Trust in God. " What time I am afraid I will trust in Thee."

The billows round me rise and roll, The storms of worldly care Beat heavily upon my soul, And shroud me in despair; Forsaken, comfortless, betrayed, With none to succor me,

Father! what time I am afraid. Then will I trust in Thee! As feeble as the bruised reed Infirm to will and do: Oft working out the ungrateful deed Twere better to eschew . How were the sinking soul dismayed, Could it not cry to Thee, Father, what time I am atraid, Then will I trust in Thee.

When hope is faint, and faith is week, And fears the bosom fill. And I a strong assurance seek That Thou art gracious still; I rest upon Thy promise-word, To Thine own truth I flee: Father, what time I am afraid, Then will I trust in Thee!

When saintly paleness marks my face, And dimness fills my eye, And, hoping only in Thy grace, I lay me down to die; If, entering in the vale of shade. Nor sun nor star I see, Father, what time I am afraid,

Then will I trust in Thee!

God Slow to Anger.

BY T. GUTHRIE, D. D.

"He executeth not judgment speedil against the workers of iniquity." He does punish; He shall punish; with reverence be it spoken, He must punsh. Yet no hand of clock goes so slow as God's hand of vengeance. Of that, the world, this city, and this church are witnesses; each and all, speaker and hearer, are living witnesses .-It is too common to overlook this fact, andoverlooking the kindness, long-suffering, and warnings which precede the judgment, we are apt to give the punishment our exclusive attention. We see his kindness impressed on all his works. Even the lion growls before he leaps; and, before the snake strikes, she springs her rattle. Look, for example, on the catastrophe engrossed by the dread and awful character of this judgment, as to overlook all that preceded it, and see nothing but these devouring

The waters rise till rivers swell into lakes and lakes into seas, and along the fertile plains the sea stretches out her arms to seize their flying population. Still the waters rise : and now, mingled with beasts that terror has tamed, men climb to monatain tops, the flood roaring at their heels. Still the waters sise : and now each summit stands above them like a separate and sea-girt isle Still the waters rise; and now crowding closer on the narrow spaces of their lessening tops, men and beasts fight for standing-room. Still the thunders roar and the waters rise, till the last survivor of the shrieking crowds Alp goes down beneath the wave. And now the waters rise no more: God's servant has done his work; he rests from his stroyed, an awful silence reigning, and a physical powers languish, a good Christian have had the sympathy and support of that stroyed, an awful silence reigning, and a shoreless ocean rolling, death for once has nothing to do, but ride in triumph on the top of some giant billow, which, meeting no coast, no continent, no Alp, no Andes, to prose where we have a specific top of some will be known by the Judge for what they gave, and others for what they did—

We stand aghast at this scene; and, as the corpses of gentle children and sweet infants are floating by, we exclaim, " Has God forgotten to be gracious? is his mercy clean gone forever? No, assuredly not. Where, then, is his mercy? Look here; look at this ark which, steered by an invisible hand, comes dimly through the gloom. That lonely ship on a shoreless sea carries mercy on board; and within walls which are pitched the coafliest.

The germs of the Church are there—the patriarchs of the old world, and the fathers of the new .-Suddenly, amid the awful gloom, as she drifts over that dead and silent sea, a grating sound is heard; she has grounded on the top of Ararat. The door is opened; and beneath the sign of the olive branch they come forth from their baptismal burial like life from the dead,-like souls passing from nature into a state of grace,-like the saints when they shall rise at the summons of the trump it to behold a new heaven and a new earth, and to see the sign which these "gray lathers" hailed, encircling the head which was crowned with thorns. Nor is this all. Our heavenly Father's character is clear to us; and I must remind you that ere -mercy flew, like the dove, to that asylum, she had swept the world with her wings. Were there but eight, only eight saved? There were thousands, millions sought. Nor is it justice to God to forget how long a period of patience and preaching and warning and compassion, preceded that dreadful deluge. Long before the lightning flashed from angry heavens; skies; long before the floor and solid pavement of this earth, under the prodigious agencies at work, broke up, like the deck of a leaking ship, and the waters rushed from below to meet the waters from above, and sink a guilty world; long before the time when the ark floated away by tower and town, and those crowded hill-tops, where frantic groups had clustered, and amid prayers and curses, and shrieks and shouts, hung out their signals of distress-very impenitent world to repentance. There is much reading matter afloat that is not fit for the public eye, mind, or heart, tions literature, some of which may have all the charms of rhetoric and poetry, and yet conceal the serpent. No one can estimate the amount of evil that may result from the inoculation of the youthful mind, in particular, with the moral poison. Its effects will be felt and probably seen in all after life.— In this light it was that John Randolph viewed it, as may be seen from an extract below from the American Messenger:

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.—It is believed that there is no remedial agent before the public which has so rarely failed to give satisfaction as Ayer's Pills, prepared by Dr. Ayer, the well-known Chemist of Lowell, Mass They are now in constant use in almost every town and village in the old as well as in the new world, and the reputation they have won is unprecedented in the annals of medicine. The secret of their suc cess lies in the fact that the powerful vegetable substances of which they are wholly composed, are skillfully combined, the proportion of each adjusted by experiment and study, those sub stances in this combination being powerful to cure those diseases which require a purgative medicine See advertisement in another

"Very brief and concise," said Halley. " It did not exist before, and it was opposed! Will you claim him then for a brother Baptist? He is called an actuate ressoner-your own men call him a learned and acute ressoner—and yet it had never occurred to him that this infant baptism was an innovation; that there was an ' unanswersble argument' in the great commission itself to put down effectually all infant baptism tendencies! Nor is he exactly orthodox on the great text ' believe and be bapsume he would have amended the commarried, and then be baptized.' He does not, in some other points, seem fully to be allied in faith to the belief of his brethern in these times; especially as he is so ignotuition of some of our Baptist writers. But as he is the only one we have as yet found,

"Dr. Mosheim, in his Church History, says of Tertullian : 'He was endued with great genius, but seemed deficient in point of judgment. His piety was warm and vigorous, but at the same time melaucholy and agetere. His learning was extensive and profound; and yet his credulity and superstition were such as might be expected from the darkest ignorance. And with respect to his reasonings, they had more of that subtlety that dazzles the imagination, than of that solidity that brings light and conviction of the mind."

"Says Dr. Wall, a very candid and reliable writer, who was born in 1645 or 6 and died in 1727 or '8 and spent the most of his life in the study of the Church Fathers and the early writers of the Christian era : Terrullian fell into the heresy of the Montanists, who biasphemously held that one Montanus was that Paraclete or Comforter which our Saviour promised to send : and that fuller and better discoveries of God's will were made to him than to the Apostles. who prophesied only in part. . But that which most deserves the reader's observation is, that the words of Teriullian do not import that the custom of the Corretians at that time was to leave infants unbaptized but, on the contrary, they plainly intimate that there was a custom of beptizing them only he dislikes that that custom should be generally used' (Vol. i. pp 87 and 99) So Dr. Wardiaw, of Glasgow, takes the same view of his testimony. 'Tertullian's condemning the practice of baptizing infants, so far from being in their (the Baptists') favor, militates against them. It not only proves its previous existence, it proves more. It proves that it was no innovation.'

"Note Mr. Graves' reasons." continued informed us, if it had been an innovation, as well as Brother Graves? He opposed it, and brought all the argument he could ment that a learned and scute reasoner of that age could bring to bear against infant baptism, there is nothing about its not being a divine institution - not a text of Scripture that has the least bearing upon the subject -nothing about infants not being equally entitled to it with believing unmarried not being taught and practised by the aposties-he must certainly have known whether it was or not-but simply, be thought it expedient that it be delayed in the case of infants and unmarried adults! J. D. NASH, Proprietor Variety Hall.

Proprietor Variety Hall. strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and slug-gish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood.

Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulum of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered

Sarsaparilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Ex-tract of Sarsaparilla for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the narket, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the diseases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to live the level of the bestler. to directions on the bottle.
