A CASE OF NECESSITY.

BY MARY E. BRADLEY.

'I know it, I answered.

A smothered groan from the library, and a call for the doctor, prevented his answering. He hurried back to his patient, and it was nearly half an hour before I saw him again.

I sat down by the window and waited quietly, with a growing conviction that the need of me would presently overbalance objections, numerous and obvious as they were. I was not blind to any of them, nor even so indifferent as I would have had Dr.

Ripley believe, to the inevitable gossip that would arise. The matter would be town talk, of course, and I could imagine the things that would be said.

It was not a pleasant imagination, but it could not weigh against my sense of pity for a good man selfishly deserted in his need. Neither could the grim facts in the case dampen my determination to undertake; and I had no doubt that I could render more efficient help could be secured. It was a loathsome and dangerous disease, and it might be deadly to one or both. Never mind, that would be as God saw fit. Meanwhile I was young and sound in body, and fearless in spirit; and this sick man had been my kind friend. I remembered a hundred little ways in which he had shown me sympathy and consideration; I had lightened his heart, because it showed me his comprehension of the burden I bore, and his gentle pity for me. Should I let him suffer now for a cup of cold water, perhaps, in the mean time of harm to myself? Not I, indeed! My veins were filled with youth and strength, and my heart with grateful compassion;

I did not shrink from fatigue or dread contagion, or care for spiteful tongues.

Jimmy Doonan came creeping along the passage by and by, and planted himself opposite me, with a half-sarned, yet indignant and appealing look in his face.

'They're either clearin' out, Miss Helen, the whole lot, or a'boole of 'em.'

'So I supposed, Jimmy.'

'That Blackmore, Susan, ain't got the sense of a nit,' he continued, with a disgusted expression. 'I tould her she'd be none the worse for takin' the disease, even if she tuk it, which there's no tellin' whether she wud or she wudn't.

'Look at mesilf, see I; I ain't no more than a little thing, but I can take it, and I'll be glad to see you

in the world has any use for. You'd better take up with her offer, and let her do some good if she can.'
