A WARNING!

FIG. 2.—POTATO CANKER.
 A. A plant of diseased potatoes as it appears when dug; showing in the centre a partially sound tuber covered with excrescences caused by the fungus at the base; also showing six malformed tubers adhering to the plant.
 B. Two tubers natural size badly diseased.

Look Out for the Potato Canker.

The attention of Newfoundland Farmers, especially Potato Growers, is directed to the outbreak of a Serious Potato Disease, which will, if care is not exercised, render the cultivation of this important crop a practical impossibility. Farmers are requested to carefully study the description of this trouble and to strictly follow the directions given for the prevention of the disease. It is hoped that every farmer will aid the Department of Agriculture and Mines to arrest the spread of this serious malady and thus protect his own interests and also safeguard the interests of his fellow countrymen.

APPEARANCE OF THE DISEASE.
 (See illustration).
 When a diseased crop of potatoes is harvested the tubers (potatoes) saved, will not appear smooth and round, but they will be covered with more or less large warty excrescences or wrinkled outgrowths. Sometimes a tuber will show only a few small markish knobs or wrinkles situated near and around the so called "eyes" of the tuber; sometimes more or less than half of the tuber will be changed into such a wrinkled warty mass or the tuber may be covered all over by this mass. If the latter stage is present, the potatoes have lost their form and shape and almost look like lumps of earth or coke. Many tubers will be found to be wholly decayed, being soft and brownish inside and giving off a very unpleasant odour, when broken.

CAUSE OF THE DISEASE.
 It is not desirous to burden the minds of the growers with a technical description of the cause of this disease, but a few remarks are necessary to explain how the disease comes about, so as to make the farmer understand the nature of the trouble and to enable him to protect his future crops. We all know the dreadful disease known as cancer from which many unfortunate men and women suffer. This disease is caused by a germ which may affect any part of the human body. Where this germ is present it greatly irritates the affected parts and more or less large tumor swellings are produced. Now the disease in the potatoes is very much like a cancer for which reason it is known as Potato Canker. It is also caused by a germ which irritates the affected parts of the potato tuber and produces "tumors" in the form of the warty wrinkly excrescences already described and represented in the accompanying illustrations. It must, however, not be concluded that the germ causing potato canker may cause human cancer—this is not possible under any circumstance.

PREVENTION OF THE DISEASE IN POTATOES.
 The germ that causes the disease lives almost exclusively in the potato tubers, and when a diseased crop has been grown on a field, it will become contaminated with the germs of the disease. Now we can at once understand that firsts when a diseased tuber is planted, the disease will appear, because the germ in it will develop, and secondly: when potatoes are planted on a field which has borne a diseased crop, they will be attacked by the germs left in the soil.

In consequence the prevention of the disease is very simple and when the directions are carefully observed the disease will disappear as suddenly as it made its appearance. A crop once attacked cannot be cured and is doomed.

(1) Always examine every tuber that is to be planted and do under no condition plant any other than perfectly smooth tubers, firm, crisp and sound and reject any that are covered even with the slightest sign of a wart or excrescence. You will never get a healthy crop unless you plant healthy tubers to begin with. (Make this practice a golden rule, as this remark applies equally to any blight or disease of potatoes, propagated by unsound tubers).

(2) A field that has borne a diseased crop of potatoes should not be used again for the cultivation of this crop unless it is thoroughly disinfected. Turnips, cabbage, oats, carrots, onions or any other crop but potatoes of any kind may safely be grown on such land, without fear of their becoming diseased in the same way. To disinfect fields that have produced a diseased crop, apply to its surface three tons of fresh or crushed stone lime per acre and then plough it and grow in rotation any of the crops mentioned above, until after six years the ground becomes again fit for potatoes.

(3) Diseased tubers are unfit for human consumption even if ever so slightly affected. Neither should they be allowed to remain on or in the ground, as the writer has found in the general practice, for stock to feed upon them, because the germ is very long lived and will pass through the animal's body unharmed and contaminate any land upon which the droppings of animals will fall. It is best to collect carefully every diseased tuber or portion thereof and to bury them, applying a good quantity of fresh lime, as is practised where cattle die of anthrax. This "pit" containing the diseased potatoes should be left undisturbed for at least six years.

(4) Every farmer will now be able to realize why under no circumstances diseased tubers should be sold, or given away, or exported; for diseased tubers will introduce the disease into new localities. Any one offering for sale tubers affected by this disease makes himself guilty of a serious offence; not only would he be responsible for causing a severe loss to his client, but also for the actual spreading of so serious a disease. And against this spread all Newfoundland farmers should fight to make it impossible for any body to sell any other but sound and good potatoes. Any farmer knowing of the presence of this disease would render a very useful service to his fellow countrymen by immediately reporting the outbreak to the Department of Agriculture and Mines, and by doing all to caution his neighbours from using potatoes coming from infected areas.

(5) In conclusion it must be pointed out that where doubt exists as to the identity of the disease, suspected tubers should be sent at once to the Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Mines, St. John's, who will have them carefully examined and reported on whether they are fit to be used or not.

The Bread and Butter Age.

The growing child needs more good food at frequent intervals than the adult. Nothing is better and safer between meals than a slice of the good home-made bread. Formerly graham or whole wheat bread was favored; but Dr. Woods Hutchinson, the prominent hygienic writer, and other experts, have pointed out that the coarser flours are really less easily assimilated and are inferior in food value to the best white flour.

"Beaver" Flour

is a product uniting the merits of the coarser flours with the delicate, white, appetizing qualities appreciated by children and grown people alike. It is not a crude mixture, but an exactly proportioned scientific blend of Manitoba Spring Wheat and Ontario Fall Wheat. The famous Manitoba No. 1 Hard contains the gluten and proteids which build bone and sinew, and we balance this with the right proportion of the best Ontario wheat, softer, whiter and richer in carbohydrates, to make a perfect food. For bread, cake and pastry, use BEAVER FLOUR.

“No, miss, better not, for your sake as well as mine. If anything comes of it, whatever it may be, it will be nicer for you to be astonished and surprised, and he held out his hand. She put the letters into it, and he examined them with a keen eye. “Yes, it is the same kind she wrote at the bank,” he muttered. “How do you know that?” she asked, with a start. He smiled. “Opened a small account there myself now, and had to sign my name in the same book, and right under Miss Woodleigh’s.” Laura nodded—the man’s ingenuity startled and alarmed her. He stood for a moment turning the letters over, then he looked up at her thoughtfully. “Just seen them drive by—they make a handsome couple, miss,” he said. “Shouldn’t wonder if the wedding don’t come off pretty soon.” “Why?” she asked, sharply. “Well, you see, Sir Talbot is queer and weakly, and likely to go off any moment, and it is only natural he should like to see them settled and happy before he goes.” She breathed hard. “It must not be!” she whispered huskily. “You—you said, you led me to believe that, that it would be broken off—if I promised to assist you.” He shook his head doubtfully. “To tell you the truth, miss, I thought I’d got things in better train than I really had. A case of this kind wants to be pretty complete, or it breaks down. I’m waiting for one more link—these letters are a part of it—but I’m stuck fast for something else. If I had that I could put a spoke in their wheel.” “Can you not get it?” she demanded, in a low voice. “No,” he said; “but you can.” She looked hard at him. “What is it?” “A very simple thing. Nothing more nor less than a small manuscript book which she, Miss Woodleigh, has in her possession. If I could get that I go to work at once.” “Well,” she said, as he paused. “Well,” he went on, “this little book—upon which depends more than you think—is in a small cabinet in her room—the dressing room.” “How do you know this?” she asked, quickly. He smiled. “Miss Woodleigh’s maid is a nice young girl, but too fond of hearing her own voice, and once her tongue is set going she don’t know when to stop. Like most maids, she takes the interest in her mistress’s proceedings, and when she finds that mistress continually poring over a little book, which she shuts up and locks away in a cabinet when her maid opens the door, of course the maid is curious, and—talks about it. I want that book, miss, and I must have it.” Laura Warner looked at him. “Then let the maid get it,” she said, sharply. He shook his head. “Won’t do, miss. The maid would know as much as I do, perhaps, then.

Besides, two’s quite enough in the business. No, Miss, you must get it for me, unless you want to see her and young Woodleigh married out of hand.” Laura turned scarlet. “How can I get it?” she asked. “Nothing’s easier,” he said, quietly, “and there couldn’t be a better time than when they are all away, and Sir Talbot is shut up in his room.” “Do you mean,” panted Laura, with passionate indignation, “that I am to steal the thing?” “That’s nonsense, miss,” he said. “It’s of no value—excepting as a piece of evidence, and we in the profession, when we lay our hands on that in the name of the law, don’t call it stealing. Come, miss, remember our bargain. It’s too late to back out now, unless you have quite made up your mind to Mr. Woodleigh and her being married.” “How am I to get it?” she broke in, white with pride and shame and jealous angry raging together. Mr. Robert Green’s eyes brightened—they had been rather desponding—for he had scarcely dared to hope that he should persuade her. “This way, miss,” he said, drawing near her, too near for Laura, who edged a little away. “I heard you tell them that you had the face ache. Well, face aches come and go all of a sudden. What’s more natural than that you, feeling better and a little lonely, should walk over to see Sir Talbot—once at the house, there—I won’t insult a lady of your intelligence by any plainer suggestions.” “I cannot do it!” she exclaimed. He bowed and offered her back the letters. “Then I throw up the case, miss, and let things take their chance; but let me tell you that you will be allowing a very wrong thing to come to pass if you stand by and see Miss Woodleigh marry the heir to the Hall. When she’s Lady Woodleigh—” “Stop,” she said, “I cannot bear to hear you talk. I—I will get this for you, but on the condition that you do not ask me to help you any further. I—I have done too much, and ought never to have put myself in such a position, and you had no right to ask me—of course I cannot expect you to understand—” “Oh, yes, I can, miss,” he said, “and I am very grateful to you, and I’ll say this, that I don’t think you’ll regret what you’ve done. I won’t say any more.” “When do you want this book?” she asked, with agitation.

Advertisement for BOVRIL featuring a bull logo and the text: "Don't forget to order BOVRIL. Better to be sure you've got it in the house than sorry you haven't."

“At any time to day, miss. I’ll wait about here or in the lanes till I see you come back. If you’ve got it and will please to pull down the blind of your window, I’ll come on here and wait for you. If the blind isn’t down I shall know you haven’t been able to get it. As he spoke he drew a small bunch of odd-looking keys from his pocket and handed it to her. “What is this?” demanded Laura. “Skeleton keys,” he said, quietly. “You may find the cabinet locked.” Overwhelmed with shame, but still fighting against her conscience, and trying to forget that she was a Warner, she took the keys reluctantly and with a shudder of disgust, and put them in her pocket. Mr. Green was too wise to prolong the interview. “There’s nothing in it, miss,” he said, with a smile. “You’ll be back before I’ve finished a cigar.” And, touching his hat with the greatest respect, he disappeared among the bushes.

CHAPTER XXIX. LILIAN LEIGH’S DIARY.

SHE suffered tortures for half an hour afterward, as she paced her bedroom like a young tigress; but in the end she bathed her face, put on her outdoor things and went out toward the Hall. As the man had said, she had gone too far; he was quite capable of betraying her, and revealing the fact of her having held conferences with him and given him letters—for he had kept Lilian’s notes. She had gone too far, but even if she had not, she would in the end have acted as she was now doing. The thought of Lilian sitting beside Harold, spending the day with him apart from the rest, maddened her. Even now, while she was walking along the dusty road, bound on her shameful errand, they were together in some quiet nook with his arm round her waist, his lips on hers. It simply maddened her, and she felt that she could wade through fire and water to prevent the marriage. “She shall never be Lady Woodleigh,” she muttered—“never! And I will prevent her.” When she arrived at the Hall, hot and dusty, Sir Talbot had just got down to the library, where a fire had been lit and things were generally comfortable. He would be only too pleased to see her, he sent word, and she went in. “Why, my dear,” he said, in his kindly fashion, “how is it that you are not with the rest?” “To be continued.

Kidney Suffering

Backaches and tired feelings tell of weak kidney action—Prompt relief by using DRA. W. CHASE’S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. A. W. Chase’s Kidney and Liver Pills, and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated forms of this disease. There is a reason for this. Dr. A. W. Chase’s Kidney and Liver Pills awaken the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and thereby effect a thorough cleansing and regulating of the excretory system. Mr. S. J. Agnew, Kars, Carleton, Co. Ont., writes:—“I have suffered a great deal with kidney troubles and pains in the small of the back and have tried a good many remedies without obtaining very much benefit. I wish to say, however, that I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase’s Kidney-Liver Pills as a splendid medicine as they have proven of very great value to me.” Dr. Chase’s Kidney and Liver Pills one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmans’n, Estes & Co., Toronto. The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Can you talk small talk? If you can, be thankful. If you can't suppose you will learn to. I don't believe you will regret the effort. It is splendid to be able to talk well on deep and important subjects, but that ability does not by any means do away with the need of being able to talk lightly and easily on unimportant subjects.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Fiero's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrappers and stated under each. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs.

as sleeves and even around the waists as girdles. Silk gloves to match the dress are attractive, even in red and green.

Fads and Fashions.

Dancing frocks are of soft, filmy lingerie or flower sprigged mouselines and batistes. They are short-skirted and short-sleeved. Many of the new silk dresses are being made with skirts short enough to show the ankles, and all have some kind of overdress.

The Russian effect has even extended to bathing suits, which are now made with tunics or with skirts in triple flounce effect. Cut steel again has a prominent place as an ornament, figuring in pendants, slides, buttons, buckles and bag and eye-glass mounts.

Some of the new bathing caps are of silk, gayly flowered, plaided and dotted. The assortment of colors leaves nothing to be desired. Oriental-looking fabrics still have first place in neckwear, and it is not likely that the "Persian" craze will wane before late in the autumn.

Bags of broche, suspended by long twisted cords of silk, are modish. In some instances these cords are so long that the bag hangs below the knee. Triangular-shaped pieces of Persian silk are among the smartest coverings for the rubber bathing caps. The color effect is decidedly pleasing.

Gray suede pumps and oxfords with matching holersy in silk or helle are dainty in appearance and ever so much cooler than black hosiery and patent leathers. Draperies of imitation pearls are freely worn as gown trimming, appearing in heavy ropes across the front of the bodice, around the arm

The Watteau or shepherdess hat, with flat, round crown and mushroom brim bent in poke fashion at the sides and flaring out and up at the back, will be trimmed with flowers and aigrettes or with wings. The latest material for woman's dress—called sackcloth and burlap spitting—is a handsome and rather expensive imitation of coarse packing-burlap, made of silk and wool. It is very adaptable and effective.

Narrow bands of fur, like those which have trimmed so many summer chiffrons, will be seen on the winter models—on street frocks of velveteen and serge and on dressy gowns of satin, chiffon, moire and chiffon velvet. Materials for early fall frocks include plain and flecked chevots, two-

We arrived here on Aug. 13th, 1910, in the schr. Alexander, Capt. Just a few yards from where we are anchored is a very low island very thickly covered with spruce trees of grand size. On this little fertile spot live three families very comfortably situated, save for the freshet from the river in the spring which puts them to a little inconvenience for a while, then all is peaceful again.

Around and up this little river, which causes these settlers little trouble, is a scene sublime. Up we rowed in a boat one evening till we came to the riotous rushing of a torrent unchecked that leaped sheer down from rocks five hundred feet high, thundering forth the praises of its own beauty, as it tossed in the air triumphant crowns of silver spray. Fain would we have stayed there to watch its magnificence; but the evening was closing in and we had to glide down the placid waters of the river again. Just as we got in the narrow part of the river, which is almost arched in by trees, the moon rose over the nearby mountains (which lies about twenty miles S. E. of this river). Then this poem came in my mind, and turning around to the other man in the boat, I recited it as follows:—

How bright emerging o'er you brown-clad heights The Silver Empress of the night appears! Upon limpid pool reflects a stream of light And faintly in its breast the woodland bears. Cholera Affects the Fish Trade.

The outbreak of cholera in Italy is causing concern to some of our fish exporting firms. One of the largest in the Colony yesterday received a cable from Italy advising them not to ship any fish to Italy at the present time. The exact conditions which led to this advice are not thoroughly understood. Generally there is less demand for fish during cholera outbreaks. Whether the advice was given from excess of caution or owing to unmistakable prevalence in the market of a panicky feeling from the cholera scare is not known. So far as we have heard, this firm is the only one so advised, and on the other hand, one firm received an order from Italy for fish.

It is to be hoped that cholera will not spread in Italy or to any other of the South European countries. If it does it will have a serious effect on our fish trade for from the present time onwards, large shipments are usually made to these countries. The proportion of our dried cod which is taken by these countries can be gauged by a perusal of the figures appended, taken from the Marine and Fisheries Report and dealing with the year ending June 30th, 1909:—

	Qtls.	Value.
Malta	5,418	$26,284.00
Portugal	256,080	1,588,798.00
Spain	280,311	986,631.00
Italy	380,762	1,444,084.00
Greece	65,202	216,335.00
	987,773	$4,262,132.00

The total export was given at 1,732,387, valued at $7,398,536.00. From these figures it will be noticed that more than half our fish in quantity and also in value goes to these countries. Our cable message to-day indicates the stringent precautions which the authorities of the port of New York are taking against the influx of cholera into America. As we have shipping communication with Italy, and as the risk to our trade would be great should cholera be brought here; it is to be hoped that the authorities have already taken precautions against such a chance and that they are in a position to issue an assurance to that effect at once.

The Prospero From the North.

The S. S. Prospero, Capt. Kean, arrived here from the Northward at 1:30 p.m. to-day. On arrival as wind and tide was blowing up the harbor, and several schooners in the way, the captain could not make the narrow entrance to the wharf, and had to drop his anchor. He then made a circuit, steamed towards the South Side, and on the next attempt berthed his ship.

The Prospero had splendid weather going and returning, except for the smoke which delayed both that ship and the Fogota, and which has already been referred to in the Telegram. The ship made all the ports of call going to and returning from Battle Harbor where she arrived on Sunday last, leaving that night. She reports the fishery a blank north with the exception of one or two places, there is no bait and cod is very scarce. They catch about 1 qt. per boat at Battle Harbor. She brought a full cargo of fish, oil, herring, lobsters, etc., and the following passengers:—

Messrs. Waterman, Wood, Curtis, Brooks, Butler, Murray, Reid, Anderson, Moore (4), Walker, Winsor, Fraser, Short, Rendell (2), Walters, Devine, Jackman, Gardner (3), Ryan, Fitzgerald, Strong, Snelgrove, Robbins, Walsh (3), Manuel, Mercer, Busden, Chancery, Roberts, Simoni, Gill, Noel, Gabriel (2), Carter, Nicholl, Murphy, Garland, Milley, Fowlow, March, Rev. S. J. Chancery; Mesdames Otman, Bradbury, Winsor, Chauncey, Verge, Cleary, Scott, Roberts (2), Hollands, Kennedy, Gardner, Mercer, Fowlow, Alsopp, Targett, and Morris; Misses Lewis, Patey, Bussey, Ludlow, Bailey, Brett, Roberts, Hart, Kean, Burden, Young, Irish, Downer, Butler, Roddick, Gardner (2), Whitten, Eugden, Barnes, Lampken, Campbell, March, Parsons and 85 steerage.

The Portia left for the west at 11 a.m. to-day with a big cargo and these passengers: Messrs. J. Baldwin, M. Noah, J. Howley, J. Cullen A. Duder, Bambrick, P. Butler, J. Antle, LeDrew, E. J. Rawlins, Jr.; Mesdames Callum, Connors Chashin, Rev. Mother Eta; Misses Shaanahan (2), Bambrick, Clancey, Pike, Ryan, Keany, Carroll, Molloy, Coady, Swain, Johnston and 23 steerage.

Incipient Forest Fires.

Several men came up by the Prospero from the new branch line of railway on private business and will return by train. They say that a disastrous fire which might have been disastrous started yesterday about three miles outside of Goose Cove, and but for the promptness with which the bosses on the new branch line got their men to work at it it would have swept the place. Hundreds of men with axes and poles chopped away the trees to make a firebreak and forming a bucket brigade drenched the burning trees, so that in an hour all danger of a conflagration was past. The stacks of the railroaders would have been burned had the fire spread.

Witless Bay Garden Party.

Rev. W. Roache, P. P., of Witless Bay, will hold a garden party there on Sunday next, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the church. The Mount Cashel boys with their band will be present, the ladies will serve tea, and many people from the city will be present and are assured of a good time.

Church Union Goes to Next Conference.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 26. — The report of the Committee on Church Union was considered on Thursday evening by the Methodist Church delegates and visitors. The report presented by the Secretary, Rev. J. W. Cooley:—

"Recommended the General Conference to send the documents and basis of union agreed upon by the joint committee to the district meetings, and the annual conferences of 1911 for consideration and adoption or rejection, the Conferences to report their decisions by votes thereon with any additional information deemed desirable to the General Conference of 1911. Also that the General Conference special committee, after the reports of the decisions and votes on the proposed basis of Union have been received from the annual Conferences, if they warrant such action, further to send the documents of the basis of union to the Quarterly Officials Board, and also to the membership of the Church for consideration and adoption, or rejection during the year 1911-12. The results of decisions and votes of the Quarterly Officials Boards, and of the memberships to be reported in 1912, and transmitted through the district meetings and the annual conferences of 1912 the General Conference special committee, which shall further be authorized if the tabulated results warrant further action, to call a special meeting of the General Conference to further consider the matter of consummating the proposed Union."

In moving the adoption of the report Chancellor Burwash recounted the steps which had led to the present action. He thought the Federation of Church Colleges had much to do with fostering the Union spirit. The new duties laid on us in building up a great nation furnished strong reasons for conserving our resources and uniting our energies. He pointed out that the basis of Union was not intended to be the constitution of a Union Church, but the statement of principles in accordance with which the constitution would be framed later.

Ward and Beef Barons.

Special to the Evening Telegram. WELLINGTON, New Zealand, September 1. Sir Joseph Ward, the Premier, in a speech to-day on American trusts informed Parliament that should any American combination endeavor to control the New Zealand meat market, the members of Parliament would be consulted as to whether or not the entire meat trade should be nationalized.

J. M. Atkins, of Winnipeg, made a strong speech in seconding the resolution.

OPPOSED BASIS OF UNION.
Prof. Patton, of Montreal, said that he was in sympathy with the aim, but opposed to the basis of Union. He criticised the doctrinal statement, and said that "Almost no man can believe the whole of it." He objected, because the doctrinal standards could change every two years, while in the Methodist Church the doctrines and rules cannot be wrecked even by the chief court, a safeguard which has saved it from extremes and extravagances. The policy of the basis attacked the leadership of the minister, placing it largely in the hands of the people.

The report of the committee was adopted after a long debate to-day, by a large majority. This will send the matter down for consideration by the annual Conference.

CHANGE IN DISCIPLINE.
The foot note to Methodist discipline forbidding dancing and theatre-going has been wiped out of the book by the General Conference. The substitute clause commends the desirability of a holy life.

The new clause reads:—
"For as much as these rules are to be interpreted by enlightened Christian conscience, according to the principles of Christian liberty revealed in God's word, our members are earnestly admonished that they guard with great care their reputation as the servants of Christ, and in case of those amusements and practices which are hurtful and questionable in tendency that they do not engage in those injurious to their spiritual life or incompatible with their allegiance to Jesus Christ, their Master."

The substitute clause reported by a commission of 35 members, who had been at work on it for four years, was not acceptable to the Conference, and the one printed above was put in its place on the motion of Prof. W. W. Andrews, of Sackville, N. B., seconded by Rev. Dr. J. White, of New Westminster. Their motion was almost unanimously adopted by the Conference.

Mostly About the Mayor.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir.—A word to the address of the Mayor of St. John's. I am sorry that I was unable to say it when the proceedings of the last meeting of the Council were fresh in the memory of the public. Mr. Ellis, both as a Councillor and as a Mayor, has pretty consistently displayed a number of characteristics which, if he wishes to deserve well of the public, he will be at some pains to amend. He is singularly insensible to criticism which affects the Council as a body, but as singularly touchy when criticism comes home to himself. He preserves a profound reticence when he is publicly asked for information which it is the serious concern of the town to possess, but bubbles out into speech whenever the least act of his own is called in question. If some abuse, or assumed abuse, is challenged, and information about it is sought, there is never an answer from Mr. Ellis unless he finds himself able to say that he was not involved personally in the matter. And he is quite contemptuous of public opinion and cannot be persuaded that the will of the people is ever at variance with his own. These characteristics, and some others which I now pass over, he has frequently displayed, but never so clearly as at the Council meeting held last Friday. Everyone will remember that information was sought most persistently concerning the very curious transactions which led to the Council's permission being given for the re-building of Mrs. Torpy's house at the Cross Roads. Mr. Ellis was then a Councillor and a candidate for the Mayorship, and it might be expected that he would have gladly furnished the information demanded. Not at all! But he was very ready to let the public know that he was out of town when a certain act in that strange history was consummated. Again, when a series of questions was asked of the Council concerning the permission given for the erection of an extension to the Slatery building in material which did not come under the head of "fire-proofing," Mr. Ellis preserved a masterly reticence. Yet, as this question of fire-proofing is regulated by statute and intimately concerns the safety of the town, it might be considered that this was a matter upon which information could not be too freely confided to the public. Once more, when the expediency, in the then state of our finances, of spending so large a sum as $20,000 and more on a reserve against Twenty Mile Pond, was questioned, and the views of the candidates were sought on the subject, Mr. Ellis and all of his present colleagues held their tongues most persistently. And that is a matter of no mean importance, especially to a town like ours which is in debt, and running deeper in debt, and cannot keep uncleanliness and disease from our very doors. Take the agitation against the continuance of cobble-stone drains in filthy and insanitary localities. It will be admitted that the whole weight of the argument has been in favor of the abolition of these dreadful gutters in such places, and nobody can deny that a very general denunciation of the present system and a recommendation of the concrete system has been expressed. Mr. Ellis is at utter variance with public opinion on this point, and it can hardly be thought too much to demand of him that he should give his reasons for opposing the public will on a subject of such grave importance. At last he has consented to give a reason. And what is it? That, the other day, he saw filthy water collected in a concrete drain. Cannot Mr. Ellis see that this is no answer at all? That filthy water should have collected in a concrete drain is disgraceful; that it should have been allowed to remain there is scandalous. But this filthy water was less harmful to public health remaining in a concrete drain than the collection of the same quantity of dirt in a cobble-stone drain could possibly be. The concrete did not provide the dirt with the darkness and secrecy and with the mould in which the germs of disease breed; the cobble-stone drain would furnish all the requisites for the speedy and prolific propagation of such germs. And it is plain that that drain was not well laid, that it must have been laid with a hollow. I hope Mr. Ellis will find out how this came to be done. And if it was in the condition he declares, I hope he will enquire why it was permitted to remain in so filthy a state. It takes little labour to clean a filthy concrete drain, but much labour to clean a cobble-stone one, and even then the work cannot be effectively done. Was this, then a serious argument to fling in the teeth of me and others like me who seek to have the town made decent and wholesome? Mr. Ellis, it is true, touched lightly on the great objection to the concrete drains, the expense of constructing them, and what does that argument amount to? He asks the council and the public generally whether it appreciates the fact that it will cost $2,500 to lay such a drain on some street whose name I forgot. Does that expense frighten Mr. Ellis? I can hardly think so, for he does not shrink from an expenditure of $22,000 upon a work whose value at the best is problematical. And his manifesto to the citizens when he sought their suffrages advocated the building of a Town Hall, which would cost the price of a wilderness of concrete drains. And if expense is such an object, why did he not exert himself to collect every penny of these rates that was collectible while he was a Councillor? A late Councillor told me that he made a motion for the collection of these arrears, by legal process, and found a seconder for it, but not a single supporter. Was Mr. Ellis absent from the meeting? I don't know, but I hope he was. We have lost the automobile tax for some reason or other, and the money so lost would go a considerable distance in building concrete drains, yet I have not heard that Mr. Ellis or his associates have made any inquiry into the reason why this tax was lost to the town. It is evidently not the question of economy which stands in the way of providing us with decent drains. Extravagance in the wrong direction and parsimony in the wrong direction seem to be the guiding stars of the Council, and they lead to destruction. But the most singular of all Mr. Ellis' pronouncements was made in reference to these drains. He did not pretend to be insensible to the strength and unanimity of the agitation against disease-breeding drains; his venfuge was in the insignificance of the agitators. Newspaper editors and correspondents, he argued, might advocate concrete drains in proper localities, but they are only "irresponsible persons." Are they? I take it that a responsible person is one who recognizes that he is burdened with a duty, and does it. Surely if there is any obligation lying upon any person in the community to warn it against threatened danger and destruction it lies upon a newspaper editor. Surely the citizens and taxpayers whose whole life is spent in a town, and a considerable proportion of whose income goes to the support of the town, has the right to see that it is kept clean and decent and habitable. More, he owes it as a duty to his fellow-citizens to point out existing evils and to suggest, if he can, a remedy. If he fulfils his duty and exercises his right, is he irresponsible? Is he the proper object for the sneers of the mayor whom he endeavours to stimulate to a proper performance of his duties? Hardly, I think. But let us see how Mr. Ellis acts himself in regard to other irresponsible persons. His sole argument in favour of the Windsor Lake reserve is that Sir William McGregor approved of it. Now I am far from underrating the value of the opinion of that distinguished gentleman; the exalted position he occupied here and his known scientific attainments forbid such a thing. But as compared with the newspaper editor and correspondent Sir William McGregor is an irresponsible person. He was never a citizen of the town, and could not be. He had no vote and "paid no taxes, nor did he ever contemplate a protracted residence in the town, and he owned no property there. He was a man of eminence who expressed an opinion which should be received with deference, but not with subservient obedience. No man, I am sure, would be more reluctant to be saddled with the responsibility of such work as this. On the other hand the newspaper correspondent is a tax-payer, a citizen, a voter, a property-owner, a life-long resident. He has the right to be heard, and he should claim a respectful hearing from the Mayor. I claim this right for myself and the multitude of persons like me whose whole interests in life are centred in this town. And Mr. Ellis will not be as happy if he persists in sneering at us.

The Cholera Scare-- Atlantic Liners Quarantined.

Special Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 1. Two transatlantic steamships, one of them the giant Cunard liner Lusitania, were held up by the New York health authorities to-night because of the cholera scare aboard. The Lusitania arrived after nightfall and left quarantine at 8.20, only to be stopped off Stapleton, Staten Island, for further inspection. A steerage passenger had been found seriously ill by inspectors, and while there was nothing to indicate cholera it was decided to hold the vessel and take no chances, pending an examination. Under the impression that the Cunarder would dock, hundreds assembled at her pier and waited until far into the night, when they were informed of the circumstances. The steamship San Giovanni, from Naples and Palermo with passengers aboard from Trenti, Italy, where cholera has been reported, was detained to-night in quarantine until health officers from the Government can investigate the death of a 14 year old girl who died at sea five days ago.

Alarming Situation.

Special to Evening Telegram. BILBAO, Spain, Sept. 1. The strike situation is alarming. The funds of the men have been exhausted and the strikers are in an ugly mood. Collisions with the police, gendarmes and strike-breakers are constantly occurring. Many factories are being closed and the work in the harbor has been wholly suspended. Dock employees who are on strike have issued an appeal to their foreign colleagues, asking the latter to refuse to handle merchandise intended for shipment here. Troops are being concentrated and a cordon of soldiers has been thrown about the city to prevent the entry of strikers from other towns.

State of Siege.

Special to Evening Telegram. MADRID, Sept. 1. In view of the strike rioting reported from Bilbao, the Government is considering the matter of declaring that city in a state of siege.

Raising the Maine.

Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. Arrangements were made at the War Department to-day for Captain Harley Ferguson, a member of the Board of Army Engineers, appointed to remove the wreck of the battleship Maine from Havana harbor, to go to Havana to superintend the investigation into the present conditions of the wreck. At least one member of the Board does not look with favor on the O'Rourke plans for raising the ship, which have been pressed upon the engineer and which were explained to President Taft at Beverly this week, believing that the plans would not give the Board the proper opportunity to see whether the Maine was blown up by an explosion from without or within the ship. The O'Rourke plan provides for the raising of the Maine by placing cables underneath the wreck and lifting her body out of water. The Army Engineers are said to favor the construction of caissons around the wreck and the raising of the wreck by that means.

Population of Greater New York.

Special Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, Sept. 1. Greater New York has a population of four million seven hundred and sixty-six thousand eight hundred and eight-three under the thirteenth census, according to figures to-night by Director of the Census Durand. This makes New York the second largest city in the world, and as large as two foreign cities, excepting London. Since 1900 the population of the metropolis has increased 38 per cent, as compared with the last census. The borough of Bronx showed the greatest increase in the greater city, Queens, Brooklyn, Lynn, Richmond and Manhattan following next in order.

Exemption For Foreigners.

Special Evening Telegram. CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1. After prolonged negotiations a decision has been obtained from the Council of State approving the Act of the Council of Ministers in which all foreign religious, educational and benevolent institutions are exempted from the provision of the Ottoman Law. Besides being freed from numerous restrictions, these institutions now are permitted to hold landed property.

PARK CONCERT NOTES

(For the People's Paper.)
On behalf of the thousands who attended the band concert last night given by the C. C. C. at Bannerman Park I wish through your columns to congratulate Lieut. Hutton on the efficiency attained by his orchestra.

The programme as published in your columns last evening was faultlessly rendered. The hit of the evening was the rendition of that old favorite, "The Huntsman's Chorus," in which the members were given an opportunity to display their vocal abilities. Their efforts in this direction met with much applause.

The public expected a grand up to date concert, knowing that Lieut. Hutton, or "Charlie," as he is familiarly called, is an old and adept musician. They were not disappointed.

The caretaker, Mr. Spurrell, came in for a full measure of praise. Never in all his years as caretaker did the grounds show up as they did last evening. The numerous flower beds were beautiful, being profusely filled with the choicest of annuals. The perfume arising from them was heavenly, especially the beautiful aroma coming from the large bed of mignonette.

The caretaker thoughtfully had the walks sprinkled during the afternoon and it added to the Park a freshness in appearance. A feature noticeable last evening was the introduction on the grounds of several wicker and cane arm chairs, brought there by residents living close by.

The lavatory is nearing completion. It is nicely painted, in keeping with the surroundings. Still it is a mistake to have it so prominent and too close to the main walk. A little further off towards Bannerman Road would be a better location.

The behaviour of the vast assembly was all that could be desired except for a slight infringement caused by a few noisy Scotch sailors who thought to run amuck. But the vigilant eyes of the caretaker and Patrolman Smith were on them and who instantly called "halt!"

It was with pleasure we noticed the presence of His Honor the Mayor, W. J. Ellis, accompanied by Councilors Myrick, Coaker, Mullaly and Channing. They were loud in their praise of the concert, the attractiveness of the surroundings and the decorum of the audience.

In justice to his well kept and popular resort the Council should remove the old-fashioned tank and replace it by a fountain, attached to which should be four drinking cups.

In conclusion, might I suggest, that an effort should be made whereby a similar concert could be given in Victoria Park next Tuesday by the band of the C. L. B. The latter brigade last night, to show its appreciation of their sister brigade's efforts, entered the Park grounds and during the rendition of "Soldiers of the King" presented arms.

Wishing every success to our city brigades, I am,
Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Tim Shannahan on the Potato Canker and Other Cankers.

"Well," said Mrs. Tucker, "I see here in St. John's the living for the ordinary workman is becoming so hard as to be unbearable. 'Tis high time for the Government to pay some attention to St. John's, through an inquiry into the way a poor man and his family are knocking it out. There are hundreds of families in this town who have every member of the family out working, only the mother. If it wasn't for the hard work of the daughters, some of them toiling in factories from early morning till night, they'd be half starving. No man can pay house rent and keep a family on six or seven dollars a week in this town now, consequently the daughters have to go out to the Rope-walk, the Shoe Factory or the Tobacco Factory where they toil from morning till night. Then what kind of a living do we get? We have poor houses mostly devoid of any sanitary appliances, and our grub is of the commonest kind. With pork seven-cent cents a pound, and potatoes two dollars and forty cents a barrel, and everything else correspondingly high, there is not much left for luxuries. Why the common eatables are becoming luxuries to the working class of this town. Bands and demonstrations and a big flare of trumpets are not able to gull the people any longer, what they want is solid, sober minded men who will look at the situation of the workman and women in this city and do something far more than tell them that they are living in an age of prosperity.

Shannahan leans to no particular side of politics; he doesn't care two straws for any leader, all are to blame, the whole blooming fit out, for what we want around here is closer attention paid to the smaller things that affect the living of every one of us and less rubbish prated of new developments that never develop.

TIM SHANNAHAN.

"Cascarets" are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape worm. ## Not Altogether to Blame.

Dear Sir—A correspondent in yesterday's paper found fault with the Shamrock team for not putting their men on time in the match of Wednesday last. I agree with your correspondent that men should be ready and not allow the game to drag, but I wish to say that to my mind the Shamrocks were not to blame altogether for the delay, as the unusual occurrence of three men being put out in about fifteen minutes was a happening unexpected. The Shamrocks will not be found lacking in enthusiasm, for is it not the Shamrock Club that kept the life in the game? We all hope that the great enthusiasm lately stirred up will grow to larger dimensions, and we must all feel grateful to men like Messrs. Myler, Rendell, Berrigan, Ryan, Keating, Muir and Winter for giving us another chance to witness a good old game of cricket.

A joke never hurts anybody when it is a simple, harmless one, and I am sure the following dialogue will be read with interest:—

Small boy coming down Parade St. meets another small boy coming up with a tin kettle.

First Small Boy—Hello, Ginger, where ye goin', berry pickin'?

Second Small Boy—Naw, I'm goin' up to th' match with me granda's dinner.

This goes to prove, if proof is necessary, that the game has come again to stay.

Yours,
NO BOUNDARIES.

MILNARD'S LINIMENT CURES SARGENT IN COWS.

Should be Removed.

For the past week or more the carcass of a horse has been lying at the side of Cochrane Pond, and the stench from it is unbearable. Wednesday a number of people who went there for an outing had to quit the place and go elsewhere. The Government should have it quickly removed.

East End School will re-open on Monday Sept. 5th, at 9:30 a.m.—sep13

Halifax Man Fell a Hundred Feet.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 26.—John Kelly, a Halifax marine engineer, fell nearly one hundred feet over the river bank, and was picked up on the lower bank without a bone broken, though he was badly shaken up and has internal injuries. It is feared Kelly spent yesterday with friends in Welland, and came here last night, and drank freely. This morning he was seen to tumble over the brink. He fell to a point where the brink begins to slope towards the gorge trolley tracks, and rolled a distance of twenty-five feet. He would have fallen into the river had not his body lodged on the projecting rocks.

When Patrolman Keiffans reached Kelly, after he fell over the bank, he was trying to get up on his feet. He did not know how he fell to the lower bank. He claimed everything that had happened since last night was a blank to him. He had considerable money in his pockets.

Children Had Eczema

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him."

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their little ones may be saved from suffering."

As a cure for eczema and itching skin diseases there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers of Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Recipes sent free.

The Alabama Arrives.

The s.s. Alabama, Capt. Gunwisen, arrived to-day at 12.30 p.m. to Job Bros. & Co. from Blanc Sablon. She left there at 7 p.m. Wednesday and was delayed 5 hours about 50 miles south of Belle Isle owing to one of the pins in the bearings breaking. She had fine weather up and has 8,000 qtls. of fish in bulk on board. She will take in here 1,000 casks of 4 qtls. each to complete her cargo. Capt. Newbury of the Diana came up in her. The Alabama is a ship of 891 tons gross, 530 net, and was built in 1897 at Farek, Norway. She steams 11 knots and this is her first time here. Capt. Newbury says that all the boats are giving up the fishery in the Straits with the exception of a few, and these get 1 quintal per day on herring bait. The Diana will leave Blanc Sablon to-morrow to bring up the Trinity fishermen, and next week likely will be here with a crowd.

At Portugal Cove.

Schooners are to-day loading fish at Portugal Cove for Jas. Baird, Ltd., Job Bros. and A. H. Murray. Squid are so plentiful there that they can be jigged off the wharves and bankers requiring them can get all they want there. The fishermen yesterday did splendid work on this bait, and boats using trawls got from 3 to 6 qtls. There is plenty of cod on the ground and while the squid remains big catches will be made.

Uprising in Philippines

Special Evening Telegram.
MANILA, Sept. 1.
An uprising against the Government is reported in the Province of Nueva Vizcaya. A constabulary force is hurrying to the scene and a battle is expected hourly. The rebel movement is headed by Simeon Mandao, former Governor of the Province of Ilocos Norte, who has long been a fugitive from justice.

Will Run Trains of Solid Steel.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 29.—American railroading passed into a new epoch with the announcement from high authorities here that 2,000 all steel cars will soon be in service from all cities touched by the Pennsylvania lines. Successful tests of 704 cars now in service have resulted in the proclamation that the all steel palaces on wheels far exceed the expectations of authorities. The remaining cars for the service will be delivered shortly, and trains will be made up exclusively from them.

Each of these 2,000 "Dreadnoughts of the Rail" weigh 118,000 pounds, a fact that will abolish practically all vibration while speeding over the steel rails, for the standard wooden coach weighs but 85,000 pounds. Thus travelling comfort is materially added to, and, in addition to this feature, the all steel car is non-collapsible because of its marvellous construction. It has a central box girder of great size running the entire length of the coach. This in collisions prevents telescoping. The car is fireproof, having only 125 pounds of wood for decorative purposes, window frames and arms rests. Owing to the steel construction of the luxurious cars larger upper berths with electric reading lamps are made possible.

After the Trainman.

Tuesday evening after the disturbance on the Bruce express had subsided and when the cause of it was traced to a resident of Brigus Junction interfered with Conductor Kelly of the shore train when he arrived there. The conductor at first temporized with the man who seeing him in a lenient mood attempted to assault him. He had altogether the wrong party to deal with and after John was done with him he could not well determine whether he had been up against an earthquake or whether he had tried to stop the engine on its course.

A Prowler About.

Every night during the past week a man whose movements are suspicious, and whose appearance shows that he is not of the best character, prowls around the road near Rennie's Mill. Repeatedly he has crossed the meadow there leading to the road running down by Dwyer's farm, and has accosted females passing in a rough and insulting manner. The presence of a plain clothes officer there would, no doubt, rid the locality of this undesirable.

14 Cases of Typhoid.

Dr. Brehm returned by the Bruce express yesterday from Grand Falls where he had been investigating the recent outbreak of typhoid fever. While the doctor was there a couple of cases developed, and altogether there are 14 persons ill of the disease. It is of a very mild type, and Dr. Chamberlain, the A. N. D. Co.'s physician, and his assistant, are doing everything possible to stamp out the disease. Several of the patients are on the mending hand.

The IDEAL HOME

IS FIRST OF ALL A COMFORTABLE HOME, WITH AN INVITING AIR OF RESTFULNESS ABOUT IT—COSY AND CHEERFUL. It is, of course, an Artistically Furnished Home, showing taste and judgment—each article pleasing in itself and in harmony with its surroundings. But it requires a knowledge of stores as well as of furniture in order to secure all these elements in the furnishing of one's home without its calling for an extensive outlay of cash. It is for this reason that the appeals particularly to that large portion of St. John's home-loving people who have excellent taste but are economical.

Let us make a cosy, comfortable and artistic Home for you—or make the Home you already have a little more cosy, a little more comfortable or a little more artistic.

Our Individual Credit Service is the most refined, genteel and helpful credit plan in St. John's to-day—none excepted. Let us talk with you in person about these matters. May we?

Help the Fatherless.

One of the grandest results of our christian civilization is the organization of institutions for the relief of the destitute, and the protection of those deprived by death of their natural guardians. The Church, from its earliest days, has shown charity to all poor, especially the young, who just entering the battlefield of life particularly need such a care to arm them for the conflict. Such benevolent institutions have been set up in every part of Christendom, and everywhere receive the support of the community wherein they are. Of those in our own midst, one is St. Michael's Orphanage at Belvedere. The collection towards the maintenance of this orphanage will be taken up on next Sunday at the Cathedral, St. Patrick's, Mount Cashel, Logy Bay, Kilbride and Littledale. The collection has in the past been most generously subscribed to, but a great deal more could certainly be donated. If the parents of children would all provide them with 10, 20 or 50 cents according to their means. Thus the rich giving their dollars and the less lucky ones their minor sums, will one and all help to make the coming collection surpass all former ones.—Com.

Parties Stealing Fish.

For the past week or ten days the fishermen of the Battery have noticed each morning that the fish left out on the flakes have been considerably reduced by the action of some unknown parties, who are stealing it. One man named W. Guish reckons that up to date he has lost over a hundred-weight and others have had 2 cwt. stolen. It is believed that the thieves come around in boats after the fishermen have gone to the grounds and do their nefarious work. So incensed are the men that if the marauders are caught they will be taught a lesson they will never forget.

The S. S. Amethyst left Sydney last night, and is due here to-morrow at noon.

Wedding Bells.

SAMWAYS-PIPPY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, 71 Springdale Street, yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Wilfrid Woods Pippy was united in Hymen's bonds to Miss Clarice Samways, daughter of Mr. William Samways, by Rev. J. W. Bartlett. The bride looked very pretty in a gown of Liberty satin, braided with silk and trimmed with pearl. She wore a bridal veil trimmed with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of sweet peas, astors and maiden hair ferns. She was assisted by Miss Minnie Haddon, who wore a costume of cream silk, and Miss Alice Woods, cousin of the groom, acted as flower girl. Mr. Geo. Vater Pippy, brother of the groom, attended that happy personage. The decorations to the room in which the ceremony was performed were principally floral, and on the entrance of the bride thereto Mr. G. W. Christian rendered a wedding march on the organ, and after the ceremony a wedding chorus. Later the bridal party partook of luncheon, and the health of the happy pair was duly honoured. The presents received were numerous and valuable and included a handsome piano. At 5 p.m. the party drove to Mount Pearl and joined the express for Placentia in which town the honeymoon will be spent. The Telegram extends its congratulations wishing the newly wedded pair many years of marital happiness.
