Foe Thrown Back All Along The Northern Battle Front

FRENCH GRIP LOCRE AGAIN ■ HAIG GAINS NEAR AMIENS

ENEMY SUFFERS HEAVY DEFEAT IN COAST RUSH

Setback Considered To Be Disastrous by the War Correspondents.

USED THIRTEEN DIVISIONS

British Wing and French Centre Neither Bent Nor Broken.

London, April 30—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The correspondents agree that the enemy has suffered nothing less than a disastrous defeat in the first phase of the battle consequent on their desperate attempt to capture the line of hills held by the Allies, which endanger their possession of Mont Kemmel. They have probably used thirteen divisions from the east of Ypres southward on the line of battle, with two more northward, and the violence of the gunfire was never greater or more unceasing at any period of the war.

Our successful defence made the day the bloodiest yet experienced by the enemy, as attack after attack was smashed by our artillery and infantry fire. The Germans had already suffered heavily on Sunday, when their concentrations of troops were caught and shattered by gunfire. Their waves yesterday were mowed down, and the British wings and French centre neither bent nor broke.

SALOONS OF DETROIT HAVE CAPACITY RUSH AS BARLEYCORN DIES

Detroit, April 30.—Capacity business in retail houses dealing in package goods, famine prices for wines and whiskey in cafes and barrooms and "no beer" signs in many of them, marked the last day of the legal sale of liquor in Detroit and Michigan today.

The constitutional amendment making Michigan a prohibition state becomes operative at midnight tonight. By the terms of the amendment the sale or manufacture of alcoholic beverages is restricted to that required for medicinal, mechanical and sacramental purposes.

It is estimated that approximately 50 per cent of the saloons in Detroit, which after midnight becomes the largest city in the United States dry by the vote of its citizens, went out of business for good last Saturday night.

FIVE FOUND DEAD; MAN ADMITS KILLING TWO DURING ROW OVER CASH

Ithaca, Mich., April 30.—Twenty-four hours after Willard Kimball, his wife and three children had been found slain at their home near here yesterday, Herman Wittig, a bachelor, who made his home with the family, confessed to the killing of the two, and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Wittig admitted the shooting of Kimball and his wife, but denied all knowledge of how the children met their death.

A quarrel over $40, the police declare, is the only motive for the crime.

BULGARS GIVE TURKEY SOME CLAIMED AREAS

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Bulgaria has agreed to let Turkey have the Adrianople station on the Karagatsch railroad, as well as the left bank of the Maritza River up to Kuleb! Buzeas, according to a dispatch today from France. These territories were claimed by Turkey in compensation for the Dobrudja.

NEW ZEALAND HAS SURPLUS.

Wellington, N. Z., April 30.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The revenue of New Zealand for the past year shows a surplus over expenditure of £5,508,000.

BRANDS TALK OF WORLD'S END AS EFFECTIVELY PRO-GERMAN IF NOT HUN PROPAGANDA WORK

Dr. Shailer Mathews, Addressing Synod of Hamilton and London, Condemns Those Who Believe in Civilization's Destruction.

Consideration of the report of the committees on religious education and animated discussion in this connection, and also in regard to the payment of the traveling expenses of the members of synod, along with the naming of committees; the acceptance of an invitation extended by Rev. Dr. Gibson to hold the next meeting of synod in Woodstock, and a stimulating address on "The Evangelization of the Inevitable" by the famous American theologian and writer, Dr. Shailer Matthews of Chicago constituted the chief features of this morning's sitting of the Synod of Hamilton and London in the First Presbyterian Church.

In the course of his brilliant address, Dr. Matthews dealt with the mission of the church at this time, in the midst of the hysteria of war conditions, namely, "to do for tomorrow what Paul did for his tomorrow," "to carry the gospel of Jesus creatively into the inevitable world, into the labor movement, feminist movement, the scientific movement, and into democracy, the inevitable movements which mark the progress of history in the writing in this age."

Cannot Repress Great Movement.

"You can't repress a great movement of history any more than the laws of gravitation. History is not pointed towards autocracy, but towards democracy," was a part of the encouraging message he delivered.

Attention was drawn to the striking parallel between the present period in the world's history and the period in which Paul went to Rome, not of his own volition, even under protest. Paul had been endeavoring to evangelize an "anachronism in history."

No more than Paul willed that he should go to Rome has the Christian church willed the chaos of war and the events leading up to the world conflict with its reactionary influence in various directions.

The fact upon which Dr. Matthews laid stress is that the Christian world has been caught up in the throes of the titanic struggle and its consequences, and is faced by the question, "What are you going to do about it?"

NEWFOUNDLAND WILL CLASS ONE MEN FROM 19 TO 24 YEARS OLD

St. John, Nfld., April 30.—The Government announced yesterday its intention to issue a proclamation under the military service act immediately the bill receives the Government's assent, calling to the colors men in class one which comprises those between 19 and 24 years of age. The proclamation will provide that those who offer themselves before Empire Day, May 24, will be regarded as volunteers, after which day men will pass under the operation of the draft law. This is regarded as a satisfactory arrangement in view of the fact that large sections of the northern and western coasts still are ice blockaded, and delays will be met in the circulation of the proclamation.

QUEBEC "FIRSTS" UNABLE TO GET LONGER LEAVE

Montreal, April 30.—It is understood that the recent expectations of an extension of leave held by a number of officers and men home in this military district on furlough have not been fulfilled. It was hoped that when the recent notices were sent out from Quebec they might presage an extension of the furloughs granted these men back from their three years at the front. This, however, proved illusory as the notices were sent out only to prevent men reporting before the time when it was arranged for them to sail. Later notices have been sent to the officers and men, and already a number of the furlough men have planned to report for duty overseas by the end of May. Some of the returned soldiers were granted extensions from England owing to long delays on the other side before they could get away, but it is expected that all the other furlough men in Canada will have to be back on time. In order that those overseas waiting their turn may get their furloughs.

SERIOUS FOOD RIOTS IN CITY OF CRACOW

London, April 30.—Serious food riots have broken out in Cracow, Galicia, the Berlin Vorwaerts reports, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. No new shipments of food have arrived in Cracow in several weeks.

BIG MONTREAL RUSH TO JOIN AIR FORCES

Montreal, April 30.—It is announced that during last week 700 men applied here to serve in the royal air forces, and that 200 passed the interviewing board. So greatly has the recruiting increased for the royal air force that the staff has had to be doubled.

TONGA'S KING DEAD.

Melbourne, Australia, April 30.—George II., King of the Tonga Islands, is dead.

The Tonga, or Friendly Islands, in the South Pacific Ocean, have been under a British protectorate since 1900, although still possessing a native king. There are about 150 of the islands, of which perhaps 30 are inhabited. The people are fair Polynesians, and are Christianized. George II was 43 years old.

TEN YEARS FOR "KNOCKING" ALLY

Los Angeles, Cal., April 30.—Robert Goldstein, convicted of violating the espionage act by exhibiting a film, "The Spirit of '76," containing scenes derogatory to the British troops of the revolutionary period, was sentenced to ten years in federal penitentiary and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge B. F. Bledso today. A sentence of two years on a second count will run concurrently.

HUGE RESERVE FORCE WILL GIVE SURPRISE TO TEUTON LEADERS

Canadian Officer Asserts That Kemmel's Loss Is Not Disastrous.

New York, April 30.—The loss of Mont Kemmel, according to Major M. H. Chaballe of the 22nd Canadian Battalion, who arrived yesterday at an American Atlantic port, does not mean disaster to the Allies. Major Chaballe said it was indubitably an important hill, commanding the heights of Ypres, but that the Allies could lose it and even Amiens without endangering victory. An immense reserve force, the major said, was waiting to give a big surprise to the Huns.

EXPORTATION OF COKE PLACED UNDER LICENSE BY WASHINGTON GOVT.

Washington, April 30.—Fuel Administrator Garfield today placed coke under license for export to foreign countries. Operators are permitted to add 60 cents to the Government price for a short ton of coke for export to foreign countries and also the cost of transportation from the ovens to the port of loading. The small allowances apply to coke transported to possessions and dependencies of the United States.

BLIZZARDS HOLD UP AUSTRIAN OFFENSIVE

Washington, D. C., April 30.—An unexpected return of cold weather in the mountain regions of Northern Italy will delay, in the opinion of Italian officials the expected Austrian offensive. Dispatches from Rome to the Italian embassy here say that blizzards had left a snowfall in some places six feet deep.

GAVE TOO MUCH BREAD, IS FINED ONE HUNDRED

Toronto, April 30.—An Italian woman, a restaurant-keeper, was today fined $100 and costs for having given to two men 32 slices of bread in violation of the food controller's regulations. Magistrate Kingsford imposed the penalty.

CATAPULTED FROM AUTO 125 FEET INTO RIVER

New York April 30.—From the roadway of the big Williamsburg bridge, which spans the East River between Manhattan and Brooklyn, an unidentified man was catapulted from the front seat of an automobile today when the machine skidded and crashed into the guard rail. The body plunged a distance of more than 125 feet into the river and disappeared. The number of the auto may serve as a clue as to the man's identity. The river is being grappled for the body.

AUSTRIAN MONARCHY IS LOSING ITS AUTHORITY

Washington, April 30.—The Austrian situation, as viewed in Rome, indicates that the monarchy is losing authority. A dispatch to the Italian embassy today reviews the conditions as follows:

"The ministerial crisis in Austria is considered here as having an organic significance. It is noted that for the first time in the history of the dual empire personal responsibilities and limitation of power are being discussed by the German delegates and the Austrian premier. It means that the monarchy is losing authority even with the German group. In spite of these facts, it is believed that Austria and Germany more than ever realized the necessity of holding to each other."

CHANGING THEIR TUNE

Teuton Newspapers Now Admit There Is an American Peril.

Geneva, Switzerland, April 30.—German newspapers, which last year ridiculed American intervention in the war, now have begun gradually to inform the German public concerning the danger of present and future American intervention on the western front. For instance, the Zeitung of Constance says:

"We must hurry to obtain a decisive victory by arms before the full American forces arrive."

The Vienna newspapers are taking the same line as those in Germany.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR IS MAKING NEW PEACE OFFER TO ITALY?

Stockholm, April 30.—The Catholic International Press Agency announces, a dispatch from Basel says, that Emperor Charles of Austria is making a fresh peace offer, appealing to Italy to consider it in her own interests.

1,500 SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL SEE MAETERLINCK'S 'BLUE BIRD'

Those Who Secure Advertiser Coupons Early Will Be This Paper's Guests at Special Presentation of Wonderful Film Play On Saturday Morning.

A coupon will be published in the evening edition of The Advertiser on Thursday for the admission of school children to the Majestic Theatre on Saturday morning for a special performance of Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird." The 1,500 children presenting these coupons will be admitted. Manager T. W. Logan has arranged a special program of music, and the wonderful film fantasy will be a treat for all of the little ones who witness it. The story is one for little children, a more thrilling fairy tale than has ever been told in story book. Maeterlinck, the poet, philosopher and dramatist, has provided the poem, while the great producers of the films have supplied the photoplay setting. To give to child mind the fundamental idea of happiness is the object of the poet and producer.

Touches Charm of Childhood.

Written as it was for the people of Maeterlinck's home, Belgium, without a thought of its ever becoming universally loved and popular, its underlying story of truth is written with a lightness of fancy which captivates everyone, and he touches with a wand of charm the childhood that lies at the heart of age and bids it quicken. Nothing in the world is so a-thirst for beauty as the soul, nor is there anything to which beauty clings so readily, so it is that when he wrote of the souls of things, of bread and water and fire; of the cat, the dog, and of light, he wrote with a sincerity that is inimitable and which none other of his works possess.

Every country in the world has been enabled to read this message in play form, for this message of world happiness has been translated into practically every language. So wonderful were its theatric possibilities that it was transplanted to the stage some years ago, and today is being shown in hundreds of theatres in all countries of the world. But it has been left to the motion picture to visualize in a fuller way the real thoughts of this wonderful artist-poet and with the unlimited means of the picture studio there will be flashed on the screen the story of "The Blue Bird," the story that surpasses in beauty, artistry and compelling attention anything that has ever before been done in pictures.

Wonderful Production of Art.

Maurice Tourneur, one of the world's greatest directors, was chosen by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to produce this Artcraft picture. In it he has given the world the very soul of this writer's greatest work, and has rendered a piece of art that will live forever as an entertainment of unprecedented attractiveness.

School children should watch The Advertiser Thursday and secure the coupon which will give them admission. While the management would have been glad to have provided accommodation for all school children if possible, the "early birds" will be the lucky ones. No war tax will be charged. It will be an occasion when the children have a real treat as the guests of The Advertiser.

DOUBLE SLAYING IS REPORTED FROM SASK.

Regina, April 30.—According to information which has reached the provincial police, a double murder was committed yesterday near Kipling. Peter Guloux, a Frenchman, walked out to the farm of John Boris, and, it is alleged, deliberately shot Boris as he was harrowing in a field. Walking back to the farm house, Guloux emptied the other barrel of his double-barreled shotgun into John Peter Boris, the father of the young man previously shot. Both men were instantly killed. The murderer was arrested a few hours later by provincial police, who now have his signed confession.

GOMPERS OVER-TIRED FROM SPEAKING TOUR

Montreal, April 30.—That he is not sick, but over-tired, following a strenuous, whirlwind speaking tour, was the statement made by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who was compelled to leave the platform at the Monument National here last night in the middle of a speech to labor men. Mr. Gompers had spoken four times since Friday, making a particularly arduous speech yesterday afternoon at the Canadian Club.

PT. DOVER IMPROVEMENT WILL BE INSISTED UPON

Brantford, April 30.—The improvement of Port Dover harbor is not to be allowed to lapse. Mayor McBride has written to W. F. Cockshutt, M. P., for Brantford, and John Harold, M. P. for Brant, pointing out that in the estimates brought down in the House last week there was no money set aside for the improvement of the harbor, which was promised to the deputation from Port Dover, Simcoe, Waterford, Brantford, Paris, Galt, Kitchener, Waterloo and Elmira, which recently waited on the minister of public works. He urges that action be secured by strong representations to the powers that be.

SAYS CHILDREN STARVE, AND HUSBAND AT WAR

Montreal, April 30.—"My children are starving in Sydney; my husband is at the front, and I have no other means of getting enough to feed my three children," said Mrs. John Brown to Chief of Police Ducap of St. Jerome, when brought to the station charged with theft this morning. The woman was arrested with her adopted daughter, Miss Helen Smith, by Constable Lesage. Both are alleged to have broken into several stores in St. Jerome and to have taken much booty.

KAISER'S WAVES CRUMPLED UP; FRENCH RECAPTURE LOST AREA; BRITISH ADVANCE ON SOMME

ALLIED LINES MOVED AHEAD

British Headquarters in France, April 30 — (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—The Allied line has been advanced between La Clytte and Kemmel. There has also been some progress south of that region.

The artillery was increasingly busy this morning from Vimy northward.

Thus far the German capture of Kemmel Hill has done them little good for the Entente Allies' artillery has kept the crest so smothered in shellfire that it has been impossible for the enemy to occupy it in force.

THE WAR SITUATION

Today's reports from the Flanders battlefront only serve to emphasize the completeness of the victory won by the Anglo-French forces yesterday in withstanding the tremendous assault by which the Germans hoped to break into the Allied hill positions southwest of Ypres and begin cutting their way on toward the channel ports.

Germans Stopped.

The situation seems to have been one of the Entente high command deciding once more to make a stand after having forced the Germans to use up tens of thousands of men in fighting their way desperately forward as far as they have. The decision made, the stand was taken and the Germans were stopped, as they have been previously on other fields since the great offensive opened on March 21.

Held in His Tracks.

The enemy, it is estimated, threw as many as thirteen divisions, or about 175,000 men, into the attack on this twelve-mile front, but despite continued furious assaults, was held almost in his tracks everywhere. At a few points there was a slight enemy penetration, but the line was largely rectified late yesterday. During the night the French, in dashing counter-attacks, drove the Germans from the remainder of the small stretches of ground they had gained in their initial drives of the day.

The Splendid French.

A most welcome feature of the current news from the front is the announcement that the French, on the crucial part of the line, at Locre, have not lost any part of their hold on this dominating ground. They now have undisputed possession of Locre itself for the first time in several days, and apparently have killed off all the enemy efforts to edge in around that place and force its abandonment.

The importance of Locre lies in the fact that it guards the approach to Mount Rouge, one of the most valuable hills of the defensive line, which cannot be taken in flank so long as Locre remains in Allied hands. Similarly the Allies' troops have stopped the drive towards Scherpenberg by holding at La Clytte, while the Belgians, who had two additional German divisions to face north of Ypres, dealt with them successfully and prevented any breach in the line toward the sea.

Haig's April Losses Fifty-Two Thousand

7,723 Men Killed and 1,621 Officers Made the Sacrifice.

London, April 30.—British casualties reported in April reached a total of 52,475, divided as follows:

Killed or Died of Wounds—Officers, 1,621; men, 7,723.

Wounded or Missing—Officers, 7,447; men, 35,684.

Although the complete reports of casualties sustained in the recent heavy fighting in France and Belgium apparently have not yet been made, a marked increase is shown in the April figures. The total in March was 14,090, the smallest in several months.

EASTERN CANADA FACES SERIOUS COAL SHORTAGE

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, April 30.—Eastern Canada is facing a serious coal shortage, which so impressed the Canadian Railway War Board that this morning they placed a provisional embargo on coal shipments from mines. The principal difficulty is in getting American coal cars emptied and back, and the United States Railway Commission may reduce the amount allowed for export to Canada if the cars are not promptly returned.

CARDINAL BEGIN BETTER.

Quebec, April 30.—Cardinal Begin, stricken yesterday with a nasal hemorrhage, was resting quietly this morning after a rather uneasy night, his doctor announced today. It was stated by the medical attendants that the condition of his eminence is not immediately disquieting.

Poilus Once More In Control of Locre, Much Coveted By Enemy, While Haig's Troops Move Lines Ahead Near Villers-Bretonneux—German Losses In Monday's Disastrous All-Day Assaults Believed To Be Enormous—Allied Line In Flanders Is Neither Bent Nor Broken At Any Point.

London, April 30.—The French now hold the entire village of Locre, west of Kemmel, says the official statement from the war office today.

In the vicinity of Locre, the French, by counter-attacks, yesterday afternoon and evening, drove the Germans from the remainder of the ground they had gained in the morning. The Germans, having been heavily repulsed all along the northern battlefront, the night passed in comparative quiet.

ALLIED LINES UNCHANGED.

With the British Army, April 30.—This morning the Allied lines in Flanders were, to all intents, the same as when the Germans surged forward yesterday. In front of the defending positions grey-uniformed men lay in great numbers, representing the awful price paid by the Germans.

FRENCH HOLD ALL OF LOCRE.

The text of the statement reads:

"Successful counter-attacks carried out by French troops yesterday afternoon and evening drove the enemy from the remainder of the ground gained by him during the morning in the neighborhood of Locre, and captured a number of prisoners. The whole of the village is in the hands of our Allies.

QUIET DURING NIGHT.

"After the heavy repulse inflicted on the enemy yesterday, the night passed comparatively quietly on the northern battlefront.

"We advanced our line slightly during the night east of Villers-Bretonneux.

"On the remainder of the British front there is nothing to report beyond artillery activity on both sides in certain sectors."

BRITISH ADVANCE ON SOMME.

London, April 30.—During the night the British advanced their line east of Villers-Bretonneux, on the front before Amiens.

Paris, April 30.—Heavy artillery fighting occurred last night north and south of the Avre, in the sector of Noyon, and along the Oise, the war office reports.

The statement follows:

"The artillery battle was waged with considerable violence north and south of the Avre, in the sector of Noyon and on the south bank of the Oise. French patrols were active along all this front and brought back fifteen prisoners.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) and in Upper Alsace, German detachments were repulsed by our fire, leaving prisoners in our hands without obtaining any result.

"There is nothing to report on the remainder of the front."

BRITISH LINE HELD LIKE ROCK.

London, April 29.—Powerful attacks by the Germans against the French and British positions between Meteren and Wytschaete today were repulsed, the Germans losing heavily, according to the report from Field Marshal Haig tonight. The British line held absolutely, but at various points the Germans gained a foothold in the French positions, only to be driven out later from the great part of this territory.

The Belgians also repulsed heavy attacks, inflicting severe casualties on the enemy.

DAY OF AWFUL BLOODSHED.

With the British Army in France, April 29.—By the Associated Press.—This has been one of the bitterest days of fighting that the Flanders battle ground has seen since the present offensive began. Since early morning von Arnim has been flinging great numbers of German troops against the Allied lines between Zillebeke Lake and Bailleul, with the hills east of Mont Kemmel as his ultimate objective.

At the same time a secondary thrust has been made at the Belgians in the region of the Yser north of Ypres.

When the correspondent left the battlefront in the afternoon the German commander had nothing to show for his pretentious drive but a long list of dead and wounded.

Along the major portion of the front the enemy troops have been held, but where they succeeded by superior weight in pushing forward they were soon ejected by counter-drives.

GERMAN ARMY WEAKER BY MANY THOUSANDS.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, April 29.—Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—The enemy attack today developed over a wide front, extending from north of Voormezeele nearly to Meteren. The strategic object was apparently a crab-claw movement converging upon the chain of hills towards Mont Chats. This front is held by the French in the centre and by our divisions on the flanks.

The enemy's failure to advance at Locre undoubtedly influenced him to resort to crushing tactics, but the news so far is eminently in our favor.

The infantry attacked at 6 o'clock, with an attempt to advance towards Scherpenberg. This was completely held up at first. During the morning the battle extended above Voormezeele.

Battle Near Ypres.

Although Ypres is not yet attacked, the battle has extended thereto. An enemy reconnaissance in force against the Belgians was repulsed.

Everywhere on the battlefront terrible punishment is being inflicted upon the enemy, who has thrown in divisions with lavish disregard for his sacrifices. Once again he is paying the full price for no result.

The Germans, realizing that they were making no progress, modified the crab-claw idea and the fighting developed into a more direct attempt against Scherpenberg and Mont Rouge.

Allies Have Good Cover.

The Germans are making an intense use of their great artillery strength, but the French garrisons on the hills have splendid cover. Their 75's and our field guns furiously reply.

The air is full of airplanes, mostly observing. It is abundantly clear that the day's story when told will be all to the credit of Franco-British arms. The battle is not yet over, but for an attack which has been in progress for seven or eight hours (at this writing), without making headway, it is not premature to say that it has failed. The German army will be weaker by many thousands by sunset today, for they have been fighting all day in the open, while the Franco-British scarcely anywhere left their prepared defences.

PHILADELPHIA MAN SEEKS TO ENLIST IN C. E. F. IN LONDON

Long Distance Recruit Fails To Pass, However.

From Philadelphia to London is a long step to take to join the Canadian army, but it was not too long for H. Morris, who arrived at the armories Monday with a party of British-Canadian Recruiting Mission men from across the border.

Morris is a native of England, and was anxious to do his fighting under the Union Jack if it was at all possible. He was found unfit, and will probably be returned to the United States.

Another recruit arrived from Cleveland, and being specially qualified along technical lines, was allotted to the Canadian Engineers.

The Royal Flying Corps will be five men stronger as a result of Monday's work here, that number of men being passed as fit by the board for that branch of the service.

Amherstburg produced one recruit, Windsor one, and Sarnia one, while London showed up well with eight, of the thirteen who offered their services Monday.

Of eleven men who were examined after having evaded the provisions of the M. S. A., two had surrendered themselves, four were apprehended, and the remaining five were actual defaulters.

The list of recruits follows:

J. F. Smeltzer, C. J. Murphy, C. B. Tunks, London; George Goders, Cleveland; E. R. Pearce, Amherstburg; C. J. Braniff, R. Plant, H. J. Cameron, London; G. G. Purcell, Windsor; E. R. Nichols, J. L. Burgess, London; H. Morris, Philadelphia; A. W. Tennant, Sarnia.

HONORABLE DISCHARGE FROM CANADIAN FORCES

Labor Leader, Who Spoke Here, Escapes After Election Persecution.

Corp. William Varley, the Toronto labor leader, who was one of those who spoke in London in the interests of George S. Gibbons, Labor-Liberal candidate in the recent Federal election, and who has been in trouble in Toronto for his activity in the election campaign, has been honorably discharged from the Canadian army.

Varley reached Canada after service overseas for further treatment last December, and took part in the last election. He spoke on behalf of several Labor candidates. He was then court-martialled, and it was suggested that the charges made against him were laid because of his election activity. A protest was sent from the District Trades Council of Toronto to the minister of militia by a committee which was instructed to investigated Varley's case.

During the election Varley made some serious charges regarding the treatment accorded returning soldiers on board Atlantic transports. He gave evidence before the court of inquiry which reported upon the grievances.

BELIEVE CHANGES IN ADMINISTRATION OF WORK RESPONSIBLE

Abolition of Commission Delays Hospital Here.

The general mix-up which resulted from the abolition of the military hospitals commission and handing the care of all returned men over to the militia department and the Invalid Soldiers' Commission, is believed to be responsible for the delay in erecting the large military hospital which, if the original plans and promises had been carried out, would now be in full operation to the south of the city, on the O'Dell site, purchased by the city.

Controller J. M. Moore, who has watched events closely in regard to the hospital, expresses the belief that the hospital will be built, though there are some who think that the authorities are trying to side-step their promises. Controller Moore says that already the water mains and the siding into the hospital have been laid by the authorities. No material has been sent to the site yet, but Mr. Moore hopes for quick action when Deputy Minister S. Armstrong returns east after a trip through Western Canada.

As it is, nearly a year has passed since it was first proposed to erect the hospital, and not a stick is on the ground yet. The same has been the experience in Toronto. The authorities have been planning for nearly a year to build a hospital in High Park, Toronto, and just recently announced that they had abandoned that site.

HIT BY LIGHTNING

Street Car Struck on Spuringbank Line, Motors Being Burned.

Car Number 27 of the London Street Railway was struck by lightning during the storm yesterday near Woodland Cemetery. Two motors were burned out, and the car returned to the barns for repairs. Nobody was hurt. The telephone of the power house was burnt out, presumably by the same bolt of lightning, as both accidents occurred simultaneously.

Motorman Arthur Rockett, who was in charge of the Springbank car, by instantly pulling the power switch when the flames started to shoot through the motor, aided greatly in quelling the panic which started among the women passengers of the car which was making the return trip from the park. There was considerable excitement for a time.

LEAVES FOR TORONTO AS SUPPLY OFFICER

Conservancy Officer of This District Gets Important Promotion.

Lieut. C. R. Blackburn, conservancy officer for this district, has left for Toronto to take over a responsible position as supply officer for all the military hospitals there.

Lieut. Blackburn left on Saturday, and he has been succeeded by Capt. J. E. Smallman, who will carry on the duties of conservation officer in this district.

Although here only a short time, Lieut. Blackburn accomplished excellent results along the lines of saving, and under his direction a conservancy plant was equipped at Queen's Park camp, where the fats are reduced, and the paper, tins, and other valuable waste baled for sale.

GOES TO CHICAGO

Former Talbot Street Baptist Pastor Accepts Call There.

Rev. J. J. Ross, former pastor of the Talbot Street Baptist Church of this city, and now in charge of St. James Baptist Church of Hamilton, has accepted a call to the Second Baptist Church of Chicago.

The acceptance of the American charge came as a surprise to his Hamilton congregation, the announcement having been made on Sunday last.

Mr. Ross, who was a most popular pastor here, and who has been regarded as an outstanding figure in the Baptist Church life of the province and Dominion, will leave Hamilton after May 26, when his farewell sermons will be preached.

PREPARING SUMMER CAMP QUARTERS OF DISTRICT'S FORCES

Engineers Make Ready at Carling Heights.

PERMANENT BUILDINGS

Orderly Rooms, Quartermaster's Stores, etc., To Be Housed in Them.

Preparations are going ahead for the opening of the big summer camp at Carling Heights, which will take place about May 15.

Squads of men from the Service Company, Canadian Engineers, have been busy during the past few days going over the water and sewer pipes throughout the camp grounds, repairing them, and putting them in first-class shape for use during the coming months.

Orderly offices and store houses are being constructed for the use of the 1st Depot Battalion, W. O. Regiment, and for the new "low category" unit, the 1st Battalion, Canadian Garrison Regiment. These units will be quartered at Carling Heights Camp this summer, and permanent frame buildings are being constructed for each of them, to house their office staffs, and their quartermasters' stores.

The supply of wooden tent floors is also being examined, and put in shape, so that when the khaki invasion of the heights takes place in a short time they will be ready.

The field postoffice has also been moved from Queen's Park to Carling Heights Camp, and the military mail will be handled at the Heights during the summer months.

TO ORGANIZE LOCAL NAVY LEAGUE BRANCH TO STRENGTHEN TIES

Rev. S. Boal Comes to Form London Association.

Rev. S. Boal of Toronto arrived in the city last evening from Chatham, and plans to organize a branch of the Navy League of Canada here. A meeting of the ministers of the city in connection with the project has been arranged and a public meeting is planned for next Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Boal recently organized branches of the Navy League in Chatham and Windsor and goes from London to St. Thomas. He will also organize branches at many other points in the district.

The organizing secretary is interviewing a number of prominent Londoners in connection with his work, and has called an interdenominational meeting of ministers for Thursday afternoon in the Tecumseh House. It is the desire of Commodore Amelius Jarvis of Toronto, chief naval recruiting officer of the Dominion, and of Lieut.-Col. Cecil Williams, senior recruiting officer of the C. E. F., that branches of the league be organized all over Canada, says Mr. Boal. The purpose is to bring a closer relationship of the people of Canada with the naval and merchant marine sailors. Mr. Boal has had long experience among sailors and soldiers in the old country.

Formation of boys' naval brigades is one of the objects of the league.

Sacrifices Her All To Escape Sentence Of Six Months' Term

Thorndale Woman Pays $500 Fine Into Court, Goes Free After Day's Imprisonment.

Rather than spend six months in jail, Mrs. Jane McGuffin of Thorndale sacrificed all her property in order to raise $500 with which to pay a fine imposed in police court Monday.

Police Court Clerk Moule was handed a check for $500 this morning by the woman's solicitor. She was immediately released. A friend of Mrs. McGuffin stated today that the little cottage and property of Mrs. McGuffin at Thorndale represented all she had. The home was bought by her several years ago with money willed to her by her father, who died in Ireland.

The woman was sentenced to spend one day in jail and pay a fine of $500 for shoplifting. In default of the payment of the fine, she was to remain in jail six months. Rather than serve the term, she sacrificed all her possessions.

The check was later handed over to Crown Attorney McKillop, who will remit the fine to the provincial treasurer. This official will then return a percentage of the amount to the city treasurer.

The penalty is the heaviest single fine ever imposed and paid in the history of the local police court. Larger amounts have been paid in by one person, but the total amount represented two or more convictions.

YPRES DAY, MAY 11

Postponed Tag Day Will Be Held Then by Veterans.

The postponed tag day which is held yearly to mark the anniversary of Ypres will be conducted on Saturday, May 11, by the C. E. F., Returned Chapter of the I. O. D. E. and the Great War Veterans' Association. It had been planned to hold the tag day on Saturday, April 20, but in view of the Patriotic and Red Cross canvass, the day was postponed. The citizens have always given liberally, and this year will be no exception, it is believed. President G. W. Coles and Secretary J. W. Cunliffe are quite optimistic over the bright prospects. The G. W. V. A.'s share of the proceeds of the canvass will be added to the building fund of the association, and every person may rest assured that it will be wisely expended, they say.

BACK TO CIVIL LIFE

1st Depot Battalion, W. O. R., Officer, Therefore, Struck Off Strength.

Lieut. George A. Mogg, recently of the 4th Reserve Battalion, and now of the 1st Depot Battalion, W. O. Regiment, has resumed his civil occupation, and has been struck off the strength of his unit here, camp orders announce.

Capts. Gordon S. McAlpine and Frank M. MacKenzie have reported for duty with the A. M. C. Training Depot here, and have been taken on the strength.

Lieut. Harold Chapman Harcourt, W. O. R. D., has been attached to No. 1 District Depot here.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE WILL GO "DRY" TONIGHT

Concord, N. H., April 30.—The sale of liquor in New Hampshire, after having been legalized for fifteen years, will cease tonight. In 1903 the Legislature enacted an amendment to the prohibition law which had been in effect for a generation, permitting towns and cities by local option elections to authorize the sale of intoxicants within their limits. The Legislature of 1917 repealed this amendment, thus placing the whole state under prohibition again.

YOUNG LONDONER ESCAPES PRISON CAMP IN GERMANY

19-Year-Old Lad Makes Good His Dash For Liberty From Hun Captors.

TRIED TO JOIN UP HERE

Age Prevented Attempts, But Pte. Victor Britt Finally Got Into Toronto Battalion.

Victor Britt, a young London boy, who left this city to join the 123rd Battalion of Toronto, and who has been a prisoner of war in Germany for almost a year, has made a successful dash for liberty from the Hun prison camp. The news of his successful escape by a letter from a brother, Robert Britt, who went overseas with the old 6th Battery of London, and who has since been invalided back from the front and is now living in Toronto. No particulars are given in the letter, which simply states that a cable had been received that Victor had escaped.

The young soldier is now only 19 years of age, and donned khaki when 17, after having made several unsuccessful attempts to join the C. E. F. here, being rejected as too young. He was an employee of Smallman & Ingram, Limited, until he left to join another brother, Sergt. Harry Britt, in the 123rd. After his departure overseas his mother and sister left their home at 537 Sircoe street and went to Toronto, too, where they are now staying.

Pte. Britt was transferred to the 13th Canadians after only three months in England, but served with that battalion only a month before he was captured in May, 1917.

Several postcards have been received in London from the young soldier since his capture, the latest having come to Mrs. E. W. Harrison of Simcoe and William streets, on April 8. It was dated February 15, from Kreigsgefangenenlager Heiberg, Berzuk, Konstanz, Baden. On this card he thanked Mrs. Harrison for a letter just received, and assured her that he would write shortly.

LIEUT.-COL. WARE TO RETURN TO CANADA, IS CABLE MESSAGE

London Officer of the Original Firsts Coming Back.

Lieut.-Col. Frank Ware, D. S. O., one of the original London officers of the 1st Canadian contingent, and who has been a staff officer in the C. E. F. since Canada's first volunteers were mobilized at Valcartier camp, is to return to Canada in two weeks' time. A cablegram received here today announced that he was sailing for Canada in two weeks' time, having secured an appointment as an assistant adjutant-general. It is believed that he will be posted to one of the Canadian military districts.

Lieut.-Col. Ware left London as a captain of the 7th Regiment quota of the first contingent under Lieut.-Col. H. C. Becher. At Valcartier he was attached to the famous 1st Western Ontario Battalion, with a captain's rank, but was seconded for service as a staff captain. He retained his staff rank in England, and went to France as a brigade major, winning his D. S. O., his promotion to major and lieutenant-colonel and an appointment of deputy assistant adjutant and quartermaster general of a Canadian division in the field.

FIRST SUMMONS FOR NON-USEFUL WORK IS ISSUED BY POLICE

Action to Speed Up Man Power Starts in London.

The first man to be charged with not being engaged in useful work, in contravention of the recent order-in-council, will be summoned to police court in a few days to explain the reasons to the magistrate. A summons was issued for this individual today, and his case will be the first to be heard in the local police court under the new law making it compulsory for all males between 16 and 60 resident in Canada to be regularly engaged in some kind of useful work.

The members of the police force have received instructions to have all persons liable under the act brought into court.

MEASLES AGAIN LEAD COMMUNICABLE DISEASE LIST FOR WEEK IN CITY

Measles last week jumped back to the first place in the communicable disease list in London, according to the official health bulletin of the department of health. There were, however, only six new cases reported, and at the end of the week there was only one in isolation.

So far as actual number of total cases are concerned scarlet fever is the disease leader, there being 22 cases in isolation at the week end, although only two new cases had developed during the week.

The list of other new cases reported, with the total number at the end of the week, follows:

	New.	Total.
Chickenpox	3	8
Sore throat	1	1
Mumps	3	9
Tuberculosis	2
Whooping cough	0	6

The report shows a row of blanks for diphtheria, German measles, smallpox, typhoid fever, infantile paralysis and cerebro spinal meningitis.

The week's total of new cases was but 17, with a total number at its end of 48. Of these 40 were quarantined in 27 homes and 8 were in hospital.

Western Ontario's Mail Order House

A Delightful Summer of Gingham and Chambray Dresses

Gingham and Chambray have become aristocrats—made into summer dresses for women—and with such effect that all summer fabrics must look to their laurels. Originality in exquisite good taste makes these frocks different from those of any former summer. Their appeal is very directly to youth—youth that wants the new at its newest and appreciates just such distinctive, subtle little details, original, unusual, color effects that make these dresses uncommon.

ARTICLES FOUND. Numerous articles found in the store are at Transfer Counter awaiting their owners to claim them. A pair of shoes and slippers in the collection.

MAIL ORDERS. We pay the shipping charges on all goods ordered by mail from catalogue or samples submitted to any address in the Dominion of Canada. Write for spring and summer catalogue.

QUERIES REGARDING MILITARY SERVICE

Send In Your Problems and They Will Be Answered From Official Information by The Advertiser.

C. E. B. Q.—Does the new conscription law affect men in category B between the ages of 20 and 22?

A.—It affects all men in class one of the ages named, though only category A men and those who have no category, are being called at present.

READER. Q.—1. When will the exempted men between the ages of 20 and 23 be called?

2. Can a man who reports for service before he is ordered out pick his unit?

3. Where would a man wishing to join the Royal Flying Corps report?

A.—1. They are being called at present. The first ones will arrive at the depot battalion on May 8.

2. Yes.

3. Write to Capt. Walter Smith, 402½ Richmond street, London, Ont., for information.

SUBSCRIBER, F. M. D., AND OTHERS. Q.—1. In what class is an exempted farmer who was married since exempted, under the amended regulations?

2. I am 21 years of age, exempted, and married since. Will I be in this draft?

A.—1. According to the M. S. A., any man married after July 6, 1917, shall be deemed to be unmarried, for purposes of classification. Once in uniform, however, he would be considered married, and would be allowed to draw separation allowance for his wife, no matter when he was married.

2. If you are in category A, or have no category, you will be called as a single man immediately.

E. R. Q.—A boy is 20 years old, the only one at home with his father on a 200-acre farm, will he be conscripted on May 12.

A.—You do not state when he was 20, nor whether he has been exempted or not, under the M. S. A. If he was not 20 on October 13, 1917, he is not among those who are being called at present. He would, however, be included in class one and would be liable to be called out by proclamation at any time needed. If he is an exempted man, and in category A or has no category, he will be called out immediately, and his exemption will be cancelled.

O. T. Q.—I will be 19 in May. My father and I live on a 100-acre farm. How would the M. S. A. affect me? We are thinking of going out West. Should I report here before going?

A.—Under the new order-in-council, those who have attained the age of 19 years, are made members of class one. Such men can be called to the service by proclamation, though no proclamation has been issued yet. Under the new regulations, a man is liable to be called when he reaches the age of 19. As you are not 19, and as no order has been issued yet calling such men, you cannot report for duty yet. You may volunteer if you wish.

ANXIOUS, W. F. W., AND OTHERS. Q.—On what grounds can a man obtain exemption under the amended act? I understand that where a family has sons overseas that the remaining son is not taken.

A.—If he is of the ages mentioned in the order-in-council, and is in category A or has no category, he cannot obtain exemption on any grounds. He may be granted leave of absence without pay, however, on the grounds of death, disablement or service of other members of his family while on active service in any theatre of actual war (not including the high seas, Great Britain or Ireland). This, it is understood, may be obtained if it appears that he is the only remaining son of military age. This leave may be granted by the officer commanding the military district on authority from militia headquarters. The man must report for duty, and then ask for leave.

J. A. A. Q.—1. Could a man enlist in the Tank Battalion, and get leave of absence for a while?

2. Could a man of 22 enlist in it if he reports before he is notified to do so?

A.—1. The men for the Tank Battalion are wanted immediately, and though he might get leave for a few days, it is improbable that he would get it for long. Write or see Lieut. E. Anundsen, recruiting officer for the Tank Battalion, care of the Armories, London, Ont.

2. Yes.

INTERESTED. Q.—1. I was placed in A2 last fall. Can I have another examination with the aid of a doctor's certificate before I am called? If not, will I get one after I am called?

2. Are any B2 men in this call?

A.—1. No, you will not have one before you are called, but you will have one when you report, before you don the uniform.

2. The exemptions of men in category B have not been abolished, but they are being called up and allowed to present any other claims for exemption that they may have.

CANNING DEMANDS

Sugar Regulations Over Line Ride Too Lightly Now.

Under the new sugar hoarding regulations of the Canada food board, London grocers will soon be sharing the lot of American grocers who are being importuned to break the United States rule which holds that not more than five pounds of sugar can be sold to people in towns and not more than ten to those in the country. The canning season is the reason for the demand in the States for the grocers to break the law.

In Canada the regulations call for fifteen days' supply only as the limit of sugar in any household. The ordinary fifteen days' supply will be like the proverbial drop in the bucket when the canning season opens.

In the States, according to a Detroit story, the canning proposition for householders is to be handled by certificates which must be signed at the grocer's by the purchaser before any home canning can be done. These certificates will be turned in to the state administrator within one week of signing. Supplies of certificates will be sent to grocers within a short time.

"Y" CLUBS ENTERTAINED

Two Y. W. C. A. clubs, the Sunbeam and the Rainbow, were most royally entertained at the home of Mrs. Roland Stevens, Lapworth, when fifty girls from all parts of London, members of these clubs, gathered at her home, enjoying games, a real camp fire, popped corn and other refreshments in keeping.

TRIBUNAL BOARDS TO HEAR "B" MEN AFTER MAY 7TH

Exemption Claims of Those Ordered for Rehearing Will Be Up Next Week.

On May 7 the first of the 1,500 B Category men ordered up for rehearing before tribunals will go before the exemption boards.

The tribunals at different parts in this military district are being notified today to be ready to receive the men to come before them.

It is expected that it will take from ten days to two weeks to hear the entire 1,500 cases.

The men whose cases are to be heard will be given an opportunity to present full evidence as to why they should be given exemption. A number will, it is understood, report for duty and waive hearings before the tribunals. Those to be heard are men whose questionnaire replies have justified the deputy registrar in ordering them for rehearing before the exemption boards.

CHAS. FERGUSON IS CHOSEN ARBITRATOR BY ST. CAR UNION

Company Has Not as Yet Made a Choice.

Charles Ferguson, secretary of the London Liberal Club has been chosen by the executive of the London Street Railwaymen's Union to act as their arbitrator on the board to settle their wage claims with the company. Manager C. B. King stated today that the company has not yet named its arbitrator. He could not say when it would.

The men sent notices to Mr. King and the minister of labor today, giving the name of their arbitrator.

At a conference between the London Street Railway and the executive of the Car Men's Union, held Monday afternoon, some minor details in connection with the working conditions, were settled to the satisfaction of all concerned. Manager C. B. King and Superintendent H. Humeston were present in the company's interest. The meeting was not a lengthy one, as there was little business to be done.

The executive committee has named its arbitrator and he has consented to act for the men. He is a local union man.

MORE "FIRSTS" ARRIVE ON LEAVE FROM FRONT

A Canadian Atlantic Port, April 30.—A large steamer having on board 707 returned officers and men of the C. E. F. and 586 civilian passengers, arrived here early this morning from overseas.

Among the military party are 24 "original firsts," bound to their homes on furlough.

MAY BEAT 1917

Building Permits' Value Will Be Respectable Figure This Month.

While the total number of building permits issued this month will hardly equal that of last year when 140 were taken out, there is a promise that the value of last year's permits may be equalled if not beaten. So far 108 permits have been issued with a value of $75,460. Last year's value was $84,000. Building Inspector A. M. Piper expects to get in a couple of fair-sized permits this afternoon before he closes his books for the month.

LOCAL NEWS

SLIGHTLY BETTER.—Nursing Sister A. Hiles, of the A. M. C., who is seriously ill in Victoria Hospital, was reported slightly better today.

SECURED CHARTER.—The official announcement has been made that the Associated Kin of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces of this city has secured a Dominion charter.

CONFINED TO CHIMNEY.—An overheated stove at the home of Alex. Ewen, 139 Maitland street, resulted in calling out the fire brigade at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon. The blaze was confined to the chimney, and no damage was done.

ANNUAL MEETING POSTPONED.—At a meeting of the Women's Liberal Club held yesterday afternoon it was decided that the annual meeting should be postponed until the last week in September, when the regular meetings will again be resumed.

SHINES UP, TOO.—Shoe shine parlors are today announcing that on and after May 1st all shoe shines will be double their present price, or in other words, the labor saving device of having one's shoes shined down town will cost a dime instead of a nickel.

2,436 LICENSES ISSUED.—Vehicle owners to the number of 2,436 have already donated their dollar to the city for the little brass tag with which to decorate the right-hand side of their vehicle. There are still over 500 delinquents on the city's estimate.

FIRE IN CLOTHES CLOSET.—Fire in a clothes closet at the home of W. J. Stewart, 513 Colborne street, brought out the firemen at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The blaze was extinguished with the aid of the chemicals. The damage was estimated at about $25.

FIRST HALF-HOLIDAY.—Tomorrow will be the first early closing day of the grocery stores of London. All grocers will close up shop at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The early Wednesday afternoon closing will continue for the next four months.

DR. DOUGALL IN CHARGE.—The noonday prayer service in St. Paul's Cathedral today was conducted by Rev. H. S. Dougall of Askin Street Methodist Church. There was a good attendance, and the service was an impressive one. They will be continued every day this week.

CHILDREN IMPROVING.—The three children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phillips, London Township, who were taken to Victoria Hospital suffering from diphtheria, are reported today as much improved. It is expected all three will recover. Two other children died from the disease last week.

SPRING SESSION OPENING.—The regular spring non-jury sittings of the county court will open before Judge Macbeth at the court house Wednesday morning. Three cases are entered for trial: Jones vs. Jones, Benson & Wilcox vs. Basters-Jackson Company, and Benson & Wilcox vs. Charlie Cheu.

VICE-PRESIDENT GOES UP.—Dr. W. M. Sroebotham, vice-president of the Irish Benevolent Society, will tomorrow night be named president to succeed Ed. Carty. Martin Donahue will be chosen secretary to succeed F. Hughes. The annual meeting will be held in the Tecumseh House at 8 o'clock.

ESCAPED UNHURT. — Falling off his wheel while riding east on Dundas street last evening Thomas Gilmour, son of George Gilmour, 392 Simcoe street, was run over by a passing bugsy. The two wheels passed over his legs, but as the vehicle was a light one and not heavily loaded, the lad was apparently not hurt.

FIRE HELPED WORK. — The roof of the coalsheds of Mann's coal yards, which are being repaired, caught fire yesterday afternoon. The firemen were on the scene almost immediately and prevented serious damage. The portion of the roof that was burnt was being torn up by workmen and the fire assisted their work considerably.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS NEAR EQUAL.—The birth and death rates in London continues a neck and neck race. The births in April totaled 106 and deaths 108. The crimp the war put in Cupid's arrow continues to show itself, there being only 42 marriages in the month. The figures for April, 1917, were: Births 100, marriages 47, deaths 91.

CERTIFICATE NEEDED.—Certificates from their orderly rooms are necessary for those soldiers who would buy railway tickets at the reduced rates allowed to men in uniform. Complaints have been received from the railway companies, according to camp orders, that the previlege has been abused, and hereafter the agents will adhere strictly to the rule which demands a certificate.

STORMY SEAS.—A resident of Sault Ste. Marie sailed into the city last evening with a large cargo of whiskey aboard. He stated to the magistrate that he was a sailor, but fancied water to sail on not to drink. He admitted, however, that he was navigating over a somewhat circuitous course when nabbed by a patrolman. "Ten dollars and costs, or 10 days in jail," said the magistrate.

HUNTS MISSING BOY.—A Grand Rapids detective is in the city today in an effort to locate George M. Graff, a 16-year-old boy of that city, who ran away from his home on March 19, accompanied by another boy, Cornelius Van Donleyen. The latter addressed a letter from Detroit on March 26, stating that Graff had crossed to Windsor, enlisted with the Canadian army, and was stationed at London. No trace had been found of the boy this afternoon.

ENTERTAINED AGED.—On Monday evenin gthe Senior Young People's Society of the Talbot Street Baptist Church held its weekly meeting at the Aged People's Home. Rev. H. H. Bingham gave a talk on the 23rd Psalm, and two special musical numbers were rendered by Messrs. E. L. Brown and E. Pierce. The rest of the evening was spent in singing some of the old hymns, which were much enjayed.

HYDRO WINS DISPUTE OVER NIAGARA POWER

Toronto, April 30.—A victory has been obtained by the Provincial Government and the Provincial Hydro-Electric Commission in the finding made by Sir William Meredith inquiring into the charges made by Sir Adam Beck against the Electric Development Company, to the effect that the company was using excess of water to develop electrical power beyond what they were entitled to under their charter.

The claim of Sir Adam Beck was that the company was not entiled to use more than 125,000 horsepower at any one particular time, whereas the company's contention was that they were within their rights when they did not average more than 125,000 horsepower.

In addition the commission finds that the price chargeable to the hydro by the Electric Development Company for the power developed from the excess of water shall not be more than $9 per horsepower.

GARDENING MEETING

The executive of the Vacant Lot Garden Association will meet this evening to discuss various questions. The alloting of land in the different wards is nearing completion. A great deal of plowing has already been done, while applications continue to be received. Ald. Manness, Holmes, Wilson and Watkinson of the different wards are having their hands full trying to secure sufficient acreage.

Lots in West London on the Reason property on the Wharncliffe road behind Stinchcombe's will be alloted to West Londoners Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Ald. Wilson, at which time applicants are asked, if possible, to be present in person or to be represented by some member of the family.

ONE MORAL CODE IN FUTURE IN BUSINESS AND SPIRITUAL LIFE

This Is Archdeacon Cody's Prediction to Synod.

URGES MILITANT CHURCH

Tells Anglicans Too Much Emphasis on Past to Neglect of Future.

The central teaching and practice of the church in the future will be that of self-sacrifice, declared Venerable Archdeacon Cody, M.A., D.D., of Toronto, who preached the opening sermon of the Synod of Huron this morning in St. Paul's Cathedral. Taking for his text the words of Christ, "No man having put his hand to the plow and looking backward is fit for the kingdom of heaven," he pictured the future spirit and work of the church in Canada. The church has played a great part in the history of the world along the lines of unification of the heterogenous races of the country and will continue to do so, the speaker said. The appeals will be made to the heroic nature in man by the church of the future. The cross will be the central theme, and men will not be led into the church by appealing to the sense of pleasure.

The regeneration of personal character will be emphasized also, the speaker said. There will be one moral code for spiritual life and business life, and reality and simplicity will be the keynotes of the creed of the future. Right ideals will be taught and the members will accept the teachings and act upon them.

Makes World Stop.

Referring to the lessons to be learned from the war, the speaker said that this great upheaval in civilization has been permitted by God in order that the whole world should be made to stop and think.

Christian civilization is being tested, and whole areas of it have been found to be pagan. One of the great tests of the church is to discard what is useless in ideals, civilization and tradition.

Wherever the church has aroused antagonism there is grave doubt of its doing faithfully the work of the master. In future it will be militant, and not dormant, and the battle line will be wherever sin is found. The world will realize that the church has arisen to its full responsibilities.

Not Museum Guardians.

The ministers were urged to become great generals in the forward movement rather than guardians of a museum.

The speaker declared that too much emphasis could be placed on the lessons of the past to the neglect of the present needs.

Officers Elected.

At the clerical breakfast held in Smallman's this morning the following officers were elected:

President—Rev. W. J. Spence, L.Th., R. D., of Holy Trinity Church, Chatham.

Secretary—Rev. F. V. Fair of Otterville.

Executive Committee—Rev. H. P. Weestgate, B. A., Sandwich; Rev. H. M. Lang-Ford of Kitchener, and Rev. A. A. Trumper of Exeter.

Rev. E. Appleyard, M.A., M. C., Rev. W. F. Brown, R.D., of St. Thomas, and Rev. W. J. Dougherty of London, were appointed a committee to combine the suggestions for the aid of the work which was brought out at the breakfast by the speakers, and present them to the synod before the session closes.

LONDONERS' YACHT "BETHALMA" TAKEN BY CANADIAN NAVY

Government Accepts Offer of Messrs. Duffield and Hyman.

WILL TRAIN NAVAL CADETS

Luxurious Steamer Is Turned Over, Without Restriction, For War Purposes.

Sir Charles Kingsmill, admiral of the Canadian naval service, has at the invitation of her owners, J. G. Duffield and Hon. C. S. Hyman, taken over the steam yacht Bethalma, for war service.

The offer was made some time ago by the two London gentlemen and recently accepted. The yacht has been laid up since war began, and will be take over tomorrow by a crew sent to Sarnia by Admiral Kingsmill. She will be used in the training of young officers for the naval service. Letters expressing deep appreciations to Messrs Duffield and Hyman have been received from Admiral Kingmill.

The Bethalma is one of the finest steam yachts in American waters. She was built twelve years ago for Dupont Clark at a cost of about $100,000, and has been the property of the Londoners for seven or eight years. She is a complete craft, and will furnish experience just as well as a larger boat.

Messrs Duffield and Hyman made no restrictions upon the offer, and permit the use of the yacht for any purpose. Capt. Belmore, who has been on the yacht for some time, and the engineer, will be members of the Government crew.

LLOYD GEORGE RESENTS CRITICISMS REGARDING CHANGES IN AIR STAFF

LONDON, April 29.—There was intense interest in today's debate in the House of Commons over the recent resignations from leading positions in the air forces, during which Lord Hugh Cecil and others urged that Major-General Trenchard, former chief of the air staff, be reinstated in that office.

Replying to the criticisms Lloyd George complained and repudiated as offensive the suggestion that amateur strategists in the cabinet had been trying to advise General Trenchard.

The premier announced that Lieut.-General Smuts has been appealed to to investigate the dispute between General Trenchard and Baron Rothermere, brother of Lord Northcliffe, who resigned as air minister on Thursday last, and that General Smuts had arrived at the conclusion that General Trenchard's qualities were better suited to leadership than to staff duty.

It was added by the premier that General Trenchard's services would be retained in a position of considerable power in the air forces.

RAISE $15,000 FOR RED TRIANGLE FUND

STRATFORD, April 29.—At a representative meeting of citizens tonight it was unanimously resolved to raise $15,000 by voluntary subscription for the red triangle Y.M.C.A. overseas work during the three days' campaign, May 7, 8 and 9. D. Ferguson was appointed chairman of the committee; George McLaugan, vice-chairman; S. B. Martin, secretary; and J. Davidson, treasurer. Central advertising and ward committees were apointed and all classes of the city will be thoroughly canvassed.

BURIAL AT BLENHEIM.

ST. THOMAS, April 29. — The remains of Mrs. Mildred Blakely, aged 27, wife of Gilbert Blakely, were taken to Blenheim today for interment. Besides her husband she leaves two daughters, Mildred and Freda, and an infant son.

CONNECTING UP OF L. E. POWER USERS BY HYDRO GOES ON

Despite Failure to Get Drayton Order No Bar.

MAY NEVER BE ISSUED

Public Comment Points to the Fact That Failure Would Help Hydro Dept.

London's power situation remains unchanged. The hydro department continues to connect up former customers of the London Electric Company, and install meters. The London Electric has just completed disconnecting its former domestic customers and removing the meters. With the exception of a few "strays" the whole 1,400 homes formerly served by the London Electric service are now disconnected. Six men are at work continuing the dismantling of the power plant.

Sir Henry Drayton, Dominion power controller, has not been heard from. The general opinion is that Sir Henry has not yet made an order for the local plant to operate. His deputy, Mr. Smith, told officials here that he would make his report to Sir Henry on the London Electric plant, and it would then be up to Sir Henry as to what would be the result.

"There is a strong impression in the city that Sir Adam Beck and other hydro officials would just as soon have Sir Henry forget about the London Electric plant and rustle up 1,000-horsepower at the Falls to send on to London. The reason for this is easily understood. It is freely admitted that from a purely business standpoint this would be good for the hydro commission. The revenue from the 1,000-horsepower, now supplied to the street railway with a minimum of overhead would be greatly decreased when broken up among 1,400 customers, as would be the case if London Electric domestic consumers are signed up. Also why give up the 1,000-horsepower customer, where there is a chance of retaining it, and getting the others as well? It would certainly swell the hydro receipts.

The hydro department has worked hard and long to put the London Electric out of business. From a business point of view it is not sorry now that the privately-owned company is out of business, and if there is any way out of the present situation, without the operation of the London Electric plant, the general opinion is that hydro officials will grasp it. Knowing these facts, it is being freely asked about the streets if this has anything to do with the delay in getting the London Electric plant in operation.

Daylight saving is helping out the situation. It has shortened the hydro peak materially, and will continue to make it still shorter as the days grow longer, so that each day makes the domestic situation a great deal easier for hydro to handle. By a month it is expected the hydro department will have all the London Electric customers connected, but it will not be much longer until that when residents of the city will be going to bed before dark, according to Manager E. V. Buchanan.

BRANDS TALK

Side-stepping the issues of the day and devoting time to evangelizing an anachronism might be easy and pleasant, but neither heroic nor true to Christian idealism.

Recalling the belief of the early church, that it was to see the end of world history in its own generation, Dr. Matthews referred to the similar situation met today as a result of the convulsion of the war. "In some cases in our country," he said, "teaching along this line has become so virulent as to be anti-patriotic, undermining confidence in the inevitableness of the future. If it isn't distinctly pro-German propaganda, it is most effectively pro-German. The man who does not believe God can go on in the future as in the past, and who says that history is to end and civilization be destroyed is dodging the evidences of the inevitableness of history. He is nothing more nor less than a theological quitter.

Three attitudes were commented upon towards present conditions, (1) that of the "master of my fate, captain of my soul" type, strong, but not Christian; (2) the type termed by Dr. Matthews the "sister-brother type," which says: "Isn't it dreadful. Let us go aside and weep about it," designated "not Christian, but plain yellow," and, finally, the genuinely Christian attitude, which determines to carry the gospel into the forces which are making tomorrow.

Thrilled by British Labor.

Dwelling first upon the labor movement, the speaker declared he could not read the platform of the Labor party in England without thrilling over its "genuinely British optimism and great forward sweep of expectation of giving help to men in the future."

"I don't know," he continued, "that it is necessary to force those concerned in the movement into ecclesiastical uniformity. What is essential is to bring into that constructive work Christian idealism, the Christian spirit."

Introducing the "woman question" and the new place of woman in the economic and political world, the speaker declared that the curse of civilization had been that women had been regarded as the third in the triad, "infants, imbeciles and women." The readjustment of the relations of the sexes economically and politically, Dr. Matthews declared to be a movement requiring the maximum of Christian guidance.

Too Much Physiology.

Concerning the evangelization of the science movement, Dr. Matthews declared that it is the scientists who require evangelization. Too much study of physiology was blamed for the materialism of the German scientists.

"Kultur without piety," he said, "is an inevitable movement towards materialism. The scientific movement in Germany has eliminated Jesus Christ. There may be a Deutschen Gott, but he acts exactly like my devil."

Calling attention to the fact that the democracy found in the world today has been patterned on plans draughted by the Anglo-Saxon race he defined as follows his ideal for democracy, "The rights of Englishmen expanded by Christian idealism into the rights of men."

Oppose Teachers' Separation.

Several recommendations in the report presented by the convener on religious education, Rev. W. H. Burgess, evoked discussion which proved illuminating. Prominent among these was the recommendation that Sunday school teachers be released from all other church duties in order to devote themselves more efficiently to religious education. While strong arguments in favor of this position were advanced, the majority of the synod opposed it on the grounds that the setting apart in this way would result in greater cleavage between the church and school and also narrow the interests of the teachers.

Strong emphasis was laid by several speakers on the need of the church and challenge of the times to education of the older boys and girls and young people for Christian leadership.

Objects To Fare Levy.

Proceedings were enlivened by the objection made by the clerk of the London Presbytery, Rev. W. M Martin, to the action or a committee appointed to take up the question of payment of railway fares of members of synod, in what he termed "exceeding their powers" by levying taxation, in order to raise the money for meeting the expenses this year.

Rev. S. H. Eastman, who presented the report, was backed largely by the synod in his view that the course was necessary, and had been accepted by all the presbyteries, in view of the action of the synod a year ago. Mr. Martin disapproved on democratic and unconstitutional grounds, and will take up the question with the general assembly.

Dr. Shailer Matthews is addressing an open session of the synod in the First Presbyterian Church this evening.

Chatham Pastor Moderator.

Dr. Henry Dickie, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Chatham, was elected moderator of the London and Hamilton Presbyterian Synod at the opening meeting of the sessions last night at the First Presbyterian Church here.

The only other person nominated was Rev. J. S. Hardy of Ashfield. Dr. Dickie was elected by a small majority. In a brief address following his election as moderator Dr. Dickie thanked those present for the honor conferred upon him.

Rev. Capt. J. V. Paulin, pastor of the Rosedale Presbyterian Church, Toronto, a returned chaplain who was wounded at Vimy Ridge, was the principal speaker of the evening.

The speaker dwelt upon the subject of the war in all its phases, and related a number of his experiences at the front.

Praises British Navy.

"If anyone has ever been deluded as to the object of the Germans, surely all such delusions are now dispelled," said the speaker. "The war is the great absorbing subject, and is the only subject worthy of consideration today. Upon the outcome of this war everything in our life depends."

The speaker paid a glowing tribute to the British navy. "The only thing that has ever saved us from utter defeat is the British navy," said Capt. Paulin. "The spirit of the men of the navy today is the spirit of Nelson, and always will be."

The men of the mercantile marine were deserving of greater praise than had ever been bestowed upon them.

Capt. Paulin stated he was privileged to see the first zeppelin brought down in the city of London. Raids by the German gothas on London were marked by scenes indescribable.

The sight of the trained men embarking for France and the wounded men being returned impressed one with the horrors of war.

Relating his first experience in the front line trenches, Capt. Paulin said that the Canadians had shown themselves to be the best soldiers in France. "The more I saw of the men over there, the more I admired them. When the story of this great war is written it will be the men of the rank and file whose names will be glorified." The morale of the troops at the front was almost better than the morale of those at home.

Canadians Moral Soldiers.

The circumstances under which Vimy Ridge was taken by the Canadians were outlined by Captain Paulin. "There is a great word phrase in the army overseas, those two words 'carry on.' The boys overseas are calling to the folks at home to 'carry on.'

"We have heard a great deal about the morals of our soldiers overseas, but my experience has been that the best predominates in the hearts of our boys overseas.

"The boys at the front are fighting to make the world safe for democracy, but if this object is to be attained we at home must practice self-denial and sacrifice ourselves.

"We are in this war until the end, and until victory perches upon our banners. Our cause is a righteous cause, and we are bound to win," said Captain Paulin in conclusion.

R. R. COMMITTEE TALKS OVER NEW FALLS BRIDGE

Ottawa, April 30.—There was considerable discussion in the railway committee of the Commons this morning on the bill to incorporate the Canadian Niagara Bridge Company, which proposes to construct a new international bridge across the Niagara River from some convenient point between Chippewa and Fort Erie on the Canadian side of the river in the State of New York.

The discussion related almost entirely to the location of the bridge.

Mr. Kilmer, counsel for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, said the commission would not object to the bridge provided that it was not placed within two miles south of the hydro-development works at Chippewa Falls.

E. D. Cahill of Hamilton, counsel for the company, agreed to this proposal.

Col. Currie pointed out that if the American authorities insist on a high level bridge it would have to be located at a point where it would be possible to have long approaches at this point. Mr. Cahill, on behalf of the promoters, accepted Mr. Kilmer's suggestion that the bridge should not be within two miles of Chippewa Falls.

When the clauses fixing the capital stock of the company and the head office at Hamilton were reached Mr. Cahill told the committee that the bridge would cost approximately $7,000,000.

Mr. Cahill said it was proposed to provide for general traffic, but the company desired to provide for the railway traffic first.

After some discussion, the committee decided that the way for general traffic must be provided when the bridge is built.

LIBERTY LOAN SCORE

Seventy-Six Per Cent Taken as Last Week of Campaign Opens.

Washington, April 30.—Seventy-six per cent of the third Liberty loan has been taken as the last week of the campaign opens. The total for the country is now $2,283,301,850.

Large financial interests affected by war revenue taxes, it is stated, are lagging in their purchases of bonds. The extent to which this feeling influences the bond campaign is indicated by numerous statements coming to the treasury department from all the large financial centres.

At one time it was Secretary McAdoo's hope that there might be an oversubscription of between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000.

New York City and New York State are still disappointing the country in failing to keep up the pace proportionately with other parts.

SHEEP FOR WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, April 30.—Sheep will be grazing on the White House lawn within a few days. President Wilson today purchased twelve thoroughbred Shropshires to eat the grass now wasted on the big yard of the executive mansion. The sheep were selected by Dr. Grayson, the president's naval aide and physician, who is quite a stock fancier.

ANZAC RECRUITING DRIVE.

Melbourne, April 30.—The new recruiting campaign will be inaugurated on May 6 with public meetings in all state capitals of Australia.

The governor of the Commonwealth bank, referring to the success of the war loan, says that hitherto Australia has loaned £147,000,000 for war purposes.

CANADIAN'S GIFT OF GERMAN HELMET HAS SOLD $375,000 BONDS

Third Time Sold, Trophy Brings $250,000 In New York.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The sum of $250,000 in Liberty Loan Bonds was subscribed by a banking syndicate here today, as the price of a German spiked helmet trophy of the battlefield of Ypres.

When the syndicate immediately turned the helmet back to the loan committee for re-sale, it came into the committee's possession for the fourth time, and now has a bond value equivalent to $375,000.

Lieutenant Sherriss of the Canadian Black Watch, first gave it to the committee. J. P. Morgan subscribed $25,000 worth of bonds to own it and after he restored it to the committee it was purchased by Peter Doelger for $100,000 subscription, and Mr. Doelger in turn gave it back to the committee.

WANDERED FROM ASYLUM.

ST. THOMAS, April 29.—Alexander Hamilton, who was arrested in the M. C. R. yards today, was later found to be from the Hospital for the Insane at London. He said he wanted to visit his brother. He will be returned to London.

FINANCIAL REPORT OF ANGLICAN SYNOD MOST SATISFACTORY

Much Business Attended To at Meeting of Delegates.

FINE ADDRESSES GIVEN

Many District Churches Ask Permission to Augment Buildings.

Two splendid addresses were delivered by Venerable Archdeacon Cody, M.A., LL.D., Toronto, to the clergy in St. Paul's Cathedral Monday evening in connection with the synod which opens today. "Personal Life" and "The Ministry of the Clergy" were the subjects of the addresses. Bishop Williams and Rev. Canon Tucker assisted in the service. There was a good attendance of clergymen.

The executive committee of the synod met Monday afternoon in Cronyn Hall for the transaction of general business. On account of the change in the synod's financial year the report which was presented covered only eight months. The financial statement was a satisfactory one, ever. A total of $36,856 was collected for all purposes. Nearly $8,000 was paid to widows and orphans of deceased clergy. Practically the same amount was paid in pensions to superannuated clergymen, and nearly $2,500 was paid to the clergy who have seen more than ten years service in priests orders and whose incomes are less than $1,000.

The synod holds in trust $943,906 for various purposes.

Two-Thirds Not Received.

The committee deplored the fact that two-thirds of the voluntary contributions towards the work of the church in the diocese is not received by the secretary-treasurer until the last month of the year. To meet the current expenses in connection with the widows' and orphans' fund and other obligations that have to be met monthly, a considerable portion of the funds held by the synod have to be kept on hand. This means a loss in revenue of several hundred dollars each year.

The committee recommended that all parishes adopt the duplex envelope system and send in monthly the contributions received for diocesan purposes.

Rev. W. J. Doherty, secretary-treasurer of the committee, was voted an increase in salary of $400 per year. Much satisfaction was expressed in his work.

Twelve tenders for the investment of the trust funds were offered, the tender of the Trusts and Guarantee Company of Toronto being accepted conditionally.

The parish at Mitchell was granted permission to sell the old rectory and buy a new one. The vestry at Fordwich will add a basement to the church. The Listowel vestry was given leave to sell the old rectory, and a new one will eventually be built. Leamington parish will also secure a new rectory, part of the funds to be raised by mortgage. St. Paul's Church, Wingham, was granted permission to raise money by a mortgage. Grace Church, Brantford, was granted permission to build a parish hall. Wiarton A.Y.P.A. requested permission to use the organ fund to make repairs to the organ, which was granted.

Granted Superannuation.

Rev. J. Hale of Wardsville was granted superannuation.

The church at Elsinore was closed and this assessment will be assumed by the parish at Lake Aaron.

The petition of Holland Centre for a reduction in the assessment was left with Bishop Williams for investigation. A commissioner will be sent to investigate.

The parish at Otterville notified the committee that it had increased its pastor's stipend by $150. The congratulations of the committee were extended the Otterville congregation.

DUKE COMING TO LONDON JUNE 4TH, LEAVES HERE 6TH

The Duke of Devonshire, Canada's governor-general, will arrive in London on the evening of June 4 and spend June 5 here, leaving on the morning of the 6th for the east. A civic and military reception will be prepared.

UNUSUAL ART WINDOWS

Decorations at Kinsman Hall Attracting Considerable Attention.

Two cloisonne windows, representing the King and Queen, are attractions which are expected to bring many Londoners as visitors to the new quarters of the Associated Kin on Ridout street. The windows are composed of beads and fine wire, the cloisonne art being Japanese, which for a long time was kept entirely in the hands of Japanese royalty.

These windows, composed of many brilliant colors, are handsome indeed. The jewels in the crown are brilliants of great excellence, and true to color.

George Willings of Toronto has long been interested in the work of the Associated Kin, and on hearing of its move into larger quarters, made these windows his contribution towards the decoration of the new building, sending them direct to Gordon Wright.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DIES OF PNEUMONIA.

NAIRN, April 29.—James McLaughlin, aged 60, a life-long resident of this district, died at his home at Beechwood today, after an illness of only a few days with pneumonia. Besides his wife he leaves two sons, Daniel and James, and one daughter Christina. Alex. of Beechwood and John of Dawn Township are brothers. The funeral will be held on Wednesday.

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS & VARNISHES

Home Beauty that means Home Economy

Old Furniture—like old friends—has a charm all its own. So—if you have a table, dresser, bureau, bookcase or old chairs handed down from great grandmother's day—cherish them; and protect and restore them to their former beauty, with

SHERWIN-WILLIAMS VARNISH STAINS

They lend their own beautiful rich undertones to the fine old Furniture, that needs but the proper finish to look its best. There is a full family of colors to duplicate all hardwood effects.

MAR-NOT, For Floors. Made for floors—to be walked on and danced on, if you like—to have water spilled on it, and furniture dragged over it. MAR-NOT is tough, durable, absolutely waterproof. Dries in 8 hours, rubs to a dull finish, pale in color, particularly desirable for fine hardwood floors.

SCAR-NOT, For Furniture and Woodwork, has been the means of converting thousands of women to the idea of protection in the home. They use SCAR-NOT to make their furniture fresh and bright. Even boiling water does not injure this varnish.

REXPAR, For outside work—doors, etc. —it is absolutely waterproof and will not turn white no matter how long exposed.

FARMERS PLANNING RECORD PRODUCTION IN WESTMINSTER TP.

Marked Increase in Cultivated Land All Through District.

LAMBETH, April 29.—There is a marked increase in cultivated land throughout Westminster Township, and if weather conditions are favorable this year will see a record production all through the district. The showers today and yesterday were just what the farmers and gardeners wanted, and everything is in first-class shape.

James Kelly's farm north of the village has been purchased by Nelson Bilyea of London. He is repairing the house and buildings.

Constable Joseph Bourne is making plans to prevent speeding through the village by motorists. There have been many complaints lately regarding speed artists, and several serious accidents have been narrowly averted.

The following officers and teachers have been elected by the Methodist Sunday School: Superintendent, John Currie; assistant, Wm. Eral; secretary, Miss Theda Walker; assistant, Miss Blanche Bainard; treasurer, Rev. Walter Rigsby; librarians, Ruth Davidson and Ethel Winters; organist, Ruth Davidson; assistant, Hope Finch; teachers, Thomas Mickleboro, Mrs. Wesley Woodhull, Mrs. C. R. Walker, Miss Stella Mann, Miss Cornell, Miss Eva Vanderlinder, Miss Doris End, Miss Lily Robinson, Mrs. Fred Boyes, Mrs. David Lowns, Joseph Mitchell, F. Boyes, W. Home Wrinkle Recipe— Astonishing Results

Such startling, sensational results come from a very simple, harmless home-made wrinkle-remover, there's no excuse now for anyone wearing those hateful marks of age, illness or worry. No need fooling with worthless pastes, creams, nor "skin foods" which don't feed the skin. No need rubbing, massaging, steaming — senseless methods which expand and loosen skin and underlying tissue, aggravating a wrinkled flabby condition. Better, saner, surer, is the scientific saxolite formula. Thousands have successfully tried it—thousands freed of wrinkles, enlarged pores, sagging cheeks, double chin—thousands younger looking, happier!

All you need do is to dissolve one ounce of powdered saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel, and bathe your face in this. The effect is almost magical. Even deepest crow's feet completely, quickly vanish. Skin becomes firm, smooth, fresh-looking—bears no trace of treatment except that of enhanced beauty. Get these inexpensive ingredients at your druggist's and try this marvelous saxolite lotion today.—Advt.

INTERESTING TRIAL IS BEGUN IN PARIS; SEVEN DEFENDANTS

Charges Are Espionage and Communication With the Enemy.

PARIS, April 29.—The trial opened here, today, of persons involved in the affairs of the Bonnet Rouge, a newspaper said to have had German financial backing and to have been engaged in propaganda for the enemy.

Colonel Voyer, who presided at the Bolo Pasha trial, and Lieutenant Mornet, who represented the Government in those proceedings, filled the same offices today, when the case was heard before the third war council.

The reading of the indictment occupied half an hour. The seven persons who are charged with espionage and communication with the enemy, listened without showing any emotion, with the exception of M. Marcen assistant manager of the Bonnet Rouge, who visited America in July and August, 1916. This defendant sneered contemptuously when he heard himself described by the prosecutor as a "drunkard."

British Fleet Waits to Take Army From France Is Hun Yarn

LONDON, April 29. — A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm says the Aftonbladet publishes, and one or two other papers repeat, a telegram from Zurich, by way of Berlin, to the effect that "an entire fleet of British transports is waiting in the channel to take the British army home in case of need."

On inquiry of the admiralty, Reuter's agency was informed that the statement contained in the aforementioned telegram "is absolutely devoid of any foundation whatever."

DUBLIN'S MAYOR ASKS GOVT. FOR PASSPORTS TO VISIT WASHINGTON

Dublin, April 30.—The lord mayor of Dublin, at the resumed conference of Nationalists and Sinn Feiners last night, announced that he had received a reply from the British foreign office to his request that he be given passports to enable himself and his secretaries to go to Washington to lay the case of the Irish organizations opposing conscription before the American Government.

He was directed to make his application through the office of the secretary for Ireland, where it would receive attention.

The situation regarding conscription was reported as unchanged.

Local committees were instructed to continue their organization work. A standing committee of the conference was appointed.

The London Daily Mail said last Saturday that it had learned the lord mayor of Dublin had abandoned his proposed visit to Washington.

BRAND NEW AMERICAN STEAMER GOES UNDER

NEW YORK, April 29.—The American steamship Westerly, one of the first of the new ships built by the Emergency Fleet Corporation, was sunk in a collision yesterday off the French coast, according to information received in shipping circles here today. All aboard were saved.

The Westerly, a vessel of about 5,000 tons, launched on the Pacific coast in February, was returning to the United States after having completed the first half of her maiden trip to Europe. No details of the collision were received.

MACLEAN'S BUDGET WILL BE DELIVERED IN COMMONS TODAY

Debate Will Likely Last Several Days.

MACMASTER CHIEF CRITIC

Frank Glass Has Resolution to Encourage Flax Growing.

OTTAWA, April 29. — The first Monday sitting of the session devoted to Government (rather than private members') business witnessed the advancement of a considerable number of Government bills of minor importance another stage. The order paper of the House is becoming thin, and apart from the budget, the Government's railway bills, the remaining main estimates, and the supplementaries still to be brought down, there is not much business to be disposed of.

There is considerable speculation tonight as to the probable announcements to be made tomorrow by Hon. A. K. MacLean, in connection with his first budget deliverance, but as usual the Government is closely guarding its secrets as to the extent of any new taxation proposals that have been decided upon.

It is expected that the budget debate will last for several days. A. R. McMaster, Montreal, Liberal member for Brome, is likely to be the chief Opposition critic of the Government's financial proposals.

After consideration of Government bills tonight there was a debate on a resolution moved by Frank Glass, East Middlesex, advocating the encouragement of the flax-growing industry of the Dominion, in view of the closing down of sources of supply of flax fibre from Russia and Belgium. The question was brought up on a motion to go into supply.

Customs War Tax.

Replying to a question by T. McNutt, Hon. A. L. Sifton, minister of customs, said that under the 7½ per cent customs war tax during the year 1917, customs collections had amounted to $15,018,562, as compared with $37,830,427 in 1916, and $25,256,587 in 1915. Of this amount $950,715 was collected on imported agricultural implements in 1917, $461,974 in 1916, and $247,160 in 1915.

Hon. T. A. Crerar informed Mr. Proulx that it was the intention of the department of agriculture to appoint five egg inspectors for the Dominion.

Hon. J. A. Calder informed Mr. Blair that Rev. J. B. H. Giroux of Girouard, Alberta; Rev. J. A. Normandeau, Edmonto, Alberta; and Rev. M. Boucher, St. Albert, Alberta, have in recent years been employed in connection with the work of immigration and colonization.

In answer to the question, "Is it the intention of the Government to continue to employ clergymen and priests in this work?" the minister replied, "Clergymen and priests will be continued in the present work unless when reorganization of the department of immigration and colonization is made it is found advisable to dispense with their services."

Hon. Martin Burrell informed Mr. Proulx that the present strength of the Dental Corps in Canada is 457 of all ranks. Five officers have been given the rank of lieutenant-colonel west of the Ottawa River, and none east of there, he stated, in reply to another question.

To Encourage Flax-Growing.

On a motion to go into supply, Mr. Frank Glass, Middlesex, brought up the question of flax-growing. He urged the desirability of the Government giving consideration to the encouragement of the industry and placing it on a stable basis. It was a subject, Mr. Glass said, which was entitled to the most serious consideration. Production of flax fibre had been drawn to the attention of the nations of the world in view of the increased use of it for war purposes. The Dominion Government should use every means possible to increase the growth of flax for fibre. Owing to conditions in Europe, sources of supply had been very much reduced. The food board of Great Britain was so strongly impressed with the necessity of increasing production that it had appropriated some ten million dollars for this purpose, and the British Government had under its control two large areas of ten thousand acres for the production of flax fibre.

Mr. Glass indicated that competition from cheap labor in Belgium and Russia had been largely responsible for the fact that flax-growing did not occupy a foremost position in Canada. Until recently modern machinery for pulling the flax had not been utilized; but these conditions were now remedied. Ontario seed was practically the only seed used in Ireland for the production of fibre and the Belfast linen mills were growing flax for their own purposes in Ontario.

GERMANY DEMANDS USE OF DUTCH ROADS FOR MOVING WAR MATERIAL

Amsterdam, April 30.—Germany demands from Holland, says the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin, the right to send war material over the Limsburg railways to Antwerp, the right to send foodstuffs for shipment from Antwerp, and the renewal of treaties relating to the importation of sand and gravel.

"As Holland," the newspaper adds, "recently yielded to Anglo-American pressure, she must grant these conditions to redress the balance."

From the above dispatch it is apparent that Holland and Germany have not yet reached an agreement concerning transport through Holland. A dispatch from The Hague to the London Daily Mail on Monday, reported that Holland had yielded to Germany's demands concerning transport, and the supply of sand and gravel. It was added that it was understood that the amount of sand and gravel would be limited, and would be for non-military purposes only. There has been no official confirmation of the reported agreement.

SHIPBUILDING OFFICIAL TO PLEAD FOR WORKERS

Quebec, April 29.—George T. Davis, head of the Davis Shipbuilding Plant at Levis, Que., has left for Ottawa to appear before Chief Justice Duff, in connection with the exemption of the eleven hundred men employed in the ship building yard at Levis. Mr. Davis claims that if his builders are not exempted from military service he will have to close his yards, which would be a hard blow to the industry.

ATTEMPT TO GET LEAVE FOR YOUTHFUL VETERAN

Quebec, April 29.—Steps are being taken to obtain from the front in France a few weeks' leave for Hector Fraser, a young French-Canadian from Cape St. Ignace, who has done three years' service at the front, and is only eighteen, being barely fifteen years old when he enlisted with the very first Canadian overseas battalions.

QUEEN MARY ADDRESSES TOUCHING MESSAGE TO MEN WHO ARE FIGHTING

LONDON, April 29.—Queen Mary has sent the following message to the army, navy and air forces:

"I send this message to tell every man how much we, the women of the British Empire, at home, watch and pray for you during the long hours of these days of stress and endurance.

"Our pride in you is immeasurable, our hope is unbounded, and our trust is absolute. You are fighting in the cause of righteousness and freedom; fighting to defend the children and women of our land from the horrors that have overtaken other countries; fighting for our very existence as a people at home and across the seas—you are offering your all, you hold back nothing, and day by day you have shown a love so great that no man can have greater.

"We on our part send forth with full hearts and unfaltering will the lives we hold most dear. We, too, are striving in all ways possible to make the war victorious. I know that I am expressing what is felt by thousands of wives and mothers when I say that we are determined to help one another in keeping our homes ready against your glad home-coming. In God's name, we bless you and by His help we, too, will do our best."

CALL FOR MORE UNITS ALL FRENCH-CANADIAN

Premier Does Not Think There Is Material for Brigade.

OTTAWA, April 29.—On the orders of the day being called in parliament, Mr. Du Tremblay asked if it was the intention of the Government to organize a French-Canadian brigade.

Sir R. Borden replied that the minister of militia would have a statement to make at a later date. "I do not think," Sir Robert added, "there is material available at present to organize a French-Canadian brigade. The suggestion, however, has been made that there should be more units at the front of strictly French-Canadian personnel."

WOULD GIVE RAILROADERS BETTER CHANCE TO VOTE

OTTAWA, April 29.—Mr. Keefer introduced a bill in the House of Commons this afternoon to amend the Dominion elections act. The bill seeks to provide facilities for railwaymen to have their votes registered on election day. At the present time, Mr. Keefer explained in presenting his bill, a very large number of railwaymen are disfranchised owing to their employment.

AMERICAN AND BRITISH LABOR ENDEAVORING TO HARMONIZE THEIR VIEWS

LONDON, April 29.—The delegates of the American Federation of Labor who are visiting England with the American labor mission had a conference today with members of the executive body of the Trades Union Congress, the parliamentary labor committees and the national labor party. The object was to ascertain how far American labor was in agreement with the war aims of British labor.

Arthur Henderson and others addressed the conference. The conference adjourned until tomorrow to give the Americans an opportunity to consider the points raised.

CLANDEBOYE WOMAN RECOVERING RAPIDLY

CHATHAM, April 29.—Miss Leona O'Neil of Clandeboye, who was so severely injured Sunday when the auto in which she was riding was struck by a street car, is much improved. She is in St. Joseph's Hospital, and it was believed to be out of danger. Mrs. Faubert, her cousin, who was also injured, is still in hospital. The full extent of the injuries of the two women will not be known for a few days.

OFFICIALS RETURN TO U. S. FROM RUSSIA

A PACIFIC PORT, April 29.—A trans-Pacific liner reached port this morning with 340 saloon passengers and a large number in the steerage from the Orient. Among the first-class passengers were Lady Muriel Paget and fifteen members of the Anglo-Russian Red Cross hospital unit, en route from the revolution-stricken country to the United Kingdom. Another large party was composed of fifteen railroadmen from the United States, who are returning to Philadelphia, and Butler Wright, counsellor of the United States embassy at Petrograd, en route to Washington.

China Sending Fighting Troops Now to France

Forces Already on Way to the Battlefront—40,000 There by Early Summer.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, April 29.—Capt. Ting Chia Chen, military counsellor to the president of China, arrived here today on a French steamship. He said that China now is sending troops to France to fight for the Allies.

Capt. Ting has been in Europe as a military observer in the war theatre for his government.

"It is true that China has troops now on the way to the battlefront, and it is the calculation of the Peking Government to have no fewer than 40,000 fighting men with the French by early summer," he said tonight. "I have just left France, and there remained behind me ten other Chinese officers, whose duty it will be to select training camps in France for Chinese troops."

Edw. Shortt New Irish Secretary, Succeeding Duke

LONDON, April 29. — Edward Shortt, member of the House of Commons for Newcastle-on-Tyne, has been appointed chief secretary for Ireland, to succeed Henry Edward Duke, who has held that post since August 1916.

Edward Shortt is a Liberal, born in 1872. He married in 1890 to the daughter of the late A. G. Scott of Valparaiso. According to the Daily Mail Mr. Duke had been anxious to retire from the office of chief secretary for a long time, and had only been awaiting the appointment of a suitable successor.

ONTARIO ARSON GANG DOING JOBS FOR $200, SAYS THE FIRE MARSHAL

TORONTO, April 29.—The startling statement that there is in Ontario a gang who will commit arson for the small sum of $200 was the statement made on oath today by Deputy Provincial Fire Marshal George F. Lewis, during his examination by Justice Maston, commissioner appointed by the Ontario Government to inquire into fire insurance rates and conditions. The commission, which has been in existence since August, 1916, resumed today after an intermission.

Mr. Lewis also declared that the reason for so many cases of arson was over-insurance, and the reason for over-insurance was the fact that insurance agents were too numerous.

As a means of securing more efficient fire-fighting forces in the cities of the province Mr. Lewis suggested to the commission the establishment of a central school in Toronto for the training of firemen. Men from this school could, he said, be sent out to other towns and cities as chiefs and firemen.

Fire Marshal Heaton, who was the first witness examined, told the commissioner that Ontario barns to the value of $660,000 had been burned by lightning last year, and he believed a large part of this loss could be obviated through the use of lightning rods

New Brunswick Man's Tribute to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

After Years of Suffering Mr. George Rabits Tells How He Found Relief In Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Upper Rexton, Kent Co., N. B., April 29.—(Special.)—"I believe that only for Dodd's Kidney Pills I would be dead."

That statement was made in all sincerity by Mr. George Rabits, a well-known and respected resident here. And those who know the suffering he has endured are not surprised that Mr. Rabits is so enthusiastic in his praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I suffered greatly from urinary trouble," Mr. Rabits says, in speaking of his troubles. "I had cramps in my muscles, and when I worked all day I hardly knew how to sit down at night.

"I could only get to sleep for a little while at a time, and then I had all kinds of bad dreams.

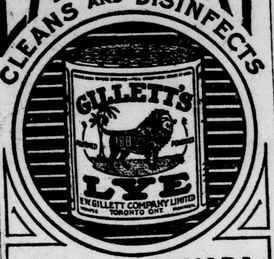

"I was weak and nervous, with a heavy, dragging feeling across my back. I could see specks floating in front of my eyes, and I was often dizzy.

"I tried doctors, but there was no help for me, so I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have used about twenty boxes, and I am almost cured. I think they are the best medicine I have ever struck, and my wife finds them a wonderful pill. She says she will never be without Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Mr. Rabits' troubles all came from his kidneys. If you have any one of them, try Dodd's Kidney Pills, or ask your neighbors about them.

REGISTRARS CHOSEN FOR FIVE RIDINGS OF THIS DISTRICT

South Wellington, Two Waterloos and Two Perths Are Decided.

OTTAWA, April 29.—The board of registration which will take the man and woman power census of all persons between the age of 16 and 60, is making rapid headway with its work, under the guidance of Hon. Mr. Robertson, chairman of the board. The registration will in probability take place on a Saturday towards the end of June. The superintendents of registration have all been named, while a considerable number of the registrars have already been selected by the superintendent and the selections have been approved by the board.

The board states it is desirable that all persons who are able to offer voluntary service in assisting deputy registrars on the day of registration s' uld offer their service to the registrar for their electoral district. As registration day will probably be on a Saturday, it is hoped that school boards will offer to the registrars the use of school buildings in which to take the registration.

Registrars so far appointed include the following:

South Wellington, H. Westoby, Guelph; South Waterloo, T. J. Fleming, Galt; North Waterloo, W. H. Tesson, Kitchener; North Perth, Thomas Magwood, Stratford; South Perth, Robert Butcher, St. Marys.

LONDON AND ST. THOMAS HAVE CHEAPER FLOUR THAN OTHER CENTRES

Consumption of Flour in February Higher Than January.

OTTAWA, April 29.—The cost of living branch presents to the minister of labor a statement with tables of the cost of bread, in the principal cities of the Dominion for the month of February.

The consumption of flour for February shows 68,472 barrels, while for January the tables show 71,991 barrels, but when the three extra days are taken into account the figures for consumption would amount to over 75,000 barrels for February, so that the consumption appears to have increased.

The cost of flour to the bakers in January was $10.61 an average of $10.67 per barrel, while in February the figures stands at $10.65, practically the same.

The cost of bread for the Dominion is about stationary: January cost standing at 6.81c per pound and February at 6.85c, or a very slight increase of one twenty-fifth cent of a pound. There were fourteen centres which show fractional increases, while seven show slight declines, and two groups are stationary. Ha ilton, Brantford and St. Catharines show fractional increases.

The cost of flour per barrel in London is given as $10.51; Brantford, $10.77; Hamilton, $10.91; Toronto, $10.75; Montreal, $10.86; New Brunswick points, $11.09; Nova Scotia, $11.42; St. Thomas, $10.46; Owen Sound, $11.50; Chatham, $11.25; Winnipeg, $10.26; Calgary, $9.68.

The cost of producing bread various from 5.917c per pound in Kingston, Belleville and Peterboro, to 7.650c in St. John, N. B. In London the cost is given as 6.536c per pound; Hamilton, 6.794c; Brantford, 6.321c.

URUGUAY INSISTS ON REPLY FROM GERMANY

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay April 29.—The Uruguayan Government has again requested from Germany a definite reply to the query, previously forwarded, as to whether Germany considers a state of war existing between the two countries. Germany's answer to Uruguay's first request evades this point, but in the meantime the Uruguayan foreign minister declines to discuss the matter.

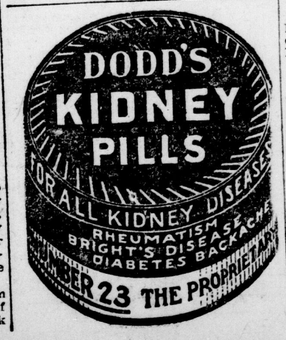

CODE MADE MORE RIGID ON MORAL OFFENSES

Joy-Riding Will Bring Heavy Penalty—Consent Age Raised.

OTTAWA, April 29.—The minister of justice in the House of Commons today presented a bill to amend the criminal code in regard to offences against morals. The bill proposes to raise the age of consent from 14 to 16 and makes it a criminal offense for persons not married, to register at a hotel or boarding house as man and wife. The bill also provides an increased penalty for joy riders in automobiles taking a car and then abandoning it.

HOTEL FIRE LOSS $60,000.

REDCLIFFE, Alta., April 29.—At 4 o'clock this morning the Laurel Hotel and contents were destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The loss is estimated at $60,000 partially covered by insurance. About 30 guests were aroused from their beds when the alarm was given and escaped, only one man being injured. He jumped from a fire escape and broke his leg.

TORONTO-NIAGARA RIGHT-OF-WAY MAY BE OF LITTLE USE

M. P. Suggests It Is Monopolized by Power Lines.

MINISTER TO FIND OUT

Hon. Dr. Reid Hadn't Heard of Occupation by the Elec. Dev. Co.

OTTAWA, April 29.—When the third reading of the Toronto, Niagara and Western Railway bill was moved in the Commons today, Col. J. A. Currie remarked that this bill had been the cause of some excitement in the railway committee the other day. He suggested that the minister of railways should make a statement to the House in regard to it.

Hon. J. D. Reid explained that the bill provides for an extension of the Toronto-Niagara charter, a subsidiary company of the Canadian Northern Railway, which had been secured by the Government. He said that the city of Toronto had offered some opposition to the bill in committee, but it had not been pressed when it was explained that the legislation of 1916 covered the objections offered.

R. L. Richardson asked if it were true that any advantages arising out of the renewal of the charter will accrue to the Dominion Government.

The minister replied in the affirmative, explaining that considerable money had been spent on surveys and right of ways.

Already Monopolized.

Col. Currie asked the minister if he was aware that the Electrical Development Company of Toronto has two power lines on the right of way, and that there will probably be no room for a railway line.

Dr. Reid replied that he had never heard of this before. He repeated, however, that all Canadian Northern Railway rights would be taken over by the Government.

Col. Currie then asked when the minister would make a general statement of the railway situation in the country and when Parliament would be allowed to discuss it. Dr. Reid replied that this might take place when the railway estimates were taken up.

"Is the Government debarred from taking over the road and appointing superintendents, etc.?" asked Mr. Richardson.

Waiting Meredith Report.

The minister replied to the effect that the Government was marking time until the award of the arbitration board regarding the value of the Canadian Northern Railway stock was given out. Mr. Richardson then stated that the award of the board might not be acceptable, and the railway might continue for some time under its present status.

Col. Currie asked whether the minister would be in a position tomorrow to state whether the Electrical Development Company was in full ownership of the right of way, or whether it would be possible for the lines to be paralleled by the railway company.

Dr. Reid replied that he would let the member have the information as soon as possible.

Maybe Pig in a Poke.

Col. Currie remarked that what was wanted was to know whether the Government would have a clear right of way, not cluttered up with the poles of the Electrical Development Company. "We should," he said, "have a clear understanding before this bill finally passes this House. It might turn out that we are taking over a worthless charter without full information being given with reference to it."

Dr. Reid promised a full statement on the third reading.

H. B. Morphy said it was estimated that the road was worth five million dollars a year, and in his opinion as a link it would be worth that amount to the people of Canada.

Col. Currie added that he would like to know what the amount was of securities issued by the company in stocks and bonds, what amount of moneys was realized to the company for the sale of the stock and bonds, and how it was disposed. "We want," he went on, "to deal fairly with Mackenzie and Mann. We do not want to take property worth a hundred million and not give them anything for it."

The bill was reported.

QUEBEC PARISH PRIEST ADVISES HEARERS TO OBEY THE DRAFT LAW

Montreal, April 30.—Rev. Fr. Contois, parish priest of Terrebonne, in the course of a sermon, said:

"My brethren, we are at war, England and France fighting side by side, and duty commands us to come to their support. At the last election conscription was established as a result of the verdict at the polls. The law is hard, but being the law of the land it must be obeyed. The authority dictated to us by the Government comes from God, and although it does not please us, necessity obliges us to comply. Today we have in our midst agents of the federal police. They will go to your houses and you must receive them well. Use moderation. They are doing their duty, and there must be no wrath in your dealings with them, all of which will be to the honor of our parish."

ENEMY ADMITS SINKING OF HOSPITAL VESSELS

London, April 30.—In view of the definite evidence, now available that the accident to the British hospital ship Guilford Castle, on March 10, was an attack by a German U-boat, it is important to place on record the following extract from a German official message sent through the wireless stations of that Government on April 24:

"With respect to the results of the submarine war for March, the Deutsche Tages Zeitung asks the question: 'Where does Geddes (first lord of the British admiralty) get the courage to speak in the British Parliament of the falling off in British mercantile losses. In the English White Book he gives the losses to the world's mercantile shipping to the end of 1917 as only 11.8 million gross register tons, while the German admiralty staff proves indisputably that the losses were about five million tons more. Lloyd George and Geddes falsify the losses of ships plying in military service ignoring the naval losses, auxiliary cruisers, guardships, hospital ships, and very probably also troop transports and munition steamers—that is to say, precisely that shipping space which is particularly exposed to and attacked by U-boats."

STEAMSHIP ORONSA TORPEDOED.

London, April 30.—It was the British steamer Oronsa which was torpedoed with the party of 57 American Army Y. M. C. A. workers. The first public announcement here of the torpedoing of the Oronsa, which occurred early Sunday morning, was made in this morning's newspapers.

The steamer Oronsa was owned by the Pacific Steam Navigation Company. She displaced 8,075 tons, and was built in Belfast in 1906.

KING'S APPOINTMENTS.

LONDON, April 29. — Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.—The King has approved the following appointments:

Gen. Sir William Manning to be governor of Ceylon; Sir Leslie Probyn to be governor of Jamaica; Lieut.-Col. Charles McKay O'Brien to be governor of the Barbadoes.

It's the Flavour of H.P. Sauce that makes it quite unique.

You can taste the delicious oriental fruits and spices, so perfectly blended.

FEEL FINE! TAKE "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Spend 10 cents! Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated.

Can't harm you! Best cathartic for men, women and children.

Enjoy life! Your system is filled with an accumulation of bile and bowel poison which keeps you bilious, headachy, dizzy, tongue coated, breath bad and stomach sour—Why don't you get a 10-cent box of Cascarets at the drug store and feel bully. Take Cascarets tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You'll wake up with a clear head, clean tongue, lively step, rosy skin and looking and feeling fit. Mothers can give a whole Cascaret to a sick, cross, bilious, feverish child any time—they are harmless — never gripe or sicken.

GIRLS! TRY IT! HAVE THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Every particle of dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Draw a moist cloth through hair and double its beauty at once.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely invest a few cents in a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter, and just try it.

Save your hair! Beautify it! You will say this was the best money you ever spent.

Lime---One of the Body's Necessities and Mysteries

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

Whenever there is an augmented flow of the kidney fluids in any one in good health, it may be set down as a physiological intention or purpose of the human tissues to rid themselves of waste. If there is a diminution of perspiration or if there is a great influx of water drunk or eaten in the form of vegetables or succulent fruits, it is due to this conspicuous regulation of the human fluid balance.

Ashes, minerals or salts—the names are for the same substance—play a stellar role in this kidney fluid and blood regulation. Of these salts the calcium or lime ones are particularly important.

In health the amount of lime in the blood remains steady. In the average man there are about five grains of calcium, but in his bones there are 20,960 grains. Evidently the lime thus held back in the bones has at least the double purpose of nourishing the bones and acting as a second line of defence to fill up the gaps of lost time in the blood.

Always the Same.

No matter how much or how little lime there is in your drinking water or your daily bread, irrespective of food or drink, there remains a steady, even, almost unaltered quantity of calcium in your blood serum.

Since the quality and the coagulability of the blood are dependent more or less upon this even distribution in the blood, it might be expected that the living human fabric would have some mechanism to maintain this equilibrium. Such is, indeed, the real situation.

In every 100 cubic centimetres—about six tablespoonfuls or three ounces—of blood, the healthy, and often the tuberculous, or otherwise unhealthy individual, has about one-sixth of a grain of lime.

Though you drink a mineral water rich in calcium, or lots of milk, which also teems with lime, the average quantity of lime present maintains itself just the same.

Cure of Rickets.

Stranger far and equally true is it that in advanced types of Bright's disease, with uraemia as well as tuberculosis, hemophilia, purpura and other maladies in which bleeding and hemorrhages occur, the lime contents of the blood vary little or not at all from the normal.

The mystery, which still is to be cleared up, is the fact that calcium salts are used by scientific doctors with which to treat rickets; hemorrhages of typhoid and other maladies where there is a deficiency in the bones and the blood.

Perhaps the apparent benefits reported by laboratory investigations and others are not as real as it is thought. True enough, the bones out of alignment in rickety children are not made straight by the lime alone. Cod liver oil, orange juice and phosphorus seem to be more necessary than calcium, if rickets is to be cured.

Answers to Health Questions

H. W., Ingersoll, Ont.: Q.—Will you please give me a good remedy for boils?

A.—A little mercury of ammonia ointment sometimes cures mild ones. Apply a cloth wet with hot boric acid water to bring them "to a head." Often a drop of carbolic acid on a bit of cotton will empty them. Then ammoniated mercury ointment does the rest.

PETE, London, Ont.: Q.—Would you please suggest a remedy for rheumatism?

A.—Rheumatism is a carelessly used name given to the symptoms of many different diseases. It is generally used only to mean pain. If you will describe your symptoms precisely and forget this vague term, I will be very glad to help you. I could tell you twenty odd ailments which are falsely called "rheumatism." Dry heat, hot applications, Swedish movements, electric battery, manipulation and massage may help to assuage the pain. You should consult your physician about this.

SUBSCRIBER, London, Ont.: Q.—How can moles be removed?

A.—The lance, radium, X-rays will remove moles. The knife is most certain, less painful, not dangerous and most quickly over.

A READER, London, Ont.: Q.—Will you please tell me what to do for itching?

A.—A little of sulphur ointment with balsam peru, 2 drams to the ounce, and hot scrub bath at night will kill them. After several days of this treatment the skin itches from the irritation. Then soothe it with a little of the following:

Pink calamine	2½ drams
Zinc oxide	2 drams
Glycerine	2 drams
Phenol	30 drops
Lime water	2 ounces
Rose water	2 ounces

T. H. L., Zurich, Ont.: Q.—Please give me a remedy for blackheads.

A.—Gentle massage with a sterilized piece of absorbent cotton or chamois, followed by the application of a little paste made up of the following:

Fuller's earth	4 drams
Vinegar	2 drams
Glycerine	3 drams

L. R. S., London, Ont.: Q.—Can you suggest a remedy for the barber's itch?

A.—Electric currents of the galvanic type, or a little of the following may help:

Naphthalene	45 grains
Salicylic acid	45 grains
Glycerine	2½ drams
Spirits of vinl	2½ drams
Chloroform	2½ drams

ANXIOUS READER, London, Ont. Q.—Will you kindly tell me how to turn grey hair back to its natural color?

A.—You may darken your hair by placing an ounce of henna leaves in a jar with a quart of boiling water over night. Then strain and heat again to a boiling point. Add two ounces of henna powder (first dissolved in water). Stir and strain again. Brush into clean hair. This is effective and easy to apply. But why try to change something which may be very beautiful.

C. L. Q.—I annoy my folks very much by snoring. How can this be remedied?

A.—This is not a natural condition. It is usually due to some disorder in the nose or teeth. You should have an examination made by a physician.

READER: Q.—What can I do to keep from tanning?

A.—After any wash or bath, and while still wet, dry the skin lightly with a little of the following:

Fine almond meal	4 ounces
Finely powdered borax	6 drams
Oil of bitter almonds	3 drops
Oil of lily of valley	3 drops
Finely powdered orris root	2 ounces
Finely powdered pumice stone	6 drams

MRS. M. J. B.: Q.—Will you please repeat the formula given last summer containing quinine pilocarpine, etc.?

A.—Quinine	1 dram
Pilocarpine	2½ grains
Salicylic acid	15 grains
Lanolin	½ ounce
Petrolatum	½ ounce

MISS J. B., London, Ont. Q.—How can I remove a mole?

2. Kindly tell me how to get rid of superfluous hair?

A.—1. The lance, radium, X-rays will remove moles. The knife is most certain, less painful, not dangerous, and most quickly over.

2. There are few, if any, methods to kill the roots. About twice a week or when needed a little of the following may be tried:

Calcium sulphide	2 parts
Zinc oxide	1 part
Starch	1 part

Make a paste and apply to the parts. Let it remain on the skin for about five minutes. Then wipe off gently with a soft cloth.

MRS. B. C., London, Ont. Q.—1. What can be done for gas on the stomach?

2. What is good for constipation?

A.—1. Avoid all fried foods, pastry, cake, sweets, thickened soups and gravies. Be sure that your food is properly masticated and have dental defects remedied. Have your druggist make up twenty powders of subgallate of bismuth, each containing ten grains, and take one after each meal. You should consult your family physician.

2. One of the ways to do away with constipation is to so arrange the diet that plenty of fruits and vegetables are in it, particularly salads and tomatoes. To some oatmeal is a laxative, but not to all. Bran bread is better than that made from white flour. A fixed hour each day should be set for attention to the demands of the intestines. Massage of the abdomen in a circular motion five to fifteen minutes three times a day is one of the best aids.

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Who Is the Mysterious Horseman?

No sooner had I rushed into the wood by the side of the road and secreted myself in order to watch the horseman in the distance, than the absurdity of my behavior overwhelmed me. The bizarre happenings in which I had become involved since my entrance under Lillian's leadership into the service evidently had so wrought upon my nerves as to make me suspect an enemy in every pedestrian, equestrian or motorist whose path chanced to pass mine.

"I'll be hiding from my own shadow next, Pete," I whispered to the bull-terrier with me, and his lips curled back from his teeth in the hideous grin which only his breed can give.

"That's right, Pete, laugh at me. I deserve it," I answered whimsically, and then, getting up from my crouching position and shaking my skirts, I added:

"Come along, old fellow; we'll strike out through these woods, and never bother our heads about our fellow-travelers."

He gave one of his short, crisp barks, and then ran on a little way ahead of me, investigating several matters that interested him. But he always looked around him from time to time to be sure that I was within sight. Poor old William hadn't exaggerated the fidelity of the animal. Pete evidently meant to make a thorough job of the task of looking after me.

We had gone but a little way into the woods when I heard the rapid galloping of a horse along the road which we had left. Evidently the horseman had conquered his mount's curvetings, and was making up for lost time. I smiled again at my own timorous actions of a moment before. How amused the unknown horseman would be could he know the alarm he had caused in one feminine heart.

Plans to Perplex.

But the smile faded from my lips a moment later when the sound of the galloping feet ceased. For I realized that the cessation of the sound wasn't the gradual dying away of the galloping in the distance, but a sudden stop, as if the rider had reined his mount suddenly.

My unreasoning fears returned. Why should the man have stopped his horse within a few feet of the place where Pete and I had entered the wood? The many plausible explanations of his action I put aside. I was obsessed with the idea that the man was pursuing me.

For a horrid, nerve-racking moment I debated whether I should boldly return to the road and face the man—if he were indeed coming into the wood after me—or whether I should hurry along the path I had already entered as fast as I could, hoping to elude him because of the many vines and clumps of trees and wild berry bushes.

It didn't take me many seconds to decide to go ahead instead of back. I knew the paths through this piece of woods perfectly, knew that but a little way ahead of me lay the brook which I loved so well, and already a plan had leaped into my brain for misleading the man pursuing me.

Seeing, But Unseen.

For my bizarre fears had been justified. The horseman was pursuing me, or at least he had turned into the wood at almost the same place I had entered. I could hear the steps of his horse, and I judged, although I had no real reason for the inference, that he'd dismounted and was leading his horse.

The sounds made a wild thing of me. With a whispered admonition to Pete to make no noise, I fairly flew along the path to the brookside. Pete's almost noiseless footsteps pattering after. The brook, shallow enough in most places, was at this particular spot too deep to wade across unless I wished to go up to my armpits in the water. But I knew that only a little way down the stream there was a narrow and shallow channel, and that opposite it the underbrush was very dense.

With frantic, trembling fingers I tore off my shoes and stockings, gathered my skirts around me, and stepped into the water. I waded down the brook close to the bank until I came to the shallow water. Pete, evidently mystified, but game, following after me through the water.

Crossing the shallow water I plunged frantically into the thicket, and, sinking down into a fragrant hollow in its centre, dried my feet, replaced my shoes and stockings, and waited with long, shuddering, panic-stricken breaths which I couldn't control for whatever was to come.

The man and the horse came down the path I had followed and stopped at the brookside where I had first entered the water. There, of course, all trace of my footsteps was lost, and the man, evidently nonplussed, stood entirely motionless for a long time.

To my relief he didn't attempt to cross the brook. But he turned down the side of it, and walked slowly along the path until soon he was almost opposite the place where I had hidden. There was but the width of the brook and a few feet of thicket between us. The bank upon which he stood was much higher than that on which I crouched, and by craning my neck I was able to see his face.

He was the foreign-looking man I had seen in the taxi, whose eyes had flashed startled recognition into mine.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About "Khaki Johnny."

Copyright, 1918, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

Khaki Johnny is home on a furlough.

His name isn't "Khaki Johnny" at all, but we've called him that ever since he put on the uniform.

We used to call him "Tango Teddy," and we called him that because he couldn't do a thing but dance—oh, yes, he could smoke cigarettes and order highballs, and drink them, too.

And none of us liked him very well, except the girls, and they didn't like him; they only liked his dancing, and he was rather good-natured about showing them new steps ,and never stepped on their toes, and always bowed very well; but when he wasn't dancing they didn't care much about him.

Except Marie Ysobel—she was crazy about him, and he crazy about her—as crazy as he could be about anything except a new dance step.

Marie Ysobel dances, too—oh, like a wave in the sunshine, or like a flower in the garden, or like a tree in the wind—and she's pretty, too; but she chews gum and she wears her dress too low at the top and too short at the bottom, and her heels are too high and her ear-rings are too dangly and all her bracelets clink and jingle as she walks, and sometimes her cheeks are just a trifle too rosy and her nose is a bit too white.

No One Recognized Him.

But she's a nice little thing, for all that. You'd know she was nice if you could see how she idolizes Khaki Johnny and always has idolized him since he taught her the "lame duck" and the "tickletoe."

Khaki Johnny's father has been furious with him ever since he left high school, and his mother has been worried to death trying to keep peace, or some decent pretence of it, between Khaki Johnny and his father.

She's tried to get Khaki Johnny to go to work and put his mind on what he was doing, and she's flattered him and spoiled him and cried over him and fussed him, till really you couldn't actually blame poor Johnny for being a good deal of a goose—with his tiny waist and his slender hips, and his high belt and his swagger stick, and his shiny hair and his face that didn't mean a thing in the world.

We were all astonished when he enlisted. We said he did it because he didn't want to wait to be drafted—and none of us cried when he went away with the regiment; none of us except his mother and Marie Ysobel.

They both cried and cried—and we all wondered what on earth they were crying about.

Last week Johnny came home, and he walked right into the hotel when we were all at the table, and straight through the dining-room, and not a single one of us knew him—not even Ysobel, not even his own mother.

A Man After All.

His shoulders were broad, he'd lost the dancing stoop, and he didn't pirouette into the room—he marched. And there were lines on his face, lines that meant work and earnestness and determination, and his eyes were bright and clear, and he looked as if he hadn't had a highball in all his life. Why, his very voice was different and everything that he said was different!

When he was going away back to his camp, and probably over to France, we all cried, every one of us, even the stenographer in the office and the head waiter in the dining-room, and the society woman who was never known to shed a tear before in all her life.

And when he went, a woman I know took both his hands in hers and said:

"Johnny, I can't do much for you, but I'm going to pray."

Khaki Johnny bent his head down to her ear and said, without trace of embarrassment:

"I wish you would; and, say, won't you pray for Mame, too?"

And "Mame" has taken off her dangle ear-rings and taken off her rouge, and they say she's let down her skirts a bit and she's at work at the Red Cross today.

Who says Khaki Johnny isn't going to turn out to be a man after all?

Three Minute Journeys

BY TEMPLE MANNING

Where Firecrackers Are Used to "Save" Ships From Submarines.

The familiar First of July firecracker, although long a Canadian "institution," is of Chinese origin, but to the western intelligence and the eastern mind the reasons for firing it are far different. The "bang" of a firecracker to us a sound of rejoicing—to the Chinese is a noise made in fear. For the Chinaman "sets off" his firecrackers to drive devils away.

Knowing this, I was, nevertheless, surprised one day on shipboard to see members of the Chinese crew emerge from the forecastle as we gained the open sea outside the harbor with long strings of firecrackers, which they fastened to awning stanchions and lighted with great and solemn ceremony. The first officer who saw the amusement on my face said:

"First time on a ship with a Chinese crew, isn't it? They always do this. Say that firecrackers drive devils away —storms, wreck-spirits and submarines. If we didn't let them do it they'd tremble so much with fear all through the voyage we'd never get any work done. 'No firecrackers, lose ship—firecrackers save ship,' is the way they put it."

"No Firecrackers—Lose Ship."

My mind ran back to scenes at funerals, weddings, homes of the sick and many another event in the far interior of the "Celestial Kingdom." Always at these there had been firecrackers. But at the funerals the prayer papers had been in greater evidence—scattered behind the funeral cortege they were supposed to delay the evil spirits by making it necessary to pick them up before they could again take up the chase.

Our ship drove through the sea day after day until at last after an uneventful voyage we arrived in San Francisco harbor. The Chinese "boy" who carried my baggage into the customs shed must have overheard that first-day conversation I'd had with the first officer, for, as he pocketed my tip, he said:

"Goo' by. Firecracks always keep off submorbines."

It isn't on record that the Allies have tried the infallible Chinese device. But our men do know that the proper sort of a firecracker is all right—if it has a high explosive shell in the end.

THE IRON MEN OF HISTORY

Cromwell was said to rule with an iron hand. His "roundheads" were no more heroes, nor braver men than are our boys today fighting in France for country and freedom. Men with dauntless spirits—men of red blood, courage, energy, vim and vigor are needed every day, behind the lines as well as behind the guns. You need iron in the blood! Every healthy man or woman should have about as much iron in his or her body as there is in an ordinary railroad spike. To gain this iron, the best way is to take a combination of iron in its most soluble form, recently discovered, and now having a marvellous sale. Tonal-Iron Capsules are a form of iron readily taken up by the blood. The blood cells get round, rich-red in color, the cheeks are pink, the appetite improves, and one feels full of "snap"—"pep"—"vigor"—instead of tired before the day is half done. The eyes take on a lustre and the body feels that tingle which one gets from a cold bath.

Tonal-Iron CAPSULES

Good Night Stories

GOLDEN CROCUS'S GIFT.

Peggy ran to the cupboard, where the night before she had left a great, big, rosy, red, apple on the shelf. But the naughty mice had found it during the night and had nibbled big holes in it.

"Oh, dear!" cried Peggy, tears in her eyes, "and I saved it to carry to my teacher."

"Too bad!" replied Mamma. "Next time we'll put your apple where they can't get it.

"But I did so want to take it to her today," pouted Peggy.

Just then the school bell rang, and Peggy, with tears still in her eyes, kissed her Mamma good-bye and started down the walk.

"Oh, good morning, Miss Peggy!" cried a merry voice, and Peggy saw a Golden Crocus peeping up at her from the grasses. "Why those tears this glorious morning?" she asked in a tiny voice.

Peggy told her about the nice red apple.

"Don't let that bother you," laughed Golden Crocus; "just pull my golden cup and take it instead. I'm quite sure she would rather have me than an apple."

"But it will hurt you if I pull your golden cup off," replied Peggy.

"No, indeed!" laughed Golden Crocus. "And I'm sure my cousins, the Misses Tulips, will only be too glad to lend you some of their pretty red cups to take to your teacher," and Golden Crocus called to the Tulips and they all nodded and smiled at Peggy.

"And you're quite sure that it won't hurt you?" she asked.

"Not if you pull us gently," replied the blossom. "Get the scissors and snip us off the stems carefully, and we'll only be too glad to go with you."

So Peggy ran into the house, found the scissors and soon returned to the garden and gathered a beautiful bouquet of Tulips and Crocuses.

"And you don't mind being picked this way?" inquired Peggy gayly.

"No, indeed!" replied the Yellow Crocus. "We flowers like to bloom so folks will love and admire us. When you pluck us, then we go to work quickly and prepare other blossoms to take the place of those you've taken. It makes us want to bloom when we know folks want us. It's the duty of every flower to live and grow and bloom, and you only help us to fulfil that duty if you love us enough to gather our blossoms," and the flowers fairly danced in Peggy's hand.

Peggy hurried to school, and arrived just in time all out of breath.

"Tulips and Crocuses!" exclaimed the teacher. "Where did you find them?"

Then Peggy had to tell the whole school about her apple and how she came to bring flowers instead.

"Peggy's right!" said the teacher. "Flowers are the beautiful thoughts of the Fairies, put into our gardens so all may enjoy them. If we treat them kindly in plucking, they'll soon show their gratefulness by giving us more beautiful blossoms."

Peggy was glad the mice had nibbled her apple. But, nevertheless, she promised herself that she'd never again leave any food uncovered so it would be wasted.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, MAY 1.

Under strongly benefic planetary operations this should be a day when all things should flourish. The Luminaries in trine aspect, encourage pushing affairs in all directions, particularly for those in employment, and all seeking honors, favors, or preferment from those in high places. A Lunar trine to Mercury will make the professions and commercial pursuits lively and prosperous, a situation enhanced under the stimulus of Mars trined by the Moon, making the energies free, bold and enterprising —encouraging large undertakings and new projects. Journeys, removals and changes are indicated, but these should not be undertaken too recklessly or on too prodigal a scale.

Those whose birthday it is have a fortunate anniversary, presaging an active and prosperous year. A child born on this day will be active, enterprising and successful, particularly in business on its own account.

How You May Avoid Freckles With Some Simple Beauty Aids

BY LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

One of the wisest adages ever uttered is that which reminds us, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." It's a bit of wisdom that should be taken to heart by the woman who seeks to escape the skin blemishes that follow in the train of spring.

The maid or matron whose skin spots readily under the sun's warm rays shouldn't wait until the damage is done and then frantically seek to repair it. Her cheeks and nose needn't be flecked with conspicuous brown patches, commonly known as freckles, unless she objects to taking the necessary care to prevent them.

A comfortable, sensible bit of headgear, the sunbonnet, will protect the complexion and the hair from sunburn and the eyes from the trying glare of the strong light, and, because of its strings, tied coquettishly under the chin, it won't blow off.

"Hardening" the Skin.

In choosing your summer headgear be sure that each hat has a wide brim—and if it droops a little, so much the better. Should frequent motor trips form a part of your summer program, invest in a voluminous white chiffon veil. Draped over the face and hat, it will ward off many a freckle.

Having provided yourself with these protections against sun and wind, the next thing to do is to extend your crusade to the care of the skin itself.

There is an astringent cream which will harden the skin and prevent it from becoming badly freckled and tanned if it is applied half an hour before going out into the sun and heated air. Here is the formula:

Spermaceti	½ dram
White wax	½ dram
Eau de cologne	¾ ounce
Orange flower water
(Cripe)	3 ounces
Bitter almonds (blanched)	½ ounce
Oil of benne	½ dram
Shaving cream	½ dram
Oil of bergamot	6 drops
Oil of neroli	3 drops
Borax	1-10 ounce

To prepare this cream mix the spermaceti, wax, shaving cream, oil of benne in a double boiler over a slow blaze. Then add the orange flower water, which has been thoroughly warmed, and in which the borax has been dissolved. Next, stir in the almonds. When the ingredients have been thoroughly mixed strain through muslin and add the eau de cologne in which the oils have been dissolved.

Other Fine Aids.

In using this cream, first bathe the face in tepid water, then dry it gently and smear the cream over the skin and gently massage. Then remove all traces of the cream with a soft towel and apply the following lotion:

Prepared cucumber juice	3 ounces
Distilled witch hazel	3 ounces
Rosewater	1½ ounces
White rose essence	1½ ounces
Simple tincture of benzoin	½ ounce

Don't forget, of course, to dust on a protecting coat of freckle powder before sallying forth into the glare of the sun.

Massage is a very valuable aid in outwitting freckles, so massage as persistently as time permits. Homely hot water taken internally plays a useful part also, so be sure to drink a couple of glasses about an hour before each meal.

If in spite of all our precaution, freckles insist upon making their appearance, then there are other tasks ahead of us. But this is an entirely different story.

LONG before Labatt's Brews come to the fermenting tuns, they have passed through the processes which give them the flavor, the body, the tonic quality which has made the old style Labatt's Ale, Canada's favorite for over eighty years.

Old London Brew, the new brew which Labatt's will put on the market at Easter time, is made with the same ingredients, with the same care and skill and by the same processes as the ale you have known and used for so many years.

ODD FACTS

White in the shade, red in the sun—such is the twofold character that has given a name to the "chameleon rose." At night, or when it is carried into a dark room, it assumes a wax-like whiteness. This does not occur abruptly, but the petals first pass through a bluish tint, which rapidly changes into a very pale rose, and finally ends by becoming the purest white. Then, if it is taken into bright sunlight, with the greatest rapidity it resumes the scarlet tint of the most brilliant peony. This phenomenon comes from Japan.

There are three different forms of taking opium. Some people, for example the Turks, eat it; others, like the Chinese, smoke it; while the inhabitants of more civilized countries usually drink it as laudanum. The drug is obtained from the unripe fruit of the common white poppy.

A device for polishing floors by electricity has been invented. An applicator, which is part of the outfit, spreads wax on the floor, and the polisher, which consists of a massive bristle-brush revolving at 3,000 revolutions a minute, does the rest. All the operator has to do is to guide the polisher.

Naturalists say that the owl has no power of motion in its eye, the globe to which is immovably fixed in the socket by a strong, elastic, hard, cartilaginous case, in the form of a truncated cone; but in order to compensate for this absence of motion in the eye it is able to turn its head round in almost a complete circle without moving its body.

It is known that upon many of the summits of the high mountain ridges of the Hawaiian Islands, in the regions of heavy rainfall, are open bogs which support a peculiar and interesting flora. Many species form more or less hemispherical tussocks which rise above the general level of the bog. A showy lobella with numerous large cream-colored flowers as much as three and a half inches long, peculiar violets, and a sundew are found there.

The orange packing plants of the Pacific coast have long employed sizers, weighers, brushes, nailing machines, etc., all of which work automatically, but until recently wrapping was done by hand. A machine has now appeared, however, which automatically cuts and prints the wrapping paper and wraps the orange. Each machine wraps 100 oranges a minute, without waste of paper or injury to the fruit, and with perfect precision and effect.

Time creeps towards us with folded wings, but when 'tis past us, its wings seem to flap with speed.—Anon.

Prof. Mulveney Answers Telephone Call

Hello! Is that Prof. Mulveney, Parkdale 4830?

Yes, lady.

Is Prof. Mulveney there?

Yes, Prof. Mulveney is speaking.

Have you a worm remedy for children?

Yes.

Could you tell me, if I brought my little girl down, if she had worms?

No, lady, I cannot tell by looking at children if they have worms.

You can't?

No, madam.

Couldn't you tell me if I told you all the symptoms?

No, madam. My remedy called Mother's Friend expels Worms, is an excellent Tonic and Builder, good for the Nerves and is an excellent medicine for Regulating the Bowels; it brings away all filth and small Intestinal Worms, is perfectly harmless and can be given to the smallest infant without fear of doing harm. A lady who is living on Shaw street got a bottle of this medicine for her baby two years old. She said she had no peace with this child night or day for four months; the doctor was calling regularly and did not help the child in the least, the little one took a bad spell and was choking, the mother opened its mouth and pulled out a stomach worm that was strangling the child. She rushed over to me and brought the child, also the worm, which measured eight inches long, with her. She purchased a bottle of Mother's Friend, and the second dose brought 17 more away. She was horrified at the sight, and brought the worms to me, which I have here in a bottle in my office, and many others from many happy mothers. So if you think it is a good investment to try Mother's Friend, it is $1.00 per bottle and 6c for postage in the city, and 20c extra for postage outside Toronto. Now, you understand, it is not necessary to waste car fare bringing your children here, as I do not practice medicine, and have only the one remedy for sick children, which expels Worms if they are there. It is an excellent medicine for children, and has cured many little ones of St. Vitus' Dance and Convulsions, also Fits. Call or send to 211 Ossington avenue (formerly Dundas street), Toronto. Phone Park. 4820. Mother's Friend in powder form; each package makes twice as much medicine for $1.00; no danger of breaking and no cost for sending. Just send $1.00. Purchased at 211 Ossington avenue.

THIS LETTER

From a Truly Grateful Mother

St. Catharines.

Prof. Mulveney, Dear Sir:

When I was in Toronto a few months ago I got a bottle of your remedy called Mother's Friend Worm Medicine, and it has been a treasure, and I am now out of it, and want to get more. The first time I gave it to her there came from her like a nest; it was just full of worms, four or five inches long, and also small worms most like maggots; and some pin-worms, and ever since, when I give her medicine she passed several worms and a great many pin-worms. This morning there were three, like fish-worms. She was also restless, throwing herself and kicking, getting scared and talking. I got up and gave her the Mothers' Friend Worm Medicine, and this morning her stool was full of pin-worms and those three large worms, like fish-worms. I have one more dose yet to give, and I must have more. I enclose an order for $1.25, as I don't know what it will cost to send it here, so if it is any more than 25c to send it, let me know. Thanking you very much for your valuable medicine. My little girl is four years old. Hoping to receive this medicine by return mail, I remain, yours respectfully.

This letter can be seen at Prof. Mulveney's office.

Fenelon Falls, June, 1914.

Prof. Mulveney:

Dear Sir—Please send me one dollar's worth of your Mothers' Friend Worm Medicine. I have given my children some before, and would not be without it now for a good deal, as I have a little girl that took fits before I gave your medicine. Now she is as healthy as any child could be. Am obliged for your good help.

Yours truly.

All the Way From Ireland

A Monster Tapeworm About Twenty Feet Long

Mr. John Campbell, of 28 Napier street, called on Prof. Mulveney and purchased a remedy to destroy Tapeworm. His wife's sister, Miss Hill, of Glenkirk, Ireland, had been suffering for some time with a Tapeworm, and had been treated without success. He sent her the remedy, which expelled the monster, head and all. Mr. Campbell received the worm by parcel post from Ireland on Nov. 28, 1912, and took it to Prof. Mulveney the same day, and it was found to be all there, a four-hooked demon. Mr. Campbell states that in July, 1908, his little girl, three years old, was relieved of a monster Tapeworm, head and all, without sickness or trouble, and the little one is healthy and well at the present time. This is how he came to recommend his sister-in-law in Ireland to try the same remedy. And now they are rejoicing over a friend across the sea, whose life has been saved, who is returned to health and happiness by Prof. Mulveney's world-famous cure, which may be purchased at 211 Ossington avenue.

CONSIDER THE FACTS.

A MIGHTY STORM of protest goes up from all parts of the agricultural province because of the decision of the Government to cancel all exemptions of men between the ages of 20 to 23 who are fit for active service. Whatever the military exigencies may be the farmers had been led to believe that the production of food in Canada was for the season of transcendent importance. One man, they were told, can grow enough food to support a score of persons—and the vital need was to increase the acreage and to leave the farming industry undisturbed. Thousands of dollars have been spent in the direction of farmers and the rousing of their patriotism to such a degree as would make certain a tremendous yield. The farmer, furthermore, no matter how diluted his desire to serve, must have felt that it was strictly "up to him" to produce as never before because of the special exemption privileges extended to his class. And according to all reports he was straining every muscle to come up to expectations.

No longer ago than April 5, after the launching of the present German offensive, Lord Rhondda, then British food controller, sent the following message to the Ontario Organization of Resources Committee:

London, Eng., April 5, 1918.

"In these stern days it is inspiring to learn that Ontario is tackling the food problem with redoubled energy. The terrific pressure on our military front makes it all the more imperative that those behind the lines shall strain every nerve to defeat the enemy's avowed object of destroying the British Empire. Germany hoped first to starve the old country by the submarine campaign and then to smash her land forces. She has failed to starve us, and she will fail to smash us, but we cannot achieve victory without food. There never was a time when it was more needed. The Canadian farmer and Canadian farmhand now have the opportunity to make an effective reply to the enemy's present onslaught by bending their undivided energies to the increased production of those food supplies for which we depend to such vital extent upon your great Dominion."

(Sgd) RHONDDA.

There is a natural hesitancy to criticize the Government in an hour of crisis, when the demand for fighting men became stronger than ever before. At the same time the prospect of world famine, a famine in food twenty times more serious than the famine in coal last winter, is just around the corner. It is well to consider the facts rather than to be stampeded.

PATRIOTISM AND WORK.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said
This is my own, my native land?"

EVERY MALE person between the ages of sixteen and sixty is to engage henceforth in some useful occupation. To most persons who were able to do any sort of valuable work, the voice of duty spoke long ago, and forthwith these persons became willing to occupy their whole time or part of their time in doing something or other to help their country in her hour of need. Thousands upon thousands enlisted, and of these many thousands will never return to the land for whose future liberty and happiness they so unflinchingly died. Many more thousands are incapacitated through wounds and, while they can do little more to help, it may be justly considered that they have done enough. The dead speak with soundless lips to those whose patriotism is little more than a word and very much less than a sentiment; and they who have known the infamy of war and its nerve wrack and abnormality are walking our streets and have their beings amongst us as a constant reminder to the man whose soul is apparently dead and whose country might just as well be some other people's country for all he seems to care.

Is it possible that at this late day, there are numberless men who cannot understand that upon the best effort of each individual member of the nation a satisfactory victory must depend? The women of the country have certainly put a large number of its men to shame; that is, if such fellows know anything about shame. Women have risen above themselves and in a thousand different ways have been doing most useful and necessary work to aid in putting an end to this night of slaughter and usher in the dawn of a newer day. What of many of the men though?

We cannot all be soldiers or sailors. This is too obvious, except to the fool—and he does not matter. Provided a man is not a total physical wreck, and that through no conscious fault of his own, we can all, however, engage in some work the importance of which, be it much or little, will help the armies in the field to win. Still there are men into whose corroded souls such a primary and self-evident fact does not seem to have penetrated. They call themselves Canadians; they resent all interference with what they choose to call their personal liberty; in the classic phrase of their own coinage "they don't have to" do this, that or the other thing; in fine, having done nothing all their lives, they fail to see the need for beginning to do something useful now. Their education is by no means complete; and, within the space of a few days, these men without a country, having literally outlawed themselves as it were, will be soundly instructed as to what work is, and what is not, useful.

Considering that they will be living in Canada after the war, it is only right that they begin even now to show themselves worthy of the privilege. To enjoy the fruits of others' toil without having helped in any way to gather the fruit, is not the wish of any patriot. However, it DOES seem to be the wish of some men; and it is for the benefit of such that soon the magistrates all over the country will be engaged in giving lessons in patriotism by introducing them to useful work.

THE EMPIRE'S WORKING SYSTEM.

THE REPORT of the British war cabinet, recently published, illustrates "the administrative organization of the British Government and its development during the war." As several readers have asked to have the construction of the Government described it may be interesting to give a brief outline.

At the top of the chart appears the supreme war council of the Allies, which embraces Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States. As "rays" from one side of this organization are included Brazil, Portugal, Russia, Belgium, United States and France as inter-allied nations (Russia's status may be changed since the chart was issued), while on the other side appear China, Greece, Rumania, Japan, Montenegro, Serbia and Italy as "combination" nations.

Then, directly concerning the British prosecution of the war, comes the imperial war cabinet, consisting of the prime minister and six other members. Drawn about these in a circle are Canada, South Africa, New Zealand, Australia, Newfoundland, India, crown colonies and protectorates and the United Kingdom.

From that portion of the empire circle having to do with the United Kingdom branch the following ministerial positions, those created since wartime being specified with O. C. W. in parenthesis: Minister of Reconstruction (O. C. W.), Minister of National Service (O. C. W.), Minister of Pensions (O. C. W), Minister of Labor (O. C. W.), Minister of Munitions of War (O. C. W.), President of Board of Trade, President of Board of Agriculture, Postmaster-General, Commissioner of Works and Public Buildings, President of Local Government Board, President of Board of Education, Chancellor of Duchy of Lancaster, Lord Privy Seal, Lord President of Council, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, Lord High Chancellor, Attorney-General, Secretary for Scotland, Secretary for Ireland, Secretary of State for Colonies, Secretary of State for India, Secretary of State for War, First Lord of the Admiralty, Minister of Blockade (O. C. W.), Shipping Controller (O. C. W.), Secretary of State for Air (O.C.W.), Food Controller (O.C.W.).

Nine of these portfolios have been created as a result of the war, while the cabinet itself is the central brain of all, directing the departmental limbs of the organization. When the war has ended the history of the changes that have occurred in the British governmental organization, as well as of the men who have survived the serious ordeal to which they have been submitted, will be most interesting.

THE TONIC OF A SMILE.

MANY YEARS AGO, when personal journalism was in flower, the editor of a daily newspaper in a Western Ontario town wrote an editorial on "The Advantages of Being Hanged." His editorial created some comment both because of the weird subject and the humorous treatment of it. A Londoner identified with the Presbyterian Church in a prominent way for many years was the editor of a rival paper. He wrote a paragraph advising his contemporary against testing the supposed advantages to be derived from dangling at the end of a rope, but asking that in the event the ceremony was decided upon he should be invited to witness for reportorial purposes the last event in the life of his hapless brother journalist.

The latter "came back" strong. "We shall not notify our contemporary when our hanging comes off. We prefer to die in decent company," was the retaliatory paragraph.

Every time the London man thinks of the "dig" he received he chuckles. He has laughed over it scores of times. And his sense of humor has kept him very young in mind, very human and very helpful to his fellow-men. A mellow mirth in a man who has given fifty years of his life to the trials of his fellow-men is a fine thing to see. The man who possesses it, and with a Celtic gleam in his eye relates such incidents as the above, is the Rev. Dr. McCrae, one of the most loved of citizens, the friend of publican and sinner, including the newspapermen of the present day. As a journalist and a minister he has built a fortune, which, unlike material wealth, will be carried with him to the world where he is certain to find a fine company of his old friends waiting—and let's hope they will enjoy his jokes there quite as much as before they left him.

DIE WEISSE TAMBLE.

[W. J. Lampton, in New York Herald.]

The white dove sat in a sauerkraut tree,
And sang of peace with a great big P,
While the rest of the world stood round,
And listened to the luring sound.
The white dove is a simple fowl,
Not so wise as is the owl.
But it can sing a song so sweet
It shoves the owl plumb off its feet.

The white dove is a cooing thing,
With only strength enough to sing,
And keeps away from war because
It hasn't either teeth or claws.
The white dove folds its peaceful wings
Across its breast, and softly sings
An ululating little coo
Which sounds too good to be quite true.

The white dove croons a plaintive cry,
And those who hear it, passing by,
Would never in this world believe
That it had something up its sleeve.
The white dove trills its tender lay
With no intent to lead astray.
And those who say it does are low
Unkultured slobs who do not know.

The white dove only sings of peace
To follow with the world's release
From frightful war, which cannot stop
Unless the singer is on top.
The white dove in the sauerkraut tree
Is cooing soft for sympathy,
While those who know its pleading cry
Brace up and keep their powder dry!

WHERE MARTHA FITTED IN

[By Vincent G. Perry.]

As a reporter Martha Fiddas was a failure, everyone admitted it. It was doubtful if Martha believed herself of much value on the Telegram staff. Why she was kept there was more than anyone was willing to say, but some of the boys hinted that it was because she was pretty, and Phil Weekes, the city editor, had a weak spot in his heart for all pretty girls. Not that he was a ladies' man or a masher—it was just a kindly, brotherly interest he seemed to have in them all. It was through him that Martha had been taken on the staff. She had been hired first as a stenographer for the business office, but she made so many blunders that she would have been discharged from the employ of the Telegram if Phil had not suggested that she might prove of value as a reporter.

Her good looks had not been the only thing he had seen. She was sociable, had a winning personality and was a splendid conversationalist—qualities that should have made a successful reporter. The first week was enough to show Phil that there were many things Martha lacked that she should have had, but he hoped experience would develop them. After the first month Phil gave up the idea of putting her on assignments that required head work. If there was a story that required data Martha would be sure to miss it; she never spelled names correctly, always got numbers, and even the names of streets, wrong, and if by chance she ran across an accident story she always had to go back to the scene of the accident to get the time that it occurred and other little necessary details that she never remembered to get the first time. It was almost necessary to hire another reporter to do her work after her. Once in a great while she wrote a sentence that didn't have to be rewritten. It didn't seem to bother Martha much, though. If she had shown that she knew she wasn't doing her work satisfactorily it would have been much easier for Phil to discharge her, but every time Phil mustered up courage enough to tell her, something would turn up to make him change his mind. Her salary was such a small one it didn't matter much, he told himself. When she asked for a raise it would give him an opportunity to let her out. As the weeks went by Martha showed a little improvement—or was it that he got so used to her mistakes and working after her that he imagined she was improving? Phil had a hard time keeping her mistakes out of the way of the managing editor. The managing editor never could put up with a careless reporter, and because Phil knew that, he even stole time from his own work to put some touches on Martha's that would pass it, if by chance the editor happened to come across it. He often told himself that he was foolish to do it, for it would have been easier for him if the managing editor had relieved him of the unpleasant duty of giving Martha her notice—but just the same he did it. The Telegram staff was limited to a special number of reporters, and because of Martha it often required doubling up.

"If you don't get rid of that girl and get somebody you can depend upon in her place, you are going to run up against a tight place some time and get yourself in wrong over it," one of the senior reporters remarked to Phil one day.

"She's all right," Phil answered. "She hasn't fitted in yet."

The tight place came sooner than they expected it. A lot of big things loomed up all at once and every man on the staff was given a night assignment. Phil left a convention meeting for himself to cover. He was the last to leave the reportorial room that night and was just putting on his hat, when the telephone rang. It was the managing editor.

Phil knew the importance of the story and decided he would have to go to Plattsburg himself. The next car left at eight o'clock, getting him there barely in time for the meeting. That wouldn't give him time to touch the convention. He scanned his assignment book. There was no one else who could cover it. Nothing could be neglected. How about Martha? He would have to chance her, but he hated to think of the story she would turn in the next day. Had she a telephone? She hadn't. She didn't seem to have anything she should have had, he thought angrily. She didn't room very far away; he would have time to call and tell her to cover the convention. He could write out a list of the things for her to remember to take notes on and perhaps she would get a half decent story for him to rewrite.

Martha looked her best when she opened her door to his knock. Phil couldn't refrain from standing back to admire her. She looked lovely in a big white apron and white cap.

"Come right in, Phil," Martha invited, as she opened the door wide. The room looked very inviting, so Phil didn't refuse. After he had gone into details of just what he wanted her to do, and had her write them out, Phil prepared to go.

"Won't you stay and have tea?" Martha asked. "I have a lovely supper all ready—steak, fried onions, scalloped potatoes, homemade tarts and the best cup of tea you ever tasted. I'm a dandy cook." Phil had been using his nostrils for five minutes, and when Martha enumerated the things he had been smelling, he couldn't refuse her invitation.

"I wouldn't have had time to go home for supper," he said as he sat down at the snowy white table, "but I hate to be robbing you."

"You are doing nothing of the sort," Martha smiled. "I had supper prepared for two, but the girl I expected telephoned that she couldn't come."

"The ungrateful girl, and a supper like this!" Phil exclaimed, as he started on the steak. "Wherever did you learn to cook? This is the finest steak I have had since I left home. If the supper is like this you can invite me here as often as you like."

"Would you really like to come?" she asked. "I have often been on the point of asking you, but I hadn't courage enough to. You have been so kind to me that I wanted to show you that I could do something right. You must think that I can't for I know I have appeared stupid to you. I was never cut out for a reporter or a business woman or anything but just a housekeeper, I think. I love cooking and housekeeping. I seem to fit into it."

"You certainly do," he said earnestly, "I'm enthusiastic about your cooking." When he saw how pleased that made her he kept right on with is compliments and he meant most of them, too.

Then next morning, when Martha handed in her report of the convention meeting the smile Phil gave her caused her to blush furiously. As he started to read the report he shook his head doubtfully, and then his face brightened as he thought to himself. "She certainly doesn't fit into reporting, but I know where she does fit in, and some day I'm going to ask her to change." Martha had been watching his face, and when he looked up and their eyes met she understood.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN HAD AWFUL COUGHS

WERE CURED BY

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Mrs. Arthur Appleyard, Novar, Ont., writes: "This past winter my children and I had awful colds and coughs which we got by being in drafts. I tried a number of different remedies for us, but got no relief. I thought I would try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and I found it a most excellent and sure cure. It gave relief to the tickling in the throat and stopped the cough, and with a few bottles we were all cured."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is a remedy that has been on the market for over twenty-five years, and we can recommend it as being, without doubt, the best cure for coughs and colds that you can possibly procure.

There are a lot of imitations on the market, so when you ask for "Dr. Wood's" see that you get it. Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trademark; price, 25c and 50c; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HOW THE V. C. IS WON

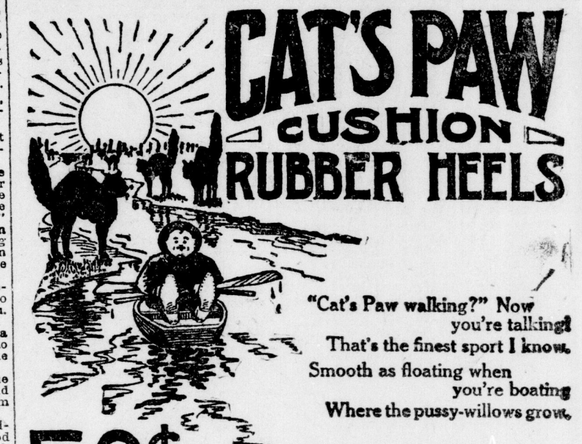

Gallantry of Corp. Drake, 8th Battalion—The Rifle Brigade Told by Lieut. J. P. Lloyd.

On the night of the 23rd of November, 1915, a patrol went out from the British trenches near La Brigue. The patrol consisted of an officer, Corp. Drake, and two men. The party crawled out about 150 yards into No Man's Land, but still there was no sign of the enemy. They were now comparatively close to the German wire, so the officer decided to go forward himself with the corporal, and ordered the two men to follow on behind.

In this order they covered another 40 yards, when suddenly, just in front of them, they caught sight of the dim figures of a number of Germans working on their wire. In the ordinary way, the patrol would have returned to the British trenches with their information, and a Lewis gun would have ended the activities of that working party for the night. But, unfortunately, that was not to be. The patrol had been seen. First one rifle shot, then several, challenged them. Soon the whole of their front was ablaze. The two men behind, rolled into a friendly shell-hole and escaped the storm of bullets that whistled over their heads.

As soon as the firing died down, they crept forward again to find out how the others had fared. They had not gone far before one of them was badly hit. The surviving man then went on far enough to see that his officer had been wounded, and that Corp. Drake was kneeling by his side bandaging his wounds. Although the firing had now broken out again as violently as before, the corporal went on calmly with his work, entirely disregarding his own peril. The survivor returned to his wounded comrade, and eventually succeeded in bringing him back in safety to the British lines.

He afterwards acted as guide to two search parties which were sent out to look for the missing men. The first party failed to find any trace of them, but the second was more successful. About 30 yards in front of the German wire they came upon the officer and corporal, lying side by side. The officer was unconscious, but still alive, and his wounds had been dressed. Corp. Drake lay dead beside him, his body riddled with bullets. No soldier could have met a finer or more nobler end.

KINGSVILLE.—This week the ladies of the local War Veterans' Association were royally entertained in Windsor by the Windsor association at the home of the war veterans, recently provided by the Sportsmen's Club of Windsor.

HYDE PARK.—The Women's Institute held a very successful meeting in the Presbyterian school room. After the usual opening exercises Miss Ida Routledge read a very interesting letter from Lieut. Fraleigh, formerly Dr. Fraleigh of this village. One little amusing incident he told was the following: After a battle he noticed on the battlefield a badly shattered and altogether dilapidated binder, and after looking at it a few minutes he noticed the old familiar name of Massey-Harris, and at once he took his cap off to the old relic. After a reading on Red Cross work by Miss Norma MacKenzie, the president, Mrs. Durnford, invited the members to meet at the rectory on May 22.

HARROW.—The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Taylor, the following officers being elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. (Dr.) Hussey; recording president, Mrs. Mary Shepley; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Hilton; corresponding secretary, Miss Nina Hughson; treasurer, Mrs. Norman Wright; superintendent of Christian stewardship, Mrs. I. Pastorious; assistant, Miss Ella Wright; superintendents of mite boxes, Mesdames Arthur Munger and Albert Vickers; superintendent of outlook, Mrs. Wm. Hughson; superintendent of Mission Band, Mrs. A. Cunningham. The year just closed was the best in the history of the society, the membership having increased from 17 to 40. There are six new members, in addition for the coming year. For all purposes the society contributed $151.24, and in addition sent over 60 quarts of canned fruit and a bale of goods to the Deaconess Training School, Toronto, valued at $58.70. During the meeting Mrs. Husser and Miss Ella Wright gave a report of the annual Windsor district convention recently held at Ruthven.

WABASH.—The War Workers' Club of the Wabash public school held its monthly meeting from 3 to 4 o'clock in the school room. President Frank Anderson occupied the chair. While the benefit pregram, consisting of readings, recitations, songs and violin selections, was in progress nearly all the young girls were busy plying the knitting needles. A collection was taken up, each pupil paying a fee of five cents.

The next social hour will be held on the afternoon of May 31. Some of the parents were present at the last meeting and were greatly impressed at the huge collection of newspapers and old magazines contributed by the pupils and stored away in Miss Causgrove's private room. Altogether there are over 1,600 pounds of paper, which will be taken by the trustees to Thamesville on May 4 for shipment.

The Jack Wells Chapter of the Dresden I.O.D.E. met at the town library and packed 32 boxes for the boys overseas. Each box contained socks, tobacco, candles, candies, sugar, toothpaste, soap and a magazine.

At the last meeting of the Dresden Patriotic Society, it being found that the treasury contained the sum of $233, it was decided to give $75 each to the I.O.D.E. and Red Cross and $50 to the Y.M.C.A. campaign. The balance will be kept in the treasury for emergency.

JIMMY COON'S GREAT BATTLE.

Chapter 164.

Well, you never heard in your life such a rumpus as that made by Jimmy Coon and Mr. Great Horned Owl when Jimmy Coon jumped on the back of Mr. Owl in that big tree, Mr. Owl was terribly angry. You see he had been watching Robin Redvest in that tree for a long time, and he was awfully hungry. And his mouth watered as he saw the lovely throat of Redvest swell, as he poured forth that little crystal brook of song.

And Mr. Owl was just starting on his plunge to devour Robin Redvest for his supper, when Jimmy Coon pounced upon the back of Mr. Owl.

You would have laughed if you could have seen them both fall out of that tree upon the ground. They turned over and over, clawing and biting each other, and each was screaming in his rage; and feathers and hairs were flying about in that awful battle.

and biting each other, and each was screaming in his rage.

It was a terrible fight, for Jimmy Coon has wonderfully powerful legs, and his claws and teeth are strong and very sharp. And when Jimmy gets mad, his claws and teeth fly about in a perfect whirlwind; and Mr. Owl realized he had on hand the toughest battle of his life.

You know Mr. Great Horned Owl is a terrible fighter. He swoops down from a tree, in the darkness, and his plunge is as noiseless as the fall of a piece of down from the breast of a loon. Mr. Owl has a big and terrible beak; and he can tear the flesh right out of the enemy's hide. And the talons of Mr. Owl are very big and powerful.

As the battle went on, with the fighters down on the ground, the little Robins were terribly frightened; and they flew about in terror, giving sorrowful little cries.

And the Robins were awfully sorry for Jimmy Coon; and they feared he would be killed. And it did indeed look very dark for the brave Jimmy Coon; for Mr. Great Horned Owl was now on top of Jimmy Coon, and Jimmy's face was torn and bleeding, and several gashes were bleeding on his sides.

But Jimmy put up the biggest fight of his life, and he never lost his courage or grit for a moment. In the nick of time, Mrs. Jimmy Coon pounced upon the back of Mr. Owl, and she stuck her claws into Mr. Owl's back, and she sank her sharp teeth into the back of his neck. And I want to tell you that Mr. Owl was losing the battle.

Mrs. Jimmy was willing to die for Jimmy any day; and she fought like a fury. And between Jimmy and Mrs. Jimmy Mr. Owl soon looked like a ragbag. In fact, there was nothing left of Mr. Owl except a grease spot and a heap of feathers. And Mrs. Jimmy made two sofa-pillows out of Mr. Owl's feathers.

Tomorrow—The Last Day of the Long Journey.

BACKYARD GARDEN HINTS

(By The Girl With the Hoe.)

The Great Value of Birds.

Many gardeners, especially amateur gardeners, who have not had practical experience in all the phases of the producing trade, are unaware that they have invaluable allies in birds. The great plan of nature is so perfect that all things work together, and nothing is independent of others. Man is very powerful on the face of the earth, and seemingly independent, yet if it were not for the birds, man would be unable to exist? And why? Because without birds the great family of insects would soon devour the whole living world and then die. Artificial means of checking these tiny, and yet, by virtue of their number, infinitely powerful creatures, would be pitifully impossible. When one thinks of the magnitude of the areas in which these creatures dwell, and the rapidity with which they multiply, man, with his reasoning mind, becomes but a weakling, a mere incident in the world, helpless to cope with the gigantic enemy, capable of devouring his sustenance in almost the twinkling of an eye. And what is it that protects him from this great enemy? It is the birds.

Out into the forests they go, far from the habits of man, where spraying pumps and poison solutions are unknown, and there, nesting among the leafy branches of great trees, they war upon the insects. The war in Europe fades into insignificance when compared to this war between bird and insect, for without it nothing could be, not even the war in Europe. And why do the birds carry on this war? Not because they are eager to kill for the sake of killing, but because nature, in her great wisdom, and perhaps in her care for man, has given them a taste which relishes insects above all other food. So the great forest trees are preserved. But why preserve these trees? Their number is essential to man, but that is not all. These forests preserve moisture in the soil, and were all the trees eliminated from the earth, agriculture would be impossible, and man without food could not live.

Why then, does man, in direct defiance of the laws of nature just as if his chief object on earth were to bring about his own destruction, go out into the forests and deliberately and methodically and scientifically set to work to kill the very creatures which are instinctively working for his preservation? Merely that a delicate palate may be gratified, or that my lady's hat shall have a change of trimming. Truly, man has a queer conception as to what are the fundamental and what are the superficial things in life.

The birds go out into the garden and meadow, eating all the caterpillars and insects and many harmful weeds which would otherwise destroy the growing food. They may take an occasional seed, it is true, but what of that? Do you expect any human workman to come into your garden and work for nothing? Then why grudge the birds their little wage? Indeed, if one species of cutworm alone were not kept under control by the birds, soon there would not be a particle of green stuff above ground. The orchard is the place where the bird is apt to provoke in us the greatest anger for besides being fond of the caterpillars, he is also very partial to the fruit. Yet why be unreasonable about this? We are apt to grumble at the man who demands a fairly big wage, but when we cannot do without him we pay. Likewise we cannot do without the birds, and we must be willing to pay them, too. If all fruit growers went out into the orchards with shotguns and chased away the birds, they would have no fruit at all. Surely some—and a big some at that—is better than none.

The animal world, besides indirectly owing its food to the birds, also owes much to them directly. Live stock could not be kept were it not for the birds, who alight on the backs of the cattle and catch troublesome flies on the wing. Human beings who have suffered much from black flies and mosquitoes will appreciate the good work continually being done by the birds in this direction. Then, too, man's health is greatly dependent on these winged scavengers, who are quite willing and anxious to eat what would otherwise breed disease.

Instead of setting out to destroy birds, one of man's chief aims should be to do everything possible to preserve them. And this year, when there is so much gardening done in the city, it should be the aim of citizens to try and keep as many as possible of the insect-eating birds in the city. Be ready to supply them with water, and have tiny houses ready in which they may be coaxed to build their nests. Their assistance in the garden will more than compensate for any trouble which they may cause. Bird-catching cats should be abolished. There are many of the "pussy brood" which are content to leave the birds alone, and then there are others whose chief occupation seems to be bird chasing. These "others" should be forbidden the freedom of the city streets, for the economic value of the birds is so great that nothing which will injure them in any way should be tolerated.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

Suggestive Question on the Uniform Lesson for Sunday, April 28, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION, By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

Jesus Sets New Standards of Living (May be used with temperance application.) Mark 10:1-31.

QUESTIONS FOR TODAY:

4.—Verses 13-16. Why are children just as able to love Jesus as adults?

5.—What can we do more than we are doing to bring the children to Jesus?

6.—Verse 17. What is Jesus' answer today to those who want to be saved?

7.—Verse 18. How do you explain Jesus' answer to this question: did he mean that he was not good?

Golden Text—Seek ye first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.—Mark vi., 33.

TIME IS IMPORTANT, BUT ETERNITY IS MORE IMPORTANT.

We must have food and raiment and a place to live, and we must prepare for our home in eternity; to devote our attention to our temporal needs while we neglect eternal verities is the height of folly. This is especially true in view of Christ's statement in the text; his proposition is that if we seek first his kingdom and his righteousness all other necessary things shall be added to us. We need have no anxiety about temporal things if we give first place and chief attention to our spiritual powers. If we keep our spiritual forces in good trim we shall have the wisdom, the vision and the ability to acquire all necessary temporal supplies. In fact, these supplies come of themselves, they follow as a necessary result of giving first place to the Kingdom of God.

ARCHDEACON CODY DELIVERS BRILLIANT ADDRESS TO WOMEN

"Canadian Reconstruction" Is Discussed by Toronto Divine Before Women's Canadian Club.

Archdeacon Cody of Toronto, speaking yesterday afternoon at the Women's Canadian Club on the subject, "Some Elements in Canadian Reconstruction," declared that the great keynotes of reconstruction would be these: That persons are of infinitely more value than things; that service be accounted of more value than self-conceit; that formation is put in a higher place of honor than reformation, or that prophylactic, rather than therapeutic, legislation be in force; that conservation is better than wastefulness both in regard to persons and things.

"With these things in mind let us set out with the watchword of service and sacrifice to make a new Canada," declared the speaker. "Yet we must remember that while we are ready to reconstruct institutions, and even the whole world, we must also be ready to reconstruct ourselves. In this new Canada personal reconstruction will be the most important of all, and then in the new Canada will be created great personalities. Don't the men who have died deserve it? We will commemorate them in bronze and brass and marble upon the wall, but don't they deserve an even better monument, a Canada worthy of their spirit, where men and women serve God and seek to serve one another?

Signs of Reconstruction Today.

"But there will be no reconstruction in Canada or anywhere until we have crushed the Prussian menace, and then when the victory is won surely the land purchased at such a great price is worthy of reconstruction. Yet even now, during the period of war, there are signs of reconstruction going on, great changes taking place and great lessons being learned. Nothing at this time is so obvious as the extraordinary heroism of the common man, when the little boy who used to wander about our streets, perhaps barefoot, is now commanding our squadrons of the air and dying for us in the trenches. When we reconstruct we shall strive to appeal to the highest in man, to his heroism. The war is also teaching us a revised sense of values, that honor and right are worth more than wealth and power, and we must never forget this in our reconstruction of Canada. War has taught us that the state is an institution which stands for certain ideals, for which, if need be, people are willing to die. This new conception of the state will dominate all our reconstruction. We can now distinguish between the two philosophies of life, spiritual and material, the one which puts the soul first, and the other which tests everything materially. Perhaps, had it not been for Germany's subjection to this material philosophy, we should never have seen the evil of it.

Broader Outlook for Canadians.

"The war has brought our Canadian boys into close and active contact with the boys of our far-flung empire. The members of the British Empire are coming to know each other on tented field, in rest billets, on leave, and in the hospitals. Our boys are realizing that we are members of a great empire, and what they have learned we can apply in the reconstruction of our land, for undoubtedly there will be great imperial problems confronting us. Our boys are also getting into close touch with our allies, and as a result Canadians will forever lose that provincial outlook which has again and again impaired their view. All will be lifted higher and our statesmen will be truer statesmen.

More Education in New Canada.

"Another lesson learned will be that the ultimate source of all wealth is not speculation, but production. We are now learning the supreme importance of agriculture, and that will be one of the basic principles of Canada's reconstruction. We are also learning that one of the most dangerous and despicable of national practices is wastefulness. We have learned during the war the value of economy, it will be of infinite value in the period of reconstruction. Education is being held of greater importance. Germany has taught us that the children from the schools need only be taught for two generations in order to make them what we will. In the new Canada we shall have more education, and not less, although that education will be probably a little more linked with industry. Yet we shall not train the intellect alone, without giving moral training. In Canada we want not kultur, but real culture, molding and training character.

A Note of Hopefulness.

"May I digress to sound a note of hopefulness in the present dark time?" said the speaker. "We must view the present war situation in view of the past. There is no tonic for drooping spirits like the study of history. Let us remember that there have been darker days before in this war, in 1914 and at the Marne and at Ypres. If we go back a hundred years to the time before the battle of Waterloo we find that the situation was darker than it is today. We must remember that history, from the days of Hittite and Babylonian, has taught us that no nation has irrevocably lost the day until it has lost its own soul. I believe that our great enemy today has lost its soul, and will go down. I am not anxious about any might of German militarism, but I am anxious that we are fit to win, and are purified by these horrible fires, so that we shall be able to win. There never was a time when we could so admire the spirit of our own people, and the glorious race from whence we are sprung, than today. Let us have faith, in them and in our allies. If we gain great results of the war will be the union of the hearts of the English-speaking peoples, which could not have happened for decades otherwise. England was never so dangerous as when she fought with her back to the wall, and she is fighting with her back to the wall today. So let us have fresh faith all the teachings of history, fresh faith in our allies, fresh faith in our own men, and let us, above all, have confidence in the great God of love and truth."

Thanks "Mother of Six."

Dear Miss Grey and Readers,—I wrote to your page some time ago for the music of the "College Hornpipe," and have seen since that "A Mother of Six Boys" has copied it for me. Thank you very much, "Mother of Six." I hope I will be able to help you some time. How wonderful! Your father 82 years of age and a violin teacher. I love the music of the violin and would love to play it.

Could Miss Grey or any of the readers give me "Kiss of Spring" Waltz? I cannot get it around here. I remain,

A Crocheted Handbag.

Dear Miss Grey,—Could you or any of your readers supply me with the pattern of a crocheted handbag? I would be very grateful to anyone as I am very anxious to get the pattern before the 15th of May.

S. OF THE S.

Ans.—Referred to readers who are

Success in Baking.

Dear Miss Grey,—I would like to know if you or any of the readers have a piece of poetry that the last line of each stanza reads, "For people will talk"? I'm not sure whether that is the name of the piece, but I do know it's the last line, as I said above.

Now I noticed where "Girl of the Apron" wants to know how to make biscuits. Evidently she is an amateur. No one ever showed me how, but this is my receipt: To one quart of flour put three heaping teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, and three tablespoons of lard or crisco. Chop fine with a knife till there are no lumps, wet with sour or sweet milk, just enough to hold together, but not sticky or doughy. Drop a good big tablespoonful in greased pan and put in oven to bake. I serve with syrup and I never have any left. I think it's the old-fashioned way to roll out and cut.

Graham Gems—3 cups graham flour, 1 cup white flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lard or crisco; chop fine the above, then beat 2 eggs and mix them with 3 cups sweet milk and stir well. Drop these also. It seems to come natural to some people to bake anything they try, but I think the trouble with others that have poor luck is they haven't the right judgment in mixing. No two put ingredients in alike. It all depends on a person's own ability.

The time of day troubles me more now than anything I know. We are one hour ahead, and it means get up early or lose an hour.

Kindly print that piece in your column if it can be found, and oblige, as before.

HARPY MOTHER OF SIX BOYS.

Ans.—Can you not just see where some of those six boys get into trouble in years to come by bragging to their spouses of "mother's biscuits?"—"She always served 'em with syrup, too"—one can fairly hear them say.

Mother of Six, you will be pleased to know that "Sweet Marie" sent for the music your father so kindly copied.

TOO NERVOUS TO SLEEP

Nerves Wrecked by Accident —Was Afraid to Go in a Crowd or to Stay Alone —Tells of His Cure.

Much sympathy was felt in this city for Mr. Dorsey, who met with a distressing accident when his foot was smashed in an elevator.

The shock to the nervous system was so great that Mr. Dorsey was in a pitiable condition for a long time. He was like a child in that he required his mother's care nearly all the time. He feared a crowd, could not stay alone, and could not sleep because of the weakened and excited condition of his nerves.

Detroit doctors did what they could for him, but he could not get back his strength and vigor until he fortunately heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is no mere accident that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves to be exactly what is needed in so many cases of exhausted nerves. It is composed of the ingredients which nature requires to form new blood and create new nerve force. For this reason it cannot fail, and for this reason it succeeds when ordinary medicines fail.

Mr. Laurence E. Dorsay, 39 Stanley street, London, Ont., writes: "About three years ago I got my foot smashed in an elevator in Detroit, which completely wrecked my nerves. I doctored with the doctors there, but they did not seem to be able to help me. My nerves were in such a state that I could not go down town alone or go any place where there was a crowd. Sometimes my mother would have to sit and watch over me at night, and sometimes I could not get any sleep at all. But one day last winter I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before I had competely used the first box I could see a difference in my condition. I continued using these pills for some time. The result was splendid. I feel so much better, can sleep well at night, can go out in the street, and attend gatherings like the rest of people. I am so pleased to be able to tell you what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done for me, and to recommend it to other people."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Pathé

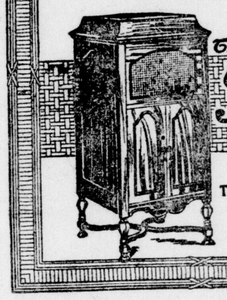

Pathé Orchestral Records

PATHE excels all others in the recording and reproducing of orchestral selections.

Pathé orchestral records are not made with the usual unsatisfactory thin orchestra of ten or twelve performers, but with a full complement of forty or fifty artists. The result is a rich, mellow, natural and satisfactory rendition of your favorite airs.

Listen to the thousand and one little artistic embellishments running through a Pathé orchestral number—the beautiful euphonium obligatos, the delicate introduction of the plaintive oboe, the sweet blending of the reeds, the artistic balance of the strings, the masterful building up of climaxes, and the magnificence of the tout ensemble. The living orchestra is before you.

While to obtain the best results they should be played on the Pathephone, with the Pathé Sapphire Ball, all other makes of instruments can be easily adapted to play Pathé Records.

MONARCHS WIN THE HARRIERS' LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

LEAFS TO PRACTICE TWICE EVERY DAY NOW

Toronto Club Settles Down to Training for Season Opening May 8—Signs New Outfielder—Island Training Ground.

TORONTO, April 29.—Manager Dan Howley and his players crossed to the island at 9:40 this morning and had a real good workout at the Island Stadium. The weather was delightful, and the manager was tickled with the ideal conditions for training. He certainly is enamored with the island grounds. Two practices daily is now the program until the opening of the season at Binghamton a week from Wednesday. Manager Howley expects that he will have a team of seasoned players here before the end of the week.

The Leafs have purchased Outfielder Thrasher from the Atlanta club of the Southern League, but are doubtful as to whether it is Bert or Frank. Both are good ballplayers, but Bert is a recognized slugger and long-distance hitter, who recently received a trial by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Leafs Get Hersche.

The differences between Pitcher Fred Hersche and the Toronto club have been adjusted, to the complete satisfaction of both parties, and Hersche will leave Buffalo tonight to report to Manager Howley. Pitchers Jack Warhop and Hal Justin have reported. Manager Howley also expects to secure Pitcher Fullerton, the former Montrealer.

Manager Howley is trying to secure Outfielder Joe Connolly and Second-Baseman Eddie Fitzpatrick from the Braves. These players are not with Boston this year, but the Toronto club has been given permission to dicker with them. Connolly played for Howley in Montreal, while Eddie Fitzpatrick is the former Toronto second baseman.

BOWL FOR TEN-PIN TITLE THIS EVENING

The first three games of the final series for the City League championship will be played at National alleys tonight, when the Nationals, winners of the first series, and the Has-Beens, winners of the second series. The rivalry between these aggregations of trundlers is very keen, and some classy work is expected. The first game will start at 8 o'clock. The teams will line-up:

Nationals — Dingman, Heard, McCormick, Ferris, Karrys, Crawford.

Has-Beens—Lang, Taylor, Hooper, Hunter, Smith, Sheere.

GIANTS RETAIN LEAD IN NATIONAL LEAGUE, BLANKING PHILLIES

Tesreau Holds Philadelphia to 5 Hits—N. Y. Gets 6 Runs.

REDS WIN FROM CARDS

Lena Blackburne Scores Winning Run in Cincinnati-St. Louis Game.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—New York retained its hold on the National League lead by blanking Philadelphia today 6 to 0. Tesreau allowed five scattered singles, while Mayer was batted freely, extra base hits and Stocks' wild throw accounting for virtually all the Giants' runs. Kauff was the star, getting a double and three singles. Score— R. H. E.

BATTING RALLY IN NINTH WINS FOR CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, April 29.—The home team won from St. Louis by a sharp batting rally in the ninth inning today. The visitors scored one run in the second on Hornsby's double and Smith's single, and added two more in the fourth on hits by Baird, Hornsby and Smith. Meadows held the locals safe until the sixth, when three singles and a triple gave them three runs, evening up the score. In the last half of the ninth Newland and Blackburne singled, and Wingo was purposely passed, filling the bases. Chase batted for Eller and forced Newland at the plate, but Groh sent a long fly to right, on which Blackburne scored the winning run.

Score— R. H. E.

MONARCHS DEFEAT PIRATES, WINNING HARRIERS' TITLE

The Monarchs defeated the Pirates, 26-16, in the final game of the Harriers' League basketball series at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Monday night, winning the championship of the league. At half time the score was 10 to 8 in favor of the Monarchs, and at no time did the Desperados threaten to make the Markle-Lightfoot crew walk the plank into the waters of defeat.

Logan was the big scorer for the winners, collecting ten points, while Markle was next with eight. Thomas of the Pirates gathered eight tallies in the night.

The Monarchs have only been defeated twice during the season.

The teams and scores:

Pirates.		Monarchs.
Thomas, f.	8	Simmons, f.	0
Bryant, f.	2	Logan, f.	10
Howard, c.	4	Ginsberg, c.	6
Weir, d.	4	Markle, d.	8

Half time score: Monarchs, 10; Pirates, 8.

DYNAMITE JACK SETS REMARKABLE RECORD

Makes New Track Figure With One Plate Gone.

Baltimore, Md., April 30.—George Starr, Sandy McNaughton's hope for the Preakness, had a useful kind of preliminary yesterday afternoon. The handsome brown son of Jack Atkin and Africa took up 117 pounds in a mile and seventy yards handicap and scored very easily over a shifty lot of older horses.

From a good start, Krummer permitted George Starr to step into the lead going to the first turn, and the result was never afterward in doubt. Turning for home, he was still well clear of the others, and at the end he was nicely in hand to win by a length and a half.

Berlin, well in hand by Mergler, was the one to take the place from Jefferson Livingstone's Polroma.

A Track Record.

"Dynamite Jack" Thornby's little 2-year-old filly, Fannie Mehan, gave further evidence of her real class yesterday afternoon by hanging out a track record for the half-mile, stepping the distance in 47 seconds. This was remarkable, for yesterday afternoon the daughter of Helmet and Grail ran on three plates after having met with an accident at the break.

Just as the barrier lifted there was some crowding and the Thornby filly was jumped on and slightly cut just below the fetlock. At the same time the plate was torn from her hoof. It was the fact that she hung out the record under such a handicap that made her race a remarkable one, and one to leave no doubt as to her courage.

The selling race for 2-year-olds went to the sweet filly, Penrose, sent to the post for the Triple Springs Farms by James Boden. She made all the pace and at all times held her company safe to beat home Nelle Yorke and Tommy Waac.

Otto Floto was the winner of the steeplechase from rather an ordinary lot of platers. New Haven raced to the place, while Royal Spinster, racing for Capt. Ral Parr, saved third from Melos and Emerald Isle.

William R. Scharton's imported colt was rather an easy winner of the 6-furlong dash for maidens, and the place went to Duke of Devonshire.

Blazonry, starting for the first time under the silks of Sam Louis, was another winner of the day.

First race, 2-year-olds, fillies, purse $600, 4 furlongs—Fannie Meehan, 112 (Byrne), $2.60, $2.50, $2.40, won; Ophelia, 107 (McGraw), $11.50, $6.60, second; Miss Inver, 107 (Ambrose), $3.80, third. Time, :47. Louise Mack, Marmo, Supercilious, Star Fancy also ran.

Second race, 4-year-olds and up, steeplechase, about two miles, $700—Otto Floto, 145 (H. Williams), $17.60, $5.90, $3.90, won; New Haven, 146 (Wilson), $3.60, $2.80, second; Royal Spinner, 143 (Allen), $4.60, third. Time, 4:14. Cynosure, Carl, Garter, Emerald Isle II., Melos, Ravebrook also ran.

Third race, selling, 4½ furlongs—Penrose, 103 (McGraw), $3.70, $2.70, $2.30, won; Nelle Yorke, 103 (Troise), $3.60, $2.80, second; Tommy Waac, 113 (Robinson), $3.60, third. Time, :55 1-5. Clip, Dunedin, Cainspring also ran.

Fouth race, maidens and winners of one race only, 3-year-olds and upward, $700, 6 furlongs—Cobalt, 115 (Robinson), $4.60, $2.30, $2.40, won; Duke of Devonshire, 115 (Dominick), $2.30, third. Time, 1:13 3-5. Plucky Hen, Marse Hughes, Uncle Sand, Driffield, Gallia, William Humphrey also ran.

Fifth race, 3-year-olds, claiming, $500, 6 furlongs—Blazonry, 115 (McAtee), $9.50, $4.90, $4.40, won; Poor Butterfly, 102 (Ensor), $22.30, $9.40, second; C. A. Comiskey, 109 (Rice), $7.20, third. Time, 1:13 2-5. Golden Glow, June Bug, Umatilla, Mohican, Vocabulary, Our Nephew, Juanita II., Assign also ran.

Sixth race, 3-year-olds and upward, $500 added, mile and 70 yards—George Starr, 117 (Kummer), $3.20, $2.90, $2.30, won; Berlin, 107 (Mergler), $7.50, $3.50, second; Polhoma, 107 (Stalker), $4.40, third. Time, 1:44 2-5. King Neptune, Woodstone also ran.

Seventh race, 4-year-olds and upward, claiming, purse $700, mile and 70 yards—Minto II., 98 (Mergler), $11.80, $10.36, $6.30, won; Brither Jonathan, 112 (McGraw), $12.70, $8, second; Baby Cal, 104 (Ereckson), $8.80, third. Time, 1:45 2-5. Hesse, Tranby, Dervish, Handful, Starter, Senator James, Generous, Comancho, Blue Thistle, Lazy Lou, Darkey also ran.

LEXINGTON

First race, 3-year-olds and up, claiming, $300, 6 furlongs—Yorkville, 109 (Gruber), $7.30, $5.40, $3.80, 1st; Peaceful Star, 109 (Dursch), $12.30, $8.10, 2nd; Jack K., 97 (Simpson), $3.70; 3rd. Time, 1:14 3-5. Vanessa Wells, the Duke, Martre, Billy Joe ran.

Second race, 2-year-olds, maidens, claiming, $600, 4½ furlongs—Carrie Moore, 104 (Willis), $3.10, $7, $4.10, 1st; Docod, 114 (Metcalf), $9.80, $4.50, 2nd; E. J. Lynch, 114 (McCabe), $3.30, 3rd. Time, :53. Ollie S., Genevieve Sweep, Lady Apt, Bulldoze, Lavender ran.

Third race, 3-year-olds and up; fillies and mares, $600, futurity course—Rahu, 103 (Morris), $19.90, $7.20, $4.30, 1st; Sun Flash, 112 (Connolly), $11.20, $5.50, 2nd; Petrovna, 113 (Sande), $3.30, 3rd. Time, 1:15 3-5. Rogmaroee, Mabel Trask, Ndio, Diversion ran.

Fourth race, 3-year-olds and upward, claiming, handicap, 6 furlongs—Chalmers, 115 (Morris), $6.20, $2.90, out, 1st; Prince Como, 115 (Goose), $2.60, out, 2nd; Faux Col. 111 (Howard) out, 3rd. Time, 1:13. Phocion ran.

WHITE SOX POUND INDIAN PITCHERS, WINNING GAME 8-4

Speaker Repeats Double-Play Stunt Pulled at Detroit.

CLEVELAND, April 29.—Chicago opened its series in Cleveland by hitting three Cleveland pitchers hard and winning 8 to 4.

After Williams had held Cleveland to three hits in six innings he lost his control and passed the first three men up in the seventh. Danforth relieved him and passed Chapman. Speaker singled and Danforth gave way to Cicotte, who allowed one more to score on a sacrifice fly.

A double play by Speaker was the feature of the game. With Collins on second and Jackson on first, Speaker trapped Felsch's fly, and tagged Collins, then touched second, forcing Jackson, thus repeating a play he worked on Detroit ten days ago. Score: R. H. E.

POOR WORK OF TIGER HURLERS LOSES GAME

ST. LOUIS, April 29. — Poor pitching by Mitchell and Finneran enabled St. Louis to win the opening game of the series from Detroit here today, 12 to 3. Mitchell leaves tonight for Camp Pike, having been drafted.

The three Detroit pitchers allowed St. Louis eleven hits, ten bases on balls and one hit batsman. In the fifth and eighth innings St. Louis batted around, getting five and four runs, respectively.

The score: R. H. E.

NEWS TO CONNIE MACK

PHILADELPHIA, April 29. — Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Americans, said today that the claim of Percy Haughton of the Boston team to the services of Scott Perry, a pitcher, was news to him. Mack said: "I signed Perry while we were training in the south. It appears he had been playing with various teams before coming to me, and I believed he had been made a free agent by the national commission. There is nothing for me to do but to await the result of the commission's action on Haughton's claim."

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION TO BAR FREAK BALLS

Chicago, Ill., April 30.—Managers of the clubs in the American Association are to meet here with President Hickey and his staff of eight umpires to reach an understanding in regard to the interpretation of the rule prohibiting the spit ball and other freak deliveries during the season which opens tomorrow. Pitchers will not be allowed to raise their hands to their mouth before delivery of a ball, President Hickey said. Neither will they be permitted to use emery or any other foreign substance to make the ball take a freakish pop.

LEE MAGEE seems to have found his long-lost batting eye since joining Cincinnati. In the second game of the season, in five times at bat, he made two doubles and three singles, and also accepted eight chances in the field without a blunder.

RICH STAKES READY FOR PIMLICO MEET

Purse Events To Have $110,000 in Added Money at the Annual May Meet of the Maryland Jockey Club—Preakness Feature of Program.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 29.—The greatest thoroughbreds of the leading Eastern States will gather at the Pimlico track this week for the May meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club, which will begin on Tuesday to run through till May 17. One hundred and ten thousand dollars will be added in Pimlico's stakes and purse events in the course of these fifteen days of racing, which will be marked by the running of the Preakness, $15,000 added, one mile and a furlong; the Pimlico Spring Handicap, $5,000 added, one mile and 70 yards; the Green Spring Valley Steeplechase, $3,000 added, two miles; the Spring Juvenile, $2,500 added, four and a half furlongs; the Pimlico Nursery, $1,500 added, four and a half furlongs, and the Aspirant Plate, a five-furlong subscription event for 2-year-olds, transferred to Pimlico from Piping Rock, in which the Maryland Jockey Club will add $500 in plate.

Good Racing Promised.

Better racing than Pimlico will offer this spring will never have been seen in Maryland. The brilliant performers of various ages which have been named for these valuable stakes are ready for the colors. Exceptionally propitious training weather through the last seven or eight weeks, and better than average training weather since the 1st of April, have enabled the trainers of the establishments that wintered in Maryland, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and on Long Island to send their charges along at a clip not often reached before the end of May.

The Preakness Feature.

The Preakness, in which the Woodlawn Vase, America's most famous competitive turf trophy, will be offered by Edward R. Bradley of the Idle Hour Stud of Kentucky, will attract a better field of 3-year-olds than either the Belmont or the Lawrence Realization has brought to the post in fifteen years. Among the first-class colts and fillies that are preparing for the Preakness are Lucullite, the sensation of the early spring meetings of 1917; Papp, winner of the Belmont Park Futurity; Lanus, an imported son of Llangibby, which raced with distinction in Maryland last fall; Tombolo, which George Wingfield of Nevada imported from Great Britain last summer; Rosie O'Grady, the smartest of the 2-year-old fillies of 1917, and there are a host of promising second-raters.

Of these second-raters, George Starr, Nepperhan, Charlie Leydecker, Jack Hare, Jr., Duke of Devonshire, Mary Maud, Johren, Foreground, Hillhampton, Sungold, Bonnie Broom and Out of the Way have raced and worked brilliantly at Bowie and Havre de Grace in the course of the last four or five weeks.

William P. Riggs, Pimlico's secretary, has been assured that Sun Briar, last season's biggest juvenile money winner; Escobia, winner of the Lexington Futurity; War Cloud, winner of the Walden Stakes at Pimlico in November, and Sewell Combs, a winner at Lexington as recently as last Wednesday, all will come east for the Preakness after the running of the Kentucky Derby for which they are training. The derby will be run on May 11, the Preakness on May 15.

Good Entry List.

Potential starters in the Pimlico Spring Handicap are Omar Khayyam, last season's Kentucky Derby, Saratoga cup, and Lawrence Realization winner; Hourless, his conqueror in the $10,000 match run at Laurel Park in October; Westy Hogan, winner of the $10,000 Bowie cup at Pimlico, and Cudgel, a Broomstick colt for which Commander J. K. L. Foss of the British Royal Navy paid $30,000. The veterans who may go are Ticket, Roamer, Stromboli, Startling, Phillipic, Hank O'Day, Leochares, Bayberry Candle, Crimner, Flittergold, Meteorite, Hauberk, Trial by Jury, Hendrie Borrow, Rickety, Straight Forward and Corn Tassel. Omar Khayyam, Westy Hogan, Cudgel, Leochares, Hauberk, Flittergold and three or four others are training for the Pimlico Spring Handicap at Benning and in Maryland. The others are in New York and New Jersey.

The most famous of the good jumpers preparing for the Green Spring Valley are St. Charlcote, Weldship, Bet, Town Hall, Brooks (winner of last fall's renewal of the $10,000 Manley Memorial), The Brook, Brentwood, Sunking, Shannon River, Trumpeter, Skibbereen and Louvois. And there are new ones of promise in these parts, notably Candle and Between Us.

Steeplechasing will be one of the most attractive features of the Pimlico meeting. The management has arranged for at least one of these spectacular events each day, and on some days there will be two.

The raising of the value of the Spring Juvenile to $2,500 in added money has had the effect of attracting to Maryland 2-year-olds of a quality that are not generally seen under colors until the first or second week of June. Some of the most brilliant youngsters of the strongest eastern stables will take part in it. Of the youngsters that have shown form already the most promising are The Wanderer, a $10,000 son of Vulcain and Rosetree II. (she the dame of Roamer), belonging to James W. McClelland; Samuel Ross' Ormonda, Harry Payne Whitney's Cresson and Blue Laddie, William Barth's Esquimau, C. E. Clements' Frizeur, and Edward McBride's Mrs. Kate Leydecker.

Other Spring Juvenile nominators fairly sure to be represented in the running of the race are August Belmont, Henry T. Oxnard, Alfred Hennen Morris, Thomas Clyde, A. King Macomber, Commander Ross, Edward B. McLean, John Sanford, Wilfred Viau, George D. Widener, Joseph E. Widner, W. R. Coe, Edward M. Weld, the Brighton stable, Richard F. Carman, Major Edward B. Cassatt, Major Gifford A. Cochran, Edward Cebrian, Samuel D. Riddle, Walter M. Jeffords, Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, Joseph L. Murphy and John Lumsden.

The Aspirant Plate subscribers are Archibald Barklie, R. F. Carman, Major Cassatt, F. Ambrose Clark, Major Cochran, W. R. Coe, Mrs. Joseph E. Davis, Samuel D. Riddle, Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, Walter M. Jeffords, Frederick Johnson, Willis Sharpe Kilmer, George W. Loft, John E. Madden, the Nassau stable, Morton L. Schwartz, Wilfrid Viau, George D. Widener and Richard T. Wilson Jun.

BENNY LEONARD MAY MEET CHARLIE WHITE

MILWAUKEE, April 29.—A boxing contest calling for 60 per cent of the gross receipts in Liberty bonds, to be divided between the contestants, has been offered for a ten-round bout between Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Charley White, to be staged in Milwaukee in May or June.

Ten per cent of the receipts, which goes to the state, and the promoters' share also would be devoted to the purchase of bonds.

A SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSES LOTS OF TROUBLE

When the liver becomes sluggish it is an indication that the bowels are not working properly, and if they do not move regularly many complications are liable to set in.

Constipation, sick headache, bilious headache, jaundice, heartburn, water brash, catarrh of the stomach, etc., all come from a disordered liver.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a specific for all diseases or disorders arising from a slow, sluggish, lazy or torpid liver, and they have been universally used throughout Canada for over 20 years with the greatest success.

Mrs. W. A. Harrison, 7 Poplar Grove, Halifax, N.S., writes: "I take pleasure in writing you concerning the great good I have received by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a sluggish liver. When my liver got bad I would have severe headaches, but after using a couple of vials of your pills, I have not been bothered any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

These City Physicians Explain Why They Prescribe Nuxated Iron

To Make Healthier Women and Stronger, Sturdier Men

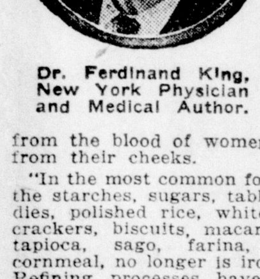

NOW BEING USED BY OVER THREE MILLION PEOPLE ANNUALLY.

By enriching the blood and creating thousands of new red blood cells, it often quickly transforms the flabby flesh, toneless tissues and pallid cheeks of weak, anaemic men and women into a glow of health—Increases the strength of delicate, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time in many instances.

It is conservatively estimated that over three million people annually in this country alone are taking Nuxated Iron. Such astonishing results have been reported from its use, both by doctors and laymen, that a number of physicians in various parts of the country have been asked to explain why they prescribe it so extensively, and why it apparently produces so much better results than were obtained from the old forms of inorganic iron.

Extracts from some of the letters received are given below.

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author, says: "There can be no vigorous iron men without iron. Pallor means anaemia. "Anaemia means iron deficiency. The skin of anaemic men and women is pale, the flesh flabby. The muscles lack tone, the brain fags and the memory fails and they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and melancholy. When the iron goes from the blood of women the roses go from their cheeks.

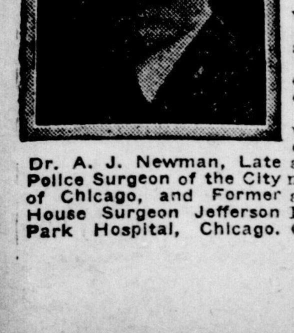

Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author.

"In the most common foods of America the starches, sugars, table syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soda crackers, biscuits, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farina, degerminated cornmeal, no longer is iron to be found. Refining processes have removed the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and silly methods of home cookery, by throwing down the waste-pipe the water in which our vegetables are cooked, is responsible for another grave iron loss.

"Therefore you should supply the iron deficiency in your food by using some form of organic iron, just as you would use salt when your food has not enough salt."

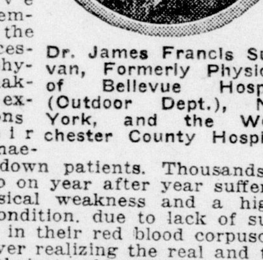

Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago and former House Surgeon, Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, in commenting on Nuxated Iron, says: "It has been my particular duty during the past six years to assist in keeping Chicago's five thousand bluecoats in good health and perfect fighting trim so that they would be physically equipped to withstand all manner of storms and the ravages of nature's elements.

Dr. A. J. Newman, Late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago, and Former House Surgeon Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago.

"Recently I was prompted, through an indorsement of Nuxater Iron by Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York, to give it a trial. This remedy has proven through my own tests of it to excel any preparation I have ever used for creating red blood, building up the nerves, strengthening the muscles and correcting digestive disorders.

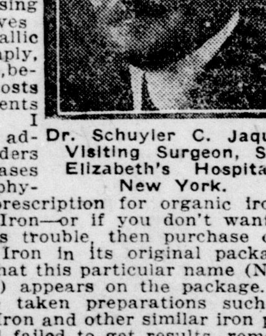

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Department), N. Y., and the Westchester County Hospital, said: "I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition, due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles, without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body, somewhat like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, Formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital.

"But in my opinion you can't make strong, vigorous, successful, sturdy iron men by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a semi-digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are so ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system.

"Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians, thousands of people still insist in dosing themselves with metallic iron, simply, I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble, then purchase only Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name (Nuxated Iron) appears on the package. If you have taken preparations such as Nux and Iron and other similar iron products and failed to get results, remember that such products are an entirely different thing from Nuxated Iron."

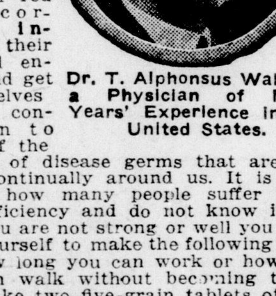

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York.

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital of New York City, said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication, as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

Dr. T. Alphonsus Wallace a physician of many years' experience in America, and who has been given many honorary titles in England, says: "I do not make a practice of recommending advertised medicinal products, but I have found Nuxated Iron so potent in nervous, run-down conditions that I believe all should know of it. The men and women of today need more iron in their blood than was the case twenty or thirty years ago. This because of the demineralized diet which now is served daily in thousands of homes, and also because of the demand for greater resistance necessary to offset the greater number of health hazards to be met at every turn."

If people would only take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak or run-down, instead of dosing themselves with habit-forming drugs, stimulants and alcoholic beverages, there are probably thousands who might readily build up their red blood corpuscles, increase their physical energy and get themselves into a condition to ward off the millions of disease germs that are almost continually around us. It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it.

Dr. T. Alphonsus Wallace, a Physician of Many Years' Experience in the United States.

"If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have most astonishingly increased their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this, after they had in some cases been going on for months without getting benefit from anything. Many an athlete and prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance, which comes from having plenty of iron in the blood, while many another has gone down in inglorious defeat simply for lack of iron."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE. — Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Standard Drug Company, and all other druggists.

Trifles That Make Perfection

Walking through our shops, a visiting buyer said casually, "What is the reason for putting such a brilliant finish on that shafting? I have noticed in several instances that you seem to spend time and labor upon little finishing touches that don't mean much, considering that the equipment is going into plants where nobody pays particular attention to looks."

Our Superintendent replied: "Your point is well taken and appreciated, but the reason for those finishing touches is this: From the time the raw material comes in to the time that the finished product is shipped out, we insist upon every process being completed to a point where that process represents perfection.

"We know that this extra effort will not be apparent to the eye of the buyer, but the difference in time occupied in turning out a commonplace job and one which has the touches which make for excellence is infinitesimal compared with the ultimate result in the efficiency of the finished product.

"Then there is another effect that is possibly not apparent to you, and that is this:

"The standards to which we work make our men take a greater pride in their jobs, for we may be old-fashioned in some respects, but we still like to imbue our men with the spirit of pride in perfect craftsmanship.

"What's the result? We get good work. We can afford, and do pay wages above the average. Consequently, Dodge Power Transmission Machinery has secured and maintains a reputation that is a credit to Canadian industry, and it enjoys a good-will amongst buyers that no money could buy."

The buyer replied: "I understand now why Dodge has become synonymous with efficient power transmission machinery."

Mr. Balfour's Opinion of Life Insurance

The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, who was through Canada a few months ago, expressed the following opinions upon life insurance some years ago. He said:

"I hardly understand what it is that you expect from me when you desire to have my opinion with regard to the desirability of enforcing the claims of life insurance on the community. That it is every man's duty to provide for those who are dependent on him in the case of his death is so obvious, and that there is no safer or more convenient method of attaining this object than by the method of life insurance, are truths so well known that nothing which I can say would give them greater weight than they already possess."

Can any man guarantee that after the war is over he is going to have more cash to spare for life insurance than he has today? Fill out and return the coupon below and we will send you rates and particulars with out obligation.

HOW UNITED STATES CHEMICAL INDUSTRIES HAVE GROWN.

[Reprint from Literary Digest, March 9, 1918.]

Before the war Germany sold to the United States somewhere in the neighborhood of $250,000,000 worth of chemicals every year. By the time the war is over Germany, in the words of a writer in the New York Times, "will have lost that valuable special commerce, because the chemists of the United States, spurred by necessity, have learned to do what the Germans accomplished." Prof. D. D. Jackson of Columbia University is quoted, after surveying more than three years of the war, as seeing it as a "struggle of the chemists, who were called upon to furnish materials for bombing and gassing, fuels for ambulances, supplies for automobiles and airplanes, guncotton for torpedoes, high explosives for depth bombs, cement for concrete defences, gas masks, oils and concentrated foods, potash, nitrogen and phosphorus compounds for fertilizer, khaki color for soldiers' uniforms, and numerous pharmaceutical products for hospitals. "Before the war Germany supplied the world with the better grades of chemical apparatus and reagents, and the United States alone bought many millions of dollars' worth of laboratory glassware annually. Since all of these importations ceased we have been able," Professor Jackson said, "to make our own glassware of a quality superior to that manufactured in Germany or Austria." Professor Jackson is quoted in detail.

"Before 1914 every pound of synthetic phenol came from Europe. Now a score or more plants are producing it in large quantities, chiefly for use in the manufacture of picric acid for war purposes." The September Chemical Engineer stated that the Edison works at Orange, N.J., are furnishing regularly 3,000,000 pounds of phenol a month.

"At the beginning of the war potash salts, as, for instance, pearl ash, was selling at less than three cents a pound, and shortly after the price rose to $1.50 a pound or more. Industrial establishments were obliged to use substitutes for all potash compounds or go out of business. Germany produced practically all of the potash at that time. Today many methods are employed in this country to produce potash, some of which may well compete with the German products after the war.

"Before the war Germany made most of our colors used in textiles, leather, straw, feathers, paper, ink, pigments, varnishes and for innumerable other products of our manufacture. At present we are ourselves manufacturing a quantity of color compounds equal to that used by us in normal times, and the number of colors produced is constantly increasing. Many concerns, now manufacturing dye-stuff intermediates, have their own nitric acid, oleum, nitration, sulfonation and acid recovery plants.

"With proper legislation we can manufacture on a competitive basis practically every chemical product which we now import. Cheap labor is not a factor of importance. The tremendous advantage which Germany had at the beginning of the war has taken more than three years to counteract, and the result has been an awakening in other countries to the necessity of furthering the chemical and metallurgical industries in every possible way.

"The Germans have for many years realized the grave necessity of furthering the work of the chemist and the chemical engineer for warfare, as well as for the necessities if industry in time of peace. They knew that by developing their enormous color establishments in peace times they were producing factories which could be readily changed over to explosive works in time of war.

"They realized that the industries for the fixation of nitrogen used in fertilizers in time of peace could also be used for the production of enormous quantities of picric acid and trinitrotoluene in wartime. They realized the necessity for acetone, synthetic phenol, industrial alcohol, and all the numerous solvents and compounds used in peace as a still greater necessity for war."

PUBLIC UTILITIES SHOULD BE MAINTAINED IN A GOOD STATE OF EFFICIENCY.

In view of the London Street Railway Company's appeal to the public for a favorable consideration of their position in regard to the maintenance and operation of their property at present low fares, it may be profitable to notice the active co-operation of high government authorities in the United States with the public utility operators in bringing their properties to that degree of efficiency essential to the demands being made upon them, as well as the maintenance of their credit to the end that necessary capital improvements may be made. We, therefore, cite the following correspondence:

LETTER FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY TO THE PRESIDENT

Washington, February 15th, 1918.

Dear Mr. President,—I beg to hand you herewith several memoranda and letter relating to street railway and other local public utilities furnishing light, heat and power, which I have been asked to bring to your attention by a committee representing public utility interests.

These papers indicate the existence of genuine apprehension regarding the adequacy, under present conditions, of the services and rates of local public utilities. The view is expressed that increased wages and the high cost of essential materials and supplies have affected them as they have affected everybody else, and that united effort will be necessary in order to meet alike the public requirements for service and the corporate financial needs upon which that service depends.

A Secretary of the Treasury, I must take official notice of these matters. It is obvious that every part of our industrial and economic life should be maintained at its maximum strength in order that each may contribute in the fullest measure to the vigorous prosecution of the war. Our local public utilities must not be permitted to become weakened. Transportation of workers to and from our vital industries and the health and comfort of our citizens in their homes are dependent upon them, and the necessary power to drive many of our war industries and many other industries essential to the war is produced by them. It may be that here and there, because of the prominence given to less important interests immediately at hand, state and local authorities do not always appreciate the close connection between the soundness and efficiency of the local utilities and the national strength and vigor, and do not resort with sufficient promptness to the call for remedial measures. In such cases, I am confident that all such state and local authorities will respond promptly to the national needs when the matter is fairly and properly brought before them.

Our public service utilities are closely connected with and are an essential part of our preparations for and successful prosecution of the war, and the unfavorable tendencies which the accompanying papers reveal may most effectively be checked, wherever they may be found to exist, and the needed relief obtained, only by prompt action on th part of the respective local authorities.

I earnestly hope that you may feel justified in expressing the conviction that the vital part which the public utilities companies represent in the life and war-making energy of the nation ought to receive fair and just recognition by state and local authorities. Cordially yours,

(Signed) W. G. McADOO.

The President, the White House.

THE PRESIDENT REPLIES.

The White House, Washington, February 19, 1918.

My Dear Mr. Secretary,—I have examined with care the memoranda and letters which you transmitted to me with your letter of the fifteenth, I fully share the views you express regarding the importance of the public service utilities as a part of our national equipment, especially in wartime. It is essential that these utilities should be maintained at their maximum efficiency, and that everything reasonably possible should be done with that end in view. I hope that state and local authorities, where they have not already done so, will, when the facts are properly laid before them, respond promptly to the necessities of the situation.

I shall be glad to have you communicate with the local authorities whenever the information in your possession suggests that such a course be desirable and in the national interests. Cordially yours,

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

Hon. William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury.

THINK! THINK! THINK!

WALL STREET CONDITIONS

It is not surprising when all energies are being devoted to making the Third Liberty Loan the greatest success of any ever offered by any Government that the market should have settled down into one of harmless action in either direction. Every investment house in the country is giving the full time and attention of its organization to the loan campaign, which is already on the last week of its allotted time, and great strides must be made this week to win the goal set by Mr. McAdoo, while some of the more enthusiastic patriots in the financial circles are ambitiously hoping for a large oversubscription which would undoubtedly give the kaiser, Hindenburg, Ludendorff, et al., a bombshell jar.

Theodore N. Vail, president of the American Telegraph Company, recently said, "Ordinary business at the present time is subservient to the necessities of the Nation at war, but a period is coming when ordinary business will return to normal. We must prepare for that time. We must serve ordinary business as much as we can without interfering with the conduct of the war. One of the best ways to do this is to buy Liberty Bonds plentifully." This is being done, and there is no doubt the full subscription will be reached. Meantime, the market has been more than quiet as witness yesterday's trading, when less than 170,000 shares were sold during the entire session. Under ordinary conditions, when faced with imminently ominous news such as has been reaching the news dispensaries during the last fortnight, the market would have declined badly, but in addition to the fact that the more active stocks are in strong hands, there has been a supporting element which has well done its duty, and while almost everyone expects an immediate rise in prices as soon realizable prospects obtain for a cessation of the conflict, if favorable to the Allies, it would not be without precedent, if, when that support, which the market has had, is withdrawn, prices should drop appreciably before taking their legitimate advance. This, however, would not endanger the investor's position, which is eminently safe on holdings purchased during last six month.

Telephone Economy Talk No. 11

Underground--

BENEATH London's streets run 16,766 miles of telephone wire. Seventy-seven per cent of all the city's telephone wires are underground.

¶ These underground wires are enclosed in lead covered cables, many of which contain 400 pairs of wires.

¶ Underground construction is difficult and expensive at any time. Because of its permanent nature a big percentage of spare plant must be buried when the ducts are laid. When the capacity of this spare plant is exhausted, the task of providing new underground distribution to serve present and prospective telephones is a colossal one requiring a large outlay.

¶ Four-hundred-pair telephone cable has advanced in price during the past three years more than 89 per cent.

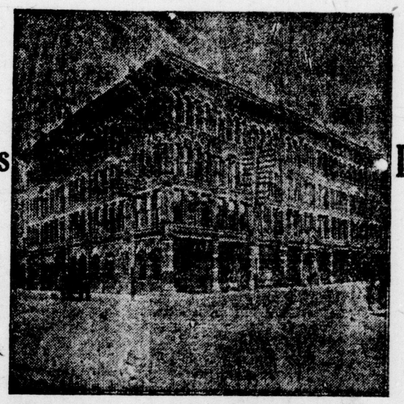

¶ We are endeavoring to avoid at this time the heavy outlay necessary for the laying of much underground cable. We ask that by with-holding all but the most urgent orders for telephone equipment you help us in this necessary war-time economy.

HIDDEN UNDER BUSHEL

This Is Where Farmer Is Alleged to Have Kept His Booze.

A farmer residing near Ailsa Craig will be tried this afternoon in the village hall there on a charge of having liquor on premises other than his private dwelling. Crown Attorney McKillop and County Inspector J. E. Keenleyside left for Ailsa Craig this afternoon for the trial.

The county license inspector will endeavor to show that the farmer kept the liquor in his barn instead of in the house. Instead of hiding his light under a bushel, it is alleged, he hid his whiskey under a bushel measure. All went well, it is claimed, until an Indian got a drink, and the latter spilled the beans.

SAYS BISHOP FALLON HAD NO INTENTIONS OF ANY IRISH TRIP

Catholic Record Also Denies Church Dispute Cause.

DEALS WITH RUMORS

Declares Trip to Rome Will Depend On Future Contingencies.

The Catholic Record today publishes the following editorial concerning the overseas trip of Right Rev. M. F. Fallon, bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of London:

Last week we published Bishop Fallon's official statement announcing that he would be absent for some time, and the reason therefor. Speculation has been rife as to other possible reasons, and a loose rein given to the imagination in formulating them. We are in a position to state positively that no statement other than that published in the Catholic Record last week has any authorization whatsoever, either direct or indirect, from Bishop Fallon.

Anybody or anything connected with French-Canadian interests or grievances in or out of the diocese of London had no more to do with his crossing the ocean than had the elder statesmen of Japan or Japanese interests in China.

It is extremely unlikely that he will go to Ireland at all; at any rate he had not the remotest intention of going there when he left London.

Whether or not he will go to Rome will depend on future contingencies. Bishop Fallon was not summoned to Rome; nor did anyone in Rome or at the apostolic delegation in Ottawa even suggest his going there for any purpose whatever.

In making the foregoing categorical statements we know whereof we speak.

To a certain extent, some of the inferences so freely made are justified. Before becoming Bishop of London, Father Fallon was provincial of the Northern Oblate Province in the United States. This was practically an episcopal position, and one perhaps as important as that which he now holds. It placed him in charge of the Oblate priests and missions from Lowell to Seattle. During that time also Father Fallon preached missions to the people in every state in the Union. He also preached many retreats to Knights of Columbus and lectured to non-Catholics under their auspices. He conducted diocesan retreats for priests for many years before he was made bishop, and every year save one since coming to London he has preached two or three retreats for priests in the States. Last year he gave the retreat to Cardinal Gibbons' priests in Baltimore, and also to the priests of the diocese of Wheeling. This year he was obliged to cancel engagements to preach two diocesan retreats in California. There is perhaps not a member of the American episcopate so intimately acquainted personally with his brother bishops, nor one who has come into such close relations with so many priests.

Those who know the strong, forceful and winning personality of Bishop Fallon, how good a "mixer" he is, need not be told that with such opportunities his circle of friends amongst the laity is also exceptionally large. It need not be said or insinuated that all his friends share his rugged convictions on all matters. But in spite of this, or perhaps rather because of this divergence of view, it would be difficult to find on the continent a man more fully qualified to speak for the Greater Ireland on this side of the Atlantic.

The papers remind us, also, that he is an Imperialist. Well, it is his settled conviction that British institutions which are rooted centuries deep in the Catholic life of England are the best and truest political expression of Christian liberty; that conviction was deepened by the unanimous testimony of his brother Oblates—Irish, French, Dutch, German—come together from all parts of the British Empire in general chapter at Rome. He has often publicly said that he is an Imperialist because he is a Catholic; because he believes that under the British flag the Catholic Church has the fairest and freest field for the accomplishment of her divine mission. This conviction and belief make him ready, willing, eager, to co-operate in anything that tends to perpetuate and render permanent the influence exercised by the British Empire on modern civilization. The grounds for Bishop Fallon's imperialism are as well known to his Protestant associates in England as they are to his intimates in Canada.

Furthermore, he stands staunchly for Irish self-government, in measure heaped up, pressed down and running over, in such measure as will settle once and for all the century-old dispute and establish forever real union between the peoples of the two islands.

The inference, then, that Bishop Fallon may be consulted on Irish and other matters is the only one of the many we have read that is not far-fetched or unwarranted. The surprising thing would be if he were not so consulted. To expand this fair inference from well-known facts into the positive statement that the bishop was invited by the British Government to settle the Irish question is saved by its absurdity from being mischievous.

KERENSKY MINISTERS MEET AT PETROGRAD; MAY MEAN NEW GOVT.

Monarchist Proclamation Is Rumored About To Be Made.

Berlin, April 30.—British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.—Baron von Dem Bussche-Haddenhausen, under secretary for foreign affairs, has wired General Count von Mirbach, the new German ambassador to Russia, asking him to report concerning the truth of numerous rumors of a monarchist restoration and disorders in Petrograd. It is stated here that a monarchist proclamation is imminent and that General Michael V. Alexieff, Alexander J. Juchoff, Paul N. Milukoff and Michael V. Rodzianko, all identified with the Kerensky regime, are in Petrograd. It is not considered improbable here that these rumors may be true.

"BLUE BONNETS" TO ESCORT 126 MEN TOMORROW

Category A Draftees Whose Exemptions Refused or Expired Report Wednesday.

From all parts of Military District No. 1 A Category men to the number of 126 will report here Wednesday for duty.

The men reporting are those whose exemptions have been refused by the central and county appeal judges or whose exemption extensions have expired.

The new arrivals will be immediately assigned for duty with the W. O. R. Depot Battalion.

The "blue bonnets" will be at the different railway depots to meet the incoming draftees and escort them to their quarters.

The next lot of men to follow after the arrival of the 126 tomorrow will be 150 men on May 8 of the the ages of 20, 21 and 22 years, called under the new order-in-council.

WESTERN ONTARIO BRIEFS

GALT.—Owing to the increase in the cost of all supplies the trustees of Galt Hospital plan to raise the rates. The hospital rates have been unchanged since the outbreak of war.

PELEE ISLAND.—An unusually large acreage of tobacco is being planted on the island this season. There will also be a big production of garden stuff.

GODERICH.—The big greenhouses of the Benmiller Nursery Company at Benmiller were considerably damaged by fire of unknown origin.

The $13,000 action of the National Match Company of Illinois against E. & E. Thomas of St. Thomas was laid over at the session of the non-jury court there yesterday.

Drilling operations on the filtration plant at Sarnia have been halted by the drafting of George Moneylaws, the driller, who was taken to London. Moneylaws notified the registrar of his change of address, but not occupation, he having secured exemption as a farmer.

Reports from Ilderton say that the majority of the young farmers of that district, called to the colors under the new ruling, are not waiting for orders to report, but are signing up voluntarily.

Miss Leona O'Neil of Clandeboye, who was injured in an auto accident near Chatham on Sunday, is reported recovering.

Seven men, agents for a Toronto music house, were rounded up at Woodstock for posing as returned soldiers. One, for being in uniform while not a member of the C. E. F., was fined $10 and costs.

Windsor has lost its distinction of being the only city in Canada to be using the old time. Following a meeting of manufacturers and businessmen, the council last night decided to fall in line with daylight saving, and the clocks were changed at midnight.

Railway department heads from St. Thomas, alarmed by the prospects of losing 300 young railway employees as a result of the M. S. A. changes, received little encouragement for hope when they interviewed the military headquarters' staff in London. The shopmen of the M. C. R. have been appealed to to conserve man-power. If the men are called 50 young firemen will be affected, as well as a number of mechanics, with the result, it is claimed, that many locomotives and other rolling stock will not be repaired.

The fire apparatus firm of W. E. Seagram & Co. of Walkerville, has made an assignment.

Winnifred Greenberry, the 15-year-old girl, who mysteriously disappeared from the St. Thomas' Children's Shelter is still missing. All efforts to trace her have proved unavailing.

Stratford has agreed to raise $15,000 for the overseas Y. M. C. A. campaign fund.

James Burns of Blyth, charged with selling liquor, was found not guilty in Clinton police court. A number of charges have been laid against Burns, but the authorities have been unable to prove any of them.

Presence of a large tarantula in the cell block at Windsor police station terrified prisoners there last night. After missing it with his gun a patrolman killed the animal with his club.

Fire did $500 damages at the home of Capt. Morrison on the River road near Corunna. A bucket brigade saved any further loss.

In a supreme court session at Woodstock judgment was reserved in the case of A. G. Macpherson against the Niagara Grain Company for $1,900. The shipment was refused because it was claimed to be not up to sample, and the plaintiff sued to recover the amount he paid.

Mayor Clements of Chatham, has been officially informed that the Duke of Devonshire will visit Chatham with his suite on May 31.

Rev. W. T. Cranston, pastor of the South Delaware Presbyterian Church, was presented with a purse of gold by the congregation on his departure for a charge in the Presbytery of Hamilton.

The Mason Theatre at Ingersoll was crowded to hear Mrs. Hutchinson, who has returned from overseas Y. M. C. A. work, tell of her experiences.

Misses Helen McDougall of Port Elgin, and Clara Vincent of Woodstock, are members of the graduating class of the Kingston General Hospital.

The tug Glen Erie, which recently went to the bottom of the harbor at Port Stanley, has been raised by the dredge Isobel. A new hull will be built.

At a meeting attended by more than 200 Oxford County farmers at Woodstock, a resolution to the Government was passed urging reconsideration of the military service act amendments. It was pointed out that seeding operations in the county are at a standstill, pending the results of the service call.

Information has reached relatives in Brantford that Pte. Alvin Stewart has again been recaptured after his second unsuccessful attempt to escape from Germany, where he has been a prisoner since January, 1916.

Many big power users at St. Thomas have been ordered to again use their steam plants as a result of the power controller's orders. The Michigan Central and Pere Marquette Railway shops are among the number.

WAR BULLETINS

Goto, Japan's new foreign minister, says Japan will make no move as regards Siberia without consent of the Allies.

Ting Chio Chen, Chinese military counsellor, who just reached U. S., says there will be 40,000 Chinese on the west front by early summer.

Simms, war correspondent, cables that Germany has used up seven-ninths of her reserves.

U. S. Govt. warns that new super-submarines of 1,800 tons are ready to operate in American waters.

International Institute of Agriculture announces that the prospects for the world's crop are bright. They will be well above past averages.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

The local market was small this morning. The farmers are busy seeding and cannot take the time off to drive ten or twelve miles to market.

There were small quantities of carrots, potatoes, beets, and similar vegetables offered. The demand is not brisk, however. Rhubarb, lettuce and green onions have a better sale, but the prices are unchanged.

Seed potatoes are being offered at $2 to $2.50 per bag, while food potatoes are selling for 35c to 50c peck. A few apples were offered at 40c for cookers to 60c per peck for table varieties. Cabbages are quoted lower, at 75c to $1.50 per dozen. Horseradish roots are being sold in bunches at 15c each. The demand is fairly brisk for this relish.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, April 30.—Oats opened unchanged for May at 86¾c; July ¼c lower at 85¼c.

Flax, 3c lower for May at $3 75, and July 4c lower at $3 75.

Inspections on Monday totaled 591 cars for all grades. Contract grades of wheat were 228 cars.

Chicago, April 30.—Opening: Corn—May, $1 27⅜; July, $1 49⅝.

Oats—May, 79⅝c; July, 72⅝c.

Chicago, April 30.—Forecasts of warmer weather, likely to facilitate planting, gave some advantage to bears in the corn market. The fact that old corn in cribs was certain to be further damaged by excess of moisture was also a disturbing influence. Opening quotations, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to ⅛c lower, with May at $1 27¾ and July at $1 49½@1 49⅜, were followed by a moderate upturn and then a sag lower than before.

Oats weakened with corn. Absence of any urgent shipping call was a handicap on the bulls. After opening unchanged to ¼c lower, with May at 79½@79⅝c, the market fluctuated rapidly, but for the most part under yesterday's finish.

COTTON.

New York, April 30.—A big advance in the cotton market this morning, due to excessive rains in the cotton belt, was checked toward noon by reports from Washington, published by a financial news agency, that movement was being agitated to close the cotton exchanges for the period of the war. Prices, which had advanced over $4 a bale above the previous closing, not only lost all this rise, but sold 3 to 5 points under last night's figures.

Liverpool, April 30.—Cotton—Futures closed steady. New contracts: May, 21.20d; June, 20.85d; July, 20.45d; August, 20.04d. Old contracts (fixed prices): May, 20:50d; May and June, 20.42d; June and July, 20.34d.

WALL STREET.

New York, April 30—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—The repulse of the German forces on the western front was reflected in the strong and broad opening of today's stock market. United States Steel changed hands in lots of 1,000 to 7,000 shares at an advance of 1 point. Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, Marine common and preferred, and various specialtise made similar gains. Motors, oils, Distillers, Alcohol and American Can also were strong, but rails held within fractional limits. Liberty bonds were irregular.

Noon.—Early gains failed to hold, leaders soon canceling the greater part of their advance on extensive profit-taking. Later there was a more general reaction which left most popular issues 1 to 2 points under yesterday's final quotations. The additional reversal was concurrent with reports that the Government contemplates further curtailment of trading in cotton and other commodities. There were rumors of a probable cut in the United States dividends. Steel not only yielded its early gain, but became heavy at noon at an extreme reaction of 2 points.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, April 30.—The stock market was firm today, but the customary holiday tomorrow had a further restricting effect on business. Tin mines, especially West Africans, were buoyant features, influenced by a further advance in the metal. Shipping shares rallied, and French rentes showed renewed strength. Japanese issues were good, following the cancelation of another £200,000 in bonds. Rubber stocks, particularly Javas, were dull. Money was in increased demand, and discount rates were steady.

ENTERS NOT GUILTY PLEA TO CHARGE OF FRAUD; IS REMANDED

Man Who Reversed Plea On Forgery Count Wants Jury Trial.

Frank Pohlmann, who pleaded not guilty in police court Monday, changing his previous plea of guilty, on a charge of forgery, entered a similar plea when arraigned in court today on a charge of fraud. He elected trial by jury and was remanded to jail until Monday for a preliminary examination.

The second charge, that of fraud, was laid by the crown, on information furnished by a representative of the Hamilton Insurance Agency of Hamilton.

The amount that Pohlmann is alleged to have defrauded the company out of is $10.

Counsel for Pohlmann will endeavor to prove alibis in each case, and will try and show that Pohlmann was in Buffalo on the days specified in the charges.

7TH GUARD DETAILS ENDING EXISTENCE AS UNIT TONIGHT

Absorbed With Special Service Unit in New Battalion.

Tonight the 7th Regiment Guard Details and No. 1 Special Service Company will go out of existence. These two home service units, the former a unit of the active militia and the latter of the C. E. F., will be absorbed by the 1st Battalion, Canadian Garrison Regiment, here.

Camp orders announce that they will pass into the strength of the garrison unit on May 1, and Lieut.-Col. Douglass, D. A. A. and Q. M. G., will temporarily command the new unit. He has up to the present commanded No. 1 Special Service Company.

The officers and men will be taken over by the new unit for the present at least. The two home service units upon whose activities the curtain goes down tonight have done excellent service in this district since their organization. They have performed most of the guard duties on public buildings here, and have handled men who returned from overseas for duty in Canada.

MEDICAL STATUS OF SOME RECRUITS WILL LEAVE FEW VACANCIES

Complete Complement of Tank Section, However, Has Been Signed On.

Were all the men taken on the strength of the Western University C. O. T. C. for the tank section, fit, recruiting for this unit would have been suspended this morning until authorization was secured to raise an additional section. A section calls for 43 rank and file, and the forty-third man signed the roll this morning. However, a number of those signed were found not fit, and this will make berths for a few more men.

Dozens of young men are going to be disappointed. They wrote to the tank headquarters here, asking that berths be held for them. However, the only way to secure these berths is by signing on.

There was quite a rush at the tank quarters today. Monday's mail carried to many of these applicants their notice to report to the W. O. R. They rushed to the tank headquarters in the hopes that they might be able to ride after Fritz instead of walk. They were too late, however. Men who have received notice to report cannot be taken on the tanks. However, not a few of those who signed on are young men who have been expecting the call any day.

The second course of the Western U. C. O. T. C. will start tonight at 7 o'clock at the armories. It is expected that there will be quite a rush of young men to try for lieutenants' certificates. Drill instructors will be on hand and a start on the instruction will be made at once. It is expected that the course will take about fourteen weeks. Men who have signed with the tanks will make a start at drill and will continue until sent to Ottawa.

LIEUT.-COL. SUTHERLAND MAY RETURN TO CANADA

Former O. C. of 71st Said to Have Resigned Depot Battalion Command.

Lieut.-Col. Donald M. Sutherland, M.D., former commanding officer and organizer of the 71st Battalion, has, it is reported, resigned his command as lieutenant-colonel in charge of a depot reserve battalion in England.

Lieut.-Col. Sutherland was one of the soldier candidates defeated in the recent Dominion election, and has a great war record, having gone overseas with the 1st Battalion as a major, and was wounded at the historic battle of Langemarck, and mentioned for gallant service.

He came home in June, and the following July went overseas again as the O. C. of the 71st London Battalion. He was given command of the 74th Toronto Battalion, but was severely wounded in September, 1916. He was invalided back to Canada, but went back to command the depot unit from which he has just resigned. It is believed that he will be invalided back to Canada.

FINN WHITE GUARDS HAVE TAKEN VIBORG, KILLING 6,000 REDS

Rebels Make Last Desperate Try at Breaking Through.

London, April 30.—The White Guards, or Finnish Government forces, have captured Viborg, 75 miles northwest of Petrograd, after killing nearly the entire force of 6,000 Red Guards, according to an official announcement issued at Vasa, and transmitted from Copenhagen by the Exchange Telegraph Company. The rebels made a last desperate attempt to break through in the direction of Frederikshamn.

A GREAT RESERVE.

The Algonquin Park of Ontario is easily accessible by the Grand Trunk Railway from all the principal centres. It is about 200 miles north of Toronto, and may be reached also through Ottawa, being about 170 miles west of the Capital City. There are more than 1,500 lakes and rivers in the park, and to the excellence of the fishing there is undisputed testimony. Fish caught in the waters of the reserve have won each year many of the national competitions open to the anglers of the continent. While the park makes an especially strong appeal to the fisherman and canoeist, it is a vacation territory where each member of the family may find healthful recreation in the great out-of-doors. Good hotels. Illustrated descriptive literature and all particulars may be had on application to any Grand Trunk agent, or to C. E. Horning, D. P. A., Toronto, Ont. b

It would be well to remember that the retail jewelers of London will be closed on Wednesday afternoons beginning next Wednesday, May 1, till the end of September. Heretofore they have not closed in the months of May or September. The public sympathizes with the different trades who take these half-holidays, and they can show real, practical aid by shopping on Wednesday mornings. b

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE BEST BRITISH METHODS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The Anglo-Saxon people are tacitly divided into two classes, Englishmen and Cockneys. The former are loved and respected for their sterling, upright and manly qualities. The latter are despised and detested for their contemptible, overbearing and boorish behavior.

English or British rule makes friends of the governed. The people of Egypt and South Africa are two recent instances. The other British colonies are proofs of long standing that English methods are conducive to binding in bonds of firm friendship people of British and alien blood in a grand Imperial union.

The aim of every true Englishman is that British rule shall be so humane, just and beneficent that all people under the British flag will be so contented and happy that they will not desire a change until the second coming of Christ, and then his further desire is that it will be a glorious transition from that rule to that of the Prince of Peace.

History teaches that no intelligent people ever rebelled against British rule. There is absolutely no exception. But just let British methods be supplanted by Cockney methods and the world can look out for insurrections, rebellions and revolutions. The American colonies furnished the rebellion against Lord North's Cockney policies. The United States of America is the concrete evidence that a revolution has taken place.

When France was in the throes of a revolution against tyranny, Charles James Fox pleaded for a people struggling for liberty. For the time, English sentiment did not respond to his appeals. His opponent, "The Younger Pitt," appealed to Cockney sentiment and brought about an unnecessary war with France, even against the wishes of Napoleon for more friendly relations with England. In the end, Fox was triumphant even in death, for in 1814, British plenipotentiaries in Vienna insisted upon a fair treatment of prostrate France. Since that time, Great Britain has accorded France such treatment, that in 1854-55 they were allies in a war against Russia. In this great world struggle, Great Britain has discarded one-time Cockney treatment of the French, and has availed herself and allies of the services of French generals as commanders-in-chief of the Allied forces, first of General Sarrail in Greece, and lately of General Foch on the western front. Thus by fair treatment France has become the firm ally of Great Britain. Fox and his noble sentiments and efforts are held in the highest esteem and reverence by Frenchmen today. Pitt and his Cockneyism were execrated over a century ago; today they are unpleasant memories.

Ireland, today, furnishes an example of the failure of Cockney methods for centuries. The survival of Cockneyism has prevented Mr. Gladstone Herbert Asquith and David Lloyd George of solving the home rule question and making a discontented and rebellious people a loyal, integral part of the empire. English methods are today recognized as the only solution of the vexed Irish situation by statesmen like Herbert Asquith and Lloyd George. Cockneyism, with Nero-like insanity and persistence, fiddles on hatred and harps upon bigotry in face of an impending world-calamity.

The Irish question is one for imperial statesmen to grapple with, but in Canada we have a question to solve also. Borden and Bourassa formed a political liaison, an unholy and unBritish alliance or union, to defeat Laurier. For a time they found the expediency worked. Then arose new questions and conditions, and the political sky was closely scanned for a means of dispelling the impending storm. Bourassa would not do for a rain-maker, so Borden looked around for thunder. True to his political ideals, he called up his arts to avert a political catastrophe. Then was launched the cry, "Shall a united Quebec rule all Canada?" thereby arraying race against race and stirring up religious bigotry, but leaving a people sullen and wounded, a people that were by force of arms in 1763, compelled to become British subjects. So just was British rule with this conquered people that they refused solicitations of the seceding colonies to the south to depart from under the folds of Old England. The most bitter enemies of the French-Canadians are compelled to admit their loyalty to Britain in the war of 1812-13-14.

If English methods or policies, as advocated by Fox, had made two ancient and inveterate enemies like France and Great Britain friends and allies, why not try the same methods with the people of Quebec?

The Tory and Union Government press evade or are blind to the fact that Quebec is not disloyal. The noble, generous and gallant people of Quebec do not want a hand extended to them that is gloved with the dross of Cockneyism. Extend to them a hand that is British and they will as impulsively grasp it as did their kinsmen of Eurpore knowing that such a hand is of a people whose sentiments are like unto pure gold.

Shall English-speaking Canadians ask French-speaking to do something that is alike detestable to both?

The people of Canada are under a delusion if they think Sir Robert Borden can extend that hand, as the French people regard Bordenism and Cockneyism as synonymous.

Canada should profit by England's mistake with her American colonies and not let Sir Robert Borden become the Lord North of Canada. Also, it is time that Canada should discard methods that were failures in the past and are doomed to be failures in the future.

Let Canada be once more united and remember that a Cockney is the worst enemy that the British Empire has, or ever did have.

NO NATION GREATER THAN ITS WOMANHOOD IS LESSON OF WAR

Mrs. Becker Tells What Is Being Done.

Mrs. Becker, a charming and convincing speaker from Toronto, addressed the Women's Political Association at the Y.W.C.A., King street, on Monday evening on "What Women in Other Countries Have Done."

"No nation can rise greater than its womanhood, and we should say motherhood, too," she said; "especially when we look back and see what the French women have done since the beginning of the war. The French women have always been associated with frivolities and furs and frills, but no woman in any country can do more than these women have done.

"We dare not think what would become of civilization but for these women. They have not just heard what has been done by Prussianism, but they have felt the rod. Even the smallest child has been known to pile lumber, and our little Canadian children do not know what half an hour of real work is. Because I have said this about the French women, do not for one moment think that I am forgetting our own Canadian women, because I know that when they get started in a good work they are absolutely irresistible, although some of the men in Ontario must be from Missouri; so we shall have to show them just what the women of this province can do. (Laughter.)

The women of Australia are far ahead of us today, their infant mortality is the lowest of any country, and for every child that is born a birth grant is given. New Zealand is far ahead of us, too, though many people look upon this as quite a barbarous little country, but it has had women voters for the past 27 years, and there are other larger countries which are following the example of this little British colony.

"Since the war crime has increased greatly, as may be seen by the criminal records of almost all countries, and even in England, where the finest and best of women have sacrificed everything and are working in almost every concern where a woman can be employed, we find crime pushes itself in. It is largely due to the unsettled conditions of society."

Mrs. Becker stated that she thought more women should occupy seats in the legislatures, only two women in the whole Dominion occupying seats, and these being in Alberta. Miss Lukes tendered Mrs. Becker a hearty vote of thanks, on behalf of the club.

GERMANS KILLING ALL WOUNDED IN DRIVE, SAYS NURSE

London Girl Serving in France Writes of More Kultur.

James Stewart, cashier of McClary's, today received a letter from his sister, Miss B. M. Stewart, a nurse, attached to a hospital train at the front in France, in which she stated that the Germans in their advance are killing all wounded.

Miss Stewart's letter was written on a couple of days after the big German drive started. She said that the wounded being brought in would not stay in the hospitals, for fear that the German drive might reach the hospital, and they would then have no chance. The result was that the trains were taxed beyond their capacity, making the work of the staff difficult. The only rest that the nurses had been able to get were sleeping on the floor of the hospital cars.

Miss Stewart went overseas with the Queen Alexandra nurses. Miss Ruth Rollins, another London girl, is serving with her.

MARY PICKFORD IN AMUSING PHOTOPLAY AT THE MAJESTIC

'Amarilly of Clothesline Alley' Her Latest and Greatest Success.

TODAY AND WEDNESDAY

Hundreds See "the Sweetheart of the Screen" in Character Role.

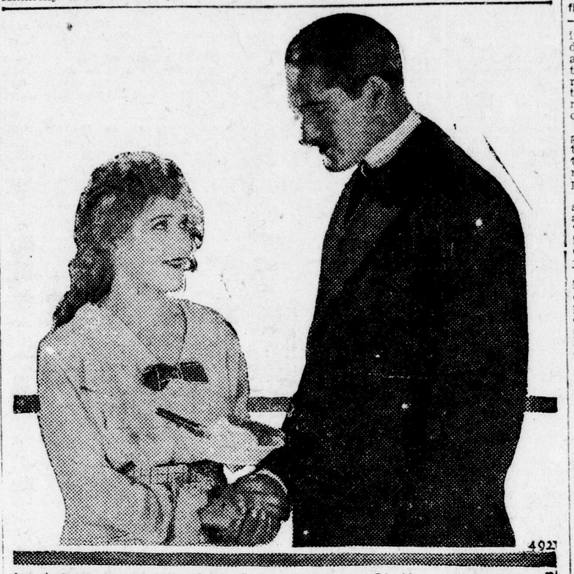

Mary Pickford, the most popular motion picture star in the world, is at the Majestic Theatre again today and Wednesday in her latest achievement of the silent art, "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley."

In this photoplay "the Sweetheart of the Screen" is given a role that affords her wide scope to display her ability. Taken on the whole, it is one of the most entertaining bits of comedy seen in this city in many months.

The action of the play takes place in New York, and Amarilly is the daughter of an Irish washerwoman, who has to earn a living for five boys as well as a girl. The thread of the plot is not important, as it only exists to display the various types in the alley. Amarilly attracts the attention of a rich young waster, who introduces her to his aunt. She happens to be a woman who makes a fad of social uplift, and she accordingly tries the effect of Fifth avenue environment on Amarilly and her family. The results of her efforts provides some funny scenes, but the best part of "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley" consists of episodes showing the love affair of Amarilly and Terry McGowan, and also the scraps of Amarilly's small brothers with the other boys of the alley. There are a number of clever young people in the cast, and Kate Price, as Amarilly's Irish mother, is also excellent. Many picture patrons felt that "Stella Maris" hardly came up to the Pickford standard. Admirers of Locke's book thought that Miss Pickford was hardly fitted for the task of impersonating Stella Maris, and admirers of Mary Pickford declared that the story did not give their favorite chances to do her best work. There should be no such division of opinion regarding "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley." It is one of the best of the Pickford comedies.

A side-splitting Lyons and Moran comedy and a news weekly, showing interesting and educational scenes, are presented on the same bill with Mary Pickford again today and Wednesday.

The Majestic Concert Orchestra, London's most popular and best musical organization, introduces novelty numbers during the progress of the show. As a special attraction, Wilbert McKenna, trap drummer, and George Harvey, piccolo player, render a difficult musical selection.

REORGANIZE "U" C. O. T. C.

Committee of Military Education for Western Now Appointed.

The Western University Contingent of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps has been reorganized. The appointment of a committee of military education in connection with it is announced in camp orders today.

Dr. E. E. Balthwaite, president of the university, is also president of the new committee. The university members are Major T. J. Murphy, O. C. of the C. O. T. C. here, and Capt. K. P. R. Neville. Ross Clark is secretary of the committee, and will also act as adjutant of the unit, while Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, A. A. G. for this district, will represent the general staff on the committee.

PATRICIA

Viola Dana in "A Weaver of Dreams," Shirley Mason in "The Apple-Tree Girl," big "V" comedy, a Canadian scenic, and Mlle. La Toy's canine models make up an excellent bill at the Patricia Theatre the first three days of this week.

The vaudeville attraction is perhaps one of the best animal acts ever seen in this city. The skill with which the dogs perform their parts shows long and patient training on the part of their owner. The setting for this act represents a huge picture frame and the lighting effects produce a beautiful result on the posing of the well-trained canines.

VIOLA DANA in "A WEAVER OF DREAMS"

At the Patricia Theatre today and Wednesday. Also Shirley Mason in "The Apple-Tree Girl," comedy, scenic film, and Mlle. La Toy's canine models.

"Weaver of Dreams" is one of those genuine photodramas that go straight to the heart. There are smiles and tears, joys and sorrows, all in a moment. "Weaver of Dreams" is powerfully human.

Old New England is the scene of the story, and the "types" are quaint and appealing. The old musician, the "weaver of dreams" himself, vies in interest with the adorable spinster, Cynthia Bancroft, who sends him a jar of jelly every day.

"Weaver of Dreams" is a story of the heart, and Miss Dana excels in her characterization. The action takes place in a rural community, filled with quaint types of humanity, where, amid simple surroundings, a drama of the human heart is played and reaches its dynamic denouement.

LATE JUDGE BARCLAY CAME FROM HYDE PARK

Judge John H. Barclay, formerly of Hyde Park, and one of the pioneers of California, died recently at his home in Los Angeles. He resided there since 1895. He was buried by the Oddfellows, of which lodge he was a charter member. He was also a member of the Masonic Order. He leaves a son and daughter, also a sister, Mrs. R. Cummings, and one brother, Mr. Donald Barclay, of Hyde Park.

GIVEN INCREASE

Journeymen Bricklayers Reported to Have Got Five Cents an Hour Boost.

Local bricklayers have been granted 5 cents per hour increase to take effect the 1st of May, it is reported. The contractors when questioned in reference to the report would not confirm it, neither would they deny it.

The men asked for a larger increase, but a compromise was reached by the contractors and their men, it is said.

The prevailing scale is now 55c per hour, which will be increased to 60c at the first of May.
