

Third Day of Fight Finds Government Sullen, Opposition Cheery

MINISTER OF MARINE BLAZES OUT ON PUGSLEY; EXCITING SCENE IN HOUSE

Hon. Mr. Hazen Refuses to Answer Questions as to Cost of Building Warships and Major Currie Tries to Have Questioner Removed.

DEVLIN CATCHES WHITE NAPPING; BELAND POKES FUN AT CROTHERS

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, March 5.—The 48th hour of the naval obstruction movement was passed in the Commons at 3 o'clock this afternoon with no material change in the situation save that several thousand more words had been added to the record. At that hour Hon. Jacques Bureau was still going strongly after several hours in action, and having made a vain effort to adjourn the debate at 1 o'clock, Dr. McTavish, of Saltcoats, had sandwiched in an hour's talk between Mr. Devlin and Mr. Bureau. The latter tried to draw from the Premier a statement in answer to his question whether the naval policy was "a contribution or a gift," but Mr. Borden took no notice of it.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, March 5.—Parliament is still sitting. At 9 o'clock this morning it had been in continuous session for 42 hours. On the Government side tempers are beginning to break. The Liberals continue to press for information. They want to know what Premier Borden wrote the British admiralty in order to get the now-famous naval memorandum. They want to know who told Canadian ministers that there is a war scare. They want to know where the Government got its figures of the cost of building in Canada. The Government sits sullen and silent, and makes no answer beyond an occasional snarl of refusal.

GOVERNMENT FORCE PEEVED.

This morning at 5 o'clock the anger of Government supporters blazed out against Hon. Dr. Pugsley. He asked the Government for information, and the answer was an attempt to put him out of the chamber. The early morning shift had just come on at 5 o'clock under the direction of Hon. Dr. Pugsley, when the break occurred.

PUGSLEY ATTACKS.

Dr. Pugsley seemed pleased to find Minister of Marine Hazen in the chamber. Coming from the same town they are accustomed to exchanging blows. Dr. Pugsley is of the opinion that the Government has been making figures tell untruths. He insists that the cost of marine construction, even to the building of Dreadnoughts, is no higher in the United States than it is in England. He also insists that building could be done in Canada at as low a cost as in England. He has insisted upon this often, and always to the Government's exasperation. This was the cause of the row this morning.

PRODS HAZEN.

Smiling at the Minister of Marine, Dr. Pugsley said he thought Parliament should now have from the minister a promised statement as to the cost of battleship building in the United States. Hon. Mr. Hazen had told the House that a 28,000-ton battleship had cost $125 per ton more to build in the United States than it would have cost to build in England.

Dr. Pugsley had figures to show that it would cost $92 per ton less. Yesterday Dr. Pugsley demanded of Mr. Hazen his authority for the extravagant estimate of cost.

"Yesterday you promised to produce your authority," said Mr. Hazen.

Hazen "Explains."

"There is no yesterday with continuous debate in Parliament. It is still Monday," said Mr. Hazen. "That is an evasion which is ingenious, but it is hardly the sort of an answer which would justify a member of Parliament voting away $35,000,000 of the people's money," said Dr. Pugsley. "My authority is the secretary of war in the United States. I will get information in good time," replied Mr. Hazen, and added that he did not intend to answer any further just then. "That surely is no excuse," commented Dr. Pugsley.

"I didn't give any excuse, and I don't propose to give any," reiterated Mr. Hazen, somewhat warmly. "An Outrage on Members." Dr. Pugsley said he thought it was "an outrage that members of Parliament should be forced to vote through the Government's proposals without being accorded information which was absolutely essential."

"I have given my answer, and I will give no other," declared Mr. Hazen. Dr. Pugsley maintained that it was no answer when Mr. Hazen rose to a point of order. Chairman Armstrong ruled that the minister had given his answer, and Dr. Pugsley must accept it. Dr. Pugsley persisted that no answer had been offered. It seemed impossible to secure from the Government information essential to the proper understanding of the matter. He was interrupted by a storm of Conservative cries of "Name him, name him," and "Order."

"It is absolutely impossible for members to speak intelligently on the matter when it is impossible to secure information to which they are entitled," commented Dr. Pugsley.

"We'll excuse you from speaking," put in Hon. Mr. Crothers, amidst further scenes of disorder. Dr. Pugsley again rose when Mr. Crothers appealed to the chair to rule him out of order.

"I will yield cheerfully to any proper ruling," declared Dr. Pugsley. "You don't yield," persisted Mr. Hazen, amidst further commotion. "Order!" exclaimed Mr. Middlebro. Mr. Knowles rose.

Currie Excited.

"Sit down," shouted Major Currie. "Who said, 'sit down'?" reiterated Mr. Knowles with warmth. Dr. Pugsley said he desired the information in order to deal with the objections which had been urged erroneously by a Canadian navy. These faulty estimates had been given by the

CUSTOMS OFFICERS TO OCCUPY PART OF NEW POSTOFFICE

Present Revenue Building Overcrowded—Postoffice Using Room.

GOVT. OFFICIAL IS HERE

Looks Over Present Postoffice Site and Adjoining Properties.

Inspector Busby, of the customs department at Ottawa, was in the city yesterday and looked over the site on Richmond street on which it is proposed to erect the new postoffice. He was accompanied by Mr. T. H. Carling, and was much interested in several of the stores adjoining the postoffice.

It was stated at the custom house today that more room is urgently required there, and that whatever property is acquired for the new postoffice one of the buildings will be used for customs purposes.

The postoffice is at present using part of the customs house for storing the rural mail boxes and equipment, and this robs the customs officials of much room.

The need of a new postoffice, officials say, is growing worse every day as the men are working under disadvantages owing to the crowded conditions everywhere.

It is understood that Inspector Busby will make a report at Ottawa regarding his findings in London.

SCHOOL DEBT TO BE ASSUMED BY CITY

Joint Session Held to Straighten Out Finances of New Territory.

At the joint session at the court-house today representatives of the county council and No. 1 committee of the city council, to straighten out the assets and liabilities of the newly-annexed districts, the city assumed the debt of the school property and $100 was found to be payable to the county as its share of the equity in the school property. Representing the county were Reeve J. W. Laidlaw, of Westminster, E. F. Hunt, Geo. Riddell and W. D. Stanley. Representing the city were Ald. Richter, Ald. Moore, Trustee E. R. Dennis, Inspector C. B. Edwards and P. G. Jewell, Mr. E. R. Dennis presided.

DEATH IN STORM.

[Canadian Press.] Sherbrooke, Que., March 5.—Sunday's blizzard in this district has been responsible for the death of two men, James Quinlan and Richard Bourgeois.

The horse that Bourgeois was driving fell near North Stukely and broke its leg. After covering the animal up in the robes of his rig Bourgeois tried to reach a farmhouse, exhausted, and died some hundred yards away from it. His body was found this morning. The deceased was a notary at Waterloo.

Quinlan was found unconscious and badly frozen near the Titus station yesterday morning, and had apparently tried to walk to his home some miles away, the storm proving too much for him. Both his legs were frozen and, though they were amputated, Quinlan died this morning.

ONTARIO STILL LEADS IN MINERAL PRODUCTION

Output Throughout Canada Shows an Increase of Nearly 29 Per Cent.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, March 5.—An increase of $29,906,495, or nearly 29 per cent., is shown by the preliminary report on the mineral production of Canada during 1912.

The total value of the year's production was $182,127,489, or a per capita production of $18, the highest on record. Nearly every important mineral in Canada shows an increased production in 1912, so far as value is concerned. In the case of silver only there is a decrease in quantity, and this only two per cent. The increase in total value of the silver mined being due to higher prices. Increases in output are as follows:

Pig iron 10.5, gold 23, copper 40, and lead 50 per cent.

Increases in total value are: Silver 12, nickel 31, copper 35, and lead 93 per cent. Coal shows an increase of 30 per cent. in tonnage, gypsum 11 and cement 26.

Ontario is still the premier province, being credited with 38 per cent. of the total production, or $51,023,134 worth. British Columbia, Nova Scotia, Alberta and Quebec range in the order named.

AUTO SHOW OPENS AT ARMORIES TODAY

Building Decorated for the Big Event—Many Machines in Place.

London's big auto show opened at the Armories today. The big building has been prettily and artistically decorated in the interior with Union Jacks and streamers, and together with the beautiful trimmings and bodies of the cars, the whole presents a gala appearance. Although all the cars have not yet arrived, a great many of them are placed in the building, and the indications are that the show this year will eclipse the splendid exhibition of last season. The floor space has been all taken up, and the work of bringing the cars in is still going on. It is expected that all the cars will be placed by this evening.

Prospective purchasers visiting the exhibition will have a large choice of cars to pick from. All the most prominent makes are shown and some magnificent cars are to be seen. Everything from a runabout to a "Big Six" can be found, together with the equipment and other accessories.

SAYS SICKNESS KEEPS HIS CHILDREN HOME

James A. Dodd's Story To Be Investigated in Police Court.

A point was raised at police court this morning, in the case of James A. Dodd, who was summoned by Trustee Officer Weir on a charge of neglecting to send his children to school. Dodd produced a letter from a physician certifying that the children were ill with tonsillitis and advising him to keep them home from school. The court adjourned the case until Saturday morning, when the physician will be asked to appear, and also Miss Gilchrist the school nurse.

The magistrate suggested that in the meantime the children might be examined by another physician, at the expense of the board of education and his report received.

LONDON DOCTORS TO HEAR DR. FRIEDMAN'S CLINIC.

It is probable that Dr. F. P. Drake and Dr. W. J. Stevenson will attend the meeting of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis in Association Hall, Ottawa, on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. With these two exceptions none of the local physicians will attend the convention, which will be addressed by Dr. Friedman.

Hunt of Sick For Friedman

Pitiful Sights, Says Doctor

Toronto, March 5.—An interviewer waited on Dr. J. H. Elliott, formerly superintendent of the Sanatorium at Gravenhurst, and in response to questions, Dr. Elliott said:

"I would prefer that you should content yourself with the statement that Dr. McCullough will see. I was in New York and had twenty minutes with Dr. Friedman on Sunday. The most that I can say is that there is no reason to hope Dr. Friedman has discovered a cure-all for every variety of tuberculosis. There is reason to believe that Dr. Friedman's discovery is a distinct advance on anything that has yet been disclosed in the treatment of tuberculosis. Dr. Friedman will be in Ottawa next week, and in the meantime his treatment is being tested in the New York Marine Hospital. The cases under observation there will show the effects of Dr. Friedman's treatment as compared with the treatment that was available before Dr. Friedman came. The results of these cases should be illuminating."

LAND AGENTS STILL BUYING

Have Many Requests to Act For Outsiders Anticipating a Boom

OWNERS HOLDING AT HIGH-UP PRICES

Listed Land a Year Ago and Now Want Twice as Much.

Real estate dealers are not a little perplexed over some of the conditions they are facing just now owing to the boom in London. Many dealers have instructions to purchase property for people both in the city and outside, but when they go to inquire regarding some of the sites, their clients suggest they find that the owners hold them at practically prohibitive prices. This is especially so in properties around the new Federal Square and in the East End.

Offered Double. "I have offered certain parties half as much again as they would have jumped at a year ago," said a real estate dealer today. "They simply wouldn't look at it. I never saw such prices as some people are asking in London just now. There are a lot of sales being made, too, one place and another. Taking it in general, however, the attitude of many of the property-owners is not a good one for trade. When a man is offered a fair price I think he should take it."

Owner's Chances. "That is all very fine for the real estate man," said one owner when asked regarding the matter. "But he just wants to remember that some of us have been holding property here for a long time, waiting for a chance to make a little. Now that the chance is coming we don't want to let somebody else buy at what are not outrageous prices, and make what we ought to make. Some of these speculators, both city and out of town, are simply buying land to hold a short time, and sell at a big price when the boom is on. They expect to make a killing by holding for only a year or two. There is going to be a lot doing in London in the next couple of years and they want to get in on it."

$130,000 OFFERED BY GOVT. FOR A NEW POSTOFFICE

Albion Block Held at $140,000—Acceptance of Price Expected.

According to information received from Ottawa, the Dominion Government has offered $130,000 for the purchase of the Albion block as a site for a new postoffice. It is stated on good authority that the owners have agreed to accept the sum of $140,000, and that it is practically certain that the price will be accepted.

The Ottawa representatives who came to the city are said to be impressed with the suggestion made by businessmen that Richardson should be widened from Carling Street to the old building when the plans are prepared.

The idea proposed was for a scheme of beautification by means of moving back the street line in front of the new building. It was agreed that with the old building and the new quarters there would be ample office room if space were provided for widening the street.

It is expected that a decision will be made in the matter of purchase within a short time.

GERMAN JACK TARS PERISH; CRUISER HITS TORPEDO BOAT

Three Score Men of the Kaiser's Navy Lost in Collision in the North Sea Off the Island of Heligoland—Vessel Was of Most Modern Type of Destroyer.

[Canadian Press.] Berlin, March 5.—From fifty to sixty men were drowned when the German cruiser York rammed torpedo boat G 178 last night in the North Sea off Heligoland. The torpedo boat sank, only 15 members of its crew being saved.

Heligoland, Germany, March 5.—Sixty-four of the crew of the German torpedo boat G 178, were drowned, together with their commanding officer, Lieut. Kich, after the little vessel had been rammed by the cruiser York off this island in the North Sea last evening.

The surgeon and engineer and fifteen men of the crew were saved. The torpedo boat sank immediately.

The destroyer was one of the most modern vessels in the German fleet. She displaced 636 tons and carried a complement of 84 officers and men.

She was returning during the night from manoeuvres in which she had participated with the German battleship fleet, the cruiser squadron and 64 other torpedo boat destroyers.

The destroyer attempted to pass through the intervals in the column of warships, while they were steaming ahead at full speed. The commander calculated the distance incorrectly and his boat was cut in halves by the cruiser York, and sank immediately.

PATHETIC SIDE TO BANK RUN AT MONTREAL

Extravagant Joy of the Poor When They Found Their Money Was Safe.

[Canadian Press.] Montreal, March 5.—When the offices of the Montreal City and District Savings Bank, upon which a big run occurred Tuesday afternoon and evening, were opened for business this morning, there were indications that the panicky spirit had not yet been entirely quieted, though the officials of the institution were of the opinion that they could allay fears entirely before the day was out.

The depositors for the most part belong to the poorer class of French and foreign people in Montreal, who are very hard to convince that there is no cause for alarm, the bank officials say.

Ex-Judge Outimet, the president, said this morning that the bank "has an arrangement that would enable it to secure $2,000,000 ready money at a moment's notice from Montreal, New York and London banks. In Montreal alone it has in cash on hand, offices, and money on deposits in various various banks, $3,500,000."

The bank was called upon yesterday to pay out a million dollars. The panic was started by a merchant, who, on account of the tightness of money, could not be granted a loan by the bank. This man telephoned to friends, who spread the rumor all over the city that the bank was in difficulties.

The children of many of the schools have accounts in it, as well. The run has not been without its pathetic side. When they thought that they were going to lose their savings, the despair of many of the women was such that despair which was quickly changed to extravagant joy when their claims were met.

NEW POLICEMEN TO APPEAR ON CITY FORCE

Chief Williams Has Made Appointments To Fill Recent Vacancies.

Chief Williams has made two appointments to the London police force to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of Constables Box and Finch, who recently left the force to take up other lines of work.

The new men are James Wilson, formerly of the Owen Sound fire department, and John Meade, who came to this city recently from Ireland. Both men took up their duties on Monday.

MAYOR APPOINTS BROTHER TO THE COURT OF REVISION

Mr. John Graham attended Wednesday's session of the court of revision as a new member appointed by his brother, Mayor Graham, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. J. W. Jones.

The session was chiefly occupied with the consideration of problems arising from several sewer rentals and two vacant premises.

BUILDING TRADES EXPECTING SPLENDID BUSINESS IN 1913

Tradesmen and Employers Both Confident There Will Be No Serious Labor Disputes Affecting Activities of Summer—Work for Many Men.

There does not appear to be any likelihood of trouble between the artisans of the building trades and their employers in this city during the coming season. Both men and employers are looking forward to a very busy season, and so far no hint of any differences as to wages, etc., has been given.

Bricklayers Bound. "The bricklayers," said Mr. Evans, of the firm of J. Evans & Son, "are bound to a set scale of wages by an agreement entered into by them through their labor union. There can be no possibility of a strike among them on that account." Mr. Evans was not sure as to the date when the agreement, which was for three years, expires. It will not be, however, until the season of 1913 is well advanced, and there is little likelihood of trouble then.

Satisfied With Wages. There are no indications of a strike among the painters and decorators, a great number of whom are themselves master painters. They have no organization at present in London, and seem to be satisfied with the present wage scale.

There is no lack of carpenters at the present time, but the large amount of building which is planned for the coming summer may result in a scarcity of men for this branch of the work.

In this case it is possible that they will ask for increased wages, but as far as is known no move in this direction has as yet been considered.

DEALERS SAY ADVANCE OF $2 TO $3 WILL BE MADE ON ACCOUNT OF GREAT DEMAND DURING THE COMING SUMMER.

On account of the boom in the building trade, both at the present time and what is expected in the spring and summer, the prices of all grades of lumber used in building have advanced two and three dollars per thousand feet. The increase has been steady, the prices of no lines being advanced more than the others. A member of a lumber firm stated today that the advance in the prices was due to the brisk demand for lumber by the contractors and builders of the city, that the prices were a few dollars in excess of the prices which prevailed last summer. He was of the opinion that the approaching season would prove to be a record one for building operations in London.

NO MOTOR HEARSE TO BE USED HERE

Local Undertakers Say Bad Roads Wouldn't Permit of Innovation.

The report that two London undertakers will purchase motor hearses and use them at funerals is denied. They state that motorbom is not far enough advanced for their use in London yet. The condition of the local roads would not permit their use in this city, they say.

The morticians say that the motor hearse is a prominent feature in American funerals.

One of the local undertaking firms is about to purchase a vehicle which will serve the dual purpose of an ambulance and casket bearer. They state that it will lessen their work to a great extent.

WILL BORDEN TRY CLOSURE TO BREAK THE DEADLOCK

Looks at Present as if Nothing But an Appeal to the Country Would End Naval Debate—House Certain to Sit Until Saturday Night.

Ottawa, March 4.—The situation at the present moment is practically this: The House is now in committee, and, as long as it is in committee any member is free to raise his voice as often as he likes to discuss the general merits of the bill or any special clause and every now and then a member is free to get up and move that the House rise and report progress, and that it is absolutely necessary in the interests of the health of the members that they do adjourn, and can give forty reasons why the House should adjourn for the refreshment and rest of the members. Then another member can return to the consideration of the bill and talk on it as long as he likes, and be followed by another in the same way.

Under these circumstances it is not likely that anything will be done other than to let the proceedings continue until Saturday night, when the House will automatically rise at 12 o'clock, or a little earlier, if both parties agree.

Can't Apply Closure.

As said before, though, it is always in order for the House to rise and report progress and should the Government consent to this, the House would rise, report progress with the speaker in the chair and probably then adjourn until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, but in that case the Government would have to propose one of two things. They might deal with the situation by a resort to the closure, but if they did this a question would be opened up on which every member of the House would have a right to speak once at least, and he could speak for as many hours as he was able to stand the strain.

The Alternative.

The only other alternative open to the Government would be to proceed with some other business, but as this would be a confession of surrender there would be apparently nothing open to the Government but to go back into committee again on the naval bill and to continue the discussion in a desultory way in order to further test the endurance of both parties until another Saturday night was reached. There, however, seems to be no choice open to the Government but to try to carry a closure or to carry on the struggle on the bill or to dissolve the House and go to the country as things now are.

In the meantime no committees will be in session, and the Government will have to devote the best attention to finding a solution of what seems to be a deadlock, or some kind of compromise may be arranged between the parties, but nothing of this kind seems to be in sight at the present moment.

GALLERIES CROWDED TO WITNESS BATTLE

Two Hours' Breathing Spell Yesterday Evening the Only Let-Up to Titanic Struggle at Ottawa—Liberals in Fine Shape for Long Fight.

Ottawa, March 4.—When the House of Commons rose at six o'clock tonight for a brief two-hour breathing spell, granted by the rules of the House, and by no grace of the Government, Liberal speakers had been talking for almost twenty-five consecutive hours. If they have to continue until Saturday midnight they will have 92 hours more before the Lord's Day observance act comes to the rescue. Indications tonight are that with both sides apparently equally determined, Monday's sitting of Parliament will not conclude until Saturday midnight.

GALLERIES FILLED.

Remarkable public interest has developed in the dramatic Parliamentary struggle being waged in Canada's House of Commons. All day the public galleries have been filled, and tonight they were crowded to overflowing. The prospect of historic scenes in the course of the prolonged sitting has attracted a large influx of special correspondents, artists and cartoonists. The Press Gallery has also been augmented by additional correspondents sent from their respective papers to take up their burden of the relay watches which the newspaper men have scheduled for some days ahead.

LIBERALS IN GOOD SHAPE.

Great interest was taken by the public in the unobtrusive transfer of the Liberal shifts this evening, when the coteries led by Mr. F. B. Colver (Carleton, N. B.), gradually made way for that of Mr. E. M. Macdonald (Picton, N. B.). Many of the latter, fresh from a good sleep and a hot bath, appeared as bright as the morning-glory, while those on the retiring shift were yawning and rubbing their tired eyes. Despite his strenuous work during the night, and his vigorous speech earlier in the day, however, Dr. Michael Clark, of Red Deer, is still in his seat. This British-born imperialist is an enthusiastic constitutionalist, with strong convictions on the future of the Empire as a federation of self-governing autonomous dominions, and is heart and soul in the present struggle. Chief Whip Pardee is perhaps the busiest of all the Liberal members, the whole organization and arrangements resting upon his shoulders. Something of the intense physical strain under which he has been working will be realized when it is known he will not take his first respite until 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, when he will be temporarily relieved by Mr. Duncan C. Ross, the Ontario Whip, and Mr. James Douglas, the Alberta Whip.

A Titanic Struggle.

It is the traditional Titanic struggle between Liberalism and Conservatism, between progressive and reactionary—and threatens to develop into one of the greatest parliamentary battles which the two historic parties have fought in Canada since Confederation, with an ultimate appeal to the Canadian people. The question at issue is less political than constitutional; it is less a difference of policy than the determination as to whether Canada is to continue her development as a daughter nation within the empire, or be relegated back to the colonial status.

For days the lines of divergence have been tensely tightening. They snapped suddenly. When, at one o'clock in the morning, after a little over an hour's discussion of the contribution clause, Premier Borden responded to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's suggestion of an adjournment with the demand for the adoption of the closure, the majority of the House was at hand. A moment later, when the veteran Liberal chief shook his head, they realized that the real battle of physical endurance had begun. Liberals broke into cheering, relieving long pent-up emotions. Conservatives hurriedly began to collect their forces.

It came as a surprise to the Government forces. In their press and by their advisers they had been assured that Liberalism had collapsed, and was ready and eager to capitulate. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, rare strategist and thorough constitutionalist, states the case for the "auto leg" as a cramp due to sitting in one position for hours, while the veins and muscles are under strain from consecutive shocks and joltings over the roads.

Men who are in the habit of placing their tender helpmates on the back seat of cars, where shock absorbers do not take up all the jolt, may reform now that they have been warned. They may forego mortgaging the room-house in Suburb-on-the-Blink rather than have auto leg, however fashionable and expensive that complaint may be.

"Rational motoring," continues the journal, "affords opportunity for plenty of fresh air, with improved appetite and increased zest for life. The ever-changing scenes may soothe and satisfy the emotions and hitherto unfamiliar aspects of civilization may interest and divert from introspection."

There is, however, quite a formidable array of troubles which have been charged against automobilism.

"The auto eye is a result of the ciliary muscles which govern accommodations for distances. To this those who have errors of refraction are especially prone. Speeding over an unknown country through devious ways the sight is constantly attracted to objects now near and now in the distance, and thus an abnormal strain is placed upon the visual mechanism."

Settlers' One-Way Second-Class Fares to Saskatchewan and Alberta.

March 11, 18, and 25, and April 8, 15, 22 and 29, the Canadian Pacific Railway will issue one-way second-class fares to points in Saskatchewan and Alberta. These rates are considerably lower than the one-way second-class fares and should prove very attractive to intending settlers.

The Canadian Pacific Railway is very quick to recognize the fact that settlers are required to bring forth the best that is in the Northwest, and with this object in view it is their intention to assist them by putting into effect this very low rate. Through tourist cars will leave Toronto on the above dates and will run directly through to all main line points. Reservations should be made at least one week in advance of the date passenger intends to go. For full information as to special rates, also berth reservations, literature, etc., apply to Mr. W. Fulton, city passenger agent, corner Dundas and Richmond streets, London.

MR. C. H. KEISER.

This short, right-to-the-point letter of Mr. C. H. Keiser tells his story completely. He could not say more.

Cases such as this, of which there are thousands upon thousands, are what have given Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey its unequalled record with steadily increasing sales. It is truly the world's greatest medicine.

"Would say Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the best medicine on earth. It cured me of stomach troubles that no other medicine could touch."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Aids and improves digestion. There lies one of the most important reasons why it is so valuable. All the nourishment in the food eaten is assimilated and taken into the blood, and the whole system, in consequence, becomes stronger and able to ward off disease.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY, by druggists, dealers and hotels, $1.25 a large bottle. If your dealer cannot supply you, write us, and we will tell you where it can be bought. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free on application.

a characteristic and earnest effort to save the situation by pacific and friendly arrangements. His opponents took it for granted that disinclination to precipitate a long and acrimonious struggle was an indication that Liberalism would finally abandon its traditional position. They do not yet know Liberalism and its leader.

Liberals Thoroughly Organized.

Hurriedly and precipitately the Government supporters sought to organize themselves. It speaks well for their discipline that they were able to do so within a comparatively few hours. The Liberals were thoroughly organized in four complements or squads, which took up the debate in relays. The relays are captained respectively by Hon. Frank Oliver, Mr. Frank Carvell, Mr. E. M. Macdonald and Hon. Dr. Pugsley, with Mr. F. F. Pardee, the chief whip, directing the whole. Mr. Oliver took up the first all-night sitting, but it contained such war-horses as Hon. Messrs. Lemieux and Emmerson and Messrs. D. D. Mackenzie and W. M. German. Liberalism is heartily in the fight. Throughout the whole night till daylight the enthusiastic coterie cheered their speakers on. The chamber presented a weird scene of human interest. Sir Wilfrid Laurier left for home shortly after 4 o'clock in the morning and the Liberals gave him a volley of cheers.

Then started the long siege. The Government side of the House was left in charge of Hon. Mr. Hazen and Hon. Mr. Nantel, who were joined as morning approached by Hon. Messrs. Perley and Burrell. Conservative members were stretched over chairs or bowed up on their desks sleeping heavily. As the night advanced amusement was occasioned by the harmony of snoring which developed. Shortly after 6 o'clock a near-panic was spread among the awakened Government members by the report that the Liberals would file in full force at the conclusion of Mr. Emmerson's speech, to emulate the feat of Banbury and his Unionist colleagues in the British House, when the Asquith Government was caught napping on the home rule bill, and Mr. Boyce scurried round the corridors excitedly rounding up members who had been sleeping in the members' rooms. It was, however, a false alarm.

The whole internal economy of the Parliament buildings has been rearranged to meet the new conditions. All departments have organized for the siege. The pages have been divided into watches. The Hansard staff and the press gallery have taken similar measures, so that, no matter how long the struggle, there will be qualified observers watching to carry the word of any development to the world.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the men on both sides were relieved by second relays and the debate proceeded. Mr. Turfitt was speaking when Sir Wilfrid returned to the House, and the Liberals again broke into cheering, whereas Hon. Mr. Kemp jeered.

"The honorable gentleman may jeer," quoth Mr. Turfitt, amid renewed Liberal cheering, "but I noticed when his own leader came in there was no applause from the Government benches or no attempt at applause."

The first break of the twenty-seven-hour sitting occurred when the House rose for its regulation 6 o'clock recess tonight. Liberals gave vent to pent-up enthusiasm for several moments, cheering the Chief and various speakers. They stood and joined in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner" while the Premier and opponents of the Government benches sat silent and dubious.

Tonight the battle is going on. There is no thought of surrender on either side. The physical strain, however, is exceptionally heavy. The Liberals bear the brunt of the talking, but the Conservatives must keep a large complement of their following continuously in the House if they are to protect themselves against the bogey of a snap division.

MEDICAL JOURNAL TELLS OF "AUTO LEG"

Women Motorists More Subject to New Disease Than Men, Declares Writer.

"Auto leg" is a new, 1913 model, disease. It is not nearly as bad as locomotor ataxia, but all the same it is one of the recently-discovered banes of automobilists.

The Journal of the American Medical Association in its recent issue speaks of the malady as something to be avoided. Women, according to this authority, are more subject to it than men, as the sterner sex takes more vigorous exercise.

"Auto leg" states the journal, "is a cramp due to sitting in one position for hours, while the veins and muscles are under strain from consecutive shocks and joltings over the roads."

Men who are in the habit of placing their tender helpmates on the back seat of cars, where shock absorbers do not take up all the jolt, may reform now that they have been warned. They may forego mortgaging the room-house in Suburb-on-the-Blink rather than have auto leg, however fashionable and expensive that complaint may be.

"Rational motoring," continues the journal, "affords opportunity for plenty of fresh air, with improved appetite and increased zest for life. The ever-changing scenes may soothe and satisfy the emotions and hitherto unfamiliar aspects of civilization may interest and divert from introspection."

There is, however, quite a formidable array of troubles which have been charged against automobilism. "The auto eye is a result of the ciliary muscles which govern accommodations for distances. To this those who have errors of refraction are especially prone. Speeding over an unknown country through devious ways the sight is constantly attracted to objects now near and now in the distance, and thus an abnormal strain is placed upon the visual mechanism."

New Spring Things Are Filling the Store With Their Beauty

The Best Reward of Last Year's Work Is the Power To Do Something Better This Year

THIS applies to stores as well as factories where automobiles are made; and the great display of 1913 motors this week in the Armories, exhibiting the new scientific devices and improvements over the 1912 models, is no more striking in contrast than are the advances made by this store in merchandising.

Doing Is Learning—And each time a woman bakes doughnuts they ought to be better doughnuts than those that came out of the oven the time before. The world knows more today because there lives Edison and Marconi, and because there once lived an Angelo and Luther.

Every great undertaking is made up of the sum of past endeavors, plus ambition and new visions. We start the spring season, 1913, where we left off at the end of 1912, and better service, better knowledge, better goods will be the actual reward of last year's faithful and earnest work.

SETBACK FOR FRIEDMAN

Abandons Idea To Make Test in a New York Hospital.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, March 5.—Dr. F. F. Friedman, of Berlin, today abandoned all plans of testing his tuberculosis serum in any New York hospital with the sanction of the board of health. This had been suggested by the New York County Medical Society as the only course to pursue, inasmuch as he has no license to practice in this state. The board of health considered the matter last night, and although Dr. Ernest J. Lederle, commissioner of the board, voted against making any tests on patients, Dr. Friedman then gave out this statement:

"On the advice of the advisory committee it has been decided not to undertake at the present time any official clinical tests of any specific treatment of tuberculosis."

He added, however, that if Dr. Friedman cared to give the board a sample of his treatment "we will make certain tests, but not on patients." Dr. Friedman remained at his hotel this morning, and did not announce what he would do.

PREVIOUS CASES

Ottawa, March 5.—Only once before did Parliament sit for a week continuously. That was in 1896, when the Liberals talked out the remedial bill and incidentally talked Sir Charles Tupper out of office. Four years ago the House sat continuously from Wednesday afternoon until Saturday midnight, when the Conservative Opposition was endeavoring to compel the Government to bring down original papers instead of copies in regard to transactions respecting the disposal of Dominion lands. It ended in a compromise. In 1911 obstructive tactics were adopted by the Conservatives with a view to compelling an election on the reciprocity issue. Although the debate on that question lasted for weeks, and over a hundred speakers on both sides of the House took part, the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not attempt to check discussion or to compel all-night sittings. Nor was there any attempt at closure. In the present case the issue is perhaps of even greater national and imperial importance than the reciprocity issue. The debate has not lasted so far a third of the time which was spent in discussing the reciprocity issue, the speakers have been far less numerous, and there has been no attempt whatever to block supply.

Boiler House and Chimney at Bar-racks Being Torn Down.

Their useful days being over, the boiler-house and brick chimney at the Wolseley Barracks are being torn down. They were erected more than 20 years ago, and the razing of the chimney will remove one of the familiar sights in the northeast section of the city. It is more than 80 feet high, and from the top of it a splendid birdseye view can be had of the whole city.

Contractor Dan Waide has charge of the job, but on account of the inclement weather has made very little progress so far. Work will continue at an early date.

Indigestion for 2 Years

Few people seem to realize that chronic indigestion is a disease of the intestines rather than of the stomach. Even the doctors err in this way, as is proven by this letter.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most effective treatment obtainable for chronic indigestion, because they awaken the action of the liver, and bowels, sweep the foul impurities from the system, and set the whole digestive system in perfect working order.

Mrs. George Swan, Ashworth, Ont., writes: "My husband suffered with indigestion for two years. We tried three different doctors, but they didn't help my husband very much. As he still suffered, he began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and soon got relief. I am thankful to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the cure of my husband after other treatments had failed."

LONDON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5.

THE STRUGGLE AT OTTAWA.

The Liberal party is fighting at Ottawa for a constitutional principle. It is fighting over again the battle of Canadian self-government. The Canadian people, Liberals and Conservatives, regarded that question as settled until it was reopened by the present Administration. It had been unanimously reaffirmed by the Canadian House of Commons in 1909, when both parties joined in denouncing the policy of contribution as unworthy of an autonomous Dominion under the British flag. Mr. Borden and all his followers voted for a resolution declaring that—

"this House is of opinion that under the existing constitutional relations between the mother country and the self-governing dominions, the payment of regular and periodical contributions to the imperial treasury for naval and military purposes would not, so far as Canada is concerned, be the most satisfactory solution of the question of defence."

"This resolution," said Mr. Borden at a Dominion Day dinner in London, England, the same year, "laid down a permanent policy for the Dominion of Canada upon which both parties united, and which WOULD SERVE A MORE PRACTICAL PURPOSE THAN ANY GIFT OF DREADNOUGHTS. And speaking in Halifax in October of the same year, he added:

"One governing principle at least should control, namely, that out of our own materials, by our own labors, and by the instructed skill of our own people, any necessary provision for our naval defence should be made. . . . Providence has endowed this country with the material, with the men and with the maritime situation, which are essential, not only for developing a scheme of naval defence and protection, but also for the resuscitation of the shipbuilding industry which once made Nova Scotia famous throughout the world."

Mr. Foster was more eloquent, if not more emphatic, in condemnation of the policy he now upholds:

"The first and greatest objection which I have to a fixed money contribution is that it bears the aspect of hiring somebody else to do what we ourselves ought to do; as though a man, the father of a family, in lusty health and strength, should pay his neighbor something per month for looking after the welfare and safety of his home instead of doing that duty himself. That seems to me, when you work it out, to be a basic objection to this form of aid. It goes still further than that. Suppose you contribute this year your sum, and next year your equal sum, and thereafter year after year. After ten or twelve, or twenty or thirty years, you will have paid out an immense amount of money. You will have been protected in the meantime; but in Canada itself there will be no roots struck, there will be no residue left, there will be no preparation of the soil, or beginning of the growth of the product of defence. Yet some time or other, no one can doubt that, with resources and with a population constantly increasing, we must and will have in this country a naval force of our own for our coast and home defence."

Mr. Borden, Mr. Foster and company, swallowed their convictions in order to procure the support of the Quebec Nationalists in the campaign of 1911. Only by attacking the Laurier naval act could they achieve their purpose, but they took good care to keep their contribution policy under cover until they had won the election. Having placated a section of the Nationalist party—men who won their seats by declaring against naval expenditure in any form—they now undertake to challenge the destiny of Canada as a self-governing country, to reverse the current of her history, and force her back to something resembling the old status of colonial subjection. The centralists, who are insidiously at work in all parts of the Empire, try to disguise their objects by a lingo of imperialism, by drum-beating and flag-waving, and by a pretence that Canada will share in imperial councils as never before, but their whole intent is to de-nationalize the Dominions and build up a centralizing machine under the control of the privileged few. The policy of contribution would sap the national spirit of Canada, dry up the springs of initiative and self-reliance, degrade us in the eyes of the world, and lessen our influence not only in international relations, but within the Empire itself. Our voice as a free country within the Empire would be always more potent than as a mere outpost and province of the United Kingdom, to which the centralists would reduce us.

The constitutional and political arguments against the policy of contribution are irrefutable and are supported by the Liberal press of the United Kingdom. The Government brushes them aside and defends itself by pleading the necessity of immediately strengthening the British Dreadnought squadron in the North Sea. But the German menace, if it ever existed, has vanished; the emergency has declined to emerge, even in the memorandum of the British admiralty, which the Canadian Government parades as its justification. The Government took an unfair advantage of the admiralty. It did not ask whether a policy of contribution was the better, but it demanded to know what form immediate aid should take. The admiralty had no option; it had to take a contribution or nothing, and it merely stated the shape in which the contribution would be most acceptable. The true general policy of naval defence for the Empire was outlined by the first lord of the admiralty, Mr. Churchill, on May 15, 1912, in an address to the Worshipful Company of Shipwrights at London. He said:

"The British fleets are now practically concentrated. The recent great review before the King is only one proof of the quality of concentration which the admiralty has lately brought to its final act—a policy of naval concentration which has given a real measure of security to the centre and heart of the British Empire. But there is one aspect of naval concentration which requires the attention of thinking men here and elsewhere throughout the British Empire. The fact that our fleet has not only concentrated in the decisive theatre of European waters, but must be kept concentrated and in a certain sense tied to that theatre has been for some years creating a new want, a new need, a new opportunity for the great self-governing dominions of the crown."

"If the main development of the past ten years has been the concentration of the British fleet in decisive theatres, it seems to me, and I dare say to you, not unlikely that the main naval development of the next ten years will be the growth of the effective naval forces in the great dominions overseas. Then we shall be able to make what I think will be found to be the true division of labor between the mother country and her daughter states—that we should maintain a sea supremacy against all-comers at the decisive point, and that they should guard and patrol all the rest of the British Empire."

That was the admiralty's solution of the problem less than a year ago. There is nothing in the memorandum it sent to the Canadian Government to show that its view has been changed. The policy outlined by Mr. Churchill is the basis of the Laurier policy. The Laurier policy therefore not only meets all constitutional requirements, but on the purely material side—the disposition of the naval forces of the Empire to the best advantage—conforms with the judgment of the highest naval authority in the United Kingdom.

HIGHLAND MARY.

(Robert Burns.)
Ye banks and braes and streams around
The castle o' Montgomerie,
Green be your woods and fair your flowers;
Your waters never drumble!
There sterner first unfurled her robes,
And there the longest tarry;
For, there I took the sparkling well,
O' my sweet Highland Mary.

How sweetly bloom'd the gay green birch,
How rich the hawthorn's blossoms,
As underneath their fragrant shade
I clasped her to my bosom!
The golden hours, on angel wings,
Flaw'd o'er me and my dearie;
For dear to me as light and life
Was my sweet Highland Mary!

Wit my own vow and lock'd embrace,
Our parting was fu' tender;
And, pledging a' to each again,
We tore ourselves asunder.
But, oh, fell death's untimely frost,
That nip'd my flower, saw early!
Now green's the sod and cauld's the clay,
That wraps my Highland Mary!

Oh, pale, pale now those rosy lips
I ha'e kiss'd so fondly!
And, as I gazed for aye, the distant glances
That dwell on me, see kindly!
And moldering now in silent dust
That heart that lov'd me dearly;
But still within my bosom's core
Shall live my Highland Mary!

CUBS OR JACKALS.

(Dr. Michael Clark, M. P.)
I was much touched with the evident sincerity of the words of the Prime Minister the other day, when, in his simple way, he dwelt upon the merits and virtues of the heroic Captain Scott, whose death we all lament. But under this scheme, Scott is the full-blooded brother of Britons, but only the distant relative of Canadians. Build your own navy! I believe in the British lion, and I believe in the lion raising cubs; I do not believe in the role of the jackal for Canada. The lion, the full-blooded cubs in Australia; and we will breed them here, too. There is nothing but defeat awaits this scheme. Take it to the Canadian people and begin by telling them: "You are a nation," and end by telling them: "You cannot fight," and they will say: "Take it away, we do not own it; it does not belong to us; it is a corpse, by this time it stinks!"

WHY HAIR TURNS WHITE.

(St. Nicholas.)
The color of the hair is due to iron which is picked up by the cells of the hair follicle in the little factory in the skin where hairs are made. As one gets older the little cells which manufacture hairs grow weary, and they will not take up as much iron as they once did.

NEEDED TO BE EXPLAINED.

(Lippincott.)
Mrs. Hennessy, who was a late arrival in the neighborhood, was entertaining a neighbor one afternoon, when the latter inquired:
"An' what does your old man do, Mrs. Hennessy?"
"Sure, he's a diamond-cutter."
"Ye don't mean it!"
"Yes, he cuts th' grass off th' baseball grounds."

AN OLD HAND.

(Life.)
Owner of Apartment House—Is the new janitor experienced?
Agent—You bet he is! He wasn't on the job half an hour before all the bells and speaking tubes were out of commission.

PASSING OF FATHER.

(Life.)
Father is going. The patient, kind spirit who made my prayers at night and tucked us up in bed, will soon be a thing of the past. Even now it is rare to find him anywhere.
We can see him yet—for our childish memory goes back to the beginning—leading over our crib and anon in the still (except for our presence)—watches of the night heating the milk over the gas-stove. And when mother used to come home from the caucus, how father's face would light up when, before turning in, she nodded her approval! There was nobody in all the world quite like father. No matter what our troubles were, we always found a safe refuge in his sympathetic bosom. How soft was his voice as he read aloud to us at night from Elmer Glyn's fairy stories and other well-known classics. And when we tossed on our beds in fever there was no cooing touch like father's. Who will take his place?

JUST BE GLAD.

Oh, heart of mine, we shouldn't worry so,
What we've missed of calm we couldn't have, you know,
What we've met of stormy pain,
And of sorrow's driving rain,
We can better meet again,
If it blow.

We have sinned in that dark hour we have known,
When the tears fell with the shower,
We were not shine and shower bent,
As the gracious Master meant?
Let us temper our content
With His own.

For, we know, not every morn'g can be said;
So, forgetting all the sorrow we have had,
Let us fold away our fears
And put by our foolish tears,
And through all the coming years
Just be glad.

TEMPTING FATE.

(Judge.)
"Pop, what does tempt'g fate mean?"
"Tempt'g fate, my son, means wear'g a high hat in snowballing time."

CAN YOU SAY THIS?

(The Presbyterian.)
If you have an honest task bless God for it. It is his way of supporting you and making you a support to others. Do not pity the toiler, pity the idler. It was a hard worker and a son of a poor home who well said, "Blessed be drudgery."

SHRINKING VALUE.

(New Orleans Picayune.)
A scientist figures that the earth is shrinking about two inches a year. This may account for the anxiety of some people to possess it while it is of some size.

APPARENT NONSENSE.

(Baltimore American.)
"He talks miserably and yet he talks well."
"How can he do both?"
"Because he's drumming up business for an artesian company."

GREAT ORATORS; JOHN BRIGHT, MASTER OF SAXON SPEECH

(By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.)

It is a far cry from Daniel O'Connell to John Bright. The former represented the gaiety and the brilliance of the Celtic temperament, but the latter was essentially Saxon, modelled on the severe lines of a Milton or a Cromwell. Remote from the great schools of England, John Bright passed his early life in academics, but at the age of fifteen began work in the cotton mills of Rochdale. He was not brought up on the classics of Greece or Rome, but in his young manhood his nightly study enabled him to master the Bible, Shakespeare and Milton. Not content with improving his own mind, he organized the young men of Rochdale into a literary society, and it was in this arena that John Bright learned the art of ready speech and of thinking while on his feet. He never wrote out his speeches, as he believed that this made a man a slave to his memory or his notes. In giving advice to young speakers he once remarked in later life, "If you mean to speak, first know what you are going to say; the next point is to speak very deliberately; every word, in fact, every syllable, should be expressed. If you do these, and if you have matter worth listening to, you will be listened to and you will acquire a confidence and ease you will not acquire in any other way." Bright also tried to use the simplest Saxon words that would express his ideas. Clearness, simplicity, practical good sense, and great earnestness made him one of the finest orators of the Victorian era.

But there is no doubt that John Bright's chief asset was his melodious voice. The late Charles Dilke once went so far as to say that if you took away the voice of Bright, there was nothing left in his speeches. This was an exaggeration on the part of Dilke, but it is strictly true that Bright's severe style of speech would never have had such potency except for his marvellous voice. Speaking of Bright's oratory, Mr. T. P. O'Connor recently described the impression made upon him the first time he heard "Honest John".

The manner was almost conciliatory, the tone almost conversational, the voice low and gentle, with that under-swell which was one of the most marvellous qualities of that extraordinary organ. For the voice of Bright was unequalled by that of any man I have ever heard, except, perhaps, the voice of Salvini, the great Italian actor. Disraeli says somewhere in one of his novels that the greatest is the low voice laden with passion, and that is an exact description of the voice of Bright. Indeed, his voice was so marvellous that in after years I could not hear him begin a speech in the House of Commons with the commonplace words—"Mr. Speaker, Sir"—without feeling thrills down my back.

Because for many years the voice of Bright was as the voice of one crying in the wilderness, owing to his opposition to several popular causes, he became rather embittered and led the life of a solitary man in Parliament, but he was always listened to with respect, and even with reverence, because of his integrity. He raised his eloquent voice against the Crimean war, pleaded powerfully for the repeal of the corn laws, exposed the anti-slavery movement, parliamentary reform, in the administration of India, and urged the doctrine of a free church in a free state. To Canadians, one of the most interesting of Bright's speeches was that in which he argued that Great Britain need not try to fortify her frontier against the United States; that this would be an impossible feat; it would also be foolish, for the citizens of the Republic had no desire to molest Canada. In the course of this eloquent deliverance of March 13, 1865, Bright said:

"If the bond of union and friendship between England and the United States remain unbroken, we have not to thank the wealthy and the cultivated, but the laborious millions, whom statesmen and historians too frequently make little account of. They know something of the United States that the honorable gentlemen opposite and some on this side of the House do not know—that every man of them would be welcome on the American continent if they chose to go there, that every right and privilege which the greatest and highest in that country enjoy would be theirs, and that every man would have given to him by the United States a free gift of one hundred and sixty acres of the most fertile land in the world. Honorable gentlemen may laugh, but that is a good deal to a man who has no land, and I can assure them that this homestead act has a great effect on the population of the north of England. I can tell them, too, that the laboring population of these counties, the artisans and the mechanics, will give you no encouragement to any policy that is intended to estrange the people of the United States from the people of the United Kingdom."

YOUNG METHODIST PROBATIONERS MAY MARRY AT WILL

Joker in Conference Clause Makes Road to Matrimonial Bliss Easier.

Marriage has been made easier for young Methodists. Stern and rigorous, rivaling the rules of banking institutions, the discipline of the church has been the Methodist discipline respecting the unauthorized marriage of young preachers, known in Methodist terminology as probationers. Methodist or other members.

The law, as it formerly stood, forbade the marriage of a probationer without the consent of the Methodist Conference to which he belonged. This meant a big obstacle, and in addition it could only be removed during one month in the year, and that the month of June.

Recently a bright young Methodist probationer named R. H. Newton, of the Hamilton Conference, had a get-wedded-quick inspiration. Why not secure the assent of a majority of the special conference committee, and then have the knot tied? He was particularly in a hurry, as he was bound for the West China Mission, and his lady love was quite willing to accompany him to the Celestial Empire, provided that the matrimonial path was clear.

Mr. Newton discovered the little joker in the Methodist law, secured the assent of the special committee, married his betrothed, and all was joyful for the happy pair.

Then came a sequel. Rev. Dr. J. S. Ross, D. D., made a charge against the special conference committee of exceeding its authority. The case went to Toronto and was tried before the Methodist Church authorities at the board room, Richmond street. Rev. Dr. Cooley represented the Hamilton Conference. The announcement of the decision issued that the special committee had full jurisdiction, and did not exceed its authority.

A number of probationers are understood to have been watching the outcome of this test case with keen interest.

MRS. PAWLEY DIES ILL FOR SOME TIME

UNSIGHTLY PIMPLES CAME ON FACE

Sores Spread Until Face Was Covered. So Itchy Could Not Resist Scratching. Cured Entirely in About Two Weeks by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Clachan, Ontario.—"My trouble started with sores breaking out on the face. They came as pimples and were unsightly. These sores seemed to keep spreading until my face was covered. They were so itchy that at times I could not resist scratching them. After trying two or three different salves which did not stop the sores breaking out, I tried a cake of Cuticura Soap also Cuticura Ointment. I found that they cured me entirely of the sores in about two weeks." (Signed) Fred E. Meyer, Feb. 12, 1912.

LEGS BURNED AND ITCHED

Souris West, P. E. Island.—"My little girl, aged four years, was troubled with a painful rash on her legs. It began in a dry rash very hot and itchy and after a few days it looked like little pimples with a white top on them. Her legs burned and itched very much and she was very restless and was also cross and fretful. She used to scratch and make sores when I was not watching her. I had to leave her stockings off her as they would irritate her legs. I used to bathe her legs with warm water and use the Cuticura Soap freely, then dry her legs and rub on the Cuticura Ointment and she was cured in one week." (Signed) Mrs. P. J. Mulhally, Aug. 1, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 23-p. book, send post card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 51D, Boston, U. S. A.

The Gourlay Stamina

Stamina—long life—durability—are built into every inch of the Gourlay Piano with the result that it is lasting in tone, in action, and in appearance.

Every single detail of manufacture of the Gourlay Piano is basically correct—representative of the highest and most exacting standard of workmanship and material. These things count. They are the concomitant of perfection. They make the Gourlay Piano an artistic triumph—an instrument in which the artistic is joined to the material to form a medium of musical expression deft and subtle for the trained musician, and staunch and durable for constant everyday use. Stamina is a necessary qualification in a piano whether it is manipulated under the masterful hands of an artist, or the plodding uncertain hands of a beginner—stamina is an artistic and economic necessity.

When the question of "what piano to buy" comes up, see The Gourlay—investigate its claims to preference—see why it should be your final choice on artistic and economic grounds.

WOODSTOCK JUNIORS BEATEN BY ORILLIA IN FIRST GAME

Northerners Look Like Junior Champions as They Carry Home With Them a Three-Goal Lead—Game Was a Good One and It Was Full of Excitement.

Stratford, March 4.—Orillia defeated Woodstock here tonight in the first game of the home-and-home series in the Junior O. H. A. finals for the John Ross Robertson cup, by the score of 7 to 4. Woodstock were given a cold deal by their local rink management and arrangements were made with the Stratford people to hold the games here. Woodstock were never able to cope with their speedy opponents and succumbed before the clever onslaughts of the purple and white.

Orillia has been in the semi-finals for the last three years, and from their play tonight they should have no difficulty in beating their rivals in the return game Thursday night. The game in itself was not brilliant, although several speedy rushes were pulled off. Woodstock lacked the speed and aggressiveness to give the northerners a battle, and they failed to use their great advantage in weight. Orillia, on the other hand, checked back like hot irons, and ripped in on their opponents' defence, who foolishly tried to stop them with stick play. A little bodying would have counteracted a whole lot of Orillia's speed.

Butterfield the Star.
For Orillia Butterfield was the star of the evening and he showed up far better than in the first game with Oshawa. Jupp was kept busy with several times and looked dangerous. Thornton looked good, as his check was very weak, and he was right up with every play. Woodstock have a great little star in their goal tender, Childs, who is only 15 years of age. He performed in the most brilliant style and his coolness and clearing were the features of the evening. Sandcock displayed a barrel of speed and stick-handling, but rarely stopped his man. Armstrong was the most consistent player on the team, and he was sent after shot on Cook. Woodstock were far superior at shooting, but were unable to bore in close enough for their shots to do any damage.

Woodstock Well Represented.
Woodstock supporters turned out in force, running two excursions which brought down about 800 people, several of the Industrial City factories having closed up for the day. Orillia contributed about 150 fans to the shrieking and yelling mob who packed the rink even up into the girders. The fighting of the rink was very poor and proved to be a severe handicap to the teams. Stratford was a very lively town for a few hours before the game with both team supporters partaking through the town shouting and cheering. Woodstock were very dubious before the game and demanded 2 to 1 on tonight's game, and would consider nothing in the water line on the round.

First Half.
The game started at 8:10, with Orillia defending the north goal. Butterfield opened up with a shot on Childs, but he cleared nicely. Butterfield went in again but the youngster was there again, saving brilliantly. Timm secured the first shot for Woodstock in 3½ minutes, but Cook cleared easily. Woodstock opened up and began to hold their own. Childs stopped numerous wicked shots. Sandcock opened up some nice rushes, but his forwards did not come up fast enough to assist him. Timm was benched for loafing, but even with the odd man against them, Woodstock had Orillia slowing up. After several close tries Armstrong beat Cook in 21 minutes. This seemed to bring Orillia back to life, and Butterfield ripped right through and beat Childs unassisted. Thornton secured the lead for the purple and white, when he shot high from the corner. The puck hit Childs on the side of the face and dropped into the net.

Reid opened up a nice rush, but passed wide of the goal mouth. Armstrong tied it up just before half-time, when he bulged the net with a longshot. The period ended without any further incident. Half-time score: Woodstock 2, Orillia 2.

Second Half.
The second half started at a stiff pace, and Orillia began to open up considerably. Woodstock were allowing their checks to get away, as they did not use their weight enough. Butterfield secured another tally in three minutes, when he bored right in. Jones on right wing was poor in the first few minutes, but strengthened up as the period progressed. Cook was having a busy session, but he cleared everything. After Thornton had broken away several times, and had Sandcock working overtime, Woodstock gradually began to back up. Butterfield doubled the score by a brilliant

COLLINGWOOD WON ON WHITBY ICE

Northerners Captured Round by 17 Goals to 3, Winning Both Games.

Collingwood, March 4.—Collingwood came here tonight with a twelve-goal lead over the local seven in the return intermediate O. H. A. semi-final game, and increased their lead to fourteen goals by defeating the locals again, this time by 5 to 3.

The game was the fastest seen here in some time, and was exceptionally clean. The score does not indicate the play, as the locals had more shots than the visitors, but the superb work of Cook in goal saved the northerners from defeat. The half-time score was 3 to 1.

By winning these games Collingwood earns the right to go into the finals with either Berlin or London, probably the latter.

The teams:
Whitby: Goal, Jubb; point, Smith; cover, McIntyre; centre, Rice; rover, A. Blanchard; right wing, Watson; left wing, C. Blanchard.
Referee—Lawson Whitehead, of Toronto.

ST. JOHN'S AMBULANCE CORPS DESERVE CREDIT

Rendered Timely Assistance to Injured Players at Many Hockey Matches This Winter.

Much credit is due to the branch of the St. John's Ambulance Association in this city for their attendance at the hockey matches played at the Westminster Rink this season. Several players have benefited by their first aid to the injured, and had it not been for their timely assistance, players in some cases would have suffered much pain. The services of the St. John's Corps is gratis, but their work counts for a great deal to those taking part in the games. They are a worthy organization and have a cause second to none.

Veau believes his brother was telling the truth. Likewise, some distinguished parties on the coast, among them Walter McCredie, Portland manager, and Hap Hogan, manager of the Verve club, have seen a wonderful future for Veau's brother.

MEL SHEPPARD HURT IN WRECK AT CAYUGA

Champion American Runner Will Be Unable To Compete Tonight Owing To Injuries.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, March 5.—Melvin W. Sheppard, the veteran champion runner of the Irish-American Athletic Club has notified the Amateur Athletic Union that he will probably be unable to compete in the senior indoor championships tomorrow night. Sheppard had a thrilling experience in the train wreck near Cayuga, Ont., on Monday, when five coaches of the Wabash flyer from Detroit for Buffalo, on which he was a passenger, rolled down a 20-foot embankment. Although the car in which Sheppard was riding rolled over three times, the athlete escaped, he believed at the time, serious injury. He has told the A. A. U. committee since, however, that he feared he had received internal injuries, and that it would not be safe for him to compete. Sheppard was a favorite for the 300-yard championship, and was also considered a dangerous competitor in the 600-yard race, which, with Kivistik, Meredith, Davenport and Halpin entered, is the feature of the meet.

Training Camp Tidings

FRANK CHANCE SUFFERS FROM COLD IN BACK.

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 4.—Manager Frank Chance, of the Yankees, is suffering from a cold in the back. For several days the peerless leader has been practicing three hours daily. The other day he rested just long enough to permit a draft to reach his heated back. The result is a cold.

Hal Chase has solved the second base problem. Chase acts as if he has played the position for years.

Harry Wolter's leg has entirely mended. The fast outfielder today showed as much speed around the bases and in the field as ever.

Shortstop Martin has made a strong impression upon Chance and at present leads the candidates for that position.

Veteran Roy Hartzell has officially been announced as the general utility man of the Yankees.

GIANTS GIVE SPEAKER A GREAT RECEPTION.

Marlin, Texas, March 4.—Tris Speaker, Red Sox centrefielder, visited the training camp during the afternoon period today, and received a reception that would entitle the Giants to the world's championship for the Game Losers' League, if not the laurels that they lost to the Boston team last October. McGraw, Mathewson, and several of the old-timers rushed over to Speaker's car and greeted their worthy opponent heartily and sincerely. As he left he turned to the Giants' manager with a smile. "Well, Mac," he said, "I hope we meet again next fall."

The little Napoleon looked at him a moment. "So do I," he said grimly. There was no game today, the period being spent in routine practice.

PRODGER'S TEAM LOST TO VANCOUVER 5 TO 4

Could Not Stand Fast Pace and Tired in Last Period—Game Was a Hummer.

[Canadian Press.]
Victoria, B. C., March 5.—Vancouver defeated Victoria last night by a score of 5 to 4. The game was the fastest seen here for some time. The Vancouver team showed better staying powers than their opponents. The result may make some difference in the championship, but it is hardly likely that Vancouver can overtake Victoria now. The play last night was fast and furious at times, but in the last period Victoria tired.

BRITTON PROTESTS AGAINST REFEREE

Will Not Stand for Million Job in Bout With Packey.

[Canadian Press.]
New York, March 5.—Choice of a referee for the bout between Packey McFarland and Jack Britton, scheduled for Friday night, will probably be left to the State Athletic Commission. A dispute over the referee question has arisen. Britton's manager, having given notice that he would not agree to accept the Garden Athletic Club's regular ring official, William Joly, there was no question of the referee's integrity, but it was declared that in several instances he had failed to call all of the rules of boxing. Britton at Rye Beach, and McFarland, at the Mott Haven Athletic Club, put in another day's training yesterday, and declared themselves both ready for the bout.

TROUBLED WITH KIDNEYS COULD NOT SWEEP FLOOR.

It is hard for a woman to look after her household duties when she is suffering from a weak and aching back, for no woman can be strong and well when the kidneys are out of order.

The weak, lame and aching back comes from sick kidneys and should be attended to at once so as to avoid years of suffering from the kidney trouble which is sure to follow if the back is neglected.

On the first sign of a pain in the back, Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go right to the seat of the trouble. Mrs. Joseph Throop, Upper Point De Butte, N.B., writes:—"I cannot speak too well of Doan's Kidney Pills. For two years I was so tired, life was a burden and I got up more tired than when I went to bed, and my back was so lame I could hardly straighten up. I took different kinds of medicine, but none of them did me any good until a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so, and to-day I don't know what it is to be tired and my lame back is all gone. I can recommend them to any person suffering with lame back and that terrible tired feeling."

Interesting facts concerning the building of the Russell-Knight '28'

Back of the fact that the Russell organization is the largest of its kind in Canada—and that the Russell-Knight "28" has been designed and manufactured complete in our own factory, one must take into consideration that it is an entirely new car.

While tradition and experience have had voice in its construction, old practice was not allowed to prejudice new ideas. Every device and feature was considered solely upon its merits, and then designed to give it a peculiar fitness for incorporation in this model.

As sole Canadian licensees for the Knight Engine, we were able to draw upon the combined engineering knowledge of all other licensees of this engine.

Mr. C. Y. Knight, the inventor, personally superintended the final development of his engine in this car, and since it is the latest and most perfect model, it may truthfully be said that the 1913 Russell-Knight is the latest production of a committee of the world's foremost automobile engineers. For Mr. Knight and his consulting engineers have access to the plants of all the European and United States licensees of his engine.

The significance of this to the man who buys a "28" lies in the fact that he will own a car that is so far advanced in construction, design and equipment, that it will be standard for years to come.

Men who demand the best in everything should not fail to investigate the Russell-Knight "28" before buying their 1913 car.

Tire Protection—Without Tire Destruction

Chains do not force grease, etc., from the point of contact with the road. The road forces the chains against or into the tire, which causes the resisting friction. But at what a price! Slip your ring over your right third finger knuckle, let somebody shake you by the hand, and you get the "chain" effect exactly. You feel it, too. So does the tire. Chain-cutting is a common occurrence in tires, simply because chain protection from skidding is drastic protection. You can always prevent a house from falling down by burning it down.

When rubber resistance to the road is scientifically designed, and the resisting corrugations are as big as chain links—as is the case with Dunlop Traction Treads—you get the utmost safety from skidding and the utmost mileage from your tires at the same time. But the safety isn't secured at the sacrifice of the mileage, and the mileage isn't secured without the attendance of safety. Dunlop Traction Tread is the only tire in the world that gives both—at the beginning, at the end and all the way through.

BORROWED MONEY TO COST MORE NOW SAY FINANCIERS

Seven and Eight Percent Take Place of Six and Seven.

WEST PAYS HIGH PRICES

Present indications are that money borrowed on the very best of security in this district and throughout Canada at large will cost a higher rate in interest than has been reached for years.

In Eastern Canada, it is whispered in financial circles, that no money will be available, even on first mortgage security, at less than seven and eight per cent, as compared with six and seven per cent, which has been charged heretofore.

West Must Pay.
In the west, where there has been a very great and rapidly-increasing demand for money for public improvements, and to carry out the development schemes of railroad companies and other big enterprises, the rate, it is rumored, will rise to ten per cent before the close of the summer of 1913.

Although eastern financiers, among whose ranks there are many deeply interested in the enterprises of the west, are reluctant to express lack of confidence in the future of that vast country, there appears to be an inclination to be "cautious" about further investments west of the lakes.

They fear that in many cases inflated values based on futures in population and development have had too stimulating an effect upon enterprise.

Taking Precautions.
The president of a financial corporation with offices in London, said to The Advertiser today, "I have just told the manager of my company to close down on investments in the west for the present. I am not alone in this. Several companies are taking this precaution."

The concern for which this man spoke is engaged in the loan business along conservative and first-class lines.

Extensive borrowing by Canadian enterprises in the London money market is given as the chief reason for the present rising rates of interest, and the general scarcity of funds in financial circles.

This scarcity is being felt by the banks and loan companies alike, and very little capital is available at the present time.

In explaining the situation a local bank manager pointed out that much of the stringency was due to the rapid progress of the country, especially the west. So heavy has the demand been of late that the investors have not been able to meet it, and the present scarcity is the result.

Future All Right.
This is not taken to mean that Canada is an over-borrower, but rather that there is not enough liquid money in the market to supply its needs.

It was pointed out at the annual meeting of the Bank of British North America held in London, Eng., yesterday, that this increasing demand is a healthy symptom of the country's growth, but that the limited supply of funds would have a good effect in checking to some extent speculative demands.

In the meantime the Canadian banks are doing what they can to meet the conditions by converting as many securities as possible into cash.

MARKET IN QUEEN'S PARK IS SUGGESTED

Some East Londoners Think It
Would Be Better Than at Corner Proposed.

WOULD NOT BE COSTLY

Entrances Could Be Had From Campbell, Egerton, King and Dundas Streets.

When the question of having a market at the corner of Dundas and Rectory street comes up in the council, a petition from a number of residents, asking that the council obtain permission to use Queen's Park as a market-place instead of the proposed site, will likely be presented.

A number of the residents are in favor of the market-place being at the corner of Dundas and Rectory streets, but others think that part of Queen's Park might be used instead.

Could Utilize Ring.
It is pointed out that the ring could be used for wagon purposes, and that the buildings which are used by the fair board for exhibition purposes could be utilized by the farmers' wives as a place to sell butter, eggs and other produce.

"I think it is a good scheme," said Mr. O. Cambridge, grocer at the corner of Rectory and Lovett streets.

The plan is to utilize part of the park for market purposes, and the land, which is standing idle for 50 weeks in the year, could be put to some use. It would eliminate the necessity of spending money in purchasing land and prove more satisfactory than holding a market at the rear of people's backyards. Entrances could be provided at Campbell, King, Dundas and Egerton streets, and it is central enough to meet the needs of the residents of that section of East London.

The bride was given away by her father, and the couple were attended by a brother and sister of the bridegroom. After a luncheon served at the home of the bride's parents, the happy couple left on the evening train for Chicago, where they will spend a few days before proceeding to their future home in Calgary.

RESIDENTS WANT A PERMANENT PAVEMENT

Will Petition the Council For Cement Roadway on the Hamilton Road.

Residents of the Hamilton road between Herton and Egerton streets will petition the city council for a permanent cement pavement early this spring. Last fall the Hamilton road and practically every street in East London, with the exception of Rectory street, were in a disgraceful and dangerous condition, and many accidents were narrowly averted. Grocery rigs were overturned, and heavy wagons stuck in the mire, and one groceryman of East London is going to enter suit against the city to recover damages done to his rig, when it was overturned in a rut in the road.

The residents of that section have been watching with interest the reports made by City Engineer Brazier on the stability and cost of cement pavements, and a petition will be circulated by them shortly, asking the city council to initiate a cement pavement on the Hamilton road.

BOSS AT NO. 5

A new boss has taken charge at No. 5 fire station on Adelaide street. He was not appointed by the city council, neither does he wear a uniform of blue decorated with brass buttons; but just the same he is the boss; for he is the mascot, and if he is not allowed to ride on the hose reel on top of the combination fire truck every time it goes to answer an alarm, he raises an awful growl. Jasper, that is the boss' name, is a pure white English bulldog, which adopted the boys and No. 5 hall as his pals and home, respectively. He has been at the hall for about two months now, having wandered in there one night and since then he has been an inseparable companion of the men.

Tuesday afternoon, while exercising Jasper lost some of his reputation as a good fireman; for when the truck ran over an obstruction in the road he fell off and the hind wheel passed over his hind legs. He was maimed for a time, but after considerable attention by the firemen he was able to limp around, and this morning when the wagon was taken out he was in his accustomed place.

TO HAVE A WATCHMAN

London East is to have a watchman. Not of the human species, but one that will be on the job winter and summer, in snow or in rain, and who will always be faithful to the trust that such a watchman should have.

Subscriptions will be taken up in the course of a week for money to purchase a clock for the tower in the town hall at the corner of Dundas and Rectory streets, so that hubby on such a watchman way on the "morning after the night before" may explain to wife as he ascends the front stairs, "that it is only 12 o'clock, my dear," by the corner clock.

Mr. W. Wakeling, of the East London Progressives Association, has promised to head the list with a $10 contribution, and will circulate a subscription list among the businessmen of that section. It is proposed to place the clock, which is to have three dials, near the top of the tower and to have it illuminated at night.

WILL PETITION FOR EARLY CLOSING LAW

The Merchants of East London Want Bylaw Similar to Barbers'.

A petition is to be circulated amongst the shoemen, drygoods and other mercery of East London, from the corner of Hamilton road and William street east to the city limits and back to the corner of Dundas and Adelaide streets, asking for an early closing bylaw, similar to that put into effect regarding barber shops, recently.

The merchants in that section have to keep open every night until 9 and 10 o'clock in order to meet competitors, and as a great many of them are in favor of closing at 7 o'clock on week nights and 10 on Saturdays, it is expected that the petition will be favorably received.

SERVICES ARE POPULAR.

Evangelical services, which are being conducted in Centennial Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. H. A. Graham, for the past week, and which will be continued for some time, have proven successful. Large crowds are attending every night and other ministers of the city will assist Mr. Graham this week.

Wants to Rent School

The communication of a Pottersburg lady, Mrs. Weeks, who wished to rent the school grounds out there to grow vegetables, was received by the board of education Tuesday night.

The matter was left over for future consideration.

PROGRESSIVES CALL ASSESSMENT UNFAIR

Say Commissioner Discriminates in Favor of Central Properties.

SPENCER BLOCK EXAMPLE

The Bad Roads in South London Give Rise to Complaint.

Vice-President Joseph Lawrence, of the South London Progressive Association attacked the local assessment department at the meeting of that body on Tuesday evening, and made a number of statements to the effect that property-owners in the central portions of the city were being favored by Assessment Commissioner Grant at the cost of the owners of property in the suburban districts.

"I have thought there has been something wrong with the system in vogue in London," said Mr. Lawrence, "for some time past, and of late have been making inquiries. As a result I find that property in the business section of the city is assessed from 25 to 40 per cent of its value, while in South London and other outlying parts of the city the assessment is about 75 per cent of the value, and in many cases the owners of property are unable to sell at anything more than the assessed value."

Spencer Block Case.
"Take the Spencer block as an illustration of city property. It was sold to the city for $45,000, yet the assessment was only $18,000, which was 40 per cent of the selling price. This is a great injustice to the property-owners near the city limits, as they have already helped the property-owners in the centre of the city to pay for sidewalks and pavements, and now on account of the new legislation must pay for the work done in front of their own premises on a far higher basis than those who own property in the best part of the city."

The opinion of the meeting was that something should be done immediately to rectify the wrong, and Mr. Lawrence will pursue his inquiries during the week.

Election Expenses.

Mr. William Smith introduced the subject of curtailing the expenses of municipal elections by doing away with the polling booths in private houses and halls, and using a room in each of the schools.

Mr. Smith stated that the cost of each booth would amount to almost ten dollars, including rent and salaries, whereas if the schools were used as polling booths the cost would be greatly diminished.

President Gerry and Vice-President Lawrence were appointed a committee to bring the matter before the notice of the West and East London Progressive Associations this week.

The weekly discussion of bad roads in South London occurred, and a committee will appear before the board of works on Thursday evening to obtain particulars as to the best way in which to have the improvements of the roads commenced.

THORNDALE WOMAN FACED BAD STORM LAST SUNDAY TO AT- TEND CHURCH IN CITY.

That people of today are ready to suffer for their religious beliefs, was evidenced last Sunday, when Mrs. Mary Pulman, a woman who resides near Thorndale, drove fifteen miles in the face of the heavy snowstorm which was blowing, to be baptized.

Mrs. Pulman is a member of the Latter Day Saints' Church, and had made arrangements to be immersed by Elder Fligg last Sunday. The service commenced in the church at 10 o'clock in the morning, and in order to be in time she had to start from her home before 7 o'clock. She arrived in time for the ceremony and drove home in the afternoon.

WILD WITH LIQUOR MEN LASH HORSE

Spirited Animal Overturns Cutter at Tracks and One Citizen Is Stunned.

Two men, who refused to give their names, who were under the influence of liquor, had a narrow escape from serious injury at the intersection of the Pere Marquette tracks and Burwell streets Monday night.

They were driving a spirited horse and had been applying the whip. Suddenly they lost control, and the horse started up Burwell street at a mad gallop.

When it reached the tracks one of the runners of the cutter in which they were riding caught in a rail and overturned, throwing the men out.

One of them alighted on his head on a rail, and was rendered unconscious for a short time.

The horse was captured after it ran about three blocks.

HE LECTURES THE BUSINESSMAN

Arnold Bennett Warns Him
Against Taking His Worries
Home—How the Wife Suffers

Mr. Arnold Bennett has another fine lay sermon to the Plain Man in the January number of the Strand Magazine.

"My Business!"
Mr. Bennett specially deals with the man who says, "My business!"

"My business demands much reduction—constant watchfulness." "Well, in the first place, an enterprise which demands watchfulness day and night from the same individual, is badly organized, and should be reorganized. It runs contrary to the common sense of nature. And, in the second place, his defence is insecure. He does not submit to the eternal precaution because he thinks he ought, but simply because he cannot help it. How often, especially just before the dawn, has he not longed to go to sleep again—and failed to get free. How often, in the midst of some jolly gathering, has he been secretly desolate because the one tyrannical topic would run round and round in his mind, just like a clockwork mouse, accomplishing no useful end, and making impossible any genuine participation in the gaiety that environs him."

"Instead of being necessary to the success of his business, this morbid preoccupation is positively detrimental to his business. He would think much more usefully, more powerfully, more creatively, about his business if during at least thirteen consecutive hours each day he never thought of it at all."

"And there is still a further point in this connection. Let him imagine how delightful it must be for the people in the home which he has made, the loving people whom he loves and to whom in theory he is devoting his career, to feel continually that he only sees them obscurely through the haze emanating from his business."

Talking Across a Grille.
"Why—worse!—even when he is sitting with his wife, he and she might as well be communicating with each other across a grille against which a turnkey is standing and listening to every word said! Let him imagine how flattered, at any rate more thrilled, if she knew that instead of thinking about his business he was thinking about another woman. Could he shift the front door every afternoon on his business, the effect would not only be beneficial upon it, and upon him, but his wife would smile the warm smile of wisdom justified. Like most women, she has a firmer grasp of the essence of life than the man upon whom she is dependent. She knows with her heart (what he only knows with his brain) that business, politics, and 'that sort of thing,' are secondary to real existence, the mere preliminaries of it. She would rejoice, in the blush of the compliment he was paying her, that he had at last begun to comprehend the ultimate value of life."

The Cure.
"So far as I am aware, there is no patent desire for suddenly gaining that control of the mind which will enable one to free it from the obsession of the business, the politics, and 'that sort of thing,' are secondary to real existence, the mere preliminaries of it. She would rejoice, in the blush of the compliment he was paying her, that he had at last begun to comprehend the ultimate value of life."

"You are asking too much of me, Marsh. If I could finance you I'd cut out cards in the future. How about that?"

"Well, I just threw that out as a hint, but I suppose you have been thinking of it. You naturally would want to pull him up out of your troubles, since your own father would help you, how about him?"

"He is going to see his best chance, Marsh. But it is on strong and for once tell the truth. Tell him you've dashed in for help and that it won't work."

Langham had dropped back in his chair. He was seeking to devise some expedient that would meet his present difficulties. His bondage to the gambler had become a continuous one. The monstrous folly of those forgeries seemed beyond anything he could have dreamed of. But then, he had needed the money desperately.

He might go to his father, but he had been to him only recently, and the judge might go to Mr. Lincoln, with debt. He tried North. He could tell the latter the whole circumstance and borrow a part of what was left of his small fortune, but North would never think of that; he was a man to show a dollar with a friend.

He passed a shivering hand across his eyes. On every side the night of his obligations confronted him, for who was already owed? He was now in a position of inability to pay his debts. This notoriety was hurting him. His professional standing, and his public exposure, his very reputation for a common honesty was being lost.

He wondered what men did in a crisis such as this. He wondered what happened to them when they could do nothing more. Usually he was fertile in expedients, but today his brain seemed wholly inert. He realized the present eluded him.

He had never been over-scrupulous, perhaps; he had always taken what he pleased to call long changes, and it was he had descended in the scale of honesty to the point where he had made possible these forgeries. He had never felt certain of himself and of his presence of his dear desires, when he should have money to lift the burden of debt, money, money, money to scatter money to spend for the things of life.

But he had made the fatal mistake of anticipating the success in which he so firmly believed. Those notes—his dashed hand before the judge's face, suddenly the courage and cunning had left him; there was only North, whom he could turn to for a few hundred dollars, but he had promised himself he would not do that. He would live within his income, he would apply himself to his profession as he had never applied himself. He scowled heavily at Gilmore, who met his scowl with a critical smile.

"Well, what are you going to do?" he queried.

But Langham did not answer at once. He had turned and was looking from the window. It was showing now very gray clouds were creeping over the square. He could barely see the flickering lights in Archibald McBride's dingy shop windows.

"Give me a chance, Andy," he said at last, appealingly.

"To the end of the month, not a day more," asserted Gilmore.

"Where am I to get such a sum in that time?"

"Don't ask me, but turn to and get it, Marsh. That's your only hope."

"By the first of the month, perhaps," urged Langham.

"No, get rid of the notion that I am going to let up on you, for I am not. I'm going to squat on your trail until I know I won't ever see a cent of yours. I am only creditor, but the one who hounds you hardest will see his money first, and I've you where I want you."

"I can't raise the money. What will you gain by ruining me?" demanded Langham. He wished to inquire for a compromise the few hundreds it would be possible to borrow from North.

"To get square with you, Marsh, will be sure that I ever expected to see any of that money, but as long as you stood by me, I was disposed to be easy on you."

"I am still your friend, Marsh. I'm just about so-so, but you won't keep me out."

"Then I can't see where your friendship comes in," Gilmore quitted his chair.

"Wait, Andy," said Langham hastily. "No use of any more talk, Marsh. I want my money. Go dig it up."

"Suppose, by straining every nerve, I can raise five hundred dollars by the end of the month—"

"Oh, pay your grocer with that!" Langham choked down his rage. "You haven't always been so contemptuous of such sums."

"I'm feeling proud today, Marsh. I'm going to treat myself to a few airs, and you can pat yourself on the back when the month is over. You'll have done something to feel proud of, too."

"Suppose we say a thousand," urged Langham.

"Good old Marsh! If you keep on raising yourself like this you'll soon get to a figure where you can talk business," Gilmore laughed.

"Perhaps I can raise a thousand dollars and do up, and I should think I can, but I'm willing to try. I'm willing to say I'll try."

Gilmore shook his head.

"I've told you what you've got to do, Marsh, and I mean every word I say—understand and stick to it. You've got to have money or I'm going to have the fun of smashing you."

"Listen to me, Andy!" began Langham desperately.

"Why take me into your confidence?" asked the gambler coldly.

"What will you gain by ruining me?" repeated Langham.

"The gambler only grinned.

"I am always willing to spend money on my pleasures, and besides, when money is scarce, I'll have to come to you for help. I'll have to come to you for help."

Langham was silent. He was staring out at the empty snow-strewn square but North would never think of that; he was a man to show a dollar with a friend.

He passed a shivering hand across his eyes. On every side the night of his obligations confronted him, for who was already owed? He was now in a position of inability to pay his debts. STAGGER HUMANITY SAY SUFFRAGETTES

Planning Schemes That Will Eclipse All Their Former Doings.

NEW RAID ON COMMONS

Members of Cabinet To Be Closely Guarded Through Fear of Being Kidnapped.

New York, March 5.—A cable to the Tribune from London says: The suffragettes are now promising to "stagger" humanity unless women get the vote. They are planning new schemes which, as one of them averred, will eclipse all previous efforts. "The pillar box raid, the Kew fire, the Walton Heath bomb," she said, "will pale before the operations that have been arranged. It was Kruger who declared he would 'stagger' humanity. So will the suffragists till the franchise is granted to women."

Soon after the opening of Parliament raids are to be made on the House, and members of the cabinet must be closely guarded, or they will be kidnapped. It is stated that it is intended to drop what is styled a flashlight into the body of the House of Commons from the Strangers' Gallery. Women will be brought from every part of the United Kingdom to take part in the militant ventures. In the last number of the official paper issued by the Militant League there appeared a picture of Nottingham Castle, destroyed by men seeking the vote.

"This," said one of the militants, "is a symbolical of what may yet occur. We respect human life, but buildings, whatever their historic fame or tradition, are in imminent peril."

MILITARISM REMEDY FOR AMUSEMENT EVILS

Col. Campbell Thinks Training Would Keep Young Men Out of Mischief.

Colonel A. A. Campbell believes that military training would do much to counteract the tendency on the part of many young men to waste their evenings in attending cheap shows, and frequenting pool rooms and other places of amusement. "Every night one may see whole regiments of them wandering aimlessly down the streets, and seeking pleasure," he said. "They would be much better off receiving training and acquiring knowledge which would be useful to them in defending their country if the need should arise."

Col. Campbell expressed the belief that it would be a good thing if every boy when he reached the age of 18 should be required to take one month's military training every year for three years.

"In ten years' time," he said, "we would have a body of men between the ages of 18 and 28 who could very quickly be made into an efficient fighting force."

He would make the granting of the HAMILTON, of Toronto, president of the Equal Suffrage Branch of the Canadian Suffrage Association, in the costume worn by the Canadian contingent of suffragists in the big "Votes for Women" parade at Washington March 3. Col. Campbell stated that he had decided to complete his term of office as colonel of the Seventh Regiment, and would not retire until it expires about a year hence.

A short time ago, owing to pressure of business, he tendered his resignation, but yielded to the remonstrances of his officers, and later withdrew it.

TESTING EYESIGHT OF G. T. R. RAILWAY MEN

Lungs Also Being Submitted to Examination—Inspector Brady Conducts Investigation.

A number of railwaymen from London, Toronto, Palmerston and other points on the middle division are in Stratford, undergoing examination and tests in connection with their eyes, ears and lungs. This is an entirely new examination as far as the Grand Trunk is concerned, and is in charge of Inspector Brady, a former G. T. R. engineer, who had to give up his run owing to defective vision. Tests for eyes are being made by means of different colored lights and yards, and there are also reading tests.

TIMBER TRADE BOOMING

Outlook for Season's Export in Quebec Is Very Bright.

[Canadian Press.] Quebec, March 4.—The outlook in this province for the timber and deal trade during the coming season of navigation is extremely bright. The Canadian trade has large contracts to carry out from both the United Kingdom and the United States markets, which is expected to give new impetus to the shipping. The timber firms have manufactured more square timber and deals in their mills during the present winter than has been done for years.

In consequence of the demand, the price of lumber has advanced three dollars per thousand feet, and shingles, which are greatly in demand for the Massachusetts markets, 20 per cent.

That Style? Your Figure? Impossible!

Fat women who are contemplating a new gown in the mode will have to content themselves with a reduction of their flesh before they can wear the latest styles. Fortunately this is nothing like the hard labor it was when one had nothing but exercising or dieting to get results with. Nowadays a short course of the Marmola Prescription Tablets should bring the necessary results for her to wear a Directoire gown.

Let her take a Marmola Tablet (made in accordance with the famous prescription and, therefore, harmless) after each meal and at bedtime and she should very soon be losing a pound a day. This result, accomplished without disturbing one's table customs, forming wrinkles or distressing the stomach, astonishes everybody.

Even one large case, costing only 75 cents at any druggist's, or the same amount direct by mail from the Marmola Company, Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., gives positive results. This constitutes the acme of economy.

For Rough, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

(From the Woman's Home Journal.)

As March winds, flying dust and dirt are apt to injure your complexion, this information will be of special value right now. If you have any cutaneous blemishes, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercurized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, blackheads, moth-patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches, or any surface eruptions. The wax is so soft, it is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for an ounce of mercurized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple and harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles and furrows, a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in half a pint of hazel will prove wonderfully effective.

COMPANY WANTS TO DIVERT WATER STREET

Many St. Marys Citizens Are Strongly Opposed to Project.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Marys, March 5.—After the council adjourned last night, a deputation of interested parties of the Thames Quarry Company, held an informal meeting with the members of the town council in reference to the diverting of that portion of Water street that runs through the company's quarries, and have that portion diverted on to Wellington street.
The company agrees to buy the rock contained in the street, to offset, they claim, to pay cost of diverting Water street on to Wellington street.
A large number of residents of the streets and also a number of business men of Water street, informed The Advertiser that they are opposed to the proposition as the small amount of cash offered would not pay the upkeep of the diverted road, and also that it would be a great injury to business on Water street.
A petition is now being widely circulated, and a large number are signing it to oppose the submitting of any bylaw for that purpose.

DEPOSITORS PAID DEMANDS PROMPTLY

Senseless Run on Montreal City and District Savings Bank.

Montreal, March 4.—Upwards of a million dollars was withdrawn by depositors today as a result of what is described by the officers and management of the Montreal City and District Savings Bank as being a wholly ridiculous and motive-lacking run. The run opened at noon and continued throughout the afternoon and evening, being for the most part confined to the Point St. Charles, St. Lawrence, corner Pine avenue; St. Denis, corner Rachel, and West St. Catherine street branches.

All depositors demanding their money had their wishes complied with, and the bank officials state that they are ready to meet all demands. They attribute the uneasiness of depositors to some groundless rumor which has gained currency. They do not, however, anticipate any continuation of the run.

When the news of the run first reached the president, ex-Judge Oulmet, and his colleagues of the board of directors, they took every step to reassure all comers, giving instructions that all depositors desiring to withdraw their accounts should have their wishes complied with.

at a loss to assign the real cause for the run, certain of the employees, on making inquiries among the depositors, have ascertained that it began with a chance conversation between two brokers in the bar of the Windsor. The conversation of these convivial spirits is said to have been repeated by a bell-hop, whence it flew like wildfire to various workshops.

MEXICANS AND AMERICANS IN BORDER BATTLE

Former Fire on U. S. Patrol and Are Routed by Cavalry Troops.

[Canadian Press.]

Douglas, Ariz., March 4.—A second skirmish occurred today between the Ninth Cavalry troops and Mexican federal soldiers from Agua Prieta, one and one-half miles southeast of Douglas. The Mexicans fired on a patrol of fifty men on the border patrol at a distance of 250 yards.

In answer to a battery call troops "E" and "F" and a machine gun platoon of the Ninth Cavalry were rushed to the place where the Mexicans had fired on the patrol squad. A rapid fire was put in immediate operation, in addition to a hot rifle fire.

The Mexicans returned the fire with spirit, but soon retreated to a line of trenches dug during the Madero revolution. When they reached the trenches the firing ceased. Whether any Mexicans were killed or wounded is not known. None of the American troops were hit.

Col. Guilfoyle took personal command of the troops at the scene of today's fighting, which is a repetition of the battle of Sunday, when Mexican federal and United States troops fought for a half hour over the international line. The American soldiers are drawn up this afternoon in a skirmish line awaiting further developments.

DR. FRIEDMAN'S REQUEST IS TURNED DOWN

Cannot Demonstrate His Cure in a New York Public Hospital.

New York, March 5.—Dr. Friedman's request for an opportunity to demonstrate his treatment for tuberculosis in a hospital controlled by the board of health was turned down last night. It remains to be seen whether or not any private incorporated hospital lets him in the face of this official refusal. If not, he apparently must go away from this city in order to give his remedy the test which he professes to desire.

The board of health's decision was made known in this statement from Commissioner Lederer:

"On advice of the medical administrative board of the board of health it has been decided not to make at the present time official clinical tests of any specific treatment of tuberculosis."

Dr. Lederer would not say what reason was behind his pronouncement. The advisory board, he served, simply did not "think a clinical test expedient at this time." He added that the health board would be glad to accept and test a sample of the Friedman's bacillus, but the German investigator chose to give it, and that the board did not intend to interfere with whatever plans Dr. Friedman has involving hospitals not within the health board's province.

LOSS OF $100,000 IN PALMERSTON FIRE

Canada Malting Company's Big Plant Is Now Pile of Ashes.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Palmerston, March 4.—The largest fire in the history of Palmerston was witnessed last night, when the Canada Malting Company's plant was burned to the ground. The fire started shortly after 12 o'clock in the top story of the southwest corner of the elevator. It was impossible to reach this height with water or hose. At about 5 o'clock the worst of the flames were quenched. The loss is estimated at $100,000, and is fairly well covered by insurance.

The Palmerston branch of the Canada Malting Company, Ltd., formerly known as L. H. Clarke & Co., has the second largest malting floor in Canada.

FOREIGN AIRCRAFT WARNED

Must Not Fly Across British Isles Without Govt's Permission.

London, March 5.—Under authority conferred by the aerial navigation act the Home Secretary has issued orders prohibiting foreign military or naval aircraft from passing over any portion of the United Kingdom or territorial waters except on invitation and by permission of the Government.

All over foreign air craft coming to the United Kingdom are required first to obtain clearance papers from the British consuls. Landings will be restricted to certain areas of the coast, where the air pilots must report to the authorities and obtain a permit for the continuance of the voyage. They are prohibited from passing over certain districts, in which are included the military and naval stations.

Anyone infringing the regulations, it is announced, is liable to be fined upon, and the infringement is punishable by a six months' imprisonment and a $1,000 fine. The aeronauts found guilty of espionage are liable to seven years' penal servitude.

RAILWAY BILLS ARE OPPOSED IN SENATE

Govt. Seeks Undue Measure of Control, Sir George Ross Points Out.

Ottawa, March 4.—In the Senate today Sir George Ross opposed Government bills to extend the time for the completion of the prairie and mountain sections. Under the law of that session the time had been extended and the road had been almost completed. A still more time only was required, and this bill, which had the approval of the railway company, was only to confirm and extend previous action by Parliament. In view of the facts, the Government could not expect the Senate to support the bill.

Hon. Mr. Loughheed stated that in 1911 Parliament had given the Government authority to extend the time for the completion of the prairie and mountain sections. Under the law of that session the time had been extended and the road had been almost completed. A still more time only was required, and this bill, which had the approval of the railway company, was only to confirm and extend previous action by Parliament. In view of the facts, the Government could not expect the Senate to support the bill.

Might Degrade Road.
Sir George Ross said he favored the extension of the time, but wanted the extension specified by Parliament. He did not want the Government to have authority to specify the terms and conditions under which the road should be constructed. It was rumored that the Government was degrading the eastern section. What assurance was there that it would not degrade the road if given authority by this bill? He proposed an extension of time for twelve months. The attention of the Senate had not been attracted to the bill when it was promoted last year. The legislation authorized the Government to "extend the time on such terms and conditions and for such periods" as may be deemed advisable. That gave too much liberty to depart from settled conditions.

Government Deeply Interested.
Sir Mackenzie Bowell said in this case the Government was virtually building the road through its guarantees. Therefore it was much more interested in the speedy completion of this road than in the case of an ordinary bill. There was no danger that the Government would degrade the road. The bill gave it no authority to do so. He was sure the Government had no intention or desire to do so. Senator Gibson urged that more time be given to the matter. Mr. Loughheed agreed, and the committee rose and reported progress on the bill.

Gassy Stomach Endangers the Heart

Gas and Other Forms of Indigestion Are Quickly Relieved by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Undigested food forms gas in the stomach, which causes the walls of that organ to expand and press against the heart. If this pressure should be allowed to become heavy it might result very seriously, as the heart must be kept perfectly free in order to perform its duties.

If the stomach is overworked, its muscles become tired and gradually grow weaker and weaker, until they are unable to take care of the food properly. The glands fail to provide the juices necessary to digest the food. Gases form and cause all sorts of pain, misery and wretchedness, as well as extreme danger to the heart.

It is then that the stomach calls for help. Ordinary medicines are impossible. They not only fail to help the stomach, but injure the entire system. Medical men have studied the stomach and have discovered that the digestive juices consist largely of pepsin, hydrochloric acid and nitrogenous ferments. What, then, would be more natural than to supply these properties artificially when the stomach is unable to produce them?

That is the object of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These powerful little agents relieve a stomach of its burden, thereby giving it an opportunity to regain its normal strength. They tone up, strengthen and revitalize the secretory glands, mucous membranes, absorbing glands and muscular walls. They restore to the stomach its lost power of digestion, so that it can again do its work without assistance. They contain, in a concentrated form, every element necessary to digest all sorts of food, whether acid or alkaline.

If you experience an oppressive feeling just inside the lower end of your breast bone and extending upward towards your heart, do not hesitate an instant. Get Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from the nearest druggist at once and take one. In a few minutes the pain will leave you and you will feel better. Take a tablet after each meal for several days and your stomach will once more perform its duties. All druggists sell them at 50c a box.

WILLIAM PERCIVAL DIES AT HOME HERE

Had Lived in London Since Early Days—Was 90 Years Old.

Following a few weeks' illness, Mr. William Percival, aged 90 years, and a resident of London for the greater part of his life, died at his home, 36 Grosvenor street, on Tuesday evening. Mr. Percival was one of the pioneer businessmen of this city. Sixty-five years ago he started a flour and feed business on Richmond street. He later occupied a store where the Ontario Furniture Company is now located on Dundas street. He retired from business nearly 35 years ago.

Mr. Percival never married. Miss Margaret Percival, a sister, resided at 36 Grosvenor street, and a brother, Mr. Henry Percival, lives in London Township. Messrs. MUCH INTEREST IN SEPARATION PROJECT

Many Ingersoll People Would Like To Break Away From County.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ingersoll, March 5.—Considerable interest is being evinced by the people of the town as a whole in the movement looking to the separation of Ingersoll from the county of Oxford. This is a move that has been in contemplation for some time, having been frequently referred to by different members of the council. As it is the intention of the committee appointed to deal with the details at once it is probable that some important information will shortly be forthcoming.

The children of the Baptist Sunday school were treated to their annual sleighride and supper yesterday afternoon. Several sleighs, all loaded to capacity, with merry humanity, journeyed throughout the town for some time, after which supper was served in the school room, which all enjoyed to the full.

Mr. Sterling Warnock, who was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Warnock, has returned to his home in Vancouver, B. C.

To the man or woman who knows a good piano or organ when they hear it, the sale at Heitzman & Co., 242 Dundas street, should afford a real opportunity to save a considerable sum of money.

This is the time of year when the floors have to be cleared of "rented" and "taken-in-exchange" instruments, in order to accommodate the incoming spring stock. And many a first-class instrument may be picked up for just about half its real value.

There are quite a number of such instruments on view. Many a purchaser will get a good instrument in first-class condition and at the same time be dollars into the pocket.

Steamship rates from St. Lawrence to the United Kingdom ports have considerably advanced, but notwithstanding this fact the British dealer is expected to make fair net profits.

NO ASSYRIANS SERVE IN TURKISH ARMY

Compatriots Here Think Turks Are Afraid to Trust Them.

There are no Assyrians in the ranks of the Turkish army, according to C. Franks, an Assyrian merchant, of this city. A large number of them were mobilized, and preparations were being made to send them to the front, when orders were received that they were to disband, and they returned to their homes.

No reason was given for this sudden change in plans, but theories are not lacking among the local Assyrians, who are watching with great interest the events of the war, as chronicled in the Arabic newspapers, which reach here from time to time.

Some think that it was on account of the Turkish Government being unable to supply transport, while others believe that they are so short of funds as to be unable to arm and equip further troops.

Mr. Franks thinks that the real reason is that the Assyrians are afraid to trust the Turkish subjects. The Assyrians have suffered much under Turkish rule, he explained, and bear no love to them. Should Assyrian troops be sent to the front, they would probably either desert to fight, or promptly desert to the enemy.

The Turks are well aware of these facts, and that is their chief reason, in the opinion of Mr. Franks, for not raising troops among their subjects in Asiatic Turkey.

LEAVING NAPIER

Rev. J. Ure Stewart Has Accepted a Call to Whitechurch.

Fatality of Whooping Cough

Many parents think lightly of whooping cough, and treat it as a necessary evil, not giving the child who has it any particular attention. The seriousness of whooping cough was emphasized by the Medical Health Officer in Toronto a few months ago when he reported 14 deaths during the month from whooping cough and only ten from scarlet fever, typhoid fever, and measles, combined.

So many people write to us about the relief and cure of whooping cough by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine that we can recommend it with the greatest confidence.

It loosens the cough, aids expectoration, and by its soothing influence prevents the terrible paroxysms of coughing which are so distressing to witness, and which wear away the strength of the child. By using this treatment the disease is held in check, and cured in a few weeks, instead of months. Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on the bottle you buy. There are many imitations.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OBJECTS TO DANCING

Trustee Hunt Emphatic—Collegiate Crest Not To Be Used.

PUPILS PLAN A BALL

"Disgrace to Countenance It," Says One—Trustee Gammage More Lenient.

"The board of education is not in the dance business," emphatically declared Trustee A. M. Hunt at the board meeting Tuesday afternoon. Trustee F. H. Greenlees presented the request of some of the Collegiate Institute pupils for permission to use the Collegiate crest on the program of a ball to be given by them in the Dayton & McCormick hall. They further wished to advertise it as the Collegiate Institute ball. Trustee Greenlees favored their request, and Trustee W. W. Gammage observed that dancing is not objected to in American schools.

"The board of education should not favor dancing in public institutions," said Dr. Teasdale.

"I am strongly opposed to the board countenancing anything of the kind," said Trustee Hunt.

"It would be a disgrace for the board to countenance it, or to sanction the use of the name of the Collegiate Institute."

On Mr. Hunt's motion, the board decided to have nothing to do with the affair, and not to permit the use of the crest or the name of the institute.

PRESBYTERY FAVORS UNION OF CHURCHES

Where Presbyterian and Methodist Bodies Are Weak Plan Advocated.

The presbytery on Tuesday morning took up the motion of Mr. Alexander in regard to the union of Presbyterian and Methodist congregations where both churches are weak. Dr. McDonald spoke in favor of the motion, and pointed out that in small country places two churches were across the street from each other, and were building new churches. It was not likely that this condition of things would continue as a speedy union. Mr. Alexander referred to the extraordinary action of some Anglicans in objecting to Dr. Symonds preaching in a Presbyterian church. Dr. McCrae pointed out the method of co-operation adopted between the Presbyterian, Methodist, and Congregational churches in the west. After a long discussion the motion of Mr. Alexander was adopted.

Dr. Munro presented a report advising that Ivan congregation had alone, between the Presbyterian and St. Andrew's Mount Bridges be formed into one charge. Dr. Munro is moderator of Ivan. The presbytery, on motion of Mr. McIntosh, seconded by Mr. MacGillivray, expressed its great appreciation of the splendid liberality of all the congregations in the presbytery which have increased their ministers' stipends. Nearly all the country churches that were below the new minimum have come up to the $1,000 mark. In some cases also congregations that were not giving holidays have added a month's vacation to their minister. Rev. T. H. Mitchell, Thos. Alexander and Mr. Stuart were heartily congratulated on their fine work in augmentation within the bounds of the presbytery.

There was a lively discussion on the question of the ballot for the election of clerk at the last meeting. There had been some misunderstanding, but the presbytery passed a unanimous motion confirming Mr. Martin's appointment. The first business in the afternoon was the appointment of commissioners to the General Assembly. The following were appointed by rotation from the roll of the presbytery: Rev. Messrs. George Weir, Glenoe; J. M. MacGillivray, Aylmer; D. C. Stephens, Melbourne; John Hosie, London; W. S. Galbraith, Thamesford; R. B. MacGillivray, London; and W. S. Galbraith, Thamesford.

A special meeting of the presbytery will be held in St. Thomas on Tuesday, March 18, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It is understood that a call from Ripley will be presented to Rev. Geo. Gilmore, of Fingal. Prof. Paterson, of the Western University, and Mr. McIntosh, called attention to the need of all the churches sending delegates for the work of the ministry. Good work is being done in this regard.

Rev. T. H. Mitchell was appointed moderator of Mount Bridges and North Carleton.

The peace manifesto issued by the presbytery of New Westminster was considered by the presbytery. Rev. Principal MacKay introduced the matter, and it has been discussed all over the church. Mr. Currie moved the adoption of the report and Mr. Stuart seconded.

Rev. Mr. McIntosh thought more time should be taken for consideration. The matter was laid over till next meeting.

The report of the committee to appoint standing committees was presented and adopted.
