ONE HUNDRED MINERS KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN GERMAN PIT

Poisonous Gas in the Passages Kept Back the Rescue Parties.

Bochum, Germany, Aug. 8.—An explosion of black damp and coal dust this morning in the Lorraine shaft of the coal field in the village of Gerthe, four miles from Bochum, cost the lives of 102 miners, according to the official report. Two others were severely and 23 slightly injured. Death was practically instantaneous in all cases. The cause of the explosion has not yet been definitely ascertained, but it is thought that a blast reached a big pocket of gas.

The Emperor, who is now at Essen, has donated 15,000 marks to aid the families of the victims.

PRESIDENT OF HAITI KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Palace Destroyed by Dynamite—Believed Due to Political Conspiracy.

Washington, Aug. 8.—President Laconte, of Haiti, was killed at 3 o'clock this morning as a result of the explosion of a mine which destroyed the presidential palace. United States Minister Furness cabled the fact of the death of President Laconte to the state department this afternoon, and urged that a warship be sent to Port au Prince immediately.

In response to his request the gunboat Nashville, which has been held at Guantanamo, Cuba, in view of the disturbances on the Haytian Dominican border, was at once ordered to the Haytian capital.

Minister Furness gave no details, and did not state whether the explosion was believed to be the result of a plot against the life of President Laconte or an accident.

The Haytian Congress was to have met today to choose a new president.

In view of what amounts to a state of war existing between the Dominican Republic and Hayti in the vicinity of their northern border it is expected that the death of President Laconte may have serious consequences, and precipitate a general disturbance throughout Hayti. Only prompt action it is believed, will avert the attempt to seize the presidency on the part of one or more aspirants. Today's dispatches regarding the situation on the border between the two countries indicate that the United States may be compelled to land an armed force in that vicinity in order to protect the Dominican customs house. Dominican revolutionists have successfully attacked the border town of Dajabon twice in the last two days, and driven Government troops out of it.

MIRACLE AT ST. ANNE'S

Crippled Boy Leaves Crutches in Church and Walks Away.

Quebec, Aug. 8.—A miracle is reported at the famous shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre yesterday afternoon by some three thousand pilgrims from Hull, who make a yearly visit to St. Anne's.

A young lad of 8, Paul Savard, of Cummings Bridge, near Hull, who came on the pilgrimage in a crippled state, able to walk only with the aid of crutches, recovered the use of his limbs and left the crutches at the shrine.

The cure is said to be one of the most complete and self-evident miracles ever witnessed there.

TORONTO COUNCIL NAMES MEREDITH FOR COUNSEL

Favors London Lawyer's Selection at a Salary of Fifteen Thousand Per Year.

Toronto, Aug. 9.—At a late hour last night a vote taken in the city council made practically certain the appointment of Mr. T. G. Meredith, city solicitor of London, Ont., as corporation counsel of the city of Toronto. A wire worded as follows, was immediately dispatched by Acting-Mayor Church to Mr. Meredith, at Froot's Creek, Maine:

"City council tonight appointed you corporation counsel at a salary of $15,000 a year. Will you accept? When can you begin?"

Late in the afternoon a telegram had been received from Mr. Meredith, in reply to the first wire sent on Wednesday, in which he stated: "Could not consider position at salary less than $15,000. On the strength of this the council, with only Controller Foster and Alderman Sanderson dissenting, voted to appoint Mr. Meredith to the position vacated by Mr. Drayton. A bylaw will be prepared, following his final acceptance, authorizing the appointment."

Controller Hocken said that he had tried to secure leading Toronto men for the position, but they would not consider less than $25,000 salary. Acting-Mayor Church spoke of Mr. Meredith as a strong public ownership man, and one who was constantly consulted by Hon. Adam Beck on hydro-electric matters. Mr. Meredith was the ablest man in sight, said Controller McCarthy.

Controller Foster, as the minority on the appointment, gave his opinion that $15,000 was overstepping the bounds. He thought that among the several hundred members of the legal profession in Toronto surely a suitable man could be found at less money.

At Ald. Hilton's suggestion the by-law will be drawn to read that Mr. Meredith devote his whole time to the city's service, not part of it to the hydro-electric power system as formerly.

AQUAPLANE SOMERSAULTS HURLS CREW INTO BAY

Power Craft at Hamilton Does a Sensational Acrobatic Stunt.

Hamilton, Aug. 9.—A most unusual accident, and one not scheduled, was provided at the motor boat races at Burlington Beach yesterday afternoon.

It was in the race for the speedy aquaplane, when the Heloise, owned by W. H. Gooderham, of Toronto, furnished the excitement. This boat, recognized as one of the speediest in Canadian waters, was hitting up a tremendous clip when, in trying to pass the buoy at Station 10, she got too close and struck it.

The impact caused the boat to turn a complete somersault, which threw Mr. Gooderham and his mechanic, J. Foster, out into the water of the bay. The boat, strange to say, righted itself and raced away round the course. The rider had been turned, so that the runaway was describing circles of about 100 yards in diameter. The bay was crowded with craft of all kinds, and that there was not a collision seemed almost a miracle, as the Heloise was going at a speed of at least 35 miles an hour.

The Lowe Victor II, owned by J. Croft, of Cleland, put to the rescue of the two capsized men, and managed with some difficulty to get them aboard. The race of the triumphant boat was then begun, and for half an hour it was chased by the speediest boats in the harbor. Finally the Lowe Victor II, managed to get alongside, and a considerable personal risk, Johnson, her mechanic, jumped aboard and brought the mad flight of the Heloise to a stop.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN A MOTOR BOAT

Engineer of Craft in Mid Lake Was Suffering from Appendicitis.

Hamilton, Aug. 8.—While the steamer Modjeska was returning to Hamilton from Toronto this afternoon, the captain noticed distress signals being shown from a power boat in the lake off Oakville. The boat showed up and was found to be the engine of the boat, John C. Noble, 180 Broadview avenue, Toronto, had been seized with appendicitis and was lying unconscious in the bottom of the boat. He was taken on board and the craft was taken in tow by the steamer.

The Modjeska then put on full steam ahead. But the backwash from the steamer's propellers almost swamped the small craft, and it was found necessary to cut it adrift. As found necessary to cut it adrift, the steamer Modjeska docked the power boat, which was lying unconscious, and conveyed the sick man to the City Hospital, where he now lies in a critical condition. Dr. McMichael called to attend him, and advised an immediate operation, but Noble requested that it be put off until tomorrow, when his friends will be present.

After being cut adrift, the power boat, which was the Marjory, belonging to an American participating in the power boat regatta here, was brought safely to the beach pier.

ROBBED OF $1,900

Money Was Found on Man Arrested at St. Thomas.

[Special to The Advertiser.] St. Thomas, Aug. 8.—A man giving the name of A. W. Schram was arrested by Detective Henan, on a Michigan Central Railroad express train at Niagara Falls for stealing $1,900 from a fellow passenger, C. S. Durham, of Sterling, Mich., while sitting with him between Windsor and St. Thomas. The accused man will be brought back to St. Thomas this evening, and will have a hearing before the magistrate. The stolen money was found on Schram when he was arrested.

ARRESTED A STEAMER.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—The steamer City of Toronto was arrested here on Tuesday evening for a $39 wage bill, which Alfred Plourde, fireman, claimed its owner owed him. Adequate security being put up, the boat was allowed to sail on her trip to Toronto and Hamilton yesterday morning.

WALDO PLEASED WITH ROCKEFELLER'S WORK

Says Millionaire's Fight on Vice Will Help Clear Situation in New York

[Canadian Press.] New York, Aug. 8.—Police Commissioner Waldo seemed pleased with the news that John D. Rockefeller, Jun., had been endeavoring to secure evidence of police grafting. The commissioner said:

"I hope Mr. Rockefeller has been successful in securing evidence which will enable the department to dismiss any official that may be guilty of wrongdoing."

Ald. Henry H. Curran, chairman of the special committee of the board of aldermen appointed to investigate police conditions, said today that the committee held back before it not only gamblers, but the owners of places where gambling went on.

"We intend to reach landlords who rent out their buildings for illegal purposes," he said. "This may hit some whose names are writ high in what we call social circles. But if they know to what purposes their premises are being used they should be made to testify, and if they do not they should be glad to get information upon the subject."

No date has been set for the first meeting of the committee.

NOVEL MEASURES IN NEW ZEALAND

Land To Be Had by Settling on Deferred Payment System.

London, Aug. 9.—The high commissioner for New Zealand in London states that a bill is to be introduced this session providing for the acquisition of land for settlement purposes by settling such land on the deferred payment system. The ballot system will be amended in order to check speculation.

There will also be a bill for the compulsory purchase of land where it is necessary to build railways. The second ballot is to be repealed and another method substituted. A new system of loans enabling small bodies to receive loans at a low rate of interest for bridge and road construction is to be introduced.

Among the other proposals is one which provides for an elective second chamber.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Epidemic Has Developed at Buffalo and Los Angeles.

Washington, Aug. 9.—An epidemic of infantile paralysis has developed at Buffalo, N. Y., and Los Angeles, Cal., according to reports received by the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, there being 58 cases in Buffalo and 123 cases in Los Angeles. Investigations are being conducted by Dr. Frost, of the Public Health Service.

No alarm is felt by the authorities as to the spread of the disease outside the two cities, and every effort is being made to stamp it out.

52 Men's Suits To Be Cleared Saturday at $7.25

Worth Regular From $12 to $20

We have decided on this Saturday (tomorrow) to make this final clearing of the season in Men's Suits, and have gone through the stock carefully, sorting out the odds and ends of all broken ranges, and have gathered just 52 Suits—not one Suit in the lot priced less than $12.00, and ranging up to $20.00. Of course we expect, naturally, that the few $20.00 Suits in this lot will be picked up quickly by first-comers Saturday morning, as it is rarely, if ever, such Suits were offered at such a low price as $7.25. SEE WINDOW DISPLAY.

This is the final clearing sale, which happens only once each summer. The out-clearing of all odds and ends from the season's selling to clean up stocks and make room for new fall lines, which are now almost ready for shipment. 52 Suits is not a great many to sell, but these 52 Suits mean a great deal, and that number is a great many to sell at such a great sacrifice—and we promise further that every man who comes in time to secure one will get one of the best bargains ever offered in this department. All are English tweeds and worsteds, for men and young men, sizes 33 to 44. Regular $12.00 to $20.00. All one price. Saturday morning, your choice. $7.25

Note—None will be sold before Saturday, in order that those who come first Saturday morning will have first choice of the entire stock.

Men's Odd Trousers, Saturday $3 Pair

Fine striped worsted and tweed, neat patterns for dress trousers, in good quality English goods that will wear well and keep their appearance. Special. $3.00

See Display of New Hand-Embroidered Linens. Main Floor.

DIAMOND WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wills Celebrated at Their Home in Mitchell.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Mitchell, Aug. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wills celebrated their diamond wedding today at the home of their daughter, Mrs. A. J. Blowers, and a most enjoyable time was spent by a number of guests. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wills are natives of the Isle of Wight. They were married at Newport, in the Isle of Wight, in 1852, and came to Canada on a sailing vessel, in 1854. They sailed on March 28 and reached Quebec on June 1. They first settled in Bowmanville, and went from there to Toronto, and thence to London, finally coming to Mitchell, where they have resided ever since. There are eight surviving children, and ten great-grandchildren.

Every Lingerie Dress goes on the sale tables or rack Saturday for a final clearance. Besides one table to be sold at $1.98 for your choice, we have about 55 Dresses which will also go on sale Saturday, mostly at about half price. Amongst these are many beautiful styles for party dresses for winter wear, as well as for present use, and every Dress in stock is included in this sale. Those beautifully trimmed Dresses which have been displayed on the forms and in the windows at $25.00 and $35.00, you may procure now for just half price. . . . . $12.50 and $17.50

Dainty styles in mull, linen and voile, trimmed with Val., cluny and guipure laces and insertions. The balance of this season's dresses, all to go on sale tomorrow. We will not attempt to give description of the different styles, but the list below, giving prices and quantities will tell the story briefly.

24 only Lingerie Dresses—Regular prices up to $9.00; sale price. $4.75
17 only Lingerie Dresses—Regular prices up to $11.50; sale price. $7.50
11 only Lingerie Dresses—Regular prices up to $25.00; sale price. $12.50
3 only Lingerie Dresses—Regular prices up to $35.00; sale price. $17.50

As you will see by the list, the 55 Dresses have been grouped into four prices, which gives a choice in each, and naturally the customers who come first will choose the higher-priced or more handsome styles in each group, which suggests the wisdom of coming early.

INFANTS' DRESSES AND SLIPS—We have still a good assortment of small Children's and Infants' Dresses, soiled and counter tossed, selling at greatly reduced prices, about half in most cases, some less. The balance will be sorted and sizes up for quick clearing Saturday. Second Floor.

AS TO PEACHES.

The Toronto Star says that it is like taking California peaches to Niagara to bring a London lawyer to Toronto. The Star says this half-jocularly and means no offence, but has it reflected on the extent of this peach business? Let it examine the list of high court lawyers, present and past, and the roll of its leading lawyers, and it may be surprised to find how many of them are California peaches—from the city of London. Toronto is not so old that it can afford to boast of the superiority of its home-grown products. The townships, villages, towns and cities—for there are other cities in Ontario—have contributed by far the greater number of the choicest specimens on every Toronto tree, including the professional tree, which the Star seems to think is the pride of the garden.

Might we ask the Star to examine the origins of the men who produce so admirable a newspaper product as the Star itself? Aren't most of them California peaches? Certainly none of them are lemons. California peaches are just the things that Toronto and every large city needs to keep up the flavor of the home-bred variety. When Toronto wanted a head for its university it found a California peach in the Maritime Provinces. Its financial geniuses have been transplanted from Peterboro or London or Hamilton. Its commercial houses have drawn on outside Ontario into the scores for capable managers and executives. Its railways have brought the best men they employ from outside places. It does not seem to have a home-bred excess of wonderful hockey and lacrosse players, either, as an athlete who's Who would reveal.

In the summing up, Toronto should be consoled with the knowledge that if it needs more lawyers, doctors, financiers, journalists, commercial managers or railway experts, the smaller places breed the right sort, and have plenty ready to pick the $15,000 plums or peaches. In a merely material way Toronto is showing other Ontario communities its heels, but when it comes to brains it is still far from self-sufficient.

THE NEXT BRITISH REFORM.

Now that the Insurance Act is actually in force, British Liberalism turns to another task. All other issues are about to dwindle beside the enormous questions of land taxation and agricultural law. Only seven years ago Premier Balfour's standing reply to petitions and deputations from the wretched in city and country was that nothing could be done. The Liberal Government has been showing that much could be done; wages in sweated industries have been forced up, unemployment has been relieved, old age and sickness robbed of half their terrors. Now the accumulated abuses of ages in the status of farm laborers, in the relations of tenant to landowner, and in methods of taxation, are to be attacked with victorious energy.

Everywhere the idea is gaining ground that the incidence of taxation should be shifted from improvements to the land. The workman's cottage or tradesman's shop should not be heavily taxed, while unoccupied land goes almost cost free, as is the case in English towns. In the English countryside, the only way to find the land required for small holdings is to put such a tax on the owner of uninhabited acres that he will be driven to sell. Campaigning for his seat in Hanley, Mr. Outthwaite, the Liberal candidate elected, proposed a tax of 3d. in the pound on land values, which seems modest enough to any colonial view, to any view but that of the British land lord, long fattened in privilege. Such a tax, however, would be a sensible relief to the smaller rate-paying and shop-keeping classes. It would be not only an act of social justice, but a condition of social progress in the poorer urban centres. It is simply monstrous that idle land should be practically tax-free.

Launching upon a campaign for taxation of land values, a minimum wage for agricultural laborers, and a fair rent bill in the interest of farm tenants, the Liberal party will probably be split, as it was over Home Rule. There are ominous signs of secession. But the Radical wing will be the stronger, and however leaders may fall away, the rank and file of voters will stand by a progressive policy. The Liberal party must move on if it is not to die; growth is its guarantee of life. A defeat at the next election is neither here nor there. The cause is the thing, and in Great Britain are many men like Lloyd George, who care little for office except as forwarding the cause.

THE MANCHESTER BY-ELECTION.

The Unionists have just won North-west Manchester by a majority of 1,202. The seat had been vacated by Sir George Kemp, Liberal, who was out of sympathy with home rule. His majority in the last election was 445. Prior to 1906 the constituency had been steadily Unionist. It was won in that year by Winston Churchill, but when he offered for re-election on his promotion to the cabinet in 1908, he was defeated by 429.

The reversion of the seat to the Unionists is not so significant as their methods of winning it. Manchester is the free trade citadel, and the successful candidate, Sir John Randles, warily kept the tariff issue in the background, laying the emphasis on home rule, Welsh disestablishment and the insurance act. The London Daily News, Liberal, and the London Daily Mail, Unionist, agree that the main factor in his success was his attack upon the insurance bill, the principle of which the Unionist party accepted in the House of Commons. The measure seems to be temporarily unpopular; there are nearly 14,000,000 insured persons paying a weekly tax, who will not be eligible for benefits for nearly six months. It is predicted there will be a change of sentiment when the benefits begin to flow.

The Unionist vote was not much larger than in 1908 or 1910, the drop in the Liberal vote being attributed partly to the estrangement between the Liberal and Labor forces. This is a far more serious menace to the Government than the Unionist party, which has no constructive policy. If the breach can be healed, the coalition should have nothing to fear from a party which runs away from its own policy to win a by-election. The Manchester victory looks like a pyrrhic one.

MR. CHURCHILL AND CANADA.

It is difficult to believe the story that Winston Churchill will visit Canada with a squadron of battleships, and will stump the country in an endeavor to whip up public sentiment for the Borden naval policy, whatever it may be.

Mr. Churchill has a genius for the spectacular, and in later years he has been credited with growing discretion and common sense, to match his undisputed abilities.

The proper naval policy for Canada was framed by the Laurier Government. The present Government has suspended the operation of that policy from partisan motives, and is seeking for a substitute. If it has pressed the First Lord of the Admiralty to come to Canada to help it out of its troubles, it has been guilty of a grave impropriety. No one imagines that Mr. Churchill would consciously act as a catspaw for any party in Canada, but the Borden Government would attempt to make capital out of his utterances here, and he would be placed in a position which every British statesman should seek to avoid.

Mr. Churchill can tell us no more about the naval situation by coming to Canada than he has told us in his brilliant speeches in the British House of Commons, which have been fully reported in the Canadian press. He has told us that "there is no cause for panic or alarm." A different construction would be put upon a visit to Canada.

The president of the republic of Hayti has been blown up. But this attracts little attention in an island in a constant state of political eruption.

President Taft has vetoed the wool bill on the ground that 49 per cent. protection is not enough for the wool industry. What a poor little lamb it must be!

The Canadian Labor Gazette reports that the cost of living is still rising, and is higher than ever before. More's the pity when there's so much farming to be done.

An English paper pictures Mr. Churchill sailing up the St. Lawrence on a battleship, and says it would be a historic occasion. It would be certainly historic.

The London Times has a new editor. This would have been a more important news item before the Times became the two-penny edition of the London Daily Mail.

Col. Hughes points to the number of persons in jail as one proof that the world is only half-civilized. The Colonel's plan for elevating civilization in Canada is to get ready to fight Germany.

Mrs. Guppy, who has discharged her eight servants to avoid payment of the British insurance tax, is being paraded as a heroine by the opponents of the act. The tax amounted in all to 48 cents a week. The lady seems to be a 48-cent heroine.

LONGEVITY ON THE STAGE.

[Grand Rapids Press.]
Some unkind person has been making a list of actors and actresses who are still favorites and very attractive to audiences, but who are growing old. Among those mentioned as 50 years old, or nearing 50, are Maxine Elliott, Viola Allen, Olga Netherlough, Annie Russell, Virginia Harned, Lillian Russell, Mrs. Fiske, Marie Tempest, Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Henrietta Crosman. These ladies all look young, but the playbills of the past betray their real age.

Some of the most prominent men are nearing 60, as, for instance, Forbes Robertson, Robert Mantell, Francis Wilson, Nat Goodwin, Robert Hilliard, and De Wolf Hopper. Certain well-known people have passed 60 and are verging toward 70—for example, Sarah Bernhardt, Ellen Terry and W. H.

Crane. Yet they are all bright and youthful, and promise to reach 80 or 90. Life on the stage seems to conduce to longevity.

And she wondered, seeing those who were sad,
Why their cheeks were wan and their lips were white.

Because she loved him she did not sigh,
For rights that her eager sisters sought;

She was willing to let the days drift by,
He always first in her dearest thought.

Because she loved him she could not see
The cunning snares that he slyly set.

And, at last, deserted and dying, she,
Being merely a woman, loved him yet.

Home-Made Door Mat of Rope and Wood.

There is a sort of door mat that is much in use in some sections of the country which is said to be an excellent substitute for the expensive rubber or metal affairs. It is made simple of alternate strips of wood and rope and can be fashioned at home.

A frame is made of three-eighths-inch lumber, one inch thick. The frame can be any size desired. Alternate strips of rope and wood are then filled in. The best way to complete the mat is to leave one side of the frame open until the strips of rope and wood are in place. Make the wooden strips of one-inch lumber as thick as the frame.

First nail the length of rope to the frame and then a strip of wood. Then another length of rope and another strip of wood and so on until the frame is filled. Then put on the other side of the frame and the mat is finished and ready for business.

NOBEL PRIZE;
DID IT GO TO WRONG MAN?

[By Special Arrangement With
the Winnipeg Telegram.]

When Alfred Nobel, the Swedish millionaire and explosive inventor, died, he left a will which he had designed in a spirit of idealism. He was disappointed because his invention had not made war impossible; on the contrary, it had led the nations of Europe to pile up explosives of the most deadly character, and to go on talking about and preparing for war as the main business in world politics.

The only thing left for Nobel to do was to try to make his fortune express his desires for humanity. He provided in his will, therefore, for the distribution of $4,000,000 a year, every year, for ever, to an inventor in five different fields of effort. The most original worker on behalf of peace was to receive $400,000; the most able inventor in the field of chemistry, of physics, of medicine, were to be similarly rewarded, and finally, the same tidy sum was to be given each year "to the person who shall have produced in the field of literature the most distinguished work of an idealistic tendency."

With regard to peace promoters and scientists, trustees in Stockholm, who pick out the annual winners, have had little difficulty, and have met with little or no criticism because of their selections, but it seems that there has been considerable dissatisfaction with the adjudication along literary lines.

Arp the Nobel prize trustees carrying out the wishes of the dead millionaire in this department? This is the question which Gerald Stanley Lee is inclined to answer in the negative. He points out in a satirical article in the English Review that, in the year when the Stockholm committee sent a check to Rudyard Kipling for eight thousand pounds ($40,000), an English writer, Mr. Allen Upward, wrote a book called "The New World," which was "so idealistic and distinguished, and so full of new ideas and of new combinations of old ideas, that there was scarcely a publisher in England who did not instinctively recognize it, who did not see that it would not pay at once, and that therefore it was too important a book for him to publish, and after a long delay the book was finally printed in Geneva."

Although a copy of this book was sent to the Stockholm committee, the prize was not awarded to Upward. Hence Mr. Gerald Lee indulges in this caustic language: "One would have thought that here was precisely the situation for which Alfred Nobel, who had been the struggling inventor of an invention that would not pay at once, himself, would have been looking. A book so inventive, so far ahead, that publishers praised it and would not invest in it, one would have imagined to be the one book of all others for which Alfred Nobel stood ready and waiting to put down his eight thousand pounds. But Mr. Nobel's eight thousand pounds did not go to the comparatively obscure, uncaptivated inventor, who had written a book to build a world with, or at least, a great preliminary design or sketch, towards a world. The Nobel prize trustees, instead of giving the eight thousand pounds to Allen Upward, looked carefully about through all the nations until their eyes fell on a certain Mr. Rudyard Kipling. And when they saw Mr. Rudyard Kipling, piled high with fame, and a pound a word, they came over quietly to where he was, and put softly down on him eight thousand pounds more."

Mr. Lee admits that if the Nobel prize trustees had given the award to Upward "a howl would have gone up round the world that would not have quieted down yet, and it is this howl that Mr. Nobel intended the prize for, that he thought a man would need about eight thousand pounds to meet."

He wanted to spend eight thousand pounds a year on providing for the world one more book which would give the ordinary man the personal feeling of being with a genius, of cold, lonely, cosmic genius, the sense of a chill wind of space outside blowing through."

And here is Mr. Lee's summing up of the whole matter: "The Nobel prize acts twenty years too late; it falls into line with our usual ornamental D. D., L.L.D., habit, and has become, so far as literature is concerned, a mere colossal, kindly, doddering old age pension from a few gentlemen in Stockholm. It adds itself as one more futile effort of men of wealth, or world officers, to be creative and lively with money—very much on the premises with money, after they are dead."

JOAN HOE.

A Boston doctor says common soap is a carrier of disease. This helps to explain the small boy's attitude.

Not one of those fat men who raced at Fort Stanley for fun could be induced to run the mower over the grass for money.

We have no figure in Canadian life that compares to the Bull Moose, excepting that screeching catamount, the Hon. Sam. Hughes.

Depends on what sort of Americans have been hanging in Mexico as to the fuss that will be stirred.

One admirable thing about these baseball pitchers, who write for the newspapers—they all advise small boys not to drink.

An Old-Time Tourist.
[Harriston Review.]
A travel-stained and weary specimen of that almost extinct species, the peregrinating printer, called on us on Friday. He said he was looking for work and claimed he had walked all the way from Calgary in search of it. How he escaped being kidnapped by some of the farmers en route and put to work in the harvest fields he failed to elucidate. He inquired the way to Mount Forest. The haven of rest.

A Wedding Record.

"Since the Simcoe can plant started four years ago, no less than twenty-six girls connected with this establishment have been or are about to be married.

As far as we are aware, this constitutes a record in weddings for the town of Simcoe. It also helps to explain what is becoming of all the girls.

In conversation with the genial superintendent of the can plant, Mr. Frank Cardiff, he wishes us to let it be known that the supply of eligible bachelors is by no means exhausted.

SUN BATH IS POPULAR
AMONG THE GERMANS

Century-Old Remedy for Run-Down Fashionable Folk Revived.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—In no town in Europe are people so generally inclined to burn their candles at both ends as in Berlin, where nearly every businessman, after working with almost American intensity for ten or more hours in his office, spends a considerable part of the night enjoying the gay night life on Friedrichstrasse, and it, therefore, is not to be wondered at that at this time of the year, when the city is so like a furnace, the Berliners give considerable thought to the problem of how to recuperate their health after the exertions of the past year.

Perhaps more than the members of any other nation, they consider the hygienic side of their holiday, with the result that in every German summer resort of importance there are opportunities afforded for all sort of experiences. Among these is the Sonnenbad, the sun bath, which is apparently growing in popularity, and seems to have an increasing body of medical opinion in its favor. All that is required is the sun, and the sun's rays hitherto have been free and untaxed. It is the simplest and perhaps the most harmless form of light therapeutics.

Protected From the Wind.
The bathers must be protected from the wind, and, in a position open to the south, they recline on rugs, dry sand, or heather. The head must be protected against the sun's rays, and the position of the body changed every ten minutes or so, in order to avoid too strongly sunning any part of the body. A bath ought not in any case to last longer than an hour. The results are profuse perspiration, redness of the skin, and a weak on sensitive persons dizziness, excitement and fainting.

Sun baths are especially resorted to in Germany in the cases of certain forms of skin diseases, compulsion, and a number of kindred ailments. Indeed, the fanatics of the sun bath go so far as to declare that there is no disease which the sun, the all-healer, will not cure, or at least favorably modify.

Sun bathing, of course, has been known for centuries. The Romans had their Solariums in their villas, where the inhabitants used to sit in the strong rays of the sun and be cured of rheumatism and gout. But it was not until the Swiss, Arnold Rikli, took up the cause that the modern world really turned serious attention to it.

Rikli was a sun fanatic, and there can be no doubt that he exaggerated the efficacy of helio-therapeutics. Besides he connected it with a number of other doubtful practices, such as vegetarianism and barefoot walking on wet grass. It is probable that the famous Lahmann Institution near Dresden has struck the happy mean between the fanatics on the one side and the old conservative school on the other. In Lahmann's sanatorium the effects of sun and air are scientifically combined, and modern gymnastics take the place of the recumbent listlessness of the ordinary sun bath.

Straw Bonnet for Curly-Locks

This little bonnet is most charming on a child's face, particularly when the face is shaded with curly locks.

Most little girls look well in pink—it is the color of dawn—the color of youth.

The bonnet illustrated is made of cream lace braid over very pale pink silk and the ribbon trimming and streamers match the pink silk facing. A delicate wreath of pink rosebuds, mingled with fine blue forget-me-nots, adds a finishing touch of daintiness.

Problems of the Fair Sex Solved by Cynthia Grey

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received.]

Brown Bread Recipe.

Dear Miss Grey: This is the first time I have written you. Please give a good recipe for making brown bread and bran cakes. Hoping to see it in The Advertiser soon. NELLIE.

A.—To set the bread, use one pint warm water; stir in one-half a yeast cake dissolved in a little warm water, and make a thin batter of white flour; one cup of mashed potatoes may also be added if desired. Set aside to rise, which will take about five hours. When quite light add another pint of warm water, one tablespoon salt, and flour (one-half graham and one-half white), to make a thick batter. Cover, and let rise over night. In the morning knead in enough graham flour to make the batter quite stiff; allow this sponge to rise, and then mold into loaves, using sufficient white flour to handle easily. Put into well-greased tins and stand to rise until double the size. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour. This quantity will make four or five small loaves.

2. Two cups sour milk; level teaspoon soda, half-teaspoon salt, two cups white flour, one cup bran; beat together well and drop into well-greased pans. Bake in a quick oven for 20 minutes.

Did Not Speak.

Dear Miss Grey: Could you please answer the following for me:

1. What do you think of a young man whom you met on the street, and spoke to, and he did not answer you?

2. A young lady was on her way home one night when she was introduced to a young man, who asked her to go for a walk. She declined, thinking that it was too late. The young man left her standing on the street. Do you think that she should speak to him?

Hoping to see these answers printed soon. F. S. G. B. E. B.

A.—Either that he did not know you, or was rather impolite.

2. It would be quite proper, but under the circumstances, I should think she would not care to do so.

The Others Don't Count.

Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly answer the following questions:

1. What is the birthday calendar for July 13?

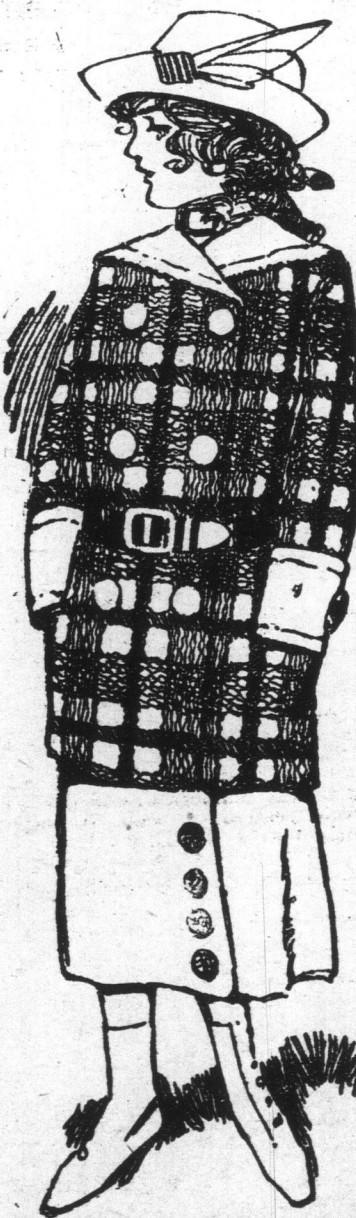

2. While at a party last winter I met a boy whom I knew before, but never cared for him much. I have often walked to school with him, and I like him so much that all other boys seem nothing to me. I have heard that he thinks a great deal of me, but he is rather shy. How can I win his affections, as I would like to have a boy friend to escort me out evenings?

What is it right to send him a card? Thanking you for your trouble, and hoping to receive an immediate reply. ANXIOUS.

1. "Keep your money safe, and avoid friends who always want to borrow. If you do lend money, consider it given, thus avoiding disappointment. Those born today will be quick, and intelligent, but unless they learn to govern their tempers they will fall short of the place which they should occupy."

2. If he really likes you he will find a way, I am sure, to express it, and overcome the shyness. Better restrain your affections and leave him to make the advances.

A Hint of Autumn

The plaids for autumn promise to be more distinctive than for many years. This little suit is made of two materials, the plain being a pale fawn color and exactly matching the lighter part of the plaid.

Both skirt and coat are reversible, and the buttons used are flat molds, covered with the material. The colors in the plaid are chocolate brown and amethyst.

Billie Burke Says:

Look Only For the Best

[BY BILLIE BURKE.]

FIRST WORD: Train your eyes to see only the best.

I wonder if you realize that our eyes are being trained all the while to pick out certain things which form the every day pictures of life about you. Two people will go along the same road and see totally different things. One will pick out the best and the other the worst.

One of the greatest illustrations of this eye training is the way in which we first dislike a fashion and then after seeing it on our friends come to like it and at last reluctantly put it aside for something new. You can remember how you laughed the first time you tried on one of the hats that came down over your head. You would probably laugh just as heartily today if you should find one of your old head covers and perch it up on your crown. Your eyes have become accustomed to the hat which covers the head and they like it.

It is said that people with scarred and marked faces become so accustomed to them that they have no idea of how the sight of them affect others, and it is very probable that we become so accustomed to our small imperfections of physique that we forget about them.

Once in a while when I am shopping I take a little time and study the faces of the women about me, for you know it is much easier to see a fault in others than in yourself, and after you have found it in the other woman you can look over your own face to see if you have it or not.

One of the things which girls and women neglect more than almost anything else is their eyebrows, and yet, NOTHING WILL MAR A FACE MORE THAN UGLY EYEBROWS.

Eyebrows to be fine, should curve slightly over the eyes and have plenty of space between them over the nose. The hair should be of uniform length and dark in color. EVERY WOMAN IN THE LAND CAN HAVE NICE EYEBROWS IF SHE WANTS THEM, but only about one woman in ten does have them, consequently, she must look at them with unseeing eyes many times a day. The ugliest eyebrows are those which meet over the nose, as they make one look very hard. This can easily be obtained by pulling out hairs with tweezers and dabbing the place with ammonia and peroxide of hydrogen. If this smartens use a little cold cream afterwards. While you are about it, pull out all the scraggly hairs and shape your eyebrows to a pretty crescent, beginning wide near the nose and trailing off to a point near the temples.

In the larger cities there are men who do nothing else but shape the eyebrows of society women and actresses. They do it with a razor and carefully shave off one half at a time until the desired shape is reached. A friend of mine who found this rather expensive, does it for herself, using one of her brother's safety razor blades. She cuts the hairs off one by one, using no soap and water for that would make them stiff. She tells me she only has to do this about once a month, and her eyebrows are very much admired.

I do not blame any girl who has very light scraggly eyebrows for darkening them. The best thing to use for this is mascara, a water color. Put it on very carefully, using the little brush that comes in the box with the color. This is perfectly harmless and if used with discretion cannot be detected, but you must train your eyes to detect the first bit of paint on your skin. Just lightly darken each hair.

JUST THE LAST WORD: It is the little details which make great beauty.

Billie Burke

Leaves From Mother's Cook Book

Stuffed Beefsteak.

Prepare a pound and a half of rump steak as for boiling and spread over it a filling made as follows: One quart of stale bread crumbs, one small onion cut fine, one teaspoonful of sage, one teaspoonful of melted butter, one teaspoonful of salt and a half teaspoonful of pepper. Roll the steak, tie with a cord and place in the pan with one pint of water. Bake one-half hour, basting frequently.

Beef Loaf.

This requires two pounds of chopped beef, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of sage, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, three-quarters cupful of bread or cracker crumbs, one cupful of milk, one egg, well beaten. Put one tablespoonful of butter in a bread pan and when melted put in the meat made into a loaf shape. Bake one and one-half hours. Serve cold for tea or lunch.

Cucumber Salad.

Cucumbers sliced thin, cover with

The Birthday Calendar

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY Good fortune will be yours and some of your dearest hopes will be fulfilled. You will meet new friends, which you will value highly.

Those born today will have the faults common to this month, which are selfishness and insincerity, but their higher intelligence will cause them to overcome these.

water, in which has been placed one teaspoonful salt and one-half soda. Stand one hour, drain, rinse, slice one onion thin, mix with cucumbers. Dressing: One cup thick, sour cream, one-fourth cup vinegar, dash of pepper; pour over salad; sprinkle with minced parsley. Serve on lettuce heart.

Tomatoes and Cheese.

Peel sliced cut in thick slices some firm tomatoes; put one slice on a plate and cover with a very thin piece of American cheese, spread with mayonnaise; put on a second slice of tomato, and add a heaping spoonful of mayonnaise; press half a stone olive or pimento into this and serve on white lettuce with water crackers.

Tomato Salad.

Open the sardines, cut off the tails and lay on a piece of brown paper to drain. Chill these as well as the tomatoes. Arrange slices of the tomatoes and fish on leaves of crisp lettuce with a few sprigs of mint. Cover with French dressing and serve.

Stuffed Tomatoes.

Select large, ripe, fair tomatoes, scoop out the inside at the top, leaving the bottom whole, and fill them with dressing prepared as you would for turkey. Stir in to this dressing the part of the tomato you have just scooped out, fill it neatly back into the tomato shells and bake in a moderately hot oven, care being taken that the tomato does not cook enough to wrinkle the skin, as that spoils its beauty. Mix grated cucumber with whipped cream to be served as a sauce.

Raw Food Needful

Some raw, fresh food should be eaten at least once a day. During the summer there should be no difficulty in arranging the menu to include fresh fruit, salad, greens, and the succulent vegetables which can be served as salad.

Taking the latter alphabetically, we have the cabbage, celery, cucumber, lettuce, onion, radish, and tomato; all can be most appetizingly prepared: they can be served plain, hot, crisp and cold, or with a variety of dressings.

There are natural digestive ferments called "enzymes" in these raw, fresh foods which aid digestion and nutrition.

Over-Zealous Friends

By Beatrice Fairfax.

[Copyright: 1912.]

"I have not so many friends that I shall grow confused among the number and forget my best ones."—Nicholas Nickleby.

This is the season when every girl who has the inheritance Nature planned for her is interested in a flower garden. Or it may be a window box. Or it may be nothing more pretentious than a window box. Or it may be a round, little bed in a corner of a tiny yard, or it may be as much ground as she likes.

But whatever the size of her garden, I am sure that Nature, the most devoted of all teachers, has taught her that she must not attempt to grow too many plants in a limited space.

If she makes that blunder she has no flowers, for the light for space becomes a fight for life, and every plant dies. If any survive, it is those of rank growth, and for which she cares the least.

The same wise little girl with her flower bed is often not so wise in the cultivation of friends.

She confuses number with popularity, and believes that she can be popular only by crowding her little flower garden. The result will be that she has no friends at all.

FEW FRIENDS A HELP.

A girl cannot have a large number of friends and be a good friend to all of them. The very difference in their temperaments forbids it.

A few friends are a help. Many friends become a hindrance. In trying to be kind to so many she is not kind to herself.

With this friend pulling this way, and another friend pulling that way, she gets the feeling that she is being pulled to pieces. What she may prefer, she can never be considered if her aim has been popularity. And I take it if she can never be considered by the bosom friend of every girl she meets.

What she does to please one friend is the thing that displeases another. In trying to be a friend to all she has found it necessary to so conduct herself that the charge is not wholly without foundation.

When she falls in love, some of this many of friends approve and some disapprove. The former urge the match; the latter come to her with tales and gossip and discourage it.

Every few days I get distressing letters from girls who are in love.

"My parents approve," writes one girl, and her letter has been going with an epistle, "but some of my friends tell me he has been seen going with another girl."

They may be concerned for her welfare. They may not be. And how is the girl to know?

THE MISCHIEF DONE.

"One of my girl friends," writes a distressed little girl, "tells me my sweetheart is fickle. She says he once made love to her just as ardently as he is making it to me. What shall I do, for I love him more than my life?"

What can she do? The mischief has been done in giving to every girl she knows the right to come to her with warnings and gossip and advice.

If she attempts to let her many friends select her lover, she will never have one.

If she refuses to marry until she has found a man who receives the universal approval of Mary and Susie and Jane, she will be a spinster all her days.

Not an unhappy lot, if one is a helpful contented spinster. But one can't be that with the haunting regret of having refused a good man because Lizzie didn't like his habits, or Mary didn't like his hair, or Louise called him a trifter.

She will find, after she has grown older and become a hopeless spinster, that she is lonesome. For Lizzie and Mary and Louise, and all the other girls who restrained her from marrying, have married the men of their choice and gone off and left her.

And it has happened many times, my dear little friend-hampered girl, that these girls married the very men of whom they disapproved to you.

"I have not so many friends that I shall grow confused among the number, and forget my best ones," said Nicholas Nickleby.

I beg of you to learn to say the same.

A cupful of bicarbonate of soda added to a full bath increases its hygienic usefulness because in addition to softening the water it cools the skin, allaying those heat eruptions that are apt to occur in summer. ## AIDS FOR THE AMATEUR LAUNDRESS

Some of the prettiest lingerie waists are so simple this season that laundering them at home is by no means difficult, and if one only has the time to spare for it there will surely be a saving of money, for one needs quite a number of waists during warm weather and laundry bills soon run up.

To wash, lay the blouse in warm water made sudsy with a good white soap and a little borax. If much soiled leave overnight. Next morning squeeze out and wash in warm suds, lifting up and down in the water, but not rubbing. Squeezing will be enough. Never rub soap on fine fabrics, because doing so thickens the threads and makes the material look coarse.

When clean rinse in warm water and then in cold. If the blouse looks yellow use a few drops (very few) of liquid bluing.

Starch is necessary to success, but only in the smallest quantity. Mix a tablespoonful of raw starch in a little cold water and pour on boiling water until it becomes the consistency of cream. Pass the blouse through this and squeeze.

Next lay on a clean towel and roll up. Leave for some hours, and then take out. Shake well, and if still wet, hang up until quite damp. Have good hot irons and see that they are thoroughly clean. Use good mat, and if necessary, fine emery paper. Any bits of black on the irons will surely be transferred in flecks to any starched goods, as most amateur laundresses know.

Embroidery and laces are ironed on the wrong side. To iron, first do collar and cuffs. Next the sleeves. The backs come next in order, and, lastly the front.

In case of the blouse being made of a delicate color or white combined with a color, a few drops of ammonia should be added to the last rinsing water. That will restore any color that may have "come out in the wash."

Very hot irons will destroy the color even more than soap and water, so take care they are only medium. Should the color change when ironing there is nothing wrong.

It is because oil has been used in the manufacturing of coloring rather than of the materials, and when this has dried out after ironing the original color will be found. Some people think the change means scorching, but this is not so. Should, however, one be so unfortunate as to scorch, raw starch mixed into a paste should be laid on and the spot exposed to the sun.

If this is done at once the scorch will disappear. All colored materials will have a better finish if ironed on the wrong side. If the colored fabric is washed for the first time it should be laid in salt and water or vinegar and be used for pink and blue shades and the latter for green and mauves. The proportions are a handful of salt or a half teaspoonful of vinegar to a gallon of cold water.

SIR JOHN MURRAY ON TEEMING SEA

Former Londoner and Great Scientist Issues New Books.

DEPTHS OF THE OCEAN

The Sea the Best Refuge of Mystery
—What Exists at the Bottom.

"The Depths of the Ocean." By Sir John Murray, K.C.B., F.R.S.,
etc., and Dr. Johan Hjort, Macmillan, 22s. net.

The deep sea is the largest refuge of mystery. Some day the sea shall give up its dead, and on some equally remote day it shall give up the inner secrets of its life. There is no room on the land now for dragons, but we are still able to believe in the sea serpent. The manner of living in the depths of the ocean is almost as remote as the manner of living on Mars. But these literally unfathomable things are being explored now at an accelerating speed. The voyage of the Challenger, in which Wyville Thompson and John Murray won their knighthoods, is the classic instance of oceanic investigation. It has given science fifty years' worth of information which has escaped no mean quantity of immensely interesting matter for the world at large. Certain deep-sea oddities, more happily named than the usual god-children of science, are now exceedingly well-known. The present book, with its uncommon wealth of illustration, will make us acquainted with very many more.

Real Deep-Sea Fishing.
The Michael Sars, the Norwegian Challenger, has been investigating the North Atlantic since 1900. In 1910 it was borrowed by Sir John Murray, who paid all the expenses of a four-month voyage along the coast of Spain and Portugal, thence to Grand Canary, the Azores, the exceedingly interesting Sargasso Sea, whence a line was laid to St. John's, Newfoundland, and home to Bergen, after a long-loop round Iceland and Faeroes from Glasgow. Much of the catch and of the observations must await further publication, but the present heavy volume contains a well-ordered resume of one of the most important voyages ever taken over the area in question.

"The surface of the sea is but the half-way line between the tops of the Himalayas and the bottom of the ocean, and there is life all the way. About two-thirds of the sea-surface is covered by more than 2,000 fathoms of water, an abyssal plain equal to nearly half the surface of the earth. Beneath these depths are further extensions of gloom, cold, and intense pressure, in which life may be not more scarce than on the top of Mount Everest. We have not yet learnt," says Mr. Hjort, "to fish to perfection at 2,000 or 3,000 fathoms." It is clearly an art not learnt in a day. The "Michael Sars" seems to have been more successful at deep-sea dredging than former ships. With 2,360 metres of line out (1,330 fathoms), it took in one haul of 350 fish. This was just south of Ireland in a depth of only 923 metres of water, but the fish were of the astonishing types usually accounted as abyssal, such as Chimera, Macrurus, and Mora. Large specimens were caught and the interesting suggestion is thrown out that some day commercial cial trawlers that already catch ling, beam, and hake at 300 fathoms may go another 200 fathoms and bring what are at present scientific curiosities to our markets as food.

Climes and Seasons.
It is natural that bottom-feeding species should have each its own level on the descending slopes of continental foundations. The enterprising genus Macrurus, however, a fish with a lobes-less finned tail tapering to a point and usually three times as long as the rest of the body, has the enormous bathymetrical range of 1,700 fathoms (from 300 fathoms below the surface to 2,000 fathoms) and is apparently engaged in colonising still greater depths.

In the open Atlantic, the bottom scarcely counts. Living creatures keep their levels with reference to the surface only. The vegetative diatoms of which all pelagic life must be founded cease at about 100 fathoms. Far below the diatom level, even down to 2,000 fathoms, the Michael Sars nets, opening and closing at that depth, found multitudes of radiolarians which provide excellent food for the larger creatures of that region. The food in the greater depths no doubt falls from upper layers, the creatures of the abyss intercepting it on its way to make chalk for future landscapes. But there is a kind of "bottom in mid-water" at a depth of about 500 fathoms where, owing to the maximum specific gravity of the water having been reached, a maximum of small crustacean life accumulates. There is a quiet region at the surface and another so deep that the cachalot must dive nearly half a mile for his favorite food. The plankton, which is of supreme importance to the herring (and those that eat them), is constant in the tropics, but fluctuates so in the Norwegian Sea that in winter a haul of two hours yields but 380 specimens, while in July a ten-minute haul yields at least two millions.

The strata of temperature and salinity on which life chiefly depends do not run with horizontal regularity. They dip at all kinds of varying angle. There are rivers in the sea as well as upon land, and they are liable to change their course with devastating effect. The sudden destruction of a billion of the fish in 1832 was probably caused by an encroachment of the Arctic current on the Gulf Stream. Mr. Hjort does not mention a similar occurrence in 1732, which made haddock so scarce that three were sold for 7s. 6d. Nor does he mention what is probably another case of the same kind millions of years earlier, the record of which is preserved in the Old Red Sandstone.

The Samples of Science.
It cannot be said yet what have been the full services to science rendered by the "Michael Sars." That interesting cuttle-fish, Spirula, long known to us only by the ammonite-like shell that it carries instead of a cuttle-bone, was caught alive 400 fathoms down. There is a new fish not unlike a spotted sea serpent in miniature that has not yet even received its generic name. Five new fish roughly related to the familiar angler-fish were caught, and a great deal of work that was done among the leptocephali or eel larvae will disturb our present classification not a little. It is scarcely fair to mention these one or two instances, for they will certainly prove but a small fraction of the true yield of the expedition in this direction.

Indirect services to commercial fishing must be many. A very important direct service was done by the Michael Sars in the Norwegian Sea in discovering new cod fisheries. The establishment of the isotherm that belongs to the cod, as it occurs at varying depths, has done much in this direction. But enormous shoals of cod were found in 1901 in waters unsuspected to contain them by discovering what a tow-net above the spawning fish. The reviewer himself feels like a dredger in the infinite sea, so exigent must be the samples from this immense and interesting book that he is able to mention—London Daily News.

WORLD-WIDE GRIP OF DRUGS ON HUMANITY IS APPALLING

Government Monopoly of the Trade Is Urged by a Writer—Cocaine Regarded as Most Demoralizing—Some Startling Facts.

The peril of the drug habit, the magnitude of which he says, is now startling the whole civilized world, is discussed in the Century for August by Charles B. Towns. Mr. Towns has observed thousands of cases of the habit and has been active in promoting legislation in the United States in regard to habit-forming drugs, though he believes that only a world-wide agreement of nations will be finally effective in regulating traffic in such drugs as opium. He discusses the many habit-forming drugs and says that the most harmful of all of them is cocaine. He points out how powerful organized interests always oppose every attempt at regulation of the sale of dangerous drugs.

"It has been criminally easy," he says, "for any one to acquire the drug habit. Few physicians have recognized that it is not safe for most persons to know what will ease pain. When an opiate is necessary, it should be given only on prescription, and its presence should then be thoroughly disguised."

Opiates Rarely Necessary.
He holds, however, that the cases in which the use of opiates is justifiable are extremely few. One of the busiest and most successful doctors of his acquaintance, he says, has used as little as half a grain of morphine a year and another grain, only a small percentage of drug-takers begin the practice in consequence of a serious ailment. "The opiates never remove the cause of pain," he says, "they are, strictly speaking, unnecessary."

No Respector of Persons.
"The drug habit," he writes, "is a no-respector of persons. I have had under my care exemplary mothers and wives who became indifferent to their families; clergymen of known sincerity and fervor who became shoplifters and forgers; shrewd, successful business men who became paupers, because the habit left them at the mercy of sharper agents for mental deterioration had set in. For the immediate action of morphine, by no means paralyses the mental faculties. Though when once a man becomes addicted to the drug he is incapacitated to deal with himself, yet while he is under its brief influence his mind is sharpened and alert. Under the sway of opium a man does venture some of the most desperate things that he would never think of doing otherwise, simply because he has lost the sense of responsibility. I have had patients who took as much as sixty grains of morphine in a single dose, an overdose for about one hundred and fifty people, and about fifty grains more than the takers could possibly assimilate or needed to produce the result—an excellent illustration of how the habit destroys all judgment and all sense of proportion."

Danger in Sale of Syringes.
"I have seen over six thousand cases of drug habit in various countries of the world. Ninety-five per cent. of the patients who have come to me taking morphine or other alkaloids of opium have taken the drug hypodermically. With few exceptions I have found that the first knowledge of it came through the administration of a hypodermic by a physician. It is the instrument used which has caused the few physicians who have seen the patient to consider that it has been the chief creator of the drug habit in this country. I was personally instrumental in having passed by the New York Legislature in 1911 an act to restrict the sale of hypodermic syringes to buyers on physicians' prescriptions only."

"Before that time all drug stores and most department stores sold hypodermic instruments to any one who had the money. A boy of fifteen could buy a syringe as easily as he could buy a jackknife. If a physician refused to give an injection the patient could get an instrument anywhere and use it on himself. This bill has passed only a single legislature, and I am arranging to introduce a similar bill in the next session. Now the drugs must be sold on a physician's prescription. It is inconceivable that the syringe should have gone so long without being considered the chief factor in the promotion of a habit which now alarms the world, and that as yet only one state legislature should have seen fit to regulate its sale. Restricting the sale of the syringe to physicians, or to buyers on a physician's prescription is the first step toward placing the grave responsibility for the drug habit on the shoulders of those to whom it belongs."

Patent Medicine Regulation.
A second step to be taken, Mr. Towns observes is to prevent by law the use of habit-forming drugs in patent or proprietary medicines. Prior to the pure food and drugs act vast quantities of such medicines were sold without announcing the presence of the drugs. Now the drugs must be specified on the label, but since in all but a few states the sale of these compounds is in no way restricted, little has been done toward checking the formation of the drug habit. Yet the difficulties in the way of passing this federal act are a matter of scandalous history, and the writer suggests that the opposition to the regulation of the sale of such medicines would be still greater because of the profits in selling medicines which create habits and cause a lasting demand."

As an illustration of the tactics in fighting such legislation Mr. Towns refers to arguments used when he was making a plea for regulation of traffic in habit-forming drugs before a committee of Congress. It was contended that other ingredients altered the effect of the drugs on the user, and that the per cent used was so small that it could not create a habit. As a matter of fact combination with other ingredients makes not the slightest difference in the physiological action of the drug, he says, and it is found that just as with the drug itself the use of these compounds must be constantly increased in order to confer the same apparent benefit, and finally, it is well known that what creates the craving is not the quantity of the drug, but the regularity with which it is taken.

Worse Than Opium Smoking.

The easy accessibility of drugs in medicinal form, Mr. Towns asserts, is more dangerous than morphine taking. As society had put its stamp of approval on it, opium smoking would be as prevalent here as in China. We have no particular cause for congratulation for our particular form of vice, he says, for opium smoking is vastly less vicious than morphine taking. Speaking of the traffic in opium, he says that four years ago, by special act of Congress, all importation into the United States of prepared opium and of crude opium designed for smoking purposes, was prohibited. But dealers have since found a way to evade the law, and now, since the enormous tax on prepared opium is no longer collected, the smoker can get it much cheaper than before, so that the effect of the act has been the exact opposite of what was intended. So great are the difficulties of controlling the traffic in opium that Mr. Towns advocates a world-wide government monopoly of the drug.

Among instances of criminal looseness in the sale of habit-forming drugs he says there are discredited doctors in New York who make it a business of selling prescriptions at a very small sum to habitual users. Inhabitants of Jersey City were startled a short while ago to hear that school children there were buying two grains of cocaine from vendors. Speaking of the habit-forming drugs in general he says:

"The important habit-forming drugs are opium, cocaine and the small but dangerous group of hypnotics. These last—trional, veronal, subphonal, medinal, etc.—are chiefly coal tar products, and are not always classified as habit-forming drugs, but they are such, and there are many reasons why the sale of them should be scrupulously regulated. The opium derivatives go under the general head of narcotics. Morphine is the active principle, and cocaine and heroin are the chief derivatives of opium. Cocaine is one-eighth the strength of morphine; heroin is three times as strong as morphine."

Heroin and Cocaine.

"Though the general impression is otherwise, the users of these two drugs acquire the habit as quickly and as easily as if they took morphine. Many cough and asthma preparations contain heroin, simply for temporary alleviation, since, like opium, it has no curative power whatever. From time to time I have had to treat cases of heroin taking in which the victims had thought to satisfy their need for an opiate without forming a habit. In the cases where it was given by prescription it was so given by the physician in the sincere belief that it would not create a habit. All this despite the fact that heroin is three times stronger than morphine, and despite the fact that physicians know that anything which will do the work of an opiate is an opiate. Cocaine, notwithstanding the fact that it is weaker than morphine, is likewise habit-forming, yet doctors prescribe it on account of its relative mildness, even though they know that it is the cumulative effect of continu-ad doses, and not the quantity—of morphine in the dose, which results in habit. As with morphine, to use either of these drugs effectively means in the long run the necessary increase of the dose up to the limit of physical tolerance.

"The most harmful of all habit-forming drugs is cocaine. Nothing so quickly deteriorates its victim or produces so short a cut to the insane asylum. It differs from opium in two important ways. A man does not acquire a habit from cocaine in the sense that he acquires one from opium. It is virtually impossible for him to lose his habit-forming power. He can do so, although he rarely does. On withdrawal, he experiences only an intense and horrible depression, together with a physical languor which results in a sleepiness that cannot be shaken off. Opium withdrawal, on the other hand, results in sleepiness and extreme nervous and physical disorder. In action, too, cocaine is exactly the opposite of opium, for cocaine is an extreme stimulant. Its stimulus wears off quickly and leaves a corresponding depression, but it confers half an hour of capability of intense effort. That is why bicycle riders, prize-fighters and racetrackers are often doctored, or 'doped,' with cocaine. When cocaine gives out, its victim invariably resorts to alcohol for stimulus; alcohol, however, when deprived of alcohol generally drifts into the use of morphine."

Continuing, the well-known says: "Postum, the article says cere beverage, made of clean hard wheat and a small portion of malted barley, is the means effecting a easy change from coffee and its harmful stimulant—caffeine—to a wholesome, harmless, nourishing beverage."

Eminent analysts such as Prof. J. Mallet, of the University of London, declare that a cup of coffee (or three-fifths coffee and the rest milk) contains about 3/4 grains of caffeine.

A government report issued April 4, this year, from the Bureau of Chemistry shows that "the use of caffeine, when administered in small doses, caused the death of cats, dogs, rabbits and guinea pigs in a few hours."

ON PRIVATE YACHT

Pipe Blew Out When Vessel Was Being Prepared for a Cruise.

Quebec, Aug. 8.—A serious accident occurred this afternoon whereby two men were severely if not fatally scaled on board the steam yacht Semiramis, lying at the Cornwall Louis Dock. The Semiramis, which is owned by C. B. Gordon, of Montreal, president of the Dominion Textile Company, has been lying in the

Compared to the dock for some time past, the day she was to leave with some members of her Mr. Gordon's family on a cruise. Just after steam had been raised one of the steam pipes blew out, the escaping steam striking the head of the engineer, Belanger and the stoker, deLaud, who were standing near the boiler. Marcoux, fireman, attended the injured men and ordered that both be taken to the Hotel Dieu, where they were at once operated on. Belanger, a coal hauler, and Engineer deLaud, who is the greater sufferer, is scalped on the head, face and shoulders, while Fireman Marcoux's injuries lie principally about the body. Both the victims are in a critical condition.

TRAIN CREW CLEARED IN TILBURY DEATH

Jury Exonerates Men on Wolverine Which Killed Little Ida Beausejour.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Tilbury, Aug. 8.—The jury which acquitted the crew of the Wolverine train which killed little Ida Beausejour, was held yesterday at St. Francis Cemetery.

The jury, which under the direction of Judge McKeough, of Chatham, investigated the accident, returned a verdict exonerating the railway from any blame. Mrs. Frank Beausejour, widow, mother of the nine-year-old girl who was killed, said she was returning from the cannery factory with her daughter, who was slightly injured by the train, and the noise of the freight train coming from the east prevented her from hearing the whistle of the Wolverine until it was almost on her. She jumped from the track and yelled at the girl, but the next instant the child was struck and hurled into the ditch. Mrs. Beausejour fainted when the accident occurred, and was found senseless by the side of the track.

One of the Canadian Port employees was standing by the railway fence back of the factory, and noticing the danger, shouted to the mother and daughter, and as they did not hear him he dashed towards them, but was too late to warn them in time.

Medere Beausejour, a brother of the little girl, who was with her, was broken, and there was a compound fracture of the hip and death must have been instantaneous.

FINE PROMOTION

Police Sergeant Nash Becomes a Provincial Detective. [Special to The Advertiser.] Windsor, Aug. 8.—The appointment of Police Sergeant Abraham Nash, for 20 years a member of the Windsor force, to be a provincial detective officer, is announced here. This appointment, together with that of Sergeant Major J. P. Smith, made a few days ago, fills the two existing vacancies created by the retirement of Detectives Mahoney and Campeau two years ago.

As a police officer Sergeant Nash enjoys a wide reputation. He has more than once been seriously wounded while in the discharge of his duties along this frontier. Several years ago he heroically rescued a woman from drowning in the Detroit River at the imminent risk of his life. For this act of bravery he was presented with a gold medal by the city.

A DARING ROBBERY

Twelve-Year-Old Lad Accused of Riffing Cash Box. [Special to The Advertiser.] Windsor, Aug. 8.—Charged with having robbed a Walkerville store in broad daylight of $40, which was in the cash drawer, two Walkerville boys, William and James Braden, brothers, 11 and 12 years of age, are locked up with a reform school sentence staring them in the face. The boys were arrested late last night as they were about to board a ferry boat for Detroit. Each was attired in new clothing and shoes, and had money in his pockets. The boys have been in trouble with the police before.

PAPER CHANGES HANDS

C. Rice, of Windsor, Will Return to Wyoming. [Special to The Advertiser.] Wyoming, Aug. 9.—The local newspaper, The Wyoming Enterprise, has once more changed proprietors. Mr. E. C. Rice, of Windsor, has returned to live in Wyoming, and has taken over the management of the paper.

That Plympton Township is not behind in juvenile intelligence is evidenced by the fact that the recent entrance examinations here at the early age of ten years.

The interior of the public school is being given some needed repairs. The family of Mr. J. A. Rice enjoyed a pleasant reunion recently. Members were present from Huntsville, Springfield, and Sarnia. The day was spent at Gustin's Grove, Lake Huron.

Mr. Robert Rae is repairing and remodeling his home here.

O'DELL—STEADMAN

Popular Young Petroler Couple Celebrated Their Nuptials. [Special to The Advertiser.] Petrolia, Aug. 9.—At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Odell, Pettibone street, Wednesday, at 11 a.m., their daughter, Laura May, was married to D. M. Steadman, of the firm of Steadman Bros., Main street. Only the parents and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties were present.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas Steadman, brother of the groom, assisted by Rev. H. B. Moyer, of the Methodist Church, here. The young couple motored to Sarnia, and took the steamer Huronic for Port Arthur and other points on the upper lakes.

J. W. Kedwell, formerly of Petrolia, has taken charge of the Alvinston Free Press.

Wednesday was Petrolia's Civic Holiday, and about 400 citizens took advantage of the K. of P. excursion via the M. C. R. and steamer City of Toledo, to Detroit.

About 500 accompanied the Salvation Army excursion to Lake Huron Park and Sarnia. All report a very pleasant outing.

Will Osborne, a former Petrolia boy, has returned from Flint, Mich., and taken a position in A. Scarbrooks' store.

Mrs. W. D. Snively has returned to Fort William, after an extended visit with her mother here.

CALL WAS ENDORSED.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Galt, Aug. 8.—At a meeting of the Galt Presbyterian Church, held this afternoon, the call of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church to Rev. K. J. McDonald, assistant pastor of Cooke's Church, Toronto, was endorsed. The local congregation fully expect that the call will be accepted.

MR. STANLEY NAGLE TO COME TO LONDON

Will Make This City Headquarters For District For Coal Company.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, Aug. 9.—Mr. Stanley W. Nagle, for the past four years with the Royal Bank, latterly as accountant here, has severed his connection with that institution and accepted a position with the Lackawanna Coal and Lumber Company, of Scranton, Pa. He will have charge of the Western Ontario district, with headquarters at London.

On the whole, the board of health found conditions very satisfactory in making the annual inspection of Wednesday. The dairies and slaughterhouses were in a good state, and only a few recommendations in some instances will be made.

Misses Florence and Jessie Leslie, of Elmwood, are the guests of Mrs. G. A. Ineson.

An interesting game of baseball was played at Derrham Centre Wednesday night between Mount Elgin and Brownville, the former winning by a score of six to one.

The inclemency of the weather yesterday morning and the threatening outlook in the afternoon interfered with the pleasure of those who had planned to take full advantage of the weekly half-holiday.

This month will end the half-holiday period, and the section and others are fortunate enough to get their freedom once a week to considerable planning to take full advantage of the short respite from work.

Some arrangements had been made for baseball at the park yesterday afternoon, but owing to the lowering clouds only a limited number turned out. The indication of rain also put a damper on more than one outing that had been planned.

MASONIC FUNERAL HELD AT TEESWATER

William Scott Died Very Suddenly While on C. P. R. Lake Steamer.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Teeswater, Aug. 9.—One of the most impressive funerals ever seen here was that of William Scott, who was chief steward on the C. P. R. upper lake steamer Keewatin, and who died very suddenly while on the boat.

Deceased was a member of Owen Sound Lodge of Masons, and the worshipful master telegraphed to the head of Teeswater lodge requesting him to take charge of the funeral. An emergency meeting was called at once, and all necessary arrangements made, and the brethren met the evening train and took the remains to his mother's residence.

The funeral was held under the auspices of the craft. Rev. J. J. Haylock, Methodist minister, held a short service first.

A very large crowd assembled, and business was at a standstill in town. On reaching the place of burial, about the church service, the Masons formed in a circle around the grave, and the very solemn burial service of the order was conducted by the worshipful master and brethren.

Beautiful floral tributes came from the Owen Sound lodge, Wingham, Teeswater, the crew of the Keewatin, and others. The young man was very highly respected, and was the chief support of his aged widowed mother.

WHITE GRUBS ARE INJURING THE CORN

Fifty Per Cent. of the Crop Around Aylmer No Good. [Special to The Advertiser.] Aylmer, Aug. 8.—The corn crop is a failure in the township of Yarmouth and Malahide, owing to the havoc wrought by the white grub. Fifty per cent. of the crop is seriously damaged, as many as forty grubs being found in one bushel. This grub attacks both roots and stalks, and at first was unnoticed by the farmers, who thought the cool and wet weather had kept the crop backward.

DIED OF PNEUMONIA

Finding of Jury in Recent Death at Windsor. [Special to The Advertiser.] Windsor, Aug. 9.—"Death from natural causes" was the verdict of the jury in the case of the death of Margaret Dennis, of Stanley, the woman found in the house of Frederick Jamieson, in Sandwich, last Saturday night.

Jamieson was present and admitted that his first story of having found the body in the house was untrue. He said he had met her in a Detroit resort, and as she was without a home he offered her employment as a housekeeper. Dr. Cruikshank, who performed the post-mortem, testified that Mrs. Stanley was suffering from pneumonia, and that death was probably due to this cause, superinduced by excesses.

Startling Facts About Palaces and Dens of Chance Come to Light as Result of Murder of Gambler Rosenthal.

New York, Aug. 9.—New York is the new gambling centre of the world. This is the humiliating and indisputable fact, which America has now got to face—that New York, the pride of the nation, has come to be in a class with Monte Carlo, with Paris, and with other ill-reputed European gaming resorts—has, in fact, outstripped the houses of chance within her gates.

The day has passed when the megalomaniacs of the United States could lay claim to being morally clean. This fact seems to have been only to evidence by the results of District Attorney Whitman's investigation into the murder of gambler Herman Rosenthal. For these results show, if the triple confession of Jack Rose, Harry Vallon and Bridge Weber is to be believed, that the proprietors of the gambling houses pay out each year in graft almost $5,000,000 in order to be "protected" by the "system" arises.

And the question instantly arises, if dealers in chance can afford to pay in graft how much must they take in from their victims? There are various answers to this being made in New York today. But whatever this sum total is, be it one or two hundred millions a year—and it may be as much as that—it is certainly so great that the jackpots of Monte Carlo and its allies dwindle to foolish little piles beside it, and place New York in the very centre of the world's gambling map.

Where are these places in New York? What sort of places are they? Who owns them and who frequents them? The gambling palaces and dives of New York are scattered. They stretch from the very doors of proud, aristocratic Fifth avenue down to the east and west sides of the island where the dark run within deep shadows. But most of them are grouped about Longacre Square, the famous centre of the white light districts. A majority of them are but a stone's throw from the Metropole Hotel, where Herman Rosenthal was shot to the death.

Most of these gambling dens have a middle class look of respectability. They are housed in the unobtrusive brown stone fronts which "society" lived in 30 years ago, but which "society" has now given up for marble palaces overhanging the park. There are places, however, which might be easily taken for the abodes of steel trust magnates, so impressive are their carved and fluted entrances; and there are, again, little "shacks" that would be passed by as "swack shops."

Before ex-District Attorney Jerome crusaded against gambling in New York a few years ago, there were ten gambling houses that were considered the leading ones of the city. They were most elaborate, and the amount of money that passed hands in them Manhattan has 176, Kings County 65, and Queens County 28.

Seventy-four are "high class" houses, 44 smaller houses and 100 are "swell" poker rooms. There are hundreds of smaller games.

Mr. and Mrs. Smiley and daughter motored to Seaford today to spend civic holiday with friends.

Arthur Treadwell and wife are spending a couple of days at Waterford.

HERMAN ROSENTHAL'S BROWNSTONE FRONT "PALACE OF CHANCE" ON FORTY-FIFTH STREET, GAMBLING DEVICE DEMOLISHED BY ORDER OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY WHITMAN, AND ONE OF ROSENTHAL'S ROULETTE OUTFITS.

Twenty-fourth street: John Daly's in West Twenty-ninth street: Sol. Lichtenstein's in West Thirty-first street: Tim Kenny's in West Thirty-eighth street: Louis J. Doherty's in West Twenty-eighth street: "Line" Auen's in West Thirty-fourth street.

Canfield's was the most famous of all New York's gaming palaces. His appointments were most elaborate, though no more so than those of "The Allen's place," which is said to have contained a room done in carved marble and costing $50,000.

And who, you ask, came to these houses, that they must be kept up in such exquisite style? Well, one man, for instance, who used to frequent them was John W. Gates, a financier who had Pierpont from visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Pulling, of Stratford.

Mr. Robertson, of London, is visiting with his granddaughter, Mrs. E. H. Bond.

Mr. George Cadick, of Inwood, spent a few days with relatives here recently.

FINGAL

Fingal, Aug. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Young, Ethel and Miss M. Teare motored to Ottawa recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McLandress and family, of West Lorne, spent the week-end here.

Mr. D. McLean, of Rodney, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Tupper.

Mrs. Fergus McLaughlin has returned here.

Mr. George Huffman, of Saskatoon; Mr. John McKillop, of Eagle, and Miss McKillop and Miss Blue, of Duart, motored to Fingal recently and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Waters.

Anniversary services will be conducted in the Baptist Church next Sunday morning and evening.

Mr. Buckle, pastor of the Baptist Church, will preach in Knox Church the next three Sundays. Rev. George Gilmore will be away on his holidays.

Misses Mildred and Lottie Brush are visiting in Tyrconnell.

Miss Kathleen Bourgar is visiting Miss E. Bisset, of St. Thomas.

Mr. Colin Gillan has been engaged as teacher in S. S. No. 11, Southwold, at Leithbridge Corners.

Miss Lillie McLaughlin has been engaged to teach the Boxall school, where she taught some time ago, and Miss Margaret will teach at Frome.

Miss Janet Carmichael, Miss Mabel Russell and Miss Bessie Waters have returned from attending summer school in Guelph.

Mr. J. H. Young will motor to Brantford, Hamilton and Toronto next Monday, and be away all week.

Mrs. (Dr.) Smith, Cassie and James have returned from visiting in Belmont.

Miss Mabel Harris has left for the west. She will visit her brother, Mr. W. Harris, B. A., principal of the Collegiate Institute at Winnipeg, and after will travel as far west as Regina.

Miss Winnifred Harris, of Toronto, is spending her vacation with her parents at the parsonage.

Master Percy Molaskey is recovering nicely from his recent illness.

Miss Vera Molaskey is spending a few days with friends in St. Thomas.

Miss W. A. Turner, of Barrie Business College, is spending his vacation with his parents here.

The following six out of seven pupils passed their entrance examinations this year: Mabel Breen, Jessie Smith, Harley Teare, Lloyd Fulton, Felix Mahoney, Charlie Ferguson.

Ekfrid, Aug. 9.—Mr. J. Louis Hull, the local drover, has shipped two cars of cattle and one of hogs to Toronto this week.

Mrs. Bernie Galbraith is spending a few weeks with her parents at Jeanette's Creek.

Mr. Angus McIntyre, of Newman, Ill., visited friends here recently.

Master Lloyd Fox is the guest of friends at Fanshawe.

Mrs. F. A. Kellor and daughter, of Raymond, Alta., who have been visiting with friends here, have left for Detroit to spend a few weeks.

Mr. George Walker and family have moved to West Lorne.

Mrs. John McIntyre and daughter are the guests of Chatham friends.

Mr. Will Crehan has been appointed principal of the Belmont public school.

MOUNT BRIDGES.

Mount Bridges, Aug. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Giffin, of London, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Elsey recently.

Miss Velma Graham has returned every evening in the year was almost beyond belief. Some of them have gone now, and others have changed their locations, but probably most of them or their successors are still playing trade somewhere about the city.

The old houses, famous the world over, were: Richard A. Canfield's in East Forty-fourth street; William T. Burbridge's in West Thirty-third street; John Kelly's in West Forty-first street; Charles Reed's in West

Morgan, August Belmont and all of Wall street worried to death at one time. Gates at a simple sitting in Canfield's lost $11,000, and this, it is said, was not unparalleled. It was at Canfield's, too, that Reginald Vanderbilt and a party of friends made their famous play late one night. Lawrence Waterbury and Payne Whitney are said to have been among the number there. One of the men lost that evening nearly $20,000. That loss has been credited to young Vanderbilt. Do the men who frequent these places get a square deal? Those on the inside say they do not, that there is not a single gambling den in New York where things are played straight. Where fair is played, and most of the big houses play fair and roulette only, there are generally a couple of brace fair dealers, men so adept in their line that they can fool the shrewdest of professional gamblers and men who do no work for $10 a night, but who demand and receive 55 per cent. of their victims' losses, the house being content with but 45 per cent.

This percentage in itself shows what chance the player has of winning. Practically every gambling house has these "steersmen," and if games were run honestly no gambling house could exist and pay its steersmen 55 per cent. of the winnings. In "honestly dealt" faro the percentage is only about 3 per cent. in favor of the house, and on roulette but between 6 and 7 per cent.

For the past two years, has resigned, and will enter college.

Mrs. Philip Eaton, who has been waiting at her mother's home for some time, has returned to her home in Toledo.

Mrs. Switzer has been spending the past couple of weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Smith.

George V. Has Gone and Invented a Cook Stove

George V., of the British Isles and Possessions Beyond the Seas, King, Emperor of India, and Defender of the Faith, has turned his attention to the needs of the kitchen, and applied his genius to a cook stove.

He has most illustrious precedent for it, for did not King Alfred the Great, on a certain memorable occasion, busy himself turning flapjacks? He did.

Therefore, when King George became seized with a desire to invent something, he looked carefully over the house, and it was while in the kitchen, telling the cook how to prepare the pork chops for luncheon that he hit upon the thing he would invent—a cook stove. And he did it. His imperial cousin, the Crown Prince of Germany, had the thing patented for him.

One would think that all the changes that could be rung on cook stoves had been done long before King George was born. But he has proved that they had not. The stove he has invented, and which the Crown Prince of Germany has patented, is a combination affair, with a sliding firebox.

The stove is placed in the wall between the kitchen and the dining-room, and the fire is first made in the kitchen where the cooking is done. When dinner has been prepared the cook simply pushes the fire box through the wall and it slides into a place arranged for it, and becomes an open gate to heat the dining-room.

Its advantages lie in the fact that not only does one fire do double duty, but it accomplishes this with the utmost economy of fuel.

It is probable that King George anticipated the English coal strike, although he did not inventing just after his father, the late King Edward, died, and therefore some months before the coal strike evened out. But the stove is regarded as a very good thing, and while there is no likelihood of the firm of King and Crown Prince doing much business in the stove line, an English company is seriously thinking of taking the matter up and manufacturing the stoves.

A people in the future not exalted in the world.

Settlers Need Assistance.

All the conditions exist to make a great province. A navy stumbles on a silver camp that produces a sixth of the world's output. This will be enlarged many times. The soil is the very best over the whole clay belt, but it is encumbered with trees that must be removed before it will produce crops. Gravel is scarce, and good roads difficult to obtain. As far as possible remove the obstacles to settlement, and shorten the time during which they must be endured. Give free grants to good settlers, and help them during the first few years after settlement. Follow that up as soon as it can be done with every facility for education. If this is done, it requires no prophet to see the great future of New Ontario, with its lands cleared and settled, its inexhaustible mines, and its happy, healthy people.

The work of the statesman in Canada is very different from the work of the statesman in England. Here we want people. We have more than room enough, there it is almost impossible for a poor man, no matter how industrious he may be, to bring up a family and save. A home is the only possession worth striving for, the only place which, if threatened, justifies fighting for millions. May these millions soon take possession. The clay belt is two hundred miles wide and over five hundred miles long. It ought to be a pleasant duty for any government, whether Conservative or Liberal, to do its very best to accomplish so desirable an end, an accomplishment that would benefit hundreds of thousands now living and many millions yet unborn.

MORE INDICTMENTS IN ROSENTHAL CASE

Grand Jury to Hand Down Six More Counts Within a Few Days.

New York, Aug. 8. — Six more indictments for murder in the Rosenthal case will be handed down by the grand jury in a few days. The new indictments will accuse Jack Sullivan, Sam Schepps, Louis Rosenzweig (Lefty Louie), Frank Muller (Whitey Lewis), Harry Horowitz (Gip the Blood), and Frank C. Chiofalo (Dago Frank). Only complete confessions can save Sullivan and Schepps. A new witness, Giovanni Stanich, identified Jack Sullivan today as the man he had seen standing with the four murderers while they were firing at Herman Rosenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollok, testified that Schepps had been a go-between for Lieutenant Becker and Jack Rose after the murder.

The district attorney learned also that shortly after Lieutenant Becker employed Rose as his gambling house collector, Becker had deposited in the West Side Savings Bank $500, the maximum deposit permitted by a law that Becker had told Rose that his "clean-up" in four months was $50,000 for himself alone.

Much actual progress was made today in corroborating Becker's confession in corroborating Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollok, who were grand jury witnesses, told that they had testified not only that Becker had killed Rose at their house, but that Becker had named Burgard to see Rose, but that Pollok, at Rose's request, had called on Becker at the police headquarters to tell Becker that Rose wanted to see him.

Wire Hangers for Trousers and Skirts.

It is easy enough to obtain a coat hanger that will keep a coat or cloak in fairly good shape, but trousers and skirts offer a problem that the person careful with his or her clothes finds difficult to solve.

A Chicago man seems to have arrived at a way out of the difficulty. He secured a piece of heavy iron wire about four feet long, and bent it to form a perfect circle. He then doubled the wire until it formed two half-circles, with the point where the joint in the original circle came at the apex of one of the halves. He attached a hook to both halves, just at this point, so that the hook and two wires were firmly fastened together. Then he bent up the ends as shown in Fig. 3.

By hooking the bent ends under the buttons of his trousers on both sides he had a trousers hanger that was perfect, and with spring enough to keep the trousers tight at the waistband.

The same sort of a hook, made smaller, will do for a skirt. If loops are made in the waistband of the skirt through which the bent ends of the hanger can pass,

NEWSY ITEMS FROM GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM

What is Going On at Various Points of the Big Railway.

Montreal, Aug. 8.—A special train carrying over 200 laborers for construction work on the Grand Trunk Pacific is now on its way from Toronto to the West. Fifty of the passengers hail from Montreal, and the remainder from points in Ontario.

The Toronto Board of Control has passed favorably on the report of the assessment commissioner recommending that the city sell 13,344 square feet of its land at Sunnyside to the Grand Trunk Railway for the erection of a new Parkdale station.

A party of girl guides from Moose Jaw under the care of the Rev. J. Salton and Mrs. Salton are at present visiting Grand Trunk territory in the Algonquin National Park. They intend to spend a week at the Highland Inn, followed by a fortnight on canvas.

A distinguished visitor at Grand Trunk headquarters in Montreal on Saturday was Lord Congleton, a young Englishman, who is on his way west to hunt in the Yellowstone district of British Columbia, along the line of the Grand Pacific.

Several hundred carloads of steel rails have just been brought into the Biggar district of Saskatchewan for use by Grand Trunk Pacific construction parties in the completion of the Biggar-Calgary branch, which officials of the company predict is destined in a few months time to become one of the most important in this section of the West, tapping as it does 350 miles of rich farming country in addition to the extensive producing coal region 50 miles southwest of Biggar.

A striking example of the effect of transportation facilities upon population as well as of the remarkable development of western towns is afforded in the case of the settlement of Trochu, situated at Mile 121 on the Toileid-Calgary branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. A tri-weekly passenger service from Toileid was inaugurated by the G. T. P. to this point within the past two or three weeks, and already the population has risen to 1,000 souls, and is rapidly increasing. For years settlers had been obliged to freight in their supplies a distance of 45 miles. Steel has now been laid beyond Trochu to Swinwell, at Mile 144, so that only 60 miles remains to be completed before Calgary is reached.

A western dispatch states that the Grand Trunk Pacific Land Company, of Seattle and Omaha, which owns a large amount of agricultural land in the Fort George district intends to start the development of 2,000 acres, which will be subdivided into 40-acre blocks, 10 acres being cleared and built upon as ready-made farms in each case. This is being done to encourage settlement, and consequently makes a more ready sale for the remainder of this company's holdings, which has, of course, no connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

A bottle containing a message, thrown overboard from a Japanese vessel in mid-Pacific, exactly where, the steamship lane from Victoria to Tokyo crosses the 180th meridian, has been picked up at Prince Rupert, recently.

The sender was the captain of the ship, whose object was to discover the direction of the tidal current at the point referred to above. The importance of the discovery rests in the fact that it proves the trend of tide from the steamship lane in mid-Pacific is practically straight for Prince Rupert, a fact which should materially accelerate navigation between Canada and the Orient in the future, when "Grand Trunk Pacific" steamships are plying from the Pacific terminus of this new transcontinental line.

DEFECTIVE CHILDREN

Washington, Aug. 8.—"Of the 20,000,000 school children in this country," a bulletin issued by the United States Bureau of Education asserts, "not less than 75 per cent need attention for physical defects which are prejudicial to health."

"From 1½ to 2 per cent, or 400,000, of these have organic heart disease."

"Probably 5 per cent, 1,000,000, at least have now, or have had, some tubercular disease of the lungs."

"About 5 per cent, or 1,000,000, have spinal curvature, flat foot or some other moderate deformity."

"Over 25 per cent, or 5,000,000, have defective hearing."

"About 25 per cent, or 5,000,000, are suffering from malnutrition, in many cases due in part at least to one or more of the other defects enumerated."

"Over 25 per cent, or 5,000,000, have enlarged tonsils, adenoids or enlarged cervical glands, which need attention."

"Over 50 per cent, or 10,000,000, have some schools as high as 98 per cent, have defective teeth which are interfering with health."

How to Keep Your Spools From Running Away.

"Drat that spool!" is almost as common an expression as "Swat that fly!" in these days when the busy lady of the house spends so much of her time she has from the kitchen doing her sewing on the front porch.

When the spool of thread falls to the floor of the porch it is just as likely as not to bring up in the bed of nasturtiums, or the dog-house, if there is a playful pup around.

There is a way the spools can be kept within reach at all times and ready for use. Slender brass curtain rods that will pass through the hole in a spool of thread or silk are to be had everywhere. If the fastenings for these rods are attached to opposite arms of the sewing chair—underneath the arms—and the rod is threaded through the holes in the spools and fixed in its sockets after the housewife has taken her seat, the spools cannot fall, and are always at hand.

THE FUTURE OF NEW ONTARIO; WHY ITS PROGRESS IS SLOW

inefficient Emigration Policy, a Heavy Burden of Non-Taxable Land and No Assistance for the Settler Are Factors in Its Backwardness.

A trip to New Ontario is beneficial in many ways and is certain to cause anyone who personally visits that country to return with a higher and better opinion of it than he had conceived by anything he had read.

No one will deny the immense value to Ontario of the acquisition of the northern part of it by Sir Oliver Mowat and the Hon. David Mills. Neither will the wisdom of the decision to explore and develop and settle that country. The building of the Temiskaming and North Ontario Railway up through it as a colonizer's railway, which time has more than amply justified. The aid the same Government gave to the Soo industries not only saved the Soo from collapse, but led to the introduction of many millions of British capital to explore the country, and greatly enlarge the industries at this point. Further, it led to the continuation of the Algoma Central Railway to a point on the Grand Trunk Pacific called Hearst.

There is no doubt that the Temiskaming and North Ontario Railway will be continued on to James Bay. The distance given varies, but it is believed that it will not exceed one hundred and seventy-five miles. The result of this will be a railway from Toronto directly north to James Bay, crossing the Grand Trunk Pacific at Cochrane. The Algoma Central continued on from the Soo is another step towards the north, and one that will develop that section and unite it with the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The Future of the District. What has this already led to and what of the future? New Ontario is really geographically a new province. There is a distance of over two hundred miles south of New Liskeard that is and always will be, so far as farming is concerned, a blank space. What it may hold of mining value time alone will reveal. New Liskeard, Haliburton and Cobalt, close together, are on the fringe where the land begins to be valuable for farming. It is the commencement of the clay belt to which reference will be made further on.

The mining interests of New Ontario are already very valuable, and with the opening up of the Gillies limit, and the further development of the parts already proved to be worth development, will add greatly to the output. The story of the fire that destroyed the city of Chicago in 1871, and attributed to the "kimp kicked over by a cow," is proof that an accident may be very disastrous, and that the discovery of gold in New Ontario, attributing it to the navy's pick when building the railway, is proof that great benefits may flow from a discovery by accident. It brings to mind the lecture of the Hon. George R. Wendling on acres of diamonds. The owner roamed the world over in search of them, and accidentally discovered them in his own back yard. Similarly, Ontario and its people were looking to British Columbia for far more, and to the Northwest for far more, and had both in their own back yard.

The Old Province's Duty. Looking at New Ontario as part of old Ontario, what is the duty of the people of old Ontario with reference to its great and recently-discovered value?

It is quite true that Canada has only been discovering herself during the past twenty years. The great prosperity of Winnipeg and the great Northwest has been one of the best discoveries the world has made. May its settlement, development and prosperity long continue, for while there are in progress the fire, the drought, and the hardships which Lloyd George and the Liberal party in Great Britain are endeavoring to lessen will find no place in Canada. We will not need strikes or sufferings, and life in any part of Canada will be to the average man and his family the best opportunity for success an entirely new field under new conditions. When Bishop Ingram, of London, England, addressed the Canadian Club in London, Ontario, he said: "If you see your clean slate." Naturally you would think that remark very appropriate, and so it is, and you would think it applied with more truth and force to New Ontario, but such is not the case. Their slate is new, but it is not clean, and it is not the fault of the settlers of New Ontario that it is not. The evils under which they live are the immediate result of the Government.

some nice flower beds were planted,
making it very attractive to the crowds who go across the bridge, as also to the residents of West London.

Meeting Was Postponed.
A meeting of Troop No. 9, Boy Scouts, of St. Paul's, which was called for last evening for the purpose of organizing a troop to send to the Toronto Exhibition, was postponed. Another meeting will be held at a later date, when the question will be again brought up.

SNAKE SIX FEET LONG
KILLED BY A WOMAN
Colborne Street Lady Found
One in Her Yard and Chopped it up.
A snake, over six feet in length, has been the dust in death, due to the efforts of Mrs. George Carr, 140 Colborne street.
Mrs. Carr, at the time of the occurrence, was in the yard at the back of the house, in which there is consistently grass. Entirely unsuspecting that the serpent was there, it was a big surprise to see the grass moving. As soon as the snake was discovered, she ran for an axe and with three strikes
the snake was out. Its earthly existence being over, the deceased reptile was deposited on the clothes-line,
where it would prove a warning to others of the tribe. The snake was over six feet long, and 3 1/2 inches in diameter.
Its presence in the neighborhood cannot be accounted for, as this is the first of the kind known to have existed in that part.
Professor 'Spot' Fox, who lives a block away on Ottawa avenue, owns a menagerie of snakes, and it is possible that the serpent's home was there.

LATE J. A. BUTLER
Had Been in Failing Health For Two Years.
Mr. James Allen Butler, of 235 1/2 Dundas street, died at Victoria Hospital recently. Mr. Butler was the third son of Mr. and Mrs. James Butler, of Port Dover.
He was born in the County of Norfolk,
Ont., Jan. 11, 1868, and spent his boy-hood on his father's farm in Woodhouse Township.
His desire and aptitude for a commercial life prompted him to a college course, upon the completion of which he gave up to a business career, spending the last ten years of his life as an accountant in this city.
For about two years he had been failing in health, but was very hopeful of recovery. His death was a great shock to the family, and came as a great shock to the family.
Mr. Butler was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of this city. He was also identified with several fraternal societies, being a member of St. John's Lodge, No. 20, and Royal Arch Chapter,
No. 1, of this city.
Because of the absence in Scotland of his pastor, Rev. J. J. Inkster, the services here were conducted by Rev. Mr.
Stuart, and at Port Dover by Rev. John
Robertson, pastor of the home church.
St. John's Lodge, of this city, and Erie
St. John's Lodge, of Port Dover, conducted the Masonic service.
The large number who gathered for the funeral services at Port Dover showed the esteem and affection in which Mr. Butler was held in his native town.
Besides his bereaved wife and little daughter, Isobel, he leaves a mother, one sister, Mrs. Herbert Cockle, of Port Dover, and four brothers, Robert S., of Inlay
City, Mich.; Livingston, of Detroit, Silas
City, Mich.; and William, of Hamilton.

Church, West London, has received a cable from the old land, informing him that his son Walter has added another link in his already long chain of successes. He has graduated with honors at Oxford University, taking the lead among the colonial students. The course he was taking was a special one in modern history and economics. He will spend another year in a post-graduate course at the universities of Oxford and Florence.

COURT ECLIPSE PICNIC
A Big Program of Sports Carried Out
at Springbank.
Court Eclipse, C. O. F., held its annual picnic at Springbank and the event proved a most successful one.
The committee, Mr. C. N. Perrin was chairman of the committee. The tug-of-war indulged in by the ladies proved of great interest from the fact that the fair sex had such a strong pull they broke the rope. The following were the winners of the sports:
Boys' race, 5 years and under—1 K.
Murray, 2 H. Martin, 3 A. Ames,

SARNIA BRANCH OFFICE.
Office hours, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., 3:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Aug. 9.—Although the summer business in general has suffered heavily from the unsettled, disagreeable weather which has prevailed for some time, the Northern Navigation Company has not been affected by depression, which has hit most of the other lake lines heavily.
One of the officials stated that the company is fairly overrun with business, sailing lists being larger than last year at this season.
The freight shipments are also unusually heavy; in fact, it is impossible to adequately handle them.
Hard to Understand.
The official said that he found it hard to understand their good fortune,
when so many of the other companies are barely meeting expenses.
Several curious bits of information
were also advanced by this gentleman concerning the operation of the big steamer, one of which, dealing with the employment of colored help in the dining-room service, is quite interesting locally, as scores of negroes arrive here every spring to enter on their summer duties.
Many College Men.
These black waiters are supplied
in their chosen line, and are represented by an agency in Detroit, whose business is for furnishing only the best servants for the work is well known all over the country. Among the graduates, lawyers, and even preachers, aboard the boats their quarters are isolated completely from those of the white crew, who are forbidden to enter any conditions.
The salaries received by these efficient waiters are large, and, being adequate in the art of extracting tips,
they are able to make a trip amounts to a considerable sum. But shooting craps and a colored person are almost inseparable, and the entire corps for the voyage are usually in the possession of one man.

IMPETUOUS YOUTHS
WERE SOON DEPORTED
Trio Had Beaten Their Way on Trains
From Windsor.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Aug. 9.—Three young men who were in the vicinity of the immigration office yesterday were picked up by the police and deported. The trio consisted of two white lads and a negro,
and it was rather hard to distinguish which was which. The three were seen walking around some time previous, and walking out of the office they were seated began to question them in an indifferent manner.
The boys were not aware of the inspector's identity, and became impertinent. The immigration man said nothing, and kept on talking until he had ascertained that the young men had beaten their way from the latter place to Sarnia. Twenty cents compared the fortune of the three.
The inspector ordered the young men to the road to go over to knights of the town band and inspectors of the road to go over to Port Huron on the next ferry boat and the trio realizing their mistake
made all haste to comply.

FOREST PICNIC
Eight Hundred Excursionists Had Splendid Outing.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Sarnia, Aug. 9.—Nearly 800 people bearded Wednesday for engaging in a picnic at the Detroit Thursday. The crowd came here from Forest over the Grand Trunk. They were accompanied by the town band and everyone had a splendid time.

FINED FOR FIGHTING.
Sarnia, Aug. 9.—The two men arrested Wednesday for engaging in a fight on Clark's dock, appeared before the magistrate in police court yesterday morning and were each fined $1
and costs.

MRS. JAMES WILSON
TERRIBLY INJURED
Hurled From Buggy When a Pig Frightened Horse She Was Driving.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Atwood, Aug. 9.—Mrs. James Wilson, Monkton, is in a very critical condition as a result of being thrown from her buggy when a horse she was driving was frightened by a pig. Mrs. Wilson sustained a fracture of the hip,
besides receiving a number of serious cuts and bruises. One ear was nearly torn off, and she has internal injuries.
James Wilson, her son, was also badly
bruised in his efforts to hold the horse.
Dr. McKenzie, of Monkton, and Dr.
Kidd, of Atwood, are in attendance.

SHIPS' OFFICERS NOW
THREATEN TO STRIKE
May Mean That the Port of London Will Be Once
More Tied Up.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Aug. 9.—A London cable
says:
Ships' officers belonging to the National Union of Masters and Matros threaten a strike which, if put into effect, will tie up the port of London.
They have presented a demand for a minimum wage of $10 a month, and 5,000 gross registered tons, as follows:
Master, $25; first mate, $14; second
mate, $12; third mate, $10 a month.
For ships of more than 5,000 tons the schedule demanded is as follows:
Master, $30; first mate, $15; second
mate, $13; third mate, $11 a month.
Arrangements have been made to notify the officers of ships sailing next week that the scale must be accepted before officers sign articles.

PENCIL BETWEEN TOES
SHE WRITES A BOOK
Crippled Dwarf Thus Strikes
Typewriter Keys—Tedious
Task Inspired by X Science.

St. Paul, Aug. 8.—Three years ago
Miss Ephie Gladys Virtue, now aged 24 years, but a physical dwarf since childhood, started to write a book. She labored at it many hours a day, revising and revising. Recently it came from the press—a neat volume of 175
pages—and she is happy.
When three months old Miss Virtue
was stricken with spinal meningitis.
Grown to womanhood now, her mental strength is marvellous, but she cannot use her hands.
Every word of the book was written on a typewriter by the use of one foot.
Holding a pencil between her toes, she clicked off the keyboard with the pencil
and paying little attention to fatigue,
she struck the key with the entire Three times did she rewrite the entire manuscript before she was satisfied.
Miss Virtue lives with her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Virtue, at No. 268 Hegarty avenue, St. Paul. Her book is called "Helen Dale," and every character is drawn from real life—girlhood friends of Miss Virtue.
"You mustn't give me too much credit for the book," said she today.
"The work was inspired, I'm a Christian Scientist. The story is based on this religion."
Unable to go to school, little Ephie
one day asked her mother to teach her the alphabet. Her mother made the letters up to "G," but two days later found that the girl had worked the entire alphabet out for herself. Gradually she learned to read and write,
and when she came to St. Paul, ten years ago, from Tennessee, she had become a deep student of classic literature.

CENSURES CAPTAIN
Investigating Court, However, Does
Not Penalize Master of Empress.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—The court of investigation has handed down its verdict in the Empress of Britain and Helvetia collision, which took place recently in the St. Lawrence.
In view of the close proximity of the two vessels and the opinion
Empress, the court is of the opinion that the collision was unavoidable, and that as the Helvetia was under port helm with engines stopped when the Empress was sighted, the master of the Helvetia adopted the best course open to him under the circumstances.
The court censures the master of the Empress, but on account of his previous good record, the skillful manner in which he handled his vessel
after the impact, and the efficient after the impact, steps were taken to rescue, does not penalize him.

LOAN ASSN. IN TROUBLE
Authorities to Make Investigation of San Francisco Concern.

[Canadian Press.]
San Francisco, Aug. 9.—The Continental Building and Loan Association did not open its doors for business today. An investigation conducted by John S. Walker, state building and loan commissioner, with the aid of President Edward Sweeney, of the association, resulted late yesterday in Walker's throwing the concern into immediate liquidation. This can be done under California laws, which also give the directors the right to show cause in court within ten days why
the action should not be permanent.
Sweeney is superintendent of the San Francisco mint. Walker, in a statement made public today, said of the association that an expert's report showing a shortage of $50,000 "is not far out of the way." The shareholders are mostly persons of small means,
"shows that investors not only have been defrauded in the past, but this is a continued up to the present time. Today the accounts show, according to the report, that the borrowers also are being mulcted, and the amount placed to their credit on repayments, are short more than $50,000. People have been "fired out" without any authority of law; liabilities have been concealed
and assets have been padded.
