalgar Square, with the Nelson monument towering on the left and national gallery on the right, its gray walls almost covered by huge American flags. It continued along Pall Mall, turning northward at St. James Palace and up St. James Street to Piccadilly—the chief landmarks along this stage being the solid, weather worn buildings of the old London clubs now decked with bunting, they keep for special occasions. The procession drove westward along the north side of Piccadilly, along a tract of clubs and big hotels and palatial residences.

Notably the Home of the Duke of Devonshire, with the Red Cross flag over its entrance at the entrance of Hyde Park where the procession turned.

Between Piccadilly and Buckingham Palace there stretches Green Park. The party drove past Wellington arch and along the southern side of the park, flanked on the right by the wall of the Palace grounds and then into the broad plaza before the palace through the iron gates into the palace forecourt.

Probably the most interesting part of the spectacle for the president was the people who crowded everywhere to greet him. The day being a holiday working men and women had a chance to turn out, with their small children. They made the most of the opportunity and to no stratum of British humanity could the president make a stronger appeal.

While the prominent features of the event were well staged and managed the human factor furnished the most interest. The interior of the frimly old station

When King George welcomed Mr. Wilson was carpeted with red and the walls and roofs were hidden behind masses of flags. Cup windows were mostly monopolized by men, while the hotels along the way were filled with gay parties only less interesting than those on the streets. That such masses of American flags could be produced at such short notice was a revelation of London's resources and none appreciated them more than the American soldiers and blue-jackets among the spectators.

Before the President's arrival it seemed as though London was to have its coldest day of the winter. There was ice on the streets and a white frost on the grass. Virtually, however, there was neither rain nor the fog which usually prevails in December. Before eleven o'clock the streets in west end were filled with holiday throngs while hundreds of workmen put the finishing touches to the decorations, some of which had been blown down during the night. Across St. James Street was a huge blue banner with these words: "The citizens of Westminster welcome President Wilson," in gold letters.

PRESIDENT WILSON HONORED BY A ROYAL SALUTE.

Dover, England, Dec. 26.—The weather was bright and crisp this morning and Dover was a festive appearance with its decorations and its animated throngs ready to welcome President and Mrs. Wilson. Their arrival was signalled by the firing of a royal salute. Large crowds lined the admiralty pier and its approaches long before the President came ashore.

The Duke of Connaught, with his suite accompanied by American Ambassador Davis, the Earl of Reading, British Ambassador to the United States the mayor and corporation officials were on the pier to meet the visitors. The mayor presented an address of welcome to the president.

President Wilson then reviewed the guard of honor from the naval garrison of Dover.

BIG LOT OF MONEY IN OUR SAVING BANKS.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—How savings deposits were invested in Victory loans is indicated in bank returns for November. At the beginning of the month savings deposits in Canadian banks were at the record total of $1,076,513,627. Payments for Victory bonds brought this down during November to $939,329,271.

ALL DOUBT REMOVED.

An entertaining company in the Sudan had decided to lay a railway into the wilds, and, of course, many blacks were employed in its construction.

One day the telegraph clerk at the nearest civilized spot received a telegram from the negro foreman of the railway constructors: "White boss dead. Shall I bury him?"

"Yes," wired back the clerk. "But first make sure that he is quite dead. Will send another white boss to-morrow."

A few hours later another telegram arrived from the foreman:

"Buried boss. I am sure he was quite dead. Hit him on the head with a large shovel."

WHAT ABOUT GIRLS.

One very good way to keep the boys on the farm is to keep the girls there also. We tire of reading about, "How to keep the boys on the farm." Treat the boys right and they will not leave the farm. Some boys will be benefited by leaving the farm; others will be better to stay. It depends on the boy and the advantages he has.

Laxness by the Tailors.

Mrs. Day, a young matron, was seated one spring morning on the piazza of her pretty suburban cottage, busily engaged in playing her needle. A coat of her husband's was on her lap. Looking up from her work when her husband appeared in the doorway, the young woman exclaimed, somewhat fretfully: "Really, Eugen, it is too bad, the careless way your tailor put this button on. This is the sixth time I have had to sew it on for you."

Self-Abused.

"Did the postman leave any letters, Mary?"

"Nothing but a post-card, ma'am."

"Who is it from, Mary?"

"And do you think I'd read it, ma'am?" asked the girl, with an injured air.

"Perhaps not. But anyone who sends me a message on a postcard is either stupid or impertinent."

"You'll excuse me, ma'am," returned the girl, loftily; "but that's a nice way to be talking about your own mother."

Rejected the Hen's Job.

Little Tommy had been naughty. His mother did not know what to do with him. She wanted to confine him somewhere, but he showed signs of breaking everything in any room she put him into, and he threatened revenge if she suggested. He was borne into the garden and locked up in the chicken house. He was silent in this something beyond his capacity to talk about; but as his mother was going away his head appeared at one of the little openings.

"Mamma,"

His mother stopped.

"Mamma, you can lock me in here if you like, but I won't lay any eggs."

On the Wrong Track.

Little Henry wore his father's clothes, which his mother cut down for him as best she could. As the little boy was getting into a vest that had been cut down from an overcoat he began to rumble.

"What's the matter now?" asked father.

"Why, said Willie, 'this here pocket ain't got no bottom to it.' 'Pocket, nothing,' ejaculated his father. 'That's a buttonhole.'

JUDGMENT IN THE SUPREME COURT

Shives Lumber Co. Wins Important Point Against Price Bros.

Ottawa, Dec. 31st, 1918.

Judgment was rendered in the Supreme Court of Canada last week, in the case taken by Price Brothers against Shives Lumber Co.

Price Brothers sued Shives Lumber Co., claiming that Shives Lumber Co. had cut a certain quantity of timber on their limits.

To this Shives Lumber Co. answered that they had not cut any timber on Price Bros. and moreover, that the line between the two companies had not yet been finally established according to the law of the Province of Quebec.

Price Bros. were represented by Mr. Auguste Tessier, M. P. of Rimouski, and the firm of Belcourt, Belcourt et al., of Ottawa, and the Shives Lumber Co. were represented by the Honorable John Hall Kelly, K. C. of New Carlisle.

The Superior Court at Rimouski rendered judgment against Price Bros. Price Bros. then appealed to the Court of Appeal, Quebec, and there succeeded in having judgment of the Superior Court reversed and obtained judgment in their favor. The judgment of the Court of King's Bench, Quebec, declared that the line had been finally established between the parties, and as the lumber had been cut by Shives Lumber Co., beyond the line that they had to pay for it.

The Shives Lumber Co. then appealed to Ottawa, and the Supreme Court at Ottawa reversed the judgment of the Court of Appeal, Quebec, and declared that the proof was not sufficient to determine whether the line had been finally established between the two parties or not, and sent the record back to the Superior Court at Rimouski for new proof as regards whether the line was final or not.

The judgment of the Supreme Court was, therefore, one, the judges dividing three to two. Justices Idington, Anglin and Brodeur being for Shives Lumber Co., and Justices Mignault and Davies for Price Bros.

NEW YEARS.

New Year's day was very stormy and people stayed quietly at home. This morning the weather moderated with rain and a warm wind which makes it feel like spring.

We extend our heartfelt wishes.

KILLED A DEER.

A woodsman who killed a deer on Beland Brook, was before His Honor Tuesday. He pleaded guilt and was fined $20.00 and costs. The charge was laid by game warden James B. Gray, who is doing excellent work.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE.

The Restigouche Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association held a most successful dance on New Year's Eve in the Masonic Hall.

The hall was very appropriately decorated for the occasion with bunting and the flags of the Allies, while the lights shaded with different colors gave a very attractive appearance to the rooms.

The chaperones were Mrs. Allan Troy and Mrs. A. A. Andrew.

At twelve God Save the King was sung and then three cheers were heartily given for the King after which dancing was resumed.

The programme consisted of nineteen dances and several extras. The excellent music by the orchestra in attendance added much to the enjoyment of the affair, which was attended by a large number.

ONLY BUSINESS THAT OF WAR

Parisians in Every Walk of Life Have But One Thought, to Defeat the Hated Enemy.

In Paris one realized at last the meaning of the "business of war." It had entered into every phase of life. As our men commute to business, so the Parisians commute to the trenches, each trip of uncertain length; and in place of competition, financial or otherwise, they go to a business of life and death, where William Beebe in the Atlantic Monthly.

Few men could show the same vigor and enthusiasm as do these Parisians. For years they had faced high adventure that most men know, if at all, only in an annual vacation. To myself and to others whose life work carries them into dangers from the elements and from savage men, war held no absolute novelty. (The writer is a famous aviator.) But think of the gunner, formerly a traveling salesman for women's hosiery, of the stretcher bearer who was a floorwalker in a department store! Did the forist whom I met ever conceive that he would be removed from sausage-balcon duty because of inconceivable air sickness?

Think of the children in Paris old enough to talk and walk, who have never known a world free from universal war, and it will be easier to realize the daily, monthly, yearly labor and worry which have worn for themselves runs deep into the life routine and emotions of this Latin people. As the medical student loses all sensitiveness concerning the handling of human fingers and feet and hands, so the participants in the war, without being really callous or insensitive, come to take danger, wounds, disability, as incidents, not finalities.
