TWO HEARTS UNITED

CHAPTER XXXII.
CHAPTER XXXIII.

An enormous crowd collected in the market place at Halsary, and some time before the hour on which the court opened, converged in the court-house. The news of the death of Talbot Denby, and his valet, Gibbon, and the rumor that the latter had confessed to being an eye-witness of his master's crime had been started almost as soon as Gibbon's last words had been gashed out, and the rumor, confirmed by servants from Lynne Court, having been strengthened into "reliable intelligence," the populace, already intensely interested in Ralph Farrington and his fate, were all ablaze with excitement.

As they surged before the court-house and pressed against the heavy old doors they shouted and yelled, and there were not a few voices actually clamouring for Ralph's release.

The court was to sit at eleven, and as the hands of the clock were nearly upon the hour, a cry rose from the mob, for the Lynne Court carriage was seen coming along the High Street. In it were seated the earl and Veronica. It was noticed by the eager mob that they were both in mourning, and that Lord Lynborough was deathly pale; Veronica, too, was pale, but a light shone in her eyes which the crowd which thronged round the carriage was quick to interpret.

Someone started a cheer, but it was promptly hushed by those who remembered that at Lynne Court lay the dead body of the man whom they had all learnt to regard as its future master.

The earl and Veronica entered, by the magistrate's door, and soon afterwards the public were admitted, and the small court was instantly crammed by as many of the excited and eager mob as could squeeze into it.

All the magistrates were on the bench excepting Lord Sainsbury, who stood in the body of the court talking to Mr. Selby, upon whom all eyes were centred.

Veronica went up to Mr. Selby and held out her hand, both hands indeed.

"Does—does he know?" she whispered, her lovely face all aglow.

"Have you told him—what have you told him? They would not let me see him last night or this morning."

Mr. Selby nodded.

"Forgive me, but that was by my orders, or advice, rather. I feared that you would tell him that his innocence had been proved."

"As it has!" she breathed. "Oh, as it has!"

"Forgive me, Miss Veronica, not yet! There is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip—"

"Oh, Mr. Selby, a proverb at such a moment!" she breathed, with piteous reproach.

"I know—I know; but we lawyers must be careful. Until the bench has heard the evidence I would not risk telling Ralph—Lord Denby—that he was safe. But I told him enough to give him hope. Though I need scarcely have done that. Have you noticed—what a noise they make, and how excited they are!" he broke off, looking round at the seething crowd. "I can scarcely make myself heard—have you noticed that he has been the most hopeful, the most confident of all of us?"

"Is there anything I haven't noticed?" she said, in a low voice. "It is because he knew that the truth would pre—"

"Oh, proverbs at such a moment!" he murmured, smiling, and with a very fair imitation of her voice. "You see I'm so happy that I can joke, Miss Veronica—"

"Silence!" called the clerk.

Veronica stole back to her place beside the earl, who sat with his hands resting on his stick, his white head bent as if he were unconscious of the crowd, the noise, and the excitement. But as the prisoner was Catarthozone.

You can end a cold mighty quick— cure it completely—by Catarthozone. Any sort of Catarrh, whether in nose, throat or bronchial tubes, can be driven forever out of the system by simply breathing in the healing vapor of Catarthozone.

It's in the nostrils and air passages that Catarrh germs breed. The germ-killing vapor of Catarthozone means instant death to these germs—means that a healing process is started throughout all the sore membranes, thereby effectually ridding the system of the real cause of the trouble. Catarthozone promptly opens up clogged nostrils, takes that irritating pain out of the nose, prevents the formation of hard painful crusts. If there is a nasty discharge it disappears with a few hours' use of Catarthozone Inhaler. If a bad cold keeps you sneezing, if you have dull frontal pains over the eyes, you'll get the speediest cure possible with Catarthozone.

Years of wonderful success in Europe and America have proven Catarthozone a specific for all catarrhal, throat, bronchial and breathing-organ troubles. Simple, pleasant, safe and sure. Use the tried and proven remedy. Any dealer anywhere can supply Catarthozone, large complete outfit $1.90; small size 50c; trial size 25c.

ushered into the dock the old man raised his head and looked—with what love, and remorse, and pride!— at the handsome face, the "clear, just" eyes.

For the first time since his arrest, Ralph's face looked strained, as if he were feeling the suspense, the delay. His eyes went from his father to Veronica, and something in her's made his own flash and his face glow with color.

The crowd was not stilled into silence until Mr. Selby rose; then you could have heard a pin drop—if it could have dropped between the packed people.

He was almost as pale as the prisoner had been when he entered the court, and for the first time his usual calm and steady voice wavered.

"Your worships," he said, "when the court adjourned yesterday, I was calling as a witness Mr. Talbot Denby." He paused a moment, then went on with deep solemnity. "He could not be found. Since then he has been summoned to another tribunal and has appeared before another Judge. has quitted this mortal scene, and with his disappearance my task is over." Ralph uttered a faint cry. "I leave the case from this moment in the hands of my friend, Mr. Graham, who represents the crown, and I may add, the interests of justice."

He sat down, the crowd moved restlessly and impatiently, and a man was heard to say complacently: "Why don't 'e let 'im free to oncet!"

Mr. Graham rose. He, too, was very pale and grave.

A Great Intrigue, OR, THE Mistress of Darracourt.

CHAPTER I.

One bright, sunny evening in June, a small crowd of persons was gathered round the lodge gates of an old English mansion. A few yards from the gate had been erected one of those preposterous structures of aliened timber, ivy, and evergreens, known as triumphal arches, but which might just as appropriately be styled arches of destruction, as they not seldom descend upon the unfortunate heads of the individuals they are erected to honor.

Beside this arch, which bore the inscription, in rather groggy and uncertain letters, "Welcome to Darracourt!" was placed the Darracourt brass band, each man thereof holding his instrument of torture in readiness to lift to his lips or apply to his drum the moment the carriage he was expecting came in sight.

At a turn of the drive, after passing through the great iron gates, the Court itself could be seen, and here, gathered in the hall, were the Court servants, in new liveries and dresses, ready to form into line directly the band began to howl; and the butler, stately as a duke and a great deal more pompous, stood upon the broad stone steps, shading his eyes with his hand, and trying to look as if he were perfectly indifferent to, and far, far above the vulgar excitement which characterized the rest of the less noble expectants.

On the broad gravel sweep, which lay smooth as marble before the steps with their guardian stone lions, were scattered half a dozen grooms, their hands upon their belts, their eyes turned toward the lodge.

It might have been an empress, or a famous general or, say, a duke at least, that these people were lying in wait for, seeing the ceremony and the excitement attending it, but, in truth, the arrival they were all awaiting was that of a young girl, scarcely turned twenty, the heiress, indeed the mistress, of the Court, of the vast estate contained in a ring fence around it, of the massive plate which had been the envy of the covetous James, of the cattle that browsed upon the neighboring hills, of all the wealth that the Darracourts had amassed and inherited since they came over with the never-to-be-forgotten William, surnamed the Conqueror.

Five, ten minutes of expectancy and suspense passed; then the butler drew out his watch, which the page had been heard irreverently to describe as a frying pan, and, consulting it with an air of conferring upon it an inestimable favor, remarked, solemnly:

"The train must be late!"

"Or, perhaps, she's missed it!" ventured one of the grooms, suggestively. Mr. Selby, the butler, turned upon him severely.

"She? Who's 'she'? When you are speaking of your superiors, sir, give them a name. Miss Darracourt, if you please!"

The groom touched his hat, apologetically.

"Miss Darracourt, I mean, Mr. Selby," he said, humbly.

"Then say 'Miss Darracourt,'" retorted Mr. Selby. "No, young man, I don't think Miss Darracourt has missed her train. Darracourts are not given to missing their trains, and I apprehend that if Miss Darracourt were late the train would wait."

"I desay, sir," said the groom, and, utterly overcome by the rebuke, he ahrank a little farther from his superior.

Miss Darracourt had not missed her train. At that moment, indeed, the open carriage, drawn by four horses with an outrider, had passed from the station yard, and the faint echo of a distant cheer had caused the Darracourt brass band to clutch their awful instruments still tighter.

There were three persons seated in the carriage. An old lady, with a bland and rather expressionless face, who sat with her back to the horses, and two young ladies on the seat opposite. One was Miss Darracourt's friend, companion, what you will; a handsome girl, with fair hair, which the wind had blown into silken tendrils, with bluish-gray eyes, and a complexion which is generally termed blonde. She would have been lovely but for a certain thinness of the well-formed lips, and an expression in the eyes which make her look cunning—no, not exactly cunning. Sharp? Scarcely sharp. Let us say too observant.

The other was Miss Darracourt herself.

To describe the mistress of the Court is difficult.

There is an exalted personage whose claims to be a critic of general beauty no one will deny, and he has stated that beauty lies in expression. If that be so, and it is so, then Lucille Darracourt was lovely beyond compare. She was tall and slight, her figure lithe and graceful as an Indian's is supposed to be, but seldom is. Her hair—woman's chief glory, as Prior says—was the warm brown which is generally known as auburn; and it is a fact that women whose hair is of this glorious tint are always blessed with an abundance of it. Her eyes were brown, a rich, warm brown, like to the hazel, and darkened by brows thick and drawn straight across. Wonderful eyes, which were capable of any and every expression which the will of their owner might wish to convey—eyes mated to lips full and yet not sensuous, and red as a cherry. Her complexion, as might have been expected of such a coloured hair, was creamy, and yet not pale; for without warning the young blood would rise to the beautiful face, and add its color to the general commonwealth. If there was a more beautiful woman than Lucille Darracourt as she rode into her inheritance, it is one of the best-known pictures of Joshua Reynolds, the picture which a great art critic declared to surpass any living woman as real flowers surpass artificial ones.

Divorced Life

Helen Mesong Fuenle

A Light in the East

The morning mail brought Marian a letter that took her by complete surprise. The envelope showed her that it was from one of New York's big magazines. With a thrilling sense of importance she broke the seal. She read:
My dear Miss Winthrop:
I am interested in your work, and should like very much to see some of your manuscripts, if you have any on hand. Perhaps you might find a market for some of your work with us.
Very truly yours,
NORMAN RANSOM.
Editor.

It is not very often that a young, struggling, and rejected, writer receives a letter like the foregoing from the editor of a popular and well-known magazine like "The Cliff Dweller." Marian read and re-read it. The typewritten lines seemed to peer at her through the mists of a dream. To be sought by editors is the longing of every toiler of the pen.
Marian fished a manuscript out of the litter on her table, and started within the hour for the editor's office. She found it very different from the dingy abode of the "Cheering Hour Magazine." She found Norman Ransom seated in a large, airy office. He shook hands with her and gazed at her through his thick, heavy-rimmed eyeglasses. He was a tall, thin, serious, kindly, literary-looking fellow, and not over thirty-five in years. He measured up far more satisfactory to Marian's idea of an editor than had Gillsy, the unkempt.
"Your letter was a welcomed surprise," began Marian frankly. "It was very good of you to take notice of my work."
"Not at all," he said pleasantly. "We're always anxious to discover new writers. If you can do the sort of thing we are looking for, we'll consider ourselves in luck. Did you bring a story with you?"
Marian handed him her manuscript. "Won't you sit down?" he said. "I'll look at it right away, if you can wait."
The whole proceeding was unceremoniously unlike the receptions which had usually been accorded to Marian in her wanderings around New York in an effort to find her place in the big city's world of work. She felt herself almost swaying in her chair as she saw the editor nod approvingly when he had run through the manuscript, and heard him remark: "Good yarn. I'll take it. I'd like to have a few changes made in it, but that can be done here in the office. I'll pay you a hundred dollars, if that is satisfactory."
Marian gasped. The details of the room circled and danced before her eyes. A few minutes later, when the editor had made his requisition on the business office, and the check had been duly delivered to him, he gave it to her with a matter-of-fact smile. The divorcee accepted it dizzily, groped her way to the elevator, was vaguely aware that she was being shot down to the ground floor, and, dazed at what had befallen her, emerged into the street.
A hundred dollars for a few hours' scribbling! Half a dozen times, as she made her way towards the subway, she took the check from her purse and gazed at it in bewilderment. She giggled hysterically at the sight of a fat woman wedged into a new-fangled cyclecar. At the subway kiosk, she changed her mind, and crossed to a fashionable shop on Fifth Avenue, where she began buying many things which she had sternly denied herself during her poverty-stricken days in New York.
To-morrow—A Startling Question.

War News.

FRENCH MAKE QUICK ADVANCE.

Special to Evening Telegram.
PARIS, Aug. 12. It is officially announced that German cavalry who had reached a point near Tongres, Belgium, have been hurled back by French cavalry, and are in full retreat. As Tongres is about 52 miles from the nearest point on the French frontier, this despatch indicates that the French army moved more quickly than was supposed.

FINANCIAL SECURITY.

OTTAWA, Aug. 12. That an arrangement has been concluded between the Bank of England and the Canadian Minister of Finance, was confirmed by an official statement of Hon. W. T. White, today.

WAR FREIGHT RATES.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12. The Shipping Federation has held no meeting to consider freight rates during the war, nor is likely to be held since the rates must of necessity be fixed from day to day. General recruiting is still going on here. New orders have been received whereby those entering the service for the Overseas campaign, must first enter the Canadian Volunteers. They will be signed at Valcartier camp. This is a distinction without a difference, of course, as all those recruited here understood they were enlisting for the Canadian Contingent.

NORTH ATLANTIC CLEAR OF THE GERMANS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12. The Western Atlantic Ocean is now clear for shipping in the area so far south as Trinidad, according to the announcement made by Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, of the British cruiser Suffolk, through the British Consulate here today. The Suffolk is now not far from New York City. The Consul went on to say that there were five British warships in the Western Atlantic and that their patrol was effective, and that all British shipping interests have been assured there was little danger from German craft.

AT WAR WITH AUSTRIA.

LONDON, Aug. 12. The Foreign Office announces that a State of War exists between Austria and England, as from midnight and official arrangements have been made for the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador to leave London to-morrow.

AN UNLIKELY YARN.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12. "Beat it." That was the wireless message sent the C.P.R. steamer Mount Royal by the wireless operator on the Mauritania, when the Mount Royal was 100 miles east of Cape Race. The Mount Royal arrived from Antwerp safe this morning, and tells a strange tale of escape from the German cruiser Kharlsbue. The steamer was approaching Cape Race when Walter Condon, the young wireless operator, picked up the German cruiser, which asked the position of the Mauritania and the Mount Royal innocently started to reply. At that moment, he saw he heard Cape Race asking the position of the Mauritania as well. As that ship was strangely silent, though known to be a gossip by wireless, Condon became suspicious, and sent a message warning the Mauritania, whose operator was a friend of his. The only reply was the terse "beat it," which came through the air to him. Not only did the Mount Royal follow the advice but also the Calgarian and Royal Edward who were in the vicinity. The German cruiser was not sighted, but Condon declares only the fog which came up hid her from the fleeing liner.

KEEPING STRICT WATCH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12. The strictness of the patrol established by British cruisers outside of New York Harbor is demonstrated by the experience of the Norwegian tank steamer Conrad Mohr, which reached here from Bergen. The steamer's captain said he was hailed last night by a three-funnelled cruiser, and apparently did not stop to reply as quickly as the cruiser desired, for a shot was fired across her bow within a short interval of time. The steamer left on her transatlantic trip before war was declared, and the officers were astonished at the summary action of the cruiser. They stopped immediately, but were permitted to proceed after establishing the steamer's identity. At one o'clock this morning, three hours later, another cruiser exactly like the first was encountered. She bore down close alongside the steamer, fired a shot and asked the steamer's name and nationality. These being given, the steamer was told to go ahead. The Conrad Mohr was west of Nantucket when hailed by the first cruiser, and off Montauk when the second one stopped her.

WHEAT'S UPS AND DOWNS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12. Buyers of wheat held themselves in reserve to-day until prices had fallen 2 1/2 points, then resting orders came into play, and there was enough demand from fit speculators to cause a lively rally of 1 1/2 points. The weakness in Liverpool had considerable to do with the decline here, but the main reason was the continued uncertain outlook for the resumption of the export trade from the United States.

OIL DROPS IN PRICE.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12. Another cut in the purchase price of oil was announced by the oil purchasing agencies to-day, all grades being reduced five cents except Ragland.

GERMANS ADVANCING.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 12. The German army is being detached from the position before Liege and is advancing through the heart of Belgium. The main body of the German cavalry is engaged in a forward movement all along the front of the allied forces.

THE POSITION AT LIEGE.

LONDON, Aug. 12. The military position at Liege and along the Franco-German frontier is explained in a despatch from the French Foreign Minister, received here this morning. He says that rumors regarding the loss of the forts at Liege are entirely false. Only small groups of German soldiers entered the town itself under cover of darkness. All the encircling forts, twelve in number, are intact. Small, unimportant engagements occurred along the whole line, where the French armies are facing each other from Belfort, opposite to the southernmost part of Alsace to Liege in the north. In these encounters the French cavalry has always maintained superiority over the German mounted troops, while our artillery, which are splendidly served out by the troops who kept the crosses and passes of the Vosges mountains. They dominate the heights of Alsace. A line between Thann, 22 miles southwest of Kolmar, Alsace, and Altkirch, the first position occupied by the French army after its invasion of the Province, is held by our armies. This line runs slightly to the rear of Mulhausen.

Belgium was to-day again the scene of outpost fighting between the Belgians, French and Germans. The War Office officially announces this afternoon that the Germans are retreating.

AT NICKEL TO-MORROW.

Nickel patrons turned out in large numbers yesterday to see the beautiful programme which the manager had arranged. The feature film, "Whimsical Threads of Destiny," a great social drama attracted considerable attention. It is a beautiful story by the Vitagraph artists and features Courtney Foote, Harry Northrup and Julia Swayne Gordon, who are so well known in movie circles. "The Return of Capt. John" is a thrilling tale of the sea. "He Fell in Love with His Mother-in-Law" is the funniest kind of a comedy. Beside the foregoing there was also a full reel of Pathe Weekly, showing a number of interesting events. This evening the pictures will be repeated, and Mr. DeWitt C. Cairns will be heard in a new song. To-morrow's feature film will be "Love's Sunset," a charming two-reel film by the Vitagraph Co.

Good-Bye, Old Backache Nerviline Will Fix You!

Stiffness is Rubbed Right Out! Every Sign of Pain Disappears.

Get whiz—think of it! No more stomach dosing necessary to cure your lumbago.

Every trace of lameness, every bit of stiffness, every sign of weakness in the back's muscles can be rubbed away for all time to come by good old "Nerviline."

No other liniment can do the work so quickly, can penetrate so deeply, can bring ease and comfort to the back-weary sufferer as Nerviline invariably does.

Backache isn't the only malady Nerviline is quick to cure. For lumbago or sciatica you would go far to find relief so speedily as Nerviline gives. For chronic rheumatism there are pain-destroying properties in Nerviline that give it first rank. The way it limbers up a stiff joint and takes soreness out of strained or rheumatic muscles is simply a wonder.

If you have an ache or a pain anywhere, if you have a sore back, a stiff neck, a stiff joint, a strained muscle—if you have lumbago, congested chest or sore throat, just try Nerviline. Rub it on plentifully—it won't blister, it can't do anything but cure you quick.

The large 50c family size bottle is the most economical, of course, but you can, from any dealer, also get the 25c small size of Nerviline, the king of all pain-relieving remedies.

Fire at British Hall.

Between ten and eleven o'clock last night a slight fire broke out in the basement of the British Hall. There was a dance in progress at the time in the ballroom, which is situated in the top section of the building. The fire started in the men's cloak room, caused by a gas jet. Mr. W. H. Goodland, who saw smoke issuing from the place, acquainted the Central Fire Brigade by phone and two firemen responded. Meanwhile a gang of men fought and controlled the blaze, but not before considerable woodwork was destroyed in the cloak room and on the main floor which had to be cut away by the firemen in order to get at the root of the fire.

It was certainly a thoughtful and commendable act on the part of Mr. Goodland to quickly inform the fire brigade what had happened without disturbing those who were dancing. If he had sent in a public alarm a scene might have followed among the ladies. As it was nobody in the ballroom was made aware of the fact for the couple of minutes the fire lasted.

It was luckily, however, that the fire was discovered so soon.

A Close Call.

Yesterday afternoon Jack Field, a fifteen year old boy, residing near Long Pond, had a narrow escape from drowning. He was learning to swim, and was being instructed in the art by Mr. G. Phillips. The young lad, however, went beyond his depth and sank quickly. Mr. Phillips dived for him but was unable to bring him to the surface, whereupon he called for assistance. Mr. W. Jocelyn, hearing the cries hurried to the scene, and after two attempts succeeded in bringing the lad to the shore. Every effort to resuscitate him was tried, and in the meantime Dr. Pritchard was summoned. The boy recovered consciousness shortly after the arrival of the doctor, but was unable to speak when taken home. He was fully two minutes under water, and had a close call from drowning.

"Britons, Hold Your Own."

The meeting last night in the C. L. B. Armoury was a splendid success, and is in full accord with the feeling which prevails in all parts of the Empire. The call to arms in Ireland had a miraculous effect in cementing old time difference there and in driving into the background all political animosities in England. It is to be wondered then that in Newfoundland, which has always prided itself on a spirit of intense loyalty means to rise to the occasion and to do her part in defending herself and the Empire from the menace of German aggression? The fight that is now being waged is a fight for the existence of the British Empire, and should the military fist of Germany prevail on land and should the trident of the sea pass from British to German hands, Newfoundland would be the one great objective of German invasion on this side of the Atlantic, for our position is unique geographically projecting as we do right in the midst of the North Atlantic, and offering a splendid position for a coal and naval station for protection of her commerce. To-day Germany is in difficulties on this side of the Atlantic because she has no coaling station and no fortified ports which can be used as a shelter for the repair of disabled ships. So far the sea appears to be still ours. After ten days of war, the British navy is in control of the sea, and ocean traffic in the North Atlantic appears to be safe. On the other hand, the three German cruisers which were in Mexican waters seem to be still at large and any day we may learn that isolated shipping has succumbed to them, just as from the wreckage of the coast of California gives rise to the belief that two small British warships were caught by German cruisers and sunk before they could get to port where they would have been harboured, and their officers and crew transferred to more effective fighting ships. The announcement that an effective patrol is being kept over the North of the Atlantic down to Trinidad is good news. But it must be remembered that the days of the war are early yet, and we must be prepared to face disasters. The war is going to call for much self-sacrifice, and to entail great suffering and we must be prepared to face it to gain the day. The Germans are hoping for the debacle of Britain at sea. Our brethren at home have done their best to insure so far as men, money and ships can do it, against such a calamity, and it is the duty of the Britons overseas to give of their substance to avoid such a calamity. We are firmly of the opinion that it is essential that our local legislature should meet to help to ride over the difficulties which the struggle must entail.

Colonel Unsworth of London, England, will give his lecture, entitled "The Salvation Army in the Mother Parliament," on Sunday, August 16th, at 3 p.m., in the T. A. Hall. The chair will be taken by the Hon. Donald Morrison. All are welcome.

Magnificent Response.

Three Times as Many Volunteers Registered as are Required.

Special to Evening Telegram

OTTAWA, To-day. Canadians have responded magnificently to the call for volunteers. At the close of the enlistment period last night finds the volume of offers so great that the Militia Department is confronted with an embarrassing problem of making selections. The Minister of Militia estimates the number of names registered by various recruiting officers approximately as three times the requirement. This means that two thirds of those qualifying have to be left out, when the final selections are made. The watchword of the department will be "Fitness."

FIRST BATTLE IN THE OPEN—GERMAN ADVANCE CHECKED.

Special to Evening Telegram.

BRUSSELS, To-day.

The first battle in open country is reported in the following official communication. "After having passed the night of Tuesday in the position they had reached after their retreat, the Germans this morning advanced their force towards a point of our disposition which they thought was not held. Our staff however was alert and were informed by cavalry reconnaissances and able to give the necessary orders. Their advance was checked. The engagement took place in which our troops were successful. Ten thousand men took part in the fight. This was the first action of our troops in open country. Their conduct is a good augury for the future. Apart from this, the situation to all appearance has undergone no change, as regards our allies. The plan arranged beforehand being followed out exactly, according to program."

CAVALRY ENGAGEMENTS.

Special to Evening Telegram.

BRUSSELS, To-day.

The German army moved north of Liege and are advancing into the heart of Belgium. It is difficult to determine their objective. There is a screen of cavalry of extraordinary force along the whole front of the allied armies. A new army corps is investing Liege. The French cavalry is actively engaged in sharp fighting. Both German and allied armies are feeling their way.

CANADIAN OFFER OF FOOD SUPPLIES.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day.

Referring to the Dominion's gift of one million sacks of flour and Alberta's gift of one half million bushels of oats, the Westminster Gazette says Canada can do no better service to the Empire at the present moment than ensuring the supplies for this country shall be adequate, not even sending men to fight at the front be of more real importance to the issue of the war. There is no room for anxiety about food supplies, as these are ample for months to come, and as they are used they will be replaced by incoming cargoes. The confidence with which Canada offers the products of her harvest and the sure belief that their transportation presented no real difficulty will go as far as any action could to allay the least symptom of panic.

GRAIN ELEVATOR DESTROYED.

ST. JOHN, To-day.

The I.C.R. elevator here containing 70,000 bushels of grain was destroyed by a fire at an early hour this morning. No. 8 freight shed was also burned. A train shed was badly damaged; three freight cars being also burned.

A SECOND CANADIAN CONTINGENT.

OTTAWA, To-day.

It is quite probable, says Colonel Hughes that another contingent of 5,000 or 10,000 men will be recruited for foreign service if it is seen they are required. However, this is a matter that will be definitely settled later. Pay at the rate of $1 per day with ten cents per day for allowances will be paid, starting to-morrow, for all those who are chosen to make up the 25,000 who will be mobilized at Vallartier. From this number 21,000 to go to the seat of war will be chosen on their merits alone as soldiers.

AUSTRIANS CHECKED.

PARIS, To-day.

A despatch from St. Petersburg to the Matin, says the Austrians have suffered a check on the Dniester River. Four regiments of Austrian Infantry and eight regiments of Uhlans were routed approaching. The big battle will probably be a decisive one.

SAN FRANCISCO, To-day.

The German cruiser Leipzig steamed into this port last evening, for coal.

SHOOTING THE WOUNDED.

PARIS, To-day.

A wounded French cavalry man at Melzeres declares he saw German cavalrymen shoot wounded Frenchmen. He says he heard five or six other shots and saved himself by feigning death. The Germans were wearing uniforms taken from the killed Belgians in battle.

The Naval Service Department received word officially of the safe return of the Rainbow from San Francisco.

ATLANTIC PATROL BEGUN.

LONDON, To-day.

The Admiralty has sent out cruisers which will ply on the Atlantic for the purpose of protection of trade routes. The French Government has sent out warships to search for German cruisers known to be in the Atlantic. The enemy's ships says an official Admiralty report will be hunted continually and although some time may elapse before they are run down they will be kept too busy to do much mischief. A number of fast merchant vessels fitted and armed at British arsenals also are patrolling routes and keeping them clear of German commerce raiders. With every day that passes British control of trade routes, especially those on the North Sea where Germans have scattered mines indiscriminately and where the most formidable operations of the naval war are proceeding, the Admiralty can give no assurance.

JOHN B. AYRE.

RIDER HAGGARD'S SOLEMN WARNING.

ST. JOHN, To-day.

A most solemn warning as to the gravity of the situation in which the British Empire stands at this hour was uttered last night by Sir H. Rider Haggard at a dinner given to the members of the Dominion Royal Commission by Mayor Frink for City Union Club. Sir Rider referred to such preparation for war as he had casually observed here and said it seemed to be carried on in a sort of holiday spirit. He then asked all present if they understood where we were standing. If Germany and Austria won, that would be the end of England, Canada and the Empire and civilization as we now have it for a long time to come. In a few terse sentences which held the dinner party breathless he indicated the magnitude and the crucial gravity of the conflict. Canada's vital interest is that no risk of defeat could be justified, no matter what sacrifices were necessary, was the lesson emphasized.

A. & S. Rodger's.

Police Court.

Thirteen young men from Torbay, summoned for malicious damage to property, had to pay costs.

Two assault cases were settled.

The owner of a vicious dog which bit a man and a boy was ordered to shoot the animal and pay doctor's expenses.

Youthful Sneak Thief.

Last night Constable Tobin arrested a nine year old youth for larceny.

The lad sneaked inside the counter of a shop in the West End, opened the cash drawer and made away with $1.50 in loose change. The accused admitted his guilt and will be dealt with this afternoon. The authorities scarcely know what to do with the lad. It is not the first time that he has been caught for larceny, yet he is too young to be sent to prison. The lad's name is Woodland. He is a walf, constantly wandering the streets, hungry, sparsely clad and should be sent to one of our institutions and looked after.

The Village Blacksmith and a Possibility

CRESCENT FEATURES.
Longfellow's celebrated poem "The Village Blacksmith" for the first time in St. John's charmed the patrons of the Crescent Picture Palace yesterday. The grand illustration was cleverly portrayed by noted stars. The Village Blacksmith was a striking personality that must have been in the mind of the great poet when he wrote the never to be forgotten epistle: "A Possibility," the two great headlines in an unusual comedy of the day when man is replaced by woman in the workings of the world. The various scenes produce much humour and amusement. "She wrote a Play" is the side-splitting farcical comedy showing the troublesome endeavours of a crazy authoress to have her play brought before the notice of the theatrical world, failing this she directs her efforts to the movies. The performance in every respect is a good one and must be seen to be appreciated.
Miss Alice Clark, the soloist, sang "Waltz of the Rose" and as usual received favourable comment. Tomorrow and Saturday the feature: "Just Kids," a two reel by the Edlar Juvenile Co. In the afternoon a special matinee for children an extra picture.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the office. An order received at the office, its history is recorded at the office, and finally payment is received at the office. If the office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland. -ap17.4

Broad Cove Regatta.

Yesterday was Regatta Day at Broad Cove and the event proved just as successful as those of former years, notwithstanding the counter attractions. A large contingent of people from the city drove to the settlement during the day. The program of races were carried out without a hitch and reflected credit on the Committee in charge. The various races, which were rowed in the proverbial black punts, were closely contested and excited a great deal of interest and enthusiasm. On the whole the affair was a great success.

"Hans" Lobert.

Red McGehee says: When Hans was wearin' dinky shirts an' tryin' to holler: "Quit! It hurts!" at some sky pilot gee, they didn't call him Hans—nay, nay. They christened him the reg'lar way. His fight name is John B. But when they'd quit the christenin' 'n' biz they call him Hans. An' Hans he is, a reg'lar German guy. He isn't slow, though—nit, not much! His speed would make you think him Dutch, 'cause Dutchmen always fly.

Hans didn't really get his start to play his lead—his starrin' part, till couple years ago. He's like a lot of other stars, he didn't hardly any bars till Cincy let him go. But when he lit with Dooin's crew the Dutchman set right out to do what other cast-offs did. He third based like a reg'lar fiend an' when last season's dope was gleaned Hans' name was on the lid.

He's light an' fast an' death on bunts an' pulls as classy fieldin' stunts as Philly fans could ask. His battin' too, is "way" 'bove fair; he's right on deck to do his share in any cleanup task. He stretches almost all his hits an' throws the batterymen in fits when he leads off to steal. He's surely made tradition true by never failin' to come through since that ol' Cincy deal.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gentlemen,—In June, 198, I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I began using. The effect was magical, and in five hours the pain had ceased, and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever.

Yours truly,

Bachelors Were Taxed.

Curious Ways of Raising Money Resorted to by Monarchs.

(From the New York Press.)
In early times it was common for needy kings to raise money by very orthodox methods in England. Edward I. was accustomed to help himself to anything of value, and Edward III. had a disturbing habit of imposing taxes without the consent of Parliament. Edward IV. solicited money "like a common, or rather a sturdy beggar." Richard II. imposed a poll tax which affected both males and females from 16 years upward. An earl had to pay £4, as also had the mayor of London, while a married man had to pay four pence for himself and his wife, and a single woman had to pay just as much. No wonder this tax led to Wat Tyler's rebellion. Charles I. was a keen man for money and he sat Parliament at defiance. One of his most remarkable proclamations ordered the nobility and gentry to retire to their country seats and cease idling their time in London, under penalty of a heavy fine.

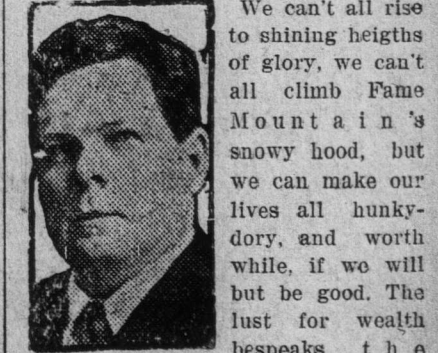

We grumble nowadays at the taxes imposed by the various budgets, but we are freed of the freak taxes that burdened our forefathers. Boards were taxed at one time, and Henry VIII. who wore one himself free of charge, graded the tax according to the status of the wearer. The Archbishop of Canterbury had to pay 3 shillings 4 pence for his face fungus, and this was the amount fixed by Elizabeth on every beard of over a fortnight's growth. The most odious tax ever introduced was that of the birth tax which came into operation in the year 1695. This tax ranged from £30 on the birth of a child to a duke to two shillings for a workman's child. Taxes were also imposed on burials and marriages.

William Pitt the younger, who was the most juvenile premier and chancellor of the exchequer Britain ever had, came into office at the age of 24, and as he found the public finances in a desperate state he instituted some weird taxes. He placed a tax on windows and a tax on horses. In defiance of the latter tax, and by way of drawing ridicule upon it, a man named Jonathan Thatcher rode his cow to and from the Stockport market.

So recently as 1869 there was a tax in England on hair powder, which was first instituted in 1795. It cost a guinea a year for a license to display powdered hair, though a striving parent with two unmarried daughters could obtain a double license for two guineas, which allowed all the girls of the family to powder their polls.

This tax was not so stupid as the hat tax, which was introduced in the reign of George III, when money was badly required to fight the French. For a year there was a tax on watches and clocks, and women will be interested to learn that from 1695 to 1706 there was a tax on bachelors. Every unwedded man over 25 had to pay into the treasury a shilling a year, though in the case of a gentleman this amount was increased to five shillings, and in the case of a duke to £12 10s. This tax brought in about £1,000 a week, and induced many men to venture into matrimony.

Glory and Goodness.

We can't all rise to shining heights of glory, we can't all climb Fame Mount a in 's snowy hood, but we can make our lives all hunky-dory, and worth while, if we will but be good. The lust for wealth bespeaks the spirit's blindness; when I am dead I'd rather have folks say, "His heart possessed the milk of human kindness," than have them speak of scads I put away. A little fame too often makes us haughty, makes us forget that we're but common mud, and we swell up, until, becoming dotty, we take a fall, and make a sickening thud. When we've scoured in sordid worldly matters, we feel contempt for all the ones who fall, we view with scorn the poor man's rage and ratters, and heedless hear the hungry orphan's wail. We waste our lives in tawdry triumphs winning, for useless gawds we strive and toil and grind; and ever now, as at the world's beginning, the kind heart beats the proud and mighty mind. Let us be good, be kind, oh man and maiden, let us be true, and squarely play the game, and we'll stack high among the hosts of Aiden, and that will beat your little Hall of Fame.

A Poetic Punishment.

We had been driving through one of the most miserable sections of slums I ever saw.

It was not a city slum. There is something cheerful about a city tenement district. I think, in spite of the dirt and squalor. Women sit on the doorsteps calling to and fro to each other; children laugh and play in the streets; the men folk take solid comfort in pipes and shirtsleeves; there is an air of friendliness and irresponsible abandon that leavens the sordidness of the city's poverty spots.

But the section through which we were passing was a suburban slum—a miserable, lifeless group of run-down houses with all the loneliness and aloofness of respectability, and all the squalor of abject poverty.

We had been laughing at some trivial matter when we entered that section of the city, but the laughter died away and the shadow of all that sordidness fell upon us.

"It makes me absolutely unhappy to think of people's having to live all their lives in a place like this," cried Molly, the little stenographer lady, with a shudder.

"It's terrible, isn't it?" said the Author Man's wife. "But I don't believe we'll ever be so poor as this. There's enough in the bonds, isn't there," she appealed to her husband, "to keep us from this even if everything else should go?"

The Author Man, with a slightly curled lip, admitted that he thought there was, and his wife relaxed. "Well, I should hope so," she said, and became entirely cheerful again.

The misery and sordidness had now lost all power to sadden her. She was reasonably sure it couldn't come into her life and that was all that mattered.

I think there are a great many people like the Author Man's wife who are so sensitive that they are deeply moved at the sight of misery—because it makes them fear that such things might some day come to them or theirs. But take away that fear and their serenity is entirely restored.

The mere thought of suffering for themselves saddens them far more than the actual sight of other people's sufferings.

There are even people in whom the sight of other people's sufferings seems to induce a sort of thanksgiving: "How fortunate I am," is their first and most poignant thought.

Of course it is one of the laws of nature that man in his natural state should think first of himself, but have we not raised ourselves in high or low above this primitiveness?

And even if we do think first of ourselves, that does not mean that all our thoughts need be selfish. Suppose such misery never can come to you or yours, does that make it a matter of indifference to you that there are thousands who are suffering.

Shame on you if it does! Sometimes I wonder if the punishment of those who make their wealth out of other men's deprivations and miseries, or of those who are cold to such conditions and who say that poverty and suffering are part of the unchangeable scheme of things, will not be to suffer in their next incarnation all the misery they neglected in this.

I am tempted to hope so.

Fads and Fashions.

Metal and fillet laces lead. Velvet tricorne hats have appeared. Handbags are being made of soft Mocha leather. Steel buckles are prettiest on white suede shoes.

White is the favored color for women's sweaters. More black girdles are still liked on printed cottons.

Roman stripes appear as facings on the fall dresses.

Two-tone net tops are among the most fashionable laces.

Silk crepe cloth is an ideal fabric for early autumn wear. Black and blue will have a return to favor in the autumn.

The smartest velvet dresses are those cut on Princess lines.

Dark blue silk braid is used for binding white serge dresses.

Hand-run fillet meshes are the latest veillings from abroad.

The one-piece dress is always smart not to say comfortable.

Tulle and chantilly capes have hands of velvet for trimming.

Dahlia red is likely to be a favorite color for the tailored suit.

The sash is likely to remain popular for all classes of costumes.

Black chantilly over white satin is used to excellent advantage.

High corselet girdles appear on the new flowered voile dresses.

A very soft wool fleeced with silk is being used for ladies' girdles.

Diamonds mounted with opals or onyx stones are very fashionable.

Pile fabrics will be much used for the perfectly straight, long tunics.

A woman who has had one cape is quite happy till she gets another.

Long, full sleeves of tulle are used on corsages that are very low.

Many washes are seen threaded through the coats of tailored suits.

Mourning bags are made of finely twisted silk in black and white stripes.

Footwear has never been so effective or charming as it is at present.

Honeymoons.

By GEORGE FITCH
 Author of "At Good Old Sivash"

The honeymoon is that brief period when married life is all honey and nobody gets stung.

The honeymoon begins immediately after the last soft words are said by the minister and continues until the first hard words are said by the young husband.

This is usually thought to require a month. However, some enterprising husbands manage to condense the honeymoon into a very few days. In this enterprising and hurried world of ours, where people often have to get married half a dozen times in as many years, spending a whole month on a honeymoon is regarded as a rank waste of time.

The honeymoon is so called because it is all stuck up with sweet words. Making life pleasant for each other is the sole occupation of honeymooners. Sometimes a newly married couple contracts the habit of doing this. Then the honeymoon is domesticated and used as a parlor lamp for the rest of their lives. Other couples seem to expand all of their thoughtfulness during this month and to go bankrupt on consideration and good nature shortly afterwards. It is because of this fact that so many married people repair to Reno or to other famous uncoupling centers shortly after their marriage in order that they may begin all over again and have a honeymoon with someone else.

There is another reason why the honeymoon is congested with happiness and good feeling. This is because the young husband hasn't anything to worry about. It is the one time in his life when the spending of money in a reckless and frivolous manner is his sole duty. All he has to do is to think up each morning some way of getting rid of his savings of the four previous years. This is a fascinating job, but presently the wedding trip is over and the newly elected head of a family begins to face the job of making his salary stretch twice as far as it ever went before. If he can accomplish this and still use the same brand of language which he dispensed with such abandon on his wedding trip he is in Class A. Extra-supper quality husband and his wife can look with pity upon the rich wives who go out riding with a black eye in a $6,000 automobile.

There is another reason why the honeymoon is congested with happiness and good feeling. This is because the young husband hasn't anything to worry about. It is the one time in his life when the spending of money in a reckless and frivolous manner is his sole duty. All he has to do is to think up each morning some way of getting rid of his savings of the four previous years. This is a fascinating job, but presently the wedding trip is over and the newly elected head of a family begins to face the job of making his salary stretch twice as far as it ever went before. If he can accomplish this and still use the same brand of language which he dispensed with such abandon on his wedding trip he is in Class A. Extra-supper quality husband and his wife can look with pity upon the rich wives who go out riding with a black eye in a $6,000 automobile.

TRAPNELL

The Eyesight Specialist

Examines the eyes without DRUGS, DROPS or DANGERS. He not only finds the trouble, but with his perfect optical machinery he can grind the correct lenses to suit the most complicated cases, and do it quickly.

There was a time when all compound lenses had to be sent out of the country for, involving a delay of three or four weeks, but that day has passed; an hour or two is sufficient to produce any lens that may be called for.

Prescriptions filled or broken lenses replaced if you have the pieces.

Big Battle Supposed to Have Begun.

Special to Evening Telegram.

BRUSSELS, To-day. Though there is a general idea that a big battle has begun, the only official news that came to hand late last night gave no indication where the fighting was occurring. It still seems here the enemy is inclined to avoid aggression on a large scale. At Louvain to northeast of Brussels yesterday for the first time the prisoners seen here were young officers with spiked helmets covered with brown Holland cloth to render them less conspicuous. The Belgians fight at a disadvantage as they are compelled to expose themselves in their ordinary uniforms, some of which, especially those of the cavalry, are brilliantly colored, while the Germans of all ranks wear grey field uniform, which easily melts into greys and browns of the roads and stubble fields. The Belgian authorities are preserving well the secret opinions of the military. A member of the Chamber of Deputies said yesterday even he and his colleagues were ignorant of such matters. King Albert passed through Louvain yesterday in travel stained automobile, dressed in General's uniform, and almost escaped recognition with an escort. Harrowing stories continue to be told of alleged German brutalities. They are accused of burning and pillaging villages and shooting villagers without provocation. It is alleged that whenever a German cavalry enters a town it makes first for the Municipal Treasury and then the banks, taking whatever cash they can find.

Germany Preparing to Lay Siege on Liege.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day. The Admiralty and War Office Information Bureau issues a statement that an engagement is in progress northwest of Hasselt in the Province of Limburg, between a Belgian cavalry division supported by a brigade of infantry, and the German second cavalry division, 25,000 strong, supported by a battalion of infantry and twelve pieces of artillery. The German fourth division is reported moving towards Jodigne Brabant, Province of Belgium. German infantry are known to be on the left bank of the Meuse except the above mentioned battalion. The Germans are entrenching at Vise; the forts are holding out. The Germans are constructing batteries north of Liege, preparatory to a siege. Heavy guns have already been heard. The Germans are constructing a railroad between Vise and Homburg parallel with the frontier of Dutch Limburg, and they are also entrenching themselves in Liege.

British Warship Lancaster in Port.

Hi M. S. Lancaster came into port at noon to-day. The ship came in from sea where she had been doing patrol work mainly for the protection of British shipping. The object of her visit here is to replenish her coal supply. The Lancaster is stripped and ready for action. She looks in perfect trim and to-day was much admired by the thousands who viewed her from the shore. The Lancaster is a three funnel first class cruiser, capable of doing twenty-five knots and is a sister ship of the Essex which brought the Duke of Connaught to our shores and which is also engaged patrolling the Atlantic. The Lancaster will commence coaling this afternoon and will finish some time tomorrow when she will leave again to resume her cruise.

The Fellow that Looks Like Me.

There is a very excellent sketch at Rossley's again to-night, a real laughable act with very comical situations. The pictures really are, as Rossley states, the best to be had. The great feature, "Man's Greed for Gold," by the Kalem Company, a very fine subject; "The Organ Grinder," is another film with beautiful scenery among the Swiss mountains, showing the dances of the peasantry and the rascality of some highway men; "The Bear Hunt Romance," showing hunters really shooting a fine specimen black bear. In fact every picture is up to the high water mark of the splendid quality of pictures now shown at Rossley's.

Prescription 'A.'

CURES: INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA in all its forms.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headaches. I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing."

"I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a feeling of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems not worth living."

Why suffer from all these symptoms when STAFFORD'S PRESCRIPTION "A." will cure you? Try a bottle. Price: Small size, 25 cents; postage 5 cents extra. Large size, 50 cents; postage 10 cents extra. Prepared only by Mr. Arthur Herder Holds a Commission.

We saw to-day a fine picture of the 27th Light Horse, taken at Camp Sewell, in which Mr. Arthur Herder, son of the proprietor of the Evening Telegram obtained a commission some months ago. They are a fine hardy body of men many of whom wear medals, showing that they have been in action in the army in South Africa and elsewhere.

Volunteer Movement Acclaimed by Large Public Meeting.

The public meeting held at the C. I. B. Armory last night to consider the question of enlisting volunteers for land service abroad and home defence during the war, was very largely attended. All classes were represented and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed.

Promptly at 8.30 p.m. His Excellency Sir W. E. Davidson attended by Capt. Goodridge, A. D. C., and accompanied by French Consul Suzor and Professor Dunstan, arrived at the Armory and was greeted by an outburst of cheering, while the C. I. B. Band played the National Anthem. On the platform with His Excellency were besides those who accompanied him, Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris, Hon. R. K. Bishop, R. A. Squires, J. R. Bennett, E. R. Bowring, C. H. Emerson, J. Harris, J. Anderson, P. T. McGrath, M. P. Cashin, Messrs. W. G. Gosling, W. D. Reid, T. J. Edens, H. W. LeMessurier, Capt. Wakefield, Rev. J. Sutherland, Dr. Macpherson, Mr. Kiegan, Lt. Col. Paterson, Lt. Col. Rendell, Major Cartwright, I. G. Sullivan, W. H. Rennie and others.

The Premier stated briefly the object for which the meeting had been called and requested His Excellency to take the chair.

The Governor did so and thanked the gathering for the reception accorded him. He stated that the present question was the most momentous one in the history of our country. England had been forced into war by German aggression, but now that she had entered the fight she would give it her full measure and uphold the record of her old British fighting forebears. He believed that the German working people were fighting with reluctance, but they were dominated by an overbearing bureaucracy and a dominating military clique, whose one ambition was to dominate the world and particularly the British world. In reality the principle at stake in Germany was shall a military oligarchy still prevail and extend its evil influence through the world. If they fail, as he believed they would, the people would demand a democratic government. A government where the people have no voice in such issues as the present one is a curse to the world. The mailed fist has been raised by imitators of the great Bismark who are swollen with vanity. Bismark took care to attack weaker people, but in this instance the Germans have met their match. Germany's dream was to seize the countries which border on the continental side of the North Sea, and use that as a base to crush England, which is the real objective of their campaign. Then England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales is to be partitioned out among the sabbre rattling yokkers of Germany and our people at home made their subjects and following on this would come the seizure of British Colonies. From recent despatches, the initial movements of the campaign have been thwarted by the gallantry of little Belgium. Their effort to be in Brussels a week ago has failed, and France with her fine army, her splendid artillery, her dashing cavalry and her able generals are at work doing grand service for the common cause. It behoves every British subject to aid the Mother Country to finish the fight as speedily as possible. Newfoundland must do her part, laying claim, as we do to being the oldest and most loyal Colony. In my telegram to the Home Government, continued His Excellency, I stated we were poor in money and rich in men; men who are accustomed to meet all difficulties without wavering. I pledged myself that Newfoundland would furnish 500 men, but I hope the number will be 5,000. The struggle may be desperate, but we will win "hands down," and I hope our folks will get in the front so they may have a chance to uphold our reputation. He then called upon Lt.-Col. Rendell, of the C. I. B. to move the first resolution.

Lt.-Col. Rendell had no doubt of the patriotic sentiment throughout the Island, and felt sure there would be no difficulty in securing volunteers. Our lads, because of their drill and general sports were in splendid condition for the land service, and any differences that might have arisen amongst the brigades over athletic contests, was now laid aside and all are now joining in upholding the prestige of the Empire. He then offered the C. I. B. Armory and equipment as long as the war lasted, for the use of the proposed force, after which he moved the following resolution:—

WHEREAS in common with every other portion of the British Empire, Newfoundland is anxious to assist in every possible way in the justifiable war in which the Empire, of which we are proud to be a part, is now engaged;

AND WHEREAS this Colony, through His Excellency the Governor, has offered several hundred efficient trained men, for enlistment for service abroad in the present war;

AND WHEREAS it is desirable that steps should be taken to provide for the enlistment of these men, as well as their equipment and maintenance;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that a Committee of twenty-five citizens, with power to add to their numbers, be appointed to take such steps as may be deemed necessary for enlisting and equipping these men, and in this respect to act in conjunction with the Government of the Colony and His Excellency the Governor, and that the Magistrate in the outports be asked to take similar steps.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the appointment of this Committee be left in the hands of His Excellency the Governor.

On rising and on closing, Lieut.-Col. Rendell was received with the utmost enthusiasm.

In the unavoidable absence of Major Hutchings, Hon. R. A. Squires, on behalf of the Methodist Guards, seconded the motion. He made complimentary references to the C.I.B. and His Excellency the Governor. To the former for the spirit of enthusiasm displayed by that body and its commanding officer, and to His Excellency for his whole-hearted interest in this movement. The whole Colony owes a debt of gratitude to His Excellency because it was mainly through his instrumentality that the meeting was convened. Continuing, the speaker believed and hoped that the resolution would be carried enthusiastically. It was not good enough for any one section of the Empire to be called upon to do all the defence work, so that it was now up to Newfoundland to contribute her mite to the matter what the self-sacrifice would amount to. He referred to the enthusiastic way one of our northern settlements had sent away her naval reserve men. The whole settlement had turned out and given them a brilliant send-off, and told them, in the spirit of the Spartan mothers, not to come back except with victory perched on their crests. Britain and her sons, he said, were not fighting for their own aggrandisement but simply for freedom and right and for the protection of the civilized world. In conclusion he again expressed the hope that the resolutions would be passed. On closing the speaker was given a great ovation.

Speaking in support of the motion, Capt. Wakefield, representing the Legion of Frontiersmen, endorsed heartily the remarks of the previous speakers. He went on to say that Canada was sending a squad of volunteers, and he pointed out where the Frontiersmen were going to fit in. There were 150 of them ready to go at a moment's notice. In order to send 150 men to England he estimated that it would cost $30,000, that is, including some provision for their families. He was certain that Newfoundland would prove her loyalty and patriotism to the Empire as well as any other British possession beyond the seas during the momentous crisis.

The resolution was then put to the meeting by His Excellency and passed unanimously and enthusiastically.

On behalf of the C.C.C., Capt. Cartwright, who was received with great applause, emphasized what had already been said, and intimated the willingness of members of the Cadet Corps to work in harmony with the other brigades in the volunteer movement, thrusting aside all petty differences that may have existed. The Catholic Cadets intended to do their part. He offered the use of the Cadet Armory and also the services of C.C.C. officers for training recruits. He then proposed the subjoined resolution.

Lieut.-Col. Paterson, of the Newfoundland Highlanders, in seconding the motion, gave the watchword of Horatio Nelson, at Trafalgar: "England expects that every man this day will do his duty!"

Dr. Macpherson, on behalf of the St. John Ambulance Brigade Overseas, in supporting the motion, said the local division had been at work some years in preparing men to aid the less fortunate of those who took part in the fight. They represented the sadder side of war and were fitting themselves to help those who fell in battle. He had in his pocket a list of men who had pledged themselves to go out as the ambulance corps of the Newfoundland battalion volunteering for the front and they would also furnish ambulance men for the volunteers raised for service at home. The Governor then read these resolutions:—

Resolution, proposed by Major Cartwright:—

WHEREAS, in common with every other portion of the British Empire, Newfoundland is anxious to assist in every possible way in the justifiable war in which the Empire, of which we are proud to be a part, is now engaged;

AND WHEREAS this Colony, through His Excellency the Governor, has ordered to recruit serviceable men between eighteen (18) and thirty-six (36) years of age, to enrol themselves in training for Home Defence, wherever Corps Instructors are available;

AND WHEREAS it is desirable that steps should be taken to provide for the enlistment of these men, as well as their equipment and maintenance;

BE IT RESOLVED that the Committee provided for in the former RESOLUTION be empowered to take such steps as may be deemed necessary for enlisting and equipping these men; and also, in this respect, to act in conjunction with the Government of the Colony and His Excellency the Governor.

Rt. Hon. Sir E. P. Morris on taking the floor said that the meeting had been called to endorse the pledge given by the Government to furnish men for the front. Immediately upon the declaration of war the assistance of Newfoundland was pledged and the time is now opportune for the oldest Colony to take up her share of the burden of Imperial defence.

The war was, as His Excellency stated, provoked by a despot and England was compelled to resort to arms in self-defence. We have the ships, the men and the money, and with the assistance of France and Russia Britain will hold her own and Newfoundlanders will in the days to come feel proud of the part they had taken that day. The war was a fight for the principle of democratic government and it was to decide whether democracy was to dominate the Twentieth Century civilization or whether civilization was to be crushed under the iron heel of despotism.

Monsieur Suzor, the French Consul, was introduced to the gathering by His Excellency, and received an enthusiastic ovation. The audience sang the Marseillaise. At the request of Mons. Suzor His Excellency thanked the gathering for the demonstration and also paid a glowing tribute to the great French Army.

Mr. W. G. Gosling, Chairman of the Civic Commission, was the next speaker and stated that he felt at such a juncture Newfoundland was such a representative by Governor Davidson. He asked that the thanks of the meeting be tendered His Excellency for presiding, a request that met with applause, cheers being also given for the "King, The Mother Country and France."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem and was a most enthusiastic one showing that Newfoundland will do her share in the defence of the Empire.

Many young men of the city with brigade training have already expressed their intention of volunteering for service overseas while citizens generally are eager for the establishment of a corps for home defence.

Died on Way Home.

Mr. James Taylor of Middle Eight was suddenly called to the Great Beyond last evening while on his way home from town, accompanied by his wife. About 6.30 p.m., when about a mile past Donovan's, he left his car apparently to make a call at a nearby house. Not returning when expected, Mrs. Taylor went in search of him and was horrified to find him lying dead a short distance from the roadside. She raised the alarm, and Dr. McLoughlin who was passing at the time hastened to render assistance. He examined the body and found that the vital spark had fled, death being due to heart failure. The shock to Mrs. Taylor was a sudden and terrible one, particularly as she is left with three children. She was taken home by Dr. McLoughlin and the body of her husband was brought along later by Richard Taylor and Patrick Walsh.

British Societies Celebrate.

There arrived in the city by the noon train yesterday from Hr. Grace members of the Conception Bay British Society and their lady friends on their annual excursion. Last night they held a largely attended and very enjoyable dance in the hall of their sister and parent body; the Nfld. British Society. At midnight there was the usual interval of an hour, during which the visitors of the Bay Metropolis were entertained hospitably by the executive of our local organization. An interesting toast list was taken up and some stirring and patriotic speeches were made, interspersed with songs that were appropriate to the occasion. The principal toasts honored were the King, the Empire, the British Army and Navy and the Conception Bay visitors. The affair terminated with the rendition of Rule Britannia and the National Anthem. By this morning's train most of the visitors returned to their homes. Others will go the latter part of the week.
