that has made such a sensation throughout Western Canada.

Made of highest grade Saskatchewan wheat, in the newest, best-equipped, largest mill on the prairies.

Made with the determination to give users better flour-value, greater certainty of baking-success, fuller satisfaction with the final result, whether with biscuits, cake or bread.

Housewives throughout all the West admit that Robin Hood Flour gives all this. Therefore, Madam, it is the flour for you.

This flour cannot be described in an advertisement. We use this paper merely to give the introduction—to say:

"Let us make you acquainted with Robin Hood Flour."

It is the guaranteed flour. If you are not satisfied with it after two fair trials, ask your grocer for your money back. He will give it to you.

Add more water than usual when using Robin Hood Flour. Made of such hard, dry wheat, it absorbs more moisture—producing a larger, whiter loaf.

The difference between Robin Hood Flour and other flours you have to find out for yourself. That there is a difference every woman who now uses Robin Hood admits.

CHAPTER XVII. TOM CHERITON'S SUSPICIONS.

'You were not with me, child, and I thought I could not better fill in the time than by doing something to please you.'

'We could have called together about them,' said the widow, who was sorry to have missed an opportunity of shopping in the company of her handsome lover.

'True, but I wanted them to be a surprise. And now you have got everything out of me. When you ask me anything, Dora, out must come the whole truth, whether the thing be grave or trivial. You have spoiled my little plot altogether,' he said smiling, and kissing her.

She believed him implicitly, of course, and was flattered at the little attention which the imaginary act implied.

'I can't help wondering where on earth that child Dessie has got to,' she said, after a pause. 'It's such an extraordinary thing to have done.'

'She is a woman journalist, Dora. There is an explanation of any amount of eccentricity in that.'

'Not in the least. She's the most level-headed little soul on the face of the earth—at least she used to be.' She made the qualification, remembering the girl's unaccountable dislike of de Montal.

'Then in that case, why not accept her explanation? She implies she has gone away on business.'

'But she doesn't say where. Besides, she's been so peculiar the last few days—ever since we came to town. I don't understand her a bit, and she frowned and shook her head in perplexity.'

The subject did not interest her lover just then. He had for his part exhausted the possibilities of the girl's action, had taken such precautions as he could to guard against its interfering with his plans; and thus Mrs. Markham's vapid speculations bored him. There was another subject he had resolved to press forward now with all reasonable speed.

He approached the subject again now, taking it up where he had left it on the previous night; and after saying that he had had letters which would necessitate his leaving England for a time very shortly, suggested that he would let her decide whether the marriage should take place before his departure or after his return.

The widow on her side was all eagerness, and they were in close consultation when Tom Cheriton was shown in.

He glanced round the room in evident disappointment at not seeing Dessie there, and his first question was for her.

'It is most unaccountable, Mr. Cheriton,' said Mrs. Markham. 'But first let me make you two gentlemen known to one another,' and she introduced them. The impression which each formed of the other was exceedingly unfavourable.

'A scoundrel,' was Cheriton's inward verdict. 'A bulldog,' was the other man's thought, while both murmured a word or two of civility.

'There is a telegram for you, Mr. Cheriton,' said Mrs. Markham, handing it to him. 'We've no doubt it's from Dessie.' He tore it open quickly, and a glance told him the contents.

'Strange,' he said thoughtfully. 'She brought me up on purpose to see her. Do you know anything of this, sir?' he asked de Montal, abruptly with a sharp keen glance.

'I? Certainly not. How is that possible?'

'Anything is possible, as an Old Bailey practice soon teaches you,' returned Cheriton, brusquely. 'What is your opinion of her sudden step, Mrs. Markham? You know her well.'

'I can't understand it at all,' was the reply. Mrs. Markham was nettled at Cheriton's tone towards her lover. 'She tells me in a telegram that it's a sudden commission of work. But I am bound to say I can't think that's all. She's been very peculiar all the time she's been here. "Peculiar?" echoed Cheriton, pricking up his ears. 'In what way do you mean peculiar?'

'Out of sorts. You know what I mean. Not like herself. Dull, low spirited. I thought she was ill. I found her looking very faint and ill once. You remember—yesterday, God-fro!'

'She explained that was due to Mr. Cheriton's absence,' said the Count, not liking Cheriton's manner at all.

'Dull, low spirited, and not like herself. I suppose that wasn't the welcome she gave when she first met you, Mrs. Markham?' he asked, in his persuasive cross-examining smile and manner.

'Oh, no,' replied the widow. 'That the curious part. She seemed all right then. It was not till that evening or the next day I noticed the change.'

'She was all right, Mrs. Markham; for I saw her an hour or two before she came to you, and she was altogether in her usual spirits.' He paused, and then wheeling round on de Montal, he repeated his question.

'And are you quite sure still that you know nothing at all of the cause of this absence, sir?'

'I have replied once, I am not accustomed to be questioned in this way. I am not responsible for this young lady's eccentricities.'

'Well, we shall see. You will excuse me now, Mrs. Markham. Dessie says in her wire that she is writing to my chambers, and I will go there. I am not at all satisfied; and must look into that at once.' With that, he left, shaking hands with Mrs. Markham and bowing very stiffly to her companion.

'I haven't the remotest thought of enticing her away,' answered Dessie, smiling at the matron's manner. 'It is many years since I saw Nurse Morland. We are very old friends; and it occurred to me to come and see her, all unexpectedly.'

'At this moment Nurse Morland entered the room. A quick glance shot from her eyes to Dessie's face, and the latter read it as a warning. Then, in a somewhat formal manner, but in a voice of exquisite sweetness and depth, she said, putting out her hand:

CHAPTER XIII. An Important Interview.

When Dessie reached Middlebridge she was a little at a loss to know how to get to see her sister. She did not know whether the nurses lived in the Infirmary, or even whether her sister was on the regular staff. There had been no communication between them for a long time past, and the last letter had only stated the fact baldly that Daphne was going to join the nursing staff of the Infirmary.

Middlebridge was a dirty industrial town, the centre of the Northern trade, with a dirty river, along the southern bank of which lay the chief works, which kept the Infirmary well stocked with bad 'smashes'—as accidents to the workers were called—and gave the hospital quite a reputation as a place where varied and constant practice in surgery could be gained.

But Nurse Morland had gone to it for reasons altogether unconnected with nursing experience. It lay off the highway of the word, and only the barest handful of the sixty or seventy thousand of useful beings who peopled the hive knew anything of life outside it. It was a safer refuge than a desert.

Dessie found her way on foot to the Infirmary, and was going to call a day or two for her sister when it occurred to her that she had better send her a letter to prepare her for the visit. A sudden meeting, if a stranger chanced to be present, might call forth some word or sign which might lead to embarrassing consequences.

She turned back, therefore, and entering a shop wrote a very brief line saying that an extraordinary need had arisen compelling her to come to Middlebridge, and asking her to say when they could meet and where. She was to send word by the bearer.

She got a boy to take the note and wait for an answer, and she watched him as he went up the semicircular carriage-drive that was in front of the building, and saw him deliver the letter to the porter. After a long interval he returned and gave her a note.

'Call here in an hour.'

The girl remembered that she had yet to find some place to stay at. She went back first to the station to find out how late she could leave, in the hope that the interview with her sister would be over in time to let her leave and travel by night, and having made a note of the train times she went away to get something to eat. She felt faint and weary, and remembered that she had had nothing since breakfast at Edgcombe Square. Excitement had made her forget food; but she compelled herself now to eat a substantial meal, and then made some inquiries as to an hotel.

Punctually at the expiration of the hour she returned to the Infirmary; and on asking for Nurse Morland, she was shown up to a room, where, instead of her sister, the matron, a very sharp-eyed, clever, quick-looking, little woman, received her, and pounced in a volley of questions already and somewhat brusquely put to ascertain her business.

Dessie listened quietly, and answered very generally, parrying the questions deftly. She was moved by a sort of antagonism until her questioner let out that her motive was a fear lest Dessie had perhaps come to try and take Nurse Morland away, while the matron did not want to lose her.

'You're the first friend that's been to see her for a very long time, you know,' she said, shaking her head and looking as though the fact was very suspicious; "and I think well enough of her to wish to keep her."

'I haven't the remotest thought of enticing her away,' answered Dessie, smiling at the matron's manner. 'It is many years since I saw Nurse Morland. We are very old friends; and it occurred to me to come and see her, all unexpectedly.'

'At this moment Nurse Morland entered the room. A quick glance shot from her eyes to Dessie's face, and the latter read it as a warning. Then, in a somewhat formal manner, but in a voice of exquisite sweetness and depth, she said, putting out her hand:

Writes From British Columbia About the Wreck of the Bruce

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Amongst the last lot of papers I received from my friends at home in St. John's, I read with interest the reports of the Bruce's wreck. As the reports were presumably taken from Nova Scotia papers, which were given them by the passengers, I fall to see why any sane reader should not believe the comfortable facts as published by the saloon passenger in the Sydney and Halifax papers, some of whom conveyed the news to me by mail. I am landed from the wreck, on having charge of such a noble-hearted and brave crew of men; because I, and every one of the passengers, can assure you, Mr. Editor, that it was not not been for our men the passengers would have had a feeling of utter despondency, as the crew of the Bruce, with one or two exceptions, were conspicuous by their absence when they were needed most. However, as I will come to the objections to our men's work later on, I will at first endeavour to truthfully state some facts that have not been published that morning, as it is nothing to me one way or the other, and I should like the readers of the reports given in your papers to appreciate the facts as given to the N. S. papers, of which my men or I knew nothing until we saw it on the trains after leaving Sydney. It is unnecessary for me to repeat the facts already given in the saloon passengers, but I would like to give an explanation about the remarks of one passenger who was travelling with his sister, as to some people singing, etc., in the midst of the panic. According to this gentleman...

Voices Were Not Harmonic.

But let me tell your readers that some of the light-hearted ones had to do something to try and keep up the courage of the poor women and women-like men who were wailing and wailing about their souls. Something had to be done to keep those poor Christians from trying to keep up if we follow the old saying, "It is just as good to kill people as to frighten them to death." Whilst we—half naked—were trying to keep up the courage of the timid saloon passengers, the steerage passengers, 40 of which were our men, were getting out boats, etc. In the midst of the excitement two of our crew came aft looking for me, to try and get them some clothes to shift, as the water was running out of them. They had fallen into the water, and were as poor as poor Pike. They said, "Poor Bill Pike and some other man are gone." They eventually got some clothes and shifted themselves, and when they had the dry clothes on, one of them was dressed in a uniform coat that had been left off by one of the officers, and when he got on shore, he things got quiet, the rest of our men used to salute him, saying "How do, Chief Joe" (Joe Molloy). Now to the objections of the chief officer, who does not seem to relish the idea of our men getting a little praise for the work they willingly did of their own accord. Mr. Taylor told one of the Sydney papers, when giving his report, that he is a Newfoundland, and felt proud of it. All Newfoundlanders should feel proud of him from an apparent physical standpoint, but physique is only an infinitesimal portion of the ingredients that are required in the composition of a full-blooded or true-hearted Newfoundland. He says he called for ten volunteers and could not get them; and what is more, he gave everyone to understand that our men with one or two exceptions were a Cowardly Set.

As far as cowardice is concerned, I know who would show the "white feather" if he were to call some of our fellows a coward within arm's reach. But the "cowards" were about a thousand miles on their journey when he gave that report, and he knew they could not hear him then. If there had been any discipline amongst the crew, the passengers were the ones that would naturally notice it. But the fact is, that our men could hear were to speak of the unselfish manner in which our men helped the panic-stricken passengers; so that Mr. Taylor's strong, from Johnstown, Penn., and Mr. Brown, from London, Eng., told me that if I should at any time need affidavits to show the fact of discipline amongst the crew, and the excellent work voluntarily done by our men, they would willingly make such affidavits, and all the passengers who scrambled on deck when the work was being done would make the same declaration. He mentions Eosun Murphy and John Connors in

The Stomach Needs Help

The liver, kidneys and bowels must be kept active by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

The liver and kidneys are overworked in their efforts to remove the poisonous waste matter from the system. They fail and become torpid and clogged. The bowels become constipated, and stomach derangements follow.

There is one medicine which will overcome this condition more certainly and more quickly than any other, and this is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This medicine gets the bowels in action at once and by awakening the liver and kidneys ensures the thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems. With the poisonous obstructions removed, the digestive system resumes its healthful condition, appetite improves, pains and aches disappear as well as irritability and depression. You cannot imagine the amount of relief treatment. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

This Old Gentleman Cured of Rheumatism

By One Box of GIN PILLS

YARMOUTH, N.S. "I have been bothered with Rheumatism for the past year and have taken a good many of the kinds of medicine put found no relief for it. One day a friend advised me to try GIN PILLS, and after taking one box of them, I felt a new man. I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know how thankful I am for the relief they gave me, and would advise all sufferers from Rheumatism to try GIN PILLS."

Don't bother with liniments and so-called "blood purifiers". They won't help your kidneys—and Rheumatism is caused by weak, strained or irritated kidneys. The only possible way to cure Rheumatism, is to cure the kidneys. GIN PILLS will do this, and nothing else will. Take GIN PILLS NOW and be free from Rheumatism this winter. soc. a box—6 for $2.50—and money promptly refunded if you are not satisfied. Order from us if your Dealer does not handle GIN PILLS. Sample box sent free on request. National Drug and Chemical Co., Dept. N. Toronto, 57 his only word of praise. My only inference from this praise is that the boat or Jack must have "put him work" later on, with a view to what is to be done in such cases of emergency. I know they are two good men, if not they would not be amongst the men who were not as good as they are, the passengers would not get ashore in safety in such a hurry as they did. In fact they would not be ashore yet if they were depending on the Bruce's crew. He also speaks of putting some of his men in charge of the boat, and I must say that I believe Mr. Taylor's intentions were good enough, but the execution of his intentions showed that he was not in the least obedient on the part of those he gave orders to. Why, the very boat that Murphy and Connors helped to get out and now ashore had no one in charge of it. Tim Sullivan, who is also one of our crew (and a deep water man), put an oar at the stern of the boat to steer it. He told me afterwards that he asked the man to what was the boat and no one answered. He saw a man with a brass buttoned coat on, and Tim asked him if he was in charge of the boat. He said he was, and he was the only one in the boat the same as every one else. They told me the

was one of the first to jump ashore, and remained there. When the boat left the boat to go off for more passengers, you can rest assured there was no brass buttons in it, but there were quite a few of them already around the fire that had been started on the beach, and some of our men kept rowing back and forth until all the passengers were safely landed. I was in the last boat that went ashore. This is the boat that Mr. Taylor refers to in one of his reports as having set ashore, whilst he remained on board, as he considered themselves (that the ship) in danger. He must have been about the only one I could see on board at that time that considered her dangerous then. We were in the saloon chatting about what had happened when he told us we had better get ashore, and although we felt more comfortable in the saloon than we did on the beach, we decided to take his advice and get ashore. When we landed they had two good fires going, and I went into the little huts and saw a poor girl bent over an old stove trying to dry herself, and the ex-policeman who came with me were earnestly demonstrating what they had learned from Sullivan about first aid by trying to revive a semi-conscious man, who must have been in the water quite a while. They eventually succeeded in getting some of the water out of the poor fellow and brought him to his senses. You can bet your life this poor fellow, who was all from our crew. It is a certainty that the oars did not rub the anchors off any brass buttons rowing to the steamer that trip anymore than the previous ones. This is the boat that Mr. Uphill (who was travelling with his sister) refers to as having a hired crew by Mr. Brown, (of our men) to row him on board and have a last search for his missing grips. Mr. Brown hired nothing or nobody. He asked me if our men would help him to try and locate his grips that he had left in his stateroom if he would go on board with them. Our men were pleased to do a favour for anybody, and took him aboard. Although they did not get his grips they tried hard to do so, and Mr. Brown gave them a dollar each containing ashore. When the boat came back to us, we got two quarters of fresh beef, which was cut to small pieces; roasted, and consumed in a hurry on land. I remember that I showed here mention, that the men who went off in the boat, and as Mr. Uphill says in his report, went to their waist in water. Mr. Brown's luggage had been rowing back and forth all the morning, as they manned the first boat, and kept at the oars until the last passenger was landed. To show you it was not a matter of waiting for a chum to jump in the first boat and stand by the oars; that were mostly strangers to each other before they signed with me, and just happened to be there and saw that men were needed to take the oars. They were, Jack Anthony, from some part of Conception Bay, but who is well known in St. John's, and a young C.L.B. boy and an oarsman on Quill Vidi; Thos. Turner, from St. Brandon's Bonavista Bay; Wm. Ryan from Brims, Conception Bay; with Williams, Kavanagh and Morris from Aquaforte. Although some of them were bleeding from cuts in their heads and faces, they stuck that boat like men. That's certainly an exemplification of cowardice and laziness, is it not? Whilst we were eating our dry roused bread, the purser came back from Main a Dieu, where he had been gone since early morning to wire the owners about the wreck of the Bruce and the loss of two men. Who he came to where I was standing several of the men heard him ask me if there were any more than the two men missing. I told him he was the one who should know that as he was the purser and had the names of all the passengers. There had been any regularity, or irregularity displayed by the passengers and crew, the purser should have taken the names of every passenger before they went ashore in the boats, as he was clearly the one to be held in case; instead of getting in the first boat to telegraph the news and leaving the passengers to the mercy of the waves, or the rowers who were it would have sounded much better to the readers of the St. John's papers, the evening they published the telegram from the purser, to take up the paper and read an account of the purser sending a telegram to the owners, whilst he remained on board to his duty. If his books were lost certainly the names of the survivors would be of no benefit to him. But when the passengers could be counted getting into the boats, the very fact that he would not have been done, was to get all the passengers together on the landing place, and counted the saloon, and steerage passengers. As he knew how many passengers were on board when we left Port aux Basques, he would then know exactly how many were drowned, as it was a case of either or himself, especially among the greater part of the Bruce's crew. I am not trying to put any unnecessary blame on the purser, Mr. Taylor, because he was probably obeying the orders of some superior officer. Mr. Taylor states with certainty that there was only one man lost, as then was Shea on the passenger list. I sincerely hope he is right. But those who were trying to push out the boat were overbalanced because they saw the sad circumstance, candidly affirm that they saw 5 men go in the water and only three come out of it. I at once rebalanced the point, as if the other man was also one of our crew, and found that poor Pike was the only one that was missing amongst them. Then the query arose, "Who is the other man?" Someone who was near him pushing the boat said, "It is that chap who was skylarking with us on deck last night." But he did not know his name. Someone else said his name was Shea. A couple of them thought he was from Briggs, and others thought he was from Carleton Place. Hence the reports that were safely landed on shore. Every eye witness (amongst our men) to the sad event is certain that two men were drowned. If such is the case there is a possibility of the other one being some poor stranger who took the train at Grand Falls or some other lumber centre along the line, and was going somewhere else to better himself. Whatever is the truth of this sad affair, the certainty remains that every passenger or that boat displayed a grateful attitude towards our men. If they were as lazy or cowardly as Mr. Taylor would make believe, they could have gone ashore and remained there, as most of his crew did. The fact of three or four of them being so bad from the effects of the chill they got, as to have to remain in bed for weeks or so here in Victoria, will show that the poor fellows did not spare themselves. However, as they are in the employ of a good company, who secured the best medical attendance for them, they were alright by the time we were ready to send them to their respective factories, where they are now settled to their work and making good money. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, permit me to inform you (which I already have done to my friends) that I have been face to face with death so many times, that when the Bruce struck I took it for granted that a little later on, everything would turn out all right. I did not think there was any necessity to create such a newspaper sensation over it. I did not intend to make any press comment about it. But when I read a publication from St. John's papers, signed by the chief officer of the Bruce, in which he gives the people to understand that our men were a lazy or cowardly lot. I think it my duty as the representative of those men, to at least try and convince their friends and Newfoundlanders in general, that they are about the best bunch of all round workmen that ever left Nfld. and I am in a position to be able to select good workmen from there, as I have been employed by them for the past 12 years, and I can assure you that there is not a spark of laziness or cowardice in any of the men who came out here with me. Do you think I would let a man from Nfld. away out here to British Columbia, whose actions would in any way leave an opening for a reflection to be cast on me or my country? Well, not much. Hoping you will find room to give these facts publication in your widely-circulated paper, so that people can see where the cowardice rests in reality in the present instance. I am, Yours very truly, M. F. CARROLL, Victoria, B. C., April 29th, 1911. P. S. Mr. Cecil Pitts who is well known in St. John's, and has been in hospital here for the past two months with a stroke of paralysis has read me to get some of the papers at home to publish a note to the effect that he is now on the road to recovery, and expects to be able to get about again in a few weeks time. He has been out for several country drives during the past week. I hope you will put in an item in the above effect, because when J. was in St. John's there was no hope of him and his friends had not heard from him since. M. F. C.

Thinking Imperially.

Now that the Imperial Conference is to meet on the 22nd in London, it is of interest to record some of the directions in which thought is tending towards united action within the Empire on matters in which the States of the Empire have a common interest.

The Conference is composed of the Premiers of the self-governing States of the Empire, and the Prime Minister, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and at such times as matters in which their departments are concerned of other ministers of the British Cabinet. Each Colonial Premier has with him as advisers two of his Colonial colleagues with whom he may consult, but who takes no direct part in the discussions of the Conference.

In connection with the work of this Conference, it is interesting to observe that a deputation of two Unionist and two Liberal Members of the House of Commons recently waited upon Premier Asquith and presented to him a memorial signed by 292 members of both sides of the House, in favour of the establishment of an advisory Imperial Conference. The Premier expressed his appreciation of the memorial, and promised to bring the memorial before the Conference when New Zealand moved the resolution in favour of an Imperial Advisory Council. Mr. Asquith stated that nothing of a practical nature could be done without the fullest concurrence and consent of the Over-Seas Dominions.

On the matter of Imperial Defence the Whitehall correspondent of the Military Mail says:—
“There are signs that the military questions to be debated during the forthcoming Imperial Conference will turn very largely upon the great idea of bringing the whole of the land forces of the Empire under one supreme command.”

“More interesting still is the report, which appears to be well founded, that the new command will devolve, should the proposal find favour among the assembled Premiers, upon Lord Kitchener, the one man who is looked upon by everyone at home and abroad as being particularly fitted for so important a post.”

“The future of Lord Kitchener rests to a very great extent upon the ultimate results of the Imperial Conference.”

ference, and already there are strong rumours that the post of Commander-in-Chief will be revived, but with a far wider scope than in the past.”

Refuse Pollutes Well.

Two prominent residents of the south side of Pennywell Road recently complained to the health authorities that certain other residents of the place were throwing garbage and all kinds of refuse in that thoroughfare and that a dump was made only six feet from a well, the water from which is being used for household purposes. The water was found to be polluted and Health Inspector O'Brien notified the people on whose ground the refuse is left to remove it instantly. Conduct of this kind where possibly the lives of citizens are endangered is most reprehensible.

Jumped Overboard.

James Clancy, of Caplin Bay, created a sensation on Job's wharf this forenoon when, while filled up with city sagwa, he jumped overboard and swam out in the harbor. A crowd gathered and some feared that the man in his thin condition would drown, but he proved to be an expert swimmer and the cold water had the effect of sobering him up. After being about 20 minutes in the water a friend of his, Bernard Meaney, rowed off to him in a dory and got him ashore. This is the fourth time the man has jumped into the water within the last few days.

A Disorderly Prisoner.

To-day a young man of the West End, crazed with liquor, kicked up a row at the foot of Barter's Hill, and when officers Lee and Faraday went to arrest him he attacked them fiercely. He tore the tunic off the first named officer and the men and their prisoner rolled over the street until other officers came. After much trouble he was manacled and was then placed on a flat car and brought to the station, where the officers had to get their uniforms cleaned of the mud, which besmeared them, and otherwise repaired.

Diphtheria in the General Hospital.

Yesterday evening a boy, a patient of the General Hospital was found to be suffering from diphtheria and was removed quickly to the fever hospital, outbreaks of this disease in the general hospital are all to frequent of late and something should be done to correct this evil or the whole public will become alarmed and patients will hesitate, and justly so, to go there. If the so-called “people's Party” would exhibit as much energy in looking after this institution as they do in parcelling out billets (we do not mean splits here), to favorites and spending thousands on fads and fakes, there would not be such indignation expressed against them as there is at present.

Steward Taylor summoned T. Collins for assault on the 8th Inst. Stew. and is a diminutive resident of Cabot Street and in giving his evidence created much amusement in court. The case was of a rather trivial affair and was dismissed. Mr. McNeilly for pliff. Mr. Higgins for deff.

Narrow Escape.

Monday the Telegram, exclusively referred to the fact that the schr. Mary going ashore off Shoal Bay and was abandoned by her skipper, J. Mullooney, and his son on Saturday night in the midst of a howling gale from the N.W. The schooner was found Monday with water in her but effort and at anchor. But that Mr. R. Lungrain of Bay Bulls was taking passage on the vessel home, the man Mullooney and boy would have been drowned as the boy was sea sick and could do nothing. Throwing their few belongings in a dory they only reached Shoal Bay after nearly two hours hard rowing against the wind. They walked home then to Bay Bulls. Goodridges who own the vessel here sent men in search of her.

Mrs Tobin Dies Very Suddenly

It is with feelings of sincere sorrow we record the demise of Mrs. Tobin, wife of Mr. James J. Tobin, the well known wine dealer on Duckworth Street. This very sad event occurred this morning at 3 o'clock, and when it became known the many friends of deceased and her family received a severe shock. Mrs. Tobin had apparently been in the best of health yesterday and retired in a similar condition last night. She was suddenly stricken in her bed at the hour named this morning, and a doctor was hastily summoned, while Rev. Dr. Greepe was also soon in attendance. From the time of the seizure the unfortunate lady never regained consciousness and her death occurred in a few minutes afterwards. Yesterday Mrs. Tobin paid a visit to the General Hospital where her son Mr. Michael Tobin had undergone an operation for hernia, knowing that he was improving Mrs. Tobin expressed much satisfaction at the result, and had intended soon to go on a pleasure trip with Mr. Tobin to Ireland. Her husband and family are grief stricken over the very sudden death of a kindly wife and mother. Mrs. Tobin was charitable and kindly dispositioned and was revered and esteemed by a large circle of friends. Her mother and brother, the late Michael Dooley, only predeceased her by a little over 12 months. Mrs. Tobin leaves mourning her three sons, Messrs. John, Denis and Michael, and three sisters, Misses. Bride and Hannah Dooley and Sister Mary Bernard of the Convent of Mercy, Military Road. The Telegram extends its sincerest sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives.

A Lucky Family.

Mr. Tom McGrath took up his new position in the Customs building yesterday. His sister, Mrs. Fraser, will take up the position of matron of the new Nurses' Home shortly. Mr. P. T. McGrath will soon take the principal position in the Government Savings Bank. The father, Mr. W. McGrath, now holds a Government position at Bell Island. It is expected that a job will also be procured for the brother-in-law, Mr. Blackie, in the Marine and Fisheries Department. Mr. T. McGrath's son, Jack, is a page in the Legislature.

The Tabasco Here.

Cleaning a Railway Car Britain's Airship
Receives Damage

It is a German engineer who has constructed a steel disinfecting cylinder large enough to hold a railway car, so that a railway coach can be sterilized quickly, thoroughly and extensively, without taking out the fittings and hangings. The car is run into the cylinder, sealed in, and heated by steam coils to one hundred and forty degrees Fahrenheit. Air is then pumped out until such a vacuum is formed within the cylinder that water will boil in it at that temperature. Thus all moisture is evaporated from the car, without injury from great heat. Then the cylinder is filled with formaldehyde gas, which kills all insects and germ life in the car. In twenty-four hours the car is again ready for service.

New York, May 4.—A cable from London says one of the eighteen balloons of Great Britain's first naval airships each containing 40,000 cubic feet of hydrogen, broke away yesterday while being inflated. A huge rent was made in the cover and all the gas escaped. It is thought the damage to the balloonette can be repaired in a few days, the hydrogen must be obtained from Amsterdam involving a delay of a fortnight. Consequently, it is feared the airships will not be ready to make its first flight until the end of the month. It is doubted if the airship will be ready to fly over the fleets assembled at Spithead for the Coronation review.

No Figure of Speech.

Of all things that may befall a church, nothing could be much stranger than the destruction of a little house of worship north of Hudson Bay, as one reported by Bishop Williams of Marquette.

He had attended a Synod of the Canadian Church at Winnipeg, and there had seen a missionary bishop, who had been six weeks on the way, having come most of the distance in a canoe. The missionary bishop reported gravely that the diocese of a brother bishop had "gone to the dogs."

Being asked for an explanation, he said that the Eskimos in the diocese had "built a church with walrus ribs for rafters, and covered it with walrus hide. The little church held eighty persons; but in the time that elapsed between two services the building was set upon by a pack of famished dogs, and demolished in a few hours.

Queen Alexandra
as Regent

May Act as Such While Their Majesties are Absent from England.

London May 1.—Queen Alexandra is now mentioned as the probable Regent next fall during the absence of the King and Queen in India. As the Duke of Connaught will assume his duties as Governor-General at Ottawa in September, and his son Arthur is rather young for the position, Queen Alexandra seems a natural choice. If then the King's mother becomes acting ruler of the Empire in his absence, it will be but following the precedent of the Regency Bill of 1765, in which the mother of King George III, was named as second choice to his wife for the Regency.

The presentation was made by Mr. John Fitzgerald, and the recipient in a neat speech thanked the donors for their kindness were served and songs, gramophone selections, &c., were given and a most enjoyable evening spent. Mr. Myron, who for years was a musician in the bands of Profs. Power and Bennett, will have the good wishes of a host of friends in the city.

Festival of Empire.

Mr. W. G. Gosling received by mail a letter from Mr. J. E. Outerbridge who is in London, telling of the progress that had been made in the preparations for the Festival of Empire in the Newfoundland Court. Writing under date of April 23rd, Mr. Outerbridge said Mr. J. P. Howley and Mr. A. H. Seymour turned up on Wednesday last. Work on the Newfoundland Building is going on expeditiously. The show cases in which the Newfoundland exhibits will be shown are expected to arrive at the Building to-morrow. Diagrams will be placed on the walls showing the trade of the Colony, and no efforts are being spared to make the event a success. The King will enter any of the Colonial Buildings on May 12th, the day of opening. I do not think that any of the other Colonies will have their exhibits ready before ours or have them more interesting and attractive, but of course they will be on a larger scale. Our floor space will be fully occupied with exhibits. Mr. Lascelles, the Manager of the Pageant, has in addition to the representation of Sir Humphrey Gilbert's landing at St. John's planned a symbolic scene of a large car or float representing the fisheries, etc. For this purpose a large number of attendants will be required including women and girls. All the Newfoundlanders in London will be invited to interest themselves in the pageant and take a hand in making it a success.

Smallpox Patients
Very Indignant.

Messrs. Charles Rumsey and Wm. King, two of the sealers of the Newfoundland, who were afflicted with small-pox, and were released from Hospital a couple of days ago express strong dissatisfaction as to the manner in which they were treated. The men allege that after being taken from the ship and put in Hospital they were left several days without a doctor coming to see them. They were placed in the beds there with the same underclothing which they wore when they came out of the Newfoundland, and they say that it was fully a week before new and clean underclothing was given them. As a matter of fact they say also that they had to get this raiment from their friends and relatives residing in the city. After coming out of Hospital, Rumsey says he went to observation ward, first placed to try and locate some clothing which he owned and which was left there. He could not find them and had to buy a new fit out for himself, and wore this apparel when speaking to the Telegram yesterday. Ring states that on the night he was removed from the Newfoundland he was kept waiting on Woods' wharf, Hoytestown, for an hour before the ambulance came to take him to the Hospital. He had the disease then, the weather was intensely cold and while thus delayed he suffered terribly. He also lost some clothing in the old shed on the South Side, and going to make good this loss. They are poor men and should not be expected to bear this loss. They approached the Minister of Justice on the matter and he, they say, referred them to Dr. Campbell. The men are indignant at the treatment meted out to them, and challenge contradiction of the statements they make.

Drawn Battle.

The fiercest battle of the Mexican revolution was fought at Juarez across the Rio Grande yesterday, but without result. Last night both the federals and the rebels were resting on their arms, ready to resume battle at daylight.

Serious Damage
to Dreadnought.

London, May 5.—The dreadnought cruiser Invincible was seriously damaged while being docked at Portsmouth on Tuesday for an overhauling. The moment the great warship rested on the wooden block the steel frames strengthening the vessel's keel bottom buckled, forcing the keel upward. The frames were bent like a bow, the immense weight of the ship bulging out both sides. The dock was immediately refilled and the Invincible floated out. An examination showed the extent and serious nature of the injury and repairs are likely to be long and costly. The Invincible has given continual trouble since she was put in commission. Her guns have not been fired for more than a year owing to difficulties with the electrically operated barbette.

The s.s. Durango, Capt. Chambers, sailed at 7 p.m. to-day for Liverpool, taking 800 tons cargo—fish, oil, etc. The s.s. Wasia arrived here to-day from Sydney to Mullaly & Co. with a load of coal, the first to be imported by the new firm.

The Evening Chit-Chat
By RUTH CAMERON

The good thing about our neighbor's troubles is that they never keep us awake nights.

Did you ever hear that old saying? It flashed into my mind the other day when someone came in with the news that Mr. R., a neighbor who had been engaged in the rug and carpet business, had just failed, and that his bankruptcy sale was advertised in the papers.

"Poor Mr. R. He is so wrapped up in that business. What will he do?"

"What a blow it will be to Mrs. R.!"

"I wonder if they will have to take Rachel out of college?"

So the regretful and sympathetic comment ran for a moment or two—so longer—and then the inevitable thought came and was put into words:

"Wouldn't that sale be a good chance to get that new rug we've got to have for the dining room?"

No, other people's troubles certainly don't keep us awake nights.

The sore throat that had been bothering one of the neighbor's babies was diagnosed as diphtheria day before yesterday. The one who brought the news into another neighbor's home was greeted with "Isn't that a shame!" and then quick as a flash, "How did you hear of it? You didn't go there, did you?"

The lighting rapidly with which any information about our neighbors, my calamity, any good fortune, anything at all that had befallen him is turned inside out and upside down in our minds to find that in it which directly affects us with a very big "I,"—well, shall I say amusing or saddening?

Either, I suppose, according to the angle of vision. Amusing to the cynic. Saddening to the idealist.

Everyone of us has listened to—probably taken part in—conversations like the one I quoted.

"The good thing about other people's troubles is that they don't keep us awake nights." Of course, it's mighty fortunate that they don't. Most of us have enough of our own to do that.

And of course, it's part of the absolutely necessary egotism, the self-interest, that is needed to keep the race of man a-going, that we should make everything a mirror in which to see ourselves and our interests.

But can't we be a little more graceful, a little less obvious about it, than most of us are?

Can't we take more care that the velvet glove of sympathy with which we cover the iron hand of self-interest shall not get worn too thin?

I'm sure the effort would pay in making us more beloved.

Perhaps it would even result in treating in us sympathy that we simulate and making us more lovable.

Who knows?

Ruth Cameron

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so? The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organ: that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Antigonish Horror.

Antigonish, May 3.—While temporarily insane, Alex. Chisholm, the son of Alexander Chisholm, a respectable farmer of North Grant, attacked his mother some days ago at an early hour in the morning, bit and tore her in a horrible manner about the face, hurled her downstairs and was raining deadly blows upon her when dragged away by neighbors and members of the family. The mother's condition is extremely precarious and she is not expected to recover.

The young man was home on a visit from Stellarton where he was in the employ of the J. C. R. as brakeman. During the night his strange and threatening behaviour was remarked by the family, and a few minutes before the onslaught was made on the mother, a brother, fearing that the young man would become unmanageable, went to a neighbor's to summon help. When he returned with assistance it was to find his mother unconscious on the floor with the crazed son beating and tearing the prostrate woman.

Special Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, To-Day. The danger to the lives of Americans on the border as the result of the revolution in the Mexican Republic was the subject of a sharp controversy in the Senate yesterday. The killing of several citizens in El Paso as a result of the battle at Juarez was the immediate provocation. Senator Stone again urged the use of American troops to protect Americans, and changing his attitude towards the President's policy, practically charged him with playing a game of bluff by sending troops to the frontier. He expressed apprehension lest the bullets of Monday should be followed by shrapnel and canister. Senator Bacon and other Senators replied, commending the attitude of the President and advocating a conservative course. Senator Bacon contended for the right of Mexican combatants to pursue their way, even if American lives should be incidentally endangered.

Exhibition Opened

AT PRESBYTERIAN HALL. Sir James S. Winter, President of the Society, formally opened the Exhibition of the School of Art at the Presbyterian Hall last evening. He delivered an appropriate address in which he eulogized the good work done by the Society, and made complimentary reference to Mr. Nichols and his successor, Mr. Miller, under whose tutelage he had no doubt the school would continue to prosper. The number of students on the roll at present was 65. The work shown is that done since September last. There are original machinery drawings, shadings from models, casts, and natural objects, original pen and ink sketches, paintings from still life, freehand drawing, etc. Work is exhibited from the students of the Art School, elementary teachers in the city schools and engineers studying under Mr. Miller. There are also samples of work from schools at Carbonear, Harbor Grace, St. George's, Bay Roberts, Brigus, Grand Bank and from Schools in the city. This work is done on the lines laid down by Mr. Nichols in his lectures to teachers. Amongst the machine drawings we noticed neat work by J. Snow, J. McKinley, J. Cook, A. Smith, F. Rooney and others. While some finely shaded cast drawings are shown by the same students and by Carew, Crawford and others. Some dainty water-colours and a number of excellent landscapes, seascapes and flower studies in oil by Miss Crawford, Miss Hunt, Miss C. Crawford, and other students filled the front screen. A noticeable collection of very creditable model drawings by E. B. Reid, E. Piercey, E. C. Ellis, V. Batson, E. F. Morgan, A. J. Verge, V. Cluett, V. Croaker, L. Tucker, F. Cave, Miss Hawkins, E. Irish, E. Shepherd, and others whose names could not be deciphered. Some original pen-and-ink sketches by Alex. Carew of comic subjects give promise of talent, if carefully trained. On the north side of the hall is a screen filled with neatly drawn freehand work from copies by a class of students at the Central Training School, City schools, Springdale Street, Centenary Hall, Parade Street and St. Mary's south side, and several out schools at Carbonear, Harbor Grace, Bay Roberts, Brigus, etc. They are all done in chalk or pencil from simple common objects, no copies being allowed, and are really excellent work from children averaging only about 9 or 10 years of age. They illustrate the work required in Standard 1. of the new drawing course which Professor Nichols has been introducing into our schools. All were done since Christmas, and not intended for exhibition, but were merely sent to him by the teachers for criticism and advice. The work is most creditable to the pupils and reflects highly on the ability with which our ordinary teachers have done their work though not specially trained to teach drawing. The whole exhibition is well worth a visit. It will close to-day.

Last year I heard the doctors' cries, and cheerfully obeyed; they said that I should swat the flies, and then I made a raid upon the buzzing, harmless things at Science's behest; I broke their backs and brought their wings and knocked them galley west. And ever, as I slashed away, and soaked the little flies, a voice within me seemed to say: "Take some one of your size." And sometimes when the night was nigh, I sat beneath the trees, and passing zephyrs seem to sigh: "Why don't you swat the bees? Why don't you hunt these festive scenes upon the hornet's track? You know that they have stingers, and they would swat you back! Why don't you swat the wasp, my friend, and drive the blamed thing hence? Because you fear its business end, whose volume is immense. Methinks you are a ten-cent dub." I hear the zephyrs sigh: "To take a big spiked elm club and swat a helpless fly." This year I will not swat or slap the flies, or do them harm; and when I'm honing for a scrap I'll seek an ostrich farm.

How the Queen Trains Her Children
Jeanie, Rose Brewer, telling the life-story of Queen Mary in the Woman's Magazine, says:—
She is no believer in very long lessons for young children, and hers have been trained to love all manly sports, the Queen herself teaching them to trundle hoops as a preliminary, and running races with them when they were quite little.
Madame Bricka (who was once the Queen's own governess) and one time supervised their studies, Mr. Hanseel (who died in 1909) and Mr. Hansell subsequently being of Connaught and Lord Dalmeny, has the supervision of the schoolroom.
Every week a report is made to the father and mother as to the progress of the young scholars, and once a month the examinations are held, so that the knowledge acquired shall be no mere parrot-learning, but properly digested and assimilated by the youthful brains.
These young Royalties have visited the Tower of London, the Zoo, various exhibitions and other London sights with the fresh, unspoiled pleasure of country boys, quite without ceremony, paying their money at the entrance, and taking part in the side-shows with the greatest glee and gusto. For the rest they dress plainly (the Queen, with her intense patriotism, buys for them, as for herself, only clothes made by British workers of British materials), live plainly, have good serviceable toys, and have all been taught to do their part in helping others.
Thus on each birthday not only are gifts received, but also presented to poor children of their own age, a singularly happy idea which might, with advantage, be copied by many children of the rich.
The Queen is a devoted mother, as has been seen, and when going round the world in the royal yacht, had a cinematograph fixed up in it, so as still to be able, though separated from them, to see her little ones at work and at play, and one of the biggest sacrifices her exalted position has demanded for long periods at a time of the children she loved so dearly, when she was called upon to represent the Sovereign overseas.

Household Notes.

Alum meal is excellent for a dry skin. Lemon and salt will remove stains from varnished wood.

Borax is used for giving additional gloss to starched fabrics. For sprinkling clothes, a handy article to use on wash day is a flower sprinkler.

Emery powder and oil made into a paste is an excellent mixture to clean steel.

To bone collars, try using the wire taste such as milliners use for stiffening bows.

An easy way to stop windows from rattling is to use broken clothes pins as wedges.

Rolls of pieces may be kept neat by slipping a band of elastic tape over each roll.

Do not tear carpet rags as the fibres will be rough and will catch dust. Instead, cut them.

Boil new shoes over with a slice of raw potato, and they will polish as easily as old ones.

Use borax for softening the water for the bath. It is also a valuable disinfectant and antiseptic.

Nickel and silver may be kept bright by rubbing them with a woolen cloth saturated with ammonia.

Do not use ammonia to clean black goods; this is a common cleanser, but it makes woollens look rusty.

Large eyelets in embroidery will keep their shape better if they are not cut until the embroidery is done.

A little mashed potato is a great improvement when making stout crust for puddings of meat and fruit.

The Open Door for Consumption

And How "Father Morrissy's No. 10" (Lung Tonic) Closes it.

A low run-down condition, with perhaps a neglected cold and a little cough, is a cordial invitation to the White Plague, Consumption, to come in and make itself at home.

In such a case there is no time to be lost. The door must be promptly closed. This can be done by taking a complete rest, with plenty of fresh air, and "Father Morrissy's No. 10" (Lung Tonic). This medicine clears out the passages, relieves the cough and heals the delicate membrane of lungs and air passages. But perhaps most important of all, it builds up the whole system, giving Nature the needed assistance in fighting off the dread disease.

Though other remedies may have failed, don't give up. Try "Father Morrissy's No. 10," combined with fresh air and exercise, and even though you are in the first stages of consumption there is hope of a permanent cure. Sample bottle 25c. U.S. After C.P.R. is a Rumor Keeping Railway Men Busy

Although Sir Thomas Shaughnessy has laughingly dismissed the idea of the Standard Oil Company seeking to acquire a controlling interest in the stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the rumor has aroused extraordinary interest in railway circles, and is being much discussed to-day among leading officials.

It is pointed out as a remarkable fact that ever since the reciprocity agreement has been in the air, the price of the C. P. R. stock has been steadily advancing, until now it is considerably higher than at any time in its history.

"About the quickest way in which the United States could annex Canada," said one official to the Star today, "would be for the great American trusts to get control of Canadian railways. If they did they would have such a hold on the country that the Canadian people would be helpless. Look at what the Standard Oil and the Rothschilds have done for our Nickel industry. They hold the control of it, with the result that while a certain amount of refining is done in Canada, all the expensive work in connection with the nickel mined in Canada is done in the United States. Canada is simply left with the hole in the ground, and is helpless to make her enormous nickel deposits contribute as they should contribute to the wealth of the country.

"There is not the slightest doubt that the United States are after our natural resources with a view to working them up in American factories. They are coveting our country, and I believe American trusts already have their eyes on our railways with a view to getting control of the enormous influence exercised by those railways."

That there is something big doing in connection with C. P. R. stock is the opinion of most officials consulted on the matter. It is pointed out that shortly before Sir Thomas sailed for England this spring he took the unprecedented course of issuing a circular to shareholders advising them to hold on to their stock, and promising them still better things to come.

Sir Thomas pins his faith to the wide distribution of C. P. R. stock among thousands of small shareholders. This, he thinks, will preserve the control of the company from ever passing into the hands of a small group of men. At the same time the advancing price of the stock and his appeal to the shareholders to hold on are taken as evidence that, even if Standard Oil or some other big American combination is not after the railway, there is at any rate something doing behind the scenes.

Work of Scientists Arouses Jerusalem

Jerusalem, Palestine, May 3.—The inhabitants here have been aroused to the point of rioting by the operations of a party of English archaeologists, who are accused of having excavated beneath the inviolable mosque of Omar and removed relics reputed to include the ark of the covenant, the censor and other sacred vessels which belonged to the tribes of Israel.

A Sem Bey, the Turkish Governor, was mobbed on the streets for supposed complicity in the profanation and hooted as "a pig."

The Mosque has been closed and is closed and guarded pending the arrival from Constantinople of officials of the Government, who will make an investigation. The expedition worked for two years on a large scale, beginning at the village of Siloam, which lies at the southeast end of Jerusalem on the southern slope of the Mount of Olives overlooking the Valley of Kedron and the Pool of Siloam.

The explorers are credited with having excavated a passage from the Pool to Siloam toward the place where once stood Solomon's Temple, built in 1012 B.C., pillaged and robbed and finally destroyed by Titus A.D. 70. Falling to reach the relics sought in this manner, the explorers according to the alleged confessions of the guards of the mosque, bribed the guards, entered the mosque, and after digging on six nights, spirited away the treasures.

"The whereabouts of which," says an Arab paper, "no one knows except God and these English."

Mystery surrounds the expedition, whose operations have been of such magnitude as to make evident that a large sum of money was invested.

NEWFOUNDLANDERS ON ELLINOR.—There are 11 Newfoundlanders on the Ellinor, all of whom belong to Rose Blanche and who were engaged there and proceeded to Halifax Reserve, and formerly of this city, in boson on the ship and has been on her for some time past.

Steamer Short of Coal.

At 7 p.m. yesterday the s.s. Fornebo, Capt. Hansen, arrived here to get a supply of coal. The ship is bound from South Shields to Sydney and Montreal and was 16 days on the run. She met stormy weather which practically exhausted her supply of fuel. This is the ship's first visit to this port. Mr. Tasker Cooke is looking after the supplying of the ship.

MORE DIPHTHERIA.

One of the boys of Mount Cashel, who had developed diphtheria, was removed to the Hospital yesterday afternoon. A patient from Tessier Place and another from Circular Road were also taken to Hospital suffering from the same disease. Both these were females. A Miss Moore was discharged from Hospital, she having recovered from the disease.

THE ELLINOR ARRIVES.

The Canadian surveying ship Ellinor, Capt. Coombes, arrived here at 2 p.m. yesterday and will be docked here for a clean up and some necessary repairs. She left Halifax Saturday afternoon and had a good run to port. The ship will make her winter quarters here, and after coming off dock will go on her surveying mission.

Is it possible to nourish, strengthen and Rebuild the Brain by Food?

Every man who thinks uses up part of the brain each day. Why don't it all disappear and leave an empty skull in say a month of brain work? Because the man rebuilds each day.

If he builds a little less than he destroys, brain fog and nervous prostration result sure. If he builds back a little more each day, the brain grows stronger and more capable. That also is sure. Where does man get the material to rebuild his brain? Is it from air, sky or the ice of the Arctic seas? When you come to think about it, the rebuilding material must be in the food and drink.

That also is sure. Are the brain rebuilding materials found in all food? In a good variety but not in suitable proportion in all.

To illustrate: we know bones are made largely of lime and magnesia taken from food; therefore to make healthy bone structure we must have food containing these things. We would hardly feed only sugar and fat to make healthy bone structure in a growing child.

Likewise if we would feed in a skillful manner to insure getting what the brain requires for strength and rebuilding, we must first know what the brain is composed of and then select some article or articles (there are more than one) that contain these elements.

Analysis of brain by an unquestionable authority, Geoghegan, shows of mineral Salts, Phosphoric Acid and Potash combined (Phosphate of Potash) 231 per cent. of the total, 5.33 of all mineral Salts. This is over one-half.

Beaunis, another authority, shows "Phosphoric Acid combined" and Potash 73.44 per cent from a total of 101.07.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, May 9.

Lack of interest in the Veto Bill in the House of Commons, the result of which was a foregone conclusion, is shown by the fact that at one time to-night Winston Churchill was the only Liberal present. When however, they were needed for divisions the Liberal members were always forthcoming in sufficient numbers, using the Government majority on more than one hundred occasions. Several Opposition amendments to the Bill were defeated by means of the guillotine. The Preamble and all the clauses have been disposed of.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, May 9.

A suffragette wedding took place yesterday in a church at Brighton. The suffragettes gathered in force with tri-colour flags, emblematic of freedom, purity and honour. The bride and groom exchanged rings. There was a specially "worded" marriage service, which declared that the couple united themselves on the ground of perfect equality, as comrades and helpmates in whatsoever circumstances life might bring them.

Special to Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, May 9.

A telegram from the Grenfell Missionary Association to Dr. Grenfell from Battle Harbour, Labrador, says that between 5,000 and 8,000 settlers on the Labrador coast are suffering severely from food shortage, the effects of the severe winter. The people at the coast are starving and have wired the Government for help.

Special Evening Telegram. OTTAWA, May 8.

A political rumour is current to-day that Sir Wilfrid Laurier intends going to the country on the Reciprocity question next fall in the event of the United States Senate passing the Agreement.

“The Old Days.”

Give me the 'old days' that I spent up to the school. Though they may bring with them the master's cruel 'rule.' Though they may bring the lessons that I used so much to hate, I crave for the days of the Reader and Slate.

Give me the days when I'd mimic all the birds, And on my journey home from school would frighten grazing herds; Give me the days when I'd whistle 'bout my work— The days of a young heart that had no time for mawk.

Ah! 'tis the 'old days' each heart doth yearn for so. Though hazy of those 'old days' meant sorrow and woe; The days spent with mother and father at home, To the heart of its longings make the far greatest loan.

Blood Poison in Hand.

Zam-Buk Works a Wonderful Cure. Mr. Jas. Davey, of 786 Ellice Avenue, Winnipeg, and a fireman at the Hudson Bay Company's stores, says:—

"A few months since I was cured of a poisoned finger through the timely use of Zam-Buk. I cut a deep gash across the knuckle on the time with the my right hand in opening a lobster can. I suffered at the time with the soreness and pain, but had no idea it would become a serious wound. However, in about two days I was greatly alarmed as my whole hand and arm to the elbow became suddenly inflamed, and the finger was much discoloured, showing signs of blood-poisoning. The pain was dreadful and I was forced to leave off my work and go home.

"The wound on the knuckle had been poisoned through the dust and dirt about the furnaces and boilers. I then decided to start the Zam-Buk treatment, and having first bathed the cut, I applied the healing balm. It soothed the pain almost instantly, and by the next day there was a great improvement. The pain was relieved and the inflammation lessened. In a week's time, through perseverance with this wonderful preparation, a complete cure was brought about.

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, scalp sores, abscesses, piles, ringworm, boils, varicose ulcers, running sores. It draws all poison and foulness from a wound or sore and then heals. Use it too for cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries. Zam-Buk Soap should be used in conjunction with the balm for washing wounds and sore places. Excellent too for baby's bath.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet. Post free upon receipt of price from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld.

Came to Hospital.

Yesterday Mr. Oldford, of Musgrave Harbor, arrived here to go to the Hospital for treatment. While chopping wood near his residence some time since a splinter flew from the axe and hit him square in the eye which was injured so badly that the sight of the optic is almost gone. Mr. Oldford suffered much pain as a result of the accident and has gone to Hospital to undergo an operation.

Labor Day Parade.

The Labourers' Union will meet next week to arrange for the celebration of Labor Day this season. The parade will be one of the best in the history of the organization and the sports in the afternoon will be well contested and of an entertaining character. The festivities will wind up with a dance at night.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its forms can be cured. It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, Duckworth Street and Theatre Hill. Small size, 25 cents; postage, 5c; extra; large size, 50 cents; postage, 10c. extra. Mail orders must be accompanied by remittance.—oct29.1m

Can't Get Away From It

Worry, anxiety, fear, hate, etc., etc., directly interfere with or stop the flow of Pepsin, the digestive juice of the mouth, and also interfere with the flow of the digestive juices of stomach and pancreas.

Therefore, the mental state of the individual has much to do (more than suspected) with digestion.

Brain is made of Phosphate of Potash as the principal Mineral Salt, added to albumen and water.

Grape-Nuts contain that element as more than one-half of all its mineral salts.

A healthy brain is important, if one would "do things" in this world.

A man who sneers at "Mind" sneers at the best and least understood part of himself. That part which some folks believe links us to the Infinite.

Mind asks for a healthy brain upon which to act, and Nature has defined a way to make a healthy brain and renew it day by day as it is used up from work of the previous day.

Nature's way to rebuild is by the use of food which supplies the things required. Brain rebuilding material is certainly found in

ASK for MENTHOLATUM!
If Mentholum does not cure Piles—throw it away.
If it does not relieve Catarrh and Hay Fever—shoot it into the alley.
If it does not stop Spasmodic Croup in 5 minutes—Put it into the fire.
If it does not relieve Headache and Earache—toss it to the birds.
If it does not cure Sores and Burns every time—Slam it out the door.
If it does not do what the Circulars claim—don't pay for it.
But if it does do these things, Use It, and recommend it to your friends.
Barbers will find MENTHOLATUM a most soothing and healing application after shaving.
