Extracts from the Diary of Lieut. Craven, the Physician in Charge During Davis's Incarceration.

CLOTHS TWEEDS, (From the Washington Post.) Among the multitudinous documents in the Library at Fort Munroe, there is not one of more absorbing interest than the diary of Lieut. John J. Craven, Surgeon United States Volunteers, who was physician in charge of the fort when Jefferson Davis was a prisoner within its walls. The diary gives a graphic account of the prison life of Mr. Davis and contains many incidents that reflect his devotion to the lost cause. It covers a period of about six months, during which time Dr. Craven attended the President of the and Trouserings, Confederacy almost daily.

The propeller William P. Clyde, having on board several important prisoners, dropped anchor in Hampton Roads on the 19th day of May, 1865. The prisoners were Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy: Alexander H. Stephens, Vice-President; John H. Reagan, Postmaster-General; Clement C. Clay, and others of lesser note. Mrs. Davis and four children were also on board the Clyde, which lay in the Roads several days before any move was made to transfer the prisoners. On may 21 Mr. Stephens and Mr. Reagan were removed to the gunboat Tuscarora, which immediately started with them for Fort Deleware. Gen. Nelson A. Miles arrived at Fort Monroe from Baltimore on the afternoon of May 22. He relieved Col. Roberts of command of the fort, and at once made reparations for the transfer of Mr. Davis to his prison house. Rows of guards were stationed on either side of the route from the engineer's landing, where the prisoners were to be put ashore, to the water battery postern. That was done to keep back the crowd that had gathered to catch a glimpse of the distinguished prisoner. Mr. Davis wore a plain suit of Confederate gray and a gray slouched hat.

"They are orders for a jailor, for a hangman, which no soldier wearing a sword should accept. I tell you the war is over, the South is conquered. CALL FOR A CONVENTION.

The friends of the local Government in York county are requested to meet in convention at Temperance Hall, Fredericton, on Friday, October 4th, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of selecting candidates to contest this constituency in the pending election. W. WILSON,

THOS. H. COLTER. JOHN ANDERSON. Fredericton, Sept. 27th.

A GENERAL ELECTION.

The local legislature of this province has been dissolved and a general election ordered, nomination on Wednesday Oct. 9th and polling in contested constituencies on Wednesday Oct. 16th. The contest therefore, must be short, and three weeks from to-day, THE HERBLD will be able to announce the result.

In another column we publish the address of Hon. A. G. Blair, premier, to the electors of New Brunswick, setting forth some of the chief reasons why the Government should be sustained in this fresh appeal to the country, and we think it will convince every man whose mind is open to conviction, that the administration of public affairs has been in the hands of a wise, prudent and economical government. It is with the utmost condict in the present instance. When the government came into power in March 1883, it found that many abuses had crept demand for economy and retrenchment; that the governmental machinery was too great for a small province such as this; that new legislation bearing on some of the most important interests of the country was urgently required, and the government backed by the legislature, set immediately about to effect the desired reforms. The old executive council consisted of nine members, the number has now been reduced to seven, effecting quite a large saving. Mr. Blair believed the legislative council to be a useless and after a determined fight he abolished it, for an enlargement of the franchise, and

Mr. King was foreman in Kilburn & McIntosh's lumber operation and had been cruising and arranging camps during the past two months. On Sunday afternoon, he and his brother Fred, also a citizen of Fredericton, were out deer hunting, and Edward carried a Snider-Enfield rifle over his shoulder with the muzzle to the front. Tripping he fell to the ground, and the rifle was discharged, the bullet entering his right temple, a little above the eye, terribly shattering his head. It literally ploughed its way through the top of his head laying bare the brain. His brother carried him to the camp a short distance away, but there was no doctor within fifty miles, and in less than two hours after the accident the unfortunate man breathed his last. The re-

THE HOUSE DISSOLVED.

And a General Local Election Ordered for Wednesday, Oct. 16th.

PREMIER BLAIR ISSUES AN ABLY WRITTEN MANIFESTO TO THE ELECTORS,

Vindicating the Policy of the Government for the Past Thirteen Years.

To the Electors of New Brunswick: Gentlemen: The statement has been made with such persistency for weeks past, in the newspaper press, that a general election for the provincial legislature will take place this fall, that the official announcement of a dissolution of the assembly, which his honor the lieutenant governor, on the advice of his ministers, now permits me to make, will occasion no surprise.

The reasons which have influenced the government in shortening the ordinary legislative term, and making an appeal to the country at the present time rather than six months hence cannot be far to seek; and must have not only suggested, but comended themselves already to the public judgment, otherwise the government's intention as to dissolution would not have been predicted with such confidence and so considerable an approach to accuracy, almost, I may say, before members of the executive themselves had begun seriously o consider the question. It will occur to anyone whose attention is directed to the study of political movements, that a government

Which has Nothing to Fear but everything to gain from an examination house all summer at Prof. Downing's of its record upon merits of that record alone, would greatly prefer that people should be enabled to express their opinion upon its conduct of affairs, unembarassed by the pendency of the greater issues involved in an election for the federal parliament. Such an opportunity seems to offer now, and we fear might not be afforded the electors of the province later, if we should defer our appeal to you until the country was either in the midst of, or had just passed through a federal contest. I shall gladly allow my name to be offered to the convention shortly to be called together, for nomination as a candidate, with my colleague, Mr. Ferris, for the represent ation of the county of Queens, which county did me the honor of returning me in 1892 as one of its representatives by an almost unprecedented majority. In soliciting at your hands a renewal of

R. CHESTNUT & SONS. Facts! Facts!

IT is false economy to refuse a good article and accept a poor one because of the low price. All goods cost money to produce. The better the good the greater the cost. There are certain prices below which no good, henest materials can be tought. If you pay less, you get loss, no use dodging the fact. We always tuy the best and sell the best, we don't believe in shoddy. We have just received one curload of STOVES and we consider them THE BEST in the market of their kind, and we invite the public to look them over if they are in want.

WE have just received a lot of Coffee Pots, and after testing one ourselves in our own family, we are safe in recommending it and also in saying that there is no better way in the world of making coffee than by steaming it. By this process you secure all that is delicious and beneficial, and reject the rank, injuri us part. You can't spoil your coffee; no eggs are needed to settle it; the coffee cannot boil; all the fine aroma is retained.
