WAR FIGHT OVER RECEIVED EXPENSES FOR COMMISSIONERS

Railway Fare Question Precipitates Debate at Presbyterian Assembly.

WANT FOOD CONTROLLER

Delegates Invite Head of the Canada Food Board to Address Them.

More representatives have come than the emergency committee anticipated, and it looks as if we were going to have a stirring session. I would like to ask the assembly for an assistant from myself and Dr. Somerville. This assembly, coupled with a request from Dr. Campbell, senior clerk of the general assembly, is being held at the close of the first session of the year. Object to Expense. So far as business was concerned, interest centered in a lively discussion of the subject of payment of expenses of advanced rates and failure to obtain special rates. Dr. Somerville of the emergency committee in this connection moved that the assembly should be asked to consider the payment of expenses of advanced rates and failure to obtain special rates. Cover Railway Fare. Rev. Mr. McKelvey moved in amendment, seconded by Capt. G. B. Duncan, that the second part of the recommendation should cover the payment of the traveling expenses of the commissioners. Dr. Campbell moved in amendment, seconded by Capt. G. B. Duncan, that the second part of the recommendation should cover the payment of the traveling expenses of the commissioners.

Rev. Dr. W. J. Clark suggested that one-way fare might be paid as formerly, including the 15 per cent advance of this year. Rev. Dr. Somerville, on a second hearing, declared that the expenses of commissioners should be met by their own presbyteries, instead of being paid by the contributors. He said that the contributors knew that the expenses were being paid and that they would give double, if a voice from the floor of the house.

Rev. Dr. D. Byrne, superintendent of home missions in Northern Ontario, declared that the assembly should be asked to consider the payment of expenses of advanced rates and failure to obtain special rates. Dr. Campbell moved in amendment, seconded by Capt. G. B. Duncan, that the second part of the recommendation should cover the payment of the traveling expenses of the commissioners.

Former Director of Krupp's Exposed Devilish Plotting of German Emperor.

Gumlingen, Switzerland, Wednesday, June 5.—Germany was wholly in agreement with Austria-Hungary concerning the ultimatum sent to Serbia at the outbreak of the war, says Dr. Wilhelm Muehlen, formerly director of Krupp's, in further disclosures on the responsibility for the beginning of the conflict. Emperor William was personally responsible for Germany's participation and forced the German leaders to support his war policy.

Dr. Muehlen, who was head of Krupp's at the outbreak of the war, and who recently startled Europe with his disclosures, resolved the corresponding author of the Associated Press at his country place here, where he is now living in retirement. The visit came in view of the unrest among the rural communities over the recent military service regulations, but the Opposition desires to be prepared in the event of by-elections being decided upon.

New Embargo Order Is Not Generally Popular—Some Lines of Business Will Be Hard Hit.

Ottawa, June 6.—It was announced by the Government today that the order-in-council restricting the import of luxuries and non-essentials was not intended to apply to green apples. In the statement given out earlier green apples were included in the list of restricted articles. It is not the intention to restrict the importation of this class of fruit.

WOMEN'S BATTALION
FOR LONDON SURE
WAITS COMMANDER

Organization of Unit Similar to Winnipeg On.

AGE LIMIT IS 20-45

Girls of Teen Age Barred
From Service in France.

London will soon have a women's battalion, similar to the one recently raised in Winnipeg, if the plans of local members of the fair sex do not miscarry. The only difficulty that has so far presented itself to those in charge of arrangements is the selection of a capable commanding officer to take charge of the training. Miss A. McArthur, of this city, has been in correspondence with the commandant of the Winnipeg unit, receiving much valuable information from her on the subject, and promises of full co-operation.

A section of sixteen members will first be raised, but the strength of the unit will be unlimited, and if the interest shown in the corps up to this point is indicative, London will soon have a battalion of fully 1,000 women. The battalion in Winnipeg has not yet been recognized by the Government, but the case has been taken up with Premier Borden by the honorary colonel, and he is expected to bring the case before the imperial authorities in France to enable the imperial authorities to carry on duties similar to those of the Women's Auxiliary Corps now in France.

Drills will be held once a week, and the attendance fee will be 50 cents, with 50 cents per month assessment to defray the cost of uniforms, which will likely be carried on by a returned soldier. Uniforms are not essential, but if desired the battalion will carry them at cost, and each member will pay for her own. The age limit is to 45, girls of the "teen" age being barred. Once the battalion is established here it is believed that the Canadian Government will take it over, and members will then receive the usual army rates of pay.

The battalion will consist entirely of women, and the uniform used is of khaki drill, but the members will carry a full set of civilian clothes, similar to that employed in enlisting Canadian soldiers.

Recruiting will not commence until a commanding officer has been appointed, and she will have full charge. Her plans will be announced later, and enthusiasm among the fair sex of London is at its height.

One thing is certain London is going to have a women's battalion in the near future, and the local suffragettes will come into their own, although one condition attached is that recruits must give their correct age on attesting. Don't crowd girls.

Women Car Workers
Prove Satisfactory
Says G. T. R. Officials

No More Being Engaged Now,
However, at Local Shops.

That women workers are proving satisfactory is the opinion of G. T. R. car shops officials, but they say there are no more vacancies for female help in the shop at present. It is the intention of the company to employ men as long as they are available, and when the situation is such that the repairs are being held up for lack of laborers, women will be given such labor as they can easily do. They are cleaning cars now and it is said that they are more particular than the men were on this job.

Suitable wash and rest rooms have been provided for their convenience, and conditions made as pleasant as possible for them in hiring women, and the preference will be given to soldiers' wives who need the extra money. It is stated by the officials.

BARRED FROM MODERATOR

Before proceeding to the business of election of his successor, Dr. Neil referred feelingly to a number of the prominent men of the church who have passed away in the past year. Stating that he had by no means the names of all, he mentioned particularly four or five in different parts of the country. Among these were Rev. Styles, a prominent member of the synod, in social and in Sunday school work; Rev. Dr. Carmichael of King, who for fifty years ministered to one rural congregation, and who was for a time lecturer in the University of Toronto; Rev. Dr. McQueen, of St. James, a pioneer worker in the town of Keewatin, who preached when he was 83 years old; and Sir William Mortimer, of Clark, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario, an elder, who, with all the other claims upon him, never neglected his duties to the church.

"Today," said Dr. Neil, "the news of the death of Rev. Alexander Hamilton of Keewatin has brought grief to us all, and it is expected that the question will be settled by that time. The Canadian railway employees have been promised the same conditions as their brother workers across the line will receive. The men here say they are not bound to accept these terms, but until they know definitely what they are they will not hazard an opinion as to their acceptance."

REV. COLIN FLETCHER OF ST. THOMAS IS ELECTED MODERATOR

For the First Time in 25
Years, General Assembly
Gives Highest Office to a Rural Minister.

For the first time in twenty-five years the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, in session in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, has elected a rural minister to the moderatorship. This fact in appointing Rev. Dr. Colin Fletcher, of Thames Road, to the chief office in the life of the church, along the lines of the growing democracy and also along the lines of one of the overtures to be submitted to the assembly asking for equal recognition of rural and urban ministers in making appointments to the moderatorship. Two other nominations were made. The name of Rev. Dr. Donald MacGillivray of Chatham, Ontario, one of the church's most eminent missionaries, and the author of the Chinese dictionary, was presented by Rev. Dr. Scott of Montreal, and seconded by Rev. Dr. McTavish of Toronto. The other nominee was a prominent layman, J. K. MacDonald, of Toronto.

Not in years has such interest attached to the election of the moderator, due in a large measure to the uncertainty that existed to the very last from the fact that nominations had been made of an exceptionally large number of men fitted for the office. One name that had been insistently mentioned was that of J. K. MacDonald, president of the Confederation Life of Toronto, a veteran in service to the church on various occasions, and especially identified with the assembly as convener of the aged and infirm ministers' and committee. In nominating Mr. MacDonald, Rev. Dr. A. B. Baird of Winnipeg, moderator of the 1916 assembly, made the appeal: "If we are going to be democratic, we must not go all the way and elect an elder." Following this, a recital was given of the many claims of Mr. MacDonald to the honor of moderator, which was the one that while ministers got a certain amount of pay for the work they do, Mr. MacDonald has given some 60 years of service to the church for the love of the cause, contributing generously of his means as well.

Dr. Campbell objected. "Fletcher is one thing for which the veteran senior clerk of the assembly, and the church's recognized authority on ecclesiastical law, Rev. Dr. Robert Campbell of Montreal, would not stand for."

"In such a motion in order?" the retiring moderator begged to be reminded of the responsibility of making a decision, asking that the assembly decide on the spot.

"I'll answer that," said Dr. Campbell. "I object on the grounds that the nomination is illegal, and the motion is, in consequence, incompetent." Dr. Campbell brushed aside with the strong arm of the law the objection of the retiring moderator, and the election of one Buchanan to the moderatorship of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland in the time of John Knox; the appointment of elder moderators in the Presbyterian Assembly of the United States, and in the assembly of India, "and new places like that."

"In the time of Buchanan's moderatorship," he said, "the church of Scotland had no minister called a moderator." He had nothing personal against Mr. Campbell's objection on the ground that it was understood that no questions of a controversial nature should be introduced in the assembly this year which is only partially representative of the church.

Objection was taken to Dr. Campbell's statement that the assembly is only partially representative of the church, as the assembly ruled on a vote of 83 to 81 in favor of Dr. Campbell's decision to be upheld. This came as a considerable surprise, owing to the fact that the names of the members of the assembly were not known to the members of the assembly, and the names of the members of the assembly were not known to the members of the assembly.

Came as a Surprise. Rev. Dr. Donald MacGillivray's nomination was somewhat in the nature of a surprise, owing to the fact that he was only during the afternoon of the day mentioned, and he was only during the afternoon of the day mentioned, and he was only during the afternoon of the day mentioned.

Lengthy Eulogy. In view of the evident liking of the assembly of the idea of a missionary conference, it is possible that the majority of Dr. Fletcher would at least have been considerably reduced had the majority of the members of the assembly been present.

After delivering his sermon to the assembly on the subject of the open door for opportunity to the church, which confronts the church, and the imperative need for vitality and aggressiveness in the church, he turned to the task which presents itself. Rev. Dr. John Neil, retiring moderator, declared the assembly duly constituted.

Before proceeding to the business of election of his successor, Dr. Neil referred feelingly to a number of the prominent men of the church who have passed away in the past year. Stating that he had by no means the names of all, he mentioned particularly four or five in different parts of the country. Among these were Rev. Styles, a prominent member of the synod, in social and in Sunday school work; Rev. Dr. Carmichael of King, who for fifty years ministered to one rural congregation, and who was for a time lecturer in the University of Toronto; Rev. Dr. McQueen, of St. James, a pioneer worker in the town of Keewatin, who preached when he was 83 years old; and Sir William Mortimer, of Clark, former lieutenant-governor of Ontario, an elder, who, with all the other claims upon him, never neglected his duties to the church.

REV. DR. COLIN FLETCHER.

our men in England and in France. I have visited churches from Newfoundland to Victoria. I have traveled some 30,000 miles, speaking on an average of once a day during the year. Turning to Dr. Fletcher at this point, he created a laugh by saying: "People have asked me again and again how I could stand the strain. For your comfort I may tell you, and for the comfort of the ministers present, the strain was nothing to that of preparing two sermons to preach every Sabbath and doing the work of Westminster Church."

Thanking the assembly for the honor conferred upon him of making him moderator, Rev. Dr. Fletcher made his generous in his difficult position. "The assembly may not always have been wise," he said, "but it has always been generous to the difficult and weak."

Great Responsibility. He referred to the great responsibility which he felt resting upon him as a rural minister to discharge the duties of the office creditably in view of the overture to rural moderators to come before the assembly.

Dr. Neil reported to Dr. Fletcher that the "loyal addresses from the assembly had been presented to the King and Governor-General and acknowledged by them." Dr. Fletcher wanted to know if the retiring moderator also had been presented to the King, Dr. Neil laughingly replied he was sorry, he had not.

On the subject of the moderator, the committee it was decided to hold the sessions of the assembly from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., and from 8 to 10 each evening. The last half-hour at noon each day will be devoted to the prayer, and the hour of the opening business sitting tomorrow.

The ruling was made that all motions must be given in to the clerks in writing before being submitted. Authority was bestowed by the assembly by the committee to have all printing done at The Advertiser job office for several days after the assembly has closed, such as has arisen at previous assemblies through having printing done a number of places.

More commissioners for the assembly arrived yesterday afternoon, among them being the following: Rev. Dr. Shearer of Toronto, secretary of social service, and now under call to become the secretary of the social service commission of Canada; Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, of the Presbyterian Church, Toronto, recently returned from the front, where he was employed as chaplain; Rev. T. L. McTavish of Toronto; and Rev. J. W. Woodside, Chalmers Church, Toronto.

Finance Committee. The finance committee of the general assembly met yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the University of Toronto, to discuss the mobilization of colleges. On account of there being so many of the students at the college, it was thought advisable to close some of the colleges, and yesterday's meeting was devoted to discussing this matter. It was decided to recommend that a few colleges be closed, but that some men be left in charge to look after the libraries and community. Many colleges cannot be closed during the time, because they are maintained in conjunction with various universities, the students being brought to the college for education, to discuss the mobilization of colleges. On account of there being so many of the students at the college, it was thought advisable to close some of the colleges, and yesterday's meeting was devoted to discussing this matter.

Will Play Golf. Many of the commissioners from out of town brought their golf equipment with them, and the London Hunt Club has invited all members of the assembly to play golf on the club links. Rev. W. McIntosh expressed the hope that none of the members would play on Sunday, but it is believed that his wishes will be carried out.

Presbyterians attending the present assembly who have scarcely missed a gathering of the kind, the union of the two churches, Dr. Scott, editor of the Presbyterian Record, Montreal, is one of the veterans of the church, and a member of the assembly, while last but not least, is Robert McQueen of Kingston, who has not missed an assembly since 1875, often paying his own expenses to attend, thus demonstrating his interest in the work. Elder McQueen is a brother of Rev. Dr. McQueen of Edmonton.

Carmen's Union Marking Time on Wage Demands.

"We are still waiting official notification of the terms which will be offered the railway workers in the United States," said an officer of the Carmen's union at the G. T. R. cars shops today, in answer to a query in reference to the question of the strike of the men. All men in the employ of the railroad with the exception of those in the offices, freight department and trainmen, are affected by the proposed agreement between the company and the carshops men does not expire until July 1, and it is expected that the question will be settled by that time. The Canadian railway employees have been promised the same conditions as their brother workers across the line will receive. The men here say they are not bound to accept these terms, but until they know definitely what they are they will not hazard an opinion as to their acceptance."

QUERIES REGARDING MILITARY SERVICE

Send in Your Problems and They Will Be Answered From Official Information by The Advertiser.

C. G. S. Blenheim: Q.—1. Would it be all right for me, in category E, to go and be examined now before the M. S. A. in Kent County? 2. Is there a medical examiner for the M. S. A. in Kent County? 3. Is there any special date set for the calling up of class E men? A.—No; if the authorities wish to have you examined they will notify you. 2. No; there are examiners for volunteers. Dr. C. B. Langford is in charge at Blenheim. 3. No; men are not being called up, and it is unlikely that they ever will be. They are being re-examined from time to time.

BELMONT: Q.—I have been to report for duty. Am I A2, and have had three brothers in the army who have been discharged totally disabled, and the other is serving in the law in the army. Have I a title to exemption from the M. S. A.? A.—You are not entitled to an exemption if you have been called up to report for duty. You might get a temporary exemption if you have a commanding officer for leave of absence when you report to your battalion.

STRATHROY, D. S.: Q.—Please give full particulars regarding the Battalion for girls. A.—Write to the assistant adjutant-general of Military District No. 10, Winnipeg, Man. No information is given, but it is understood that such a unit is being formed at Winnipeg.

J. H.: Q.—I came from Scotland about 6 years ago, and on Oct. 1, 1914, I was registered there. My birth is registered there. Will it be necessary for me to get a new birth certificate, or will my exemption certificate be sufficient to carry while in Canada? A.—Your exemption certificate is sufficient.

P. W. C.: Q.—Will a man have to produce his marriage certificate when he registers June 22, and if he does not, will he be allowed to carry it after he registers? A.—The national registration, June 22, is for the purpose of showing that a man is married with military service. The marriage certificate should be carried at all times to show that the man is married under the M. S. A., but is not needed for national registration.

TILBURY EAST: Q.—Two young men born in Manitoba, whose births were registered in 1914, wish to know how to prove their age to the military authorities. One was born in 1893 and the other in 1899.

A.—The one who was born in 1893 is Class 1 and needs a medical certificate not a birth certificate. The one born in 1899 should get a certificate of his age signed by two reputable citizens residing in the community in which he lives, and having knowledge of the fact.

X. Y. Z.: Q.—I will have a D man, 25 years old, re-examined and put in A, be called immediately, or will he be left until the men of his age are called?

2. Will he be able to secure exemption on other grounds than those of ill-health?

3. Should he write about further exemption, or will he have a chance of putting forth his claim?

4. If he cannot secure exemption will he have a chance of units? A.—1. He will be notified in due time to submit any other claims for exemption he may have. He need not write. If the tribunal refuses his claim, and he does not appeal it, he will have a chance to enlist and obtain a choice of units before he is notified to report. 2. He will be called in a few days after he has been notified that his exemption has been refused.

C. M. J.: Q.—Do men of 41 and 43 have to carry birth certificate and if so where can they get one? A.—It depends largely on their age. If they are under 40, they must carry a person not in uniform, and who apparently may be, or is reasonably supposed to be, a Canadian citizen under the M. S. A., must carry papers. If you appear to be not over 35 years of age, you have better get a birth certificate from the registrar.

W. Z. W.: Q.—I am 19 years old. Could I get a position in the army as stenographer? A.—You may join the R. A. F. or will I have to wait until I am called and get transferred? A.—You can join now.

Do you know a registrar who has shown a receipt from the registrar showing that you have registered?

BRANTFORD: Q.—Was examined by a medical board at Brantford the month of June, July and August, this store will close Wednesday at 1 o'clock.

After being shown my certificate of exemption has a military or Dominion policeman a right to take me before a medical board without my having been notified by registered medical officer? A.—Apparently he has that right in exceptional cases, where it is suspected that a man is not in uniform, and who apparently may be, or is reasonably supposed to be, a Canadian citizen under the M. S. A., must carry papers. If you appear to be not over 35 years of age, you have better get a birth certificate from the registrar.

Will Play Golf. Many of the commissioners from out of town brought their golf equipment with them, and the London Hunt Club has invited all members of the assembly to play golf on the club links. Rev. W. McIntosh expressed the hope that none of the members would play on Sunday, but it is believed that his wishes will be carried out.

A REPLY FROM A FARMER. To the Editor of The Advertiser:—Will you please allow me space in your valuable paper for a few lines of criticism of the address of George Wedlake at the Hamilton conference in Guelph, May 31, on the question of "The Laymen and Ministerial problem," in which it is said he handled both laymen and ministers without gloves. He found fault with the low salaries paid ministers in the country districts, also that the parsonages were good dwelling-places and some are palatial mansions. THE GARBAGE COLLECTOR. Having seen various reports about the garbage system in your paper, I feel called upon to say a few words for the collectors, being one myself. During Monday night's meeting Ald. Moorhead stated that under normal conditions the men getting their demands. I can assure the said gentleman that under normal conditions the men would not have asked for an increase. At a former meeting the statement was made that if our demands were acceded to it would mean that we were getting only $12 a week would have to dig deep into our pockets to pay for the garbage. Another thing, the men who are doing the work are not getting any money, and yet another objection that was made was that it was inadvisable to increase wages in the middle of the year, meaning, I suppose, that the estimates had been put through and were all cut and dried. So where in the name of goodness is the $12 man going to suffer for the year, at any rate to the election? If that is the case, I employers in this city giving a married man the privilege of working for the week's work would advise them to consider the matter seriously. The garbage collector, who by the way, could get boys or girls to do the same work for a smaller sum. Furthermore, a comparison was made between the garbage collector, "who by the way, rides around the city half of his time, and the engineers, who work all the time, and only get the same wage as the garbage collector. I ask the citizens of this city, what kind of an engineer is it that is satisfied with 43 per day under present conditions, while his services are, or should be, "if he is a competent," worth double that amount? Another thing, the garbage collector is not lacking. I notice that once again Ald. Keene, or should I say, our friend, Ald. Keene, is again asking us for more money, but because he thinks that conditions do not warrant an increase, but simply because one has been refused to the engineers at the instigation of the men of the collection must emphatically state that we based our demands, not because what other people are getting, but because we have the right to live, not merely exist. As regards Engineer Brazier's assertion that the city would not help him, I am sure that the city would help him.

which has already been done, to take our place. That is a thing we cannot prevent, but I say right here that any man who will step into a job vacated by a man who is a soldier for a living wage is a cad of the lowest order, and deserves all that can come to him, with a little extra thrown in. Trusting you will print this in your valuable newspaper. I remain, Sir, Yours truly, ONE OF THE COLLECTORS.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Why Moderately High Heels Really Are "Right" For You

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

To deny that "high" heels are pretty, graceful and neat would be to speak a practical truth. In spite of all the scientific protests against high heels, and the heretofore attempted explanations of the anatomical hazards high heels present with them, they are, nevertheless, eluding to with steadfast devotion.

For the short, the society belle and the factory maud all wish to look their best and "attract."

Fortunately for the pretty maid, her heart's desire has, to an extent at least, been confirmed by science to be "all right." Thanks to the work of the X-ray, you may wear high heels, attractive maiden, only don't "want too much of a good thing." Heretofore, the stern physician would have you wear low heels—almost no heels—but now you may wear a pretty Cuban heel with hearty approval.

How to "See." If you could see some X-ray pictures of your feet when donned in their highest heels, you would see your toes and your heels so distorted in their positions that, instead of lying in the same plane they lie in two distinctly different planes.

To get a better idea of the position of your foot bones in high-heeled shoes, place your arms and hands flatly on a table. Now your hand and wrist and arm lie in the same plane. Raise your wrist without moving the arm, almost as far as it will go. Now the plane in which your hand lies is not quite at right angles with the plane of the arm and wrist. In other words, one plane is almost perpendicular to the other. This is the position of your foot bones when the heels you are wearing are too high.

Raise again your hand and your wrist but slightly and you can more easily imagine the X-ray picture of your foot in a moderately high heel. Now your heel, which in the arm comparison corresponds to your hand, is raised slightly above the toes, and both the heels and toes lie in the same plane, only tilted. This is the normal position of the anatomy of the foot, and the normal position of your entire mechanism.

Besides the bones of the foot alone there is a little bone on each knee called the knee-pan, which suffers acutely when the foot bones are thrown out of place, and only those of the toes receive the heavy bodily weight. The knee-pan is moved upward and outward when the foot is clothed in a very high-heeled shoe. This distortion of the knee joint renders the knees weak and shaky, and walking becomes a nuisance.

When the foot is in a moderately high-heeled shoe the knee bones are normal in their position, and walking becomes pleasurable exercise. There is no weak knee bone wobbling foot and twisted ankle to mar your pleasure when the shoe you wear is moderately high-heeled. You walk—briskly and smoothly, even better, perhaps, than if you were wearing sandals. Indeed, no heels at all would be as bad as too high ones, for then the strain upon the back muscles of the thigh and legs would be rendered fairly great. Too much of the bodily weight would be thrown upon the knees, and the "power" would again be disturbed.

A well-shaped, medium-sized heel produces the desired effect, and does not mar the shapeliness of the foot in any way at all. The foot bones are in a normal position in a Cuban-heeled shoe, the knee-pan is in place, and the weight of the bodily mechanism is evenly divided, and no one set of bones and muscles is overstrained. The entire bodily posture, furthermore, looks poised and dignified. You may walk for hours at a time without the feeling of weariness or fatigue when your shoes are all in comfort that you would have them be.

Injures Entire Body. You would imagine, innocent sinner, that only your feet suffer when you imprison them in a pair of high-heeled and tightly-laced shoes. In this instance you suffer double agony—highness and tightness. Each of these abnormal conditions interferes with the normalcy of the foot's mechanism. It is even divided, and no one set of bones and muscles is overstrained. The entire bodily posture, furthermore, looks poised and dignified. You may walk for hours at a time without the feeling of weariness or fatigue when your shoes are all in comfort that you would have them be.

Since there is not a single part of the human anatomy that is not affected by the use of the too high heel, and the stagnation in the foot is accentuated. There is a minimum of movement of the blood stream. The muscles of the leg also are kept immobile by the use of the too high heel, and the stagnation in the foot is accentuated.

Answers to Health Questions

L. C. T. Q.—What can be done for neuritis in the eyes? I wear eyeglasses.

A.—Perhaps you should have two sets of eyeglasses, one for outdoors and one for reading. Consult your oculist about this.

H. K. R. Q.—Would you kindly inform me why it is that I always have cold hands?

A.—Cold hands may be due to over-exercise or over-exertion, or they may be a perfectly normal condition. You should have a complete examination of the heart, lungs and other structures made.

M. V. X. Q.—My eyelids are very dark. Can you tell me what to do for this?

A.—If you mean the skin of the eyelids is dark, a soap of a neutral kind will probably peel off the outer layers of epidermis and lighten the color of the lids.

MRS. C. R. Q.—Please suggest something for an itchy scalp.

A.—A little of one of sulphur with ten grains each of resorcin, salicylic acid and sulphate of quinine to an ounce of petrolatum, used three times a week, does much good.

S. L. M. Q.—Will you please tell me what to do for this eyebrow?

A.—Use a little of the following on your eyebrows about three times a week:

Phosphoric acid..... 2½ grains

Quinine sulphate..... ½ dram

Linolin..... ½ ounce

Petrolatum..... ½ ounce

MISS S. D. T. A.—Your question is of a personal nature. If you will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your question repeated I will be very pleased to help you.

A CONSTANT READER: Q.—What would you advise me to use for very thin hair?

A.—Try a little of the following remedy for your hair:

Quinine..... 1 dram

Phosphoric acid..... 2½ grains

Salicylic acid..... 15 grains

Linolin..... ½ ounce

Petrolatum..... ½ ounce

C. S. Q.—Would you please tell me how I could gain weight?

A.—Your weight may be increased by 10 to 15 pounds sleep in the 24 hours.

Water or liquids of any kind drunk with meals help to digest the food.

Starches, butter, puddings, fatty meats, rich soups and gravies are fattening. Take but slight exercise.

Be outdoors as much as possible and keep the bowels active.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Madge Insists On Going to the Wounded Officer at Once.

I looked at Lillian with quickened interest when she spoke of the wounded officer down the corridor.

There was a peculiar fascination to me surrounding the man who had so chivalrously guarded me during the most thrilling adventure in which I had ever participated.

His personality, I knew from the brief glimpses I had had of him, was a wonderfully complex one of masterful virility and chivalrous tenderness. That he was a soldier of the highest ideals I was sure also. I had been filled with admiration for him before the shot which made me unconscious. And Lillian's story of the manner in which he, almost dying, had brought me to the hospital, had raised my admiration for him to the nth power.

I said to myself that my feeling for this unknown officer was like a school-girl's hero worship, but there was no irritation, no self-acorn in my admiration. He had rescued me from a fate at even the thought of which I shuddered. We had faced death together. I felt that there was no tribute of gratitude or of admiration too great for me to pay him.

Lillian had paused, evidently expecting me to ask some question concerning her statement. This was unlike her, and I noticed also that she seemed to lack something of her usual assurance in speaking of the officer.

"What is the trouble with him?" I asked wonderingly.

"No one knows," she returned. "He is so exceedingly restless that it's hardly his recovery, and his brain hasn't cleared completely yet. He is positively delirious at times, and goes over and over the ride to the hospital, and in his more lucid intervals he's constantly worrying about you."

"About me?" I ejaculated in amazement.

"Yes," returned Lillian soberly. "He has a crazy idea that you were hurt when you were—thinks that the nurses are keeping the truth from him. There's but one thing that will relieve his mind, and I suppose you can guess what that is."

I was annoyed at the flush that stained my cheeks—at the trembling which I could not control. Of course, which I could not control. Of course, which I could not control.

nurses wished me to go to the wounded officer's bedside in order to prove to him that I was really alive and well on the road to recovery, but I didn't know whether I was more delighted or dismayed at the prospect.

"I shall be glad to assure him that I am in the flesh instead of the spirit," I returned flippantly.

"There's more than that to it, Madge," Lillian returned seriously. "He is in such a weakened condition, so near the border line that your going away after he has once seen you may have serious consequences."

She paused, but I knew that she hadn't yet told me all she wished to, and I waited breathlessly for her next words.

"It is going to be rather hard on you, dear," she said at length, "but the physicians wish you to be prepared to stay for a day or two with the nurse in charge of the officer, so that every time he wakes and calls for you he may not be disappointed."

"Am I ready?"

I was vaguely irritated at Lillian's attitude. She seemed to assume that the task which had been laid out for me would be an unenviable burden. Instead, I was thrilling with excitement, filled with gratitude that I could do anything to repay the man who had paid so great a price for his chivalry to me. The momentary dismay which had seized me when I first grasped Lillian's meaning had vanished. I was only conscious of one feeling, a great desire to serve the wounded hero in any way possible.

Something whispered to me, however, to conceal this eagerness from Lillian; in fact, from everybody. It was a queer, instinctive feeling, one into the origin of which I was reluctant to inquire. It made me make my real feeling beneath an assumption of cool indifference.

"Of course, there is nothing else to do," I said in quiet acquiescence. "When do they want me to begin assisting the nurse?"

"They think you will be strong enough to go in tomorrow morning," she said hesitatingly. "Of course, they know it will be a great strain on you, but I'm afraid they would ask you to go sooner."

I raised myself on one elbow.

"I thought you said a few minutes ago that I was perfectly able to leave the hospital," I said excitedly.

"Being able to leave the hospital for tender home care and being shoved into the room of a dangerously sick person are two different things," Lillian returned.

"And while we are discussing the matter, the man who saved my life at the risk of his own may be dying," I said over and over the ride to the hospital, and in his more lucid intervals he's constantly worrying about you."

"About me?" I ejaculated in amazement.

"Yes," returned Lillian soberly. "He has a crazy idea that you were hurt when you were—thinks that the nurses are keeping the truth from him. There's but one thing that will relieve his mind, and I suppose you can guess what that is."

I was annoyed at the flush that stained my cheeks—at the trembling which I could not control. Of course, which I could not control. Of course, which I could not control.

POLLY'S PEEP INTO VENICE.

"It's no use!" exclaimed Polly. "The more I read the less I know," and she threw her book aside.

"What's the trouble?" asked a merry voice, and Polly's little friend, Geomac, hopped upon the step beside her.

"I'm having a terrible time to learn something about Venice," replied Polly.

"Well, it's hard to get interested in something we've never seen," laughed Geomac. "Suppose we just fly over the ocean and over the hills and take a peep into Venice?"

"Of course," this pleased Polly, and, jumping up, she caught hold of Geomac's hand. Away they sailed through the air over the little towns, across the ocean and down the south side of the Alps and landed in Italy.

As far as eye could reach ran the Italian lakes, beautiful and sparkling in the glorious sunlight, reflecting the wonderful blue of the Italian skies.

"That's a fairy castle," I see yonder," asked Polly, pointing to great white spires that looked like snow-covered peaks rising in the sky.

"Oh, no!" laughed Geomac. "That's the beautiful marble cathedral in the city of Milan. It's the capital of Lombardy, and one of the most picturesque Italian cities."

"And this wonderful fairland with its golden streets?" exclaimed Polly, as she looked down under her.

"That's Venice!" replied the elfin. "You know Venice is built on a hundred islands of a low sandy coast. All its streets are waterways, and the sun shining on them makes them look like streets of gold. Instead of wagons, they use boats, called gondolas."

"Back and forth under them these oddly-shaped black boats glided silently between rows of tall palaces, that from the distance seemed to rise right out of the sea."

"Oh, how beautiful!" cried Polly. "How peaceful and quiet, with no horses' feet pounding on the roads. Only the splash of the water against the sides of the boats and the merry songs of the gondoliers."

Sometimes I'll take you for a peep into Rome," whispered Geomac. "Rome is the capital of Italy. But now its growing late and almost your bedtime."

Before Polly could blink her eyes she was sitting on the front porch again, and Geomac was nowhere in sight. The sun had fallen behind the hills and the shadows were lengthening. Polly picked up her book and went in to kiss mamma good-night.

A world-flying height record of 22,048 feet, with a passenger aboard, attained in one hour three minutes, has been established by Pilot Lieut. Francesco Brak Papa of the Italian army.

Benzine is very useful for the removal of grease spots and various other stains. Its odor, however, is very disagreeable to the average housewife. This may be completely removed by repeatedly shaking up the benzine with a plumbate of soda solution, and rectifying it. The plumbate of soda is made by dissolving litharge in caustic soda.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLEIFFE.

Solving the Problem of Making a Gown a "Frame" for Beauty. One of the most interesting of our clients is Mrs. Oliver—who, I believe, is one of the loveliest women one could wish to see. Her beauty is the extreme blonde type—golden hair, blue eyes, and a strawberry and cream complexion.

Yet sometimes this type of woman makes the most atrocious mistakes in dress. In a frantic effort to adorn her beauty to the utmost possible advantage they sometimes overdo themselves, and so suffocate their personalities.

As I gazed at Mrs. Oliver today there came to my mind two of my friends who might be as attractive as Mrs. Oliver if they only had her appreciation of the value of straight lines. These girls, however, in trying to emphasize the slenderness of their soft golden curls, beautilize and decorate themselves with all the frills and loops and draperies they can find an excuse for, until they look more like a package of fancy lingerie than essentially pretty girls.

Mrs. Oliver, however, has a shrewd eye for her own background. She said to me, "I'm afraid this gown is more beautiful than I am, and that will never, never do. You see, I regard myself as a picture, and my frock merely as a frame. I don't want the frame to be so beautiful it will obscure the picture."

Mrs. Oliver laughed as she said this, but her eyes were quite serious—there was no doubting she was in earnest. She carries her philosophy of dress into action.

One of the cleverest touches in this frock is the trimming. A series of diagonal stripes of embroidered worsted cross the shoulders from left to right. The same effect is repeated on the lower part of the panel so that there is an impression of perfectly balanced trimming.

The long oval curve of the panel from shoulder to shoulder acts off to splendid advantage Mrs. Oliver's rounded throat and proudly poised head.

In it she demonstrated her point—you could feel her imperious power dominating the wide-time simplicity of this artistic little frock.

An eventful, if not an exciting, day is promised by an interesting alignment of planetary forces. Mars is operating forcefully but beneficially, stimulating large enterprises, new projects and success generally, a condition fostered by a friendly Jupiter, who will emphasize the financial prospects. New business and investments should flourish. It is not an auspicious time for making moves, sudden changes or to travel, and some peculiar dangers seem to threaten women, probably from a psychic, erratic or impressionable mental attitude, borne of a malefic Neptune position. Intrigue, deception and peculiar alliances, with subtle dangers therefrom, grow from this aspect. It calls for great discretion and well-balanced action.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a successful and prosperous year, but may well avoid travel, changes, and should be particularly discreet in all affiliations. A child born on this day will be energetic, clever, but erratic and impressionable.

REJECTING AWARD OF CONCILIATORS

Decline to Accept the Board's Findings in Wage Dispute.

150 AFFECTED HERE

Question Considered Here at Sunday Meeting of These Men.

Toronto, June 6.—At a meeting of the International Brotherhood of Railroad
Stationmen and Yardmen, held at the Alliance in its dispute with the Grand Central Terminal Company, it was decided unanimously to reject the award made by the conciliator board, and to continue the strike. The board of conciliators had recommended that the men be paid an increase of 10 per cent, and that the company be allowed to hire men from other sources.

More than fifteen thousand employees of the G. T. C. are affected by the dispute. The men are now on strike, and the company is having great difficulty in getting its trains running.

At the meeting, held in London, St.
Thomas, some other strict points recently following the scale of wages which was suggested by the conciliator board, was regarded as totally inadvisable.

TWELVE
GENEROUS DONATIONS
TO TOBACCO FUND
Schools Have Supported Work of Overseas Club.

President Harley Brown of the Overseas Club Tobacco Fund, today acknowledged the receipt of a handsome subscription to the fund from Mrs. W. W. Harrison of the Ramsey school. A donation of $25 taken up as an Empire Day contribution among some 30 pupils, was given to Treasurer William Turnbull. This is regarded as one of the finest contributions so far made to the fund, which has now a hand about $1,300 to be sent overseas. A handsome contribution has also been received from the separate schools, in addition to the large amount given by the public schools.

Secretary H. S. Kenwick of the Bank of Commerce, who has served the club since its inception, has just returned from the University of Toronto. The officers feel very grateful to him for his services.

ALL GOING TO PRESTON.
The only place in Waterloo County that will hold a Dominion Day celebration this year will be Preston, where the Great War Veterans and the band of the Preston High School are promoting a joint affair. The band has been engaged, and a big program of sports is being prepared, apart from some high-class socials. With fine weather, Preston anticipates the biggest crowd in her history.

COUNTY OF MAKE A SPECIAL EVENT FOR RED CROSS

One Mill Added Will Net $40,000 for Patriotic Work.

WOMEN'S STRONG APPEAL
More Than 100 Active Patriotic Workers Present Soldiers' Claims.

For the purpose of furthering the work of the Red Cross and affiliated societies in Middlesex County, the council at its session yesterday afternoon decided to add one mill to the county tax rate for the year. This levy of one mill on the dollar will raise approximately $40,000 for Red Cross purposes.

The money will be raised on the basis of assessment in each municipality, and each municipality will receive a check from the county treasurer for the amount secured in that particular section. A one-mill levy will secure $5,500 in London Township, and this amount will be handed back to that township to distribute as the officials of that municipality see fit.

Called Are Urgent.
After nearly four years of war we are still called upon to make many sacrifices for war purposes, and at the same time we are called upon to collect the money to pay the bills. It is the duty of every citizen to place a tax on the county assessment to raise the necessary money.

Lady Beck explained the needs for Red Cross funds, and made an appeal to the county councilors to grant the request of the representatives of the county Red Cross organizations.

Mrs. A. T. Edwards stated that the duty devolved upon the women of Canada to supply Red Cross materials for men at the front.

Mr. Nelson stated it was an honor to have the opportunity of approving the Y.M.C.A. grant, and he expressed his confidence in the Y.M.C.A. and its work.

The extra shirts and extra socks furnished by the Red Cross societies were at times a godsend to the men in the trenches.

Sergeant Young, an 18th Battalion man, related experiences at the front in connection with the need for socks. He said that the men were often in need of socks, and that the socks supplied by the Red Cross were a great help.

S. Frank Glass, M. P., appealed to the county councilors to grant the request made by the delegation.

Are Kept Busy.
The representatives of the county Red Cross societies had sufficient work to do without having to raise the money to add one mill to the tax rate. The most equitable way of raising the money was by the addition of one mill to the tax rate.

The remaining speakers who appeared at the meeting were J. D. McLaughlin of Stratford; B. C. Brooks, ex-rev. of London; and J. H. Glenzie, ex-rev. of London. Mr. Glenzie, who is a member of the Y.M.C.A. and a member of the Red Cross, made a strong appeal to the councilors to grant the request.

At the conclusion of the addresses it was the wish of the councilors to give the grant of $30,000 to the Y.M.C.A. and to recommend the grant to the council.

One of the Red Cross workers asked that a vote be taken there and then. The councilors voted unanimously in favor of the grant.

Without a dissenting voice the report of the finance committee was adopted, and as a result the Y.M.C.A. will receive $30,000.

WAR HAS GIVEN CHURCH UNLIMITED OPPORTUNITY FOR CHRISTIAN SERVICE

"Task and the Vision Must Go Together," Says Rev. John Neil, Retiring Moderator, in His Charge to the Delegates to General Assembly.

"The task and the vision must go together. We cannot separate them," was the retiring moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, impressed upon the venerable the general assembly, and the other members of the vast gathering assembled in St. Andrew's Church last evening to hear his charge delivered at the opening of the supreme court of the church in the Dominion.

Taking as his subject, "The Open Door," Dr. Neil, in his address, stressed the need of service which lies before the church in the present and immediate future, in view of conditions created by the war.

The church, he emphasized, must turn up to the people for Christian leadership to take the places of those who have given their lives for the church. The church must purify the cities from which influence flows out to the remotest part of our land. The church must be purified. The church must co-operate with the state in securing the returned soldier just and generous treatment.

There are political, educational, industrial, social and economic problems to be solved after the war. Will not the church be called upon to say concerning these? A question raised by the moderator.

Dr. Neil declared that there are two things essential to the carrying out of the church's duty. The first is the church's own purification. The second is the church's service to the world. The church must be purified. The church must co-operate with the state in securing the returned soldier just and generous treatment.

How is our church to be manned in the days to come? Our colleges are empty. It would not be creditable to them just now if it were otherwise. But, you say, how are they to be filled? Again, even when the war is over, that question demands an answer, and it will only be a persistent, spiritual campaign which will enable us to answer that question.

We often hear the statement made that the materialism of the age is responsible for the fact that so few of our young men are candidates for the ministry. It is said that the answer to the question, "What is man's role in the world?" is to be found in the Old Testament. It is said that the answer is to be found in the Old Testament. It is said that the answer is to be found in the Old Testament.

Parents say we will not permit our boys to go into the ministry. Now, there is nothing in this. This war has revealed the fact that there is a man's role in the world. It is to be found in the Old Testament. It is to be found in the Old Testament. It is to be found in the Old Testament.

DELANEY CONVICTED OF HAVING RECEIVED STOLEN BRASS INGOTS

South London Man Will Be Sentenced Shortly.

Thomas Delaney of Front street was acquitted on a charge of stealing 2,300 pounds of brass from the National Brass Company, but on the second count, of receiving stolen goods, he was convicted.

Delaney's case was the first of the criminal actions to be heard at the court since the receipt of the peace settlements now in progress at the courthouse.

The charge against Delaney arose out of the discovery of a number of brass ingots hidden in a motor car. Delaney was arrested after some investigation by the police.

The case was commenced at 2:30 p.m. and continued until 4 o'clock in the afternoon to hear the evidence adduced by the jury. Delaney was found guilty of the charge, and was sentenced to 12 months in prison.
