The Body of the Dowager Empress Will be Interred.

British Parliament to the King - Emperor William's Instructions - Funeral on Tuesday.

LONDON, Aug. 7.-King Edward, Queen Alexandra, Princess Victoria and Prince Nicholas of Greece, who is the guest of their majesties, will start for Hamburg Friday to attend the funeral services of Empress Frederick to be held in the presence of the family next Sunday.

LONDON, Aug. 7.-A resolution providing for an address of condolence with King Edward and sympathy with Emperor William at the death of the Dowager Empress Frederick, their sister and mother, respectively, was unanimously adopted in the house of commons today.

BERLIN, August 7.-It has been definitely decided that the funeral of the Dowager Empress Frederick will take place Tuesday next, August 12. The remains will be deposited in the Friedrichs Kirche mausoleum, near Potsdam. Emperor William has issued a decree ordering the army to go into mourning for six weeks and gave minute details as to how the mourning-embellishes are to be worn.

The Hamburger Nachrichten (Prinze Bismarck's old organ), draws upon its editor's reminiscences by saying that Prince Bismarck repeatedly insisted in private conversation that it was quite untrue that the Empress Frederick caused him great chagrin during the mourning period.

CHRONICLED. Aug. 8.-The funeral service held at Friedrichs Hof late this afternoon was simple but highly impressive. It was performed at the request of the late Dowager Empress, by the Bishop of Ripon, her own chaplain, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Teignmouth Shore, Canon of Worcester.

The coffin stood in the death chamber covered with a long black pall and draped with white roses at the foot, with bowed head and slightly in advance of the other mourners, stood Emperor William in the uniform of the Black Hussars, the regiment of the late Dowager Empress.

HE KNEW WHERE TO GO.—The Adventures of an Up River Steer on Main Street, Yesterday.

A steer came down river Thursday in whom was undoubtedly the reincarnation of some thirsty soul, which had sometime dwelt in the North End.

He was a red steer, apparently of tender age, with wide spreading horns, and of a most inquiring disposition.

On his way up Main street to be offered upon the altar of St. John's appetite, he positively refused to accompany his bovine confederates on the street. He preferred the sidewalk.

He wasn't rough or rude about it, but he quietly intimated his preference to his driver and firmly abided by it. And he wouldn't go steadily, either.

He wanted to see what was in the shop windows; he wanted to investigate all the questionable objects, and he wanted to meet the people; and he did. A street car he was very inquisitive about and favored it with prolonged inspection. In doing this he stood on the track in front of it, and didn't in the least seem to mind the strong remarks the motorman made.

But the climax came, and his identification was complete when he came to the Elgin saloon. He stopped dead, and lifting his head, sniffed longingly. The odor seemed familiar, and he looked at the saloon with his solemn extent of countenance sought his complaint exactly. He averted suddenly to the left and entered. What went on inside the saloon is not known, but in a short time that intelligent animal emerged, looking much more comfortable and happy-like. He licked his expense of jaw in a satisfied manner and wisely withdrew on a big, peaceful brown eye at the assembled crowd, went on the rest of his last journey very quietly.

He gave out a portion of that steer will come near committing a crime against Nature.

MAN INJURED.—Between nine and ten o'clock yesterday afternoon a sailor by the name of Edward White, belonging to the schooner Hunter, now loading deals at Station, Cutler & Co.'s Indiantown mill, was severely injured. He was on the pile of deals, passing them to a man below on the schooner, and in order to handle one of them more easily stepped on the starboard light box of the schooner. His foot in some way slipped and he fell backwards, striking heavily against the deals as he fell. His leg and back were quite badly injured, but he was resting quite comfortably on the schooner last evening.

LIKES HIS JOB.

(Moncton Times) Not every man who is fortunate enough to secure a position in the I. C. R. service is satisfied with his environment and lot in life, even after he has obtained the coveted position. Occasionally, however, a man who has waited long and at last found relief in an easy chair in the I. C. R. office, is found who expresses himself well contented to have his existence prolonged in his present sphere. Such a man was met the other day. An old party veteran from the wide of Kent, who was recently rewarded with an easy berth in the general offices, was asked how he liked his job. "Oh, fine, fine," exclaimed the delighted patriot. "One very nice job, just same as any other in the general offices, and count on it, over and over, one very fine place to work."

A LOVE STORY.

And How Its Troublesome Passage Ended Happily in St. John. That the course of true love never does run smooth is a saying that is hardly appreciated by most men before they learn to strop a razor. Very few have the difficulty in realising their hearts' desire that beset the pair of David L. Ford of North Weymouth, Massachusetts, yesterday. He had been working in the States, where his family now lives, for several years, and all the time the girl he has been working for has been living at her home in Harbor at Bouche Nova Scotia. Her name is Maria Du Coste, a charmingly pliant little French lady and when a Sun reporter met her Wednesday afternoon she seemed wholly and perfectly happy. But that was after the trouble had passed over.

It all happened this way. He—there is only one "he" in this story—had been down from the States this summer visiting her in that quaint old village on the Atlantic shore. He hadn't seen her for a long while, and during his stay convinced her of the value of living alone and persuaded her to come back with him to his ancestral home in Nova Scotia, married as soon as they reached there, and trusting him, she went. And this was where their troubles began.

Arriving at Moncton, the middle-aged man, who is a well-known authority, for reasons best known to themselves, refused to allow the couple to proceed. The authorities asked questions which, though not in the least evaded, but which, in innocence were embarrassing in the extreme. Finding that an admittedly unmarried couple were actually travelling together into his domain, he snapped—the purist—put his foot firmly down in an attitude of virtuous indignation and berated the passage. That the couple were innocents written on their faces, and that the young man had apparently money galore, made no difference. They had to come back and get married before they could travel together.

So they came back, arriving in St. John by the Boston express at noon Wednesday. He had never been married before, but a good Samaritan, guided their troublous, took them in hand, and the young man's footstep to the "office" of an issuer of marriage licenses, and then to the residence of Rev. C. T. Phillips, by whom the necessary knot was firmly and legally tied. Then, with faces alight, the happy couple proceeded on their way again, leaving for their future home by the Boston express last evening, secure in the knowledge that immigration officials or customs men had no more power to detain them, and that their wedded legal institutions any effect upon their reputation.

RE MR. JAFFREY.

Passed Peacefully Away Tuesday Afternoon, at a Ripid Old Age. Rev. William Jaffrey of St. Marys passed peacefully away at about two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, mourned by many large circles of friends. He has been ill for some time, though he suffered no pain, and was in a quiet resignation and Christian patience. He was conscious until the end, and despite that life was slipping peacefully away, conversed cheerfully with his family and gathered about his bedside. The late Rev. Mr. Jaffrey was in the 81st year of his age. He leaves one son, William, of St. Marys and two daughters, Mrs. Stanley Chouvy, of Ononago, and Miss Margaret Jaffrey, at home.

In 1856 he married Lucretia, daughter of Jacob Allen of St. John, and she died in 1861. When a young man he came to Fredericton, and after school days entered holy orders. He was consecrated deacon in 1860 and was in the following year ordained by the late Bishop Medley. St. Marys was his first and only parish, and he remained rector of it until 1888. He was rector of the parish for 42 consecutive years. He was one of the oldest Church of England clergymen in the diocese. At the time of his ordination and for many years afterwards he was in the habit of studying the Holy Scriptures, and he was very active and hard working, and was a great blessing to the people of all classes from one end of the parish to the other.

When Rev. Mr. Jaffrey came to St. Marys he boarded with a family named Jewett, whose house was on the site afterwards purchased by him, and upon which he erected the present residence.

VERY SUDDEN DEATH.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock Wednesday morning the north end police were notified that a man had died in a field on Gilbert's lane. Sgt. Hast-ings at once went out and found that the deceased person was a middle-aged man who had applied to David Connell for work Tuesday, giving his name as Rankin. He was told to come back in the morning, and did so, but had only been working about ten minutes when he suddenly fell, and in spite of all that could be done by those near him, expired in a very short time. Doctor Berryman was at once notified and ordered the body to be removed to the morgue, which was accordingly done.

It was rumored about town that the dead man was not Rankin, but that he was Sylvain Richards, formerly proprietor of the Ben Lomond house. The appearance of Mr. Richards himself on the scene, however, proved this rumor false.

Last night the man was identified as Robert Rankin, a laborer of this city, who has for some time been in the habit of being a resident in the Almshouse. Lately he has been receiving treatment at the hospital, which he left last Saturday. Sunday he spent with his daughter, Mrs. Ross of Sherbrooke street, and yesterday began work for Mr. Connell so suddenly and short by his death. He will be buried by the employees of Hilliard's mill where he was well known. No inquest will be held.

The deficit includes $2,700 for street widening and macadamizing to be assessed for next year, but after making this allowance, the city fathers would appear to have been rather lavish in their expenditures.

BURNED AT THE STAKE. John Wesley Pennington, a Negro, the Victim of a Southern Mob.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 7.—John Wesley Pennington, a negro, was burned at the stake near Enterprise, Ala., before a crowd of 500 enraged and determined citizens of Coffee county this morning. The mob was composed of both whites and blacks, and though the entering man pleaded for mercy and frantically endeavored to break the chains that bound him, not a trace of sympathy was shown. Pennington had committed a brutal assault upon Mrs. J. C. Davis, wife of one of the most prominent farmers of Coffee county, and had confessed his guilt.

The crime was committed Tuesday afternoon, at a large posse of organizers with bloodhounds and captured the negro in a swamp. He was bound and taken to the Davis house, for identification. When the posse arrived this morning, they were met by at least 500 persons were gathered near the Davis residence. Mrs. Davis recognized her assailant, and the negro admitted the assault and pleaded for mercy, but he was dragged to the woods nearby. An iron pile was driven in the ground around which brushwood was piled. When the negro saw his doom he screamed with terror and fell in a faint. He was revived and dragged to the stake, but had to be held up while the chains were fastened around his neck and body. A match was applied to the pile, and with oil to feed upon the flame soon burst into a roar. The terrified negro again pleaded for mercy, but to no avail. He was then thrown into the circle of fire. The oil burned out and the flames subsided sufficiently to show that Pennington's head had fallen forward and his hands were hanging from his chain. His body was quickly consumed and the crowd dispersed.

CHARLOTTETOWN ELECTRIC LIGHT. Monday evening at the residence of J. Morris Robinson, a meeting of the St. John stockholders of the Charlottetown Light and Power Company was held for the purpose of discussing a new company, which secured for the company, president, John S. Glenara and secretary, A. Ernest Ingram, secretary of the company, of Charlottetown, were present, and presented a report of the proposed amalgamation with the Full Electric Co., and the Royal or Prince Edward Island Electric Company.

In 1898 the Charlottetown Gas Company was taken over by what was originally a new company, which secured a charter for the lighting of the city and running street cars in the city and royalty. During the past year or two, the two rival electric companies have been merged, and this, together with the recent granting of the contract for the street lighting to the Full Electric Company has helped to bring about the present situation.

In the new board of directors each of the old companies will be represented, and at a meeting to be held in the near future in Charlottetown they will be elected. J. L. Esmer, president of this city is vice-president of the company, and will hold his position until the meeting takes place. The terms of the proposed amalgamation are entirely satisfactory to the St. John stockholders, as was stated at the adjourned meeting which was held at 10:30 yesterday forenoon.

WANT TO BUILD PAPER MILLS. A representative of an English syndicate is now in the province looking into the possibilities for establishing a large paper manufacturing plant. He has visited Quebec province, and looking over the chances there. The English concern desire to establish in eastern Canada a paper mill with a capacity of at least 200 tons of paper per day, and their representative is looking for a place where they can get a thousand square miles of timber limits and a water power that would develop from 20,000 to 30,000 horse power. Outside of Grand Falls this power could hardly be got in New Brunswick, although there would be no difficulty in securing the timber limits. The syndicate desire to manufacture paper, and would not export a pound of pulp. If it were possible to secure such an industry for this province it would be of great advantage.

KUMPORT Headache Powders are safe, pleasant and effectual. They contain no opiate, or any harmful drug. They create no habit on continued use.

THE WASTAGE OF SHIPPING. Only the other day we stated that the tonnage inaugurated in three months in the United States, the totalled 393,538 tons, the measure of 177 vessels, and now we have an account of the tonnage of shipping, amounting to 24 vessels of 171,996 tons, so that the tonnage added to the world's fleet is in steamers, and thus the carrying efficiency of the new vessels is nearly four times that of the vessels removed from the Registry, from which the returns are issued. Obviously all others, I should say, CHLOROXYNE, is much used in the average, for the twelve months, the tonnage of the vessels, as compared with the 17,286 tons now reported. We have indicated that the loss is fairly equally divided between steamers and other vessels, and account for one-third, iron ships accounting for 61,930 tons, and wooden or composite vessels for 62,977 tons. The tonnage of the vessels, of the greater half of the waste—138 vessels, of which the tonnage is 1,100,000 tons, were abandoned at sea. Collisions sent to the bottom 13 vessels, of 10,192 tons, most of them steamers. Eight vessels, of 7,137 tons, foundered, and five vessels, of 4,615 tons, were otherwise lost. It is gratifying to note that only 47 tons out of every 10,000 tons owned by Britain were lost during the quarter, whereas with other notable maritime powers the proportions were: Italy, 245; Norway, 131; Spain, 135; Sweden, 62; United States, 97; France, 84; Russia, 89; and Germany, 36; London Engineering.

AN I. C. R. GRIEVANCE. Driver McGarity's Case May Cause the Management Some Trouble.

MONCTON, N. B., August 6.—Some weeks ago Driver Wm. McGarity, running between Moncton and Truro, was suspended for a month for refusing to take a train out, alleging that he had been on duty twenty-four hours and required rest. The freeman, who was in the same predicament, was also given a month's rest. Driver McGarity is on duty again, but he is asking the management to pay him for the month he was not allowed to work. His claim is backed by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the grievance committee waited on the management in reference to the matter. McGarity contends he was acting within his rights in refusing to take out a train after being twenty-four hours on duty without rest, and he has the support of the brotherhood in the stand he has taken. Manager Russell has been given to understand that he has no objection to paying the driver's full pay for the time he was off, will satisfy him or the order at his back. Unless the management accedes to the claims put forth more is likely to be heard of the matter.

QUININE CAUSE OF A TRADE WAR.

Triangular Battle in Which Britain is Involved—Holland Also Interested.

Quarrel Based on Which Country Shall Supply the Drug to the World's Markets.

India, Java, and Bolivia have become involved in a trade war over quinine, and as India means England, while Java stands for Holland, the triangular struggle is likely to be interesting. Holland declares that it owns the only real quinine, blow in the bottle brand of quinine, and that it comes from Java. England insists that the Indian variety is the better brand and that the Javanese article is deficient as a fever-buster. While Amsterdam is the principal mart for the Javanese brand, Berlin does a large business in the artificial product. It should be remembered that quinine is an elaborate product, there is no such thing as a quinine tree, for instance. The drug is obtained from a tree known variously as Cinchona officinalis, Cinchona succirubra, Cinchona Calisaya, etc. The first enumerated might be translated as "Official Quinine," the second as "Red-juiced Quinine," and the third as "Calisaya Quinine."

The tree from which quinine is produced is an evergreen, which sometimes grows to a height of 80 feet. The tree is valued solely on account of the medicinal properties of its bark, which has been known since 1638 as a valuable tonic and febrifuge or fever cure. At first it was known as cinchona bark, because the wife of the Governor of Peru, the Countess of Chinchón, was the first person of note to be cured by the drug. General knowledge of the virtues of the bark was disseminated by the Jesuits, from which it got the name Jesuits' bark, and because of its origin, of Peruvian bark. The origin of the name of its medicinal product quinine is not very clear. The Peruvian bark was quina, and it is alleged that when the two government, therefore, considers itself affected by the quarrel among the three countries producing the genuine drug, and has instituted a campaign having for its object the demonstration of the alleged fact that the Bolivian and Peruvian forests are worked out, that the Indian variety does not contain true quinine, and that the Javanese article is so poorly prepared that it can never show two samples alike. Incidentally to this three-sided attack there has been presented a neat summary of the advantages of the quinine produced by the coal tar tree, which is said to be strong, standard and superior.

THE REAL QUESTION.
The quarrel over the quinine question is really based upon the question of which country shall supply the drug market of the world with quinine. At present London is the chief market for the Indian and South American products—although some of the latter is handled in New York—while Amsterdam is the principal mart for the Javanese brand. Berlin does a large business in the artificial product. It should be remembered that quinine is an elaborate product, there is no such thing as a quinine tree, for instance. The drug is obtained from a tree known variously as Cinchona officinalis, Cinchona succirubra, Cinchona Calisaya, etc. The first enumerated might be translated as "Official Quinine," the second as "Red-juiced Quinine," and the third as "Calisaya Quinine."

French chemists, Pelletier and Caventou, succeeded, in 1820, in extracting the active principle, or alkaloid, from Peruvian bark they gave the name of quinine to the chief alkaloid.
The first of the drug over which the three countries are now quarrelling came to Europe about 1638. For many years it was used only in the shape of a decoction of the bark. When the active principle—quinine—was found, it was used in preference. Early in 1890 the demand for the drug had seemed danger of the exhaustion of the South American supply. The drug, at that time, was obtained by Indians, who sought out the cinchona trees and felled them to strip the bark. Under modern conditions this destructive process has been stopped, it having been found that the young wood of the tree yields the best quinine and that it can be cut without endangering the life of the tree.

SOUTH AMERICAN BARK.

Until 1867 English manufacturers of quinine were entirely dependent upon South America for their supply of cinchona bark, which was obtained from cultivated trees growing in Bolivia, Peru, and Ecuador. Some years ago, however, it became evident that other sources of supply were needed, and in 1848 an attempt was made to plant cinchona trees in Algeria, but this was not successful. In 1854 the Dutch government sent a man to Peru to get trees and seed. He got both, and brought them to Java—only to find that there was not a grain of quinine in any of them. About this time a native named Manuel Herrera Mamani went to a man named Ledger, who was doing business in Bolivia, and told him that the seed which the Dutch government had given to the Dutch agent, were no good, and that he had some seed which had been collected from good trees. Ledger, who was an Englishman, bought the seeds from the native—twenty pounds in all—and sent them to his brother in London. Ledger then notified the Dutch government that the bark seeds which were sent to him were the sum of 600 rupees, which is about $160, and the seeds were sent to Java to be planted. Ledger gave the native some more money and told him to secure more of the seeds for him, but the cascarilleros caught him upon his return to the cinchona forests, and, knowing that he had taken the seed to be sent away, they imprisoned him and whipped him so that he died.

Something over 20,000 trees grew from these seeds, and a large number of them are still standing. These trees are used solely for their seed, as they are now about forty-five years old, and a tree is harvestable at six years. All the Dutch plantations in Java have sprung from this original stock, a small amount of grafting with other desirable species having been lately resorted to.

INTRODUCTION INTO INDIA.

As early as 1838 the East India Company was urged in a memorial to introduce cinchona trees into India, but nothing practical was done until 1860. In that year a shipment of trees was made to India from Peru, and the cinchona trees were planted in the Nellore hills. The plants thrived and others were added. Today there are cinchona plantations all over Southern India, in Ceylon, the slopes of the Himalaya, and in British Burmah. An economical method of obtaining the quinine from the bark has been perfected, and owing to the care with which the product is made the India quinine now ranks very highly with chemists. The first importation from India was made to England in 1871, since which time the cultivated bark has arrived in England and been there exported in constantly increasing quantities.
The triangular quarrel has, therefore, become practically a battle between the scattered remnants of the old Peruvian plantations, the descendants of the Peruvians—which were taken to Java—and the various brands cultivated in India. The English government seems to be the only one which has experimented with trees not usually supposed to contain quinine. The Javanese have but one kind, while the Indian plantations grow ten different kinds of cinchona trees, which all produce quinine.
The drug used in medicine is known as quinine sulphate. It is made by treating the ground up bark with hot crude petroleum. This dissolves out the alkaloids. The oil is afterward washed with diluted sulphuric acid, which takes out the alkaloid. The oil is then returned to its tanks, to be used over and over again, while the alkaloid, or quinine itself, crystallizes out from the acid solution as sulphate of quinine.—Brooklyn Eagle.

HUSTLING FOR LAW BUSINESS.

More or Less of it Done in New York Lawyers' Offices, Large and Small.
"Get a move on! That's the great modern motto," said a New York lawyer who has been practising in the local courts for the last twenty-five years.
"When I was admitted to the bar," he went on, "there was a great idea of the dignity of the profession. A lawyer would about as soon have paraded Broadway carrying a sandwich sign calling attention to his legal ability as he would have been caught hustling in any other way for business. The thing to do was to rent an office and sit in it until somebody came and dug you out of the dust and spider webs and asked you to take a case."
"The march of progress has changed all that. Every law firm in this city hustles for business. I don't mean that the big men of the firm chase around after clients. Of course they don't. But the firm does a lot of shrewd planning ahead. It schemes in a particular fashion of its own to widen its sphere of usefulness—to itself."
"Of late years one of the expedients adopted has been the taking into the firm of young college graduates who can give a reasonable guarantee that they will bring business. College men know of the custom, and many of them shape their life at the university accordingly. They are after friends. They want to be popular. They want to be able to swing as much of the future legal business of their fellow-graduates as they can."
"A chap who can bring business of that sort is taken in on a good salary, even when he is the veriest tyro at law. He's expected, of course, to do what real work, he can and to study hard. But the salary is for the pull he can exert over his fellows."

TROUBLE IN BRAZIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—A special cable to the Herald from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, says:
The minister of the interior and the chief of police have resigned. President Campos Salles has appointed Sabino Barroso, who is deputy for Minas Gerais, minister of the interior, and Edmundo Muniz chief of police. Several other high officials, including the director of the medical college and the director of the sanitary department, have also resigned. The political situation is becoming worse every day. Statements made by the brother of President Campos Salles, blaming the present administration and the political system, have contributed to aggravate the situation. The opposition newspapers have also accused President Campos Salles of having imported furniture without paying duties on it. This charge, though not proved, has increased the bitter feeling. The situation is regarded as precarious.

FRANCE AND TURKEY.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—There are two matters pending between France and Turkey, the affair of the quays company, and a number of claims of Frenchmen against the port. The amount of which was fixed and payment promised long ago. M. Constans has been unable to obtain satisfaction in either matter, and it may be, he is intimated, that he would be forced to ask for his recall if the Turkish government persisted in its tactics. The French minister, M. Delcasse, who returned to Paris yesterday went to Rambouillet, dined with President Loubet, spent the night at Rambouillet, and, returning to Paris today, will see the Turkish ambassador this afternoon or tomorrow. It is possible that he may have to renew M. Constans' intimation regarding his recall; but it is more likely that the incident will not reach that point.

BATH, Me., Aug. 6.—Morton M. Sanford, a ship carpenter, fell into the hold of the six-masted schooner Eleanor A. Percy here today and was instantly killed. His neck was broken. Sanford was 54 years of age, and is survived by a widow, one son and one daughter.

Languid And Depressed By Withering Summer Weather.

In these hot summer months, when weary muscles and shattered nerves make you feel so tired, depressed, and worn out that you can hardly put one foot before the other, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will lift you from that horrid overpowering weakness and ever present languor worse than pain. It makes you feel well because it creates the new, vigorous tissue that quickens you into enjoyable life.

SUMMER SUFFERINGS OF WOMEN.

It requires an enormous amount of vitality to withstand the weakening and trying effects of the withering summer weather, to overcome the languid, worn-out feelings and to fight off the feverish and dreadful fatal diseases which are especially prevalent in the summer time and ever ready to attack those in a low state of health.
There is nothing so trying on the system as the hot summer weather, and none who suffer more from the heat than the woman with the cares of a family on her hands, requiring work in the hot kitchen and over the stove. Many a worn-out, despondent woman, who could scarcely drag herself about the kitchen, has been restored to health and strength by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food (pills), the great blood builder and nerve restorative.
Mrs. M. A. McCrea, Troy Hill, Ont., writes: "My system was all run down when I began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was weak and very nervous, and felt so tired and worn out that I could scarcely drag myself about the house. It seemed impossible for me to get rest or sleep at night, and I felt that I was gradually growing weaker and more nervous and irritable. Since beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I feel altogether different. It has gradually strengthened my nerves and built up my system wonderfully. I sleep well now, and am being thoroughly restored to health and strength. I believe it is the best medicine to be had for the nerves."
Mrs. S. Dempsey, Albany, Ont., writes: "My little granddaughter, nine years old, was pale and weak, and had no appetite, and seemed to be gradually growing weaker. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proved invaluable in her case, restoring health and color and making her strong and well."

THE BROKEN HEALTH OF BUSY MEN.

Instead of believing in the wails of Muskoka or the do-do's of a great lake, many a man looks it over to blot on his desk after day and week after week at his desk, in the workshop, or at the factory, and the strain of the toll and worry, combined with the enervating and debilitating effects of the summer heat, is usually almost more than he can bear.
What wonder that so many suffer from nervous headaches, nervous dyspepsia, and brain fog, and find it difficult to remember and to concentrate their thoughts! The regular use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food entirely overcomes these symptoms of a breaking down nervous system and revitalizes the body and mind. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food contains in condensed form the most effective tonics of Nature. It builds up the system and wards off disease.
Mr. A. R. Pawcett, the well-known editor and proprietor of the Leader and Recorder, Toronto Junction, writes: "It is very seldom that I need medicine of any description, but this spring I got so badly run down and out of sorts generally that I became somewhat alarmed. Changing to read a testimonial about the results derived from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, from a gentleman whose case seemed to be identical with my own, I purchased a box and commenced using it."
"The result was simply marvellous. I was benefited from the first, and soon restored to my usual good health. I never felt better in my life than I do now. To tell the simple truth, I did not have very great faith in any medicine until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but now I have no hesitation in strongly recommending this great remedy to others as a valuable and effective remedy."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food

Nerve Food is unrivalled and unapproached. It increases the number of red corpuscles in the blood, creates new nerve force, and entirely overcomes the effects of summer. Disease can find no foothold when the blood is kept pure and rich and the nerves strong by using this great restorative. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or by mail postpaid, on receipt of price, from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. For chafing, heat rash, and itching skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment affords wonderfully prompt relief and cure
