Under False Colors

OR

Lord Somerton's Ally.

She heard Dr. Denver's voice in the hall, and he appeared to be somewhat excited. He was talking to Lady Helena Freeman, a large, good-natured woman, who had been left a widow at forty, with a title, and nothing to support it. Sir John had taken pity upon her, for Elsie's sake. Lady Helena was an excellent chaperon, and nominally held the reins of management at Blairwood Park. The position suited her, and she filled it with a dignity worthy of the old place.

"I will not consent to this childish nonsense," Dr. Denver was saying. "Had I not known Sir John from boyhood, I would refuse to enter the house again. My professional reputation is at stake."

"Really, I do not know what to do," Lady Helena replied. "His orders are imperative. Markham will not permit any one to enter his master's room. He says that he is recovering fast, but not to be disturbed for some days. 'This—this to me!' the doctor said, angrily."

Then he saw Elsie on the stairs, and a look of compassion crossed his face. For a little while he talked to her upon generalities, but it was apparent that his mind was greatly disturbed, and he made his visit brief.

"Papa is much better, Lady Helena," Elsie said. "And Dr. Denver has been treating him for a malady from which he does not suffer. He has finally resolved upon a sea voyage, and the doctor opposes it. I believe that papa is right."

"And we shall be left to our own devices!" Lady Helena exclaimed. Her eyes sparkled with pleasure, for she was thinking that at last they might venture into the whirl of summer gaiety before the season was gone.

Elsie divined her thoughts, but said nothing. It would be impossible to enjoy anything until Sir John's health and happiness were assured.

At that moment a footman approached with a card on a salver, saying:

"The gentleman in the green drawing room, Miss Sterne. I told him Sir John was ill, and he insisted that he must see you."

Elsie looked at the card, and read: NOEL CAMPBELL.

CHAPTER IV.

Elsie stood irresolute, the hot blood rushing to her face in a fierce tide of anger.

But the next moment she strode with a resolute step to the room wherein the footman had left Mr. Noel Campbell, opened the door, and to tell young man rose from a lounge opposite.

End Corns

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. Stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in clear liquid and in thin plasters. The action is the same.

At your druggist

Blue-jay

He made an eager step forward, his face flushed, his purple-blue eyes shining eagerly.

Elsie scarcely knew why her heart leaped into her throat—why her whole being trembled.

"A ridiculous question," she said. "Whose name but your own—Noel Campbell?"

"How absurd!" he laughed. "What an egregious ass I have made of myself! I wonder if you will ever forgive me, Miss Sterne? I wonder if the bad impression I have created will ever be effaced?"

He sat down and laughed heartily, then apologized to Elsie, saying:

"I gave my friend's card in mistake. He commissioned me to see his uncle. I have the letter in my pocket now, and remember that half a dozen of Campbell's cards were handed to me at the same time in mistake. My name is Colin Erasmith, and I am Noel Campbell's friend. He was too busy to come to Blairwood himself."

Colin Erasmith! Elsie wondered no longer at the magnetic attraction of the stranger. His name had long been familiar to her, attached to the most exquisite sketches in the leading magazines. His pictures had been the attraction of the Academy for two seasons. Devoted to art herself—art in every form—she had long worshipped the genius of Colin Erasmith.

And now he was standing before her, asking to be forgiven some sin, when he had committed none.

"I am glad to meet you, Mr. Erasmith," Elsie said. "I seem to have known you for years, and I trust that you will pardon me for being so rude to you."

His eyes danced merrily as he replied: "I am sure that I shall never forgive myself for making so unpardonable a blunder. How lucky it is that I am not Noel Campbell! If Sir John is ill it will perhaps be wise to keep back for a few days the letter your cousin has sent."

He hesitated, adding: "And I think that I had better persuade Noel to let me again be his ambassador."

Wild Jungle Beasts Constantly Menace Life in East Africa

London.—All is not joy in the life of British officials in Tanganyika territory, formerly German East Africa. Lions, leopards and elephants menace the population, missionary, and bewilder the pagan natives, and wither, practiced by the wild Wapara of the Moshi district, causes many helpless infants to be put to death annually.

Aspects of life in this new British territory are described in the 1922 report of the country. Big game multiplied rapidly in Tanganyika during the war. Lions frequently satisfy their taste for human flesh at the expense of life. Their boldness is incredible, and whole villages have been terrorized by their presence. In the first half of the year 1922 were paid for the destruction of 300 lions and 800 leopards. In Tabora district alone 67 people were killed by lions.

Elephants do great damage to crops, often ruining a whole plantation in a single night, or entering the villages, they strip the roofs of grain stores and scatter or consume the contents. The native too often assumes a fatalistic attitude in the presence of disaster, and becomes unwilling or unable to help himself.

In Tanganyika witchcraft has as fatal effects on infants as wild beasts have on adult natives. To the influence of the medicine-men, says the report, may be attributed the barbarous practice of infanticide which prevails among the Wapara in the Moshi district. Children born with some abnormality, or the offspring of parents who have failed to undergo initiation into certain tribal ceremonies, are done to death by deliberate starvation and neglect, or by exposure to the unhealthy climate of the low country. Often parents would not of their own accord abandon such children, and in many cases have preferred to give them away to strangers.

When the elders of the tribe were addressed on this matter, there was a decided tendency to recognize its evils and to adopt more enlightened ideas, but a few were against the abolition of the custom on the ground that the destruction of the tribes certainly would follow. According to these wages, life is altogether too precarious, and the number of acts as being fatal is amazing; even to plant a tree was pronounced to be equivalent to dooming oneself to death.

Another difficulty confronting British administrators in the territory is that of rivalry among missionaries. "It is greatly to be regretted that a spirit of jealous rivalry has manifested itself in certain districts between Christian missions of different denominations," the report declares. "It arises from a very natural and sincere belief in the superiority of that branch of the common faith which is their pride and their duty to preach to the heathen, but it has often resulted in an undignified competition to extend the scope of the mission beyond limits which a proper degree of influence and control would demand, and in attempts to set up schools in just opposition of those of another denomination. This open display to the pagan of religious differences cannot but react to the damage of the Christian faith."

"Christian missionaries, by offering one doctrine here, another close by, and still another a few miles away, must achieve little more than the complete bewilderment of the pagan native, and it would be well if Christian societies would recognize that the principle of spheres of influence is ultimately to the clear advantage of Christianity as a whole, no less than that of pagan populations."

Roman Swimmer

CLAIMS LONG DISTANCE RECORD. ROME.—The record for long distance swimming is claimed by the Roman swimmer Armando Santhalia, one of the water fans of the Tiber. Santhalia swam a distance of 100 kilometers recently, and contends that such a feat constitutes a record. The distance is roughly 60 miles, and ran on the Tiber from Rome to the sea. The time was 15 hours.

His accomplishment seems phenomenal, but it should be remembered that the Tiber is a very swiftly flowing river, the current moving at the rate of two or three miles an hour.

Punishment Should Deter

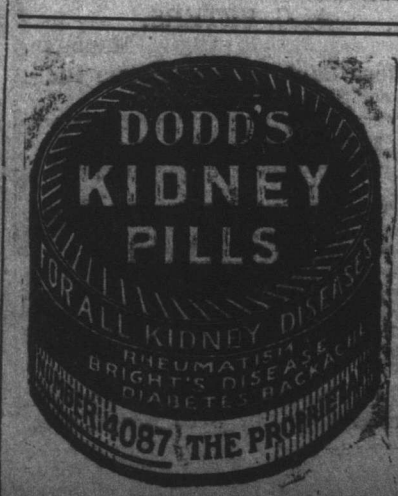

(Montreal Star.)

Judge Monet imposed the maximum penalty on an automobile thief, and announced his intention of continuing his policy in the future. "Leniency has apparently had no effect," he said; and he is now convinced that only the heaviest penalties will deter this particular form of criminal.

A judge on the bench soon learns to eschew sentimentalism in dealing with deliberate criminals. A man does not steal an automobile on sudden impulse or in a moment of passion. He must plan and wait and manoeuvre to get his chance. It is a premeditated and determined crime. Leniency looks like weakness to such a criminal. Nothing short of the maximum penalty will deter. Judge Monet is entirely right in his decision to deal sternly and vigorously with these men.

The same principle applies to all premeditated crime. Minimum penalties are inserted in the statutes to afford the judges a certain amount of latitude in exceptional cases. But we may be very sure that Parliament does not fix a maximum penalty too heavy in its judgment for the specified crime when committed with deliberation. It, too, is a more or less sentimental body, and is far removed from

BRILLIANTLY EFFECTIVE
FOR ALL KIDNEY DISEASES

actual contact with the criminal. It is very foolish to put it in the power of judges to be too severe. Its maximum punishment is usually what it thinks should be imposed in ordinary cases with no really extenuating circumstances.

Crimes—especially crimes accompanied by violence or carrying with them the possibility of assault or murder—should be sternly punished when the criminal is caught and convicted. There are so many cases where the criminal escapes that we are bound to make examples of those who are captured. Sentences in such cases should come out as warning signs visible all over the Continent. We should convince a prospective criminal that Montreal at all events is a very poor place to ply his infamous trade.

Quebec Experiences a Slight Earthquake Shock.

Stresemann has Formed a Cabinet—Turkish Forces once more back in Constantinople—Lloyd George Addresses an open air Gathering in Montreal—Mine Explosion in Colorado Claims 6 Victims.

CONSIDERABLE LOSS OF LIFE IN EARTHQUAKE.

MOSCOW, Oct. 8. There was considerable loss of life and many are homeless in consequence of an earthquake at Kerman, Persia, on Sept. 27th, according to a dispatch from Teheran. The shock was recorded on the seismograph at Kerman at the time, but the centre of the disturbance could not be definitely determined.

KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. Six were killed on Sunday in a mine explosion at Palisades, Colorado.

L. G. IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7. "Europe is in the midst of a grim struggle between hope and despair in that struggle is becoming manifest," Lloyd George, wartime Premier of Great Britain, declared in an address here to-day. Speaking briefly at an open air services, during which he turned the first sod for the new Emmanuel Baptist Church, he declared he was glad Montreal and Canada were not victims of the plague of materialism which is threatening to engulf the world. I have noted that Montreal is a city of very beautiful churches. When I was here twenty-four years ago your population, I think, was about a quarter of a million. Since then you have prospered and I am glad that in your prosperity you have not forgotten God. It is the only sure foundation for the future of a great city."

TURKISH TROOPS RE-ENTER CONSTANTINOPLE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 6. Turkish troops re-entered Constantinople this afternoon after nearly two years' banishment, through the city with flags and cheering crowds thrown by a population almost frenzied in its rejoicing. Shukri Pasha's Iron Brigade Regiment, decorated for the honor, marched from about to Seraglio Park, where the formal ceremony of welcoming the troops occurred. The division of the Turkish army were in full field equipment and all were veterans of the great war and the war with Greece.

ANOTHER BOOZE RUNNER IS WRECKED.

ST. PIERRE, Oct. 6. The British schooner Nathalie Nelson, loaded with liquor and bound for Fayal in the Azores to St. Pierre for repairs, was wrecked early yesterday off the south coast of this island in a thick fog. The crew were rescued. The vessel and cargo, which are valued at $80,000 and are uninsured, were breaking up on the shore, while a number of people aided in saving the cargo.

STRESEMANN COMPLETES HIS CABINET.

BERLIN, Oct. 6. Chancellor Stresemann to-day completed the formation of his new Cabinet in which he will act as Minister for Foreign Affairs as well as Chancellor, with Dr. Hans Luther, taking the portfolio of Minister of Finance, and Herr Koeth, that of Public Economy.

STARVING AT OLD FORT.

QUEBEC, Oct. 5. We are starving to death. Send us help in God's Holy Name, is an appeal that has just been received from residents of Old Fort Bay, Labrador, nearly seven hundred miles from this port on the North Shore. The letter, addressed to Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, has been received at the Department here and forwarded to Ottawa.

MACAULEY WINS AGAIN.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 6. Victor MacAuley, of the Halifax Wanderers, won the Herald ten mile marathon here to-day, for the third time in succession and the fourth time altogether. His time was 55:50. The record for the course is 54:29.2-5, made by MacAuley, George Wright, of Wolfville, finished second.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK IN QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, Oct. 6. A slight earthquake shock was felt here at 6:15 this morning. Many people in bed at the time were awakened by the shock. A wall in the Quebec Seminary, 330 years old, fell down.

36 HOURS IN THE MASTS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. Citing for 36 hours to the masts of the fourmasted schooner Governor Parr, six men fought and won a grim battle against death in the storm early last week. The Parr, bound from Ingramport, N.S., to Buenos Aires, was abandoned Wednesday, and the crew were rescued by a freighter. The schooner's captain, Angus Richards, and Vincent Bigh, seaman, perished. The six rescued were William Evers, James Bushman, Morgan Trimm, Percy Cleveland, sailors; Emanuel Richards, cook; and Albert Smith, mate.

In Memoriam

MISS ANGELA BENNETT, Holyrood. After an illness of two years' duration, borne with heroic Christian resignation, Miss Angela Bennett passed away to the Great Beyond at noon on Monday last. Deceased was the eldest daughter of James and Catherine Bennett, Southside. She was 22 years old and enjoyed good health until stricken down with that dread disease Consumption, which retarded all the efforts of expert medical advice and treatment to combat the attacks of the fell disease.

The late Miss Bennett was a School Teacher of seven years standing and passed from the High School with Intermediate Grade. Later she was chosen as a pupil teacher and entered St. Bride's College Littlefield to train for her chosen profession. Here she was the zealous and ideal student and graduated with high honors in her class. With true missionary spirit she commenced teaching at Little Bay, where she taught school for one year. The South Side School, however, became vacant; she was offered and accepted the appointment of Teacher of that school. Here she taught for seven years until broken health compelled her retirement two years ago. Earnest and conscientious, painstaking and hardworking, she did not spare herself in her efforts to impart a sound education to those under her care, and with such gratifying results to the Education Board and parents as to raise the standard of her school to Intermediate Grade. In fact she seemed to be naturally endowed with that sweet graciousness and attractiveness of manner which at once won confidence and predisposed the hearers to listen and obey. The teaching profession loses a good teacher; the church a devoted member, and the League of the Sacred Heart a tried and trusted officer.

Rev. Fr. Finn, P.P., frequently attended the sick lady and allayed her sufferings often with cheery optimism, but when he left the end was approaching. He administered to her the beautiful last rites of the church. Her father, who was in U.S.A., was telegraphed to come home, but arrived just two hours after his daughter's death.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Wednesday evening last from her late home to the beautiful South Side Cemetery. The funeral ceremony was performed at the home by the beloved pastor, Fr. Finn, after which the funeral arrangements were made by Undertaker Dunphy. The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket, which was laden down with wreaths, affectionate souvenirs of thoughtful friends. The children of the South Side and High Schools marshalled by Teacher Kennedy, marched in procession order before the hearse, paying their last tribute of respect to their dear teacher and friend. Arrived at the graveside the pallbearers at the order of Undertaker Dunphy reverently and tenderly lowered the remains into "the dark and lonely grave," but all at once the darkness was entirely lit up by the brilliant rays of the evening sun pouring down upon her into it. The Church Choir under the direction of Miss Flynn, sang that beautiful soul-stirring hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," and thus fittingly ended the obsequies of an honorable and lamented friend.

Miss Bennett leaves to mourn their sad loss her sorrowing and grief-stricken father, mother, sister and brother, and to them the writer offers sincere and heartfelt sympathy on the death of their beloved daughter and sister, and prays that God may comfort them in their great sorrow and have mercy on the soul of the departed one.—COM.

Conclude Reorganization of Presbyterian Churches

NEW YORK (A.P.)—Every pastor of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., 10,000 in all, will receive during the next two weeks copies of a new plan for organization of synods, presbyteries and local churches, prepared by the Committee on Reorganization and Consolidation. This is one of the final steps in the reorganization of the church which has been in process for three years.

The plan proposes that each of the 301 presbyteries set up a presbyterial council, a standing committee on promotional programme and field activities, and standing committees on the work of each of the four new boards, foreign missions, national missions, Christian education and ministerial relief. For each of the forty-six synods similar council and committees are suggested.

For each of the 10,000 Presbyterian churches a local church council is planned, to co-ordinate all the organizations and activities of the church, functioning under the seclusion of the local church, and co-operating with the presbyterial committees. The purpose is to effect a harmonized, united and effective effort in all enterprises of the denomination throughout the United States, without in any way sacrificing the individual authority of the local church or presbytery.

Unusual Entertainment at Nickel To-Day

A GREAT VOCAL PROGRAMME HAS BEEN PREPARED.

The Nickel Theatre offers its patrons to-day an unexcelled bill of Singing and Pictures. Miss Armstrongs and Miss Loring will be heard in the biggest programme of selections ever rendered. This is the greatest musical treat in the city and no doubt the music-loving public will turn out in their thousands to hear something that is really worth hearing.

Besides this big musical item, there is a big social drama entitled "Alias Lady-Fingers," featuring the popular Canadian actor, Bert Lytell, who is seen in a role that ranks him among the greatest of screen artists. The story is from the pen of Bayard Veiller, author of "Within the Law." Another of the famous Sherlock Holmes stories, entitled "A Scandal in Bohemia" will be seen to-day—and last but certainly by no means least is the inimitable comedian Charlie Chaplin in "A Day's Pleasure," one of his famous million dollar comedies with a laugh in every line.

"Rich Men's Wives" will be shown at this theatre soon. It's a truly great picture enacted by a cast of truly great artists; a theme that will set tongues wagging among rich and poor alike, in discussion of the solution given by Gansler to the question: "Are Rich Men's Wives" to be pitied, scorned or envied?"

Football Boots for boys, just Ltd., East End Branch.—Oct 4, 1923 opened at Parker & Monroe's.

Great English Baritone at the Crescent

ROBERT SHIELDS OPENS ENGAGEMENT TO-DAY.

Robert Shields, English Baritone opens his first engagement on this side of the Atlantic at the Crescent Theatre to-day. Mr. Shields' experience in the theatrical world was created in musical comedy in which he has scored prominently, singing bits of light opera, ballads and comic numbers, he is possessed of a rich Baritone voice of great range and remarkable volume and he handles his numbers with a perfect ease having a complete control of tone which he delivers in excellent manner. To hear him once means that you've got to hear him again.

Pat Harrington, singer of novelty songs will be heard to-day in a complete change of numbers that are sparkling with humor and catchy in theme. The musical boys Al Pittman at the piano and Jack Cronan, manipulator of Bells and Effects will render a smart bill of the latest musical hits.

The picture is that big production, "Down to the Sea in Ships," in which there is packed in, as many thrills and hair-raising stunts as could be seen in a dozen serials. It's the outstanding screen achievement of the century.

On Friday night another mammoth Amateur Contest will be staged, names may be sent in to the Box-office anytime during the week.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

COURAGE FOR LIFE.

If I were a fairy godmother and were invited to christen a child who had had all sorts of bad gifts given him by 15 bad fairies (to reverse the old fable) and I could give him just one gift to counter the bad gifts, I think it would be the gift of courage.

I don't really mean physical courage of course, though that would be included.

What I mean is courage for life. The fear of life is man's bitterest curse.

We are afraid to live fully lest life will hurt us in some way and so we hang back and falter and compromise and don't live but half a life.

The Fear of Life.

"I should hate to have children," a woman said to me once, "because I know I should love them so much and so many dreadful things can happen to them. I know I could never stand it if I lost one or anything like that." That's the fear of living in a virtuous form.

The blame coward, of whom I wrote in a previous talk, is cursed with a very painful form of the fear of life. He is the person who lets fear of blame for his acts have an abnormal influence on his life. Whenever he wants to act in a way that seems justifiable to him but that he knows will not please someone he loves, he lets his mind run ahead and create scenes in which he is blamed and criticized for what he has done, and in which he formulates his answers.

Sometimes the fear of this blame scares him into acting against his own convictions so as to escape it. Again he sticks to his guns but suffers agonies of fear that unfit him to be a sane, balanced member of society.

The Two Primitive Fears.

The fear of losing his job is probably the most prevalent form of the fear of life in this modern world. In the old days of the beginning of things, men feared starvation. To-day there is no need for that. But the economic fear that has taken its place seems to be just as bitter and just as agonizing—as the many suicides from business failure prove.

I suppose I shall be criticized if I say that the twin fear with this for the feminine sex is the fear of losing her husband—her job. Yet I believe that is true. Not only in the sense that jealousy has an unsuspected economic basis, but also in the sense that woman's love is woman's life and when that is threatened she sees the whole world tumbling about her feet.

An Invitation to Insanity.

To allow any of these fears to get the upper hand of one is to send out an invitation to failure, to morbidity, to insanity.

Nervous prostration seldom comes from doing too much. It almost always comes from fearing too much.

Worry is fear. Hope is the largest ingredient of courage. Hope and pride and faith and will power blended make up the courage for life.

Be ashamed to let yourself be overcome or dominated by the fear of life any more than you would by any physical fear.

"Quit ye like men, be strong." Have courage for life.

Many Policies to be Decided During Legion Convention

Indianapolis. (A.P.)—The American Legion at its national convention in San Francisco, October 15-19 will take a stand on numerous questions of international and national policy as well as problems relating purely to the affairs of veterans, according to reports received at legion national headquarters here.

One of the principal issues to come before the San Francisco gathering is the question of the convocation of an international air disarmament conference. A poll taken of all the United States Senators, Congressmen, Governors, newspaper editors, college presidents and other prominent citizens, expressed overwhelming endorsement of the legion's proposal to hold an international gathering in Washington to reduce military air forces. The suggestion also was approved by the Interallied Veterans' Federation convention in Brussels, which represented the views of fighters from eight allied powers.

Recommendations made by a number of state conventions are that the national body should continue its campaign for the conference until President Coolidge agrees to invite the European nations to confer.

Legion men hope to induce the President to extend an invitation for the gathering, and they plan definitely to consolidate legion opinion and action at the national convention.

A proposal to suspend all immigration to this country for a period of five years appears certain to receive the consideration of legion men.

Americanization for foreigners already in America is proposed in a number of resolutions to be presented at the national gathering. It has been suggested also that the legion support a bill providing for the deportation of all foreigners who have not become citizens within five years after they come to this country.

The Iowa department will propose a resolution protesting the recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States. Other departments have adopted similar resolutions.

National and state laws to prevent desecration of the national flag and to insure that it be flown from every school house will be the subject of other resolutions. Liberation of the so-called political prisoners also will be considered.

Adjusted compensation will also come before the national gathering. Almost all state conventions held to date have expressed approval of the bonus measure. The welfare of disabled veterans will be considered in detail, and the convention is expected to consider the retirement of disabled emergency officers on the same status as those of the regular army.

Another issue to be discussed will be the care of orphans of deceased veterans of the war.

Various state organizations will bring before the national body a resolution favoring American participation in an international court of justice. The convention last year endorsed the report of the Interallied Veterans' Federation, including a statement favoring the proposed court, but the legion has taken no definite action on the specific proposal.

Creation of a standing committee in the House of Representatives to consider all veterans' legislation is the subject of another resolution to be presented.

Empire's Premiers Gather in London

LONDON, Sept. 14 (A.P.)—The Imperial Conference to deal with political, economic, naval and other matters of importance throughout the empire, convenes in this city in October and will continue for about two months.

The meetings of the conference dealing with political matters will be held under the presidency of the British Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin. Representatives of the governments of Canada, India, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Newfoundland and Ireland will participate.

Among the important subjects to be discussed is the naval situation resulting from the Washington Arms Conference. Consideration also will be given to arrangements for future co-operation between the Imperial and Dominion governments in all branches of defense.

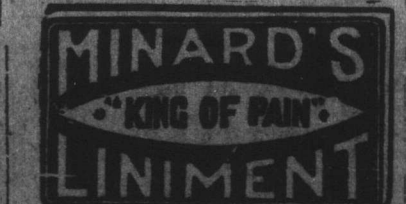

Other subjects on the agenda include: The main issues of Imperial policy; problems of foreign policy; naval, military and air defenses; cable, wireless and mail services; inter-Imperial communications by air, land and sea.

The prime ministers of the empire and their ministerial colleagues on the Imperial Conference will all be ex-officio members of the Economic Conference, which they will attend on such occasions as they, or any of them, may deem to be necessary. It is even possible that sometimes the two conferences may be merged into one, as, for instance, when the Imperial Conference desires to discuss matters in the presence of its expert advisers.

Sometimes when I push my lorry, chooching through the drowsy town, I am feeling rather sorry that I've kopecks salted down. For the news somehow's been bruited everywhere that a salesman around me they have rooted for the stocks they have to sell. They are bound to have the bundle I have labored for so long, and along my track they trundle singing still their strenuous song. Oh, they talk to me by wireless, and they ring me up by phone; they are patient, they are tireless, and their nerve is hard as stone. Now my neighbor, Binz, is busted, and he has a solemn mien; he is savage and disgusted when he ought to be serene. He can sit beneath his cedar when the evening whistles yell, and behold no long-tongued pleader with a crude old farm to sell. He can enter in his Lizzie, which is mortgaged to the wheels, and no agents will get busy with their get-rich-early spiels. Up and down the street he'll wander and no man will tell a tale of the gold mine over yonder where the easy come onin' wait. But I have some hoarded shillings, and behind me agents wend, all intent on making killings, and they'll get me in the end.

Acetylene Lamps

LIGHT VILLAGES OF N. AFRICAN NATIVES.

The natives of North Africa have given way before the blighting progress of civilization. Instead of going to bed at sunset and winning wealth and wisdom through arising with the sun, they import calcium carbide from France and Spain and apparently ruin their eyesight by reading the Sunday supplements.

"Calcium carbide," says the Commercial Intelligence Journal, "has two principal uses in North Africa: first for lighting villages and secondly for illuminating mines."

According to the same authority, all the smaller villages have acetylene plants, and apparently those unfortunate centres, too conservative to abandon the ancient candles, are regarded as in the same class as Hoots-town before the railway came.

Germany Needs Seamen

BREMEN, Sept. 12.—The need for officers to man Germany's naval and merchant fleet is so great that three sailing ships soon will be in operation to train young men to follow the sea. Germany always has insisted upon training under sail for the men who officer her steamships.

Prevention is Better Than Cure

OUR INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY.

This is Fire Prevention Week. In one way or another it will be brought to the attention of every man, woman, and child in this city that prevention is an individual responsibility. Each one of us, however old or how- ever young, can help in a meas- ure to reduce the fire risk. Any one of us, on the other hand, by carelessness or indifference can start a fire which may sweep through the city from end to end.

Prevention is better than cure. Prevention costs comparatively little, while the cure is costly even when it is effective, and that is never a certainty. Every device possible is used to cope with an outbreak of fire, but the most marvellous fire fighting ap- pliance ever conceived by the hu- man brain is ineffective as com- pared with the simple, common sense precautions which every- one can observe. The child who plays with matches, the woman who leaves a connected electric iron standing on a wooden table, the man who throws the glowing butt of a cigarette into the wastepaper basket or drops a burning match into a rubbish heap is risking the safety of the building, and even of the com- munity. Such an act can render ineffective the fire fighting ap- pliances, and the herculean ef- forts of the fire brigade.

Everyone has heard of the Great Fire of London, which de- stroyed three-fifths of the city and rendered 200,000 people homeless. It was the work of an individual.

In 1871 Chicago was destroyed by fire and 200 people were killed. Here again the disaster was due to carelessness on the part of an individual.

Twice in 1817, again in 1818, in 1846 and in 1892 St. John's was swept by fire. So far as can be learnt, an individual was re- sponsible in each case.

The personal responsibility of each and all of us to avert a disaster cannot be too often re- peated, too strongly emphasized, or too often remembered. If this one fact were realized, and if everyone decided not to take chances the fire bell would sel- dom be heard.

Most of us are familiar with the ordinary causes of fires—the wall paper or the wood too near the funnel, the kerosene oil used to kindle the fire, the chim- ney that has not been cleaned, the accumulations of rubbish in which a spark drops, the placing of hot cinders in a wooden recep- tacle, the hanging of clothes over a fireplace, and so on. They are one and all acts of careles- ness, and because we have done such things frequently without a mishap, we feel certain that no harm can happen; but, as in other matters in which there is an element of chance, the luck is against us sooner or later.

Carelessness is a habit bred of long immunity from punish- ment. Take a little more trouble for a week; exercise a little more care for a few days. Why wait for the punishment?

At St. Andrew's Church

For sometime past the Presbyterian Church of St. John's has been hold- ing preparatory services in connection with the visit of the Rev. Dr. Han- son of Toronto. Yesterday was ap- proach day, and last night the entire service was centred upon the same subject, and it is evident that spiri- tual uplift is in store for the St. An- drew's congregation, and for the people in general, who will attend these services. St. John's has had visits from some very prominent clergymen in the past, and the re- sults of their labours have been last- ing, and are seen in all the Churches.

The pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Rev. R. J. Power, has thrown his whole soul into this visit of Dr. Han- son, and he is determined as far as he and his congregation are con- cerned, to reap the best results from the meetings to be held. With this in view the sermon last night was based upon "Prayer and Revival"; and a very deep impression was made in reference to the importance of re- vivals within the Church.

Every period of Church history, from Pentecost to the present day, has had special awakenings and spiri- tual deepenings; from which great results have followed, and which have tended to the strengthening of the bonds of Christian fellowship and ex- perience. The word Revival is some- times misunderstood, and some people are prone to speak lightly of it, sim- ply because they misinterpret it. A revival is nothing more nor less than an awakening, or a stirring-up, or a deepening of interest in any subject or question in which people may be interested. We often speak of a re- vival of trade, and in literature, and it simply means an awakening; and so in religious work and spiritual ex- perience, revival only means a greater personal and experimental inter- est. It means putting these things and these principles, which the Chris- tian Church has taught, and which pertain to man's destiny and eternal life, are given first place, then society cannot go far wrong. But it is be- cause we have allowed these higher things to take second place—and in thousands of hearts to have no place—that we have a starved Christianity and so many dead congregations.

The struggle which Christianity has had from the beginning necessitated special effort and zeal. Hence it was that God raised up in every Church and especially in the Presbyterian Church, many outstanding men, who led the people on to a higher place; because they raised a high standard. The Church of the past had need of revivals, and the Church of the pres- ent day needs the same; and the op- portunity to-day is very great, and is as an open door to the entire Christian Church. Churchmen and Statesmen declare this to be the case; and to those who study Church his- tory, and observe the movements of the people, it is obvious that the revival which came from prayer, and from sincere purpose of heart, have been lasting. That there have been superficial revivals must be admit- ted; but when all the weaknesses are allowed for, there still stands the fundamental truth that revivals have helped the church. It is possible to be carried away by the spectacular or by the emotional; or to feel proud of our great choirs, and our splendid sing- ers, and excellent music, or even of great preachers; all of which in their place are necessary and commend- able, and becoming in Christian wor- ship, but the church must look high- er, and to these things; she must look to her great head, so that while looking up there may come down upon her, that power which Pentecost wit- nessed.

A revival must come down instead of being got up. In clothing, the Pas- tor was very emphatic and very ear- nest; and his appeal was such as would do good if published in full. He ex- pressed his belief that he is sure the world needs a revival, and that it will come; and then he asked the ques- tion when would it come, and he an- swered by saying that it could be- gin with our own people here in St. Andrew's Church; begin here in every heart. With this end in view he again referred to the special services to be held, and invited all the people to at- tend, and make the best of Dr. Han- son's visit, so that it may prove a blessing, not only to St. Andrew's Church, but a blessing to St. John's. Judging from last night's service at the Kirk, it is safe to conclude that a great treat is in store for St. John's, and that Dr. Han- son's mission will be a repetition of Bishop Mowll's, at St. Thomas's Church last winter.

Supply Schooner From Hudson Bay

Schooner Jean Revillon, Capt. Ro- bertson, arrived in port this morning from the Revillon Freres Ports, Hud- son Bay. The vessel is in ballast and is bound to Halifax. The Jean left Liverpool, N.S., on July 29th and has since been engaged distributing sup- plies to the various trading stations. Capt. Robertson reports that winter had set in before he left north and the ground was covered with snow. There is a considerable amount of ar- ticle in Hudson Straits and it is probable that by this time navigation in these waters is closed.

The Chapel was very becomingly de- corated for the occasion, and the nup- tial knot was tied in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties only, the ceremony being performed by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor McDermott. The bride was attractively gowned in a brown costume with hat to match, and car- ried a bouquet of orange and yellow chrysanthemums and was given away by her brother Mr. Francis Edens. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mar- garet Edens, who wore a navy blue costume with black hat and carried a bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums. The duties of best man were capably performed by Mr. Donald Bate, Manager of the Royal Trust Company. After the ceremony luncheon was served at the home of the bride's mother, Queen's Road, where the health of the bride and groom was duly honoured, after which the happy couple motored to Caplin Bay where the honeymoon will be spent.

Obituary.

EUGENE PARSONS PASSES AWAY.

We regret to learn of the demise of Mr. Eugene Parsons who, for the last twenty years, has been a prominent figure in business circles in St. John's. During the whole of that time he was in the employ of the Royal Stores, Ltd., and to-day his departure has cast a gloom throughout the firm, and expressions of regret are general. For some time his health had been any- thing but robust, but with that con- tinuousness of duty he remained at his post until about a week ago, when he was compelled to give up. It was hoped that after a short rest he would be able to resume his duties, but a Divine Providence decided otherwise, and at nine-thirty this morning he entered into his rest. The sympathy of the whole community, in which the Telegram joins, will be ex- tended in full measure to those who survive him—his widow, a sister, two daughters and one son. His oldest son, Jack, lost his life on the Florida, as he was on his way overseas to join the flying corps. Charlie, the young- er distinguished himself with the Regiment in France and is at present employed in the Auditors De- partment of the Newfoundland Rail- way. Kind and unassuming, the late Mr. Parsons will long be missed by his many friends. The funeral will take place on Wednesday, at 2.45 from his residence on Victoria St.

MRS. JOHN SAUNDERS.

The death occurred Thursday morn- ing at her home, 389 South Side, of Mrs. John Saunders, after an illness of only a week's duration from heart trouble. Her passing came as a great shock to the family. Left to mourn the loss of a good wife and mother are a husband, three sons and two daugh- ters, viz., Harry, of Bowring Bros., Ltd., and Edward, lately removed to Boston, Mass.; Mrs. William Roberts, Briggs; Mrs. Harry Taylor, South Side. Mrs. Saunders was in her 60th year and was a native of Briggs, C.B. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon and interment was made in the Church of England Cemetery, Rev. A. B. S. Stirling officiating.

Leave we now thy servant sleeping."

MCAULEY WINS.

McAuley, who was exclusively stated in our Saturday issue, Victor McAuley won the Heald Marathon on Saturday for the third time in succession for a fourth time altogether. Last time there were 110 entries but for an unexplainable reason there were not more than 30 this year. It has been freely stated and given much publicity that McAuley would not compete this season on the plea of illness. It was the rash message, however, caused some surprise. The message was shown yesterday, and to one prominently identified with athletics here by a friend at Halifax, who states that owing to the death of his father and in order to induce him to take part, McAuley's entry was purposely kept back to the last minute. The race all the way through between him and Wright, of Wolfville, N.S., but doubtless the thorough knowledge and experience over the course was an important and valuable factor in McAuley's victory. The race was slow as he had a previous record over the course of 54.29 2-5. It is understood that it is not at all likely that McAuley will visit here at the end of the month to run in the race as he has expressed a desire to go to George Wright of Wolfville who was third in the Canadian Longships' Five Mile Race) was second; and as we forecasted, a race was between them.

FOUR BLOWS STRUCK IN CARPENTIER-BECKETT FIGHT.

LONDON.—It took Georges Carpentier, the French boxer, about twenty minutes to put the quietus on the championship aspirations of Joe Beckett, who held the heavyweight title in Great Britain. Carpentier used both hands and rights in a brief series of changes and Beckett remained on the floor for the final count.

The two men received a great deal when they entered the ring for their twenty-round bout, and for a fleeting moment Beckett was smitten in smiles. His supporters, however, could hardly have witnessed a greater or greater disappointment, as awaited them.

Beckett led a light left to his opponent's jaw, but there was no power behind the blow, and Carpentier came over a left, followed by a right. Beckett's jaw, with terrible force, Beckett went down for a count of five.

The Englishman got to his feet after a rocky and the Frenchman added in with his right and left, beat Beckett down again near the ropes, and on top of him. On rising Carpentier stood back. Beckett gripped the bottom rope in an effort to pull himself to his feet but he was so pulled that apparently he had lost sense of what was going on, and after the count had been completed seconds threw in the towel, and ended one of the quickest and most sensational of heavyweight contests.

After the fight Carpentier said it was all over so quickly that there was nothing to talk about. Asked what his future plans he replied:

"I am off to the United States next month and if I beat Tom Gibbons, I expect to meet Dempsey again. Indeed I hope so."

INTER-COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL.

The first game in the Inter-Collegiate games takes place on Wednesday afternoon, between the St. Bon's Pelicans and the Canadian Redoubts. The three colleges are expected to have very strong lineups. The fact combined with the consistent practices they have been going through, will tend to make a thrilling and hard-fought series. It is interesting to note that St. Bon's have the wonderful record of being winners for 10 consecutive years. It is not surprising, therefore, that both the Pelicans and Collegians are making every effort this season to have a break made in the long string of successive victories for St. Bon's.

ENGLAND DEFEATS WALES, 18-11.

LONDON.—England defeated Wales on Oct. 1st, in an international football game played under the Rugby League rules (the Northern Union) by a score of 18 to 11. At half time the Englishmen had established a lead of eighteen points, but in the second period the Welshmen rallied and held their opponents down to no score, while they themselves ran up eleven points. The game was played at Huddersfield.

A FLYWEIGHT BOUT.

NEW YORK.—Frankie Genaro, flyweight champion of the United States retained his title Saturday night when he won the judge's decision over Vincent Salvatore of Los Angeles in a snappy 13-round bout. Genaro weighed 111 pounds and Salvatore 111½.

WHO IS THE NFLD. CHAMPION?

Editor Sportographs
Dear Sir.—In your column of Oct. 4th, you say that Messrs L. C. Outerbridge and Eric Jerrett will play off for the Tennis Championship of Newfoundland. How do you figure that out? Why not say the championship of North America and be done with? You St. John's people seem to think that the champion of St. John's, in any and every branch of athletics must be the champion of Newfoundland. The Inter-Town tournaments that Mr. Grace has had with Bay Roberts, Bell Island and Carbonear, lead us to think that the champion of Newfoundland lives in either of those towns. Bay Roberts has John Hambling; Carbonear Wm. Guy; and Bell Island Joe Dunn. In our opinion either of these would easily handle the champion of St. John's. Last year at Bay Roberts during a tournament, Hambling beat the St. John's champion in two straight sets. Mr. Grace has also played St. John's in tennis, and while the players of the game in the second city have the kindest of feeling towards the St. John's devotees of the game, they do not think St. John's should claim any championships that it has not earned.

Sincerely yours,
TENNIS FAN.

Before the Grand Jury

The Grand Jury present at the Supreme Court this forenoon was addressed by his Lordship the Chief Justice on a bill of indictment against Albert Mercer for arson. Mercer is charged with setting fire to his house on Bell Island during the month of February. The insurance on the property are in the name of the wife of the accused. She, it appears, originally purchased one-half of the house for $120. Subsequently she purchased the other half from the co-owner for $400. At the time there was a policy on the building for $400. Further insurance for a sum of $700 was effected and $1000 on the furniture. The Chief Justice concluded his address at 11.20, when the jury retired to consider the indictment.

LLOYD GEORGE'S WELCOME IN MONTREAL AN OVATION.

MONTREAL, Oct. 8.
Right Hon. David Lloyd George, the most renowned of British war-time statesmen was accorded a magnificent welcome here Saturday night when the special train which conveyed him from New York steamed into Bonaventure station at 9.30. Thousands of people thronged the depot, its environs, and streets leading to it in the hope of catching a glimpse of the man whose name was so familiar during the dark years of the war. As he left the train with his wife and daughter and came in view of the great concourse which awaited him, cheers arose which seemed to shake the depot and completely drowned the strains of the Welsh National Anthem played by the band. Montreal's welcome was of a superlative character seldom extended in Canada. In it there was plainly discernable an echo of the rejoicing which greeted the victorious conclusion of the world war in which Lloyd George played such a prominent part. There was no discordant note in the ovation and it was representative of many faces, creeds, and shades of opinion.

Despite Its Quiet

LONDONERS FIND CITY TOO NOISY.

LONDON.—(A.P.)—One of the first impressions that observant Americans coming from their own noisy, bustling cities, get of London is its serene quiet. Turn off any of the busiest highways, and in a few yards the stillness of the side streets is soothing to the ear. One may walk blocks and blocks without hearing the sounds of a phonograph coming from any window, and the curb is almost deserted, automobiles not being so common as in America. Those that do roll down the streets give warning of their coming by old-fashioned horns, never so irritating as ear-splitting sirens.

There is a noticeable absence of children with their noisy games. Except in the poorer quarters they do not congregate on the sidewalks and streets. That is one of the things that isn't done.

Yet many Londoners think their capital terribly noisy. Of those who loved the easy, jazzless age before the war, some are beginning to complain of the tide of sound ever rising all around them. Stanley Rowland has just protested at length against "the crime of noise" in an article in the Nineteenth Century. Motor-horns cause him anguish, motorcycles fret his nerves, jazz music he cannot tolerate. But the growing noises of the home fret him as much as the inevitable racket of the streets, the cafes and dance halls.

Those Mr. Rowland trails with his pen include persons who slam doors instead of quietly turning the knob, and those who walk with pompous pounding of their shoes. The man who rustles his newspaper with crackling explosions also bothers the ear of Mr. Rowland, and so also the man who puts things—books, chairs, anything—down with a bang. He loves, or says he does, the quiet and gentle conversationalist, but he abhors those who broadcast their every word.

If noise keeps on breeding noise, the writer declares, the prospect is pandemonium.

So far nothing has been done about it.

Removal of Wreck is Difficult

The removing of the wreck of the steamer Baron Vernon from the Channel of the Clyde, near Dumbarton, is a more difficult task than was at first anticipated. It will be remembered that the vessel stranded as a result of a collision with the C. P. R. liner, Metagama. The hull lies sunk in a sandbank, the shifting nature of which has presented unforeseen difficulties to the salvors. We understand that a special plant is now being prepared by the contractors, and when this is ready it is anticipated that they will be able to float the vessel. It is interesting to note that the cargo, which consisted of iron ore, and which has therefore rendered the raising of the hull more arduous, is being removed by suction pumps.

Fascist Control Brings Better Times to Italy

ROME.—As the first year of Fascist rule in Italy draws to a close, it is interesting to consider what has been accomplished in the agricultural and industrial life of the nation. It is believed that the increased energy and confidence on the part of landowners and farmers, together with favorable weather conditions, has started Italy on the road to greater production and prosperity.

The number of unemployed has steadily declined; the official returns for the months of March and April, 1923, show a reduction of almost one-half as compared to the corresponding months of 1922.

There have been practically no strikes or labor troubles since the Fascists and their leader undertook to run the Government of Italy last October. The Ministry of Agriculture estimates that the gross value of Italy's crops for 1923 will exceed that of 1922 by about 4,000,000,000 lire; the yields of wheat, barley and rye are about 23 per cent. higher than in 1922, and from 13 to 22 per cent. higher than that of the average for the last five years. In addition, forage crops, silk cocoons, vines, sugar beets and tomatoes have all been more extensively cultivated and have yielded larger crops.

San Marino.

The following interesting article on the tiny republic, its towers, its town and its people, is written by Melville Allan Jamieson, F.R.G.S., Consul General for the Republic of San Marino in London and known to hundreds of Canadians as the chief executive of the Montreal Star Office in London:

In the early years of the fourth century, during the persecution of the Christians under the Roman Emperors Diocletian and Maximian, a poor stone-cutter and convert from Dalmatia, named Marinus, sought refuge upon Mount Titano. There, in the remote solitude of its summit, he founded a Christian hermitage. A pathway to this almost inaccessible rock was soon dug out by the footsteps of pilgrims attracted by the preachings of the humble workman of Rimini.

Mount Titano was at that time the property of a Roman matron named Feliciasima (or Felicity), whose two sons, serving in the Imperial Guard, were naturally opposed to the new religion. While visiting their mother they undertook, under a burning sun, the abrupt ascent of the mountain in order to hurl abuse at the hermit. On descending from the chilly peak to the warm valley they were attacked by fever, and their mother, alarmed at the rapid spread of the disease, begged the preacher to come and restore them to health.

Moved by the earnest words of prayer uttered by Marinus, both mother and sons were converted to the new faith, and in token of gratitude, Feliciasima made an absolute gift to him of the mountain upon the summit of which was soon erected a cross bearing as its only inscription the word "Libertas." This phrase has remained through all the intervening years the motto of the republic, of which Marinus may be regarded as the founder.

Soon after the frontier is reached, where no passport or other unpleasant formalities are imposed, one arrives at the town of Serravalle, and later at the Borgo, nestled at the base of Mount Titano. Sleep ascent brings one to the old Porta Franciscana, the principal gate of the capital, the city of San Marino. No vehicles enter, owing to the narrowness of the winding streets, and the houses rise in tiers towards the summit of the mountain.

A walk along the crest of the hill affords one a wonderful panorama and a close view of the three towers, which are the outstanding feature of the coat-of-arms of the Republic, and from each of which rises a bronze feather visible from a considerable distance.

The cathedral was erected in 1555, on the site of which was one of the oldest Christian buildings in Italy, dating from 1126, and originally dedicated to St. Peter. The relics of the patron saint are preserved here in great veneration, and are displayed to the people at the annual fete of St. Marinus on September 3, when a service is held attended by the Captain Regent, the officers of state, the militia, and the mass of the population. In the museum are to be seen several souvenirs associated with Garibaldi, who took refuge in San Marino on July 30, 1849, when forced to retreat from the Austrian Army.

A well-furnished theatre, accommodating about five hundred, affords periodical entertainments, and is extensively patronized by the joy-loving and cheerful if hard-working people.

The form of Government is a relic of medieval times, and is in the hands of a Council, Grand and General, of sixty members formed of equal representatives elected from the ranks of patricians, citizens, and countrymen. Two Captains Regent preside, and are chosen from the members of the Grand Council bi-annually, assuming office on April 1st and October 1st, with all the quaint ceremonies observed for several centuries.

San Marino is an example of the aristocracy and people sharing the reins of government, with results that have been and still are entirely satisfactory to those concerned and it is a notable fact that of all the constitutions that flourished in the Middle Ages, such as Florence and Venice, only the Republic of San Marino remains as an example of those independencies that have passed away and are now part of the kingdom of Italy. The judicial organization is presided over by magistrates of foreign nationality (Italian) in order to obviate the influence of personal relations which exist in a small state. The largest of the three towers on Mount Titano, La Rocca, serves as a prison, though crime is happily infrequent. Capital punishment was abolished in 1869.

The defensive army or militia is composed of all able-bodied citizens between the ages of sixteen and fifty-five, with the exception of professors and students, and numbers somewhat under two thousand of all ranks. The principal products of the soil are grain, wine, oil, and vegetables, while cattle-breeding is carried on successfully, an annual fair being held at the Borgo for the disposal of the livestock. All the stone of which the fine buildings are constructed is quarried out of the slopes of Mount Titano, and is of excellent quality. The Sammarinese stone-masons being worthy successors of the stone cutters who founded their Republic sixteen centuries ago.

The republican flag is composed of two horizontal stripes of white and blue, with the coat-of-arms displayed in the centre.

Special copper coinage was minted for San Marino from 1864 to 1894, and silver in 1898 and 1899, but this has been discontinued, and the notes and coins of Italy are in general use.

The government of the Republic has, however, its own postage-stamps, bearing a view of Mount Titano and the three towers. On more than one occasion tempting offers have been made by the promoters of gambling casinos, but so far the powers that be have refused all proposals to establish a resort of this nature within their territory. This decision is, undoubtedly, wise for many internal reasons, and externally as the Italian government does not look favorably upon institutions of this character.

To this day the uprightness of the inhabitants can be readily vouched for and once more it is safe to say that a visit to this curious state, termed some years ago "A Freak of Freedom," will provide the visitor from other lands with abundant interest and pleasure. It will enable him to obtain a glimpse into times and customs that are now lost irretrievably in the other countries of Europe.

Mistakes Poets

Have Made.

The blunders in literature are not all confined to living authors.

Milton's lines, "Thick as autumn leaves that strew the brooks in Val-lombrosa," are familiar to everyone, but, as a matter of fact, the Vallombrosa forests are all of pine trees, so that there are no leaves, and pine needles do not fall in the autumn, but towards spring.

In "Comus" he writes:—"And in the violet embroidered vale Where the lute-lark nightingale Nightly to thee her sad song mourneth well."

Unfortunately for the poet, the male nightingale alone sings and the female is voiceless.

Another classic writer who allowed his metre to get the better of his sense was Pope, who wrote:—"When first young Maro, in his noble mind, A work 't'outlast immortal Rome designed."

He had overlooked the fact that if Rome was immortal, nothing could outlast it.

But neither of these is any worse than the story of Pharaoh's daughter finding the infant Moses among the bulrushes on the banks of the Nile. As a matter of fact, bulrushes do not thrive in that part of the world, and there are none on the banks of the Nile.

In his youthfulness may be found some excuse for Keats writing:—"Like stout Cortez, when, with eager eyes, He gazed at the Pacific,"

Balboa discovered the Pacific, and not Cortez.

Co-Operative Marketing of Wheat Denounced

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 4.—When intellectual anarchy reigns "not even the multiplication table is free from attack," Charles Quinn, secretary-treasurer of the Grain Dealers National Association, declared in a report to the annual convention of the Association here to-day. Assailing congress and legislature for bowing to the will of minorities, Mr. Quinn in a lengthy report asserted the time had come for "the helpless public to revolt against political and economic experiments." "Topping thrones have lost a flood of schemes for remaking the world," he said. "And this world of abnormal times, a world that abandons music for jazz, art of cubism and the church for the movie, will try anything." He declared the agrarian unrest was a part of the general disturbance. "For the first time in ten years," he continued, "congress has been on a vacation, giving the country a short respite. But now there promises to be a renewal of agitation and a plethora of bills 'to help the farmer' despite the fact that congress devoted most of its last two sessions to such measures. Almost unlimited credit was extended a tariff law practically excluding foreign grain was passed, a law now gives the secretary of agriculture control over grain futures trading, and another law makes co-operative companies immune from the Sherman anti-trust act. "Because co-operative marketing of California fruit was found advisable, efforts are made to apply like rules to grain, raised thru almost the entire continent. Such policy shows that leaders have not even reached the teething period in economics," Mr. Quinn quoted such authorities as Professor T. N. Carver, of Harvard University, to show the fallacy of applying to grain marketing the rules used for marketing fruit and other agricultural specialties. "Leaders of the farm movement would destroy the middleman and replace him with a system far more wasteful and much less democratic," he added, pointing to enactment of co-operative marketing laws in grain states last winter which he characterized as "without precedent in the history of class legislation." "After driving the farmers into the so-called co-operative companies, the leaders would bind them for ten years to deliver their products, not to the highest bidder, but to visionaries who know nothing of merchandising grain. To strengthen their position they would impose a fine of $500 on anyone who would dare to tell the farmers that they had made a mistake. The price to be paid producers was of minor importance. It was simply to be the market price 'after all expenses of merchandising' were deducted. "It does not seem possible that these men, calling themselves leaders of a movement, can be unmindful of the fact that their course is bound to be subversive to the farming interest of the nation. "But this is an age of turbulent thinking. That explains why a new scheme for the destruction of the middleman is advanced in the morning and abandoned by night. It explains unsound congressional bills that head the country down the road to bureaucracy. It explains laws being jammed down the public throat, laws to cure poverty, high prices, low prices, farming risks, illness and war. "In previous agitations farm leaders blamed railroads and the gold standard. Control of railroads by the interstate commerce commission prevented a repetition of the political agitation, and the money-tion in Europe stopped a resumption of the Wall Street dragon. But one hit upon the grain middle and he became the victim."

Traffic Improves on Ruhr Railroads in French Hands

Paris, October 6. (A.P.)—Continued improvement in the operation of German railway systems in the Ruhr area is pointed out in statistics published by French officials. In the month, according to these statistics, shows an "unanticipated increase in the number of passengers and merchandise transported, as well as additional truckage brought under the control of the occupation authorities."

In order, however, to obtain an accurate perspective of what this railway system, one of the most congested in the world, was like before the occupation as compared with present status—undoubtedly greatly improved within the past few months—it is necessary to compare it is to-day not only with what it was a few months ago but also with what it was before it was taken over by French and Belgian administrators.

From trustworthy figures the following comparisons are made: In March of this year occupation authorities were using miles of track, and in July—the month on which figures are available—they were using 2,130 miles. The whole system in the Ruhr and East Prussia, under German management, therefore, some 5,000 miles of track are still running.

Personnel: In March 11,000 French train operators, six German auxiliaries and 2,360 German auxiliary workers were employed on the Ruhr system; or a total of 15,366 persons. In July 18,387 French train operators, 387 German auxiliaries and 9,224 German auxiliary workers—a total of 24,000 persons—were employed. Before the occupation the total personnel, including the whole system, was estimated at 10,000. Of this number, about 1,000 have left the occupied area, have been expelled, leaving about 9,000 former employees still in the Ruhr zone to do whatever emergency work they can.

Passenger Traffic: In March 500,000 passengers, including German civilians and military travellers, were carried on the trains, whereas in July passenger traffic had increased to 1,000,000 persons, of whom about 400,000 were German civilians. Of course, was despite the German edict, that the German railway system, against the use of French trains by German civilians.

During the months of October, November and December, 1922, the passenger traffic over the German-managed lines, judging from the number of tickets sold, amounted to 97,254,000, making the monthly list of passengers about 22,418,000, as compared with 2,410,000 carried on the trains during July, 1923.

World's Oldest Civilization

The oldest civilization in the world was that of Egypt—where man had some form of civilization as long ago as 6,000 or even 10,000 years. At that time, although they were unacquainted with metals, the men who lived in and near the Nile valley in Egypt were intelligent enough to make pottery (moulding the clay and baking it), to use stone implements, to weave linen, to irrigate land, to employ boats with sails and oars, to paint or draw pictures, and to collect taxes on flax and grain. Cleopatra, the last of the ancient rulers of Egypt, lived about 2,000 years ago; but for something like 3,400 years before her time Egypt had been an empire with a known history. The reason why the Nile valley became the centre of civilization at such an early date was that there again in great quantities could be grown with very little trouble, while elsewhere in the world men were obliged to spend practically all of their waking hours in pursuit of food. Proof of this ancient civilization lies in the articles, pictures, etc., found in Egyptian tombs and monuments—preserved for thousands of years through the hot dry climate and the shifting enveloping sands of Egypt.

Iron Ore Supplies

(Stren and Shipping.)

The question of iron ore supplies and freights is at present claiming considerable attention. French, Swedish and Newfoundland interests, as well as those of Spain, are speculating on the possibilities of the British market, and our ironmasters are considering a number of propositions. Many months ago we discussed the subject of French ore supplies, and expressed the opinion that with improved transport facilities the cheaply mined mineral of France might be economically used in this country. We have also from time to time drawn attention to the possibilities of Newfoundland ore. If, as seems probable, we can build up a considerable coal export trade to Canada, the import of Newfoundland ore should be a promising proposition. We note that Messrs. Baldwin, Limited, have contracted for 60,000 tons of the well-known Wabana ore. Sir Newton Moore, director of the British Empire Steel Corporation, has been inspecting the iron ore mines at Wabana. He reports that there is great need of a market for the output. Last year Germany took 800, 000 tons, and contracted for 600,000 for this year, but owing to restrictions enforced by the French, only a small portion can be delivered. With the curtailed shipment to Germany, great difficulties are experienced and additional expense incurred, as the ore has to be discharged in lighters. An effort is being made to develop a market in England. Then there is the possibility of better supplies from Sweden, as we mentioned a few weeks ago. The Swedish ore mining industry has been depressed recently, and there has been some agitation in favor of the limitation of exports in order to assure a sufficient supply for home iron making trade; but it is proved that there is quite enough ore in Southern and Central Sweden to meet the needs of the ironmasters, and a special commission reports that the entire output of the North may be exported. To facilitate the trade, the railway from Lulea to Narvik, built specially for the carrying of ore, has been improved at a cost of 48,000,000 kr. Spanish iron ore interests are feeling the effects of the competition of both Swedish and North African ores, and they are noting the possibilities of French competition with some anxiety.

The People and the Forest Wealth

Sir Joseph Flavelle, in Quebec Chronicle.

That we, the Canadian people, who own eight-fifths per cent. of all our forest areas, should open wide the gates to unrestrained forest destruction is a spectacle quite unworthy of a nation that lays claim to shrewdness and foresight. Unfortunately, most of us shift along under the belief that the forests of Canada are privately owned. This is not true. The governments are not alone the owners of the bulk of forested lands, but they are obviously the natural protectors. As long as we look to private companies of lumbermen and paper makers we are missing the main point. The people themselves must take on the job of protecting and perpetuating a resource that belongs to the next generation quite as much as the people of 1923.

Do we fully realize that every square mile of standing timber is on a rising market and that vandalism, represented by human-set forest fires, enforces a higher penalty to-day than at any previous time? We cannot carry on the business of Canada without forests. Let us face that fact, and all that it connotes. There is hardly any price that we cannot afford to pay for the enforcement of forest protection. I do not think it is at all unreasonable to say that no government has any right to extract revenue from the forests to be spent on ordinary civil purposes until every effort has been made, and every dollar spent, that will make the forests secure and self-perpetuating.

Imagination Beggared

The Times: That a powerful island nation should, like a sinking ship in a storm, send out an S.O.S. for help is a striking reminder of the thinness of the veil that separates man's life, his toilsome effort and all his progress from the dark forces of chaos. If this horror had ever come upon London and Liverpool we might understand the sorrow and despair that afflicts the Japanese people now. We grope for analogies.

The Flour Mill Project

(Mr. Grace Stadard.)

A flour milling industry in our country has been under discussion for some time past and now seems to be in a fair way of being developed. The Company, we understand, is an American one, and is being capitalized in America and locally. Mr. Palmer, a Newfoundland, who has had considerable experience abroad in milling, is the originator of the company, and the necessary concessions will in all likelihood be granted as soon as the House reopens. The engineers from the Company have been in St. John's and have visited Shovel Ht., T.B., where it was at first thought the industry would be located. Other places, we understand, are also under discussion as possible sites and St. John's seems to be most anxious to have the industry there, and many arguments are heard in favor of its selection, one of which is that it would be the most suitable centre for the trade. Any southern port with rail or steamer facilities would be equally as suitable for distributing purposes as St. John's. St. John's is already much congested, and rentals, taxes, etc., would be very high in comparison to those in the outports.

We believe that Harbor Grace is also being discussed as a probable site, and we are confident that here we have greater facilities for such a business than any other outport, and can offer better sites and accommodation than St. John's. We are blessed with an ample water front, one site in particular that occurs to our mind having deep water sufficient for large steamers immediately near the shore, while the premises would suggest itself as an ideal location, a water service being already installed, electric power and light being at hand, a spur railway running right to the place, in fact all the requirements are readily available. Local real estate does not command high prices; taxes, if any, would be negligible and there is ample room for any further developments.

We understand some of our enterprising townspeople have placed the advantages of Harbor Grace as a suitable location for this industry before the promoters, and we trust the latter will consider well the advantages available and come to a decision which will be to the mutual benefit of both the Company and our community.

Cartwright Claims to be First to Listen in

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—In your issue of Sept. 14th, we notice an interesting article under heading of "Labrador 'Listens in' for the first time."

Your correspondent says, that "the first Radio concert programme ever heard in Northern Labrador" was picked up at the Moravian Mission Station in Hopedale on the evening of August 28th, 1922.

We believe Cartwright is the first place of Labrador, which "listened in" to a Radio concert, by apparatus particularly adapted to this purpose. On the evening of July 26th, we enjoyed our first Radio Concert and like Hopedale tuned in at Schenectady, N.Y. (evidently that Station produces the best results.) We have since enjoyed good concerts from Providence, R.I., Dartmouth, Mass., and several other stations.

Thanking you in anticipation for space for this note in your valued paper.

"A DAY'S PLEASURE"Citizen Makes an Appeal

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—The Evening Telegram—The Peoples Paper—has at all times opened its columns to the betterment of the working class, and I have to thank you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness on a former occasion ventilating the desperate condition of the tenements of the poor in this city. I will not dwell on this matter to-day, outside of pointing out to the Rotary Club an opportunity for great work on their part in doing something to force the owners of these dwellings to improve conditions; which, I feel confident, will appeal to the gentlemen of that noble organization. No one realizes more fully than I the power of such a body of men whose watchword is "Service," and when I point out some of the difficulties under which the poor people suffer, I feel certain that the need for immediate action on their part will be readily acknowledged. We all are cognizant of the fact that houses for the workmen are very scarce, and that therefore any protestations on their part are very often given to deaf ears. There are habitations in the West End absolutely unfit for human beings to reside in. The roofs of these buildings are without shingles and when wet weather sets in the rain comes down through the roofs. Speak to the owners about it and they will invariably tell you that if you do not like it you can pack up your belongings and get out. Therefore the poor people have to keep silent. I have appealed through the press to the Municipal Council, but up to date no action has been taken by that body. I say, Mr. Editor, that it is a disgrace that some movement has not been made in this matter by those who occupy positions as Councillors; and as they do not seem to be inclined to bother themselves about it, I now appeal to those public spirited gentlemen who are members of the Rotary Club, to make a move in the matter, and feel confident that an effort on their part will be the means of improving housing conditions in this city.

Yours truly,

CITIZEN.

AS A BOY.

"I knew him as a boy," he said. "Knew him when his feet were bare and upon his youthful head. Grew a mass of tousled hair. Never thought some day I'd see him the governor of the state! He was just a boy to me, a boy carrying home his book and slate."

He had known a famous man. Knew him in his youthful days. So I questioned: "If you can, tell me of his early years. You have seen him come and go. You have heard his laughter gay. You were privileged to know one whom the world applauds to-day."

"Could you read it in his eyes? Could you see it in his face? Did you guess that he would rise some day to a lofty place? Were you kind to him back then? Did you ever think, or say that the town would hear again from the boy who'd gone away?"

"No," he slowly answered me; "Had he not been crowned by fame? Quite forgotten he would be. I should not recall his name. There were twenty boys or more just like him from day to day. Romping, playing round my door. That is all that I can say."

There are twenty boys or more romping round us, day by day—What to-morrow holds in store. None of us can truly say. Yet when fame shall single out one for glory and for joy, Some of us, beyond a doubt, Shall have known him as a boy.

Royalty in Search of Employment

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(By Canadian Press)—"Lady speaking English, French and German, of best family, desires situation to take care of children."

Between these lines, appearing to-day in the Female Help Wanted column of a New York newspaper, could be inserted a story that would substantiate the truth of the adage, "Truth is stronger than fiction." The advertisement was inserted by Princess Sofia Toumanoff, a Russian refugee, who, with her husband, Prince Toumanoff, is searching for employment to support her old mother and her two sons, George and Vladimir, aged respectively five years and five months. The royal refugees arrived here two weeks ago from Constantinople after a five year record of flight, imprisonment and starvation in Russia and Turkey, bringing with them their children and the Princess' aged mother. "They are now facing the problem of procuring the necessities of life, for they were forced, when fleeing from the Bolsheviks, to leave all their possessions behind them. It was all they could do to scrape sufficient money together for their passage to the United States."

"I can do more than the little it says in the advertisement," Princess Toumanoff confided in a reporter. "I can sew and embroider. I have a well-trained mezzo soprano voice and can accompany myself on the piano. And I can milk cows too. The Bolsheviks taught me; but I'd rather not do that."

Soviets Will Circulate Their Money in Siberia

VLADIVOSTOK, Siberia.—(A. P.)—An attempt is to be made to put Soviet money into circulation in the Far East. Mr. Barishnikov, director of the local branch of the state bank, who went to Moscow for the purpose of regulating the currency in the Russian Far East, is the main sponsor of the scheme.

Mr. Barishnikov points out, however, that no attempt will be made to interfere with the present Japanese currency circulating here, and that the Soviet money tokens will only circulate on an equality with the foreign money and will be changed at the bank for foreign money or gold as the holder may desire.

The money to be put into circulation will be the Russian "tehrvenets" a banknote of the denomination of ten rubles gold, but the rate of exchange of which, although comparatively stable, still fluctuates a little. This is the smallest piece of guaranteed currency in Russia, hence for any less amounts either silver currency or Japanese small money tokens will have to be used. In order to keep up the price of the silver exchange the importation of small silver money of other countries into Far Eastern Russia has been prohibited.

Exporters Warned Re Spanish Trade

Unsettled Conditions Likely to be Followed by Important Constitutional Changes.

NEW YORK.—Canada's interest in Spain will make the warning issued to American exporters and bankers regarding the risks involved in taking new Spanish business of any kind, by authorities in close touch with Spanish affairs, of some interest to Canadian business men. According to the warnings being circulated here the recent "revolution" in Spain was largely an attempt by a military faction to forestall another real revolution. The Communist elements planned to stage early in October. While the deposed Spanish government expected to be able to obtain military help from Italy in the event of this insurrection taking place, some elements in the military monarchist party are said to have believed that it was advisable not to place too much reliance on Italian assistance. Hence the revolution staged by the Captain-General of Barcelona.

It is not believed here, however, that the party now in control of the Spanish government have done any more than postpone for a short time the popular insurrection. The army, upon which they must depend, is badly disaffected and likely to side with the leaders of the proletarian movement at any time.

It is said here that a number of the foreign banks with branches in Spain have already withdrawn their representatives and that others will follow. Nothing is known here as to the intention of the Royal Bank of Canada regarding its office in Barcelona.

In view of the fact that local exporters are informed that it is extremely likely that Spain will become a republic within a relatively short time, and that King Alfonso will be forced to abdicate, they are exercising extreme caution in regard to further Spanish commitments.

Hotel Servants Scatter Employer's Silverware

LOS ANGELES.—(A. P.)—A fortune is lost every year in the knives, forks and spoons which accidentally go into garbage cans in Los Angeles, according to a number of cafe and restaurant owners, who are the principal sufferers.

One restaurant reported a loss of nearly $40,000 in silverware last year. Some of this was carried away by patrons, but most of it was sent to the hog farms near here by way of the garbage can.

Private families are not so heedless of their silverware. It is said, but public eating houses suffer heavy losses because of the carelessness of employees.

A man has entered the business of recovering the lost silverware from the farms, and knives, forks and spoons bearing the names of the cafes owing them are returned at a small cost.

Russian Builds Airplane

WITH ADJUSTABLE WINGS.

HARBIN, Manchuria.—(A. P.)—An airplane with adjustable wings, enabling the pilot to alter his speed materially during flight, has been given a series of tests here with highly satisfactory results. The inventor, J. J. Dill, a Russian engineer, believes his device will correct a long recognized defect in the science of air navigation.

Dill's invention consists of an apparatus for altering the "angle of incidence" of the plane while flying. In the tests it was found possible to alter the angle eight degrees, causing a corresponding difference in speed ranging from 100 kilometers an hour to 90, and to make a landing within a space of 15 meters.

A 130 h.p. French motor was used and the airplane had a wing spread of approximately 33 square yards. The pilot was a Russian, Kudialenko, attached to Marshall Chang Tso-li's flying staff.

Dill claims his machine can attain a high speed 40 per cent. greater than that attainable by the rigid type of airplane; a low speed 36 per cent. less and a climbing speed 31 per cent. faster.

And Serve Him Right

WAR HATREDS STILL ALIVE.

LONDON.—It is too soon to expect the end of racial antipathies engendered by the war, in the opinion of the rector of a small town in Norfolk. He recently learned a lesson that was pointed and conclusive.

Wanting to embellish a war memorial in the town with some carved figures, the rector took it upon himself to order the work done. In due time the figures arrived and were installed. Then the trouble began, for it was learned that the figures had been carved in Germany. A storm of indignation broke upon the head of the rector. He appealed to his church superiors for support, which was not forthcoming, and then retired as gracefully as might be from his impossible position.

Ground Wood Pulp

IS NOW BRINGING $45.00 A TON

Ground wood pulp prices have advanced to $45. This development is of importance to many Canadian pulp producers, as a great many of the pulp and paper companies have a surplus of some size to place on the market. The price recently crept up slowly to $42 per ton. Somewhat over a year ago there was considerable of a slump in the market. Ground wood pulp sold down as low as $23.

It is stated that the increased demand resulting in the advance has arisen in at least some measure from low water conditions in the States of Maine and New York so that the supply for American mills from producers in those States has been considerably curtailed. The result is that the consumers across the line have to look to Canadian producers for their supplies.

Dublin, Sept. 29.—(Associated Press).—Eamon de Valera is no longer the only Republican deputy in Arbour Hill barracks; other prisoner deputies have just provoked the suggestion that the Government is facilitating an inter-change of views between de Valera and his colleagues, with the object of eventual accommodation.

The independent says that important developments may be expected, but the official attitude is that these prison transfers are without political significance.
